U.S. Offers to Destroy Supply of Atom Bombs

Plan Provides World Control Of Power

NEW YORK (AP)—The United States yesterday offered to destroy the store of atomic bombs and share the atomic secrets for peaceful use if the world would set up adequate safeguards to make sure this weapon never again could be used as an instrument of war.

Mihailovic Admits Personal Collaboration With Italians While Commanding Chetniks

BELGRADE (AP)—Gen. Draza Mihailovic admitted wearily yesterday that he had collaborated personally with the enemy while commanding his Chetnik troops in Yugoslavia.

Earlier he had testified that he had been promised United States support exclusively for his movement by the head of the American mission to his Chetnik headquarters.

Two Anamosa Convicts Taken Near Preston

PRESTON (AP)—Two inmates of the Anamosa state reformatory, who fatally injured a guard when escaping Wednesday, were captured late yesterday on a farm near here.

The capture was made about 10 miles east of a wooded area where the pair had hidden themselves at 3:30 a. m. after pursuing police officers shot holes in the tires of a stolen automobile they were driving.

President Discloses Unsuccessful Attempt To Dissuade Jackson

Says Vatican Mission Will End When World Peace is Accomplished

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
President Truman at his weekly news conference yesterday disclosed that he tried in vain to stop Justice Jackson from issuing his attack on Justice Black.

Announced that the office of war mobilization and reconversion will not fold after all and that Dr. John R. Steelman will succeed John W. Snyder as its head.

Reported chances very good for settling the maritime strike during the day.

Described Bernard M. Baruch's atomic energy proposals to the United Nations as following a presidential policy rather than the Acheson-Lilienthal report.

Said Myron C. Taylor's diplomatic mission to the Vatican will end when world peace is accomplished.

Named Paul V. McNutt as first ambassador to the Philippines report which comes into being July 4.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman revealed yesterday that he tried to stop Supreme Court Justice Jackson from issuing his sensational blast at Justice Black but Jackson went ahead anyway.

Jackson sent the president an advance copy of his statement describing his "feud" with Black and assailing the latter's participation in supreme court decisions in which his former law partner was interested.

He said McDowell had assured him. "When the Russians reach the frontier the red army will not enter Yugoslavia." Asked whether McDowell had told him "the Russians are practical politicians and would see the situation on the terrain," Mihailovic replied, "yes, he did."

"Col. McDowell told me America would support me and my government and my movement exclusively," Mihailovic asserted.

He said that McDowell also told him that "American youth is not fighting for Communism and does not want Communism in Yugoslavia," and that "your struggle against the Germans does not interest us. Your duty is to hold your people."

Mihailovic estimated that his forces rescued between 300 and 400 American fliers in 1944 "during the time they were flying over Yugoslavia to Hungary and Romania."

Stassen Endorses Baruch Atomic Energy Report

By GENE GOODWIN
Editor, The Daily Iowan
DES MOINES (Special)—Former Minnesota Governor Harold Stassen last night applauded the United States departure from "the absolute concept of national sovereignty" as manifested in the "splendid" Baruch report on atomic energy.

Speaking before delegates at the first national convention of the American Veterans Committee, Stassen strongly urged "the establishment of the control of atomic energy on a worldwide level at an early date so that it may be a blessing to mankind rather than a curse."

"This concept of absolute national sovereignty arose at the same time as the divine rights of kings and is just as out of date," the speaker added.

Stassen expressed optimism over future relations between Russia, Great Britain and the United States. "I believe these relationships can and must be satisfactorily worked out on a basis of loyalty within each country of its citizens to their own country," he said.

"It is my view that those who reasonably and persistently follow the line of some country other than their own do not serve the interests of either their country or mankind."

"Specifically, I believe that the activities of the Communists within this country since the end of the war have been harmful to the United States and also harmful to Russia and have injured the cause of world peace," Stassen asserted.

Foment Disturb
The ex-governor also told the World War II AVC delegates that "extreme reactionaries have caused equal damage; they have fomented distrust and distorted news; they have followed fascistic motives and have brought out a stream of vilification."

Stassen pegged both the Communists and reactionaries in the United States as obstructionists to the development of friendly relationships on a sound basis in world affairs.

Resoundingly applauded by the AVC delegates at frequent intervals during his address, Stassen urged the development and strengthening of the United Nations, and the use at an early date of the amending convention procedure.

(This provision was included in the United Nations charter on the specific plea that millions of men in all the United Nations were in the armed services during the entire period of the development of Dumbarton Oaks and the charter and had no opportunity to make their influence felt and their views known upon this vital subject.)

"Inherent in every human being is a deep regard for the rights and dignity of the 'other fella,'" Stassen pointed out, "and we need to build our world government on that."

"There will be those who will scoff at that idea just as there are those who scoff at what the American Veterans Committee is trying to do."

Declaring that we need men in this world who are willing to "assault the pillboxes of intolerance and face the spitting guns of hatred," the speaker lashed out at cynics who say that world peace cannot be achieved.

"All progress has been made," Stassen stated, "because someone did what others said couldn't be done."

Attacks Congress
Yesterday's plenary session opened with a Flag Day address by Bishop Bernard J. Sheil, auxiliary bishop of the Catholic diocese of Chicago. Attacking congressional lethargy on such issues as the poll tax, the fair employment practices commission, full employment, housing, compulsory medical insurance and the minimum wage laws, Bishop Sheil asserted that "the present congress firmly believes in walking straight up to, and then quickly around, every problem brought to its attention. No congress has had so great an opportunity; and no congress has been so weak in its side-stepping of issues."

Welcoming addresses were given yesterday morning by Gov. Robert Blue and Des Moines Mayor John McVicker. Delegates also heard reports from Charles G. Bolte, national AVC chairman, and Gilbert Harrison, founder of the organization.

Oren Root, former head of the Young Willkie clubs, presided at the panel which featured Stassen's address. Other panel participants included Col. Campbell Johnson, executive assistant to General Hershey; Cord Meyer Jr., Stassen's aide at the San Francisco conferences in 1945, and a number of representatives from foreign countries.

Root, Stassen and Meyer are all AVC members.

Secretary of Commerce Henry Wallace will speak to the delegates tonight. He will be the main speaker of a forum on "The future of the veteran in the American economy," at which Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. will preside.

Unions Agree To Settlement At Last Minute

Bridges, Curran Claim Unprecedented Victory For Shipping Workers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The maritime labor dispute was settled last night at almost the very moment when a great nationwide shipping strike was to begin.

Granville Conway, war shipping administrator, told reporters the agreement "had been signed and sealed."

Harry Bridges and Joseph Curran, co-chairmen of the committee for maritime unity, a few minutes before had announced to reporters separately that their own unions had reached agreements, subject to ratification of the membership.

Bridges and Curran issued a statement at 10:20 p. m. CST claiming for the CMU "an unprecedented victory for all maritime workers and for the laboring people of America."

Bridges and Curran said these were the terms won by the unions allied in the CMU:

1. For seamen—40 hour week in all ports; $17.50 monthly increase, retroactive to April 1; all work performed on Sunday at sea to be paid at the overtime rate which is raised to $1 an hour. Other collateral issues to be negotiated in the next 30 days and if no agreement is reached, these issues will be submitted to arbitration.

2. For radio operators—a wage increase of $17.50 a month and arbitration of an "additional amount to preserve historic differentials;" overtime rate for all work performed at sea on Sunday (meaning overtime after a 48 hour week); arbitration of new overtime rate and additional radio operator on all cargo ships.

3. Engineers—provision for overtime for Sunday at sea, and a 40-hour week in port.

4. Longshoremen—Increase of 22 cents an hour as recommended by a fact-finding board, retroactive to last Oct. 1.

Operators Agree
Bridges explained that the last stumbling block over signature of the west coast waterfront contract had been resolved with the operators agreeing to sign in behalf of all the members of the association instead of merely as an association.

This had delayed settlement, Bridges said, for two hours, with the employers finally agreeing at approximately 9:30 p. m. CST.

Denny Criticizes U. N. Planners

Moderator of Town Meeting Gives First Summer Series Talk

Commenting Bernard Baruch's report made yesterday morning as "just the beginning of setting our feet on the right path," George V. Denny Jr., moderator of America's Town Meeting of the Air, said that in our "stupid, inept, uncourageous" leadership at San Francisco we compromised basic American principles and passed world leadership over to Russia.

Denny spoke here last night at the first of a series of the university's 11th consecutive summer session lecture programs "Not United Nations."

At San Francisco, he said, we pretended we were united nations when there were actually basic conflicts. Comparing the meeting to a shotgun wedding, Denny said that such an agreement, with the absence of compatibility, seldom works.

Denny added that we can recapture our leadership of the world if we quickly build a framework of law with a check of a bill of rights, the protection of the people against the tyranny of government.

UN Charter "Hypocritical"
The San Francisco charter he condemned as "thoroughly hypocritical" and the "greatest fraud ever put across on the American people."

Baruch's statement is representative of the most important commission ever appointed by the president, he said, because implicit in the report is the application of law to world relations. "How can you have law without government?" Denny challenged.

Denny declared that we face two major problems in getting out of the "mess" we are in. Domestically, he said, our biggest problem is that of individual security. "Men and women fearful of their own security are resorting to a series of expedients about to destroy the last vestige of freedom."

ment, Denny declared that management during the last five or 10 years has allowed the individual to turn to an artificial group, the labor union, and attach his sentiments to that group instead of to management "where it belongs."

The second great problem is the international field, where, after centuries of progress, we have reached the state where we now have 63 great outlaws—the 63 sovereign nations of the world, Denny said.

The essential lesson of the atomic bomb, Denny declared, is that if we are going to survive, we must use our minds with integrity.

Method for Solution
Denny warned that if we wish to use our minds to solve the problems of our world today, we must reverse our habits and start using 90 percent of our time in studying the economic, social and political problems of the world and only 10 percent in the pursuit of money.

The round-table discussion of Denny's speech scheduled for tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock as part of the last day of the adult education conference has been cancelled because Denny will be unable to remain in Iowa City. The event scheduled for 1:30 p. m. will take place at 9:30 a. m.

League of Nations, according to Denny was more honest than the San Francisco charter in defining itself merely as a

Italian Leader Calls For United Republic

ROME (AP)—Premier Alcide de Gasperi, provisional head of state, called upon the Italian people yesterday in a conciliatory speech to forget the rancors of the Monarchist-Republican controversy and unite behind the republic.

The words of the Christian Democratic leader were deliberately calm and soothing even bearing toward the exiled Umberto II. They contrasted with the cabinet's sharp retort earlier to Umberto's charges that appointment of de Gasperi constituted a "revolutionary action."

The speech, broadcast by radio, was intended evidently to placate rising Italian passions in a situation in which responsible persons had referred darkly to "revolution" and "civil war."

De Gasperi told his countrymen: "We have an immense work of reconstruction before us. The climb is hard. Men of good will, give us your hand—whatever your vote has been—because otherwise, without this common effort, we will not succeed."

Partisans of the republic and the monarchy seemed calm yesterday. Few signs of trouble were reported anywhere.

Big 4 Ministers Arrive In Paris Amid Reports Of Continued Deadlock

PARIS (AP)—Principals in the foreign ministers conference arrived yesterday amid reports that the United States and Russia were just as deadlocked on the peace treaties as when the ministers left here a month ago.

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, United States Secretary of State James F. Byrnes and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov arrived by planes to join French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault at the council table today at 3 p. m. (8 a. m. CST).

Sources close to Byrnes said there had been no diplomatic exchanges between Washington and Moscow in connection with the peace treaties since the ministers recessed last month, and that if the Russians had relented in their stand it could be learned only after the conference reconvenes.

OKAYS BIKINI TEST

WASHINGTON (AP)—The senate gave the navy a go-ahead yesterday for the atomic bomb tests at Bikini despite the protests of two senators that the big blast might jar the nation's efforts toward world peace.

When that time finally comes, he said, the United States would be willing to agree that the manufacture of atomic bombs shall stop, all existing bombs shall be destroyed and the authority shall be given full information 'as to the know-how for the production of atomic energy.'

Baruch emphasized, however, that the United States would take these steps only after the nations had joined in a pact to outlaw the atomic bomb as an instrument of war and had ratified treaties for adequate control and punishment of violators.

This means that the United States would not yield her atomic secrets until the senate approved by two-thirds vote all treaties embodying these terms. Thus, the senate would be the judge of whether proper guarantees had been set up.

"Before a country is ready to relinquish any winning weapons," Baruch asserted, "it must have more than words to reassure it. It must have a guarantee of safety, not only against the offenders in the atomic area, but against the illegal users of other weapons—bacteriological, biological, gas—perhaps, why not?—against war itself?"

Baruch suggested several acts which the United States felt should be punishable by "penalties of as serious a nature as the nations may wish." These included illegal possession of an atomic bomb, illegal possession of atomic material suitable for use in an atomic bomb, seizure of any plant or other property belonging to the authority, willful interference with activities of the authority, or creation or operation of dangerous projects in a manner contrary to a license granted by the international control body.

Eventually, he said, if the plan is approved, the international authority would control virtually every phase of atomic development from raw material to production and distribution.

Editorial:

Blood and Greed—A History of Cartels

When the light of victory was clearly seen in 1944, and the world began to prepare for the forthcoming peace, President Roosevelt sent a letter to Secretary of State Cordell Hull, in which he said, "Cartels must be eradicated."

His speech denouncing German monopoly and cartel practices, which was made before the senate's Kilgore committee Aug. 30, 1944, was a forerunner of a move to enlist the collaboration of the United Nations governments to outlaw cartel arrangements.

Cartel agreements must be abolished. The war has proved to every citizen at least two things: (1) Cartel agreements at the first of the war resulted in loss of life and money for the Allies; (2) Production of a certain few materials has been kept low so that the prices all over the world could be kept unnecessarily high.

A prime example of selfish cartel agreements is illustrated vividly by the name "Bataan." When men on Bataan were dying of malaria, it was for lack of quinine, which was made unavailable by the Kina bureau at Amsterdam.

Java gained control of 95 percent of the world's cinchona trees, when South America's supply was quickly exhausted. The Dutch managed to keep the knowledge a secret to such an extent that even today we do not know certain scientific tree-caring methods or production costs.

German and Dutch quinine manufacturers formed a cartel in 1892 and became a closely-knit unit in 1913 under the Kina bureau of Amsterdam. In 1938 there was not enough quinine produced to supply the 25,000,000 malaria victims. The Japanese were producing only 30 percent of their capacity.

The I. G. Farbenindustrie counter-blocked the Dutch by developing atabrine, which in some respects is more efficient than quinine in that a ton of atabrine will take care of about 300,000 cases of malaria, while a ton of quinine will suffice for only 30,000 cases.

In 1921 an agreement, signed by Bausch and Lomb of the United States and the Zeiss company of Germany for a limit of twenty-one years, monopolized the supply of optical glass for military purposes. Under the arrangements between these two concerns, secret American information was furnished to the Nazis.

Let us hope that two wars have proved to us that American businessmen, who fell so greedily to monopolistic ideas before, might fall just as greedily again. We cannot let these cartel relationships develop again if we value the idea of world peace.

stroy the confidence of the Nazi collaborators. Acetic acid, which is necessary for the manufacturing of fireproof photographic film, plastics and pharmaceuticals, was again tied up by I. G. Farben. In 1941, the Niacet Chemical company, which, owing to cartel agreements, was the only company in the United States allowed to make acetic acid, said it could not meet more than 50 percent of its commitments to regular customers, let alone increase production.

Aluminum was another of our scarce articles owing to I. G. Farben control. In 1940, the company produced 50,000 tons of the product, while our production was under 5,000 tons. Of this amount, 40 percent was used in the United States for aluminum alloys and the rest was sent to Germany and Japan.

When the president asked for 50,000 airplanes a year, which would amount to approximately 800,000,000 pounds of aluminum, we could produce no more than 375,000,000 pounds. In December of 1940, the Northrop Aircraft corporation had to reduce operating hours by 20 percent because of the scarcity of aluminum.

The second point, that prices have been kept high on some products, not because they are not available, but because they are not for sale, is just as outrageous as the shortage of materials when World War II began.

Hard metal composition, an alloy used to cut tools needed for the manufacture of munitions, aircraft, tanks and ships, costs about $25 a pound to produce. In August, 1940, it was selling for $205 a pound and ten percent of the price was being paid to a German cartel. Before we had entered the agreement in 1927, the average selling price was $48 a pound, but since then, it has sold as high as $453 a pound.

Magnesium, because of its great strength and light weight (one-third the weight of aluminum) has also become a victim of warring Germany's "must-have" list. Because of a German cartel, the United States was producing only 2,500 tons of this valuable metal per year, while Germany had been consistently turning out 19,000 tons a year.

Besides this, the Dow Chemical company, the only producer of magnesium in the United States, was forced to sell the metal for thirty cents a pound in this country and twenty-one cents a pound when exported to Germany.

Another agreement, more closely related to each of us, was among American, British and German chemical companies. This arrangement made it possible for the sale of the same plastic material to commercial molders at 85 cents a pound and to dental laboratories at $45 a pound. The Germans even tried to produce the 85-cent product with the same quality but of cheaper materials so as to protect the $45 market.

During the past twenty years, from 1923 (when the inflation in Germany wiped out her debt and cost of World War I) and we handed her nine million dollars followed by an investment of two million dollars) until 1943, these cartel devices have been Germany's first line of assault.

Not all cartels were controlled by German concerns; yet, because restrictions in other countries served the interest of Germany, every Dutch, English or American monopolist who signed a cartel agreement limiting his own output has added to German power.

Let us hope that two wars have proved to us that American businessmen, who fell so greedily to monopolistic ideas before, might fall just as greedily again. We cannot let these cartel relationships develop again if we value the idea of world peace.

The second production by the company, on tour in America from Old Vic Company over the Columbia Broadcasting System was "Peer Gynt" by Henrik Ibsen, adapted for radio by Workshop writers. This favorite Ibsen play was presented in a 90-minute program Sunday, June 10, sponsored by the CBS Workshop.

Richardson's reading of Peer was excellent, it contained a full understanding of this fellow who always went around obstacles instead of meeting them head-on. The scene between Peer and Asa (Peer's mother) as she lay dying was one of the most touching scenes to be done in radio and made other death scenes from the day-time-series seem weak in comparison.

Perhaps some of the faults in both of the Old Vic productions can be explained by lack of rehearsal time. Olivier had made previous arrangements with a commercial company for a production for Readers Digest at the same time "Richard" was being rehearsed and then on the very next Sunday he made a deal with United States Steel to do "Theatre Guild on the Air."

Unity In China

By JOHN RODERICK AP Newsfeatures

NANKING—A current of suspicion flowing out of nearly two decades of Kuomintang-Communist quarrels is holding up unification of China under a coalition government. There are a number of reasons why the Communists, the Democratic League and other minority parties have refused to join the Kuomintang in a coalition government to serve until one can be chosen under a new constitution.

At January's unity talks in Chungking, it was agreed that the Kuomintang would have 20 seats on the council, the Communists 14 and other parties, including the Democratic League, six.

There was an extremely high mortality rate among the musical shows this season, and it wasn't from lack of capital altogether. Many of the show represented an investment of more than $300,000. The most costly musical was "Nellie Bly" which also went the way to Cain's warehouse.

One of the 10 best novels to come out this year is Adria Locke Langley's "A Lion in the Street." This unique novel takes its title from Proverbs 26, 13-14, "The slothful man saith, there is a lion in the way; a lion is in the street. As the door turneth upon his hinges, so does the slothful upon his bed."

Asks Effective Voluntary Food Rationing Plan

Although a majority of Americans favor our government's efforts to relieve present and threatened starvation throughout large areas of the world and endorse the voluntary fats and grain saving program urged by the President, most of these same Americans are making, at best, only a half-hearted attempt to do the duty which they recognize. Sacrifice and self-denial are difficult, but it is easier when it is a common program of a group than when done in individual isolation.

Recognizing this, Princeton university and the Borough of Princeton instituted in May a stringent system of voluntary food rationing on a community basis for a 30-day period. The program calls for four breadless meals each week to be served by hotels, restaurants and the various educational institutions' dining halls and stoppage of retail sales of bread by grocery stores and bakers on Thursdays and total abstinence from bread consumption in private homes the same day. Wednesday is designated as a day when all dishes cooked with fats are to be omitted in restaurants, student eating places and homes. Local food dealers unanimously agreed to support the plan as well as uni-

Bikini Atoll Becomes Temporary Playground

AP Newsfeatures

BIKINI ATOLL—A visitor to this Marshall island atoll would never think that the awesome atomic bomb soon will let go out in the lagoon and perhaps blow everything to kingdom come. A thousand Seabees are swarming over the little coral island, transforming it into something it never was when Marshall islanders lived here for centuries—into a modern playground.

These elaborate preparations are for the relaxation of hundreds of navy men and scientists amid final preparations for the atomic bomb explosion. Up above the palms are rearing 75-foot steel towers which will be the eyes of the Navy when atomic bombardiers loose their missile on the fleet of test ships in the lagoon.

These fish will be compared with any survivors in the warm lagoon waters. The supply navy is complete from power plants to postage stamps. There are even tankers with fresh water and supply ships capable of distilling 120,000 gallons daily from the sea, for Bikini has no fresh water supply.

SUI Fine Arts Festival Schedule Announced

4 Exhibits, 3 Plays, Concerts to Highlight Program for Summer

2nd Exhibition to Open In Art Building, Union; Lectures Scheduled

The complete schedule for the 1946 university Fine Arts festival, to continue through Aug. 7, was announced yesterday by Dr. Earl E. Harper, director of the school of fine arts.

Four art exhibits, three university plays, and recitals and concerts by the university music department will be included in the festival program, he said.

The second summer exhibition of contemporary art will open tomorrow in Iowa Union and the art building. Other exhibits include a showing of paintings and sculptor works and prints by faculty members and students in the art building, an exhibit of paintings drawn from the art department's permanent gallery in the women's lounge of Iowa Union and reproductions from the Iowa Union rental gallery and etchings from the Union collection in the Union lobby.

Four lectures have been scheduled in connection with the exhibition of contemporary art. Prof. Lester D. Longman, head of the art department, will speak Sunday, June 24; Mary Holmes of the art department, Monday, July 1; Prof. Louis Zerby of the philosophy department, Monday, July 8, and Prof. Arnold Gillette of the dramatic arts department, Monday, July 15. All the addresses will take place at 4 p. m. in the art building.

Visitors to the exhibit will be conducted on tours through the art building and Iowa Union at 4 p. m. Wednesdays and Saturdays, beginning Wednesday.

Plays to be presented by the dramatic arts department include "I Remember Mama," Thursday and Friday; "Julius Caesar," July 8 to 16, and "Taming of the Shrew," July 27 to Aug. 2. In addition, Dr. Harper said, two first-run plays will be produced in Macbride auditorium at dates to be announced later.

The university symphony orchestra, directed by Prof. Phillip Greeley Clapp, head of the music department, will present a concert July 2 at 8 p. m. in Iowa Union. A choral concert will be presented in Iowa Union at 8 p. m. July 31. The first of the summer faculty string quartets will be presented Wednesday at 8 p. m. in studio E, radio building.

Julie Andre, Latin-American mezzo soprano and guitarist, to be here in conjunction with the Inter-American conference June 27-29, will present a concert in Iowa Union at 8 p. m. June 27.

Special lectures, seminars and luncheon discussions open to the public will be announced from time to time, Dr. Harper said. Auditors are welcome to rehearsals of the orchestra or chorus, he added.

1945-'46 Enrollment In School of Religion Establishes Record

Enrollment in the school of religion reached an all-time high during the academic year 1945-46 with 1,173 students, Dr. M. Willard Lampe reported yesterday. Greatest number of students, 657, was enrolled during the second semester, while first semester total was 456.

Dr. Lampe pointed out that the school is entering its 20th year as a part of the university. Beginning as somewhat of an experiment and following a completely uncharted course in education, the school served the student body with an inclusive approach, he said. It has become a model for other schools of religion in American state universities.

Physics Colloquium Indicates Better Courses to Be Offered

College physicists at a round-table discussion conducted here yesterday afternoon in conjunction with a three-day physics colloquium, indicated that in the future more selective and analytical courses would be available for non-science majors, with a greater emphasis placed upon laboratory experimentation.

Leader of the discussion was Dean Russell Cooper of the college of liberal arts at the University of Minnesota.

In a list of 12 general education needs presented before the colloquium, Dean Cooper listed effective communication, responsible citizenship, scientific understanding, aesthetic appreciation, critical judgment and intellectual curiosity as particular needs which are common to all people.

A secret weapon that helped shorten the war in Europe and the Pacific was described by Dr. R. D. Hutton of the United States bureau of standards in a lecture, "The Proximity Fuse," before the colloquium last night.

"We disproved the old adage that a miss is as good as a mile," said Doctor Hutton, in outlining some of the problems of research and development of the fuse that he helped to perfect.

Heart of the fuse is a tiny radio tube no larger than a paper clip, which sends and receives high frequency signals during the flight of a projectile. This area of radio sensitivity causes the bomb or shell to explode in the presence of the target.

Although radar means radio detection and range, it might well mean radio direction and range, Prof. L. A. Turner, head of the physics department told physicists at a morning session of the colloquium yesterday.

Field progress has found, he said, that it was possible to rotate radar antennae and locate the direction of its object to a target.

Impelled by the military need to get radar into fighter planes, Professor Turner explained, British scientists at Birmingham university devised a cavity magnatron beam which made it possible to get pulses of energy at about 10 kilowatts an hour.

The ministry is a family affair with the Webbers, especially this Sunday, when two Webber brothers will conduct the morning Father's day services at the First Baptist church, of which their father, M. D. Webber, is chairman of the board of trustees.

Attending the services will be thirty members of the Webber family, who will come to Iowa City Sunday to hold a Father's day reunion.

Education Meets Debates Adult Classes Bill

A bill to provide for the establishment and maintenance of day and evening classes and public forums in Iowa's public schools for the education of adults was discussed in yesterday's afternoon session of the adult education conference.

Officers for next year were also elected at the afternoon session. Alice V. Myers of Des Moines was reelected president, Forrest B. Spaulding of Des Moines was reelected vice-president and W. H. Stacy of Ames was reelected secretary. Ross C. Cramlet of Des Moines was elected treasurer, succeeding R. W. Tallman, also of Des Moines.

During the morning session Cramlet spoke on "How Industry Uses Films in Training Programs," and Bruce E. Mahan, director of the extension division at the university, talked on "Films for Adult Education Programs." Mahan said that films were used to a large extent in training work-
