GOOD MORNING, IOWA CITY!

Perfect football weather is predicted for today. The weatherman sizes it up for clear and considerably cooler.

Hawks Tangle With Purdue Today

By CHAD BROOKS
Daily Iowan Sports Editor

Big time football will return to Iowa stadium today after a three-year absence as the University of Iowa's Hawkeyes clash with Purdue's Boilermakers in the conference opener for both teams.

Forty thousand fans are expected to be on hand for Iowa's 24th Dad's Day this afternoon and the grid-wise all over the middle-west will be watching Dr. Eddie Anderson's promising Hawkeyes and the powerful Riveters as possible dark horse entries in the 1946 Big Nine free-for-all.

Not since Anderson, and a large share of his better gridiron talent, left for war service after the 1942 season have Iowa football fans had a chance to watch an important conference battle.

Since the '42 team went to war, Iowa has served as a perfect doormat for their more favored conference opponents—winning but two Big Ten games during their three "lost years."

All things must end, however, and today Dr. Eddie will field a team that boasts power in all departments. Linemen are three deep in every position, the backs have plenty of all-important speed, there will be experienced men on the bench all through the game and the passing attack—weak in the North Dakota State opener last week—has taken a sudden turn for the better.

A perfect example of the Hawkeye depth comes in the case of one Emien Tunnel, outstanding star last Saturday, who will be sitting it out at kick-off time today. It seems that Bob Sullivan, a stand out against major opposition for the past three years, is just as good in the open field and packs a more powerful line cracking punch.

Starting Lineups

IOWA	Wt.	Position	PURDUE	Wt.
Phillips	180	LE	Heek	196
Kay	220	LT	Karras	229
Benda	205	LG	Barwegen	215
Woodard	220	C	Kodba	197
Day	200	RG	Murray	221
Niedziela	220	RT	Freneh	220
Howard	187	RE	Maloney	187
King	178	QB	DeMoss	169
Sullivan	185	LHB	Smock	175
Bob Smith (g-c)	185	RHB	Ehlers	194
Hoerner	212	FB	Cody	177

Place: Iowa Stadium
Time: 2 p. m.

And then there will be at least four new starters up front for the Hawks. Hal Schoener, Roger Kane, Jerry Kubal and Jim Lawrence—all outstanding against North Dakota—have been replaced, while Dave Day may not be around.

Bob Phillips has moved from right end to Shoener's spot on the other flank, with either Sherman Howard or Tony Guzowski at right end. Bruno Niedziela will replace Kubal at right tackle, Dick Woodard will step into Lawrence's job at center and either Russ Benda or Bob Liddy will handle Kane's left guard spot.

Howard, Liddy and Carlson (in place of Day) will get the nod if the Hawks receive the opening kick-off, with Guzowski, Benda and Day starting if Iowa kicks.

Big Bob Smith, hard hitting right halfback will be the Hawkeyes game captain and will share passing assignments with Sullivan and quarterback Lou King.

Dick Hoerner, the Iowa fullback who runs like a scabbard, will round out the starting backfield, with Bill Kay completing the forward wall.

Against this Hawkeye outfit, probably the most talented to wear the Old Gold since the glory days of 1939, coach Cecil Isbell will field an injury riddled Purdue eleven. Both halfbacks, "Stormy" Pfohl and Bill Canfield will be on the sidelines.

This leaves the "poor" Bolier-makers with nothing but Bob DeMoss, top tosser in the loop; Ed Cody, allconference fullback, and a rugged line paced by Dick Barwegen, a former captain of the College All-Stars. And this is enough to make the Riveters a 13-point favorite with the grid bookies.

But the Iowa team is "up" for this one. They think they can win—and we are inclined to agree. The wraps will probably come off the spectacular "Duke" Curran and the wide-open Hawkeye passing game. Sherman Howard, the fastest man on the Iowa squad, will be in there on offense for only one reason—the Old Gold is going out after plenty of points, and their first victory over Purdue since '42.

Bevin Agrees With Stalin — 'No War'

LONDON (AP)—Foreign Secretary Bevin said last night he agreed with Premier Stalin that no "further war is likely at present."

"We have recently had a statement from Russia that they do not anticipate a further war is likely at present," Bevin said in a speech. "I do not think so either and I do not know anybody who is asking for war."

Bevin added however, that "there is one kind of war that must stop if we are to get peace—that is the war of nerves that has left some unfortunate countries in a state of disturbance."

The foreign secretary, who returned Thursday from the Paris peace conference, declared pointedly that "the acid test is not in speeches made by statesmen, but it is the approach in the conference room to the actual problems we are discussing."

"It will be there that we shall discover whether or not the united nations have the cooperation which will make for the unity of mankind," he said.

Bevin spoke at a Labor party meeting in his London working class constituency, Wandsworth.

He renewed his pledge to do all possible to avert war.

"I will do my best and when I pass off the stage as a member of the government I hope I shall have left nothing behind that will create further desires for war or further wars."

Soviets Charge U.S. Interfered in Danube

Hit Refusal to Return Yugoslav, Czech Ships Held by U.S. Officials

By JOHN A. PARRIS, Jr.

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y. (AP)—Russia last night accused the United States of direct interference in the internal affairs of countries involved in traffic on the Danube.

The Soviet Union charged that the United States' refusal to return Yugoslav and Czech vessels held by American occupation authorities was made to put pressure on these two countries in order to "obtain her aims in southeastern Europe."

The Soviet blast came after the United States submitted a proposal to the United Nations economic and social council for a conference to be held between Russia, America and southeastern European states in Vienna not later than Nov. 1, to resolve problems now obstructing the resumption of international traffic on the Danube river.

United States Delegate John G. Winant told the council that the Yugoslav and Czech vessels, which he acknowledged were being held by the Americans, would be returned when some working agreement had been reached between the United States and Soviet occupation authorities and the governments of interested states "which will permit the unrestricted movement of those vessels throughout the entire course of the Danube."

Passes were issued to foreign correspondents for coverage of the trial. The government's press minister said every possible facility would be offered for complete coverage of the proceedings.

The announcement came soon after Premier Marshal Tito declared in a speech that the arrest of the archbishop and the current Zagreb trial of 12 Catholic priests and six others on war crimes charges in no way represent any fight against religion.

Tito said the trial of the priests and six others had shown that Archbishop Stepinac was involved in the activities of the Crusaders, "which are terrorist bands and which formed part of the Ustashi (collaborationist) army."

The Crusaders, he said were "that small part we did not catch."

"Priests, even today, are giving them help and hiding them," Tito declared. "Even the head of the church, Archbishop Stepinac, was mixed up in these activities."

Tito said the "shouting from abroad" was a result of organized work of international reactionaries, but that it was slander against Yugoslavia to say the churches were being persecuted.

"You have seen how all the churches are open and they will stay open," he said. "But we are prosecuting the anti-people elements, whether they be priests or of any other profession. We know that religion cannot be taken out of the hearts of the people by force or decree. All we ask is that priests perform their religious duties and nothing else."

Work on Italian Treaty
PARIS (AP)—The European peace conference completed all but 10 clauses of the Italian peace treaty yesterday.

Iowa State Gets Land Gift

AMES, Ia. (AP)—President Chas. Friley of Iowa State college said after a trip to the Des Moines ordnance plant yesterday that the plot of land there given to the college would not relieve the enrollment load at Ames because the land would be used only as an agricultural experiment farm.

The war assets administration earlier yesterday announced it had approved the gift of 1,433 acres of the ordnance plant land, valued at $208,575, to the college. WAA said the property would allow an additional enrollment of about 1,000 students.

Friley indicated the land would not be of use to the college for the present semester and that work probably would not start there until next spring. He said the farm would emphasize experiments in poultry and pasture utilization.

Catholic Archbishop Faces War Crimes Trial in Yugoslavia

BELGRADE (AP)—Archbishop Alojzije Stepinac, head of the Roman Catholic church in Yugoslavia, will go on trial in Zagreb Monday on war crimes charges, it was announced officially yesterday.

Rescue workers feared others may have lost their lives. Hundreds were reported missing earlier yesterday by city police. Many persons are marooned and

Last Day to Register for Water Election

Iowa Citizens planning to vote in the special water franchise election Oct. 8 have until noon today to register in the city clerk's office in the city hall.

A total of 91 persons have registered so far this week, according to George Dohrer, city clerk. A person who has registered in the city clerk's office before need not reregister for the special election, Dohrer explained. He said that once a person registers in his office he may vote in any future election without registration.

All changes of address since the primary election last spring should be reported to the clerk's office in order that names may be listed with the proper precinct voting station.

To be eligible to vote in Iowa City a person must be a citizen of the United States, 21 years of age, a resident of Iowa for 6 months, of Johnson county for 60 days, and of the voting precinct for 10 days.

This morning is also the last time to obtain absentee ballots for the special election. Dohrer said that 13 absentee ballots have been issued since Wednesday.

The election will decide whether or not the water franchise of the Iowa Water Service company will be renewed for 20 years.

Six Persons Perish In San Antonio Flood

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—A flash flood, followed by torrential rains, took at least six lives, inundated much of picturesque San Antonio and caused property damage estimated in the millions of dollars yesterday.

An army bomber dropped emergency rafts to an undetermined number of persons marooned on rooftops south of here late yesterday as the crest of the flood surged toward the Gulf of Mexico.

Chief of Police Bruce Weatherly said that while only six bodies had been recovered, there were at least seven other persons unaccounted for. This included four military policemen previously listed as dead.

Rescue workers feared others may have lost their lives. Hundreds were reported missing earlier yesterday by city police. Many persons are marooned and

Local Girl Hit by Cab, Badly Hurt

Nancy Fisk, 14, City high school sophomore, was seriously injured about 11:30 p. m. last night at the corner of Burlington and Summit streets when she was struck by a cab driven by Phillip Foraker, 1307 Rochester avenue, who was driving west on Burlington street.

Late last night, doctors had not determined the full extent of her injuries, but reported that she had numerous fractures, including a fractured pelvis and possible skull fracture. They said her condition was "fair."

An eyewitness, William Thomas, 15, 725 Clark street, said the girl backed into the path of the cab after she had narrowly missed being struck by an eastbound car as she was crossing the street.

The girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Fisk, 428 1/2 S. Summit street, was struck by the left front fender of the cab. She was thrown into the air and landed on her head more than 20 feet from the point of impact. She was unconscious when Police Officers George E. Brown and Harland F. Sprinkle arrived.

Thomas said he immediately summoned Dr. George Callahan, who called a Hohenschuh ambulance to take her to University hospital.

Foraker, City cab driver, said he was unable to see the girl until just before the crash. He applied his brakes immediately but was unable to miss her, he said.

According to Thomas, Miss Fisk had been walking home with two friends from a party at the city recreation center.

Sparkman Expects Wallace-Pepper Aid For Democratic Ticket

WASHINGTON (AP)—Representative Sparkman (D-ALA), a democratic national party official, said last night he believes that president Truman will run again in 1948.

Sparkman made his observation while being questioned by reporters during a Mutual broadcast program.

Asked who the republican candidate might be, he said: "I'm sure it won't be Stassen. He is too liberal, and the Republicans won't have him."

"What about a Wallace-Pepper ticket?" he was asked.

"They have both said they are against a third party," Sparkman replied. "I expect both of them to be backing the Democratic nominee."

Earlier, the Democratic national committee had reached an agreement with Pepper, critic of administration foreign policies, to speak for the Democratic ticket.

Chairman Robert E. Hannegan and Sparkman said they are counting on Pepper to be "very helpful."

Sparkman, asked, during the broadcast if the "Wallace-Truman fracas did the Democratic party great harm" replied:

"I would rather that it had not happened, but I don't think it did the party great harm."

Sparkman said no attempt will be made to "muzzle" Pepper on foreign affairs or any other question. But Sparkman said he personally believed foreign affairs should be avoided as "it is not an issue in this campaign."

He said Secretary of State Byrnes, Senator Connally (D-Tex) and Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) are in Paris trying to work out a most difficult problem and he believed it would be fair to the country to let them carry on their policies.

He predicted the Democrats would retain control of the house but conceded the Republicans will pick up a few seats.

65-Year-Old Woman Gives Birth to 27th

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—A 65-year-old negro woman and the day-old daughter she said was her 27th child were reported "doing very nicely" last night at University hospital.

Dr. John Holzaepfel, hospital resident physician, reported that the elderly mother, Mrs. Mary Jones, had shown him a family Bible in which her own birth date, 1881 and that of her 27 offspring, including six sets of twins, were listed. Twenty-one, she said, are living.

Dr. Holzaepfel said he was attempting to locate marriage and birth certificates so the births could be documented "for medical annals."

OPA Loses In Battle For Rollback

WASHINGTON (AP)—OPA conceded defeat yesterday in its battle to roll back prices of meat meals in restaurants to June 30 levels, and at the same time took ceilings off a long list of canned and frozen fruits and vegetables.

Responding to bitter protests from hotel and restaurant men, many of whom had threatened to close their eating places if the meat rules were kept in force, the price agency announced that the prices of menu meat items will be boosted next week.

An OPA statement said the amount of the increase will be "uniform for the entire country." It will be fixed at a conference here next week with spokesmen for the National Restaurant association.

In line with President Truman's stand-pat policy on the meat shortage, his party executive committee's proposal to take up the matter with the decontrol board was quietly dropped yesterday but Democratic congressmen made fresh demands for federal action.

And the president's forecast that the normal fall run of grass-fed cattle to market should soon improve the supply found western stockmen disagreeing with him, although they were not unanimous.

One bright spot for housewives was a war department order reducing by about one-fifth the amount of meat the army demanded earlier this week from federally-inspected packers. But the quartermaster general, Maj. Gen. T. B. Larkin, announced that the army is considering purchases from some non-federally-inspected plants—state-inspected packers from which it now buys nothing.

House Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts said he still favors a suspension of meat controls despite the chief executive's opposition. His proposal that controls be lifted for 60 days had drawn support from others in the party as well.

Senator Walsh (D, Mass.) urged that the president seize all the meat supplies to insure proper distribution. Walsh told newsmen in Boston he has asked Senators Lucas (D, Ill.) and Guffey (D, Pa.) and Leslie Biffle, secretary of the senate, to relay the suggestion to Mr. Truman.

The retreat in the dispute over restaurant prices came after Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago had called at the office of OPA Chief Paul Porter to protest both restaurant and rent ceiling.

The mayor suggested that hardship is caused by some rent ceilings in Chicago and proposed a survey.

Robert Wilson, Washington secretary for the National Restaurant association which has been leading the fight against the meat meal rollback, said the group will delay comment until it learns the amount of actual increase allowed.

Greece's King George Back in Troubled Homeland Following Five Years of Exile

ELEVSIS AIRPORT, Greece (AP)—King George II returned to troubled Greece last night after five years of exile, arriving at this war-battered airport only 12 miles from Athens in a British plane bearing the royal Greek colors.

He was escorted to a small black sedan and in three minutes was whisked away to a flotilla of Greek warships, including three destroyers, waiting for him in Salamis bay, only two miles from the birthplace of the KING GEORGE Greek tragedian, Aeschylus.

He will make his entry today into Athens, where the police issued strict orders banning tossing of flowers "or any other objects" along the route he will take on his return to the palace he left in 1941 just two days ahead of the advancing German armies.

As he returned to his Mediterranean kingdom, leftist bands were battling gendarmerie and soldiers in the northern frontier regions in what Premier Constantin Tsaldaris has described as civil war.

The five foot six monarch, in battledress uniform, stood erect and saluted the moment he stepped from the plane onto Greek soil.

"I'm sorry I don't recognize all of you, but I extend my greetings," he said to those who welcomed him.

Tonight the king will broadcast a message to the nation, where political unrest and internal strife has cost many lives since the end of the war.

(In London a British foreign office spokesman said he had "no information to support" reports that reinforcements are to be sent to British military forces which have been in Greece since the Germans were ousted.)

Press dispatches yesterday said that 70 soldiers and two officers were arraigned in a military court in Trikkala on charges of planning to seize a key point in Thessaly, where the government forces have been clashing with what it described as "outlaw bands."

Returning Veterans Face—

The Challenge of Education

(A. L. in Saturday Review of Literature)

Higher education on a scale hitherto unknown in our annals lies before the country with the opening of a new college year and the entrance in numbers into our institutions of learning of the returned veterans.

It is higher education fraught with a political and international significance such as has never existed before. For the vast army of youth which is to be its beneficiary is not the aggregation of callow schoolboys fresh from the playing fields which in prewar times filled the academic halls, but an assemblage of men whose maturity has been forged in the holocaust of battle, who have lived experiences, lived techniques, turned a bright front to danger and hardship which have equipped them with endurance and initiative potent to make them a force for national thought and action.

Granted that many, perhaps most of the millions under arms in recent years thought neither profoundly nor purposefully. Still they have seen, they have suffered, they have known the friction of minds exposed to new lands and unwanted experience—they are men who have had a common discipline and concentration on a common end and who have forced the habit of working in unison.

They want, no doubt, the majority of them, from the colleges to which they are going at national expense, not so much general culture as education designed to advance them in practical affairs, but they are there, youth, still malleable, still elastic to be shaped to the ideals and ends which must be the goal of the nation or else we must all perish.

We made none too good a job of orientation during the war years. And we stand in danger of doing a still worse one in peacetime unless here and there and everywhere our educators and leaders of thought unceasingly agitate to form public opinion. For the climate of the nation has changed, and in the milder atmosphere which the cessation of hostilities has engendered the relaxed temper of the people tends to allow devotion to a cause to be dissipated into concern for personal ends.

There is today a twofold attitude which is twice dangerous—a tendency to retreat before the seemingly insoluble problems which block world accord, and a disregard of the fearful consequences of considered and ill-judged talk about those problems.

Visitors from abroad have expressed themselves as appalled by constant reference to the next war, by the press and popular treatment of the Russian situation, by the unconquerable American inability to grasp the reality of the horrors suffered in other lands. And they are convinced that only by driving into the American consciousness knowledge of the forces of tyranny and disruption still at work in Europe, and by making immediate to it the imminence of the danger that lies in any slackening of interest and cooperation, can the peace of the world be preserved.

Universities, traditionally conservative, have equally traditionally been the seats of propulsive thought. In monarchical countries, indeed, they have frequently been the source from which revolution is fed. In our free country today there is on them an obligation, an opportunity which must not, which cannot be evaded.

They have capacity registrations, they have a student body in which buoyancy of untried youth is balanced by the experience of a precocious maturity, they have a happy remoteness from the devastation of war which makes possible a measure of detachment of judgment and perspective of outlook.

It is imperative that the men who compose their faculties measure up to the need of the hour. They cannot be humdrum, they cannot be complacent, they cannot be fearful of new doctrine and speculation. They must be open to all the winds of thought that blow, and willing to allow the unorthodox its chance for a hearing along with the orthodox.

There's no telling what may come out of the academic ferment—some wild fellows perhaps who believe the world may be saved by daring and who have the courage to try for the impossible. It is the few who always spread the gospel.

Americanism—Many Things to Many Men

Democracy is again about to extract one of its periodic penalties from us—we're going to have to put up with another political campaign. Out of the mothballs where they've been carefully stowed since the last election, the tired cliches and all the cant of the campaign vocabulary are being dragged forth. You know them well—words and phrases such as Americanism, 100 percent Americanism and Good Old Americanism.

What is Americanism? The politician, especially the campaigning politician, never seems to get around to defining the term.

Perhaps it's because Americanism means different things to different men. To some it is an excuse for fatuous bigotry—a symbol of the status quo. To some it is an expression of cynicism—an expression of scorn blanketing many sins. To others it is a hope and a challenge—an ideal for which to strive.

Americanism for the Jew of the East Side Ghetto is a different thing than the Americanism of the business man at a Rotary luncheon. The Americanism of the youth marching behind the colors is different than the Americanism of the house-hungry veteran. The Ku Klux Klan is one form of Americanism; the American Veterans committee is another. The Americanism of a lynched Negro is different than the Americanism of the white man at the other end of the rope.

According to the Constitution, Americanism means freedom of worship. In Lacona, Iowa, it was the excuse for breaking up a religious gathering. Also in the Constitution, Americanism means racial equality. In Mississippi, elections are won on a type of Americanism known as white supremacy.

To many the word is synonymous with free enterprise. To the veteran trying to start a taxi business in Chicago, the word has a sour taste. Others like to think of Americanism as rugged individualism. For those on the 8 to 4 shift at the Ford plant assembly line, Americanism is an escape from the monotony of their robot-like existence.

For some Americans, the term is the banner attached to the system that has given rise to the specialized, mass-produced, high standard of material life in the land. To these it means 30 million automobiles, a telephone for every fifth person and 56 million radio sets. It means the profit motive, free operation of the laws of supply and demand and a minimum of government control. It means the old way is the best way.

For some Americans, the term is mouthed with a sneer. To these it represents racial segregation, the hardships of the unstable American business cycle, the inequality of the distribution of wealth and income. To these it means 15 million unemployed, breadlines in New York and surpluses in Iowa and black markets and empty butcher shops. It means the neo-fascism of American bigotry and an inefficient economic system. For these it serves as a cloak behind which they plot revolution.

To other Americans, the word is used quietly—without either boasting rancor. To these it means social, economic and political imperfections—but imperfections that can be remedied by peaceful means within the democratic framework. It stands for the end of discrimination, full employment and national abundance. It means a system of production motivated by a social incentive. And it brings a picture of America in its proper perspective to the rest of the world.

It's this latter type of Americanism that we'd like to think the politicians mean when they use the term.

The Arts at SU

(Des Moines Tribune) We suspect that few Iowans know what great strides their university has been making in the fine arts field, which most middle westerners a generation ago were content to regard as the particular domain of the east.

The New York World Telegram recently discussed enthusiastically the summer art show which the university held this year for the second time. Pictures selected by department head Lester D. Longman from the country's leading art galleries were exhibited at the university.

"The pictures which make up the Iowa show (said the World Telegram) are such advanced stuff that probably no museum in sophisticated New York City, outside the Museum of Modern Art, would hang them. And no contemporary American show at the Museum of Modern Art ever has been as good."

The writer went on to say that the east "no longer can pretend intellectual superiority to the sticks. Art education is on the march, to the tune sounded by progressive museum directors like Lester Longman, who feel that only the best and the most vital in art is good enough for the erstwhile provincials."

Another item, reprinted in the current University bulletin, quotes Dr. Thompson Stone, well-known Boston musician who has studied in Vienna, Paris, London and Berlin, and recently appointed head of the music department of Tufts college at Medford, Mass. Dr. Stone (who has been a guest instructor at the university during several summers) says of the University symphony orchestra:

"It is the best university orchestra in the country today, and that is due to the work of Prof. Philip Clapp."

A music critic of the New York Times, Olin Downes, wrote practically the same thing several years ago after a visit to Iowa.

DAV Service Officer Dies of Heart Attack

William T. Krowl, national service officer of the Disabled American Veterans, succumbed to a heart attack Thursday, Sept. 19, according to word received here by H. E. Benson, chaplain of the local post, Old Gold No. 19.

Church services were held Monday in the National Service cemetery at Fort Snelling, Minneapolis, Minn.

BUMPER CROP

Many Iowans heard the university orchestra perform one of Dr. Clapp's own symphonies, "The Pioneers," at the Centennial celebration last summer. Although the outdoor setting was somewhat of a handicap and the orchestra did not "get across" as it does in a hall, the occasion did notify Iowa that it has a symphony orchestra of professional caliber.

The orchestra is heard in at least six concerts during a school year. All of the programs are standard symphonic works such as are played by the largest orchestras in the country. Indeed, they include many compositions that are seldom tackled by any but the "top flight" professional orchestras—such as the symphonies of Mahler and Bruckner—and these are well done.

In addition, the university orchestra serves as a vehicle for the introduction of the best original works of university composition students.

The university's music department may even be better known outside of Iowa than it is within the state for its excellence in the teaching of composition, which Dr. Clapp heads.

The recognition that Iowa is getting in fine arts is something to be proud of, and something to cultivate further.

James D. White's Interpreting the News...

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Russia has done two things this week that follow up Premier Stalin's famous interview on peace.

First, orders from Moscow enabled the Russian delegate on the Allied advisory council in Tokyo to say he was prepared to discuss the question of repatriating Soviet-held Japanese prisoners.

Second, orders from Moscow enabled the Soviet delegate to the United Nations atomic energy commission to agree to acceptance of a report on the international control of atomic energy.

Whether these actually stem from the Stalin pronouncement remains to be seen. In the case of the Japanese prisoners, at least, the decision might well have been on the way already, as the Soviet embassy in Tokyo has been watching Japanese parades demanding the return of captive relatives as promised at Potsdam.

The mere fact of timing, however, provides an apparent answer to the widespread reaction in this country to Stalin's conciliatory statement.

This reaction, everywhere, was:

"Deeds will tell us more than words."

Here are a couple of deeds. They are certainly not conclusive from an American standpoint because they merely open windows through which the jewel of agreement can be sighted. But there they are, and the Russian view now may be that the next move is up to the United States if agreement through conciliation is to result. The Russians are as quick as anyone to say that words alone are worthless.

The objective truth is, of course, that deeds must come from all sides if words are to bear meaning. The Paris Peace conference is an event to watch closely. Secretary Byrnes' statement that "for the first time I see a possibility of winding up the peace conference" is a hopeful sign.

But if things seem to be falling into place, it must be remembered that in two key places they have not done so. These are Greece and China, where the flames of civil war lick at the heels of men groping their way toward peace.

Off the Record Currier Basement a 'Rat Hole'

Off the Record

(Once received letters to the editor become the property of this newspaper and we reserve the right to edit them or withhold them altogether. Unsigned letters will not be published; signatures will be withheld upon request, however. Views expressed in letters do not necessarily represent those of The Daily Iowan—The Editor.)

TO THE DAILY IOWAN:

This is an emergency, so they tell us. The housing conditions are definitely bad, but everything is being done to alleviate the situation, so they tell us.

I for one, as a resident of Currier hall's cellar, am beginning to doubt this. The "excess" women students, composed in the majority by seniors and juniors who have been on campus for two or more years, are being crowded into what is now generally known as the rat hole.

I and my 56 room mates are sleeping in double deck bunk beds, in a room which is poorly lighted and ventilated and is a definite disease spreader. There are no closets at all and so clothes hang from wooden rafters and pipes along the ceiling. There are no desks at all, making studying impossible at a time in our college career when it is imperative.

Health conditions are nil. Roaches, looking fat and well fed, have been seen nightly, and spiders are being killed daily. The entire cellar is below ground level and the grate from the street walks let what little light that does come through seep in. There is only one unit of what is politely called "modern plumbing," which accommodates 100 women. Girls living upstairs have offered to double up their rooms and take us in. One hundred men students offered to move us upstairs. We were all set to go until we were informed that it would be too much extra work for the maids, and that even Dean Thompson himself couldn't change that order.

So we went back to our hole, which is like a POW camp in every respect, including the fact that the beds still have the prisoner's names on them.

Even the "wonderful huts" we are to move into sometime in the next couple of months, are not in condition, with their cement floors, double deck beds, foot lockers and about six desks to accommodate 16 girls.

Oh for the life of a freshman, in state or out, or a transfer student this semester. They have all the rooms, doubles and singles, and are living in palaces above the ground.

I always thought that students who have been here before were given some consideration. But then freshmen might leave school and wait a year if they had to live in a rat hole, whereas seniors won't I guess the extra money is awfully enticing.

which accommodates 100 women.

Girls living upstairs have offered to double up their rooms and take us in. One hundred men students offered to move us upstairs. We were all set to go until we were informed that it would be too much extra work for the maids, and that even Dean Thompson himself couldn't change that order.

So we went back to our hole, which is like a POW camp in every respect, including the fact that the beds still have the prisoner's names on them.

Even the "wonderful huts" we are to move into sometime in the next couple of months, are not in condition, with their cement floors, double deck beds, foot lockers and about six desks to accommodate 16 girls.

Two Instructors Selected to Attend Pan-American Meet

Two University of Iowa faculty members, Prof. Charles H. McCloy and Dr. Norma D. Young, have been selected as two of the four delegates from the United States to attend the second Pan-American congress of Physical Education in Mexico City Oct. 1 to 15.

The Iowans, both members of the men's physical education department, will attend the meeting with Dr. Frank Stafford of the U. S. office of education and Dr. Ben Miller, executive secretary of the American Association for Health, Physical Education, and Recreation.

Also attending the congress will be two university students. Maria Briceño, representing the Educational association of Chile, and Miss Josephina Chaves, representing Colombia. Beside being students here, both Miss Chaves and Miss Briceño are instructors in the Romance language department.

The purpose of the congress is to discuss modern trends in physical and health education and to formulate policies, especially for the Latin American countries. The group will be composed of official and special delegates from each of the nations of North and South America and the West Indies.

Dr. McCloy and Dr. Young were specially invited to appear by the organizing committee. Dr. McCloy also will represent the American Academy of Physical Education.

Compensation Form Not Yet Available

Dr. William D. Coder, director of the university's veteran's service office, said yesterday that estimate of compensation form, No. 7-1961, will not be available at the Shaeffer hall office for approximately two weeks.

The form is the veteran's estimate of the amount of compensation he will receive during the semester while enrolled under public law 346, and is required of all veterans.

Dr. Coder requested that veterans refrain from calling at his office during the next two weeks and wait until The Daily Iowan announces that the form has been received.

Book requisition forms for veterans will continue to be distributed at room 111, University hall, throughout next week, Dr. Coder said.

President Hancher To Address Students At Fellowship Vespers

President Virgil M. Hancher will speak on "The Quest for True Religion" at the Roger Williams Fellowship vespers at 6:30 p. m. tomorrow at the Baptist Student center, 230 N. Clinton street.

His subject is part of a series on "Great Issues of Christian Concern." A buffet supper, singing and games in the recreation room will follow the meeting.

Dr. O. D. Foster of the school of religion will speak on "Amos and the Social Gospel" at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow at the Roger Williams Sunday school class. This lesson will be correlated with the evening vespers program.

Baptist students, their fathers and friends are welcome.

Friendly Newcomers Plan Future Activities At Business Meeting

The friendly Newcomers club held their weekly meeting at the Wesley Annex from 2 to 5 Thursday afternoon. During the business meeting plans were made for future activities.

They include textile painting under the direction of Mrs. Ray Smith and sewing, knitting, and crocheting lessons to be given by Mrs. A. W. Bennett. The club president, Helen Arms, extends an invitation to all Iowa City newcomers to attend next week's meeting.

Currier Plans Sunday Music Hour as First Social Event of Season

"Mints and Music," the first social event of the year planned for Currier hall, will be held Sunday immediately following dinner in the South Parlor.

Announces Engagement

MR. AND MRS. JUSTIN T. MONNIG of Minneapolis, Minn., formerly of Iowa City, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Mary Modesta Monnig, to Atty. John E. Nagle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Nagle of Davenport. The wedding will take place in St. Mary's church early this winter. Miss Monnig graduated from Ottumwa Heights academy and attended Marycrest college in Davenport. She received her bachelor of science degree in commerce from the University of Iowa, where she was affiliated with the Phi Gamma Nu professional commerce sorority. Since her graduation from the university, she has been employed as secretary to Dr. A. Steindler. Mr. Nagle graduated from St. Ambrose academy and from St. Ambrose college where he received a bachelor of science degree. He graduated from the college of law at the University of Iowa where he was affiliated with Gamma Eta Gamma, legal fraternity and was elected to the Order of Coif, honorary legal fraternity. Mr. Nagle is a partner in the law firm of Cook, MacLaughlin, Blair and Balluff in Davenport and is also a professor at St. Ambrose college.

Shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, after a prelude of nuptial music, Betty Thomas, gowned in bridal white brocaded lace and wearing a fingertip veil, came down the aisle of the First Methodist church on the arm of her father, D. R. Thomas.

Proceeding here were her attendants, bridesmaids Barbara Strub and Virginia Kelly, both of Iowa City, and Mrs. William Sangster of Iowa City, matron of honor. Their gowns were styled with burgundy-colored bodices and pink skirts, and they carried arm bouquets of pink and burgundy carnations.

At the steps of the sanctuary the bride met the bridegroom, Dr. Wesley M. Page, and lifted her veil. Facing each other, the couple exchanged wedding vows, with Dr. L. L. Dunnington officiating. The bridal couple, accompanied by the bride's attendants, the best man, Fernando Tapia of Iowa City, and the ushers, Arden Bonebrake, J. C. Cavanaugh and Mickey Thomas, all of Iowa City, then proceeded up the candlelit steps to the altar.

Before the altar under the large round gold window, the bride and bridegroom exchanged rings and were pronounced man and wife.

Mrs. Page is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Thomas, 314 E. Fairchild street, and Dr. Page is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Page of Bedford.

A graduate of Iowa City high school, Mrs. Page is a senior in the University of Iowa, where she is affiliated with Alpha Delta Pi sorority. Dr. Page was graduated from the college of medicine at the university, and was a member of Phi Beta Pi medical fraternity.

of Iowa Union Thursday and Friday from 9 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. for social dance lessons. There will be a series of ten lessons for $1. SEEING THE SUBLIME UNITARIAN CHURCH Iowa Ave. - Gilbert St. Evans A. Worthley, Minister

Education involves a serious search for truth and beauty in the common and in the more subtle and complex aspects of human experience. Unitarian churches stand for freedom of thought and expression as men and women consider religious attitudes and ideas without bondage to dead dogmas and traditions of a pre-scientific era.

Local Girl Scouts Outline Program

The program for Iowa City's five newly organized senior Girl Scout troops has been outlined for the forthcoming season and the individual troops are meeting to choose their leaders, according to Mrs. Hugh Carson, Girl Scout director.

The five senior troops in Iowa City are: troops No. 1, 12, and 30, City high school; troop No. 6, St. Patrick's high school, and troop No. 11, St. Mary's high school.

A planning board composed of a representative from each troop and two additional members will meet each month to formulate more complete troop plans. One social meeting for all the troops will be held each month.

St. Mary's troop opened this year's activities with an outdoor picnic, Thursday, Sept. 26, in the home of their group leader, Mrs. Joseph Ponce, 308 N. Gilbert street.

Iowa City Brothers To Enter Five Heifers In Dairy Cattle Show

Eugene Jennings, University high school athlete, and his brother, Charles Jennings, will enter five Guernsey heifers in the 4-H club division of the dairy cattle congress Monday at Waterloo. Emmett C. Gardner, county extension director, announced yesterday.

The Jennings brothers have entered their stock in three classes of the 25th annual Iowa 4-H Dairy club exposition, sponsored by the Iowa state Dairy association and Waterloo dairy cattle congress.

The brothers are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Jennings, route 4. They will leave Iowa City early Monday.

This is the second 4-H club division show staged in September. Another similar event was held Sept. 21 at Ames.

Roger Williams House To Sponsor Annual Welcome Party Tonight

"Football Frolic" will be the theme for the annual welcome party at 8:15 tonight at the Roger Williams house, 230 N. Clinton street.

Informal mixers, games and group singing will be featured. Pennants and seasonal trimmings will develop a Big-Nine scheme in decorations.

NEWMAN CLUB Regular meeting Tuesday evening 7:30 at the Catholic Student center. A social hour will follow the general discussion.

BEHIND SCENES AT DAD'S DAY DANCE

LAST MINUTE TOUCHES to their make-up before the Dad's day dance at the Iowa Union last night are applied here by Pat Lynch, A4 of Algona, Valerie Dierks, A2 of Iowa City and Joyce Shrago, A1 of Okaloosa. For the first university dance of the season, Pat chose a black crepe dress with fringed cap sleeves and trimmed with a wide satin belt tied with a bow in front. Valerie is shown wearing a white wool casual styled with cap sleeves, a high neckline and a wide belt, and wore a matching headband with gold studs, while Joyce is attired in a blue crepe dress designed with a peplum effect on a straight split skirt and three-quarter length sleeves.

Myrna Ament Elected Eastlawn Association President Thursday

Myrna Ament, A2 of Iowa City, was elected president of the Eastlawn association Thursday night. Other officers elected include: Kathleen Burke, A3 of Marshalltown, vice president; Joyce Quire, A4 of Lynnville, treasurer; Elaine Glasser, A3 of Brooklyn, N. Y., secretary; O. Kay Knowles, A4 of Kirwin, Kan., judiciary chairman; Marilee Whitten and Martha Duesten, A2 of Burlington, social chairmen, and Dolores McMinn, A3 of Greeley, activities chairman.

102-Year-Old Resident, Great Granddaughter In 'Life' Magazine

"She's a beautiful baby," was the only comment of Ebenezer McMurray, 102 years old, of 721 N. Linn street, on looking at the picture of himself and infant great granddaughter, Mary Lynn Phillips, featured in the Sept. 30 issue of Life magazine.

Mr. McMurray, one of Iowa's four surviving Civil war veterans, is pictured in an illustrated article on the Iowa centennial. He lives with his daughter, Mrs. Chester A. Phillips.

"Father didn't have much to say when the Life photographer called here to take his picture, and he only commented on the baby when he saw the picture," Mrs. Phillips said, "but he has two copies of the magazine."

Iowa City 4-H Girls To Give Demonstration On Home Efficiency

Demonstrations on home efficiency will be given by several 4-H girls at the meeting of the home department of the Iowa City Woman's club Tuesday afternoon. The group will meet at 2:30 p. m. in the club rooms of the Community building.

Giving the demonstrations will be Arlene Lacinia and Doris Kadera of the Graham Crackers 4-H club, who were entered in state fair competition this year, and Julia Grace and Rita Siegling of the Jennie Wrens club, who will demonstrate ironing tricks.

Chairman of the home department is Mrs. Dan Shafer.

Lantern Slide Talk To Feature Meeting

A lantern slide talk on "Botanical Features of South American Desert Areas" will highlight a meeting of the Botany club Monday afternoon at 4:30 in room 420, pharmacy building. Dr. George W. Martin of the botany department will present the talk.

This will be the first meeting of the group for the year. New officers will be elected and refreshments will be served.

Rainbow Girls to Hold Initiation Ceremonies

The Order of the Rainbow for Girls will present their initiation services before the Order of the Eastern Star at the Masonic Temple Wednesday. The initiation will begin promptly at 7:00 p. m. and will be followed by the regular Eastern Star meeting.

SUI Personnel Office Places Vets' Wives In Most of 200 Jobs

More than 200 full-time positions have been filled through the office of non-academic personnel since that office began uncting July 1, according to A. C. Marks, director.

The majority of the positions have been filled by wives of veterans attending the university. The office handles applications for jobs in the university departments other than faculty or student employment, including clerical work and kitchen and maid service.

Marks said he feels the results show that the office, newly established on campus, serves as an effective clearing house for both employers and applicants. Further applications for stenographers and other skilled employees will be accepted by the office although such positions are not immediately available.

'Information First' Lectures To Feature Eleven Speakers

Eleven authorities in national and foreign affairs, economics, news analysis and similar fields will speak at Information First lectures this year, Elaine Lenney, A3 of Cleveland, Ohio, program chairman, announced yesterday.

The lecture series, which will begin Oct. 24 and end March 13, is one of the chief activities sponsored by University Women's association, a coordinating body for university women, designed "to promote fellowship, leadership and worthwhile activities."

Lectures will be in the senate chamber of Old Capitol again this year, and will begin at 4:30 each Thursday afternoon. The theme for this year is "Knowledge—the Last Best Hope of the Earth."

Explaining that Information First was an outgrowth of the war years, Miss Lenney declared yesterday, "We feel that current problems have increased rather than diminished our need for the first-hand information which the lectures offer students."

"Effie," a colorful dummy propped in front of Old Capitol on Thursdays last year to advertise the lecture series, will have a friend "Joe" this fall, according to Eloise Finch, A3 of Davenport, publicity chairman.

Every undergraduate woman is automatically a member of U.W.A. Dorothy Anne Kottemann, A4 of Burlington, U.W.A. president, urging all women to support and participate in its activities, pointed out yesterday that "The success of U.W.A. depends on the support and cooperation of all university women."

Other officers of the executive council this year are Nancy Green, A3 of Cedar Rapids, vice-president; Frances Marshall, A3 of Cedar Rapids, secretary; Betty Dickinson, A3 of Newton, treasurer, and Jeanne Ann McDonald, A2 of Lima, Ohio, sophomore representative.

Chosen by all university women students in an annual spring election, U.W.A. officers are nominated by retiring council seniors.

The U.W.A. governing council includes chairmen of all organization and representatives from three groups, including the Independent Women's association, the Panhellenic council and the Dormitory council.

U.W.A. open house for new women students, with Wanda Siebels, A4 of Amber, in charge, is scheduled for Thursday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock in the River room of Iowa Union.

The U.W.A. calendar given to all women enrolled in the university will be distributed at the open house and will be available to women students in the basement of Old Capitol after Thursday.

This year's "Code for Coeds", edited by Winifred Shields, A4 of Kansas City, Mo., is another U.W.A. publication. Its purpose is to acquaint new students with campus life. The organization also publishes "Regulations for Undergraduate Women."

University women students will meet student administrators at a coffee hour in the River room of Iowa Union from 4 to 5:30 p. m. November 5.

Spinsters' Spree, traditional girl-take-boy university dance, will be sponsored by U.W.A. Nov. 23.

A Dorothy Gray representative will conduct a three-day program on fashion, cosmetics and health in November. Julie Harvey, A4 of Okoboji, assisted by Janet Crabbe, A3 of Cedar Rapids, is in charge of this annual "Charm School."

During the vocational conference, a two-day March event, U.W.A. will bring to the campus again this year nationally known figures in the fields of business, education, science, radio and journalism. Jane Hertlein, C4 of Waverly, will direct the program.

The All-University sing, sponsored by U.W.A. each spring, will take place May 11 this year. Dorothy Davidson, A3 of Kirkwood, Mo., is the chairman.

In April on Recognition Day, yearly sponsored by U.W.A., recognition will be given to all women student leaders on the campus. Besides announcements of new club and sorority officers and new officers of large women's organizations, the outstanding committee chairmen will be recognized.

Awards will be made to the women with the highest scholastic rating in each class. Women with a four point grade will be given specific recognition and women with a three point or above average will be accorded general recognition.

The central judiciary board, under the direction of U.W.A., is the central judiciary board governing all university women's regulations. It will be headed this year by Ellen Larson, A4 of Dayton, Ohio.

BOMBAY (AP)—Twenty-three persons were killed and approximately 80 others were injured during communal rioting in Agra, Calcutta, Bombay and Dacca, casualty reports said yesterday.

Rhodes Scholarships To Be Re-Opened

Elections to Rhodes scholarships, suspended since 1939, will be resumed in December this year, with candidates elected scheduled to enter the University of Oxford in October, 1947, it was announced Thursday.

Complete information about the scholarships and application blanks may be obtained from Prof. J. Van der Zee, representative of Rhodes scholarships at the University of Iowa and secretary of the committee of selection for the state of Iowa.

Sixteen extra scholarships have been allotted the United States for the years 1946 and 1947, making a total of 48 scholarships to be awarded each of those years.

Rhodes scholars are appointed for two years, with a possibility of a third year for men who have made good records. Stipend of the appointment remains at approximately $1,600 and veterans attending Oxford will be eligible for benefits under the provisions of the GI bill of rights.

Pediatrics Clinic, Polio Talks to End Doctors' Meeting

Iowa doctors participating in the first in a series of physicians' monthly clinical conferences at University hospital will attend a clinic in pediatrics and hear a discussion of cases of mistaken diagnosis in anterior poliomyelitis this morning as part of the last day program.

Treatment of anterior poliomyelitis was demonstrated to the visiting doctors yesterday by Dr. W. D. Paul, head of the school of physical therapy. The use of new wonder drugs, such as curare and prostigmin, in the treatment of polio was discussed Thursday by Dr. Arthur Steindler of the orthopedics department.

Special operative clinics and hospital ward demonstrations in various fields of medicine were held each morning during the week, with roundtable conferences taking place each afternoon.

Visiting physicians have the opportunity to present problem cases and ask questions at these conferences, according to Dr. J. T. McClintock, head of the division of post graduate studies. The problem is discussed and advice given by hospital staff members or visiting doctors who have had experience with similar cases.

Clinic Is New Service
Clinical demonstrations in general surgery, gynecology, nose and throat surgery and urology were presented earlier in the week.

Scheduled monthly except for December, January and February, the clinic is a new service extended to Iowa doctors by University hospital and the college of medicine under the direction of Dean Ewen M. MacEwen and Dr. McClintock.

SUI Graduate Assistant Was—

'Mascot' of French Underground

By TOM HOUGLAND

Marie-Georgette Gregoire, graduate assistant and native French informant in the Romance languages department, termed herself yesterday as a "mascot" of workers in the French underground. During the occupation of France by the Germans, Miss Gregoire was an active, full-time member of the organized resistance movement.

MARIE-GEORGETTE GREGOIRE

An extremely modest person, in typical French fashion, Miss Gregoire was finally persuaded to explain her position of "mascot."

Assured Mission's Success
Whenever she worked on an underground assignment, nothing adverse happened to the success of the mission. And it was because of this that all underground members working in her unit wanted to be assigned to the same missions on which Miss Gregoire worked, since, "When I was with them, nothing happened."

Immediately after the fall of France in 1940, Miss Gregoire said she had the feeling that she should do something to aid her people in resisting the Germans.

In those early days, the activities of the underground consisted of writing articles and papers against the Germans and placing their publications in the mail boxes of those Frenchmen who would be interested.

While Miss Gregoire was a student in the university at Rennes, the French underground gradually became better organized, accomplishing an increasing number of missions.

In 1942, Miss Gregoire went to Paris to attend the Sorbonne. In Paris, she became affiliated with three underground organizations.

One of these groups, the "Service Social," was engaged chiefly in helping captured underground members escape from German imprisonment.

Used Three Names
This task always proved to be a difficult and dangerous one. All members of the underground operated under three names: their real name, the name on their false identity cards, and the name they used for rendezvous. When a member was captured by the Gestapo, the first things to be learned to arrange an escape were the name of the prisoner, the place where he was imprisoned and when he would be moved to another prison.

Since the captured member could have given any one of his three names, it was necessary for one of the free members to go to the Gestapo headquarters and find out which name had been given. Miss Gregoire, who worked under the name of Miss Danielle, often was the one to go to the Gestapo for this information.

Under the pretext that she wanted to send a package to the prisoner, Miss Gregoire would ask for information concerning all three names, using each as a separate person. She was always successful in getting the required data.

Once, when standing in the line at Gestapo headquarters, Miss Gregoire heard a woman scream every four seconds. She realized the woman was being tortured by the Gestapo and knew that, should she be caught in her ruses of learning a prisoner's name, she, too, would be tortured. But she was never apprehended.

Of an approximate total of 80 persons working in her section of the underground, 34 were captured by the Germans and some never returned.

Another incident in Miss Gregoire's charmed life happened when she was returning to Paris from an assignment in Compien. Because there were no trains running back to Paris, Miss Gregoire had to hitch-hike. A very nice, large white car passed by without picking her up. A little later, when she was riding in an old, slow automobile, Miss Gregoire passed the white (car. It had been strafed and wrecked.

Visited by Traitor
Miss Gregoire tells of the time a member of the "Miliciens," Frenchmen working for the Gestapo, visited her. The man had been a friend of hers in her childhood. Standing in her room, the Milicien showed her his great new Spanish revolver which the Germans had given him. In Miss Gregoire's dresser, there was a whole drawerful of identical revolvers which Miss Gregoire was hiding for the underground.

She worked for a time in Yonne where she served as a runner carrying weapons to the Maquis, in the mountains. The weapons were dropped by parachute from British or American aircraft based in Scotland.

Regarding the Battle of Paris, Miss Gregoire said she is still amazed at the rapidity with which the French FFI erected barricades throughout the city. She says that, in a matter of a very few hours, the whole physical aspect of Paris changed. At this time, Miss Gregoire was equipped with an arm-band, which she still has, that permitted her to pass through the FFI lines.

This is her first visit to the United States. Miss Gregoire says she cannot get over how much different America is from France, both the country and the people. She says the thing that impresses her most about the American people is that they are so efficient, practical and so organized.

Parts Arrive Here For Parking Meters

The first shipment of parts to be used in the installation of parking meters in Iowa City arrived here Thursday night, Mayor Wilbur J. Teeters said yesterday.

The castings, metal rings which will fit around the bottom of the pipe on which the meters will be attached, were the pieces received.

Installation will be made by the Magee-Hale Park-O-Meter company as soon as the rest of the shipment is completed, the mayor said.

The meters will be placed on both sides of the street around the block bounded by Washington and College streets, and between Clinton and Dubuque streets.

Motorists will be charged 1 cent for 12 minutes of parking or 5 cents for one hour.

University Hospital Reports Two Deaths

Two deaths of out-of-town persons were reported last night by University hospital.

Professor Potter To Speak Monday

Prof. Van R. Potter of the University of Wisconsin will address members of the Iowa section of the American Chemical Society and their guests Monday, Oct. 7, at 7:30 p. m. in the chemistry building, "Inside the Cancer Cell" will be his topic.

A brief resume of the historical background of the field of enzyme chemistry will be given by the speaker, followed by a non-technical description of the methods and results of quantitative analysis of specific enzymes.

Dr. Potter will be honored at a dinner in a private dining room at Iowa Union at 6 o'clock the evening of the lecture.

Dr. Potter has developed a number of assay methods for the quantitative estimation of specific enzymes in tissue homogenates and has published about 50 papers in the field of biological oxidations and related energy transformations.

A member of the American Chemical Society, the American Society of Biological Chemists and the American Association for Cancer Research, he received M.S. and Ph.D. degrees at the University of Wisconsin.

The graduate college and the Iowa section of the American Chemical Society are sponsoring the lecture.

Y.W.C.A. Memberships Open to New Students At Tuesday Meeting

New women students on campus will have an opportunity to sign up for activities and membership in the Young Women's Christian association at a meeting Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 in the senate chamber of Old Capitol, Harriet Arnold, A4 of Valparaiso, Ind., Y.W.C.A. president, said yesterday.

A second general meeting, to be held Wednesday afternoon at 4:30, will be primarily for women who have attended the university before.

A skit explaining various phases of Y.W.C.A. work and presented by the Y.W.C.A. cabinet will be featured on the program.

Eligibility to vote for Y.W.C.A. work and presented by the Y.W.C.A. cabinet will be featured on the program.

Eligibility to vote for Y.W.C.A. officers has been changed this year to include the requirement that a woman devote 10 hours to active participation in some phase of the Y.W.C.A. program, in addition to being a member, according to Louise French, Y.W.C.A. secretary.

Any woman pledging dues to Y.W.C.A. and not fulfilling that pledge may not vote, although there is no financial obligation in connection with membership, Miss French said.

Dorothea Davidson, A3 of Kirkwood, Mo., Mary Ellen West, A4 of Des Moines, and Jeanne Wheeler, C3 of Webster are in charge of the meetings.

A new type of adhesive for paper may be soaked in water from four to 48 hours without losing its "grip."

Cliff Kyes to Play At Policemen's Ball

The annual policemen's benefit ball, to be held Oct. 28 in the Community building, will feature the music of Cliff Kyes' orchestra, it was announced yesterday by Chief Ollie White, general chairman.

Tickets for the ball will go on sale Tuesday and may be obtained from any member of the Iowa City police force.

Committee chairmen announced by White are: L. N. Ham, G. R. Hall, H. F. Sprinkle, D. A. Purvis and E. J. Ruppert; tickets, F. H. Lewis and W. J. Holland, entertainment; A. A. Schnoebelen and B. A. Hauber, ballroom and policing; C. D. Stimmel and G. E. Brown, checkroom, and M. A. Moore, publicity.

Committee chairmen will select other members of the force to assist with the duties of the committees.

Job-Seeking Students Requested to Register For Student Placement

Students seeking part-time work at the office of student affairs were requested yesterday, by Robert L. Ballantyne, manager of student placement, to simplify the job-getting problem by registering themselves at his office in the usual manner instead of standing in line outside his office.

Ballantyne reports that many students have missed first-week classes to sit in line at his office only to learn that there are no jobs immediately available. If these persons will register for employment, student aid will contact them whenever jobs are open.

With merchandise at its present low supply stage, there are few business houses in need of extra help, Ballantyne added, but student aid is always informed of openings.

The best opportunity for work at present is a call for an unlimited number of men to work on housing projects on the campus. Information about these jobs may be obtained from Roy Skriver at the A.F.L. office, 111 1/2 East Washington street, or from student aid, at the office of student affairs.

Cornwall Files Suit For Collision Damages

Leland Cornwall filed suit yesterday in district court against John Soukop for $550 collision damages.

Cornwall charges that Soukop drove on the wrong side of the road while making a right turn Sept. 9 and collided with his car coming east on highway 6 west of Iowa City.

Estimated damage to the Cornwall car was $250. Additional damages of $300 are asked by the plaintiff because his business requires the use of his car.

Jack C. White is Cornwall's attorney.

Iowa City Veteran Receives First Amputee Car

Seven S.U.I. Amputees Also in Line for Specially-Equipped Autos

FIRST JOHNSON COUNTY amputee veteran to receive a new specially-equipped automobile under a government plan. Richard K. Pelechek is shown seated in his 1946 Oldsmobile. Admiring the vehicle are, left to right, Warren L. Van Eschen, Jerry Coughlon, Stanley Herrmann and Howard D. Hamilton, all of whom have also applied for a car under provisions of the plan.

Richard Keith Pelechek was a happy man yesterday.

"Dick," as he is known to his friends, had just received a new Oldsmobile hydraulic-drive sedan from "Uncle Sam." He was the first amputee veteran from Johnson county to receive one of the specially-equipped automobiles.

Dick's new car, and others like it, has no clumsy foot clutch and hand gear shift to impede the driving of amputee cases. The government furnishes these cars to amputee veterans free of charge in recognition of their disabilities and wartime services.

Arrives Friday

Pelechek applied for his car Aug. 27, and it arrived in Iowa City last Friday. Filling out forms and other minor details required a week, but Dick says he is more than pleased with the speed in which the car was turned over to him.

Pelechek, a veteran of two years service, joined the 83rd "Thunderbolt" division, then in Germany, in April, 1945. In the famous Elbe river drive, he was walking behind a tank when an enemy "88" shell pierced the tank and exploded, causing him to suffer the loss of a leg and other injuries.

Ironically, he was injured just four days before the end of hostilities with Germany.

Discharged June

After considerable hospital treatment, the veteran was discharged June 5, 1946.

Dick, who lives at 22 W. Burlington street, has no immediate plans for a long trip in his new sedan. His bright, shining eyes and constant smile said that just having the car was enough for now.

Other veterans who have applied through the local veteran's administration office for new hydraulic automobiles are: University of Iowa students Warren L. Van Eschen, Stanley Herrmann, Howard D. Hamilton, Jerry Coughlon, Ronald Wick, Robert J. Jensen and Charles H. Culbertsen.

R. J. Reyhons of Solon, T. G. Lundy of Zealing, Leo Durian of Wellman, and L. W. Heldt, rural route 1, are other applicants.

Opening Pep Meeting Draws 200 Students; Joe Sheeketski Talks

Approximately 200 students turned out for the first pep rally of the year in Macbride auditorium last night.

Expressing admiration for the enthusiasm of the rally, those who were present at that time, line coach Joe Sheeketski told students that Iowa has a determined team that has a fighting chance to win the Iowa-Purdue game, provided the team is properly backed by the student body.

Bob Liddy, A4 of Monticello, a guard on the Iowa team, speaking in behalf of the team, declared, "We want this game, we need this game, and I think I am speaking for the entire squad when I say, 'we'll get this game for you.'"

A former football player and a 1924 graduate of law school, Craven Shuttleworth, Cedar Rapids attorney, addressed the rally as a Dad's day representative. Mr. Shuttleworth's son, Bill, is a freshman on campus this year.

Physics Colloquium To Be Held Monday

Reports on a special New York meeting of the American Physical Society will be given at the first of a series of weekly physics colloquia at 4:30 p. m. Monday in room 301, physics building.

Dr. Arthur Roberts and Dr. J. M. Jauch, both of the physics department, will report on papers presented at the meeting, which was attended by a few noted physicists from abroad.

"Problems discussed there which we will touch upon," Dr. Jauch explained, including cosmic rays, elementary particles and fundamental problems in the quantum theory of fields.

This was the first postwar meeting at which results of research conducted after the war's end were presented and discussed, Dr. Jauch added.

Dr. Roberts said his report would include information presented on accelerators used in nuclear research.

Similar colloquia, held weekly under the auspices of the physics department will be attended by physicists from other Iowa schools.

L.L. Dunnington Speaks At Sunday Supper Club

Dr. L. L. Dunnington, pastor of the Methodist church, will speak at 7:15 p. m. tomorrow at the evening supper club meeting at Wesley annex, 213 East Market street.

Dr. Dunnington will tell of his experiences while living for six months with the Czech army.

A supper will be served at 6:30 p. m. Reservations may be made at the annex.

STUDENTS! IOWA SUPPLY STORE

Will Close From 1:00 to 5:00 P.M. TODAY for the Iowa-Purdue Game

Band, Highlanders Will Salute Dads At Today's Game

With Dad's day interest focused on Iowa stadium, the Dad's day theme with new postwar variations will be carried out this afternoon when the University band performs at pre-game and halftime ceremonies at the Iowa-Purdue football game.

Also featured on the program will be the 55-member, all-girl Scottish Highlander troupe.

New Kind of Dad

A new kind of "Iowa Dad" will be honored at half-time ceremonies according to Prof. C. B. Righter, director of university bands.

After the band has formed the word "D A D S" it will break into the tune "Rock-A-Bye Baby," and three GI students will appear on the field with their infant sons, one wheeled in a baby carriage, one in his father's arms and one led by the hand.

The three fathers and their sons are Francis Weaver, L2 of Mason City, and his son John; Keith Noah, A3 of Charles City, and his son Ronnie; and Jack Borg, G of Des Moines and his son John Eric.

Visiting fathers will not be forgotten, however, Professor Righter said, and in salute to them, the band will play "Daddy."

Other half-time maneuvers will include the performance of a series of maneuvers by the 55-girl Scottish Highlanders, under the direction of Pipe Major William L. Adamson. Today's Highlander drum-major will be Helen Huber Eberle.

Directed on the field by Arnold Oehlisen, assistant director, the band will feature two drum majors, Charles W. McKinley, A2 of Clinton, and John DuMont, A1 of Anamosa.

Band Trumpeters Will Include Mary Jane McCrae, A4 of Clinton; La Vonne Stock, A2 of Storm Lake; Arthur Pippinger, A2 of Maywood, Ill., and William W. Ward, E1 of Fairfield. Twirlers who will perform are JoAnne Huss, A4 of Davenport, Lorna Goodpastor, A2 of Rock Island, Ill.; Aris Platt, A3 of Oelwein; Harriet Neal, A1 of Greene, and Anne D. Link, A3 of Waukon.

Boomsliiter Appointed To Cornell Faculty

Paul C. Boomsliiter, who received an M.A. degree from the university speech department in 1938, has been appointed to the speech faculty at Cornell university, Ithaca, N. Y., the university alumni office reported yesterday.

An instructor in speech at Goucher college from 1940-42, Dr. Boomsliiter received his Ph.D. degree from the University of Wisconsin in 1942, after studying there on a fellowship.

State Will Petition To District Court For Gas Tax Fund

An application asking release of over six million dollars in state gasoline tax funds now being held in trust by two Iowa City banks will be filed in district court here by the state of Iowa today or Monday, according to Herbert J. Ries, special assistant attorney general.

The money, totalling $6,022,019, was collected on the fourth cent of the state gas tax.

L. V. Carlton, Iowa City, who lost an Iowa supreme court case testing the constitutionality of the tax, indicated yesterday that he would present objections to distribution of the money.

District Judge Harold D. Evans refused Wednesday to sign an order releasing the fund and set Monday as deadline for the state to file application for the release.

He ordered that the banks, Carlton and "other interested parties" would have until Oct. 15 to file their objections.

In refusing to release the funds, Judge Evans pointed out that he was not violating a supreme court order, and said that it was merely a matter of procedure to allow time for the objections.

City High Edges Davenport in Crucial Battle, 7-0

DON FRYAUF

By DON SCANNELL
Daily Iowan Sports Reporter

City high's mighty grid machine kept its perfect record unblemished and plastered a 7-0 smudge on the Davenport Blue Devils in a thrill packed encounter last night at Shrader Field.

The Little Hawks, sparked by halfbacks Don "Corky" Fryauf and Bob "Chugger" Wilson, greeted their former coach, Wally Schwank, to a dose of his own medicine in his first appearance, he in the role of a visiting mentor. Last year the Hawks, under the tutelage of Schwank, defeated the Imps 12-7, on their own field.

It was a quarterback sneak by Jim Sangster from the one yard line in the closing minutes of the third quarter that gave the Hawks the decision. Wilson intercepted a pass by Joe Paulsen on the Iowa City 45 to start the Hawks rolling. Fryauf and Wilson then alternated to give the Hawks three consecutive first downs and the ball on Davenport's one yard line to set the stage for Sangster's plunge.

The Iowa City line met the challenge of jarring Joe Paulsen, 200 pound right half, and forced the Imps to come off the field second best in the struggle of forward walls.

Fumbles hindered the attack of both teams in the first half in particular. The Hawks fumbled five times and recovered three of the hobbles. Davenport lost the ball twice in the three times they juggled the wet pigskin.

Five times the Hawks were forced to punt and Bill Reichardt booted the ball five times with an average of 40 yards per kick, including a booming 63 yard punt that fell dead on the Davenport two yard line midway in the first quarter.

Iowa City won the toss and elected to receive. Three plays later, they fumbled and Jim Hayek recovered for the Imps on the locals' 40. Paulsen pushed the ball to the 29 but the Hawks held and took over on their own 20 to thwart the first Davenport threat.

After one first down, Reichardt punted to the Imps two yard line. The Blue Devils worked their way to the 30 before Paulsen fumbled and Corky Fryauf pounced on the free ball.

Fryauf broke loose to the 10 yard line but the play was called back and the Hawks penalized 15 yards for holding. Iowa City was forced to kick and Paulsen was dropped on his own 12. Once again Paulsen's fumble was recovered by Fryauf—this time on the Davenport 29 yard line. Fryauf and Wilson moved the ball to the 15 but Jack Cherry recovered a Hawklet bobble on the 14 to end the threat.

Seven plays later the Imps were hounding the Iowa City goal. Paulsen was the big gun in the attack with his runs and passes to Fred Ruck. Once again the Hawklet line held off the threat by stopping Paulsen inches short of a first down on the 8.

The Little Hawks initiated a drive of their own featuring the blocking of Tom Miller that put the ball on the Davenport 24 as the half ended.

In the second half the Imps' only punt of the game was partially blocked by Reichardt and Virgil Troyer fell on the ball. The Blue Devils regained possession a few plays later and on the first play Wilson intercepted Paulsen's pass to set up the Iowa City score.

In the closing minutes of the game, the Imps started another drive that culminated the Hawklet 23 as Joe Citek recovered Warnack's fumble. A 48 yard gallop by Fryauf put the Little Hawks in a threatening position as the game ended.

White Sox Win Two; Near Fourth

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago White Sox twice collected 15 hits from three opposing pitchers to beat the St. Louis Browns 7-3 and 8-3 yesterday and moved to within half a game of the first division.

Despite homers by Glen McQuillen, Mark Christman and Hank Helf, the Sox captured the opener with a 15 hit attack off Fred Sanford, whom they routed in the fifth, Bob Muncief and Cliff Fanning.

Trailing 5-0 in the second game, the Browns drove Frank Papish from the mound in the sixth with a three-run outburst led by singles by Allen Zarilla and Vern Stephens and a triple by Paul Lehner.

Cardinals Drop Into Tie With Idle Dodgers

FIRST ADD SPORTS

By CHAD BROOKS

Well what'd ya know? Just a bunch of experts, that's what we are. It isn't often that a fellow gets a chance to crow, especially when he's trying to predict football winners, so please let us toot our own horn just this once.

You see, the "board of experts" made up of the Daily Iowan sports reporters, batted 100 percent last week in their five major picks—as against an 80 percent for our "Mr. Average Fan," Harvey Ingham. Seems that Mr. Ingham got too enthusiastic about the Iowa State Cyclones who naturally lost to "our" team, Colorado.

Then we also want to claim a minor victory in predicting a one-sided win for Texas over Colorado—the score was 42-0 which is one-sided enough for us.

Oh yeah, just in case either of you guys who read this column a week ago are back for more, we also made a slight mistake and tried to pick the winners in 12 other games. But ere whiz—you can't blame us for ignoring Cincinnati, even though we did score clear misses on Mississippi-Kentucky and Kansas TCU. That still leaves us with a total of 14 out of 17.

But this week will probably be plenty different. Not only are the games getting tougher every week but—curses—they've thrown in a ringer on us this week. Nobody could possibly claim that Mike Enich is an "average fan."

For those of you who might not have read the papers back around 1939-40, Enich was one of the famed Iowa Ironmen and an all-American tackle. Matching predictions with a guy like that is plain suicide.

Probably the smartest thing for us would be to agree with Big Mike right down the line. But then we like to stick our necks out so we will go to differ over one little point.

THE PREDICTIONS:

Enich	The Experts
Iowa over Purdue	Iowa
Michigan over Indiana	Michigan
Wisconsin over California	Wisconsin
Tennessee over Georgia Tech	Tennessee
Illinois over Notre Dame	Notre Dame

And, just to prove that some people never learn, we'll just buzz right through some of the other games. Army over Oklahoma, Holy Cross over Dartmouth, Navy over Villanova, Northwestern over Iowa State, Minnesota over Nebraska, Ohio State over Missouri, Oklahoma A and M over Arkansas, Alabama over Tulane, Georgia over Clemson, Mississippi over Florida, KENTUCKY OVER CINCINNATI, LSU over Rice, Texas over Colorado, Baylor over TCU, Stanford over Idaho, and St. Mary's over Washington.

Tony Zale Climbs Off Floor to Stop Challenger Graziano

By SID FEDER
YANKEE STADIUM, NEW YORK (AP)—Tony Zale, every inch a champion, came back from the verge of a knockout last night to flatten the mighty—punching Rocky Graziano in the sixth round of a blood-and-thunder brawl and retain his world middleweight championship.

Floored once himself, his face a bloody mass as the dynamiter from New York's lower eastside turned loose his famed "rock-a-bye punch," the one-time Indiana steel mill hand caught up with the challenger midway of the sixth to drop him with a lightning left hand and put him away for keeps at 1 minute 43 seconds of the sixth session of their scheduled 15-rounder.

It was the second knockdown of the fight for Rocky the Rock, in as vicious and bloody a brawl as has been seen in any ring. But this second time, apparently softened up by the body bombs that are Tony's specialty, he he couldn't make it to his feet again.

He sat on the ring canvas, holding the middle strand of the ropes, as referee Ruby Goldstein, himself a classy welterweight of a bygone era, counted the full ten to leave the 160-pound crown on Tony's head in his first defense as champion.

A crowd of 39,827, one of the greatest crowds ever to see two batters other than heavyweights fight it out, were on hand for the proceedings and contributed to a gross gate of $342,497.

Dr. Vincent Nardiello, state athletic commission physician, looked over Zale's hand which he said he injured in the second round, in the dressing room later and said that although he couldn't tell for sure without an x-ray, it appeared to be either a fracture or a bad bruise.

The finish was as startling as it was definite and final and one of the greatest crowds ever to see two little men in action roared for ten minutes in shocked surprise at the suddenness of the end.

For, up to that point, through three of the last four completed rounds, Graziano had given Tony a going over so fiercely and ferociously with his right hand, that when the fifth round ended, some ringsiders were even wondering whether the champion could come out for the sixth.

Bruins Pound Redbirds, 7-2

Championship Play-off Possible as Leaders Face Final 2 Games

ST. LOUIS (AP)—St. Louis pennant hopes hit a new low last night as the Cardinals dropped into an exact first place tie with the idle Brooklyn Dodgers by bowing to the Chicago Cubs 7-2. Each club has only two games to play.

Thus the slumping Redbirds, who had held tight to the National league lead since Aug. 28, found themselves in a wild scramble to force the Dodgers into a three-game post season playoff.

While the Cards take on the rough and ready Chicago team tonight and Sunday in single games the Dodgers play the Boston Braves, the team with which the Cubs are scrapping for third place.

Most press box observers were inclined to favor the probability of a tie after last night's results and there was every indication that the world series would have to be pushed back to make room for the extra games.

No longer a matter of future planning, manager Eddie Dyer picked Harry (The Cat) Brecheen, who has been able to beat the Cubs five times this season, to go after today's game. His opponent will be Paul Erickson, a right hander, who got the job when manager Charley Grimm had to call on Hank Wyse in relief in the opener after Hank Borowy had to give way because of a blister on his pitching hand.

Borowy, who had beaten Howie Pollet, the Birds' ace, last Sunday in Chicago pitched the same kind of a ball game and actually won by the same score although he couldn't finish.

Failure of the St. Louis hitters was the reason for their defeat although Pollet, plainly showing the strain of carrying most of the pitching burden, was not at top form. Not until the eighth inning did the Cards score as

Parking Tips

Here are parking tips for football spectators attending the Purdue-Iowa game Saturday, as announced by Director E. G. Schroeder.

(1) Iowa City persons and students leave cars at home.

(2) Visitors park on the east side of Iowa river.

(3) Watch for signs at the Burlington St. and Iowa Ave. bridges: when space in the vicinity of the stadium is filled, these signs will be erected and drivers should turn back and park on the east side of the river.

Bobby Feller Ties Strikeout Record

DETROIT (AP)—Bob Feller, Iowa fireball pitcher of the Cleveland Indians, stuck with a quick-breaking curve yesterday to fan six Detroit batters in five innings and equal Rube Waddell's 42-year-old modern major league record of 343 strikeouts in a single season.

The Indians overcame a four-run deficit to win the game 9 to 8.

Feller, who entered the game in the fifth inning, relieving 23-year-old Bob Kuzava, fanned five of the first eight men to face him but it was not until the ninth inning that Jimmy Outlaw went down swinging at the pitch that put Rapid Robert in the record book.

In the Cleveland clubhouse after equalling Waddell's mark Feller denied that the extra work was tiring him but admitted that he was wild.

"I'm going to pitch as much as possible and get just as many strikeouts as I can," Bob said.

they managed to tally only nine runs in their last six starts.

The handwriting was on the wall for Pollet as early as the third inning when the Cards' No. 1 boy and 20-game winner, staggered around the premises under a three-hit attack that yielded only one run.

U-High Eleven Slaps Bloomfield

By DON MALONEY
Daily Iowan Sports Reporter

Despite a fourth quarter downpour and a 13 point rally, the rangy Bloomfield Maroons were humbled, 35 to 20, yesterday afternoon by the U-High Blue-hawks who had scored five first half touchdowns on sparkling runs.

Swivel-hipped Craig Harper, playing left half for the Blue-hawks, tallied on 51 and 39 yard runs in the second quarter, and Gus Helm, versatile quarterback, scored on a 30 yard jaunt after intercepting a desperate Maroon pass in the latter's own back yard.

The first U-High tally came after a sustained 60 yard drive in the first frame with Harper going over. Helm kicked the extra point. The stage for the second Iowa City touchdown was set three plays later when Bluehawk guard Darrell Hansen recovered a Maroon fumble on the Bloomfield 41.

A completed pass from Helm to Doug Dierks and four smashes pushed the score up to 13 for the Blue-hawks. After the kick off, the Maroons were forced to punt.

With the ball resting on the Bluehawk 49 yardline, Helm handed the pigskin to Harper on a spinner. The latter went off right tackle, reversed his field to take advantage of beautiful downfield blocking, and went 51 yards to score.

Bloomfield's first tally came on a 10 yard pass from Royal Ritz to Jack Wilkenson who sprinted 45 yards into pay dirt. The U-High scored twice more in quick succession on Harper's 39 yard run and Helm's pass interception, leaving the half time score at 33-7.

The third quarter opened with Iowa City receiving. The Blue-hawks drove from their own 25 to the Maroon two yard line on sweeps and line smashes with Bob Ojemann, Harper, Dierks and Helm taking turns juggling the ball. Time and again Gus Helm would lower his head, bowl over a couple Maroons and go a few more yards.

Bloomfield stiffened however and held the Bluehawks three times on the two yard line and finally took the ball by recovering a fumble on the one yard line. A bad pass by the Bloomfield center meant a safety and two more points for Iowa City.
