Stormy Session in Brazilian Congress Follows Cost-of-Living Riots

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—The Brazilian congress raged through the stormiest session in history last night to inquire into the cause of the current cost of living riots which already have taken a toll of one death and more than 100 casualties, and was informed that a Communist deputy, arrested in connection with the disorders, had been released.

As heated debate and fistuffs kept congress in an uproar, Brazilian army troops took strategic stations in streets and public squares throughout the city to prevent the municipal turbulence from reaching the violent pitch of Friday night and early yesterday when mobs roamed the streets smashing store fronts, battling police shock troops and causing damage estimated at thousands of dollars.

Majority Leader Nereu Ramos told congress that Communist Deputy Trifino Correia, arrested

Friday night during the height of the disorders, had been released. His arrest was announced earlier by Congress President Melo Viana.

Challenges Accusers
Sen. Getulio Vargas, former president of Brazil, fiercely answering charges that his regime—which ended last October—was responsible for Brazil's crisis, challenged his accusers to meet him outside the building and then stalked out.

While one deputy was accusing the Vargas regime of responsibility for the disorders, the Rev. Ardua Camara, a Catholic priest and congressman, punched Deputy Mario Lins in the nose.

Protest Arrest
Leaders of almost all political parties, however, joined in protesting to President Eurico Gaspar Dutra against Correia's arrest and the disregard of congressional immunity by police in entering and ransacking the homes of other Communist congressmen. It was reported that Dutra's wife suffered a heart attack during the riots.

Some sources said that living costs had increased 300 percent in Brazil since 1944 and that irate white collar workers had joined high school students and overall wearers in the original demonstrations that led to the riots.

Communists Blamed For Civil Unrest

By PAULO BONAVIDES
RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—The Communist party in Brazil is preparing for a revolution, says Joe Pereira Lira, chief of the Brazilian federal police.

He made his statement to the Brazilian press, after a conference in the presidential palace, attended by prominent figures in the Brazilian congress. These included Octavio Mangabeira, oppositionist leader; Arthur De Silva Bernardes, former president of Brazil and also an opposition leader; Nereu Ramos, majority leader in the assembly, and Basta Neves, leader of the "Partido Trabalhista," the labor group born under former President Getulio Vargas' auspices.

"Sensational Revelations"
Pereira Lira told Brazilian newsmen that he had made "sensational revelations" to the parliamentary leaders. "The evidence we have available," he said, "proves, in my opinion and without further question, the double character and life of the Communist party; ostensibly legal on one hand and on the other hand devoted to the systematic preparation for civil war."

"Schools of sabotage as well as courses for the preparation of a civil war were opened here by the Communists," he said.

Luis Carlos Prestes, Communist general, who led the abortive Communist revolution of 1935, told the Associated Press that Pereira Lira's charges were "absurd" and described the police official as an "anti-Communist provocator."

Pereira Lira charged the Communists with "indoctrinating foreign minorities in this country with their ideology," and said that the "Pan Slav union in Brazil is a society devoted to illegal activities." The police chief said that he could not show the documentary proofs which the police had on hand because "that would prove harmful to the future action of the authorities on the subject."

Party Growing
There is no question that the Communist party is growing, despite the government's vigorous police campaign against it.

The communists polled about one of Brazil's most influential men, said "the danger of war and insurrections is a potential reality. The law should foresee and allow public power to employ extraordinary recourses."

The war minister made his statement to the press in advocating extraordinary powers for the government. He was referring to a proposal that the forthcoming new constitution give the president power to invoke a state of siege.

"The Communists are in a phase of expansion and avail themselves of all opportunities in the pursuit of their objectives, no matter what the means," said Gos Monteiro.

Party Growing
There is no question that the Communist party is growing, despite the government's vigorous police campaign against it.

The communists polled about

600,000 votes in the December elections and claim to have grown by 40 percent since then. Under the shrewd direction of Secretary General Prestes, the Communists have identified themselves with a program of "order, tranquility and democracy."

Strikes and hunger riots have caused the government concern. Public opinion blames inflation, black marketeering and lack of price control.

Liberal Catholic Senator Hamilton Nogueira, however, said recently that the "demagogic acts" of Police Chief Pereira Lira had caused a "lack of confidence" in his measures against the Communists. He said the government should take emergency economic measures "now totally lacking" instead of political methods to combat the grave problem of a rapidly rising cost of living.

The Communist party also has received unexpected defense from Oswaldo Aranha, former foreign minister and ambassador to the United States, a recognized leader in inter-American affairs and now one of Brazil's most prominent private citizens.

"It is possible that the Communist party is making mistakes," he said, "but today we live in search of a new way to maintain mutual respect and understanding with all the peoples of the world. In my opinion, communism is necessary and useful to our country as well as to other countries, with political and social examples for us in some of their methods and ideas."

The Communists have one senator, Prestes, and 14 deputies in congress where their policy has been to advocate "a democratic constitution and a government of national confidence."

Greek Clashes Kill 31 on Eve Of Plebiscite

ATHENS (AP)—New Communist-Royalist clashes killed 31 persons in the last 48 hours, the Greek government announced last night on the eve of the plebiscite on returning exiled King George II to his throne.

The ministry of public order charged that Communist bands in the latest two attacks killed 10 soldiers and civilians. Hundreds of persons have died in recent months in Communist-Royalist disorders.

Ready to Welcome King
The Royalist-dominated government, confident that Soviet blasts loosed against it had only assured the King's victory today, began preparations to welcome the monarch, whose arrival has been set tentatively for Sept. 14. Royalist circles said the king would fly to Alexandria from London, and come home aboard a Greek warship escorted by British and American warships.

The government declared that in the latest violence a Communist band attacked a gendarmic station at Platycambo in Thessaly, using machineguns and mortars. The station was set ablaze and three soldiers, one gendarme and two civilians were killed, the reports said.

Later troops were dispatched to the spot and fighting continued until nightfall with a major and two soldiers wounded. Five soldiers were wounded also when their truck was blown up by a Communist mine, the reports added.

Kill 4 Civilians
Near Kalamata (Kalamata), seaport in southern Greece, another Communist band was reported to have killed four civilians.

(The Communist newspaper Pravda in Moscow declared the plebiscite would take place "under the dictation of the British minister of foreign affairs.") It asserted the Greek government has "completely lost its independence" and Greece was turning quickly "into a British colony."

Rear Adm. John H. Cassidy said in Naples that at the "request of the Greek government" the United States Carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt would send 123 planes over Athens in an air display when it reaches Greek waters four days after the plebiscite. He added that there was "no contention" between the plebiscite and the visit to Greece.

No War Potential Left in Germany Reich Economy Needs At Least Four Years To Develop, Says Clay

By WES GALLAGHER
BERLIN (AP)—Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, deputy military governor of the American zone in Germany, estimated yesterday that it "will take at least" until 1950 to develop German economy to even the comparatively low subsistence level agreed upon by the occupation powers.

In an interview, the tall, angular military government chief who has carried out the American occupation since its start gave his views on the first year of occupation and the possibilities of the future.

High points of his interview included:

1. Germany no longer has any physical war potential of its own and could only be a threat if a big power with the industrial wherewithal used it as a mercenary.
2. Left completely alone to go its own way without reparations, with occupying forces, Germany still could not develop a physical war potential in less than ten years.
3. The United States army military government, with two-thirds of its personnel already civilian, could turn over its task to a civilian agency on a moment's notice.
4. During the past year there has been on noticeable change in the German mass mind in the way of democracy, but "we have found many examples emerging of German leaders truly repentant and determined to find the democratic way."
5. Liquidation of the job of guarding surplus army property and the displaced person problem coupled with the establishment of a central government would allow the American army to withdraw the bulk of its forces now in Germany, leaving "truly only a handful" to supervise German government.

House Group Urges Strong Pacific Force

TOKYO, Sunday (AP)—Six house military committeemen today advocated a strong and mobile striking force in the Pacific to meet the threat of Russian encroachment and "the imminent danger of another Pearl Harbor" in Korea or Alaska.

The members, touring Pacific occupation zones, told newsmen they had been startled by an off-the-record report on Far Eastern military and diplomatic situations given them by the top men of General MacArthur's command.

"It is not our intention to alarm the American people," said Acting Chairman Sheridan (D-Pa.), "but I speak the unanimous opinion of my committee when I say that we have a duty to let the people know what is going on."

He proposed that a striking force built around long-range, highspeed bombers be based in strategic zones of the Pacific and Alaska.

"Russia is maintaining about five times the number of occupation troops, mostly in Korea, that we have," said Rep. Sikes (D-Fla.) "This is neither necessary nor reasonable."

Rep. Short (R-Mo.) declared he feared there was "imminent danger" of another Pearl Harbor in Korea, Trieste or Alaska and added:

"We cannot afford to take any chances, while we traditionally are not aggressors, we cannot risk being caught unprepared again."

Rep. Thomas Martin (R-Iowa) said the United States position in the Pacific must be strengthened immediately "if we are to protect our interests adequately."

General MacArthur Says Ideological Strife Threatens Japanese

TOKYO, Sunday (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur declared today the "dread uncertainty" of ideological conflict between democracy and communism hangs over Japan, a country which can be "either a powerful bulwark for peace or a dangerous springboard for war."

The supreme commander of the Allied powers, in a summary of the first year of the occupation of Japan, asked "which concept will prevail over these islands, which now are being redesigned in the aftermath of war?"

The answer to that question, he said, "profoundly affects the destiny of all men and the future course of all civilization."

In a strongly worded statement which reflected his well-known but seldom expressed concern over the strife between the two ideologies, MacArthur declared that a clash between democracy and communism in this country would be "no slight disadvantage to those who seek, as intended at Potsdam, the great middle course of democracy."

He warned:

"The Japanese, long regimented under a philosophy of the extreme conservative right, might prove easy prey to those seeking to impose a doctrine leading again to regimentation under the philosophy of the extreme radical left."

GOERING PLEADS INNOCENT

HERMANN GOERING (standing), former German Reichmarshal, pleads his innocence during a ten-minute plea before the international military tribunal at Nuernberg yesterday. Co-defendants in prisoner's dock (seated, top to bottom) Rudolf Hess, Joachim von Ribbentrop and Wilhelm Keitel.

Senators Say Inner Conflicts Extended War

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate war investigating committee yesterday blamed "interference" by military procurement officers and "conflicts" between government officials for administrative weaknesses which it said prolonged the war.

In its fifth annual report reviewing five and a half years of activity, the special committee asserted:

"More businesslike administrative methods in the armed forces during the emergency would have brought the war to a victorious conclusion at an earlier date, with less cost in life, dollars and natural resources."

Chairman Mead (D., N.Y.) said, "until peace negotiations are concluded and international peace machinery is perfected, it is essential that this country maintain a strong national defense."

To achieve that purpose, the committee offered eight recommendations:

1. Organize a highly trained armed force, equipped with the most modern weapons, capable of rapid expansion in emergencies, and stressing quality rather than quantity.
2. Establish an army-navy promotion system to insure that the best qualified men get the most responsible positions.
3. Develop a workable "M-day" mobilization plan for war industries.
4. Draw up a guide for the operations of governmental controls in war production.
5. Stockpile strategic materials.
6. Institute an immediate program for the acquisition or use of strategic overseas bases.
7. Establish a superior intelligence agency in both military and non-military fields.
8. Improve administrative procedures in the armed forces, eliminating weaknesses in procurement and supply.

Russ Military Might Due to Pass Ours Soviet Fighting-Age Manpower to Reach 32-Million by 1970

WASHINGTON (AP)—A government survey, prepared at the request of Rep. Dirksen (R-Ill.), predicted yesterday that Russia's fighting-age manpower will reach 32,000,000 by 1970 and nearly equal that of the United States, Britain, France, Germany and Italy combined.

At present, the analysis said, Soviet military power is less than that of the United States. But it is apparent, the report said, "that the U.S.S.R. intends to develop war power equal to the present might of the United States."

It cited a speech made last February by Premier Stalin as evidence that "he expects future world conflicts."

Military matters are only one phase of the study covering "communism in action." It was made by the legislative reference service, an agency in the library of congress which does research for members of congress.

Dirksen said in a foreword that he had asked the service to make a careful, unbiased, documented study of how communism works, keep it short, and put in plain language so the American people could understand it. Such information, he said, "would halt the march of Communism as nothing else could do."

The resulting 140-page document makes no recommendations. It does make numerous comparisons of conditions in Russia and the United States.

By 1970, it said, prewar Russia alone—excluding the annexed Baltic states—will have 250,000,000 people. It said probably 32,000,000 will be between 20 and 34 years old and 22,000,000 in the "ideal" military age bracket of 20 to 29.

The population of the United States may reach 160,000,000 by that time, it said, with 18,000,000 men 20 to 34 and about 15,000,000 between 20 and 29.

Avoids Acting To Control Dairy Prices

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Anderson took price ceilings off a long list of fresh, canned and frozen fruits and vegetables yesterday, at least for the month of September.

Beyond that, Anderson recommended in effect that the decontrol board not put ceilings back on poultry and eggs or tobacco and its products.

Avoids Dairy Issue
He kept hands off the issue of whether dairy products, left out from under ceilings by the decontrol board, should be put back under curbs, reporting merely that there are not enough of them to go around.

He took brandy out from under ceilings.

And he sent OPA thumbing through lists of thousands of processed items and byproducts to see which of them also come out from under ceilings. That was by reason of a ruling that such an item, in order to be held under ceilings, must contain at least 20 percent of a product which itself is subject to control.

All this the agriculture secretary accomplished without directly affirmative action. All he did was put out the department's monthly list of "agricultural commodities in short supply" as required by the new price control law.

The law itself did the rest by its requirement that ceilings automatically come off any farm item which does not appear on that list.

The "short supply" list itself included, among many other commodities, hogs and cattle, milk and butterfat, most fats and oils, jams and jellies, and fish. That listing made them eligible for controls.

These items appeared on the ceiling-free list:

- Fresh lemons, grapefruit, peaches, apples and tangerines.
- Fresh snap beans, cantaloupes, carrots, lettuce, onions, spinach, sweet potatoes and tomatoes.
- Canned peas, lima beans, asparagus and mixed vegetables.
- Frozen lima beans, corn, green peas and asparagus.
- Canned apricots, plums, and prunes.
- Frozen fruits.
- Dried apples, and other apple products, except canned apples, apple butter and apple sauce.

OPA officials said tobacco, poultry and eggs still might go back under ceilings at the discretion of the decontrol board, but Anderson's lists would make it hard to meet all the conditions congress set up.

In taking controls off those commodities, along with petroleum and its products, the lawmakers specified that the decontrol board could put them back on if it found that they were in short supply, with prices up unreasonably, and reconrol desirable and feasible.

Anderson listed tobacco specifically as in sufficient supply. He had nothing to say one way or the other on poultry and eggs.

Greeks Claim Ukrainian Tried to Sway Vote

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y. (AP)—The Greek government yesterday charged Dmitri Manuilsky, Ukrainian foreign minister, with attempting to influence today's plebiscite in Greece in violation of the United Nations charter.

Ambassador Vassili Dendramis, Greek representative to the United Nations, said in a sharply worded oral statement that Manuilsky's aim in bringing a complaint against Greece and Great Britain before the United Nations "was to influence the plebiscite."

He then quoted the charter as saying that the United Nations "are not entitled to interfere in the internal affairs of a member."

Molotov Quits Parley For Kremlin Meeting

PARIS (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov left the peace conference yesterday by plane for Moscow, French foreign ministry circles said last night.

It was believed the Russian leader would spend a few days at a Kremlin meeting before returning to the conference, which yesterday approved Big Four recommendations on Soviet reparations from Romania and cession of Franco-Italian border areas to France.

British and American sources said Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky would represent Russia at the council of foreign ministers tomorrow if Molotov is not in Paris.

In the most harmonious sessions of the 21-nation conference, the economic commission for the Balkans endorsed Russia's claim for $300,000,000 in reparations from Romania and the Italian political commission approved award of the Mont Cenis and Brigatenda regions to France.

The military affairs committee adopted six articles of the Italian treaty dealing with Italian disarmament.

Hilmer's Henchmen to Learn War Crimes Fate Sept. 23

NUERNBERG (AP)—Twenty-one henchmen of Adolf Hitler will learn their fate Sept. 23, the international military tribunal announced yesterday after hearing them rant defiantly or plead for mercy in their last gestures to escape the gallows.

Defense attorneys said 12 of the defendants expected to be hanged, three thought they would escape, and six still "have hopes."

Some in their final statements turned savagely on Hitler, branding him the only real criminal; others reaffirmed belief in the Fuehrer. One wept. Some with bravado declared they were not afraid to die. Others professed ignorance of Nazi excesses, or pleaded "duty" to the state.

Some asked that even if they were not spared, the German people be acquitted so that Germany might again rise as a nation.

The 21 tried and mostly frightened men used 30,000 words in final excuses for executing orders that brought misery or death to 25,000,000 persons. Their statements concluded a trial which began Nov. 20, 1945, before British, French and American judges constituting the first international military tribunal in history.

Hollow-eyed Walther Funk, former Reichsbank head and economics minister, wept as he pleaded he did not know of Nazi crimes.

But Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering shouted his innocence, asserting he was "standing back of everything I have done."

These two were among the 12 who told their attorneys they expected death. Schacht, Von Neurath and Von Papen expect clemency, the attorneys said, while Doenitz, Raeder, Jodl, Von Schirach, Fritzsche and Streicher still hold out hope.

Gaunt, ashen-faced Rudolf Hess, one time deputy to Hitler, stormed and ranted and protested that some defendants acted "very strangely and made shameful utterances about the Fuehrer." But for the most part Hess' tirade was rambling, bewildered and at times unintelligible.

Vacation Ends for Iowa's Schoolchildren

DES MOINES (AP)—School bells will ring Monday and Tuesday in nearly all of Iowa's 10,000 schools. Vacation days are over for half a million young Iowans.

The next vacation will be the three-day Armistice Day weekend next weeks from now.

About 460,000 youngsters will attend the 2,500 public schools, including upwards of 115,000 in the 900 high schools. Enrolled in private schools will be more than 40,000.

This will be another teacher shortage year. Possibly several hundred of the 6,800 rural schools in Iowa won't be able to open at all because a teacher can not be found. Rural salaries in some areas have reached the level of $150 to $175 a month. A dozen years ago some were drawing as little as $65 a month.

Truman Praises Labor for Job Done During First Twelve Months of Peace

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman, taking the lead in praising labor's role in the first 12 months of peace, said last night in a Labor Day statement that "the largest part" of reconversion has been accomplished.

"We can look into the future today with confidence, but not with tranquility," the president said in a message issued from the White House.

"Much of the credit for the job done," the president said, "goes to the workers of this great union of states and free people."

"We still have a big job to do, and a long way to go, to assure domestic prosperity and international understanding necessary to prevent depressions and war. But we can do it if we keep in our minds constantly that people are our most important asset. We must utilize them and conserve them."

A caustic appraisal of the general situation in labor and industry was contributed by John L. Lewis' United Mine workers journal, which blamed labor's "lack of unity" for some of the "production turmoil" it said now exists.

The National Catholic Welfare Conference's social action department called on unions to correct any "racketeering, communism and other undemocratic practices." It said these are "not typical of the American labor movement" and ought not to be exaggerated in the public mind.

The CIO political action committee's new director, Jack Kroll, injected a political note into the Labor Day picture by pledging his organization to work for the return to congress of "a militant group of fighting progressives" and the retirement of members "who have spearheaded the reactionary onslaught in brazen violation of the mandate which the people gave them in 1944."

NO PAPER TUESDAY

In order that Daily Iowan employees may enjoy the Labor Day holiday, there will be no paper Tuesday morning.

Foreign Policy Again A Political Issue

For the first time since 1940, foreign policy has become an issue in the national elections.

Democratic Senator Carl Hatch of New Mexico has announced his intention of making several speeches during this campaign based on his belief that the election of a Republican majority in the house of representatives this fall would be regarded in foreign capitals as a repudiation of the administration's program.

Hatch says he believes that international leaders would view an upset of Democratic congressional control as proof that the administration has lost popular backing.

"Any such result in November is certain to be looked upon by Marshal Stalin and others as an indication that the people are not back of President Truman and Secretary of State Byrnes in the policies they are carrying out," the New Mexico senator declares. "It would greatly weaken Byrnes' hand in peace negotiations."

For proof that there is merit in the senator's words, one need only to harken back to the turbulent years following the first world war, when the Republicans gained control of the house and succeeded only in hampering the efforts of Woodrow Wilson in obtaining what he considered to be a satisfactory peace treaty at Versailles. Of course, the shoe fits on the other foot as well. In 1931, the Democrats gained numerical control of the house and the net result was that any actions attempted by President Hoover were frustrated in a congress dominated by the opposing political party.

As a remedy to this, Senator Hatch has suggested a constitutional amendment calling for the election of house members every four years in the same year as the presidential election.

Despite the lesson of history, the Republican campaigners scoff at Senator Hatch's notion that a Republican victory in the fall would weaken the United States in world affairs.

Rep. Clarence Brown of Ohio, G.O.P. congressional campaign director, voiced his reaction this way:

"If Secretary Byrnes feels that the election of a Republican congress would in any way hamstring his program, I wonder why he called Sen. Arthur Vandenberg (R., Mich.) to Paris to consult with him. And if that is true, I wonder why the President appointed Sen. Warren Austin (R., Vt.) as this nation's representative on the United Nations security council.

"If Stalin thinks the election of a Republican congress would in any way help Russia, I am wondering why Communists are supporting so many Democratic candidates."

Brown insists that the election of a Republican house would mean no change in the basic foreign policies now being pursued. Says Brown: "The Republicans believe in neither imperialism nor appeasement. We hope that Secretary Byrnes stands up firmly against unjustified Russian demands and we will back him to the limit."

By this statement, it would appear that the Republicans and Democrats are both fighting on the same side while at the same time trying to fight each other.

Defeat Ends—LaFollette Dynasty

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unless Senator Robert M. La Follette Jr. should run and be reelected as an Independent—and he has said he will not run—one of the most famous dynasties in American political history will end when the new congress convenes next January.

The No. 1 rating for father and son prominence is held by John Adams and John Quincy Adams, second and sixth presidents. John Adams was also the first vice-president and the first U. S. ambassador to Britain. John Quincy was a senator, a secretary of state, then president, and finally a member of the house.

Recently Beaten

"Young Bob," recently defeated in the Republican senatorial primary by war veteran Judge Joseph R. McCarthy, is rounding out an uninterupted La Follette span of 41 years in the senate. "Old Bob" was a heavily spotlighted senator for 20 years. He had been a member of the house at 29 and three times governor of Wisconsin. His other son, Phil, also was Wisconsin's governor for three terms.

The founder of the La Follette dynasty fought four presidents, was threatened with expulsion from the senate and bolted the Republican party to run for president. He was "read out" of the party by his Republican senate colleagues.

La Follette came to the senate in 1905 and was an insurgent from the outset. He conducted a one-man 18-hour filibuster against the Aldrich-Vreeland currency bill and made a four-day speech demanding the ouster from the senate of wealthy Senator Lorimer of Illinois. He lambasted the administrations of Taft, Harding and Coolidge as favoring the "predatory rich."

Denounced War

An isolationist and pacifist, he fiercely denounced our entrance into the World War, shouting: "The poor who are called to rot in the trenches have now no organized mouthpiece; but the day will come, I hope, when they will be heard."

A short, stocky man with strong features, a bristling grey pompadour, flashing eyes and vibrant voice, he was one of the great debaters of his day.

He opposed the World War I draft and contended that wealth should first be conscripted. A resolution to expel him was introduced in the senate. La Follette dared his critics to produce evidence that he was disloyal. The senate took no formal action.

Overwhelming Vote

Despite all this, the people of Wisconsin returned him again to the senate in 1922 with a customary overwhelming vote.

In 1924, a convention for "progressive political action" nominated the elder La Follette for president and Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Montana Democrat, for vice-president.

Fighting Bob, then 69, had suffered from angina pectoris for several years, but he plunged into a strenuous campaign. Young Bob was his campaign manager.

Coolidge coasted to victory with an electoral vote of 382, to 136 for Democratic candidate John W. Davis and 34 for La Follette. Fighting Bob died in Washington the following June.

Republicans and Democrats, so-called conservatives and liberals, joined in tribute to him as a "great humanitarian." He was credited with doing much of the "spade work" for the eight-hour work day, improved conditions for women and children in industry, the income tax and inheritance tax, and recognition of farming as the nation's basic industry.

Youngest Since Clay

Young Bob was 30 when he came to the senate after a special election, the youngest senator since Henry Clay. He followed his father's line of progressivism. He supported many New Deal measures, criticized others and advocated broadening the income tax base and increasing surtaxes in the middle brackets.

In 1938 he and his brother Phil established the national Progressive party. Shortly afterward Phil lost a race for a fourth term as governor.

The Progressive party steadily lost strength, and this year Senator La Follette decided to seek again the Republican nomination, which resulted in his defeat.

With Rep. Monroney of Oklahoma, he sponsored the bill to reorganize and streamline congress. Providing for a reduction in the number of standing house committees from 48 to 19 and of senate committees from 33 to 15, it was enacted by congress. It has been hailed by Republicans and Democrats as one of the most constructive pieces of legislation in the last decade.

New Homes—Looking Ahead

BY THE WORLD STAFF OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON—Some officials on the staff of Housing Expediter Wyatt figure that the new rules aimed at putting more building materials into home construction may mean that 300,000 families can move into new homes by the time snow flies.

That many houses are now lagging half finished for lack of materials.

But there's little hope contractors will lay many new foundations. The experts figure they'll want to know just how fast they'll get help under the new orders before they tie up money in houses that might have to stand uncompleted through the winter.

WALL STREET—If the market rides out its present gloom, the total of new issues of stocks and bonds is expected to hit nearly $4,000,000,000 (billion) for the second half of 1946. This would be the most in 10 years.

VETERANS IN POLITICS—Political fortunes of veterans are looking up. They now have won 38 nominations for the United States senate (8) house (25) and governor (5). They have lost 37 similar tries.

Winners include 20 Democrats, 18 Republicans; losers 25 Democrats, 12 Republicans.

TURKEY'S FISTS UP—Backstairs diplomatic gossip figures the Mediterranean will remain calm if the Soviets become convinced that Turkey really means to fight any encroachment.

And if the United States, United Kingdom and France make it stick that they will oppose Russian domination of the Dardanelles.

NUERNBERG VERDICT—Insiders at the war crimes trials think the judges will take two to three weeks to deliberate the evidence against 22 individuals and seven German organizations. It's not known how the verdict will be announced.

ON HIS OWN—It's doubtful that Australia's J. A. Beasley was just "spelling" the United States-British delegations when he brought the Paris peace conference to its feet by charging that Russia was indulging in "lies and intimidation."

He has proven at other conferences he is strictly his own man. He started a family row at one conference by questioning Britain's good faith in India.

GREENER PASTURES—The higher tax-exempt salaries paid by the international bank and fund are creating some big holes in the federal government.

Treasury has just lost Frank Coe, its research director. State lost John Ferguson, one of Undersecretary Acheson's key aides.

INFLATION AND MOVIES—Movie fans may have to pay more shortly. It costs more to make pictures.

Also, Hollywood is going to revive the old "roadshow" idea—raised prices for two days at the better houses—when several four to five million "super-specials" hit the screens.

The World Watch

By STEVE PARK

While international brickbats are being hurled in Paris and at Lake Success, N.Y., and American attention is focused on the taut European situation, our relations with the Pacific nations have been worsening steadily.

Hope for a Russo-American agreement on what constitutes a democratic government in Korea was abandoned this week when the United States announced that it would sponsor an all-Korean government in its occupation area.

Only yesterday, members of the house military affairs committee, touring the Pacific, urged immediate strengthening of American outposts for a probable joust with the Soviet Union.

Said Congressman Short, "I fear there is imminent danger of another Pearl Harbor in Korea, Trieste or Alaska. . . . While we traditionally are not aggressors, we cannot risk being caught unprepared again."

Although Short's statement may be well-founded in the light of current conditions, it does not reach far below the surface. The problem in the Pacific, far from being a simple Soviet-American struggle for ascendancy in the post-war scene, is the same old problem which converted the Orient into an international tinderbox fifty years ago.

The basis of the danger in the Pacific is not the strength or the aggressive tendencies of the Soviet Union; it is the continued weakness and dis-unity of China.

Saddled with a semi-feudal agrarian economy and a central retention of absolute power above government which places its own retention of absolute power above the welfare of the Chinese people, the Republic cannot even hope to gain the strength to become a stable and progressive nation. Yet a stable China is the prerequisite to continued peace in the Far East.

This is the background of the U. S. State Department's continued efforts to bring about a reconciliation between the Kuomintang government and the Communist government at Yenan headed by Mao Tse-tung. The reason for the failure of these missions has been the reluctance of the reactionary clique (which dominates the Kuomintang) to part with their absolute control of the destiny of the state. It is not because the Yenan government refuses to be reasonable.

Yet the Kuomintang does not represent the people of China. Less than 2,000,000 of the 450,000,000 Chinese people participate in it. The following of the Communist party is at least as large, and by the right of its continued existence—in spite of Chiang's unflinching effort to destroy it as well as its record of resistance against the Japanese when the Kuomintang did little to help the Allied cause—it deserves equal representation in the Nanking government.

Indeed, the Yenan government is the only well-organized democratic body in existence in China today.

As Raymond Gram Swing pointed out during the war, "These are not Marxian Proletarians, these so-called Communists, they are agrarian radicals, trying to establish democratic practices and particularly to break up the great estates, so that the farm worker can have individual status and own property."

However, in China, the American government is supporting a feudalistic authoritarian government, and our politicians are condemning the democratic element, not because it would throw China into the Soviet sphere, but because it has been tagged with the misnomer, "Communist."

In action the Yenan govern-

Russian-U.S. Situation in Pacific

By JAMES D. WHITE

House military affairs committee members touring the northwestern Pacific warn of "imminent danger of another Pearl Harbor."

They also express concern about Russia's intentions, and say American Pacific garrisons are inadequate to defend themselves.

This story today comes from Tokyo, where earlier this week an Associated Press dispatch said American occupation troops "may remain indefinitely in Japan to hold what is regarded here as the eastern anchor of a world-wide American line against the Soviet Union and Communism."

How much do we know about the military and strategic position of these two great powers in the northwestern Pacific? The map shows us that the United States commands Alaska, the Aleutian chain, southern Korea, has a small marine force in north China, and has left-over war bases south of Japan at such spots as Guam, Saipan, Okinawa and the Philippines.

Russia has Komandorskie island west of the Aleutians, the Kamchatka peninsula, the newly-occupied Kurile chain north of Japan, the partially ice-bound ports of eastern Siberia, northern Korea and Dairen and Port Arthur in Manchuria.

The United States Pacific fleet far outweighs the negligible Soviet naval forces in the far east, which up to the end of the war consisted largely of a few submarines although construction facilities for bigger ships had been developed at Komsomolsk in the maritime provinces.

On the other hand, Soviet land power in Siberia equally outweighs the reduced American ground force in the western Pacific. The house committee members note that the Soviet garrison in northern Korea is many times the size of the American force in southern Korea.

They also recall the mystery of what Russia has done with perhaps 750,000 Japanese troops captured in Manchuria last year. Would these troops fight for Russia some time?

Biggest questions hover in the air. The Russians developed parachute troops before the European war, but beyond the Stormovik fighter and American lend-lease planes, Russia's air potential is largely unknown.

On the other hand, American potential in the air is well known. The well-tried B-29 already is obsolescent as the B-36 promises

'Freedom From Want'—Goal of FAO

By SIGRID ARNE

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Freedom from want"—second of the "Four Freedoms" to get a full dress post-war going—brings a group of United Nations scientists together at Copenhagen Monday.

They will have for a study a 15-year program aimed at increasing world diets to at least 2,600 calories a day for everyone.

The plan involves no charity. It's a boot-strap lifting idea, worked out here by the staff of the U. N. food and agriculture organization (FAO), whereby it is hoped the nations can lift themselves to decent diets.

FAO has found that practically the same areas that are the unhappy foot-balls of the world's politicians are also the areas which are among the most poorly fed: India, Java, Korea, Iran, Iraq, Trans-Jordan and China.

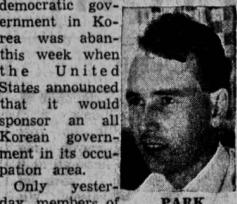

FAO has been at work for a year in Washington headquarters. It has 42 member nations, including all the major powers except Russia.

Early this year FAO experts took the first world food survey. It sets 1960 as a "target date" and says that to get a minimum diet of 2,600 calories by then, the world must increase its food production by the following percentages:

Cereals 21; roots 27; sugar 12; fats 34; peas and beans 80; fruits and vegetables 163; meat 46; milk 100.

The plan by no means sees everyone eating alike. It takes account of India's love of rice, Latin American preference for beans and so on.

It hopes to raise the calorie

N.Y. Conventions—Politics This Week

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Thomas E. Dewey, who failed to topple the late President Roosevelt in 1944, is slated to climb a step back up the political ladder this coming week with the Republican nomination for another term as governor of New York.

Reflection would keep Dewey well up in the pack of contenders for the GOP presidential nomination in 1948. Defeat would all but kill any chance of Dewey's getting another shot at the White House.

Senator James M. Mead, chairman of the senate war investigating committee, is regarded as the likely Democratic pick to battle Dewey.

Both Republican and Democratic state conventions meet Tuesday to choose New York's candidates for governor, senator and top state officers.

On the same day:

Primaries in Nevada select candidates for governor, senator, representative and state jobs.

A South Carolina runoff determines the Democratic nominee, and hence the next governor. Contenders will be J. Strom Thurmond, former lieutenant colonel, who wears a Purple Heart from the Normandy invasion, and James A. Mcleod, president of the State Health association.

Thurmond ran far ahead of Mcleod and nine others in the primary.

Virginia closes out the week's political billing with a Democratic convention Thursday to select someone for the senate seat of the late Carter Glass. The term runs until 1949.

Widely discussed for the nomination are:

Former Governor Colgate W. Darden; Rep. Howard W. Smith; Reu. A. Willis Robertson; William A. Wright, state conservation commission chairman; C. S. Carter, a Bristol banker, and Senator Thomas G. Burch, who was named to fill the Glass vacancy until the November election.

A complicating factor in the New York situation is Mead's official silence on his intentions. Friends say he wants it and believes he can beat Dewey.

But Mead has not shut the door to another nomination for the senate. If he does not try for the senate, there is a chance former Governor Herbert H. Lehman or UNRRA Director Fiorello LaGuardia might seek the nomination.

In the Republican camp, nobody but Dewey has been mentioned for governor.

Liberals Defeated In N.Y. Primaries

In his column, "Cabbages and Kings", Mr. Lawrence Dennis has been analyzing current election trends of the Republican party in several states. Maybe, his sources of information on the recent New York primaries have not arrived yet, so I can beat him to the punch.

The GOP blotched things up back east in New York if ever they are going to try for a liberal label. Most outstanding is the overwhelming defeat of Rep. Joseph Clark Baldwin, liberal GOP incumbent, by the arch-reactionary State Sen. Frederick Couder. Sen. Couder's name means two things in New York—1st, witch hunting in New York City schools that would make Martin Dies look like a sissy, and 2nd, legal advisor to the Vichy France government. On the other hand, Rep. Baldwin has served the interests of the people in a most outstanding manner. Yet the GOP chose to throw him off. Does that mean—? No, there'll always be, uh, Stassen and Morse, and, uh, Morse and Stassen!

Another liberal to lose the nomination in the Republican primaries was Rep. Augustus Bennett, who is famous for defeating former Rep. Ham Fish. Bennett lost the primary to Mrs. Katherine St. George, a protégé of H. Fish. Number 2 blotch!

Rep. Vito Marcantonio also lost the Republican nomination to a GOP machine candidate. Rep. Adam Clayton Powell did not get the Republican nomination in his district. State Assemblyman Leo Isacson, a thorn in the side of Gov. Dewey, was defeated in both the Republican and Democratic primaries. And Charles Collins, Negro AFL leader who had been ruled off the primary ballot of both major parties on technicalities, received a phenomenal write-in vote in both parties but still did not win the nomination. Thus it can be seen that the Democratic machine is as guilty as the Republican in pushing good liberal candidates aside.

In New York state, it is interesting to note, people can only vote in the primaries of a particular party in which they had previously been enrolled. Thus, the mass of the progressive liberal voters being enrolled in the American Labor Party, were not eligible to vote in the major party primaries. The fact that ALP candidates or ALP-backed candidates like Marcantonio, Powell, Isacson, and Collins won substantial sections of the Republican and Democratic voters proves that the ALP has strong attractive power among the rank-and-file voters of the major parties.

But Bennett and Baldwin are gone, and two reactionaries ate in their places. That's bad, isn't it, Larry??

Say U.S. to Favor Hearing Greek Case

NEW YORK (AP)—The Times says it has learned that the United States will vote to place the United Nations security council agenda the Ukraine's charges that Greece, with British help, was stirring trouble in the Balkans.

Seven votes are necessary to place the case on the agenda and although it was not known how other delegates would vote, the Times said American support of the Ukraine made changes "much brighter."

Midwest Engineers, Managers To Hold 'FM' Conference Here

Set Sept. 17 For Meeting

Menzer to Conduct Sessions on Radio With Manufacturers

A technical conference on frequency modulation will be held here Sept. 17 under the joint auspices of the electrical engineering department and the extension division. Carl Menzer, director of WSUI, will be in charge of the meetings, to be held from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. in studio E, radio building.

Radio engineers and managers from midwest stations, representatives of FM equipment manufacturers in Iowa and surrounding states and members of the Association of Police Communication Officers will attend the conference, Menzer said.

Feature Speakers
Three addresses on the technical aspects of frequency modulation followed by panel discussions of the speeches will be featured at the meetings. Lauren Findley of the Collins Radio company in Cedar Rapids will deliver the first talk, "FM Transmitters." The panel discussion on this topic will be led by George Hixenbaugh of WMT in Cedar Rapids.

"FM Antennae and Operation" will be the title of an address by Phillip Laeser of WTMI in Milwaukee, Charles Quentin will lead the second discussion.

After an explanation of "FCC Allocations, Rules and Regulations" by C. M. Braun of the federal communications commission in Washington, D. C., A. James Ebel of WMBD in Peoria, Ill., will conduct the final panel discussion.

Menzer said that speakers at the meeting will discuss problems that are before the radio engineers at the present time in an attempt to help them solve some of the practical difficulties that present themselves in the engineers' day-to-day employment of frequency modulation devices.

Police communications officers attending their own convention here Sept. 17 will sit in on the FM meetings during the day.

Updegraff to Decide Puerto Rico Labor Tiff

Prof. Clarence M. Updegraff of the college of law, back from a six-day trip to San Juan, Puerto Rico, where he acted as sole arbitrator in a labor dispute affecting six Puerto Rican steamship companies, said yesterday that he will announce a decision and an award in the case late in September.

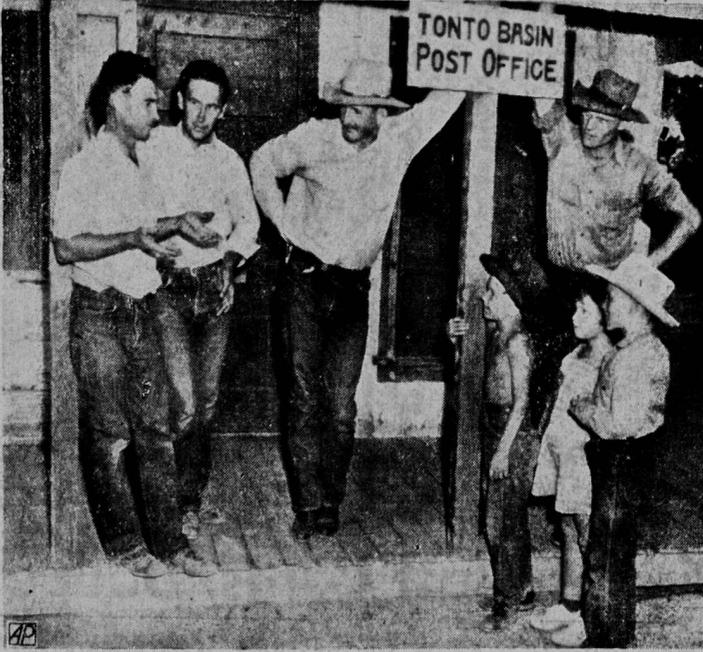

The dispute, which the Puerto Rico department of labor requested that Professor Updegraff settle, resulted from a demand to the companies by 2,000 dock workers for a general increase in compensation plus wage boosts for individuals for whom they believe have been the objects of discrimination.

Both the labor and management factions have agreed that Professor Updegraff's decision will be final and binding.

In Puerto Rico, Professor Updegraff obtained a transcript of the testimony at the Puerto Rican hearings and briefs and arguments submitted by the disputants which he will study before arriving at a decision.

Professor Updegraff arbitrated a dispute between the same parties and was instrumental in averting a general shipping tieup on the island.

Housing Drive Nets 38 Rooms For Students

Mayor Teeters Calls 2-Week Campaign 'Fairly Successful'

Closing its two-week drive to find temporary housing in Iowa City for the anticipated overflow of students at the university this fall, the mayor's emergency housing committee reported a total of 38 listings had been reported to their office.

Committee members said, however, that they believe many Iowa Citizens who did not list rooms had been moved by the appeal to make room in their homes for students.

Drive 'Fairly Successful'
Termining the campaign "fairly successful," Mayor Wilber J. Teeters said, "I think we convinced many people of the seriousness of the situation. I'm sure many persons opened their houses to students without reporting it to headquarters."

Several inquiries about equipment made at the committee office yesterday indicated that some Iowa Citizens are still considering renting, a committee member reported.

The office of student affairs is still interested in obtaining any listings. Iowa Citizens who have available space may call the office of student affairs, Marion L. Huit, assistant director of the office, said yesterday.

Equipment Still Available
Efforts will be continued to find equipment to furnish student rooms for any Iowa Citizens willing to rent part of their homes, he added.

Huit explained that the drive had many intangible results not shown in the listings. "We can safely estimate that 125 students were placed as a result of the drive," he said.

"The committee would like to express its appreciation to the townspeople who did offer their rooms. The demand is still great, and there are still many of the larger homes in town from which no listings have been received. If any of the residents of these homes can take care of any students, they may list rooms with the office of student affairs and we will see that they get the right type persons."

Prof. and Mrs. N. L. Ashton, Col. and Mrs. W. W. Jenna and Col. and Mrs. L. T. Jenks.

The bridge prize of the evening was awarded to Mrs. Lambert.

New Fall Style

A MOST UNUSUAL pooch is a dog by the name of "Pooch," Mexican zebra hound owned by Mrs. W. M. Wolf of East Columbia, Tex. The animal, which is slightly smaller than an average bird dog, has brown stripes. And when you tire of looking at brown you can look at the white. Nice, huh?

Luke Sewell Resigns As Browns Manager

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Luke Sewell, who piloted the St. Louis Browns to the American league pennant in 1944 but lost the all-St. Louis world series to the Cardinals, resigned yesterday and his coach of pitchers, James W. (Zach) Taylor, was named acting manager.

Announcement of Sewell's resignation "for the good of the club" came in a formal statement issued by Richard C. Muckerman, owner and president of the Browns, following a conference in the club office.

Muckerman declined to elaborate on the phrase "for the good of the club," but when pressed for an explanation of the sudden change in leadership, exclaimed: "Well, the club is down, isn't it?"

The Browns' owner said Sewell had offered his resignation, effective immediately, at the meeting, but he would neither affirm nor deny that he had asked for it.

Sewell would not comment but he previously had pointed to the failure of several ex-service men to live up to their pre-war records as contributing to the club's poor showing this season. The Browns are in seventh place and were 34 games back of the league leading Boston Red Sox before yesterday's games.

JAMES (LUKE) SEWELL, who piloted the St. Louis Browns to the American league pennant in 1944, resigned as manager of the club, it was announced yesterday. The resignation is effective immediately. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Iowa City Invitational Tournament Slated For City High Field

Eight teams swing into action at 8 o'clock this morning in quest of the $400 prize money in the Iowa City Invitational softball tournament at the City high diamonds.

In the 8 o'clock tilts, Cline Implement of West Liberty meets Dice Tavern of Davenport on one field while Kelly Oilers of Iowa City encounters Pla-Mor Bowling of Muscatine on the other diamond.

Two Cedar Rapids teams, Quaker Oats and Wilson Packers, meet on one of the 9 o'clock contests in the double elimination tourney. The second game at the 9 o'clock hour sends the Iowa City champs, Complete Auto, against the Grinnell Merchants.

First prize money is $200 with the second place team drawing $100. Third prize is worth $75 and the fourth highest team earns a return of the $25 entry fee.

When a team loses it is sent into a second bracket and the winners of the brackets play for the first place award at 4 o'clock. A second tilt for the title honors will follow if the losers' champ knocks off the winner of the upper bracket.

Star hurlers slated to see action include Zeke Cunningham of Dice Tavern, Don Savage and Ralph Matreullo of Complete Auto and Mel Grael and George DeMoss of Kelly Oilers.

If the weatherman interferes, the tournament will be run off tomorrow.

Iowa Kicking Quartet Works With Carideo

Hawkeye kickers received much attention in yesterday's football drills as the University of Iowa wound up its second week of fall practice. Fullbacks Dick Hoerner and Russell Fechter outdistanced teammates Bob Sullivan and "Big" Bob Smith.

Backfield coach Frank Carideo said "With the exception of this quartet, most of the punters are not especially consistent. Some of the kickers who are getting better yardage are those who won't be in the ball game when punts are needed."

Linemen and backfield were coordinated after separate drills, but contact work was limited largely to the linemen. The "first" team during the drills indicated the promotion of Harold Shoener, all-ETO end while in service, and David Day, Minnesota regular guard last year and in 1944.

Backs were given long turns on blocking dummies, while ends worked on pass receiving from quarterback Louis King and halfback Bob Sullivan.

Coaches Carideo and Joe Sheeketski expressed approval of the way this week's practice has sharpened timing, and improved players' knowledge of plays. Carideo said the team will get a rest Labor day morning, but will practice in the afternoon.

Big Nine Officials Compare Anti-Recruiting Plans Today

Conference Meeting

CHICAGO (AP)—Athletic officials of the Western conference will assemble here today to compare their anti-recruiting policy with principles of amateurism recently enunciated by representatives of more than 20 college leagues.

The Western conference feels confident it has operated within the scope of pure amateurism, but today will study details of project scholarship plans to determine their conformity.

The athletic directors and faculty representatives also will reconsider the conference stand on basketball double-headers and legislation banning athletes from appearing on sponsored radio broadcasts, and determine the eligibility status of University of Illinois students at "extension centers."

Michigan

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—H. O. (Fritz) Crisler, coach of the University of Michigan football team, reviewed a week of Wolverine practice yesterday with the declaration, "we're not quite as good as we're cracked up to be."

Crisler watched his big squad, which includes two score lettermen from past seasons, through its 11th workout of the week yesterday and admitted there were "a number of good boys" on hand, but none who would qualify as "great."

Notre Dame

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Coach Frank Leahy of Notre Dame, pessimistic as usual, yesterday said he failed to understand why the Irish were being so highly touted for national football championship honors this season.

"Never in my coaching experience have there been so many positions open on the team as in the case this season," he said.

"This is because we do not know what to expect from the returned servicemen. The Notre Dame squad will be composed largely of returning servicemen. Certainly there are a great many lettermen returning here, as elsewhere, but each of these boys coming back from the war represents a definite individual question mark.

"Observers who are touting us so highly should wait at least until after the game at Illinois Sept. 28, before making a judgment on the 1946 Notre Dame team."

Purdue

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Purdue football coach Cecil Isbell yesterday tentatively selected a 56-player varsity squad which will move practice headquarters today to the University civil engineering camp south of the city.

Twenty-three major lettermen, including six regulars from last season, were included in the tentative squad. The group also includes 21 freshmen without previous collegiate experience.

Hogan Pulverizes Par to Hold Lead

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Ben Hogan, golf's mighty atom, continued to pulverize par yesterday in the second round of the Golden State open golf tournament, posting a two-under 69 to go with his first round 66.

His 36-hole total of 135 put him two strokes ahead of his nearest competitors, stocky Herman Barron of White Plains, N. Y., and Jack Gage, surprising San Bernardino, Calif., professional, who tied with 137. Barron had the day's best card—67, over the California country club course.

Hogan, National PGA champion, slashed out a half-dozen birdies, four of them on the first nine when it appeared he would open an even wider margin on his rivals. The Hershey, Pa., 135-pounder lost some of his wizardry on the back nine, however, going from 33 to 36.

The former Texan increased his first round margin by a stroke. Herman Keiser of Akron, Ohio, who was only one blow behind at the end of 18 holes, slipped back to par 71 yesterday to wind up in the fourth spot with a 138 total.

Grouped at 139 were Tony Penna, Cincinnati, who shot a 70 to go with his earlier 69, and U. S. Open champion Lloyd Mangrum, Chicago, who posed 69 on top of a first round 70.

Clicking for duplicate 70's again were Jimmy Demaret of Houston, Texas, and long-driving Chick Harbert, Detroit, both totaling 140 for 36 holes.

Hal Newhouser Adds Twenty-Third Victory

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Hal Newhouser turned in 10 strikeouts last night in winning his 23rd victory this season, an 11 to 3 drubbing handed by the Detroit Tigers to the St. Louis Browns, playing for the first time under Zach Taylor, newly-appointed acting manager succeeding Luke Sewell.

The Tigers pounded three Brownie hurlers for 14 hits and had 15 men left on base.

Taylor started Nelson Potter but the Brownie ace gave up 10 hits and seven walks and was taken out for Tex Shirley in the sixth when St. Louis was trailing 4-3.

Pirates Blast Cards, Dodgers Falter

Strincevich Hands Redbirds 6-1 Defeat

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The last-place Pittsburgh Pirates treated the first place Cardinals as though their positions were reversed yesterday, handing St. Louis a decisive 6 to 1 defeat. The loss kept the Cards from padding their 2 1/2 game league lead at the expense of the Dodgers who were losing to New York.

Nick Strincevich scattered six hits while the Pirates hopped on three Cardinal hurlers for 11. It was Strincevich's ninth win in his last 13 games.

Lee Handley, Elbie Fletcher and Frankie Gustine each singled for one run and Bob Elliott drove in two more with a double as Al Brazle replaced Murray Dickson in the first.

Harry Walker's triple and a single by Enos Slaughter gave the Cards their lone score in the first inning and it marked Slaughter's 100th run batted in.

Patty Berg, Jameson In Open Golf Finals

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—Patty Berg, Minneapolis professional, defeated Betty Jean Rucker, Spokane amateur, 3 and 2 yesterday in the semi-finals of the National Women's Open golf tournament.

Betty Jameson, San Antonio, Texas, pro, defeated Dot Kieley, Long Beach, Calif., 1 up in the other semifinals match.

The two professionals will be playing for a $5,600 first prize in the 36-hole finals today.

Miss Berg won four holes to one for Miss Rucker on the first nine of the afternoon round. She was deadly with her putter through most of the round, while Miss Rucker played into the woods on occasion.

Lambert Halts Bruins' Streak

CINCINNATI (AP)—Clayton Lambert won his first game of the season yesterday as he pitched the Cincinnati Reds to a 6-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs before a ladies day crowd of 3,463.

The Redleg right-hander, who has lost two this season, scattered seven hits to break the Cub's seven-game winning streak.

Cincinnati greeted starter Hank Wyse with a three-run outburst in the opening round. A single, two Cub errors and a two-run homer by Bert Haas turned the trick.

Johnny Ostrowski homered in the third frame, after Lou Stringer, had singled, to count two tallies for Chicago.

Braves Win Second To Split With Phils

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—In a wild hitting spree, the Boston Braves rocked the parade of passing Phils pitchers for 24 hits yesterday to win the second game 14 to 6 in the opener of a Shibe park doubleheader that hospitalized Boston's Danny Litwhiler and Mike McCormick.

Litwhiler, leftfielder for Boston, was taken to a hospital with a fractured left cheek bone as the result of Dick Mouney's pitched ball in the fourth inning. Mike McCormick lasted only three innings of the second game before he tore a cartilage in his left leg.

Army Weakened Has Best Backfield Not Two Best

WEST POINT (AP)—The great Army football team of the past two years—one of the truly fine gridiron machines of all time—has been hard hit by losses from graduation and other causes, and the replacements are not too promising.

Chances are that the Cadets will have only the best backfield in the country this fall, instead of the two best backfields and the two best lines. Their forward wall will be good, instead of wonderful, and their shortage of reserves might catch them where it hurts before the season is over.

That is how coach Earl "Red" Blaik sizes it up after two days of practice, but he wishes it clearly understood he is not "singing the blues." The others still are going to have to come and get the soldiers. They will take considerable beating.

The Cadets expect no real help from their plebe squad. No matter how "loaded up" some of the other teams are supposed to be, it is to be seriously doubted that any starting college backfield in the land will quite measure up to the quartet of "Doc" Blanchard, Glen Davis, Tom "Shorty" McWilliams and Arnold Tucker. What they can do from the T-formation is a thing close to football murder.

Pale Hose Defeated

CHICAGO (AP)—Ken Keltner's 14th home run of the season gave the Cleveland Indians a 3 to 2 victory over the Chicago White Sox yesterday before a ladies day crowd of more than 7,000.

New Horrabin Concrete Plant To Begin Operation This Week

$75,000 Plant To Mix Over 70 Tons Daily

The $75,000 Central Ready-Mixed Concrete company plant being constructed in Iowa City will be in operation sometime this week, it was announced yesterday by William R. Horrabin, owner. The plant is located where Harrison street meets the railroad spur along the Iowa river.

It will have a daily output of over 300 barrels of concrete, meaning that over 70 tons of concrete per day will be trucked to various building projects in this area.

Horrabin, who has been in business in Johnson county for 25 years, is at present producing about 200 yards of concrete a day in his old plant south of Iowa City. The new plant will increase this output by at least 50 percent, he said.

The main part of the plant, consists of a four-compartment bin with a capacity of 150 tons of sand and gravel plus 67 tons of cement. In this hopper, the ingredients for the desired mixture of concrete will add by weight through a special weighing mechanism.

Only the ingredients for concrete are poured from this bin into the trucks. All the mixing is done by the trucks as they travel to the job.

"Any of the five concrete trucks can be loaded from the main bin in 30 seconds, water and all," Horrabin declared.

To the side of the main bin stands an auxiliary hopper for extra cement storage. This auxiliary hopper has a total capacity of 650 barrels of cement, or 130 tons. Cement in this hopper is agitated with compressed air jets to keep it from hardening while in storage.

Overflow from the main bin will go into the auxiliary hopper. When cement is needed for the main bin, it can be transferred from the auxiliary hopper by an automatic endless-chain bucket loader capable of handling 125 tons of material per hour.

Sand and gravel can be loaded into the machine rapidly either from trucks or railroad cars. Material dumped into an unloading chute is carried to the bucket loader by a conveyor belt at the rate of 100 tons per hour.

All that's needed to complete this modern machinery setup is a vertical cement elevator due to be shipped in October, Horrabin said.

Water for the ready-mix plant is furnished by the city water service at the rate of 150 gallons per minute. It is added to the mixture by weight determined by a "weigh-batcher," located on the control platform under the main bin.

The control platform will be enclosed with aluminum sheeting and insulated for winter operation. Steam coils in the bins will insure that concrete can be delivered at 72 degrees temperature even in the coldest weather.

Steam for the heating coils will be supplied by a 360-gallon gas heater located in the boiler room below the control platform.

"There's no waste motion in all this arrangement," Horrabin declared. "One man operates all the machinery from the control platform by push-buttons. We even have a three-way communication system from the plant to the main office."

"That's so the contractor who orders concrete by phone can listen while we make the arrangements to get it out for him," he explained.

Five Iowa City Boys To Enter Model Planes In National Contest

A group of Iowa City boys left Friday for Wichita, Kan., where they will compete in the 15th annual national model airplane championship contest.

Among those who expect to enter planes are Cromwell Jones, Lawrence Conover, Kenneth White, Morris Ward and Leonard Johnson.

The contest started Friday and will continue through Monday. The boys will return Tuesday.

SPEED AND QUANTITY will be upped at least 50 percent over present output of concrete for William R. Horrabin's Central Ready-Mixed Concrete company with this new plant. Shown at the left is an office building and boiler room where steam will be generated for heating coils to keep concrete warm in winter. The tallest bin, 50 feet from ground to top, is the main hopper, with a capacity of 150 tons of sand and gravel plus 67 tons of cement. Material for this hopper will be carried from the dump chute at far right by a conveyor belt to the endless-chain bucket loader. The bin on the right is a 130-ton auxiliary hopper for extra cement storage. Trucks driving under the central hopper will be loaded in 30 seconds, according to Horrabin. Total output for this new plant will be 350 to 400 yards of ready-mixed concrete daily. The new plant is the only one of its kind in this area.

Strub's Sells To Chicago Corporation

Strub-Wareham, Inc., 79-year-old Iowa City department store on S. Clinton street, has been purchased by Aldens, Inc., of Chicago, it was announced yesterday.

The change of ownership, which becomes effective today, includes the appliance store across the street from the department store. Aldens, Inc., is a Chicago department store with branches located in Mason City, Kankakee, Ill., and Decatur, Ill., in addition to the new Iowa City location.

The new firm will continue to feature the same kinds of merchandise and will add men's furnishings along with enlarging the children's department.

The store will still be known as "Strub-Wareham, Inc." under the new management. The manager of the store has not been named.

Principal stockholders in Strub-Wareham, Inc., were L. D. Wareham, Carl F. Strub, and Mary Strub. Wareham is leaving the store but will continue working as a partner in Tower's. Strub will remain in an advisory capacity and as lessee operator of the bottle gas department. Mary Strub will retire.

Personnel of the store will continue with the exception of Herman Stranckmeyer, assistant manager, who is resigning.

Mrs. Ruth Critz and Irene McLachlan, who have been employed in the women's ready-to-wear section, will work with Wareham at Tower's.

The store was started in Iowa City by the late Herman A. Strub in 1867.

To Attend Convention

Clark Caldwell, Dale Welt and H. L. Bailey, Iowa City insurance men, are planning to attend the 40th anniversary convention of the Iowa Association of Insurance Agents at Cedar Rapids Sept. 17 and 18.

Roomers will sleep in bunks in two attic rooms.

George has had three years of pre-dentistry schooling at Bucknell university in Pennsylvania and one year of dentistry at Iowa. He met and married Mary Louise there in Lewisburg, Pa., the home of the university. Mary was graduated from Bucknell last spring.

As she started back to work, George said: "Say, you'd better make it clear that all our rooms are taken. We'd like to be able to handle more, but 10 roomers are about enough at one time."

Student Veteran—Solves Housing Problem

—Becomes Landlord

By BOB WIDMARK Daily Iowan City Editor

A bit of financial daring, a lot of work and the help of a friendly Iowa City clergyman, added together, have been the making of lodging for 11 students at the University of Iowa this fall.

George Woodworth, D2 of Rock Island, Ill., and wife, Mary Louise, desperate for a place to live in Iowa City so George could continue his dentistry training, provided the daring when they bought a house.

The same two young people are grinding out the work of cleaning and furnishing the second floor and attic of their new home at 411 E. Washington street, in preparation for 10 men students who will be their tenants during the coming school year.

The Rev. Fred W. Putnam, rector of the local Trinity Episcopal church, has given the couple friendly advice and assistance in the venture. He's recommended boys for the rooms, which George appreciated because he was too busy to choose them.

The 24-year-old navy veteran and his wife were "up to their necks" in work yesterday afternoon, but were willing to stop and tell about the housekeeping venture they've started on.

Tried to Find Room
The young dentist hopeful, who spent a good many days as a pharmacist's mate on a navy landing craft in the South Pacific, began the story:

"We looked for some place to live here every weekend for eight weeks. We'd come up from Rock Island where we were both working nights in a factory. There just wasn't any place—so, when we got the chance to buy a house we took it."

The couple doesn't have any illusions about the money angle of the proposition either. They've figured the costs pretty closely.

"We've got three years left in Iowa City before I graduate," the husband commented. "With the rent from the rooms, we'll be able to cover expenses and pay off the debt we piled up when we cashed in our government bonds and made the down payment on the house."

"And maybe the third year or so we'll even clear a little above expenses—though it won't be much," he cautioned.

George and Mary are going to let the boys decorate the rooms anyway they wish. The Woodworth's will provide a dresser, a bed, a study table and a chair for each boy.

"I don't care if they paint their rooms yellow with red stripes," the future dentist said with a smile. "We'll let them use their own judgment—just so they don't tear anything up."

6,000-Mile Hop—'I'm Just A Bush Pilot'

By KEITH SPALDING

A pilot flying the 6,000 mile trip from Toronto, Canada, to San Jose, Costa Rica, seldom stops at the Iowa City airport, but Sam G. Pendry has done it twice.

He landed here last night about 5 o'clock on the first lap of his long journey, because he "liked Iowa City's hospitality" when he stopped here July 16.

Pendry is flying a Canadian bomber trainer called an "Anson 5" recently purchased by the United Fruit company for use as a transport between their South American plantations. This is the second plane of its type Pendry has ferried to Costa Rica for the company.

Division Head
"I'm just a tropical bush pilot," says Pendry. As a matter of fact, he has been for the past 11 years head of United Fruit company's aviation division. His job is to fly supplies and foodstuffs into the wilds of Costa Rica where some 20,000 United Fruit company employees work on jungle banana plantations and experimental farms.

"Almost everything the people eat down there must be taken in by mules or airplanes," Pendry explained. "We also have to fly in all the machinery and equipment used on the company plantations."

At one time, Pendry flew an entire 8-room house, including furniture and plumbing, to a remote spot in the coastal jungles where company officials were checking the land for banana growing.

Pendry and two other pilots fly six days a week, averaging three

BUSH PILOT DISCUSSES ROUTE WITH SHAW

TROPICAL BUSH PILOT Sam Pendry listens as Paul B. Shaw, owner of Shaw Aircraft company at the Iowa City airport, describes the country between here and Salt Lake City, Utah, over which Pendry intends to fly today on the next lap of his 6,000 mile trip from Toronto, Canada, to San Jose, Costa Rica. Pendry is head of the aviation division of United Fruit company in Costa Rica, in charge of flying foodstuffs and supplies into the jungle interior of the country for more than 20,000 banana plantation workers. The plane, a Canadian bomber trainer, was purchased by United Fruit company out of Canadian war surplus and will be especially fitted for transport work in the tropics.

to four hours daily in the air. During his 27 years of flying, Pendry has amassed 15,000 hours flight time.

He learned to fly in France during World War I and has been a crop-duster and an airline pilot before taking his position with United Fruit company.

Pendry makes so many flights in carrying food to the plantations that it is necessary for him to have two planes. While he's flying one plane, the other is being checked and serviced.

Conditions Bad
"Conditions are pretty tough for flying down there," Pendry declared. He explained that the weather is unpredictable and that airstrips hewn out of the jungle would not be considered fit to land on in more civilized areas.

He planned to leave at daybreak this morning for Salt Lake City, Utah, where he will stay overnight. From there he will go to Los Angeles, Calif., where he will meet his wife. Mrs. Pendry will accompany him on the flight to Costa Rica.

While in California, he plans to spend a few days on his ranch near Santa Rosa, while his plane is being fitted with radio and other equipment for its work.

He expects to arrive in San Jose, Costa Rica, in about three weeks.

City Stores, Offices To Close Labor Day

The bus was traveling east on Sheridan avenue at the time of the accident. An eyewitness at the scene said the bus hit the pole as it swung left before it reached the intersection.

The driver of the bus claimed the right front wheel on the truck locked and threw the bus into the pole.

Damage estimated at $75 was reported by a bus company official.
