Hawkeye 'Underdogs' Ready for Clash with Wisconsin's Badgers

Anxious to Repair Conference Hopes

By CHAD BROOKS
Daily Iowan Sports Editor
JANESVILLE, Wis. — Iowa's football Hawkeyes, their Rose Bowl dream smashed by Illinois a week ago, rolled into Badger land yesterday afternoon, ready and waiting for today's clash with the Big Red eleven from Wisconsin, and a chance to mend their sagging Big Nine conference hopes. All but eliminated from league title contention by the Illini last Saturday, the Hawks will have to win today, and again at Minneapolis next week, to stay with the conference leaders. But for the fifth straight time in five 1946 Big Nine starts the Hawks will take the field as underdogs. The nation's grid-wise don't seem to think that

Iowa can score, even, against the weak Badger defense, with Fullback Dick Hoerner out of the lineup. There is no doubt that Wisconsin boasts a stronger attack than the offensively futile Hawks, but we are inclined to believe that the Badger running stars are going to have more than a little trouble with Earl Banks, Bruno Niedziela, Captain Ray Carlson and the rest of the Iowa forwards. In four conference games, attack minded outfits like Purdue, Michigan, Indiana and Illinois, the Hawkeye line has yielded only three touchdowns—for the best defensive record in the league—and has proven themselves the toughest forward line in the conference. Offensively, however, the Old Gold eleven will be pretty much limited to the power slants of Halfbacks Bob Smith, Bob Sullivan and Emlen Tunnell. They just don't have any backfield speed and their passing attack has been just about nil so far this season. Smith and Sullivan will be in the starting lineup, but Tunnell, the only tosser on the Hawkeye roster, will probably see considerable action despite a slow healing leg injury. Ron Headington, freshman blocking specialist, will take over Hoerner's fullback job, with converted Right Half Dell Bartels ready to spell him. Lou King will round out the starting quartet. Up front, the Hawks will probably line up with Hal Shoener and Bob Phillips at the ends, Bill Kay and Niedziela at tackle, Banks and Carlson at the guards and Jim Lawrence at center. The Badgers will attempt to crack this rugged Hawkeye wall with a powerful attack built around three top fullbacks—Ben Bendrick, Stan Maves and "Tex" Cox—and the occasional passing of Left Half Wally Dreyer.

Maves has averaged 6.8 yards per crack in 64 running attempts so far this season, with Bendrick right behind on a 5.2 average in 51 tries. Cox has carried the ball only three times so far—for a total of 42 yards—but is the team's top punter with 40.41 yards per boot, despite one blocked kick. Dreyer has picked up 228 yards in 64 running plays and has connected on seven of 15 tosses for 72 yards. Quarterback Stan Heath has completed six of twenty passes, but for a total of 107 yards. Probable starting line-ups:

IOWA	LE	WISCONSIN
Hal Shoener	LE	Bennett
Kay	LT	Loeffe
Carlson	LG	Frel
Lawrence	C	Negus
Banks	RG	Currier
Niedziela	RT	Esser
Phillips	RE	Bowers
King	QB	Fachs
Sullivan	LH	Dreyer
Smith	RH	Kindt
Headington	FB	Maves

Vandenberg Reaffirms Foreign Policy Unity

Army Curbs Wives, Families From Joining EM Overseas

WASHINGTON (AP)—The army ordered last night that no more wives and families of enlisted men in the lower grades be sent to overseas theaters, except United States territories, after December. Wives and families of officers and non-commissioned officers of the first three grades, staff sergeant up, may continue to join them abroad. In an apparent effort to compensate for the disappointment, the army ruled at the same time that regular army enlisted men of the lower grades serving abroad or subject to overseas orders may apply for discharge or for transfer back to the United States by Feb. 1 if they have 18 months or more still to serve.

Truman Should Stay In White House, Declares Wallace

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Sun in an interview with Henry A. Wallace last night quoted the former secretary of commerce as expressing belief it would be to the best interests of the United States that President Truman continue as President despite GOP control of congress. Commenting on a recent suggestion by Senator Fulbright (D-Ark.) that President Truman appoint Republican Senator Vandenberg Secretary of State and then resign—which would put Vandenberg in the White House—Wallace declared "President Truman is preferable to either Senator Vandenberg or Secretary of State Byrnes," the Sun article said. The article, under a Washington dateline, went on to quote Wallace: "My recent trip across the country just prior to the election convinced me beyond any doubt that the elections would have been much more favorable to the Democratic party if we were following a truly American policy, with peace as its objective, instead of the Vandenberg bragadocio 'get tough' policy." Wallace was ousted from the cabinet by President Truman after he took issue with Secretary Byrnes' foreign policy.

U.S. Plans Cruise Into Mediterranean; Cuts Albanian Ties

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government yesterday announced plans for a new cruise by American warships into the eastern Mediterranean and severed political relations with Albania, one of the countries in the high tension area. First, the navy disclosed that three ships, including an aircraft carrier, will call at Turkish and Greek ports in the next few weeks. Then, the state department announced that the American mission in Albania is being called home. But government officials familiar with both events said emphatically the are not related. The state department said the Albanian mission is being withdrawn because the government of Col. Gen. Enver Hoxha had not agreed to accept as valid all pre-war Albanian treaties with the United States.

AFL Accepts Invitation

WASHINGTON (AP)—A spokesman for the American Federation of Labor said yesterday the AFL will accept next week an invitation to send a delegation to Argentina. The AFL spokesman said the invitation was made by the Argentine government. The AFL delegation will consist of 15 members, including the AFL president, and will be headed by Walter Reuther, AFL secretary-treasurer. The AFL delegation will arrive in Argentina next week and will stay for several weeks. The AFL spokesman said the AFL is pleased to accept the invitation and that the delegation will be a good representation of the AFL.

Await Truman's OK To Lift 'All' Ceilings

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON
WASHINGTON (AP)—Only an approving nod from President Truman was needed last night to touch off a "grand sweep" of price and wage controls, to be followed by the resignation of Price Administrator Paul Porter. Top level officials who have guided these war and post-war restraints said they expect government price lids to fall from everything except rents and the few foods still controlled, sugar, syrups and rice. Their definition of "everything" notably included building materials and automobiles. And as soon as the White House announces the decision, it was learned, Porter will ask President Truman to let him out at once. Some informed officials had expected the president to discuss the impending decision at his first post-election cabinet meeting yesterday. However, cabinet members told reporters afterward that there had been no talk about decontrol. Late yesterday afternoon Senator Johnston (D-SC) said after talking with the White House that "all controls will be taken off the manufacture of textiles within the very near future." Johnston told a reporter that "this will mean a great deal to South Carolina because one-fourth of the active spindles in the United States are operated in my state."

Controls on Textiles Include Regulations Requiring the Production of Cloth for Certain Low Cost Garments, and Material for Industrial and Agriculture Use.

The recommendation to the president for the major decontrol sweep was reported on high authority to have resulted from a series of conferences at the White House led by John Steelman, stabilization director and chief trouble shooter for the administration in recent months. Consulted were Porter, John D. Small, head of the civilian production administration which still allocates many scarce materials, and Housing Expediter Wilson Wyatt who has leaned heavily upon both CPA and OPA in his ambitious program to start 2,750,000 low cost homes for veterans. Wyatt contended that unless price lids were held fast upon building materials the present lid of $10,000 on veterans homes must be raised. Efforts to keep half of the housing program well below a $7,500 level have been only partly successful. But Wyatt and his subordinates already are prepared for the adverse decision. One official said that Porter had abandoned an earlier stand for retaining price ceilings until supplies balanced demand and now favored cutting all possible controls with one broad sweep. This man said the goal of all-out production is being hampered by piecemeal removal of ceilings because industries naturally hold back output when they expect a free market later. Friends of Porter said that he had been pressing for a "clarification of policy" ever since President Truman yanked ceilings from meats and livestock on Oct. 14. Bidault Party Aid Offered De Gaulle In Pre-Election Bid

PARIS (AP)—President Georges Bidault MRP party, in a last minute bid for support in Sunday's elections in which Communists are making their first outright effort to organize a Communist government of France, announced yesterday it would support Gen. Charles De Gaulle for first president of the fourth republic if he wants the office. The election is the first since the war in which French men and women will vote for full-term deputies to a national assembly. The MRP and Communists each have declared they will try to form a government without the aid of the other. All France's other postwar governments have been provisional coalitions. The main contest is between the two major parties—MRP representing the center, and the Communists the far left, with the socialists ranking a close third. Yesterdays announcement by the MRP was an obvious bid to the large number of supporters De Gaulle has throughout France. It was designed to mend relationships between the MRP and De Gaulle, which were severely strained when the MRP voted for adoption of the new constitution creating the fourth republic.

Assures World of Solidarity Despite Shift in Washington

By LARRY HAUCK
LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y. (AP)—Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Mich.) told the United Nations in a post-election statement yesterday that it could count on the whole-hearted cooperation of the United States in the quest for peace regardless of what political regime sat in Washington. Vandenberg's speech before the United Nations budgetary committee was the first direct declaration on broad American policy in the United Nations since Tuesday's landslide swept the Republicans into power and among American foreign policy makers. It was interpreted immediately among United Nations delegates as a move to allay any speculation of a possible change in the United States position because of the American political overturn. Appearing before the committee to reiterate that the United States could not agree to a report of financial experts calling for this country to pay half the proposed $23,000,000 administrative budget for the United Nations in 1947, the Republican senator declared: "I reassert, with whatever authority I possess, that, regardless of what political regime sits in Washington, you can count upon the whole-hearted cooperation of the government of the United States in striving, through the United Nations, for a system of mutual defense against aggression and for organized peace-with-justice in a better, safer and happier world." Stressing economy in United Nations expenditures, Vandenberg elaborated on his previous declaration that the United States wanted a 25 percent ceiling on assessments but was willing to "pay more" next year in the view of changing conditions. "This is not a matter of money," he said, "it is a matter of principle." Vandenberg's remarks were made as speculation mounted over Russia's Pacific island policy after an unexplained postponement of a speech generally expected to answer the United States' take-it-or-leave-it offer of limited United Nations trusteeship over the Japanese mandated islands. These developments came as the United States maintained its position in three other controversies before the United Nations: 1. The American delegation decided to continue supporting a proposal asking the security council to reconsider its rejection of United Nations membership applications from Ireland, Portugal, Trans-Jordan, Albania and Outer Mongolia. 2. On the long-debated Spanish issue, the United States has not changed its policy calling for condemnation of the Franco regime and also maintain opposition to any "coercive action" such as a world-wide break in diplomatic relations with Madrid as proposed by Poland and economic sanctions as fostered by White Russia. 3. Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt vigorously defended the right of European refugees to decide whether they wish to return to their home countries, as opposed to repeated Russian demands by Andrei Y. Vishinsky, Soviet deputy foreign minister, that all be forced to return. The reiteration of these three viewpoints along with Vandenberg's speech was considered especially significant in the light of the American elections. In her remarks before the social, humanitarian and cultural affairs committee, Mrs. Roosevelt resumed a debate with Vishinsky which started back in London last winter over the same issue. Replying yesterday to the Russian demand to withhold international aid from political refugees, she declared that most of the refugees don't want to go home "because their countries do not belong to them anymore."

Chiang Quiets Guns Of Nationalist Army In Surprise Move

NANKING (AP)—Chiang Kai-Shek yesterday ordered the guns of his Kuomintang armies stilled throughout China and Manchuria "except as necessary to defend present positions" by way of emphasizing the government's desire to end the civil war and achieve political stability. This surprise action was intended to wipe out the Chinese communists' principal argument against participating in peace negotiations and the national constitutional assembly scheduled to meet next Tuesday. Covers Special Fronts The Generalissimo's order covered the Nationalist armies fighting on half a dozen civil war fronts from the Yangtze river northward through Manchuria. In a midnight statement, after studying the text of Chiang's two-page pronouncement, the Communist peace delegation said it saw no cause for optimism. It charged that Chiang had acted unilaterally, without previously consulting the Communists, and said the exception made in regard to defending present positions "may still serve as a pretext for all kinds of military operations." Doubtful Results Third party groups which have been trying to bring the two sides together, said it was very doubtful that the declaration offered any pathway for Communist or third party participation in the national assembly. The action was considered to be a skillful political maneuver by Chiang to force the Communists into a position of accepting the cease fire order or of accepting responsibility for continuing the protracted civil war. Followed Unusual Activity The announcement followed three days of unusual activity during which General Marshall and Ambassador Stuart, the American representatives in China, conferred frequently with the Generalissimo. Observers saw in the announcement the result of heavy pressure from Marshall for the government to take positive action to end the fighting before convening of the national assembly brought a final and irreparable split between the Nationalists and Communists. SEATTLE (AP)—A 20-year-old sailor who shouted "I hate civilians," bombarded pedestrians and police with a half-hour brick barrage from the roof of a 5-story hotel early yesterday. Three policemen captured him after his heaves had failed to connect with any of the passersby. One brick torn from a cornice, dented an automobile.

Three Congressional Elections Undecided

WASHINGTON (AP)—An official canvass of Maryland's votes will decide this weekend whether the Old Line state sends a Democrat or a Republican to the senate. The other two undecided races from Tuesday's elections—a senate contest in West Virginia and a house battle in Utah—will remain unsettled longer. Completion of the official count of Maryland's outstate counties left Democrat Herbert R. O'Connor 1,438 votes ahead of Republican John D. Markey. Apparently O'Connor needed only official returns from Baltimore city to clinch a senate seat. In West Virginia, the official tabulation begins Tuesday. The preliminary count, with 13 precincts missing, gave Sen. Harley M. Kilgore (D) a lead of 3,125 votes over Thomas Sweeney (R). The Utah house race is between Rep. Walter Granger (D) and David J. Wilson (R). With three precincts missing, estimated to have fewer than 100 votes, Granger led in unofficial returns by 141 votes. The official count is set for November 25.

Hannegan May Quit As Demo Chairman

WASHINGTON (AP)—Friends of Robert E. Hannegan said yesterday he may resign soon as chairman of the Democratic national committee while retaining his portfolio of postmaster-general. Paul Fitzpatrick of Buffalo, New York Democratic chairman, is talked of most as Hannegan's likely successor if the latter should step down. Some demands for Hannegan's resignation came in the wake of the Republican election sweep but the friends who spoke of his relinquishing the party helm said the action, if taken, would be due solely to his physical condition. Mr. Truman told a news conference before the election that he expected Hannegan to remain as postmaster-general and party chairman but doctors advised the 43-year-old Missourian months ago that he had better slow up in his double job. Several top leaders of the Democratic organization are expected to meet here next week to plan the future of the national committee. One of the results is expected to be a cut down of expenses, probably a reduction in office space in the Mayflower hotel, a big financial burden.

To Proceed With Suit Against Columbians

President Emory Burke tore the charter to bits last night before 200 shouting adherents and declared the organization would persist as a political party. Duke said the showdown would come at 9:30 a. m. Nov. 15, when the Columbians must show cause in Fulton superior court why their charter should not be revoked. If they do not file answer, he explained, they will lose the charter by default. Burke said it was not yet decided whether the Columbians would contest he case. A Decision Which Deserves Applause

With the announcement that all the students will be able to see all the home basketball games, the university athletic board of control this week answered the question that has been worrying the great number of basketball fans among the student body.

When one considers that Iowa will probably be the only school in the Big Nine where the entire student group will be accommodated at every game as well as the financial aspects of the situation, it becomes obvious that we basketball enthusiasts here at the university have much to be thankful for.

Look at Northwestern university, for example, where all the "home" games are played in Chicago stadium and where it is estimated that only five percent of the students attend the games. This season Minnesota, Illinois and Ohio State, where the enrollment figure is much higher than seating capacity, the student fans will be split up into groups attending alternate games. A three way split is planned for Wisconsin so that actually the students will be able to watch only a third of the home games.

Added significance of the athletic board's determination to allow students here to see all the games is the fact that the new seating arrangement is definitely a costly one for the athletic department.

The department, operating under an independent budget, is still carrying a considerable debt contracted when the stadium was built. Its main source of revenue is the sale of tickets to non-students.

Remembering that tuition, besides covering admission to the year's sports program, also includes subscription to The Daily Iowan, Frivol, admission to plays and concerts, and other fees, it is apparent that the athletic division's income from this source is limited.

By setting aside for students 10,000 of the 14,000 seats in the fieldhouse, the department is foregoing a nice bit of revenue. With another high caliber team in the offing, it is quite certain that the fieldhouse could have been sold out to non-student fans.

It may be argued that the first responsibility is to the students, but because the athletic board operates on its own budget, these were the hard dollar and cents facts with which it was confronted. And, too, some consideration had to be given to the fans around the state who have been attending games during the years when the student body made up only a small part of the attendance.

Thanks to the courage of the athletic board, there'll be a seat for every student when Pops' boys start pounding the hardwood next month. Perhaps one way we can show our appreciation at the games is to observe the No Smoking rule that prevails at the fieldhouse.

Let's Wait and See

There seems to be a tendency among progressives who regard the Democratic party as the nearest thing to the historic New Deal to brand Tuesday's Republican triumph as a victory for reaction. This may or may not be the case; we can't yet tell for sure.

Statements from GOP leaders, flushed with victory, have indicated that conservatism will probably be the prevailing philosophy in the 80th congress, but we haven't heard from the new Republican members of the senate and house. Whether they will be ready to follow Senator Taft down the line is still an unanswered question.

For one thing, it would seem that the new congress might be more favorable toward legislation to combat racial discrimination than the 79th was. It is conceivable that two bills which would strike a blow at racism may have better chance of passage in a Republican congress than in the recent Democratic congress. We refer to the anti poll tax bill and the bill for a permanent fair employment practices commission (if such is reintroduced, of course).

Although the Democratic party has in recent years offered more hope for progressives than has the GOP, it has always been—and is more than ever today—strongly influenced by its reactionary southern bloc. Franklin Roosevelt was able to keep this bloc under his thumb, something which Mr. Truman hasn't been able to do.

In the 79th congress, many of the important committee posts were held by southern Democrats who blocked progressive legislation particularly in the field of race relations at every opportunity. Now that the Republicans have control of congress, many southern Democrats will be forced out of their committee jobs.

Thus the anti poll tax bill, which was stymied in the 79th congress first by the house ways and means committee and then filibustered to death in the senate, would seem to have a much better chance of becoming law. If Oregon's Wayne Morse picks up where he left off in the senate last summer, the bill will at least reach the floor. The chances of an FEPC law are slimmer, of course, due to what seems to be a Republican obsession toward so-called "bureaucracy."

So the best policy might be to wait and see what the policies of the new congress will be. It must be remembered that it won't take much to make it more progressive than the 79th.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR—

Favors Legal Action Against City Barbers

(Once received letters to the editor become the property of this newspaper and we reserve the right to edit them or withhold them altogether. Unsigned letters will not be published. Views expressed in letters do not necessarily represent those of The Daily Iowan—The Editor.)

TO THE DAILY IOWAN:
Sometime last week you published a statement by Prof Kirk H. Porter in which he quoted the civil liberties statute of the Code of Iowa to clear up "misconceptions about the relation of legal action to the problem" (that of discrimination against Negroes in Iowa City barbershops).

The law seemed to me to be rather clear and easily enforceable. What then is the issue?

In your lead editorial of Nov. 8, I think you put it all together quite neatly. The issue is (though you didn't see it this way) whether we will enforce the law, or let those who show bias and bigotry continue in their un-American fashion because we may "solidify" these feelings of theirs.

You state that the "only real difference" between the two groups (Negro and white) is "a matter of pigmentation." However, that is something that Iowa City barbers (with one notable exception) refuse to see. What are we, therefore, supposed to do about it? You say that it (intolerance) "can't be shamed out by harping its un-Christian hypocrisy or clubbed out by legal force." What then is the solution?

Is it education? Whom will we educate? Every scientific fact is known or available to the barbers, but they refuse to acknowledge them, since their prejudice is of the unreasoning kind that will disregard any facts on this topic.

Therefore, I believe that legal action is the primary solution. Whenever the cooperation of others is essential to the realization of a moral or ethical principle, some people must be compelled to cooperate by legal means if necessary. Then when they see how mistaken they were in holding to their prejudices, their education will have taken place.

In closing, I, too, would like to quote a law, or rather a portion of one. Section I of Article XIV of the Constitution of the United States states in part: "nor deny to any person within its (the states') jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws."

Wives Protest Action On Basketball Tickets

TO THE DAILY IOWAN:
We learn that students' wives, I-book holders, will not be permitted to sit in the student section at basketball games. There are those who would say this is rather a high-handed decision for the athletic department to make; there are those who would say this is a breach of an implicit contract (how many wives would have purchased I-books had it not been implied that they would be permitted to enjoy the athletic contests with the devoted husband nearby to explain the phenomena of "baskets", "free throws", "double-dribbles", etc. There are those who would say the university forgets its obligation to its students, running the field house more like Madison Square Garden than a state institution. There are those who would call for a mass meeting and formal protest at this point.

We are not among the "there are those" noted above. We are just six students' wives, six veterans' wives, six university employees, six disappointed girls who ask— is there no appeal from this decision?

SIX VETERANS' WIVES

Slightly Biased Analysis Of Election's Outcome

TO THE DAILY IOWAN:
I have patiently waited for someone to give a clear, concise analysis of the recent election, but so far all I've heard is voting statistics, which aren't worth anything after you find out which side won.

So, regretfully I throw down my copy of "Money & Banking" or "How to Become Rich after fifty Years as a Bank Clerk", and take up my pen.

There are several significant factors which contributed to the Republican victory. I find that the commentators have practically ignored them.

The voters have registered a strong protest against the Missouri Klan, or Government by Mediocrity. After Harry is left out, the clan is bossed by the great financier, John Snyder, (who would make a good chief clerk for a drygoods store) and George "Fat" Allen, who got into government work after he lost his job in a second rate vaudeville show. There are so many people from Missouri in the administration that Harry has seriously considered moving our national capital to Independence, Mo.

I'm not saying that the Democrats didn't make a game fight—they did. I just heard that F. D. R.'s corpse was brought into New York City and paraded up and down the streets by Hannegan, but even that didn't save the day for the Missouri gang.

One reason the Democrats lost is that Eleanor didn't put her heart into the campaign. But who can blame her? There's very little worth saving in the administration. Even Falla has left the White House. In fact the only thing the Democrats salvaged from their debacle was Bilbo, and they didn't want him.

In spite of their assertions to the contrary, the Republicans didn't expect to win. I know this because I saw some of their newly elected office holders just after they came up from the underground after fourteen years of hiding from F. D. R. Most were as pale as death (you couldn't tell the corpses from the live ones) and some of them were still wearing old Hoover buttons.

Most of the post election statements are about as valuable as last year's Homecoming badge, but it is interesting to note that the Democrats said nothing after their defeat. "The Sedative in the Blue Serge Suit" and Bob (now known as Silent) Hannegan have both kept a profound silence.

But it is instructive to gauge the reactions of the Republicans after taking office again. The Senators from the North, Vandenberg, that is, wants to be president right off the bat. He can't wait until 1948. Maybe he just wants to get a head start for the presidential job. And he is getting old.

Baldy Taft is sitting in his Cincinnati mansion, laying plans for the next Republican national convention. Bricker, who became famous in Ohio doing nothing, will continue to do nothing and say nothing worth listening to. Thomas "The Stick" Dewey has issued one of those statements which sounds like it came off a phonograph. Earl Warren and Harold Stassen are becoming silent since the "Old Guard" would like to dump them in the ashcan on general principles.

The brightest comment on the election came from Senator Fullbright, who turns out to be from Arkansas. He wants Harry to resign and let Vandenberg be president. While this is carrying senatorial "courtesy" a little too far, there is merit in the remark. In fact it's the brightest statement that has come from below the Mason-Dixon Line in 90 years.

I would like to amend this idea somewhat. It's all right to let Harry (To Err is Truman) go back to Missouri and re-open his haberdashery before the Republican bust comes, but I'd like Bess to take over as president, and Mary Margaret as secretary of state. The bridge club could be flown in regularly from Independence for consultation, and a woman president would further women's rights tremendously. Bess at least knows enough to keep her mouth shut, and to reply in monosyllables when conversation becomes unavoidable.

Perhaps a word or two about the Iowa election would be in order. The Iowans went dutifully to the polls and again voted for Abraham Lincoln along with some other political corpses such as Robert Blue and Tom Martin.

'Progressives' Call January Convention

WASHINGTON (AP)—Thirty leaders of the "conference of progressives" resolved yesterday to expand their forces for political action despite "setbacks" in Tuesday's elections.

Disavowing any intentions of forming a third party, the group, which banded together last September in Chicago, called a convention in Washington in mid-January to chart a fight "for the ideals of Franklin D. Roosevelt."

"We will take further steps," said a resolution unanimously adopted, "towards our goal of mobilizing the most effective liberal-progressive coalition ever brought together in the history of our country."

Participating in yesterday's session were Philip Murray, CIO president; Henry Morgenthau Jr., and Harold L. Ickes, executive chairman of the independent citizens committee of the arts, sciences and professions.

PSST! THERE'S A MAN UNDER YOUR BED!

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT GOP Actually Beat A Pick-Up Team

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

NOTES ON THE ELECTION: In our history, under these conditions, the conservative party would have shot the moon; this time all it did was score a clear, but modest, win.

The election indicates that while the country is in a troubled and conservative mood, it has not been stampeded, and cannot be stampeded. It moves a foot under agonized shrieking which would once have made it jump a mile. To the liberal, caught in the awkward posture described above, it must be obvious that his trouble lies with himself, and not with the Republicans; any improvement in his leadership, his organization, and any steadying of the political climate must react in his favor; he can feel that he has been through the worst, that he knows what happens at absolute zero.

Thoughtful conservatives, viewing the election as a picture of what sort of victory can be won against liberalism at its most defenseless period, will perhaps be satisfied with two cheers instead of three and will soberly consider whether to make really defiant use of the victory gained.

The first question is: Whom did the Republicans beat? The easy answer, that the GOP beat the Democrats, is not enough. Actually, the election exposes and reveals the fact that there is no democratic party, in the sense in which we are used to having one. The Republicans beat a pick-up team of liberals, leftists, labor candidates, many of them at war with the leaders of their own party organization, and all of them running in their first election without Roosevelt.

In a sense, the Democratic party in the north is the third party, a kind of third party of liberals held in captivity by organization leaders who are not, often, very liberal; and from this viewpoint the showing made by America's unorganized liberal sentiment was not discreditable.

The election was not a landslide. The word "landslide" was properly used in 1936, when a house of representatives consisting of 334 Democrats and 89 Republicans was elected. (Or in 1920, when a house with 300 Republicans and 132 Democrats was elected.) This week's election, producing a house with a little under 200 Democrats and a couple of dozen more than 200 Republicans, is not quite in the same class. But can anyone doubt that, if northern and western liberalism had not continued, somehow, at work, under appalling political conditions, the election would have been an absolute rout? These figures are a measure of the best the Republicans can do with every condition favoring them, against a disorganized, almost a disappearing party, torn by inner conflict. It was a setup for murder, but only a bit of routine mayhem resulted.

When we look at the American liberal, trying to hold off the Southern Democratic conservatives with one hand, and the Republicans with the other, carrying on his back the burden of Mr. Truman's failures, and on his shoulders, where it has been skillfully, if unfairly, placed, the huge weight of Russian and communist unpopularity, it is a kind of wonder that he did not fall down and break his neck on Tuesday.

That he survived as well as he did in this tenderless Roosevelt era, makes the election meaningful; it gives us the floor below which liberal and Democratic strength cannot drop, under test conditions when everything is against and nothing is for it. It also gives us the ceiling above which conservative strength cannot rise, with every condition in its favor, in a time of postwar reaction, international hysteria, heedless prosperity and little unemployment. At an earlier time

All in all this represents about the best in the study of the jazz age and is worth the chips if you have any extra. Performance is superior, recording is very good.

Foster Calls for Religious Cooperation Between North, South American Faiths

Constructive cooperation between all religions of North America with South American catholicism was stressed at a talk given Thursday by Dr. O. D. Foster of the school of religion. Foster spoke at a luncheon-meeting of the Pan-American league in the private dining room of the Iowa Union.

"Political issues of South America cannot be discussed without dealing with religious issues," stated Dr. Foster, "for the two are parallel." He added that the fight for freedom in Latin-America from Spain was a constant struggle between church and state.

In discussing the political side of South America's liberty-struggle, the professor in Latin-American history deplored the fact that the United States pressed her constitutional form of government on South Americans before they were intellectually prepared for it. This was done, he said, to keep South America weak.

"More Literacy Needed" "More literacy among the Latin peoples is needed before democracy can work there," Doctor Foster added. "As their sister nation, we must educate them and apologize for our misunderstandings of them in the past before we can obtain their trust and friendship," he also advised.

In concluding his address, Dr. Foster stated that the problem facing North America today is the need for "an honest attempt on the part of all religions to put their hearts before their heads in viewing Catholicism in South America."

It is their duty to combat the growing revisionism toward formalism and all religious beliefs which many intellectuals and scientists hold today. We must all strive to cooperate together before our common God."

Chemistry Society To Initiate 14 Men

Fourteen pledges will be formally initiated into Alpha Chi Sigma, national professional chemistry fraternity, tonight at 10 o'clock in the chemistry building, President Paul J. Thelen, G of San Diego, said yesterday.

City Airport Rejects Airlines Request For Lease Change

Iowa City's municipal airport commission yesterday declined a request of United Airlines to change the company's existing 50-year lease, according to Vern Bales, commission chairman.

Under the present lease, negotiated in 1930, the airline is required to furnish complete maintenance of the airport. As an alternative, the company offered to pay a flat sum for each of its planes landing on the field. It also offered a minimum guarantee, Bales said, but he did not announce the amount.

The commission refused to negotiate a new lease now, Bales said, because it felt that the present agreement was more advantageous to the city.

The present lease will not expire until 1980. It was negotiated originally with Boeing Air Transport and was continued with United Air Lines when that company absorbed the line.

Under the conditions of the lease the company is required to make necessary runway repairs, maintain the lighting system and keep their runways clear of snow.

D. C. Mennan of Chicago represented United Air Lines at the meeting yesterday. Members of the airport commission under Bales are: W. T. Hageboeck, Prof. Karl Lieb, W. D. Cannon and E. F. Lenthy.

Engineers to Elect Officers Nov. 19; Plan Dance, Smoker

Class elections in the college of engineering will be held Nov. 19, it was decided at a meeting of Associated Students of Engineering Thursday night.

Plans for an all-engineering dance and a smoker were also discussed at the business meeting.

First-year engineers will hold a meeting for nomination of candidates at 11:30 a. m. Nov. 19, and sophomores will name candidates at a special meeting next Thursday. Junior and senior classes will meet jointly sometime before the election.

Nov. 25 was set as the date for the AS of E smoker in Iowa Union. The "Slide-Rule Shuffle," informal dance for engineers only, will be held Nov. 29 in the Community building with Jimmy Russell's orchestra providing the music.

Over 400 AS of E membership cards have been distributed, Bill Bauer, E4 of Iowa City, president announced. Holders are eligible to attend the "Shuffle," the Mecca ball, and all other association functions.

Cards are also used for awarding a $5 door prize at each business meeting. Winner of the prize Thursday night was Maurice E. Nelson, E2 of Proctor, Vt.

Earlier in the evening, pledges to the local chapter were initiated by officers of the national organization.

Armistice Day Program At City High School To Feature Veterans

Sixteen uniformed World War II veteran students at City high school will act as color guards in the schools annual Armistice day program at 10:40 a. m. Monday.

Don Guthrie will be master of ceremonies for the program directed by Miss Lola Hughes, school dramatics director.

The program will include a tribute to Ernie Pyle, war correspondent who died on Ie Jima, read by Don Guthrie; extracts from Pyle's book "Brave Men," read by Bob Paulus; a memorial tribute to all service dead from City high school, by Principal Fred Jones; "Solemn Looking Blokes," read by Don Fryauf, and "Blow Bugles, Blow," read by Austin Colony.

The school band under the direction of Bob Titus, will play, "The Star Spangled Banner" and "America." Keith Parizek will be the bugler.

and Miss Sterling, instructors in the women's physical education education department.

The group will return to Iowa City late tomorrow evening.

ROTC Uniforms Arrive

Three hundred and seventy-five ROTC uniforms arrived this week and are ready for issue, Col. W. W. Jenna, head of the military science department, announced yesterday.

Students enrolled in ROTC courses are urged to report to the armory as soon as possible so they may be issued complete uniforms. The clothing room will be open from 8 a. m. to 12 noon today.

All ROTC students must be in uniform for Wednesday's drill, Colonel Jenna, stated.

Swedish Engineers To Study University Work in Hydraulics

Two Swedish engineers are expected to arrive in Iowa City this evening to inspect the work of the Iowa Institute of Hydraulic Research. Dean F. M. Dawson of the college of engineering announced yesterday.

Prof. Bo Hellstrom of the Royal Institute of Technology in Sweden and Erik Blomqvist, secretary of the Swedish Water Power commission, will spend tomorrow and Monday studying methods employed by the Iowa institute, according to word received from the Swedish legation in New York city.

Professor Hellstrom and Blomqvist are in the United States for a six-week tour of hydraulics laboratories, dams, hydro-electric plants now under construction and subterranean water flow.

In visiting the Iowa laboratory they hope to learn of new principles that could be utilized in planning for new facilities at the Royal institute in Sweden.

St. Patrick's PTA To Hold Potluck

A husband-wife potluck supper will be held by St. Patrick's Parent-Teachers association tomorrow at 6:30 p. m. in the social room of the church. Members are asked to bring sandwiches, a covered dish and table service.

Addressing the meeting will be the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Patrick J. O'Reilly. In charge of the supper are Mrs. G. G. Welsh, Mrs. D. P. Mattess, Mrs. Henry Musack, Mrs. William Holland and Mrs. Harold Franklin.

107 ROTC Students Enter Competition For Annual Award

One hundred and seven men in the first year elementary ROTC classes have signed up to compete for Minute Man Medals, Col. W. W. Jenna, head of the military science department, announced yesterday.

The medals are awarded annually by Col. J. B. Ladd of the infantry-reserve, under the sponsorship of the national society, Sons of the American Revolution. Winners of the competitions in military science and activities and will receive their medals at the Military ball Jan. 17, 1947.

A written test and an oral examination by a board of officers of the ROTC departments will determine the winners. Both examinations include the American's Creed and the preamble to the Constitution as well as regulations governing the hand salute, position of the soldier at attention and general orders.

Students not eliminated by the written tests will go to officers board for their oral examination. Here the students' ability to understand the written test, good citizenship and soldiering qualities will be weighed by the board, Colonel Jenna explained.

This year's interest is much higher than in previous years, when one percent of the students enrolled in the ROTC classes expressed a desire to enter the competition as compared to 40 percent for this year, according to Colonel Jenna.

The awarding of the medal started in 1939 and continued to be an annual event until 1944 when the ROTC membership fell off because of the war.

An Open Letter to 3,000 Methodist Students at the State University of Iowa

A Question Box was placed at the front and rear exits of the Methodist Church a few Sundays back and students were asked to drop in their questions. What would they like the minister to preach about?

The questions surprised me. Here are some of them: Do you believe in an infallible Bible? In the Virgin Birth? In a literal heaven and hell? In the Fall of Man? In the resurrection of the body? In a final Judgement Day? In the Second Coming of Christ? In the Trinity? Was Christ more than a good man?

Alright—we shall devote a dozen Sundays to straight-from-the-shoulder answers to those questions in the light of what the best accredited scholarship believes today.

We admit that the simple, lovable, dynamic personality of Jesus has been encrusted and almost buried beneath a load of man-made theological mumbo-jumbo. Let us examine the evidence with open, honest, questing minds and see if we can get back to Him! Our answers will not be "orthodox" but they will be forthright.

Tomorrow's theme—"Your Creative Mind."

There will be two services every Sunday at 9:30 and 11 A.M. but please come to the first service if possible. The second service is already full—the first, three-fourths full.

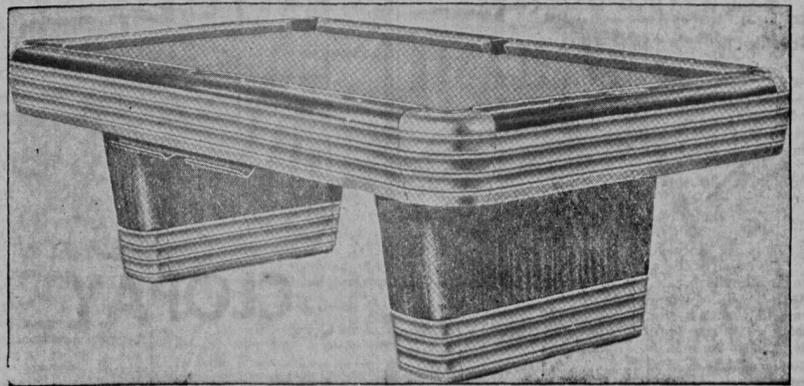

Cordially yours,

L. L. Dunnington

Gas, Electric Company Appoints Ames Woman Home Service Advisor

Mrs. Emma Reynolds, formerly of Ames, has been selected home service consultant of the Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric company, it was announced yesterday by L. D. Bodeen, sales supervisor. She replaces Mrs. Dorothy Park.

Mrs. Reynolds' duties will consist of furnishing information to women pertaining to cooking, nutrition, laundering, kitchen planning, lighting, use of gas and electrical appliances, and homemaking problems.

Bodeen also announced that she will be available to women's organizations for demonstrations.

A graduate home economist of Iowa State college in Ames, Mrs. Reynolds has had extensive classroom training in meal planning, nutrition and diet and household equipment courses.

Fire Chiefs Propose Iowa Hotel Legislation

The state legislature will be asked next year to pass legislation requiring hotels in Iowa to have:

- (1) First class fire escapes which are steel enclosed fireproof stairways.
- (2) Sprinkler systems on basement and first floors.

The legislative proposal was tentatively decided by 16 fire chiefs, including Iowa City Fire Chief J. J. Clark, at a meeting in Des Moines Wednesday.

The fire chiefs agreed at the meeting that in view of the number of recent hotel fires steps should be taken to prevent recurrences in the future, Chief Clark said.

J.P. Gaffney to Talk

'Smart Swede' Chooses SUI Courses

Grad Student Aids Authors in Translations

ERIK SJOEGREN

English is so widely spoken throughout the world that Erik Sjoegren of Sweden wants to make a career of creative writing in our language. So he has come all the way from Stockholm this year to study in the University of Iowa writers' workshop.

His choice of the Iowa workshop was not accidental. Prof. Paul Engle's creative writing department was recommended to Sjoegren by two Iowans of the American legation in Stockholm, and the Swedish-American foundation arranged for his coming.

A graduate student, Sjoegren is staying at the home of another native of Sweden, Dean Emeritus Carl E. Seashore of the graduate college. Sweden is very proud of Dean Seashore, according to Sjoegren and the famous Seashore musical tests have been broadcast over the Swedish radio.

English is by no means a strange tongue to Sjoegren since he taught English in the Stockholm university extension, after having majored in English language and literature for his degree from the University of Stockholm.

Represented American Authors Sjoegren also has represented American authors to Sweden in several translations. He has translated into Swedish "The Leaning Tower" by Katharine Ann Porter, and "Black Pantaloons" and "Go Down Moses" by William Faulkner. But Sjoegren maintains that translation is not a lucrative profession and says he would not recommend it to his "worst enemy."

Though Sjoegren is "not nationalistically-minded," he admits that Sweden has had some excellent writers. Among Sweden's writers are some very fine lyric poets, Sjoegren declared, but he added that their attitudes remain provincial. Another handicap of Swedish literature, he explained, is the fact that Swedish is such a "small language" read by such a comparatively small number of people.

In addition to his studies in the writers' workshop, Sjoegren is taking a course in play-writing under Prof. Marion Galloway of the dramatic arts department. The Swedish student thinks the university's experimental theater "quite wonderful."

Especially impressive, he said, is the university's emphasis upon learning by doing, which he finds a pleasing contrast to the "hit and miss" education in the European universities.

Pleased With Iowa Though he wishes "to preserve a critical mind about America," Sjoegren is pleased with what he has observed of this country, especially of Iowa. He decided to come to the midwest, he said, because he wanted to see what the heart of the country is like. Most visiting Europeans never get inside the east coast, he commented. Though New York city fascinated him, he finds Iowans much more friendly than New Yorkers.

Civil Service Announces Examination Available For Engineer's Position

The United States Civil Service commission yesterday announced an examination for positions as engineer in the departmental service in Washington, D. C., and vicinity, and in the field-service-at-large. The salaries range from $3,397 to $5,905 a year.

Applicants will be rated on their training and experience. To qualify, they must have completed a professional engineering curriculum with the B. A. degree, or four years of technical engineering experience or appropriate education and experience combined.

A year of professional engineering experience is necessary for applicants of lower grade, and those for the higher grades must have had additional professional experience. Graduate study in engineering may be substituted for two years of the required professional experience.

Further information and application forms may be obtained from the commission's local secretary, Arthur Hotz, at the post-office.

Junior High Students Advertise Magic Show

Youngsters at City junior high school advertised a magic show at the junior high school Tuesday afternoon with a bit of magic of their own at five Iowa City grade schools last Thursday afternoon.

Five students—Donald Lubin, Barbara Dean, Eugene Worton, Bonita Davis, and Joyce Brandt, prepared and presented a magic skit and presented it at the various schools.

The advertising was for a magic show sponsored by the junior high school roundtable Tuesday afternoon at the school. Students of other schools are invited to attend.

Students Learn to—

Live Together, Like It

—At 'Major in Marriage'

The only group on the university campus attempting to answer the students' questions and discuss their problems about courtship and marriage began its fourth year of activity this fall. "Major in Marriage," sponsored by YWCA and YMCA, last year became so popular that professors complained of students cutting class to attend the lectures.

Originating during the war as "So Your Man Is in the Service Now," the group was then exclusively for women. The name was changed to "Major in Marriage" the second year and became a permanent part of the YWCA program.

This year, on the basis of the interest indicated last spring by university men, YMCA is helping sponsor the series. Co-chairman of the group are Jean Dawson, A3 of Des Moines and Carroll Schneider, E3 of West Amana.

Bi-Monthly Lectures

The lectures, held twice monthly, deal with various aspects of courtship, engagement and marriage. This year's series opened with a lecture by Prof. Harold Saunders of the sociology

Iowa Business Shows Downward Trend In September Revue

Iowa business showed a definite downward trend during September as compared with August of this year. Prof. George R. Davies of the college of bureau of business research reported in the latest issue of the Iowa Business Digest.

Department store sales decreased five percent during September, Professor Davies reported. Farm product prices dropped 12 percent; employment, 6 percent; retail sales, 5 percent, and U. S. commodity prices, 5 percent.

Two notable exceptions to the downward trend were the 26 and 27 percent increases in business for building contracts and residential building permits.

The bulletin reported that retail sales in Iowa family clothing stores have increased 38 percent and in food stores 31 percent, since September of 1945.

Other percentage increases in retail sales are shoe stores, 5 percent; men's and boys' clothing stores, 24 percent; drug stores, 21 percent; dry goods stores, 12 percent and restaurants, 9 percent.

Spring Style Show

Also scheduled are discussions on religion and marriage and getting started in marriage. Climaxing the program will be the annual spring style show of the bride's trousseau.

"Because 'Major in Marriage' does attempt to deal practically with these various problems," Miss Dawson said, "we're anxious for suggestions of aspects of courtship and marriage that students feel should be discussed."

YWCA and YWCA also sponsor two other discussion groups, "U. S. and You" and "Worship Workshop."

Check These 3 WAYS TO SAVE FUEL—

During the Winter Ahead

PUT UP STORM SASH

Storm sash is one of the major factors in keeping cold blasts out of your home and heat in. Be sure your storm sash fits snugly and see that panes are tight.

INSULATE

Proper insulation has been known to save as much as 25 percent of total heating costs. It keeps the home cooler in summer as well as warmer in winter.

WEATHERSTRIP

The crack which surrounds an ordinary-size window is equal to a space the size of a brick. Weatherstripping seals this opening effectively—cuts heat loss substantially.

The Three Fundamentals of Heating Satisfaction

1. Furnace of ample capacity to provide sufficient heat even on the coldest day—and so located that warm air ducts are about equal in length.
2. Ducts large enough to provide adequate circulation of the air—and so arranged that resistance will be at a minimum.
3. Warm air registers and return air grilles equal to the carrying capacity of the ducts—and so placed that proper circulation is assured.

Hawkllets Win Loop Crown, Tip Wilson 13-6

By DON SCANNELL

Iowa City high's marauding Little Hawks blasted their ninth straight win of the season last night at Cedar Rapids as they knocked off the Parlor City championship Wilson eleven, 13-6.

The victory gives the Hawkllets their second undisputed Mississippi valley title in the history of the conference and establishes them as the chief contender for the mythical state championship.

Outplayed on paper for the first half but leading, 7-6, the Cornackmen turned on the steam in the final 24 minutes of play to push the Rambler line all over the field.

The Little Hawks were forced to take advantage of the breaks for their touchdowns. In the second quarter the Rambler fumbled a punt on their own 16 and Jim Sangster pounced on the ball. Two plays later Sangster fired a short pass to Bill Reichardt who snared the ball from three Wilson defenders on the 10 and dragged them across the double stripe with him.

On the second play of the third period, a Wilson pass back-fired to give the Hawkllets their second tally. Bob Vrbeck's pass was intercepted by Harold Brawner on the Rambler 30 and ran back to the 13. Don "Corky" Fryauf bulled his way into paydirt on a 10 yard plunge to give the new champions their necessary margin.

The Cedar Rapids eleven held a huge statistical advantage over the Cornackmen in the first half but the Hawkllets defense bottled up the first Wilson drive on the Iowa City 14. Vrbeck fell back to pass, but Virgil Troyer hit him so hard that the ball slipped from his hands and Chick Evans recovered to end the threat.

The Hawkllets made only 12 yards net yardage in that initial half, 15 by passes and minus three by rushing, to the Wilson net total of 89 yards. In the second half it was a different story as Iowa City racked up 167 yards from rushing to 58 for the hosts.

The Hawkllets received the kickoff and drove to their own 45 before they fumbled with LaVerne Dostal recovering for the Rambler. Bob Anderson and Dick Fikejs took turns carrying the ball to the 14, where the Little Hawks braced and took over on Evan's recovery of Vrbeck's bobble.

Iowa City got a break in the second quarter when Wilson roughed Reichardt on a punt; but they couldn't take advantage of it as the Rambler line refused to yield ground. Reichardt's punt went out of the field on the Wilson 12. The Hawkllets gained on the exchange of kicks, taking over on the Cedar Rapids 40. Again Iowa City was forced to punt but Vrbeck fumbled on the play with Sangster recovering to set the stage for the first touchdown.

Two plays into the line gained nothing so Sangster shot a bullet pass to Reichardt who bulled over for the score. Rex Shain's placement was perfect.

Wilson received the kickoff on the five and initiated a drive that gave them their only touchdown. Tom Gaines led the assault with his passing although it was a Vrbeck to Fikejs pass that set up the tally, with Fikejs being downed on the eight. Fikejs scored on a clever reverse with less than a minute left in the first half. George Frasher's try for the extra point was wide and the Hawkllets led, 7-6, at halftime.

The Hawkllets made their own break for the second marker. Brawner made a one handed interception of Vrbeck's pass on the Wilson 30 and raced to the 13 where he was tackled and forced from the game with a sprained ankle. "Chug" Wilson picked up three and Fryauf tore through guard and tackle for the touchdown to finish the scoring for the evening.

On the second play after the kickoff, Tom Gaines took his turn at having a pass intercepted, this time by Sangster who returned it to the Wilson 40. A holding penalty slowed the advance and the Hawkllets relinquished the ball on the 25.

Wilson launched a 55 yard drive from this point with the passing of Gaines and Vrbeck and plunging of Fikejs featuring the assault. At this point another Gaines pass backfired as Tom Miller intercepted on the Hawkllet 14.

A few moments later the Rambler were knocking on the Little Hawk goal line once more. Keith Brown recovered an Iowa City bobble on the 21. Wilson moved to the 11 but here the Hawkllet line once more met the challenge and forced the Rambler into the air where they failed to score by six yards.

From here Iowa City rolled up three first downs to the 43 but a Sangster to "Chug" Wilson pass for 57 yards was called back on a penalty, and the Hawkllets punted out of danger. Wilson was unable to gain and kicked back to the Little Hawks who drove to the Rambler 26 as the game ended. Bill Reichardt led the drive with a 39 yard gain on an end around play.

Just before the game, the team received hundreds of telegrams from merchants and townspeople of Iowa City wishing them luck.

The contest marked the final game in a red and white suit for 13 members of the squad, nine of whom started the tilt.

Big 9 Moguls Meet Dec. 12

CHICAGO (AP)—Western Conference officials, who by that time may be extending blessing to a league Rose Bowl representative, will hold their annual winter meeting here Dec. 12-14, Commissioner K. L. (Tug) Wilson announced yesterday.

The Big Nine already has given unofficial approval to a proposal for a five-year Rose Bowl tie-up, starting this New Year's day. Formal announcement of the first Pasadena trek by a Western conference team in 26 years is expected momentarily.

Because the snarled Big Nine race is expected to keep a championship in doubt right down to the finish, formal approval of a bowl representative probably will be delayed until well after the Nov. 23 closing round.

The December meeting also possibly may re-open discussion on replacing retired Chicago with a 10th member. Pittsburgh and Michigan State continue to be prominently mentioned as conference prospects.

Coaches in all sports except basketball which already has its 1946-47 program will draft winter and spring athletic schedules, while football mentors will go to work on 1948-49 cards.

Wildcats, Indiana Top Loop Schedule

CHICAGO (AP)—The Big Nine's best offensive team and strongest defensive club will collide today as Northwestern and defending champion Indiana battle to remain title contenders before 40,000 at Dyche stadium in Evanston.

The Wildcat-Hoosier clash tops a three-game conference card which also sends Iowa to Wisconsin for a showdown of .500 performers and Purdue to Minnesota for a struggle to elude the league cellar.

Illinois, current pace-setter is idle, resting for its decisive battle with Ohio State a week from today. The vastly improved Buckeyes get an unexpected breather against Pittsburgh at Columbus.

In another non-conference scrap, Michigan entertains its arch state rival, Michigan State.

DON FRYAUF (29) Iowa City halfback is brought down from behind by an unidentified Wilson high school tackler after making a first and ten in the second quarter last night. Fryauf went on to score in the third period to give Iowa City a 13-6 victory. Ken Charlip (77) and Thad Miller (73) both of Wilson are rushing in to help on the tackle. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Comes that time of week when football's board of experts reach into the bottom drawer for their copies of Einstein's APPLIED MATH and Rockne's FOOTBALL PSYCHOLOGY—the teams will be in action again this afternoon and we have to come up with some winners.

Six weeks and 207 predictions behind us, The Daily Iowan board of experts is rolling right along with a neat little 82 percent on 164 victories and seven ties—which we toss out to simplify things.

Big interest this week centers around THE game, Army-Notre Dame, and the experts have come to some very interesting conclusions about the outcome.

First, the Cadets' manpower, pretty much on the shallow side to start with, suffered a big loss with the injury to Right Half "Ug" Fuson—who will not play.

Second, Notre Dame's so-called cripples, Lujack included, will be very much ready to go.

Third, Notre Dame has great reserve strength behind a near perfect starting eleven, while Army has about ten good boys—no more, no less.

So, its Notre Dame over the Army according to the experts, with assistant sports editor Don Sulhoff casting the dissenting vote. Don claims that Blanchard and Davis will be too much for the Irish to handle and points out that these two boys can and have gone 60 minutes when needed, they just don't need any rest.

This week's Mr. Average Fan is Bill Bock, 128 No. Gilbert street, former all-state basketball guard at St. Mary's high school. As a one time St. Mary's Rambler star, Bill picks the Notre Dame Rambler to take the Army into camp, but disagrees with the experts on three other games.

THE PREDICTIONS

Iowa over Northwestern
Drake over Iowa State
Purdue over Minnesota
Notre Dame over Army
Iowa over Wisconsin

Other predictions: Santa Clara over Arizona, Rice over Arkansas, Mississippi State over Auburn, Texas over Baylor, Boston College over Georgetown, Utah over Colorado A & M, Pennsylvania over Columbia, Cornell over Syracuse, Harvard over Dartmouth, Wake Forest over Duke, Georgia Tech over Navy, Georgia over Florida, Holy Cross over Colgate, Oklahoma over Kansas, Colorado College over Colorado State, Alabama over Louisiana State, Kentucky over Marquette, South Carolina over Maryland, Michigan over Michigan State, Missouri over Colorado, Ohio State over Pittsburg, UCLA over Oregon, Oregon State over Idaho, Penn State over Temple, Princeton over Virginia, Southern Methodist over Texas A & M, Washington over Stanford, Tennessee over Mississippi, Tulane over Clemson, Tulsa over Aklahoma A & M, Utah State over Brigham Young, Vanderbilt over North Carolina State, West Virginia over Foidham, Denver over Wyoming and Yale over Brown.

ARMY, NOTRE DAME READY FOR BATTLE

Lujack O.K.; Clear Weather Favors Davis, Blanchard & Co.

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Even the weatherman joined last night in the conspiracy to make today's meeting of the football titans, Army and Notre Dame, the greatest pigskin extravaganza in memory of living man.

Any possibility that the climatic spectacle would be marred by rain or a soggy field disappeared with the official announcement that the day would be crisp and fairly clear, and that the greensward at Yankee stadium would offer firm footing for the fleet backs of both teams.

The conditions, in other words, will be those for which Army's quarterback Johnny Lujack, would be able to play the greater part of the game, though it was not so certain he would be at his best. The right ankle he sprained on Wednesday was reported still painful when he pivoted on a run or tossed a pass. In any event, he was not expected to take part in the kick-off, but to enter the fray once the Irish got possession of the ball.

Another Notre Dame casualty, Ziseg Czabowski, the regular right tackle, who pulled a hip muscle in last week's Navy game, was reported considerably improved and it was thought likely he would be in there barring the gate against Army's fierce lunges.

The prospect of cool weather—in the mid-fifties—was particularly cheering to the Cadets. As Army's once bountiful squad has been reduced to little more than one real good team, as opposed to Notre Dame's three, it probably will be necessary for most of the Cadet stars to go the entire 60 minutes, and they will stand a much better chance of lasting it out than they would on a warm day.

A majority of eastern fans, having watched Army's brilliant array pound out 25 straight victories, were sticking with the Black Knights to make it 26 and to clinch their claim to a third consecutive national championship. They have come to believe that no team can stop Davis and Blanchard for an entire game, nor muzzle the bullet passes of Arnold Tucker.

On the other hand, the contingent pouring into town from the middle-west is almost unanimously positive that Lujack's passing, together with the sustained pressure which will be applied by coach Frank Leahy's rip-tearing ball carriers—Jim Mello, Red Sitko, Gerry Cowhig, Terry Brennan and the others—will crumple Army's defenses long before the contest ends.

Hawks Favored to Win

Bealmear Likes Army Over Notre Dame, Penn Over Columbia, Wildcats Over Hoosiers

NEW YORK (AP)—In spite of what you may have been led to believe, there are several other football games scheduled today in addition to that highly advertised commotion which Army and Notre Dame are expected to kick up at Yankee stadium.

Thus this confused forecaster plunges into the eighth week of pigskin predictions, clinging to an average of .775 on 269 correct guesses, 78 misses and 14 ties.

Iowa vs Wisconsin—Strictly a toss-up. Both teams lost to Illinois by a single touchdown. On the theory that this Hawkeye team can't lose three in a row, the nod goes to Iowa.

Notre Dame vs Army—This is the game that is destined to produce the national champion of 1946 and further reduce the thinning ranks of the all-victorious. This reporter looks for Glenn Davis, Doc Blanchard and Arnold Tucker to play the best game of their brilliant careers. On the theory that nobody can whip Army's first team as long as Davis, Blanchard and Tucker are on their feet, our vote goes to the Black Knights of West Point.

Pennsylvania vs Columbia—Penn's upset by Princeton last week knocked the Quakers out of the all-victorious circle, an embarrassment experienced earlier by the Lions. These two pre-season favorites in the Ivy league now find themselves among the also-rans. It looks like the third loss for the Lions, Pennsylvania.

Northwestern vs Indiana—Both of these teams still are in the running for the Big Nine title, as who isn't in that scrambled league. The Wildcats are in the same position as Penn, smarting under their first defeat and ready to take it out on somebody, Northwestern.

UCLA vs Oregon—After what Southern Cal did to Oregon last week, this should be a breeze for the all-victorious Bruins, gunning for their seventh in a row, unless they start looking ahead to that Nov. 23 date with the Trojans, UCLA.

Navy vs Georgia Tech—The Middies are going to have to revise their schedule to fit the team, or vice versa. Georgia Tech.

German Magazine to Publish Pictures of County Election

Pictures of the Johnson county election campaign and voting procedures will be published next month in a German-language picture magazine, "Heute," which is circulated in the allied occupation zone in Germany by the army's information control division.

The pictures were taken by student photographers under the direction of Prof. Edward F. Mason of the school of journalism.

Consequently, Ed Sulek, Fred Johnson, Judge James P. Gaffney and any number of other politically active Iowa Citizens will be presented in picture fashion to the people of Germany sometime next month.

Exploding flash bulbs were more prevalent than promises in the fall election campaign as 14 of Professor Mason's photographers covered all aspects of Johnson county politics.

it appears once every two weeks. American Editor

Heute is published by an American editor and a staff of 18 assistants in Munich coordinating with a staff of six persons in New York City under the direction of Adrienne Fogelke.

Heute competes with two other Allied-directed publications, but is the only picture magazine and seems to be the most popular with the German people.

The material in Heute is divided equally among American, international and German domestic features.
