Iowa City Problems and the Cost of Living Conference

The Cost of Living conference scheduled by the University Veterans' association for tomorrow night, should help to clarify the minds of residents of Iowa City and vicinity on the problem of price and rent control.

Experts from every phase of economics will gather to discuss the cost of living and the agencies that affect it. There will be representatives of labor, industry, agriculture and retail business, and officials of the OPA to explain and debate the issues involved in price and rent control.

The idea of the conference is to give information necessary to decide whether or not the OPA should be extended and in what form. The UVA will distribute cards after the conference so that the preferences of the audience may be determined.

Certainly the cost of living is vital to everyone. An example of the current concern may be seen in the Iowa City police force which recently petitioned the city council for a salary raise.

The petition asks that all members of the force be granted a $15 monthly increase. To substantiate their claims that they need more money, individual patrolmen have prepared itemized accounts of their living costs.

One such account, based on the average monthly cost of living over a 12 month period for a patrolman and his wife, shows that the family spends $124.98 for the necessities of life. Subtract this amount from the take-home pay of $147 that this patrolman receives, and only $22.40 is left for such things as clothing, entertainment, cosmetics, medicine, dry cleaning and household repairs.

The present cost of these items doesn't leave this man much money to put in the bank. A $15 raise would help him, but the fundamental problem lies deeper than any individual case.

A Cost of Living conference can go a long way in informing the public of the fundamental issues involved in our whole postwar economic reconversion, and only through such knowledge can intelligent action be taken.

The Far East—Where Our Commitments Exceed Our Power

(Fourth in a Series)

American foreign policy in the western hemisphere has been one of dominance without direct political interference, in Europe one of non-entanglement until forced into war and in the far east one of cooperation to prevent domination of an alien power and protect American colonies, trade and investments.

The turning point in our relations with the far east was the Spanish-American war. By 1900 the United States had acquired the Philippines, Midway, Guam and the Hawaiian islands.

Thus by the turn of the century the United States was committed to defend territory 5,000 miles from her mainland, a commitment that increased our interest in the far east and eventually led to war in 1941.

Before 1900 Japan was opened to trade and had become a power in Asia. United States policy in China changed in 1900. Before that time our policy in China was that of obtaining equal commercial treatment from China for American traders.

About the turn of the century other powers started to obtain territorial concessions from China, and the United States extended its policy to one of cooperating with other powers in maintaining the territorial integrity of China.

Secretary Hays formulated this policy in the second of his Open Door notes in 1900. It was suggested in 1898 by Great Britain but not enacted by the United States until the acquisition of the Philippines gave us a direct interest in Asia.

Participation in the far east never met with the domestic opposition that entanglement in Europe did. For one thing there was no traditional and emotional basis for opposition. The United States is not a country whose descendants escaped from and turned their backs on Asia. And, in addition, the popular feeling was that Asia needed American help—we had a mission there.

Diplomatic conferences after World War I showed we intended to maintain our interest in the far east. The United States forced Japan to back down in her territorial demands on China. In return, the United States agreed not to make further fortifications on her Asian possessions. Japan also acquired the German islands north of the equator—islands athwart our line of communications with the Philippines.

The United States was now committed to preserving the integrity of China and to defending the Philippines, but by cutting down fortifications we denied ourselves the strength to back up our foreign policy.

After the outbreak of the Sino-Japanese war in 1931 America tried to aid China. Secretary of State Stimson attempted to obtain cooperation from the League of Nations to stop Japan, but his effort failed.

Loans and credits were given to China; President Roosevelt refused to apply the neutrality law in 1937 because its term aided a nation with shipping at the expense of a nation (China) that had no ships.

The Flying Tigers, the sending of supplies over the Burma and Lido roads, showed our intention to continue aid to China. On Nov. 26, 1941, the United States rejected a Japanese demand to halt aid to China, in return for which Japan said she would halt her advances in southeastern Asia. War followed.

Now the United States is still vastly committed in the far east. General Marshall is on a mission to help China, and our marines are still there. We have occupied half of Korea and all of Japan. Our bases extend all over the Pacific. We firmly oppose Russian encroachments on Manchuria.

Again, American commitments go far beyond our will or power to defend them. Presumably we will aid with food and loans in reconstruction of the far east. But if Russia should make territorial acquisitions which we be willing to use force against her? Even with the United Nations what is the influence of a nation unwilling to use force against one willing to use it?

This problem faces American foreign policy, and the American people, not only in the far east but in many other parts of the world as well.

Covering The Capital

By BRACK CURRY

WASHINGTON — Attorney Gen. Tom Clark does not consider the "Brooklyn Plan"—or "deferred prosecution plan"—a cure-all for the juvenile delinquency problem.

But he believes its use marks a major contribution by the federal government toward forestalling future crime upsurges and orienting youth in the right direction.

Says Clark: "The basic responsibility for combating juvenile delinquency lies in the home and in the community. All the efforts of the government will be wasted if parents refuse to cooperate. Proper parental influence is the greatest single deterrent to juvenile delinquency."

"In addition, I believe each community must accept its responsibility on the juvenile crime front. This includes fostering programs of supervised juvenile recreation and selecting policemen who will cultivate the confidence and friendship of youth."

Deferred prosecution first was employed seven years ago in the eastern (Brooklyn) district of New York. The results have been "remarkable and inspiring," Clark says.

"The late Leo J. Hickey, as United States attorney for Brooklyn, started the plan. He had an exceptionally intelligent insight into the problems of youth. At that time a youthful offender was indicted under ordinary circumstances. A trial followed. In worthy cases, the youthful offender was placed on probation."

Hickey asked "Why not reverse the process? Instead of determining whether a youthful offender was worthy of being released after trial and conviction, why not conduct such an investigation before prosecution to determine whether prosecution was necessary in the first place?"

Hickey experimented with the plan for two years, then adopted it as regular procedure.

During the past seven years, Clark said, some 200 youths have been granted provisional release from prosecution in eastern New York. Only two were reported as violators during the supervision period.

Several months ago Clark directed all United States attorneys to adopt the Brooklyn plan and report back to him. He turned over the reports to me. Here are some typical ones:

Whit Y. Mauzy, northern district of Oklahoma: "We have had six juvenile delinquent cases. Five have been handled under the Brooklyn plan. All five of the juveniles so far are getting along fine."

George F. Troy, district of Rhode Island: "52 juveniles were continued under probation supervision with satisfactory results."

Leslie E. Given, southern district of West Virginia: "I do not recall any cases where this procedure has not worked satisfactorily."

Steve M. King, eastern district of Texas: "Cases against 20 juveniles have been closed without any prosecutive action since June 1, 1945."

Generals Eisenhower and MacArthur met in Tokyo the other day, first time they'd seen each other since 1939. It seems that during the last seven years both boys have been too busy to do much social calling.

Ex-King Victor Emmanuel hasn't said a word since he arrived in Egypt to live. Probably taking a tip from the sphinx.

At the rate of one a week those experts in New Mexico plan to send V-2 test rockets aloft. If this keeps up those New Mexican birds are going to become annoyed.

Blue-Olmsted Race

One of State's Most Unusual Campaigns Nearing Climax

By DWIGHT McCORMACK
DES MOINES (AP)—One of the most unusual political campaigns in Iowa in recent years will close June 3 with the primary elections.

On the one hand, some observers say the battle between Gov. Robert D. Blue and George Olmsted, Des Moines insurance company executive, has been one of the hardest fought in several years. On the other hand, most observers say there is little interest outside the Blue-Olmsted race.

Little Local Interest
Only a few counties have local contests which have generated more than passing interest. These primarily are for Republican nominations for sheriff, county attorney, or member of the legislature.

American Carelessness—

25% of Food Wasted

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON (AP)—While the rest of the world hungers, Americans waste 125,000,000 pounds of food every day.

This adds up to about 25 percent of the nation's total food supply every year. Of this, 100 pounds of edible food per person is wasted right in the home. The rest is lost between the farm and the home.

Hugo Saggau, Olmsted's manager, said he thought the race for the Republican gubernatorial nomination was one of the hottest in years. He said he had been watching Iowa elections for 30 years and "I've never seen anything like it."

The department of agriculture stresses the fact that the homemaker can do more than any other individual toward conserving her food supply. Here are some specific actions she can take:

Save left-overs — make them appetizing.
Buy perishables according to your needs.
Plan meals by the week.
Buy seasonal and plentiful foods.
Store perishables with care.
Prepare food without unnecessary waste.

Barnes said there have been "no issues that have stood up," and therefore there is little interest in the election. He attributed the lack of interest to "the fact people are pretty well satisfied with the governor's record, and their attention now is on the nationwide strikes."

Encourage family members to "clean the plate."
Use all portions of foods. Peeling potatoes results in discard of some of the most nutritious part. Beet tops are more nutritious than the roots, yet are seldom used. The best leaves of cabbage and lettuce are the outer leaves, seldom used.

Share or preserve victory garden surplus.

Meanwhile, Frank Miles, the only candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, continued his state-wide series of "non-political talks" and said his campaign would not begin until after the primaries.

Waste on the farm includes damage done by insects and rodents. Rats alone destroy each year as much food as 240,000 farmers can produce.

Waste occurs from breakage and spoilage in transit, from improper packing, loading, handling and venting—especially in the shipment of perishables.

Both Barnes and Saggau said their candidates would "hit the crest" of their campaigns next week.

Meat Loss
Some 25,000,000 pounds of meat is lost annually through rough handling in transportation.

There is additional loss in retail handling. Reports of some of the most carefully managed stores, the department of agriculture says, have shown spoilage losses of 3 to 10 percent on fresh fruits and of 3 to 15 percent on fresh vegetables.

Other studies disclose that waste in restaurants and cafeterias has averaged about 9 to 14 percent of the total wastage of the nation. Three to eight percent of this was attributed to management, about six percent to food left on plates by patrons.

There have been many protests over food wastage in army camps and commissaries.

The war department this month said it has ordered that the strictest economy be observed.

Army Correction
The army has instituted the following corrective measures: elimination of rations issued for men absent from meals; reduction of bread from 15 to 12 pounds per 100 men per meal; the production of fresh fruits and vegetables in truck gardens; the conservation of sugar.

The president's famine emergency committee (FEC) says the world food supply is not adequate. Anything we draw from the stockpile more than we need is taking just that much away from the inadequate heap.

Truman Wants Decision Soon on Army-Navy Merger

By CLARK BEACH
WASHINGTON (AP)—The army-navy game of the century is reaching its climax.
The admirals and generals have been slugging it out over the issue of merger of the armed forces since last October. Now they have been told by President Truman, their commander-in-chief, that he wants them to reach some agreement before the end of this month.
Witnesses in army uniform told the senate military and naval affairs committees that unification was wise and necessary. The men in navy said they could see nothing but disaster resulting from a single department of common defense.
Admirals, Generals Split
Eisenhower, Marshall, Doolittle, Arnold, Somervell, Spaatz and Bradley were all for it. Nimitz, King, Leahy, Vandegrift, Halsey, Geiger and Sherman opposed it.

They displayed the utmost military correctness in their references to one another, but their decorous language often dripped with acid sarcasm.

Sometimes the main issue seemed to be "who won the war"—army ground forces, army air forces, battleships, naval aviation or the marine corps.

Among navy backers, one often heard that the whole thing was an army grab for power. Many army rosters said the admirals were just trying to preserve their jobs and obsolete battleships.

Fewer Committees
Some said that most of the congressional opposition to one executive department was because only two congressional committees would be needed where before there had been four.

When President Truman on Dec. 19, 1945, recommended to congress that it "adopt legislation combining the war and navy departments into one single department of national defense," anti-mergerites commented that Mr. Truman was an old army man himself.

The army plan is to set up a department of common defense under a single cabinet officer. He would have subordinate secretaries for air, navy and army. There would be a single chief of staff, a joint staff of the armed forces, a council for common defense and a national security resources board.

The navy would retain the two departments as they now stand, leaving it up to congress to decide whether or not to form a separate department for the army's strategic air forces. It would establish a national security council, a national resources board, and a joint chiefs of staff.

Old Controversy
The controversy is almost as old as the republic. The founding fathers in 1789 provided a single department of war. In 1798 the navy was given independent status to the admirals, because practically nothing had been achieved in the way of building up a navy.

Proposals for re-unification of the army and navy have been presented off and on for years. In 1934 Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, was chairman of a board which investigated and advised against unification.

In the spring of 1944 the Woodmended unification, with one admiral filing a minority report against it.

Approve Principle
When the joint chiefs' special committee interviewed Admirals

Nimitz, Halsey and some others at their headquarters in the Pacific, they were reported to approve the principle of a unified department.

Admiral Nimitz, now chief of naval operations, in April, 1945, told Admiral King, his predecessor, that amalgamation of all the armed forces would be a mistake.

General Douglas MacArthur changed his mind too. In 1952 MacArthur strongly opposed unification. Last November, however, MacArthur said his opposition in 1932 had been "the greatest mistake of my military career."

rum committee of the house held hearings and recommended continued study.

In the fall of 1944, the joint chiefs of staff appointed a special committee of two admirals and two generals to make an investigation. That committee recom-

Ladies Hear Conservation Recipes

The Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric company recently conducted a food conservation meeting to make Iowa City women aware of the simple ways that vital foods may be served. To make available to our government the necessary quota of food promised for the food pool, each household must rearrange its menus to diminish consumption of basic foods.

Mrs. C. A. Bowman, 319 Hutchinson avenue, commenting on re-arrangement of menus said, "I am using more fresh vegetables, perishable foods and things we cannot send overseas." Mrs. Bowman also intends to incorporate in her meals the recipes which were given at the food conservation meeting. The first recipe she plans to use is for potato flour muffins:

Potato Flour Muffins
4 eggs
Pinch of salt
1/2 cup of white potato flour
1 teaspoon baking powder

2 tablespoons ice water
1 tablespoon sugar
Beat white of eggs very stiff and dry. Add salt and sugar to beaten yolks and fold into whites. Sift flour and baking powder twice and thoroughly beat into egg mixture. Add ice water last. Bake in moderate oven from 15 to 20 minutes.

Mrs. Dorothy Park, home service consultant of the Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric company, recommended this recipe for potato dumplings:

Potato Dumplings (about 24)
6 large potatoes, salt, pepper.
2 tablespoons flour

2 tablespoons bread crumbs
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
4 eggs beaten
4 tablespoons finely minced parsley
Cook potatoes with their jackets on. Drain, peel and force through ricer. Add rest of ingredients and mix well. Shape into size dumplings desired and drop into bubbling broth.

The recipe below will use less salad oils which are difficult to purchase now.

No-Oil French Dressing
Soften one teaspoon plain gelatine in one tablespoon cold water. Dissolve mixture in 1/4 cup hot water, adding three tablespoons sugar and 1/2 teaspoon salt.

When cooled, add 1/2 cup fresh lemon juice, 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard, 1/2 teaspoon paprika and pepper, chopped onion, garlic, catsup or seasonings to taste. Shake well and chill.

Art Course Offers Instruction in Etching, Lithography

SUI Students Learn Processing of Prints

The latest media of art work to be added to the art department curriculum is print making. Started last fall under the direction of Prof. Mauricio Lasansky, the print department includes instruction in print making, etching and lithography.

Print making consists of etching out a design on a metal plate, usually copper, with a small metal tool called a burin. When the design is etched the plate is inked and run through a press onto paper.

In making etchings essentially the same process is used as in print making, excepting that the design is etched out of the plate with acid.

Lithographs are made from stone cuts. Designs are carved out on a stone before being applied to paper.

All three of these processes were in common use as newspaper illustrations before half-tone newspaper photography was developed. Print processing has always been an important form of art, and is now being integrated into modern art.

In its short existence, works from the print department have been exhibited throughout the country, including museums and art galleries in Seattle, Wash.; Wichita, Kan.; Grand Rapids, Mich.; Philadelphia, Chicago and Washington, D. C.

In the 23rd annual show sponsored by the Print club of Philadelphia, three of the Iowa selections received honorable mention, and Professor Lasansky's "Self-Portrait" was given first honorable mention. It was purchased by the Philadelphia Museum of Art.

At present a circulating exhibit is being planned which will include 50 to 75 Iowa prints. This exhibit will be shown throughout various colleges and galleries in the country.

University Symphony Will Travel to Drake

Orchestra to Present Composition by Clapp At Centennial Event

The university symphony orchestra will go to Des Moines to participate in the Iowa centennial celebration in Drake stadium June 30, Dr. Earl E. Harper, director of the school of fine arts, announced yesterday.

At 6:45 p. m. the orchestra will present a program featuring Prof. Philip Greeley Clapp's symphony, "The Pioneers." This symphony has been requested by the Des Moines central committee in charge of the celebration because they think it has the proper mood and meaning suited to the centennial celebration, according to Dr. Harper.

At the close of the program a chorus of 2,000 voices, made up of choruses and choirs throughout the state, will sing three numbers under the direction of Prof. Stanford Hulshizer of Drake university and accompanied by the university orchestra. Professor Clapp will conduct the orchestra.

Prof. Briggs Named To Head Committee On Political Science

Prof. John E. Briggs of the political science department has been named chairman of the committee on regional and functional societies of the American Political Science association.

Two university alumni have also been announced as committee members. Francis O. Wilcox, head of the legislative reference service on foreign relations, has been named library of congress representative, and Cyril B. Upham has been appointed deputy comptroller of the currency.

SUI Band Schedules 2 Open-Air Concerts

The 70-piece commencement band will present open air concerts Wednesday, June 5, and Thursday, June 6, at 7:30 p. m. at the bandstand on Iowa Union campus, Prof. C. B. Righter, band director, announced yesterday.

The commencement band will also furnish incidental music for the baccalaureate and honors convocation Sunday, June 2, in the field house, and for Commencement exercises Saturday, June 8.

Tea Dance Discontinued

The Sunday afternoon matinee dance and Wednesday afternoon tea dance, held weekly in the River room of Iowa Union, have been discontinued for the rest of the year. Union board will sponsor the dances again next fall.

Students may dance in the River room at these hours, but there will be no committee in charge.

for the coming year will be to devise a method of providing for the affiliation of local associations with the national organization.

University Women— Plan for Summer Vacation

June 7 hundreds of university women will scatter to all parts of the nation, many of them to join the ranks of summer workers. Some prefer novel jobs, some are interested primarily in large paychecks, but all seem to want a change in scenery.

Literally flying down to Mexico will be Julianne Freund, A4 of Cedar Rapids, and Rose Marie Esley, A4 of New Boston, Ill., for a six weeks project sponsored by the American Friends Service. Julianne and Rose Marie will plan recreational programs for children in a northern Mexico village.

To Attend Seminar For the second summer Barbara Scott, A2 of Cedar Falls, will participate in a student industrial seminar in Detroit for 10 weeks. Virginia Anderson, A2 of Harcourt, will spend the summer in Washington, D. C., attending a political seminar. The seminars,

Camps and playgrounds are old favorites. Virginia Rosenberg, A2 of Burlington, will return to Cheley camps in Colorado as a counselor of hiking and mountain climbing. Ellen Lyga, A2 of La-Crosse, Wis., will have a playground job in her home town.

And there's one student who plans to spend the summer helping her father start a night club in a barn!

Art Gallery in City to Display Work of Students, Faculty

Two Local Women Open Shop to Sell Pieces by University Artists

By MARY HUISKAMP

The first art gallery in Iowa City where the work of university students and faculty can be shown and purchased will be opened soon as a part of the Prentiss-Emrick Antique shop.

The gallery, at 110 S. Gilbert street, will be owned and operated by Mrs. Lorraine Ewing Prentiss and Miss Nancy Emrick.

"We decided there should be an independent gallery in Iowa City where the public can have a chance to see and buy university work," said Mrs. Prentiss.

Sculpture, water colors, lithography, etchings, oil paintings, gouache paintings and handcrafts will be accepted for exhibition. The gallery will be open for one-man shows as well as for collections of work from different artists. A ten percent commission will be charged for any work sold at the gallery.

At present, the gallery is in the process of redecoration, but the antique shop has been open for about a month. Coming to Iowa City last fall to enter the university, Mrs. Prentiss and Miss Emrick are continuing the antique business which they operated in Aledo, Ill., during the war.

"Antiques in a home give it an individual flavor hard to find in modern, standardized homes," Mrs. Prentiss said.

"As the old craftsmen could change patterns often, duplications of authentic pieces are very few. Two pieces just alike are seldom seen in the same area."

"And almost everyone likes to own something that none of his neighbors has," laughed Nancy Emrick.

Their antique collection includes china, glassware, furniture, clocks, mirrors and jewelry. Especially choice pieces are a pair of Royal Worcester vases made in 1750 and still in perfect condition, some Revolutionary period furniture, and a hundred-year-old cup made of silver blown in glass.

"There are thrills in the antique business," Mrs. Prentiss stated, "such as buying a piece for a small price and then discovering that the piece is very old and rare."

After buying the Worcester vases for $9, Mrs. Prentiss treated them with chlorine and uncovered the mark of Dr. Wall, a famous decorator of the 18th century.

"The dealer had been afraid of the vases because they seemed too perfect to have lasted so long," explained Mrs. Prentiss. "The vases are now priced at $100."

"There are hazards in dealing with antiques, of course," she continued. "Despite years of training in distinguishing the authentic from the fakes, one can be fooled."

"To guard against getting fakes, we usually buy from the owners of the pieces. That way we're more sure of getting a genuine piece and its true history."

"We enjoy having antiques and art work around," Mrs. Prentiss concluded. "Running the shop and the gallery will be as much a hobby as a business for us."

Where to Go...

Now that so many victory gardens are in full swing and the food is so vitally needed we must do everything we can to protect valuable plants from harmful weeds with 2-4-D Weed Killer. This herbicide in a water solution is absorbed by the tips of the leaves and carried through the root system and destroys the plant by increasing its physiological processes to a disastrous degree.

Treated plants die within one to four weeks. This herbicide does not particularly harm the soil, is not explosive and does not leave a residue on plants that may be hazardous to livestock. For further information about this boon to gardeners call at THE DRUG SHOP and talk to Edward S. Rose, pharmacist, who will be glad to give you instructions for use.

To Hulsan, Gamma Phi, is just "itching" to tell you about the bacteria she picked up at the house formal—no, and I'm not referring to Beau.

"Cool as a hot dog on an ice cube" yeah that's how you'll arrive at that "gruesome" exam if you'll just Dial 3177 and let VARSITY-HAWKEYE CAB CO. call for you and take you quickly and safely to that destination. The test may make you warm but riding in our cab will keep you cool. Remember VARSITY-HAWKEYE CAB, the cab with the green lights.

Ree Goodin has been living the Chi O house with her singing since she claimed Jim Skophammer's Phi Gam pin which he had just acquired from his brother actives.

Was Dewey Felcher trying to set a new record last Sunday when immediately after being initiated he dashed over to the Theta house and pinned his new Phi Psi badge on Ann Reuling? But guess they were both setting records 'cause just Tuesday night Ann chained the pins and passed her five pounds.

Graduation—and their take off to make their fortunes! A genuine leather billfold, such as those shown by the FRYAUF LEATHER SHOP, may be the instigation they need to begin a long-dreamed-of pile. A Lady Buxton, practical, long-lasting, is the right complement to the first folding money she so proudly earns. Or select from a large variety of patent, plastic or leather purses in varied sizes, shapes and colors at the FRYAUF LEATHER SHOP.

Another romantic Theta Xi has finally hooked his girl. After seven months Gene Schmitz pinned Lynn Kendall, Iowa City. Come on Theta Xi's, who'll be next?

Betty Smith, Gamma Phi, thinks there is nothing more wonderful for a graduation present than a bright shiny new pin, especially when it's Bud Vieth's Sigma Chi cross.

Another Phi Psi pinning last week was that of Carl Furster and Lennie Browning, Theta.

Hawks Rained Out; Still Tied for Second Roosevelt, Clinton Champs

Well, Iowa's baseball season was completed yesterday when the weather stepped in and cancelled the final game of the two game series between the Hawkeyes and Illinois. Had Iowa won the game their chance of sharing second place in the Western conference would have been much better indeed.

As it now stands Wisconsin ran away with the crown when they drubbed Northwestern twice over the weekend. The Hawkeyes are presently tied for the second place honors with Illinois and Michigan. However, the Wolverines with a 4-2 record and Minnesota and Indiana with 5-3 marks have not completed their conference play.

The Badgers won their first Big Ten championship since 1930 when they blanked Northwestern.

It was the Badgers' ninth victory in 11 games.

Wisconsin drove Bill Stretton from the mound in the first inning with a four-run assault and added two more runs in the second on a home run by Joe Boese scoring Lawrence.

Rex Mays Registers Fastest Time Trial At Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Rex Mays, 33-year-old army air forces veteran, turned in the fastest qualifying time yesterday of 19 starters who have been lined up for the May 30 500-mile race and came close to equaling the seven-year-old qualification record.

The Long Beach, Calif., driver averaged 128.861 miles an hour for the ten miles in the Boves seal-fast special in which he finished second in the 1940 and 1941 memorial day grinds.

May's fastest lap was his first, in which he whirled around the two-and-one-half mile brick and asphalt track in one minute 9.44 seconds for a speed of 129.608 miles an hour. The car is an eight-cylinder supercharged Meyer-Winfield creation.

The qualification record is 130-138 miles an hour, set by the late Jimmy Snyder in 1939.

Forty-year-old Clet Miller of Glendale, Calif., added his name to the list of starters when he roared around the oval in an average time of 124.639 miles an hour in his Miller special, a front-drive car powered by a four-cylinder Offenhauser motor. Miller is a veteran of 14 previous races and has been in the money five times, finishing third in 1938.

Mays' time yesterday gave him the outside spot in row five. Cliff Bergere retains the pole position, even though his time was beaten by Mays, because he qualified the first day.

A newcomer to the track, Jimmy Wilburn of Indianapolis, 37-year-old veteran dirt track driver, became the sixteenth to qualify as he sent his eight-cylinder Alfa-Romeo through the four-lap, ten-mile test run at an average of 125.113 miles an hour. The car, the same one driven by Harry McQuinn to seventh place in the 1941 race, is owned by Bill White of Los Angeles.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Shirley Povich, Washington Post sports writer, said last night Max Lanier, Lou Klein and Fred Martin, of the St. Louis Cardinals, are driving to Mexico with Bernardo Pasquel, vice president of the Mexican league.

The three men, Povich said, have signed contracts to play in the Mexican league, Lanier getting a $10,000 bonus for signing a five-year contract at $15,000 a season, and Martin and Klein receiving $10,000 bonuses for signing a $10,000 a year for five years.

strong. Lyle Ebner was the leading hitter with a final average of .365 for the entire season. The husky Iowa catcher carried the brunt of the hitting attack throughout the season and in the upset of Illinois banged out two sharp blows in four trips to the plate.

Don Makeever sported the highest batting mark of any Hawk. The reserve catcher finished the season with an even .600. Wes Demro, Iowa pitcher, had a lousy .400 for a season total.

Looking at the brighter side, big Bob Moose Faber proved to be the mainstay of the Iowa pitching staff. The big right hander had a season record of five wins as against three losses. However, the record itself doesn't tell the entire story. Moose worked 80 innings in all, gave up 66 hits and 29 runs and set down 76 batters via the strikeout route.

Jack Bruner had the most impressive record of all Hawkeye hurlers. The portsider finished the season with three wins as against a lone setback. He worked 41 innings, gave up 41 hits, six runs and whiffed 41 batsmen.

Red Sox Blast Yanks, 7-4

Dickey Makes Pilot Debut

BOSTON (AP)—Bill Dickey's managerial debut was made strictly on the down beat yesterday as the top-place Red Sox pulled into a six-game lead over his New York Yankees with a 7-4 victory in the opener of their crucial series before a 30,851 crowd.

The Yankees' veteran catcher, who Friday night stepped into the 15-year-old pilot's shoes vacated by the ailing Joe McCarthy, launched his player-manager career by backstopping for Spud Chandler, his pitching ace.

But the Red Sox trumped Chandler, who was seeking his seventh win, by breaking a 2-2 tie with a five-run blasting in the fifth inning.

Spud was yanked after Rip Tussell belted a two-on homer into the left field screen to complete the Boston tallying.

The going-on 39 Dickey then pulled out Randle Gumpert from the bull pen. Dickey remained in the lineup only long enough to go to bat in the sixth and, with two out, reached first for the first time on Rudy York's error.

Dickey benched himself for Bill Drescher in the last of the sixth and relieved Gumpert with Frank Hiller in the seventh.

Nats Tromp A's Twice

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Senators beat the Philadelphia Athletics twice yesterday, 4-1 and 3-2, and moved into third place in the American League.

Washington passed the idle Detroit Tigers, whose game with Chicago was rained out.

The Senators went into the eighth inning of the second game two runs behind, but a double by Mickey Vernon, plus three singles and an error produced three runs.

In the opener Mickey Haefner pitched eight-hit ball to coast to victory. A double by Vernon and a single by Travis with the bases loaded accounted for three runs in the fifth.

Pellicle paid $3.40, $2.80 and $2.60. Midway Sun returned $4.20 and $3.20 and M. A. Tucker's Vassallo, who was third, paid $4.00.

Roosevelt, Boone Tie in Golf

WATERLOO (AP)—Roosevelt of Des Moines and Boone high schools yesterday tied for the state high school golf championship over a rain-drenched Sunnyside country club course here.

The individual championship went to Dick Anderson, Boone, who fired a pair of 38's for a six over par 76.

Fourteen five-man teams battled over the 18 holes for the team title, with the four best scores counting toward each team total.

The co-champions turned in identical 348 scores. Following in order were: Lincoln of Des Moines, 352; Franklin of Cedar Rapids, 356; Oskaloosa, 361; Ottumwa, 363. IOWA CITY, 363; Ames, 365; Davenport, 369; Dubuque, 372; Mason City, 374; East Des Moines, 376; West Des Moines, 382; Waverly, no team score, fourth man withdrew after first nine holes.

Middies Edge Army In IC4A Contest

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Navy's balanced power carried the Middies to their third straight IC4A track title yesterday but the sailors had to win the mile relay in order to beat out fast-finishing Army.

Navy took the championship with 365-28 points to Army's 331-7 and a surprising Dartmouth team's third place total of 241-7. Twenty-four of the 33 competing schools shared in the point-making.

Navy won the relay when the results of three field events, the javelin, pole vault and high jump, still were unreported. The scoring was so close that the Middies realized they must win the relay in order to retain the championship.

This they did handily with Fredric Bouwman, James Garibaldi, Arthur Bigley and William Kash leading virtually all the way. Kash had a 15-yard margin at the finish. Navy's time was 3:18.6.

Higley Drops Finals Match

AMES (AP)—Burke Dailey and Allen Lusk won the state high school tennis meet for Davenport by capturing the doubles title yesterday. The Blue Devils counted 6 points to oust Mason City, winner of the meet for the past two years.

The Mohawks tied for second with McKinley of Cedar Rapids with 4 points.

Don Lewis, Fort Madison, runner-up in 1945, took the singles title, defeating BRUCE HIGLEY of IOWA CITY in the finals, 6-0, 6-1. Lewis permitted only four games to go to his opponents as he stopped Lowell Stratton of Roosevelt Des Moines, 6-1, 6-0, and Ed Hollander of Franklin Cedar Rapids, 6-0, 6-2.

Dailey and Lusk defeated Bob Kovar and Carr McDonald of McKinley in the finals 6-3, 6-2. The Davenport duo defeated Fort Dodge and Mason City in early rounds.

Fort Madison, Ames, and North Des Moines tied for fourth with 4 points.
