SOFT COAL STRIKE ENDS

Small Orders Building Curb

Flow of Housing Materials Impeded By Recent Strikes

WASHINGTON (AP) — John D. Small, civilian production administrator, last night ordered a deep slash in non-housing construction authorizations during the next 45 days.

Small directed authorizations by two-thirds in comparison with its rate of project approvals for the two-week period ending May 23. This action is being taken, Small said, because of the "impact of strikes on production of building materials," and because of the "large volume of construction already under way to be authorized."

CPA's order came a few hours after National Housing Administrator Wilson W. Wyatt had announced a new housing inspection program designed to tie prices closer to the actual value of new homes built under the veterans emergency housing program.

In announcing the drastic cut in non-housing authorizations, Small said the order will be reviewed at the end of the 45-day period to determine whether it can be relaxed.

The purpose of CPA's commercial and industrial building controls, in effect since March 26, is to divert scarce construction materials to the veterans housing program.

CPA officials said they had no figures in Washington on the amount of non-housing construction authorized during the two weeks ending May 23. They said the two-thirds slash will be made on the basis of authorizations handled by each of the agency's regional offices.

Under the new CPA order, generally only projects which fall within the certain essential conditions may be approved while the curtailment is in effect.

Big Senate Majority Rejects Striker-Draft

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman's striker-draft plan was rejected by the senate late today, a short time after congress sent him a sweeping anti-strike and union control measure which some leaders said he might veto.

The drastic provision authorizing induction of anyone who persists in striking in an industry seized by the government was knocked out of the president's emergency labor bill, 70 to 13. A powerful coalition of Republicans and Democrats argued that it would violate American traditions of freedom and convert the army into a "penal institution."

The vote came shortly after the government announced a settlement of the coal strike, which with the railroad tieup that ended last Saturday, had aroused clamorous demands for legislative action.

In mid-afternoon, the house accepted senate amendments to the Case labor bill and sped it to the White House by a vote of 230 to 106. This is designed to be permanent legislation and the president has asked that congress undertake a study before taking long-range steps.

Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach told reporters tonight he may ask the president to veto the Case bill. He said that if analysis failed to show any "improvement" over versions previously passed in house and senate, he will recommend a veto.

60-Day Cooling-Off
The Case bill provides, among other things, for 60-day cooling off periods before strikers, lawsuits against unions which violate contracts, penalties for interference with goods moving in interstate commerce and a ban on employer contributions to welfare funds administered solely by unions.

The last was aimed at John L. Lewis' welfare fund demands, but the coal settlement announced yesterday provides that the fund to be financed by mine operators shall not be administered by the union exclusively, but jointly.

Announce Coal Settlement
The coal strike settlement was announced to the senate by majority leader Barkley shortly before it voted on the president's striker-draft proposal.

Removal of the striker-draft clause still left considerable power in the labor legislation recommended Saturday by the president. It includes authority to deprive workers of seniority rights and rights under the Wagner labor relations act if they fail to go back to work after the government seizes a plant or facility.

Concede Daily Wage Increase, Welfare Fund to Coal Miners

WASHINGTON (AP)—The great soft coal strike was settled last night with substantial concessions to John L. Lewis' miners, including a wage increase of $1.85 a day and a welfare fund financed by coal royalties.

On the 59th day of the walkout that dealt staggering blows to the American economy, Secretary of the Interior Krug, administrator of the seized mines, announced at the White House that he had signed a pact with Lewis.

Lewis added that the 400,000 miners had been ordered to return to work immediately, but that volume production could not be expected before Monday.

The agreement calls for an 18½ cent hourly basic wage increase, and employer-financed welfare fund built on a 5-cents-a-ton levy on coal production and administered jointly by the union and the government mines administrator, and a hospital fund paid for and administered by the miners. The pact was signed at the executive mansion in the presence of President Truman.

Standing on the White House steps, Lewis told newsmen and photographers:

"A contract has just been executed in the White House covering the bituminous coal mines.

Price Ceilings Rise On Dairy Products

Chester Bowles Says Housewives to Pay New Prices in June

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chester Bowles last night authorized retail price ceiling increases of one cent a quart for milk, about 11 cents a pound for butter and approximately 6 cents for cheddar cheese.

The stabilization director announced that housewives will begin paying the higher prices early in June. The dates and the exact price increases will be set in a few days.

He added that if all subsidies were eliminated July 1 as "is being proposed in some quarters, the price of milk would immediately jump three cent a quart in many areas, and butter would shoot up to about 80 cents a pound."

The new price increase program, Bowles said, will maintain production "by assuring dairy farmers of adequate returns through an increase of approximately 40 cents per hundredweight" in milk prices.

The stabilization director, in a sweeping revision of the dairy price and allocation program, also directed:

- 1. A ban on the sale of whipping cream, effective July 1.
- 2. Establishment of price ceilings for the first time on the scale of bulk fluid cream.
- 3. Establishment of ceiling prices on the sale of fluid milk for manufacturing purposes. This will be done early in June.
- 4. An increase of 35 cents a case in manufacturers' ceiling prices for evaporated milk.
- 5. Manufacturers of ice cream will be authorized to reduce the butter fat content of their product up to 2.5 percent without price reductions.

6. Shipments and sale of cream will be limited in order to insure "more normal use in all dairy products rather than allow it to be concentrated in a few."

7. Issuance of orders, effective July 1, limiting the amount of butterfat used in the manufacture of cream and cheese and soups to the amounts used during the corresponding quarter of the 12 month period ending July 31, 1945.

BYRNES TESTIFIES

Schwollenbach Warns Of Possible Seizure In Machinery Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor Schwollenbach said last night that unless the Allis-Chalmers and J. I. Case farm implement companies made a real effort by this weekend to settle their long standing wage disputes he would recommend government seizure of their plants.

Schwollenbach told reporters at a news conference that both companies had "resisted government attempts to conciliate" their wage disputes.

The labor secretary said that if negotiations broke down, he also would recommend that the government negotiate a contract with the 29,000 employees of Allis-Chalmers and the 6,000 employees of the Case company.

All 35,000 workers have been on strike from periods extending from 1 to 6 months.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The coal mine operators disclosed last night that they were not shown the contract the government signed with John L. Lewis "until late yesterday."

Therefore, they announced, they would have no comment on the contract until they had opportunity "for analysis."

This settles for the period of government operation of the mines all the questions and issues.

"Instructions have been issued to the men to return to work immediately. This action will assure an ample supply of coal for essential needs of the country."

Standing at Lewis' side, Krug declared:

"I'm sure Mr. Lewis will agree the contract is fair to the operators and the men alike. It's too bad we didn't have it two months ago."

As the brushy-browed UMW leader moved to send the soft coal strikers back to the pits, his 76,000 anthracite miners prepared to walk out at midnight today.

13 Lichfield Key Witnesses Refuse to Talk

BAD NAUHEIM (AP)—Thirteen key prosecution witnesses, claiming they were badly treated by the army, defied threats of military discipline and refused to testify yesterday before a court martial trying an officer accused of mistreating G. I. prisoners in the United States army detention camp at Lichfield, England.

The prosecution halted the proceeding and the court martial was adjourned until Friday. The eight-man officer court ordered all 13 of the witnesses cited for disciplinary action.

The witnesses had been named in the indictment of Lt. Granville Cubage of Oklahoma City, as victims of his allegedly cruel treatment at Lichfield where they once were imprisoned.

They ignored the court's assurances their complaints would be investigated and defied its warning that such complaints did not excuse them from testifying.

All the witnesses now are confined to the guardhouse. Some of them are serving court martial sentences. Others are awaiting court martial on charges brought against them for offenses allegedly committed since they came to Bad Nauheim to testify. The nature of these charges was not disclosed officially.

Rochester Strike Ends

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — This city of 325,000 returned to normal last night after termination of a public works department dispute had ended a one-day picketing demonstration involving 30,000 unionists.

Byrnes Requests Curb on Arms

Senator Says Ships to Run Despite Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Radcliffe (D., Md.) said yesterday the merchant marine would not be halted by the threatened nationwide shipping strike June 15 and on Capitol Hill it was reported the navy was ready with a complete plan of operation.

Leaving a conference with President Truman, Radcliffe told reporters "the ships are going to run, you can bet on that." He declined to elaborate.

Later, a member of congress, who wished to remain anonymous, said the navy and war shipping administration had worked out plans to keep the ships moving. The navy department and WSA were silent.

Leaders of the 214,000 members of seven unions poised to walk out over wage demands of the CIO maritime union said they had sent word to rival AFL groups that they expected picket lines "to be observed."

Just before entering a conference called by Secretary of Labor Lewis B. Schwollenbach in an effort to avert the crisis, Harry Bridges told reporters the messages advised the AFL maritime groups of intention to "disturb their working conditions as little as possible." Bridges heads the CIO longshoremen.

Only a week ago AFL president William A. Green said the AFL unions would "carry out their contracts" in case of the strike. This was interpreted at the time to mean the AFL seamen, longshoremen and other maritime workers would cross the CIO lines.

Editor Asks Congress To Pass British Loan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ratification of the $3,750,000,000 British loan as an aid to world peace and "preservation of free enterprise" was urged upon Congress yesterday by Eugene Meyer, editor and publisher of the Washington Post.

He told the house banking committee that granting the loan is "the only thing that can prevent the British empire from being forced into a closed economy with empire preference, restricting international trade and our export markets."

"The result would inevitably be the continuation and expansion of government control of our own foreign trade," he continued. While Meyer was pleading for the loan, Rep. Landis (R., Ind.) was telling the house "I still have confidence the British loan will be defeated in the house, by a narrow margin." He estimated at least 150 Republicans and 70 Democrats will oppose it.

Democratic leaders have said that a poll indicates the loan will pass the house.

President Truman Asserts He Will Fight For Individual's Rights, Welfare of Country

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman turned on critics of his recent labor policy last night with an assertion that he would continue to fight "for the right of the individual" and "the best welfare of the country."

Speaking at commencement exercises at George Washington university, the president said, "sometimes we have emergencies to meet," and they have been met in the way that seems best for the country's welfare.

Without mentioning directly his appeal to congress for labor legislation to handle strikes against the government, he pointed his remarks to those who he considered critics of his course.

He said that when you can get Senators Pepper (D., Fla.) and Taft (R., Ohio), the Communist Daily Worker and the Wall Street Journal "in accord, the world is perfectly safe."

Speaking after receiving an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws, and after his daughter Margaret was graduated from the 125 year old institution, the president told the commencement audience "we've just been through the greatest struggle in history for individual liberty," and "we are still fighting for the right of the individual."

He said that the United States government had been organized to protect the rights of the individual.

"The end of things has not come for this nation or the world," he continued.

Mr. Truman quoted from the speeches which he said were made by Henry Clay, speeches he said had been referred to him by Associate Justice Hugo Black of the supreme court.

Clay, the president said, predicted many years ago that at the rate the government was going there would scarcely be a vestige left by the third of March, 1837.

On another occasion, he said, Clay talked of the government being transferred to "an elective monarchy." He said that it seemed to him that he had heard talk like that lately. He said "history repeats itself."

BULLETINS

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Iranian embassy spokesman said last night that Ambassador Hussein Ala had received orders from his government "not to make any further statements before the (United Nations) security council."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House announced last night the signing of an agreement ending the long labor dispute between the Railway Express agency, Inc., and 75,000 employees.

WASHINGTON (AP) — An inter-Allied dispute over Emperor Hirohito apparently was developing yesterday following a reported Russian protest over the freedom with which he traveled about Japan during the recent election campaign.

There will be no school in city high and grade schools today. University classes will be maintained as usual. Memorial day marks the end of classes for this semester at the university. Examinations begin tomorrow.

The postoffice will be closed for the day, and there will be no city or rural route delivery service. Regular collections will be made from street mail boxes.

The city hall, courthouse and public library will be closed today.

U.S. to Lead Effort Toward Lasting Peace

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Byrnes disclosed yesterday that the United States will throw its weight into a movement to curb the world's armaments in the interests of peace.

He told the house foreign affairs committee this country wants "to see the world freed from both the fears and economic burdens of unnecessarily large armed forces."

"There has not yet been time" since the war's end to establish a "system of arms regulation," he said, but he expressed confidence this objective will be reached.

"It is a purpose of our foreign policy to work for a limitation of armaments in the light of requirements for the maintenance of internal order and of international peace and security," he said.

In a prepared text of the Byrnes testimony, made available to reporters, later the words "regulation of arms" rather than "limitation of arms" were used.

Byrnes did not say specifically whether he favored reducing present armed might or just limiting its buildup in the future.

He enunciated his peace offensive policy while supporting a bill for a broad program of "military cooperation" between the United States and other nations of the western hemisphere.

The measure, proposed May 6 by President Truman, would authorize the chief executive to transfer war goods to other American countries, to train their military personnel and help them repair equipment.

The spokesman said Lie regarded the telegram asking "assistance" against "unjustified aggression" by France as a request for sympathy and not as an official complaint invoking the United Nations charter.

Siam is not a member of the United Nations but the charter provides that any non-member nation may bring any dispute or situation threatening peace to the attention of the United Nations security council or general assembly.

Complaint by Siam Placed in Abeyance By U.N. Secretary

NEW YORK (AP)—Trygve Lie, United Nations secretary general, has decided not to lay before the United Nations security council a Siamese plea for help against France but the way is still open for any of the 51 United Nations to call for council action.

A United Nations spokesman made Lie's position known as copies of a Siamese telegram to Lie were circulated to council delegates.

The spokesman said Lie regarded the telegram asking "assistance" against "unjustified aggression" by France as a request for sympathy and not as an official complaint invoking the United Nations charter.

Siam is not a member of the United Nations but the charter provides that any non-member nation may bring any dispute or situation threatening peace to the attention of the United Nations security council or general assembly.

As the council members studied what action they desired to take, it generally was agreed among the delegations that much more information would have to be produced before a decision could be made.

A British foreign office spokesman in London said Tuesday that Britain would support Siam in placing the issue before the council but a member of the staff of Sir Alexander Cadogan, British delegate, said yesterday that no instructions had been received by Sir Alexander.

So far the United States has not made known its position on the matter.

Susquehanna Continues Flow of Destruction As Flood Moves Into Sunbury, Harrisburg

WHILE MOST of the residents of Sunbury, Pa., took to boats for travel yesterday, this staunch character relied on his horse to get him around the flood-covered streets of the business district. (AP WIREPHOTO)

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Receding slowly in its upper reaches causing death and widespread destruction, the flood-swollen Susquehanna swept into Sunbury and Pennsylvania's capital city yesterday to make new thousands homeless.

Turned from a placid, shallow stream to a raging, brown torrent by four days of heavy rains, the river and its tributaries raced out of their banks to kill at least 11 persons and cause untold damage in Pennsylvania and New York.

Damage Estimates
Damage estimates already exceeded $3,000,000 as the stream, debris-laden and swift-running, spilled over rich farmlands and low-lying areas of towns and cities on its banks.

Latest reported deaths were those of two Red Cross workers and a young woman they tried vainly to rescue from the flood-swollen Morris run in Toga county, Pa.

Cecile Kennedy, Red Cross field director, said William Hart, Red

Cross chairman in Morris Run, Edward Graham and Miss Innes Williams, otherwise unidentified, were swept away Monday night from a bridge. Hart and Graham had gone there to try to save Miss Williams when the span crashed and all fell into the stream.

Two Found
Pennsylvania deaths were reduced by two when the state disaster committee announced two persons reported killed by a landslide which destroyed their home near Morris Run, Tioga county, were found alive.

It identified them as Mr. and Mrs. Norton and added another family of six narrowly escaped injury when another slide crushed their home in the same vicinity.

Washing away of part of a railroad embankment at Sunbury loosed the flood waters on the center of that community of 14,000 persons, virtually cutting the city in two and flooding many homes and business places. The Red Cross there was caring for 500 but many more were in private homes.

Editorials:

A Healthy Sign—Leaders Seek Public Support

The drafting of peace treaties in Europe seems to be in as muddled a state as ever. The principals not only couldn't agree in the conference rooms in Paris, they now are publicly throwing insults at one another.

First Secretary of State Byrnes openly appealed to the United Nations. The question of the wisdom of such tactics aside, the appeal probably didn't make Stalin happy.

Then Molotov follows with a public denouncement of what he called an Anglo-American "bloc" that is trying to "intimidate" the other powers. We can view such charges only with great suspicion.

But out of all this friction is one ray of light—a ray which in future years may assume tremendous importance.

Both sides in the dispute are appealing to the public. That indicates a new trend in international relations.

Both Byrnes and Molotov want public opinion behind them. Perhaps the real reason for seeking public opinion support is purely political. Nevertheless it is significant.

They recognize that the party which can display public backing has an upper hand. Which means that probably for the first time, public opinion is being considered tremendously important in the conference halls or in the "smoke-filled hotel rooms."

Secretary of State Byrnes probably will have the upper hand in this battle for public support. He has the advantage of the long experience of United States politicians who must depend upon public goodwill for their entire success.

Molotov is a man not accustomed to asking the public to back him up on a specific stand. Though he certainly has always been aware of public opinion, he has not considered it in the same light as United States officials.

And if Molotov really wanted American opinion behind him, he most surely said the wrong things in his appeal. He said we are trying to "intimidate." But we Americans feel that we have been doing just the opposite—not only are we not intimidating, we are not even discharging our duty of trying to be a leader.

Byrnes' bid for support was handled with a great deal more polish. In light of Molotov's blunder, Byrnes' attempt is likely to be more successful than at first expected.

At any rate, we are glad to see the world's officials carrying their problems to where they belong—the public.

An International Reversal—Britain Now Leans on U.S.

(Fifth in a Series)

The relations of the United States and Great Britain have been characterized by both conflict and cooperation all over the world. But since the war of 1812, the two nations have tended to draw closer together in world affairs.

In two great areas—Latin America and the far east—the two nations have, with minor differences, cooperated. The Monroe doctrine was formulated with the consent of Great Britain and, until 1900, British sea power underwrote this traditional precept of American foreign policy. In the far east, the American policy of preserving the territorial integrity of China was conceived and carried out with the cooperation of Great Britain.

The United States has had more serious diplomatic controversies with Great Britain than with any other nation—but since 1815 all differences have been settled peacefully.

Some of the controversies were about the boundary with Canada. The Webster-Ashburton treaty in 1842, which settled the boundary between Maine and Quebec, was a British diplomatic victory. The treaty of 1846 which established the principle of carrying the 49th parallel through Oregon to the sea was, despite the rousing "fifty-four forty or fight!" slogan echoed in the United States, an American victory.

Other disputes were settled by arbitration. Arbitration prevailed in disputes over the Alaskan boundary, the Venezuelan boundary, the North Atlantic fisheries and the seals in the Bering sea.

In two great wars the United States and Great Britain have been allies because the interests of the two countries were similar. The wars have strengthened and strained the ties that bind the two nations.

Many traditional bonds hold the United States and Great Britain and her English-speaking dominions together. The nations speak a common language, have many common traditions, and have governments which place the rights of the individual above those of the state.

On the other hand, memories of the Revolutionary war are cherished in the United States. The people do not realize how much the two nations have cooperated in world affairs. Anglophobia and twisting the British lion's tail are popular pastimes, particularly in the middle west.

Strong antipathy to British imperial policy prevails in this country. The status of India, especially, disturbs public opinion in the United States. Until the complete independence of India is achieved, British prestige will suffer in the country.

After wars popular feeling toward allies often seems to become more bitter than sentiment about the beaten enemy. At present the loan so necessary to Great Britain is being kicked around congress like a political football. The nation which stripped itself to thwart a German victory finds that it must continue to make sacrifices while its great ally wallows in complacency and plenty.

Unfortunately, the British cannot follow an independent course of action. They must depend on the United States. An unexpected aftermath of the war is that the traditional role of the two nations is largely reversed.

SAYS WRONG PROCEDURE BEING USED—

Expert Debunks Atom Tests

—SEES POSSIBLE FAILURE AT BIKINI ATOLL

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE, Associated Press Science Reporter

NEW YORK—The statement that the navy's atomic bomb tests at Bikini atoll this summer will "bring no military or scientific value" is made by Dr. L. A. DuBridge, of the University of Rochester, in the current review of scientific instruments.

DuBridge is one of the nation's top-ranking scientists. In the war he was director of the national defense research committee laboratory at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

He says the tests of the first atomic bomb in New Mexico last July were on a big scale. They were conducted by the most brilliant scientific talent of the country. These men are not participating in the navy tests, says DuBridge.

"On the contrary," he adds, "many young scientists who are participating are discouraged about learning anything at all on tests which have been so hurriedly organized and which must be carried out under such difficult conditions. I think it is safe to dismiss the scientific value of the tests."

On the military value he declares—"any scientist can say right now that neither an air nor a surface burst is a sensible way to use an atomic bomb against ships."

The first planned test will be an air burst high above anchored ships, and the second will be under water in the lagoon. Scientists have argued that this second burst is too shallow to show the effects of an atomic bomb on naval vessels.

"The atomic scientists," Dr. DuBridge states, "do not believe the tests as planned will be destructive against naval targets at all. They already anticipate the screaming headlines Atomic Bomb Falls to Sink Fleet. The public reaction will be that the atomic bomb is not so bad after all and there are many who will encourage such a reaction. Thus positive harm rather than good will result from the test."

"If we really want a test why not ask atomic bomb experts what kind of bomb they would design, and how they would use it to destroy a fleet rather than a city? Give them a year to design the weapon and set up the tests and measurements. Then and only then will the tests clarify rather than confuse this issue."

James D. White's Interpreting The News...

BY JAMES D. WHITE, Associated Press News Analyst

Chinese Nationalists yesterday had the bit in their teeth. In Manchuria, their troops took the important towns of Kirin and Panshih, flanking a vital power dam nearby. They pushed easily toward Harbin in the north and Tsitsihar in the northwest. Nowhere did the Communists resist.

In Peiping, Nationalist police closed the Communist news agency and daily newspaper. In Nanking, Minister of Information Peng Hsueh-pei turned down a Communist proposal for a propaganda truce along lines suggested recently by General Marshall.

In Nanking, Communist delegate Chou En-Lai said Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek had assumed personal direction of Manchurian operations and that things had taken a critical turn. The middle-of-the-road Democratic league had wired to Chiang, asking him to return to Nanking so truce negotiations could resume, but there was no sign of his coming.

Did this mean the Nationalists would not be stopped? It might, but not necessarily. Most probably it meant the government intended to occupy Harbin and Tsitsihar and reassert its control over the key rail lines of Manchuria.

The government position all along has been that it would not talk about Manchurian political arrangements with the Communists until this authority had been nailed down. This stand has been most strongly urged on Chiang Kai-Shek all along by his most anti-Communist generals.

Truman Policies Hit In Morgenthau Talk

WASHINGTON (AP)—Henry Morgenthau Jr., former secretary of the treasury, declared last night that President Truman "has renounced the Roosevelt philosophy and the Roosevelt policy" and for that reason the nation is "in a state of crisis today."

Morgenthau suggested the voters "cleanse" the house of "many of the men who made such a disgraceful spectacle of themselves last Saturday." The house Saturday overwhelmingly passed the president's strike control legislation which Morgenthau called "vicious" and "undemocratic."

Morgenthau said in a talk prepared for broadcast that he listened to the president's speech before congress that day and could only conclude that Mr. Truman "has decided to make an open and final rejection of the Roosevelt inheritance."

Morgenthau called it "an outright declaration that his methods, his policies, and his purposes are totally different from those of the man to whom he actually owes the presidency."

LEST WE FORGET-

Lest We Forget Memorial Day. It is simple enough to go into the history of this day and why we observe it . . . With what reverence we gather at the grave of the unknown soldier. But if our reverence ends there we have accomplished nothing and all that has been fought for becomes a dream in the still, far distant future. Remember those boys of our own and our many friends who gave up their lives so that we might enjoy a world of peace that they never knew. If we remember, only through the loss of these men, that the quest for peace does not end the day the last shot is fired, that we haven't achieved the glowing goal of PEACE with the end of hostilities, we shall have learned a masterful lesson. Let us resolve this day to take part in the peace plans for the future and to be aware of our government's attitudes and actions.

Election of Association Officials Contested by Engineer Students

Case to Be Submitted To Student Council By Civil Engineers

Members of the Associated Students of Civil Engineering voted yesterday to protest and contest an election of officers held May 24 by the Associated Students of Engineering.

Alleging that only six percent of the electorate voted and that insufficient notice was given of the election, the group decided to present its case to the Student Council at the first meeting of the summer session.

Everett Phillips, E4 of Iowa City, council member, said that it would probably be the first time that such action was taken under consideration by the council.

Ned Postels, G of Mankato, Minn., who is president of the A. S. of C. E., said that petitioners would ask that another election be held next fall. Only 24 of the 400 engineering students eligible to vote participated in the election, Postels said, adding that few knew about it.

"We don't feel that the officers who are now in really represent us," he said.

Sigma Nus Blank Phi Gams for Crown, 2-0

Bill Barbour, hefty Sigma Nu pitcher, hurled a shutout game against the Phi Gamma Delta nine yesterday afternoon in a contest to determine the winner in the social fraternity class. The score was 2-0.

The game was tied up until the end of the sixth inning when, with two-outs, Dick Ives hit a two-bagger to start things rolling. Tall Bob Marshall followed with a double to knock Ives in for the first score. A hard hit to right field by Barbour brought Marshall across the plate.

It was a fast contest with neither side succeeding in breaking the heavy series of strikeouts. Barbour hit the first long drive into left field that promised to be a homer but after much discussion between the umpires, Jim Nichols and Bill Tucker, and the teams, it was ruled a foul ball.

This afternoon, West Lambert will take on Triangles in a postponed game to attempt to keep their 6-0 standing in their class. If Triangles win the game, each team will be tied for first place with a 6-1 standing, and a playoff game will be arranged. Today's game starts at 4:30.

Walker Scores TKO Over Cestac in 7th In Heavyweight Battle

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Jack (Buddy) Walker, Columbus, O., Negro heavyweight, last night scored a technical knockout in the seventh round over Abel Cestac, South American heavyweight.

An estimated 7,500 fight fans saw referee Dick Patton stop the bout after two minutes and eight seconds of the seventh round with the big Argentine boxer bleeding profusely from the nose and a cut over his left eye.

Walker outboxed his heavier, clumsy opponent, spearing him in the face with hard left jabs. The Ohio Negro brought blood from Cestac's nose in the first round. Consistently outboxing Cestac, Walker scored with terrific rights and lefts to the Argentine's face. Cestac was bleeding from the first round and Walker never let up until the end.

Indianapolis Classic Today

Record Crowd Set for Race At Indianapolis

By CHARLES DUNKLEY

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—America's automobile race fans, hungry for exciting crack-ups, thrills and speed after a four-year famine, may establish a record attendance for today's 30th renewal of the world famous 500 mile classic at the Indianapolis speedway with a crowd ranging upwards of 140,000.

The starting field of 33 drivers, one a European, speediest in the history of the event, is complete. Only clear weather is needed to assure perfect racing conditions and a dry, fast track. However, the weatherman threatened to dampen the situation as possible showers, with cooler temperatures, were forecast. In the event of rain, the start, scheduled for 10 a. m. (CST) will be delayed until the weather clears. If showers come during the race, the drivers' speed will be slowed down to 45 miles an hour pending cessation of the rain.

This Indiana capital city, already overcrowded for a week, was bulging last night with the crush of race visitors. They dropped out of the air, arrived by trains and crowded the highways from all directions. They overflowed the sidewalks, overburdened downtown traffic and vainly sought a place to sleep. Hotels were jammed with three and four occupants to a room. Thousands of visitors spent the night with relatives or friends, while hundreds tried to sleep in parked cars, railroad station benches or hotel lobbies. Race fans are a breed of sleepless wonders. Many remaining up all night probably will not knock off a single wink.

Hundreds were lined up in front of the sprawling 430-acre racing plant, six miles northeast of downtown Indianapolis, awaiting the opening of the gates at 6 a. m. They spent the night there wrapped in blankets or in front of fires to temper the night's chill.

Everywhere last night the conversation was race chatter concerned with the possible winner, his time and the likelihood for shattering records. The talk centered around a quartette of famous drivers—Cliff Bergere, Indianapolis; Rex Mays, Long Beach, Calif.; Ralph Hepburn, Van Nuys, Calif.; and Mauri Rose, South Bend, Ind., all veterans of speedway competition.

Faculty Finally Does Trick

The long standing supremacy of the dentistry students held over the faculty was broken yesterday afternoon when the faculty slugged out an impressive 20-8 decision.

According to Dr. Robert Moyers, yesterday's slugfest in city park is the first one in approximately 20 years that the faculty has officially won.

Led off by Dr. R. V. Smith, the faculty took an early lead which they never relinquished. Although the contest lasted only five innings, it is possible that some sort of record may have been set for the total number of hits collected over the short span.

Greene Reports Conn Looks Close to Peak

GREENWOOD LAKE, N. J. (AP)—National boxing association president Abe J. Green yesterday watched Billy Conn box eight rounds with four sparmates in preparation for his June 19 fight with Joe Louis and was impressed by the heavyweight challenger's "speed and punch."

"He looks close to peak," Greene said after seeing Billy belt Mickey McAvoy, Jimmy Smith, Erv Sarlin and Jim Neville for two rounds each. "His hook has improved a great deal and he throws it from every angle now."

Johnson's Condition Reported Unchanged

WASHINGTON (AP)—Walter Johnson, former big league pitcher, remained gravely ill of a brain tumor late yesterday in a hospital here.

Johnson, 38, lapsed into unconsciousness Tuesday. Attendants said there was no change in his condition yesterday.

The modest, 6-foot-11, 200-pound Humboldt, Kan., farm boy whose burning fastball set batters back on their heels from 1907 through 1927, entered the hospital here five weeks ago for treatment of a "numbness" in his left arm.

His condition grew progressively worse and his entire left side became paralyzed. A week ago, however, he showed improvement and was able to sit in a wheel chair. But he suffered a relapse and members of his family were called to his bedside.

Baseball Guild Files Petition

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The American baseball guild yesterday opened its campaign to unionize major league baseball players with a request to the national labor board that it be certified as collective bargaining agents for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The petition, first in the annals of major league baseball, was filed by Robert Murphy, labor relations director of the guild.

"He wrote the NLRB the appropriate bargaining unit should include all the baseball players on the club 'except those owned outright by or on option to the club who are not presently members of the Pirates club.' He also excluded executives, managers and coaches.

Frank M. Kleiter, director of the NLRB regional office here, said he had sent a letter to the club management, informing them the petition had been filed and requesting a conference of company, union and NLRB representatives to dispose of the matter.

President William E. Benswanger was not available for comment but he has agreed to meet with Murphy here June 5. This meeting, Murphy said, would not be concerned with demands for improved working conditions for ball players but "merely to see if we can work out a friendly method of determining whether we have a majority."

Evans Loses In England

BIRKDALE, Eng. (AP)—Chick Evans' bid for the British amateur golf championship ended on the 19th green yesterday, but young Frank Stranahan, the other American entry, carried United States hopes into the fifth round.

Evans, the 55-year-old Chicagoan whom the British old timers affectionately call "one of golf's grand old gentlemen," went down fighting. Twice overcoming long deficits but never ahead, Evans finally succumbed to Capt. Edward Browne's birdie four on the 450-yard extra hole.

Stranahan marked up two victories yesterday, easily defeating Marshall Robertson, 27-year-old northern England munitions worker, 5 and 4, and then overcoming adversity to gain a one up decision over 25-year-old Ronnie White, pride of the Birkdale club where the tournament is played.

Nelson Whips British Champ

NEWTON, Mass. (AP)—Playing his customary deadly accurate game, Byron Nelson, the P. G. A. titlist who has been a leading light in American golf for the past three years, gained a six-holes lead on British Open champion Dick Burton during the first half of their 36-hole international challenge match yesterday at the Charles River Country club.

The Briton, who arrived here two days ago, was troubled by a slice on most of the long stretches on the 6,415-yard layout, which played heavily as a result of 48 hours of rain.

He also was uncertain on the greens and, before taking off with Nelson for Mamaroneck, N. Y., where they will play their second eighteen today as a part of the Goddard round-robin tourney, he complained: "I didn't have any confidence in my putting."

Nelson, who set up Charles Rivers' competitive record of 68, four under par, four years ago while winning a "big eight" competition, snagged four birdies while putting together a sub-71 card.

Referee Francis Ouimet, the former national open and amateur titlist, charged Burton with 79 strokes but Nelson credited him with a 77 because he marked a six and a four against his opponent on the 16th and 17th holes, where the latter picked up. Ouimet had given him a seven and five on those greens.

Tigers Quash Tribe, 2-1, for 5th Straight

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Detroit Tigers triumphed over the Cleveland Indians 4 to 1 yesterday for their fifth victory over the tribe in six starts. Hal Newhouse, going the route for the Bengals, limited the Indians to five hits while Detroit collected eight off three Cleveland hurlers.

Levine Scores TKO Over Padalino in 3rd

CLEVELAND (AP)—Artie Levine, battling ex-marine of Brooklyn, won a third round technical knockout over Charley Padalino of Detroit last night after some of the wildest action ever seen in Cleveland's boxing history. Levine weighed 139, Padalino 160.

Dawson Signs Contract With Buffalo Bisons

CHICAGO (AP)—Lowell P. (Red) Dawson, 39, University of Minnesota backfield coach, signed a three-year contract here yesterday as head coach of the Buffalo Bisons in the All-America football conference. The agreement was made with James Breuil, owner of the Buffalo club.

A SALUTE..

A soldier stands in mute silence at the grave of his comrade. From the West a bright shaft of light pierces the dark clouds. It kindles a glow of hope on the face of the weary soldier. This shaft of light is the harbinger of peace.

Peace is a reality now. We pause, on this first peace-time Memorial Day, to pay tribute to that fallen hero and thousands like him who "gave the full measure of their devotion" in the quest of the light that is Peace.
