GOOD MORNING, IOWA CITY!

It will continue to be fair and cooler all day today. Tomorrow will be partly cloudy and warmer with scattered thundershowers.

'Bull' Halsey Lauds Iowa's War Record

Tells of Great Job Ahead in Winning Permanent Peace

CEDAR RAPIDS (AP)—Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr., wartime commander of the United States Third fleet, told an Eastern Iowa band festival audience last night that the great battleship Iowa was a fitting symbol of this state's wartime achievements.

In a prepared address, Halsey asserted: "I can share your pride as you celebrate your one hundred years of progress as a member of the union. I am mindful of the courage of your sons who fought and died on distant battlefields, and of the others who toiled long hours to produce food for the fighting fronts."

"I am aware, too, of the money you provided to build the ships, planes, tanks, and guns that blasted their way to victory. And I am glad to recall with you that Cedar Rapids was the first city in the United States to be awarded the treasury 'T' flag for 90 percent participation and that this state as a whole went over the top on every E bond drive."

"You understood the cost of war—you paid it. With your fellow Americans you waged war successfully. For that we can say—'Mission completed.'"

The Admiral cautioned, however, that a greater mission—that of winning the peace—still lies ahead.

"If we relax for a moment—if we let down now, the hope of humanity for a safer and better world will be extinguished," he said.

Halsey recounted briefly the important role the battleship Iowa played in World War II—how it was commissioned Aug. 27, 1942, carried the late President Roosevelt to North Africa for history-making conferences in November, 1943, went into action off Kwajalein Jan. 29, 1944, and thereafter was in the midst of virtually every Pacific action until she weighed anchor at Sagami Wan, a few miles off the shore of vanquished Japan, Aug. 27, 1945.

The former Third Fleet chief also stressed the importance of peacetime investment in government bonds. By such investments, he said, "you are protecting all that you now have by averting the destructive force of inflation."

Navy Flies Airplane At 1500 Miles an Hour

WASHINGTON (AP)—A 1500-mile-an-hour airplane engine debbed the "flying stovepipe" has been successfully flown, the navy revealed yesterday.

Originally planned to power guided missiles (pilotless flying bombs) the revolutionary ram jet engine has no moving parts, weighs only 10 pounds and looks like a long piece of pipe. But it develops between 2,000 and 3,000 horsepower—as much as a conventional big bomber engine.

The ram jet engine has been flown only in pilotless experiments and has not yet been installed in an airplane.

In The Doghouse

HAROLD C. ANDREWS of Waterloo, Ia., is literally in the doghouse—he lives in it. In court yesterday charged with violating an injunction against coming on his wife's premises, Andrews explained to the judge that he was merely living on a rear portion of the lot in a small structure he had purchased for a dog shelter but moved into himself instead. He said he wanted to be near his spaniels who occupy adjacent kennels. The judge modified the injunction. Andrews will get to stay in the doghouse. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Most of Hessian Royal Jewels Found in Rail Station Locker

WASHINGTON (AP)—A dime-in-the-slot railway station locker gave up a fortune in Hessian crown jewels, the army revealed yesterday as it wrote a new mystery thriller chapter in the tale of the gems of Kronberg castle. The army flew to jail near here the colonel, from whom it said it got the locker key that unearthed the greater part of $1,500,000 loot, and his WAC captain bride.

The jewels—the army said "practically all" of the gems now have been found—were put on display at the pentagon army headquarters.

In IC Locker

Torn from their regal settings, the diamonds, emeralds and other stones had lain in a plain cardboard box in a locker in the Illinois Central station in Chicago as authorities gave the detector tests to the colonel and his wife shortly after their capture.

Maj. John B. Salb, assistant chief of the provost marshal general's criminal investigation division, said the locker was opened last night with a key supplied by Col. Jack Durant, who with his bride, Capt. Kathleen B. Nash Durant, was brought to Washington yesterday. Army officials said the two have confessed removing the jewels from the castle of the German royal family of Hesse-Darmstadt.

Court Martial

They are expected to face court martial charges, and officials mentioned "looting" and "misappropriation" Friday in discussing charges that might be involved in the case. These officials said the amount involved was the biggest in any such case in United States army history.

Part of the loot was recovered earlier at the Hudson, Wis. home of the WAC captain's sister, the army reported. The newlywed couple had gone there on their honeymoon, with army investigators hot on their trail.

Two Under Surveillance

Meanwhile an unidentified army major and a technician fifth grade continued under surveillance, but not arrest, in the case. Officials said they believed Durant brought part of the jewels from Germany in his personal baggage when he returned by plane, and that Captain Nash shipped other objects in a parcel post package addressed to herself in this country.

Grenades Wound Nine In Alexandria Riots

ALEXANDRIA (AP)—Nine persons were wounded by hand grenades as anti-British rioting flared in Alexandria last night for the second time in 24 hours, bringing the day's casualty toll to one dead and 19 wounded.

A demonstration here, coinciding with London's Victory day celebration, was arranged by the Moslem Brotherhood to dramatize Egypt's protest of the delay in the evacuation of British troops from the country.

Egyptian soldiers and police attempted to disperse the demonstrators. Grenades were thrown from the crowd, injuring eight Egyptian soldiers and a civilian.

Food Outlook Hopeful

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration reported yesterday the outlook for June shipment of food to needy countries is hopeful.

F. H. LaGuardia, UNRRA director general, said in a statement that total indicated shipments for UNRRA countries, including China, for the last three weeks of June are 562,000 tons.

Threats of Early AFL Maritime Strike Fade

Civil War Threatens In Greece

ATHENS (AP)—New disorders were reported in Greece yesterday in the wake of the Royalist government's drastic decree providing death sentences for action against the state, and the Communists charged in a formal statement that the step could lead "only to civil war."

The ministry of public order, asserting that 198 persons, including 17 gendarmes and three soldiers, had been slain in armed attacks since April 1, said roaming bands of Communists had created a "desperate" situation in the Edessa district of western Macedonia in new outbreaks.

Twelve Communists, alleged to have been planning to reestablish the outlawed EAM-KKE police force, were arrested in Athens Friday night, the ministry added.

Premier Constantin Tsaldaris, in support of the decree which establishes summary courts empowered to pass death sentences on anyone using arms against soldiers or the police, declared the government "could no longer tolerate such a state of terrorism on the part of the enemies of the state. It has been clearly shown that these actions constitute high treason against the fatherland and cannot go without punishment."

The leftist-dominated General Confederation of Labor asserted that the new decree was "a revival of fascism and the government is unloosing an open fascist attack against the workers."

Two Die in Crash

WOONSOCKET, S. D. (AP)—Two South Dakota ministers were killed yesterday when their plane crashed and burst into flames after striking a telephone line in a take-off from a farm field. The dead are the Revs. James Holland and P. T. Emmett, both of Aberdeen, S. D.

American Veterans Committee Schedules Four-Day Convention in Iowa This Week

DES MOINES (AP)—More than 1,000 delegates, including two from Tokyo and ten from Hawaii, are scheduled to gather here Thursday for the first annual convention of the fledgling American Veterans Committee of World War II.

The AVC chose Iowa for its organizational conventions because of the state's strategic location, Melvin D. Losey, chairman of the Des Moines, AVC chapter, reported yesterday.

Four Iowa Chapters

The AVC has only four Iowa chapters—the Des Moines group with 300 members and smaller chapters at Ames, Iowa City and Sioux City.

Sponsors of the AVC, bidding for 1,000,000 members, have key-stoned their proposed platform on a plan for world government. Their constitutional convention program calls for addresses by Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace, former Governor Harold Stassen of Minnesota, and United Auto Workers President Walter Reuther, among others.

Members of AVC who scheduled to be present and participate in convention forums include Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., Oren Root, and Col. Evans Carlson of Carlson's famed Marine Raiders.

AVC's three-pronged program, divided into international, national, and war veterans' affairs, will be offered the convention at its Friday session. The meeting extends from Thursday night through Sunday.

Charles G. Bolte of New York, the 26-year-old national chairman of AVC, and Gilbert Harrison, New York, AVC founder, are scheduled to tell the delegates the time has come for AVC to make its bid for a place, numerically, beside other major veterans' groups.

Thus far in its existence, AVC has drawn attention for its aggressive opinions, some of which have been described by other veterans' spokesmen as "left of center."

World Government

AVC's proposed platform proposes "the eventual transformation of the United Nations organization into a world government of nation-states in a system whereby the world government will derive its allegiance directly from each individual as the sovereign unit, regardless of race, color, creed, or economic status."

The proposed platform also recommends "close and sympathetic cooperation of the United States and Soviet Russia," international control of the atomic bomb, and, meanwhile, the cessation of manufacture of bombs by the United States.

Neither the men who operate the ships nor those who man them showed any inclination to accept the plan as a complete solution to the issue of working hours—the biggest barrier in the way of an agreement.

Begin West Coast Talks

Federal Conciliators Propose Compromise In CIO Discussions

WASHINGTON (AP)—The immediate threat of an AFL seamen's strike blew over yesterday but a new government maneuver to stop CIO sailors from walking off ships June 15 began generating union opposition.

The AFL Sailors Union of the Pacific halted a strike vote and began talking wage-hour issues with west coast shipowners. A spokesman for the owners reported "definite progress."

That happened in San Francisco. Apparently it scuttled a possibility that both AFL and CIO seamen might be on strike simultaneously on all coasts by mid-June.

Produce Plan

Here in Washington, government conciliators stepped up efforts to dissolve the CIO end of the maritime crisis. They produced a plan to give sailors time off with pay in port instead of a shorter work week at sea. To provide something definite for discussion, they suggested retention of the present 56-hour week at sea and a day off with pay for every 14 days afloat.

The mediators dropped the proposal on negotiations between east coast ship operators and the committee for maritime unity which is bargaining for the big CIO National Maritime union and six allied unions.

Neither the men who operate the ships nor those who man them showed any inclination to accept the plan as a complete solution to the issue of working hours—the biggest barrier in the way of an agreement.

Commencement Speaker Extolls Individual Enterprise

572 Students Get Degrees

Extolling the principle of individual enterprise as opposed to the "planned economy" of the 1930's, Robert T. Swaine told candidates for degrees at the university's 86th Commencement yesterday that they must choose between the American freedom of individual opportunity and that thing mistakenly called "security" or "freedom from want."

Editorial: LaFollette-Monroney Bill Aims at Better Government

The biggest argument we can think of for adoption of the LaFollette-Monroney bill to modernize congressional machinery is the legislative bottleneck that congress has gotten itself into in the past few months. Many important measures are being shelved or voted on without due deliberation because congress, forced to rely upon its antiquated system, is torn between adequate consideration and the exigency of bringing vital legislation to a vote.

You will remember for instance, that the house and the senate had to push through a temporary measure extending selective service because they had not had time to work out permanent legislation before expiration of the old draft act. Unfortunately, other legislation as important as selective service has been rejected by congress without the thought, debate and attention given to the draft act.

Now it appears that many important issues will go unconsidered before congress adjourns this summer.

The other day, Senator Robert LaFollette, Progressive from Wisconsin, introduced the bill to provide for increased efficiency in the legislative branch of the government (S2177), of which he is co-sponsor. The measure, product of a year's study by a joint congressional committee, was so strongly attacked by old guard senators that now Senator LaFollette fears that it will be scuttled by delays.

Senator McKellar, Democrat from Tennessee, 77-year-old acting president of the senate and first in length of service, left his seat on the rostrum to assail the bill as "revolutionary—a measure which would tear down old landmarks and change the whole purpose of the senate."

He was joined by Senator Elmer Thomas, Democrat from Oklahoma, a veteran of 20 years service. Thomas cried out against change, urged the senate to proceed slowly, and called the bill a "hodgepodge of amendments."

The LaFollette-Monroney bill is unpopular with the old guard element in the senate because the first thing which will have to be sacrificed for legislative efficiency is a good deal of their power and prestige.

Briefly, the legislation would cut down the number of legislative committees, tighten fiscal controls, increase lobbying restriction and give the lawmakers a 50 percent pay boost and pension privileges.

Of the committees, Senator LaFollette commented: "I have served in this body for more than 20 years. I have seen the growth in complexity of our problems, both domestic and foreign, until today we find ourselves confronted with a tidal wave of intricate and difficult problems affecting both foreign and domestic issues, which makes it impossible under our present multiplicity of committees, with overlapping jurisdictions, and the multiplicity of service by senators upon those committees, to discharge our enormous tasks adequately under present circumstances."

In the senate today, there are more than twice as many committees as there are principal divisions of public policy. Responsibility for legislative action is scattered among 16 standing committees and there is no way to coordinate their activities. To remedy this situation, the bill proposes the establishment of 16 new committees correlated with the departments and agencies of federal government.

To get an idea of the necessity for streamlining the committee system, consider that in the senate at the present time the combined membership of all standing committees is 481 and of the 11 major committees is 220. In addition there are now 10 special committees with a total membership of 87. Altogether the 96 senators occupy 568 seats on its standing and special committees, with no senator serving on less than three committees and several serving on more than six.

The new bill defines the jurisdiction and aims of each of the committees. If this is approved, it will be the first time that such definitions have been written into the rules of the senate.

In addition, senators and representatives would each have high-caliber administrative assistants to handle their non-legislative and departmental work.

Some senators and representatives have opposed the pay increase and one commented that if he got more money, then the voters would elect a better man and he would be out of a job. And that's just the purpose of that provision in the bill. Many capable men have not gone into politics because they find other jobs more profitable. Besides this, it is a well known fact in Washington that the expenses of our congressmen often are often higher than their salaries.

The old guard senators have had their say. Now it is our hope that the upper chamber will settle down and be reasonable and honest enough to admit that the LaFollette-Monroney bill will make for more efficient and effective government.

The LaFollette-Monroney bill poses a choice for the senate and house—a choice of re-shaping the legislative branch of the government so that it is capable of serving its proper function in our increasingly complex society, or continuing to plod along, while the world goes by, under a system which is both confusing and inefficient.

Looking Ahead

By the World Staff of the Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Both United States and foreign diplomats are generally deeply skeptical that any satisfactory plan for international energy control can be worked out with Russia.

Reluctance of the Soviet government to give other people any information is seen as the basic problem.

It's believed that the Russians, recalling their league of nations proposal to destroy all arms, may suggest destroying all atom bombs. This would have powerful propaganda appeal as the "ideal" approach.

Adjournment

WASHINGTON — Senator Taft (R., Ohio) told the senate that Majority Leader Barkley hoped to adjourn congress by mid-July until Jan. 1. Other senators spoke up that they expect to stay perhaps until Aug. 15 and to be called back early in the fall by some emergency.

Philippine Relations

WASHINGTON — Filipino officials here say President Truman has asked Paul V. McNutt, high commissioner to the Philippines, to be first United States ambassador there and that McNutt will do it.

Certain American and Filipino officials expect Brig. Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, Philippine resident commissioner here, to be first Philippine ambassador.

Food

RIO DE JANEIRO — People in large Brazilian cities now must wait in line up to an hour to buy bread. Most of the loaves contain a high percentage of corn flour. The wheat shortage is expected to last all year.

AUCKLAND, NEW ZEALAND

Tens of thousands of tons of meat originally intended for United States forces now are being sent to Britain.

Italian Views

WASHINGTON — United States officials believe Italian election results assure a modern government. They are pleased at the showing made by the Socialists. Unlike French Socialists, they surpassed the Communist vote.

Press Accents

LONDON — A special institute of journalists committee has issued a report which concedes that public relations men who are trained journalists are valuable to the press. But it declares the public relations system can never substitute for independent newspaper inquiry.

Personal Paragraphs

WASHINGTON — Solicitor General J. Howard McGrath probably will resign in September to run for the senate from Rhode Island.

Senator Vandenberg's (R., Mich.) upcoming trip back to Paris to the second foreign ministers meeting forced him to turn down an invitation to be commencement speaker at Notre Dame and receive an honorary degree.

Friends of Commerce Secretary Wallace say he has no intention of resigning but that in any case it wouldn't be before the November elections.

Vets' Insurance

WASHINGTON — Veterans administration officials expect congress soon to amend the national service life insurance act to allow veterans to convert term insurance to endowment and designate any beneficiary. But they don't expect many vets to take advantage of it.

Of Cabbages and Kings

By LAWRENCE DENNIS

Let us, as a nation, examine objectively remove all such bias from his own mind? What are our capabilities? Are we equipped—politically, socially and economically—to accept the grave responsibilities that history has seen fit to thrust upon us? How well do our vision, perspective and moral sense of balance in this momentous first year of the Atomic Age compare with those same qualities as exemplified by our forefathers in more than a century ago? We did not shrink the challenge of global war, but with victory achieved are we squarely meeting the far more difficult challenge of peace? Do we, as a people, possess the stuff of which true greatness is made?

We ask ourselves: what is our most serious problem. Introspection readily produces the answer: AS CITIZENS, WE ARE NEGLECTING OUR TRUST. We are understanding each individual's importance in a democracy. Our political and military leaders seek to enhance our prestige abroad and adjust our difficulties at home. But do we clearly realize that such leadership looks constantly to a dynamic public opinion for guidance?

Congress is often criticized for being "too slow" in determining its course of action on this or that particular issue. Yet how many of us have ever voiced an opinion by writing to our elected Senators and Representatives? We mention race prejudices and other "isms" of bigotry as being among the country's outstanding domestic problems. Can each American citizen say, however, that he has sincerely tried his best to

Are we afraid of change? Is it within our power to comprehend the tremendous impact that mid-twentieth century science has had upon our entire governmental structure? Is our legacy to be a civilization built around the ideals embodied in the Four Freedoms—or are our children to be handed mere nostalgic reminiscences of an era long since discarded by Destiny as shallow and inadequate?

The war against Nazi tyranny and Japanese militarism found us allied with many great nations, large and small. Before we attempt to pass judgment on the political or economic structure of any one of those nations, should we not make a conscientious effort to study and understand its history, standards and accomplishments? Surely such an obligation is fundamental to United States citizenship.

"Problems"—domestic or foreign—cease to exist as such when brought into sharp focus by public opinion. The right and the wrong are crystallized. Our government can then set its course, and our leaders can act with vigor and inspiration. There can be no real public opinion, however, until each of us individually forms the habit of thinking clearly and constructively on all issues vital to the welfare of our nation. That habit must be formed now, while the opportunity for world leadership is still within our grasp.

An alert citizenry is this nation's best insurance against false concepts which endanger our progress.

Commemencement Speech 'Same Old Malarky' TO THE EDITOR:

Doesn't the quality of commencement addresses ever change? Ten years ago this spring I was the member of the graduating class from the high school in a small town in northwest Iowa. As we sat there in the sweltering old opera house, we heard some executive from a Sioux City business firm warn us against change. Using the usual generalizations about the "American way of life" (this was in the middle of the depression, remember) and the glories of "free enterprise," the speaker told us the world was ours—but, for heavens sake, don't change it.

Saturday morning, I attended the university graduation exercises and, except for a better-groomed and more urban setting, the address was the same old malarky. "New vistas of the mind and of science are beckoning." Rich rewards . . . are to be had for the taking, if . . . the American freedom of individual opportunity is preserved." It was the tired old line of "oldsters" turning the world over to "vigorous" youth with the warning to keep it (wars, breadlines and all) as it is.

But there was one exception. There was an occasional listener who later challenged the speaker's logic. Some of them appeared to look askance of the New York attorney when he said man had developed government to supplant the competition of the jungle and a few seconds later called "competition the very essence of freedom."

Some listeners, too, took issue with the speaker's conception of the "true freedom" which guarantees labor unions the right to strike. The right to strike may be a freedom but a highly costly one, not only for the country but for the individual worker and to many seems like a rather uneconomical device to bring about pay increases and better working conditions.

And then there was the speaker's unflattering comments on the Four Freedoms. For a generation that went from total depression into total war, isn't it just possible that the phrase may have served slightly to lessen the cynicism of the American fighting man?

If Russian Communism, Fascism and Nazism are all the same breed of cats as implied in the commencement address, one veteran commented that he was glad

3 Senators in Renomination Fight— Politics This Week

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Three senators, Hugh A. Butler (R., Neb.), Raymond E. Willis (R., Ind.) and Charles C. Grossett (D., Idaho), face strong opposition this coming week in trying for renomination.

Neutral observers are betting at least one of the trio will go down to defeat for the first pre-election casualty in the senate this year.

Nebraska and Idaho hold primaries Tuesday. Indiana Republicans meet in state convention Thursday. Intra-Party Rivalry in all three states has been intensive.

Butler is being opposed for renomination by Gov. Dwight Griswold. The contest has been enlivened by intervention of Harold E. Stassen, prospective candidate for the GOP presidential nomination in 1948, on the side of Griswold.

Griswold and Stassen were strong allies for international cooperation at Governor's conferences when the latter was Minnesota governor. Griswold has made "internationalism" the main issue, asserting "with the world humbling about our heads we do not need a senator who says internationalism should be sidetracked."

Butler has indicated that Stassen's speech-making for Griswold might boom against the governor, with many citizens resenting "outside" suggestions as to how they should vote.

Butler, serving his first term has said he is running on the state GOP convention platform, which opposed the British loan.

"Governor Griswold supports the British loan," he says. "So do Stassen and the New York people who so liberally finance both Griswold and Stassen."

Under a new law, Butler last March was given first and Griswold second place on the primary ballot by a state Republican convention. The law was designed to overcome the apparent advantage in Nebraska of "name" candidates—political novices with names ending in "son" and "sen."

The other Republican senatorial contest during the week—in Indiana—is a three-way affair between he wasn't eligible for re-election. Another asked, did Russia join our side in the war against the Axis as the lawyer said, or did we join her side after she had been fighting the Nazis for a year?

Maybe after a couple more wars and depression graduation speakers will save their breath and stop warning the young generation against change.

FARRELL DAVISSON

James D. White's Interpreting The News...

The cable editor drops a message from Tokyo in front of your correspondent.

It says Sumo wrestlers are griping about not getting enough to eat.

"What sort of wrestling is Sumo?" the editor wants to know. I reply slowly, "Sumo is something you can watch all afternoon and still not know what goes on. It happened to me."

"How come?" he asks. So I tell him:

A Japanese colonel came around waving tickets for a Sumo exhibition, and said: "Is chance of lifetime to see champions in supreme sport." So we went to see Sumo.

Japanese fans were packed in thousands around the ring, climbing all over each other to take pictures of their favorites.

Their favorites looked terrific—all colossal men weighing 200 pounds and up and all over six feet tall, with substantial tumblers—huge even by American standards.

"How do they get so big?" I asked the colonel.

"Eat plenty," he said. "Eat lots more than ordinary man."

I asked the colonel why they wore upstet hair-dos, with topknots like the last of the Mohicans, and he said simply, "Is custom."

Each match lasted about ten minutes, with about nine minutes and fifty seconds of ceremony and ten seconds of what I suspected might be wrestling. The ceremony consisted of incantations by a referee to which responses were given by the wrestlers as they circled about each other like gamecocks sparring in slow motion. From a ringside box they took handfuls of salt which they sprinkled on the ring and rubbed on their thighs.

"What's the salt for, colonel?" I whispered.

"Is custom," replied the colonel, who wore the expression of a bobby-soxer swooning in the front row.

Finally the wrestlers would close briefly, and in a few seconds one would push the other out of the ring with his tummy or hips. That meant he won. I could tell by the applause.

There were about 20 of these matches, with no variation.

Even the champ, the great Futabayama, was the same except that he got his man out of the ring in a split-second with a deft heave of the big window. The crowd went wild.

"Colonel," I asked, "is Sumo always this way?"

"Ah, so," he sighed. "Foreigner hardly ever understood Sumo."

AMES—Former GI, now students at Iowa State college, and residents of a trailer community, have started their own cooperative grocery store.

With an organization headed by Leonard Thomas, 26, a forestry junior from Virginia, Minn., as president and Prof. Frank Rotboka, of the college of economics and sociology department to handle legal details, the store has been doing a $1,200 weekly gross business. Bob Wilson, a former army pilot, was chosen manager because of pre-war experience in groceries.

The veterans' grocery is set up in an old grain storage bin (monthly rent—$10) at the edge of the trailer camp.

Members of the co-op have identifying cards and any war veteran going to college may join upon payment of a $25 share fee. The money is returned whenever the member drops out. Business is cash and carry.

There are now 205 members. A few members of the faculty are shareholders.

Manager Wilson is paid a salary. Three clerks, wives of the veterans, work in the store six hours a day for 40 cents per hour.

Frank Miles Starts Campaign Tomorrow; Blue Takes Rest

By DWIGHT McCORMICK

DES MOINES (AP) — Frank Miles isn't going to let any political grass grow under his feet. Tomorrow he will start his campaign to succeed Gov. Robert D. Blue as the state's chief executive.

Although he had no opposition for the democratic gubernatorial nomination in last Monday's primary election, he made 125 "non-political" addresses in the previous 92 days. Now he is off to a running start which he says will keep him busy right up to the Nov. 5 general election.

Blue Takes Rest

Meanwhile, Governor Blue plans to take a rest from the strenuous pre-primary campaign, which resulted in his overwhelming defeat of George Olmsted, Des Moines insurance company executive, for Republican renomination toward a second term.

Miles, editor of the Iowa Legionaire for 25 years before he resigned to make the race for governor, polled a large vote in the primary despite the fact he had no opposition. Some counties reported they did not count all his votes.

"I thought my vote was great; I'm well satisfied," Miles said in comment on his showing in the primary. "Apparently I got more than 50,000 votes. That's well ahead of what any other non-opposed candidate ever got in an Iowa primary election."

Plans Revisited

He covered practically every county in his pre-primary travels, but even so he now plans to revisit them before Nov. 5. What his platform will be will be determined by the Democratic state convention here July 16.

"I feel that the committee platform will be progressive and appeal thoroughly to the progressive and clear-thinking Iowans who are looking toward a greater Iowa," he said.

Until that platform is announced, however, Miles has several things he will talk about in the meantime. He said he would stress the need for:

"1. A very pronounced improvement in the system of financing schools, and expansion of school facilities.

"2. Promoting Iowa as a leader among states.

"3. Efficiency and economy in government.

"4. Public service organizations to mold child character as community projects."

Miles said that "in many respects Iowa is the greatest state in the union. But many people of other states still do not know it. If we can get that across to them it will help business, labor and agriculture as well throughout Iowa."

As proof that public service organizations "can do a great work," he said the American Legion had conducted a junior baseball program for 15-years in a certain Iowa town, and in that time not one boy had been sent to a penal institution.

A total of 2,394 students in liberal arts, commerce and the graduate college have completed registration for the summer session, according to figures released yesterday by the office of the registrar.

Registration materials were issued to 3,230, but 26 percent of these are still unreturned. Breakdowns show that 1,524 have registered in liberal arts, 681 in the graduate college, and 189 in commerce.

These figures do not include registration in the professional colleges, which is being conducted at the individual schools.

Registration for all new students will take place all day Monday and Tuesday from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. in Iowa Union. Beginning freshmen will meet at 8 a. m. Monday in Macbride auditorium for instructions as to where to take the freshmen battery tests and the reading rate examination. They will register Tuesday afternoon, after completion of the tests.

Of the 4,967 students in liberal arts, commerce and graduate college who checked out registration materials for the fall semester, 3,498 have completed registration.

Iowa City Enlistments In June Show Rise

The first 8 days of June saw approximately as many Iowa City enlistments as the previous month, according to Sergt. Robert Rowen, head of the local recruiting station.

10 men have volunteered this month. Volunteer enlistments have been averaging 11 or 12 a month in Iowa City. Of this number, approximately 11 are 17 years of age, and require parental consent to enlist.

With a choice of 18 month, 2 year or 3 year enlistments, over 50% choose the 3 year term, Sergt. Rowen said. A majority of the enlistments are made to gain the educational privileges of the G. I. bill.

Volunteers at the local station are sent to the main office at Davenport to have their records checked and confirmed. Next the recruits go to Ft. Snelling for a physical, and assignment to duty. After 6 months they are eligible for furlough.

Miss Wylie, wearing a white floor-length gown of nylon marquisette, will be given in marriage by her father. The gown's embroidered bodice is designed with a round neckline and long, full sleeves. A bustle-sash tops the shirred skirt. Falling from a cap trimmed with mock orange blossoms will be a fingertip veil. The bride will carry white roses.

The bride's mother has chosen an aqua dress accented with white accessories and white carnations. Mrs. Grow will wear a navy blue dress with black accessories and white carnations.

Immediately after the ceremony there will be a reception at the Alpha Xi Delta sorority house. Presiding over a table decorated with spring flowers will be Mrs. Mildred Bunn, Mrs. Velma Harlow, Mrs. E. W. Chittenden, Mrs. W. F. Merriam and Mrs. Winifred Goodnow.

Chipman Halts Brooklyn 2-0 On Five Hits

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Cubs stretched their winning streak to six in a row yesterday when they gained their second straight 2-0 decision over the Brooklyn Dodgers before 36,229 paid admissions.

Bob Chipman, an ex-Dodger, pitched the shutout for the Cubs, holding his former mates to five hits.

Rex Barney, making his first start for the Dodgers, pitched the first six innings and yielded both Cub tallies. The first run came in the second inning when Barney passed Ed Waitkus and gave up singles to Clyde McCullough and Bob Sturgeon. In the fourth Marvin Rickert connected for a home run.

Barrett Gives Phils One Hit

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Belmar Ennis' eighth inning single broke up Red Barrett's chance for a perfect no-hit ball game last night but the St. Louis Cardinal right-hander went on after retiring 22 batters to shut out the Philadelphia Phillies 7 to 0 for his first pitching victory of the season.

Barrett was noticeably tense in the eighth as he pitched to Frank McCormick, whose home run Friday night contributed to the Phillies' victory. But the first baseman flied deep to Adams in left center and the crowd cheered.

With the count 1-2, Ennis drove a long line single to left field to become the only Philadelphia batter to reach first. Andy Seminick struck out and Skeeter Newsome flied to Enos Slaughter to end the inning.

Feller Stops Yanks 2 to 1

NEW YORK (AP)—With a crowd of 50,364 looking on, blazing Bobby Feller stilled the New York Yankee bats with five hits yesterday as he pitched the Cleveland Indians to a 2-1 victory.

In snapping the Yankees' winning streak at five, Feller fanned eight to raise his season's strike-out total to 126 in 117 innings.

A home run by Pat Seery in the second with one aboard provided the winning margin for Feller as the only run he gave up was a home run pitch to Charlie Keller in the third.

Senators Take Two From Chicago Sox For Five Straight

WASHINGTON (AP)—Aided by weird defensive play by Chicago's White Sox, the Washington Senators swept a long double-header yesterday by 7-6 scores, extending their current winning streak to five games.

The White Sox, meanwhile, lengthened their string of losses to eight.

Utility infielder Gil Torres saved the second game for the Senators by taking over the pitching in the ninth inning to check a White Sox rally that had produced one run and put men on third and second with one out.

Buddy Lewis, out of the lineup because of a charley horse, drove in the winning run in the first game as a pinch-hitter with a seventh-inning single.

Fowler Beats Browns

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Dick Fowler held the St. Louis Browns to six scattered hits yesterday as the Philadelphia Athletics romped to a 9-3 triumph, their second successive victory over the Browns.

While Fowler was holding them at bay the Browns played sloppily behind Ellis Kinder, making his first start of the season, and gave the Macks four runs. Sam Chapman and Buddy Rosar then hit home runs off Al Macchia and Stan Ferens.

Red Sox Romp To 15-4 Win

BOSTON (AP)—Slugging in lusty fashion behind Joe Dobson, whose father died Friday night, the red hot Red Sox yesterday vanquished Prince Newhouse for the second time this season as they trounced the Detroit Tigers 15-4.

The victory, coupled with New York's loss to Cleveland, lengthened the Boston club's league lead to seven full games over the Yankees.

Newhouse, whose only previous loss of the year was to Dobson and the Boston league-leaders, was found for four hits and five runs in the first inning, the only frame he was allowed to work.

Dobson pitched after a phone conversation with his brother, who notified him of their parent's death.

"You go ahead and work," the brother said. "That's the way Pa'd want it."

Bobby Doerz with four hits in five trips, one his seventh four-sacker of the year, and Pinky Higgins and Rudy York, both former Tigers, led the Boston attack before 29,543 paid fans.

Heusser Tops Boston But Loses Shutout

CINCINNATI (AP)—A two-run homer in the eighth inning cost Ed Heusser a shutout for his fifth victory yesterday as the Cincinnati Reds defeated the Boston Braves 4-2.

The Cincinnati right-hander, who lost three, gave up only three scattered hits during the first seven innings. In the eighth, Dick Cutler beat out a hit to deep short and scored ahead of pinch-hitter Chuck Workman who homered over the right field screen.

Claim Rizzuto Once Agreed to Contract With Mexican Loop

NEW YORK (AP)—Phil Rizzuto, New York Yankee shortstop, once agreed to join the Mexican Baseball league for a $15,000 bonus for signing a five year contract for $12,000 a season, according to testimony given by Bernardo Pasquel, brother of Jorge Pasquel, president of the south-of-the-border circuit, it was disclosed yesterday.

In an examination before trial of a suit brought by the Yankees to enjoin the Latin-American organization from inducing New York American league players to jump their contracts, it was learned that Bernardo had testified thusly in the office of his attorney, Jerome Hess. Pasquel said that Rizzuto finally turned down the offer for "family reasons."

Pasquel said he offered George Stinweiss, Yankee third baseman and American league batting champion in 1945, $15,000 for signing a contract and $20,000 a season for a five-year agreement. Stinweiss refused, according to Pasquel's testimony, "because he had a contract for two years with the Yankees."

Murphy Claims Pirates Unfair

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Robert Murphy, organizer of the Pittsburgh baseball guild, said early today he would file charges of unfair labor practices with the National Labor Relations board against the Pittsburgh baseball club.

Murphy said the charge would allege the Pittsburgh club, through its officials "attempted to dissuade players from dealing through the American Baseball guild, their chosen representative, for the purposes of collective bargaining," and that the "club officials urged the players to deal individually with them regarding their grievances."

A threatened strike by Pittsburgh Pirate players over union recognition Friday night was called off an hour before their scheduled game with the New York Giants.

Murphy said the players, at a meeting preceding the game had voted 20 to 16 in favor of a strike, but that a two-thirds vote was necessary to effect the walk-out.

Murphy declared last night that the refusal of the Pirates to strike was "simply an action against a strike that particular night" and did not imply a strike would never be called again.

Accompanied by Anthony Fedoroff, CIO-Regional director, Murphy arrived late at the game yesterday and took a seat in the vicinity of the press box.

He insisted there was no significance to his presence there with the CIO leader, saying, "It in no sense implies that the guild intends to affiliate at this time."

"I've talked with a lot of the Pittsburgh players since Friday night," the Boston unionist said. "And my best information is that they are still interested in the guild. Their action last night was simply an action against a strike that particular night and my reaction is that it does not imply a strike would never be called again."

Those Spikes Are Sharp, Bud!

MARVIN RICKERT, Cubs' centerfielder, is not sliding into second base at Wrigley field yesterday as Dodger second baseman Ed Stanky jumps to avoid Rickert's spikes as he gets the ball off to first too late to nip Eddie Waitkus whose hit to short forced Rickert at second. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Plan Tennis Tourney Here For July 11-13

The Iowa City Tennis club last night announced plans for an Eastern Iowa district net tournament to be held here July 11, 12 and 13 under the sponsorship of the local organization.

The meet will be open to all players in Eastern Iowa District Tennis association and to all University of Iowa students, whether attending summer sessions or not.

Elimination play will be held in four brackets, including men's singles, men's doubles, junior singles and women's singles. Trophies and medals will be awarded to all winners and runners-up.

A tournament committee, announced last night, will include Art Wendler, University of Iowa tennis coach; Ken Cline, former captain of the Hawkeye net team; Bob Brooks, WSUI sports announcer and John Ebert, secretary of the Iowa City club.

Ebert said last night that the sponsors hope to stage "one of the best tournaments in the state."

He added that the meet would be closed to all players outside of this district, except the Iowa students, to keep out the "roving stars who travel from one tournament to another during the summer just to pick up the prizes."

All entry applications should be mailed to Brooks at radio station WSUI in Iowa City.

Gophers' Fitch Breaks World Discus Record

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Bob Fitch of the University of Minnesota, yesterday threw the discus 180 feet, 2¾ inches to better the world record mark of 174 feet 10¾ inches established in 1941 by Adolfo Consolini at Milan, Italy.

Fitch, a Minneapolis boy doing post-graduate work at the university, was competing in the Northwest AAU track and field meet. His toss was made against a moderate wind.

Todd, Ghezzi Tie for Lead

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Another star in Texas' brilliant golf constellation seemed in the making yesterday as Harry Todd of Dallas shot his way into a tie with Vic Ghezzi for the lead at the three-quarter mark in the Philadelphia Inquirer Invitation golf tournament.

With Byron Nelson not a competitor and Ben Hogan far down the list, the gangling 28-year-old former amateur toured the pay 70 Lanerch country club course in 66 while swarthy-skinned Ghezzi posted a 70. The pair were bracketed at 205 for 54 holes.

Lew Worsham of Bethesda, Md., the former navy physical education instructor, and leader at the halfway mark with 133, slipped to a third round 73 and shared third place with Mike Turnesa of White Plains, N. Y., the first round pace-setter, who posted a third-round 72 for 206 total.

Grouped at 208, in a tie for fifth place, were a pair of tournament veterans, Herman Barron of White Plains, N. Y., and Jimmy Demaret, of Houston, who had 68 and 69 respectively yesterday and amateur Harry Haverstick Jr. of Lancaster, Pa., who carded a 71 after previous rounds of 70 and 67.

Western Junior Golf Tournament June 18

AMES (AP)—They call it the Western Junior Amateur golf tournament but actually it's an All-America show for the "teenage youngsters who'll play here June 18-21.

More than 100 young sharpshooters, the majority from high schools and colleges, representing at least 16 states will fire their shots over the rugged Iowa State college course.

The Western, founded way back in 1914, hasn't been held since 1932 when William Witzleb of Dixon, Ill., won the individual championship.

The previous year the meet was played at Iowa State with Ben Downing, a member of the Louisiana State university squad, retaining his title.

This year's contestants may not find the course quite as tough as in 1941, for they say the picturesque layout has been "eased off" a bit. It carries a par 71 but that figure has been bettered only about five times and it took a professional, Bill Urban of Fairfield, Ia., to establish the course record at 68.

The lower nine, as they call it, is fairly level but the back nine is described as "up one hill and down another." Together they add up to some 6,000 yards for the lads 19 years old and under to conquer in the Western Junior.

As the tournament hasn't been played for three years, there's not much advance information on the likely favorites although there has been mention of Jimmy Love, a 16-year-old Peoria, Ill., youth who won the Chicago district junior meet a year ago.

Many of Iowa's high school stars will be here. Included in the entry list are boys from Davenport, Des Moines, Ottumwa, Waterloo and Boone.

Parker, Talbert In Net Finals

KANSAS CITY (AP)—United States singles champion Frankie Parker, Los Angeles, and Billy Talbert, Wilmington, Del., second ranking player will meet for the Heart of America National Invitational tennis tournament title today.

Talbert who teams with Gardener Mulloy of Miami, Fla., as doubles champion but who hasn't captured the National singles crown in 12 years of campaigning, won his semi-final match against eighth-rated Hal Surface Jr. of Kansas City, 6-2, 6-2, 7-5.

Parker advanced to the finals by outlasting Mulloy, 6-2, 6-4, 6-8, 6-1.

Comely Mrs. Frank Kovacs, San Francisco, advanced to the women's titular round in defeating Mrs. Wilma Smith, Centralia, Ill., in straight sets 6-2, 6-1. She will meet Mrs. Mary Arnold Prentiss, Los Angeles, rated eighth nationally, for the championship today.

Bartolo's Broken Jaw Ends Fighting Days

NEW YORK (AP)—The fighting days of Sal Bartolo, Boston featherweight who suffered a broken jaw Friday night in losing his title bout with Willie Pep, are over, Dr. Vincent Nardiello said last night.

Bartolo, in St. Clare hospital, his jaws wired together, will be on a liquid diet for at least four weeks, said Nardiello, who also is a New York state athletic physician.

"And because of the break, a comminuted fracture of the lower left jaw, I would say his fighting days are over," the physician added.

300 SUI Graduates Participate In Annual Alumni Day Activity

Luncheon at Currier, Election of Officers Highlight Day's Events

Approximately 300 university alumni, three of whom are members of the Class of '81, participated in Alumni Day activities here yesterday.

Highlighting the day's events was an alumni luncheon at Currier hall, where the class of '46 award to the university and new alumni association officers were presented, groups were introduced by President Virgil M. Hanftler and the annual cup was awarded to the class with the highest percentage of members present at the reunion.

Class Memorial
Gerald K. Chinn, L3 of Iowa City, president of the Association of Senior Class Presidents, presented the class memorial, funds for the painting of a portrait of associate justice of the supreme court, Wiley B. Rutledge, former dean of the college of law.

Representing the chairman of the senior memorial committee, Chinn explained that class funds will be provided for painting the portrait, to be placed permanently in a university building.

President-elect of the Alumni association is John K. von Lackum of Cedar Rapids, who took over office after an association board meeting last night. Other new officers are Harry E. Boyd of Cedar Rapids and Frank E. Herrack Jr. of the University of Indiana, vice-presidents. Bruce E. Mahan will continue as executive secretary.

Constitution Change
After the secretary's report, the association members approved an amendment to their constitution changing the term of the president, vice-presidents and executive secretary from one to two years, the same length of term as that of the directors.

The alumni cup, presented annually to the class with the largest number of living members registered at the alumni office by noon of Alumni Day, was awarded to the liberal arts class of '96. With Sam D. Whiting of Iowa City as organizer, 14 of the 32 living class members were present, a 47 percent record.

Second place was awarded to the college of medicine Class of '96, with 45 percent, 5 of the 11 living members, attending the reunion. Dr. Paul E. Gardner of New Hampton organized the second place group.

The college of dentistry Class of '91 placed third with 6 of the 17 members, or 35 percent present. Their organizer was Dr. L. L. Poston of Davenport.

Although this year marked the reunion for the Classes of '96 and '21, members of other classes dating back to 1881 also attended the reunion.

Class of 1891
From the Class of '81 three members were present—Charles C. Clark of Burlington, Richard B. Wilcox of Carlsbad, N. Mex., and D. V. Jackson of Muscatine, Neb.; Mrs. Homer Johnson of Iowa City and Mr. Clark, who received his law degree in 1886, represented the Class of '86.

Fourteen members of the Class of '91 returned for Alumni Day. They are Murdoch Bannister of Ottumwa; J. E. Conner of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Jennie G. Rice of Iowa City; Mrs. Robert Holmes Seashore of Iowa City; Zoe Williams Seavers of Des Moines.

Mrs. Grace Partridge Smith of Carbondale, Ill.; Mrs. Antonio Stober Hedges of San Diego, Calif.; B. L. Wick of Cedar Rapids; Kate Wickham of Iowa City; Walter L. Anderson of Lincoln, Neb.; F. P. Faville of Des Moines; Harry H. Griffiths of Des Moines; Benjamin C. Hilliard of Denver, Colo.; and Douglas Rogers of Manning.

Members of the Association of Senior Class Presidents and two state board of education members were guests at the luncheon.

Campus Fenced in to Keep Cows Out

Bartsch Recalls When Coeds Were 'All Covered Up'

By BEVERLY BENSON
Daily Iowan Campus Editor

Back at the university for the 50th anniversary of his graduation, Dr. Paul Bartsch of Washington, D. C., reminisced about the days when Charles A. Schaeffer was president of the university, when the two-block campus was enclosed by a barbed wire fence to keep the cows out and the university coeds were "all covered up" with mutton-sleeved and bustled dresses.

Now retired resident associate of the Smithsonian institute, Dr. Bartsch flew back to the university Wednesday to join his classmates of the class of '86, in commemorating their anniversary.

Removal of the barbed wire fence from around the campus was a memorial to the university from the class of '95. Gpinning and denying any part in the escape, Dr. Bartsch explained that the tearing down of the fence and burning of its remains on the present site of Iowa Union, was commemorated in a poem published in a class annual.

"It went something like this," he said, "Whereas the university is not a cow pasture, and whereas the university has not the necessary money to buy a cow; be it resolved that our beloved university be freed from her barbed enthrallment, and be it resolved that the dents should pull the staples and the laws should remove the wires."

"Then there was something else about burning the remains," he added.

"I remember the time that the Class of '95 frats and bars went into session on the second floor of Old Capitol to elect their officers," he continued. "After hours of deadlock, they started fighting and pulling up chairs—we had classrooms in Old Capitol then—and old Jimmy, the night watchman, came running in and yelling 'Stop! You're all under arrest. Stop! I know you all; at least I know one of you!' Then Jimmy was hit by one of the pieces of flying furniture."

"Then came the board of regents investigation. The class offered to make restitutions for all damages, but the board suspended all the class officers for a year. When Jimmy was called up for testimony, he refused to 'talk,' and the boys carried him on their shoulders all through town."

One difference between the old and present days, Dr. Bartsch commented, is that girls today are smoking cigarettes in the streets. Then they would have been expelled. "The entire student fraternity has fallen victim to Lady Nicotine," he said. Then he smiled and added, "But there are worse things."

that they were classic students, so splendidly equipped with broad viewpoints that even today they stand out as most remarkable men.

"To men like Calvin, Macbride, Nutting, Houser, Wickham, Leonidas, Andrews and Wilson I owe a debt of wide understanding of the basic subjects that I can never repay," Dr. Bartsch said.

Especially Prof. Samuel Calvin's theory of a basic pyramid of educational knowledge before specialization, he added, has served as a guiding light for him throughout his life.

They were classic students, so splendidly equipped with broad viewpoints that even today they stand out as most remarkable men.
