GOOD MORNING, IOWA CITY!

The weatherman is dampening the spirits of Iowans today by predicting partly cloudy and continued warm with scattered thundershowers.

See Possible Relief in July For Meat, Bread Shortages

Shippers Reported Holding Back Livestock Awaiting Fate of OPA

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Meat and bread—two main staples in the nation's diet—were harder to find yesterday than at any time during the war. Prospects were that the tight supply would continue at least the remainder of the month.

In July, trade sources believe, things should start getting better. Economic Stabilizer Chester Bowles predicted more meat would be available for a few months after July 1, regardless of how congress decides on the question of future price ceilings. The bread shortage, Bowles added, would be "eased considerably" in 30 days.

The department of agriculture supported Bowles' contention that some of the current meat shortage was caused by some shippers holding back livestock to see if price controls are dropped after June 30.

The Millers' National federation, a trade association of millers, echoed Bowles' prediction of an improved bread flour outlook in 30 days for parts of the country but said the full benefit of the current winter wheat harvest wouldn't be realized generally until about Sept. 1.

Most midwestern and eastern states will start receiving this new grain when the harvest moves northward through Kansas. The harvest began in southeast Nebraska yesterday and already has started in Kansas.

Although relief was forecast, a spot survey of cities across the nation showed butcher shops either had no meat to offer or could meet only a small percentage of the demand. Bread supplies, although somewhat improved in some sections, still were far below demand.

Legislation to lift ceiling prices on meat, livestock and poultry has passed the senate and is before a senate-house conference committee. Bowles, however, contended that more meat would be available for the nation's dinner tables regardless of the final form of the OPA bill, to be acted upon by July 1.

In his weekly radio address, he said cattle and hog producers were holding up shipments until the price issue finally was settled. He added:

"If ceilings are taken off, prices are bound to be substantially higher. If they are kept on, you'll get meat at ceiling prices. But in either case, you'll get meat."

Bowles said the outlook was for about 135 to 140 pounds of meat a person this year, compared with 165 pounds demand and the pre-war average of 125 pounds.

Fears "Worst"
At Ashland, Kentucky, H. A. Homan, secretary of the Big Sandy Elkhorn Coal Operators association said unless some action is taken soon he fears "the worst."

"Either the mines will be forced to close or we will see food riots," he asserted.

Commander Gordon King, naval administrator of the coal fields in the Big Sandy area, said he was "worried." Beyond this, he had no comment.

Congressmen Prepare for Flight to Bikini

Truman 'Undecided' On Hobbs Measure

'Anti-Racketeering' Bill Denounced in Existing Form by CIO Officials

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman was reported, yesterday as undecided what to do about the Hobbs labor "anti-racketeering" bill although many of his friends on capitol hill said they believed he would let it become law.

Officials who discussed the matter with the president after the senate unexpectedly passed the measure Friday said they gained the impression Mr. Truman would like to sign it but remains dubious about its effect without an amendment labor organizations had suggested.

Denouncing the bill as "anti-labor" in its existing form, the CIO proposed last week that it be amended to provide specific exemptions from the measure's felony penalties for legitimate labor activities such as picketing. The president himself had suggested the same sort of provision when he vetoed the Case bill containing the identical wording of the Hobbs measure.

But a surprise move by Senator Hatch (D., N. M.), long-time friend of Mr. Truman, put the "anti-racketeering" proposal through the senate Friday without any amendment on an apparently unanimous voice vote.

Hatch told a reporter he is confident Mr. Truman will sign it as it stands. Another senator, who asked not to be quoted by name, said he was informed the justice department is recommending that the president permit it to become law.

Military Attache Jailed

TEHRAN (AP)—Col. William T. Sexton, of Leavenworth, Kan., American military attache in Tehran, returned from Tabriz yesterday and reported that he and three aides were jailed for eight hours by Azerbaijan democrats in the Azerbaijan capital.

A spokesman said the American embassy had protested to the Iranian government.

'Miles Ahead' Iowa Demos Adopt Election Slogan

DES MOINES (AP)—Democratic state headquarters had a busy day yesterday. First, it announced its slogan for the Frank Miles for governor campaign—author undisclosed: "Miles Ahead."

Then, as an example "that the value of saying much in a few words is duly appreciated in Miles' headquarters," headquarters issued an acoustic "written by Frank Miles himself" as to the attributes of a Democrat.

The acoustic: Determined, energetic, magnanimous, optimistic, conscientious, resourceful, aggressive, tactful.

"The first letters spell out the word Democrat," the announcement pointed out.

Headquarters announced Miles will spend most of next week in and around Des Moines at a party conference prior to the county convention scheduled Friday. He will speak, however, Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday evenings, respectively, at Bloomfield, Wellman and Pleasantville.

State Chairman Jake More announced the appointment of Don Wine of Oelwein as state organizer of Young Democrats' clubs and said Wine would be in Sioux City Monday and Tuesday and LeMars Wednesday.

24-Hour Battle Ends In Death of 820 Rats

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Adolphe Bufo, Wilton farmer, counted 820 large dead rats yesterday following a fantastic day and night battle reminiscent of the middle ages.

Aided only by a dog, two cats, a can of poison and a club, Bufo said he struggled a day and night to save his flock of 50 chickens from the "invaders" and, though exhausted at the end of the fight, he was successful.

Seek Anonymous Caller

McKEESPORT, Pa. (AP)—This city's entire, 65-man police force conducted a virtual door-to-door search yesterday for the anonymous telephone caller who threatened to "blow-off" the head of the mayor's wife unless he ceased his anti-gambling campaign.

Russia Again Rejects Attempt To Convoke Peace Conference

PARIS (AP)—Russia rejected yesterday another American attempt to convoke the general European peace conference July 15 on grounds that the conference of foreign ministers was not yet far enough along in its work, an American informant said.

The ministers then decided to set next Friday as a deadline for work on the Italian and Balkan treaties, and to speed up their activities by meeting twice daily instead of once.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov said he would be ready at the end of next week to size up the council's progress to date, French informants said.

United States Secretary of State James P. Byrnes appealed to the ministers to send out invitations now to the 21-nation peace conference, to keep in session right up to July 15 if necessary, and to let the larger conference pass on any differences which still remained, British and American sources said.

Gen. Erskine Opens Campaign to Remove Educational Red Tape

WASHINGTON (AP)—Opening his assignment to "smash the educational bottlenecks," marine Gen. Graves B. Erskine yesterday studied proposals for turning big army and navy installations—and even ships—into college campuses.

"The idea of shipboard colleges doesn't appeal to some landlubbers," the resourceful two-star veteran of Pacific fighting told a reporter. "But it may be one answer to our problem."

He was appointed "bottleneck smasher" for John R. Steelman, new director of the office of war mobilization and reconversion. His specific assignment is to speed the transfer of more government property, both through donation and sale, to schools.

Government authorities have estimated a record-breaking total of 2,080,000 students will seek admission to colleges next fall.

Report Three Others In Good Health, Still In Abductors' Custody

JERUSALEM, Sunday (AP)—British military authorities disclosed last night that two of the five British officers who were kidnapped from an officers' club in Tel Aviv June 18 had been released.

The announcement said the two officers were freed within a few yards of the hotel from which they were abducted by an armed gang. The hotel housed the officers' club.

Officers Identified
An official source identified the two officers who were released as Flight Lt. P. A. E. Russell of the Royal Air Force and Capt. D. T. Rae of the Royal Engineers.

Reports from Tel Aviv quoted Russell and Rae as saying "the other three are in good health and doing fine." However, the army would divulge no other information concerning the three officers still, apparently, in custody of their abductors.

Locate House
Meanwhile, military sources here said that the Jerusalem house in which Maj. H. P. Chadwick, a sixth British officer who was abducted under different circumstances, was held and from which he escaped Thursday night by leaping from a window, had been located and identified by the officer.

It is a grubby little hut in the Bucharian quarter and had been long abandoned after having last been used as a stable. Military sources said a person living near the hut had been arrested, but escaped from police while en route to a police station for questioning. He was not recaptured.

The officers were believed to have been seized by members of Irgun Zvai Leumi, an underground Jewish movement, as hostages for two members of that organization who are under sentence of death.

Gas Caused Blast
DALLAS (AP)—Dallas Fire Marshal B. C. Hilton said late yesterday that gas accumulations of an undetermined type probably touched off the Baker hotel basement explosion which killed eight persons and injured 41 others Friday morning.

PARIS, Sunday (AP)—President Georges Bidault announced last night that a new coalition government in which members of the Communist and Socialist parties would serve beside members of his own Popular Republican Movement (MRP) would be formed today, thus ending France's governmental crisis.

The Communists, after conferring late last night with Bidault, indicated their willingness to compromise on the issue of trade union wage demands.

The Socialists, who previously declared they would not take part in the government unless the Communists did, announced today that members of their party would serve in Bidault's cabinet.

Church Suggests U.S. Accept Deprivations

Aiding United Nations' Effectiveness Urged By Congregationalists

GRINNELL (AP)—The Congregational Church declared yesterday "The United States should accept such necessary limitations upon its sovereignty as will enable the United Nations to function effectively."

At the same time, the general council of Congregational Christian churches, in biennial convention here, agreed to "work for international abolition of conscription as inimical to the cause of Christian democracy."

The action came as the council approved a report of its world order and relief section, which also recommended support of "any necessary return to rationing" to aid the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

Reduction and regulation of national armaments and support of the United Nations atomic control commission also were urged. The group called for a program to make room in the United States for a greater number of immigrants, especially Jewish refugees from Europe, and for repeal of the Oriental exclusion law.

The report said the church should work for "the widest possible understanding and common action with Great Britain, Soviet Russia and other victor nations" for international justice.

The section asked a budget of about $1,000,000 annually, an increase of 37 percent over present contributions, for foreign mission work.

The council also approved its evangelism section's report which set a goal of 240,000 new church members and 100,000 new students for church schools.

A resolution asking the general council of the church to discontinue financial support of the council for social action was presented to the resolutions committee yesterday.

The resolution also asked "effective divorcement of CSA from all official or organic relationships" with the church and its other agencies. It was backed by a petition signed by 15 of the 1,007 delegates present.

The council was expected to act upon it Monday or Tuesday, however, by accepting sectional reports based on the "Columbus Resolutions."

The "Columbus Resolutions" were adopted by the federal council of Churches of Christ in America recently at Columbus, Ohio.

They urged, among other things, greater activity by the church in the improvement of race relations and rural conditions and more interest in economic and social problems nationally and internationally.

16 Die in Explosion

ROME (AP)—Sixteen persons were killed and 76 were injured Friday when a mine dump exploded near Campobasso, a dispatch to the Rome newspaper, Avanti said yesterday.

Room for 5,000—

More Veterans in College

—Iowa Officials Say

MARSHALLTOWN (AP)—There still is room for 5,000 World War II veterans at Iowa colleges and universities this fall, a survey by the Marshalltown Times-Republican showed yesterday.

The survey, which covered the three state schools and 14 of 19 other colleges and universities in the state, disclosed that 9,232 veterans attended these schools during the spring semester and that more than 1,600 already have enrolled for fall.

Virgil M. Hancher, president of the University of Iowa, said the university expects an enrollment of 5,000 veterans in the fall, including 2,500 to 3,000 new veterans. As of May 18, he said, 205 new veterans had made application.

J. R. Sage, registrar of Iowa State college, said "We are expecting to be able to accept all qualified Iowa applicants."

Iowa State, he explained, has set July 1 as a deadline for fall

Conferees Pass 5 Amendments Hit by Bowles

Congressmen to Meet Again Monday Night To Obtain Final Draft

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fourteen senators and house members working out differences in price control extension legislation yesterday approved five out of six amendments denounced as "booby traps" by Stabilization Director Chester Bowles.

Simultaneously, the conferees announced themselves in agreement on all but four major points of dispute.

They will meet again tomorrow night (7 p. m. Central Standard Time) in an attempt to resolve those remaining differences and push the bill first to the house, then to the senate, for final approval.

Still to be settled are:

1. How long to extend OPA. The senate voted for one year, the house for nine months.
2. Whether to end price controls June 30 on meat, poultry and dairy products, tobacco and petroleum, as provided by the senate. The house did not specifically take controls off any commodity.
3. Establishment of a decontrol board with authority to override the price administrator on lifting of controls from non-agricultural products and the secretary of agriculture on farm commodities.
4. The size and duration of food subsidies.

The five changes which were approved in spite of Bowles' denunciation were:

A provision declaring that ceiling for producers, manufacturers and processors must reflect their prices during the base period Oct. 1-15, 1941, plus the average increase in unit cost throughout the industry in question since then.

A ban against requiring wholesalers and retailers of "reconversion" items such as automobiles and household appliances to take less than the established peacetime mark-ups and discounts.

Elimination of "MAP" or maximum average price order which was issued to keep clothing manufacturers producing low-priced garments. In a related provision, the conference also approved special price treatment for manufacturers of cotton and woolen textiles.

A requirement that price controls come off when supply of a commodity comes into approximate balance with demand.

Transfer to the secretary of agriculture of authority to say what farm commodities may be kept under price control. No ceilings could be maintained unless he certified the commodity was in short supply.

Will There Be Another March on Washington?

The friends of greed and unsound economics have launched a whispering campaign which may soon develop into a full fledged yell to secure a federal bonus for World War II veterans.

The house of representatives recently approved the enlisted men's terminal leave pay bill without one "nay" vote. Although we approve of this legislation which would give enlisted men the same financial advantages which officers enjoyed upon discharge, we see it as an indication that congress, under sufficient pressures, would be susceptible to the granting of a bonus appropriation.

A more significant sign is the action taken by several states to sponsor state bonus plans. After the last year, passage of many state bonus programs laid the groundwork for eventual approval of a federal bonus.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars has already started plugging for the bonus, urging unity among the various veterans' groups to work toward this goal. Its national commander, Joseph M. Staek, stated recently: "For 12 long years (after World War I), the question of cash payment of the bonus was brought before each session of congress and for 12 long years politicians and anti-veteran groups were able to put off the settlement of the question because the veteran groups were divided."

One veterans' organization, the American Veterans Committee (AVC), has flatly denounced a bonus, and two others, the Disabled Veterans and Purple Heart veterans, have refused to join a bonus drive. But although the other two major veterans groups, the American Legion and American Veterans of World War II (AmVets), have not taken a stand one way or the other, we have every reason to believe that they will hop on the VFW bandwagon.

It appears therefore that the big push, supported by the two largest veterans' organizations and the AmVets along with many well meaning but misled citizens, will be on soon.

We view such a trend toward money grabbing with considerable alarm. The march on Washington, D. C. back in the early '30's to plump for a World War I bonus left a nasty taste in our mouth.

The government has already provided for the World War II veteran the GI bill with its education, business and home provisions; discharge allowances which ranged up to $300, and priorities in the purchase of surplus property. All of these were wise moves designed to help the ex-servicemen in his readjustment to civilian life.

A bonus, on the other hand, accomplishes no purpose except that of setting the veterans apart as a special privilege group. There were many thousands of people in this country who were not in uniform, but who worked just as hard in the war effort and had every bit as much of a stake in victory as any veteran.

Ours was not a war by one special group; we gained victory only through the combined efforts of business, labor and the armed forces.

Furthermore, it doesn't make sense economically to appropriate to the veteran 18 or 20 million dollars, raised by taxing the general citizenry. With inflationary pressures threatening to blow the top off the nation's economy, it would be extremely unwise to grant huge sums of 'extra purchasing power' to one special group.

We class the bonus right alongside other forms of greed, money grabbing, special interest favors, discrimination, etc., which led our nation into boom, bust and war.

TO THE EDITOR:

The announcement by the director of the university libraries of a continuation of the shortened library hours which came in but didn't go out with the war is hard to take.

The almost complete shut-down of library facilities during the 6 to 7 p. m. period accounts for a serious loss of time available for study. Students who eat early to avoid the 6 p. m. crowds in restaurants find themselves shut out of the main resources of study and must either while away their time or provide makeshift arrangements until the libraries re-open. Students who can arrange to study at a less congested time in the libraries such as 6 to 7 p. m. would offer and thus complete that part of their work which requires the library and return to their residence, are denied the opportunity and are forced to return at the peak time of 7 p. m. Further, students who have wholly to use library facilities must study until 6 p. m. and eat at an hour when lines are longest. If by good fortune lines are not long there is still no place to settle down for an evening's study until 7 p. m. A minimum staff should be able to keep at least reserve and general libraries open from 6 to 7 p. m. and if necessary reduced service at the desks could be offered—the important thing is to have these two libraries open and available for study purposes at this time of day.

The practice of closing reserve library at 5 p. m. on Friday and all library facilities at 5 p. m. on Saturday is an invitation to forget all school work until Monday morning. A fine idea, I'll admit, but it doesn't get school work done. The lack of Sunday hours seems to be a tradition at this university. Other schools consider Sunday as profitable a day for study as any other day of the week and have limited library hours on Sunday. The undergraduate may not feel the lack of weekend hours, but the graduate and professional college students do.

Apparently the administration is hesitating as long as it can to resume normal library service, and if few complaints are received will let reduced service, caused by a wartime shortage of help, become a habit. The student whose work was interrupted by the war has lost much time and must make every minute count. The teacher, who is here for the summer only, and has only this part of the year to devote to concentrated study, also needs to use every hour of the day. Both have precious little time to waste waiting for library doors to open, and the university libraries still remain to be the most conducive places for study. I suggest a careful study of peak and slack hours and working schedule adjustments to keep the libraries open a maximum.

Of Cabbages and Kings

By LAWRENCE DENNIS

A few of the boys stopped in at 21 Hawkeye Village Friday to shoot the breeze and play some records. We had just given King Cole's "Sweet Lorraine" a second hearing when the big question came up: "What about Stassen?"

That ended the music. All of us had ideas on the subject, so the political future of Minnesota's ex-governor monopolized the remainder of the evening. Various shades of opinion were represented and out of the discussion came an assortment of facts and impressions.

Harold Ed-ward Stassen, 38, is a big man—six feet, three inches tall; 220 lbs. He has sparse, sandy hair, clear eyes and a quiet determined manner. He is a forceful speaker, with an excellent command of language and a phenomenal memory. While at the University of Minnesota in the late twenties he set a school rifle shot record that has never been broken. There are few men who claim to know him intimately, yet, since his discharge from the navy in November, 1945, he has captured the imagination and secured the confidence of a large segment of the voting public.

He wants to become President of the United States. Actually there are very few men about whom that statement can be made. Henry Wallace—yes; Thomas Dewey—yes; John Bricker—yes; William Douglas, Robert Jackson, Arthur Vandenberg or Earl Warren—maybe. Not

He has done just that time and again. While working his way through law school at Minneapolis, he told his friends he would be governor before he was 35. He was elected to the office at 31. After setting up law practice in 1929, he became Dakota county (South St. Paul and vicinity) attorney in 1930. The old-school Minnesota politicians—Republicans, Farmer-Laborers, Democrats—came to regard him as a lone wolf, owing no allegiance to any machine or organization.

The last time he ran for governor of Minnesota—1942—he told the people that he would serve only four months of the two year term. "This is a young man's war and I want to help fight it" was his reason. The voters elected him to his third term and when he joined the navy in early 1943, he turned the job over to Edward Thyne, whom he had helped elect lieutenant-governor. While in service he worked as flag secretary and assistant chief of staff to Admiral William F. Halsey, the famous three-fleet commander.

Despite his tremendous personal following and his qualities of natural leadership, a vote shift of four percent in the 1940 and 1942 Minnesota elections would have defeated him. However, his candor on domestic issues and vision in the realm of international affairs earned him the backing of the CIO in both campaigns. In recent profiles, writers have called him "dourageous," "consistent," "sincere" and "brilliant."

He was chairman of the national governor's conference in 1939 and keynoted the Republican convention in 1940, where he acted as Wendell Wilkie's floor manager. There are those who say that the two men cooled in their attitude toward each other after the Wisconsin presidential primary in 1944. At that time, Stassen's friends entered his name on the ballot and he carried several western counties, even though it was generally conceded that he stood no chance of winning the nomination at Chicago. Wilkie could have carried the primary with those western counties, but the Stassen supporters stuck to their man and Dewey won the election.

Stassen is a Baptist. He has two children and overcame an attack of tuberculosis in his youth. He is of German-Czech-Norwegian extraction with a penchant for reading books on politics and world affairs. His father runs a truck farm near west St. Paul. Equally distrustful and disliked by extreme right and the extreme left, the 1948 presidential hopeful has been tagged by various publications as "a man of the middle," "an intelligent, healthy conservative," "a G. O. P. new dealer," "an impractical idealist" and "a moderate liberal." It all depends on which paper you read and which commentator you hear.

Stassen is backing Thyne for senator in the Minnesota primary, July 8. Thyne's opponent is the incumbent, Henrik Shipstead, who voted against U. S. participation in the U. N. The outcome may vitally affect Stassen's political future.

City Employees' Salaries Still Out of Balance With Expenses

The recent $7.50 per month salary increase given 43 city employees is not much to match against the rise in the cost of living in Iowa City.

It must seem meagre to the police patrolman on a salary of $170 per month whose average monthly expenses over a 12 month period for a family of four exceeded $209.

Nor does it seem adequate to the city employee and his wife who after paying for bare necessities each month have an average of only $22.71 to spend for clothing, dry cleaning, drugs and cosmetics, entertainment, doctor and dentist bills, household needs, home repairs, and taxes and other incidentals.

These typical examples show that the employees are certainly entitled to more of a raise than they received, but unfortunately, the complicated mechanisms of city government prevent the immediate granting of a greater salary increases.

We are sure that the city council would have granted greater increases if it had been possible, but its hands were tied for the simple reason that when the present city budget was prepared, no provision was made for salary boosts.

This budget runs until April 1, 1947, and even the $7.50 increases will be made economically possible only by scripping and saving on items previously allotted.

When the budget for 1947 is made out in July, we are sure that the department heads will provide for salary increases commensurate with the increases in the cost of living, and that the city council will approve an increased budget.

But what about the period between now and next April when the new budget goes into effect? The regulations of the city government prevent the transfer of excess funds from one department to another except under certain conditions, and such a transfer is the only way of providing money to pay more wage increases.

At the present time, the city sewage disposal fund is the only one with sufficient surplus funds to cover the original salary increases asked by the city employees. But any funds transferred must be paid back in one year, and the whole proceeding must be handled through the state comptroller.

Complicated as such a transaction might be, if it would be possible to give adequate salaries by doing it, it is certainly worth consideration.

The nine months between now and next April when the new budget goes into effect are not going to be pleasant ones for the city employees who have shown that their necessary expenses are more than their salaries.

The $7.50 increase is fine as far as it goes, but it's not going to go very far in meeting the present high cost of living.

The little community of Brunswick, Md. (population: 4,000), really went overboard in its food drive for the relief of starvation abroad.

In three weeks time, 5,000 cans of food were collected by various means: nine women visited 14 grocery stores and urged patrons to buy an extra can of food for families overseas; a city wide collection by schoolboys was signaled by a blast from the town fire siren; the local movie theater manager gave a special matinee charging an admission of two cans of food and collecting 480 in all; an anonymous donor offered five dollars to the school class with the largest donation, and a high school class of 21 students won with 268 cans and the pupils decided to spend their winnings to buy more food.

Brunswick set an example for the whole world to follow.

Security Council Has Tackled Five Big Problems

UN's First Birthday

By SIGRID ARNE
WASHINGTON (AP) — The United Nations mark their first birthday Wednesday, June 26.

The five major problems of UN's first year still hang fire, but it's thought there is a better than 50-50 chance that they will not be decided until the under-dog has had a hearing. Most of its fire-works have come in the 11-nation security council, which must decide when any nation "threatens the peace." Here are the main problems the security council has met, and how it met them:

1. Iran versus Russia. Iran told the council that the presence of Russian troops on its soil was "interference." The council decided the question was legitimate business.

Russia's Andrei Gromyko walked out, but Moscow announced that Russian troops would be out of Iran in six weeks. Since then Moscow radio has reported the troops are out. Iran has told the council it's not sure about its northern province, Azerbaijan. The problem remains on the council's calendar, to which Russia objects.

2. Russia objected to the presence of British troops in Greece. The Greek government said the British were there with its consent. The British said they only wanted to keep order until the Greek elections were over. Moscow commentators charged that the British wanted to preserve "Greek Fascism." The council decided that as long as the Greek government didn't object it was none of the council's business.

3. The Russians objected to British fighting the people of the East Indies. The Dutch were planning to re-enter the Indies as colonial governors, but the Indonesians had started a move for a national government. Russia's request to investigate lost.

4. Syria and Lebanon objected to having British and French troops on their soil five months after the war's end. For an unexplained reason, Russia vetoed talk on this protest. The British and French reported to the council in May that all troops were out of Syria and that the last would leave Lebanon by Dec. 31.

5. Poland asked the council to instruct the 51 UN member nations to break diplomatic relations with Spain. It said Spain had aided the Axis and still harbored war criminals and German assets. Russia backed Poland, and the United States and United Kingdom opposed.

A five-man commission was sent to Spain. It reported that Spain was no threat to the peace but recommended that unless the Spanish people removed Generalissimo Franco by September the question of cutting relations with Spain be turned over to the assembly.

Meanwhile the assembly had set up six commissions to study economics and employment, statistical reports, social problems, human rights, transport and communications and narcotic drugs. These commissions will report to the September assembly. They are ready to recommend, most importantly, that U. N. write a world bill of rights and set up a commission to ensure freedom of the press.

Two other important UN bodies are at work: the military staff committee (top military men who must organize troops for UN police work) and the atomic energy commission, which hopes to find a plan to control the world's most destructive weapon, the atom bomb.

He was chairman of the national governor's conference in 1939 and keynoted the Republican convention in 1940, where he acted as Wendell Wilkie's floor manager. There are those who say that the two men cooled in their attitude toward each other after the Wisconsin presidential primary in 1944. At that time, Stassen's friends entered his name on the ballot and he carried several western counties, even though it was generally conceded that he stood no chance of winning the nomination at Chicago. Wilkie could have carried the primary with those western counties, but the Stassen supporters stuck to their man and Dewey won the election.

Stassen is a Baptist. He has two children and overcame an attack of tuberculosis in his youth. He is of German-Czech-Norwegian extraction with a penchant for reading books on politics and world affairs. His father runs a truck farm near west St. Paul. Equally distrustful and disliked by extreme right and the extreme left, the 1948 presidential hopeful has been tagged by various publications as "a man of the middle," "an intelligent, healthy conservative," "a G. O. P. new dealer," "an impractical idealist" and "a moderate liberal." It all depends on which paper you read and which commentator you hear.

Stassen is backing Thyne for senator in the Minnesota primary, July 8. Thyne's opponent is the incumbent, Henrik Shipstead, who voted against U. S. participation in the U. N. The outcome may vitally affect Stassen's political future.

Six Steps to a Veteran's Loan

The six vital steps in arranging a Veteran's Loan—be it for town property, farm, business, or equipment—are described in a recent pamphlet, "Guaranteed Loans for Veterans," published and distributed by the Loan Guaranty Division, Veterans Administration, Washington 25, D. C. The pamphlet also answers 50 of the most-asked loan questions. It's free for the asking. Letters should specify the questions-and-answers. "Guaranteed Loans for Veterans" publication. The steps follow:

SUI Considers Flight Course For Students

Inauguration of a flying course for which academic credit would be granted is under consideration by the university, Prof. Elmer C. Lundquist, aeronautics instructor, announced yesterday.

A certificate to operate as a basic and advanced ground school was awarded the university last week by the civil aeronautics administration.

As a part of the regular university curriculum, the course would be subject to tuition fees, the amount of which would be determined by the operating cost involved, Professor Lundquist said. He added that the university does not plan to own and operate aircraft, but that a commercial company would be contracted for the actual flight instruction.

Though the course will be open to everyone, it is expected that veterans will make up the majority of the students who register for it. Because many of the students will have had previous flying experience, advanced refresher courses will be included in the curricula, along with those of an introductory nature. The flight curriculum will necessarily be flexible, he said.

A link trainer has already been installed, Professor Lundquist said, and it will be put into actual operation upon being checked and adjusted. The trainer will be used in connection with the course in instrument flying.

Professor Lundquist stated that he hopes the new course will be in operation by the first semester of the 1946-47 school year.

Prof. Sybil Woodruff Leaves for Convention On Home Economics

Prof. Sybil Woodruff, head of the home economics department, and two students leave today for the American Home Economics association convention which begins tomorrow at Cleveland, Ohio.

Student representatives are Mrs. Beulah Kemp, A3 of LeMars, president of the university Home Economics club, and Marjorie McDonald, A2 of Cleveland.

Professor Woodruff will serve on the committee on fellowship awards. As president of the Iowa Home Economics association, she will serve on the executive council of the American association which is composed of state presidents and directors of association work.

The week-long program will feature addresses by nationally known educators and home economists on such matters as housing, curricula adjustment for veterans, juvenile delinquency and consumer education. A general session open to the public Tuesday will be headlined by Mrs. Chase Woodhouse, congresswoman from Connecticut.

Prof. Louis C. Zopf Elected to Committee On Pharmacy Manual

Election of Prof. Louis C. Zopf of the college of pharmacy drug service to the executive committee in charge of the revision of "The United States Pharmacopoeia" was announced yesterday.

"The Pharmacopoeia," which has not been published since 1820, sets the standards of identity, quality and purity of thousands of preparations used by chemists, doctors and pharmacists. It has been officially accepted by the United States congress as well as by seven other countries.

Professor Zopf has been a member of the revision committee since 1940, and chairman of the subcommittee of dermatologic products since May.

In the 13th edition of the volume, which will be issued late this year, will appear Professor Zopf's preparation of hydrophilic ointment used as a base for medicinal substances to be applied to the skin.

Dr. Earl E. Harper, head of the school of fine arts, will address the First Presbyterian church in Cedar Rapids this morning at 10:45. His subject will be "Music and Religion."

'Gotta Coid?— Go on— Sniffle!

Though anticipating opposition from parents, Dr. W. J. McNally, ear, nose and throat specialist from Montreal and lecturer in otolaryngology at McGill university, went on record yesterday as favoring sniffing.

Presiding at a round table discussion on special medical problems in hearing conservation, the Canadian specialist lent his expert's support to all children who find carrying handkerchiefs a nuisance. He bases his stand on the fact that violent nose blowing can force head cold infection into the ears.

Krueger to Broadcast WSUI Chapel Series

A morning chapel series will be presented over WSUI at 8 o'clock Monday through Friday this week by Rev. Ralph M. Krueger, pastor of English Lutheran church, the school of religion has announced.

Dr. McNally Described in Detail the Fenestration Operation, a Method of Improving Hearing in Some Types of Deafness.

This operation has been receiving wide publicity in many current publications, some of which have been over-emphasizing its possibilities, according to Dr. McNally.

Only about 10 percent of deafness can be treated in this way, and about one-half of the surgery cases are completely successful. Even in the successful operations patients retain an appreciable hearing loss, mostly in higher sound frequencies, he said.

Centennial Speech

After a talk at 2:30 p. m. on "What You Can Tell Your Readers About the Centennial," by W. J. Petersen, research associate of the State Historical society and member of the state centennial commission, the editors will see motion pictures from the Iowa industrial engineering laboratory in the visual education theater, East hall.

Climaxing the first day's session of the two-day conference will be a dinner at the Colony Inn, Amana Colonies, at which awards to Iowa's industrial publications will be presented. A cup for general excellence will be awarded, along with certificates for excellence in news coverage, features, photography and typography.

After presentation of the awards an address and demonstration on "How to Make a Better Layout" will be given by Elmer Jacobs, artist and designer from Chicago.

Tuesday's Program

Tuesday's session of the two-day conference will open at 10 a. m. in the senate chamber of Old Capitol with a news and feature clinic under Professor Schramm's direction.

Speches to be included in the morning session are "The Editor and His Reporters," Oakley Cheever, of the Morrell magazine; "The Editor and His News Sources," Vern J. Allan of the Des Moines Register and Tribune, and "How to Write So You Can Be Read," Prof. Arthur M. Barnes of the school of journalism. Professor Barnes' address will include a demonstration of the method of measuring readability.

After a conference luncheon at noon in Reich's pine room, the editors will hear an address on "The Industrial Editor's Responsibility for Interpreting Labor and Management to Each Other" by Prof. Karl Leib of the college of commerce.

Radio 'Field Day' For 50,000 Amateurs All Over U.S.

Twenty amateur radiomen of the Iowa City Radio club are in the midst of a 26-hour national contest this morning as they operate three transmitters southeast of Iowa City trying to contact other operators throughout the world.

A possible 50,000 operators scattered over the United States are participating in a "field day" which began at 4 p. m. yesterday and which will extend to 6 p. m. today without letup.

Transmitters are being manned continuously and the chapter which "talks" with the greatest number of other stations will win the contest.

The primary purpose of the field day, according to Franz A. Wille, president of the local unit, is to demonstrate the ability of radio amateurs to furnish emergency communication for a community which becomes isolated due to storm or other disaster.

The equipment of the Iowa City group is set up at the old civil aeronautics authority beam transmitter location about 5 1/2 miles southeast of the city.

Operators had talked with others in numerous points last evening, ranging from Winnipeg, Canada, to Louisiana. As night approached, atmospheric conditions were expected to improve until some foreign stations could be reached.

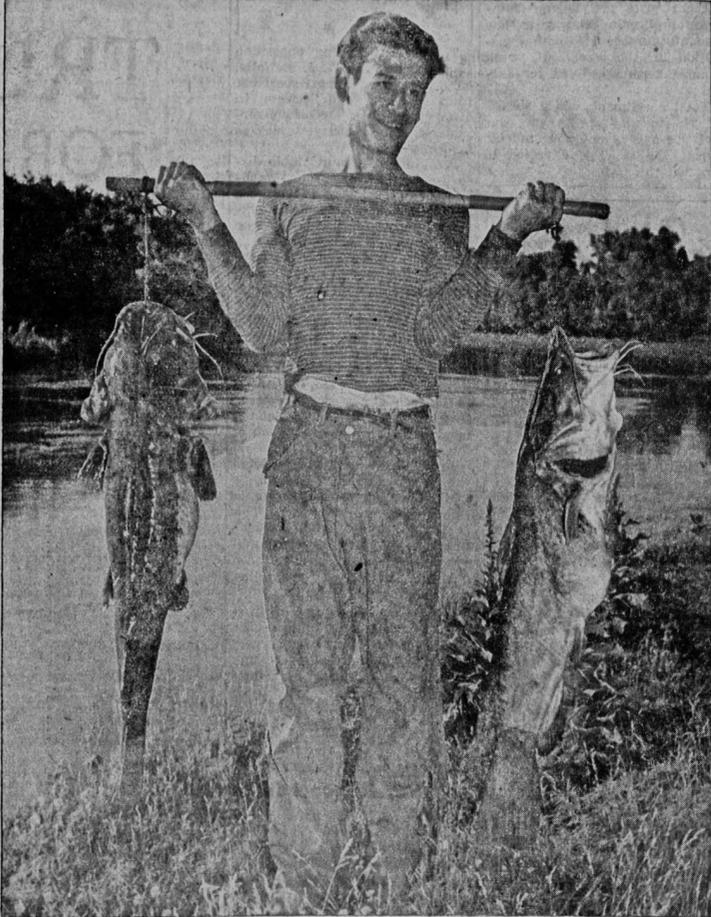

The radio enthusiasts are using several receivers along with the three transmitters. A gas-driven generator is being used to operate the equipment.

Files Suit for Divorce

Alice V. Eversole filed suit for divorce in district court yesterday from Harold B. Eversole on grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment.

Miss Eversole asked $100 a month support, a property settlement and custody of a minor child. They were married in Chicago, June 5, 1937, and separated last November.

F. B. Olsen is attorney for Mrs. Eversole.

FIFTY AND ONE-HALF POUNDS is a lot of fish and if you don't believe it, just ask Dick Goody, 16, Iowa City youth, who, equipped with a throw-line, started out yesterday to do a little fishing in the Iowa river south of the city. In about an hour and a half Dick had hooked these two large flatheads and landed them both without assistance. The 22 1/2-pound gentleman on the left must have been considered "small fry" by the other, who seems to prefer a profile shot, and who, incidentally, tips the scales at a good 28 pounds. They were caught on the farm of Charles Showers, route 5. (Daily Iowan photo by Jim Showers)

Catherine Wolz Rites To Be Held Monday

Funeral services for Mrs. Catherine Wolz, 81, will be held at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow at the Oath-out funeral chapel with the Rev. Ralph M. Krueger officiating. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery.

Mrs. Wolz died at 9:15 a. m. yesterday at her home, 403 N. Linn street, following an extended illness.

She was born in 1864, at Solon, the daughter of pioneer residents. She was married in 1886 to John A. Wolz and they lived on a farm in Union township.

Mrs. Wolz has been living in Iowa City with her daughter, Minnie Wolz, since 1938. She was a member of the English Lutheran church.

Surviving are two daughters, three sons, a sister, a half brother, 12 grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Eight Persons Fined In City Police Court For Traffic Violations

Eight persons paid fines in police court yesterday for traffic violations.

Carl Sweeney, Rock Island, paid a $25 fine for reckless driving. Chester Walters of Congress Park, Ill., was fined $25 and $2.50 costs for speeding.

A $3 fine for driving through a stop sign was paid by William H. Bennett, 729 N. Dubuque. Stanley Zager of Washington, and Charles Brogla, Tiffin, were each fined $2 for double parking.

One dollar fines for overtime parking were paid by Newton Mulford and George Rebal, both of Iowa City. Lee Cox, Iowa City, paid a $1 fine for parking on the wrong side of the street.

Ice Company to Build $5,000 Building Here

A $5,000 building will be built by the Englert Ice company at 323 E. Market street, it was announced yesterday.

The building will be leased to the Johnson machine shop. The construction has been approved by the civilian production administration. Work will start as soon as materials are available.

The one story building will be of cement block construction with a brick front.

Dads May Be Sore—As Cub Scouts Camp Out

—West of Iowa City

The Cub Scouts spending the night at Camp Wo-Pe-Na were having a wonderful time yesterday but the dads may need a little nursing for their stiff joints when they return home today.

Camp Rotary Wo-Pe-Na, 4 1/2 miles west of Iowa City on highway 6, was occupied by 81 dads and dads last night for the annual Cub-Dad Get-Together of Marengo, Coralville and Iowa City cub packs.

Just inside the archway, picturing a flaming arrow which symbolizes the meaning of Wo-Pe-Na, is the new council ring which the junior staff members have constructed this past week.

Jim Freeze of Marengo and Dave Hender of Kalona, junior staff members, were at work putting gravel in the campfire pit in the center of the ring, about 2:30 p. m. yesterday. Near the logs lying around the pit, used for benches during meetings, hangs an eagle placard flanked by two high totem poles.

Down a small hill from the council ring is the main building—the John Ben Snow lodge. A bronze plaque above the fireplace recognizes John Ben Snow "whose abiding faith and deep interest in the boyhood of America made this cabin possible."

Past a piano, on which sits a dial telephone, is the kitchen where Jack Cooper, Junior staff member of Iowa City, was acting as mess sergeant. Jack is a large, serious boy and reminds one of the army prototype. But his reaction to his work was different.

"I'm so sick of fixing this chicken," Jack said, "I'm not going to eat any."

The menu for last night was chicken en casserole, cake and ice cream. A staff of junior members was aiding Jack with the casserole. They were dipping potatoes.

"I'm going to take the chicken off the bone, mix it with these potatoes, some peas and some carrots and bake it," Jack said simply.

Behind the lodge, beyond the crushed rock paths and a fountain of cold water, a large circle of cubs and dads were playing "dodge ball," a game in which a large ball is thrown at the persons in the center who try to dodge it. Other dads and cubs were pitching horseshoes nearby.

Dick Williams of Iowa City, junior staff member, as cautious as any beginning teacher, was directing leather work and wood carving in the handicraft cabin.

Camp Wo-Pe-Na is divided into Pioneer camp, Buddy camp and Wilderness camp. Each of these smaller camps has about eight tents mounted on wooden frames with screen sides. There are from three to six beds in a tent. Each bed has an ordinary mattress, a pillow, sheets and blankets.

There is a building with running water for showers and a long galvanized tin washing trough. The walls have been well creosoted and it is kept clean.

"Treasure Island" and a "Community Sing" movie shorts were to be shown in the open air near the lodge last evening.

Several dads "adopted" cubs for the evening. Elwin Shain of Coralville adopted Gary Merton of Iowa City. Andy Zimmerman, district commissioner of Iowa River Valley council, adopted Phillip Nelson of Iowa City. Phillip's father is with the army air corps.

A. J. Carmean, Johnson county district chairman, said the get-together was attended by as many as could be accommodated but there are still some accommodations open for the Boy Scout outings June 30 to July 6 and July 7 to July 13.

One of the scout staff members expressed the wonder in the minds of all the scouts when he said, "I don't know whose having more fun, the cubs or the dads."

Burr Boyd, Navy Vet, Joins Iowa City Staff Of Veteran's Office

Burr Boyd, navy veteran, has been added to the staff of the Veteran's contact office, room 206, Iowa State Bank and Trust building.

Boyd will handle itinerant service and assist veterans in gaining the GI benefits.

Veterans are reminded office hours are from 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m., Monday through Friday, and 8:30 to 12:30 a. m. Saturday.

Ten-Year-Old Hit by Truck

Jerry Arnold, 10, son of Mrs. Mae Arnold, 223 S. Lucas street, suffered a brain concussion and broken collarbone when struck by a semi-trailer at 718 E. Burlington street about 12:45 p. m. yesterday.

Dr. G. F. Spielhagen described his condition as "fair." He was still under observation last evening in Mercy hospital.

Roland C. Black of St. Charles, driver of the truck, said he was driving west at 24 miles an hour when the boy started across the street.

He said the boy tried to run back to the curb when he saw another car coming. Black said he tried to avoid the boy but struck him with the left fender of the truck.

In another accident yesterday afternoon, three vehicles were damaged and no one injured in front of 1107 Dodge street.

A vehicle driven by Levi Hipp, route 1, collided with a car driven by Ambrose Cooper, 913 S. Gilbert street, as Cooper pulled away from the curb. The two vehicles collided with a car owned by K. A. Deming, 209 N. Van Buren street, parked at the curb.

Eagles Lodge Holds Annual Costume Ball, Expect 400 to Attend

More than 400 people are expected to attend the coming Eagles Lodge centennial costume ball to be held at Picnic point at 8:30 p. m. Wednesday, July 3.

Bobby Wayne and his string band will provide music for the event and a special caller will be employed to announce the dances.

The lodge member with the most outstanding costume chosen from the era prior to 1846 will receive a $10 prize. A lady will receive a duplicate costume prize. A $10 prize will also be given for the most humorous costume.

SUI Managers' Course Starts Final Week

Study in Laboratory Research, Principles Of Motion Scheduled

The college of engineering management course enters its final week tomorrow with work begun last week on specific problems and projects in management practices, Prof. Ralph M. Barnes of the college of engineering, course director, said yesterday.

In this phase of the three week course, principles of motion study and work simplification are applied to difficulties of management procedures.

Shorter Job Time

Laboratory work in the afternoon sessions is aimed at developing better, easier and safer ways to do the particular job assigned to each manager or engineer attending the session, he said.

Improved methods of working that result from the laboratory studies may be applied to a variety of industries and businesses, Professor Barnes said. He listed among those attending the course engineers and industrial managers, bankers, office executives and a printing researcher who is conducting a study to simplify office routine.

At the close of the course Friday, motion pictures will be made of the improved methods that have developed. These movies, Professor Barnes said, will be edited and prepared at the university for distribution to the companies whose representatives have attended the course.

Improve Practices

In this way, each company will receive the benefit of all improvements in management practices found during the course, according to Professor Barnes.

Attending the course last week were managers and engineers from various industries who participated as lecturers and forum leaders.

Visiting speakers included: Paul K. Povlsen, vice-president and general manager, Maguire Industries Inc., New York City. Povlsen's subject was, "The Future of Industry in the United States."

Raymond C. Latimer, formerly industrial engineer for Radio Corporation of America, Lancaster, Pa. His subject was, "Motion Study Training Programs."

Thomas R. Turnball, manager of industrial engineering department, Johns-Manville corporation, Manville, N. J. Turnball's topic was, "Time Study Training Programs."

John S. Kehrer, factory manager, Turner Electronics company, Cedar Rapids. Kehrer spoke on, "Labor Relations and Labor Legislation."

Walter B. Scott, assistant to vice-president, Maguire Industries, Inc., New York City. His subject was "Time Study and Labor Relations."

Ralph H. Landes, resident head of wage practices organization, Hawthorne plant, Western Electric company, Chicago. "Job Evaluation," was his subject.

Prof. H. G. Thuesen, head of the industrial engineering department, Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical college, Stillwater, Okla. He spoke on, "Job Design."

Gerald O. Young and John P. Kottkamp, Kottkamp and Young, Chicago. Their subject was, "What Army Ordnance Can Teach Industry on the Use of Visual Aids in Training."

Ben S. Graham, Standard Register company, Dayton, Ohio. Graham spoke on, "Methods Improvement in the Office."

Clothing Drive

A clothing drive for European relief will be the summer project of the University of Iowa Dames Sewing club. Members will repair clothing to be sent to an UNRRA dispensing center by September. All clothing contributions, especially woolsens, will be accepted.

During the week licenses are renewed at the county courthouse. On Saturday afternoon. Drivers have until July 5 to renew licenses. Over 4,000 drivers' licenses have been renewed here since June 13.

Coralville Residents—

Praise Trailer-Camp Life

—After Four Years

By CAROL RACKER

Veteran trailer residents Mr. and Mrs. Orley K. Anderson and 2½-year-old Connie of Coralville—for they have had a trailer as their temporary home for almost four years. They find trailer life not only fun, but also very convenient.

The Anderson's black trailer with a shiny silver top stands in the Dinty trailer court in Coralville along with 27 other trailers whose occupants are mostly veterans in school at the university. The Andersons bought their trailer four years ago while "Andy" was still in the airforce. When he was discharged in February, 1944, he went into photographic work with North American Aviation in Dallas, Tex. Living quarters weren't available there; so they continued to use a trailer as their home. After Anderson had worked almost a year, he decided to take advantage of the GI Bill and finish his college career at Iowa.

"I wouldn't know what to do if I lived in a house" laughed Mrs. Anderson as she defended trailer homes. "You can't leave your dishes in the sink with the hope of shutting the door when company comes, either. We had six adults and two children in here last night," she added, as she told how conveniently they manage to entertain friends and neighbors.

Mr. Anderson is sold on trailer life, too. "We have almost a cooperative here," he stated. "One fellow in camp is a plumber, one an electrician, and another a mechanic. Whenever we want something repaired, we're bound to find a neighbor who can do it—that way we are all able to manage living on the GI bill. Another thing, an empty car seldom goes to Iowa City. We usually pool our resources that way, too."

The Anderson's 27-foot trailer is divided into two rooms—a combination living room and kitchen, and a bedroom. The bedroom accommodates little more than a comfortable double bed, but the other room is quite spacious.

Occupying about half the space of one sidewall is the kitchen. Like any modern kitchen with a workbench style, the sink is built right in the table top; and the built-in four-burner gas stove, complete with oven, is level with the table surface. Above and below are spacious cupboards for kitchen utensils as well as food. On the opposite wall there is ample drawer and cupboard space in addition to a broom closet with a full-length mirror on the door. Here too is a miniature ice refrigerator—as convenient to stove and sink as in any modern kitchen.

After all this, there is still half of the trailer's larger room left. Here the Andersons have a studio couch, Connie's bed at night, placed parallel with the width of the trailer to balance the effect of narrow length that the kitchenette gives. A either end of this davenport are built-in book or magazine racks. Then there is space for a small drop-leaf table that is put in the center of the room for dining. At night, with a table lamp on it, it serves as a study desk for Mr. Anderson.

For serviceability and convenience, linoleum is used on the floor. Several small windows and a skylight ventilator keep the compact living quarters light and sunny. The woodwork inside is done in natural finish, and plain tan tiebacks accentuate the tiny windows. As a homey touch, Mrs. Anderson has a tiny potted plant hanging in a wire bracket on the one wall space that is free.

The trailer is equipped with

E. F. Bollei Funeral To Be Held Monday

Funeral services for Earl F. Bollei, 42, 1190 Court street, at 9 a. m. Monday at St. Mary's church. Mr. Bollei died at Mercy hospital at 12:10 a. m. yesterday.

Surviving are his wife, father, one brother, and one sister, all of Iowa City.

Moose Women Meet

The Social Service committee of the Women of the Moose held their last meeting of the fiscal year, Wednesday evening at the Mayflower Inn.

All members of the committee were present. Mrs. John Evans presided at the last meeting which was her last as chairman of the group. New officers will be elected at the next meeting.

This club was organized for the purpose of giving to needy families. A total of $37 was raised last year by selling chance tickets on a grocery basket.

electric lights and is kept at the right temperature by a small oil burner. Water must be carried from a nearby building which contains bathroom facilities also. For the use of these facilities, electricity, and for rent on the land, the Andersons pay $12 monthly.

The Anderson's heartily approve of the new trailers for married veterans. "Every inch of space is utilized," they say, "but we only need enough to live conveniently, and our trailer has certainly given us that."

Department to Show Experimental Movies For Art Exhibition

The art department announced yesterday the presentation of a program of experimental films produced by Maya Deren to be shown in the art building and auditorium Tuesday at 4 and 8 p. m.

Presented as a part of the second exhibition of contemporary art currently being shown at the university, the program is composed of three short films with a total running time of approximately 35 minutes.

The titles of the films are "Meshes of the Afternoon," "A Study in Choreography for Camera" and "At Land."

According to the art department, the films, experimental in nature, represent a new approach to camera technique in an effort to develop the cinema as an independent creative art form.

Abstract in nature, the three films, which attempt to combine the elements of camera and choreography, or the dance form, are not designed for general distribution.

Also as a part of the art exhibition program Prof. Lester D. Longman, head of the art department, will deliver the first of four illustrated lectures this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the art auditorium.

Professor Longman will analyze several of the more important works on exhibition and will consider the role of the artist in our contemporary civilization.

Bothered by Clothes Shortage? Then Learn To Make Own Cloth!

How would you like to make your own printed fabrics, or weave the cloth for your own tailored suit? You can do just that in the recreational crafts course offered by the home economics department this summer, according to Prof. Lula E. Smith, instructor in the crafts course.

The summer class numbers 22 girls, four of them veterans of World War II. After studying design, they cut their own original patterns in small linoleum blocks and use them to print materials for towels, book covers, skirts or curtains.

Weaving on hand, table and floor looms is taught in the latter part of the course which also includes leather crafts such as braiding and knotting, skills useful in working with small children's groups.

The course is offered jointly by the home economics department and the women's physical education department, where Prof. Miriam Taylor instructs in leather work, Professor Smith said. The crafts course is a prerequisite to study in occupational therapy.

Illini Swam All Opposition in NCAA Meet

Ho-Hum, Illini Wins

BILL MATHIS, (center) of Illinois looks ready to bite the tape as he noses out Lloyd LaBeach (left), favored to win the event, as he takes first in the 100-yard dash finals in the NCAA meet yesterday. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Herb McKenley Double Winner As Illinois Captures Four Firsts

By JERRY LISKA
MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Coach Leo Johnson's "tired" Illinois squad, propelled by four firsts including a double triumph by Jamaican born Herb McKenley, yesterday galloped off with the National Collegiate Athletic association track crown with an overwhelming total of 77 points.

McKenley, previously described by Johnson as worn out with the rest of the Illini squad by Big Ten and Central collegiate title conquests, romped to victory in the 440 and 220-yard runs.

Southern California, billed as a co-favorite with Illinois, flopped miserably for an unimpressive second-place bag of 42.35 points. It was one of the poorest NCAA showings by the Trojans, who were seeking their 13th title.

Herb Wilkinson, Iowa's great all-around athlete, failed to place in the high jump as three men went over the six foot six mark to completely outdistance the Hawkeye. Iowa's only other entry, Paul Fagerlind, was eliminated in Friday's qualifying tests.

The meet, despite a dry, fast track at Minnesota's Memorial stadium, failed to produce any new NCAA records, although a stadium mark fell when Harrison Dillard of Baldwin-Wallace, the meet's only other double winner, skimmed the 200 low hurdles in 23 seconds flat. The record was :23.3 set by Fred Wolcott of Rice in 1938.

The Illini piled up points in all 10 events in which they were entered, with only seven performers doing the trick.

Southern California which barely edged New York university for second collapsed when the Trojan distance ace, Roland Sink, previously unbeaten at a mile or two-mile in high school or college, was soundly whipped by Illinois' Bob Rehberg in the mile.

New York university, with two-miler Frank Martin emerging as one of the two successful defending title-holders and Bernie Mayer winning the shotput was third with 30 points.

The rest of the contingent of 40 schools which scored points was scattered far behind, headed by Baldwin-Wallace, with 20 points on Dillard's double win.

Dillard, who bobbed over the 120 highs in a credible :14.1, defeated defending champion George Walker of Illinois in both hurdles events.

The other successful defending champion was Ken Wiesner of Marquette, co-fittest in the high jump, who won with a leap of 6 feet, 8 1/2 inches.

McKenley, who was clocked in a world record-breaking :46.2 three weeks ago, misjudged his quarter-mile pace yesterday, fading over the final 200 yards, and nearly lost to Dave Bolen of Southern university.

The Illini star was clocked in :47.6. He came back for an eye-lash victory over Lloyd La Beach, a fellow Jamaican representing Wisconsin, in the 220-yard dash in :21.3.

Southern California also flopped in the pole vault where its two 14-foot performers, Bob Hart and Tex Winter, were also rans to Northwestern's Billy Moore, who cleared 13 feet, 8 inches to triumph.

In addition to Illinois four firsts, including a surprise win in the 100-yard dash by Illini Bill Mathis over La Beach, mid-western triumphs came on a discus win by Fortune Gordien of Minnesota; Moore's pole vault victory; Wiesner's successful high jump defense; and Dillard's double hurdle killing.

One other defending champion was dethroned when Bill Bangert of Purdue, who won the event for Missouri last year, failed to qualify in the discus.

McKenley and Dillard shared scoring laurels with 20 points each, while La Beach had 17 with seconds in the 100 and 220 and a sixth in the broad jump.

St. Louis Out Slugs Washington, 14 to 8
ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Browns won a 14-8 slugfest last night from the Washington Senators, getting 18 hits off four hurlers while Tex Shirley and Stan Perens, credited with the victory.

Cubs Sweep Pair From Last Place New York Giants

NEW YORK (AP)—The third place Chicago Cubs moved up to within three and a half games of the National league leading Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday by sweeping both ends of a double-header with the New York Giants, 5-2 and 8-5.

Hank Wyse, pitching shutout ball for the first eight innings, won the opener while a six-run seventh inning enabled the Bruins to come from behind to win the nightcap.

The Giants appeared to have the finale sewed up the Cubs entered the seventh trailing 5-2. Single runs in the first, second and fourth, followed by Johnny Mize's two-run homer in the fifth got Bill Voiselle off to a fine start. The Cubs exploded for six hits in as many runs to chase Voiselle in the seventh.

Pancho Segura Tops Australian Net Ace

LONDON (AP)—Francisco (Pancho) Segura of Ecuador and Miami, Fla., isn't eligible for the 1946 U. S. Davis Cup team but he gave American hopes of regaining the international tennis trophy a big boost yesterday by defeating Denny Pails, Australia's best new comer, 6-4, 0-6, 6-4, in the finals of the London Grass Court tournament.

Segura's upset of Pails followed the triumph of Pauline Betz of Los Angeles over Margaret Osborne of San Francisco, in the All-America final for the women's title and preceded the victory of Miss Osborne and Louis Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., over Miss Betz and Doris Hart of Miami, Fla., in the women's doubles.

Veeck Group Concludes Deal For Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians, home-owned for 19 years, shortly after noon yesterday became the property of a syndicate headed by grinning, slightly nervous Bill Veeck of Chicago and including radio and film comedian Bob Hope.

Veeck, 32-year-old ex-marine and former owner of the Milwaukee Brewers, immediately announced he would be president of the new club and Harry Grabner, former vice-president of the Chicago White Sox, would be vice-president.

They succeeded President Alva Bradley and Vice-President Roger T. Peckinpaugh, whose resignations were accepted as all of the club's stock changed hands. The amount involved in the sale was not announced, but was reported to range between $1,750,000 and $2,000,000. The purchase involved League park and the club's minor league interests.

Unannounced was the question of whether Lou Boudreau would be replaced as manager of the Tribe, currently tied with St. Louis for fifth place in the American league.

Veeck also declined comment concerning the possibility that Jimmy Dykes, former White Sox manager, would be considered as a pilot for the Indians. Asked about Joe McCarthy, ex-manager of the New York Yankees who was reported in Cleveland, Veeck declared: "Absolutely not, that's definite."

Phillies Climb Into Sixth Place

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Continuing to ride the crest of victory, the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the Cincinnati Reds in both games of a double header, 3-2, and 5-2, yesterday and went into sixth place, one game behind fifth-place Boston.

Playing before 22,663 paid, the largest Saturday home attendance in their history, the Phillies were made gifts of two unearned runs in besting Johnny Vander Meer in the opening engagement.

Spearheaded by Ron Northey's seventh home run of the year and a subsequent double, the Phillies clinched the nightcap.

Red Sox Defeated CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians, sold only a few hours earlier, did all right by their new owners yesterday.

With their new president, Bill Veeck, watching from a grandstand seat, the Tribesmen humbled the league-leading Boston Red Sox 4-3 with a two-run homer by Hank Edwards in the eighth inning.

Iowa City Moose Nine Plays Davenport Today
Plans for today's scheduled doubleheader at the City high diamond received a setback yesterday when Coach Earl Y. Sangster of the American Legion juniors was informed that the tentative Cedar Rapids foe will be unable to make the trip.

Coach Sangster is attempting to arrange a contest with the Burlington Legion team for Tuesday in addition to next Sunday's game with Washington.

Cards Slap Dodgers BROOKLYN (AP)—Howie Pollet's lefthanded pitching kept the Brooklyn Dodgers in check yesterday to give the St. Louis Cardinals a 5-1 victory which evened the series at one game apiece.

The Card victory reduced the Dodgers' first place lead in the National league to one and a half games.

For six innings, Red Barney kept pace with Pollet as neither team scored but the roof fell in on the Dodger right-hander in the seventh as 11 Redbirds went to bat and five scored.

FIRST ADD SPORTS

By Chad Brooks

Shades of Wentworth Lodbell and Bill Buzby. The University of Iowa, high in a tradition of producing some of the greatest divers in the history of college swimming, promises an early return to their former low and high board brilliance with at least three outstanding candidates for next winter's diving positions already in school and three more expected to report in September.

Leading this Hawkeye assault on Ohio State's domination of conference and national honors next season, will be a pair of former G. I. stars—veterans of the Nuremberg and Rome Olympic tank meets a year ago—Marshalltown's Dave Brockway and Chicago's Bill McDonald.

Brockway captured both the low and high board events in the Nuremberg meet early last summer, with McDonald fourth in the same events. Then the Marshalltown star went on to a low board victory and a second place in the higher event in the Allied Troops meet in Rome.

The story of Brockway and McDonald, a tale that is expected to reach a climax in the Big Nine, NCAA and AAU meets next season, really began at Iowa back in the 1942-43 school year when the two entered the university after dominating high school diving in Iowa and Illinois. As freshmen, they weren't eligible for conference competition that first year until the NCAA meet, where Brockway conquered a bad case of "big time" jitters for a startling fourth place finish.

But Brockway and McDonald won't be the only Hawks available to challenge Ohio State's Miller Anderson next year. (Anderson, the crippled veteran who swept all the diving crowns last year, was a teammate of McDonald back in their high school days at Lane Tech in Chicago, by the way.)

The rest of the list will probably include Bill Metier, number one man on the Hawkeye team during the second semester last season; Pete La Tona of Buffalo, New York, another star from the service Olympics in Europe; mid-west AAU champ Ralph Leake from Omaha, and Bob Semekel of Joliet, Illinois.

These six are expected to reclaim the national diving honors that belonged to the Hawks in the day of Lodbell, Buzby and Arnie Christen a decade ago. Lodbell, an immortal in Big Ten diving, won three straight conference crowns; while Buzby followed the Rockford, Illinois, great with a conference title in 1934 and Christen lost only to Ohio State's outstanding Bob Patrick during his college days.

From Clinton we hear that the St. Louis Cardinals, labeled "one of the greatest and most popular baseball organizations in the country"—by their own publicity agent—have completed arrangements for a try-out camp for southwestern Iowa diamond hopefuls, to be held in the river city next Tuesday and Wednesday.

The sessions, which will be under the supervision of "Runt" Marr and Les Wilson, two of the Cards' scouts, will be held at Riverview park and will be open to all boys, 16 years of age or over "who want a career in professional baseball." Candidates are required to furnish their own shoes, gloves and uniforms (if available) and all out-of-town boys—that's any Iowa Citizens who wish to try out—must pay their own expenses.

Word out of Minneapolis, home of the once mighty Golden Golfs, arrived here yesterday to the effect that the NCAA track meet held there the past two days was just a warm up for bigger and better things in the future. Our rumor, and it is strictly on a rumor basis at the present time, is that the twin cities will put in a strong bid for the 1952 Olympic games.

Personally, we'd like nothing better than a chance to see the world's top athletes competing in a mid-western city where attendance would be possible for one in our own low income bracket.

Tunney Starts Airline MEXICO CITY (AP)—James J. (Gene) Tunney, former world heavyweight champion, said yesterday he came here to help finance a proposed new airline to connect Canadian and U. S. points with Mexico.

Wisconsin Crew Loses

SEATTLE (AP)—Cornell won the 2,000-meter Lake Washington International regatta yesterday with a driving finish against seven other top college eight-oared crews of the United States and British Columbia. Favored Wisconsin finished fourth.

SEATTLE (AP)—The St. Browns won a 14-8 slugfest last night from the Washington Senators, getting 18 hits off four hurlers while Tex Shirley and Stan Perens, credited with the victory.

Endorses Atom Plan
NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Herbert V. Evtatt, Australian minister of external affairs and representative of the United Nations atomic energy commission, said last night that Bernard Baruch's proposals on world control of atomic energy "offer a basis for discussion between the nations which might well lead to the elimination of atomic armament."

Local Retailers Adopt New Summer Hours, Open Friday Nights

Store Owners Have Two Saturday Nights As Program Changes

Iowa City retailers had two Saturday nights last week. Stores other than groceries, breaking a long tradition, adopted a summer schedule and were open for evening shopping Friday instead of Saturday night as before. Groceries remained open last night as usual. They were closed Friday night.

All merchants reported a volume of business comparable to an average Saturday night on both evenings. Grocers were not disappointed; farmers kept them busy.

Other retailers were pleased with the results of the change. Offering sale of scarce items, they attracted large crowds Friday night. One store, with rayon hose and bath towels for sale, had lines at both counters until closing at 9 o'clock.

For social reasons, farmers are reluctant to give up their Saturday night shopping. Meeting their friends on Saturday night has been a high point of their week. Merchants, however, are confident that they will accept the change.

Friday night's business proved to many of them that the change would be accepted. The summer schedule will remain. Grocers were waiting to see the effects of Friday night business. At a Chamber of Commerce meeting Wednesday, they had discussed closing at 5 o'clock Monday through Friday and at 8 on Saturday night. A decision may be reached at a meeting Tuesday.

Asked whether or not work would allow farmers to quit early on Friday afternoon and come to town, one farmer said: "I don't run the farm; the farm runs me. If I can't work I'll come to town. If there's work to do, I won't be able to come in. Makes no difference to me whether they're open Friday or Saturday. I'll come in when I can."

Mulherin Files Court Petition For Pension Payment Refund

G. J. (Danny) Mulherin filed a petition in district court yesterday against the Iowa City police retirement board and Judge Harold D. Evans set July 6 at 10 a. m. as the time for the hearing.

Mulherin asks the court to issue a "writ of mandamus" ordering the board to repay him money he contributed to the pension fund while he was on military service and to raise the base on which his pension is figured.

Mulherin was disabled in a glider crash on Mar. 17, 1945, during the Rhine crossing. He applied for a pension last November while still in a hospital in Des Moines.

A pension was granted him in December. It was rescinded January 8 on the grounds that before he entered the army Mulherin was not on the police force five years, the minimum time required for pension eligibility. Mulherin then filed suit in district court for a pension, claiming military service counted as time toward the pension. Judge James P. Gaffney ruled in Mulherin's favor on April 25.

The board met on May 15 and granted Mulherin a pension, counting July 1, 1943, as the end of the five year period. Mulherin, however, refused to accept the pension of $35.17 a month. He pointed out that police pay was raised on July 1, 1945, from $145 to $170 a month while he was in service and his pension was based on the former figure. The difference would be about $3.88 a month.

He also asks for a refund of $101.88 which he paid into the retirement fund while in the army. The state legislature ruled in 1943 that cities pay retirement contributions for servicemen who were city employees. D. C. Nolan is the attorney representing Mulherin.

Centennial Costume Party to Fete Elks; Prizes to Be Awarded

The centennial celebration will commence with a "Dutch Lunch" at 11:30 which will be served until 2 p. m. and also from 5:30 to 7:30 p. m. Prizes will be awarded for the best men's and women's costumes.

James Aldous, William Hoffelder, Henry Louis, T. D. Kelly, Art Yonkin and John Colbert will judge the costumes the members enter in the contest.

Rimmerman Divorce Granted Yesterday

Cecelia D. Rimmerman was granted a divorce yesterday from Frank C. Rimmerman by Judge Harold D. Evans.

Rimmerman had filed a cross-petition charging his wife with cruelty after she filed the same charge against him.

Mrs. Rimmerman was given temporary custody of their six-month old son and $50 a month to care for him. She received sole ownership of Gift-Land, 107 E. Washington street, and permission to live at the 515 Oakland avenue home until August 10, 1946.

Ownership of Dunn's, 116 E. Washington street, and the home was awarded Rimmerman. The couple was married in November, 1938, and separated in December, 1945.

U.S. Army to Grant Regular Commissions To 9000 Applicants

Nine thousand reserve and temporary army officers will be granted regular army commissions June 28, Capt. N. B. Wright of the university R. O. T. C. unit announced yesterday.

Out of 108,000 applicants these officers ranked highest in recent examinations.

In a war department announcement received by the military science department, the new officers are described as the "best selected leaders in the world today."

The exhaustive tests included a general knowledge test, a biographical test, an interview by a board of senior officers and a report submitted by a commanding officer the candidate served under during the war.

Developed after intensive research in America and in foreign countries, the examination results in a picture of the candidates personality and ability based on the opinions of his wartime commander and the interviewing board and the candidates opinion of himself.

Many prospects had to be turned down because the number of regular army commissions now provided for by law allowed acceptance of only one out of 12 applicants. Candidates who rated high but could not be accepted will be appointed later when more commissions are authorized by congress, Captain Wright said.

PRENTISS-EMERICK, the quaintest spot in town with so many unusual antiques, is a fascinating place for those who appreciate yesterday's lovely things. Any collector would exclaim over the low footed pair of Acanthus leaf goblets made in milk glass, the Holly lamp, the large dated platter in the form of a fish, or a covered pitcher. Then too, there is a salt and pepper in milk glass with a rabbit pattern and a covered dish in a quail pattern. PRENTISS-EMERICK'S art gallery has some beautiful paintings that you'll want to see when the gallery is opened in the near future to the public. In fact, PRENTISS-EMERICK would be glad to display your original work. The address is 110 S. Gilbert.

Heigh-ho, heigh-ho, it's off to class we go! This little ditty might be the theme song of some 4,500 summer school students. There's just one little hitch to the proceedings sometimes. And that is RAIN, spelled with a capital R. But, wait, there's a way of getting around the weatherman's worst joker. Just dial 3131, and pronto, a YELLOW CAB is at your door, ready to whisk you off to your class—dry, smiling and on time. Thoughts thought while raining lead us to believe that to chase away those rainy day blues, a be-prepared college student needs an umbrella, a raincoat, and, most of all, a YELLOW-CAB handy.

When a young man's fancy turns to things of love, it also turns to things like diamonds and wedding rings for the object of his affections. Questions like these often baffle him. Where to buy the ring? How much to pay? What kind of setting to get? The whole process of purchasing this to-be-treasured ring can be much simplified if the two parties in question tie themselves to FUKS Jewelry Shop, where Mr. Fuiks himself can give them expert advice as to rings, and stones, and mountings. For FUKS do their own diamond mounting, and offer the purchaser a handsome array of gorgeous diamonds, and beautiful rings in platinum, and yellow and white gold, with equally lovely companion wedding bands.
