University Laundry Service Proposal for Villagers Denied

Business Office Asks Group to Form Plan for Reconsideration

The university business office yesterday rejected a plan submitted by the University Married Students organizations to provide economical laundry service through the university laundry to the residents of Riverdale and Hawkeye villages.

The business office's rejection was announced at a Hawkeye village council meeting last night.

The tentative plan was submitted three weeks ago to Dean C. Woody Thompson of the office of student affairs by UMSO Chairman Francis Weaver, L3 of Mason City, and Mrs. Lorraine Dennis, G of Mason City. It was sent to the business office by Dean Thompson, Mrs. Dennis said.

In returning the plan to the villagers, Virgil S. Copeland of the business office requested them to formulate a new plan for re-submission to that office for future action. Copeland was not available for comment after the meeting.

The plan submitted by UMSO included proposals that service could be established at the university laundry at an economical rate to be worked out with the business office. This would be possible, Mrs. Dennis said, by having 12 volunteer workers work at the laundry one night each week.

The laundry for a village could be done in one night, she said, and each family would deposit $5 as a guarantee that the workmen would be available each week.

"This is not a wild-eyed freshman scheme," Mrs. Dennis declared. "We need laundry service and we're mature individuals who will fulfill our obligations."

She said that Copeland had stated that the plan was not workable, although he had not had time to examine it as thoroughly as he wished.

His primary objections were that the cost of laundry service on this scale was not yet known, that there was no provision concerning possible injury to student workmen, that no consideration was made for loss or theft of clothing, or for damage and depreciation to laundry machinery.

He offered no alternative plan, however, Mrs. Dennis said.

No Winter Facilities
While weather has permitted, the villagers have done their laundry in FPHA laundry units and dried it outside, but there are no drying facilities in any of the units, Mrs. Dennis said, and they are not practicable for winter use.

The regional FPHA office in Chicago advised Mrs. Dennis recently that laundry units were authorized under a congressional act and could not be supplemented except through further act of congress.

Weaver said that the new plan requested by the business office will be drawn up immediately, and that it will be presented to President Virgil M. Hancher within the next few days. Villagers will be asked today to subscribe individually to the new plan, Weaver said.

"Winter is coming, and we need service as quickly as we can get it," he said.

Plans were completed for the Scottish Highlanders to make the trip to Minnesota, however, W. L. Adamson, director of the Highlanders, reported that the group will leave Iowa City by train at 8:45 Friday night and arrive in Des Moines at 1 a. m. Saturday. They will leave Des Moines at 1:25 a. m. and arrive in Minneapolis at 8:35 a. m.

The committee decided to send a recommendation to President Virgil M. Hancher for the provision of a definite means of financing football trips for the band and Highlanders and for a spring concert tour by the band.

JOHN L. LEWIS, United Mine Workers chief, pauses to wait in interior building corridor for associates, as he leaves opening session of coal mining contract negotiations with Secretary of Interior J. A. Krug yesterday.

Lewis, Krug Silent On Miners' Demands After First Session

WASHINGTON (AP)—John L. Lewis maintained rigid silence last night on whatever contract demands he may have handed the government in his first bargaining sessions with Secretary of Interior J. A. Krug.

Four days remained in Lewis' time-table before he gives notice to Krug, with whom he made the current working agreement for 400,000 soft coal miners, that he means to terminate that contract Nov. 20.

Gives No Inkling
But the big mine leader, playing his cards close, gave no inkling publicly of what the miners may exact as the price of peace after Nov. 20.

Accompanied by 26 district presidents and other union officials, Lewis conferred with Krug for two and one-half hours. The meeting then recessed until 2:30 p. m. eastern standard time today.

Krug Mum, Too
Krug had nothing to say, either. The secretary has differed with Lewis over legality of re-opening the pact they made to end last spring's strike. There was no explanation of whether the contract was in the process of being opened.

Lewis, his miners, a handful of Naval officers from Krug's coal mines administration, and a score or more of reporters and photographers, were practically alone in the vast interior department building. It was closed for Armistice Day.

Kidnaped Wife Found Dead

Ex-Suitor Committed Murder, Suicide In New Jersey Swamp

MT. HOLLY, N.J. (AP)—Searchers in the desolate woodlands of Lebach state park followed radioed instructions from a navy blimp circling overhead yesterday and came upon the bodies of an ex-convict suitor and the soldier's wife he kidnaped from the bed of her husband 45 days ago.

The body decomposed bodies were sprawled on the edge of a swamp about 400 yards from the roadway where duck hunters had found the kidnap automobile Sunday.

The woman, Mrs. Mary Pyle Kimmey, 26-year-old wife of Sgt. Glenn F. Kimmey of the U.S. Signal corps at Fort Monmouth, N.J., wore the same red, black and yellow plaid skirt and red coat she hastily had donned the early morning of Sept. 27 when Chalmers Laubaugh, 35-year-old parolee from a prison near Washington, D.C., entered her bedroom and at gunpoint forced her to leave her husband's side and drive off with him.

State Police Captain Walter J. Coughlin said the woman's body had been identified by her husband and by the Kimmey's landlady who came from Little Silver to the scene. Laubaugh's wallet was nearby and he was attired in the same blue shirt and blue trousers he wore the night of the kidnaping.

In a bag found at the scene was a picture of Sergeant and Mrs. Kimmey as well as Mrs. Kimmey's social security card, the FBI said. Capt. Coughlin said the case appeared to be "a clear one of murder and suicide," but added that the inquiry would be continued. FBI Chief S.K. McKee said his inquiry was also underway.

A .45 calibre revolver with two exploded cartridges were found near the bodies. A state police sergeant at the scene said there were holes in both the man's and the woman's head. The bodies were taken to a morgue in Toms River.

The two evidently had debated their fate for some time, Captain Coughlin said, as empty packs of cigarettes were found near the bodies and the earth was littered with cigarette stubs.

State and local police, joined by FBI agents, took part in the search which began as the kidnap car was discovered. The searchers had to use jeeps to make their way over a log road that bridged the otherwise inaccessible swamp area to the bodies. They used walkie-talkies to follow directions from the navy blimp.

Peter Piper Picked His Already Pickled

CHICAGO (AP)—The pickle packing people were in a pickle yesterday trying to name a preserved cucumber that is not a pickle. Normally, fresh cucumbers become pickled through a long process. This new variety requires only a few hours pasteurization in the bottle before it is ready to be eaten.

The National Association of Pickle Packers contends it is not a pickle because it has not been pickled, neither is it a cucumber because it is no longer a fresh vegetable.

Plea for Peace Marks Observances Of Armistice Day Around the World

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Americans around the world paid homage to the heroic dead of two world wars in Armistice Day observances yesterday in which President Truman and other leaders called for lasting peace.

Mr. Truman, placing a wreath at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington National cemetery, said in a brief talk: "What we are trying to do now is to create a peace which will prevent the necessity of our grandchildren fighting a third world war for the same principles for which we stand now, and have always stood."

He said the welfare of the United States and of the world "are wrapped up in one package—peace."

At Frankfurt, Germany, Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, likewise calling for "accomplishment and preservation of a lasting peace," said past sacrifices will have been in vain "unless we of the occupation army meet our responsibilities today."

Gen. Mark W. Clark told his troops in Austria that sacrifices of the two world wars should be the "groundwork on which we build the bulwark of lasting peace for the entire world."

In France, school children placed flowers on graves of American soldiers at various battle-field cemeteries. Veterans of both wars joined the French in ceremonies at the Arch of Triumph in Paris where Georges Bidault, interim president of France, laid a wreath at the grave of the unknown soldier.

Fleet Admiral William F. Halsey, speaking at Kansas City, warned against the temptation of complete disarmament "and against 'giving the atom bomb secret to someone else.'"

Paul H. Griffith, national American Legion commander, speaking at Arlington after President Truman's address, urged a strong national defense program with universal military training as its "backbone."

Americans in Europe Honor Allied Dead

BERLIN (AP)—Across the blood-stained battlefields of Europe, American occupation troops

Both ships were used as troopships during the war. The $16,000,000 America, launched in 1939, carried 450,000 troops as the navy transport West Point and the Elizabeth, together with the Queen Mary, delivered more than 1,000,000 troops to Europe.

A friendly international rivalry is involved between the two ships. The Elizabeth is owned by the Conard line, a British firm, and the America, the largest, fastest and most luxurious ocean liner built in this country, is owned by the United States Lines.

The Elizabeth, a superheavyweight at 85,000 tons, has a passenger capacity of 2,400. The America, which came here from Newport News, Va., weighs 26,454 tons and carries 1,202 passengers.

Molotov Warns World Arms Race Is Beginning

GOP Agrees To Play Ball With Truman

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Republicans everywhere returned a ready "yes" to President Truman's call for cooperation between congress and the executive yesterday while making it plain that they intend to stand by their principles.

None found anything to criticize in the Democratic president's statement, following the GOP congressional election victories, that "I shall cooperate in every proper manner with members of the congress, and my hope and prayer is that this spirit of cooperation will be reciprocated."

The tenor of the Republican comment generally was to the effect that they will meet the president half-way—but no further; that they consider the election a "mandate" for certain changes.

From the Democratic side, Senator Elbert D. Thomas of Utah commented that it remains to be seen whether Republican cooperation will materialize.

Here is a sampling of the Republicans' reactions:
Party Chairman D. Carroll Reece—"I am confident that the president will find an abundance of good will among the Republican leadership and membership of the congress. The people have spoken and they spoke in unmistakable terms. Their mandate, as I see it, is binding not only upon those candidates elected to the senate and house on Nov. 5 but also upon all other officials of the federal government."

Rep. Martin of Massachusetts, slated to become speaker of the house—"We welcome an opportunity to work with the president in carrying out the mandate of the people and to return this government to the people and to sane Americanism. America's position in international affairs must be kept non-partisan. We believe in America and the American way of life. We shall be glad to cooperate with the president and the patriotic Democrats in congress to achieve progress and progress in the American way."

Rep. Arends of Illinois, Republican house whip—"Republicans will carry out their responsibilities under the new powers which came to them through the elections. I think we should and must continue the non-partisan approach to our foreign relations problems."

Joseph R. McCarthy, senator-elect from Wisconsin—"To get our economy back to normal we need a maximum of cooperation and a minimum of politics. I am sure Mr. Truman will find the congress willing to make the utmost effort in that direction."

EARTHQUAKE HITS PERU

LIMA, Peru (AP)—The Interior ministry announced last night that an earthquake which struck Peru shortly after noon Sunday had destroyed the town of Sihuas, 250 miles north of Lima, and killed at least 30 persons.

The earthquake also struck Santiago de Chuco and Moyebamba in the Libertad department as well as Cabana in the Ancash department. Both departments are north of Lima.

Moyebamba, which apparently was near the epicenter, was reported completely destroyed. Details of conditions there were lacking because the shock had severed land wire communications.

Administration 'Gag' On Foes of Fascism Criticized by Rogge
WASHINGTON (AP)—O. John Rogge, recently dismissed as assistant attorney general, charged last night that under "administration policy" those attacking Fascism "find themselves gagged."

Rogge was dismissed by Attorney General Clark, who said Rogge had violated department regulations by quoting from an unpublished department report in making speeches. In the speeches, Rogge outlined what he termed Nazi efforts to influence United States presidential elections.

In remarks broadcast over station WINX, Rogge said: "Under the policy of the present administration the Fascists have their full measure of freedom of speech, but those who wish to attack Fascism and tell the facts about Nazi penetration in this country, no matter whose name is involved, find themselves gagged."

Criticizing what he called "administration policy," Rogge said that J. Edgar Hoover, head of the FBI, "has been completely free to tell about the insidious activities of the Communists. I am glad he is, but I would judge that his speeches are based upon official files, just as mine were."

"It is a great advantage to the Fascists, who always stress the Communist menace, when government officials can discuss Communists but are not free to disclose factual data on the activities of the Fascists in this country."

Rogge asserted that "the people need all the facts about Fascism but when I attempted to give the facts, I was summarily dismissed."

Communists Win in France; Leftist Bloc Victorious in Italy

PARIS (AP)—The Communists emerged yesterday as France's largest political party, on the basis of nearly complete returns from Sunday's elections, and thus paved the way for the possible naming of the first Communist premier in the nation's history.

The voting was for deputies in the new national assembly of the Fourth Republic.

The Communist advance, however, was accompanied by Socialist losses, and the combined leftist strength appeared weaker than at the time of the last national elections.

Maurice Thorez, Communist leader, was mentioned frequently in speculation over a new premier. The Communists, silent about their specific plans, were expected to reiterate previous demands for the premiership and one or more key ministries.

There was a definite possibility that the reins of the government would be vested in a minority party or a coalition. Not to be ruled out, also, was the possibility that all parties might join in a national union cabinet.

ROME, Tuesday (AP)—A four-party leftist bloc swept to power in Rome's municipal elections Sunday, almost complete returns showed today, while in Florence victorious Communists hoisted the red flag on the historic Palazzo Vecchio.

Returns from 1,241 of Rome's 1,256 polling sections gave the "bloc of the people"—a combine of the Communist, Socialist and two minor leftist parties—180,215 votes. Guglielmo Giannini's Uomo Qualunque (common man) movement, often accused by Leftists of having Fascist leanings, made a spectacular showing in Rome where it was virtually assured of second place with 105,741 votes.

The leftist victory was a staggering blow for Premier Alcide De Gasperi's Christian Democratic party, winner of last June's national elections, which trailed in third place with 102,252 votes.

The Florence Communists, who took first place in the municipal balloting with 64,030 votes, raised red flags on many landmarks and rang the famous bell of the renaissance capital. The Christian Democrats were second in Florence with 45,010 votes and the Socialists third with 41,377.

Leftist parties also were running ahead in other large cities on the basis of still incomplete returns.

Bevin Pledges Britain's Aid In Disarming

NEW YORK (AP)—Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov of Russia openly warned last night that an armaments race already is underway, and called for a start at the current United Nations assembly on a plan for reduction of arms.

His assertion came after Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin pledged British backing for disarmament if a workable worldwide plan can be found, and after Secretary of State James F. Byrnes gave his assurance that United States foreign policy would remain on a nonpartisan basis.

Molotov expressed confidence that the Soviet proposal for arms reduction and the United States demand that it be safeguarded by a system of inspection can be harmonized.

He voiced his hope that a start on arms reduction could be made at this session of the assembly in order to put an end to "the armaments race that has now started."

His comment came as the first official Russian reaction to the American arms control proposal. He did not specifically refer in detail either to his own advocacy of an arms cut nor did he define the American disarmament suggestion.

For its part, Molotov said, the Russian delegation "is willing to meet the delegation of the United States on the issue."

"I hope," he added, "that we shall be able to come to grips with this problem."

Swift on the heels of Bevin's pledge, Molotov called also for limitation of armaments, and declared that atomic energy "should be used for peaceful and not warlike purposes" under the authority of the United Nations.

Molotov declared that the United States and Russia should work together to accomplish reduction of armaments. The spokesman for the country with the world's largest armed force said that steps should be taken to reduce the number of men serving in armies, navies and air forces.

Minutes earlier, Bevin had declared that there need be no fear that Britain would lag in such a reduction. But he made it plain that Britain would not take such a step unless and until assured that a cutting down of armaments can be achieved on a universal basis.

All three of the council members, interrupting their momentous deliberations on peace pacts for the Axis satellites, cautioned the press on its responsibilities in reporting and interpreting the progress in the world's quest for a lasting peace. And all three expressed their confidence in progress toward that objective, while conceding that the task will be long and hard.

In the midst of widespread speculation among diplomats here for the United Nations assembly over the post-election foreign policy of the United States, Byrnes used the occasion to assert firmly that the Republican victory would bring no change.

He called for a "people's peace" and declared that the American people know "that in this interdependent world there must be peace for all or there will be peace for none."

To the assembly of correspondents from newspapers any news gathering organizations in this country and abroad, he cited a poignant plea for peace from the mother of a dead soldier, Mrs. Stanley Schnelle of Olivia, Minn.

In a letter to Archbishop Spellman, who passed it on to Byrnes, she wrote: "I pray for the little people. They have taken too much—wondered too long. Soon their hearts will be crushed with burdens they can't bear. I pray for a just peace treaty to come soon. I pray that all might be fed and clothed. I can't see hungry people even if they were enemies. Hunger doesn't make good people—it breeds hate."

Cancel Student Trip To Minnesota Game

All plans for the student train trip to the Minnesota-Iowa football game Saturday were cancelled at a meeting of the committee on student and band trips yesterday afternoon after a report by student Council President Herb Olson, A4 of Winfield, of the "noticeable lack of student interest" in the trip.

Students who purchased tickets for the student trip to Minnesota can redeem them this morning from Ray Mossman in the university business office in the basement of University Hall.

Plans were completed for the Scottish Highlanders to make the trip to Minnesota, however, W. L. Adamson, director of the Highlanders, reported that the group will leave Iowa City by train at 8:45 Friday night and arrive in Des Moines at 1 a. m. Saturday. They will leave Des Moines at 1:25 a. m. and arrive in Minneapolis at 8:35 a. m.

The committee decided to send a recommendation to President Virgil M. Hancher for the provision of a definite means of financing football trips for the band and Highlanders and for a spring concert tour by the band.

Our Mistake, Dr. Eddie

Last Friday morning, The Daily Iowan did something for which we are now deeply sorry. We published a letter which hurt and offended a fine gentleman who has been a part of Iowa's greatest athletic tradition, and which also hurt and offended the friends of that man who have come to number almost as many as there are people in Iowa.

A Few Final Words on OPA

All that's left of the OPA now is for history to write a well worded obituary. The agency which handled this nation's first great experiment in controlled economy is virtually dead. And it appears that most folks are happy that it is on its last legs.

The 79th congress finished the job. Both the house and the senate refused to listen to the president's pleas for early re-enactment of the price control bill. They let the bill molder in committee pigeonholes while OPA's staff dwindled to impotence and manufacturers began warehousing their goods in preparation for the day when the price control structure would collapse.

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT

Liberalism Respectable, Historical

By SAMUEL GRAFTON
New York Post Syndicate

There are at least two polls which did not hit it quite on the nose in predicting the outcome of last week's election in New York state. The Gallup poll came perhaps within a tolerable margin for error in indicating that Mr. Dewey would receive 61 percent of the state vote; he actually drew only 58.9 percent. The New York Daily News straw vote forecast that Dewey would have 66.1 percent, a finding more than nine points off. Why were both attempts at sounding the voters so far over on the Dewey side? It seems to me that one possible reason lies in the very nature of the campaign; and I wonder whether there weren't at least some voters who were against Dewey but who were rather afraid to say so, even under conditions of privacy, in scientific sampling and straw voting.

GRAFTON

For there was a certain bullying not in the campaign, not as conducted by Mr. Dewey, but in the hands of some of his journalistic supporters and friends. The heavy arguments that the other side was the "red" side, that it was in some way the un-American side, that Democrats are only communists who shave, had in them, I think, a bit of terror-creating quality. More than one timid soul, after reading a few acres of this stuff, might be a little fearful about confessing, even in private, that he was linked with such dreadful creatures and tendencies. Who, me?

Definitely, the line taken by quite a few specialists in insult, was to picture the election, not as a contest between rival groups of Americans offering alternate programs on an equal basis, but as a contest between Americans of the first class and Americans of the second class, a fight between patriots on one hand, and spokesmen for nameless heresies and intolerable treasons on the other.

This stuff must have bit into a number of souls, and it would be strange if there were not some who were afraid of declassing themselves if they were to ally themselves, under no matter what protected conditions, with Democratic sentiment.

So much for the post-mortem; but the real point is that this kind of bullying pressure continues. Mr. Truman is being advised, for example, by several deep thinkers and common scolds, that he ought now to join with conservatives in his own party, with men who think like Republicans, to make an effective Democratic opposition in congress. It is not customary for the opposition to be a facsimile of that which it opposes; and here, again, we have that same feeling, that liberalism is infra dig, that it is not even on the allowable roster of isms, that it is intellectually out of bounds, queer, tainted stuff, and that a real American's choice is between conservatism and conservatism.

There is a certain element of fantasy, of course, in the way in which this line is being pushed. For there is a vast amount of liberal feeling in America; there has always been; and it is a fantastical conception that if only this brand of thinking can be denied expression within the government, it will cease to exist and will cease to be important.

That is the hex approach, no better, mingled, as I say, with a kind of bullying social pressure which would like to see up the doc-trine that anyone who chooses the liberal course in politics takes a station somewhere between the man who eats peas with his knife, and the man who would sell out his country.

For liberals to yield to this nonsense would be for them really to betray this republic; for it would mean that they would fall to exert the pressure which brings about those reasonable results of policy, moderately satisfactory to all, which alone make democratic life possible. The great task of liberals today is to divest themselves of those imaginary tori points and Jacobins' caps in which conservatism has dressed them, and to realize that they represent a tendency which is both respectable and historical, and quite as old as the nation itself.

Novelty in the New Post-Election Realities

There is a screeching sound, like that of brakes being put on, as the country tries to adjust its thinking to post-election realities. There are going to be some novelties, friends.

1. First off, we have a new kind of Republican, the one who turns pale and says shush when some-one mentioned repealing or de-gutting the Wagner labor relations act. Republican papers (except for a handful of loud ones) begin to bubble with speculations as to the wisdom of going slowly. For the new Republican strength comes largely from the northern cities where labor is, as they say, a factor. Up to now it has been easy for Republicans to be against the Wagner act, which has been de-fended largely by Democrats from Metropolitan areas; but a Republican drive against existing labor legislation now will put the seats of friends and brothers in jeopardy, and may affect the next Presidential election.

2. Republican thinking may be split into two schools. The division will be tactical rather than strategic. It will hardly be a case of a left wing and a right wing; it will be, rather, a controversy between the Go Slows and the Go Fasts.

The average parish budget in Iowa rural towns is between $2,500 and $3,000, and in open-coun-try churches, less than $1,250, the report states.

Survey findings indicate that Iowa rural churches have over-bled—open country churches have 173 available seats for every 100 members. Larger town churches have 106 spaces for every 100 members.

The danger of irritating labor is a real one, for the Republicans in-tend to please the farming inter-est by supporting farm prices, and they intend also to please the business interest by decontrols and tax cuts. For the GOP to make the next session of congress a clear case of tea for two by serv-ing these two interests thus hand-somely, while kicking labor down-stairs, is a little too naked a pro-ceeding to make good practical politics.

The Republican party is caught in a certain contradiction. It needs labor support in the large cities in order to gain enough strength to carry out its campaign against recent labor legislation. It as-sembles this power by laying rather low on the labor issue dur-ing campaigns, and by emphasizing other appeals. But to try to use the power thus gained is to risk losing it, and the Republicans will be chewing over this contra-diction for many months. In a sense they are in the position of the boy who is given a big allow-ance on the firm condition that he shall not spend it.

3. There is likely to be a spec-tacular readjustment of the re-lationship between the Republi-cans and the Southern Demo-cratic conservatives. These have been like brothers, but now one group of brothers is about to lose its committee chairmanships; as a supreme sacrifice in the great cause of fighting a dead Roose-velt. That isn't the end of it.

What happens when, say, repeal of the poll taxes comes up again, and a new filibuster threatens? There are only about 25 Demo-crats who will vote against cloture, and cloture may there-fore pass in the new Republican senate. The GOP, with its eye on the Northern Negro vote, may find itself compelled to take this ac-tion against its former conferees. The result may be the end of poll taxes, and the election of more liberal congressional delegations from the South. This will be merely one more working-out of the contradiction mentioned above.

4. There is leverage, then, which American liberalism can apply against the GOP. Here we have the real reason for turning down, flatly and absolutely, Sena-tor Fulbright's proposal that President Truman resign, and yield his place to a Republican, via the order of succession. Why give the Republicans the presi-dency and the power and patron-age that goes with it, when they can be made to earn these things, if at all, by following a moderate and thoughtful course over the next two years? Why ease the pressure on them? Why should not the GOP be forced as the price for winning, into those compromises between popular need and special interest which alone make democratic life possible? Why make it too easy? The GOP has not had to think of all the people lately, but now it must. There is no reason for re-lieving it of this burden of mod-eration and compromise which must be carried by any party that pretends to mass power in a de-mocracy.

Iowa's Poverty-Stricken Rural Churches Serious Handicap to Religious Ministries

Weak and poverty-stricken ru-ral churches in Iowa are a serious handicap to religious ministries in rural communities, according to a report prepared recently by the Inter-Council Department of Co-operative Field Research.

The survey and report were conducted under the direction of Dr. H. Paul Douglass, sociologist, and will be discussed tomorrow in Des Moines at a general session of the National Convocation on the Church in Town and Country.

According to the survey that de-scribes rural Iowa as "over-church-ed," there is one rural church for every 470 rural Iowans, and church attendance equals only a fragment of church mem-bership.

In communities where churches are so feeble that desperate ad-justments must be made, the re-port suggest as possible remedies for the "over-church-ed" situa-tion: Federation of churches, larger parishes, exchange of fields be-tween denominations so that ev-ery church may have an adequate field and resources, and perma-nent multi-denominational churches.

and a new filibuster threatens? There are only about 25 Demo-crats who will vote against cloture, and cloture may there-fore pass in the new Republican senate. The GOP, with its eye on the Northern Negro vote, may find itself compelled to take this ac-tion against its former conferees. The result may be the end of poll taxes, and the election of more liberal congressional delegations from the South. This will be merely one more working-out of the contradiction mentioned above.

These have been like brothers, but now one group of brothers is about to lose its committee chairmanships; as a supreme sacrifice in the great cause of fighting a dead Roose-velt. That isn't the end of it.

What happens when, say, repeal of the poll taxes comes up again, and a new filibuster threatens? There are only about 25 Demo-crats who will vote against cloture, and cloture may there-fore pass in the new Republican senate. The GOP, with its eye on the Northern Negro vote, may find itself compelled to take this ac-tion against its former conferees. The result may be the end of poll taxes, and the election of more liberal congressional delegations from the South. This will be merely one more working-out of the contradiction mentioned above.

4. There is leverage, then, which American liberalism can apply against the GOP. Here we have the real reason for turning down, flatly and absolutely, Sena-tor Fulbright's proposal that President Truman resign, and yield his place to a Republican, via the order of succession. Why give the Republicans the presi-dency and the power and patron-age that goes with it, when they can be made to earn these things, if at all, by following a moderate and thoughtful course over the next two years? Why ease the pressure on them? Why should not the GOP be forced as the price for winning, into those compromises between popular need and special interest which alone make democratic life possible? Why make it too easy? The GOP has not had to think of all the people lately, but now it must. There is no reason for re-lieving it of this burden of mod-eration and compromise which must be carried by any party that pretends to mass power in a de-mocracy.

SUI Chess Club Discusses Plans To Obtain Charter

Members of the newly formed University Chess club elected officers, made plans for activities of the group and discussed plans for obtaining a university charter at their first meeting last night.

Reinhart Ross, A3 of Iowa City, was elected president; Barbara Penningroth, A3 of St. Petersburg, Fla., secretary, and Brock Schumaker, A2 of St. Louis, treasurer. Wayne Britton of the communication skills department was named faculty adviser.

Some 20 university students at-tended the meeting and were di-vided into advanced, intermediate and beginner groups.

Regular meetings will be held at 7 p. m. each Monday in room 17, Schaeffer hall. Instruction and playing of chess will be con-ducted, with Ross instructing ad-vanced players, Schumaker the intermediates, and Charles Leed-ham, A3 of Springville, and Bill Duff, A2 of New York City, the beginners.

Round-robin tournaments will be conducted between players in the separate groups. One game will be played by each of the con-tendants within a week.

Necessary steps have been taken by the club to secure a univer-sity charter which will give mem-bers the right to enter in inter-collegiate chess tournaments.

"The club has been established for all students who are inter-ested in playing or learning to play chess," Ross said. "Interested students are invited to attend next Monday's meeting."

Winter Camp Preliminary Plans for a Boy Scout Winter Camp

Preliminary plans for a boy scout winter camp will be started Thursday evening at a meeting of the camping activities committee in scout headquarters according to George Gragg, district executive.

Swedes Praise SUI Hydraulics

Two Swedish engineers con-cluded their inspection of the Iowa Institute of Hydraulic Re-search yesterday and pronounced the Iowa hydraulics laboratory "one of the finest in the world." The engineers, Prof. Bo Hell-strom of the Royal Institute of Technology in Stockholm, and Erik Blomqvist, secretary of the Swedish water power commission, were in Iowa City yesterday and Sunday to study engineering methods and learn of principles that might be applied in projected expansion of Swedish facilities.

Making a six-week tour of laboratories, dams, hydro-elec-tric plants and experiment sta-tions in the United States, Pro-fessor Hellstrom and Blomqvist arrived in New York Oct. 29 and have already visited Col-umbia university, the national capital in Washington, and the Tennessee Valley project.

"Then we hastened to Iowa," Professor Hellstrom explained. We had read so many research publications and textbooks from here, we felt it or first duty to visit the university."

"We picked up a number of ideas here," he continued, particu-larly in the operation of equip-ment designed for education of students in hydraulics, and in types of equipment for funda-mental research in hydraulic en-gineering."

Professor Hellstrom visited the United States in 1936 as a dele-gate to a world power conference, but Blomqvist had never before visited this country. Both men are in Iowa for the first time.

They expressed pleased sur-prise at the hospitality and friendliness of Americans. "It surpasses my greatest anticipation," said Pro-fessor Hellstrom.

Blomqvist said he was impressed with the efficient orga-nization of communication and transportation systems, especially the telephone service.

Iowa City seemed much like home to the scientists, for Stockholm is also a university town and the climate is simi-lar to Sweden's. "The University is crowded at home, too," Pro-fessor Hellstrom laughed, "but our housing shortage is not so bad. We don't have any little sheds built on the grounds."

Professor Hellstrom and Blom-qvist left last night for Minneap-olis, their next stop. They will study artesian subterranean water flow in South Dakota before con-tinuing on a wide swing through the western and southern states. Vets Office Announces New Policy

A new enrollment policy for veterans attending colleges and universities in Iowa will eliminate the between semesters break in receipt of subsistence checks, Dr. William D. Coder, university veterans service office director, announced yesterday.

The plan was worked out by Dr. Coder and representatives of the regional office in Des Moines, and authorization for it was received from Des Moines yesterday.

Under the new arrangement, the veterans service office at all schools in the state will automatically enroll a veteran for a complete school year. The old plan called for separate enrollment by the veteran at the beginning of each semester.

There will be no reduction in the paper work of enrollment for the service office, according to Dr. Coder, but the advantage will be in convenience to the veteran. It is expected that there will now be an uninterrupted receipt of subsistence checks and only a single enrollment with the veterans administration.

Veterans currently attending the university are automatically enrolled through June 6, 1947, he said.

Dr. Coder also announced that there will be a joint meeting of veterans administration officials and college representatives in Des Moines Nov. 20 for a discussion of problems of mutual concern.

UVA Holds Second Monthly Dance Tonight In Union River Room

A party for members of the University Veteran's association, their wives and friends, will be given tonight at 7:30 in the River room of Iowa Union.

"All veterans are welcome, whether or not they are members of the association," emphasized President Paul Porter.

It is going to be just a general evening of getting acquainted, according to Gordon Taylor, G. social chairman. "We will include cards, chess, checkers, and there will be several mixer dances during the evening."

This is the second in a series of UVA-sponsored dances which will be held on the second Tuesday of each month throughout the semester.

Haefner Describes Propaganda Types

"Propaganda employs various techniques that are not always consistent with our democratic way of life," Doctor H. Haefner of university high school emphasized in addressing members of the League of Women Voters yesterday.

Doctor Haefner spoke on problems of propaganda in the public schools at a 12:30 luncheon in the Fellowship hall of the Congregational church.

In his talk, the instructor discussed indoctrination and propaganda vs. teaching and education, illustrating the comparative advantages of "good", "bad", and "twilight zone" types prevalent today.

Three types of textbooks present on our schools and teachers, according to Doctor Haefner, are: pressure on those selecting the books, pressure affecting content and pressure resulting in removal of books from schools. Specific pressure groups distributing propaganda in modern society, continued the lecturer, are patriotic organizations, the press, politicians, business, labor, radio and films.

Triangle Club to Hold Supper, Barn Dance

Triangle club will hold a buffet supper and barn dance Thursday evening in the Triangle club ballroom at Iowa Union.

The buffet supper will be held at 7:15 p. m. and the dance at 9:00.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Copeland "and company" will give an exhibition of square dancing. Hal Webster and his band will play for the dance.

Prof. Davies Says Inflation Near Peak; Recession Imminent

After interpreting all present economic and business trends, Prof. George R. Davies of the University of Iowa bureau of business research says he believes that inflation may be near its peak and a recession probably soon will set in.

"A tightening of credit may cause temporary unemployment and a loss of profit, but a prospective fall in prices will bring to the market goods that have been accumulating in inventories in expectation of higher prices," he said.

Labor's more reasonable attitude is an influence favorable to stability, he said. The present attitude of important labor leaders who are breaking with Communist agitators interested in making trouble is another important factor in stability, according to Professor Davies.

Episcopal Women Hold District Meet At Trinity Church

An all-day meeting of the district Women's Auxiliary of the Episcopal church will begin today with registration at 9:30 a. m. at Trinity Episcopal church. Holy Communion service will follow at 10 o'clock, while other events scheduled will include a business meeting, noon luncheon and afternoon program.

Speakers will be Mrs. Helen Hogue, national secretary of the Girls' Friendly Society of the Episcopal church; Mrs. R. E. Reuling of Muscatine, president of the district organization, and Irene Carl who will report on the general triennial convention.

Luncheon will be served in the Community building. Each woman is asked to bring her own box lunch, and coffee will be furnished by the Women's auxiliary. Mrs. Hogue will speak following the luncheon.

Hawkeyes Rank Sixteenth in Nation

JOE CILEK

Cilek—Surprise Performer

Joe Cilek, fourth of the quartet of great ends that City high Coach Herb Cormack has alternated successfully this season, has just come into his own this year.

The five foot nine inch, 160 pound senior who completed his high school competition last Friday started the season in a supposedly hopeless position. Bill Reichardt, Kirk Carson and Gerri Cannon ranked above him at the ends. But there is always a place on a grid team for a tough man who wants to learn.

Cilek, a veritable glutton for work, set out to prove that point. In drills he worked long and hard on pass catching, running blocking, tackling—anything that would make him a better ball player. And this formula paid off.

It was on defense that Joe really began to shine. A vicious tackler, he was first tried at a line-backing spot and later alternated that with a defensive end position and occasionally moved to the center of the line to spell the guards. In spite of his size, Joe held his own with the bigger boys and proved invaluable filling in at any of the three spots.

This great defensive play, along with a string of injuries that plagued the Little Hawks during the season gave Cilek his chance on offense. The little Bohemian, who likes the game best when things are rough, blocked with such ferocity that he was soon bidding for a starting position.

This left poor Coach Cormack in quite a predicament. He had four great performers and only two positions to use them in. Herb switched them around to best combat the different types of opposition and from the looks of the record he masterminded the situation correctly.

In fact it was not uncommon to have all four of the Hawkeye wing-men in the lineup on defense, Carson at halfback, Cannon and Reichardt at ends and Cilek making the game lively from his line-backing spot.

Army Shades Notre Dame

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK (AP)—The nation's sports writers had just as much trouble yesterday deciding whether Army or Notre Dame was the best team in the country as the Cadets and Irish had in finding out themselves last Saturday—and when the shooting stopped, the "experts" gave it to Army in the closest kind of photo finish.

Forced to choose between the two mightiest moleskin machines in collegiate football after their scoreless thriller of last week end, the writers apparently went on the old sports theory that "a champ" is a champ until he's beaten. As a result, they voted the Army in front by exactly 34 points in what was probably as hot a battle of ballots as the weekly Associated Press poll has ever come up with in all its years.

Thirty-Six Ties

Altogether, 143 sports writers from coast to coast—and the Stars and Stripes sports editor in Germany for good measure—went to the ballot box with their selections for the top ten teams in the nation. Of these, Army drew 57 undisputed first-place votes to 31 for the Fighting Irish, who put the first mark in three years on the Cadets' careening three-year-perfect record last Saturday. And, hitting a new high for the poll, 36 writers voted for a first-place deadlock between the two teams, unable to see it one way or the other.

Basing the count on the usual system of 10 points for a first-place ballot, 9 for a second, 8 for a third, etc., Army finished with its narrow edge of 1,300½ points to 1,266½ for Notre Dame. The rest of the field was far out of it, although Georgia's unbeaten United Bulldogs, coming fast in the stretch, showed even more power than a week ago in holding onto the third spot in the ranking.

In one of the biggest jumps of the week, Iowa's Hawkeyes, beaten three times in eight starts, climbed into 16th place with a total of 60 votes.

The 19 first place votes the Cadets and Irish didn't get were tossed to the country's only major undefeated, untied outfits—Georgia and the University of California at Los Angeles. The Bulldogs picked up 12 of them, half a dozen more than they had last week, and the Pacific coast conference pace-setters collected seven, four more than their top-spot vote of a week ago.

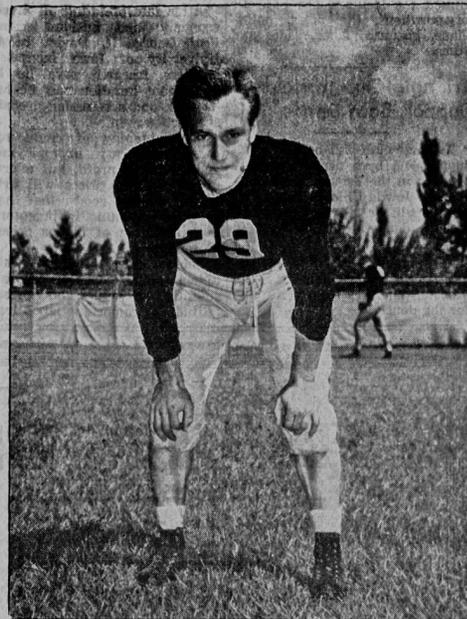

Drawing "mentions" of the ballots all the way from first to tenth place, the Bulldogs piled up a third-place total of 1,061½ points, while the Uclans held onto fourth with 827.

Pennsylvania Climbs

The 7-0 tumble of Rice before Arkansas after its stratospheric success over Texas, tumbled the Owls all the way out of the top ten, enabling Pennsylvania's ponderous Quakers, who only have to face Army next Saturday, to climb from ninth to fifth place in the poll with 656 points, as a result of their 41-6 romp over Columbia.

Sandings of the top ten teams (points based on a 10, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2, 1 system of counting).

Team	Points
1—Army	1300½
2—Notre Dame	1266½
3—Georgia	1061½
4—U. C. L. A.	961½
5—Pennsylvania	646½
6—Texas	531

DELL BARTELLS (above) has been gracing the Hawkeye bench most of the season but he came off it Saturday against Wisconsin to provide Iowa followers with some thrills on his stabs into the Badger line. The first six times Bartells carried the ball he racked up 26 yards for a 4.5 average. Bartells moved from the No. 3 right halfback position into the No. 2 fullback position after Dick Hoerner was injured against Illinois. He relieved Ron Headington Saturday and firmly established himself as one of Iowa's top ball jugglers. Bartells, a freshman, is originally from Denison where he was an all-state back in 1941.

Big Nine, Pacific Officials to Meet

CHICAGO (AP)—Western conference and Pacific Coast conference officials are expected to open discussions on a five-year plan for the Big Nine representation in the Rose Bowl before Nov. 23, when championships of both leagues are settled, it was learned authoritatively last night.

Northwestern was reported to have voted in favor of the post-season arrangement yesterday, completing the balloting of the Western conference's nine members. Seven schools—Northwestern, Michigan, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, Ohio State, and Purdue have voted affirmatively for the proposal which would assure the Big Nine champion, or an alternate representation in the Rose bowl for three successive years and any school designated by the conference the final two years.

7—Georgia Tech	350
8—Tennessee	315
9—Illinois	224
10—Michigan	313½

The second ten: 11—Louisiana State 149½; 12—Southern California, 96; 13—Ohio State, 93; 14—Rice, 86½; 15—North Carolina, 75; 16—Iowa, 60; 17—Arkansas, 48; 18—Yale, 42; 19—Holy Cross, 36; 20—Duke, 27.

Others receiving one or more points: Northwestern, 26; Delaware, 20; Tulsa, 19; Boston College, 14; Indiana, 6½; Muhlenberg and Hardin-Simmons, 6 each; Missouri and William & Mary, 5 each; Kansas, Oklahoma, South Carolina and Rutgers, 4 each; Wake Forest and Virginia, 3 each; North Carolina State, Kentucky and Tulane, 2 each; St. Norbert's (Wis.), California, Nevada and Guilford, 1 each.

End Season At Minnesota

It's that old Iowa-Minnesota game again Saturday, the 40th since the series opened in 1891, and the University of Iowa football squad yesterday began preparation to end the season with a rare win over the Gophers.

The Iowans now are tied for fourth in the league standing with a 3-2 record and another win would give them some slight chance of figuring in the title, if certain upsets of other teams occur.

Dr. Eddie Anderson yesterday was warned by Scout Maury Kent that the Gophers are very dangerous and that they may play their best game of the season next Saturday. After losing to Indiana, Northwestern, Ohio State, and Michigan in succession, Minnesota smacked down Purdue, 13-7, last Saturday.

FLASHES OF PAST FORM

"They show flashes of that old-time Minnesota football with hard-hitting backs and sharp blocking. Bill Elliott is a good fullback, Mark Heffelfinger is a long-legged hard-running right halfback, and Billy Bye, at left halfback, is a fast cut-in specialist. The line averages 206 pounds at least and is headed by Larry Olsonoski, left guard, and Bill Carroll, right tackle," Kent said.

Iowa's statistical superiority for the eight games was made even more decisive by the thorough handling of Wisconsin. Hawkeyes now have rambled 2,041 yards to opponents' 1,585, making 1,725 on the ground and 316 through the air on 34 pass completions in 80 throws. Opponents have moved for 1,012 on the ground and 573 by passing on 46 completions in 99 trials.

Bob Smith added to his rushing totals to strengthen his hold on first place in individual statistics with 454 yards in 96 carries for 4.7. Leading scorer is Bob Sullivan, 25; followed by Smith, 24.

Other rushing gains include Dick Hoerner, 335 for 4.6 average; Emmen Tunnell, 315 for 4.2; Sullivan, 192 for 5.4; and Ron Headington, 189 for 5.1. Tunnell is tops in total offense, rushing and passing, with 547, while Smith has 471. Tunnell has completed 26 passes in 54 attempts for 222 yards and two touchdowns.

Some of the team figures: Kick returns, 673 to 639, marking the first time that Iowa has been ahead of opponents in this department, and 14 interceptions returns for 175 yards to 11 for 132.

Hoosiers Rate Rest

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—Indiana university's football squad was given an Armistice day holiday yesterday as a reward for its 7-to-6 victory over Northwestern. The Hoosiers, who have an open date next Saturday, came out of the Wildcat game without serious injuries. They will wind up their season at Purdue, Nov. 23.

Bierman May Quit Gophers

CHICAGO (AP) — Bernie Bierman, once called the "gray fox" when his Minnesota juggernauts plowed through five undefeated seasons, has come upon hard days—even prompting rumors he may quit the now be-dragged Gophers and join professional ranks.

Minnesota Athletic Director Frank McCormick yesterday acknowledged those rumors when he told the Herald-American quarter-back club that Bierman has not discussed his 1947 plans, but is welcome to remain at Minnesota as long as he wishes.

One branch of the grapevine has it Bierman may take the helm of the Chicago Rockets of the All-America conference whose coaching difficulties this season caused more stir than their record.

"I can't answer the question of whether Bernie will move into the professional field," McCormick said. "I don't know where they come from."

Chaplain L.T. Jenks to Speak On Information First Program

Democracy in Germany To Be Subject of Talk By European Veteran

Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Loren T. Jenks, formerly with the United States seventh army in Germany, will speak on "Democracy's Bid for Freedom" at Information First Thursday. The speech will be given at 4:30 p.m. in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Colonel Jenks is now working at the university under army sponsorship toward a master's degree in speech.

Before he returned from Europe this April, Chaplain Jenks was supervisor of religious activities for all American troops, German civilians, prisoners of war, displaced persons and hospital under jurisdiction of the seventh army in Germany—approximately one-half the American zone. As senior chaplain to the seventh army and religious adviser to the military occupation district governor, Colonel Jenks' headquarters were at Heidelberg, Germany.

Commendation Ribbon
For his supervision of religious work in prisoner of war camps and displaced persons camps, Chaplain Jenks received the commendation ribbon award from the secretary of war.

He was military liaison adviser to the World Council of Churches committee which estimated and established aid and rehabilitation for churches in Germany, France, Belgium and Holland.

After serving as division chaplain of the 70th infantry division for two years, Chaplain Jenks was assigned after VE day as senior chaplain successively to the nineteenth corps, assembly area command, American graves registration command and the United States seventh army.

General Patton Funeral
Chaplain Jenks officiated at the funeral of General George Patton Jr. and at official memorial services for the late President Franklin Roosevelt and Lt. Gen. Alexander Patch, held for military personnel in Europe.

During his army service, Chaplain Jenks served three times under Lieutenant General Patch, commander of the seventh army—twice in the United States and once overseas.

Colonel Jenks served as staff chaplain for such well-known military men as Major General Littlejohn, now on the war assets administration board; Major General Clarence Heubner, chief of staff of the European theater; Major General John Dahlquist of the 70th infantry division which captured Hermann Goering, and Major General Gilbert Cook of General Dwight Eisenhower's advisory board.

A native Iowan, Colonel Jenks attended the University of Iowa previously in 1935-36 after he was graduated from Coe college at Cedar Rapids. He did graduate work at Drake university and later served for two years as assistant professor of speech at Coe college.

Football Banquet

The Iowa City and University high school football teams will be entertained at a banquet sponsored by the Elks lodge at 6:30 Monday evening in the Elks' home.

James Faye, Emmetsburg attorney, will be guest speaker.

Keith Wilson, entertainment chairman, is in charge of the program.

Hancher to Speak At Kickoff Dinner

President Virgil M. Hancher will speak at the kickoff dinner for the membership drive of Iowa City Civic Music association at 7 p. m. tonight in Hotel Jefferson.

Other speakers will include Helen E. Welch, Chicago representative of Civic Music Service, Inc., who will discuss the national organization and what it hopes to accomplish in Iowa City. She will also explain plans for the local membership campaign which ends Saturday.

Members of the association are entitled to attend a concert artist series throughout the year at City high school. Memberships are $6 for adults and university students, and $3 for high school students, with total membership limited to 1,100.

Wischner to Address Semantics Chapter
George Wischner, G of Iowa City, graduate assistant in clinical psychology, will speak on "A Behaviorist Looks at General Semantics" before the University of Iowa chapter, Society for General Semantics at 8 o'clock tonight in room W-701, East hall.

He will emphasize aspects of current learning theory and their relation to some of the concepts used by the general semanticist, according to Oliver Bloodstein, G of New York City, chapter president.

Ray Returns
Bob Ray, G of Davenport, returned to Iowa City last weekend from Albany, N. Y., where he was a member of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's staff during the recent election campaign.

Ray will continue his duties as assistant to Prof. A. Craig Baird in the speech department.

Meat Dealer Comments On Used Fats Salvage In Iowa City Markets

Commenting on the impression that there has been widespread refusal by meat dealers to accept used fats from housewives, For-man Gay, Iowa City meat dealer, declared yesterday this is not true of dealers here.

That some dealers had refused used fats was suggested recently at a food editors conference in Chicago, but the group found the majority of dealers were cooperating in the salvage drive. It was determined that refusals may have occurred when people brought in used kitchen fats during rush days.

Emphasizing that local butchers have shown no reluctance to accept such products, Gay said, "Housewives usually bring used fat in during the first part of the week, but we take it any time." He added that early weekdays are preferable to Friday and Saturday in handling the fat.

Judson Sloan Services To Be Held Today

Private funeral services for Judson Sloan, 86, 124 E. Bloomington street, who died Saturday night at University hospital following a five year illness, will be held at the Outhout funeral chapel at 10 a. m. today. Dr. P. Hewison Pollock will officiate.

Survivors include one sister, Mrs. Emma Zentmire, Iowa City, two nieces and four nephews. A retired farmer, Mr. Sloan was born near Oquaka, Ill., and spent most of his life in Illinois. He came to Iowa City in March, 1941.

Graveside services will be held at 3 p. m. today at LaHarpe, Ill.

Election Results Correct
Johnson county board of supervisors completed a canvass of votes cast in the Nov. 5 election yesterday and reported results given after the election were correct.

Closest race according to the canvass was between Frank Murphy and Carroll Allen for assessor of Clear Creek township. Murphy polled 63 votes while Allen, a write-in candidate, totaled 62.

Mrs. Etta Raymond Holmes, 101, SUI's Oldest Living Graduate Dies in Calif.

The university's oldest living graduate, Mrs. Etta Raymond Holmes, died Nov. 2, SUI's Homecoming day, in Pasadena, Calif., according to information received by the alumni office. Mrs. Holmes would have been 101 on Nov. 19.

Born in Rochester, N. Y., in 1845, Mrs. Holmes received the degree of bachelor of didactics at the university in 1865 while the Civil War was still in progress. This now obsolete degree corresponded to the present teacher's certificate.

It was while she attended the university that she met K. O. Holmes whom she married 77 years ago in Iowa City.

Mrs. Holmes taught school for 10 years in Bloomington, Ill., and later in Kearney, Neb., where she and her husband lived for 48 years. Later, they moved to Pasadena where her husband died 12 years ago at the age of 90. A son, Ernest Raymond Holmes, is also deceased.

In an interview on her 100th birthday, Mrs. Holmes recalled that many of the university faculty members disapproved of women going to college, and especially a co-educational institution like the university.

Mrs. Holmes' death leaves uncertain her successor as the university's oldest living graduate, the alumni office reports.

Midwest Art Group Names Longman As Vice-President

Prof. Lester D. Longman, head of the art department, was elected vice-president of the Midwestern Art conference at the organization's annual meeting Friday and Saturday at the University of Indiana.

An illustrated lecture on the Iowa annual summer exhibit, delivered by Professor Longman, opened the convention's Friday evening program, during which collections of art at midwestern universities were discussed.

Accompanying Professor Longman to the convention were Prof. Humbert Albizio, Prof. Stuart Edie, Prof. Alden F. Megrew, Mary Holmes, Shirley Throckmorton and Helen Foss, all art department faculty members.

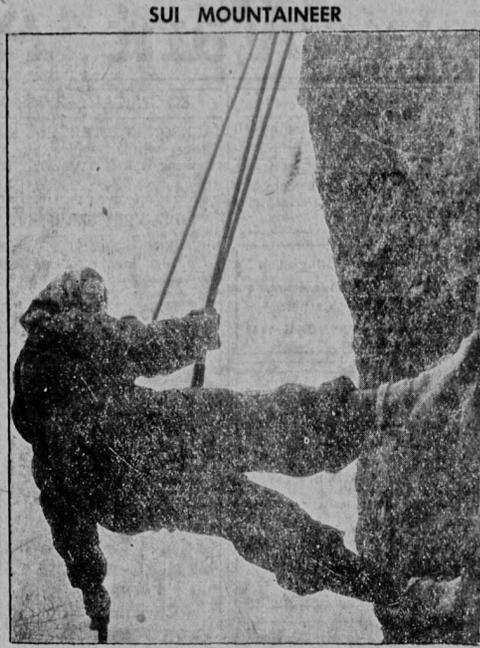

Miss Holmes participated in a round table discussion on methods of teaching introductory courses in art history.

According to faculty members who attended the meeting, most of the new ideas advocated by the convention are already in existence here or are in the process of preparation.

The group went on record as advocating at least one fine arts course as a requirement in completion of a liberal arts major.

The 1948 meeting of the conference is scheduled to be held at SUI.

Several former faculty members of the university including H. W. Janson, now of the art department at the University of Illinois, and Philip Gustin, now a staff member at Washington university in St. Louis, appeared before the convention.

Mountaineers Learn to Climb With Ropes During Outing at Mississippi Palisades

Rain didn't prevent 90 Iowa Mountaineers from going to Savanna, Ill., last weekend for a two-day outing at the Mississippi Palisades state park with a group of members of the Chicago Mountaineers club.

Under the direction of John Ebert, Mountaineer president, the group spent Saturday evening and all day Sunday learning rock climbing with ropes, and seeing color pictures of rock formations in the mountains of British Columbia.

Experienced members of the club taught the tyro climbers knots necessary for climbing. The ropes are used as safety measures when climbing, and to speed descents.

Safety Ropes
The Mountaineers have an inviolable rule about ropes for practice climbing. No member is permitted to climb without a safety rope.

Most colorful portion of the education of the beginning climbers was the teaching of "rappelling." Rappelling is the way climbers descend a rock face by sliding down a rope.

The rope is snubbed around a sturdy projection, and passed between the climber's legs and over a shoulder. To descend, the climber leaps down the rock face, keeping himself braced from the rock by his feet, and checking his descent with the rope.

Practice in the techniques was given on two rock formations, Open Bible and Twin Sisters. The climb was even more difficult for the new climbers because of a cold, stiff breeze blowing across the Mississippi river against the face of the bluffs.

Saturday Program
The Saturday evening program included a meeting with members of the Chicago Mountaineers for the showing of color slides of trips made by the mountain climbing club. The pictures were taken by club president John Ebert, Don Davis, Yau-Ben-Dai and Joan Cox.

The Savanna area was chosen for the climb because of the excellence of the rock formations there for practice climbing. According to Ebert, persons able to scale the bluffs of the Palisades should encounter no great difficulty in more mountainous country.

Jean Stanicek To Represent SUI In Hockey Tourney

Jean Stanicek, instructor in the women's physical education department, was chosen as a member of the second team to represent the midwest in the national hockey tournament held at Adelphi college, Garden City, N. Y., Nov. 29-30.

Miss Stanicek was selected from a field of approximately 125 women who played with the nine teams in the midwest tournament in St. Louis last weekend. She made four goals for the Iowa City hockey team in their game played in a downpour of rain Saturday against a Milwaukee team. The Iowa City team won 9-0.

Playing in puddles which sometimes covered their shoe tops, the Iowa City team lost their game Sunday to North Shore, Chicago, 5-0.

Other teams taking part in the tournament were two from St. Louis, two from Chicago, 2 from North Shore Chicago, and one each from Madison, Wis., and Milwaukee.

Gail Hennis and Jean Stanicek, instructors in the women's physical education department, received national "B" ratings as women's field hockey umpires in the Midwest Umpiring conference in St. Louis, Mo., last weekend.

Prof. Elizabeth Halsey, head of the women's physical education department, said only three of the nine candidates received ratings this year.

To be eligible for national rating a candidate must have two local "A" ratings. She must pass a written officials test and is judged at an umpiring conference by a rating board. No national "A" rating is given to a candidate on her first trial.

Rock Island Engine, Two Cars Derailed

A diesel engine and two empty freight cars were derailed on a spur track of the Rock Island lines in Iowa City Sunday at 10:30 a. m.

One freight car was damaged beyond repair and was burned by the wrecking crew. The other car and the diesel engine are being repaired at Des Moines.

The cause of the derailment still is under investigation by Rock Island officials.

Gas Cylinder Blaze Causes $75 Damage

A carbide gas cylinder caught fire at the Hawkeye Sheet Metal works, 601 S. Gilbert street, at 8:30 a. m. yesterday, causing approximately $75 damage to welding apparatus at the plant.

Firemen extinguished the fire before flames caused further damage, according to Fire Chief J. J. Clark.

WHY A SOAP SHORTAGE?
You've Heard Rumors. Here Are the Facts!

1. There is a world-wide shortage of animal fats and of vegetable oils. This shortage affects all of us. For instance, this year soapmakers have been able to obtain only one fifth of the imported oils they used in 1941—far less domestic fats, too.
2. Because of the world-wide shortage, manufacturers are unable to get the amount of fats and oils they need to make not only soaps, but also paints, textiles, tires, leather goods, floor coverings, electrical appliances, etc.
3. In the face of these conditions, American soap manufacturers have done their utmost. They have turned all the fats and oils they have been able to obtain into soap just as quickly as possible.
4. But for the help of American housewives, the shortage of soap would have been far more serious. Last year, more than one out of every nine packages of soap sold was made from used fats saved in America's kitchens.
5. Don't blame your grocer. He is doing his best, like the soapmakers, to get more soap for you. Won't you do your best by saving and turning in every drop of used fats.
