Officials Investigate Train Wreck

NAPERVILLE, Ill. (AP)—Several agencies investigated yesterday a Burlington railroad crash which killed 44 persons here two days ago in the nation's worst postwar rail disaster, and these questions were at the top of their list:

Brake Condition

What were the condition of the brakes on the Exposition Flyer? When were the brakes applied? And did the comparative light weight of the train reduce its braking power?

Fireman Jumped

His fireman, E. H. Crayton of Galesburg, jumped and was killed seconds before the crash.

Warren Henry, chief investigator for the Illinois Commerce commission, contended that an engineer would have nearly 11,000 feet in which to stop his train at the scene of the collision if he had applied his brakes when the yellow automatic signal was visible and if the brakes were in normal condition.

Warrant Obtained

Daniels, who headed one of three investigating bodies, obtained a manslaughter warrant against the engineer, after interviewing him in the hospital, but described the move as a technicality to assure his appearance at the inquest.

Daniels said that Blaine, a veteran of 44 years of railroad experience and eligible for retire-

Iowa Bank Robber—Gets Life Sentence

FORT MADISON (AP)—Clark S. Cummings, 25, of Chicago, who pleaded guilty yesterday to committing the first bank robbery in Iowa in nearly four years, was sentenced to life imprisonment, the maximum under Iowa law.

The armed robbery Tuesday of a branch bank at nearby Denmark, netted Cummings $79.

"I just got a silly idea—I don't know why I did it," Cummings told the court. Postal inspectors took a statement from him after he was sentenced by district Judge James S. Burrows. The bank also houses the postoffice.

After his arrest in Rock Island, Ill., Wednesday night, Cummings was identified as the robber by Mrs. Lois C. Woodroffe, bank cashier, and Mrs. Caroline Lingefelter, clerk in the Everett Iving's grocery, Sheriff Frank Klopfenstein said. Mrs. Lingefelter said Cummings was in the store before the robbery.

Eisenhower Confers With Chief Executive On Army Problems

QUANTICO, Va. (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower conferred for four hours with President Truman yesterday on army problems at home and abroad, including opposition in congress to extension of the draft.

The general chief of staff wore a worried look as he stepped onto the wharf at this marine base from the escort vessel which brought him back from the presidential yacht Williamsburg.

Eisenhower declined to discuss his talk with the president—his last before leaving Monday on a month's inspection of army installations in the Pacific and conferences with General Douglas MacArthur at Tokyo. But he is known to be concerned over house action designed to ban inductions from May 15 to Oct. 15.

The general told reporters only that he had enjoyed his visit with the presidential party. He thought they were "a fine bunch of men."

Meanwhile, Mr. Truman turned his attention to pressing domestic problems, including the coal strike. Reconversion Director John W. Snyder, who sat in last Saturday with Labor Secretary Schwellenbach and United Mine Workers President John L. Lewis joins the chief executive here today.

More Drastic Action Needed Officials State

Agriculture Expert Discounts Early Action In Requisitioning Food

WASHINGTON (AP)—Acting Secretary of State Acheson yesterday virtually advocated government seizure of wheat and flour needed to fulfill America's promises of help to the starving abroad.

Acheson told reporters that if you want to get wheat or flour, what you have to do is go out and take them. His remark was made after discussion started in other government food quarters as to whether further formal action should be taken to cut home use of bread.

Discount Possibility

At the agriculture department, officials discounted any possibility of government action to seize grain from farms. They did not rule out entirely, however, the possibility of requisitioning supplies from other channels if other measures should prove inadequate.

Following up an earlier statement by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson that Americans simply must eat less bread because of the "very serious" wheat shortage, Acheson told a news conference that much more drastic action is needed to get food to the hunger areas overseas.

There are various ways to do that, he said, including the possibility of rationing. He did not elaborate further, but stressed that he was voicing his personal views.

Wheat to Japan

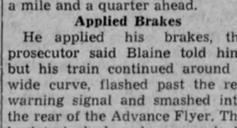

Acheson's observations were made after he was asked for an explanation of the government's policy of sending wheat to Japan, which has been called into question by the farm eastern commission. The acting secretary said Germany and Japan will receive only one-third of the amounts allocated to them, while other famine-threatened countries will get two-thirds in the redistribution.

Possibility of further government action to cut home use of bread grew from the realization that steps taken thus far probably will not whittle down greatly the output of bakery products.

Under present government regulations, bakers can keep up their output at near normal levels by drawing on their flour reserves until after the wheat harvest.

Council Delays Vote on Spain Investigations

NEW YORK (AP)—The United Nations security council again stood off a showdown on the Spanish question yesterday in the hope that Russia—alone in opposition—might reverse her position and make possible a unanimous vote for Australia's latest proposal to investigate the Franco regime.

With all the delegates except the Russian apparently in agreement on a twice-revised Australian resolution, the council adjourned after a 15-minute session until Monday at 2 p. m., C.S.T.

Although there were no indications that Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko was wavering in his opposition to an investigation, the delegates conceded that the only reason a vote was not taken yesterday was the hope of some that Russia might eventually change her stand.

Mexican Delegate Rafael De La Colina, who proposed the postponement, told newsmen as he left the council chamber that he had made his move for the purpose of "seeking unanimity among council members on the proposal" and in the hope that the week-end recess would result in a switch in Gromyko's position.

The Soviet delegate indicated, however, that he still stood by his views that the council already had sufficient evidence to show that the Franco regime is a menace to world peace and that no inquiry is necessary.

3 Nebraska Hospital Attendants Sentenced

HASTINGS, Neb. (AP)—Three former Hastings State hospital attendants convicted of assault in connection with the death of a patient were sentenced yesterday to state penitentiary terms ranging from one to three years.

Robert L. Bufford, 66, and William Luther Skelton, 54, were sentenced to from 18 months to three years. Harry O. Koberstein, 59, was sentenced to the minimum one year.

Complaints against the three resulted from the death early last Dec. 29 of Alfred T. Anderson, 44, in a hospital ward.

Editorials:

Quick Senate Action Needed on Draft Law

With the expiration date of the present selective service draft law less than three weeks away, the senate is going to have to begin considering the proposed extension measure almost immediately.

The present law expires May 15. And before a new law can be enacted, it must be passed by the senate, sent back to the house and then on to the president.

Right now the senate is tied up with the British loan, and with Senator Bilbo threatening another filibuster it appears that it will be perhaps several weeks before the loan legislation is disposed of. That means the senate will have to lay the loan bill aside for a few days to take up the draft measure.

The senate, unsatisfied with the cowardly measure passed by house members who are looking at the fall elections, has a draft extension bill of its own. The senate bill proposes an out-and-out one-year extension—far better than the house's legislation.

Senate Majority Leader Alben Barkley rightly commented yesterday that the house has "put the senate on the spot once more" on the draft question.

The house measure is practically ineffective. It would extend the draft for nine months, but would prohibit inductions for five months and would ban the drafting of teen-agers altogether.

Just how the house expected that kind of draft law to fill the ranks of the army, the representatives didn't say. And they couldn't say, because it won't. And since it won't, that means the army's difficulties in its peace and occupation jobs will be multiplied many times. Probably it will be impossible for the army to finish its tasks.

Yes, the senate is on the spot. It must enact a draft extension law that has some meaning, or the nation's foreign policy and peace plans will be virtually scuttled.

And the senate must act in the face of protests from pressure groups and parents who would rather see the men already in service remain in uniform to do double duty than to let them be replaced.

The senate's road is clear. A one-year extension of the draft is needed. And action must come in a hurry.

An Example for SUI?

(From the Chicago Sun)

The professors at the University of Illinois can now come out of their academic foxholes. State Senator E. R. Peters, St. Joseph Republican, has spoken. And he usually acts as the university's legislative spokesman.

The senator, who apparently can take his education or leave it alone, has "solved" a tough problem for the professors. The university has housing facilities for some 15,000; next fall 23,000 are expected to seek admission; how are the fortunate ones to be selected?

The professors suggested that they be screened on the basis of grades. "Undemocratic," snorts Senator Peters, and, anyway, the result would be to leave "only a bored group of quiz kids" on the campus. Seemingly he feels it is possible to get too much of even so good a thing as an education.

A university, as we understand it, is a place where people are educated. That is its primary task. A good one turns out "quiz kids"—and the more the better.

Senator Peters' trouble is that he confuses a university with a country club. That impression is strengthened by reports that he is among those leading a fight to have a new fieldhouse built at Urbana—at a time when dormitories for students are desperately needed.

The University of Illinois belongs to the people. Their taxes support it. Its purpose is education. One way it can pursue that purpose is to adopt the faculty's democratic plan for selective admission.

Collection of Service Papers

These remarks are, frankly, a plug for a couple of related subjects. One is a book by Bud Hutton and Andy Rooney called "The Story of the Stars and Stripes." The other is the university library's program of collecting service publications that appeared during the war.

Veterans of the ETO will remember both Bud Hutton and Andy Rooney because their by-lines appeared on many of the best Stars and Stripes stories during the war. Their book is an account of the newspaper's troubles—mostly with the brass—and of a lot of humorous incidents provided by a lot of zany reporters the army obtained, for better and for worse, to put out a newspaper.

There is the story of Alf, the proprietor of a pub in Printing House Square in London. He was trained to answer "city desk" when the pub's phone rang.

Then there was "two-gun Davis," the 39-year-old corporal (ex-city desk editor of the New York Herald-Tribune) who told a major general he would not join the general's division as a reporter unless it was sure to "go like hell."

And the story of the lieutenant who was much esteemed after he worked (Sgt.) Bud Hutton in the "battle of the pastepots."

Veterans will be relieved to know that when Sergeant Wingert's cartoons of "Hubert" did not appear for several weeks, it was because the cartoons had offended the brass, not because Wingert was out of inspiration. Incidentally, those picture-editorials veterans objected to so much last winter were written by a captain and put in the Stars and Stripes by "direct order."

As a matter of fact, the newspaper was poorest when it was a weekly in 1942 and after V-E day—the periods when it was most

WASHINGTON—German scientists found that air borne radioactive materials can cause cancer of the lung, and American investigators appraise this as something which "should be of interest" to researchers in atomic energy.

The German researchers were reported by a group of American scientific and technical investigators who unearthed many Nazi scientific secrets while the war was still on.

The American organization is known as the technical industrial intelligence branch (TIIB) of the joint intelligence objective agency, which operates under the supervision of the army and navy chiefs of staff.

One team of investigators learned from scientists of the Kaiser Wilhelm institute in Germany that the Germans had investigated the cause of lung cancer among certain groups of miners in the Reich.

The German investigators reached the conclusion, a TIIB report says, that the lung cancer "was caused by breathing radium emanation and other radioactive materials present in the air in some of the mines."

Information on the research was obtained from Dr. Boris Rajewsky of the Kaiser Wilhelm institute.

In the official war department "Smyth Report" on American studies leading to the development of the atomic bomb, note is made of the health hazards associated with work on radioactive materials.

It was stated that radiations from such materials "have deadly effects akin to the effects of X-rays."

"They (radioactive materials) give off very penetrating radiations—gamma rays—which are much like X-rays in their physiological effects," declares the Smyth report. "They also give off Beta and Alpha rays which, although less penetrating, can still be dangerous."

The Smyth report said that the amounts of radioactive material produced by the atom-splitting of uranium in a relatively small chain-reacting system "may be equivalent to hundreds or thousands of grams of radium."

(The amounts of radium used in hospitals and in ordinary physical measurements usually comprise but a few milligrams. A milligram is one-thousandth of a gram.) Among the instruments used by the health division of the atomic bomb project was one called "sneezy" which was designed to measure the concentration of radioactive dust in the air.

GRADUATE RECORD EXAMINATION

This national standard quality examination for graduate work has been developed during the past eight years under the auspices of the Carnegie Foundation for Advancement of Teaching. The University of Iowa has cooperated in this project from the beginning and plans to continue its use. About 100 graduate and professional schools now require or invite applicants to submit examination results as an auxiliary credential for admission. Many others provide opportunities for their students to take the examination.

Purpose—This examination represents a national standard designed for use:

(a) As a means of self-analysis and self-guidance on the part of mature students and as an aid to the faculty in guidance of students throughout their graduate careers.

(b) As a qualifying examination for admission to a rapidly increasing number of graduate colleges and professional schools.

(c) As a supplementary basis and condition for the award of graduate appointments and promotions and the award of honors and recommendations.

Nature—The examination does not measure attainment in any specific courses at any specific institution, but is a functional test designed to give a general profile of the educational status in liberal education. No preparation is required and it is very unlikely that cramming would produce any change in the scores received.

There are two parts of the examination:

(a) A specific examination chosen by the student from any one of a selected number of areas, and

(b) The general examination covering mathematics, physics, chemistry, biology, social studies, literature, fine arts and general vocabulary. It is not assumed that the student has had training in all of these areas.

The scores present an inventory of knowledge, regardless of where or how obtained. They permit a student to know accurately his relative strength or weakness in the various basic fields of knowledge. They also present a comparison of his performance with that of thousands of other students like himself in length of schooling, field of study, type of institution and in region of country. This information will be helpful in the planning of future study programs.

Requirements and Options—It is at present required of these graduate students, unless they have already taken it:

(a) All graduate students now registered in the University who are or plan to become candidates of the Master's degree.

(b) All graduate students who are candidates for the Doctor's degree and who have not yet passed their qualifying examinations.

Fees—The examination is free in this University to all of whom it is required.

Dates of Examination—The examination requires two afternoons. The first session will be Monday, May 6, 1946, from 2:00 to 6:00 P.M. in the Chemistry Auditorium. The second session will be Tuesday, May 7, at the same hours and place.

Registration—All students of whom the examination is required must file application before today, in the University Examinations Service Office, Room 114, University Hall. Please register as soon as possible.

Exemption from Classes—All students who take the examination are automatically excused from scheduled classes, but should report this to their instructors. All students holding conflicting service appointments shall arrange with their department for substitutes in their service during the examination period.

Reports on the Examination—Test scores with norms are reported directly to:

(a) The individual students taking the examination.

(b) A department in which the student is registered.

(c) The office of the Graduate College.

Food Quota for Johnson County Collection Set at 200,000 Cans

UNRRA Will Handle Distribution of Food To Victims Overseas

The quota for the Emergency Food collection in Johnson county has been set at 200,000 cans of food by a resolution adopted last night at a meeting of representatives of over 50 Iowa City organizations in the Johnson county courthouse.

Groups represented at the meeting included university fraternities and sororities, campus dormitory units, grocers, banks, restaurants, county mayors, schools and churches and Iowa City clubs.

The week-long drive will start May 12 or 13.

Emil C. Trott, chairman for the collection, explained the purpose of the drive by reading a telegram from National Emergency Food collection headquarters in New York. The telegram explained that collected food is to be sent to war victims on behalf of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration.

Directions from national headquarters specify the type of canned goods to be collected as milk, meat, fish, peanut butter, baby foods, fruit, juices, soups, stews, honey and vegetables. Contributors are urged to paste "good will" greetings on the cans.

Money contributed in the collection will count the same as cans in the 200,000 quota, the average price for canned goods being from 13 to 15 cents.

James O'Dell, M3 of Ames, representing Phi Rho medical fraternity, suggested that fraternities and sororities cut their menus two days a week and contribute the saved food to the drive.

Imps Slap Hawklets Again, 7-0

By JOE SHOQUIST
For the second time this year Davenport high's baseball team proved stronger than City high's, as they handed the Hawklets a 7-0 loss yesterday afternoon on the City high diamond. Riedsell of Davenport allowed the losers only two hits.

The Blue Devils hammered Jim VanDeusen for 12 hits, and in the fifth inning got three hits and a walk to score three runs. In that frame Hoeksema gained a triple when Beals slipped in center field and missed the ball. Ruck went to first on a walk, stole second, and scored with Hoeksema on Edward's single. Then Edwards stole second and scored on a hit by Baker. In the seventh Ruck, Edwards and Riedsell connected for hits and Ruck and Edwards scored, Davenport's other two runs came in the second and fourth innings.

Bob Krall took both of City high's hits, one in the fifth and the other in the seventh. Sangster threatened to score in the fifth on a squeeze play, but failed to do so when Barker missed his bunt. Snook died on third base when Krall struck out in the third frame. The Little Hawks' last chance to score came when Dean stole to third base in the sixth, but he too died there.

VanDeusen allowed only three walks, and held the Blue Devils to no hits in the third and sixth. Riedsell gave the Hawklets seven walks.

Martin Hurls 7-Hitter As Cards Win, 3-2

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Fred Martin, a rookie pitcher from Cameron, Okla., held the Pittsburgh Pirates to seven hits yesterday as he pitched the St. Louis Cardinals to a 3-2 win, nipping off a Buc rally in the ninth.

The win left the Cardinals exactly where they were—a half-game behind Brooklyn who was beating the Giants in New York.

Going into the ninth inning the 31 year old Martin had the Pirates and a five-hit shutout well under control. Then, with two men out, Elbie Fletchler walked and Jim Russell doubled him home. Billy Cox singled to score Russell. But pinch-hitter Al Gionfriddo rolled to short for the final out.

Lefty Fritz Ostermueller was in hot water throughout the game, the Cards attacking him for 13 hits in eight innings. St. Louis scored twice in the first inning on three straight hits and two long flies.

2 Defending Champs Fail to Win at Drake

Hawks Loom As Threats

DES MOINES (AP)—Two of the three defending champions went down to crushing defeat in major individual events opening Drake university's 37th annual two-day relay carnival yesterday.

The lone survivor was Drake's Fred Feller, who trotted to a 75 yard victory in the two mile run.

Feller's fellow defending titlist, Billy Bangert of Purdue university, in the discus throw, placed third, and Ray Tharp, University of Minnesota, in the broad jump, failed even to place.

Although the collegians failed to break any meet records, six marks went by the boards in the high school division.

The University of Iowa's quarter and half mile relay teams, place winners in the Kansas relays last weekend, loomed as threats for similar spots in the Drake relays here this afternoon after finishing second in their preliminary heats yesterday. The finals will be run off this afternoon along with other colorful track features which will include the crowning of the queen.

The sprint quartet, only Hawkeye entrant to qualify in yesterday's opening action, was composed of Otis Finney, Rex Ploen, Ike Johnson and Dick Washington.

The galaxy of other stars overshadowed Iowa's other afternoon entries. Keith Gotthardt and Danny Sheehan failed to make the step grade in the discus, and Gotthardt was also short in the shot put.

Paul Fagelind, defending champion in the javelin throw, will compete against a tough field today. The javelin event was postponed from yesterday.

In addition to the sprint quartets, Iowa will enter two mile and mile relay teams today. The double mile gang is composed of Pete Schwinn, Bernie Lewis, Jim Sommers and Harold Eakes. Captain John Hunter, Ike Johnson or Otis Finney, Rex Ploen and Eric Wilson Jr. will compose the mile team.

Walter Thorpe, Charlie Mason and Herb Wilkinson were slated to arrive in Des Moines this morning for their share in the competition. Walt and Charlie will enter the pole vault and all-American Herb will try his western roll in the high jump.

Qualifying with Iowa in the quarter mile relay were Texas, Baylor, Michigan State, Missouri and Wisconsin. Texas had the best time with :42.2.

Adams, Feldman Go to Mexico

NEW YORK (AP)—Mel Ott, manager of the New York Giants, announced last night that pitchers Ace Adams and Harry Feldman had "jumped" the club to play in the Mexican baseball league.

In a dramatic statement, Ott disclosed that Adams and Feldman left yesterday afternoon sometime during the Brooklyn-Giant game.

Ott himself did not know of their departure until he missed them in the pre-game batting drill and went to the clubhouse to inquire as to their whereabouts. There he was informed by other players that both Adams and Feldman had collected their belongings and said they were heading for Mexico.

Teammates said that before leaving, Adams and Feldman confided that they signed for $10,000 a year and that each got a $10,000 bonus as well as half his salary in a lump sum.

Errors Costly for Hawkeyes; Bruner to Hurl Today's Tilt

By JACK SCHROEDER
Assistant Sports Editor

Iowa couldn't offset eight errors afield yesterday afternoon coupled with a 15-hit attack from the big bats of Minnesota as the Hawkeyes dropped their first Big Ten encounter of the current season in a loosely played game to the Gophers, 7-4. The second game of the series is set for 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Big Bob Faber lasted only 6 1-3 innings as he was pounded freely by the heavy Minnesota sluggers for 12 hits and six runs during his stint on the mound. Wes Demro finished the game giving the Gophers another three hits and an additional run.

Although Iowa garnered nine hits, Bob Schumack kept them well scattered over the nine-inning route. Don Thompson's long homer in the fifth inning was the closest approach the Hawks could come to a concentrated attack. The Gophers didn't play flawless ball, either, as they were charged with four bobbles.

Minnesota took advantage of Iowa's faulty fielding plays to score twice in the third, fourth and seventh innings. Their final tally came in the ninth frame. Although Faber set down eight men via the strikeout route, his fast ball seemed to be just what the Gophers had ordered.

The Hawkeyes' Faber set down the Gophers in the first inning with two of the visitors dying on base. The Hawkeyes drew first blood as Dale Erickson got on with an error by Dick Rediske. He was advanced to second by Thompson's grounder and scored on a single to center by Bill Diehl.

In the third inning Rediske singled and was tossed out at second by Bob Johnson's fielder's choice. Olaf Lucken then lashed a tremendous triple to leftfield and Johnson scored. After Bruce Frank had popped to Doc Dunagan, Dwight Kopperud sent a stinging single to left field, Gilbert went out second to first and Stewart Olson struck out.

The Hawkeyes didn't count in the third inning. In the top half of the fourth, Bob Schumack grounded out Thompson to Diehl and then Earl Bruhn cracked a single to center. Rediske followed with a blow in the very same spot advancing the runner to third. The Little Hawks' last chance to score came when Dean stole to third base in the sixth, but he too died there.

VanDeusen allowed only three walks, and held the Blue Devils to no hits in the third and sixth. Riedsell gave the Hawklets seven walks.

Neither club crossed the plate in the sixth frame. In the seventh Minnesota began to go to work on Faber's fast ball. Frank belted a fast, high pitch into left field that would have been a homer if he hadn't stumbled over the second-base bag. The Gopher

After Minnesota failed to score in the fifth, the Hawks set to work to score two runs. After Jack Wishmier had struck out and Faber grounded out, Dale Erickson dashed to second base on a double error by Frank and Schumack. Then Don Thompson boomed his long homer far into leftfield scoring behind Erickson.

First baseman settled for a triple. He was immediately driven home by Kopperud who lashed a single to right. The Gopher advanced to second on Gilbert's grounder and scored on a single by Olson. At this point Coach Otto Vogel lifted Faber in favor of Demro who struck out the next two men. The Hawks failed to count in the seventh.

Beneficiaries of the Campus Chest are the Nile Kinnick Scholarship Fund, the World Student Service fund and the Cancer Prevention Association. The purpose of the Nile Kinnick Scholarship fund is to bring worthy students with Kinnick's fine qualities to the University of Iowa. The scholarship is not to honor Kinnick alone, but rather to create a living memorial to all university students who died in World War II. The W. S. S. F. has proved its worth during the war, and now to carry on an uninterrupted fostering of educational systems in Europe it needs twice the amount of contributions it has received in past years. Give to these three worthy causes.
