President Vetoes Tidelands Measure

Sen. McKellar Holds Lead In Tennessee

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Veteran Senator Kenneth D. McKellar apparently had won renomination to the United States senate for a sixth term on the basis of unofficial returns from yesterday's Tennessee Democratic primary which was marred by an outbreak of violence over a local issue in one southeast Tennessee county.

A midnight Associated Press tabulation showed McKellar had won a total of 102,749 votes to 66,667 for Edward Ward Carmack, who had the endorsement of the CIO-PAC.

McKellar had the potent backing of the Shelby county (Memphis) Democratic organization headed by his long time political ally, Edward H. Crump.

Also backed by Crump and an apparent winner for re-nomination was Governor Jim Nance McCord, seeking his second term.

The latest tabulation gave McCord 72,596 votes to 60,512 for former Governor Gordon Browning.

At midnight meanwhile Adjutant General Hilton Butler announced in Nashville he was mobilizing the state guard's sixth regiment to cope with the situation at Athens, county seat of McMinn county, where Sheriff Pat Mansfield said election disorder over a local issue had developed into mob violence.

Sheriff Mansfield broke off a telephone conversation with a newspaperman at 9 p. m. (CST) with the words "I can't talk any more—there's no violence here at the county jail right now."

Meanwhile the Nashville Tennessean, state capital newspaper which backed Edward Ward Carmack against McKellar, declared editorially in its first edition that Carmack had lost. Carmack was backed by the CIO-PAC. The newspaper also conceded the defeat of former Governor Gordon Browning, who also had the paper's support, in his race against incumbent Democratic Governor Jim Nance McCord.

Lie Says Big Five Must Seek Unity

By LARRY HAUCK
NEW YORK (AP)—The future of the United Nations depends on the big powers seeking agreement in a spirit of compromise and mutual understanding, Secretary-General Trygve Lie said yesterday as the much-debated veto power moved into the spotlight.

Lie declared that the right of veto granted by the charter to the United States, Russia, Great Britain, France and China "imposed upon them an obligation to seek agreement among themselves."

At the same time the United Nations announced the agenda for the general assembly, listing such explosive items as the veto and the Spanish case.

Speaks for Small Nations
Dr. Herbert V. Ewart of Australia, spearheading opposition of small nations to the special balloting provision, placed the question on the calendar.

In a report to the assembly, Lie said:

"The United Nations was not designed to perform the functions of a peace conference nor was it equipped to act as a referee between the great powers. It was founded upon the basic assumption that there would be agreement between the permanent members (Big Five) of the security council upon major issues.

"Many of the issues which have come before the security council have arisen from inability to reach such agreement."

Hasn't Fulfilled Hopes
The secretary-general said flatly that he did not feel that the United Nations so far has fulfilled the broad hopes placed in it and questioned whether the desire to establish the authority of the United Nations has not sometimes "been impeded by a lack of mutual trust among members."

The United Nations 51-nation body will convene Sept. 23 at the refurbished world's fair site at Flushing for its first session on United States soil.

Yugoslavia Rejects Plan to Place Trieste Under International Rule

By LYNN HEINZERLING
PARIS (AP)—Yugoslavia bluntly announced yesterday she could not accept the Big-Four compromise solution on Trieste, and the Netherlands warned the peace conference delegates that the small nations are opposed to the great powers imposing their will on others.

In a bitter attack on the Trieste decision, Yugoslav Vice-Premier and Chief Delegate Edward Kardelj declared his country would reject the solution because "it abandons large sections of our people to the oppression of Italy."

Amend Greek Proposal
The expected explosion on Trieste came after Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov amended a Greek motion in the rules committee to open the conference to "any peace question." The committee adopted Molotov's amendment that any delegation could raise any question "pertaining to the draft treaties."

The Yugoslavs have bitterly opposed the Trieste decision since the four-power foreign ministers council accepted the French plan to place the disputed port under international control.

Kardelj at a plenary session declared the French line as the boundary between Italy and Yugoslavia was a "negation of all the fundamental principles for which our people fought."

Revive Equality Dispute
Just before Kardelj's announcement, Dutch Foreign Minister Baron Von Boetzelaer revived the equality dispute between the big and little nations with the declaration that "we are opposed to having the great powers impose their will on the others."

Urging the conference to serve the interests of both great and small, the Dutch delegate declared that, "we cannot agree that the great powers shall dictate their will to others," and "we are determined that inequality of treatment shall not go beyond certain limits."

Other developments during the fourth days of the peace conference were:

1. Greece proposed during a session of the rules committee that any delegation be allowed to put "any peace question" on the agenda by a simple majority vote. This brought opposition from Yugoslavia and the Ukraine, but Molotov offered an amendment whereby "all questions pertaining to the draft peace treaties" could be placed on the conference agenda. In a sudden burst of harmony, the committee adopted the Greek proposal as amended.

2. An authoritative French informant said that a special four-power commission assigned to prepare a draft constitution for the proposed international zone at Trieste had been meeting twice daily since the foreign ministers council adjourned July 13 but had made practically no progress.

3. Fighting for a stronger small nations voice, the Netherlands delegation proposed to the rules committee that every country represented at the conference be admitted to all commissions on equal footing. It was opposed immediately by the British delegation which argued that the rights of every nation would be safeguarded by final consideration of every resolution on the plenary session floor. The proposal was defeated by a vote of 11 to nine, with the United States abstaining.

Australia Dissatisfied
4. A source close to the Australian delegation indicated that Australia may question Soviet Russia's claim to $1,000,000,000 in reparations from Italy, Hungary, Romania and Finland, and may ask a special peace conference "fact-finding committee" to review the question. He said Dr. Herbert V. Ewart, Australian minister of external affairs, was not satisfied with reparations proposals of the treaty drafts.

5. Trygve Lie, secretary general of the United Nations and an observer at the treaty negotiations, served notice to the conference that it must complete its work in time for the U. N. general assembly session to open on schedule Sept. 23. Failure of the Paris conference to complete its work by then, Lie said, would "hamper us very much."

Truman Tells Army, Navy to Economize

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman ordered the army and navy to "reduce expenditures substantially" below their present programs despite protests from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Admiral Chester W. Nimitz.

The Maritime commission also was directed to retrench, making it virtually certain that its plans for seven modern new passenger liners will be cancelled, leaving the United States without a single big passenger liner (except for those reconverted from troopships).

Mr. Truman wrote the heads of all departments and agencies that "the present inflationary situation and the need for reducing the public debt make it imperative that expenditures be held at the lowest possible level."

Specific Reductions
In addition to the instructions to all department heads, the President sent directions for specific reductions to some of them. In this connection he listed the war and navy departments and the maritime commission.

The President wrote that "it is the intention of the congress and of the administration that the recent civilian pay increase be absorbed to a very considerable extent. I believe this can be done if active attention is given to all feasible methods of improving personnel utilization. Economies and short cuts should be introduced in all operations."

Other Steps
Other general steps which the chief executive ordered included these:

Postponement of public works; Deferment at least until next January of purchases of automobiles, office equipment, building materials and other scarce items.

The President did not disclose what the reductions were which he proposed to the army and navy and the maritime commission. He announced a special news conference will be held at 2 p. m. (CST) today.

Delay Action On Decision To Override

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman yesterday vetoed a bill to give states clear title to tideland areas, but the house put off until today a decision on whether to override his action.

The reading of the veto message in the house was interrupted midway by Speaker Rayburn (D, Texas), who announced that without objection further reading would be postponed until today. No objection was made.

The delay was apparently decided because only a few members were present at the time the veto arrived.

The measure was designed to renounce any government claim to the lands "beneath the tideswaters" including valuable oil reserves in submerged coastal lands.

In a veto message, Mr. Truman referred to the long controversy over ownership of the land, and said it "should be resolved appropriately and promptly."

"Vital Problem"
"The ownership of the vast quantity of oil in such areas presents a vital problem for the nation from the standpoint of national defense and conservation," he wrote.

"If the United States owns the areas they should not be given away. If the supreme court decides that the United States has no title to or interest in the lands, a quit-claim from the congress is unnecessary," the message continued.

Suit Pending
The state of California has pending before the supreme court a suit seeking clear title to the tideland areas off its coast.

The President recently was urged by leaders of the governors conference to sign the measure.

The pending supreme court case, Mr. Truman said, "will determine rights in lands lying beyond ordinary low water mark along the coast extending seaward for a distance of three miles."

B-29 Betters Speed Record

BURBANK, Calif. (AP)—An army B29 raced from New York to Burbank yesterday in seven hours, 28 minutes, establishing a new east-west mark between the two points. The previous record, set last May 28 by a Lockheed navy Neptune, was nine hours, 23 minutes.

The craft, piloted by Capt. Boyd L. Grubbaugh, left LaGuardia field at 8:54 a. m. (CST) and landed here at 4:22:34 p. m. (CST) Grubbaugh thus hit almost on the nose his prediction of a seven hour, 30 minute crossing.

The pilot said a leak was discovered in the No. 1 engine just prior to landing, and remarked: "That certainly would have caused us trouble if it had started earlier. We had a couple hours of bad weather, but it didn't bother us much."

It was a record for conventional type planes, although fast pursuits have crossed the country more speedily.

The crossing highlighted ceremonies here marking army air forces day.

British Troops Find Arsenal of Arms In Tel Aviv School

TEL AVIV, PALESTINE (AP)—British troops in a boys' technical school taken over as a battalion headquarters yesterday discovered the largest arsenal of arms yet found in their inch-by-inch search of Tel Aviv.

Some troops had been in the building since Monday, unaware of the powder keg hidden in a secret labyrinth of rooms beneath them. Thousands of rounds of ammunition, ortar bombs and hand grenades and hundreds of rifles and pistols were found in sealed rooms below the main floor of the school in this all-Jewish community.

Officials said they believed the arsenal belonged to the powerful Jewish underground, Hagana.

A communique declared 664 persons had been arrested up to noon yesterday in the careful screening of the city's 200,000 population.

A British general said among them were 35 men and one woman known to be terrorists.

Sappers of an airborne division still were hacking away yesterday afternoon at false walls and other hollow-sounding places in the boys' school.

One military unit had been in the building since Monday morning, and headquarters of Battalion G had moved in later.

At dawn yesterday morning an inspecting officer found a newly-bricked up hole in a wall behind a huge crate of tools, and a full investigation was begun.

A large store of arms, along with equipment for forging government bonds, was found Wednesday beneath the great synagogue of Tel Aviv.

A communique said one Jew was wounded during "the storming of a street barricade by hostile Jews" when the 22-hour-a-day curfew was relaxed for two hours Wednesday night.

President Favors Anti-Lynching Act

Chances of Measure Appear Very Remote As Adjournment Nears

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman aligned himself anew yesterday with the advocates of a federal anti-lynching act.

His views on the proposal were asked at a news conference in connection with the shooting of four Negroes by a band of white men at Monroe, Ga., last week.

Mr. Truman recalled that, as a senator, he voted for the anti-lynching bill every time it came up and his tone gave every indication that, as president, he would sign such a measure. But its prospects appear remote in view of plans for congress to adjourn soon and the southern filibuster it inevitably would provoke.

The chief executive had nothing to add to the statement issued Tuesday on the Georgia case. That statement, by Attorney General Clark, said the president had expressed his "horror" and directed the justice department to investigate with all its resources.

Mr. Truman opened his weekly session with reporters with three announcements:

1. Instructions to all department and agency heads to cut expenses as an anti-inflation measure, with "substantial reductions" particularly enjoined upon the army, navy and maritime commission.

2. Appointment of Keen Johnson, former governor of Kentucky, to the new post of undersecretary of labor—second in command to Secretary of Labor Schwelmbach.

3. Designation of William Clayton to another post of undersecretary of state in charge of economic affairs. Clayton, now an assistant secretary, will have substantially the same duties as at present.

The appointments of five civilians for the new commission on domestic control of atomic energy remain to be made. Mr. Truman said he is working on the matter and hopes to announce them soon. The president signed the control bill into law yesterday.

On politics, the president had virtually nothing to say. Questioned as to whether he favored the renomination of Senator McKellar (D, Tenn.) in yesterday's primary, he said he was not in Tennessee politics and had no comment to make. Asked if he expects to have the "leadership" for the next six years of Senator Mead (D, N.Y.), who is generally expected to run for governor of New York, he replied he was not going to discuss New York politics. A query on what he has heard from Missouri, where he has marked Rep. Slaughter (D, Mo.) for defeat, brought the reply that he had no fresh comment on that, either.

Vets Tell Committee Defective Mortar Shells Can Be Traced

WASHINGTON (AP)—Combat veterans told the senate war investigating committee yesterday that the defective mortar shells which killed their buddies can be traced to the manufacturer—and told it how.

One who served in Italy wrote that his 100th chemical mortar battalion "had quite a bit of defective 4.2-inch ammunition" and that he has its lot numbers. An ex-corporal of the 65th chemical company in Belgium reported that he kept records on a "disgraceful number of defective fuses."

Another soldier wrote that "army regulations require that ammunition be stored and issued by lot-number; that a report, giving lot-number, be made of all accidents involving defective ammunition and the faulty round be impounded."

"From this information," he added, it should not be difficult to find out who manufactured the rounds which caused muzzle bursts.

This correspondent also reported that an entire gun crew was killed or wounded by a defective mortar shell in tests at Fort Bragg, N.C., in 1943 and that "a full report was made by the field artillery board and copies will be found in its files."

Reports Show Lot-Number
"These reports show the lot-number of the defective round and from that information the manufacturer can be ascertained," he declared.

Senator Knowland (R, Calif.) committee member, told reporters a "demand" already is being pressed upon the chemical warfare service for quick delivery of the lot numbers of the 4.2 shells produced by the various manufacturers.

The letters from officers and GI's with first-hand, battlefield experience challenged the testimony of Maj. Gen. Alden H. Waitt, chief of the chemical warfare service, that it would be "almost impossible to trace the shells."

Defective Rounds in Pacific
They also gave the first information that the defective rounds had turned up in the Pacific as well as the European theater. One reported that at least four men of the 82nd chemical mortar battalion were killed by a muzzle burst on Bougainville island in 1944.

Another combat veteran wrote that "so many lot numbers were set aside to each manufacturer."

Acknowledging itself off to a late start, the committee sent questionnaires to the informants seeking exact details on the cause, time place and lot numbers of the defective shells. It also appealed to others to step forward with any information they may have.

Information about the defective shells emerged during the munitions inquiry because Erie Basin Metal Products, Inc., one of the 19 closely-linked concerns in the combine, was one of the chief producers of the 4.2 shell. There has been no testimony to show that Erie Basin was responsible for the defective shells.

While committee investigators fastened their attention on the shells, Chairman Mead said the members will investigate the vast wartime expenditures and expansion in the automotive, aircraft, aluminum and ship-building industries before drafting recommendations to prevent future frauds.

Reach Compromise Social Security Bill

Congressmen Agree On Plan Providing Bigger Federal Grants

WASHINGTON (AP)—A compromise social security bill, freeing the old age insurance tax at one percent and providing larger federal grants for needy persons in all states, was agreed upon last night by a house senate conference committee.

The action blasted away what appeared to be the last major barrier to congressional adjournment by tonight.

$5 More a Month
Under the compromise, approximately 2,000,000 aged persons and 75,000 blind persons would get five extra federal dollars a month beginning Oct. 1.

The conferees discarded the controversial "variable grant" provision which would have given a greater proportion of federal money to low income states, many of them in the south, and set up this system:

Beginning October 1, the federal government would put up $10 of the first $15 paid as relief to needy aged and blind persons, and would match any state payments made to these persons above $15, on a 50-50 basis. The entire program currently is on a 50-50 federal-state matching basis. The new bill raised from $20 to $25 a month the total amount the federal government will contribute to one recipient.

2. The government will provide six of the first nine dollars paid to dependent children, with the state paying three, and sums given the child above $9 will be matched by the federal government.

3. The government will provide six of the first nine dollars paid to dependent children, with the state paying three, and sums given the child above $9 will be matched by the federal government.

4. The government will provide six of the first nine dollars paid to dependent children, with the state paying three, and sums given the child above $9 will be matched by the federal government.

Truman Emphasizes Winning Fair Peace In AAF Address

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman emphasized last night that the United States is not seeking to gain power, reparations or territory out of its World War II victory.

Addressing a dinner celebrating the 39th birthday of the Army Air Force, the President said he spoke for a nation which wanted only a just peace, and that it had "no axes to grind."

He expressed hope that Secretary of State Byrnes will succeed at Paris in working out a peace that is just to both enemies and Allies in the recent war.

The President reminded his audience that it is almost a year since V-J day.

He said he wanted to see the United States take the leadership in the cause of peace in the same spirit displayed in winning the war.

"If you haven't the heart and stamina to win the peace," he said, "winning the war doesn't mean too much."

Mr. Truman added that he wanted to see the American production machine become the same force for winning the peace as it was for winning the war.

"Mr. Byrnes," the President said, "is in Paris in an effort to get started on the road to winning the peace."

"We have no axe to grind," he stressed.

The United States, he continued, wants "no power, territory or reparations," all it wants "is a just peace."

Mr. Truman said it was essential, however, that the United Nations have a "police force" capable of enforcing "that peace."

The United Nations "won't get anywhere" without such a force, he said.

"It's up to you to maintain the morale for peace that you had in war," he told the assembled World War II pilots.

Atomic Bill Becomes Law

WASHINGTON (AP)—Army domination of atomic energy development in America ended legally yesterday with President Truman's signature on a law giving control to a civilian commission.

Along with announcement of the signature that put the act on the books, Mr. Truman told his news conference that he plans to make public the personnel of the five-man commission as soon as he obtained acceptances from those he has asked to serve.

The $17,500-a-year chairman, his four $15,000 associates and a $15,000 general manager to handle administrative work all will be subject to senate confirmation.

The commissioners must be civilians but there is no bar against retired members of the armed forces.

The military gets into the control picture by having a representative as director of the division of military application. He will be appointed by the commission, however, along with the other $14,000 division heads for research, engineering and production.

Eleven Die in Crash Of 4-Engined Bomber

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Eleven army and navy personnel perished early yesterday in the crash and explosion of a four-engined navy privateer bomber on nearby Kearny Mesa 3 1/2 miles southwest of marine Camp Miramar.

A spokesman for the navy said the bomber crashed and burned after striking a clump of trees on a hillside near Camp Miramar. The navy air control tower reported it had lost radio contact with the plane four minutes after it took off for Dallas.

The eleven bodies, badly mangled and burned beyond recognition, were taken to a San Diego mortuary.

'Big Three' in Automobile Industry Reject Plan for Union-Management Conference

DETROIT (AP)—The motor-car industry's "big three"—General Motors, Ford and Chrysler—along with three other automobile manufacturers yesterday turned down a proposal by the CIO United Auto Workers' union for a union-management conference on problems affecting automobile production.

General Motors late yesterday afternoon joined the other larger car makers in asserting that "nothing could be accomplished by a meeting of the car manufacturers and representatives of your union."

Nevertheless, UAW-CIO spokesmen said the conference called by Walter P. Reuther, UAW-CIO president for this forenoon, would proceed as planned, with representatives of Studebaker, Willys-Overland and Kaiser-Frazer participating.

The car industry has long maintained that shortages of parts, equipment and materials were responsible for the lag in car output, which has totaled only about 862,000 units thus far this year compared with more than 2,770,000 in the like period of 1941.

The assertions of management representatives that strikes in UAW-CIO organized plants were mainly responsible for the curtailed output brought from Richard T. Leonard, UAW-CIO vice-president, the charge yesterday that a hoarding by various car makers of parts and materials needed by their competitors was the real reason for the production lag.

The companies besides General Motors, Ford and Chrysler declining to attend tomorrow's conference were Nash-Kelvinator, Packard and Hudson. GM, of course, spoke for all five of its car making divisions.

Officials Ready to Pay $2 1/2-Billion to GI's

WASHINGTON (AP)—Without waiting for President Truman to sign the bill, officials got busy yesterday on arrangements for paying some $2,431,000,000 of terminal leave pay to an estimated 15,000, 000 World War II enlisted men and women.

The government printing office began work on application forms which are expected to be ready in ten days. They will be distributed to veterans through the post office probably before the month's end, army officials said.

The plan calls for payment in cash amounts under $50 and in five-year non-negotiable bonds for larger sums.

Of Death and Twisted Bodies

Infantile paralysis is on the march this year. The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Inc., reported yesterday that throughout the nation a 71 percent increase in the number of persons stricken with this dreadful disease has been noted in the first half of this year as compared with the first six months of 1945. Over 3,264 cases have been tabulated in the United States so far this year, highest for the period since 1934. Polio, which means death for about one of every 11 cases and twisted bodies for practically all of its victims, has baffled science for generations. The tragedy of polio is prevalent among small children. All of us have seen the withered arms and legs that characterize the disease, forever prohibiting its victims from participation in the robust activities of life.

Of Cabbages and Kings

Russia and the United States stood shoulder-to-shoulder on two important issues which confronted the European peace conference during its initial sessions at Paris this week. In the rules committee—composed of the chiefs of the 21 national delegations—Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov backed a proposal by U. S. Secretary of State James Byrnes that all meetings of the conference be given full publicity. It had naturally been expected that Russia, in view of her insistence on secrecy at the principal big-power parleys of the past three years, would demand that similar conditions be imposed upon representatives of the press at this conference.

Housing Program Forces Birth Control

The nationwide orgy of jerry-building of matchbox-like houses has resulted not only in the fleecing and fettering of thousands of war veterans but, because the dwellings generally are small and crammed in rows, has led to enforced birth control, Mrs. Samuel I. Rosenman, chairman of the national committee on housing, charges in the September American magazine, in an article in which she calls for more rental housing. In fact, declares Mrs. Rosenman, the four and four-and-a-half-room houses of shoddy construction springing up throughout the nation are nothing more than "approved birth-control houses" and far from the dream home servicemen thought about during the war years.

Soviets Deny Ruining Hungarian Economy

LONDON (AP)—Russia disclosed last night that she has rejected as "completely groundless" an American complaint that Soviet policies in Hungary were ruining Hungary's economy. The official Soviet news agency Tass released a Russian note to the United States government saying the American allegations did not "correspond with the facts." The Soviet government also turned down as "inacceptable" an American suggestion that a Russian, American and British joint commission work out a plan for the economic rehabilitation of Hungary. The note—which Tass said Russian Deputy Foreign Minister V. G. Dekanozov sent the American ambassador, Lt. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, last Saturday—replied to Secretary of State James F. Byrnes' July 22 protest against alleged extensive use of Hungarian industrial production for Russian reparations payments and maintenance of Red army occupation forces.

Southern Aristocracy Responsible for Klan

I feel the recent quadruple murders in Georgia again illustrate most tragically the results of a policy formed in the days of reconstruction by the defeated planter-aristocracy of the old south. Howard Fast, in his well-documented novel of the reconstruction period, "Freedom Road," startlingly reveals the birth of a policy which we see today still bears very bitter fruit. Surprised or sceptic readers of Fast can check on his facts through legislative records, newspapers of the time, and reconstruction histories of the southern states. During federal troop occupation of the south, new constitutions for the southern states had to be drawn up. Of the subsequent conventions, too much has been said of the gold cuspidors, the gilt-edged mirrors, the marble-topped tables; too little is known of the monumental legislative accomplishments such as the abolition of dueling, a sane divorce law, abolition of imprisonment for debt, compulsory education for all children regardless of color. Too "radical" for passage was the bill that provided suffrage for women. Even more important than this democratic legislation are the rarely-publicized instances of Negro-white cooperation for common betterment. Throughout the south former slaves and white farm workers met to discuss their futures. Very often, they overcame racial prejudices, pooled their resources and ingenuity, bought land, built homes and schools and established for both Negro and white a decent way of life. Why has so little of these democratic accomplishments been told? Why is there no mention of these projects in the history textbooks? The answer is maddeningly simple. As soon as the federal troops were withdrawn in 1877, the Klan began to ride, bringing death to many of these experimenters, destruction of their property, and obliteration of their courageous idea. Who were these Klansmen? The scum of the south—former slave runners, breeders, overseers, the whip men—men whom the temporarily dispossessed southern planter had subtly taught the "advantage" of color. Shrewdly and evilly, the planters took the only difference between the poor-white and the Negro, the color of the skin, and elevated it to the position of a flaming badge of superiority. To the white who dared to join the Negroes for personal betterment, the Klansmen dealt the most cruel and vicious tortures of all. What did the planters have to gain from this deliberate twisting of the truth? Working together the white and negro could become free-holders of land, voters with duties and privileges, citizens of the community. Pitted against each other, both would lose their rights while the planter repossessed the land and re-established slavery in the form of tenant and share-crop bondage. Thus we see today the results of the planter-aristocrat policy: Men and women still murdered by Klansmen, a governor elected through the support of poor whites on the pledge of preserving their one "advantage," and almost complete destruction of the record of successful Negro-white communities which today could serve as the historical basis of hope for present generations fighting for a workable democracy. Dr. Walter Judd to Discuss 'Chinese Puzzle' Here Tonight

Wants Earlier Weekend Curfew for Coeds

To Give Final Series Lecture

Noted as Lecturer On Foreign Policy, Interests in Pacific

Dr. Walter H. Judd, United States representative from Minnesota, will speak at the last summer series lecture tonight at 8 o'clock on the west approach to Old Capitol. A medical missionary in China for many years during the Sino-Jap war, Dr. Judd will talk on "The Chinese Puzzle."

Immediately before World War II, Dr. Judd traveled throughout the United States lecturing on American foreign policy and interests in the Pacific. He appealed for a cessation of American munitions shipments to Japan and advocated boycotting Japanese goods.

He told his audiences that bullets sent to Japan by Americans found their way into Chinese bodies to be extracted by him as an American missionary serving the Chinese.

Communists' Captive
For several months, during the years he was a missionary at Nanking, Shaowu and Fenchow, China, Dr. Judd was held captive by Chinese Communists. He was released because of his skill in treating the illnesses of his captors.

He wrote an account of his life with the Communists in a pamphlet, "A Philosophy of Life that Works," published in 1932. Widely circulated in colleges and universities in the United States and abroad, the pamphlet contains an account of his attitudes toward life as developed during the year he spent in China.

Dr. Judd is a graduate of the University of Nebraska, where he received a B. A. in 1920 and an M.D. in 1923. Before becoming a doctor, he was engaged in many occupations, including Y.M.C.A. work, three summers on Chautauque platforms and Orpheum vaudeville stages and service in the field artillery with the rank of second lieutenant.

Of his rank in the army, Dr. Judd once wrote, "If the Lord will forgive me for that, it won't happen again!"

In 1924 and 1925 he was on the traveling staff of the Student Volunteer movement, leaving for China the latter year as a missionary under the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions.

Visited Universities
Returning to the United States in 1931, he spent the fall months visiting colleges and universities under the auspices of the Student Volunteer movement.

After a period as a student at the Mayo foundation at the University of Minnesota, Dr. Judd went back to China in 1934. He returned to this country after four years to conduct a lecture tour about the prospect of war with Japan.

Because of ill health, he was compelled to give up his missionary work to become a practicing physician and surgeon in Minne-with the second semester in February.

He is now completing his second term at this post and has just been nominated for a third term.

Need for librarian training facilities has arisen because the North Central Association Standards require that a teacher-librarian in a school of fewer than 800 students must have at least six semester hours of library science courses.

Train Teacher-Librarians
"The University has no regular school which can grant a degree," Professor Ellsworth explained, "but we will furnish a curriculum for the development of teacher-librarians in high schools."

Designed to accommodate librarians in small communities who cannot leave their positions to attend the summer school, the correspondence course is being developed for presentation late this summer by Frederic C. Battell, supervisor of departmental libraries, and Mrs. Luanna Stahlecker, head of the education, philosophy and psychology library.

One of the courses to begin next February will be devoted to the technical organization of school libraries, Professor Ellsworth said. It will cover problems of administration, cataloging, classification of material, book-buying, reference work and building of pamphlet collections.

Two other courses designed especially for high school teachers will include the relationship between the library and the instruction program in the high school and methods of selecting materials for high school libraries.

Proposes Field Institutes
"In connection with the correspondence course and in conjunction with the state traveling library, we want to start a number of field institutes in various parts of the state," Professor Ellsworth said. They would help librarians to improve the organization of their libraries.

"All these activities have been tried in other states," he declared, "and have proven they can be successful in raising the level of library service, especially in rural areas."

SUI Graduate Awarded Commendation Ribbon For Army Engineering

Maj. Hayse H. Black of Springfield, Ill., who received an M. S. degree here in 1929, was recently awarded the Army Commendation ribbon for work performed as a member of the army engineer board.

Major Black, as a sanitary engineer, supervised the development of a new type of diatomite water filter which was capable of removing organisms responsible for amoebic dysentery formerly prevalent among U. S. troops in the Pacific theatre.

He also aided materially in increasing the efficiency of army thermocompression distillation units, as a result of which the output of distilled water made available to troops in the field was increased from 15 gallons a pound of fuel to 200 gallons.

Research Engineer Tells of Detection Of U-Boats in War

"We might still be fighting this war if we hadn't effectively combated the U boat menace," Prof. John S. McNow, university research engineer, told Rotarians yesterday noon in the Hotel Jefferson.

Speaking before 85 Rotarian and guests, the largest meeting this summer, McNow, a former navy sound expert at San Diego, Calif., told of our underwater detection along with other factors which helped us conquer the sub menace.

McNow said only one in twenty submarines detected in 1942 were sunk, while in 1945 we managed to knock out one in every three.

This accomplishment was the result of improved equipment, a more efficient training program, superior tactics, and a greater knowledge of underwater handicaps, McNow declared.

By the end of the war, the Germans had developed a submarine with a cruising range of 22,000 miles which could complete the entire distance submerged, at a speed of 24 knots, McNow disclosed.

He pointed out teamwork between escort ships and planes was especially important.

Rocket launchers mounted on ships bows laid down a barrage 100 yards ahead of ships which would cripple or destroy subs more often than straight depth charges, McNow reported.

McNow concluded that fishermen are now using the new sound equipment in their work as a time saving device in detecting schools of fish.

Cardinals Win Crucial Series

BROOKLYN (AP)—Howie Pollet strode from the Cardinal bullpen in a drizzling rain yesterday to put down a threatening Brooklyn uprising and preserve a 3-1 St. Louis victory that sliced the Dodgers' National league lead to 1 1/2 games.

Called into action when the Brooks had Harry (The Cat) Brecheen rocking and reeling in the eighth inning, Pollet, who had been beaten in the series opener Tuesday night calmly disposed of the threat and proceeded to shut the door in the face of the Dodgers.

Perhaps even more important to Brooklyn fans than the disappointing setback, their 11th in 15 meetings with the St. Louis gang, was the loss of left fielder Pete Reiser who was carried from the field on a stretcher after banging into the left field wall trying desperately to make a catch on Whitey Kurowski's double in the fifth.

Reiser was rushed to Peck Memorial hospital where his injury was listed as a "slight concussion" on a hasty preliminary examination.

Brecheen, the Red Bird starter, picked up his eighth victory on the three early St. Louis runs. Enos Slaughter's eight homer, over the right field scoreboard, broke a scoreless duel with lefty Vic Lombardi in the second frame.

Marty Marion's single followed by catcher Del Rice's booming triple over Furello's head added another in the fourth after two were out. When Lombardi messed up Brecheen's dribbler to the box for an error, Rice scored the final Cardinal tally.

Class D Pitcher Threatens Record

ROCKY MOUNT, N. C. (AP)—Southpaw Bill Kennedy of Rocky Mount in the class D Coastal Plain league has fanned 327 batters this season and is well on the way toward setting a new baseball strike out record.

Organized baseball's modern record is held by Virgil (Fire) Trucks of the Detroit Tigers, set in 1939 when he struck out 418 in 273 innings of Andalusia, Ala., of the class D Alabama-Florida league.

Modern Major league record is Rube Waddell's 343 for the Philadelphia A's in 1904. Prior to 1900, when the modern period began, Charles Radbourne of Providence in the National league struck out 411, in 1884.

Everything Hits the Bums

By WHITNEY MARTIN
NEW YORK (AP)—It is a common belief, and one with some basis of fact, that anything can happen in Brooklyn, where the baseball fans affectionately call their Dodgers Bums but will knock the block off any stranger who calls the Bums Bums.

Anyway, that this fanaticism is traditional, if not in fact hereditary, and that the Brooklynites will go to any extremes to help their team win, is demonstrated by the following jigger of diamond history:

On June 14, 1870, the Cincinnati Red Stockings met the Atlantics of Brooklyn on the Capitoline grounds in Brooklyn. The Stockings had won 92 straight games, and appeared on their way to their 93rd victory as they led, 7 to 5, going into the last inning.

The first Atlantic batter in the final frame singled. The next also singled, and when the Red Stockings right fielder, Cal McVey, tried to retrieve the ball a spec-

Tribe Scalps Bosox Behind Chief Harder

CLEVELAND (AP)—A rapid-fire double play with the bases loaded in the ninth inning spiked a Boston threat yesterday as the Cleveland Indians handed the league leaders their second straight loss, 2-1, in the deciding contest of a three-game series.

Speed on the basespaths gave the Indians their pair of runs in the third inning as Jim Hegan, who smashed two of the Tribe's four hits, beat out an infield single to open the frame. Hegan stole second and George Case tallied him with a one-baser, Case taking second on the throw to the plate.

Case, flashing the speed which has given him the league base-stealing lead, then scored the winning run from second on Glen Russell's low throw to first.

The veteran Mel Harder checked the potent Red Sox with eight hits before going to relief as "Jittery Joe" Berry with one out in the ninth. Berry handed out an intentional pass then put out the fire via the double play route.

Upset Twins Beaten In Trans-Miss Golf

DENVER (AP)—O'Hara Watts of Oklahoma City, the medalist, and Wilcie Robbins, the surprising Atwood, Kan., cattle rancher, fell out of the Trans-Mississippi golf tournament yesterday as the field was trimmed to 16 contestants out of 262 who started firing Monday.

"It was just one of those days that the ball wasn't rolling," commented insurance salesman Watts as he stalked off the course after dropping the hard-fought one-up decision to Fred Newton, one of Denver's tougher match players. Watts was ineffectual on the greens as he three-putted twice. They were deadlocked at the 17th but on the 18th green Newton, missing a short putt for a birdie three, laid Watts a stymie that put on the clincher.

Johnny Kraft, the defending champion, moved into the third round with a 4 and 3 drubbing of Robbins.

White Sox Rally, Defeat A's, 7-6

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago White Sox staged a three-run rally in the sixth inning yesterday to beat the Philadelphia Athletics, 7-6, giving the Chicago team two wins out of three in the series. The Sox took a 4-0 lead in the first inning against Lum Harris, but were trailing after a five-run blast by the A's in the third, which included a home run by Pete Soder with the bases loaded after Joe Haynes had been dismissed from the game.

Yanks' Power Stuns Bengals

DETROIT (AP)—Unleashing their home run power, the New York Yankees pooped back into second place in the American league standings yesterday by slapping down the Detroit Tigers 4 to 2 as Tommy Henrich connected for two circuit clouts and Bill Johnson chipped in another.

The long-range outburst, constituting New York's 20th, 21st and 22nd homers off Detroit pitching this year, broke a Yankee losing streak of three games and restored them to second place, a game ahead of the Tigers.

The Tigers got away to a 1-0 lead in the first on successive doubles by Eddie Lake and George Kell but New York tied it up in the fourth on Johnny Lindell's walk-and singles by Johnson and Phil Rizzuto.

Roy Cullenbine's four-bagger in the Tiger sixth was matched by Henrich's second homer, off Johnny Gorsica in the ninth.

Mueller Plays In Golf Finals

Tangles With Casey Today for Women's Golf Championship

DES MOINES (AP)—Equalling the course record she set Wednesday with another sizzling 75, Shirley Mueller, University of Iowa student playing in her first state meet, blasted her way yesterday to the finals of the State Women's golf tournament.

The Dubuque girl beat Lois Penn of Des Moines 6 and 5 to go into today's 36-hole finals against Ann Casey, Mason City, who will be trying for her second state championship.

Miss Casey, a University of Iowa graduate now on the faculty of Stephens College, defeated Mary Louise Cordingly 5 and 3, then finished out the round to card a par 77.

The morning round today will begin at 9 a. m.; the afternoon session at 2 p. m.

Air Force Veteran Grabs Early Lead In Golf Tournament

ST. PAUL Minn. (AP)—Tall, husky Johnny Palmer, 27 year old professional from Badin, N. C., who spent three and a half years in the army air forces, "did everything right" yesterday to score a six-under-par 66 and take the lead in the first day's play of the St. Paul $10,000 open.

Palmer, who went into the army after being designated as "one of the most promising rookies" by the PGA in 1942, put together consistent three-under-par rounds of 33 on each of the nines. He birdied the third, fifth, seventh, 12th, 15th and 18th holes.

Palmer's best previous showing in the six months he has been with the touring pros was in the Kansas City open when he carded a 277, three strokes off the 274 which brought victory to Frank Stranahan, Toledo, Ohio, amateur. Stranahan shot a 72 in yesterday's play.

Just one stroke behind Palmer were Henry Ransom of Houston, Texas, Ellsworth Vines of Chicago and Clayton Haefner of Charlotte, N. C. Haefner started on the out nine as he was on fire, shooting a five-under-par 31. He faded, however, coming in with a par 36 for his total. Ransom and Vines each did the outgoing nine in 34 and came back in 33.

City League Moves Into Stretch

By DON SCANNELL
Daily Iowan Sports Writer

Going into the home stretch of the City softball league, the pennant race is still wide open. Four teams are in the running for undisputed first place honors with two other nines holding a mathematical chance to tie for first.

VFW post 2581 still leads the pack with an eight and one record followed closely by Complete Auto, Kelly Oilers and the Iowa City Plumbers, each with seven wins and two losses. Bremers and the Yellow Cab nines trail with five victories and three marks on the wrong side of the ledger.

One of the second place teams will fall from the race next Wednesday when the Plumbers face the Oilers at the Benton street diamond. The Oilers finish their season Aug. 14 against the Tiffin Merchants and the Plumbers wind up against the Wagon Wheel Aug. 12.

Second Place Tie

Going on past performances, it is entirely possible that the race will end up with a two way tie for the runner-up position. The Vets expect little trouble from the Odd Fellows next Tuesday but the Yellow Cab game Aug. 13 is a different story. The Cabbies have the power to cause the 2581 nine plenty of trouble and might drop the league leaders into a tie.

Complete Auto is in a position to move into a share of first place honors if the Vets should falter. Smith's Cafe might scare the Automen but their better balanced nine should take the contest. Bremers have been a hot and cold team but could press Ralph Tucker, Johnnie Albrecht and the other Complete Auto boys in their contest Aug. 17 in the league finale.

The victor of the Oilers—Plumbers contest looks a cinch for at least tie for second place honors. The Kellymen have supported hurler Mel Graezel with a fine hitting attack all season and should overpower Tiffin.

Plumbers Erratic

Iowa City Plumbing has been erratic at times during league play but seem to have found themselves in the sound thrashing they gave the potent Bremers nine last week. Taking this into consideration, they should be able to handle the threat Tom Kastner, the Helm boys and the rest of the Coralville Wagon Wheel present.

Yellow Cab and the Odd Fellows

Yellow Cab and the Odd Fellows were rained out last night and will play the game as soon as possible. In addition the Cabbies tackle Wagon Wheel Monday.

fore meeting the Vets. The Cabbies must win this game to retain their chance of sharing in the title. The local post 2581 is headed for the National VFW tournament and will not be likely to take any chances of having another blemish on their record, which makes the situation gloomy for the Cabmen.

Bremers Must Win
To keep their chances alive for a share in the league crown, Bremers must win all their remaining games. They face the Tiffin Merchants tonight and must be on their toes, for Dean Bowman, Clarence Shera and company feature a powerful batting attack.

VFW 3949 is now the tail-end club but is not in the mood to let the season finish without a victory. Bremers play the 49ers Aug. 10 and once again they may be the victims of an upset. To complete their schedule the Clothiers meet hustling Complete Auto, with Bremers considered the underdog.

Three rained out tilts must be played off before the season ends but only the Yellow Cab-Odd Fellows game will have bearing on the leading teams. Tiffin figures in both the other postponed encounters for they must make up games with the Odd Fellows and Smith's Cafe.

Nowadays unless something can be described as truly atomic the world is liable to consider it extremely dull.

White Sox Rally, Defeat A's, 7-6

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago White Sox staged a three-run rally in the sixth inning yesterday to beat the Philadelphia Athletics, 7-6, giving the Chicago team two wins out of three in the series.

The Sox took a 4-0 lead in the first inning against Lum Harris, but were trailing after a five-run blast by the A's in the third, which included a home run by Pete Soder with the bases loaded after Joe Haynes had been dismissed from the game.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Jack Kramer let the Washington Senators down with four hits for his 11th win of the season last night as St. Louis Brown bats lashed out an 8-2 triumph to sweep a three game series.

Goshen Classic Draws Evenly Matched Field

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

NEW YORK—The people who usually can tell in advance the winner of the $50,000 Hambletonian, harness racing's Kentucky Derby, apparently are spending many a sleepless night.

Devoid of Titan Hanovers and Volo Songs, the 21st running of the famed trotting race, set for Wednesday, August 7, over upstate Goshen's historic kite-shaped mile track, is as wide open as ever.

It takes only one sulky puller to win the big three-year-old classic, but if the public had a chance to eye the teams of advance copy on some of the 59 eligibles, the trotting people would have about seven horses finishing in a dead heat.

On source has three favorites listed. They are Victory Song, Westfield Girl and Deanna. Various others list as contenders Chester Lown, Walter Spencer, Onolee Hanover and Scotch Felt.

Victory Song, owned by Castleton Farm of Lexington, Ky., is highly regarded by trotting veterans because the brown colt is the son of Volomite, sire of Volo Song and Yankee Maid, winners of the Hambletonian in 1943 and '44, respectively. Victory song will be driven by Sep Plain who held the reins on the immortal Greyhound in 1935.

Victory Song was purchased for a record $37,500 as a yearling because four of his full brothers covered the mile within two minutes. He is considered a member of trotting's royal family.

Westfield Girl, a bay filly by Volomite, is trained and driven by Harry Whitney. Owned by E. J. Baker of St. Charles, Ill., Westfield Girl was the winter book favorite with Deanna, bay filly from the White and Sheppard stables of Longwood, Fla.

Deanna, daughter of Dean Hanover and Rosalind, 1936 winner, is a sentimental favorite in many camps as she was bred by Gibson White, son of the immortal Ben White who is the only driver to pilot four Goshen winners.

Walter Spencer, bay colt by Spencer, 1928 Hambletonian victor, is the home town choice. He is owned by the Arden Homestead Stable of Goshen and knows the upstate track.

Onolee Hanover, bay filly by Mr. McElwyn, will be pulling a lot of money. Nominated by Stan A. Wathen and his son, Wendell, of Fort Fairfield, Me., Onolee now belongs to C. W. Saunders of the Saunders Mills Stables, Toledo, O.

Nowadays unless something can be described as truly atomic the world is liable to consider it extremely dull.

Iowa City 'Stamp Center' Tomorrow

Sales Begin At Early Hour

Officials Announce 7 O'clock Opening of Postal Windows

The eyes of stamp collectors the world over will be focused on Iowa City Saturday when 3,000-00 3-cent Centennial stamps, commemorating the 100 years of Iowa's statehood, go on sale.

The local postoffice department has been working many days in preparation for the 7 a. m. opening of the sale to which stamp enthusiasts are expected to throng to purchase coveted stamps for their collections.

Many more than the present peak of 250,000 mailed requests for special cancellations over the stamps on envelopes are expected. Iowa City will be the only place in the world to sell these stamps on August 3.

Presentation Ceremony
The climax of this significant day in Iowa City's history will occur at 11 a. m. tomorrow, when Joseph E. Lawler, third assistant postmaster general, will present the first sheet of the special stamps printed to Governor Robert D. Blue in a ceremony on the west approach to Old Capitol.

This ceremony will be attended by state and national dignitaries, including Fleet Admiral William D. Leahy, United States navy, present chief of staff to President Truman.

Postoffice Open Early
Persons desiring stamps will be able to buy them early. The postoffice plans to raise its windows at 7 a. m. A sub-station will open in the Community building at 7:30 a. m., where stamps may also be purchased.

In addition to stamp sales personnel, the Community building will house over 50 professional stamp dealers. Facilities for their use have been provided to allow them to prepare envelopes with the stamp and cancellation to fulfill advance orders from out-of-town customers. They will also sell specially designed cachets to the public, starting this afternoon.

Many Cachets Ready
About 50 cachets have been printed by various stamp dealers around the country. An exhibition of 25 frames of first day cover collections will be shown at the Community building beginning this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

A first day cover is any type of envelope having a special issue stamp on it which is cancelled on the first day of its issuance. A cachet is an envelope bearing a special commemorative design on its face.

There are other first day issue collectors who have plate number collections. When the stamps were originally printed at the government printing office, a complete plate sheet of 400 stamps was made. At the outer four corners of this large plate sheet, numbers were printed.

Plate Numbers
More exacting collectors request at least four sheets of the stamps showing the plate number in all four corners.

Witnesses to the presentation ceremony, in addition to Admiral Leahy, will include members of the Iowa Centennial commission and state dignitaries.

Other participants in the program will be William J. Petersen of the Centennial commission; Virgil M. Hancher, president of the State University of Iowa; Mayor Wilber J. Teeters; D. C. Nolan, president of the local Chamber of Commerce, and the Rev. James E. Waery of the Congregational church. Music will be supplied by the 50 piece band of the Iowa City high school.

Chinese Reds Admit Clash With Marines

PEIPING (AP)—Official Chinese Communist agencies acknowledged yesterday their troops fought a battle with United States marines Monday, but pleaded self-defense and told the Americans to get out of China if they wanted to avoid trouble.

The marine corps announced that a motor convoy of 42 marines was ambushed 35 miles southeast of Peiping and escaped only after a prolonged battle in which three marines were killed and 12 wounded. Two others were injured when their jeep overturned. The local Chinese press added that three marines were missing.

In defending themselves, the marines killed 12 Chinese and wounded an undetermined number, according to the latest marine announcement, which still identified the assailants merely as uniformed Chinese.

The Yenan radio, the Emancipation Daily, and the New China News agency—all of them official organs of the Chinese Communists—joined yesterday, however, in admitting Communist responsibility.

State Historical Society To Mail 2,000 Covers

The State Historical society will mail more than 2,000 first day covers of the Iowa centennial stamp tomorrow.

Covers will be sent to members and life members of the society, public and college libraries of Iowa, local historical societies in the state, state historical societies throughout the nation, congressmen from Iowa, members of the Iowa 51st general assembly and Iowa state officers.

A letter of greeting will be enclosed in each first day cover. It gives a short history of the society and some of the work it is doing.

Rabbi Kertzer Lists Racial Discrimination Causes before AVC

The desire of frustrated stronger people to "take it out on" a weaker minority, is one cause for racial discrimination, Rabbi Morris N. Kertzer of the school of religion said last night. He spoke at the first of an anticipated series of speeches and panel discussions on national affairs to be sponsored by the American Veterans Committee.

The stronger faction's ability to make a minority an "economic scapegoat," a desire to make minorities targets for "political panderers" and the fact it is easier to arouse the emotion of hate than love, Rabbi Kertzer gave as other reasons for minority discrimination.

Also speaking on phases of racial discrimination and segregation were Dr. H. W. Saunders of the sociology department and Dr. Howard Thurman, visiting lecturer in the school of religion. Forty dollars was collected from AVC members at the meeting to be sent to the Association for the Advancement of Colored People to aid in the protection of Negroes' legal rights in Georgia.

He suggested that to eliminate discrimination, economic, educational and political factors that contribute to discrimination should be attacked simultaneously, when possible.

When not possible, Dr. Saunders continued, the most insignificant factors should be attacked first, which, when defeated, would destroy larger factors by a chain reaction of equality.

Dr. Thurman pointed out that the war has made possible for minorities a "new dimension of citizenship" by giving them more civic participation which means greater civic responsibility.

Jean Black Accepts Position at Vanport

Jean P. Black, librarian associate in the State Historical society since 1943, has accepted a position as head librarian in the veteran extension center in Vanport, Ore. Her resignation will be effective Sept. 1.

Miss Black has been engaged in cataloging the library of over 90,000 volumes which the society maintains. She received a Ph.D. in history from the University of Michigan and is a graduate of the librarian school of the University of Washington, Seattle, Wash.

Before joining the historical society she helped catalog the Hoover library at Stanford.

Miss Black said she will start the Vanport library from "scratch" as there is none in existence at the present time. The Vanport project, which utilizes construction and housing formerly occupied by west coast ship workers, will have an enrollment of about 1,500 when the fall term starts. The project was described in the July 29 issue of Time magazine.

60 Day Eviction Notice Rule Applies to OPA Interim Period

By KEN EBLE
One of the aftermaths of the reinstatement of OPA this week is the problem arising for persons who bought homes during the interim period without OPA with the expectation of moving in within 30 days.

In most cases of homes bought during this period, present tenants will have to move out before the new owners move in. With the original OPA regulations back in force, most tenants may expect a six-month reprieve before having to vacate and recent buyers a longer wait before occupancy than anticipated.

Waldo Geiger, local rent control head, yesterday repeated the statement made the day OPA was reinstated, that most persons who had received eviction notices during the period without OPA, but who had not moved, would have six months before eviction.

According to a set of questions and answers received from national OPA headquarters, it will be considered a violation of rent regulations for a landlord to pursue eviction proceedings started during the OPA-less period which are now contrary to OPA rules.

This means that landlords who started eviction proceedings without allowing the six-month waiting period required in most cases by OPA, will be required to file eviction proceedings in accordance with OPA regulations.

The six-month waiting period will start from the date of filing the original eviction petition, whether or not it was filed during the period without OPA.

A landlord who must file a new eviction notice to conform to OPA regulations will be allowed to start the waiting period at the time of filing the original petition.

In this respect, the OPA release said, "Although there cannot have been any rent violations during the period without OPA, other rent control provisions have all been renewed retroactive to June 30, 1946."

Test cases for the execution of these rulings have not yet arisen. One Iowa City realtor sold 23 houses during the interim period, setting a tentative occupancy date of September 1.
