AYD Denied Charter Here

Leaders Refute 'Red' Charge, Will Decide Next Step Thursday

The local chapter of the American Youth for Democracy, which began organizing on campus last week, was denied a charter yesterday by the university.

The executive committee of the AYD—an organization whose national leadership contains some former members of the Young Communist League of America—learned of the denial in a letter from Dean C. Woody Thompson of the office of student affairs.

The letter made no charges of communist domination, but stated that the charter was refused because of the requirement in the university code of student life that a new organization "serve an area of student activities not served by an existing organization or organizations," and because "local chapters of AYD appear to be closely controlled by the national organization."

"A primary requirement for recognition on this campus of any student group interested in political action is that it make no contribution to any national organizations nor receive any money contributions from such parent organization," the letter continued.

The constitution of the national AYD group states that a part of membership dues will go to the state and national offices.

Disbanded at Ohio State

AYD is officially accredited at Illinois, Michigan and Minnesota universities, but the organization at Ohio State university was disbanded in April of this year when it attempted to affiliate with the national organization and after much discussion, was denied a university charter.

Byron Broderick, AI of Grundy Center, who was elected president of the group last week, resigned yesterday after a talk with Dean Thompson. It was also learned that several other students who were among the original members have left the group.

After an executive committee meeting at Iowa Union last night, Charles Grosser, AI of New York City, spokesman for the group, expressed great disappointment over SUT's refusal of the charter and said that the group would hold a meeting Thursday night at 7:30 in the Unitarian church.

Grosser said that the local chapter would be officially informed of the denial and that two choices for future action would be outlined.

1. That AYD continue independently of the national organization but keep intact every one of the original principles outlined at the meeting last week.
2. That the group continue its affiliation with the national headquarters, and go off-campus for its meetings.

Approximately 60 university students attended the first local AYD organizational meeting at Iowa Union last Thursday. At the meeting, literature distributed stated that the group's aims were to combat racial prejudice and other reactionary measures which are detrimental to democracy.

Next time

Grosser said that "AYD is a non-partisan organization, and therefore responsible to no group other than itself." He acknowledged that the "Red" charge had been made before to a great number of youth groups with liberal views, but that, because of its very non-partisan nature, the group would be bound to attract Communists and any other liberals concerned with racial and social equality.

According to literature distributed by the local group, Herb Signer, national executive secretary, was a YCL organizer in Illinois. Sidney J. Harris, CHICAGO DAILY NEWS columnist, reported earlier this year that AYD was organized directly from YCL when that group disbanded in 1943.

In the CHICAGO DAILY NEWS article, Harris contended that, "According to the NEW YORK TIMES... the Young Communist league convened for the last time in national convention on Oct. 17, 1943. They formally dissolved, and immediately reconvened as the American Youth for Democracy."

Allen Assails Martin for Failure To Repudiate Gerald L. K. Smith

By BOB McHUGH

Sewell E. Allen, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, lashed vigorously at the voting records of Republican congressmen from Iowa in a speech delivered to a public gathering at the Community building last night.

Allen led off his address by scolding Representatives Thomas E. Martin and Ben F. Jensen for their failure to directly repudiate their endorsement by Gerald L. K. Smith.

He added that there was little difference in the way that Representatives Jensen, Martin and Senator Theodore Bilbo reacted to that endorsement.

"None of the three gentlemen to whom I refer saw fit to repudiate that kind of support," said Allen.

He described Smith as a "rabble rouser and a hate-monger who first came to prestige as campaign manager for the late Sen. Huey P. Long."

"There was a valid reason for Smith's endorsement of these men," said Allen, "and an equally good reason for their failure to denounce that kind of support."

"We must, by our votes, provide the repudiation of Smith that our congressmen have denied us," he declared.

He further accused Representatives Martin and Jensen of "giving comfort to Smith and Hitler when on June 20, following the fall of France, they opposed the selective service act."

Allen said that Jensen, Martin

resentation of clear-cut political issues by both parties and challenging the existence of a Republican platform.

"I've been traveling all over the state looking for it," said Allen, "and I haven't found it yet."

The speaker placed responsibility for the destruction and confusion of the OPA with "Southern coalition Democrats and Republican-backed pressure lobbies."

Allen scoured Senator Taft for condemning the execution of 11 Nazi war criminals as a case of ex post facto law. He said a precedent for punishment of war criminals existed in the forced exile of Napoleon Bonaparte to the island of Helena, which was a rudimentary beginning of the law as announced at the war crimes trials.

"This very close legal point has been carefully weighed by the tribunal and it doubt remains in legal minds! It is at most a doubt and not the patent certainty that Senator Taft apparently assumes it to be," said Allen.

Shortly before closing his address, the speaker outlined three courses of action the president might take on the meat issue:

- (1) Bring in foreign meat.
- (2) Remove controls and let the pressure groups gamble with the meat supply.
- (3) Hold tight to the reins of control and sweat it out until meat returns.

and Senator Taft also opposed the selective service extension when it passed by a one-vote margin on Aug. 12, 1941.

"The same group of men, and all of the other Republican congressmen from Iowa, except one, voted against the lend-lease programs well," Allen charged.

He assigned responsibility for the meat famine to "big interests behind the Republicans who were mainly instrumental in the slaughtering of beef when controls were off."

Allen charged that some Democrats were also responsible for the meat famine but added that "in Iowa where there are no coalitions, the issue is clearly a Republican responsibility."

He further advocated full pre-

Predict 'Good' Meat Supplies Here Soon

Retail meat dealers of Iowa City last night voiced unanimous approval of President Truman's lifting of price controls and optimistically predicted "fairly good supplies" from the nation's packers within two to 14 days.

The majority of city dealers also forecast immediate increases ranging from five to 25 percent. The increase, retailers believe, will apply both to packers' sales and prices the customer pays.

Several dealers expressed the opinion prices will rise sharply, because, as one dealer, said "the meat supply is below sea level and it will take a while to get the public filled up." He added that due to this increased demand, prices will not "level off" for a month or more.

Most dealers concurred on the "leveling off" period, and said that an influx of Mexican livestock would not greatly alter prices.

Another retailer believed "many of the small packers would process meat ahead of the larger houses."

Opinion of one dealer laid stress to the strength of the "American people" at the reins of future meat prices. "The American public," he asserted, "can control all prices, if it wishes."

Paris Conference Completes Treaties

Molotov Accuses U.S. Of Domination, Asks Review of Decisions

PARIS (P)—The Paris conference completed tonight its task of writing peace treaties for five former Nazi satellite nations after Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov assailed portions of the pact as "unsatisfactory."

Molotov accused the United States of attempting to dominate the conference, and said he would insist that the big four foreign ministers, who will meet in New York Nov. 4, reconsider parts of the treaties, with Italy, Finland, Romania, Bulgaria and Hungary. The ministers also will take up the treaty with Germany.

A French spokesman said the ministers would devote two weeks to completing work on the satellite treaties, then would start consideration of the German pact.

Molotov's attack on the work of the conference was delivered at a plenary session on the eve of the adjournment of the 21-nation parley. The issues he raised suggested a possible showdown between the east and west at the New York meeting.

Molotov told the delegates they had failed to reach satisfactory accords on their 11 weeks of deliberations.

He took the floor immediately before the conference would up its work on the treaties by approving the Finnish draft pact.

$300-Million Reparations

As approved, the Finnish treaty contained a clause calling for reparations payments of $300,000,000 to Russia. This was opposed by U.S. Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Mich.), who said the amount was a "rubber stamp" figure and should be cut to $200,000,000.

Dr. Quo Tai-Chi of China, who presided over the plenary session, said the conference would hold its last session tomorrow afternoon. Bidault is slated to deliver a farewell address.

The U. S. proposal to reduce reparations to Russia was defeated 11 to 5. Joining the United States in negative votes were Canada, South Africa, New Zealand and the Netherlands. Australia, Belgium, Brazil, Greece and Norway abstained.

Denounces 'Selfish Politicians' For Scuffling Price Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—Angrily assailing "selfish" politicians, President Truman last night abandoned price controls on meat and announced that the whole decontrol program will be speeded up.

Thus, three weeks before the congressional elections, the president altered the course he previously had set, removed the administration's hand from the meat situation completely and for good, and put it up to the industry to restock the housewife's icebox. He said it was the "only remedy" for the shortage.

The action had been urged by many within his own party. And as he castigated congressmen and candidates whom he blamed for the meat shortage and failure of controls, he made no attempt to pin responsibility solely to Republicans.

"The responsibility rests squarely on a few men in the congress who, in the service of selfish interests, have been determined for some time to wreck price controls no matter what the cost might be to our people," he declared.

And again: "The real blame lies at the door of the reckless group of selfish men who, in the hope of gaining political advantage, have encouraged sellers to gamble on the destruction of price control."

The ceilings on livestock and the food and feed derived from it go off today. That will mean, Mr. Truman announced, that the decontrol of all other items "will have to be accelerated under existing legal standards."

Included in the hastened decontrol process will be the wage controls, the president made clear. "We all recognize the close relationship between wages and prices." But he refused to abolish the wage controls simultaneously with the meat ceilings, as those labor leaders favoring meat decontrol have insisted.

Moreover, he said that "this does not mean the end of controls now."

Rent Controls to Stay

"Some items, like rent, will have to be controlled for a long time to come," he continued. "Other items, consisting of certain basic materials and other commodities of which there is now a grave shortage, will have to remain under control until production of them has been greatly increased."

As for the present price control act, Mr. Truman recalled that he said when he "reluctantly" signed it that "it fell far short of what I had hoped for, but that a wholehearted effort would be made to make the law work."

"I have made that effort," he went on. "I have tried honestly and sincerely to administer this feeble law. All the government agencies have made the same vigorous effort."

"From the outset, however, the very forces responsible for the weakening of the law in the congress have demanded the lifting of even the inadequate controls which the congress had enacted. Besides, many members of the congress and many candidates have pledged themselves to vote for the removal of price controls as soon as the new congress meets."

"As a result, many business men have held on to the products they would normally sell, gambling on the possibility of the release of price control and the opportunity for greater profits."

Mr. Truman also noted "reports of widespread disregard and violations of the price control law," without limiting this observation to the meat phase.

Clamor for Decontrol

In connection with meat decontrol, the president recalled that "for many months representatives of the livestock and meat industry have insistently demanded the lifting of controls."

He said they "have made the definite promise" that removal of controls will bring meat to market "at reasonable prices."

"The American people," he added, "will know where the responsibility rests if profiteering on meat raises prices so high that the average American cannot buy it."

The president said Secretary of Agriculture Anderson and Price Administrator Porter will remove today "all price controls on livestock and food and feed products (derived) therefrom."

This automatically will remove the subsidies now being paid to the industry.

Slaughtering quotas now imposed on the packers are covered by separate OPA orders. These quotas were removed temporarily at the time price controls lapsed in mid-summer and presumably they will be abolished now.

Asks Restraint

In announcing his action, the president called for restraint on the part of both labor and industry, saying he is certain that neither "wants to hurt their country and their fellow citizens."

"It is plain," he went on, "that the present law does not guarantee prevention of inflation. As we proceed in an orderly but accelerated process of lifting controls, we shall all have to exercise restraint and common sense if inflation is to be avoided and adequate production is to be achieved."

Lift Mexican Embargo

Mr. Truman also announced last night that an agriculture department investigation indicates that the Mexican border may be reopened at once to meat imports from that country. An embargo was placed upon Mexican cattle imports recently after Mexico had imported some bulls from South America which officials thought might be infected with the hoof and mouth disease.

The president's remarks indicated that this embargo soon will be removed.

"When that happens," he said, "a substantial number of cattle from Mexico will come into this country. Most of them will be thin but they can be sent into the feed lots to replace the domestic cattle which have been sufficiently fattened to be shipped to the slaughter houses."

Allied Council Issues Orders to Facilitate Punishment of German War Criminals

BERLIN (AP)—The Allied control council's coordinating committee promulgated yesterday a directive for all Germany which means that hundreds of thousands of German war criminals, militarists and Nazis now can be arrested and punished according to a common set of principles.

The object of the directive, the control council said, was to establish a common policy covering: "The punishment of war criminals, Nazis, militarists and industrialists who encouraged and supported the Nazi regime."

"The complete and lasting destruction of Nazism and militarism by imprisoning and restricting the activities of important participants or adherents to these creeds."

"The internment of Germans, who, though not guilty of specific crimes are considered to be dangerous to Allied purposes, and the control and surveillance of others considered potentially so dangerous."

The directive established a defined five main categories of war criminals and potentially dangerous persons, namely:

Major offenders; offenders broadly described as Nazi activists, militarists and profiteers; lesser offenders; followers who, strictly speaking, would number an estimated 7,500,000 Nazi party members and, finally, persons exonerated after a tribunal finds them innocent.

Under the sanctions set down by the directive a major offender guilty of a specific war crime may be punished by death, life imprisonment or imprisonment for five to 15 years with or without hard labor.

Promulgation of the law was delayed pending the findings of the military tribunal at Nuernberg.

Dutch, Indonesians Sign Truce Ending 14 Months Of Bloody Civil Warfare

BATAVIA (P)—The Netherlands government and the Republic of Indonesia yesterday signed a truce agreement calling for an end to 14 months of bloody warfare in Java and nearby islands.

It was hoped the truce would establish peaceful conditions for continuing political negotiations on Indonesian demands for independence.

No "cease fire" order has been issued, and informed sources said some local Indonesian commands, particularly on the island of Sumatra, might refuse to obey orders from the government of Premier Sutan Sjahrir.

Sjahrir had taken the precaution to call in his top military leaders and make them party to the truce.

One element considered dubious was the leftwing "People's army," which maintains only tenuous links with the government.

BISHOP JOSEPH P. HURLEY of St. Augustine, Fla., rises and bows as Archbishop Alojzije Stepinac (second from right) enters the Zagreb courtroom to make his final statement before the Yugoslav court trying him on charges of collaborating with the Axis. The prelate was found guilty and sentenced to 16 years at hard labor. Excommunication was threatened yesterday by the Vatican for Catholic Yugoslav officials who took part in the trial. ## AFL Accuses Business Of Undermining Labor Movement in Schools

CHICAGO (P)—The American Federation of labor yesterday accused business of "attacking the labor movement with subtle but effective propaganda in the public schools" and pledged a counter drive.

The AFL convention voted to start "a vigorous campaign on the part of all affiliated unions to promote teaching the true facts in the public schools about the history, objectives, and accomplishments of organized labor as an important part of the democratic structure of our nation."

Felt 'Sharp Pains'

OMAHA (P) When Charles H. Maney, 74, of South Sioux City, Neb., told university hospital attendants last week he felt sharp—he meant it literally.

An X-ray examination traced "sharp cutting pains" of which he complained to a single-edge razor blade lodged in his intestine. Maney, a retired farmer, was mystified. He said he never ate razor blades.

A Higher Authority Should Decide

An appeal of an Iowa supreme court decision to the U. S. supreme court made by Alphonse (Babe) Bisignano, Des Moines tavern owner, is now pending.

Several points in the case make it evident that the high court should consider the case.

When the Iowa court upheld the contempt of court decision of Des Moines Municipal Judge Grund following an altercation between the judge and Bisignano at the Des Moines YMCA, it in effect decided that a judge is the court regardless of time and place. A dangerous precedent was thereby set because no limitations are placed on what can be considered contempt of court.

Although Judge Grund's decision may have been upheld because his dispute with Bisignano concerned a previous decision of the same judge in a liquor case in which the tavern owner was involved, there is nothing to prevent future contempt cases in instances in which the circumstances differ.

If the employer of a man who is also an Iowa justice of the peace should fire the justice from his job for incompetence, would he have shown contempt for a court or an employer? Or did he show contempt at all? Those are the questions involved.

In all fairness to the defendant the federal court should make the final decision in the case. Inasmuch as the dispute took place in a YMCA, it would appear to have been merely a disagreement between two fellow Iowans and not between a judge and a defendant. Whatever Bisignano had to say to the judge, it was not said for the world to hear. The incident was a private argument.

It is natural for other judges, even those sitting on the Iowa supreme court, to sympathize with Judge Grund in the case. No judge wants to have his decisions questioned especially to the point of violence or near-violence.

Iowans could rest more easily if final decision in the case were made by a higher court, further removed from the scene.

Encouraging Words From Mr. Molotov

A dove of peace, a small one, flew hopefully, but briefly, over the Paris Peace conference the other day.

Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov had the floor at the full-dress session of the conference. Forty-eight hours before he had returned from a prolonged consultation in Moscow. What he was about to say, obviously, would be a direct, up-to-date reflection of the all-powerful Communist party Politburo's new line.

"This division of the nations into eastern and western, into Slav and non-Slav states, is obviously leading us into absurdities. The Soviet delegation for its part desires as much cooperation with Western powers as with Slav powers, convinced that this cooperation is the indispensable requirement for a democratic peace. The Soviet delegation calls upon the delegations of other countries to cooperate in the establishment of a democratic peace. This requires compromise."

"This, of course, does not suggest that the Russians are meekly submitting to the way of the West. That much was made clear by the rest of Molotov's speech in which he declared that the Adriatic port of Trieste was being made an Anglo-American colony.

Yt the words of conciliation and compromise are there. And they are reinforced by Russia's action in abandoning Yugoslavia to a solo protest against the French compromise line for division of Venezia Giulia.

On the other hand, Molotov's words may be just words. Perhaps the Soviet foreign minister was busily dressing windows when he said: "An accord is possibly among all, to the extent nations do not attempt to impose their will on other nations."

But anyway, it was nice having the dove overhead for even a little while.

Democracy by Fiat

(The Christian Science Monitor) Some people achieve democracy and some people have democracy thrust upon them. Yet democracy, like the kingdom of heaven, must come from within if it is to be genuine—even though it may receive encouragement from without.

The Japanese Diet has just adopted by an almost unanimous vote the new democratic constitution virtually dictated to it by General MacArthur. Even those Diet members who bitterly oppose the fundamentals of democracy voted for it cynically and obediently. The Japanese people, from whose sovereign power it avowedly stems, have scarcely given it a thought and most of them are unable to read the difficult language into which it has been translated from the American original. Like the ill-fated Weimar Constitution, it is as prettily democratic on paper as one could wish, but without any real roots in the nation's thinking.

Here is a flagrant example of the weakness in General MacArthur's occupation policy, which appears to aim at theatrical effect more than at fundamental change based on the slow, laborious development of a native Japanese democracy. But are the American people willing to undertake the long-term commitments necessary to support emerging Japanese democrats, who alone can give reality to the new constitution?

Plan Fight on Juvenile Crime

WASHINGTON (AP)—A thousand Americans from 48 states meet here Oct. 21-23 to map an attack in depth—embracing all interested agencies, from the cop on the beat to the FBI—against 'teen-age crime.

Attorney General Tom Clark says juvenile delinquency "is one of the most vexing and dangerous problems confronting the nation," because "once a boy or girl goes wrong, the chances are even that he or she will continue to go wrong."

So he's called the first National Conference on the Control of Juvenile Delinquency. Law enforcement, welfare, government, religious, educational and business leaders will attend.

Clark said in an interview it will be "an action conference—not a conference to deal with theories."

He outlined the objective as: "The preparation of a program of specific action with which the communities, the states and the nation can attack the problem of juvenile delinquency."

The project has the full backing of President Truman, Clark said. But he emphasized this:

"The conference is not a wholly federal project. I am just bringing these people together—using my office as a clearing house for a nationwide drive against delinquency. Whatever plans are made will be those of the conference. For delinquency is essentially a grass roots problem—and it must be attacked on the local level."

Clark underscored the pressing nature of the problem in these words:

"According to figures compiled by Director J. Edgar Hoover of the FBI, arrest of persons under 18 years of age during the first six months of this year were 11 percent above the arrests in the same period of the last peacetime year—1941.

"And during the first half of 1946, youths under 21 who were arrested and fingerprinted numbered 84,864 or 17.6 percent of the total arrests."

Clark stressed that "over 50 percent of our first offenders are returned to prisons and reformatories. Over 60 percent of the second offenders are returned;

'Iceman' Premiere Hails—O'Neill's Return to Broadway

NEW YORK, (AP)—Sailor-playwright Eugene O'Neill is home to stay with an imposing packet of plays which could well be a lifetime production for an average dramatist.

Returning from the first time since 1934 to the Gay White Way on which he was born for the premiere of his lengthy "The Iceman Cometh," he says that never again will he wander far from his native New York.

"I'd like to build or buy a place on Long Island," he said. "I've lived in almost every section of the country and I'm getting tired of pulling up stakes and wandering off."

The lean, sun-burned, greying dramatist, who celebrates his 58th birthday, Oct. 16, spoke of "The Iceman Cometh" with a touch of nostalgia.

"I know quite a few of the people in 'The Iceman Cometh.' My favorite haunts in those days (the time of the play is 1912) were along the downtown westside waterfront. The boys were rough and tough, but square."

"The Iceman Cometh," a drama of a group of bums and tarts in a cheap gin-mill on New York's west side, lifts its first curtain at 5:30 p. m. with a dinner intermission from 6:30 to 7:45, and the final curtain at 11 p. m.

"The length of the play," O'Neill mused, "I've never even given it a thought. I had no idea how long it might be when I started to write. It turned out to be an hour to hour drama. That's that."

"I hope that everyone gets to dinner, though. I wouldn't care very much for someone coming back to the theater hungry enough to eat the author."

O'Neill said that he completed "The Iceman Cometh" in 1939, and another play which also will be produced this season by the Theater Guild, "A Moon for the Misbegotten," was completed the following year.

Colonel Stilwell tried to stay in the background and claimed he was "excess baggage" on this trip for correspondents, the first conducted by the Japanese in 1937 as they drove northward toward Kalgan.

But Stilwell walked our legs off across an eight-mile railway break before we got to Kangchung, where an armored train was to pick us up and take us to field headquarters at Hwaihai.

The fat Japanese press officer was enraged that Stilwell walked ahead unarmed. "Colonel Stilwell walks too fast," he puffed as he carried his own revolver ready against possible Chinese remnant troops.

When the fat Japanese wasn't looking I ran and caught up with Stilwell. We passed swollen Chinese corpses.

"Poor devils," he said. "They never had a chance."

"Would they fight if they had a chance?" I asked.

Stilwell turned on me, his eyes snapping.

"Certainly they would. Give the Chinese soldier good weapons, train him and lead him well, he can hold his own against anyone."

In those days, when the Chinese were retreating on all fronts, this was not a popular idea; but Stilwell expressed it with such fervor that the pitiful signs of an utter Chinese rout seemed unimportant.

I kept asking Stilwell why the Chinese didn't fight more.

"It would be suicide with what little they have," he said. "From what I've seen today the Japs couldn't do much against a real army, but they've got so much lowing year. O'Neill, however, felt that the war years were not a proper time to produce the plays and so held them until now.

The theater guild will do a third O'Neill play, "A Touch of the Poet," next season. This is the fifth play in a cycle of nine on which O'Neill announced he had begun work 10 years ago. Besides these three plays he also has completed "Long Day's Journey into Night" which, he says, never will be seen on the stage and will not be published until 25 years after his death.

"Only those who know the theater thoroughly are entitled to break the rules now and then," O'Neill said when discussing such unorthodox aspects of some of his plays as the "Aside Speeches" in

"Stange Interlude" and the use of masks in "The Great God Brown."

"Few are writing good plays today. It may be the chaotic condition of the world, the uncertainty of the future, the general unrest. But have patience. In a few years I feel certain that young authors will develop. Give them time. Time and the experiences they have just gone through with the war and are now going through with the aftermaths of war should bring us some fine writing one of these days."

There are 191 roles in "The Iceman Cometh," with James Barton, Dudley Digges, Carl Benton Reid and Nicholas Joy as the featured players and with Jeanne Cagney and Ruth Gilbert playing the two leading feminine roles.

James D. White's "Interpreting the News...."

Col. Joseph W. Stilwell, United States military attaché at Peiping, looked first to an old world war campaign hat he was wearing. He brushed it carefully and put it back on, saying he wouldn't want anything to happen to that hat.

At 54, he looked like a very kind and slightly underfed scoutmaster.

Even then you thought of him as "Uncle Joe" for the simple reason that he would have made a swell uncle.

Protests Handling Of Curran Injury

TO THE DAILY IOWAN: Heretofore thousands of Iowa football fans have used the name of Dr. Eddie Anderson with a great deal of reverence. His coaching abilities go without dispute.

I imagine that many have never seen him in action. I did against Nebraska.

For Mr. Anderson's information the clapping that followed the Iowa man off the field was for the player and was not in response to lack of concern shown by the "doctor."

Perhaps his delay in getting the player off the field was caused by some technical ruling of football. Still, from where I sat up in the stands it seemed to me and to the others around me that if he couldn't have shown more concern as a coach to the injured man he could have done so as a former medical student. It seemed to be a cold hearted act of one down and five to go and no need for showing concern until the fourth.

As I was leaving the stadium I overheard several students talking. One of them said that someone should write the editor.

I think it was a disgraceful exhibition of sportsmanship by the head football coach of the University of Iowa and an insult to players and spectators alike.

Poetic Good Wishes For One Fern Gravel

TO THE DAILY IOWAN: I can't restrain myself from adding my good wishes to these of the host of Fern Gravel admirers. Poetically it comes out to wit: Here's to you, little Fern Gravel. Who far from Iowa yearns to travel; As you sadly forsake your country home For the wonders of Moscow, Paris, or Rome May you roam at leisure and scribble at will Of cities remote from Millersville.

Here's wishing you speed as you carry the ball For that eminent poet, James N. Hall; And rhyming lines with measured stresses To feed the ravenous Coleman presses; And O, above all, may every jingle Win the plaudits of Iowa's Paul.

Yours in the poetic muse, EVERETT S. PORTER

AVC Decries Abolishment Of Meat Lids

The executive committee of the Johnson county chapter of the American Veterans Committee last night lashed out sharply at "special selfish interests who forced abolishment of price control on meats."

In a stinging statement describing the plight of fixed income groups as "caught in the vise of rising prices," the executive committee proposed a three-point remedy:

"(1) The enactment of a tax program based upon ability to pay that would remove the incentive from peacetime profiteering.

"(2) The reconvening of congress immediately to increase the G.I. bill monthly payment for veterans attending school to $125 for married students and $100 for single students.

"(3) Immediate re-examination of both the readjustment allowances and maximum wage limitations of the on-the-job training program."

The proposals probably will be presented to the members of the Johnson county AVC at the next meeting, according to Chairman Robert W. Iversen.

Three Minor Changes Made In Ph.D. Program of Study

The graduate college faculty yesterday approved three minor changes in the program of study for Ph.D. degrees but turned back to the graduate council for further study the proposed plan whereby candidates for master's degrees with rather specific professional objectives would not be required to submit theses.

Candidates for Ph.D. degrees will hereafter file a program of studies for their advanced work not later than the end of their first year of study, the faculty decided.

To Outline Goals
Dean Carlyle Jacobsen of the graduate college explained that previously such a program had been submitted by students after they have done their graduate study, but that under the new plan Ph.D. candidates will outline their aims and goals before proceeding too far in their studies.

The faculty also approved one of two plans submitted by the graduate council for changes in the Ph.D. program. Under this plan, a committee of three readers will be appointed by Dean Jacobsen and will report directly to the graduate council through the dean concerning the quality of the thesis in question.

Final Oral Exam
Upon a favorable report from this committee, the department would be authorized to proceed with the final oral examination in defense of the thesis before a committee of not less than five members, designated by the dean, from the staff of the department or from related departments.

The general schedule for filing of Ph.D. theses would be advanced about a month according to a proposal endorsed by the faculty. Explaining that the new plan will not go into effect this fall, Dean Jacobsen said that previously these were submitted about two or three weeks before Convocation.

Another Proposal
Now they will be due about six weeks before Commencement to give the faculty more time to evaluate the quality of the work. Another proposal under which a comprehensive written and oral examination for Ph.D. candidates would be given toward the end of the second full year of graduate study was referred to the graduate council for further consideration, Dean Jacobsen said.

Kollman Discusses 'Future of Germany'

"Germany will not again have a chance to dominate Europe—in spite of the atomic bomb," asserted Dr. Eric Kollman of Cornell college in his address on "The Future of Germany", yesterday afternoon to the League of Women Voters. "Even though she should succeed in placing Russia and America against each other she would be caught in the middle," he stated.

Dr. Kollman said the main problems in the future of Germany are those of de-nazification, of overpopulation, of political parties and of changes in social and economic structure.

"America has done nothing in the field of social and economic changes. We look upon our occupation of Germany more as a nuisance than as a challenge," Dr. Kollman continued.

"We cannot tell for sure what the future of Germany will be. The present attempt in the revival of federalism in Germany is an old story and it remains to be seen whether this will make Germany happy."

Tight Pitching Duel Predicted for Series Final Today

JOE DOBSON (left), Red Sox pitcher, gives with the words of wisdom as Dave Ferriss lends an interested ear. Dobson, who beat the St. Louis Cardinals in the fifth game of the world series, probably has some very pertinent information that will be of use to Ferriss when he starts the crucial seventh game for Boston today. (AP WIREPHOTO)

'Boo' Ferriss Faces Dickson

Cardinals' Brecheen Prepared for Relief Duty if Dickson Fails

By GAYLE TALBOT
ST. LOUIS (AP)—Whatever happens in the seventh and deciding game of the World Series today, Manager Eddie Dyer's scrapping St. Louis Cardinals already have lasted the myth of the American league's vast postwar supremacy over the National, which was fostered mainly by the slaughter of the Nationals in this year's All-star game.

In battling from behind three times to deadlock the play-off, the cards have demonstrated conclusively that they are on a par with the club that made a runaway of the American league race. In several departments, especially fielding, they have looked the superior outfit.

The odds have appeared to be far out of line from the start, and they still look very attractive for those who think the rebounding Red Birds can stop Ted Williams and company today and wrap up their sixth world championship in nine tries.

Betting Commissioner J. J. Carroll announced yesterday that every $10 bet on the Cards to beat big Dave (Boo) Ferriss in the final would return $12. The same sum placed on the Sox will bring back only $7.

The Nationals, from president Ford Frick on down, were an exuberant crowd yesterday, fully confident that Murry Dickson would duplicate the feat of Brecheen, and hamstringing the Sox in the season's grand climax.

Although the Cardinals admit to great respect for Ferriss, who blanketed them with six hits in Boston, they feel that they have quite a pitcher themselves in the pint-sized Dickson. Both sides expect it to be a tense hurling duel.

Whether the Cards ever will get to Ferriss is a question. The 22-year-old winner looked like he might have kept them away from the plate until sundown up in Boston.

Should Dickson wobble at any time today, or should the Cards need to protect a short lead in the late innings, it is entirely possible that the Sox will have to puzzle over Brecheen's dippy-doo for the third time. The diminutive lefty said yesterday his arm did not feel tired and that he would be ready if and when manager Dyer beckoned.

Never has a play-off been more readily blessed with its weather. Day after day the sun has shone on schedule, and the air had only a slight nip one day in Boston. It didn't seem possible, but the weatherman said today would be the same, with no rain expected until after the contest.

Puerto Rico literally means rich coast.

Claim Bucky Harris Will Manage Yanks

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Daily News, in a dispatch from St. Louis, said last night "it was learned from an authoritative source" that Stanley "Bucky" Harris, former Washington, Detroit and Boston manager, would pilot the Yankees next season.

The dispatch said that the Yankee delegation—headed by president Larry MacPhail—was to meet at French Lick Springs, Ind., immediately after the World Series where final plans will be drawn.

Few Tickets Remain For Today's Final World Series Game

ST. LOUIS (AP)—All remaining grandstand and bleacher tickets for the deciding world series contest between the Boston Red Sox and the St. Louis Cardinals today were sold out in little more than an hour after they were placed on sale at Sportsman's park yesterday.

The few remaining pavilion and standing-room tickets were going fast yesterday afternoon.

Tickets have been printed for an eighth game of this world series. Cardinal President Sam Breadon said he got them ready in case of a tie in the seventh game, remembering Brooklyn's 19-inning draw with Cincinnati. If an eighth game were necessary it would be played Wednesday. No betting odds on that eventuality have been quoted.

Sunday's loss by the Red Sox was especially painful to Eddie Doherty, who handles the club's transportation. He had everything all set to leave Sunday night, and had told each one in his huge party when and how to leave by train and plane.

"But what if we lose?" someone inquired, and Eddie said "Lose! What did we come out here for?" Now he has it to do all over again.

For those who have been wondering why Ted Williams hasn't been hitting, here is his answer: "I never get what I expect to. When I'm set for one thing they throw something else."

Terry Moore says he saves his speed until it's really necessary, because a hard run is agony to his knees. "I just save myself for that important play," said Terry, "but I really feel it when I run fast."

Tunnell Misses Hawk Practice

Injuries, old and new, were in the spotlight yesterday as Iowa's football Hawkeyes settled into a routine of hard work which they hope will channel them into a victory over Indiana at the Hoosier homecoming Saturday.

Emlen "Gremlin" Tunnell, Iowa's great left halfback, was missing from the practice field while nursing a badly sprained ankle, but head coach Dr. Eddie Anderson expects his climax running star to be in top shape against Indiana.

The other new cripples, Dick Hoerner and Duke Curran, were very much in the thick of things yesterday, although Hoerner, the Hawks' great fullback, was still slowed down a little by a minor back injury. Curran showed no after effects of the head injury he suffered against Nebraska.

Then Dick Woodard, regular Hawk center before he was injured in the Purdue game, and Jerry Kubal, starting right tackle against North Dakota, both signaled their approaching return to the Iowa line-up.

Woodard, his left arm taped to his side to protect a healing shoulder separation, was in uniform for the first time since the Purdue game but restricted his activities to a little running and won't be ready for any contact work for at least another week.

Kubal, who suffered a painful chest injury in the season's opener, announced that he was ready to resume heavy duty drills but will probably have trouble breaking back into this tackle slot where Jim Cozad and Bruno Nieldzla have both been playing outstandingly well.

Meanwhile, the physically sound Hawks hit the practice field yesterday with a vengeance that promises well for Iowa hopes in the upcoming "tough half" of their schedule.

Assistant coach Joe Sheeketski immediately turned his line charges loose on an offensive contact drill against an "Indiana" defense—and the boys were hitting harder than at any time since the Purdue game.

And backfield coach Frank Carideo ran his crew through a lengthy pass defense session, aimed at stopping the tosses of the Hoosiers' Ben Raimondi.

That Mr. Raimondi, the Brooklyn football pitcher, hit his receivers 10 times in 15 tries for 117 yards when Illinois was beaten 14-7, at Bloomington last Saturday. He throws long or short, usually to right end Lou Mihajlovich or the speedy right half, Bob Cowan.

Composite statistics on the Hawks' first four games show that Bob Smith, the hard hitting right halfback, has taken over the rushing leadership from Dick Hoerner, who was largely inactive because of an arm injury last Saturday.

Smith has a 6.5 average on 244 yards in 38 trials, with Em Tunnell second with 5.6 on 203 in 36. Hoerner is third with 182 yards in 38 attempts for a 4.8 average.

Tunnell retains his passing first place, completing 11 of 23 for 112 yards, with four men sharing the receiving honors. Hal Shoener, Smith and Hoerner have each grabbed three passes, while Bob Phillips, who alternates with Shoener at left end, has caught four.

Tunnell is high scorer with 18 points, followed by Bob Sullivan with 15 and Smith with 12.

FIRST ADD SPORTS

Iowa's 1946 football season, billed in advance as one of the most crucial years in the school's gridiron history, will reach the half-way point Saturday afternoon at about 3:30—at half time of the Indiana game, that is. And this might be a good time to give with a few observations from their first four games.

First, the Hawks have one of the best football teams in the country. Against Purdue and in the second half against Michigan, they would have outplayed any team in the country—from Notre Dame right down the list.

They got off to a poor start against Michigan, probably because of the excessive heat, and they suffered a natural let-down against Nebraska, turning from conference opposition to the under-rated Huskers.

And secondly, we think that they are really going to catch fire from now on out—THAT THEY HAVE AN EXCELLENT CHANCE OF WINNING AT LEAST FOUR OF THEIR REMAINING GAMES.

Then, we think that they have shown individual strength in every department of the game. . . . that Russ Benda, Dave Day and Earl Banks have outplayed every opposing guard they have run into so far. . . . that Jim Cozad was air-tight on defense against Purdue and Nebraska. . . . that the Shoener twins are easily the toughest defensive ends in the league, and that Bob Phillips and Sherman Howard can take over the flanks when a pair of excellent pass receivers are needed.

That quarterback Lou King, completely ignored when Iowa fans were bemoaning the loss of George Terlep and Sam Vacanti, has developed into a better than average signal caller, a near perfect formation ball handler and an outstanding pass defense man. . . . that Emlen Tunnell combines a great offensive running-passing threat with deadly defensive work (it has been several years since the conference has seen a top offensive back that was so sure on his tackling).

That Bob Smith has become the most valuable Hawkeye back with his explosive running (a cross buck with Smith carrying is probably Iowa's most consistent play) . . . that Dick Hoerner probably won't be named on many all-American teams but that he is certainly the best in the conference and, in our book, the best in the nation.

And finally, that the Hawk spirit is the best we have ever seen on a major college eleven. Their will to win is going to make it tough on every opponent from now on in.

Reveal Buddy Young Has Ankle Injury

CHICAGO (AP)—Claude (Buddy) Young, one of the nation's top ball-carriers for two seasons, has "slowed about a step" and thereby hangs the tale of a currently deflated Illinois football team which was bracketed with Notre Dame in pre-season reckoning.

Athletic director Doug Mills of Illinois yesterday told the Herald-American quarterback luncheon: "Young, freshman sensation of the 1944 Illinois eleven and halfback of blurring speed for the Flee City, Calif., service team last year is hampered by an ankle injury and strained leg muscle.

The Illinois coaching staff headed by Ray Eliot, is "second to none in the country" and despite sharp criticism has kept silent on the reason Young must be used sparingly.

And that the press and public had gratefully over-rated the Illinois Young, freshman sensation of the 1944 Illinois eleven and halfback as saying that "the officers of the Young Communist League remained to carry on the work of the AYD." He said that J. Edgar Hoover, head of the federal bureau of investigation, had asserted that the American Youth for Democracy "is just a new name for the former Young Communist League."

THE DAILY WORKER, Communist party organ, stated on April 3, 1946, that "the party will help develop the AYD as a mass, advanced, anti-Fascist youth organization, in which the Communists play a leading role." Another refutation of AYD has appeared in THE QUADRANGLE, monthly publication of the Collegiate Press Association.

uary, 1945, issues The Quadrangle outlined the history of YCL and its emergence as AYD when it went out of existence in 1943.

The articles pointed out that the American Student Union (disbanded during the war), AYD and other youth organizations were being used as an implement of the Communist line, and that the technique used was one of outlining ostensibly democratic aims of equality which would attract liberals of many classes.

Telephone System In Hawkeye Village Changes on Oct. 31

Telephones in Hawkeye Village dwelling units will be changed from University switching equipment to the city system on Oct. 31, it was announced yesterday.

The announcement came from M. R. Peterson, temporary manager of the local branch of the Northwestern Bell Telephone Co.

Service will be resumed the next day on the new five-digit number system with little or no delay, said Peterson. He added that special instructions will be printed in the University section of the telephone directory on dialing Hawkeye residents in order to avoid confusion.

Forty of the 85 phone owners at Hawkeye have applied for continued use of their telephones under the new system that accounts telephone expenses as an item separate from monthly residence rental fees. The other 45 must have their applications in today in order to be listed in the new directory.

Peterson said every effort was being made to get the new directory out as soon after Nov. 1 as possible.

He further emphasized that today's deadline applies only to Hawkeye Villagers. Later applications for telephones can probably be filled as material shortages are not expected immediately.

Statistics compiled as of Oct. 1 show 9,920 telephones in use in Iowa City. Of that number, 1,702 are University extensions. The new five-digit switching equipment services 750 telephones.

CAN YOU BUILD A BETTER ONE?

THIS RAT-TRAP WITH A THEORY that may seem all wet is now in use at the Potter and Lang Veterinary clinic, 129 N. Gilbert street. Built of string, a barrel, cardboard, and a rabbit leg for bait, the trap is installed near a broken window. The rat is supposed to enter a cardboard tunnel which leads to a platform beyond which is a dangling piece of meat. As the rat reaches for the meat, the platform tips and throws the rodent into the barrel of water. Although it was installed three days ago, as yet no rats have been caught. It used to work "back home," however, according to Dave Cook, a clinic assistant who helped Dr. A. N. Lang with the construction. Dr. J. S. Potter says he hopes to have the window installed soon so the contraption can be removed.

Sales Management Figures Survey Show Iowa Citizens Spend $18,810,000 in '45

(The following information was taken from the May 10, 1946, issue of Sales Management, "Survey of Buying Power," copyright, 1946, further reproduction not licensed.)

Iowa Citizens spent $18,810,000 for retail buying in 1945, compared with a total "real" income of $18,979,000, according to figures in the May 10 issue of Sales Management.

This represents an effective buying capacity of each person of $1,150 during the year. Comparisons show that the total spent is 1.42 percent of that spent in the state while Iowa Citizens hold .81 percent of the state's effective buying power.

These figures, showing income after federal income tax, payments have been removed, are broken down into three major store groups: food stores, merchandise stores, and drug stores.

Food stores include all establishments selling groceries, meat, dairy goods and also delicatessens. General merchandise stores include department stores, and variety stores. Drug stores do not include other stores that may sell drugs and toilet goods as a side line.

In the three store groups, Iowa City, spent $4,084,000 in food stores and $719,000 in drug stores. Figures on the amount spent in general merchandise stores was withheld.

Wholesale sales in Iowa City during 1945 totaled $5,341,000. These figures show that Iowa City, with an estimated population of 16,500, or .73 percent of the state population, accounted for 1.42 percent of the state's retail buying record and .025 percent of the national retail receipts.

Other percentage records of cities in Iowa were: Des Moines, 9.88 percent of the state retail buying; Davenport, 3.97 percent; Cedar Rapids, 4.16 percent; Ottumwa, 1.61 percent; Fort Madison, .77 percent; Newton, .63 percent; Oskaloosa, .78 percent, and Mason City, 1.90 percent.

Retail sales per capita were $779 for city persons for the year, and $451 for rural persons.

Missouri, also with nearly equal distribution of population, has $691 city persons, $271 rural persons yearly spending.

In Johnson county retail sales total $20,846,000, of which $18,810,000 was spent in Iowa City.

The $18,783,000 income of farmers in Johnson county represents approximately half the effective buying income of the county. In Marshall county, the farm income is more nearly 60 percent of the total income of the county population.

The average family income, $3,515, in Johnson county is four-tenths in the state, and is $49 above the statewide average.

Counties where family incomes are greater are those in which large cities are located.

The figures show that Iowa City drug stores received total revenue of $719,000 during the year. This gives Iowa City a eleventh ranking in the state, but first among cities of its size.

Taxicab Companies Protest License Fee

Representatives of four Iowa City taxicab companies last night protested at the city council meeting that the proposed $100 license fee on each cab was too high.

Vincent Lalla, Deluxe cabs, said that the licensing would be beneficial, but maintained that an initial fee of $150 to $200 for the first cab and $10 to $20 for each additional cab would be fairer.

Dave Foraker, speaking for the City cab company, said the fee should be even lower than that proposed by Lalla.

The four representatives also disagreed with the proposal to increase insurance coverage from $5,000-$10,000 to $25,000-$50,000, protesting that their insurance had been adequate.

Lalla also suggested with William A. Heigh of Varsity-Hawkeye cabs that the ordinance require rates to be posted in each cab and that there be a six-person passenger limit in cabs.

The council decided that the ordinance and parking committees, along with the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce should meet with the owners of the cab companies to discuss the proposed ordinance.

Dean C. Woody Thompson, speaking from the floor suggested that the council look into the present water situation in Iowa City.

Thompson stated that "the recent election did not settle anything except that no franchise can be issued at this time," and said that he wondered "if it is not within the authority of the city to explore the situation and make recommendations as to what should be done in the future relative to the water works."

Recalling that he had served on in Iowa City water committee ten years ago which had failed because of insufficient working funds, Thompson said "If we choose to issue another ordinance we must be willing to spend the money to make it operative."

The council directed City Engineer Fred E. Gartzke to have the Benton street bridge inspected by a bridge expert and have some recommendation made as to whether it should be repaired or condemned.

The council also decided to close the bridge on Oct. 26 and Nov. 2 during the times that heavy football traffic occurs.

Police Chief O. A. White suggested that the council draw up a budget for the disposal of revenue obtained from city parking meters when they are installed.

White suggested that 50 percent of the revenue be set aside for

Community Chest Drive

Community chest contributions yesterday afternoon totaled $7,018.95, according to Prof. Ralph H. Ojemann, chairman of the drive. Professor Ojemann urged that solicitors turn in their contributions as promptly as possible.

With a goal of $21,010, the drive is scheduled to last until Oct. 20.

The Community chest provides funds for the Community center, the PTA milk fund, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and the City hall restroom.

'47 Homecoming

Looking ahead to 1947: the homecoming football game for Iowa will be with Minnesota Nov. 15. And a note for the present: the 1946 game is with Illinois Nov. 2, and only about 4,500 tickets remain.
