Blue Wins Primary Race

Swisher, Krall Gain Victories In Local Representative Races; Robert Mahoney Defeats Koser

By BOB WIDMARK Daily Iowan City Editor

In the closest of the three races in the Johnson county primary election yesterday, unofficial returns show that Jacob A. Swisher bested Harold W. Vestermark, 817 to 777 for the Republican nomination as state representative from the forty-first district.

Returns from one of the 31 Johnson county precincts had not been received at 2:30 this morning when this unofficial count was made.

Democrats of Johnson county nominated Frank J. Krall as state representative to run against Swisher in the November general elections. Krall had 781 votes. Emil G. Trott was second choice with 579 votes, while 407 ballots were cast favoring William H. Bartley.

Robert Mahoney Sr. won the Democratic board of supervisor nomination over Preston Koser

98 Percent Of U.S. Flour Mills to Close

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ninety-eight percent of flour mills in the United States will be closed by today, the millers national federation has notified the senate small business committee.

T. J. McQueen, chief economist to the committee, told of the notification yesterday during a hearing on difficulties developing for small businesses as a result of diversion of wheat to relief purposes.

Earlier, Secretary Anderson testified the agriculture department is prepared to lend wheat to mills "to assure flour supplies in areas where there is a definite bread shortage."

The department said a mill qualifying for such a loan of wheat could get only enough to bring its supply up to one-half of its June allotment for domestic sale.

Under department orders designed to make more grain available for famine areas abroad, domestic mills are allowed in June to distribute only 75 percent as much flour as the monthly average of 1945.

The committee received vehement protests from local bakery workers and bakeries against the situation in this city.

Louis A. Spiess, attorney representing Washington bakeries, asserted many smaller concerns will go bankrupt unless something is done soon to get them more flour.

President Accepts Stettinius Resignation

WASHINGTON (AP)—A career in public life as spectacular as the one he abandoned in business to enter government six years ago was ended yesterday—at least temporarily—for Edward R. Stettinius Jr.

President Truman announced he had accepted the resignation of Stettinius as United States representative to the United Nations only because of Stettinius' "earnest insistence" that he wished to be relieved.

No date was fixed, but the resignation apparently takes effect immediately. The state department said that Herschel Johnson, a career diplomat who is deputy United States representative, would fill the United Nations seat until a successor was named.

Stettinius gave no reason for his resignation except to say that when he entered government service he expected to remain only as long as he was needed during the war. Now that the United Nations is "a going concern," he added, he felt he could rightfully ask Mr. Truman to accept his resignation.

The white-haired, 45-year-old Stettinius did not announce his future plans. Asked by reporters if he planned to run for the United States senate from Virginia, Stettinius declared he was not a candidate for any political office.

The Winnah!

GOV. ROBERT D. BLUE

Democratic board of supervisor for the term beginning January, 1947. A total of 966 Democrats voted for Mahoney against 880 for Koser.

Mahoney will be opposed by Republican E. Earl Thomas who received 1,126 votes.

Records revealed that approximately 3,300 Johnson county residents went to the polls yesterday as compared with about 3,000 in the June primaries of 1944. Over 1,500 Iowa Citizens voted yesterday, where as 1,928 local persons voted in the spring of 1944.

The 3,300 county votes were divided with 1,700 Republicans and 1,600 Democrats. Republicans in Iowa City totaled 892, and 608 local Democrats stood behind that party.

There was no competition within either party for any of the other county or township offices.

Six Democratic and one Republican county and township nominees will be unopposed in the November election.

Sulek Gets 1,610 Votes Ed Sulek, incumbent Democratic county auditor, will be the lone seeker for that office this fall. Sulek polled 1,610 votes, the highest number of Democratic votes cast for any one candidate.

Democratic County Treasurer Lumir W. Jansa will also be without opposition. A total of 1,568 ballots were cast favoring Jansa.

R. Neilson Miller, present clerk of the district court, received 1,580 votes to become the Democratic choice for reelection to that office. The Republican ticket did not list a candidate.

Jones Runs Alone County Recorder R. J. Jones, Republican, will run alone for reelection in the fall. Jones had 1,283 votes.

No competition in the general election exists for County Coroner Francis L. Love. The Democratic nominee received 1,485 votes.

The two Democratic candidates for election as justices of the peace in Iowa City are John M. Kadlec, with 523 votes, and W. F. Murphy with 439. There were no Republican seekers for these offices.

Ryan vs. Murphy James L. Ryan, Democrat, will contest the November county sheriff election with Albert J. Murphy, Republican. Ryan had 1,569 votes, Murphy 1,160.

County Attorney Jack C. White, Democratic candidate for reelection with 1,517 votes will be opposed by Republican John Knox who received 1,147 primary votes.

Candidates to fill a vacancy in the board of supervisors are: Marvin A. Stahle, Democrat, 1,346 votes, and Merrill C. Douglass, Republican, with 1,126.

Snider vs. Pechman Will J. Snider and J. E. Pechman will oppose each other for the supervisor term commencing January, 1948. Snider received 1,070 Republican votes. A total of 1,388 Democrats voted for Pechman.

Two Iowa City constables will be chosen in November. Herman Altorfer, 478 votes, and Pat Gilroy, with 536, both Democrats, will compete for the positions with Roy Lewis, Republican. Lewis had 621 votes.

Jet Plane Hits 462 MPH DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—The army airforces, which have been cracking speed records like peanuts, sent a jet-propelled P-80 fighter zooming to a new 1,000-kilometer speed mark of 462 miles an hour yesterday.

The new mark supersedes by 22 miles an hour a mark set May 19.

Victory Margin Passes 45,000 As Olmsted Concedes Election

Concedes

GEORGE OLMSTED

DES MOINES (AP)—Gov. Robert D. Blue, 47, who climbed the political ladder the hard way, won Republican renomination last night over George Olmsted, 45-year-old Des Moines insurance executive seeking his first public office.

Returns from 1,904 of 2,464 precincts for the Republican nomination for governor: Blue 110,624, Olmsted 65,057.

Returns from 1,724 of 2,464 precincts for the Democratic nomination for governor: Frank Miles 38,553.

Earl G. Miller, 58, twice elected secretary of state before he made an unsuccessful race for governor in 1942, won the Republican nomination for his former office yesterday, defeating the incumbent, Wayne D. Ropes of Onawa. With 1,711 of the state's 2,464 precincts reporting, Miller led Ropes 78,550 to 52,617.

Olmsted conceded Blue's renomination at 11:16 p. m., and announced he would support his primary opponent in the general elections next fall.

Offers Congratulations "I offer congratulations to Governor Blue," Olmsted told the Associated Press, "and wish him success."

"I am deeply grateful to the many thousands who have joined with me in this campaign. I expect, within the framework of the Republican party, to continue to work for the principles we have advocated.

"I intend to support the Republican ticket in November," he concluded.

The defeat of Olmsted, who waged a strong campaign throughout the state in an effort to unseat Blue, became apparent as the returns piled up and he failed to receive the strong support his backers had hoped for in the larger population centers.

After leading for a time in Polk county, his home, Olmsted dropped 100 votes behind there. Returns from 105 of 107 precincts gave Blue 10,563, Olmsted 10,463.

Olmsted got a fair vote in Wright county, the governor's bailiwick. With about two-thirds of the vote counted, Blue totaled 1,604, Olmsted 1,109.

Blue's Statement In Eagle Grove Governor Blue issued the following statement: "I greatly appreciate the splendid vote of confidence which the Republicans of Iowa have given to me and to the Republican administration in this primary election.

"I want to express my thanks to the hundreds of people throughout the state who have in so many different ways given their support to my candidacy.

"Good government can be achieved only when people work together for definite objectives. Now that the matter of the nomination has been settled, I am sure that the Republican party can and will move forward as a united party into the fall campaign.

"Your interest and my interest is to build a greater and better Iowa. Working together we shall achieve it."

Other State Contests The other state office contests, all Republican:

State Treasurer John M. Grimes was nominated over John Hamilton Cruickshank of Sioux City. The vote in 1,711 precincts was Grimes 78,448, Cruickshank 44,388.

Attorney General John M. Rankin won renomination over L. W. Laughlin, Mount Ayr. The vote in 1,711 precincts was Rankin 74,948, Laughlin 43,947.

Incumbent Commerce Commissioners D. M. Richardson and David B. Long held good leads over Warren MacHenry of Des Moines and Lloyd R. Smith of Forest City. The vote in 1,669 precincts: Richardson 62,088, Long 54,951, Smith 49,039, MacHenry 37,252.

Unopposed Democrats Democratic candidates for secretary of state, state treasurer, attorney general and commerce commissioner had no opposition. They were, respectively, M. P. Hogan of Dubuque, Clarence E. Smith of Davenport, Upton B. Keppord of Waterloo and Isaac Snyder of Centerville and Ray Walsh of Varina.

Also nominated without opposition were: Lieut. Gov. Kenneth A. Evans of Emerson, Republican, and his Democratic opponent, Sewell E. Allen of Onawa.

State Auditor Chet B. Akers of Ottumwa, Republican, and the Democratic nominee for that office, (See ELECTIONS, Page 6)

Navy Asks Volunteers for Duty As Maritime Strike Threatens

WASHINGTON (AP)—The navy last night called for volunteers among its inactive personnel for possible duty in the event the threatened maritime strike occurs June 15.

Secretary of the Navy Forrestal ordered all naval stations to recruit ex-servicemen "to meet (the) imminent critical situation confronting (the) country, caused by (the) pending merchant marine strike."

"Deck, radio, and engineering qualifications are particularly needed," Forrestal said in his order.

He said that nobody should actually be recalled to active duty until further directions. Volunteers would be on a standby basis for the present, ready to run merchant ships if the CIO maritime strike occurs.

The navy order was announced just as the CIO maritime leaders and ship operators appeared to be giving ground a little in their bargaining over the length of the work-week for members of the CIO national maritime union. The negotiations are being held in the labor department here.

Edgar L. Warren, director of the United States conciliation service, came out of a meeting between ship operators and CIO maritime leaders and announced that both sides had made new proposals.

He did not disclose what the proposals were, but said they related to the number of hours worked a week.

It was reported that the CIO seamen had changed their demand for a 40-hour week at sea to 42-hours; that the operators had agreed to a 40-hour week in port instead of the present 44-hour week; and that the union negotiators had come back with yet another proposal.

Partial returns from Turin showed 32 percent of the counted vote was for the Christian Democrats and 22 percent for the Socialists.

Reggio Emilia Favors Republic In Reggio Emilia, 19 districts favored the republic over the monarchy by a vote of 6,911 to 2,283. Sixty-three districts in the same city gave the Communists a substantial lead in the assembly voting with a total of 15,618 compared with 7,986 for the Christian Democrats and 7,911 for the Socialists.

In Como, 40 districts gave the Republic, 9,318 votes and the Monarchy 7,300.

The important port of Livorno (Leghorn), in early returns gave

President in Hot Spot With Case Bill

Harry S. Truman is on the spot this week. He has until June 12 to sign or veto the anti-union case bill. Labor leaders and pro-labor legislators are bombarding him on one side with demands for a veto, while anti-labor legislators and other interested persons, such as Chamber of Commerce President William K. Jackson, are trying to force his approval of the measure.

On top of that, the president's own strike control bill, introduced with a dramatic speech the day the rail strike ended, is now in the house after approval with several modifications by the senate.

Indications are that this second measure will meet stronger opposition in the house. But the disturbing thing about it is the move by several representatives to tie the fate of President Truman's strike control bill with the case bill. Some key law-makers have declared that they favor holding back on the president's measure until he signs the case labor disputes bill, with its broad powers over union activities.

The case bill, sponsored by Representative Francis Case, Republican from South Dakota, was passed by the house early this year during the steel strike, another period of congressional hysteria. The senate labor committee trimmed the bill down, leaving only the provision for the establishment of a federal mediation board and one prohibiting coercion in disputes involving the shipment of perishable foods.

But since then, a senate faction led by Senators Ball and Taft offered and pushed through a number of amendments which made the senate version correspond to the harassing weapon adopted in the house.

These amendments would in effect repeal the Norris-LaGuardia anti-injunction act, limit secondary boycotts, and make unions subject to hundreds of liability suits in the federal courts. Small wonder that labor is staunchly opposing the Case bill.

President Truman's decision on this measure has far reaching political implications also. Southern Democrats have been urging the president to approve the case bill because he has nothing to lose. He has already lost the support of labor, by his recommendation for strike control legislation, they point out, and vetoing the measure will not regain it.

The president's southern advisors also argue that he has made himself more popular in certain circles by such forthright action.

But the pro-labor Democrats claim that the president can retrieve his left-of-center backing by placing a veto on the case bill. They say that Mr. Truman can still save what thus far has been only a temporary breach.

It appears, therefore, that if the president vetoes the case bill, labor will at least be partially appeased and will continue to seek shelter within the Democratic party. If he signs it, then we may see a shift of labor support to the Republican party or to a third party. Frankly, we'd hate to be in the president's shoes at this time.

As we left our precinct polling place at an early hour yesterday morning, we couldn't help overhearing two matronly housewives gossiping as one waited for the downtown bus. Their conversation went something like this: "It's too darn bad," said one of the ladies as she leaned out her front door, "when all they can get to run for election is a couple of Republicans."

The second lady replied: "Well, you know that's just like everything else—crooked all the way through."

Interpreting The News...

By JAMES D. WHITE

Associated Press Staff Writer

The distance between Soviet and American points of view has been highlighted by the coincidental statements of two men.

Sen. Arthur Vandenberg emphasized the American stand when he said in a Detroit broadcast that the recent Paris conference of foreign ministers "was a complete success in developing, at least, a positive, constructive, peace seeking, bi-partisan foreign policy for the United States."

That the Russians don't accept this definition of American policy was indicated again by a Moscow radio commentator named Boris Isakov, who broadcast in English at approximately the same time.

He presented a typical Russian view when he charged that British-American plans for organizing the postwar world resemble "a writing lesson for obedient school children, at which one party dictates and the other takes down the dictation in beautiful handwriting."

Isakov speaks unofficially, but on the official radio in a country where such comment rarely wanders far from the official line.

As the world well knows, there is deep conviction behind each nation's views and policy. So the question in the end is likely to be whether the basic nature of each is such that the two ever can be brought together peacefully.

The American view often coincides naturally with the British—hence Russian charges that the two "gang up" against Russia around council tables.

Foreign Minister Molotov provided another key to the Russian reaction to such occasions when he quoted in a recent Pravda statement an old Russian proverb that "a full man never understands a hungry one."

Consistently, the Russians indicated they feel hurt, discriminated against, and insulted in their pride.

This attitude is one which long has existed in Russia and one which the Russian public finds familiar.

That makes the job of convincing them otherwise that much harder.

Tough Hombre Never Killed Man 'Less He Needed It

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — "Send two coffins and one doctor—Jeff." Jeff D. Milton sent that message after being assigned to bring in three train robbers half a century ago when he was a one-man border patrol of the southwest.

As he approaches his 85th birthday, Milton looks back on a life spent in battling lawlessness, a life during which he earned a reputation among outlaws and pioneers for speed and accuracy with a six-shooter.

How many men Milton has killed as a law officer probably isn't recorded.

For himself, Milton says: "I never killed a man who didn't need killing, and I never shot an animal except for meat."

So quick was he on the draw that Pancho Bedoya, the Mexican leader, called him "the man with the eyes in the back of his head."

When he joined the Texas rangers as a lad of 19, Milton, tall, lean and handsome, was aching for action. He found it.

From the rangers he headed for southern Arizona and Tombstone, then the "toughest town on earth," then over to New Mexico where he was deputy sheriff in San Socorro county for three years, followed by service with the New Mexico stockman's association, then another spell as deputy sheriff in Apache county, Arizona.

Next he signed on as a peace officer with the customs service, later became chief of police in El Paso, Tex., a messenger for the Wells Fargo company and then the United States Immigration service's one-man border patrol in the southwest.

For many years now Milton has been minus a section of arm bone, one of his worst injuries.

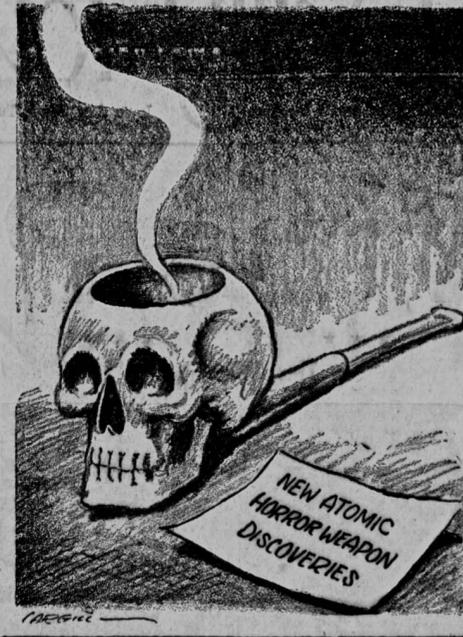

He was wounded, he says, while a Wells Fargo express messenger on the train from Mexico to Fairbank.

"I was chucking the packages out to a man on the platform. I heard a racket and someone said 'put up your hands.' Then a bullet took off my hat and I knew things were happening. 'I stepped back, threw my keys in a far corner and grabbed my shotgun. I got one of the robbers, then they got me in the arm."

"It happened that I fell between two big trunks and I guess that was the only thing that saved me from being killed. The robbers went around the car shooting into it to be sure I was dead before they tried to enter."

"I heard afterwards one of the robbers wanted to put another shot into me but another wouldn't let him."

Professors Should Keep Regular Office Hours

TO THE EDITOR:

During the past semester most of the students here at the university have been faced with a rather trying problem. During these past weeks of registration that problem has been even more noticeable. It deals with locating instructors. Why don't our profs have definite office hours during which time we may feel relatively sure of "catching" them?

Some of the teachers do have cards on their doors which state their office hours. That is well and good, but it's rather disturbing to go there during one of the times they're supposed to be in, wait perhaps a half hour and then have to leave without seeing them. After numerous returns to see if they've come in yet, one goes away with a slightly bad taste in one's mouth.

Some of the instructors do leave cards on their doors, "Back at 1:30," or such, but when it comes two and then two-thirty and they still haven't made their appearance, one feels like scribbling something nasty on the misinstructing card.

It was the writer's experience during these past weeks when signatures were required on registration materials to make seven trips to one teacher's office before the teacher was found in, and these calls were made during periods the instructor had stated he'd be in. One teacher the writer hasn't located at all.

There are, of course, those profs who have "just stepped out for a minute," so one is informed by an obliging secretary, and after a 30-minute wait during which time one has looked through all the books and magazines in the office, one begins to get villainous ideas and hurriedly walks out to prevent them from becoming actualities.

Surely there must be a better way of getting to see our teachers. Since no one seems to have done anything about working out a way, may I suggest one?

I suggest printing an office hour schedule for every instructor in the Schedule of Courses book, which is put out each semester, so the student may have it at hand. (At the present there seems to be no listed way of knowing when a teacher is in other than, perhaps, a card on a door.) The main point of this is that the teacher must follow his schedule quite religiously.

If the teacher cannot be in sometime during his office hours, he should put a notice on his door to that effect. If he is sure he will be back by a certain time leave a "Back at so-and-so" and then be back at that time.

This, I think is all that's necessary to eliminate all this fuss and bother in contacting teachers. If it shouldn't, I suggest the university set up a "Locator Bureau" to handle the situation.

Vets in School Not Getting Rich

TO THE EDITOR:

A recent editorial in a local paper, concerned with the petition by members of the Iowa City police force, proved or attempted to prove that they need a pay increase. It is not the purpose of this letter to comment on that question but in substantiating his argument, the writer remarked that the average monthly cost of living for a patrolman and his wife amounted to $124.98 for the necessities of life.

Now it must be granted that the necessities of life cost the same for all persons in a community. In other words, if it cost a patrolman and his wife a certain sum of money to live, then it must also cost a man engaged in in any other trade or business and his wife, an equal sum.

Thus we find that the policeman is left with only $22.00 to spend on a multitude of other articles which the writer mentions in passing. The writer also feels that the policeman doesn't have much money left to add to his bank account.

Now we must consider the case of the poor veteran going to school under the veterans administration. Since he draws only $90.00 for himself and his wife he obviously is left with a deficit of $35.00 a month, since we must conclude that he does not purchase the necessities of life at reduced rates. Also, every time the poor veteran takes his wife to the movies he goes further into debt for that month.

At the recent Cost of Living conference in Iowa City, one of the speakers remarked, "Would you take a $15,000 job in China if it cost you $17,000 to live?" Yet that is what the veteran is expected to accept. No, my friends, the vet is not getting rich while going to school.

Urges Dismissal Of Quadrangle Barber

TO THE EDITOR:

The Quadrangle barber, who refuses to cut the hair of certain students for racial reasons, should be dismissed immediately.

President Virgil Hancher's statement to the effect that he finds nothing in the lease " . . . that permits us as the landlord to dictate his service policies" is flimsy excuse, to say the least. President Hancher should be reminded of the fact that the landlord, in this instance, happens to be the tax-supported State University of Iowa, and not he himself. The statutes of this state forbid race-prejudice in public institutions.

Anti-Semitic, anti-Negro and anti-Christian propaganda is growing by leaps and bounds on this campus, and the classroom also participates in the promotion of same. There must be something seriously wrong with the administration of this university.

Iowa City to Observe Centennial Four Day

A four-day celebration in Iowa City will highlight Johnson county's participation in the state centennial observation this year. The centennial has been scheduled for June 29 to July 4, when the festivities will be climaxed with an all-day program including parades, band contests, ball games, races and fireworks. Prizes will be awarded for parade floats, races, growing of centennial beads, and women's costumes.

Street dancing in the business district will open the six day celebration, Saturday night, June 29. The remaining activities will be staged at City park.

Merchants in Iowa City have been urged to erect window displays relative to the centennial during the last weeks in June.

Senator Morse Urges World Cooperation

MOUNT VERNON (AP)—Senator Wayne L. Morse (R., Ore.) told a commencement audience at Cornell college yesterday that "demagogues in America are preaching that world cooperation . . . is costing the taxpayer too much."

Morse, who received an honorary doctor of law degree at the exercises, addressed graduates on "a one-world community."

Morse characterized the present as "the most critical hour in the history of man."

He warned that "If America responds too little and too late to her international obligations, history will pass us by." Part of the price of peace is to rehabilitate war-torn nations, the Oregon senator said. He criticized "stalling" by congress in the appropriation of funds for UNRRA and asserted that "those responsible have much to answer for, not only to their own consciences—if they have any—but to the people." Morse said there was too much "ducking and weaving" in the present congress and asserted there was a tendency to "capitalize upon the wishful thinking of our people rather than assume the risks of statesmanship."

ATOMIC POWER IN PEACETIME Scientists Team Up to Study Atomic Energy And What 'Makes it Burn'

By WILLIAM J. CONWAY AP Newsfeatures Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—Many scientists who had a hand in developing the atomic bomb for war have teamed up in projects to harness its mighty power for beneficial peacetime uses.

Their prime purpose is to gain a better understanding of atomic energy.

These men have pooled their talents in three new organizations at the University of Chicago—the institute of nuclear studies, the institute of radiobiology and biophysics, and the institute for the study of metals.

Samuel K. Allison, big, hard-driving director of the institute for nuclear studies who participated in the first atom bomb explosion in New Mexico, uses an analogy to illustrate man's present position in the atomic era:

"Early men made fire thousands of years before they understood what made it burn."

The modern men who produced atomic energy want to find out more about the source of this energy.

"The problem of what holds the particles together in a nucleus is essentially unsolved," says Allison, citing one of many remaining riddles.

His team now numbers 52 persons. There are two Nobel prize winners — Italian-born Enrico Fermi and Harold C. Urey. Among others are Arthur J. Dempster, discoverer of U-235.

The institute of radiobiology and biophysics will use radioactive materials produced in atomic piles to investigate the structure and functions of living organisms, and to determine how high energy radiations affect biological processes. The scientists seek basic information about such things as the aging process and the causes of cancer.

Then, says Director Raymond E. Zirkle, prematurely gray veteran of the war research army and a radiation specialist, "we can shoot with a rifle instead of a blunderbuss."

The institute for the study of metals, with a current force of 35, also aims to penetrate many mysteries. The tall, scholarly director, Cyril Stanley Smith, puts it this way: "We know what metals do, but not what they are. If we knew more about the nature of metals, we'd be able to improve them to a point where they could stand greater stress in service. The forces holding together the atoms of metal should produce strength over a hundred times higher than

Brazilian Police Find Network of Secret Japanese Societies

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Police investigating a wave of terror and assassinations in Brazil's large Japanese colony have unearthed a network of secret societies which may have hoped to conquer the country during the war.

Although some 400 arrests have been made, police believe it may take several months to unravel the close-knit activities of the groups.

Many secluded villages, where only Japanese is spoken and all the customs of Nippon are maintained, are found to be held together by societies dedicated to preserving the belief—astonishing to outsiders—that Japan won the war.

Bands of Japanese youth are blamed for the deaths of two Japanese businessmen who tried to tell the colonists that Japan was defeated, police believe these bands were inspired by the various secret societies.

The societies are also held responsible for other attempts at assassination, and some 15 stabbings and shootings.

Signs have appeared that Japanese terrorism has prejudiced the future of Japanese immigration in Brazil. Foreign Minister Joao Neves de Fontoura recently told the press he was opposed to future immigration to this race because they had proved to be "unassimilable."

"They have lost their night, but not their vision," Richardson said. "From previous experience they can visualize what they are about to do."

Dr. J. Newton Outlines Four Ways of Life at Convocation

Outlining four choices every man has in living, Dr. Joseph Fort Newton, Philadelphia churchman, told a baccalaureate and Honors Convocation audience Sunday night that in dynamic times such as today men can make, unmake and remake institutions.

"The world has been blown to the civilization built up since the fall of the Roman empire, and put things together after some plan."

Today man is in danger of being lost in the mass—the individual upon whom everything depends in the end seems insignificant in the crowds of a mass-minded era, he said. But if the individual fails, the mass becomes a monster and life ends in chaos.

Practicing the superstition of escape, Dr. Newton declared, man can run away from life as men have been doing since the days of the prophet Jonah.

Instead of running away from life he continued, we can just run with it—and do a thing because 'everybody is doing it,' which may be the very reason why, if we have any standard of stamina, we ought not to do it."

When we take hold of life with some purpose, Dr. Newton said, we learn that to know something well, to condense life until it becomes a power, to give ourselves, to forgive others and live with thanksgiving—not taking life for granted but for gratitude—is the way of achievement.

Best of all he said, we can give our lives to God to run and get ourselves off our hands—get out and away from ourselves, and have a freedom, born of obedience, which we cannot otherwise have.

Approximately 300 students received certificates of honor at the ceremonies which marked the university's first postwar Honors Conference.

Announcements of details are now being mailed to law enforcement officers throughout Iowa, Director Perkins said.

Special classes include basic police problems, crime detection laboratory technique, criminal investigation, police photography, traffic, and women in law enforcement.

Losing A Chance to Get More Soap?

Steady there, Mrs. America. We're not kidding. Last month, women all over the country threw away enough used fats to make over twenty million big boxes of soap powder.

Maybe some women think they don't need to save used fats any longer. Perhaps others are doing half a job...or saving only now and then.

THE TRUTH IS: there won't be more soap until your country's industrial fat supply is much increased.

By turning in every drop of used fats, you'll help bring back more soaps sooner. You use soap every day, so save used fats every day. One pound helps make about two pounds of needed soaps...gets you 4¢ a pound from your butcher.

Where there's fat there's soap

KEEP TURNING IN USED FATS TO HELP MAKE MORE SOAP

Hawks Await NCAA Meet

The probable entry of at least two men in the National Collegiate championships in Minneapolis, June 21 and 22, is the only remaining event on the University of Iowa's 1946 track calendar.

One of the probable competitors in the National meet is Paul Fagerlind, javelin thrower who was second in the NCAA meet last June. Fagerlind placed in the Kansas and Drake relays, the only other meets in the mid-west in which the javelin event is held.

The 1946 thinclads competed in a dozen meets, half of them outdoors, and in most events turned in the best marks made by Iowa athletes in the past six years.

One of the surprises of the season was the running of Rex Ploen former marine fighter pilot who ran his first race March 30. Without previous experience, Ploen placed fourth in the Big Ten 100-yard dash, being timed in .09.8. He also ran fast 220's and was a mainstay of the outdoor mile relay team.

Iowa's mile relay team won four first places in dual or triangular meets and took a special matched race at the Chicago relays. The quartet of Capt. John Hunter, Tom Thorson, Eric Wilson Jr., and Rex Ploen ran 3:22.1, an average of .50.4 per man, to place fifth in the record-breaking relay at the Big Ten meet last Saturday. This time best of the year for Iowa, was equal to the winning mark of the 1946 title meet.

Leading scorer was Ike Johnson, who made 52 points in the broad jump and low hurdles to top Iowa point-makers for the second season. Johnson ran 24.6 for fifth place in the conference meet low hurdle race.

Best marks in some of the other events were: 440-yard run, .50.5 by Hunter; high jump, 6-2, by Herb Wilkinson; shot put 46-3, by Keith Gotthardt; discus throw, 133, by Gotthardt; 440-yard relay, .41.7; half mile relay, 1:27.3; and javelin, 193-3, by Paul Fagerlind.

Joe McGinnis Fans Twelve

With speedballer Joe McGinnis blanking the Wagon Wheel nine until the last inning, the V.F.W. Post 2581 softball team opened the City league season here last night with an 8-3 win. McGinnis limited the Wagon Wheel team to three hits and fanned twelve as he coasted to the victory.

In the meantime, the Vets climbed on the offerings of Arlo Rogers for nine hits and all their runs in the first four innings to sew up an easy win.

Jaro Lepic, Del Queck, "Curley" Stahle and Jack Lenoach paced the Vets' potent attack with two hits each, while Queck and Stahle turned in the longest blows of the game with successive homers in the fourth.

Lepic, the Vets' pint sized short stop, turned in a perfect day at the plate with two singles and a pair of walks in four attempts.

Whiffing the first four men to face him and five of the first six, McGinnis was in trouble only twice, including the seventh when the losers bunched two of their three hits and two passes for three runs.

The only other hit off McGinnis came with one down in the fourth when Paul Loving beat out a bunt down the third base line and went to second on McGinnis' overthrow. He did there, however, when the Vet pitcher set the next two men down on strikes.

Box score.

Legion Nine, Moose Tangle Today; Plan Sunday Doubleheader

Manager Earl Sangster's Iowa City American legion nine will open their baseball season this afternoon when they tangle with the Moose team at 5 p. m. on the high school diamond. The game, in the nature of a practice session, will give the Legion hitters a chance to test their batting eyes against the southpaw slants of the Moose's Charley Blackman.

Sangster will probably take advantage of the game to give several of his twirlers a tryout on the mound. This group should include Jim Stahle of Solon, Lyle Fox of Riverside and Sonny Dean, Jim Sangster and Jim Van Deussen of City high.

Both teams will be in action on the high school field again Sunday in a double bill, the Legion nine playing Sharon while the Moose team meets Iowa Manufacturers of Cedar Rapids, a team made up largely of the McKinley high school players.

In their last outing, Sunday afternoon, Manager Charlie Gaeta's lodge nine dropped a 3-0 game to the Muscatine Moose, when the visitors' Gerds out-pitched a pair of local twirlers, Cerney and Blackman.

The Iowa City nine outfit Muscatine, seven to five, but left a pair of runners stranded in both the fifth and eighth frames when they had their best scoring opportunities.

Coaches Plan Sports Clinic

An impressive array of national and state coaches will be on the faculty of the Iowa High School Athletic Association's coaching school which will be held at Templar Park in Spirit Lake, August 19-23.

Heading the list of national coaches will be Henry Iba, head basketball coach of the Oklahoma Aggies; Everett S. Dean, director of basketball at Stanford University; Otto Vogel, baseball coach at the University of Iowa and Howie Odell, head football coach at Yale University.

Clyde L. Starbeck, head football coach at Iowa State Teachers College, is the principal state coach and others from Iowa high schools will include Len Raffensperger, Sioux City; Max Lynn, Clinton; Mike Augustine, Des Moines and Forrest Marquis, Fort Dodge.

Iba is one of the more successful basketball coaches in the country. His teams have won national championship honors and this season took the N. C. A. A. tournament which was held in New York's Madison Square Garden.

Dean was formerly head basketball and baseball coach at Indiana and his team won three Big Ten championships between 1924-38. Vogel just completed his 19th year as head Hawk baseball coach.

Odell was a former East High of Sioux City great and won All-American honors while running in the Pennsylvania backfield.

Headquarters for the school will be at the Templar Park Hotel which offers the coaches facilities for golfing, swimming and fishing in addition to an auditorium in which the lectures will be held.

Chase Hogan Again Today

NEW YORK (AP)—Having siphoned the standing water off the ninth and a few other fairways, they will wind up the $10,000 Goodall round-robin golf tourney at Winged Foot today with "who will be second to Hogan?" as probably the most pertinent question.

Little Ben, with 36 points to his credit and a 10-point lead over the present runner-up, Lloyd Mangrum, was expected by one and all, including his rivals, to take down first money of $2,000 and thus give the club members at Hershey (Pa.) further reason to toast him. They already had booked a celebration on the strength of his record-breaking score that made him Western open champion ten days ago.

In the run for second money, at $1,400 certainly worthy of consideration, one figure is very noticeable for its absence. It is that of Samuel Jackson Snead, the man with the greatest natural gift for golf.

Winged Foot, as it was played on the first three days of the tourney, and as it will be played today, simply isn't Snead's meat. It's too heavy, the ball sticks too close, and every time Snead comes down on it with that great power of his, he digs great holes in the landscape, and that only serves to confuse him further.

It's on the record that Snead can play Winged Foot. A little more than a year ago he stayed there a week to practice for a 36-hole match with Nelson. During the week he and Craig Wood, then Winged Foot pro, were challenged to a handicap match by a couple of local hot-shots, for dough.

Snead worries when he has to play for money. Wood, knowing that, gave him his share of what they would win in advance, and said:

"Here, stow this away, and don't fuss. And let me call your clubs for you."

That's the way they played it, and Snead toured Winged Foot's west coast, playing just about as it is now with the tees equally far back, in a six-under-par 66. But in the Goodall he has to pick his clubs himself. His rounds have been 75-75-76-77-75, and his point score going into the last two rounds stands at minus 9.

Feature of the closing day should be the last-round match between Hogan and Nelson, with big Vic Ghezzi, always dangerous, as third fan. If Hogan suddenly should break his stride in the morning against Jimmy Demaret and Jimmy Hines, and Nelson could pick up some holes against Herman Barron and Mangrum, this might turn out to be one for the books.

English Champions Prove Good Losers

By WHITNEY MARTIN
NEW YORK (AP)—If sending your sports stars to other countries to get their ears pinned back helps cement international relations, this country and England should be really stuck on each other by now.

Dick Burton, a true English gentleman, comes over here and graciously takes his lumps in golf, figuratively speaking. Bruce Woodcock, another Englishman, comes to our shores and takes his lumps in prize fighting, literally speaking.

American entrants in the British amateur, notably Chick Evans and Frank Stranahan, bowed out in the British amateur, as did Bob Sweeney Jr., a transplanted native.

The only disturbing incident in this Alphonse and Gaston procedure was when Gus Lesnevich, the bouncer, misread the script and went to England and let himself beat Freddie Mills, the British light heavyweight champion. Gus partially redeemed himself, however, by taking a bitter beating before kayoing Freddie, thus saving the situation, and the English think he is a good sport and a pretty fine guy.

Kenneth Cline Paces Tennis Club Victory

Ken Cline, former University of Iowa net captain, paced the Iowa City tennis club to a 9-2 victory over Cedar Rapids here Sunday in the local squad's first Eastern Iowa association meet of the year.

Cline dropped the first set of his match with Cedar Rapids' Russ Knapp, 4-6, but came back to take the last two, 7-5 and 6-4.

The club will meet Thursday to discuss plans for sponsoring an Eastern Iowa Tennis association tournament here later in the season and will return to the courts Sunday for a match with Clinton.

Phillies Romp Again

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies cut loose with a 16-hit attack, featuring a 400-foot homer by Andy Seminick, to down the Pittsburgh Pirates 8-4 yesterday for their fifth triumph in six games.

The Phillies slugged Ed Albosta from the mound with five straight hits to score four runs in the sixth and pounded Jack Hallett for four hits and three more runs in the eighth to sew up the contest.

Pittsburgh Schedules Four Big 10 Games For 1947 Season

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Athletic director James Hagan announced last night that the University of Pittsburgh, which failed to gain membership in the Western conference last week, would play four and possibly five games with conference football teams in 1947.

He said games are already scheduled with Illinois, Indiana, Ohio State and Minnesota—the Gophers for the first time since 1942—and that he is dickering for the fifth one. Notre Dame also appears on the Panther card.

Evers, Mayo Injured As Nats Top Tigers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Hard-luck "Hoot" Evers sustained a broken jaw last night and two Detroit teammates, Eddie Mayo and "Stubby" Overmire also were injured as the Tigers dropped a scrappy 7-4 game to Washington's Senators.

Evers, Tiger centerfielder, and Mayo, second baseman, smashed into each other in the third inning attempting to field a fly hit to short center by pitcher "Dutch" Leonard of the Senators.

They were carried off the field on stretchers and rushed to a hospital.

Doctors said later after studying X-rays that Evers' jaw was fractured and Mayo's left thigh and chest were injured. Both will be out of the game "possibly two to three weeks," the doctors said.

It's on the record that Snead can play Winged Foot. A little more than a year ago he stayed there a week to practice for a 36-hole match with Nelson. During the week he and Craig Wood, then Winged Foot pro, were challenged to a handicap match by a couple of local hot-shots, for dough.

Snead worries when he has to play for money. Wood, knowing that, gave him his share of what they would win in advance, and said:

"Here, stow this away, and don't fuss. And let me call your clubs for you."

That's the way they played it, and Snead toured Winged Foot's west coast, playing just about as it is now with the tees equally far back, in a six-under-par 66. But in the Goodall he has to pick his clubs himself. His rounds have been 75-75-76-77-75, and his point score going into the last two rounds stands at minus 9.

Feature of the closing day should be the last-round match between Hogan and Nelson, with big Vic Ghezzi, always dangerous, as third fan. If Hogan suddenly should break his stride in the morning against Jimmy Demaret and Jimmy Hines, and Nelson could pick up some holes against Herman Barron and Mangrum, this might turn out to be one for the books.

Ferris Racks Up Number Nine As Red Sox Sweep Twin Bill

Dobson Cops Second As Beantown Team Takes 7 Game Lead

BOSTON (AP)—After Dave (Boo) Ferris, unbeaten to date, gained his ninth win by a 6-1 margin, despite being hit 10 times, the Boston Red Sox swept their deferred doubleheader with the Chicago White Sox by taking the nightcap, 5-2, yesterday before a 27,631 crowd.

While making his Boston debut, Ted Lyons, the Chisox' new manager, tried to stop the Red Sox sluggers by pitching southpaws against them.

The veteran Thornton Lee was matched with Ferris and the Red Sox wrapped up the opener in the fourth inning by scoring three, with two out, on two singles, a pass to Ferris, an infield error and a wild pitch. The Red Sox, however, were limited to six hits, one a ninth inning homer by Rudy York, his fifth, against Earl Caldwell, who took over the Chicago mound in the seventh.

Giants Chase Cards On Marshall's Homer

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Willard Marshall hammered his third homer of the year in the ninth inning with two out and Buddy Blatter on base yesterday to provide the New York Giants with a 5-4 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Just as in Sunday's contest when they blew a six run lead and had to come back to win on Blatter's homer, the Giants gave Manager Mel Ott more grey hairs as they kicked away a 3-1 lead in the eighth inning.

The Cards collected three runs for a 4-3 lead in that frame on Red Schoendienst's triple, Terry Moore's single, two walks, an error by Johnny Mize and two wild pitches by rookie Monte Kennedy.

Yanks Pound Browns

NEW YORK (AP)—Rookie righthander Clarence Marshall coasted to his first complete game victory of the season yesterday as the New York Yankees hammered seven runs home in the first inning to trounce the St. Louis Browns, 12-2.

The Yanks pounded starter Nelson Potter and three other St. Louis hurlers for 18 hits, including four batters by Charley Keller and Nick Etten.

Helioptic Wins

NEW YORK (AP)—Only three horses ran in the $10,000 Queens county handicap, featuring the opening program of Aqueduct's 18-day meeting at Belmont Park yesterday, but it produced a neck-and-neck finish with William G. Loew's Helioptic outlasting Dan Chappell's Lets Dance.

Parking Group Votes to Meet With State Board of Education

Plans Include Parking Lot on Present Site Of Engineering Bldg.

The Community Parking committee met last night in the city hall and voted unanimously to meet with the State Board of Education in an effort to secure university property for parking space.

The property desired by the committee is the 300 by 300 foot plot on which the present Engineering building now stands.

I. J. Barron, chairman of the investigation committee who met with university officials, reported that the university was "interested" in helping solve the parking problem, but that it already had plans for the erection of new buildings on that plot as quickly as materials became available.

To Learn Availability
The committee voted to meet with the State Board of Education soon in order to determine the availability of the property and to learn the nature of the university's future building program.

At the next council meeting, the committee will recommend the installation of 150 parking meters in the downtown business district as a means of alleviating traffic congestion and providing funds for purchasing parking property in the future.

Two sites which will be investigated for temporary free parking plots are the Grand Order of the Moose property at Clinton and College streets, and the 225 by 125 foot area behind the Community building, which is being considered for the location of the new city hall building. The sites would be used only until actual building commenced.

List Traffic Needs
At least 750 parking spaces, the committee decided, would be required to accommodate Iowa City's traffic needs in the near future. The 150 parking meters, if installed, would produce a revenue of approximately $15,000 annually, it was pointed out.

The major portion of the discussion centered around the means of financing the purchase of new parking property without expense to the taxpayer.

Dan Dutcher, chairman, presided at the meeting. Thirteen members attended, including Mayor Wilber J. Teeters.

The next meeting was set for Tuesday, June 18.

ELECTIONS—

W. A. Yager of Spirit Lake. Secretary of Agriculture Harry D. Linn of Des Moines, Republican, and F. J. McMahon of Manning, Democrat.

Superintendent of Public Instruction Jessie M. Parker of Lake Mills, Republican, and Laura M. Nanes of Ottumwa, Democratic aspirant for superintendent.

The two Iowa Republican congressmen who had opposition in yesterday's primary election won re-nomination with little trouble.

They were Rep. Paul Cunningham, now serving his third consecutive term from the fifth district, who was opposed by Ray Yenter, former state insurance commissioner, and Rep. Ben F. Jensen, serving his fourth consecutive term from the seventh district, whose opponent was Miss Rachel Revell, 67-year-old Guthrie Center rural school teacher.

In 113 of 225 precincts Cunningham had 9,307 votes to 2,437 for Yenter.

With 70 of 334 precincts counted, Jensen polled 3,813 votes to 961 for Miss Revell.

Dan J. P. Ryan, Parkersburg publisher and the only Democratic congressional candidate who had opposition, was nominated over Ernest J. Seemann of Waterloo, perennial candidate for some office, in the third district. In 163 of 313 precincts, Ryan was leading 3,839 to 1,701.

Almost 50 percent more Iowans voted in yesterday's primary election than in the primary two years ago, incomplete returns indicated today.

On the basis of the partial returns, about 310,000 Iowans voted yesterday — 250,000 Republicans and 60,000 Democrats. Two years ago the total was 215,000—175,000 Republicans and 40,000 Democrats.

The estimate was based on the fact that Frank Miles the unopposed Democratic candidate for governor, received 36,091 votes in 1,583 precincts, while Gov. Robert D. Blue and George Olmsted, Republican candidates, totaled 163,557 between them in 1,747 precincts.

City Voters Cast Primary Ballots

A LOT OF ENERGY was saved yesterday when the Mayor's office instead of the council chambers was used as first precinct, first ward, voting station. Numerous persons had objected to the long climb necessary to reach the second floor council chambers in other elections so Mayor Wilber J. Teeters offered the use of his office. 173 voters of this precinct had filed through the office to mark their ballots by 8 p. m. yesterday.

Maxwell Announces Additions to English Department Faculty

Two additions to the English department faculty were announced yesterday by Prof. Baldwin Maxwell, head of the English department.

Rhodes Dunlap, an English instructor here before he entered the navy, will return for the fall semester as an assistant professor. He served as a lieutenant commander in the navy.

Before he comes here in September to conduct literature courses and a 17th century literature seminar, Professor Dunlap will teach at the Texas A. & M. university summer session.

A Rhodes scholar, Professor Dunlap received B.Litt. and D. Phil. degrees at Oxford university. He came to the University of Iowa in 1938 as an instructor. He was awarded B.A. and M.A. degrees at Rice institute.

Bernard Baum, an army captain who has been helping write a history of chemical warfare for the army, has been appointed assistant professor in the English department. He will assume his duties at the start of the summer session.

Before entering the army, Professor Baum taught at the University of Michigan.

Plass to Join Czech Mission

Dr. Everett D. Plass, obstetrician and gynecologist of the college of medicine, will be one of the ten American medical specialists of a medical teaching mission to be sent to Czechoslovakia this summer.

The group will sail on the Queen Mary June 20 for a three-month stay in Czechoslovakia. Sponsored by the Unitarian service committee in cooperation with UNRRA and the Czechoslovakian government, the mission will furnish Czechoslovakia with research and technical information concerning the advances made in American medicine during the years when Czechoslovakia was cut off from the outside world. New to the Czechoslovakian doctors will be such techniques as the use of penicillin and streptomycin, blood banks and recent knowledge about the RH factor in blood. The American doctors will benefit from Czechoslovakian research at seminars and round table discussions scheduled for the three-month period. Dr. Plass joined the university medical faculty in 1926. He is a graduate of Johns Hopkins university, where he was a staff member for 11 years. He was also head of obstetrics for four years at Henry Ford hospital at Detroit, Michigan.

EXAMINATION RESULTS

Results of the comprehensive examinations taken by all liberal arts sophomores May 21 are ready for distribution. Robert Ebel, director of university examination service, said yesterday.

Students who wish to know their scores may obtain them at room 114, University hall. Only individual results have been computed, Ebel said. Results of the entire group tested have not yet been analyzed.

"MAKE IT A MILLION!"

Since last September over three-quarters of a million men have joined the Regular Army as volunteers. Many of them are veterans of World War II, who know and like Army life. Others are younger men—alert and ambitious—who have recognized their responsibility to serve their country and to relieve from duty men who took up arms against our enemies.

Never before in American history has the Army had so much to offer in good pay, travel, education and adventure. And never before in peacetime has your country needed such a strong and modern Regular Army for world-wide protection of peace and security.

If you are qualified, mentally and physically, for Regular Army enlistment, you have everything to gain and nothing to lose by finding out all the advantages the Army has to offer you. Stop at your nearest U. S. Army Recruiting Station today!
