Cards Clip Boston, 4-3, To Win World Series

ST. LOUIS (AP)—An almost unbelievable piece of base running by Enos (Country) Slaughter and stout-hearted relief pitching by Harry (The Cat) Brecheen in the ninth inning enabled the St. Louis Cardinals to pull out a thrilling 4 to 3 victory yesterday in the deciding game of the World Series.

By GAYLE TALBOT
raced all the way home from first base with the winning run in the eighth inning on a simple line drive into centerfield by Harry Walker on which any runner except a Cardinal would have pulled up at third.

Culberson, Boston centerfielder, and had plenty of time to nail the flying "Country," but for some inexplicable reason he "froze" and held the ball just long enough to enable Slaughter to slide in under the throw.

As exciting a championship play-off as perhaps ever was fought out ended some 10 minutes later as Brecheen quelled a last-ditch Boston rally and retired the last three batters in succession with the tying and winning runs on the bases.

Brecheen, by relieving his close pal, Murry Dickson, in the eighth frame and getting credit for the triumph, became the ninth pitcher in series history to win three games.

Dickson, who was beaten in the opening game of the series, got off to a shaky start when the two opening Sox hitters, Wally Moses and Johnny Pesky, rifled through the center, and one of them, Moses, scored on DiMaggio's long fly.

The Cards tied it up in the second when Whitey Kurovski led off with a double, reached third on an infield out, and counted on Walker's loft to Ted Williams.

There it remained until the fifth, when the flock suddenly fell on Ferriss with a salvo of four hits, one of them a double by Dickson, that put two scores across and brought Joe Dobson to the rescue.

Hal Wagner, Boston catcher, was lifted for Pinchhitter Rip Russell to lead off the eighth, and (See SERIES, page 5)

Cattle Prices Shoot Upward In Wake of Meat Decontrol

WASHINGTON (AP)—Cattle prices soared yesterday and the stock market shot up on the prospect that America's whole structure of wage and price control is toppling fast.

through the abandonment of meat subsidies along with price controls. An official said it appears that only $20,000,000 of $400,000,000 which has been authorized for subsidies will now be spent.

President Truman's reluctant push that sent all livestock and meat controls to the scrap heap had swift and sweeping repercussions.

through the abandonment of meat subsidies along with price controls. An official said it appears that only $20,000,000 of $400,000,000 which has been authorized for subsidies will now be spent.

The meat-eating public faced the prospect of getting more meat fairly soon—perhaps within ten days—but at prices that are bound to reflect yesterday's first burst upward on livestock markets.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican Chairman Carroll Reece declared last night that if the Truman administration had listened to advice of Republican congressmen instead of "the radical fringe" the present meat problem would never have developed and become a political issue.

Even without this influence, pork chops rose in one Washington store from 43 cents a pound to $1. Hamburger in Pittsburgh jumped from 29 to 59 cents a pound.

Reece, in a radio address, replied to Monday night's speech in which President Truman announced an end to controls over meat.

High among the other consequences of the step Mr. Truman took as "the only remedy" were these:

Reece said the administration had created a shortage which need not have developed at all.

1. The American Federation of Labor called formally for an end to all wage and price controls except on rents.

He contended that it was Mr. Truman's veto of the original OPA extension bill last June which was responsible for letting controls lapse in the first place.

2. Stock market investors reacted bullishly to Mr. Truman's statement on speeding up removal of price and wage controls.

"The present administration," Reece asserted, "believes in government control of the American economy and the meat shortage is only one dramatic instance of why these government orders inevitably will fail. The Republicans are frankly opposed to the administration's attempts to dominate the American system."

3. Price Administrator Paul Porter issued a statement of policy that OPA intends to keep ceilings on "important" commodities and services until supply balances demand.

Plans for a campus barber shop, available to any student registered in the university, were announced yesterday by Fred Ambrose of the university business office.

4. With controls off, cattle prices leaped in the nation's stockyards. Kansas City hogs went as much as $11.50 a hundredweight over OPA ceilings of $15.95, to record the highest one-day price rise yet.

This action was taken as a result of the university's concern for Negro students who have been unable to obtain barber service in Iowa City shops.

5. Secretary of Agriculture Anderson appealed to farmers to speed cattle marketings.

The decision grew out of an unsuccessful meeting held last week between Dean Carlye F. Jacobsen of the graduate college, Dean C. Woody Thompson, office of student affairs, prominent Iowa Citizens and members of the barber's association, according to Dean Thompson.

6. Meat industry leaders said the persistent shortage is sure to be overcome but their guesses as to when a normal supply may be expected ranged from two weeks to a year.

Plans are being made for a two-chair shop, to be located on the vacant lot opposite the Iowa Memorial Union building.

7. There arose speculation at the agriculture department that flour, bread and other bakery products will be the next to shake loose from OPA controls.

Construction will begin within the next two weeks, and orders for equipment are being placed now, Ambrose said.

8. Consumer groups complained bitterly about meat decontrol. The League of Women Shoppers said in a statement at Washington that the government has "sold out" the people.

He explained that the university has for years operated a barber shop in the Quadrangle dormitory, but it was primarily for the benefit of students residing in the Quadrangle.

The boys were taken to Mercy hospital.

Miles Assails GOP Campaign Of Silence

DES MOINES (AP)—Frank Miles, Democratic nominee for governor, declared last night "the reactionary Republicans in complete control of our state government are before the voters with a do-nothing record, a promise-nothing platform and a say-nothing campaign."

Reading of the Republican and Democratic state platforms, Miles continued in remarks prepared for a radio address, "shows Democratic eagerness to do for Iowa and reactionary Republican reluctance to move forward."

Gov. Blue Repudiates Any Support From PAC

FORT DODGE (AP)—Gov. Robert D. Blue declared here in an address last night that "in a large degree the chaos in America today results from the adoption by the administration of policies sponsored and supported by the PAC."

"On behalf of the Republican party of the state of Iowa, I repudiate any support by the PAC or any Communist influenced organization for any Republican in the state of Iowa," Blue asserted.

The Iowa CIO Political Action committee last week assailed Iowa's Republican congressmen and recommended Democratic nominees for governor, lieutenant governor and congress.

Jackson Calls Trials Great Moral Advance

WASHINGTON (AP)—Justice Robert H. Jackson said last night that "the Nuernberg trial may constitute the most important moral advance to grow out of this war."

In a report as United States chief prosecutor, Jackson told President Truman the trial and the decision condemning 11 high Nazis to death "do more than anything in our time to give to international law what Woodrow Wilson described as 'the kind of vitality it can only have if it is a real expression of our moral judgment.'" which bring a new hope to men of good will and from which future statesmen will not lightly depart. The standards by which the Germans have been condemned will become the condemnation of any nation that is faithless to them."

Saying "we cannot doubt that they strengthen the bulwarks of peace and tolerance," he added.

"The four nations through their prosecutors and through their representatives on the tribunal, have enunciated standards of conduct which bring a new hope to men of good will and from which future statesmen will not lightly depart. The standards by which the Germans have been condemned will become the condemnation of any nation that is faithless to them."

Yugoslavia Boycotts Peace Conference In Dramatic Withdrawal as Parley Ends

PARIS (AP)—The Paris Peace conference, boycotted in a dramatic 11th hour withdrawal by the Yugoslav delegation, adjourned yesterday afternoon, and many delegates left immediately for the forthcoming meetings in New York of the United Nations general assembly and the big four foreign ministers.

Yugoslav Vice Premier Edvard Kardelj, said in a letter to the empty bloc of Yugoslav seats yesterday that his country could not sign the treaty with Italy unless the main provisions affecting Yugoslavia were changed.

The conference was declared officially over at 5:28 p.m. (10:28 a.m. CST) by French President Georges Bidault, after the delegates had given final approval to the official record of draft treaties with five former Hitler satellite nations—Italy, Romania, Hungary, Bulgaria and Finland.

In reply, U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes declared "just as no one nation had the power to win the war, so no one nation has the wisdom to dictate the peace."

The conference's working press, meanwhile, voted overwhelmingly in a straw poll that it considered the parley was a failure.

In summing up his view of what the Nuernberg trial accomplished, Jackson said it had put "international law squarely on the side of peace as against aggressive warfare, and on the side of humanity as against persecution."

"In the present depressing world outlook," he continued, "it is possible that the Nuernberg trial may constitute the most important moral advance to grow out of this war."

In summing up the accomplishments of the trial and the Allied negotiations leading out of this war.

"We negotiated and concluded an agreement with the four dominant powers of the earth . . . which for the first time made explicit in international law, namely, that to prepare, incite, or wage a war of aggression, or to conspire against international society, and that to persecute, oppress, or do violence to individuals or minorities on political, racial, or religious grounds in connection with such a war, or to exterminate, enslave, or deport civilian populations, is an international crime, and that for the commission of such crimes individuals are responsible."

SUI Plans Student Barber Shop

Plans for a campus barber shop, available to any student registered in the university, were announced yesterday by Fred Ambrose of the university business office.

This solution should make everyone concerned happy," Mayor Teeters remarked.

All D. C. Nolan, president of the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce said "it is apparently in keeping with the policy of the university in providing services to the student body."

The university's plan was endorsed "100 percent" by the Iowa City Ministerial association.

The Rev. P. Hewison Pollock, president, said, "We are interested in obtaining social equality for Negroes, and it is a step in the right direction."

The Social Action committee was formed on the campus last April after handbills were distributed attacking the policy of Iowa City barbers in refusing to cut hair of Negroes.

Students and religious leaders then called a meeting to discuss the problems of racial discrimination in Iowa City. Jean Collier, A4 of Freeport, Ill., was elected chairman of the committee.

Iowa City barbers were contacted early in May by the committee but failed to appear for a meeting set May 7.

The committee then started seeking civic action.

The first meeting of the group this fall was held Oct. 2.

The Social Action committee decided at a meeting two weeks ago, that if the letters inviting them to the meeting Monday night are ignored or if the meeting were unsuccessful, an extra-legal test case will be made.

No. 2 Nazi Takes Poison In Jail Cell

10 Others of 'Hitler Gang' Go to Death On Nuernberg Scaffold

NUERNBERG, Wednesday (AP)—Hermann Goering, the No. 2 man of the dead Nazi regime, cheated the noose by taking poison in his prison cell last night, but 10 other Hitler henchmen plunged to their deaths on the gallows early today in expiation of war crimes.

Col. B. C. Andrus, security chief for Nuernberg prison, made this announcement relative to Goering:

"Goering was not hanged, he committed suicide at 10:45 p. m. (3:45 p. m. CST) last night by taking cyanide of potassium."

"He was discovered at once by the sentinel who watched and heard him make an odd noise and twitch," Andrus continued. "The sentinel called the doctor and chaplain who were in the corridor and who found him dying."

"There were pieces of glass in his mouth and an odor of cyanide of potassium on his breath."

Andrus announced that all the other Nazis, sentenced by the international military tribunal on Oct. 1 for war crimes, crimes against the peace and crimes against humanity, were hanged.

"Goering's hands did not go beneath the blankets and were not observed to go to his mouth," Andrus said. "An investigation is now going on to learn how he could conceal the poison when he was subject to daily and rigorous searches, both of his clothes and his person. The cyanide was contained in a small cartridge case similar to those found before on other Nazis and like the one found on him a year ago last May at Mondorf prison. At that time it was hidden in a can of nescafe."

Kingsbury Smith, representing the combined American press, said Joachim Von Ribbentrop, the German foreign minister before and during the war, was the first man to die. While awaiting the placing of the black hood over his head, he uttered his last words, in German, in a firm, clear voice: "God save Germany," he cried.

Smith said most of the doomed men made brief "Long live Germany" statements on the scaffold. None of them collapsed, and most of them mounted the 13 steps to the rope steadily, though with United States army guards at each side.

Julius Streicher, the Jew baiter, was the only one to shout "Heil Hitler," as he was about to mount the scaffold, Smith said.

He made the most commotion, Smith continued, shouting bitterly and defiantly: "The Bolsheviks will handle you."

He was the only one to speak after the hood had been placed over his head, mentioning something about "Adele, my beloved wife," Smith added.

The executions took place under electric lights inside a small gymnasium inside the Nuernberg city jail prison yard, about 35 yards from the death block.

Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel asked for the protection of God for Germany just before he died and gave thanks to the priest.

Hans Frank, former general of Poland, muttered a barely audible thanks for the good treatment he had received as a prisoner and asked God to take him under his "good protection."

Wilhelm Frick, the Nazi "protector" for Bohemia and Moravia, was dressed in a gaudy sports jacket, the same one he wore during the 10 months of the war crimes trial in the nearby courthouse. As he got his first glimpse of the gallows he cried out: "God bless Germany always."

There was no official communique other than Col. Andrus' verbal announcement. There will be (See NAZIS, page 5)

PARIS (AP)—The Pacusan, Dreamboat was being readied last night for a transatlantic flight back home in an "off-again, on-again" attempt to beat the time record, with Westover field, at Chicopee, Mass., as its first goal.

Round Two Coming Up!

The nation has just witnessed a sorry spectacle. The President of the United States has been backed up into a corner and forced to cry "Uncle."

The capitulation of Harry S. Truman on the matter of meat price controls is a sad commentary on the social efficiency of our economic system and on the social responsibility of our political system.

And President Truman's decision to lift the controls from meat was something more than just the surrender of one man. It represented acknowledgment of defeat by millions of Americans who had hoped to obtain at a reasonable price an equitable portion of the inadequate meat supply.

Who was it that pushed the president and the nation into capitulation?

Mr. Truman identified them in his Monday night speech. One group he called the "selfish interests (who) have been determined for some time to wreck price controls no matter what the cost might be to our people." He severely castigated this group for holding back production and limiting marketing in an attempt to break the back of the OPA.

What the president failed to point out, however, was that these "selfish men" were guilty of nothing more than being good hard-headed businessmen. He failed to point out, for example, that the marketing of vast supplies of unfattened cattle during July and August when controls were off was merely doing business in the usual American fashion.

Mr. Truman apparently forgot momentarily that the chief incentive of the rancher, the feeder, the packer and the retailer is the desire to make as much money as possible for himself and not to provide as much meat as possible for the American people. He apparently forgot that under the profit system, money talks loudly while the social conscience only whispers.

The other group who assisted in forcing the administration and the citizens into submission, the president identified as the "reckless group" in both houses of congress who lead producers to believe that the OPA would be short lived. He was referring to those members of congress who since last October dallied with renewal of price controls and made of it a political issue.

The strategy of the opposition was obvious. Practically to the man they voted for the final OPA bill which went into effect July 25, but only after they had so riddled it with amendments that it was a price control bill in name only. They reasoned that if the bill didn't work it was the administration's baby and if it did work they could boast of having voted for it.

Here again the president failed to point out that these "reckless men" in sabotaging the OPA were only playing the good old American game of politics. Those who hamstringing the bill were much less interested in keeping inflation in check than they were in putting the Truman administration in a bad light. Surely Mr. Truman has seen enough of American politics to know social responsibility is not a guiding motive.

Already we hear cries of a second round. Organized labor still has in its possession an economic weapon—the strike—which they now can be expected to use to offset the rise in meat prices which has taken immediate effect.

And as for the rest of us—the great mass of white-collared workers living on fixed incomes—we do not have to take this defeat lying down. Although in our unorganized state we have no economic weapons, we do have a political weapon—the right to vote.

Danny Kaye Talks Straight on Voting

(The following article on registering and voting is written by Danny Kaye, movie and radio comedian. The article is being distributed by the Young Citizens Political Action Committee—The Editor.)

By DANNY KAYE

Pretty soon, depending on your age and the state you live in, you are going to vote. Three out of five of you will exercise this privilege. The other two, according to national statistics, will not. It is to this 40% of the nation that I want to talk now.

Democracy is a word we have heard so often, used so many ways, that we sometimes forget exactly what it means. Let's look it up in the dictionary. Here's what Webster says:

"de-mo-cra-cy, n. Government in which the supreme power is retained by the people and exercised . . . through a system of representation."

Yes our government is just what Lincoln called it: a government of the people. But every time it is necessary to make a new law or establish a new policy it is impossible to ask 130,000,000 Americans for their opinions. So we do the next best thing. We elect people who will represent us, who will vote as much as possible as we would ourselves. Those are our representatives in congress and senators, governors, state legislators, and, at the top of the administrative ladder, the president himself.

Who these people are depends entirely on us and the way we vote. Voting is an American privilege, but a responsibility too. The man or woman who neglects to cast his ballot at election time implies that he is willing to forfeit his right to participate in his own government. When I hear someone criticizing an act of congress, or hearing about a man in public office, the first question I ask him is whether he voted in the last election. If the answer is no, I don't pay much attention to his arguments.

But a voter must be more than just willing. He must also be informed. Voting for men about whom one knows very little or nothing, whose own political beliefs are vaguely understood, is merely voting blind.

You can probably name the line-up on your favorite big-league ball team, or remember the theme songs of a dozen popular bands, but do you know who are your representatives in congress or your state senators? And while we're on the subject how many of these questions can you answer?

What is the Bill of Rights? What are the three divisions of our government? What is your congressional district? What is the college of electors? Maybe it sounds like a radio quiz program, or an exam in civics. But these are only a handful of questions that any American citizen should be able to answer if he is really hep.

So make a point of finding out what makes your government tick. Follow the newspapers and news magazines and keep up with what's going on in Washington. Get to know the names of the men who are representing you in the government. It's your government. Remember.

And then, when election time rolls around, you'll be ready to get out there and vote!

Cabbages and Kings African Art Offers Simplicity, Directness

By LAWRENCE E. DENNIS

The tragic helplessness of President Harry Truman's position with reference to the entire economic stabilization program was reflected in his price control message Monday evening.

As I listened to the colorless midwestern voice trace the meat shortage back past mid-August, when the price lid was restored, through the uncontrolled 50-day period following the expiration of OPA on June 30, to the deliberate sabotaging of the original extension bill by Senators Taft, Wherry, O'Daniel, et al., I realized more fully how ill-advised and misled the president has been in his domestic policies since V-J day.

In the sixteen months that have gone by since August 1945, he has needlessly and thoughtlessly sacrificed not only the leadership of the Democratic Party of Franklin D. Roosevelt, but the prestige of the presidency as well.

He allowed himself and his administration to be pressured and cajoled into first one untenable position and then another until the final break came this week. In his handling of the meat situation, our chief executive stumbled back to a point from whence there was no retreat save complete and unconditional capitulation to the selfish lobbyists and profiteers who have been chiseling away at the government's stabilization program since its inception in January, 1942.

By yielding, over a year ago, to the unholy alliance of old guard Republicans, conservative Democrats and Missouri office-seekers, the president abolished, with little more than a passing farewell, the war labor board, food rationing and the Roosevelt-Vinson-Bowles proven wage-price formula.

For advice during those all-important early postwar months, President turned not to men whose job it had been to guide this nation through its most critical period in history, but, rather, to an inexperienced group of odd importations such as John Snyder, the little man with the little smile; George Allen, the roly-poly court jester whose sole claim to leadership rests on his affability as a swimming companion, and John Collet, an unobtrusive jurist with obscure administrative abilities.

For months now, Washington correspondents have been openly talking and writing about "government by crony." But apparently to no avail.

The president failed to heed the advice of the rapidly-diminishing group of experienced, tested assistants who had comprised his predecessor's war mobilization and reconversion team. Those able men stood by, waiting for the call to carry out their plans and ideas. But, seemingly, that call never came. And the tragic exodus began: Robert Nathan, the economist who had been one of the key figures in the war production board; Abe Fortas, who, as undersecretary of the interior, had gained the respect of congressmen at home and diplomats abroad; Chester Bowles, director of the office of price administration and economic stabilization, who, perhaps more than any single individual, had helped the country "hold the line" against wartime inflation; Leo Crowley, the lend-lease administrator; William Davis, for many years a key figure in the arbitration of labor-management disputes; and the two cabinet members who had worked as loyal public servants since 1932, Harold Ickes and Henry Wallace.

Even Postmaster-General and National Democratic Chairman Robert Hannegan, theoretically an important advisor on political matters, was, according to press reports, frequently side-tracked in favor of the Snyder-Allen-Steelman "kitchen cabinet." The president vacillated in his decisions, apparently duped into believing that the National Association of Manufacturers, the southern Senatorial Bourbons and the various other pressure crowds spoke for the entire country.

To the delight of the Chicago Tribune, the America First party and the Bricker-Taft isolationists, President Truman spent most of his time presumably "getting tough" with the Russians, while his domestic leadership, particularly in congress, was allowed to drift into bankruptcy.

Too late, the president last Christmas began to broadcast a series of pleas to the people asking them to write their congressmen in support of the administration's domestic program. But in that first spurge following V-J day—when, against the advice of his more experienced administrators, he relaxed wartime restrictions and gave the green light to the inflationary spiral—President Truman unknowingly torpedoed his own stabilization program.

The Wherrys and the Wilsons and the Martins and the Rankins who told the President and the people that "everything would work itself out" are undoubtedly satisfied with the latest turn of events. For their reelection, they have banked on the long pocketbook of the manufacturers' lobby and the short memory of the consumer. The Snyders and Allens and Collets who whispered words of good cheer into the President's ear and took him for pleasurable weekend cruises are having a grand time wiggling their political toes in shoes that are at least ten sizes too large.

Perhaps everything WILL be allright. Perhaps there are more Nathans and Wallaces and Bowles and Ickes in one of our major political parties. Perhaps—come 1948 or 1952—we will recognize their potentialities and vote them into office with a strong mandate for forthright, progressive legislation. But, Republican or Democrat, there are to few such men in positions of high public trust today. And, until 1948 or 1952 . . .

The simplicity and directness with which the primitive craftsman handles his material are enviable qualities to the modern artist. In the exhibit of African tribal art now being shown in the west gallery of the Fine Arts building, these qualities are well demonstrated. This is a loan exhibition from the museum of the University of Pennsylvania (well known for its collection of anthropological art) and will remain here until Nov. 1.

Included in the exhibit are works from many tribal areas. Varying religious beliefs and tribal customs account for the difference in approach and style from one area to another.

Most striking of these works are wood figures from the Ivory Coast. These are done in beautiful ebony and are simple in form and rich in feeling. Custom dictates two uses for these figures: one is to place a portrait figure of the deceased in the hut to provide a body for the spirit and the other, less morbid use, is to give the figure away as a gift (as we would give photographs away).

Other objects in the exhibit include Masks, tapa cloth, bronze ornaments, knives, axes and carved wooden boxes. These art forms are always craft products, since art is not divorced from daily life in Africa. The craftsman produces objects for the production of food, personal ornaments, recreation, warfare, ceremonial events and magic.

The purpose of this exhibit is more than a scientific one. Since the end of the last century, experimental artists have become increasingly aware of the force, simplicity and integration of the arts of primitive civilizations. Through their study of primitive art forms, modern artists are attempting to infuse their work with two of the main principles of primitive art. These are the complete identification of the artist with his tribal culture and his sure and unself-conscious abstraction of natural form to fit the needs of his medium.

The significance of this exhibit lies in its presentation of a source material for many phases of modern art. In its simplicity and directness, African art bears a great similarity to modern art. A comparison and study of these two forms of art will lead to a greater understanding of the contemporary and progressive directions in art.

Here is music with inspired arranging and a jazz beat. . . it's King Cole Trio Time!

VOCAL ALBUM—Decca has the Andrew Sisters in a five record album containing the songs that made them famous and kept them at the top. All sides are in the effervescent and vivacious style typical of the Andrews gals. Some of the best remembered: BEI MIR BIST DU SCHOEN, APPLE BLOSSOM TIME, PENNSYLVANIA POLKA, JOSEPH JOSEPH AND BEAT ME DADDY.

VOCAL STANDOUTS—Columbia issues Dinah Shore's hit selection, TWO SILHOUETTES, from the Walt Disney production, "Make Mine Music."

This goes down as one of Dinah's best. On the reverse, she sings "I HATE LITTLE DREAM GOT NOWHERE."

Martha Tilton sings "You MAKE ME FEEL SO YOUNG, an effective rhythm tune, and SOMEWHERE IN THE NIGHT, a ballad (Capitol). Eddie Howard and Telo make a superb recording of the hit that is currently sweeping the country—TO EACH HIS OWN; then he with band reverses to CARELESS (Majestic). For a good female vocal of TO EACH HIS OWN: Trudy Irwin on a 4-Star label.

THAT'S MY HOME—Gene Krupa, dance (Columbia). NIGHT AND DAY—Russ Case, dance (Victor). TO EACH HIS OWN—The Ink Spots, vocal (Decca). AREN'T YOU KIND OF GLAD WE DID—Vaughn Monroe, dance, (Victor). HANGOVER SQUARE—Ray McKinley, dance (Majestic).

Miss Paulee to Give Varied Program At Union Tonight

Mona Paulee, Metropolitan opera mezzo-soprano, will open the 1946-47 concert course this evening at 8 o'clock with the first of two concerts in the main lounge of Iowa Union.

Miss Paulee will present a varied program of classical, modern and contemporary works by German, Italian, French, Spanish, and American composers.

She will be accompanied on the piano by her husband, Dean Holt, according to Prof. C. B. Righter, manager of the concert course.

Students must present both identification cards and concert tickets for admission to either Mona Paulee concert, tonight or tomorrow evening, Prof. C. B. Righter, concert course manager, said yesterday.

In her four years at the Metropolitan, Miss Paulee has appeared prominently in such operas as "Carmen" and "Mignon," according to Prof. Righter. She has sung with such orchestras as the New York Philharmonic, the Toronto symphony, and the Minneapolis symphony. In radio, Miss Paulee has appeared as soloist on the Ford hour, the Coca Cola hour, "Invitation to Music," "Music America Loves Best," and on "World of Song."

Miss Paulee also gave many wartime concerts before groups of servicemen, including those at the Great Lakes Naval Training station and at the Stage Door canteen.

Tonight's concert program will be repeated by Miss Paulee tomorrow evening.

President Truman's order lifting price controls on meat has necessitated a re-wording of the question to be discussed tomorrow night on the University Student Forum of the Air over WSUI at 8 o'clock, it was announced last night.

The re-worded question is, "Will the removal of price controls benefit the consumer?"

Committee Plans Activity Schedule For Homecoming

Other Friday evening events include receptions at the Triangle and University clubs and the annual Homecoming dance at Iowa Union.

Saturday morning events include the dedication of the Governor Robert Lucas home as a state historical park, annual meeting of the "I" club, a women's hockey game, college open house with deans and faculty members in their offices, a cross-country run between Iowa and Chicago and the state high school championship cross-country run.

The main feature of the afternoon will be the football game between Iowa and Illinois. During the evening Iowa Union will hold open house, and the Dolphin club will give two performances of their traditional water show in the fieldhouse pool.

Newest Hobby Group— Iowa Flying Club

One of the newest and least known organizations on the university campus is the Iowa Flying club, organized last Friday, which already has on order a new Cessna airplane.

The club began last summer when John Donnell, sociology department instructor, advertised for persons interested in flying. Response was quick in coming and a group of flyers were soon forming plans for a flying club.

Members agreed to contribute $200 apiece to purchase the first plane, and chose a Cessna, costing approximately $3,200 with insurance. The plane is all-metal, and will cruise at 100 miles per hour with an 85 horsepower engine.

Accessories in the plane include a sensitive altimeter and a device to register engine time by the number of revolutions the engine turns per minute.

The club plans to store the plane at the Iowa City airport. Members will have access to the plane on a first come first fly basis.

To enable interested persons to join the group, club memberships were placed on an installment basis. Prospective members may pay either in a lump sum of $200, or $100 down, and the rest in installments.

Five memberships have been held open for persons interested in joining the group, which now has a membership of 15.

The widespread interest in the group is evidenced by its membership. Celia Texta, club treasurer, joined the flyers shortly after coming to the campus. She arrived in the United States from her native Uruguay only two weeks prior to the start of the fall term.

The plane will be delivered Oct. 28, when Don Liljenquist will go to Wichita, Kan., to pick it up.

Club members may use the plane for long cross country flights during the week, but weekend flights have been limited to 24 hours.

Marriage licenses were issued yesterday by R. Neilson Miller, clerk of district court to Merwin D. Reynolds and Doris A. Cotter, Iowa City, and M. C. Serup and Marion Shank, Iowa City.

Resignation Of H.A. Smith Announced

The resignation of Harold A. Smith as assistant superintendent of University hospitals was announced yesterday by Superintendent Gerhard Hartman. Smith has accepted a position of superintendent of the Atlantic Memorial hospital in Atlantic, where he will begin his duties Dec. 1.

Expressing "sincere regret" at Smith's leaving, Hartman said, "I feel sure that we all join in a genuine feeling of appreciation for the administrative services and many personal courtesies which Mr. Smith has shown all of us at the University hospitals during his entire tenure here, and that we wish him the best of success in his new endeavor," Hartman said.

Smith said he accepted the position at the Atlantic Memorial hospital, the only hospital in the county, to guide a program of expansion. "In the future we hope to be able to enlarge the hospital from its present 50 bed status to 100 beds," Smith explained.

Coming to Iowa City 10 years ago from Western Union college, LeMars, as field representative for the University hospitals, Smith became assistant superintendent three years ago, and was acting superintendent from Nov. 1, 1945, to July 1, 1946, when Hartman assumed the duties.

A graduate of North Central college at Naperville, Ill., Smith received his M.A. degree in zoology from the University of South Dakota.

No successor has been named.

Hawks Seek Scoring Punch

Iowa's passing attack, which in two conference games has netted an average of only 7 completions was given an overhaul yesterday as head coach Dr. Eddie Anderson emphasized to his charges that the Hawkeyes will need every bit of scoring punch Saturday when they meet Indiana—the conference's leading defensive team.

The average seven completions per game is the lowest in the league, official conference figures revealed; but the percentage of completions, 642, is the best. Passing games averaged 41.5 yards per game.

Emlen Tunnell, Iowa's leading passer, held the spotlight in practice.

No Tickets Left For Notre Dame

Paul Brecher, University of Iowa business manager of athletics, announced last night that "there are absolutely no more tickets for the Notre Dame game and there will be no more." At the same time, Brecher said that all seats in the temporary end zone bleachers have gone to fill previous ticket requests.

However, Brecher added, there are still 4,000 tickets left for the Illinois game, with seats available in both ends of the east stands.

Practice drills, with a perfect score on short, in-the-flat tosses. The Shoener twins, Harold and Herb, shared receiving honors with Bob Phillips.

The Hoosiers rank second offensively, with a 284 average, but Iowa's rushing gains are superior to those of Indiana. Four Hawkeyes are among the first fifteen in individual rushing gains—Bob Sullivan with 5.9 average, Dick Hoerner, Bob Smith, and Emlen Tunnell, each with 4.

HARRY (THE CAT) BRECHEEN bears down on Wally Moses of the Red Sox in the eighth inning yesterday as he beat the Boston slugger with a two-inning relief job in the crucial seventh World Series game. The victory was "The Cat's" third in the fall classic. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Little Hawks Seek Defensive Strength

One of the top undefeated high school teams in the state must fall from its lofty spot this Friday when the Little Hawks from City high meet Dowling High of Des Moines on the Hawkeyes home field.

Hopes for a Little Hawk victory in the important non-conference tilt were boosted with the return of Bill Reichardt to the squad. Reichardt, regular left end and punter, will not engage in contact work during drills this week but may be ready for part time duty against the Capitol City club. He received a cracked rib in the Duquesne game and did not play against McKinley in the Homecoming tussle.

Defense has been the watchword in the Hawkeye practices this week as Coach Herb Cormack is searching for strength in the center of the five man defensive line. Dale Scannell and Bill Lee, guards, have been alternating in this all important spot but end Joe Cilek has also taken a turn at the position.

Slaughter's Dash Features Thrill Packed Series Finale

By WHITNEY MARTIN

ST. LOUIS (AP)—For sheer undiluted, spine-tingling drama which kept butterflies fluttering in the stomachs of 36,143 fans from the moment the Red Sox scored in the first inning until his deliciously happy teammates hoisted the thrice-victorious Harry Brecheen to their shoulders, yesterday's series finale was in a class by itself.

Climax piled upon climax, reaching the ultimate when Red Schoendienst fairly smothered Tommy McBride's ground ball in his bosom to be sure it wouldn't get away before he could toss it to Marty Marion for the forecourt that ended the game.

The Cards really ran away with this series, the same as they did against the Yankees in 1942. In baseball history, Enos Slaughter's great gallop from first to score on a blow to left center will rate with Paul Revere's ride in the history of our country, and the picture of the stocky, feather-footed outfielder rounding third as coach Mike Gonzales waved him on, almost frantically, long will be cherished by the thrill-limp fans who saw it.

It didn't look as if he had a chance as he winged his way around third, flying low. Johnny Pesky already had the ball back of second. But on he came, coming home with as pretty as slide as you will ever see. It was Slaughter whom Gonzales held up at third in the opening game when it looked as if he had a chance to score on his triple. All was forgiven yesterday.

The knowledge that more than $1,000 was riding on every pitch added a tension that was practically brittle, and you felt a pang of sympathy for both Boo Ferriss and Murry Dickson when they were relieved.

Dickson, a small, dapper fellow, grim and tight-lipped and a "cutie" on the mound, gave the impression of being on the verge of tears when Eddie Dyer told him he had better have help. You could see the gritty little guy pleading to be allowed to remain out there. He might have got out of the hole he had dug for himself, but Dyer's decision proved wise. He knew his Brecheen; knew that "The Cat" clawed almost viciously when cornered.

Terry Moore's astounding backhanded catch of Pinky Higgin's tremendous drive in the fifth also will linger in memory.

It looked like a forlorn hope for the crippled centerfielder, but it was one of those "must" plays wherein failure might mean the start of a disasterous rally. He gritted his teeth and drove his aching leg until the pain must have been almost unbearable. And he came up with the ball, as he did under similar circumstances at Boston.

There will be barrels of second guessing of this nerve-chilling final game—scores of "ifs" tossed up for grabs. Why did Marty Marion try to catch the ball and the bag at the same time in the first inning, putting the Sox in position for their first score? Why didn't Slaughter sacrifice instead of slug at the ball with none out in the fourth and Stan Musial on first? The "ifs" matter not a whit now. The Cardinals won the game and redeemed National League prestige, so badly maimed in the All-Star debacle. Maybe it was just a hunch. Maybe Eddie Dyer had a brief flash of things to come. Whatever the cause, he never spoke more prophetic words than he did before the third game of the series in Boston when he remarked candidly:

"I think we can beat them if we can get back to St. Louis."

Huskers Add Pair

LINCOLN, NEBR. (AP)—Yesterday was promotion day at the University of Nebraska with Harvey Stroud, a halfback, and full-back Wally Hopp moving up from the "B" team to take first string assignments. Both have been standouts in "B" games this season.

Drake Tackle Back

DES MOINES (AP)—Carl Varner, hunky Drake tackle, reported for practice yesterday after an absence of nearly two weeks. Varner, biggest player on the Drake roster at 6-4 and 225 pounds, missed both the Tulsa and Wichita contests because of a back ailment.

Comdr. Bill Reinhart, Kings Point coach, was mentor at Fleet City last fall.

PASTIME

Personal
Dear Joe & Jane:
Here it is "Student Nite" again and we are glad. Hey—we saw lots of gals last week without male escorts. Maybe you gals would like to get up a theatre party? Hmmm? What do you say, boys.
So you want to know why we're glad it's Student Nite? Because when we were overseas we missed seeing "Heavy-lens Body" with Bill Powell & Hedy Lamar. We're going tonight. Also we've never seen "Take a Letter Darling" with Roz Russell. It's a "loo loo" of a request-film-classic.
Oh yes—the drama students of S.U.I. have submitted names of 35 movies and we're doing every thing possible to get them. How about your request?
Sincerely,
Pastime
P.S. Drop your request in the "request box" in the lobby and become a member of the Film Classic Club.

Famous Coach Says:
"I'D RATHER COACH THE PROS"

A celebrated refugee from college football tells why he thinks he's better off—both spiritually and financially—coaching a pro outfit than he ever was on the college campus. His name: Jim Conzelman, fabulous coach of the Chicago Cardinals. His reasons are both enlightening and amusing, and he gives 'em to you straight from the shoulder in his lively article entitled I'd Rather Coach the Pros in today's issue of The Saturday Evening Post. Still another reason why, if you want to keep posted on the world of sports, you can't afford to miss a single issue of the Post.

he caught hold of a Dickson curve solidly and shot it into centerfield. Gus Metkovich then hit for relief pitcher Dobson and sent a screamer down the left field line for two bases, moving Russell to third. That was where Brecheen came in. He struck out the first batter to face him, Wally Moses, and caused Pesky to fly out to right which was too short for Russell to attempt to score. But DiMaggio busted one far out into rightfield against the fence, and both runners easily trotted home to tie the score. Williams popped up to end the rally.

Bob Klimer was in the box for the Sox when the Cards came to bat in their half, and it was he who was charged with the defeat. Slaughter met him with a single to center, and then made his remarkable dash to the plate when Walker looped one out slightly to the left of second. Then in the ninth the Hub batters threatened to blow Brecheen tight out of the box.

Rudy York opened Boston's last desperation inning with a single to left and speedy Paul Campbell was sent in to run for him. Bobby Deerr followed with a liner into left on which Campbell pulled up at second.

Pinky Higgins could do no better than ground into a forceout at second, on which Campbell scooted to third. Roy Partee popped up to Stan Musial at first, and then Brecheen bore down for that final out on Pinchhitter Tom McBride. The Sox batter swung and sent a sharp bouncer to Red Schoendienst at second, and the redhead tossed underhanded to Marion for the forceout that ended the series.

The Savannah, first U.S. steamer to cross the Atlantic, was only 320 tons, as compared to the 26,000-ton America, largest U.S. merchant ship.

Two IC Men Held In Pig Stealing Case

Gilbert Louis Ayers, 23, 513 S. Madison street, and William Ambrose Griffin, 23, 919 E. Burlington street, were arrested yesterday by Sheriff Preston Koser on suspicion of stealing 42 head of spring pigs from Joe Huff, Lone Tree farmer, Sunday night. They are being held in the county jail. Formal charges had not been filed against them yesterday. Huff reported the loss of the Chester White pigs Monday morning. They weighed between 130 and 140 pounds each.

none. The remainder of the information came from the eight correspondents who covered the executions—two each from the United States, Great Britain, France and Russia.

The executions took approximately 90 minutes, after Ribbentrop dropped through the trap at 1:14 a. m. (6:14 p. m. CST Tuesday). The last to die was Arthur Seys-Inguart, former gauleiter of the Netherlands, who went through the trap at 2:45 1/2 a. m. and was pronounced dead at 2:57 a. m.

Ernst Kaltenbrunner, chief of the Nazi security police, was so pale when he mounted the gallows that the scars on his cheeks shone out a blood red color. He declared: "I loved my people and my country. I have done my duty toward my country at a difficult time and I have not participated in the crimes I am charged with."

Fritz Sauckel, the Nazi labor boss who had done the most protesting about his conviction in the two weeks since the trial, went to his death bravely and cried: "May God protect Germany and my family."

Huff reported the loss of the Chester White pigs Monday morning. They weighed between 130 and 140 pounds each.

Local Meat Cases Still Bare; Dealers Aim to Hold Prices

Meat was still scarce yesterday in most Iowa City retailers' show-cases 24 hours after government release of price controls, but all dealers emphasized they will attempt to hold prices "within reason" when supplies arrive.

Availability of grade "A" beef and lamb in large quantities was forecast by dealers for either late this week or within ten days. Dealers were depending on packers to forgo drastic price increases, which would have to be passed on to consumers.

One dealer said "any retailer who plans a 75 percent profit is simply a profiteer and taking advantage of the public. Before I sell meat, I shall adjust prices to correspond with my overhead," he added.

One day after controls were lifted dealers were still filling meat cases with poultry, fish and other substitutes. One market priced a few grade "A" lamb chops at 69 cents a pound, three cents under the original OPA ceiling in the same store.

A side of grade "A" beef sold yesterday morning in only 70 minutes at another market. Packer increases of seven cents pushed rib roast prices from 38 to 45 cents a pound, according to that dealer.

This small shipment had no connection with absence of controls, since several retailers have been receiving bi-weekly allotments from a Muscatine packer.

Prices at one retail market shot from 51 to 60 cents a pound for round steak, and rib roast rose from 35 to 40 cents. The owner said that "smoked meats will be the first available in sufficient quantities, since packers have been holding it in cure."

City restaurant owners joined with meat dealers to "hold the line" on prices. This present status, said owners, should apply until meat supplies swing upward, and then supply and demand will regulate price increases. The restaurant men plan a Friday night meeting to "set a suitable price level for all operators."

Retailers' opinions on price increases were generally reflected by the statement of one dealer who said, "The housewife is going to control price levels herself, sooner or later."

Oct. 26 Last Day To Register for Voting

Saturday, Oct. 26, is the last day to register for voting in the general congressional election, Nov. 5, according to City Clerk George J. Dohrer.

Voters who are not registered or have not voted in Iowa City before, or have changed their name or address since the last election, must register at the clerk's office before the deadline.

Eligibility for voting is six months' residence in Iowa, 60 days in Johnson county and 10 days in an Iowa City precinct.

Parking Committee To Investigate Rights in East Hall Area

The community parking committee decided last night to investigate the legal right to control the property between East hall and Dubuque street if the state board of education refuses to return it to the city.

Use of the land was granted to the university by a city ordinance in 1890. The property had been designated as a public park in 1899.

The university's expansion program, includes plans for erecting a communications building in that area.

"The attitude of the committee," according to Chairman Dan Dutcher, "is that construction of a large building there would increase the city's parking problem."

Reasons given by the committee when they first presented their request to the state board of education in August for the return of the land were:

- (1) That the location was convenient for downtown parking,
- (2) that the property could be easily converted into a parking lot, and
- (3) that it was fair to retail business to have an easily accessible parking lot.

The parking committee will negotiate the request with the board of education at the board's meeting in Iowa City Nov. 2.

The committee also decided that they will "wait until parking meters have been in operation for a year," before they recommend a city ordinance creating and regulating distribution of a parking fund.

Before taking further action on off-street parking for downtown Iowa City, the committee decided to consult retail merchants for suggestions on financing the program.

The committee that made these decisions last night was formed in April of city, business and university men to investigate remedies for shortage of parking space in the business district and around the university.

Church Endeavor Group Chooses Year's Officers

The University Christian Endeavor, student organization of the First Christian church, has elected the following officers for the school year: Dick Arnold, A1 of Ames, president; Ernest Miller, A2 of Chariton, vice president, and Genevieve Hole, A2 of Sac City, secretary-treasurer.

The group meets at the church at 6 p.m. every Sunday.

Social Action Group Of Wesley Foundation To Hold Initial Meeting

Wesley Foundation social action committee, under the leadership of William Duff, G of New York City, and Bob Brashares, A3 of Des Moines, will hold its first meeting of the year in the Methodist student center at 8 p. m. tonight.

The group will discuss FEPC, anti-lynching legislation, foreign policy, conditions in state mental institutions, and the coming elections.

They will also consider plans for a playground to be established in Iowa City and will sponsor overseas relief projects.

Methodists Sponsor Three Study Units

Three study groups have started this week under the sponsorship of Wesley foundation of the Methodist church.

The first group, "On Being a Plus Person," will study beliefs and personalities of Christian leaders. This group will meet at 4:30 p. m. every Tuesday at the Methodist student center under the direction of Mrs. L. L. Dunnington.

The second group, "Religions Other Than Christianity," will study under the Rev. Victor Goff, minister to students, at 7 a. m. Wednesdays in conference room 2 at Iowa Union.

The third group, "Using the Bible," will study the background of Biblical writing Sundays at 10:30 at the student center. Bob Brashares, A3 of Des Moines, will direct the group.

H.W. Saunders to Open 'Major in Marriage' Series at 4:30 Today

Prof. Harold Saunders, head of the sociology department, will open the 1946-47 Major in Marriage series this afternoon at 4:30 in studio E of the radio building. He will speak on "You and Your Mirror."

A tentative schedule for the year, announced yesterday by Yvonne Livingston, A4 of Iowa City, YWCA chairman of the group, includes discussions on dating, religion and courtship, and marriage hygiene.

Major in Marriage open to both men and women students, is sponsored by YWCA and YMCA.

83 Foreign Students Now Enrolled at SU

Eighty-three foreign students are registered at the university for the current semester, according to Richard Sweitzer of the office of student affairs.

The list is incomplete, however, pending arrival of a number of students who have been detained at ports of embarkation in foreign countries, Sweitzer said.

Foremost among the foreign students are those from South and Central America with a total of 31. There are 14 Chinese students and 10 from India.

Other areas represented are the Hawaiian islands, five; Greece, four; Egypt, Norway, France and Lebanon, two each, and one each from Sweden, Germany, Iran, Canada, Australia, Belgium, Turkey, Syria, Japan and the Philippine islands.

Conservationists Meet

Emmet C. Gardner, Johnson county extension director, and Howard Oakes, district soil conservationist for this area, left this morning to attend a district meeting of soil conservation officials in Muscatine.

SAYING GOODBYE TO HIS GAUGES

FOR THE LAST TIME, William T. Johnson, 75, 503 S. Madison street, takes readings from the gauges that control the turbines at the university power plant. Johnson retired from his job as turbine operator yesterday after 45 years of continuous service. He started work with the university power plant in 1902 and worked for five years in the boiler room. Men in the plant made him a present of a pen and pencil set in honor of his 45 years of service. Johnson left last night for Stanish, N. D., where he will make his home with his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Follis, on their cattle ranch.

Group Discovers Hare-Raising Solution

At least fifteen people in Iowa City and vicinity have gone a long way toward mastering the meat shortage.

All 15 are members of the Iowa City Rabbit club, organized in May 1945. They raise rabbits.

Rabbits were at first a hobby to this group, but with current meat shortages what they are, the "hobby" has become a business, in the words of E. E. Kline, secretary of the club. Kline is director of the U. S. employment service here.

"We could sell all our rabbits for butchering, if we wanted," said Mrs. R. D. Mott, president of the rabbit fanciers. "But our members won't do it, since they have many show rabbits and woolers," she added.

Largest rabbit, Kline says, is the Flemish, which often attains 35 pounds. The White Polish ranks smallest, averaging near 40 ounces.

Two tons of commercial rabbit pellet and one-half ton of alfalfa are used by Kline each year to feed his 20 head of Champsagnes. "That's hay—and a great deal of it," he declared.
