Iowa Favored Over Nebraska

Hawks Plan Pass Attack

By CHAD BROOKS
Daily Iowan Sports Editor
They may never know what hit them.

One of the oldest rivalries in mid-western football will swing into its 55th showing at Iowa stadium this afternoon when the University of Iowa's Hawkeyes tangle with the neighboring Huskers from down Nebraska way—and the whole thing seems to be a big mistake on the part of the schedule makers.

This is certainly no time for an undermanned but upset hopeful Nebraska team to invade the lair of the powerful Hawkeyes, 'cause they're going to run into a fighting mad Old Gold bunch that is all primed for a touchdown parade.

Still smarting from their 14-7 defeat at the hands of Michigan's mighty Wolverines last week, a defeat that they still refuse to accept, the Hawks have smashed their way through this week's drills with a vengeance that promises all kinds of trouble for the Huskers.

The fellows in the know—the wise money boys that make book on the football games—are spotting Nebraska anywhere from 21 to 27 points.

The Hawk drills this week have been strictly on the intensive side, with Anderson running the boys through three to three and a half hour practice sessions right through Thursday afternoon.

And these drills have featured a savagery that was missing on the Iowa squad before the Michigan game. The Hawks' new "rock-em" line, with the Shoener twins at ends and giant Jim Shoaf at left tackle, has been little short of terrific on defense against Husker plays.

Meanwhile, the Hawk three-deep backfield has become more offense minded with the week's drills. A host of razzel-dazzel plays have been injected into the Iowa grab-bag, and Anderson has indicated that the expected 25,000 fans will see some of them used against the Huskers.

The Hawks are also expected to sharpen up their air arm today—with an eye toward their games with Indiana, Notre Dame and Illinois on the next three week-ends. It was the almost complete absence of an overhead threat that cost them a victory at Ann Arbor last Saturday.

As an added attraction, today will be Sam Vacanti homecoming at the stadium as the 1942 Hawkeye sophomore star returns to Iowa City as the Cornhusker king pin. And Dr. Eddie's boys are planning a real warm reception for the "disappearing" quarterback.

The Hawks have never been very happy about Sam's run-out to Nebraska when he got out of the army early this fall—and the "homecoming" could possibly shape up as a grudge battle shortly after the kick-off.

Sam's Husker teammates are a little on the puny side, spotting the Hawks an eleven pound-perman weight advantage up front, but boast of a fast stepping backfield quartet.

Dick Hutton, a ten second dash man, and Cletus Fischer, slippery right half, pack most of Nebraska's break-away threat, with Vacanti doing the passing and fullback Tom Novak furnishing the power.

The Hawks will probably lineup with game co-captains Hal and Herb Shoener at the ends, Shoaf and Jim Cozad at tackle, Dave Day and Russ Benda at the guards, Dick Laster at center, and Lou King, Bob Sullivan, Bob Smith and Dick Hoerner in the backfield.

But this is just the half of it, Dr. Eddie could just as well start a team with Bob Phillips (LE), Bill Kay (LT), Ray Carlson (LG), Jim Lawrence (C), Earl Banks (RG), Bruno Niedziela (RT), Tony Guzowski (RE), Jim Smith (QB), Emlen Tunnell (LHB), Dell Bartells (RHB) and Russ Fechter (FB).

Maybe the Hawks won't use a Michigan two-team system but this should be plenty of power to handle the Huskers.

Three Charged With Attempt To Sell Atom Bomb Pictures

BALTIMORE (AP)—Six snapshots taken on Tinian Island of material and equipment relating to the atom bomb were in the hands of federal agencies today after three men were taken into custody on a tip from alert Baltimore News-Post editors.

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents and military intelligence arrested the men on accusations they attempted to peddle the unauthorized pictures, described by the FBI as "most detrimental to the security of the United States," for $7,000.

The first announcement of the arrests said that the pictures were of an atom bomb, but a Bureau announcement later from Washington said further study of the photographs showed the pictures "were not of the atomic bomb itself, but were of material and related equipment to the atomic bomb."

One of the men, a former private in the army air forces, explained his possession of the pictures by saying he and four other servicemen surreptitiously removed the covering of an atomic bomb and took a photograph on Tinian Island in the late summer of 1945, the FBI said in announcing the arrests.

But how the private, George Wallace Comers, 23, of Bel Air, Md., managed to slip the photographs through security precautions was without explanation.

Comer, with Miles Frederick Daubenheyer, also of Bel Air, and Capt. James Barnes Rike, Chattanooga, Tenn., were arraigned before United States commissioner Ernest Volkart here today but were not asked to enter pleas. They were ordered held under $1,000 bond each for another hearing Oct. 23.

Fred Hallford, agent in charge of the FBI here, said the Department of Justice specifically charged that the men "did unlawfully publish a photograph of a piece of classified military equipment without first obtaining the permission of the commanding officer of the army air forces based on Tinian."

He said conviction on the charge carries a penalty of a fine of not more than $1,000 or imprisonment for not more than one year, or both, for each offense.

Five Men Killed In Bomber Crash

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP)—Five men were killed in the crash of an army bomber near here last night, but 27 persons aboard an Eastern Airline plane which was wrecked soon after a few miles away escaped death.

The army plane, a B-25 twin engine job, was enroute from Langley Field, Va., to nearby Andrews Field, Md. Identity of the victims was not immediately disclosed.

Delegates Accept Danube Plan In Bulgarian Treaty Provisions

PARIS, Saturday (AP)—The 21-nation peace conference early today wrote into the Bulgarian peace treaty provisions to internationalize the Danube river, matching the action taken early yesterday in the Romanian treaty.

The action was seized by a 15 to 6 east-west split vote, the same ratio that has marked most of the votes on controversial commercial and military issues.

Early in the session that began at 9:50 o'clock last night, the conference failed to agree on frontiers for Bulgaria, apparently throwing the problem of the border between Greece and Bulgaria back to the foreign ministers' council for final decision.

By LOUIS NEVIN

The Danube question is to come up again in handling of the Hungarian treaty, scheduled to be discussed in sessions later today.

The conference's return of the Bulgarian border issue to the foreign ministers without recommendation was an unexpected point gained for Greece.

The upset came after the United States had pledged to join in United Nations defense of Greece against any aggressor, arguing that United Nations action was a better security for the Hellenic kingdom than the strategic frontiers she sought with her northern neighbor.

What disposition the Big Four would make of the frontier issue was problematical, however, as a Russian consent would be necessary to extension of Greek territory into the Bulgarian mountains.

The conference also voted 12 to 6 to forbid Bulgaria from constructing any fortifications along her southern boundary with Greece, and to order the Bulgarians to destroy any war material capable of being fired into Greek territory. There were three abstentions.

When article one of the treaty, fixing Bulgaria's frontiers as those existing Jan. 1, 1941, was submitted to the 21-nation conference only nine voted in favor. Twelve abstained.

Because of the abstentions the chairman, U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, ruled that the article had not been carried, and the delegates proceeded to vote on the other articles.

Britain was among the nations who abstained, while the United States was included in the nine who were in favor. Britain did not violate any "Big Four" agreement when she failed to vote in favor of the commission-drafted article, since there was a provision in the draft sent to the peace conference by the foreign ministers council that the Greek-Bulgarian frontier was left up to the 21 nations.

The nine in favor were the six

Slav states, France, Norway and the United States.

The conference, moving ahead more rapidly than on any of the preceding treaties, approved by a 13 to 6 vote, with two abstentions, a British proposal that Bulgaria pay Greece and Yugoslavia $125,000,000 in reparations and then adopted a Greek amendment that this sum should be divided equally between the two countries and payable within six years in agricultural produce, coal, live stock and railroad equipment. The Greek amendment was approved 12 to 7 with two abstentions.

U.S. Note Restates Opposition to Soviet Dardanelles Claims

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States yesterday firmly restated its opposition to increased Soviet control over the Dardanelles and warned Russia that this country does not intend to be shouldered out of the negotiations over the vital straits.

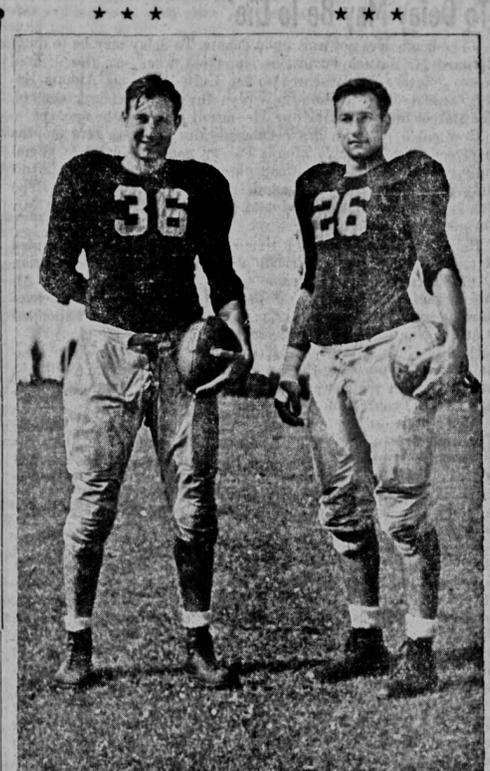

The American position was set forth in a note delivered in Moscow by Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith. The note was dated Oct. 9 but released only yesterday by the state department.

The United States newest communication, which was circulated Thursday among the signers of the 1936 Montreux treaty governing the Dardanelles made these main points:

1. Declared that when the United States, Russia and Britain agreed at Potsdam to propose changes in the Montreux treaty they recognized each other's interests in the straits and no one of them has a right to cut the others out.

2. Favored greater rights for Soviet ships in the waterway but opposed joint control by the so-called Black Sea powers, chiefly Russia and Turkey.

3. Reaffirmed that Turkey should be primarily responsible for defending the straits but in case they were threatened with attack "the resulting situation would be a matter for action on the part of the security council of the United Nations."

HAL AND HERB SHOENER, Iowa twin ends (that's Hal on the right), will be game co-captains today when the Hawkeyes play host to Nebraska's Cornhuskers at the Iowa stadium. The two played a major role in the Hawks second half comeback against Michigan last week, with Herb scoring the lone Iowa touchdown on a pass from Emlen Tunnell. Hal will start at left end with Herb on the opposite flank.

Woman Killed, Eight Injured In Sioux City Roof Collapse

SIoux CITY (AP)—A woman was killed and eight persons injured yesterday afternoon when the roof of a building housing business establishments and at least six one-room apartments collapsed and fell two floors to the basement.

The body of Mrs. Maxine Nelson, 35, a barmaid in a tavern occupying part of the first floor, was extricated from the debris last night by crews of firemen and policemen after street department workers had removed some of the wreckage.

Rescue work was stopped after the removal of the body as Fire Chief Charles B. Kuhl said he believed all persons in the building at the time of its collapse had been accounted for.

Five persons remained in the hospital last night. They were Mrs. Nettie Johnson, 66; Mrs. Leah Marsh, 26; C. C. Garside, 66; John Baillie, 69; and Mrs. Eva Wood, all of Sioux City. Released after treatment were Mrs. Katherine Pippin, 26, and her one-year-old son, Bruce; and Mrs. Arnold Hansen, all of Sioux City.

Approximately 12 persons living on the second floor were made homeless by the collapse of the 60-year old structure.

Mrs. B. R. Hull, 77, Mrs. Frank White and Mrs. Mary Gordon were in the tavern at the time, and said the falling walls pinned them near the front of the place. Firemen dug them out.

The cause of the collapse was not immediately determined.

Witnesses said there was no explosion or fire.

Bricks from the walls were hurled into the street, smashing several automobiles parked along the curb.

Miraculous escapes were reported by persons in the Avery brothers sign shop on the first floor. J. R. Mosher and Mrs. Milton Avery were in the front office when the former saw a supporting beam begin to give way. He called Mrs. Avery's attention to the beam and both rushed to the door. Mrs. Avery got outside before the collapse, but Mosher had to batter his way through a front window just after the fall of the roof.

Gilmore Says There's— No War Talk in Russia

—The Issue Is Football

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW (AP)—Returning to Russia after five months' absence, one is immediately struck by the startling difference in what people are talking about and what they're discussing here.

In the United States it was a third world war, fear of it and a definite pessimism about the prospects of peace.

In Britain it was war and fear of war, but to a somewhat less extent than in America.

In Sweden and Finland, while war was not the uppermost topic for talk, it was still high on the list of subjects for conversation.

In Russia there is little or no talk about war, certainly no expressed fear of it. The question of burning interest at the moment is football.

The Russians I've talked to—and they include officials—are startled at these reports from abroad.

"Why a war?" they ask with genuine amazement.

"Well," I replied, "People are talking about it and there are many of them who are actually afraid we'll have one."

"With whom?" they ask.

"With Russia," I have told them.

"But why," they persist, "why does anyone in the world think Russia could possibly be interested in war. Can't you see here all about you there's no thought of war, no mention of it?"

Truthfully and actually one must agree with his Russian friends—not only is there no talk about war—there is great talk about peace, about better living conditions, about new jobs, about new clothes, apartments and furniture and prospects of getting them—but above all about football.

The Soviet Union's soccer football teams are in the midst of their annual play for the football cup of the U.S.S.R.

'To Delay May Be to Die'

'The bomb does not wait upon debate. To delay may be to die.' Bernard M. Baruch made this statement when, as the United States delegate, he presented to the United Nations Atomic Energy commission this country's plan for atomic energy control.

How much progress has been made during these five months in effecting a workable atomic energy control scheme? Surprisingly, very little. The American plan was presented and immediately rejected by the Russian delegate, Andrei Gromyko.

Here in this country much time and energy has been expended of late defending the American plan and attacking the Russian plan. We can imagine the same situation prevailing in Russia.

Despite their obvious divergencies, there must be some common ground connecting the American and the Russian positions. After all, both plans were designed for the same function—the international control of atomic energy.

We think it unfortunate that Mr. Baruch has assumed the role of a high pressure salesman on the commission rather than the role of a compromiser. The fact that the U. S. is the only nation that has the atomic bomb weakens Mr. Baruch's position as the salesman of our particular plan.

Perhaps Mr. Baruch has failed in his mission. If his job is merely to bring about the acceptance by other nations of the American proposals for atomic energy control, he has accomplished little to date.

We know the Russians are tough people with which to deal and we believe the American plan has much more that can be defended than the Russian plan.

But we also know that until we hear Mr. Baruch defending the United Nations atomic energy control plan—whether it be compounded from the American or the Russian proposals or a combination of both—we'll be unable to wholeheartedly defend Mr. Baruch.

On the Road to Peace

One of the most promising prospects of the postwar world is the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural organization. This organization, established at the San Francisco conference to bring about a closer relationship among the nations by exchange of educators and the latest information from scientific and cultural studies to each of the nations, has been making inconspicuous progress in the midst of mounting suspicion and tension in other areas.

The agency is headed by Julian Huxley, brilliant British teacher and essayist, who is one of the outstanding living authorities on biology. With a host of outstanding leaders in every branch to aid him, Mr. Huxley and UNESCO appear to be making a genuine and lasting contribution to world peace.

In a recent speech, President Truman placed his confidence in the ability of UNESCO to resolve many of the fundamental international differences. The United States has already launched a program of interchanging teachers with other nations.

There is, of course, some opposition to UNESCO, just as there always has, and probably always will be, to the advancement of education. But the disagreement is not of a serious nature, and liberal educational forces are united in the belief that the opposition can be overcome.

One of the brightest indications of the success of the organization comes from Russia. In the past there have been very few foreign teachers in the USSR, but now Prime Minister Stalin has indicated that he would welcome more under the UNESCO program.

The old League of Nations also had an educational program, which was considered to be one of the more successful projects of that now defunct organization. It worked on the premise that the by-product of the association of learned men would be the increased understanding of the people of the different nations.

UNESCO, however, takes this idea one step further. Not only does the agency plan the meetings of leading educators and scientists and the exchange of information, but it will have an exchange of teachers down to the grade levels, thus bringing the idea of internationalism directly to the majority of the people.

An indication of the attitude of the American people toward this program came recently from Upper Darby, Pa. There, two British teachers had been hired by the local school board under the exchange set-up. The local chapter of the Patriotic Sons of America complained that the invasion of the foreign instructors in the school system was counter to the best interests of the nation and the town. They wanted to oust the two. The townspeople rallied around the Englishmen and by an overwhelming vote re-affirmed the school board's appointment.

Thousands of American schools could well profit by the use of instructors from other lands. Heaven knows that the average American has much to learn about life in other countries! The cause of peace could also be forwarded if some American instructors were teaching Asiatic or European or English children. The "tourist inspired" conception that most foreigners have of the United States is certainly a long way from the true picture.

UNESCO's program may not be the key to lasting world peace and security, but it's, at least, the key to the key.

Calm Before the Storm—

Illinois Political Explosion Due

Illinois politics is slowly but steadily coming to a furious boil. The lid will not be blown off the way off even this fall, but an explosion is in the making which will be heard—and felt throughout the country.

On the surface, this state appears to be approaching a relatively calm and routine congressional election, with not enough at stake greatly to arouse the excitement of the voters or the instinct of self-preservation of the politicians. No senator and no governor is being elected, and the presidential contest is two years in the future: only a few congressional seats are seriously in doubt.

But this quiet is deceptive and is not long to last. It conceals oncoming political battles which are to add up to the hottest, bitterest, most meaningful struggle for power in Chicago and Cook county, embracing more than half the population of the State, since a verbal "bust on the nose" for King George finally failed to reelect Thompson.

The stakes really are going to be high, and the political consequences will reach beyond this great and influential state. Here is what is sizzling and churning beneath the lid:

1. The congressional campaign this month, important in itself, is simply a warm-up, an advancing sparring and testing of strength, for a long-delayed, all-out Republican effort to deliver a knockout blow next spring to the Kelly machine, which has ruled Chicago and Cook county for the past 13 years.

2. But the mayoralty contest is more than a contest for the mayoralty; it is the first one, fight-to-the-finish personal struggle between Boss Ed Kelley and Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher of the Chicago Tribune, for the undisputed political control of the state.

3. And more is at stake in this battle than political control of the state of Illinois; each is seeking to assure for himself a strategic—even a dominant—voice in the national affairs of his party.

4. The 1947 mayoralty campaign will be a preview and a foretaste of the 1948 presidential campaign, and each—Mayor Kelly and Colonel McCormick—sees in his own success in knocking the other out an opportunity to play a major role in picking the next President of the United States and in shaping his policies.

In recent weeks Colonel McCormick has taken open and unchallenged direction of the Republican strategy, with Republican Gov. Dwight Green—who would like to be on the G.O.P. presidential ticket in 1948—as his obedient functionary. Colonel McCormick now is driving to break into the near monopoly of congressional representation which the Kelly machine has given the Democratic party in Chicago and Cook county. The Democrats have 9 of these 10 seats, and throughout the rest of the state the Republicans have 14 of the remaining 16 seats.

Boss Kelly knows that he must hold the line in Chicago and Cook county this fall or find his political crown—already slipping—torn from his worried brow.

Colonel McCormick sees his big chance; his big chance is to start undermining the Kelly machine in the congressional elections next month so that there will be a real prospect of delivering the knockout punch in the mayoralty fight next spring.

And this is exactly why Mayor Kelly has got to show that he can deliver the votes for his congressional seat; the machine must show that it is as powerful and smooth functioning as ever. The prevailing view is that if it bogs down now, it will be on the way out next year if it holds its congressional ramparts, it may even persuade Colonel McCormick to call off the battle—and instead make a convenient deal—next year.

Some Republican congressional gain this fall is indicated; it is not yet clear that it will be sufficient to begin the rout of the Kelly machine. But the stake is not merely a few seats in congress; at stake is the existence of the Kelly machine and the emergence of Colonel McCormick as a major national power in Republican affairs.

(All this is why Illinois politics is coming to a furious boil.)

U.S. Holding Fast To Fair But Firm Policy Toward UN

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

NEW YORK.—The United States is holding fast to a policy of a fair deal for everyone in the United Nations Security Council, but at the same time feels that the council is not under obligation to accept supinely any proposal brought before it.

These attitudes were emphasized by a highly-placed member of the American delegation. They have been followed consistently since the council opened its New York deliberations six months ago.

The delegation member, withholding his identity, said the council should, in fact, lean over backwards to make it easy for cases to be brought before it. The United States' position was shown concretely in three important instances.

First, on the point of fair dealing, the United States split with Great Britain and joined a bare council majority of seven votes to put the Soviet Ukrainian charges on the agenda for a hearing.

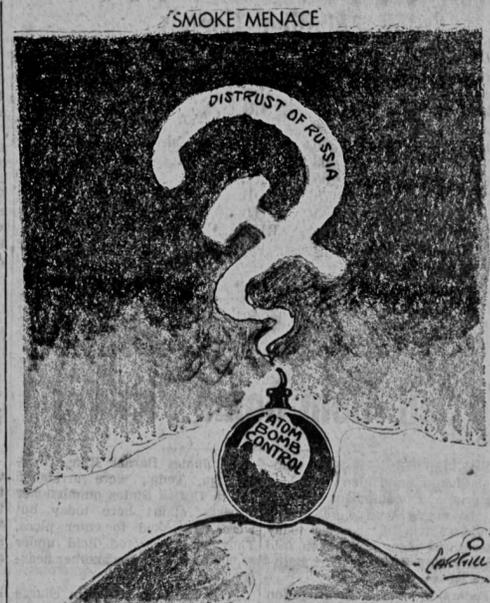

This was in the face of strenuous British and Dutch objections that the charges were not substantiated. But Herschel V. Johnson, U. S. delegate, took the position that the council could not deny any state the opportunity to present a complaint.

Johnson, having upheld that principle, then ripped into the charges during the debate and wound up with the majority which threw them out of the council.

Another evidence of the American spirit of fair play was seen in the fight over memberships. The United States had grave misgivings about the acceptability of Outer Mongolia and Albania, but Johnson said his government was willing to resolve its doubts if the council would approve the admission of all eight applicants, in the interests of universality.

But Russia would have none of that and Johnson withdrew his proposal. Then other delegates shared misgivings about Outer Mongolia and Albania and those two countries failed to be admitted.

On the point of not accepting supinely anything that is laid on the council table, the Russian de-

TO THE DAILY IOWAN: A copy of Joe Miller's Jokes to Messrs. Bell and Wachter.

Yes, I feel compelled to disagree with them. They deplore the lack of "humor" in FRIVOL, long to find a relief from the seriousness of today's world and desire to send the magazine home so the folks can chuckle reminiscently over jokes their grandfathers pulled with aplomb.

My stand is that the present FRIVOL is a better magazine than the old one. This is not to infer that I consider the new Frivol an excellent magazine. It has many shortcomings—one of them is a lack of humor.

If IUI is apparently only able to support one campus magazine, then I think that it should be of the variety type. It should have literature, feature articles and good humor. It also should be at least twice the size of the present publication.

But the buried FRIVOL seemed to be the product of several adolescents sitting around with a pair of scissors and a pastepot going through a lot of similar magazines from all over the country. The result thrilled those who considered all the old bromides about sweeter girls, coeds, and riverbanking as a substitute for wit. As for me I was bored by most of the jokes and acutely embarrassed by the labored attempt at humor found in most of the articles. I considered Abbott and Costello scintillating compared to most of FRIVOL's efforts.

I say, give the present FRIVOL staff a chance. This issue must have been written by a small number under many handicaps. If people like Bell, Wachter and myself—and others too lazy even to write letters—would use a little energy to turn out contributions to the magazine, the staff would have some material to choose from instead of continually reshuffling the contents of the same tired minds as it did in the past. The magazine should be the product of the best talents on the entire campus, not of a "clique" of mediocre ones.

Mr. Wachter says there is "a certain uniqueness about college humor." There certainly is! But I see no reason for us to give up hope.

Off the Record

By DICK DAVIS

Harry James in his latest Columbia recording asks the musical question, WHY DOES IT GET LATE SO EARLY. From the introduction to the last burp of the James horn, this is a smooth, easy listening bit of music. Trumpet work is good, not sparkling. Vocal by Buddy Di Vito. Over, THE BEAUMONT RIDE, has its good points namely in the superb background rhythm. Both the melody and vocal by Di Vito are non-plus; considering everything, however, this record is worth the green.

Cab Calloway who has a voice about as pleasing as a chalk being screeched on a blackboard has recorded on Columbia two solid jump tunes which if nothing else should appeal to the high school crowd. Both I GOT A GAL NAMED NETTIE, and HAY NOW, HAY NOW can stand high on the hill as far as being discordant.

Benny Goodman records on Columbia PITY THE POOR LOBSTER, and LOVE DOESN'T GROW ON TREES. Both have vocals by Art Lund... both are excellent recordings. The LOB-STER is on the snappy side, the TREE SONG mellow, smooth and romantic. You've got your choice.

From the movie, "Canyon Passage," "Hoary" Carmichael has recorded OLE BUTTER-MILK SKY, a tune he managed to sing in the picture. Like all Carmichael songs, you either like his twangy voice or you don't. If you fall into the Hoary league, this recording is the answer. Other side, GINGER AND SPICE, both sides featuring the voice of Carmichael and the orchestra of Carmichael.

Leopold Stakowski and the Hollywood Bowl Symphony orchestra have made a brilliant recording of the BRAHMS SYMPHONY NO. 1, in C minor, Op. 68. This album

'Jacobowsky and the Colonel' To Open '46-47 Play Series

Eight Performances, Starting November 15, Scheduled for Comedy

Franz Werfel and S. N. Behrman's comedy, "Jacobowsky and the Colonel," will be the first production of the University theater's 1946-47 community play series. Prof. E. C. McBie, head of the dramatic arts department, announced yesterday.

The production, under the direction of Marian Galloway, visiting lecturer in the dramatic arts department, is scheduled to play eight performances, Nov. 15, 16, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, and 23.

"Jacobowsky and the Colonel," recently produced in New York by the Theater Guild, was written originally by Franz Werfel, author of the novels, "The Song of Bernadette" and "Embezzled Heaven," both of which were translated into plays. For the Theater Guild production, Werfel's play was adapted by S. N. Behrman, author of "Rain from Heaven" and "Skylark."

Based on Anecdote Werfel developed his play from an anecdote concerning a little Polish-Jewish refugee who buys a car as an aid in his flight from the Nazis and, then—because of his inability to drive—is forced to travel with a reactionary Polish colonel who happens along and, fortunately, can drive.

A refugee himself, Werfel wrote his play in America after successfully eluding the Nazis in a pursuit which covered most of Europe. Although it is, on the surface, a bright comedy, the play has as a foundation an undertone of the essential tragedy, which is the plight of all people forced out of their homes and countries through political and religious oppression.

Originally considered a "poor commercial venture for the American stage," the play was warmly received by the critics, had a successful Broadway run and, eventually, was awarded the Drama Critics prize as the best foreign play of its year.

Settings for the University production will be designed by Prof. A. S. Gillette of the dramatic arts department.

Dunnington Declares Statesmen Hold Key To U.S.-Russ Peace

The U. S. can avoid war with Russia if she gains more well-informed, reasonable statesmen who will honestly try to see all points of view, Dr. L. L. Dunnington said last night.

In an address before the Ball and Chain club, Dr. Dunnington said that the Russian leaders are the most difficult to get along with because of the fear that the outside world will discover how weakened the war has left their country.

"The Russians have pulled down a curtain and are deliberately fomenting fear against America," Dunnington stated. If Americans were allowed to travel in that country they would find how badly she was hit by the war. Several more "five year" plans will be necessary before the Russians can pull out of their present condition, he added.

Dunnington said, "The Russians are one of the grandest people on the earth." They are very similar to Americans in their heartiness, sense of humor and pioneer spirit. "If one million Americans could be exchanged with one million Russians every year, it would be a great step toward promoting world peace."

The U. S. press is causing a fog to raise over our present relations with Russia because so many of our newspapers and magazines propagandize by presenting a one-sided view, he continued.

Dunnington accused the publishers of Time magazine especially of twisting and coloring facts. He advocated Nation and New Republic as two periodicals that contain accurate, objective information on Russian affairs.

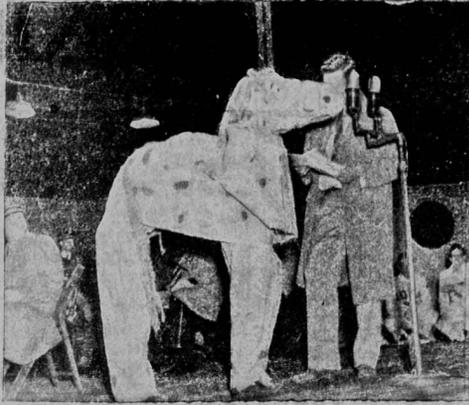

Dr. Dunnington declared the historians of the future will credit Henry Wallace for clearly looking into the current Russian and American situation.

Talking Horse Predicts Hawkeye Win

THIS TALKING HORSE from Nebraska assured Hawkeyes attending the pep rally last night that today's football game would leave Iowa with the fodder and Nebraska with the cob. The horse was animated by Allis Stevenson, A3 of Goldfield, and Seena Ceccarelli, A3 of Madrid, both members of the newly organized pep club which sponsored the rally. By the way, that's Herb Olson, A4 of Winfield, master of ceremonies, behind the horse.

FRANK CARIDEO, BACKFIELD Coach, was speaking when the above picture was taken of a portion of the crowd which attended last night's pep rally. Harold and Herbert Shoener, both A2 of Irvington, N. The form has been temporarily out of supply for the last two weeks, and Dr. Coder states that it must be filled out and filed with the service office before any subsistence checks can be received.

Three Staff Members To Lecture at Creston On Visual Instruction

Three university staff members will instruct a group of educators at Creston today in the use of visual aids in teaching.

Representing the extension bureau of visual instruction, the university men will address a meeting of the south central district of the Iowa state education association, Lee W. Cochran, extension division executive assistant, said yesterday.

Prof. John H. Haefner, of the history department, director of social studies at University high school, will lecture and demonstrate in the use of audio-visual teaching of the social sciences. Willard D. Unsieker, science methods instructor, will demonstrate visual aids in teaching elementary science. Cochran will address school administrators on the planning of visual instruction programs.

Last Wednesday evening, Cochran and Robert E. de Kiefer, graduate assistant in education, addressed 105 persons at the Cedar county teachers council at Stanvaue. They also demonstrated new equipment for use in visual instruction.

Dance Classes Fill Membership Quota

Membership in social dance classes is now closed till next semester, according to Martha Humphry, A3 of West Union, chairman. Approximately 240 students attended the first meeting last Monday, more than filling the 200 quota.

Classes have been divided into two groups so that the advanced may be separated from the beginners, Miss Humphry said. Beginning class will meet in the large gym in the women's gymnasium and will learn slow and fast fox trot, waltz and variations on fox trot and waltz.

The advanced class will use the small gym and will be taught the rumba, conga, samba and variations on fast fox trot. Women's physical education majors teaching the classes are Dorothy Uhler and Doris Bird, both A4 of Keokuk; Nancy Scofield, A4 of Morris, Ill., and Rose Mary Harmer, A3 of Iowa City. Students are asked to bring their receipts for admission to the classes, which meet every Monday from 7 to 8 p. m. A party will be given at the end of the 10th and last lesson.

Professor Hitchcock To Be Moderator For Radio Forum

Prof. Orville Hitchcock of the speech department, formerly associated with America's Town Meeting of the Air, will be guest moderator on the first of the 1946-47 Student Radio forum series Thursday at 8 p. m. in studio E, radio building.

The forum is being continued one Thursday in each month because of the interest shown by the student and city audience last year, according to Prof. A. Craig Baird, director of speech. This week's topic on the 45 minute program is "should OPA price control be immediately abolished."

After five minutes speeches by each of four members of the Forensics association, the forum will be opened for audience discussion. A microphone will be passed among members of the audience at the radio station. Opinions on the subject may be phoned into WSUI by student and townspeople listeners.

Taking the affirmative side on the OPA question will be Dorothy Kottman, A4 of Burlington, and Elaine Lanney, A3 of Cleveland, Ohio. Mel Baker, A3 of Iowa City, and R. Bruce Hughes, A3 of Sioux City, will speak against the proposition.

The student forum is sponsored by the University Forensics association under Professor Baird's direction.

The total amount of money in the banks is $6,111,688.06. The entire amount collected from the tax was $8,073,747.21, but $1,962,059.15 has been refunded to those who purchased gasoline for non-highway use in tractors and gasoline power machinery.

The deposits are being withheld from distribution pending final judicial decision on an objection by L. V. Carlton, Iowa City real estate man.

Carlton objected in district court Monday to the release from Iowa City banks of "about $6,000,000" to state Treasurer John M. Grimes on the grounds that the legislative act levying the extra cent was unconstitutional.

The Iowa supreme court has upheld the constitutionality of the act and Carlton has indicated his intention to appeal to the U.S. supreme court.

Pilot-Husband to Fly Singer Mona Paulee To Iowa City for Concerts Oct. 16, 17

Mona Paulee, Metropolitan opera mezzo-soprano who will bring his wife here in his own plane.

Miss Paulee's work, Prof. Righter said, has proved that glamor and artistry can be combined, even at the "staid" Metropolitan. Her performance there in "Carmen" and other standard operatic works established a new pattern of performance in youthful vitality, charm, and freshness of voice, he said.

Among favorable reviews of Mona Paulee's singing, was one in the Washington Times-Herald, which commented: "She practiced all the vocal virtues including the highly important one of diction. Not a syllable was neglected." The Edmonton, Alberta, Canada Bulletin said of Miss Paulee's voice: "It is a rich, mellow voice, hauntingly beautiful and imbued with the ability to make a direct and instant appeal to the emotions."

Concert tickets University students may secure tickets for the Mona Paulee concerts to be given here Wednesday and Thursday, by presenting their identification cards, in person, at the Iowa Union ticket desk. Tickets will be available beginning Monday. Tickets will also be on sale to the general public.

Banks File Reports On State Gas Tax

Johnson county Clerk R. Neilson Miller announced yesterday that two Iowa City banks filed reports of the deposits they collected in state gasoline tax since July 4, 1945, when the extra fourth cent went into effect.

The total amount of money in the banks is $6,111,688.06. The entire amount collected from the tax was $8,073,747.21, but $1,962,059.15 has been refunded to those who purchased gasoline for non-highway use in tractors and gasoline power machinery.

The deposits are being withheld from distribution pending final judicial decision on an objection by L. V. Carlton, Iowa City real estate man.

Carlton objected in district court Monday to the release from Iowa City banks of "about $6,000,000" to state Treasurer John M. Grimes on the grounds that the legislative act levying the extra cent was unconstitutional.

The Iowa supreme court has upheld the constitutionality of the act and Carlton has indicated his intention to appeal to the U.S. supreme court.

Announce New Rent Rates For SUI Trailer Villagers

New rent rates for the citizens of Riverdale and Hawkeye Trailer villages were announced yesterday by Dean C. Woody Thompson of the office of student affairs.

Under the new provision, students who receive an income of only $90 per month (the G.I. bill of rights subsistence allowance) will need pay no more than one-fourth of that sum for rent for trailers and expansibles. For students renting expansible units at $32.50 this can mean a saving of $10.

Higher Insurance Rate Those who have a higher monthly income may compute rent on the same scale. However, if one-fourth of their income represents a higher figure than their present rent rate, they may retain the present rate.

The change was brought about through the efforts of Dean Thompson and the university married students organization. It will become effective as soon as each student eligible files a new contract with the office of student affairs, Dean Thompson said.

Francis Weaver, L3 of Mason City, UMISO chairman, reports that the plan has met with widespread approval from the villagers and that "it should be a help to students who have been trying to make ends meet on $90 per month."

Dean Thompson also disclosed that the existing authorization for telephone service, included in the monthly rent fee for each living unit, has been withdrawn by the federal public housing administration.

In a letter sent to all villagers yesterday, Dean Thompson explained that present telephone service will be discontinued Oct. 31, but that individual students may arrange for telephone service at the Northwestern Bell Telephone company office if they apply no later than Oct. 15.

The company has stated that it probably will be able to provide service to all villagers who request it within the specified time limit. The office is located at 302 S. Linn street.

Weaver stated that it would mean an inconvenience to some of the villagers and an extra expense to those who have telephones.

Insurance for Villagers Weaver also said that the UMISO council decided last night to inform all residents of the two villages of the results of their study of an economical coverage for medical insurance and fire insurance. The council will advise the villagers of the steps to be taken to provide themselves with this protection.

It was also learned that the Chicago FPMA office had advised the group that it would be impossible to provide driers for laundry units in use and that congressional action would be required before any additions to authorized equipment could be made.

Major Wagner Joins Military Science Staff

Col. W. W. Jenna, head of the military science department, yesterday announced the arrival of Maj. N. M. Wagner, who will assume the duties of engineering officer in that department.

Major Wagner, formerly with the office of foreign liquidation commission, state department, Wash. D. C., reached Iowa City Tuesday and at the present time is on a week's leave.

During the war Major Wagner was stationed in Puerto Rico and the China-Burma-India theater.

Little Hawks Smash Past McKinley, 32-6

By DON SCANNELL
Daily Iowan Sports Writer

Flashing their vaulted running game at will, the powerful Little Hawk grid machine from Iowa City high ran roughshod over a fighting McKinley eleven in the first half and coasted to a 32-6 win over the Parlor City squad before an overflow crowd of chilled Homecoming spectators last night at Shrader field.

Don "Corky" Fryauf, 186 pound left half, sparked the attack as he plunged through the Golden Bear line, and outraced the Bruins for four touchdowns in the first half, sewing up the Hawks' fifth straight win—four against conference opposition.

The game had scarcely started when Fryauf swung wide around his own right end behind beautiful interference, cut back toward midfield as Joe Cilek picked off the Bruins safety with a neat block, and raced 73 yards for the marker.

Bob "Chugger" Wilson streaked down the left sideline for a 24 yard gain to the McKinley 22. Fryauf again skirted right end and picked up the remaining yardage to the goal for touchdown number two.

On exactly the same play that scored the first two tallies, Fryauf burst through the Bruin secondary and raced 40 yards to pay dirt. And all in the first quarter.

Just to vary things a little, Fryauf plunged for his fourth score from the McKinley 5 yard line in the closing minute of the first half to complete the powerful, swivel-hipped back's scoring for the evening.

Tom Miller who has been the blocking Forrest Evashevski for Wilson and Fryauf all year long finally broke into the scoring column himself on a one-yard plunge after he set up the counter on a beautiful cross buck and trek down the left sideline, for 24 yards.

Iowa City won the toss and elected to receive. From the 13 yard line Fryauf plunged for five. Wilson chugged his way for nine more to set the stage for Fryauf's 73 yard jaunt. The try for extra point was wide.

The Bruins started a miniature drive of their own, advancing the ball to the Hawks' 44 before Jack Delbridge's lateral pass was fumbled and that man again—Fryauf—recovered on the 49. On the first play Jim Sangster started to the goal line but the officials ruled that he stepped out of bounds on the McKinley 22. Fryauf repeated his right end run for his second touchdown. Once again the extra point attempt was wide.

After the kickoff the Golden Bears lost three yards in as many plays and punted to Wilson who returned the pigskin 23 yards to the Hawklet 48. McKinley braced and held Wilson to 12 yards on a left end sprint before Fryauf out-distanced the Bruins in a 40 yard race to pay dirt. Rox Shain's placekick hit the cross bar and bounced over for the Little Hawks point in the first period.

Iowa City high threatened once again as the second quarter started, advancing to the Bruin 26 before a fourth down pass fell incomplete.

McKinley was forced to punt after one first down and the Hawks took over on their 35 yard line. Harold Brauner squirmed his way for 42 yards around left end to the Parlor City eleven's 23 yard line. Here a clipping penalty nullified Sangster's touchdown pass to Dick Williams. Brauner's punt was returned to the 9.

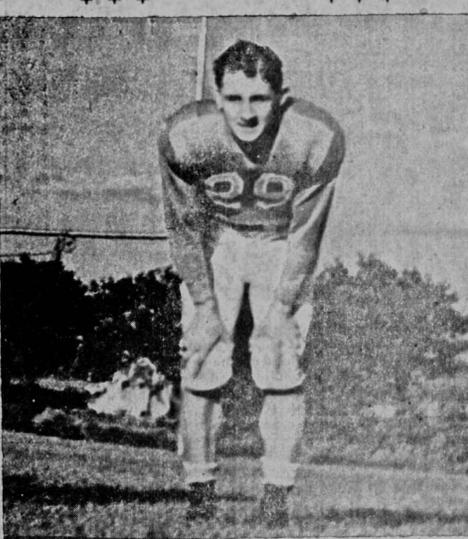

McKinley's pass on the third play backfired as Kirk Carson intercepted on the 34 and returned it to the 27. Three times Fryauf carried the ball, once around end and twice on plunges for his fourth score of the evening. Shain's kick was good and the Hawklets led 26-0 at half time.

In the third period McKinley strategy boomeranged again when a fourth down plunge was stopped by the charging Little Hawk forward wall and Iowa City took possession of the ball on the Bruin 36. Miller made eight on a cross buck and Fryauf picked up a first down. On another cross buck Miller forced his way for 24 yards and was stopped inches short of the goal, plunging for the score on the next play. Sangster's dropkick was wide and the score stood at 32-0 as the third stanza ended.

With substitutes filling the lineup of both teams, a Hawklet drive fizzled. Neither team was able to gain until McKinley started a 50 yard drive that gave them their score. Delbridge plunged for a first and ten on the fourth down and three plays later Ted Nofal skirted left end for the score. Crawford's kick was blocked.

Then a fiasco began. Guards Chick Evans and Dale Scannell entered the Hawklet lineup at full back and end respectively. After four off side penalties McKinley's kickoff went out of bounds. On the first play Evans faded to pass, spotted Scannell lumbering through the Parlor City secondary, and shot a bullet pass to his brother guard but a McKinley back spoiled the fun and knocked down the throw.

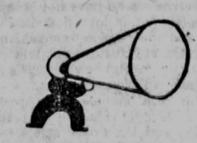

DON "CORKY" FRYAUF, City high stellar left half, added 24 points to the Little Hawk cause in their crushing 32-6 win over the McKinley Golden Bears last night in the Hawklets' five straight win, four of which have been in Mississippi Valley competition. Fryauf's points, all chalked up in the first half, give the speedster a total of 54 points, with the season little more than half gone.

Monticello—The Blue Hawks from Iowa City fielded a fast charging line and four smashing backs here yesterday and the result was a second Eastern Iowa conference win for the visiting Blue Hawks who rode over the Panthers, 33-6, on a wind-swept chilly gridiron.

Monticello's Panthers exploded passes all over the field, but they couldn't stop the second-half drive of U-High which netted four touchdowns. The half time score was 7 to 6, as the Panthers fought the Blue Hawks to a standstill.

U-High's initial touchdown came in the opening minutes of the first quarter. Gus Helm and Craig Harper lugged the ball for first downs as the Hawks moved into Panther territory.

Bob Ojemann picked up four yards through the Monticello line, putting the ball on the 33, and Harper finished the drive with an end sweep. One-man-gang Helm plunged for the point.

The Panthers were forced to kick the next two times they got the ball, their first break coming when Meserli, the right end and captain of the Panthers, recovered Harper's fumble on a return punt. The Panthers moved deep into Blue Hawk territory with Seehausen tossing passes to Benson and Meserli, but the drive ended when Helm intercepted an attempted lateral in the closing minutes of the quarter.

The second period was all Monticello. The Panthers took the ball on their 40 and picked up two first downs on smashes by Schneider and Newton. A pass from Seehausen to Meserli moved the ball to the 5 and the Panthers scored as Seehausen tossed another bullet to Benson in the end zone. The plunge for point failed.

The Blue Hawks struck like lightning in the third quarter when Darrell Hansen, scrappy guard recovered a fumble on the Panther 20. Helm bucked the line once, and Junior Ewalt swung off tackle and fought his way savagely for nine yards and six points.

The Blue Hawks took the ball on the Panther 25 after a bad punt. U-High picked up two first downs on power plays and Helm

Sees Wins for Army, Illinois

NEW YORK, (AP)—Having batted a surprising .902 last week, we head into the fourth edition of the football guessing special with a seasonal average of .872 on 102 correct predictions, 15 misses and seven ties.

Army vs. Michigan—Blanchard's back and Army's got him. The Wolverine's have the better reserves, but reserves can't score from the bench. This will be a game between two first teams. Michigan admits it has been pointing for this one, but Army hasn't exactly overlooked the date on its calendar. 'Til the Mule loses its kick, one confident vote for Army.

Purdue vs. Notre Dame—The Boilermakers hurt their own chances by nearly separating their passing star, Bob De Moss, from one of his arms in practice. Even if he's able to play, Purdue is not in the same class with the Irish. One clearcut vote for Notre Dame.

Illinois vs. Indiana—The Hoosiers have found the right combination and rediscovered how it feels to win. Buddy Young has been slowed by a charley horse, weakening the Illini attack, but there's nothing wrong with Perry Moss. Until the forward pass becomes obsolete, the nod to Illinois.

Minnesota vs. Northwestern—Both these teams crossed us up a week ago when Northwestern won and Minnesota lost. That should make things pretty clear for this one. Chalk it up for Northwestern.

Ohio State vs. Wisconsin—if the Buckeyes can go all the way to the coast and knock off Southern Cal., they can handle this assignment in their own league, Ohio State.

Duke vs. Navy—After setbacks by North Carolina State and Tennessee, Duke should be ready to win one. A hesitant nod to Duke.

Missouri vs. Kansas State—The Wildcats haven't beaten the Tigers since 1938. This is no time to start, Missouri.

Kansas vs. Iowa State—The Iowa State boys are going to eat those horses. They should save them to ride, Kansas.

Running rapidly over the rest of the day's better midwest games: Iowa over Nebraska, Mississippi State over Michigan State, Marquette over Idaho, Cincinnati over Dayton, Miami of Ohio over Bowling Green.

Yale Gets Iowa Fed Beef for Grid Team

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—H. J. Gramlich, general agricultural agent of the Chicago and Northwestern railway systems, said yesterday that Yale university had sent a representative to the Ak-Sar-Ben livestock show here to purchase several carloads of beef for the Yale football team's training table.

Gramlich said he was "amazed that Iowa, one of the richest farm areas in the world, should be forced to place its native sons at Iowa State on horseflesh rations while Yale was able to import healthy fat cattle from Nebraska, plumply rounded out on Iowa corn."

Iowa State college recently announced that its football training table would feature tasty horse steaks.

Racine's two star behind-counter quarterbacks, Joe Gerber & Mike Cilek, discuss the Hawks chances against Nebraska today.

What Will the Hawks Do Today?

Joe Gerber and Mike Cilek probably won't be able to give you the exact score, but if it's a few facts on last week's game or a few years back, Joe and Mike have the answers.

You see, they and Racine's are as much a part of the Iowa campus as Old Capitol. Specializing in quick tasty food, the best in men's toilet articles, tobaccos, and featuring one of the state's most complete line of pipes, Racine's is also the home of sports-minded students and Iowa Citizens.

Faulty Stove Causes Fire In Riverdale

Interior of Trailer, Personal Belongings Destroyed by Blaze

Fire caused by a defective oil burner demolished the interior of the trailer home of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall E. Smith of Riverdale trailer village yesterday at 7:30 a. m. and destroyed all their personal belongings except a few clothes.

Iowa City firemen extinguished the blaze before the trailer was destroyed and prevented the fire from spreading to other trailers.

Remark About Leak

Mr. and Mrs. Smith left the village shortly after 7 a. m. for an early class. When they left, Smith remarked to Robert Weaver, chairman of the Riverdale council and neighbor of the Smiths, that his oil burner leaked and asked where he could get it repaired. The safety valve which regulates the flow of oil into the stove was broken, according to neighbors.

Before the firemen arrived neighbors of the Smiths used extinguishers, but were unable to make much headway because flames blocked the entrance to the trailer.

Temporarily Mr. and Mrs. Smith are living in another trailer at the camp. They will move into one soon as a permanent residence. Neighbors believe that the Smiths did not have insurance on their personal belongings.

Seek Fire Insurance

Mrs. Weaver, wife of Riverdale's council chairman, said that the married students organization at the university had been working with insurance companies for blanket coverage of the village, but that there were no results yet.

Mayor Wilber J. Teeters expressed concern about the fire. He said he feared that congested conditions and flimsy construction in the villages might present a serious fire hazard.

Fire Chief J. J. Clark said he realized that the trailer camps were congested and would "bear watching" but he emphasized the fact that this is the first fire in either trailer village.

Villages are equipped with fire hydrants and each trailer has a hand extinguisher.

Neighbors Help

Riverdale council members took the initiative in "helping out" and by last night they had collected money, food, bedding, clothing and room furnishings to give to the Smiths.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith, who live in Columbus Junction, moved into Riverdale the latter part of September shortly after they were married. Both are students at the university.

Dena C. Woody Thompson of the office of student affairs said last night that the fire showed university officials what can be done for additional protection in the trailer villages. "We will probably review the matter soon," he added.

Four C Club to Honor New Students, Wives At Reception Tonight

A reception for married couples who are new at the university will be given by the Four C club of the First Congregational church tonight at 8 o'clock in the church parlors.

A string quartet will furnish background music during the reception. Mrs. Jack Evans will direct organized dancing and Robert F. Erickson, program chairman for the club, will be master of ceremonies.

The Rev. F. A. Laxamana, club advisor, emphasized that all Congregational married couples are welcome. A provision has been made for children who come with their parents.

Heavy Frost Causes Speculation on County Vegetable, Corn Crop

The heavy frost forecast last night for the Iowa City area probably presented no damage threat to Johnson county's estimated 110,000 acre corn crop, according to Dale F. Anderson, AAA vice chairman.

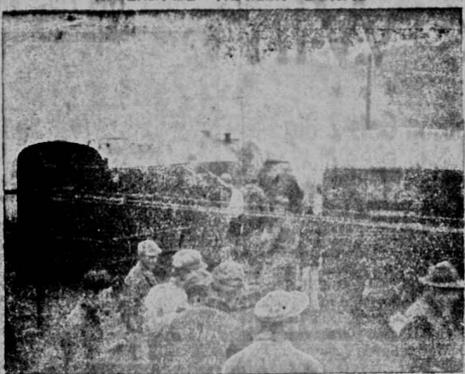

Although frost would not seriously impair corn, soy bean, fruit and vegetable crops, Anderson said a severe freeze "might cause damage to late-season yields." Fruit, particularly apples, are least vulnerable, he stated.

An increased number of corn cribs would help protect the yield after harvest, Anderson said.

Eagles Dance

A dance for members and their wives will be given at 9 p. m. tonight at the Iowa City Eagles lodge, according to Harold Donham, program chairman.

RIVERDALE TRAILER BURNS

FIREMAN FIGHT BLAZE which gutted the Riverdale trailer home of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall E. Smith yesterday at 7:30 a. m. Caused by a defective oil burner, the fire destroyed all the Smiths' personal belongings except a few clothes. Riverdale council members collected food, bedding, clothing and room furnishings to give the Smiths "a new start" in their new trailer.

'Old' Moose Gets Feet Off the Ground

An "old moose" flew Thursday, and he stayed up long enough to see Lake MacBride, Cedar Rapids and the intervening territory.

The Moose was Robert Weisz, steward of the greater Chicago Moose lodge, one of the four oldest Moose stewards in the United States in years of continuous service.

Weisz, who was unable to be in Iowa City when the other three "old" stewards were here several years ago, came Wednesday for Moose lodge in initiation ceremonies.

He was presented with a gold watch and his first airplane ride, with Paul B. Shaw of Shaw aircraft company.

The veteran stewards were treated in recognition of their many years of service.

Three I.C. Merchants Get Worthless Checks Of 'Self-Styled' Student

Three Iowa City merchants have admitted receiving worthless checks last Saturday from a "young, blonde man of average height wearing a short poplin jacket."

The man told virtually the same story to clerks at two downtown stores—that he was a university student who had just quit his job because he couldn't work and study at the same time.

At both stores he was said to have spent an unusually long time in making his selections, a topcoat at one store, and a bracelet "for his girl" at the other.

When asked to leave deposits on his purchases he explained that he had no money but would return later in the day when he had received his final pay check.

He returned to both stores as promised. For the topcoat he gave a $52 check and received $24 change. He also paid for the $15 bracelet with a $36.48 check and again received change.

As far as can be determined he then went to a local grocery where he made purchases amounting to about $7 and paid with a $47 check, getting back $40 cash.

That evening a local cab driver reported to police that a man answering the description given had hired his cab to be driven to Cedar Rapids and had acted very suspiciously.

Robert L. Gage, secretary of the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce, yesterday said there will be no change in Saturday store and banking hours for today's game.

Stores will be open from 9:30 a. m. to 9 p. m., and banks will remain open from 9:30 a. m. till 12 noon.

Trowbridge Reports On Field Trip Through Scandinavia

Norwegians are unable to understand the American attitude of apprehension toward Russia, according to Prof. A. C. Trowbridge, head of the department of geology.

Professor Trowbridge, speaking at the Masonic luncheon club yesterday, made the statement in a report of his recent eight-week field trip to Norway, Denmark and Sweden.

He said there was little damage in Norway resulting from German occupation because Norway had been unable to resist and so had not provoked Germany to destroy property.

"The Germans, respecting the racial purity of the Norwegians and hoping to amalgamate the two peoples, treated the Norwegians with kindness," he added.

According to Professor Trowbridge, there are no lumber and paper shortages in Norway or Sweden, but the southern part of Denmark suffered considerable war damage and is now hampered by acute shortages of supplies.

The speaker was introduced by Prof. H. J. Thornton.

Gas, Electric Company Asks Second Appraisal Of Condemned Land

The Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric company yesterday asked Sheriff Preston Koser to appoint a second appraisal commission of Johnson County residents to set the value on condemned portions of 10 more Johnson county farms to be crossed by the company's powerline.

A commission last week set the amount the company must pay 21 other property owners for the privilege of crossing their land with its powerline.

The state commerce commission gave the company permission to construct the powerline and condemn the land needed.

ONE glance at the new "CP" gas ranges means love at first sight.

On IOWA

..... On forevermore

Be on hand today at 2:00 p.m. to watch another outstanding Iowa Ironman team go through the Nebraska Cornhuskers. The Hawkeyes' pre-war talent plus the former Seahawk strength produces a combination which many experts believe will equal the famous ironmen of 1939. Let's get behind the team you Iowans and show the old fighting spirit that goes down in football annals with pride. We've got a team to make the nation sit up and take notice; the biggest threat in Big Nine is IOWA—turn out in force at the Iowa-Nebraska game tomorrow, October 12.

After the Michigan game last week one of their backs exclaimed: "That Dick Hoerner is the best fullback in the country! I know he is better than Doc Blanchard, because I've played against them both." Three or four men on the opposition fail to stop Iowa's threat in the backfield. Keep your eyes open for Bob Smith and Tunnell, they'll be in there tomorrow showing Nebraska how a football team is supposed to look on the gridiron.
