Civilian Food Allowance Cut In Germany

Protection of Food Reserves Suggested To Prevent Looting

STUTTGART (AP) — Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay announced yesterday a reduction in the civilian daily food ration from 1,550 to 1,275 calories in the American occupation zone for next month, and advised German officials to increase police protection for food reserves in cities where danger of looting existed.

One Jew was killed and two injured early yesterday in a two-hour riot breaking out after a police black market raid on a displaced persons camp, and an UNRRA official charged the police with shooting down "defenseless" Jews.

Clash With Poles

The clash betwen 1,800 Poles and 220 German police in the camp just outside Stuttgart was the worst in the United States zone. Several German policemen were hurt.

The United States army had authorized the raid, and eight American military police accompanied the German police. The riot ended only when American armored cars ejected the police and patrolled the camp area.

David Clearfield of Hazleton, Pa., the deputy UNRRA director, declared "Our peoples were defenseless. The first shot was fired by German police when the Jews in mob fashion tried to push the police out of the area, crying they had no right to be there."

Demand Investigation

Earlier, Maj. Robert H. Stimson, Bismarck, N. D., military officer for Stuttgart, said he would demand an investigation.

The American calorie figure remained higher than the ration in the British zone, which was reduced from 1,500 to 1,014 calories effective March 4, then raised to 1,042 for next month. Looting of food stores and several suicides attributed to hunger occurred in Hamburg in the wake of the British reduction.

The American military governor urged the Germans "to stick together and weather thi crisis."

Three Persons Hurt In Automobile Wreck

Mrs. Laura Jean Haycraft, 308 Ronalds street, was taken to a local hospital with possible head injuries and two men were hurt slightly last night about 8:30 after a three way collision on highway 218 just south of Butler bridge.

A car driven by the injured woman's husband, Arthur E. Haycraft sideswiped two other cars, bounced off guard rails along the road and skidded about 100 feet into a ditch.

The two injured men were Haycraft and his father-in-law, Robert Mott of Cedar Rapids. Mrs. Mott, also a passenger in the car, escaped injury.

The other cars were driven by Robert Lee Canney of North Liberty and Richard Meyer of Cedar Rapids. The cars of Haycraft and Canney were badly damaged.

RUSSIA ACCUSED

JOACHIM VON RIBBENTROP

Stalin Signed Secret Treaty

Account of Maneuvers

The wan diplomat spent the day in a painstaking move-by-move account of maneuvers preceding the outbreak of the war. He drew from the president of the international tribunal trying him and 21 other ranking nazis as war criminals a statement that such detailed explanation of his actions "doesn't do the defendant's case any good."

Von Ribbentrop gave an account of a secret protocal he negotiated with the Russian leaders less than two weeks before Germany attacked Poland.

Non-Aggression Pact

The publicized non-aggression pact between Russia and Germany was signed at the time.

Von Ribbentrop asserted that the secret protocal for dividing Poland, Lithuania, Latvia, Estonia, Finland and Bessarabia between Russia and Germany "was to become effective only if the Polish question could not be solved diplomatically and peacefully."

Budget Bureau Action To Require Disposal Of 10 Ships by Navy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The navy announced plans yesterday for "disposal of two battleships and eight cruisers as a result of a $2,000,000,000 budget slash.

The ships, presumably headed for the junk pile, cost about $135,000,000 and total about 140,000 tons.

Budget bureau action approved by President Truman, trimmed the navy's original request for $6,325,000,000 for the fiscal year starting July 1 to $3,960,000,000. Secretary Forrestal, with plans for the post-war fleet hurried to the White House to protest. Restorations as a result of this conference moved the navy appropriation back up to $4,224,000,000.

Navy spokesmen were unable to specify what "disposal" meant but chairman Vinson (D., Ga.) of the house naval committee said that the ships probably were intended for scrapping.

The battleships are the Idaho and New Mexico, of 1918-19 vintage. The cruisers are four heavy and four light ones, commissioned between 1929 and 1937.

Thomas Charges 'Hoodlums and Gangsters' With Trying to Influence CIO Elections

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—A charge that "gangsters and hoodlums" were trying to influence CIO United Auto workers' elections was made yesterday by former President R. J. Thomas.

An investigation was authorized after Thomas told the UAW-CIO convention that lives were "jeopardized" in an effort of outside interests to "pressure" certain delegates.

Thomas made his charge in a brief speech as the UAW's tenth convention drew toward a close. The meeting will end today.

Thomas said local 669 of Wright Aeronautical corporation at Paterson, N. J., had been subjected to "pressure" by "gangsters and hoodlums from New York."

The UAW-CIO finally completed the organization of its new high command, in which Reuther is outnumbered politically.

Richard T. Leonard, Detroit regional director and head of the UAW Ford department, was elected to the second of the vacant vice-presidencies, giving the Thomas forces a 3 to 1 edge.

Administration Gives Warning

OPA Pledges Price Adjustments; Pleads For No Amendments

WASHINGTON (AP)—The administration told congress yesterday that an early death of OPA, as recommended by the National Association of Manufacturers and the United States Chamber of Commerce would invite wild inflation and economic paralysis.

Paul Porter, OPA chief, pledged that prices will be adjusted wherever needed to break production bottlenecks, and that controls will be abolished in various areas of production as soon as inflationary pressures permit.

Pleads to Congress

He pleaded that congress not put OPA in a "straightjacket" with amendments to the price control act.

The administration's economic high command reappeared before the house banking committee to answer assertions by NAM and other segments of business and industry that OPA is encouraging black markets, choking production and itself contributing to inflation.

While President Truman's economic wheelhorses were plugging before the committee for a year's continuance of OPA, without amendments, the administration got support from two new sources:

New Sources

1. A bi-partisan unofficial congressional committee "for the protection of the consumer" was organized to fight for retention of the OPA.

2. Eldridge Haynes, publisher of the magazine Modern Industry, told a news conference that 53.8 percent of 3,215 manufacturing executives replying in a poll conducted by the publication, favored extension of OPA beyond June 30.

Porter vigorously denied that price control is strangling production, citing federal reserve reports that output now is 56 percent ahead of the 1936-39 average.

Veterans to Publish Proposed Constitution

A proposed new constitution for the University Veterans' association will be published in The Daily Iowan Tuesday, members of the executive committee announced last night.

Members of the UVA will vote on the adoption of the constitution at a meeting in auditorium 221A, Schaeffer hall, Wednesday night at 7 o'clock.

Heincys Composed On 'Last Mile' Walk

Father, Son Shake Hands With Priest On Prison Gallows

By Staff Writer

Outwardly composed, almost calm, two beady-eyed little men in new blue suits, Phillip H. Heincy, 72, and his son William Henry Heincy, 45, plumeted to their deaths from the gallows of Fort Madison penitentiary at 6:01 yesterday morning.

William Henry dropped just three seconds before Sheriff Joe L. McQuirk pulled the lever that plunged the father to his death.

The two hooded bodies swung listlessly, the fists on both tightly clenched, as doctors pressed stethascopes into the open shirt fronts and Father H. V. Bongers pronounced extreme unction. Phillip H. Heincy was pronounced dead 11 miutes after the trap was sprung, his son one minute later.

The men were executed for the confessed murder of Robert W. Raebel, 63, a Lake Okoboji resort operator Dec. 15, 1944 during an armed robbery in which Mrs. Raebel was mercilessly beaten.

At 5:50 the party stepped from the doors of the stucco building where the Heincy's spent their last night on bare cots in a converted office. The priest stepped to one side as flash bulbs illuminated the forlorn group.

Phillip H. Heincy walked the last few yards of his life with determined tread, his eyes squared away, apparently absorbed in the belief that "If God ever did forgive anybody for their sins we are sure that God will forgive ours and that there will be a place in heaven we hope and pray for his reward of saving our souls," as he had written with his son in their final statement.

Not once on the March from their death house did either father or son speak or gesture to the other. The hundred persons witnessing the execution melted away as the seven men trudged trough the length of the old stockade under tower 4 and then pressed forward again as the doomed men took the 16 steps up to the scaffold.

The son, Henry was led to the nearest trap door and his father stood on his left. The men crossed themselves and shook hands with Father H. V. Bongers. They stood very straight in the dawn of the new day as the guards tugged and pushed the two little figures to bind them with the leather straps.

Black sacks were placed over their heads and the new ropes put in place behind the left ears of the men. The bravado of the press and witnesses was lost for a moments.

At exactly 6:01 Warden Percy Lainso signaled and Sheriff Joe L. McQuirk pushed the big lever behind the trap of Wiliam Henry Heincy and seconds later pushed the lever behind the elder Heincy.

The traps sounded like doors slammed and for a moment there was complete silence.

The bodies had dropped about 8 feet and to all appearances death was instantaneous. Fort Madison doctors, standing on a platform about 3 feet off the ground opened the shirt fronts of the two men and thrust stethoscopes onto thechests.

The father was pronounced dead at 6:12, the son a minute later. A veteran reporter in the back murmured "I've seen fifty of these but I've never seen them hang so long." Tinges of blue were visible on the mens chests in the final moments. Warden Percy B. Lainson said "Everybody out" and the stockade was cleared.

UNRRA Hears La Guardia's Food Policy

New Director General Calls for Donations, Sale of Food Supplies

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Fiorello H. La Guardia, the United Nations relief and rehabilitation administration's new director general, bluntly told the council yesterday, "Our job is to take food where we can find it, and to take it to people who need it, wherever they are."

In his first meeting with the 48-member council before it recessed indefinitely, the successor to Herbert H. Lehman declared:

"Wheat has no political complexion, and I'll buy wheat where I can find it."

He said he would begin by extending his greetings to Juan Domingo Peron, Argentina's president. "Here is an opportunity for Argentina to show its desire to cooperate with the rest of the world," he added.

Even as he spoke, Argentina announced it would not join the UNRRA, stating its food supplies already were committed, either by sale or donation, to various countries.

La Guardia said he would call next "on my old friend, MacKenzie King" of Canada. "Perhaps he can scrape up a few bushels there."

"Our job is to take food where we can find it, and to take it to people who need it, wherever they are," he said. "We shall approach no group of people with a ballot in one hand and food in the other."

People "want bread, not advice," he shouted. "I want ploughs, not typewriters. I want fast moving ships, not slow reading resolutions."

The new director general said he would take over Monday. The council is expected to reconvene in Washington in about a month.

DONNA LEE IVERSON, A1 of Stanhope, was crowned Hillcrest beauty queen last night at the Hillcrest semi-formal dance, "Spring Turnabout." Her attendants were Capi Flynn, A3 of West Chester; Jo Overman, A1 of Villisca; Marie Miller, A2 of Oelwein, and Shirley Elman, A2 of Brooklyn, N. Y. The queen and attendants were chosen by vote of Hillcrest residents.

Canadian Inquiry Commission Accuses 5 More of Conspiracy

OTTAWA (AP)—The third interim report of the royal commission on espionage disclosed yesterday that "We have evidence that the NKVD, the Russian secret police, had an organization under its direction working in Canada long before July, 1942."

The commission report also accused five more persons, including a Harvard graduate, of conspiracy to convey Canadian war secrets to a Moscow-directed Russian spy ring. The accusations lifted the total accused to 14 persons in the three interim reports of the commission.

In Montreal, Fred Rose, Communist member of parliament, faced a second night in jail when he failed to raise $25,000 bail set for his release pending his trial on charges of furnishing secrets to Russia.

Surprise Plea Entered Late Last Evening

Murderer of Lover's Husband Remained Calm When Sentenced

BEDFORD (AP) — Henry Schmitt, 62, charged with first degree murder in the confessed slaying of his lover's husband two and a half years ago entered a surprise plea of guilty in district court late last night and was sentenced to 99 years at hard labor.

Among the 15 persons in the court room were Mrs. Mayme Schmitt, the defendant's wife, and his son, William, who wept during the proceedings.

Schmitt himself was unmoved outwardly when District Judge George A. Johnson of Creston read Schmitt's written plea of guilty and sentenced him to the state penitentiary.

The entire proceedings, which began at 9:40 p. m. required only six minutes.

Schmitt admitted slaying of Tommy Worm, 42, Nov. 4, 1943, and had told a bizarre story of twice burying and exhuming the body before finally driving 200 miles to the Mississippi river where he said he pushed it out into the stream on a crudely fashioned raft. The body had not been recovered.

Mrs. Dorothy Worm, 41, widow of the dead man, brought about Schmitt's arrest last weekend through a statement she made to the state bureau of criminal investigation in Des Moines.

In that statement, County Attorney Ralph C. Jones said, Mrs. Worm told of an illicit romance with the elderly horse trader and admitted helping Schmitt bury the body of the farmer on some land owned by Schmitt, and then helping him to exhume it and bury it on a farm in adjoining Union county.

No charges have been filed against Mrs. Worm, an attractive brunette and mother of a former airforce first lieutenant, Carroll Worm, 24.

Mrs. Worm in her alleged statement said Schmitt shot her husband twice on the Worm farm near here—the second time in her presence—and that she then reported to the authorities that her husband had "disappeared." She later offered a $200 reward for his return.

The reason for Schmitt's sudden appearance in court last night was not officially explained. It followed a brief conference in which Judge Johnson, State Agent Robert Gregson, Sheriff J. T. Caskey and Deputy Sheriff Lester Round participated. For 15 minutes before he was taken to the court room, Schmitt was permitted to talk privately with Mrs. Schmitt and William, one of their four grown children.

Schmitt was accompanied to the court room by Thomas Mullin, Creston attorney.

Judge Johnson set Schmitt's appeal bond at $50,000 and the prisoner was returned to the county jail until the commitment papers could be issued.

Security Council Asks Iranian, Russian Reports on Negotiations

NEW YORK (AP)—The United Nations security council decided yesterday to ask Russia and Iran for top level reports by next Wednesday on the "existing status of negotiations between the two countries." The action was taken in the face of the Soviet delegate's continued absence from the council sessions.

Then, in an atmosphere of objourned until 10 a. m. CST Wednesday. The request was dispatched to the two governments within half an hour after adjournment.

Sharp Contrast

The council scene yesterday was in sharp contrast to the tension of last Wednesday when Andrei A. Gromyko, Russian delegate, led his party of four from the chamber in protest against considering he Iranian case before April 10.

★ ★ ★

After the Iranian ambassador, Hussein Ala, had answered questions from delegates on Iranian issues involving Red army occupation of parts of Iran, United States Secretary of State James F. Byrnes arose with this proposal:

Request Status

"I would suggest that the president of the council request the secretary general to ascertain at once from the Soviet government and the Iranian government through their representatives and report to the council at its meeting on Tuesday, April 2, the existing status of negotiations between the two governments and particularly to ascertain from the representatives of the two governments and report whether or not the reported withdrawal of troops is conditional upon the conclusion of agreements between the two governments on other subjects."

Discussion Lasts Hour

The question of April 2 for the reporting date provided discussion for the delegates for an hour. Then the chairman, Dr. Quo Tai-Chi, of China, came out for April 3 and declared the meeting adjourned until that date. There was no objection from any delegate.

The United States, Britain, the Netherlands and Mexico lined up in the debate for April 2; France, Egypt, and China were for April 3, and Australia and Poland favored April 4.

The Brazilian delegate, Pedro Leao Velloso, said he had no preference as to the date.

Women Seek End of Draft

WASHINGTON, MARCH 29 (AP)—A retired brigadier general, a coed and three determined "war mothers" advised congress today against extending the military draft beyond May 15.

They testified before the senate military committee after vice-admiral Louis E. Denfeld put the navy on record with the army in favoring the extension of selective service.

Meanwhile chances for favorable committee action on a one-year extension of the draft increased as Senator Smith (R., N.Y.) announced he would support it.

Mrs. Agnes Waters, self-styled "unofficial spokesman for millions of mothers" and familiar figure at congressional hearings, said the draft extension would make "American boys connon fodder for a bunch of international crooks."

Labor Unions Extend Their Political Influence

Labor unions have announced their intention to take more of a hand in the nation's politics. Walter Reuther, newly elected president of United Automobile Workers has declared he will use the union's influence "for the welfare of the whole community." And Sidney Hillman has announced intentions to organize workers in the south in a fight against certain southern Democrats.

Much of the new spurt in labor's political dealings can be attributed to the three serious defeats labor recently suffered in congress—veterans housing, FEPC and OPA. Now labor leaders intend to use and extend the "grass roots" tactics that were successful in 1944.

Labor's increased interest in politics is good, because it means more citizens will be studying and deciding on the more important national and international problems. But labor must beware lest it fall victim to the same unfair political methods of which unions have accused certain big business groups.

Labor must remember that some of the senators and representatives who have voted against labor-backed legislation have voted according to the dictates of their own honest convictions. Simply because some congressmen do not act along the lines labor wants them to act does not mean they are not good legislators.

Big business has sometimes been ruthless toward congressmen who have not done its bidding. And unions rightfully recognize the error. But now labor, as it extends its political influence, must guard against making the same error.

For a Better Defense

President Truman has taken a new and very much worthwhile step toward providing the United States with well trained leaders in the field of national defense.

For the first time, top-ranking generals and admirals now are to be utilized after they have reached military retirement age. President Truman nominated 10 of our wartime generals and admirals to hold their high ranks for the rest of their lives.

The president intends this body of men to be an elder statesmen's organization for defense. And who is better qualified for such a position than the top leaders of World War II?

Always in the past, our military and naval leaders who didn't have a private income were forced to retire from public service when they retired from the armed forces. Under the new plan, their military pay will continue after their retirement, and they can continue to serve the nation.

But, most important of all, their knowledge gained in the hardest of all schools will be at the call of the country. It is a praiseworthy step toward providing more efficient public servants in one of our highest governmental branches.

Tomorrow's Travel

Passenger transportation's big three airlines, railroads and busses —are toying with the latest scientific developments with an eye to ensnaring the public patronage of the future.

The airlines have jet propulsion with which to experiment, and although the eventual speed in air travel can never be matched by railroads, the railroads are countering with ultra-streamlining, and vista dome luxury cars, and stressing comfort at 125 m.p.h.

And the bus, which carries more passengers than any other, is also in line for some revolutionary changes.

Tomorrow's bus is visualized as a vehicle with pressurized, air-conditioned passenger compartments, individual radio sets, circulating ice water, retiring rooms and other features.

According to General American Aerocoach Engineers, the bus of the future will include inside destination signs operated by push button, polariod windows to cut down glare, and speeds of 100 m.p.h. on suitable highways.

All this for about 1½ cents a mile per passenger is planned. An even greater growth of bus travel is predicted "if it provides frequency of service, operates near the homes of potential passengers, and promises a safe, comfortable ride."

As big industry anounces its "can you top this" plans for the future, we hope that the phrase "born 30 years too soon" doesn't apply to us.

Our Re-Education of Japan Is Failing—

The Kempei Tai is gone—but members of the Kempei Tai remain in positions of responsibility. The task of dissolving the Zaibatzu (industrial ruling clique) is given to the Japanese bankers. Children still practice in the classrooms with dummy hand grenades and learn addition by finding the result of "two tanks plus two tanks."

In the face of these disturbing signs, Mark Gayn, staff correspondent for Colliers magazine, has attempted to sum up our achievements and failures in Japan after six months of occupation in his article, "Our Balance Sheet in Japan."

Though it is obviously impossible to obtain an absolutely accurate and comprehensive picture of conditions (and Mr. Gayn recognizes this) his report shows that the acceptance and dissemination of democratic ideals is far from satisfactory and that American policy, though it has progressed in many fields, has failed to achieve the basic aim of the liquidation of the imperialist, monopolist, anti-democratic institutons that have ruled Japan for so many years.

There has been a falure to recognize that our policy is revolutionary in the true sense of the word, and, in the interests of harmony and efficiency, we have attempted to "use" the reactionaries to spread our doctrines.

We seek to destroy the autocratic institutions which have made possible the erection of a fascist, totalitarian, monopolist state and to substitute the free institutions of social, economic and political democracy.

Largely our failure lies in a lack of understanding and appreciation of the task we have set before us and our unwillingness to remove from responsibility the forces which have actively espoused the anti-democratic cause, and which hope to undermine our efforts by surface cooperation and sub rosa opposition.

We must take many steps and do many things before democracy begins to permeate the hard crust of totalitarian institutionalism and each of these will require both constant vigilance and long-term occupation.

* * *

Although the Kempei Tai was abolished by directive and ceases to operate as such, a large majority of its members donned the habit of the uniformed police and even acceded to positions of great authority and dominance in the constabulary.

These persons, in many cases policed only superficially by occupation authorities, are free to pursue anti-democratic policies and to harrass the people with the fear of arbitrary arrest and persecution.

If our policy is to succeed these persons must be removed and the police system must be relegated to a position subordinate to the needs of society. Active measures are needed to destroy the fear of police so common in Japan.

* * *

The dissolution of the Zaibatsu was made the responsibility of the bankers of Japan, themselves members of this class. In this case, we actually desire a class of persons to destroy itself. No expectation could be more infantile and if we pursue this policy, we may look forward to an institution, invalidated on the surface, but operating behind the scenes, as before.

* * *

The educational system, in spite of directives to the contrary, has been found to be operating along the same totalitarian lines that it followed in the heyday of the reactionaries. In many cases obeisance to the state and the emperor is still practiced and the regimentation of the old system still drilled into the minds of the children.

The school system is the touchstone of democracy and if we fail to teach our ideals there, we cannot expect them to be accepted by the Japanese citizens of the future. Thus the American military victory in the east will become a major political defeat.

Education goes beyond the instruction of the young. It must find its way to the mass of mature people. We must eradicate the appalling lack of understanding on the part of the majority of the people concerning the aims, ideals and machinery of democracy.

We are imposing a system that is contrary to all the traditions, the culture and the background of the Japanese. The past forbids them to accept it and unless we educate them to an understanding of it, we cannot expect them to accept it.

* * *

Our own integral failure lies in the fact that we are depleting our forces at a rate inconsistent with the program which we have undertaken. We are unable to administer the state effectively. Too, elements within our own forces, through ignorance, inertia or outright approval of the old system, are failing in their responsibilities.

The blame does not lie wholly with these individuals but upon the people of the United States as well. Already we are forgetting the lessons of this war and are turning again to our individual interests—to the exclusion of the greater interests of society and the world.

We do not care particularly about the situation in Japan and most of all we do not wish to furnish the necessary manpower and money to make the occupation work effectively.

It is time we realized that our job in the Orient is more than the prosecution of war criminals and that it means the enactment of a revolution that will take many years to reach consummation. If we are to prevent another expansion of forces inimical to our interests in this area, we must be willing to spend the time and the money to insure success to our efforts.

This will take more than five years or ten years. Until the present group is completely and irrevocably out of power and the new generation has arisen with new ideals and the means with which to effectuate them, the job is not finished.

Japanese Movie Industry Photographs First Kiss

A milestone of some kind has been passed in Tokyo.

The Japanese movie industry, trying to keep up with uncensored American films, has photographed its first kiss.

But not without a crisis. The actor and actress involved both were too bashful. The director, faced with the necessity of showing them how, got cold feet. All steeled themselves for the ordeal kiss and then, on the second take, by watching an American movie they did it.

Considerable Interest

The movie company must figure there's considerable interest in this kissing business or it wouldn't go into the risky venture of spreading it about in the face of ingrained Japanese ideas.

Kissing, especially in public (and what's more public than a movie screen?), struck Japan as immoral when foreigners demonstrated it in their off-hand way.

After much puzzled debate the Japanese cut all kisses from imported films until the surrender, after which they were faced with the choice of taking Hollywood as is or not at all. They took Hollywood.

No Such Horror

American GI's in Japan, of course, experience no such horror at the idea of kissing, and it may be assumed that their girl friends are catching on.

Fraternization is not banned in Japan, but Eighth army headquarters has found it advisable to set up fines for public displays of affection, stating that the Japanese are "not accustomed to such demonstrations."

Dr. Lampe to Finish PTA Lecture Series At Meeting Monday

He will speak on "Religion in the Home" Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the assembly rooms of the Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric company.

Sponsored each year by the parent education department of the P.T.A., this series has been arranged by Mrs. Lorna L. Mathes, chairman, and unit chairmen from each of the city's schools. Mrs. Russell Fountain, former director of a WPA nursery school in Des Moines, will be in charge of the program and the discussion period which follows.

Being Independent

TO THE EDITOR:

I have been reading with interest the letters condemning fraternities and sororities. They make me laugh a little, but, more than that they show me the envy in many peoples' hearts.

Chloe Anne Schutte wrote a good reply to the critics of the social organizations. However, she did not go quite far enough. She might have added that the so-called independents are just that —independent.

It's a great thing to be independent, but why go around berating the social standards of all other people? The whole trouble is that the people who criticize the social organizations the loudest are the ones who know nothing about them.

I didn't care for fraternity life and so I got out of it. I do not go around tearing them down because I do not like them. There are a lot of things that I don't like, but I don't intend to make myself look small by running them down.

The social organizations are here to stay. They are a part of campus life. All I can say is that if a person doesn't like them, just stay away from them. I'm sure the frats are not missing anything by not having these men in them.

A person can be independent, but don't go around being anti-social and bigoted just because you are one of the fortunate souls who is completely independent in this world.

Class Elections

There is not much point in slashing away at Mr. Gilbert E. Kinyon's letter smearing the fraternities. Mr. Kinyon wrote in which he probably sincerely believes is righteous wrath. We happen to be a fraternity man, and we agree heartily with many of the beefs expressed by Mr. Kinyon. We think he has some good points.

However, we doubt that Mr. Kinyon really hates fraternity and sorority men and women as much as he says he does. Come now, Mr. Kinyon, didn't you have your pen dipped in vitriol the day you wrote to the editor? You don't really hate us that much do you? If you do, then why don't you make an effort at organizing?

We would like to correct you on one important point, however, Mr. Kinyon. And, believe us, we know whereof we speak. Concerning the recent senior elections, Mr. Kinyon, you are about three miles off base.

You see, we were a member of the nominating committee which chose the candidates for the election. And we assure you that the choosing of said candidates was not done in the "best political traditions of Argentina, Russia and Germany." In fact, Mr. Kinyon, we haven't been in contact with the Kremlin or Berlin for quite a few years now. That statement was one of the more ill-advised in your letter.

You may recall, Mr. Kinyon, that a nominating convention was held sometime before the voting. Only 70 people were in attendance, and 50 of those persons were journalism majors. A seven-person nominating committee was chosen at that time. Of this committee, four were affiliated with either fraternities or sororities. We anticipated that some 200 people would vote, realizing the apathetic attitude of the independents on campus. Actually, 126 votes were tabulated. There are 496 liberal arts seniors. "Nuff sed."

We chose the candidates in this fashion, Mr. Kinyon. The chairman had a complete list of the class. We went through the list and covered every name, without regard for color, race or creed, as the saying goes. Those people whom we thought worthy of holding office had their names placed on a blackboard. Gradually, through a process of elimination, we narrowed down the list until we thought we had a representative and capable group.

The candidates were selected on the basis of what we knew of their achievements and abilities. We reckoned with the organizations they belonged to, their popularity and the campus activities in which they participated. We tried to examine all angles of the situation. And, Mr. Kinyon, the fraternity or sorority to which any candidate belonged had nothing whatsoever to do with the choice. We repeat, nothing.

Now, Mr. Kinyon, you can get back to base.

Spring Hits Library; Pages Found Kissing

The integrity and loyalty of the University of Iowa librarians cannot be questioned.

The other day one of the more staid librarians found two of the pages osculating in the book stacks.

"Hmmp, can you imagine—kissing in the library on state time," was her only comment.

Users of alcoholic beverages contribute in state taxes about $300,000,000 a year.

University Women Hear—

Eight 'Career Close-Ups' Given

Eight lectures were heard yesterday by university women in the opening day of "Career Close-ups," annual vocational conference sponsored by the University Women's association.

Frank McDonough, editor of Better Homes and Gardens, advised students interested in magazine work to take as many journalism courses as possible and get as much experience as possible working on publications in school and during the summer.

Varied Experiences

Speaking on newspaper careers for women, Prof. Helen Patterson of the University of Wisconsin said that in choosing her first job, a newspaper woman should select a position where she can get the most varied experience and then branch out into specialized fields.

The two main divisions of the home economics field—foods and textiles—are subdivided into smaller groups, according to Ruth Chambers of the Rath Packing company. Food testing, demonstrating, radio and magazine writing are divisions of foods industries.

Economics Courses

Courses for home economics majors suggested by Miss Chambers include journalism, labor relations, economics and psychology.

"The most vital step in getting a job in the field of industry is the personal interview," according to Margaret M. Turner of the personnel office of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company.

Commenting on the six methods of getting a job in industry—through employment agencies, commercial advertising, personal solicitation, placement bureaus in colleges and business schools, friends and relation and letters of application—Miss Turner cited college placement services as the best means for securing positions.

Medical Technology

General requirements for women interested in the field of medical technology include courses in biology, physics, bacteriology and at least two years of chemistry, according to Dr. Genevieve Stearns, professor of pediatrics at University hospital.

The laboratory technician, she said, may do anything from making blood tests and preparing slides to taking X-rays. However, the technician does not interpret her findings—she only makes a factual report of them.

Speech Pathologist

Ray Graham, assistant superintendent and director of education for exceptional children in Illinois, declared that to be a speech pathologist in Illinois a person must be in good physical and mental health, have an understanding of handicapped children and a cultural and educational background.

D. R. Cottrell, supervisor of the Iowa State Merit System council, speaking primarily on the civil service system of job distribution, explained the examinations, appointments and promotion possibilities.

Government employment includes positions with the county, police and postal departments, and government agencies such as the OPA. Other jobs are available to those interested in social work, foreign service and the commercial field.

The current trend in recreation toward a flexible, adjustable program has increased the demand for trained leaders in all phases of recreational work, according to Alfred Wyman, director of the park and playground association in St. Louis, Mo.

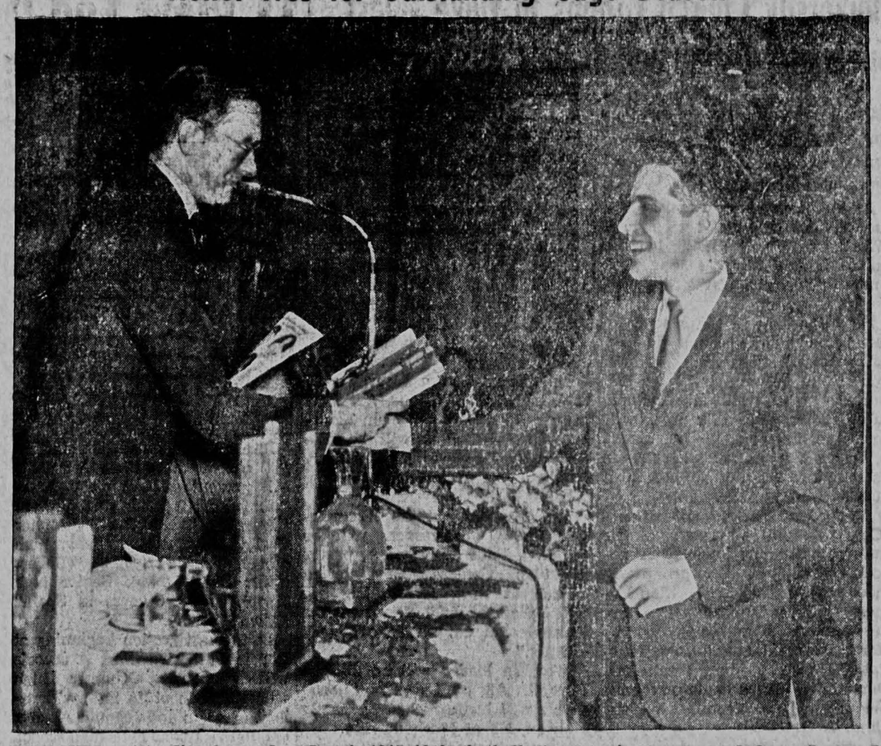
Honor Ives for Outstanding Cage Season



DICK IVES, outstanding forward on Iowa's 1945-46 basketball five, receives an award from James J. Walker, commemorating True magazine's choice of Ives as a forward on their all-American cage quintet. Included on several first fives a year ago, Ives was named to the third team this season after pacing the Hawkeyes to a third place finish in the Big Ten race. A junior, Ives has led the Iowa quintet for the past three years.

Maine Defeated In Top NCAA Event

NEW HAVEN, (Compiled from the AP wires)—In the top battle of the evening, Dick Maine of Iowa lost by a touch to Bob Cowell, Navy's great back stroker, in the 150-yard event of the NCAA swimming meet here yesterday.

Cowell turned in a time of 1:35.6, six and two-tenths seconds under last year's winning mark, to top the Hawkeye's freshman ace.

In the day's other events, the Hawkeye medley relay team of Maine, Kenny Marsh and Gilbert Sheckler trailed Ohio State to the finish after taking their heat of the afternoon's preliminaries.

Marsh finished fourth, behind his old high school rival, Bob Anderson of Stanford, as he was eliminated in the preliminaries of the 50-yard free style in the afternoon.

Sheckler, entered in the breast stroke, will go into action in this afternoon's preliminaries, seeking a spot in tonight's finals.

Anderson, who swam for Boone high school before he began competing at Stanford, sped through the Yale pool in rapid fashion in the night session to capture the 50-yard sprint, a feature of the N. C. A. A. meet

Off to a fast start, he led throughout to stave off a thrilling stretch spurt by Halo Hirosi, Ohio State's ace. The winner was clocked in 23.1 seconds, one-tenth of a second better than last year's champion, Merton Church of Michigan.

Jack Hill of Ohio State won by a length over Dave Maclay, 1500-meter winner, in the 220-yard free style. Churning along impressively, Hill powerhoused into the van to finish in 2:11.3, more than three seconds better than the 1945 winning time.

Hill's triumph, duplicated by Miller Anderson in the one-meter dive and the medley relay win, provided impetus to highly favored Ohio State's drive to retain its team title. The Buckeyes wound up the first day of the two-day meet with 33 points, 15 more than runner-up Michigan. Navy was third with 14.

In the medley event, the Buckeyes got off to a slow start in the back stroke, rallied to go in front on a beautiful breast stroke leg by Jim Counsillman and stayed ahead with Ted Hobart swimming the free style lap for a four yard victory. The time was 2:57.

Maclay of Williams scored an upset victory in the 1500-meter race after Hill of Ohio State, the favorite, collapsed near the half way mark and had to be dragged from the pool.

Other first string members include Dean Burridge of Clinton, Sylvester Wilhelmi of LeMars, Bob Vollers of Keokuk, Norman Jespersen of Cedar Falls, Max Sowers of Ames, Don Ferguson of Ottumwa and Willard Gisel of Ventura.

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP)—Jim Ferrier, the husky former Australian star now playing out of Chicago, gave par a four-stroke beating with a 68 yesterday to wrest the 36-hole Charlotte Open golf lead from Lawson Little with a 134 total.

Little, former Open and Amateur king from Monterey, Calif., who started the day in a first-place tie with Ferrier at 66, slipped to a one-under 71 for second place at 137, a stroke ahead of four challengers.

Tied for third in the $7,500 event over a muddy 6,410-yard Myers Park course were Pete Cooper, Gainesville, Fla.; Vic Ghezzi, Knoxville, Tenn.; "Skip" Alexander, Durham, N. C.; and Tony Penna, Cincinnati. Ghezzi and Cooper had 70's yesterday, while Penna and Alexander turned in their second straight 69's.

Graziano Tops Servo In Non-Title Match

NEW YORK (AP)—Rockabye Rocky Graziano, most devastating right hand puncher to come down the fistic pike in years, smashed welterweight champion Marty Servo to sleep last night in the second round of a non-title tenrounder that was the hottest betting and biggest money bout between two little men in Madison Square Garden history. Graziano weighed 152; Servo 144½.

White Sox Trounce Pirates Again, 6-3

BISBEE, Ariz. (AP)—The Chicago White Sox won their third straight exhibition game from the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday, 6 to 3, with 20-year-old Cass Michaels hammering a three-run triple off one of Al Gerheauser's offerings for the winning blow in the fifth inning.

The Sox, off to a three-run lead in the first inning, with Thurman Tucker's double driving in two runs, were in no trouble all the way despite the fact Orval Grove and Ed Lopat gave up 11 hits.

MONTREAL (AP)—The National Hockey league yesterday announced that Max Bentley of the Chicago Black Hawks and leading scorer for the season, had been awarded the Hart Trophy as the most useful player in the league to his club.

Regulars Bunch Hits Behind Wes Demro For Shutout Win

Wes Demro showed plenty of stuff in the clutches yesterday afternoon as he pitched Iowa's baseball regulars to a 4-0, five inning win over the reserves. The first team collected only four hits off the twirling of Al McCord, but bunched two of them and an error for three runs in the fourth.

Little "Doc" Dunegan carried the biggest bat yesterday, slamming out three singles in as many trips to the plate.

It was Dunegan's second hit, in the fourth, that started the regulars to their three run spurt and broke up a tight pitching duel between Demro and McCord.

Bill Diehl, following Dunegan, was safe when the reserves bobbled a double play chance and both men scored on Don Thompson's line double into deep left-center. Thompson then stole third and scored on a wild pitch.

NAVY ATHLETIC DIRECTOR

Taylor's appointment as athletic director at Annapolis was disclosed by the Navy department.

Records Fall In Little Six

Burlington's Grayhounds slipped past a favored Ottumwa last night in the final events to grab the Little Six indoor track crown, 59-56. The Grayhounds snatched three of the five places in the broad jump, the final event, to win the meet.

Three new marks were placed in the record books as the thinclads showed the good effects of two weeks work outdoors.

Truman Plans to See Washington Opener

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman plans to attend the opening game of the American league season here, keeping alive a presidential baseball tradition dating back nearly 40 years.

While there was no formal announcement of Mr. Truman's plans, it was learned from sources close to the White House that he intends to be on hand for the April 16 starter between Washington's Senators and the Boston Red Sox.

The president's party will number about 32, the largest group that ever has accompanied a chief executive to a ball game.

Cubs Top Browns

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—A five-run scoring spree in the eighth inning gave the National league champion Chicago Cubs a 5-4 victory over the St. Louis Browns in an exhibition baseball game here yesterday.

Ferriss Stops Cards

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—Coming off 10 scoreless innings against minor league opposition, Dave (Boo) Ferriss kept nine hits well scattered yesterday while pitching the Boston Red Sox to a 3-2 win over the St. Louis Cardinals.

While Ferriss was going the distance, the Sockers pounded two Cardinal pitchers, Max Lanier and Charlie Barrett, for 10 hits and clinched the game against the latter by scoring their last two runs on a single, two errors and Ted Williams' double.

Ervin Dusak's triple and an infield out gave the Cards a run in the first inning and two singles and a walk provided their second tally in the third frame.

Class B Meet Here Today

A highly regarded mile relay team is expected to pace University high's thinclads this afternoon and evening when the Blue Hawks make their bid for the state's Class B track crown in the fieldhouse. The meet will be the first since 1942 for the Class B schools.

Although twice defeated by City high in special match races earlier in the year, the Blue Hawks' mile quartet, consisting of Captain Craig Harper, Dick Briceland, Lombard Sayre and Jack Hady, has shown rapid improvement in the last two weeks.

Other U high track contenders will include Ralph Donovan in the 100-yard dash, Dick Carroll and Gus Helm in the mile and half mile, Bob Crum in the middle distance events, Meritt Ewaldt in the high jump, pole vaulter Arnold Swails and Joe Carlstrom, Alan Morgan and Virgil Hancher in the weights.

Valley high of West Des Moines, defending champions, will send a sixteen man squad to Iowa City in an attempt to take their third consecutive crown, following wins in 1941 and 1942.

Other schools entered are Brighton, Carroll, Central City, Clinton (Lyons), Cresco, Davenport (St. Ambrose), Denison, Hampton, Hedrick, Knoxville, LeMars, Mt. Pleasant, Mt. Vernon, Odebolt, Pleasantville, Sigourney, Tipton, West Liberty, and Zearning.

Veterans Emergency Housing Committee Studies Building Material, Labor Shortage

Pledging aid to veterans and others interested in breaking up the present stalemated housing situation, members of a newly-created veterans emergency housing committee are studying prospects for easing the housing shortage.

Roland Smith, president of the Iowa City real estate board, is chairman of the committee. Smith, with George Nagle, Vern Nall, William Bartley and M. D. McCreedy met yesterday morning and drafted a letter to the regional housing expediter in Chicago telling of the local situation and requesting suggestions.

Members of the group said that the present situation here, which is unpromising, is due to material shortages, labor shortages and black market practices as the result of OPA price ceilings.

George Nagle, who recently returned from a lumber search through the south, said he thought a relaxing of OPA ceilings was a possible answer to the shortage of lumber. He said he doubted if there was enough in Iowa City at the present time to finish one new home.

Representing builders and contractors, McCreedy said new homes could be contracted, but no assurance could be given as to how soon they could be started or completed. He said there are plenty of unskilled workers in the city, but doubted if there are more than four carpenters or plasterers.

Roland Smith expressed the view that pre-cut and pre-fabricated houses would aid the present shortage, but that their value would drop radically in the future.

City Engineer Fred Gartzke said that these homes, however, meet the requirements of the building code. Quonset huts and tent cities, suggested as a possible remedy, do not meet city building requirements, said Gartzke.

Named to serve on the committee were the following: Delmar Sample and William Hartley representing the American Legion; Vern Nall and Horace Stuck, Chamber of Commerce; John Witt and Russell Rourke, Junior Chamber of Commerce; F. D. Williams and Ben Summerwill, banks; George Nagle and W. B. Packman, lumber companies.

M. D. McCreedy and Warren Burger, builders; Roland Smith and Fred V. Johnson, realtors; V. I. Cappen and I. J. Barron, city council; Sam Shulman and Ralph Erbe, Kite Knowling and John Fielding, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Robert Brown and Ernest Ramer, AMVETS.

Cedar Rapids Couple Fined for Remarrying

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mercer of Cedar Rapids were fined $10 each yesterday by Judge J. M. Kadlec for violating an Iowa law requiring a divorced person to secure the court's permission to marry again within one year.

The Mercers were married in Iowa City, Feb. 14, both for the second time, the day before they made application to remarry to Judge G. K. Thompson of the Linn county district court.

Later their misdemeanor was discovered and they were charged with violating the law on a county attorney's information.

Mulherin Suit Taken by Judge After District Court Hearing

G. J. (Danny) Mulherin's suit against the Iowa City Police Retirement Fund commission was submitted to Judge James P. Gaffney for consideration after pleadings were concluded in district court yesterday.

The suit was filed after the retirement board refused to grant the former Iowa City policeman's pension claim. Mulherin suffered a total disability in the Normandy invasion and was unable to pass a physical examination for return to the police force after he was honorably discharged.

The pension board based their refusal on an opinion by the attorney general covering a 1943 legislative act concerning municipal pension funds.

Under the present retirement fund laws, a member must have five years service on the force to be eligible for pension benefits. Mulherin joined the Iowa City police force Jan. 21, 1938 and remained until April 7, 1942, when he entered the service.

Attorney D. C. Nolan, representing Mulherin, told the court that, since the money paid while his client was in the service applied to the retirement fund, he felt that service time should be counted also. He contended that while the legislative act conferred certain benefits on men who entered the armed services, it did not intend to discriminate against those who, by reason of their service, were unable to resume their police jobs.

It was pointed out by City Atty. Kenneth Dunlop, appearing for the commission, that to be eligible for a pension a man must be injured in the line of active police duty. Dunlop stated he didn't think the legislature passing the act intended to burden the pension fund by payments to men not disabled in police duty.

Counsel for the plaintiff and defense each emphasized they had not been able to discover any previous legal decision with bearing on the case and they thought it was one of the first of its kind.

The defendants will be Warren Ackley of Iowa City, Martha Jordon of Boone and George Phetteplace of Iowa City.

Publish '6B News,' Take Tours, Form Library

By MARY ANN TROEGER

As a part of the vocal music program in the public grade schools, Mrs. Frances Ireland, music instructor, has been presenting a series of five musical films obtained from the visual education department of the university.

The movies, intended for the fourth, fifth and sixth grades, show a string choir, woodwinds, a brass choir, percussions and a symphony orchestra. These films were shown at Horace Mann, Longfellow, Henry Sabin, Lincoln and Roosevelt schools.

* * *

Potential writers and poets are learning their trades by working on the "6B News," a mimeographed weekly being published each Friday by class 6B of Longfellow school. All work on the two page paper except the mimeographing is being done by the students themselves.

The first issue appeared March 15. It has complete coverage from sports and society to the editorial and crossword puzzle. Joanne Matthess writes a serial story of the "Deadly Three," three girls who take a trip to the moon.

Criticism and comments of the students are incorporated in succeeding issues of the paper.

Room 6A had an exhibit of Chinese articles to which they invited class 6B. The articles were sent to Elsie Yansky of 6A by a marine relative. A blue and white kimona, a brightly colored embroidered smoking jacket, skull cap, colorful silk scarves, a boy's ceremonial jacket and cap, several Japanese propaganda cards, a Chinese newspaper, rice bowls, handkerchiefs and tiny swords with gold handles were all on exhibition.

Grades 6A and 6B also were shown a film "Here Is China" as a further part of their extensive study on the geography of China.

* * *

The first part of this week, the kindergarten groups of Longfellow school inspected the police and fire stations in Iowa City under the tutorage of their teacher, Delores Blesie.

The next afternoon, the 2A group left the school to make a similar tour of the postoffice. They were accompanied by their teacher, Mrs. Leone Walker.

Both the second grade in Henry Sabin and the lower grades of Lincoln school have formed libraries, complete from the card system to the librarian.

Mary Rate is the student librarian in Lincoln school. The youngsters have put pockets for the cards in each of the books in the school library and are able to draw books out as in the public library.

The library in Sabin was organized as part of their social science course. With the aid of their teacher, May Simons, the second grade organized the library and have taken a trip to the Iowa City public library.

This afternoon at Lincoln school there will be a movie of the story of Hansel and Gretel. The pictures and accompanying comments have been done by the students of the fourth grade. The picture will be in color.
