GOOD MORNING, IOWA CITY!

It's Saturday, so the weatherman just naturally predicts showers. Little change in temperature.

ADMIRAL, POST OFFICE OFFICIAL ARRIVE HERE

ADMIRAL WILLIAM D. LEAHY, (left), present chief of staff to President Truman, and Joseph E. Lawler, third assistant postmaster general of the United States, are shown as they arrived in Iowa City last night to take part in the centennial stamp ceremony.

Leahy, Lawler Arrive For Stamp Ceremony

Fleet Admiral William D. Leahy, present chief of staff to President Truman, and Joseph E. Lawler, third assistant postmaster general, both of Washington, D. C., arrived last night on the 8:45 p. m. Rock Island Rocket.

Admiral Leahy will be a guest at the 11 a. m. public ceremony today when Lawler will present the first sheet of 3-cent Iowa Centennial stamps to Governor Robert D. Blue on the west approach to Old Capitol.

Lawler, director of the finance bureau of the postoffice department, said last night there has been more local interest in the Iowa Centennial issue than any previous state issue he has attended. He predicted a new record sale for the Iowa issue.

He said 50 million additional stamps had been ordered to add to the 125 million already printed. Over 300,000 Iowa stamps have already been ordered through the local postoffice.

Robert E. Fellers, assistant superintendent of stamps in charge of the philatelic agency, who arrived here previously, declared the government's $22-billion stamp industry amounts to 80 percent of the department's revenue. The philatelic agency plans all first day issues and has handled over three million stamps this year, a 25 percent increase over 1945.

The Iowa Centennial stamp will go on sale at 7 a. m. today in the postoffice, the Community building, and three sub-postoffices located in the Quadrangle, Whetstone's Drug store, and Iowa Memorial Union. The postoffice and the Community building will stay open as long as it is necessary to service dealers envelopes. The three sub-stations will observe regular postal hours.

Iowa Trip Just Jaunt For Travelling Admiral

By TERRY GRIMES

"Let the young lady have the big chair," Fleet Admiral William D. Leahy said as I entered his room at Hotel Jefferson last night, for a pre-arranged interview, for which I had spent fifteen minutes mustering up all my savoir-faire.

My discomfort didn't last long when I surveyed the amiable, deeply wrinkled, tanned face of the elderly naval officer. In his friendliness he began offering conversation.

79th Congress Senate Investigators to Expose Dishonest Government Officials

Harried Congressmen End Hectic Session; Many Things Undone

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 79th Congress, which wrestled with vast issues of war and reconversion, passed into history last night. The senate adjourned at 7:27 p. m., and the house at 5:42 p. m. (central daylight time), ending the congress' second session which began last Jan. 14. It was the first time in eight years that congress has gone home in mid-session.

"It is going to be said that many things were left undone by the congress that should have been done," said Speaker Rayburn (D., Tex.) in a farewell to the house. "In a few instances this may be true, but on many occasions it is better to leave things undone than to rush them through in too much of a hurry. There is always a new session ahead to take care of such matters."

In the senate, the summation of Democratic leader Barkley (Ky.) was that "on the whole, a magnificent mass of legislation was enacted." Barkley termed this congress "one of the hardest working, and one of the hardest worked."

The final business, by a coincidence, could serve to illustrate the tone of the first and second sessions—all-out international cooperation, hot disputes over domestic issues.

A resolution committing the nation to accept the compulsory jurisdiction of the world court under the United Nations—something battled to death in former years—was passed by the senate with only two dissenting votes—those of Senators Shipstead (R., Minn.) and Langer (R., N.D.).

On the domestic scene, there was a row between the senate and house over increased federal benefits for needy persons. The provision was contained in a bill freezing the social security tax at one percent for employers and employees for another year. A conference committee finally worked out a compromise, however, and the two chambers shouted it through during the day on voice votes and sent it to the president.

Another piece of last-minute legislation adopted was a provision for special automobiles for veterans who suffered leg amputations. This also was sent to the White House.

The adjournment means the finish of the 79th Congress, which has sat through the last months of World War II and the first of peace, unless President Truman should recall it for a special session.

May Recall In signing the modified price control act, Mr. Truman served notice that he will take action if the measure proves inadequate to prevent inflationary price rises. Congressional leaders, however, considered the prospects for a special session extremely remote.

Mr. Truman was dissatisfied with the congress, of which he originally was a member, on other counts as well. He appealed especially for passage of a long-range measure in the final days of the session—a bill for a long-range government housing program. Labor organizations and others also urged that congress remain in session to dispose of it. It had passed the senate and was pending in the house banking committee.

But it died, along with a number of other presidential proposals—unification of the armed forces, compulsory health insurance, universal military training and various others.

Senate Investigators to Expose Dishonest Government Officials

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

WASHINGTON (AP)—The senate war investigating committee served notice last night it will seek out and expose any "instances of disloyalty and dishonesty on the part of public officials."

The committee announced its purpose in a statement following a closed session held to plan its work during the adjournment of congress.

The committee decided against holding further public hearings until after Sept. 1 "except for emergency."

1. "The first case to be heard publicly after that date by the full committee will be on the results of its inquiry into defective 4.2-inch mortar shells which killed American soldiers."

2. "Second priority" will be completion of its investigation of the Alaskan highway which will require field studies by a subcommittee.

3. "In its public hearings, the committee emphasized that it 'has of necessity concentrated publicly with cases of war procurement in all of the principal industries.'" Chairman Mead (D., N.Y.) has said that these will include the automotive, aircraft, aluminum and shipbuilding industries.

The committee declared that its study will cover tax laws, amortization provisions, renegotiation and termination of contracts, cost-plus type of contracts, conversions from cost-plus to fixed price contracts, the auditing of the expenditures of public funds, the payment of middlemen's profits and brokerage fees in war procurement.

"Ship-Shod Practices" These points would be in addition, it said, to its investigation of "disloyalty and dishonesty on the part of public officials, and the slipshod business practices generally which have tended to its attention on mistakes and failures and on waste, stupidity and extravagance," and that this "should not lead to the conclusion that the whole war effort has been corrupt and inept."

Earlier in the day, Elisha Walker, investment banker, told the investigators about an unpaid $5,000 note signed by Andrew J. May, and linked the Kentucky congressman's name to the affairs of munitions maker Murray Garsson as long ago as 1941.

Walker, senior partner of Kuhn, Loeb & company, New York, said he made the loan to May in 1941.

In an unsuccessful attempt to collect on the note after it had been extended once, Walker said he had written May and received the reply that May "had given the original note as an accommodation to Mr. Garsson."

Dittmer to Get 'I' Club Award

Scholarship Winners Meet Standards Set By Iowa Football Star

By CHAD BROOKS

Daily Iowan Sports Editor The Daily Iowan learned last night that the University of Iowa will award Nile Kinnick scholarships to four Iowa high school graduates.

The four, all of whom graduated from high school last June, are Jim McKinstry from East Waterloo high, Bob Nelson from North high of Des Moines, Loren Moll of Paulina and Merwin Soper from Nevada.

At the same time, it was learned that Jack Dittmer of Elkader will receive the "I" club scholarship.

The Kinnick scholarships are awarded as a memorial to Nile Kinnick, a Phi Beta Kappa scholar and an all-American football player at Iowa, who was killed in an airplane crash while serving as a navy pilot during the war.

Meet Kinnick Standards The scholarships are awarded to high school seniors who measure up to Kinnick in standards of scholarship, character, leadership and activities, and are made by the University of Iowa Scholarship and Loan committee after recommendation by the Nile Kinnick Scholarship Educational committee.

The Nile Kinnick committee selects for recommendation to the university only those students who in their opinion best typify the characteristics of Kinnick.

The only previous award was made to Willard Shaw of Marshalltown in August, 1945. Shaw was unable to accept the scholarship because he was called to duty in the armed forces.

As is appropriate in an award commemorating Kinnick, the four scholarship winners were all outstanding high school football players. Two of them, McKinstry and Nelson, were first team all-state choices last year, while Moll and Soper won third team berths.

McKinstry was a regular quarterback at East Waterloo for three years and is rated as one of the finest all-around backs in the football history of the school. His field generalship and versatility helped East high win eight of their nine games against Big Seven and Mississippi Valley opposition last fall.

Gridiron, Track Star Nelson, a six foot 200-pounder, was an outstanding tackle on the powerful North high eleven last fall and has been one of the state's leading shot put stars for the past two years.

"Tiny" Soper was a 255-pound tackle powerhouse at Nevada but was fast enough to shift to an end or backfield spot occasionally during the season.

Moll, a 170-pound quarterback with three years of high school experience, was the sparkplug of the undefeated 1945 Paulina eleven.

Jack Dittmer, the "I" club scholarship winner, was an all-around athletic standout at Elkader. He was an all-state half back in football, an all-state forward in basketball and a good enough diamond star to make the all-American boys' baseball team.

He sped to 34 touchdowns in eight games last fall and added 14 extra points for a total of 218 points or an average of 27.3 per game.

Bomb Evaluators Say 'Distance Is Best Defense' In Atomic Warfare

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Truman's atomic bomb evaluators said yesterday that a combination of the Bikini underwater explosion with the overhead burst first tested might "effectively dispose of a fleet for many months."

"We are convinced," the evaluation commission added in a report on the offensive results of the second, underwater, test, that distance is the best defense.

The commission was headed by Senator Hatch (D-NM). It declared both Bikini tests "strongly indicate that future war employing atomic bombs may well destroy nations and change present standards of civilization."

A second report, made public simultaneously by the White House, by the joint chiefs of staff evaluation board, declared it is not too soon to point to the necessity for immediate and intensive research into several problems posed by the atomic bomb.

The president's commission said both the first and second explosions sank several ships. It added that from the limited observation seven of its members had 11 miles away from the underwater blast, the ships remained afloat within the damaged area appeared to have been more seriously damaged by the aerial (first) explosion.

It said that damage to ships in the first test might have been far greater if the bomb had exploded "directly over" the target ship Nevada.

In the first test, the report continued, ship personnel would have received fatal doses of neutrons and gamma rays from the original deadly flash.

"On the other hand," it said, "the deadly effects of persistent radioactivity would have been much more severe in the second test."

The civilian commission said had the target array been manned, it seems clear that "casualties, both physical and psychological injury to personnel, would have been very great." It added: "rescue and attention to casualties would have been difficult and dangerous."

OPA Raises Retail Ceilings on Some Basic Grain Foods

WASHINGTON (AP)— The OPA yesterday raised retail price ceilings on bread and bakery products, flour, breakfast cereals, macaroni, noodles, corn meal and hominy grits.

The increases, all effective immediately, are: Bread—one cent on loaves weighing up two pounds with proportionate price hikes for larger loaves.

Bakery products—bread-type rolls, one cent a dozen. Biscuits, crackers and cookies, 15 percent.

Flour—about one cent a pound at retail.

Breakfast cereals (all kinds except corn flakes, puffed rice and puffed wheat)—one to three cents a package.

Macaroni and noodles—two cents on eight-ounce boxes, one cent on smaller size.

Corn meal and hominy grits—one to two cents a pound.

The OPA said the new ceilings on bread, bakery products and flour are temporary.

Cuba to Fight Veto Right in UN

By MAX HARRELSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Cuba served notice yesterday that she would lead a fight at the September session of the United Nations general assembly to "eliminate the so-called veto privilege" from the United Nations charter.

The veto in question already had been placed on the assembly's agenda at the request of Australian Delegate Herbert V. Ewart, but Ewart merely asked that the issue be discussed with a view to arriving at a new interpretation of how the veto should be used.

Acting Secretary General Arkady Sobolev notified the 51 members of the United Nations that he had just received a communication from Cuban Delegate Guillermo Belt invoking article 109 of the United Nations charter.

Amend Charter This article provides that the general assembly by a two-thirds vote, including any seven members of the security council, may convene a 51-nation general conference to consider amending the charter.

In view of the fact that the veto will not apply on the question of calling such a conference, it appeared possible that Cuba might be able to line up the necessary votes.

It was not regarded as likely, however, that the necessary two-thirds vote could be obtained on a proposal to eliminate entirely the veto rights of the five permanent members of the security council.

Ambassador Vassili Dendramis, Greece's representative to the United Nations, yesterday opposed United Nations membership for Albania on the ground she was "not a peace-loving state."

The envoy, who said he might carry such an appeal directly to a security council committee now studying the application, declared in an interview.

"In the view of the Greek government, Albania does not qualify as a peace-loving nation nor can she be considered as offering guarantees to carry out her undertakings under the United Nations charter. As is proved by her aggressive policy against Greece as well as other nations."

The charter says membership is open only to "peace-loving states."

The adjournment means the finish of the 79th Congress, which has sat through the last months of World War II and the first of peace, unless President Truman should recall it for a special session.

May Recall In signing the modified price control act, Mr. Truman served notice that he will take action if the measure proves inadequate to prevent inflationary price rises. Congressional leaders, however, considered the prospects for a special session extremely remote.

Mr. Truman was dissatisfied with the congress, of which he originally was a member, on other counts as well. He appealed especially for passage of a long-range measure in the final days of the session—a bill for a long-range government housing program. Labor organizations and others also urged that congress remain in session to dispose of it. It had passed the senate and was pending in the house banking committee.

Ethiopia Seeks Annexation Of Italian Colonies in Africa

By LYNN HEINZLERING

PARIS (AP)—Ethiopia asked the peace conference yesterday to award her Italy's East African colonies of Eritrea and Somaliland, which she said were "wring from her by Italian aggression."

The first nation to make a claim to the 21 peace-drafting countries against the colonial empire Mussolini forged with arms, Ethiopia—through her chief delegate Vice Foreign Minister Akilou Abte Wolbe—also said she expected to receive reparations from Italy.

The Ethiopian delegate made his country's claim for annexation of the two colonies despite the fact that the four-power foreign ministers council agreed to shelve the Italian colonial question for a year. The ministers, however, had decided to return the Dodecanese Islands to Greece.

Other early victims of Mussolini's and Hitler's Aggression—Czechoslovakia and Poland—preceded Ethiopia in airing their grievances and demanding security in the future yesterday in a plenary session in Yuxembourg palace.

The round of speeches followed a battle between the big and small powers over whether the post of conference chairman should be permanent or rotate among the four major powers.

The small powers argued for a permanent chairman, suggesting President Georges Bidault of France, but Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov of Russia led opposition to this, and the rules committee adjourned a three-hour session without a decision.

Czechoslovakia's Foreign Minister, Jan Masaryk, opened the plenary session with an announcement that his delegation "is going to have something to say about the treaty drafts for the German satellites which affectionately held Hitler's hand during the unspeakable period when Nazism became the government of the so-called Third Reich."

British Ship Sinks JERUSALEM (AP)—The British tanker Empire Cross exploded and sank while unloading in Haifa harbor last night. Twelve of a crew numbering between 30 and 40 were rescued.

British Accept Both US, Russian Plans For Atomic Control

LONDON (AP)—The British government announced acceptance yesterday of both the United States and Russian plans for atomic energy control and proposed that the ideas be fused into one.

Meanwhile, the magazine Aeroplane condemned what it termed dallying by British scientists in atomic research, declared the "Russians are conducting intensive nuclear research with Russian and a few foreign scientists" and said it was only a matter of time until the Soviet Union had the atomic bomb.

"It is typical," the magazine said, "that we are already trying to control something we have not got."

British acceptance of both the American and Russian plans for control of atomic energy was announced in the house of commons by Philip Noel-Baker, minister of state.

Noel-Baker said the American plan for an international authority to own and control the world's atomic raw materials was a "tremendous revolutionary proposal" unprecedented in international affairs.

Veterans Keep Order in Tennessee Town

ATHENS, Tenn. (AP)—An uneasy peace settled over this town yesterday following a bloody, six-hour battle which left 13 wounded as combat-wise veterans forced the surrender of a score or more deputized officers barricaded in the McMinn county jail.

Dawn found this city of 6,930 without any legal law enforcement officers, but with patrols of rifle-armed veterans patrolling the streets to maintain order.

The battle followed a bitter political campaign which left nerves

Iowa Landlords Apply For Increase in Rents

DES MOINES (AP)—Hundreds of landlords who raised rents while the office of price administration temporarily was out of business are applying for permission to keep rents up, the Iowa district of price administration announced yesterday.

John Beller, OPA rent executive for Iowa, said his office is as willing as ever to increase rents—providing the landlords can justify price boosts. Most of them can't.

The veteran faction obtained a statement from a county election commissioner conceding the election of the entire slate of ex-GI's after the fury of the conflict subsided.

An eye witness to the beginning of the trouble, which later was to fill this town, located halfway between Knoxville and Chattanooga, with the sound of musketry, (See VETERANS, Page 5)

Housing Big Problem at All Midwest Colleges

By JOHN CAREY

Difficulty in providing housing for married veterans is not exclusively a University of Iowa problem, according to a survey of midwestern colleges and universities taken recently by The Daily Iowan.

The problem is largely the same all over the country; satisfying a terrific demand for family dwellings in a short period of time. Of the nine schools polled on their married housing problems, none has begun to meet its needs, and most of the schools have turned to the federal public housing authority for help in emergency housing.

Presence of FPHA war housing projects, army installations no longer in use, and proximity to large city areas have eased much of the needs for all housing at many of the schools, but the problem getting a roof over the heads of the married veterans and their families is still very large and as yet unsolved.

Slow Construction
Every school that answered the survey questions has taken most of the responsibility for providing housing for veterans and their wives. Slow progress in construction of emergency housing seems to be a problem of most of the schools.

Rents for emergency housing units are much the same as those of the University of Iowa. Three schools, Iowa State college, the University of Colorado and the University of Kansas reported that "adjustments in rents are made where necessary." At Kansas and Iowa State, the maximum rent is more than 25 percent of the veteran's income, adjustments downward are made so that a veteran has an income of $90 a month, on a two room dwelling, he would be charged only $22.50 plus furniture rental if used.

Permanent housing for married students in the form of well-constructed apartment houses is balked at most of the schools because of material shortages and high cost of construction.

The Iowa board of education was forced to postpone plans for a $1,870,000 Parklawn dormitory for 374 married students because the cost would have amounted to $2,430,000, which would have required a prohibitive rent.

Surveys of city and town areas have turned up much additional housing in private homes, the schools reported.

Schools answering the questions of the survey gave this information.

University of Wisconsin, Madison: 144 standard and 47 expandable trailers are located in the university trailer camp. These are FPHA trailers, and rent of rates are $25 and $32.50 a month with all utilities furnished. This arrangement is identical to the operation of Hawkeye and Riverdale trailer villages here.

Buildings which were formerly the field hospital of an army air base provide 80 small two-room furnished apartments without cooking facilities. Each unit with a private bath rents for $30, and those with a community bath rent for $27.50 monthly. There is a cafeteria in the FPHA project, and a five cent bus service connects it with the university.

All available space at Badger village, a FPHA war project, is reserved for 350 university veterans. The village consists of 350 row-type houses of one and two bed rooms. Furnished, they rent for $25 a month and unfurnished for $15. They have private baths and cooking facilities. Fuel must be furnished by the veterans at a cost of about $7 a month. The project is located 34 miles from the campus with a 25-cent charge on bus service.

The university plans to expand the Badger village facilities by 250 two-room apartments with a charge of $25 to $30 a month rent. Construction of between 25 and 60 prefabricated two-bedroom houses for faculty use is planned.

Permanent type apartments for 200 students and faculty members are planned but will not be finished for two years. Permanent faculty housing is also being considered.

Otto Mueller, director of housing at Wisconsin, said "The present facilities are not meeting the demand. Plans which we have made for married couples' accommodations, had they been completed by now, would enable us to meet present demands."

The University of South Dakota, Vermillion: FPHA trailers provide 133 units for operation in the fall term. The trailers are operated as are those here, with a rent now of $25 for standards and $30 for expandable. New trailers being set up will have rents of $30 and $35.

The University of Missouri, Columbia: FPHA trailers renting at $20 and $25 a month are provided, but each family must furnish heating and cooking fuel. Reconverted barracks are under construction.

W. H. Johnson, director of veterans' service, reports that present facilities at Missouri supply only a fraction of the demands, perhaps one-eighth.

The University of Minnesota, Minneapolis: Occupied at the present time are 214 trailers renting at $27.50 and $32.50 a month. Under commitment now are 48 pre-fabricated houses consisting of one-room apartments with sanitary facilities, 300 quonset apartments and 300 units in metal buildings with sanitary facilities within the buildings.

This gives a total of 910 units when the projects are completed. There are 700 names on the waiting list for the units being constructed.

Frank Pearce, director of men's residences, stated, "We feel that the 910 units will take care of such families as are in a distressed situation." The twin cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul undoubtedly provide much space for married veteran students.

The University of Kansas, Lawrence: Approximately 500 students live at Sunflower village, 13 miles from the campus, which is a FPHA war housing project. Army and navy personnel and factory workers also live in the village, but it is expected that nearly 700 students will be living there in the fall.

All of the units have baths and are rented at the following rates: two rooms, $29; three rooms, $31.50, and four rooms, $34. Furniture rents are added to these figures. All utilities are furnished.

The University of Nebraska, Lincoln: 250 apartments will be made in a large hospital, but these will not be ready by the fall semester. Planned rents are $32.50 per unit with all utilities provided.

T. J. Thompson, dean of men, says, "Our present facilities do not begin to take care of our need, although the residents of Lincoln have been generous in converting their homes into living quarters for married veterans."

The University of Illinois, Champaign: Now in operation are 275 individual sectional houses plus 42 apartment type living units. Rents for the sectional houses are $34 a month for a one-bedroom unit and $41 a month for a two-bedroom unit. For the converted apartments, the rents are $32.50 and $37.50. Planned units will be two-bedroom units of apartment type.

All utilities are provided by the university, including coal for heating. Cooking is done by electricity.

Roughly estimated present facilities will take care of one-sixth of the total demand of married students. The complete program will provide 735 family dwelling units and will take care of approximately one-third of the over-all demand.

All married students in the housing projects are organized with their own popularly elected governing body.

The University of Colorado, Boulder: Now in operation are 150 standard trailers, 50 expandable trailers. Quonset huts to house 120 married couples will be finished by fall. In addition, 187 barracks type apartments from FPHA have been assigned to the university. The trailer rents are $20 and $25 per month with no fuel furnished to the tenants.

Iowa State College, Ames: Now in operation are FPHA trailers and demountable houses. Under construction and planned are quonset huts and barrack-type apartments.

The trailers operate as the Hawkeye village units do here, with the same rents. One-bedroom houses cost $33 monthly unfurnished and two-bedroom houses, $37 unfurnished. The quonsets will cost $33 a month unfurnished. All utilities are furnished except heating fuel in the houses and quonsets.

Tenants not financially able to pay the above rents are charged 25 percent of their income for trailers and 24 percent of their income in the quonsets and houses.

A veterans cooperative grocery operates within the emergency housing units.

Mrs. M. E. Starrett, assistant director of housing, stated, "The present facilities do not entirely meet the demand, but at the end of the fall quarter, we expect to have over 1,000 family housing units, which we expect will meet the presently anticipated demands."

Wesley Foundation
Methodist students and others interested will meet for a meager meal Sunday at 8:30 p. m.; proceeds from the supper will go to buy food for shipment to China. A vesper program will be given by Doris Bender, who will read a significant short story. A social hour will follow, and the box going to China will be packed. Supper is 35 cents and will be served on the east lawn of the Wesley foundation annex.

Veterans Administration Guidance Center
Beginning Aug. 1, the office hours of the Veterans Administration Guidance center, room E-116, East hall, will be 8 a. m. to 5 p. m., Monday through Friday. The office will not be open Saturdays.

sidered just a short weekend trip by him, when compared to the other great distances he has covered.

When he mentioned coming out here for the weekend to join in the 100th anniversary celebration of his native state, President Truman said, "I would like to have you go and represent me." The admiral considers his native state, Iowa, "a lovely place, a beautiful and prosperous state."

Leahy attended all except one of the "big three" conferences as chief of staff to the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, and the Potsdam conference with President Truman.

"Got Sick"
"I attended all the conferences except the one at Casablanca—got sick enroute and they threw me off the plane at Trinidad with pneumonia," explained the Admiral. He traveled between fifty to sixty thousand miles on these conferences and others during the war.

During the Yalta conference, Leahy had not noticed any marked change in Mr. Roosevelt's health while he worked with him daily. Describing Roosevelt at this daily, Leahy said, "He was alert, alive and dominant in business matters."

$36 a month furnished and $30 a month unfurnished.

A $3,000,000 permanent building program, including one women's dormitory, three men's residence halls and two 46-unit apartment buildings is expected to be completed by fall of 1947.

George Lesser, supervisor of housing, says that each new married couple project put into operation turns out to be a "drop in the bucket." The university has been active in getting a local out-camp for private trailers winterized.

At the University of Iowa, a total of 992 units for married couples will be provided when the construction on 25 quonsets is completed and 680 barrack-type apartments are erected. For the fall semester 312 units will be in operation. Rents on 250 university trailers are $25 and $32.50. Rents on other units have not been determined.

sidered just a short weekend trip by him, when compared to the other great distances he has covered.

When he mentioned coming out here for the weekend to join in the 100th anniversary celebration of his native state, President Truman said, "I would like to have you go and represent me." The admiral considers his native state, Iowa, "a lovely place, a beautiful and prosperous state."

Leahy attended all except one of the "big three" conferences as chief of staff to the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, and the Potsdam conference with President Truman.

"Got Sick"
"I attended all the conferences except the one at Casablanca—got sick enroute and they threw me off the plane at Trinidad with pneumonia," explained the Admiral. He traveled between fifty to sixty thousand miles on these conferences and others during the war.

During the Yalta conference, Leahy had not noticed any marked change in Mr. Roosevelt's health while he worked with him daily. Describing Roosevelt at this daily, Leahy said, "He was alert, alive and dominant in business matters."

Conference Table or Picket Line?

The automobile manufacturers are asking for trouble again. General Motors, Ford, Chrysler, Nash-Kelvinator, Packard and Hudson have turned thumbs down on an invitation from Walter Reuther and his CIO United Auto Workers union to sit in on a union-management conference to discuss problems affecting automobile production.

Their reasons seem to be centered around the theme that "nothing could be accomplished" by such a confab. Perhaps the big car manufacturers have better crystal balls than we do—for it seems to us that such a conference might be the initial step in breaking the auto production bottleneck.

The car industry has long maintained that shortages of parts, equipment and materials were responsible for the lag in output, which has totaled only about 862,000 units thus far this year compared with more than 2,770,000 in the same period of 1941. But instead of opening their minds in a discussion of the difficulties currently being faced by both labor and management, the leaders of the six big concerns start lashing out at the strikes in UAW-CIO organized plants which, they claim, are mainly responsible for the curtailed output.

A moment of consideration would tell them that refusal to talk out problems is one of the chief causes of the unrest which results in such strikes.

The vice president of the United Auto Workers, Richard T. Leonard, charges that hoarding by various car makers of parts and materials needed by their competitors was the real reason for the production lag.

We don't think that either one of the factions are wholly correct in their assertions on this matter. We do think, however, that if full production is to be reached in the automobile industry, a more perfect working relationship between labor and management will first have to be achieved.

Studebaker, Willy-Overland and Kaiser-Frazer have indicated that they will send representatives to the conference. A good prediction might be that these three smaller concerns will have considerably less labor dissension in the future as a result of their willingness to discuss current problems at this time.

When will General Motors, Ford and Chrysler and the other three dissenters learn that the conference table is a much easier, and more efficient means of ironing out difficulties than the tear gas and picket line?

20 Million Women Could Be Wrong

On days when the "Light of the World" is burning low or when the "Road of Life" has been unusually bumpy, the little woman is apt to be pretty poor company over the luncheon table.

But after all, she's probably had a difficult morning. What with the breakfast dishes and the cleaning and the washboard weepers, excuse us, we mean the daytime radio serials.

If she's an average housewife, she subjects herself to at least five of them a day with most of them coming during the morning hours. She has about 40 of them to choose from and that's a lot of vicious morbidity for even the most hardy soul to assimilate while running the vacuum sweeper.

Perhaps it's better if the other half doesn't bring up little problems such as the OPA and the atomic bomb.

The woman of the house can't be expected to show much interest in carrying her end of a discussion of the devious workings of congress over the luncheon table while "Helen Trent" is aimlessly wandering barefooted through the streets of lower New York in the depths of amnesia. Or is it "Stella Dallas"? Maybe it's Ruth Ann of "Bachelor's Children." We always did have trouble remembering that the "Second Mrs. Burton" isn't the "Valiant Lady."

But here's some advice for the Mr. If when you get home for dinner in the evening and the light of your life still has a touch of a hangover from a grief debauchery caused by "Young Doctor Malone" cutting off two of his toes with an accidentally dropped scalpel, don't look at her as if she were somewhat touched in the head. She's really no different than 20,000,000 other female soap opera addicts.

Just be thankful that she doesn't take them as seriously as the woman, who, according to Readers' Digest, stopped listening to "Pepper Young's Family." She'd always enjoyed listening to the long talks Mr. and Mrs. Young had while lying in bed at night. When the actor playing the part of Mr. Young was changed, she stopped listening to the serial because she couldn't bear the thought of the sweet Mrs. Young in bed with another man.

Atlantic City, the place where they pick the Miss Americas, now has a horse race track. This is quite appropriate since Atlantic City has always had a high regard for form.

A jet-propelled auto can attain a speed of 140 miles an hour. Now it's up to the speed cops to devise a jet-propelled motorcycle.

THE 22ND DELEGATE

I've found another radio program which I would like to recommend. It is "Arthur Godfrey's Talent Scouts" on CBS. Godfrey is of course, a wonderful personality in his own right. He started out in Washington, ragging the sponsors of a morning "Get Them UP Happy" show. Instead of reading the commercials, he told listeners not to buy the sponsors product, and generally ran it down. In a fit of cupidty the audience bought up more of the product in a shorter period of time than ever before. Now he runs a morning show on CBS, about 8 o'clock Eastern time. But for good belly laughs and really charming talent, this "Talent Scouts" program is pretty near tops.

A family I know is suffering from a terrible disease. This is the one contracted by listening to too many singing commercials. You know—those things stick in your head. Why I've gone around a whole day humming, "Rinso white, Rinso white, happy little wash-day song." But to get on with the story:

Taming of the Shrew, although it played to small audiences on opening night, and the following one, is packing them in now at the University theatre. If you haven't seen it yet, there is little chance that you will since the box office people will just shake their heads sadly and tell you they are sold out.

Although I don't want to get into the "Forsyte controversy," I think it should be said that the tradition of the University theatre calls pretty much for graduate student monopolization during the summertime. And also we are very thankful for the fun the theatre has given us this summer. In my initial column I said that B. Iden Payne was good at directing the business of the play. May I add now, after seeing the play twice, that he is also very fine at making up a little business of his own.

This family consists of a mother, father and four-year-old daughter. They've been afflicted with a commercial which goes something like this:

MAN SINGING: "I got blues."
GIRL: "What kind of blues, brother?"
MAN SINGING: "I've got those tired all the time, weary all the time, aching-back blues."
ANNOUNCER: "Brother, what you need is... (you know what comes in here).
So it's gotten to the point in this family, where the wife sings the song as she goes about the household chores. And the little girl comes in right on cue, "What kind of blues, brother?"

If you see some well dressed, earnest-eyed individuals standing on Iowa City street corners, in close huddle talking spiritedly, don't worry, they're only stamp collectors. A stamp collector is a very interesting animal. They're crazy, but not any more crazy than anyone else with a hobby. Which includes all of us, of course.

But stamp collecting is a pretty sophisticated hobby. It used to be the hobby of nobility. But in the last few centuries, which isn't very long to stamp collectors reckoning, it has become very popular. One would think the only tools a stamp collector needed would be an album and a wet tongue. But that isn't true. There are all sorts of little gadgets you can buy to make the hobby more expensive. Perforation gauges, small tweezers, stamp hinges, magnifying glasses—to mention just a few of the things that clutter up any good stamp collector's pockets.

Now to clear up a few misapprehensions about stamp collecting. In the first place, a stamp is never licked. Usually they are fastened into albums with little paper hinges, sometimes they are moistened with a little sponge, and pasted carefully on envelopes. First day covers, which is what the gentlemen are here collecting, are envelopes with first day cancellations on them, and they are stored in albums too. The stamp collector who uses his tongue is just not, comme il faut. Not to say, "on the beam."

"Now I know where I can get a Maritius orange, or an Iowa first day centennial stamp... and I can get them cheap."

'Alarmed Student' Out of His Mind

TO THE EDITOR:
We (group of men on campus) have just read the letter written by an "alarmed student" concerning earlier weekends curfew for coeds.

In our opinion the alarmed student is out of his mind and we advise a psychiatrist as soon as possible.

How did he get into one of Iowa City's so-called night clubs anyway for we can't see who on earth would even venture forth with our worried student.

Perhaps all the childish females that he saw looking up from a bottle of liquor are old enough to do such things, and there is nothing wrong with being young. And for heavens sake keep the student council out of this. One point on the platform of most of the candidates last year was later hours for university women. It would be impossible for the student council to think of such a thing after their promise at election time. And if the student council did think of taking up this matter I'm afraid the council would be right back where it started from a couple of years ago. No student council at all as far as the students are concerned.

So in closing we suggest that our "alarmed student" go back to the library and finish his studying.

JUST A BUNCH OF FELLAS

Wants Law Enforced, Not Hours Restricted

TO THE EDITOR:
In reference to the letter which appeared in Friday's Iowan concerning more prudent hours for coeds I would like to say that I think the "alarmed student" has confused the issue that is presented. I transferred to the University of Iowa from a school where rules for girls were twice as strict as they are here. Although school nights were comparatively quiet, the crowd each weekend would board the buses for the larger city which was close by and therein would proceed to have a perfect "wheel" of a weekend.

I admit that I have seen some pretty heart breaking examples of "childish, female faces which look up at me over a bottle of hard liquor." However, I have seen the same type of "adult children" in identical circumstances in their own home towns where the majority of them come from good homes and have fine parents. Therefore, to my way of thinking, the fault lies not with the hours that are kept but with the lack of proper enforcement of state laws concerned with the sale to minors and use by minors of intoxicating liquors. This information is clearly stated in the Code of Iowa for 1939 in sections 1921.043 and 1921.116. (A minor in Iowa is anyone under the age of 21.)

Certified survey statistics have proved that just as many moral standards are violated between the hours of 7 and 11 p. m. as are at any time thereafter. Look around and you'll see what I mean.

I myself have, during my two years at the university, lived in a private home, a dormitory and sorority houses. I think I can be fairly accurate in stating that the majority of girls do not think that the university's hours rules are absurd. Sure, they gripe and I have been right along with them. But as far as I'm concerned, "gripping" is just a good healthy way of blowing one's top once in awhile. Our G's gripped their way to a quite successful victory.

I might add that I think the establishment of more liberal hours for senior women is a fine move. Many young women who did not go to college have been earning their own way in the world since you and I were freshmen in college and doing a mighty fine job of it, too. I hardly think you would suggest putting restrictions on them.

So I shall repeat that I firmly believe that the answer lies not in prison-like restrictions, but in the correct enforcement of state laws which were written for that purpose.

Dr. Foster, Rabbi Goldin Join School of Religion Staff

Two appointments to the faculty of the school of religion were announced yesterday by President Virgil M. Hancher. Dr. O. D. Foster, guest instructor in the history department during the summer session, was named visiting professor and Rabbi Judah Goldin, formerly assistant national director of Hillel foundation has been appointed associate professor.

Both men will assume their new positions this fall. A member of the board of trustees of the school of religion since its inception, Dr. Foster was one of the designers of the plan on which the school was founded.

To Offer New Course
He will offer a new course entitled "Religion in the Americas" and also will assist in teaching the school of religion core course introduction to religion.

Dr. Foster's life work has been in the field of inter-cultural relations. After graduating from Manchester college, Ind., and receiving a Ph.D. degree from Yale university, he organized an inter-faith organization among the American soldiers in France during World War I. General George Pershing lent approval and backing for this organization.

For many years the university secretary of the Council of Church Boards of Education, Dr. Foster utilized this position to organize an inter-faith group for the study of religion in higher education. Called the North American council, its membership included Dr. Walter A. Jessup and many leading Jewish, Catholic and Protestant leaders.

Latin American Work
For the last 10 years he has been chiefly concerned with conditions in Latin America, where he spent much time. He recently concluded a year's trip through South America where he became acquainted with leaders of the various countries.

Dr. Foster's chief interest has been in the study of religious tensions, with a view to solutions based on better understanding and good will.

His course Latin America has been broadcast over WSUI, and he has lectured on South America to various campus organizations.

Taught at Duke
For two years a visiting associate professor at Duke university, Durham, N. C., Rabbi Goldin was director of the Hillel foundation at the University of Illinois, 1939 to 1943.

A graduate of the College of the City of New York, he received an M.A. degree at Columbia university in 1938. At the Jewish Theological seminary of America he was ordained a rabbi in 1938 and received the degree doctor of Hebrew literature in 1943.

Rabbi Goldin succeeds Rabbi Morris N. Kertzer who has resigned to become associate rabbi at the Park Avenue synagogue in New York City. Rabbi Kertzer will be installed at his new post Sept. 20.

Book by Prof. Johnson Reviewed in Current Issue of New Yorker

"People in Quandaries," a book by Prof. Wendell Johnson of the speech and psychology departments was described as "an extraordinarily interesting book" in a brief review in the current issue of New Yorker.

Professor Johnson received word this week from the sales promotion manager of the textbook division of Harper Bros., who published the book last month, that both the textbook and the trade edition of "People in Quandaries" are exhausted.

Among universities and colleges which have placed orders for the book are the University of Chicago, Northwestern university, Stanford university, Harvard university, Columbia university, the University of Denver, the University of Pennsylvania, and the Terre Haute (Ind.) State Teachers college.

McGrath Returns From Washington

Dean Earl J. McGrath of the college of liberal arts has returned from Washington, D. C., where he attended the first meeting of the National Commission on higher education, of which he is a member.

Chief function of the commission, established in July, is to see how the over-burdened college system can best get its job done.

Though Dean McGrath was not at liberty to disclose the results of this meeting, since releases regarding the commission's work must emanate from the White House, he said the commission will meet again next Dec. 9 and 10. He added that plans are to meet three times a year for two or three days at a time.

Dean McGrath said the commission would maintain a permanent staff in Washington, D. C., whose job will be compiling material on educational problems. This material will then be discussed at the three-yearly meetings of the commission. A report on these problems, along with action taken thereon, will then be made to President Truman.

Alice Myers, Former SUI Student, Appointed To Faculty at Drake

Alice V. Myers of Des Moines, a former University of Iowa student, has been appointed to the faculty of Drake university, Des Moines.

Miss Myers has served during the past year as president of the Iowa Association of Adult Education, and led a conference of the organization here on campus in June.

She has been acting director of adult education in the Des Moines public schools since 1942.

At Drake, she will teach social science in the liberal arts college and will also be on the staff of the community college, which includes evening and special classes.

MARIE BOYSEN TO WED

MR. AND MRS. BOYSEN of Morning Sun announce the engagement of their daughter, Marie, to John O. Mecklenburg, son of Mrs. Carrie Mecklenburg of Morning Sun. The wedding will be an event of the middle of August. Miss Boyesen is a graduate of Iowa State Teachers college and taught at Indianola high school during the past year. Mr. Mecklenburg is also a graduate of Iowa State Teachers college and is superintendent-elect of the Calamus public schools. Both are attending summer school at the University of Iowa.

School of Journalism Adopts Survey Plan for State Papers

To Offer Readership, Readability Service At 'Minimum Cost'

The school of journalism announced yesterday a plan for making available to all Iowa newspapers the latest and most scientific techniques for measuring readership and readability.

Prof. Wilbur Schramm, director of the school of journalism, said that the school is now prepared to make surveys and studies of these newspaper qualities for any newspaper in the state. As many jobs as the school is physically able to undertake will be accepted, and they will be done on a minimum cost basis, with no charge for administration or interpretation.

Establishment of a Continuing Study of Iowa Readership, a new series of publications whose first two issues will appear this fall, was also announced yesterday. These will be joint readership studies of the Parkersburg Eclipse and Eagle Grove Eagle by the school of journalism and the Iowa Press association.

The announced purpose of the plan is to make available to all Iowa papers the scientific tools which have previously been limited almost entirely to large papers and private research agencies.

Professor Schramm pointed out that Dr. George Gallup developed the technique for readership study on the Iowa campus when he was a teacher in the school of journalism. He said that for that reason it was fitting that the school should again take the lead in making the technique widely available.

The new bureau of newspaper service, headed by Prof. Leslie Moeller, former publisher of the Bremer County Independent and the Waverly Democrat, is to supervise the work. Techniques will be supervised by the bureau of audience research, headed by Prof. Norman C. Meier of the psychology department.

7 Polio Cases Enter Hospital in 24 Hours

Seven polio cases have entered the University hospital in the last 24 hours making a total of 34 now receiving treatment, Dr. W. D. Paul, university physician, announced late last night.

There is little cause for alarm, Dr. Paul said, since this period of the year normally has the greatest number of infantile paralysis patients.

The University hospital treated 8 patients last year during July compared with 17 over the same period this year, Dr. Paul added. There are three cases from Johnson county now in the hospital and one from Iowa county. Other polio patients are from 14 other counties in the state.

SUI's Physics Department—

Aids Peacetime Atomic Research

Some practical applications for the heat and power of the atomic bomb, opening new vistas in medicine, industry and everyday life, may be found through atomic research now in the planning stage at the University of Iowa.

Continuing a program begun here 10 years ago, members of the physics department expect to put into operation this winter a new electro-static generator which will provide new data on the atom.

In charge of all nuclear research is Prof. James A. Jacobs. Besides several research assistants, four other staff members are assigned full-time to the nuclear physics project. They are George S. Carson, technician for the project, Dr. John Richardson, Oliver A. Smith, and Charles Grimm.

Experienced in Nuclear Physics
Two new appointees in physics will also be assigned to nuclear research problems this fall. Dr. Josef M. Jauch, formerly of Princeton university, and Dr. Arthur Roberts from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology have had wide experience in fields theoretical and nuclear physics.

Professor Jacobs is now concentrating his efforts on the completion of a pressure-type electro-static generator, which will develop electrical pressures of six million volts with which to bombard the atom nuclei.

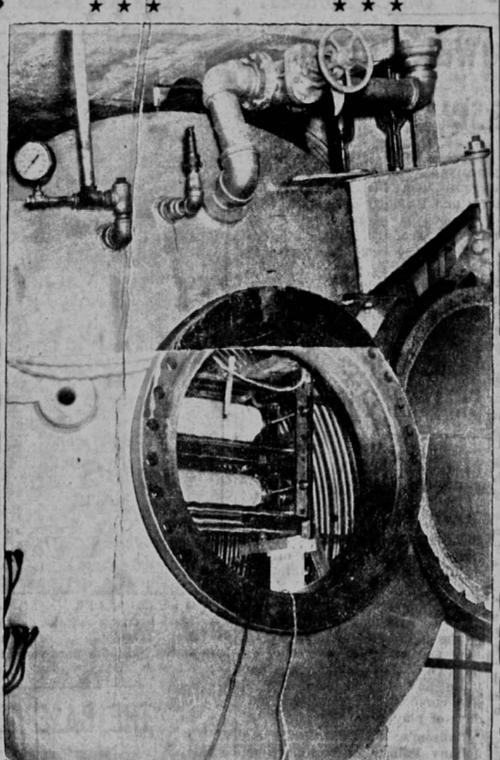

The generator consists of a 45-foot air tight tank within which is mounted an insulated electrode. Two canvas belts carry charges of static electricity to the electrode, which accumulates the terrific voltages used to fire ions through a vacuum tube at target atoms.

All matter is composed of atoms, which are in turn composed of tiny particles called electrons, protons, neutrons, and positrons, Professor Jacobs explained. The atom nucleus is composed of a number of protons and neutrons, around which revolve one or more electrons. The whole atom has a diameter of less than one hundred millionth of an inch.

Bombarding Atoms
Under bombardment by high speed ions, or atom nuclei, the character of the atom may be changed completely. This phenomenon, called transmutation, has been the goal of scientists since ancient times, although it was not actually achieved until 1919.

In the electro-static generator under construction at Iowa, a gas is passed into one end of a vacuum tube, where the neutral atom loses the electrons which revolve about it.

This leaves the positively charged nucleus, or ion, which is repelled with great force by the

THIS PRESSURE-TYPE electro-static generator, to be used in connection with atomic research, now being completed in a special building is capable of generating charges of six million volts. The generator is housed in an air-tight pressure tank about 45 feet long and eight feet in diameter. An insulated electrode housed in the center of the tank accumulates the charge, which fires ions at target along through an evacuated accelerator tube about 20 feet long.

highly charged electrode and is hurled through the 20 foot accelerator tube towards the target atoms, attaining a velocity of about 20,000 miles a second.

Form New Element
These ions strike the target atoms at the other end of the tube with such force that small particles may be knocked loose, changing the nature of the atom so completely that a new element is formed and releasing tremendous energies.

In the case of uranium, a radio-active element, the atom is so unbalanced by bombardment that it divides into two separate particles, releasing energies of approximately 200 million volts. Research with the pressure generator will consist of observing the bombardment of target atoms and determining constant factors of the reaction, such as emission of x-rays, gamma rays, alpha particles and the direction of such emissions.

'What Makes It Work'
"The whole idea is to find out more about the change in the atom and what makes it work," Professor Jacobs explained. "This type of research has already made possible the atomic bomb, and in the future we will have atomic energy for commercial use." Professor Jacobs said that ra-

Miss Betty Pingrey, Donald L. Sulhoff Repeat Vows Today

At 4 o'clock this afternoon Betty Pingrey, daughter of Mrs. Stanley Reid of Cedar Rapids and Wilson Pingrey of Miami, Fla., will enter the Westminster Presbyterian church at Cedar Rapids to become the bride of Donald L. Sulhoff, son of Mrs. Norah Sulhoff of Council Bluffs.

The single ring wedding ceremony will be read before an altar decorated with white gladioli. The bride, attired in a white suit and carrying a white orchid on a white prayer book, will be given in marriage by Stanley Reid.

Rhea Hyink of Rock Island, Ill., maid of honor, will wear a green suit and a corsage of white roses. Best man will be Roger A. Sulhoff of Council Bluffs, and Lloyd Olson, Donald Beazley and Robert Drustup, all of Council Bluffs, will usher.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Reid has chosen a navy blue crepe dress with smoked white accessories. The bridegroom's mother will wear a black beamburg dress with white accessories.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception will be held in the Florence room of Roosevelt hotel. The bridal table will hold a three-tiered wedding cake centered with white candles and white gladioli. For the wedding trip the bride will wear a dark-green wool dress with black accessories.

Miss Pingrey is a graduate of Blairtown high school and attended the University of Iowa where she was affiliated with Alpha Chi Omega sorority.

Mr. Sulhoff is a graduate of Abraham Lincoln high school at Council Bluffs and also attended the University. He was a member of Sigma Nu fraternity.

Radio-active materials formed in this manner would probably complement radium in cancer therapy and other medicinal uses. Radio-active particles of phosphorus and other minerals enable doctors to trace the path of such minerals as they are used by the human body.

Practical Applications
Additional uses of radio-active materials are constantly being found. Treatment of thyroid glandular disorders and the disease of the blood, leukemia, are examples of practical applications of the power of the atom, he said.

A smaller machine known as a voltage doubler, developing charges of about 400,000 volts, had been used for several years for nuclear research and study, but it will become obsolete with the completion of the larger pressure generator which delivers more than 10 times as much electrical power.

Before You Buy, Build or Rent . . .

Check your wiring!

FOR CONVENIENCE
 FOR EFFICIENCY
 FOR ECONOMY
 FOR SAFETY

CHECK SERVICE ENTRANCE. Be sure it is adequate to bring all the electricity needed into the home.

CHECK BRANCH CIRCUITS. There should be enough circuits of large enough wire to provide for convenient, efficient use of all electrical equipment—future as well as present.

CHECK OUTLETS, SWITCHES. Crowded outlets and networks of lamp and extension cords are eliminated when there are plenty of outlets. Switches should be at lock side of door—with multiple switches controlling the lights in rooms with more than one door.

Inadequate wiring is a bottleneck that prevents the full enjoyment of the many benefits made available by electricity. When you build or modernize make certain that your home is up-to-date electrically by specifying adequate wiring.

For authentic information and free literature concerning wiring, consult us or your Electrical Contractor.

Shirley Mueller Wins Iowa Women's Golf Title

University of Iowa Student Defeats Ann Casey, 3 and 1

DES MOINES (AP)—Twenty-year-old Shirley Mueller, a University of Iowa junior from Dubuque, won the Iowa Women's golf championship yesterday with a 3 and 1 victory over Ann Casey of Mason City.

Shirley, two down at the half way mark of the 36-hole title engagement, fired a 37, two under par, for the first nine yesterday afternoon and was all even at 27 holes.

The Dubuque girl won the 28th for a 1 up lead only to have Ann, a former champion, square the match on the next hole. After a stymie prevented Miss Casey from next hole and then Shirley grabbed the next two for a 2 up advantage.

Both carded 4's on the 34th but Miss Mueller put a 125-yard iron shot three feet from the pin on the 35th green and won the hole and match with a birdie 3.

Shirley, who never had played a state tournament match prior to this week, also was the meet's medalist.

Tall, and willowy, she bears a physical resemblance to Betty Jameson of the women's professional ranks.

Miss Mueller entered the tourney at Hyperion without a practice round over an unfamiliar course. She played through the state meet after having just completed the Tam O'Shanter medal test at Chicago, rushing here without a day of rest between the two tournaments.

Miss Mueller went after her opponent early in the afternoon round, cutting one hole from Miss Casey's lead at the twentieth only to smash an approach wide at the twenty-second, lose the hole and go two down again.

The Dubuque golfer never eased the pressure on Miss Casey, however, at the twenty-third her chip shot to the pin left her only inches from the cup, so close that Ann conceded the hole when she missed her putt for a four.

Miss Mueller squared the match at the twenty-sixth when Miss Casey three putted and from that point on the Dubuque girl never trailed.

She went 1 up when Ann three putted the twenty-eighth. Miss Casey fought back to square the match at the twenty-ninth canning a five footer after Shirley had missed a six foot putt.

They played even through the thirty-first hole. At the thirty-second Ann's iron shot to the green was heading wide when the ball struck a tree and rebounded onto the down slope of a trap. She lost the hole to go 1 down.

At the thirty-third Miss Casey's drive was down the slot but her second was definitely bad and her third was inches short of the green. Miss Mueller banged home her par and went 2 up.

They went to the thirty-fifth tee with Miss Mueller still 2 up. Miss Casey smashed a mighty drive down the groove, with Miss Mueller's slightly shorter tee shot being to the left side of the fairway.

The Dubuque girl splitting the pin with her iron shot from something like 145 yards out, put the second less than three feet from the flag, and put an end to the tournament.

So close and so straight were the approach putts of Miss Mueller that several times during the match she left Miss Casey confronted with stymies. One particular heartbreaker for Miss Casey occurred at the thirtieth hole. With Ann apparently in position to win the hole and square the match, Miss Mueller's long putt stopped barely seven inches inside Ann's ball on a dead line for the hole.

Miss Casey attempted a jump shot, but failed.

Shirley Mueller, in the space of five days, has moved in with the headlines of women's golf in Iowa. She succeeds Phyllis Otto of Atlantic as state champion.

In the morning round Miss Casey shot a two-under-par 37-38—75 to tie the new competitive course record for women which Miss Mueller shot earlier this week and go into a 2 up lead at that point. Miss Mueller, who carded a 49-37—77 on the morning 18, had led 1 up at the nine hole point.

Texas Golfer Grabs St. Paul Open Lead

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Henry Ransom, 38-year-old rangy professional golfer from Houston, Texas, took the lead in the St. Paul $10,000 open yesterday, shooting a consistent four-under-par 68, just one stroke off his opening score for a 135 total.

His below-par score was just one of many as the touring pros and top amateurs unloaded some of their best golf to gain a position for the final two days of play. Only the low 64 scorers and those tied for the last position will complete the remaining two days of play ending Sunday.

Ransom's 135 total nosed out Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., who started the day's play with a six-under par 66 for an opening round score. Palmer shot a 70 yesterday to go one stroke behind Ransom.

Grouped just behind Palmer were Dick Metz and Jim Ferrier, both of Chicago, and Clayton Haefner of Charlotte, N. C., with 137 figures for the 36 holes.

In all, some 28 contestants bettered par, while another dozen equalled regulation figures in yesterday's play. The best score yesterday was Ferrier's 66 which matched Palmer's opening round.

VFW Tourney Starts Sunday

Pairings were announced yesterday for the all VFW softball tournament being sponsored by the local Veteran of Foreign Wars post 2581 at Hills, six miles south of Iowa City, next Sunday.

Davenport VFW will meet Cedar Rapids in the opening game at nine in the morning, while Ottumwa will tangle with Ft. Madison about ten-thirty. After dinner at one o'clock the host club swings into action against Newton while Clinton faces Fairfield in the last game of the first round at two-thirty.

The second round will begin at four, pairing the winners of the two mornings contests, and the winners of the afternoon games will tangle at five-thirty.

The consolation game to determine third place—and a prize of $35—will take place under the lights at seven-thirty. Immediately after that the final championship game will begin to decide second place winners of $50 and tournament champs who will take the grand prize of $100.

Amos W. Kelso, director of the state VFW athletic program, announced yesterday that the VFW softball team from Red Oak is the second Iowa team to be invited to the national VFW softball tournament in September and that one more Iowa team will be selected.

Last week it was announced that the squad from post 2581 had been chosen.

According to Kelso, Topeka tournament officials have received entries from New Hampshire, Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Texas, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri and Iowa.

OTTUMWA ELIMINATED

Regal Tops Cherry, Gains Semi-Finals In Denver Tourney

DENVER (AP)—Skee Regal, the Glendale, Calif. playboy golfer, shot the hottest game of Trans-Mississippi tournament yesterday as he knocked out Don Cherry, 21 year-old Wichita Falls, Texas, collegian, 4 and 3, to move into today's semi-final round.

Cherry, the blond ex-army aircraft dispatcher who ousted defending champion Johnny Kraft of Denver, one-up, in yesterday morning's third round, didn't have a chance yesterday afternoon against Regal's powerful drives and spectacular iron shots.

Regal defeated basketball player Chuck Taylor of Dallas, 4 and 3, in the morning round.

Earl Stewart, former national college champion from Dallas, Tex., thrilled a large gallery with the most sensational putting of the tournament as he won a seesaw battle from Charlie Coe, University of Oklahoma student, 1 up on the 19th.

Babe Lind of the University of Denver, runner up in this year's National Collegiate tournament, shot his second sub-par game of the day as he easily defeated Joe Hartman of Denver, 4 and 3, and captured the third semi-finals position.

Jack Munger of Dallas, Tex., took a 1-up verdict over Fred Newton of Denver, conqueror of medalist O'Harra Watts of Oklahoma City.

Rumor Pirates Ball Club Sold
PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Pittsburgh Post-Gazette said in a front page story last night it had "learned definitely" the Pittsburgh Pirates baseball club has been sold to Frank E. McKinney, Indianapolis banker and part owner of the Indianapolis club of the American Association.

William E. Benswanger, president of the Pirates, asked to comment on the Post-Gazette story, told the Associated Press: "The picture is no different than it was Thursday."

This was in reference to a statement he had made saying that McKinney and Charles J. Margioti, Pittsburgh lawyer, still had an equal chance of purchasing the club.

Informed the Post-Gazette had said the Dreyfus family, after nearly half century ownership, has agreed to sell to McKinney, Benswanger snapped: "It has not."

The newspaper said a joint announcement by William E. Benswanger, president of the club, representing Mrs. Florence Dreyfus, majority stockholder, and McKinney will come the later part of next week. The purchase price was reported "in the neighborhood of $2,250,000."

Athletics Slap Browns
ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics overcame an early two-run deficit last night and while Phil Marchildon tightened down on St. Louis in the pinches his mates rapped four Brown pitchers for 15 hits and an 8 to 3 victory before only 3205 paying customers.

Newsom Blanks Chisox
CHICAGO (AP)—Buck Newsom won his eighth game of the season last night when the Senators staged a three-run seventh inning rally to beat the White Sox, 6 to 0, before a crowd of 20,791.

Cards Lose Ground to Bums

Phils Spurt in 7th To Beat Red Birds

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies jumped, on Alpha Brazle for six hits—five of them of the infield variety—and three runs in the seventh inning of last night's game with the St. Louis Cardinals, enough to eke out a 3-2 victory before 23,835. Oscar Judd got credit for the win although he was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the seventh.

Until the seventh, the Cardinals were matching strides with the National League-leading Brooklyn Dodgers, who defeated Cincinnati 3-2. The Redbirds scored single runs in the fourth and seventh and were ahead 2-0 when Andy Seminick dragged a bunt single past Brazle with one out in the Philadelphia half of the frame.

Charley Gilbert singled off Brazle's glove and a wild throw let Seminick go to third. Emil Verban rapped a single to center; pinchhitter Schoolboy Rowe singled off Brazle's glove to fill the bases and the tying run scored while Skeeter Newsome was beating out a slow roller to Marty Marion.

Johnny Wyrostek then bunted safely past Brazle and Verban romped across with the winning marker.

The loss dropped the Redbirds two and one-half games behind Brooklyn.

Dodgers' Gregg Beats Reds, 3-2

BROOKLYN (AP)—Hal Gregg limited the Cincinnati Reds to five hits last night as the National League leading Brooklyn Dodgers shaded the Reds 3-2.

The victory, coupled with the Philadelphia Phillies' triumph over St. Louis increased the Dodgers' lead over the Cards to two and a half games.

Dick Whitman, rookie center-fielder, knocked in the two Dodger runs in the third inning with a single that provided the winning margin and helped Gregg to his fifth victory against one defeat.

Pete Reiser, Brooklyn outfielder, sustained only a bad bump on the back of his head when he collided with the Ebbers' field wall in the fifth inning of Thursday's game with the St. Louis Cardinals, x-rays revealed yesterday.

Reiser, resting comfortably in bed at home following his discharge from the hospital where he was taken by ambulance Thursday, said he expected to be back in action in "three or four days."

GEORGE KELL, Tigers third baseman, is forced at second as Red Sox second baseman Bobby Doerr gets the ball away for an unsuccessful attempt at doubling "Hoot" Evers at first. Evers had hit a grounder to third in the first inning. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Naval Air Cadet Wins Diving Title

SAN DIEGO, CALIF. (AP)—Bruce Harlan of the Naval Air technical training center, Jacksonville, Fla., won the three-meter springboard diving championship yesterday as finals of the National AAU senior mens outdoor swimming meet were launched at the Navy pool.

KALAMAZOO, Mich. Lauderdale, Fla. today.

The shutout gave the Beverly Hills, Calif., schoolboy a record of 60 games won and only 13 lost for this tournament so far.

With such a sweep, Flam stood as a top-heavy favorite to doo the second-seeded Behrens.

Chandler Sympathizes With Players Request

CHICAGO (AP) — Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler yesterday pronounced his sympathy for the current Major league players' quest for a minimum salary, spring training expenses, a pension plan and other improvements "to which they are entitled."

Chandler, stopping between trains, reported that owner Sam Breadon of the St. Louis Cardinals paid a $5,000 fine inflicted by his impromptu visit to Jorge Pasquel of the Mexican league, but that it was returned "upon the plea of Ford Frick (president of the National league) and Lou Carroll (National league attorney)."

Referring to the player move for improved contractual and playing conditions, Chandler declared: "I told the owners that they're going to make more money this year than at any time in the history of baseball and now's the time to give the men who play for them something which should have been granted long ago."

"Only by dealing generously with their players are the magnates going to combat such an item as the invasion of Pasquel. You can't blame kids for grabbing the big money he's putting out. But he can't keep that up . . . and won't. However, it is our duty to help our players rise above such temptation by providing for them where they really want to play. Then we can talk to Pasquel and anybody like him on our own terms."

Regarding the Breadon case, Chandler explained: "I told Mr. Breadon that his visit to Pasquel might have done some good in preventing further inroads on his players, but that it wasn't helping Larry MacPhail or Branch Rickey with the Yankees and Dodger players. After all, baseball as a whole is my problem: not just one man's club."

Ames Annexes Camp Dodge

1,000 Male Students To Live, Attend Class in Army Installation

AMES (AP)—Iowa State college is going to take over part of Camp Dodge, army installation 20 miles from the main campus here, for use as an annex for nearly 1,000 unmarried men students who will live and attend classes there.

Preliminary arrangements for making Camp Dodge ready as a campus annex at the opening of the fall term in September were made at a conference of school, state, and army officials in Des Moines yesterday.

Thirty barracks and 40 other buildings at the camp will be used for housing and as classrooms. A standard course, complete even to a social and recreational program, will be provided at the army camp.

The main campus, which has a capacity of about 8,000 students, is unable to take care of the applicants for enrollment, many of whom are war veterans.

Camp Dodge was a training camp in World War I and an induction center in World War II. Those attending the state board of education conference with Gov. Robert D. Blue included Charles E. Friley, president of Iowa State college, and Col. Arthur T. Wallace, chief of staff of the adjutant general's office.

Friley said the college wanted to have the camp facilities ready by Sept. 23 or 24, adding "we want this space badly." He said he anticipated it would be necessary to use the camp facilities for two or three years.

The barracks and messhalls now are not equipped for heating. Furnaces will have to be installed in each because a central heating unit would be too expensive to operate, it was explained.

VETERANS—

Said Jarvis, "As we stood on a crowded sidewalk across the street from the polling place, which had closed to start the ballot counting, we saw the plate glass doors shattered by the impact of two bodies. Those of two election officials stationed there by the all-GI ticket.

"The two youths were still on their knees when a deputy sheriff strode out of the broken door, a pistol in his hand."

The veterans, said Jarvis, turned their backs on the deputy and, hands held high, walked into the crowd. The vets said they were breaking out of the polling place to report what they described as irregularities in election procedure.

Thereafter, events moved rapidly. A car filled with armed men drove up to the jail and then, while the crowd watched, a deputy entered the balloting place and removed the box. The car then sped to the jail.

The ex-GI's some 500 strong moved on the jail.

As the veterans converged on the jail, the deputies hurriedly barricaded the place. Sporadic firing broke out. Swiftly the veterans drifted back under cover and then, from somewhere, produced rifles and shotguns. The blunt blast of shotguns mingled with the sharper crack of rifles and the whine of ricochets grew steadier.

Under cover of darkness, the ex-GI's went into action with demolition charges—home made, but effective. After a third blast had rocked the jail, one of the deputies leaned from the building and shouted, "stop that blasting. We'll give up—we're dying in here."

At 3:02 a. m., the officers began filling out of the battered building. They were searched, and roughly, by the attackers and marched back into the building to be locked in cells under guard of the ex-GI's.

Plumbing, Heating Work on Barracks To Begin Monday

Plumbing and heating work on the barracks for single men, now being created in the Quadrangle court, will be started Monday by the Carstens Brothers of Ackley.

Carstens Brothers have been laying sewer and water lines for the barracks-apartments for married veterans on Finkbine golf course this week. Work on the foundations by the Metcalfe-Hamilton construction company will begin next week.

The shower rooms and lavatories for the single men's units will be constructed separately but will be connected to a series of three barracks.

Robert L. Ballantyne, director of student employment for the university, reported yesterday that 248 men have now signed up for work on the barracks during August and September.

Iowa City to Buy Fire Equipment

Council Okays Expenditures

$40,000 to Be Spent For Modern Engine, Ladder, Accessories

Iowa City bought almost $40,000 worth of new fire equipment last night.

The city council authorized the purchase of a modern fire engine capable of throwing 1000 gallons of water per minute, an 85 foot, all-steel, aerial ladder truck and an assortment of special equipment.

The payment of $39,971.92, less two percent for prompt settlement, will be made from a fire equipment fund which will be raised, according to law, by the levy of a special tax.

The new additions to the fire department are not expected for at least a year.

The purchase will be made from the American LaFrance-Foamite corporation of Elmira, N.Y., one of three companies which bid for the sale.

Second lowest bid came from the Segrave corporation representative from Des Moines, and totalled $43,575.26.

The fire engine will cost $13,366.22. Exactly $25,042.92 will be paid for the aerial ladder truck. Just $1,562.78 worth of special fire equipment will be purchased.

The council recessed following the opening of the bids and met with salesmen representatives of the companies to decide on a choice.

Check on Plumbing

City Engineer Fred Gartzke told the council of plans for a stricter check of plumbing installations, designed to protect buildings.

Gartzke said plumbers will be required to submit complete installation specifications to his office for approval. The installed plumbing will be inspected later to see that it is adequate.

To Demonstrate DDT

Mayor Wilber J. Teeters, in calling attention to the threat of polio, said a demonstrator would be in Iowa City the afternoon of August 14, to show how DDT can be used as a safeguard against the occurrence of the disease.

The DDT will be applied in both a restaurant and a dairy in Iowa City for demonstrator purposes, Mayor Teeters said.

Salary Increases

Both Charles J. Schindler, city restaurant inspector, and C. J. Ruppert, dairy inspector, were granted a $90 a year increase in salary. The raises are in proportion to pay increases given other city employees recently.

A renewal of the contract with the Iowa highway commission which gives Iowa City $1,500 yearly to maintain state roads within the city limits was made.

Notice of the approval by the state comptroller of the $12,781 emergency tax levy to finance the changing of the police AM radio equipment to modern FM equipment was received.

To Buy Truck

A resolution authorizing the purchase of a $1,020 Dodge pickup truck from the Gartner Motor company for the city engineer's department was approved.

Five petitioners asked the city to vacate the alley running east and west through block F, and deed it to them as adjacent property owners. The petition was referred to the streets and alleys committee.

Three persons submitted a request for the council to take action to open Maiden lane to traffic, saying use of the lane is necessary because of the location of their property. This matter was also referred to the streets and alleys committee.

Police Halt Agents Selling Magazine Subscriptions Here

Iowa City police stopped a house-to-house campaign by 30 out-of-town solicitors to sell subscriptions to a magazine, the "Veteran's Weekly News," by ordering the vendors to leave town Thursday.

The magazine sellers arrived in town in a bus from the Bledsoe Ranch Tours, Inc., of Dallas, Texas, Thursday morning. Complaints of residents made to the police said the solicitors were selling subscriptions to the magazine to be sent to servicemen.

Police said the group had no mayor's permit for a house-to-house campaign. How many residents had paid for subscriptions before the action was taken is not known.

Workers Needed In Iowa Canneries

With reports indicating the sweet corn yield this year to be the largest in history, Iowa food processors are asking for more people to work in canneries, Jack Heathershaw, supervisor of rural industries for the United States employment service, revealed yesterday.

Many farmers planned to use the new sweet corn picking machines, but delivery has been delayed and hundreds of men are needed for hand picking the corn crop. Some workers hired for cannery work will have to be transferred to field picking.

Persons who are interested in cannery work should apply to the local United States employment service office in the community building for further information and details.

Crime Decreases As Summer Heat Beats Down on City

Whether Iowa Citizens are actually improving their conduct or whether midsummer doldrums are restricting activity to a hammock in the shade, the monthly report of the Iowa City police department disclosed a summertime low of 219 arrests during July.

During May, 361 arrests were made, and during June, 293 persons were charged with law violations.

Of the 219 arrests made, 188 were found guilty. Parking violations accounted for 119 of the arrests.

Accidents also decreased with only 11 reported during the month as compared with 23 in June and 22 in May.

Six persons were injured in five of the accidents, none seriously. A total of 161 accidents have occurred so far this year.

Violations of road and driving laws resulted in the arrests of 41 persons. Miscellaneous offenses, disturbing the peace, and violation of city bicycle ordinances accounted for 22 arrests.

Greatest effect of the drive on violators of the city bicycle code was the issuance of 122 bicycle licenses during the month.

Juvenile offenses dropped from 19 in June to 10 last month. Dog calls totalled 52.

Besides the handling of the above cases, police were active last month taking care of one insanity case, one attempted suicide, one sudden death, seven escort runs, 85 investigations and 25 arrests.

The department took care of 38 reports for other departments and 29 lost and found reports, provided for eight lodgers, found three doors open, found 16 missing persons, reported 37 street lights out, made eight fire runs and three arrests for other jurisdictions.

No Heavy Damage Caused by Storm Which Hit Area

No irreparable damage was caused in Iowa City by the thunder, lightning and rain storm which roused many people from their sleep early yesterday morning.

An electrical storm which severed a 150-pair cable one and a half blocks east of Iowa river on Lafayette street, isolated the Iowa City airport from all telephone, teletype and interphone service at 2:30 a. m.

The only communication left at the airport until about 10:30 a. m., when service was resumed, was radio which is used to land planes.

No weather data was supplied the airport from 2:30 a. m. to 11:30 a. m. yesterday morning.

The Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric Co. had about 50 cases of trouble in small distribution transformers and transformer fuses that blew out. There was no major damage of any sort.

Fred E. Gartzke, city engineer, said the water from Ralston creek backed up through the sewer to flood a few basements in the Rundell street district. A new sewer expected to be completed by the middle of September will remedy this, Gartzke said.

Lightning struck the West Lambert house at 26 Byington street and the residences of Harold Monk, 234 Lowell street, and M. Jirava, 1169 Hotz avenue. Fire trucks went to West Lambert house, student housing unit, but the small fire which started in the eaves, had been put out.

The lightning was believed to have struck a tree near the northwest corner of the house and skipped to the eaves where the fire started. Plaster was scattered over the room of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Berninger. Neither was injured.

No serious damage to crops in the Johnson county area had been reported to the County Extension director's office or the local AAA office by 4 p. m. yesterday afternoon.
