Dr. Skeels Quits Board of Control Job

Says Politics, Inadequate Pay Hampers State Institutions

DES MOINES (AP)—Dr. Harold M. Skeels of Iowa City resigned yesterday as head of the state board of control division of psychological services.

His letter of resignation declared that politics has hampered operations of the institutions and he referred to the "inadequacies" of salaries paid staff members in the various institutions.

(Dr. Skeels said last night that his letter of resignation and all mention of "inadequacies of salaries" had no reference to the University of Iowa.)

Skeels also is leaving the University of Iowa where he is associate professor of psychology in the Iowa Child Welfare Research station. The resignation takes effect Sept. 30. He declined to disclose his plans for the future.

Skeels had been working halftime for the board of control and the other half for the university. Most of his work for the board of control had been with youngsters in the children's homes at Toledo and Davenport, although he and other psychologists also called at the two state feebleminded institutions and at the two training schools.

Skeels also had done considerable work with children who have been placed for adoption, particularly from the Davenport Soldiers and Sailors' orphans home.

Skeels also said in his letter: "In the two state orphanages (at Davenport and Toledo), there is a desperate need for a vocational training program. Our boys and girls are placed out on wage contracts with little or no training for making their living in society.

Inadequacies Make Delinquents
"It seems that many of the transfers to the boys training school at Mitchellville of children who have become delinquents following orphanage residence, may be the result of the inadequacies of the program.

"Also, there is some indication that continued residence in an underprivileged orphanage situation tends to make normal children deteriorate to the extent of becoming functionally feebleminded.

"Of 22 older feebleminded children recently transferred from Davenport to the Glenwood State School for the Feebleminded, nine, or 40 percent, were of normal or low average intelligence four or five years ago when they first were admitted to the orphanage."

The Davenport home usually has about 425 children on its rolls. There ordinarily are 135 or 140 youngsters at Toledo. The board of control has 13 other institutions under its supervision.

Skeels took care in his resignation letter to say that he was not criticizing either the board or present institution superintendents.

"The excellent cooperation which has been given me by board members, and especially with the handicaps under which they have been forced to function, has been greatly appreciated," the letter said.

"The method of selection of the state agents (home visitors) who (See SKEELS, Page 5)

Fields' War Surplus Deal 'Irregular'

Official Charges Ex-Convict Shouldn't Have Had Priority

WASHINGTON (AP)—A deal in which Benjamin F. Fields made a profit in surplus government property was "hand processed" through government selling agencies and was "irregular," a government official testified yesterday.

Fields, ex-convict and Washington public relations counselor who was mentioned in the Garsson munitions investigation, explained to the house surplus property investigating committee a "hand processed" transaction was one in which he took the deal "by the hand." Either he or an agent personally carried papers to the various government officials responsible for approving them, he said.

In this particular deal he bought $3,900 lineal feet of scarce bronze screen for $8,085 and sold it for $12,404. He divided the profit with other people, two of whom, a memorandum showed, he called "John Doe" because he couldn't remember their names.

Rep. Rizley (R., Okla.) asked point blank if Fields "cut anyone in, in war assets or any other government department, on the profits" or if the "John Does" were government officials.

"Emphatically no," replied Fields.

Anthony J. Flood in charge of hardware sales in the Philadelphia WAA office, where the screen was offered for sale, said Fields' bid was "irregular" from others in that:

1. Fields failed to fill in a section indicating whether the merchandise was for a wholesaler or retailer.

2. Payment for the screen arrived 10 days after the period for payment expired.

3. And the bid was handed to Flood separately after 121 other bids had been received. William J. Gilreil, former sales manager of the office, brought it to him and said it had been "overlooked," Flood testified.

Nevertheless the merchandise was allocated to Fields although some of the priority purchasers, including veterans, did not have their orders filled, Flood said.

Truman Decides Against Seizure of Case Plant

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rejecting a recommendation of Secretary of Labor Schwelmbach, President Truman has decided not to seize the strike-bound J. I. Case company farm machinery plant at Racine, Wis.

The decision not to take over the plants was announced yesterday by Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross, who said the president felt seizures should be ordered only where the public welfare "is vitally involved."

Price Decontrol Board Hears Warning of Wildcat Strikes

WASHINGTON (AP)—A spokesman for railroad labor unions declared yesterday that "if the government fails to control food prices in this emergency, it is doubtful if anyone will be able to prevent wildcat strikes in protest."

This testimony was given before the price decontrol board by A.F. Lyon, executive secretary of the Railway Labor Executives association.

Arguing against restoration of controls on the various items, Edward O'Neal, American Farm Bureau federation president, said "If we are getting into another period of strict price control we must be realistic and control wages."

A "Mistake"
He said recitrol of grain, livestock, dairy products, cottonseed and soybeans and their products would be a "mistake" and that if the board allows ceilings to be restored it must also restore food rationing.

One of nearly a score of witnesses opposing or supporting return of price lids on scores of major food items, Lyon told the board:

"In a period of uncontrolled prices, labor will demand and rightly so, increased wages and cost of living bonuses in an attempt to stay even."

He said railroad workers are "dissatisfied" and that they blame the government for allowing "run away prices."

"They will not stand for further increased prices of food, rent or clothing and especially the foods which are the subject of these hearings. There is dynamite in the potential of continued uncontrolled food prices," he said.

Cites Survey
Lyon said a recent bureau of agriculture economic survey showed that 50 percent of the people had less than three percent of the savings.

"Most of the workers I represent," he declared, "are in that 50 percent."

OPA Authorizes Immediate Increases For Retail Ceilings on New Automobiles

WASHINGTON (AP)—Retail ceilings on new automobiles climbed to about 22 percent above 1942 prices yesterday as OPA authorized fresh increases from $62 to $322 a car.

The new price increases, effective immediately, are the first of at least two general price hikes required by the new price control act.

Another increase amounting to about five percent will be put into effect soon, OPA officials said.

Yesterday's increases over June 30 ceilings average 7.3 percent or $82 a car. They restore dealers' peacetime profit margins, as ordered by congress.

On all models, OPA said, the increase range is from $62 in a Chevrolet business coupe to $322 on a Cadillac 7-passenger Imperial sedan.

The additional price increases required by the new law will be discussed with dealers at a conference today, OPA said. In predicting this increase will be about five percent, officials said they hope that will be the last boost in auto price ceilings.

However, auto manufacturers—whose ceilings were not changed by yesterday's order—are now eligible to apply for higher prices under terms of the Barkley amendment to the price control act. Whether they may qualify for increases, OPA could not say.

Yugoslavs Hold Yank Crew Incommunicado

U.S. Charge D'Affaires Dispel's False Report Of Injuries to Pilots

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—Yugoslav authorities held incommunicado yesterday the occupants of an American C-47 army transport plane which was forced down near Ljubljana by Yugoslav fighters last Friday.

A Yugoslav officer in charge at the scene of the crash landing refused to tell a United States state department representative where the occupants of the plane had been interned.

Harold A. Shantz, charge d'affaires in the United States embassy, said "We have been given no indication as to when they will be released."

False Reports
Early reports that the pilot and co-pilot of the plane were injured "apparently were false alarms," Shantz said. He declared that one passenger, whose nationality was unknown, was injured and added: "All the others aboard the plane are in perfect condition."

The passengers included six United States army personnel, one American civilian and three others—one a military man and the other two civilians. All that is known of the identity of the trio is that they were not of American, British or French nationality.

Shantz said the state department representative from Zagreb was told at the scene yesterday that he couldn't see the interned passengers or crew members.

Authorities in charge also refused to give the American representative the names of those aboard the plane but said they were "being given the best of treatment—good quarters and good food."

Complain of Violation
A Yugoslav government note to the embassy here complained of "ever increasing" violation of Yugoslav "state sovereignty" and added that "this case reveals the sad fact that certain crews not only willfully violate Yugoslav sovereignty, but just as willfully refuse to submit to lawful calls from Yugoslav planes."

The note said the American plane circled twice at 7,000 feet and then ignored radio and hand signals from the two Yugoslav planes to land, attempting to withdraw toward the frontier.

"Only after determined steps were taken by our fighters was the American plane forced to land," the note said.

Embargo Disrupts Foreign News Flow

NEW YORK (AP)—The flow of news messages to and from the United States was seriously disrupted yesterday by an American communication association (CIO) embargo against eight cable and wireless companies in sympathy with 300 strikers at Press Wireless, Inc.

Joseph Kehoe, national director of the 2,500-member union, said the embargo was "extremely effective."

Move to Stop Illegal Flow Of Immigrants to Palestine

Troops Clamp Rigid Military Restrictions On Holy Land; RAF Patrols Mediterranean

LONDON (AP)—Britain declared last night civil war threatened in the Holy Land and invoked a total blockade against illegal Jewish immigration.

Bitter reaction followed immediately, with one Jewish leader declaring the decision would result in "much more suffering—but it won't stop the stream of immigrants."

Palestine itself was an armed camp as the British government announced that illegal immigrants attempting to enter Palestine would be interned at Cyprus or elsewhere until the problem was settled.

All possible steps to halt the flow of immigrants at the source have been taken, the government said, including "urgent representations" to governments of countries from which thousands of refugees are dispatched by what the statement called a "highly organized" Zionist-financed movement. Palestine authorities were instructed that "the reception of illegal immigrants must cease."

As the British decision was made known, rigid military restrictions were clamped on Palestine. Tank-led Tommies streamed into key ports of disembarkation. Barbed wire ringed streets and government buildings.

Off heavily guarded Haifa harbor lay the British cruiser Ajax and British destroyers. Two empty troopships were anchored in the harbor—possibly for use in deporting thousands of uncertified refugees who have arrived in the past two weeks.

RAF patrols droned over the eastern Mediterranean in search of new refugee ships reported en route, and in Cyprus, the island crown colony, work was rushed on the completion of a huge detention camp.

The government announcement, foreshadowed by weeks of diplomatic and military preparations, said Britain could not tolerate "the attempt by a minority of Zionist extremists to exploit the sufferings of unfortunate people in order to create a situation prejudicial to a just settlement." This situation was unfair, the statement said, to the regular Jewish immigrants certified under the legal 1,500 monthly quota.

"Not Spontaneous"
The steady stream of immigrants in recent months is not, the government said, a spontaneous movement by European Jews who see their only hope in Palestine.

"Recent developments have revealed the illegal immigrant traffic as a widely ramified and highly organized movement supported by very large financial contributions from Zionist sources, which has been built up and put into operation by unscrupulous persons in an attempt to force the hand of his majesty's government and anticipate their decision on future policy in Palestine.

"The organizers maintain a closely knit network of agents in the countries of eastern and southern Europe, by whom considerable numbers of displaced Jews are moved from points of departure as far distant as Poland down to the Mediterranean seaboard.

"Overcrowded Ships"
"Thence, herded into overcrowded and unseaworthy ships with insufficient food and in conditions of the utmost privation and squalor, they are brought across the Mediterranean, inspired against the 5,000 Jews living there. (See PALESTINE, Page 5)

Five Questions
The committee, at the same time approved a list of five questions to send to Outer Mongolia to clarify some points which had been raised with regard to Mongolia's qualifications for membership.

Meanwhile, committee members said they had not received a memorandum which the World Jewish Congress submitted to the United Nations yesterday asking that Afghanistan's application be rejected on the ground that the present government was carrying on "a virtual reign of terror" against the 5,000 Jews living there.

No Formal Votes
In accordance with the procedure agreed upon by the committee, no formal votes on the nine applicants will be taken until all have been considered.

Yesterday's discussions, therefore, left the way open for further consideration of the Transjordan and Eire applications before the committee sends its recommendations to the security council.

The committee also still has to take a formal vote on Afghanistan, although all the delegates expressed outright approval except Australia which indicated a tentative approval but wanted to reserve her position for the present.

Byrnes' Error in Procedure Provokes Russian Cry of 'Insult'

By LOUIS NEVIN
PARIS (AP)—Soviet Delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky hurled a charge of "insult" last night at United States Secretary of State Byrnes during a heated argument over continuation of debate on Italy's declaration to the 21-nation peace conference.

The bitter argument was resolved soon afterward when Byrnes discovered an error in the agenda. The Russians had insisted on continuation of the debate after the Yugoslav delegate, replying to Premier Alcide de Gasperi's Saturday speech for Italy, assailed Italian claims to disputed Venezia Giulia and implored the delegates to make no concessions to "the policy of Italian imperialism."

Byrnes, who assumed the chairmanship of the conference today, had ruled earlier that under previously adopted procedure, general debate on the cases of former enemy countries should be deferred, but he yielded to Russian demands by assuring that a motion for general debate would be entertained. Only then, after an hour's debate, could the Yugoslav delegate take the floor.

When the delegate finished his speech, Vishinsky charged that Byrnes' ruling against a general debate was "an infraction of all the rules and an insult to the Soviet Union."

Byrnes consulted the minutes of last Saturday's plenary session when the action on general debates was taken, and agreed promptly that the secretariat had erred in its preparation of the agenda. He scheduled further debate on the Italian declaration for today, and shortly before the long session was recessed, promised that the name of Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov would be replaced on the agenda for an address in reply to the Italian case.

The Yugoslav delegate, Vice Premier Edward Kardelj, made a long and impassioned appeal to the conference to hold the Italian state as such, and not facism alone, responsible for Italy's part in the war.

Some Rapid Strides Made
The day's proceedings were marked by protracted arguments, but some rapid strides were made. The conference voted unanimously to invite Albania, Cuba, Mexico and Egypt to give their views on the Italian treaty, although they spent hours debating the rules which should govern these appearances.

The delegates also made an important step forward with the election of a permanent secretariat and a permanent conference general secretary.

against Italy's claims in Venezia Giulia, disputed area which includes the strategic adriatic port of Trieste.

"Already before the first world war Italy claimed Dalmatia with exactly the same arguments with which she is now backing her demands for the Julian Marsh," he said speaking in rapid Russian. Italy he said, grabbed Fiume in 1920 by an "act of violence," adding that "fascism came to power precisely for the purpose of giving full vent to the growth of all imperialistic ambitions."

"This is the line of development of the Italian policy of aggression," he said. "It is evident that it is a continuous line. It is not only Mussolini or former fascist Italy who bear the responsibility for the war, but the Italian state as such."

Sees Identical Tactics
Kardelj said that de Gasperi, who urged postponement of decisions on border problems for a year, was using tactics identical with those used in Italian diplomacy after the first world war, and that "the question arises" whether the coincidence "can be considered purely fortuitous."

"The campaign in the press and the statements of certain official persons in Allied countries point to the fact that this conference is exposed to the danger of making concessions not to the Italian people, but to Italian aggression," Kardelj said.

Before Kardelj spoke, chairman Byrnes ruled that a previous decision of the conference deferred debate on the cases of former enemies to the later date. Vishinsky retorted that "the Soviet delegation insists that no obstacles be allowed" in the replies to de Gasperi.

Kardelj struck out vigorously disagreement in the general secretariat. Finally, the amended invitation was adopted, 15 to 3.

In the midst of the tangled debate the British delegate proposed an amendment which would have added Austria to the invited nations. He withdrew it when Vishinsky threatened to take the floor in opposition.

Elect Secretary General
Moving on quickly, the delegates elected French Delegate Jacques DuParc secretary general of the conference, a position he held in a temporary capacity.

The delegates decided that the secretariat should consist of eight members, including one each from the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France.

Britain's slate for the other four members—Australia, Brazil, China and Yugoslavia—was adopted after an argument over Australia, characterized by Vishinsky as a temperamental member of our "meeting." Vishinsky attempted to substitute Ethiopia as "a calmer state." The slate was adopted without a vote, but Vishinsky insisted upon putting his opposition to Australia into the record, after both Norway and Ethiopia had declined nomination.

The secretariat's principal duty will be to fix times and places for meetings of commissions working on individual treaty drafts.

The delegate's action was an important step toward getting down to the major business of the conference. The selection of the permanent secretariat cleared the way for meetings of commissions which will write the treaty recommendations to be presented to the plenary sessions. The commission dealing with the Italian draft treaty was to organize last night.

Focal Points

By YOKE

A MOVIE WHICH CLOSED a run in Iowa City recently, has brought to mind two general questions about the flicks. "A Stolen Life," with Bette Davis and Glenn Ford, was an interesting show, revealing on the one hand, honesty—on the other, a total disregard for dramatic unity.

The treatment of a married woman having affairs with other men and the consequent domestic crisis in her own home was honest and well done. In a way it was rather fearless treatment, according to Hollywood standards.

YOKE

But the point is that the picture was dealing with a thing which is taboo, according to the Johnson office. Adultery must not be made to look pleasant, nor must the characters get out of it happily.

And that brings me to my question: When will the movies get the courage to deal with such things in an honest way? The legitimate theater has been posing moral problems and solving them in a grown-up fashion for many years. The moving picture medium could do the same thing.

Of course, one answer to the question is that a good many more children attend the movies than the theater, and that they shouldn't see such things portrayed. The other, and the one which I think is the better answer, is that American audiences are not "mature" enough to see such things without tearing up the seats with excitement.

The same people who laughed at the rather grisly drunk scenes in "Lost Weekend" are the ones who keep the movies in the habit of voicing half-truths and plantitudes. The theater long ago gave

No Time for Complacency

For the past few weeks, The Iowan in these editorial columns has been hammering away in words just about as forceful as we can make them and still print them—at a rejuvenated American phobia which threatens not only our domestic peace but that of the entire world: RACIAL BIGOTRY.

Through the grapevine, we heard of one of our readers who was heard to remark, "I'm getting sick and tired of The Iowan preaching for the niggers all the time." That remark should probably discourage us—but it doesn't. We don't discourage easily. But because it reveals a common lethargy and stupidity, that remark fires us with a new determination.

We're going to keep "preaching for the niggers" until the day our fingers refuse to find the typewriter keys or our voice is stifled by death. And if anyone wants to dispute our right to "preach," let him step forward; for, in our fight for full democracy, we intend to make full use of the tools of democracy—freedom of speech and the press.

We know that there are people in this country who are able to manufacture reasons—religious, economic, social—for treating the colored man as inferior. We know that there are people who have the banner of white supremacy to make up for their own inadequacies. We know, therefore, that there are people who call themselves citizens of a democracy who seemingly know very little of what democracy means.

There's no place in a democracy for persecuted minorities. The only minority necessary in a democracy is that of political opposition. We have not achieved full democracy until all citizens are recognized as first class citizens and are not rated by degrees.

Setting up minority groups as second class citizens plays into the hands of fascism—democracy suffers when such is the case.

If we love democracy so much then, why do we tolerate American fascism? Well, it's not us, you say, but those awful people in the south; they're responsible; they're the ones who are lynching and mobbing and lusting for power.

Admittedly, the south has been the scene this past year of unforgivable demonstrations of un-Christian, undemocratic bigotry. We remember well those southerners stationed in England during the war who, aghast at the manner in which the colored man was accepted as an equal in that country, vowed to "git those niggers when we got 'em home." We are afraid that the good people of England and of other lands who didn't know that the American negro was a man to be scorned and took him into their homes and their hearts are unwittingly responsible for a rejuvenation of this terrible phobia here in the USA.

Because the colored man overseas was "mistakenly" treated just like any other U. S. citizen and sometimes better, there are now hundreds of little American Hitlers who have taken it upon themselves to punish the colored man "lest he forget his place."

It's easy to put the finger of blame on the south where men such as Bilbo, Rankin and Talmadge are elected to important public offices, where lynching, rioting and eye gouging are becoming more and more common.

But get that smug look off your faces, Mr. and Mrs. Iowa City. Your record isn't clean either. Until the local barber shops express willingness to serve all men regardless of race creed or color, then we too are catering to that same type of fascism.

And the barbers alone can't be blamed. Such defiance of the state law as well as the unwritten law of common decency by any one group of citizens in a community marks that community as rotten—rotten all the way down to the core.

Do you think the barbers of Iowa City would continue in their refusal to cut Negro's hair if a substantial majority of the good people of this city would make it known that they are opposed to such an un-American boycott? Of course not.

Don't blame the barbers; blame yourself. Don't seoff at the south until your own record is clean. Let's first eliminate fascism here in Iowa City, then in the rest of the nation, then in the world.

Press Accused of War Mongering

(Don Porter in The College Eye, Iowa State Teachers college, Cedar Falls)

Political moves within the framework of the Soviet Union invariably evoke a torrent of editorial comment in the American press. All down the line, from the Daily Worker to the Chicago Tribune, editors pour over reports of Russian developments and evolve long editorials explaining just how the various shakeups will affect the United States. Approximately 90 percent of the newspaper readers can expect to read the most recent move in the Soviet state enhances the danger of war.

There are those of us writing that interpret many world developments a little more optimistically. The most recent development inside Russia involved a shakeup of the army command as well as within the political and economic commands. The net result of this action seems generally conceded to be a strengthening of the Communist party hold on the nation under Premier Stalin.

Marshall Zukov, popular military hero of the Soviet Union, was shifted to the command of a southern (Odessa) military district. Certain industrial managers were convicted of war profiteering and other treasonable acts and replaced by party members. In the government itself the lessened needs of peace have allowed the retirement of many government experts and advisors. Released were those that have proven themselves least energetic in the furtherance of socialist doctrine.

How American this sounds. Substitute the system of "Democratic-Individualism" that we operate under, for the "Socialist" doc-

Time to Put on the Brakes

(Christian Science Monitor)

Must Americans go through it again? Is it necessary? It is bad enough to have another postwar wave of crime and delinquency to deal with, but must there be another orgy of ghoulish crime reporting on top of it?

The causes of crime are hard to get at. The roots go deep and intertwine with those of all the other social ills. Everyone should know that the fight on this front is no mere battle, but one of humanity's greatest campaigns. But the exploitation, in print and otherwise, of crimes and criminals represents the conscious acts of usually intelligent and well-meaning men. They know what they do. They can stop.

Heralding and elaborating the revolting details of criminal behavior doesn't reform criminals. It doesn't deter the borderline delinquent from stepping over the brink—it is more likely to give him a push. For both of these types have one thing in common: they are the supreme egoists. Dramatizing them, no matter how derogatorily, doesn't convince them "crime doesn't pay." It gives them the very kind of pay their upside-down thinking craves.

Such exploitation doesn't serve the public. Not to report crimes at all would leave the public in a cool's paradise, unaware of one of its grimmest problems. But front page, graphic depictions of a youthful murderer suspect as a Joe-college Dr. Jekyll and a diabolical Mr. Hyde contribute nothing to public information. Nor does the parading of this same youth, manacled and in broad daylight, down the streets from one scene to another of his reputedly confessed killings, there to smilingly re-assert his role before gawking thousands. Both do something toward public degeneration.

The press and the police are chiefly to blame; the press when it enters a frenzied race to "give the public what it wants," well knowing its own responsibility for stimulating that want; the police when they play up to the press, hoping to catch something in the way of popularity for what is otherwise a pretty thankless job.

Editors and publishers know better. Police and prosecuting attorneys know better. It is time, now, to put on the brakes before America's sensitivities are further calloused, its sense of decency is further soiled, as both have been by such morbid verbiage as was spawned from the Leopold and Loeb case and the "Roman holiday" that was the Hauptmann trial.

THE ANSWER TO PEACE or war in China—or another breathing spell—may be only hours away.

This is why: Events in China have been following a classic Chinese pattern—that of the political triangle, which usually works itself out according to well-defined steps easily recognized by the Chinese, who go through them often in their everyday life.

has been the cause of the world's greatest difficulties. Indeed, writers have been very concerned since the emergence of the Red Army as a great national factor. It might have been expected that these writers would give at least a slight sigh of relief at current Russian developments which once more secure the state from army domination. Instead of the cry, inconsistent as it appears to be, is raised that the world faces the prospect of Soviet aggression more than ever. The only thing obvious from such journalistic acrobatics is that the rule must be: Any signs of life emanating from our forgotten ally, the U.S.S.R., (whether good or bad) is to be deployed—in 72 point type!

Papers Overplay Coffee, Underplay Case Lockout TO THE EDITOR:

The newspapers have handled two matters in a most interesting manner. These matters are first, the Mead committee investigation of the activities of Representatives May of Kentucky and Coffee of Washington in regard to their aid to certain manufacturers with war contracts, and second, the lockout at the J. I. Case company plant in Racine, Wis.

Having occupied the headlines for about a week due to his shady connections with certain war profiteers, Representative May was dropped from the leading spot in the papers when Representative Coffee's name was brought up. What is the difference between these two men? Coffee admitted receiving money as an election campaign contribution. May refused to testify before the Mead senate committee. But it goes farther than that. Coffee has been an outspoken liberal in Congress, sponsoring a bill against Franco Spain among others, and speaking for labor in congress.

And May has been just the opposite, being co-author of the May-Johnson Bill giving the military control of atomic energy (which bill was defeated, luckily). And as chairman of the important house military affairs committee, May directed the discarding of the more potent aspects of the army's orientation program, especially after I. & E. came out with the bulletin on "Fascism." Conclusion?? The man who speaks for the working people is slandered and played up in the headlines as the villain, and the man who spoke for the few is dropped from the limelight. Another recent indication of this trend was the attitude of the headlines toward the war profits of Henry Kaiser (called by his enemies as "New Deal baby"), and the lack of headlines regarding U. S. Steel's profits. Watch and see who gets the most dirt thrown at them!

The case against Case is different from the above by the lack of headlines and publicity. And it is important to Iowa City, because J. I. Case Co. manufactured much needed farm equipment and has many of its plants in this neighborhood (Burlington, Rock Island, and Racine). With the strike of the Farm Equipment Workers-CIO now eight months old, the Case Co. still refuses to engage in genuine collective bargaining. Secretary of Labor Schwelienbach has repeatedly recommended seizure of the Case Co. for refusing to meet with government officials. Where are all the headlines and vicious cartoons against the Case Co. for its refusal to cooperate with the government? It seems that management is the good boy of the press and labor is always the bad boy. Is "FREEDOM OF THE PRESS" the freedom to distort the truth to the publisher's viewpoint? LEWIS W. GLEKMAN

As China's president he probably will make an anniversary speech of some kind on Wednesday Aug. 14, China time. That's Tuesday here. It's the anniversary both of the end of the war and the historic Chinese treaties with Russia.

That is why in a matter of hours we may know Chiang's answer—if he has one—to the world-important question of whether China will go forward in peace, disintegrate in civil war, or stall a while longer.

Wisconsin Progressive Bucks Machine—Test for LaFollette

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Senator "Bob" LaFollette, who disbanded his Progressive party and now is trying for the Republican senatorial nomination, pits family political fame and savvy against a hostile state organization in Wisconsin's primary today.

Vermont Republicans also settle today their scrap over candidates for senator and governor. South Carolina Democrats pick the winner in an 11-man battle royal for the gubernatorial nomination, with liquor an issue.

But because of its tightness, and tinges of national significance, the main show is LaFollette's attempt to get the nod from Wisconsin Republicans to try for another six years in a senate where he already has served more than 20.

He has to beat Circuit Judge Joseph R. McCarthy, former marine captain who was the overwhelming choice of the GOP state convention, and Perry J. Stearns, Milwaukee lawyer. Former Representative Howard J. McMurray is unopposed for the Democratic nomination.

A victory for LaFollette might shake chairman Tom Coleman's grip on the state Republican organization and put the senator in a position to demand a voice in choosing Wisconsin's 24 delegates to the 1948 national convention.

There have been gestures of friendship between LaFollette and Senator Robert Taft of Ohio, who has indicated he would not shy away from any Republican presidential nomination. In contrast, there has been criticism of Harold E. Stassen, Minnesota's presidential possibility, in the LaFollette camp.

Democrats hoped the LaFollette contest might split Wisconsin Republicans so that McMurray could squeeze through to a victory in November.

Wisconsin's gubernatorial contest parallels the senatorial battle. The present governor, 83-year-old Walter S. Goodland, seeks renomination. Coleman and the state convention refused to endorse him. They backed Delbert J. Kenny, an investment banker. LaFollette handed his support to a third candidate, Ralph M. Immell, former state adjutant general and veteran of both wars.

Daniel W. Hoan, former Socialist mayor of Milwaukee, has no opposition for the Democratic nomination. In Vermont, the resignation of Senator Warren R. Austin to become American representative on the United Nations security council left the race for the Republican senatorial nomination between:

Ralph E. Flanders, CIO-backed industrialist and former head of the New England council and the Boston federal reserve bank, and Sterry R. Waterman, 44-year-old lawyer who has been active in young Republican affairs and a member until recently of the state unemployment compensation commission.

Mortimer R. Procter, bidding for another term as Vermont's governor, is opposed by former Senator Ernest W. Gibson. Bucking the renomination of the state's only representative, Republican Charles A. Plumley, is Andrew E. Nuquist, University of Vermont professor of political science.

The South Carolina gubernatorial campaign has been marked by Governor Ransome J. Williams' advocacy of state instead of private liquor stores in what he says is a "crusade" against wholesale liquor dealers making $20,000,000 a year.

One of 10 opponents in the free-for-all to block another term for Williams is Del O'Neal, who demands legalized bars and parliamentary betting. O'Neal used to be an automobile race driver, Hollywood stunt man, and night club operator.

It is estimated there is one printing plant for every 3,600 people in the United States. All of Mark Twain's manuscripts were edited by his wife.

Announce Plans for 4-H Club Annual Livestock Show Here

3-Day Event Includes Stock Judging, Skits, Climaxed By Banquet

Plans for the 18th annual Johnson county 4-H club livestock show to open in Iowa City tomorrow were announced yesterday by Emmett C. Gardner, county extension director.

The activities will run through Monday, when events will be climaxed by a 4-H club banquet at the Hotel Jefferson.

Opening girls' event will be the judging of 4-H girls' club booths, scheduled to start at 10:30 a. m. Wednesday at the Community building. During the afternoon, 4-H girls will present demonstrations in the Community building under the direction of Mrs. J. Orville Hora, superintendent of the girls' program.

Demonstrations listed include: "At Your Finger Tips—Save Time, Save Steps," by the Cedar Sisters; "Shoe Racks," by the Golden Rule club; and "Slick Tricks," by the Graham Crackers.

Boys' events on Wednesday will open at 1 p. m. in the National Guard armory with a dairy calf judging contest open to all members, to be followed by judging of dairy calves in Holstein, Jersey, Guernsey and bull classes. Cash prizes and ribbons will be awarded.

Wednesday evening program in the Community building will include skits presented by 4-H girls' clubs, scheduled to follow a community sing.

Skills to be presented are: "Parliamentary Puppets," by the Clover Blossoms club; "Sam's Proposals" by the Union Belles; "A Pioneer Girl Remembers," by the Scott Lassies; "Grandma Pulls a String," by the True Blue club, and "Cen-tennial Skit," by the Cedar Sisters.

Song numbers will be presented by the Union Belles and the Hardin Topnotchers. Members of 4-H boys' clubs will offer a soil conservation skit. County 4-H club officers will present the grand finale, "Bringing in the Flag."

Thursday's program will include skits by 4-H club girls to be presented throughout the day in the Community building. Boys' events will start at 10:30 a. m. in the National Guard armory with a lamb and pig judging contest. Cash prizes and ribbons will be awarded.

Beef Judging Contest
On Friday, purebred beef heifers, Hereford baby beef calves, and shorthorn and angus calves will be judged at the Iowa City sale barn. At 10:30 a. m. livestock members will compete in a beef judging contest. In beef classes, cash prizes and ribbons will be awarded, including special awards for champion and grand champion.

General prizes have been donated by the Chamber of Commerce. Prizes for purebred Chester Whites have been donated by R. E. Williams. Hegg Livestock company and Brogia and Welch livestock buyers have donated prizes for winners of the judging contests.

Winners in dairy calves, hogs and lambs and beef cattle judging contests will be awarded special recognition and credit for trip awards if any trips are awarded for district or state events.

Contests and judging will take place in the Iowa City sales barn and the national guard armory.

Report Shows Iowa Business Increase

Home Furnishings Stores Head List

Home furnishings stores gained 95 percent during June as compared with June, 1945, to lead all other Iowa business lines in percentage gains for that period, according to the monthly report of the university bureau of business research.

In May, home furnishings stores were second with a 111 percent gain. Motor vehicle dealers, first in May with a 161 percent gain, dropped to second in June with a 62 percent gain over the previous year.

Moving up to third place were furniture stores, which ranked eighth in the May survey.

Liquor stores, 48 percent, held fourth place; shoe stores, 43 percent, fifth, and jewelry stores, 39 percent, sixth.

Complete tabulation is as follows: home furnishings, 95 percent; motor vehicle dealers, 62; furniture, 53; liquor stores, 48; shoes, 43; jewelry, 39; hardware, 35; family clothing, 34; lumber-building materials dealers, 28; drugs, 22; men's clothing and furnishings, 21.

Foods, 21; grocery stores without fresh meats, 19; women's ready to wear, 18; dry goods and general merchandise, 17; general stores with foods, 17; grocery and combination stores, 10; combination stores, (groceries and meats), nine, and eating and drinking places, three.

Dorothy Carson, Sherman Files Wed

Miss Dorothy Alyce Carson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Carson, 1027 Third avenue, and Mr. Sherman Owen Files, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Files of Tiffin, were married Saturday afternoon in a double ring service performed in the First Christian church.

Mrs. Files, a graduate of City high school, attended the university for two years. Mr. Files is employed at Montgomery Ward and company in Iowa City.

After a brief wedding trip, the couple will be at home at 615 S. Clinton street.

Bride-Elect Showered

Miss Joan Funk, A2 of Iowa City, who will be married Aug. 30 to Mr. Lewis Wilson, A2 of Rock Island, Ill., will be honored tonight at a miscellaneous shower at the Alpha Delta Pi sorority house.

Miss Jean Anderson, A2 of Iowa City, and Miss Evelyn Whitebrook, A2 of Iowa City, will be hostesses.

SELF APPOINTED MASCOT

M. I. FORDESCRAMBLE, self appointed mascot for The Daily Iowan, perches on the copy editor's typewriter to make sure the master's wishes are fulfilled. ForDESCRAMBLE is a little young yet, but he's learning fast. Some day he'll have his own column.

Phi Alpha Delta, Legal Fraternity, Reactivated Here

Hammond chapter of Phi Alpha Delta legal fraternity was reactivated Saturday when seven university law students were initiated in ceremonies at Hotel Jefferson.

Other officers for the 1946-47 academic year include: Ben Ellsworth, L1 of Ottumwa, vice-justice; Daniel D. Sanderson, L3 of Hanlontown, clerk; William Beecher, L3 of Elma, treasurer, and Robert O'Byron, L3 of Marshalltown, Marshall.

Under the leadership of Attorney Russell Hatter of Marengo, chapter sponsor, alumni of the fraternity from all parts of the state assembled for the meeting, dinner, initiation and election of officers.

At the dinner in the hotel dining room, Hatter called upon several of the alumni and guests for informal speeches. With many of the alumni just returned from military service, the meeting provided an opportunity for them to plan tentatively peacetime activities of the fraternity.

Newly initiated members are Robert H. Roseberry, L1 of Le-Mars; Edward W. Henke, L3 of Charles City; Paul E. Dull, L3 of Cherokee; Robert J. Eggert, L1 of Charles City; Sanderson; Ellsworth, and Meardon.

Rural Schools Face Teacher Shortage

Three or four Johnson county rural schools may be closed when the fall term opens because of the current teacher shortage, according to county school officials.

This is not definite, as the ten existing vacancies may be filled by Sept. 2, when the fall term opens. There are 105 teaching positions in the county.

Iowa City School Superintendent Ira A. Opstad yesterday reported 95 of the 97 teaching positions in Iowa City have been filled.

The situation in Johnson county is much better than in most parts of the state. The Iowa State Education association reports over 1500 teaching vacancies in 80 Iowa counties.

Joins Grinnell Staff

Mrs. Alice Smith Eversole, Iowa City, has been appointed music librarian, and manager of the music office at Grinnell college, it was announced today.

This is one of 10 such appointments made by Pres. Samuel N. Stevens for the coming year.

Potluck Picnic

Members of the Federated Business and Professional Women's club will hold a potluck picnic Wednesday at 6 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Leota Stagg, 1117 S. Clements street.

All prospective members are invited as guests. Each member will bring a plate to the picnic.

Foundation Work On Housing Units Gets Under Way

Twenty men—five of whom are students—are now employed doing foundation work on the 143 of the 680 emergency housing units now being constructed on Finkbine golf course.

R. J. Sharp, Metcalf-Hamilton company contractor for the job, said yesterday that work on the golf course section of the project would be in full swing within 10 days.

Work is being delayed slightly because of a shortage of material, according to Roy Skriber of the local A. F. of L. union.

Foundation outlines for about 12 of the units had been surveyed late yesterday afternoon, and some of the metal foundations were being laid. Cement will have to be poured and spread as floors before actual construction of the barracks begins.

Sewer pipeline work for the units on the golf course is almost completed, with the pipelines extending to the course from the main sewer by the hospital.

The director of student employment said yesterday that 305 students have signed up to work on the project, but that some of the men have left town, while others have accepted other jobs. Sharp said that there would be jobs for all the students.

Work on the emergency barracks for men, being constructed by the Quadrangle, is progressing satisfactorily. Groundwork for the women's barracks, to be constructed in the Currier hall court and near the dormitory annexes, has started, but none of the barracks themselves have been erected.

Mr. & Mrs. D.H. Feay Spend Weekend Here

Mr. and Mrs. Dallas H. Feay of River Forest, Ill., and their daughters, Eileen and Barbara, spent the weekend with Mrs. Hilma E. Feay, 601 S. Gilbert street.

Mr. Feay was graduated from the university with a B.A. degree in 1930, and Mrs. Feay, the former Eula Cook, received a B.A. degree here in 1931.

After an absence of three years, Mrs. Hilma Feay has returned to Iowa City to maintain a home for her two youngest sons, Darrell and Donald, while they are

STATEN ISLAND SHIPYARD BURNS

FIREBOATS THROW WATER on Brighton Marine shipyard, Staten Island, in an effort to control a fire which spread to two ferry boats in drydock and threatened a number of smaller craft. The three-alarm blaze brought out 12 fire companies and two fireboats. Damage was estimated at $300,000. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Helen Rose, J. Ford Wed Here Sunday

Before an altar decorated with small bouquets of white gladioli, Miss Helen Amanda Rose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Rose, 227 Ferson avenue, became the bride of Mr. John L. Ford of Lone Tree in services performed Sunday afternoon at 4 p. m. in the little chapel of the First Congregational church.

Dr. M. Willard Lampe, head of the school of religion, read the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Ford is a graduate of the University of Iowa and has taught in public schools in Dinsdale and Lone Tree. Mr. Ford, a veteran of the European theater of operations, is a graduate of Lone Tree high school.

List Campus Repair Plans

Repair jobs on sidewalks all over the campus; painting the interior of Iowa Union, the women's gymnasium, Currier Hall, the Quadrangle and Hillcrest; mending the Iowa river wall, and enlarging the parking space east of East hall are all part of the summer schedule for university grounds and building workmen.

With a new sidewalk already installed in place of the well-worn path across the Union south campus, workmen are now putting in a new walk between Macbride and Schaeffer halls.

R. J. Phillips, superintendent of the maintenance and operation division of the university physical plant, said yesterday that the painting of the interior of the Union and women's gymnasium has been completed, and that similar work at Hillcrest and the Quadrangle is expected to be finished by the opening of the fall term. Painting at Currier hall is now being completed.

Workmen started last week to enlarge the parking space between East hall and the music building.

Protection rock for use in repairing the river wall has been laid, Phillips said. The wall rock to be used on top of the foundation, some of which is obtained from Stone City, is expected to arrive here in near future.

Appert, a Paris chef, originated canning. His method was to place sealed bottles containing the food in a water bath and then bring the water to the boiling point.

NON-COMMISSIONED GRADES NOW OFFERED TO FORMER ARMY OCCUPATIONAL SPECIALISTS

NOW, MORE THAN EVER BEFORE

THE ARMY HAS A GOOD JOB FOR YOU!

Good jobs in non-commissioned grades are being offered now by the Regular Army to qualified former servicemen!

Veterans discharged on or after May 12, 1945, who enlist or reenlist for three years may be enlisted in the non-commissioned grade for which qualified, provided this grade is not higher than that held at time of discharge, and provided that at least six months of former service was in one of 400 designated military occupational specialties in which enlistment is now desired.

Important, interesting jobs are open in hundreds of skills and trades in the Army, with splendid training and educational advantages! These are in addition to free food, housing, clothing, medical and dental care, low-cost insurance.

Never has this fine profession offered so much, in new higher pay and opportunity for advancement!

Twenty years from now, you'll still be a young man. Yet, if you choose to make the Army a career, you'll be eligible to retire then at half pay for the rest of your life! In thirty years, you can retire at three-quarters pay! In the case of a Master Sergeant, this is up to $185.63 a month for life!

There's adventure, travel, education, a secure and profitable future in this vital, realistic profession. Get full details at your nearest Army Recruiting Station.

Highlights of Regular Army Enlistments

- Enlistments for 1½, 2 or 3 years. (1-year enlistments permitted for men now in the Army with 6 or more months of service.)
- Enlistment age from 18 to 34 years inclusive (17 with parents' consent) except for men now in the Army, who may reenlist at any age, and former service men depending on length of service.
- A reenlistment bonus of $50 for each year of active service since such bonus was last paid, or since last entry into service, provided reenlistment is within 3 months after last honorable discharge.
- Muster-out pay (based upon length of service) to all men who are discharged to reenlist.
- Option to retire at half pay for the rest of your life after 20 years' service—increasing to three-quarters pay after 30 years' service. All previous active federal military service counts toward retirement.
- GI Bill of Rights benefits assured for men who enlist on or before October 5, 1946.
- Choice of branch of service and overseas theater (of those still open) on 3-year enlistments.

SKELLS—

supervise the placement of children... has always seemed shocking to me," Skeels said in his letter. "It is amazing that the board of control, the superintendent of the children's division and the superintendents of the institutions involved have no power to select these appointees."

"Unqualified" Superintendents
Referring, he said, in particular to children's institutions, Skeels asserted in his letter that frequently superintendents also had been appointed "with adequate consideration of qualifications for the job."

The psychologist said he long had hoped that staff members for the program would be named "with primary consideration being given to training and experience."

"With the present tendency of even greater departure from such objectives, the futility of this hope has become apparent," the letter went on. "It is imperative that the program be further removed from politics and greater emphasis be placed on experience and training."

"If the objective is rehabilitation and more adequate care of the wards of the various state institutions, appropriations must be radically increased to provide for expansion of staff with more adequate pay. Efficient matrons and attendants can scarcely be expected to work 14 hours a day at the paltry amount of $70 or $80 a month."

He said the salaries generally were so low that four of seven positions of resident institutional psychologists "have remained unfilled for over a year."

Air Corps Lt. Col.
Skeels returned to his state job last Dec. 1 after three and a half years service in the army air corps. He attained the rank of lieutenant colonel.

His resignation from the university was reported to have been merely a request to be relieved of his duties as of Sept. 30.

The board of control, which received the resignation letter Monday, said it had no plans as yet for Skeels' successor.

the "underground railway to Palestine."

The government said the traffic presented a grave danger of law and order in Palestine.

"Increased Tension"

"The reception and guarding of large numbers of illegal immigrants places a severe strain on the administration. Their arrival has greatly increased tension between the Arab and Jewish communities in Palestine. And since there is evidence that the terrorist element among the Jews has been reinforced from the ranks of illegal immigrants, their promiscuous introduction clearly cannot be tolerated any longer."

In Paris, where the Jewish agency executive is conferring, Agency Chairman David Ben Gurion commented that "it is not yet sure that Mr. Bevin (British foreign secretary) should have the last word in history," and Berl Locker, British member of the executive, predicted the decision would result in "much more suffering."

Adverse Effect
Stating that continuation of such traffic was likely to have an adverse effect on hopes for a settlement in Palestine, the British announcement said:

"It is clear that a permanent solution of this complicated question can only be brought about if Jews and Arabs are prepared to enter discussions in a realistic constructive spirit in order to evolve a practical scheme for harmonizing the claims of these two historic peoples."

City Council Decides to Take Bids for 155 Parking Meters

 METERS UNDER INSPECTION ***

Installation Planned Although Proposal Not Definitely Okayed

The city council decided last night to receive bids for the installation of about 155 parking meters on Iowa City streets. The bids will be considered at the next meeting of the council August 26.

It has not been definitely decided that Iowa City will have parking meters since the proposal is still under consideration. According to the plan, however, the meters would be placed on both sides of the streets around the block bounded by College street and Washington street, between Clinton avenue and Dubuque streets.

Mayor Wilber J. Teeters disclosed that the decision to open bids for the parking meters was made after a correspondence survey of 136 cities which have parking meters and recommendations from various engineering colleges. These reports were confidential.

Provisions for the new franchise of the Iowa Water Service company were read to members of the council last night. The new charter, which is the same as the existing contract, except for minor changes, will be expected to be approved at a later meeting of the council.

A stipulation for the water company to maintain 100 pounds of water pressure in case of fire was changed to read "pressure will be set at a point instructed by the fire chief not to exceed 100 pounds."

Under the existing contract, which was approved in 1923 and expires next year the city had an option to buy the water company in 1938. This stipulation was left out of the new ordinance.

The new ordinance will be read again at the council's next meeting, published in public notices, and finally decided on at an election scheduled to be held Sept. 24.

A suggestion to the council by R. J. McGinnis of the university of electric service department that the city engineer's department or local electric firm take over the care of the lights and wiring on the Iowa avenue and Burlington street bridges was referred to the light committee.

Prior to this time, the electric service and maintenance on the bridges has been supplied by the university physical plant.

The council granted a request by persons living in Block "F" of Black's Park addition that the city give up rights to an alley in that block.

According to an investigation made by the council, the alley has never been used as an alley and has had buildings built on it. The alley property was divided among people living adjacent to the alley. The county auditor was authorized to collect as regular taxes the $1,463.60 in delinquent sewer rental payments.

A bond issue totalling $3,450.97 was authorized for the paving of McLean street from Ellis avenue to Ridgeland avenue, and Ridgeland avenue from McLean street to a point 100 feet south of McLean alley.

Work on the new paving will begin Oct. 1. Bids for the construction will be received immediately and opened Sept. 9 for consideration.

The council extended until Nov. 1 the deadline for completing the work on paving Park road and Roosevelt street, which is being done by the William C. Horrab construction company.

The company cited the difficulty in getting steel and cement as the reason for asking for the extension of time.

Atty. Louis Shulman, representing property owners on both sides of Burlington street, told the council that the proposed Burlington street parking restrictions were considered "unfair" and that if the ordinance was passed, "the value of the property as commercial property would be lessened."

Shulman recommended that the council consider the increased tax evaluation of commercial property on Burlington street, some means of controlling truck traffic at the stop lights, and suggested that some sort of compromise agreement be made.

He said he believed that parking could be permitted on the north side of Burlington street in one block and on the south side in the other block without inconvenience to property owners.

Mayor Teeters appointed I. J. Barton, Dean Jones and himself as delegates to the League of Municipalities conference to be held in Cedar Rapids soon.

The council also approved the request of the Navy Club of the United States of America to bring an exhibit of Japanese war materials into Iowa City sometime in the next 90 days.

IOWA CITY MAY BUY about 155 of one of these types of parking meters. The city council last night authorized a call for bids on meters, their installation and spare parts. The bids must be submitted to the city clerk by Aug. 26, when the council will act on them. The city may install meters to help solve the parking problem in Iowa City. The meters shown here were tested for durability by the engineering department of the University of Iowa.

Around The State

DES MOINES (AP)—Adjutant General Charles H. Grahl announced yesterday the appointment of Col. Carlton K. Smith, 44, Cedar Rapids contractor, as commander of the 133rd infantry regiment of the new Iowa national guard.

The commander of the 168th infantry, the other regiment in the Iowa guard, is still to be selected. Gen. Grahl also announced these appointments to the 34th division staff.

Lt. Col. Leo Hoegh, Chariton, G-3, operations and training.
Lt. Col. Herbert Hauge, Des Moines, division judge advocate general.

Lt. Col. Deloss Marken, Des Moines, division chaplain.
Lt. Col. Ludwig Gittler, Fairfield, division surgeon.

Maj. Roy L. Stephenson, Des Moines, assistant G-3.
Maj. Clyde E. Herring, Des Moines, assistant G-2, intelligence.

CARROLL (AP)—Fire last night destroyed a loading dock of the North Western railroad freight house and partially burned eight railroad box cars on nearby sidings.

Considerable merchandise on the loading platform and in the box cars was damaged by the blaze which was brought under control in 40 minutes by the Carroll volunteer fire department.

C.S. Foliott, district auditor for North Western line, said damage would amount to "several thousand dollars."

One car of explosives in the siding was sprayed with water and moved to safety. Volunteers helped move out merchandise and get some of the box cars out of range of the fire.

STORM LAKE (AP)—The Rev. W.J. Witter, 72, Methodist pastor for 40 years, died Sunday of a heart ailment while serving communion at his Seney, Ia., charge near LeMars.
Dr. Frank G. Bean, Sioux City, district superintendent, will give the funeral sermon at services to be held in the Methodist church here Thursday, Dr. J.F. Hutchinson, Storm Lake will be in charge of the services.

MACEDONIA (AP)—Orvil Olmsted, about 35, drowned Sunday night while he was showing a group of boys the dangerous spots in a lake on his farm two miles west of here.

DES MOINES (AP)—A $5,500,000 city budget for next year was adopted by the city council yesterday after a public hearing without any change in tax levy proposals, and the Des Moines taxpayers association immediately gave notice that it would appeal to the state appeal board.
The new budget would require a tax increase of about 1.75 mills, raising to $23.37 the maximum city rate on $1,000 of assessed valuation of property.

DES MOINES (AP)—The Iowa office of the civilian production administration yesterday announced approval of a $75,000 remodeling project at Camp Dodge to provide classroom and dormitory space for freshman engineering students during the coming fall semester.

Hal Parsons, CPA construction manager for Iowa, said his office approved the project at the request of Iowa State College, which is going to operate the school to take care of an overflow of former servicemen currently applying for admission to the institution.

The CPA announced approval of an additional $502,144 worth of construction in the state, along with rejection of 17 other projects which would have had a dollar value of $178,723.

Largest project approved was a $300,000 paper box factory at Keokuk, requested by the Iowa Fiber Box company. The Cowles Broadcasting company, Des Moines, was granted a $7,500 permit for remodeling of the Old Shrine auditorium, now the KRNT radio theater.

Supervisors Approve '47 County Budget

The Johnson county budget for the fiscal year of 1947, presenting a decrease of $1.90 for every $1,000 of assessed property value, was approved as estimated by the board of supervisors yesterday.

No one appeared at the 10 a. m. hearing for tax payers objections yesterday.

The $6,550 originally planned for soldier relief will not be levied until next year.

A representative from the Rock Island railroad appeared to examine the levies, but made no objections.

Police Alerted For Escapee

Iowa City police were notified yesterday to be on the lookout for Harry Achey, 54, trustee who escaped from the state prison farm at Ft. Madison Friday night.

It was believed that Achey might try to visit relatives here.

Achey, confessed killer of his father-in-law and mother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hoover of Lisbon on July 3, 1939, was sentenced to life imprisonment on August 28, 1939 in Cedar Rapids.

He stated that he shot the couple while they were seated in the living room of their home. Achey later tried unsuccessfully to kill himself with the same shotgun used in the murders.

Also escaped from the prison at the same time was George Speck, 44, Indianapolis, Indiana, who shot and killed J. V. Schnurtz at Burlington.

Deputy Sheriff Larry Condon of Cedar Rapids, who handled the murder case in 1939, is also in charge of the search for the escaped prisoners in this area.

Police Report 3 Accidents

Three non-injury accidents were reported to Iowa City police over the weekend.

An Iowa City Coach company bus driven by Charles Spevacek, 225 N. Linn street, and a 1931 Dodge sedan driven by Walter Lietz, Maquoketa, collided at the corner of Clinton and Market streets at 1:25 p. m. Sunday.

Damage to the bus was reported at $25. Lietz, who was charged in police court with failure to report his car under control, reported minor damage to the front end of his car.

At 3 p. m. Saturday, a 1946 Dodge pickup truck driven by Gerald Armbruster, Riverside, was damaged when Armbruster lost control of the truck and it rolled over on Highway 218, 10 miles south of Iowa City. Armbruster, who received only a scratch on his finger, reported damage to the car at $450.

Saturday at 10:55 p. m. on the corner of Riverside drive and River street, cars driven by Cleo L. Lynch, Riverside, and Jack Lubin, 321 Magowan avenue, collided, causing $150 damage to the Lubin car. Lynch, who was fined $2 for driving through a stop sign, reported $50 damage to his car.

Eleven Fines Imposed In Local Police Court

Leonard A. Wohler, Akron, Ohio, was fined $20 in police court yesterday for speeding.

Melvin Detwiler, route 6, was fined $1 for driving a car without brakes.

Herman Villhauer, Nick Edle and Joe Halsch were all fined $2 for double parking.

Overtime parking fines of $1 were paid by C. W. Rodgers, Vince Clear, Mrs. Lee Bader, N. B. Whiting, James Lenoch and F. M. Hull.
