IT'S A GOP LANDSLIDE

Republican House Control Virtually Assured

Blue, Martin Reelected; Murphy Beats Ryan for Sheriff Dewey Wins In New York By Big Vote

All Eight Iowa Congressmen Reelected

By GENE GOODWIN
Daily Iowan Editor

Iowa Republicans retained control by conclusive margins of all congressional and state-house positions in yesterday's general election, returning to office the incumbent governor and all eight of the representatives to congress.

Republican Gov. Robert D. Blue was re-elected for a second term with Democratic opponent, Frank Miles, making a better-than-average showing all the way. Miles conceded the election to Blue at 1:08 this morning.

With nearly two-thirds of the state's 2,465 precincts counted, Blue had 214,118 votes as compared to 160,716 for Miles.

"That does it," Miles said when given the result at that point.

"I concede," he continued, adding: "I want to thank the workers and the people who voted for me. I'll be glad to cooperate with Governor Blue in any progressive move he may make."

GOP Representatives Lead

Iowa's solid Republican front in congress appeared destined to represent the state another two years as incumbent representatives yielded up conclusive leads in all districts.

Here in the first congressional district, Republican incumbent Thomas E. Martin failed to carry Johnson county, but won the remaining 11 counties in the district in handsome style.

Latest first district returns early this morning, with 148 of the 292 precincts in, gave Martin 21,909 votes and Williams 14,347.

Thus Martin will be serving his fifth term as first congressional representative.

Considering the district vote as a whole, the 53-year-old Republican congressman has won by substantial majorities in each campaign since 1938. He carried this county only once, however—in 1940—and then by a slim margin of 71 votes. He lost Iowa City in 1938 and 1944 and won it in 1940 and 1942, but the votes were very close in all four contests.

Martin is an Iowa City man, and Williams is from Danville. Williams was making his second attempt to defeat Martin, having lost to him by 18,000 votes in 1944.

Second District Close

The only close contest among the state's congressional races came in the second district. There, Richard V. Bernhart, 31-year-old Ottumwa farmer recently out of the navy, showed the greatest Democratic strength of all his counterparts against the veteran Republican incumbent, Rep. Henry O. Talle of Decorah.

Latest unofficial returns, with 188 of the 345 precincts reporting, gave Talle 31,761 votes and Bernhart 23,801 votes.

Results of the remaining six districts follow:

Third district, 179 precincts of 313: Republican incumbent John W. Gwynne, 31,688; Democrat Dan J. P. Ryan, 18,325.

Fourth district, 118 precincts of 322: Republican incumbent Karl M. LeCompte, 12,644; Democrat A. Earl Augustine, 9,683.

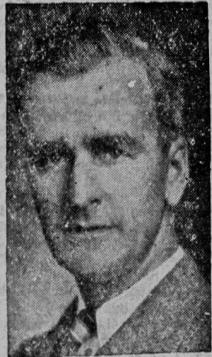

Fifth district, 185 precincts of 226: Republican incumbent Paul Cunningham, 33,635; Democrat Vincent L. Browner, 23,636.

Sixth district, 196 precincts of 349: Republican incumbent James I. Dolliver, 23,499; Democrat Oscar E. Johnson, 12,949.

Seventh district, 103 precincts of 334: Republican incumbent Ben F. Jensen, 13,551; Democrat Phillip A. Allen, 7,752.

Eighth district, 64 precincts (See STATE, page 8)

Krall Takes Race for State Representative

By KETII SPALDING
Daily Iowan City Editor

The Democratic party yesterday collected two of three contested elections in which neither candidate was incumbent and all other office holders retained their positions in one of the biggest off-year elections in Johnson county history.

Most hotly contested race of the day was the one for county sheriff where Democrat James L. Ryan ran against Albert J. (Pat) Murphy, Republican. Murphy won the race with a total of 5,010 votes over 4,888 for Ryan.

Democrat Joseph C. Krall took a nip-and-tuck race for state representative from the 41st district with a margin of 5,400 to 4,909 over Republican Jacob A. Swisher.

Following the adage preached by old-time Johnson county Democratic politicians, Krall "broke even in Iowa City and won the election in the county."

Last night's unofficial count shows that Swisher got 1,771 to 2,546 in the township precincts in the rest of the county.

Krall's greatest margins came from Monroe, Oxford, Jefferson, Liberty, Newport, Big Grove, Graham and Hardin townships.

The only really comfortable lead was held all during the night by Jack C. White, Democratic county attorney incumbent, who was reelected to the position with a vote of 6,114 to 4,192 over Republican John Knox.

White established his lead early in the evening's unofficial count and maintained it throughout the evening.

The Democrats took the upper hand in the races for county board of supervisor positions throughout the county. All three won in Iowa City, with their leads cut down slightly in the township precincts.

Marvin Stahle, Democrat, who was appointed to fill the vacancy created on the board when Stanley G. Beranek resigned last year, was elected to the position with a vote of 5,248 over 4,851 for his Republican opponent Merrill C. Douglass.

Democrat Robert Mahoney Sr. won 5,251 to 4,845 over Will L. Snider, Republican candidate for the 1947 term on the board which begins Jan. 1.

For the 1948 term on the board of supervisors, J. E. Pechman, Democrat incumbent, defeated E. Earl Thomas, Republican with a vote of 5,284 to 4,870.

In the unopposed county elections, Judge Harold D. Evans, Republican, was reelected district court judge of the eighth judicial district, with a total vote of 6,270.

Ed Sulek, Democrat, was reelected county auditor with a vote of 7,181; Lumir Jansa, Democrat, reelected to county treasurer with 6,826 votes; R. Nielson Miller, Democrat, reelected clerk of the district court with 6,988 votes.

R. J. (Dick) Jones, Republican, reelected county recorder with a vote of 6,373, and Frank L. Love, Democrat, reelected county coroner with 6,724 votes.

In the township offices, of which two were chosen, unopposed Democratic candidates John M. Kadlec and W. F. Murphy were elected with votes of 3,736 for Kadlec and 3,624 for Murphy.

Roy Lewis, Republican, and Pat Gilroy, Democrat, were elected (See LOCAL, page 8)

2 U.S. Cities Added To List of UN Sites

Committee Overrules Europe as Possible World Headquarters

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y. (AP) — The steering committee of the United Nations assembly last night approved a United States proposal to widen the permanent headquarters site question to include consideration of New York City and San Francisco.

After debating at length a Soviet Ukrainian proposal to include Europe as a possibility for the temporary or permanent headquarters of the United Nations, the 14-man committee voted it down 7 to 2, with Russia and the Ukraine alone favoring it. Three committeemen abstained.

Then the committee approved by an eight to three vote the proposal of former Senator Warren R. Austin, chief U. S. delegate, opening the headquarters question to include invitations from New York City and San Francisco.

Great Britain, which expressed firm opposition to widening the question at all, joined Russia and the Ukraine in opposing the U. S. amendment. There was one abstention.

Soviet Russian Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko told the committee that another delegation had submitted a resolution bringing Europe into consideration and that Europe would be discussed in plenary debate regardless of what the steering committee did.

Austin supported his proposal with this statement: "We are in great earnestness about keeping the United Nations headquarters in the United States. We would like to do that in the interest of the cause of security and peace. We firmly believe that the contribution we can make to that cause will be served better if the headquarters are here rather than if they are located in Europe."

Dmitri Manuilsky of the Soviet Ukraine contended the cost of living was one reason for leaving the United States.

Carrying out the Russian demand for economy which has been voiced in other committee sessions, Manuilsky asked why the United Nations should spend $250,000,000 for buildings here when the League of Nations buildings already were available in Geneva.

Meanwhile, United States Sen. Tom Connally (D., Tex.), up for reelection yesterday in Texas, shouted "dictator" at Manuilsky, chairman of the political committee, in a row over one of Manuilsky's rulings.

Connally said that the Ukrainian foreign minister "must remember that he is the servant of the committee, not its dictator. This is a democratic organization and we want the chairman to get acquainted with democratic methods."

Molotov Says Byrnes Puts Ultimatum Before Big Four

NEW YORK (AP)—Russian Foreign Minister Molotov last night accused Secretary of State Byrnes of presenting an ultimatum to the Big Four council here when Byrnes insisted on an Italian peace treaty provision which would bar Yugoslavia from treaty benefits if she failed to sign the pact.

Byrnes denied the allegation and told Molotov that he had sat through one session after another listening to Molotov insist on his views without ever considering that an ultimatum was involved.

The upshot of the exchange was that with the United States and Britain supporting the proposed treaty clause and Russian and France objecting, the whole thing was passed over for the time being.

This was the fate of most of the other relatively minor points of the Italian treaty which the foreign ministers' council combed over in their second session in New York.

Adjourning at 8:45 p.m.—four hours and fifteen minutes after beginning, they agreed that they would meet again at 10:30 a. m. today to hear arguments from Yugoslavia and Italy on conflicting proposals for control of Trieste by the United Nations.

Both the United States and Britain argue that the four-power ministers have decided that Trieste shall be under control of the United Nations. But Russia is balking on the type of government.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wistful Washington residents said yesterday that they, too, would like to vote.

In an unofficial election voteless Washingtonians rolled up a one-sided "yes" in answer to these questions:

1. Do you want the right to vote for officials of your own city government in the District of Columbia?

2. Do you want the right to vote for president of the United States and for members of congress from the District of Columbia?

With 82 out of 150 polling places reporting, Washingtonians favored:

The right to run their city government, 60,624 yes to 27,186 no.

The right to vote in national elections 67,838 yes to 14,027 no.

Dewey Wins In New York By Big Vote

By LAWRENCE E. DENNIS
Daily Iowan Columnist

Sixteen years is a long, long time to be on the outside looking in.

But at 4 a. m. this morning, it looked very much as though the Republican party, with New York's Gov. Thomas E. Dewey setting the pace, had been granted a sweeping mandate by American voters in yesterday's congressional and gubernatorial elections.

As The Daily Iowan went to press, a nationwide barrage of Republican votes had brought the GOP close to control of the house of representatives, which has been under the Democratic banner since 1930, and threatened the administration's hold on the senate.

The Republicans, besides holding on to the 192 House seats they held in the 79th Congress, needed 26 additional seats to organize the lower chamber. At this writing, they had captured 24 from the Democrats, without losing a single house berth to the long-dominant opposition. The 3 a. m. House totals: Republicans, 216; Democrats, 149; doubtful, 70.

With seven seats still in doubt, the Republican early morning total in the senate stood at 46, as against the Democrats' 43. That represented a net gain of six seats over the past GOP total of 40. To control the senate, a party must claim 48 seats, which means that if the Republicans capture three of the seven doubtful contests they will possess the necessary majority.

Thirty-four states held gubernatorial elections. During the past two years the "score" for the chief state offices has stood: Democrats 25; Republicans, 23. But the GOP tide which swept the nation yesterday altered the total governorships to 24 Republican and 18 Democratic, with 6 contests still undecided.

The top man in the Republican party today is Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York. Although defeated for the presidency in 1944, Dewey won reelection yesterday by upwards of half a million votes thus putting him out in front of potential GOP 1948 presidential candidates.

Former Sen. James Mead won Dewey's Democratic opponent in the Empire State's gubernatorial contest. As expected, Mead, ex-chairman of the senate war investigating committee ran far behind Dewey all the way and Dewey's plurality passed the 500,000 mark shortly after 10 p. m. (CST).

Conservative pre-election estimates conceded Dewey a 300,000 majority but from the time the early precinct returns began pouring in it became apparent that the dapper New York governor was riding the crest of a GOP landslide.

Mead also had the backing of the Liberal and American Labor parties, two groups which held the balance of power in New York in 1944. The smashing Dewey victory, however, seemed to indicate that the Liberal-AL influence has diminished rapidly within the past two years.

A longtime New Deal senator, Joseph F. Guffey, was defeated in his bid for reelection in Pennsylvania by Republican Gov. Edward J. Martin. The Philadelphia Record, which had supported Guffey's campaign, conceded Martin's win at 8:30 p. m. (CST), with the statement that "a Republican victory in Pennsylvania appears to be of landslide proportions." Martin has been prominently mentioned as a possible (See NATIONAL, page 8)

All Is Not Rosy

If we are to believe the reports coming out of General MacArthur's headquarters, the Japanese are taking to democracy just as ducks take to water, and the occupation of Japan is a soft touch compared to Germany.

If you're one of these people who are a little skeptical about "headquarters" reports, however, perhaps there's some doubt in your mind about the success of MacArthur's occupation. There is in ours at least.

Take for instance the recent article in The Christian Science Monitor, which warns that the Japanese reactionaries are feigning conversion to our ideas as a means of continuing their stranglehold on the country. What's more, this thoughtful, well-informed newspaper backs up its contention with statements from American observers on the scene as well as from Japanese liberals.

They say that the real interests of the Japanese people are being sacrificed for the sake of "stability" and that the government has actually been turned over to the "bureaucrats, industrialists, militarists and landed aristocracy who used the emperor as a puppet in order to fasten their own grip first on Japan, then on the whole of east Asia," and who finally grew audacious enough to believe that they could win a war against the United States.

The report last week of an American economic mission to Japan gives us further reason to believe that all is not as rosy as MacArthur's reports would have us believe. The report urged the removal of the emperor and his little ruling clique from power.

We are sure that asking for the removal of the emperor was not on personal grounds. This report—along with The Monitor's article—reveals deep concern about the emperor's position as the fount of that politico-religious Shintoism which has been condemned as a device used by the Zaibatsu and the militarists to maintain their hold on the people.

Further evidence that the occupation forces have not gone all out to suppress the Japanese war-makers can be found in the numerous dissents of members of the Allied control council, the steps being taken by MacArthur and especially his expressions of friendship toward the present Japanese government.

And the dissenting votes on the control council do not come only from the Russian delegate, but from the British and the Chinese as well.

So there is every reason, we believe, to question whether the new Japanese constitution, which admittedly is a model of democracy, has been truly accepted by the Japanese ruling class. It is possible that the ruling class is merely giving lip service to democracy in an effort to ingratiate itself with the United States. We might also ask in this connection why a program similar to de-Nazification in Germany has not been pushed against the Japanese war lords?

The Monitor, on the other hand, points out that American military men are inclined to close an eye to phony elements in the new Japanese democracy in an effort to build a strong Japan as a possible base against Russia. If that is true, then the United States is in the very precarious position of building up a war mongering regime in Japan as a bulwark against Russia—with practically no assurance, however, that the prodigy won't bite the hand that feeds it.

Winking at fascism out of fear of communism may lead us into bitter trouble—we mustn't forget that one is as dangerous as the other.

But our point is this: MacArthur's occupation policies in Japan are open to severe criticism, a fact which all of us should recognize. The Japanese are still a dangerous people, and if we permit them—in fact help them—to rebuild along old lines, we may find ourselves with another Pearl Harbor in our history books.

The Stirrings of Fascism

(Milwaukee Journal)
After the last war, the Ku Klux Klan poisoned the American blood stream with its outpourings of intolerance and bigotry. It died, but it left vivid scars in the fabric of our national life.

The Klan was born and nurtured in Atlanta, Ga.

Now we are in the troubled aftermath of another war. The Klan has tried revival and has failed. The purveyors of hate, the men who feed on the gullibility of their fellows, need another vehicle.

In Atlanta, Ga., a new organization is now active. It is called the Columbians, Inc. Its tactics, its objects, its birthplace—all these indicate how similar it is to the old Klan movement.

The officers, in their speeches, assail Negroes, Jews and the Atlanta newspapers. A "medal of honor" is presented to a 17 year old boy who was charged by police with blackjacking a Negro. The president of the group, noting Jewish war veterans in the audience at a recent meeting, spoke of the "alien element" present and shouted, "I hate the Jews."

When one of the war veterans challenged his statements, a number of the Columbians, in uniform, moved menacingly toward him. Detectives intervened to prevent trouble.

How all of this reeks, not only of kluxism but of something even more dangerous. Verbal attacks on race, threats, strong men in uniform, the disturbing air of violence. This sounds like Germany in the early thirties. This sounds like fascism.

Let us hope that Columbians, Inc., born in Atlanta, Ga., dies there. The sooner the better for us all.

If the time ever comes when American democracy must protect itself from an American Hitlerism, we believe this democracy will do just that.

Dr. Evelyn M. Withoff, medical missionary and co-author of "Three Years' Internment in Santo Tomas," will talk on her war experiences in the Philippines at 7:30 tonight at a missionary mass meeting in the Church of the Nazarene.

Dr. Withoff will relate how, during bombardment, she lived on the sidewalk against the wall of Santo Tomas prison in Manila.

She received her M.D. degree at the University of Illinois. She plans to leave soon for India.

OPA Lumber Rules Encourage Crime

Association Secretary Says People Get It By Hook or Crook

OPA regulations on lumber are unworkable and the law should be repealed to avoid making common criminals out of "the American people who want lumber and are going to get it by hook or by crook," H. R. Northrup, secretary of the National Retail Lumber Dealers' association, declares in the December American magazine.

In a signed article Northrup reveals such shocking conditions within the American lumber industry as producers, wholesalers, and retailers being forced by OPA regulations to "enter the black market, curtail production and distribution, or go out of business."

"Of the 35,000 small saw mills in the United States," he writes "a large proportion could not continue to operate at all if they depended upon getting no more than ceiling prices for their merchandise. Most of them are operating, however."

"The only way to prevent widespread violation of the law is to wipe the law from the statute books. With government control out of the way, we can fulfill our destiny as a nation of builders."

While granting that the war sapped the United States' reserve supply of lumber, Northrup states there is "plenty of timber in this country which can be cut without endangering our forest reserves." He concedes that if controls are lifted, a scarcity will continue for some time but adds:

"Demand will gradually govern supply, and lumber will flow through legitimate channels into the areas where it is needed most. Production will be increased as mills which have suspended operation because of price restrictions swing into operation again. Prices probably will rise slightly over present ceilings but they will not approach black-market levels. The home-building program will be protected again by reliable grading."

"It is conservatively estimated that between 60 and 80 percent of all American lumber now moves through channels which are black or gray. The black market is national in scope and works in two ways:

"1—Vast quantities of lumber are simply diverted from normal trade channels and moved directly from producer to consumer . . . sold for cash to the highest bidder . . .

"2—Other large quantities of lumber are sold at over-ceiling prices under the guise of legal dealing. False invoices, upgrading of lumber, cash-on-the-side transactions, tie-in sales and other evasive practices are employed to get around the impractical OPA regulations."

To facilitate such illegal operations a big trucking racket flourishes in the timber lands of Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, and Tennessee and according to Northrup, is spreading to all other lumber producing regions.

It is these itinerant truckers who provide the means of getting "hot lumber" from producer to consumer. And it is the direct-to-the-customer selling which is putting a heavy squeeze on the nation's 25,000 legitimate lumber dealers, declares Northrup who adds:

"With empty yards and hordes of customers clamoring for merchandise, they try frantically to buy lumber from mills with which they formerly dealt, but these mills have nothing to sell them."

"This leads to a decision between financial ruin or black market operations."

TO THE DAILY IOWAN:
My mother came to the Homecoming activities last Saturday. It was the first time she had been here for eight years. She kept telling me how thrilled she was to be here, see the buildings, meet a few of her sorority sisters, and to be a part of university life again. I played the perfect host. I wanted her to get a true concept of present day life on the campus.

"Come with me," I said, "and I will give you a real thrill." I led her out side (we were in the Union and indicated the intersection of Madison and Jefferson hall is just below University hall.

"Shall we cross?" I asked daringly.

"Yes," she said, gritting her teeth. (My mother always was a thoroughbred.)

As we paused on the other side to regain our breath she said, "Son this beats football games all hollow. Here you're actually one of the contestants. A safe crossing calls for excellent physical condition, perfect timing, and above all the will to get across. I'm right proud of you."

"I'm proud of you too, mama," I said simply. "Somebody when I'm rich I'd like to come back and mask a few cars with a thirty-ton tank."

"That's a noble thought, son," she said. "et one for me too."

That is about the essence of my story except for the last when she was leaving she said, "Son, you're still wearing your dog-tags aren't you?"

"Yes, mama," I said, "I'm never without them. I don't want to be buried as the unknown pedestrian."

Actually this started out to be a serious plea for more cautious driving, but it got out of hand. Nevertheless, I believe I have made my point. If I haven't I can easily round up enough people to testify in my behalf.

Take it easy, huh?
Yours truly
RICHARD WEST
P. S.

I didn't leave out the name of the intersection because I didn't want to embarrass it, but only because I have been unable to find out the names of the streets.

Of Steel-Trap Minds And Corn Monuments
TO THE DAILY IOWAN:

I don't want to create an impression that I am barking the shins of all our established institutions. The fact is that I think life with all its ramifications is very delightful and that a great number of revolutionary changes might be unsatisfactory. However, I still have my steel-trap mind and as long as I permit it to continue snapping indiscriminately on controversial issues, I must expect to be martyred daily. Ordinarily I view the products of my amazing steel-trap mind with tolerance and good humored indifference, but it so happens that its most recent product is in harmony with the opinions of several of my friends who I secretly suspect of also possessing steel-trap minds.

When the corn monument was being erected, I was interested and even a little curious for it seemed a very innocent contrivance produced by innocent people. Yes, it was really quite a novelty and would recall old memories to the alumni. Then my steel-trap mind came to action. It snapped sharply on my observation and when it opened, I discovered that my observation was mutilated beyond recognition. Now I could see only the potential corn flakes for hungry Europeans, the potential corn syrup for American babies, and the potential pork chops for college students.

But that was before the army of badge sellers descended upon me. I inquired as naively as possible of the first warrior just how the proceeds would be used. After being told they were to finance the corn monument I resolved then and there to keep myself pure and not to contribute to a corn monument which according to my calculations may have cost in the neighborhood of $3,133.

No, please don't hurt me by accusing me of being mercenary. I shall contribute my dime to corn for starving people all over the world.

Student Calls University 'Cozy as GI Physical'
TO THE DAILY IOWAN:
The Daily Iowan of Sunday, Nov. 3, published an editorial exploring the lack of school spirit on the Iowa campus. It closed with the statement, "The mere payment of tuition and attendance at classes does not mean the end of our obligation to the university." Why not?

When I want to buy a loaf of bread, I go to a grocery store, get the bread and pay the established price. The grocer has never expressed dissatisfaction with this method of doing business. When I hire a plumber, I pay him for his time and materials. If I bowed deeply and tried to kiss his big toe, he would probably be terrified. Yet this is evidently expected of me when I buy a university education.

Furthermore, what exactly am I expected to love about the university? The block long lines at registration? The channels I go through to get to my room? The libelous machine that takes my ID picture? The whole thing is about as cozy personal as an army physical.

You will say that the university furnishes me with entertainment and social life, as well as an education. True, I can go to excellent university plays and concerts, or sit for two hours in a cold stadium watching the conference championship disappear over the horizon. But when a good movie comes to town, do we gather beforehand and cheer loudly for the theatre manager? Furthermore, these events are financed by my tuition and taxes. Here, at last, we come to someone whom we owe gratitude. Call the marching band and Highlanders. Shall we raising by the river and give three rousing ee-o-wah-wah's for the Iowa taxpayer?

Reader Defends Singer Against Sports Writer

TO THE DAILY IOWAN:
Don Suloff's Sunday sports article included some sour remarks of an alleged "very irate gentleman" concerning Iowa's quarterback, Lou King. This sort of off-color writing might well be expected in the Chicago Times, or similar tabloids, but not in The Daily Iowan. Besides being in very bad journalistic taste, it is a nasty crack at a good football player.

At the beginning of the season the experts picked Iowa to win only one game, North Dakota State. The Hawks fooled the smart boys, though, and have been a tough, dangerous team all year and, at times, a truly great ball club. The man responsible for the team's offensive play, the field general, is the quarterback. With the "T" formation, the quarterback must be even more than the "brains" of the team. He must be an expert at timing and deception. The success of his manipulations determine the whole "T" formation's effectiveness.

I suggest that in the future, Mr. Sulhoff disregard the grumblings of some half-light grandstand strategist and give the men on the squad the credit they most certainly deserve.

Blames Both Indian Factious for Unrest

TO THE DAILY IOWAN:
Mr. Behera, in his letter which has been published in your paper dated Oct. 29, 1946, has tried to show that Indian National Congress is a non-communal body and has blamed the Moslem league and not the Moslems of India.

He must have been fully aware that Moslems of India stand solidly behind the Moslem league. The recent elections have shown it more clearly than ever. Blaming

Rioting is to be deplored and condemned unreservedly; but the responsibility of Indian riots falls both on Hindu Congress and Moslems, perhaps more on the first mentioned. The Congress party, by blaming Moslem League, has given another proof of the hatred and intolerance with which it treats the Moslems of India.

Leona Sorensen, Richard Pelechek Married Yesterday

The altar of St. Patrick's church was banked with fall flowers at 9 o'clock yesterday morning for the wedding of Leona Sorensen and Richard Pelechek.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. J. P. O'Reilly performed the double ring ceremony.

At the side of her father, H. J. Sorensen, the bride approached the altar wearing a white satin gown accented with a net skirt that extended into a senior train. She carried a bouquet of white carnations centered with pink roses.

Maid of honor, Louise Sorensen, and bridesmaid, Mrs. William Myers, both of Iowa City, were dressed in identical gowns of pink and blue. They wore crown-shaped head bands trimmed with pink pearls and carried carnation bouquets.

Best man was Larry J. Sorensen and the usher was Robert Fries, both of Iowa City.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception for immediate friends and relatives was held at the Hotel Jefferson.

'You're So Nice to Come Home To' Wives Combine Homework and Housework

"THE WOMAN behind the man behind the books" is personified by Mrs. Frank Diggins, No. 5 of Hawkeye Village, who is shown at her trailer home "keeping the home fires burning" over her electric range. Mr. Diggins, a freshman law student, ponders over legalities in the corner and "Sandy", their young daughter, looks on hungrily while mother stirs the evening meal.

By FLINT BASHORE Society Staff Writer

It's true that there's a woman behind every important man in history, then the modern version on the 1946 Iowa campus is the woman behind the man behind the book.

Whether college student or strictly homemaker, these wives of students have followed their husbands to the text-book front, making a home amidst intermediate algebra classes and "comm" skills homework.

Their trade-mark is the morning wash hanging out to dry behind a row of trailers or the flower pot placed hurriedly on the window sill to make a certain trailer more like home.

Both husband and wife take time out from dinner dishes to console each other on that low grade or to help one another with particularly difficult subjects, proving that education and marriage can mix. They realize that marriage today doesn't necessarily mean "settling down"—rather it means careful management and teamwork—especially when it comes to something as important as education.

The routine of housework still persists for these campus wives, but the chatter over the back fence is not about the latest bridge game but about the latest math text or how to manage supper at 6 o'clock with a class at 4:30.

Chances are many of them are in the same predicament as Margaret Ryan Hill—"I have to leave the dishes in the sink in order to make a class in home management," she claims.

Peg's, as she's known to her friends, home town is East Moline, Ill., and her romance dates back to high school days. She and Walt were engaged in '43, but Peggy kept right on with her education. "I feel that a smart wife has to keep up with her husband in order to make a more intelligent person and therefore a better companion," she says.

Of course it's hard to balance the grocery-shopping with classes, but Walt does his share, even to quizzing Peg for her next class while polishing off the dinner dishes.

When asked who the boss of the family is, Peggy said quickly, "Why, I guess he is. After all he's 6 foot 1."

Mrs. Larry Dennis talked about the young girls while trying to get a pair of socks on unwilling two-year-old Pat.

"Most girls think of marriage as one grand whirlwind—they aren't educated to the real facts of married life. I think it's a wonderful thing, but a complete understanding should be reached on vital issues, before the couple decides to get married."

Vivacious Mrs. Dennis is taking pre-med and feels that every husband should understand his wife wanting to fulfill some of her personal desires, despite her marital status. Her husband, Larry, has his M.A. in journalism and is now looking forward to a Ph.D. in political science. Marriage is a sharing of ambitions and not the finish of them for the Dennises. P.S., Mrs. Dennis got the socks on Pat, too.

Some of the wives don't find time for classes and house-keeping too, and are only too glad to make home-making a full-time career. One representative couple is living a perfectly normal married life, except that Junior is

University Chorus To Present First Program Tonight

The university chorus, under the direction of Prof. Herald Stark will present its first concert of the season tonight at 8 o'clock in the main lounge of Iowa Union.

Six of the numbers on the varied program of choral works will be sung a capella, the rest of the program will be sung with piano accompanied by Wallace Fisher, G of Greenfield, Ohio, Prof. Stark said.

Featured as soloists in the presentation of arrangement of the old German song, "In Dulci Jubilo", will be Joyce Wilton and Marjorie Miller, sopranos; Faye von Draska and Virginia Linn, contraltos; James Charlson and Harry Bannon, tenors, and Harry Kanady and James Woods, basses.

A few free tickets for the concert are still available at Iowa Union desk, the Union staff reported yesterday.

Commerce Fraternity Holds Founder's Day Dinner in Iowa Union

Delta Sigma Pi, international professional commerce fraternity held a Founder's Day dinner last night in a private dining room at Iowa Union, commemorating the founding of the organization.

Richard C. Kautz of the Grain Processing corporation at Muscatine addressed the group on "Baptism in Business." Guest of honor at the dinner was J. D. Thomson, assistant grand secretary-treasurer of the Delta Sigma Pi grand national chapter.

Faculty members of the fraternity, active and 14 pledges who were formally pledged into the fraternity Monday afternoon were among those attending the dinner.

The new pledges are Harlan Rabe, Clifford White and Les Kluever, all seniors; Tom McCracken, Howard Payne, Bob Paulson, George McNeal, John Palmer, Paul Byrne, Norman Klostrop, Charles Kintzinger, Cletus Crowley and Radph Brown, all juniors, Elzy McCullough, graduate student.

told, "Daddy's at school," instead of "Daddy's at work." And wife pretties up just as much as she used to for dates, and she still likes to be told that she looks nice.

On the whole, women in the university trailer camps and tiny town apartments don't complain about temporary homes and married life at school. They're too busy being the home-maker and motivating power behind the man behind the book.

Students Hear Martin's View On Journalism

"A journalist has no business writing freely about subjects he does not understand," Thomas E. Martin, Republican candidate in yesterday's first district congressional race, told a news workshop class yesterday when he spoke on "The Responsibilities of the Press."

"I know of no other group that must understand so much about so many things," Martin said.

Describing himself as "strictly a layman" in regard to the journalistic profession, Martin told the group that the power of the press in moulding public opinion must not be minimized and that each reporter must thoroughly educate himself to write understandingly.

Martin declared that he subscribes to 47 weekly and 12 daily papers in this district, spending an average of three hours a day reading newspapers because he considers them the most accurate gauge of public tension and opinion.

In an informal discussion following his talk, Martin declared that he believes the coverage of war news was "extremely honest" and mistakes were usually those of emphasis.

He said he had no complaints against the press concerning war censorship, but attacked a breed of "snooping columnists," whom Martin said he could "recognize in the halls of congress by their footsteps."

When asked if he saw much improvement in the coverage of national news in country weeklies since his first election to office, Martin said that a period of eight years was not sufficient time to judge such a change.

"However, country weeklies are not backsliding," Martin said. He emphasized that rural papers exercise tremendous influence on opinions because they reach areas not penetrated by urban dailies.

He said, in part, "More than anything else, veterans want jobs that will pay them fair wages, homes they can afford, security that will last. If we help them get started, if we give them the chance to work and earn, they will build a nation that shall always have opportunity and room for them."

Holy Baker, A4 of Highland Park, Ill., in charge of the dance, explained the new system of voting. This year, instead of a majority vote in one housing unit counting as one popular vote, all individual votes will be added to insure the fairest type of election.

The winner will be presented at the traditional girl-take-boy dance at Iowa Union. The two runner-up will be attendants.

VA Urges Vets to Name Life Insurance Beneficiaries Due to New Law Changes

Veterans now carrying National Service Life insurance who have not designated beneficiaries are being urged by the veterans administration to complete this part of their insurance program.

William J. Doherty, in charge of Iowa City's VA office at 206 Iowa State Bank & Trust building, announced yesterday that the insurance act of 1946 has completely changed with respect to beneficiaries.

Under the old provision, in the event that no beneficiary was named, an automatic order of succession prevailed. This provision is no longer in effect for insurance maturing after July 13, 1946.

Under the new law, however, if the insured is not survived by a designated beneficiary, the proceeds upon his death will go to his estate in a single sum.

Part of Estate Since insurance as part of an estate loses its identity as such and is subject to all the laws governing estates, including claims of creditors, administrator's fees, and court expenses, this measure could cause hardship to someone the veteran might otherwise have chosen.

The VA urges veterans to name not only a principal or first beneficiary, but also a contingent or secondary beneficiary.

Name Any Beneficiary A provision of the new law enables a veteran to name any person or persons, a corporation, or his estate, as his beneficiary. Under previous laws, the veteran could designate only near relatives as beneficiaries of his policy.

Necessary forms for designating beneficiaries, or for changing beneficiaries on veterans' insurance policies are now available at the VA office in Iowa City.

Bronco or Auto—

The Rougher, the Better

—'Red' Eichman Avers

By JOHN CAREY

Rough riding has always been to the liking of Dave (Red) Eichman, A2 of Webster City, whether it be on a spirited western bronco, a navy destroyer or in a 1922 Dodge.

Dave first got on a horse when he was five years old and liked it so well that he's made riding pay him in money and fun ever since.

Born and raised in Webster City, Dave took that first ride during a trip to Colorado with his family. Years later, in 1940, he began riding in rodeos professionally on broncos, calves and steers.

"It's most dangerous getting thrown from a steer but sticking to a bronco can give you the roughest ride because it shakes you up internally," he says.

"Some riders say that calves are hardest to ride because there's not much to grip. It's a matter of opinion but I say it's harder to stick to a bronco," he continued.

Red has also been a riding instructor and a bartender which hasn't anything to do with horses, but took up some slack time after he got out of the navy last January. Doing his riding in the navy on a destroyer, he spent three years as a soundman.

Declined Rodeo Job Last summer Dave did considerable rodeo work at Estes park, Colo., but declined a job touring with a rodeo to complete his education.

Dave's red hair and wide grin are familiar to the men in South

Quadrangle where he is a member of the judiciary council.

An advertising major, Dave says his riding will be an avocation unless a depression sends him back to the rodeo.

Dave got lonesome for the thrills of the rodeo ring and passed up the newer model cars in favor of a rugged but durable 1922 Dodge. "The only difference is that this baby burns gas instead of hay," he says.

Prefers Cow Pony

Commenting further on his riding experience, "Red" said he would rather ride a cow pony than an Arabian for both performance and work.

"Mares are less dependable when it comes to performance," he said with a grin, but refused to make any comparison to Iowa coeds on the grounds that it would hinder his social life.

Dave has left most of his riding gear in Webster City, but always wears a hand-tooled leather belt with a gold Texas longhorn set in silver with ruby eyes on the buckle. He also has a Stetson which he received from Jack Shaw and Bob Crosby, two of the most famous rodeo riders in the world.

Fifty tickets will be sold for the event, Professor Downing said. Reservations may be made at the home economics department office or with Lois Billings, A2 of Red Oak, Miss Billings' telephone number is 4147.

Captains of the two teams were Jane Pauls, A1 of Washington, Iowa, basic skills, and Donna Belle Jones, A1 of Missouri Valley, majors.

Maxine Williams and Virginia Sterling, instructors in the women's physical education department, were officials for the game. Scorekeeper was Nancy Airth, A1 of Evanston, Ill., and the timekeeper was Helen Falk, A1 of Washington, Iowa.

Robin Hood Quality Runs in Family

Professor's Daughter Ranks as Top Archer

Prof. C. J. Lapp and daughter, Mrs. Eloise Lapp Ruby

By BOB THOMPSON

When Prof. C. J. Lapp of the physics department received his November issue of the American Bowman Review, national magazine for archers, he didn't know that a picture of his daughter, Mrs. Eloise Lapp Ruby, would decorate the cover.

He wasn't particularly surprised to find it there, though, for Mrs. Ruby is one of the country's leading archers and placed second this year in the women's division of the national archery contest at Cincinnati, Ohio.

Mrs. Ruby resumed her hobby of competitive archery this year for the first time since 1941, and proceeded to smash her own record and most of the women's records to win the midwest archery tournament at Fond du Lac, Wis., in July.

Lost to Close Friend Four weeks later she was runner-up in the national contest at Cincinnati, losing only to her close friend, Ann Weber, the eastern champ and a professional archer.

Archery titles are not at all new to Mrs. Ruby, for she was state junior girls' champion when she was 15. In 1940, while a senior in high school, she won in the women's divisions in both state and midwest sectional meets, and won in her own division—the intermediate—in the national contest the same year.

When the war broke out, Mrs. Ruby laid aside her bow to take special training in aeronautical engineering at Purdue university and a job with Curtiss-Wright in Columbus, Ohio, where she now lives with her husband, Phillip Ruby, an aeronautical engineer with the same company.

Professor Lapp took up archery for recreation in 1932, after one of his students provoked his interest in the sport. Mrs. Ruby became acquainted with her father's hobby at an early age, and by the time she was 10 had attracted considerable attention with her skill.

Defeated Men In one tournament at Davenport this summer, Mrs. Ruby moved back to the 80-yard range to shoot with the men and defeated all comers. Women's competitions are shot at ranges up to 60-yards.

All Mrs. Ruby's equipment is kept in tip-top condition by Professor Lapp. He makes her linen bowstrings by hand and feathers her target arrows to insure maximum accuracy.

No mean archer himself, one of Professor Lapp's favorite pastimes is hunting with a bow. At the Needah federal game preserve in Wisconsin, a special deer season for bowmen is open from Sept. 28 to Nov. 11, and Professor Lapp said he hopes to get up north for a week-end's hunting before the season closes.

Professor Lapp bagged a 100-pound deer with his bow in northern Wisconsin last year—and who wouldn't welcome 100 pounds of venison in these days of meat shortage?

Child Art Scheduled For Russian Exhibit After Display Here

An exhibition of art by American children is now being shown in the Art building auditorium. The display, which will end Wednesday, Nov. 13, is sponsored by University high school, according to Shirley Throckmorton, instructor in the art department.

The showing is part of an exhibition arranged for shipment to Soviet Russia as a return courtesy for a similar exhibition of Russian children's art previously circulated by the museum. It was prepared by the museum of modern art through the cooperation of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship.

The object of the exhibition is to show how American children reflect their environment in their creative work, Miss Throckmorton said.

Thirty-Six Panels Composed of 36 panels, the exhibition includes examples of children's painting, drawing and photographs of sculpture, models and other three-dimensional work. Photographs of some of the children who did the art work also are included.

Material in the exhibition was selected from 1,555 entries by a jury of representatives of the art committee of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship and the educational program of the museum of modern art.

The jury included Mervin Jules, Max Weber, Raphael Soyer and Victor D'Amico.

Because of the limited size of the show, it does not attempt to be comprehensive in its representation of American art education.

Iowa Represented The state of Iowa is represented in the exhibition by paintings from Burlington, Newton and Waterloo public schools.

Although Iowa City schools are not represented in this abridged exhibit, the larger exhibit contains some local works.

Bucky Harris Signs to Manage Yankees in 1947

Succumbs to High Salary Bait; Chuck Dressen Named Coach

NEW YORK (AP)—Stanley "Bucky" Harris succumbed to president Larry MacPhail's financial bait yesterday and signed a two-year contract to manage the New York Yankees at a reported $35,000 yearly salary with Chuck Dressen, late of Brooklyn, as his head coach.

Thus the "Boy Wonder" of 1924 who won a first pennant and World Series for Washington in his initial year as skipper apologetically did a complete aboutface from his earlier announced position that he "was not interested in becoming a field manager."

When MacPhail signed Bucky Sept. 10 as an administrative assistant he said Harris could "in no wise be considered either a manager or prospective manager."

Larry reserved the right to terday he was satisfied he had change his mind and stated yes—"the best man for the job."

Harris expressed his faith in Dressen as a coach and said he would select another coach at a later date from several applicants.

"I have many plans for improving the ball club with one master plan—to win an American league pennant for New York," Harris said.

The new boss admitted he was interested in making a deal for a first baseman, outfielder and pitchers but backed up president MacPhail's statement that he had no thoughts of trading Joe DiMaggio.

MacPhail added "we have had no talks with the Red Sox about Ted Williams or any other player," thus killing another juicy rumor of World Series vintage.

Harris became the fourth Yankee manager within a year. Joe McCarthy, whom MacPhail inherited when he, Del Webb and Dan Top-

Army Cadets Still Lead Notre Dame In Poll of Experts

NEW YORK (AP)—It may or may not be the last time they are so honored, the events of next Saturday determining the future status, but the Army Cadets are the No. 1 college football team of the nation in the opinion of a majority of the experts taking part in the weekly Associated Press poll.

Army, despite a more or less drab showing against West Virginia last Saturday, retained a comfortable margin over the second-place Notre Dame team, which likewise was not too impressive in its game with Navy. It generally was conceded, though, that both the Cadets and Irish played their games under extenuating circumstances, with their eyes on their titanic clash at Yankee stadium this week.

Army polled 64 first place votes and amassed a total of 1,176 points. Notre Dame was picked No. 1 on 51 ballots and registered 1,140 points. Last week the Cadets were No. 1 on 104 ballots while 61 experts ranked the Irish at the top.

Standings of the top ten (first place votes in parenthesis, points based on a 10-9-8-etc., system):

Team	Pts.
Army (64)	1,176
Notre Dame (51)	1,140

Rice (2)	489
Texas	471
Tennessee	411

Iowa Five to Play At Chicago Stadium

The University of Iowa basketball team will be one of 20 of the nation's top collegiate quintets which will participate in a program of 12 doubleheaders to be staged this winter at the Chicago stadium. Iowa will meet Northwestern at the stadium Jan. 25 with the Michigan State-DePaul contest completing the twin-bill.

'Pops' Harrison Reshuffles Squad

With less than a month of pre-season practice remaining, Coach "Pops" Harrison has moved his Hawkeye cage machine into high gear by reshuffling his squad and practice program.

The change finds the entire squad working out daily rather than on alternate days and with no distinction made between veteran and new-comer candidates.

On the basis of performance to date, Coach Harrison has designated an "A" squad which will practice on the varsity floor with all remaining players forming a "B" squad which will utilize the gym floor.

The so-called "A" squad has as its basis 15 returning lettermen including Herb and Clayton Wilkinson, Jack Spencer, Dick Ives and Murray Wier all from the Western conference Championship team of 1945.

Nine new men to Iowa campaigns have made successful bids for the "A" squad. Included are Bob Freeman, Iowa City, Walt Kockneff, Muscatine, Bob Mott, Jewel, and Elwin Dahm, Sterling, Ill.

Others in this classification are Bill Hall, Moline, Ill., John Kaslak, Pittsburg, Pa., Leonard Metcalfe, Paducah, Ky., and Jack and Bob Whelan, Trenton, New Jersey.

Blaik Worried About Irish

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP)—Army's football team, somewhat weary after playing under pressure every week since the beginning of the season in September, will have to pin its hopes on eight backs in its all-important game with Notre Dame in New York's Yankee stadium Saturday.

Before sending his squad out for its first scrimmage in two weeks, coach Earl Blaik said yesterday that he would alternate two comparatively light backs, Elwyn "Ripper" Rowan and Bill West, in place of the injured Herschel Fuson.

Fuson, Blaik said, suffered one of the worst shoulder separations he ever had seen in last Saturday's West Virginia game and will not be able to play for at least three weeks.

The Army coach revealed that the loss of Fuson makes a greater difference to his defensive plans than to the Army offense; that he was disappointed with his team's failure to score more against Duke and West Virginia; that he is more concerned with the possibility that Notre Dame will "run us into the ground;" that Army hasn't concentrated particularly on this game and, just incidentally, that he has an idea Army will win.

To Announce Cage Ticket Plans

The board in control of athletics met Monday night and reached a decision in regard to basketball ticket plans for the coming University of Iowa season. The board has made a study of the attendance problem to attempt an equitable allocation of available seating space.

This decision in the report prepared by the board will be found in tomorrow morning's Daily Iowan sport page.

Little Hawk Cagers Drill

While preparations for the Wilson grid encounter hog the sports spotlight at Iowa City High these days, a determined little band of cage candidates continue their pre-season practices in comparative seclusion.

Gil Wilson, coach of last year's state championship squad meets with the prospective hopefuls three nights a week to lay the groundwork in the molding of a five capable of repeating last year's performance through a tough 20 game schedule.

One from that state championship five is the entire front line, Bob Freeman, sparkplug and hero of the state tournament, and Herb Krall, Freeman's running mate at forward and Jim Van Duesen, the big center.

With the football team claiming much of the talent he plans to use this season, Wilson must limit the practices to the boys not engaged in the grid sport.

Leading this array of talent are Sonny Dean, third team all-state guard last year, and Bob Beals, last season's number three guard. A third letterman now working with the squad is Dick Drake, a returned serviceman who will be eligible the first semester. A regular on the 1945 team, Drake should prove a valuable asset to the Hawkleys during the first 14 games on the 20 game schedule.

Don Woods from last year's sophomore squad and Bob Burich, a senior transfer student from Riverside are also receiving attention from the coaches.

After the final cheer for the grid team has died away, five other lettermen will join the squad. Jim Sangster, regular guard from last year's title five and big Gene Hettrick, freshman semi-regular last season, lead the numeral winners. Gerri Cannon, Kirk Carson and Chick Evans will also be trying for their second varsity letter.

From last year's sophomore squad, Wilson is counting on Virgil Troyer, Bill Reichardt and Jerry Dunham to make the grade.

Hawks Plan to Ruin Badger Homecoming; Ray Carlson Captain

Long looks at Wisconsin offensive formations now are being given to the University of Iowa football squad, in preparation for the attempt to wreck the Badger homecoming at Madison Saturday.

The Badger stuff was run by the "B" squad. Against Purdue, the Badgers ran the "T" 27 times and the Notre Dame box 34, Iowa scouts reported.

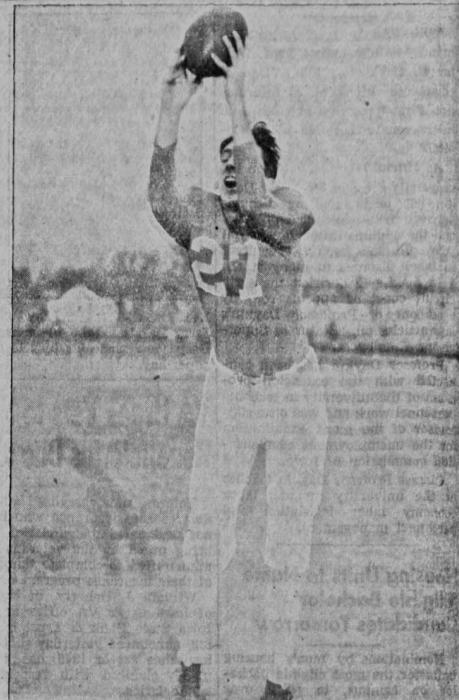

Dr. Eddie Anderson Tuesday picked Ray Carlson, left guard, as game-captain for the Wisconsin game. The Ft. Dodge athlete has started the Notre Dame and Illinois games and turned in good jobs. He weighs 182 pounds and is fast and agile.

It's possible that Bob Sullivan the usual starter at left halfback until last Saturday, will open at that position Saturday. He was replaced by Em Tunnell, who played full-time against the Illini.

Dr. Anderson also said that Ron Headington, who has developed rapidly both on defense and offense, may start in place of Dick Hoerner at fullback. Headington carried five times for 32 yards against Illinois and made some vicious tackles.

Iowa will be up against a powerful Wisconsin attack, led by hard-running backs such as Wally Dreyer, Earl Mayes, Ben Bendrick and Clarence Self. Jack Wink, pre-war quarterback, is a good passer, and the line is rugged and fast.

Meanwhile, a recapitulation of season's figures showed that Iowa has scored 12 of its 15 touchdowns on rushing plays varying from 1 to 69 yards. Two passes clicked for touchdowns and the other score was made on a run after a fumble was recovered in the air.

Kirk Carson—Defensive Ace

By DON SCANNELL Staff Reporter

That tall thin man who came from nowhere to knock down a fourth down goal line pass to erase the chances of Dowling high of Des Moines to tie the Iowa City high Hawkleys in their battle of giants three weeks ago was the Little Hawk star defensive halfback, Kirk Carson.

Trailing 14 to 7 late in the second half, the Capitol City eleven had driven to the Iowa City six yard line and three line plunges left them in the same position. The Dowling quarterback changed his strategy and fired a short pass into the flat to left end Bill Frazier for what looked like the tying touchdown. Just before the ball nestled in the arms of the Irish receiver, Carson rushed up from his halfback position to deflect the ball and save the day for the Hawkleys. The Cornackman initiated a drive from this point to score another touchdown, putting the game on ice and giving the Little Hawks statewide recognition as a powerhouse.

Carson started the season as a strong contender for the starting left end position. A knee injury slowed him too much on offense so the six foot, 146 pound senior ballhawk concentrated on the defensive halfback spot.

Kirk is in the game whenever the opponents have the ball but seldom plays when the Hawkleys go on the offensive as blocking places too much strain on his bad knee. Despite his size and the threat of a further injury, Carson is one of the hardest and surest tacklers on the team.

In addition to his grid activities, Kirk won a letter on last year's state championship basketball team.

Stuhldreher Stresses Wisconsin Defense

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—The University of Wisconsin football squad stressed pass defense and line blocking yesterday in preparation for its homecoming game with Iowa Saturday.

Coach Harry Stuhldreher sent his Badger varsity through a long dummy scrimmage with the accent on better blocking, while center Fred Negus, Quarterback Stan Heath, guard Don Knauff and fullback Ted Cox nursed injuries on the sidelines.

Halfbacks Don Kindt and Johnny Pinnow, also on the injured list, were not in uniform, but both were expected to be ready for Saturday's game.

Wyatt to Go on Air

WASHINGTON (AP)—National housing agency said yesterday that Housing Expediter Wilson W. Wyatt will speak on the labor phase of the veterans emergency housing program over a nationwide radio network (MBS) at 9:15 p. m. (CST) Thursday, Nov. 14.

THE BLACK MARKET IN COLLEGE PLAYERS

There are shocking new facts in today's Saturday Evening Post about the subsidization of college football players. Gridiron authority Francis Wallace reveals the details of several recent cases—including the much publicized Shorty McWilliams affair—in which players were offered (or asked for) prices that run into five figures. Names are named and prices quoted in this outspoken article. In addition, Mr. Wallace proposes a practical, realistic method of checking the "wild excesses" which, he says, are threatening to ruin college football. ### Vets' Council Rakes 'Free Ride' Policy In Obtaining Funds

The Iowa City Veterans' organization council at a meeting here last night issued a statement objecting to "any policy of a state, an organization or an individual which attempts to obtain federal funds indiscriminately merely because others are doing so."

The statement followed a protest by the group which disapproved an Iowa attorney-general's ruling that it was legal for the state board of education to charge Iowa veterans out-of-state tuition.

Accordingly, the council authorized its secretary to draft a letter to the veterans administration seeking advice on its further actions in the matter.

The council commended Fred W. Ambrose, university business manager, for his cooperation with them in investigating the out-of-state tuition payment which will be required for Iowa veterans next semester.

The council also commended the League of Women Voters, Iowa City veterans' organizations and the local newspapers promoting a "get-out-the-vote" campaign for the general election.

The council tabled a resolution submitted by the American Veterans Committee urging the mayor of Iowa City to appoint a committee to investigate charges that black market operations and unequal allocations of materials are delaying the veterans' housing program here.

The motion was tabled when it was pointed out that a committee already had been appointed by the mayor to investigate the supply of building materials. Acting Chairman Harry Crosby said, however, that the council would be receptive to any complaints from veterans.

The reports were from 1,099 precincts.

Justice Norman R. Hays (D) had 160,877 votes to 102,061 for Frank F. Messer, Iowa City Democrat, for a short term on the supreme court, in reports from 3,606 precincts.

Blue's Statement

Advised that Miles had conceded, Governor Lue made the following statement:

"I deeply appreciate the confidence which the people of Iowa have expressed today at the polls, by re-electing me to the office of governor of this great state. I want to especially express my appreciation to the thousands of men and women who have worked so unselfishly, whose sole interest is that of maintaining good government."

"At this time as the returns are coming in there appears to be a very definite trend toward the election of a Republican congress."

"For several months the people throughout the nation have been exhibiting their dissatisfaction with the conduct of the affairs of the government in Washington. They have viewed with dismay the disunity of the present administration, the petty quarreling of the members of the supreme court, the jeopardizing of our foreign policy and the peace of the world by a cabinet officer in order to woo the radical vote of America and the hasty and ill advised statements and actions of the head of the administration which have had to be repudiated."

"They have also noted with alarm the increased activity of communists and other radicals in the nation and the influence which they were frequently exercising in the decisions of the national administration."

"In behalf of the Republicans of Iowa I pledge a sound, progressive administration of state government which shall be representative of the high ideals and aspirations of the people of this great state."

York's Statement

Willis B. York of Madrid, Republican state chairman, said: "This Republican victory in Iowa was not unexpected. It is a great victory for the governor and the complete state ticket. We are very pleased to know that all of the eight Republican congressmen are assured of election in the face of organized attack by radical forces."

The CIO's Political action committee had "recommended" the Democratic congressional nominees, and criticized the Republican incumbents as among "the worst" in the nation. The PAC also had "recommended" Miles.

STATE—

of 284: Republican incumbent Charles B. Hoeven, 8,288; Democrat George Heikens, 4,292.

With few exceptions, the Republicans carried all the counties in their respective districts, some areas predominated by larger cities failing to produce the Democratic strength the party had hoped for.

All Democratic congressional candidates had received the blessing of the CIO Political Action committee and some observers believed this might be an aid to those candidates depending on votes of organized labor in some of the larger centers.

On the other hand the Gerald L. K. Smith endorsement, which went to Reps. Thomas E. Martin, John W. Gwynne, Ben F. Jensen, and Henry O. Talle, apparently failed to prove the hindrance to them that their Democratic opponents hoped for.

State Contests

Incumbent statehouse Republicans held imposing leads over their Democratic opponents all last night and early this morning.

Rollo H. Bergeson, 35, Sioux City lawyer and World War II veteran, was the only GOP nominee not now holding office. With 1,209 of the state's 2465 precincts reported, Bergeson's lead over M. P. Hogan, Dubuque Democrat, stood at 180,261 to 115,706.

Republican Lt. Gov. Kenneth A. Evans, Emerson farm operator and manager, had 181,081 votes to 123,031 for Sewell E. Allen (D), Onawa lawyer, in 1,280 precincts.

State Auditor C. B. Akers (R) got 183,068 votes in 1,208 precincts to 112,569 for W. A. Yager (D), Spirit Lake general store operator and automobile dealer.

State Treasurer John M. Grimes (R) polled 183,807 votes in 1,208 precincts to 112,829 for Clarence E. Smith (D) of Davenport, chief deputy in the county treasurer's office the last 13 years.

Republican Secretary of Agriculture Harry D. Linn counted 177,139 votes in 1,160 precincts to 106,765 for F. J. McMahon (D), Manning feed and seed man.

Attorney General John M. Rankin (R) rung up 176,979 votes in 1,160 precincts, against 107,781 for Upton B. Kephart (D), Waterloo attorney and World War II veteran.

In the commerce commissioner races, incumbent David B. Long (R) had 173,331 votes in 1,147 precincts; incumbent B. M. Richardson had 169,823 in the same number of precincts. As for the Democrats, Ray Walsh, Varina general store operator, had 106,412 votes and Isaac Snyder, Centerville wholesale grocer, had 106,414 also in 1,147 precincts.

Dr. Laura M. Nanes, Democrat from Ottumwa and Central college instructor, failed to make the grade against State Superintendent of Public Instruction Jessie M. Parker. In 1,979 precincts, Miss Parker had 173,744 votes, Dr. Nanes 106,411.

For the supreme court regular term, the votes for the incumbent Republicans were Theodore G. Garfield, Ames 184,978; Ralph A. Oliver, Sioux City, 161,769, and Charles F. Wennerstrum, Charlton, 161,913—against 102,451 for John W. Anderson (D), Sioux City 106,786 for Richard F. Mitchell (D), Fort Dodge, and 103,342 for Paul W. Richards (D), Red Oak.

NATIONAL—

Massachusetts gave another indication of the anti-isolationist trend which was evidenced in the primary defeats last summer of Burton K. Wheeler in Montana and Henrik Shipstead in Minnesota. In the Bay State yesterday, Democratic Sen. David I. Walsh was defeated by his popular GOP opponent, Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr. Walsh, who consistently opposed Roosevelt's foreign policy before Pearl Harbor, has served for many years as chairman of the powerful naval affairs committee. Lodge, a World War II veteran and former senator, has gained prominence along the eastern seaboard as an organizer of the Republican Open Forums a movement inaugurated last spring by former Minnesota Gov. Harold Stassen. Lodge was also Stassen's choice for the chairmanship of the Republican national committee, a position that was filled early in 1946 by B. Carroll Reece of Tennessee.

Walsh, who held his senate seat since 1922, conceded defeat at midnight, three hours after the Boston Globe had predicted a "comfortable" majority for Lodge. Also in the Bay State, Gov. Maurice J. Tobin, who was elected by a big majority in 1944, went down in defeat before his Republican opponent, Robert F. Bradford. The election of Lodge and Bradford immediately led to speculation that Massachusetts might turn Republican in the 1948 presidential election. It was a Democratic stronghold in the campaigns from 1928 through 1944.

In New York's eighteenth district, the incumbent, colorful Rep. Vito Marcantonio, candidate on both the Democratic and American Labor tickets, defeated the Republican nominee, Frederick V. P. Bryan. Marcantonio claimed victory by a margin of 6700 votes as Bryan conceded the election at 9 p. m. (CST). The eighteenth had been earmarked as a "key" spot by political analysts.

The Republican grip on the midwest remained unchallenged as Wisconsin, Minnesota, Indiana, Michigan, North Dakota and Nebraska all elected GOP senators by big majorities.

Joseph R. McCarthy, the World War II veteran who defeated former Sen. Robert La Follette in the Wisconsin Republican primary, had an easy time defeating his Democratic opponent, Howard J. McMurray.

Minnesota's Gov. Edward Thye had little trouble winning a senate seat against the opposition of the Democratic-Farmer Labor candidate, Theodore Jorgenson. William Jenner, Republican, turned back M. C. Townsend, Democrat, for the vacant senate seat in Indiana. And Sens. Arthur Vandenberg, (Mich.), William Langer, (N. Dak.) and Hugh Butler (Neb.), all GOP incumbents, sailed through with a minimum of difficulty.

There appeared to be no political defection in the solid south. The voters in that 10-state region elected six Democrats to the senate, bringing the southern total to 20 seats. In addition, the 95 Democratic candidates for the house were elected, as had been Republican opponent, W. Howes Meade, who had a political holiday throughout the campaign hampering at May's apparent reluctance to speak "for the record" on the war profits affair.

Despite big Republican gains in both the house and senate, administration forces managed to salvage at least one extremely important senate seat—that of Democrat Harley M. Kilgore in West Virginia. Although friendly to labor, Kilgore was not backed in his campaign by the state's most influential group, John L. Lewis' United Mine workers. Nonetheless, in a nip-and-tuck battle, Kilgore won reelection over the opposition of Republican candidate Thomas Sweeney.

Briggs Trails

In President Truman's home state, Missouri, the Democratic senatorial candidate, incumbent Frank Briggs, was losing to Republican James P. Kem in an extremely close contest that seemed back and forth until early this morning. And the President's personally-selected House nominee in the fifth district, Enos Axtell, was trailing his GOP opponent, Albert Reeves, junior, by a steadily-increasing margin.
