Wyatt, George Allen in Total Disagreement on Housing Loans

RFC Refuses Aid To Building Firms

WASHINGTON, (AP)—President Truman's effort to conciliate the clash between Housing Boss Wilson Wyatt and the RFC, over nearly $90,000,000 in loans to assembly-line home producers, wound up last night in "complete disagreement."

Wyatt and George E. Allen, a director of reconstruction finance corporation, stood shoulder to shoulder and so told reporters immediately after leaving a 45-minute conference in the president's office.

"There is complete disagreement between Wyatt and Allen, and nothing has been settled," Allen said.

Reporters at first thought he was being facetious, but Wyatt promptly put in:

"That is a perfectly accurate statement."

The two said they would meet today to try again for a settlement. Reconversion Director John R. Steelman accompanied them to the White House yesterday but the next session is expected to be strictly an Allen—vs.—Wyatt affair.

Confronted with rising building costs—because of Saturday's decontrol of building materials prices and construction wages—Wyatt served notice he would continue to press for loans to finance firms pioneering in the low-cost assembly-line housing field.

"There is an emergency and we need emergency loans," he said after returning to his office.

RFC has granted only $2,500,000 worth of the big credits recommended by Wyatt last month. Allen gave this as RFC's reason:

"We think they would be very bad loans because of lack of equity on the part of the companies seeking them," he explained.

So far RFC has refused loans for companies undertaking to make metal houses on grounds the firms were not putting enough of their own capital into the projects.

The turn-downs included requests for upwards of $32,000,000 for the Lustron corporation of Chicago, $11,000,000 for Higgins, Inc., of New Orleans, and $15,000,000 for Reliance Homes Inc., of Lester, Pa.

Meanwhile Republican legislators found themselves on the spot in the housing emergency. Divided among themselves, they must decide what to do about the general housing bill left over from the last session.

Usually called the Wagner-Elender-Taft bill, it carries provisions intended to build 1,250,000 homes in the next ten years.

Although it provides some public housing as well as federal profit-insurance on big apartment projects, it won Senator Taft (R-Ohio) as one of its sponsors. The Senate passed it readily.

In the house there was trouble. The house banking and currency committee delayed action until congress went home, and Democrats charged that Republican members of the committee had deliberately stalled. Some of the GOP men frankly said they didn't like what they called the 'socialized' housing features.

Apparently there is more trouble ahead. Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich) is the probable new chairman of the banking committee in the new Republican-dominated congress, and he opposes the measure in its present form.

Catholic Cardinal Dies After 2 Heart Attacks

ROME (AP) — Camillo Cardinal Caccia Dominioni, ranking cardinal in the order of deacons, died last night. He was 69.

His death, the sixth in the college of Cardinals in the last year, reduced the number of princes of the Roman Catholic church to 64.

Cardinal Caccia Dominioni suffered two heart attacks last week at his residence in the palace of the holy office and a special papal benediction went to him as death approached. During the day many members of the college visited his bedside.

A native of Milan, Cardinal Caccia Dominioni was ordained Sept. 23, 1899, and was raised to the purple by Pope Pius XI on Dec. 16, 1935.

RFC DIRECTOR George E. Allen (left) and Housing Administrator Wilson Wyatt stare at each other upon emerging from the White House, where they conferred for 45 minutes with President Truman yesterday. Allen told reporters that "complete disagreement prevailed between him and Wyatt on government loans for construction of prefabricated dwellings."

College Students Say— Personality Counts Most —In Choosing Mates

CHICAGO (AP)—The "collar ads" views than because they were not "handsome or good-looking."

Highlights of his findings, published in the American Journal of Sociology, showed:

That although 80 percent of the persons questioned had formed an "ideal" of a mate, only 59.2 percent judged that their partners met or approached their physical ideals.

However, 73.7 percent believed their partners were close to or identical with their ideal of personality.

Strauss found that when subjects compared the mate with the person they had liked or loved next best, there was practically no difference between them in approximation to ideal physical traits, but the mate came closest to the ideal in personality traits.

"This data suggests that the cultural and temperamental qualities of the ideal influence significantly the selection of a marriage partner, whereas the physical aspects of the ideal do not play an important role," he said.

In the survey, 67 percent named traits that would eliminate an individual from consideration as a mate. They were different race (men 49.7 percent, women 65.5 percent); different faith (men 41.6 women 42.5); different educational status (men 33.5, women 40.5); different social background (men 27.8, women 34); physical defect (men 27.2, women 26.5); different economic status (men 23.1, women 20.5); markedly different political views (men 28.9, women 32); not handsome or good-looking (men 22, women 13.5).

Thousands of head of sheep and cattle—some of them uncut for 10 days—huddled together in the snow throughout the snowbound regions, facing death from exposure and starvation.

Airplanes, some of them C-47 twin-engined army cargo ships, entered the race to help persons marooned in isolated ranches for 10 days. Also in the rescue efforts were army vehicles, weapons carriers, huge bulldozers, tractors and trucks.

Planes flying out of Peterson field at Colorado Springs kept a lookout for crosses fashioned in the snow near ranch houses. Radio appeals to the ranchers had advised them to make one cross visible from the air if they needed food, two if they needed medical aid.

Five of the C-47's were pressed into service to drop bales of hay to 10,000 head of cattle which Young Moseley, a Lincoln county rancher, reported were standing stiff-legged in three feet of snow.

Byrd Plans Trek To Polar Regions

Plan Antarctic Training For 4,000 Navy Men Starting Next Month

WASHINGTON (AP)—The navy is sending 4,000 men with Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd to the bottom of the world this winter to train under harsh polar conditions.

The antarctic expedition includes representatives of the army air and ground forces, branches of defense which have had stiff tests in the frozen north, together with scientists.

Navy officials said at a news conference today that the expedition will carry the force leaving next month with one of its specific objectives to "consolidate and develop" the results of the Byrd expedition of 1939-41.

The officers discounted reports that a hunt for uranium, ingredient for atom bombs, was a prime intention, although they explained the expedition would be interested in any minerals discovered—and that uranium is a mineral.

Byrd disclosed that the Russians had an expedition "going down but we haven't much information on that."

Vice Admiral Forrest Sherman, deputy chief of naval operations, was asked if one of the purposes was to stake out American claim to territory. He replied:

"The purpose of this expedition is primarily the training of naval units, and any effects these operations might have on the balance of conflicting claims to territories will be incidental only."

Byrd added his own statement that "this nation doesn't recognize any claims down there—and hasn't made any claims itself."

Byrd said the antarctic continent contains 6,000,000 square miles, equal to that of the United States and Europe combined, and 4,000,000 miles are unexplored.

The navy said other specific objectives of the expedition were:

Training personnel and testing equipment in frigid zones.

Developing naval techniques for establishing, supporting and using bases under polar conditions.

Amplifying scientific knowledge of the antarctic.

The expedition will operate during the antarctic summer when the temperature in the warmer portions rises almost to freezing.

Half Dozen Industries Boost Price Level; Many Still Pursue Hold-the-Line-Policy

NEW YORK (AP)—One-time international Harvester; and marked increases by Dupont for viscose products that apparently will spell out rising rayon prices.

At the same time Westinghouse and General Motors reported at least moderate increases were in prospect on a piecemeal basis for their electrical appliances. General Electric said there would be no general increases, but some might come on individual items.

A Procter and Gamble spokesman said its wholesale price on small cakes of toilet soap would go up by three cents, with a corresponding retail increase. The wholesale price of laundry soaps would rise by two cents to 14 cents for a 21-ounce package, he said, which would mean a retail increase of from 23 to 35 cents.

Republican House Leader Favors Income Tax Cut

Wherry Calls For Removal Of Rent Lids

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Senator Wherry (R-Neb), likely to be one of the most influential men in the new Republican-controlled congress, called yesterday for removal of rent ceilings.

Wherry said the issue of rent controls may cause one of the first breaks between the Truman administration and the Republican majorities on Capitol Hill.

"I think one of our first jobs is to take off most remaining controls," Wherry told a reporter. "I believe the best way to ease the housing shortage is to remove rent ceilings."

President Truman, while eliminating other price lids, twice has insisted that rents must stay under government ceilings. The president did say that some increases in rents "may be required."

Wherry said that he found that housing and improvement of rental properties were being "impeded by the numerous government restraints."

"Property owners have been discouraged from remodeling or repairing many units by the federal bureaucrats," he reported.

"If rent ceilings are needed in a few localities they should be handled by state laws and state controls," the Nebraskan said.

Wherry said he expected strong support for elimination of all controls, but other senators including some Republicans said privately that they believed that some forms of rent control should be necessary. They noted that the average consumer can not refuse to pay if rentals are too high, as he can in the case of automobiles or steaks.

REP. JOSEPH W. MARTIN JR. (R-Mass) (left center) tells newsmen he favors a 20 percent reduction in income taxes applicable to 1947 earnings. He held the conference yesterday as he appeared in Washington, D. C., for the first time since the Republicans won control of congress.

U.S. Hails Russian Disarmament Offer

Soviets Show Desire To Begin Discussions Now on Arms Issue

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States welcomed last night the renewed Russian offer to start now on solving the world's arms problems and Soviet Russia showed a great desire to take up the subject as quickly as possible.

United States Sen. Tom Connally (D., Tex.) chairman of the senate foreign relations committee and an American delegate to the United Nations, said that the United States welcomed Russia's "cooperation" in the matter of disarmament.

Almost simultaneously, Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet delegate informed the important political committee of the United Nations that it was wasting too much time talking about the relations between the security council and the assembly 'at the expense of the more important questions of disarmament, economic issues, and the presence of troops on non-enemy territory."

"We should spend more time on more productive work," Gromyko said.

Assembly delegations were considerably interested in the speech made Monday night by Russian Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov to the Foreign Press association in New York in which he said that the proposals of Russia and the United States on arms reduction "can be harmonized."

Senator Connally answered in writing an Associated Press inquiry for comment on Molotov's speech as the political committee was in session, that "the United States has for many years advocated disarmament without success. We welcome Russia's cooperation. We shall not disarm so long as other great powers remain armed. There must be real disarmament with adequate inspection to insure effective enforcement."

Molotov, observers said, made it clear that he was not opposing all the terms of the French plan, but was objecting to the powers for the governor.

In sidetracking temporarily the possibility of direct Yugoslav-Italian negotiations on the issue, the door altogether.

But Byrnes held that the Italian note suggesting that possibility had been sent independently to the four governments. He said that the United States had made its reply overnight, in effect, telling Italy it was up to Italy and Yugoslavia to get together on the negotiations if they wished.

Churchill declared that Britain's relations with Russia had grown steadily worse.

"We were assured that the Socialist government would get on especially well with the Soviet government," Churchill said, "but relations have steadily deteriorated."

"The world situation has not improved," Churchill continued. "More than one-third of Europe is held under Soviet control. The Soviet military frontier is on the Elbe. It is impossible to forecast what the future and fate of France will be."

Big 4 Council Argues Fate Of Trieste

NEW YORK (AP)—The foreign ministers council tangled last night on the future of troubled Trieste after the United States lodged its firm opposition to a Soviet proposal for modification of an Italian peace pact clause on control of the ancient Adriatic port.

The council reached no final settlement on the issue, but pushed aside—temporarily at least—an apparent willingness on the part of Italy to undertake independent negotiations with Yugoslavia.

Foreign Minister Molotov of Russia attempted unsuccessfully to return the problem of Trieste to the council's deputies for a further study on the basis of two points which would in effect:

1. Cut down the authority of the appointive governor of Trieste. Russia has maintained consistently that the powers of the elective assembly in the international zone should be strengthened instead.

2. Set a deadline (Molotov did not specify for how long) for removal of all foreign troops from the Trieste territory.

Byrnes, however, stood pat on the French plan which was approved by a 15 to 6 vote at the Paris peace conference. That plan would give the governor strong powers to carry out mandates of the United Nations security council.

The secretary of state maintained that the French plan, in itself, was a compromise from previous Anglo-American proposals and a product of long work and hard study. He demanded a paragraph review of that plan when the council resumes its deliberations today. His colleagues accepted that request.

Molotov, observers said, made it clear that he was not opposing all the terms of the French plan, but was objecting to the powers for the governor.

In sidetracking temporarily the possibility of direct Yugoslav-Italian negotiations on the issue, the door altogether.

But Byrnes held that the Italian note suggesting that possibility had been sent independently to the four governments. He said that the United States had made its reply overnight, in effect, telling Italy it was up to Italy and Yugoslavia to get together on the negotiations if they wished.

Father Kills Daughter During Violent Nightmare

ARKADELPHIA, Ark. (AP) — Three-year-old Linda Joyce Pollard, of the Red Hill community, was beaten to death by her father, Willard Pollard, 24, while he was having a nightmare about 2 a. m. yesterday, Sheriff W. T. Matlock reported.

The sheriff said, Pollard told him that when he awoke from the nightmare, during which he dreamed he was having a fight, he saw the body of his daughter lying on the floor. The child suffered a skull fracture, a dislocated hip and other injuries.

Martin Wants 20 Percent Reduction

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Joseph W. Martin, Jr. of Massachusetts, heir-apparent to the speakership of the house of representatives, came out flatly yesterday for a 20 percent income tax reduction "straight across the board."

He advocated also (1) close adherence to the congressional "streamlining" plan approved last summer, (2) an indefinite reduction in government spending, and (3) legislation putting the speaker of the house in line for the presidency in the event of vacancies in both the presidency and the vice presidency.

Briefly, here's what Martin said on the various subjects about which he was quizzed:

Taxes: "I think we can cut twenty percent off all income taxes next year, straight across the board." The reduction, he explained, should be retroactive to apply to all 1947 income, and a bill affecting it should be enacted promptly and followed by a scientific study of the entire tax structure.

Congressional reorganization: The adopted plan reducing the number of standing house committees from 48 to 19 should be followed closely. Martin is "not disposed to make any changes," although there are "rumblings" of a fight to retain the military and naval committees instead of merging them into a single armed services committee.

Republican house leadership: "I'm not for anyone at this time particularly. It's up to the membership to make that decision." Announced candidates include Reps. Charles Halleck of Indiana and Thomas Jenkins of Ohio, with Clarence Brown of Ohio expected to announce soon.

Government savings: "We should save all we can." Martin said he had no definite figure in mind.

Presidential succession: "We'd be inclined to favor it." He referred to legislation requested last summer by President Truman to put the speaker of the house next in line after the vice-president. The house passed that bill when Sam Rayburn, Texas democrat, was speaker. The senate sidetracked it. At present the line of succession, after the vice president, starts with the secretary of state and goes through the cabinet.

Emergency war powers: "We should get rid of all unnecessary war powers at the earliest possible moment."

After 25 What? Mother of 2 Dozen 'Likes Children'

LAMESA, TEX. (AP) — Mrs. Bernardino Lopez, 43, a plump, jolly, little Mexican woman who gave birth Sunday to her 25th child said today that she liked children, but merely shrugged her shoulders when asked if she liked having so many.

Dr. A. H. Smith, her attending physician, said he began asking routine questions before the birth. "How many children have you had," he asked, and was amazed when Mrs. Lopez replied, "Twenty-four Doctor. This will be the twenty-fifth."

The girl born Sunday weighed 8 pounds and both mother and child were "doing fine," Dr. Smith said. The child was named "Sunday," the doctor said, "because they were out of names."

When reporters arrived at 8:30 a. m. yesterday, Mrs. Lopez was busily cooking breakfast.

When asked for confirmation of the number of children, a daughter-in-law produced a marriage license showing Mrs. Lopez was Married Sept. 29, 1915, when she was 11 years old and her husband 14. She was born in Monterey, Mexico.

She had her first child when she was 12.

The father, a mustached Mexican of medium size, works at odd jobs in Lamesa.

British Propose Peacetime Draft

LONDON (AP)—Winston Churchill renewed last night his assertion that a vast Russian army was being maintained on a virtual war footing in Europe and promised an opening session of parliament that his opposition party would support the Labor government's revolutionary proposal to continue compulsory military training in peacetime.

Churchill spoke in the house of commons in reply to Laborite H. C. Osborne's motion for the acceptance of King George VI's opening speech from the throne.

The king, sitting on a golden throne in the heavily guarded house of lords, earlier had outlined the Labor government's socialistic legislative program, including not only the plans for continuing conscription but also for nationalizing additional industries.

In his 13-minute address delivered in a setting of medieval splendor, the king said plans were underway to bring self-government to the peoples of his empire.

He called for a German peace treaty which would "foster democracy" in that country and said he hoped occupation troops could be withdrawn from Austria soon.

Soldiers with fixed bayonets guarded the buildings while the king spoke. As a result of recent threats of violence, attributed to Jewish underground organizations, 5,000 policemen and detectives also stood by.

The monarch's address—Written, as customary, by the party in power—listed these main points of contemplated legislation:

1. Conscription for the armed services.
2. Nationalization of inland transport and electric supply.
3. Control of securities exchanges.
4. Establishment of a ministry of defense to coordinate activity of the three branches of the armed service.
5. Approval of the 1944 convention on international civil aviation.

The king said the Labor government would strive, in the international field, for:

1. Early peace treaties for Germany and Austria.
2. Support of the work of an international conference on trade and employment.
3. Preparation for elections in Burma.
4. Assistance to peoples of the British empire in their campaigns for self government.
5. Prime Minister Attlee, who spoke immediately after Churchill, said the developments of modern weapons had made Britain especially vulnerable to attack, that Britain is now a part of the European continent and "we must have trained reserves who can take their part straight away without waiting six months for training."

Churchill declared that Britain's relations with Russia had grown steadily worse.

"We were assured that the Socialist government would get on especially well with the Soviet government," Churchill said, "but relations have steadily deteriorated."

"The world situation has not improved," Churchill continued. "More than one-third of Europe is held under Soviet control. The Soviet military frontier is on the Elbe. It is impossible to forecast what the future and fate of France will be."

Let's Not Jump at Conclusions, Boys

To what extent is the Republican party's grand-slam victory in last week's election a mandate for congressional action? Just how great is the correlation between the voting and the shift to the right in the political thinking of the voters? Was the election the result of a complete turning away by the people from the New Deal school of thought? Exactly what was the thinking of the voters on specific issues as they voted the GOP into control of both houses of congress?

Lest Taft, Wherry and company imagine that the voters have given them a clear-cut mandate to halt completely the social-minded legislative trend set in motion by the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, these gentlemen may find it worth their time to study the results of some of the informal referenda on current public issues which have been conducted by George Gallup's American Institute of Public Opinion.

The Gallup poll is widely considered the most accurate of all opinion sampling devices. It forecasted within two percent the division of popular vote in the congressional election. As an indication of public sentiment on particular issues it is undoubtedly a much more precise measurement than is the vote for a particular candidate.

The new majority party should take a look at some of the referenda before they start tearing out by the roots the vestiges of the New Deal in the mistaken notion that such is the voter's desire.

For example, they might study the public's feeling on the following question: "Should the congress elected in November pass a law raising minimum wages throughout the country from 40 to 65 cents an hour—that is, no worker could receive less than 65 cents an hour?"

A sizeable majority—66 percent—answered in the affirmative showing that the nation has not completely turned its back on social and economic reforms.

Likewise in the matter of social security legislation, the people have indicated that their shift to the right in the choice of political candidates is not reflected in their thinking on definite issues. The poll has found that a large majority supports extension of social security to cover groups not included in the present law.

Representative Knutsen to the contrary, the outcome of the election does not definitely charge the GOP with responsibility for reducing taxes. Actually, the Institute poll indicates that a small majority of the voters favor delaying tax reduction until some of the national debt is retired.

On the basis of the Gallup poll's findings it seems doubtful that the conservatism of the public is a clear deduction from the Republican win, as some observers believe. Governor Thomas Dewey of New York in a post-election statement said that the people have indicated their choice between two different types of government but Mr. Gallup seems to indicate that the choice was not so simply black and white.

Another Plank for Civic Pride

Iowa City is no "small town"!

People of this city may well applaud the civic pride and vision that prompted a small group of citizens to meet during the summer to plan and organize the Iowa City Civic Music association.

Their plan is this: They will sell a limited number of memberships to the association. The money, all of it, will be used to bring to Iowa City no less than three nationally famous concert artists.

The city school board generously permitted use of the City high school auditorium for the concerts on a cost-of-operation basis.

This means that Iowa Citizens will have the rare opportunity to hear such famous artists as Isaac Stern, Ezio Pinza, Gladys Swarthout, John Charles Thomas, Ellabelle Davis, Jan Peerce, the Don Cossack chorus and the Ballet Theater.

Helen Welch, Chicago representative of Civic Concert Service, has assured that the service deals only with first-class managers, thereby providing top-flight entertainment for members of the association.

We can find no fault with the plan. Due to the increased enrollment at the university, very few townspeople will be admitted to the University concert series, and therefore, the civic association needs a definite need.

The association works on a guaranteed financial basis. When the money is collected, the board of directors will choose the stars they wish to appear in Iowa City.

In this way, there is no chance of going blindly into commitments that cannot be met. It is, in effect, a guarantee of full value for their money for members of the association.

The plan started in the midwest about 25 years ago and has since spread to both coasts. Popularity of the plan is proved by the fact that it operates successfully in about eight other cities in Iowa.

It is good to see voluntary action on the part of Iowa Citizens to provide cultural influences needed in a university city.

The action of these citizens is definitely a symptom that Iowa City is becoming a progressive city.

John Briggs Named Kiwanis President

Prof. John E. Briggs of the political science department was elected president of Kiwanis club for the coming year at a luncheon meeting yesterday.

Other officers elected were: Prof. George Glockler, head of the chemistry department, vice-president, and Edward Rose, treasurer. Will Hart, Fred T. Jones and E. T. Jolliffe, university comptroller, were elected to the board of directors for 1947.

Ten new members were inducted into Kiwanis at initiation ceremonies conducted by Prof. H. C. Harshbarger of the speech department.

The new members are: Leland D. Bodien; Prof. Robert G. Bowman of the geography department; Prof. Virgil D. Cheyne of the college of denistry; Prof. Orville A.

Vocal Strategy Did It—

Reece-Brown Talk GOP Highball

By CLARKE BEACH
AP Newsfeature Writer

WASHINGTON—It took a heap o'talkin' to turn the congressional minority into the majority.

Rep. Clarence J. Brown, director of the Republican congressional campaign used to start at 9 a. m., talking to B. Carroll Reece, chairman of the party's national committee (not in the traditional "smoke-filled room," however, because neither of them smokes). It was all talking and no puffing.

Brown and Reece would work out the national campaign strategy and direct the tactics all morning at committee headquarters on Connecticut avenue—at the same time seeing endless lines of visitors and keeping the long-distance telephone wires busy.

Reece carried on there in the afternoon, while Brown went to his office on Capitol Hill to work on the problems of individual candidates. There were as many as 18 long distance telephone calls waiting for Brown when he arrived.

Reece's usual hours when at headquarters were 9 a. m. to 7:30 p. m., and in the evenings, in his apartment he would dictate replies to his mail. He likes golf, but didn't get to play more than once or twice throughout the campaign.

Brown normally walks a lot and works out in the congressional gym to keep down his weight—now 250 pounds. But he had time for none of that. He's been lucky, he says, to find time to take a bath. Result was he gained ten pounds since April.

Reece did more speech-making than Brown, broadcasting as well as flying all over the country to put out the word personally. But Brown's record still was imposing: on a Missouri trip, for instance, he made 11 speeches in two days. One morning about ten days before the elections, he wrote four radio speeches before 8 a. m.

There was only one thing he didn't talk much about—his own campaign. Although up for reelection in the Seventh Ohio District, Brown didn't spend more than 12 hours in all, he says, promoting his own candidacy.

Reece gave up his seat in Congress (First District of Tennessee) to devote his full time for the GOP Committee chairmanship—for which he refused to accept a salary. He is a banker and has his own income.

But Brown's record still was imposing: on a Missouri trip, for instance, he made 11 speeches in two days. One morning about ten days before the elections, he wrote four radio speeches before 8 a. m.

There was only one thing he didn't talk much about—his own campaign. Although up for reelection in the Seventh Ohio District, Brown didn't spend more than 12 hours in all, he says, promoting his own candidacy.

Reece gave up his seat in Congress (First District of Tennessee) to devote his full time for the GOP Committee chairmanship—for which he refused to accept a salary. He is a banker and has his own income.

Reece's usual hours when at headquarters were 9 a. m. to 7:30 p. m., and in the evenings, in his apartment he would dictate replies to his mail. He likes golf, but didn't get to play more than once or twice throughout the campaign.

Brown normally walks a lot and works out in the congressional gym to keep down his weight—now 250 pounds. But he had time for none of that. He's been lucky, he says, to find time to take a bath. Result was he gained ten pounds since April.

Vocal Strategy Did It— Reece-Brown Talk GOP Highball

By CLARKE BEACH AP Newsfeature Writer WASHINGTON—It took a heap o'talkin' to turn the congressional minority into the majority. Rep. Clarence J. Brown, director of the Republican congressional campaign used to start at 9 a. m., talking to B. Carroll Reece, chairman of the party's national committee (not in the traditional "smoke-filled room," however, because neither of them smokes.)

Reece did more speech-making than Brown, broadcasting as well as flying all over the country to put out the word personally. Let's Not Jump at Conclusions, Boys

To what extent is the Republican party's grand slam victory in last week's election a mandate for congressional action? Just how great is the correlation between the voting and the shift to the right in the political thinking of the voters? Was the election the result of a complete turning away by the people from the New Deal school of thought? Exactly what was the thinking of the voters on specific issues as they voted the GOP into control of both houses of congress?

Congressional Reorganization?

WASHINGTON — One of the first battles in the new congress which convenes Jan. 3 may be over the drastic committee-streamlining provisions of the reorganization law. The law amends the rules to cut senate committees from 33 to 15 and house committees from 48 to 19. Since enactment of the law last summer, a number of legislators have been grumbling about the large scale reduction of committees. Some have said they will fight to keep certain ones.

Another Plank for Civic Pride

Iowa City is no "small town"! People of this city may well applaud the civic pride and vision that prompted a small group of citizens to meet during the summer to plan and organize the Iowa City Civic Music Association. Their plan is this: They will sell a limited number of memberships to the association. The money, all of it, will be used to bring to Iowa City no less than three nationally famous concert artists.

Dr. Anderson Replies to Letter

TO THE DAILY IOWAN: I would like to reply to a letter published in The Daily Iowan last Friday morning, Nov. 8, in regard to myself, and I wish to reply through the same channels responsible for publication of the original. The letter was signed in the paper by the initials "B. F." However, I think it is only fair that the faculty, student body, and other readers of The Daily Iowan should know who those initials stand for. The letter written to The Daily Iowan was signed by Bill Barbour and Harry Frey, so people can see that the "B. F." was for Barbour and Frey, who I understand are students in the medical school at the present time.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR:

Dr. Anderson Replies to Letter

TO THE DAILY IOWAN: Samuel Gratton is notably enheartening and significant. Amidst this praise I must inject a small note of criticism. I don't think it is too much to ask a sizable measure of consistency from anyone. Whether one is right or wrong in his views it is pleasing to observe that he has given sufficient thought to a problem so that he is consistent in his arguments. The Daily Iowan, in its editorial denouncing legal action against the barber shops, deviated considerably from its normal rational judgment in social matters.

Likes Editorial Policy, But It's Inconsistent

TO THE DAILY IOWAN: In my estimation the editorial policy of The Daily Iowan has improved immeasurably since the inauguration of the new staff a few months ago. It has emerged from the complacent, commonplace category to one which is liberal, progressive, and a direct challenge to the reactionary press which too often cloaks fascist subtleties in the red, white, and blue folds of Americanism. Not only has there been a positive change in the editorial policy but in the daily syndicated articles as well. The trend from Paul Mallon

Suggests Iowan Staff Go to Russia and Stay

TO THE DAILY IOWAN: In your edition of Sunday, Nov. 10, one of your communist-columnists, Steve Park by name, who believe in equality for all races and creeds can not sit meekly by and hope that education will do the work single-handed. If that occurs it will not take long for the gains of the past three generations to be eradicated. To me it is evident that we must organize and use all the forces at our command—education through the press, radio, and schools, legal action, and perhaps the strongest weapon of all, a personal zeal that will counter inequality and lies wherever we meet them. To sit idly by and hope that future generations of barbers will all have interracial shops because of the great force of education alone is an unjustified faith in that institution. Like a war, intolerance must be fought on all fronts. To relent on one is to invite penetration, encirclement, and eventual destruction. JACK A. ADAMS (We try at all time to steer our readers toward constructive actions. In that, our conscience is our only guide.—The Editor.)

Halfbacks Chappuis, Schwall Lead League Ground Gainers

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO, (AP)—Typical of a topsy-turvy season, first-place Illinois and third-place Ohio State will face in their crucial Big Nine game Saturday at Champaign without a single statistical hot-shot.

Official league figures released yesterday showed: Halfback Bob Chappuis of Michigan continues as the Big Nine's total offensive leader with 607 yards in five games—299 yards by rushing and 308 by passing.

Halfback Vic Schwall of Northwestern kept the pace as the rushing leader with a five-game aggregate of 355, a creditable average of 71 per try in 53 attempts, and boosted his scoring lead to 40 points with a touchdown against Indiana.

Quarterbacks Bob De Moss of Purdue and Ben Raimondi of Indiana maintained their spectacular scrap for passing honors with Raimondi swelling his completions percentage to .529 and De Moss keeping in front in total completions with 40, one more than Raimondi.

Nowhere in the league batch of facts and figures does Ohio State or Illinois command an important individual ranking, but still their Champaign battle figures to settle largely a complicated conference stretch run.

Illinois—beaten only by Indiana in five league starts—offers famed Buddy Young as its best ball carrier, but the heralded speedster ranks only 11th in net rushing with 172 yards in 49 tries for a modest 3.5 average.

The top Illini passer is Perry Moss, who has 14 completions in 38 attempts for a sixth-spot ranking. Moss also is the top Illini scorer with four touchdowns for 24 points, tied for third with two other players behind second-place Joe Whisler of Ohio State who has 30.

If Ohio State lacks a stand-out individual performer, however, the Buckeyes do boast plenty of versatility. They have three ball carriers who have averaged more than 5 yards a try, including Bob Brugge with a 6.6 and a rushing total of 229; Jerry Krall with 5.9 and 148 yards; and Tommy James with 5.1 and 169 yards.

The Buckeyes have no fewer than four passers, foremost of whom is their surprise-package Quarterback George Spencer with nine completions in 14 attempts.

The league passing championship, incidentally, probably will be settled when Indiana and Purdue

HAWK CAPTAIN

BRUNO NIEDZIELA

Niedziela Will Captain Hawks At Minnesota

Reserve University of Iowa griders provided a preview of the Minnesota offense yesterday, as varsity squad members swung into a heavy workout in preparation for the season's final game at Minneapolis Saturday.

The Gopher offense has produced an average of 228 yards per conference game, 163 by rushing, to tie Purdue for seventh in that department. But Minnesota showed signs of new life last weekend and Dr. Eddie Anderson believes they have the stuff to cause Iowa, No. 1 defensive team, all sorts of trouble.

Bruno Niedziela, right tackle who has played increasingly excellent games, will serve as Iowa game-captain, Dr. Anderson said. He praised the work of the Chicago veteran in the Illinois and Wisconsin games and said he has well-earned his recognition.

Two possible lineup changes also were indicated by Dr. Anderson. He said that Dave Day, the Brighton, Ia., man who played two years at Minnesota as a navy trainee, may start at right guard in place of Earl Banks; and that John Tedore of Waterloo is a probable starter at left halfback.

Trip plans call for the squad to leave via interurban for Cedar Rapids Friday at 7:45 a. m. and to take a 9 a. m. train from Cedar Rapids to Minneapolis. Arrival is scheduled for 4 p. m. and a workout at the Gopher stadium will occur thereafter. The Curtis hotel in Minneapolis will be pre-game headquarters. The return trip will be made by Pullman on a special train leaving Sunday at 1 a. m. and reaching Iowa City at about 11 a. m.

It appears that the Iowans will be in excellent physical condition, barring injuries in practice this week. None of the men who played at Wisconsin was hurt. Dick Hoerner, fullback; and Dick Woodard, center, will be unavailable because of injuries suffered prior to last Saturday.

Big 9 Officials Meet in December

CHICAGO (AP)—Annual winter meetings of the Western conference will be held in Chicago December 12-14, it has been announced by K. L. Wilson, commissioner of the conference.

The dates are a week later than usual, according to Wilson, and were dictated by crowded hotel conditions in Chicago.

The annual meetings bring together the faculty representatives, athletic directors, coaches in all sports except basketball, and other officials for business and schedule sessions.

year. Osborne Cowles of Dartmouth has succeeded Bennie Oosterbaan as coach at Michigan and W. H. "Tippy" Dye moved up to head coach at Ohio State upon Harold Olsen's resignation. Branch McCracken returns to the Indiana post he left for Naval Service. Mel Taube succeeded Ward Lambert at Purdue in mid-season last year.

Boston College Ties Notre Dame's Irish In Ground Gaining

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

NEW YORK (AP)—Notre Dame, held to 225 net yards in last Saturday's scoreless affair with Army, has tumbled into a first place deadlock with Boston College as the most offensive minded college football team in the country, figures by the National Collegiate Athletic bureau revealed yesterday.

Prior to the "football game of the century" in New York's Yankee stadium, the South Bend Irish had piled up an average of 430 yards per game in each of their five contests.

But their day's production against the Cadets lowered their mean to 396.5 for six games, the identical figure built up by Coach Denny Myers' Boston Eagles in the same number of games.

It is the lowest ranking figure since the pre-war season of 1941, and indicates definitely that college football again is back on an even keel. In 1944 Army romped to a national record on total yardage per game and promptly established a better one in 1945.

The ten leaders in each department:

Total Offense—(gains rushing and passing)—Notre Dame and Boston College, 396.5 yards per game each; UCLA, 388.1; Nevada, 371.1; Utah, 363.3; Georgia, 361.9; Pennsylvania, 358.2; Northwestern, 355.6; Hardin-Simmons 348.4.

Rushing Offense—Detroit, 284.9 yards gained per game; Notre Dame, 282.2; Utah, 279.7; Hardin-Simmons, 278.9; UCLA, 261; Pennsylvania, 259.8; Northwestern, 255.3; Yale, 240; Mississippi State, 236; Army, 233.1.

Forward Passing Offense—(Average yards gained per game)—Nevada, 189.6; Texas, 176.8; Boston College, 173.8; Georgia, 159.1; Texas Mines, 158; Princeton, 155.2; Oklahoma A & M, 152.3; Marquette, 151.3; Florida, 151.3; Arizona, 145.7.

Punting—Nevada, 41.2 yards average per punt; Texas Mines, 41.2; New Mexico 41.1; Mississippi, 40.6; VMI, 40.2; Miami (Fla.), 39.9; Southern California, 39.8; Cornell, 39.6; Alabama, 39.2.

meet in their Old Oaken Bucket finale at Lafayette on Nov. 23. Raimondi, who also is the nation's leading passer, has a league record of 39 hits in 74 attempts. De Moss, despite an injured left arm, registered his 40 completions on 84 attempts for a 4.76 percentage.

The Hoosiers and Boilermakers also figure in the individual scrap for pass-receiving laurels. Lou Mihajovich, a 166-pound, sticky-fingered end, has a five-game record of 14 receptions for 169 yards. Purdue's End Norman Maloney is deadlocked with Indiana Halfback Mel Groomes for second place with 12 catches each, but the Boilermaker's grabs were good for 139 yards, compared with 87 for Groomes.

Big-9 Cagers Open Dec. 2

CHICAGO, Ill.—Western conference basketball teams will open their 1946-47 season December 2 with Iowa, Indiana and Wisconsin in action on that date against non-conference opponents. All nine league teams will have been in play by December 9.

Championship competition will open January 1 with Illinois at Wisconsin. All teams will play twelve games within the conference, playing each other Big Nine opponent at least once and four in home-and-home series. Each team plays six loop games at home and six on the road. The season will end March 3.

Nonconference schedules feature inter-sectional opposition. Three teams will make Christmas holiday trips to the West Coast. Illinois will play two games at California, Minnesota two games at the University of Washington and Ohio State two games at Washington and two at California.

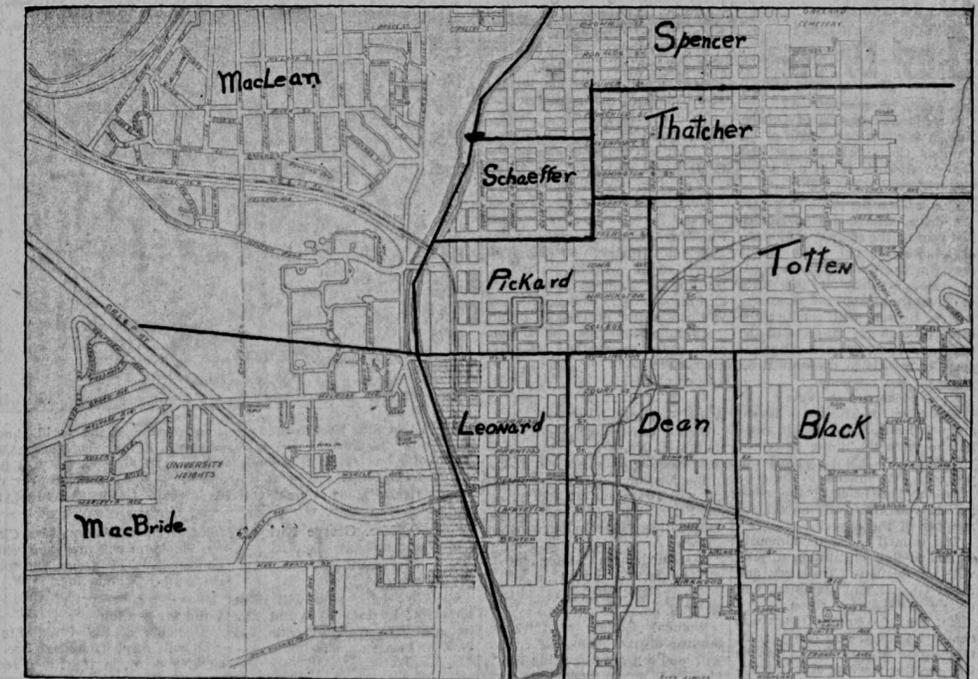

West Coast and other inter-sectional rivals will be entertained on league courts during the same period. Stanford will play at Michigan, Southern California in the Chicago Stadium against Northwestern and at Wisconsin, and U.C.L.A. at Purdue. Iowa will entertain a succession of inter-sectional rivals in St. Mary's of California, Montana State and Texas Christian.

A feature of early-season play will bring North Carolina, runners up in the last National Collegiate tournament, to the Chicago Stadium for a meeting with Northwestern. The Stadium is used alternatively with Evanston high school gymnasium as Northwestern's home floor and the Wildcats will play five of their six home conference games in that arena.

An international flavor will be added to the schedules when Illinois plays the University of Mexico at Champaign January 4.

The 1946-47 season will see two newcomers as head coaches of conference teams, one returning to his pre-war station, and another beginning his first full

With approximately 100 teams expected to register for intramural basketball competition, plans are in full swing for the winter intramural program. The season promises to be the largest in the history of the university with men from seven leagues having a choice of 11 activities.

The six leagues now in existence are the Quadrangle league, the South Quad-Kellogg-Law Commons (SKL), the married students league composed of students living in university sponsored units (MSL), the professional fraternity league, Hillcrest, and the social fraternity league. The organization of the seventh, the Town Men's league will officially take place tonight at a meeting in 221A Schaeffer hall at 7:30.

Basketball entries are due in Dr. Beebe's office by November, with the SKL and social fraternity leagues due to hit the courts on the night of December 3. Starting whistles blow for the other leagues on Dec. 4, Quadrangle and Town men; Dec. 7, professional fraternities; Dec. 10, Hillcrest; and Dec. 11, MSL.

teams for basketball will be discussed and planned at the Town Men's meeting tonight in Schaeffer hall, room 221A at 7:30 p. m. If enough men in each section register for basketball, it will be possible to form more than one team in each section.

Floors may be scheduled for pre-game warm-ups at 7, 8 or 9 p. m. between November 18 and 29 by contacting Dr. Beebe at extension 606, or at the intramural office in the fieldhouse.

No man will be eligible to participate in any group outside of his residence group or a group of which he is not a member, nor can any man play for more than one team. For this offense, a man will be barred from further competition in intramural sports and his team will be dropped from competition in that sport.

Entries for the swimming meet are also due December 3, with the first meet taking place the following day in the Quad league. Dates of application for other activities are: relays, Jan. 27; bowling, Jan. 30; handball, Feb. 3; table tennis, Feb. 7; wrestling, Feb. 14; volleyball, Feb. 24; badminton, March 4; squash, March 4 and fencing, March 5. All-university champions will be determined in basketball, handball, table tennis, wrestling, volleyball, badminton, squash and fencing.

An addition to the usual league will be the formation of a "B" league. All men who weigh under the 150 pound mark when dressed for play will be allowed to enter this league. Each league will determine a B champion. Awards will be granted as in the larger or A league.

Highlanders to Play

Bev Benson To Head Chest Drive

Beverly Benson, A2 of Omaha, Neb., was named chairman of the Campus Chest drive to be held Jan. 13 through 16, at a Student Council meeting last night.

This will be the second year for the drive, which was originated last year by the council as a means of soliciting in one drive money that would ordinarily be solicited by various organizations in a series of drives throughout the year.

Miss Benson will conduct the drive through the auspices of the Student council, and she will make periodic reports to the council on plans for the campaign.

Newsman Can Vote

The editor of The Daily Iowan and the head of the WSUI news bureau were given the power of vote when the council passed two proposed amendments to the constitution. The head of the news bureau was also made an official member of the council.

The council voted unanimously to amend the constitution to provide for election of treasurer, and Janet Gutz, A3 of Hampton, was chosen to fill that position.

Election of council officers was changed from the second regular meeting of the fall term to the first regular meeting after the all-campus vote for new council members held in the spring.

A proposal was introduced by Howard Hensleigh, L3 of Iowa City, to give married students in university housing units representation on the council. The constitutional committee was named to investigate and present a report at the next meeting.

Seek Representation

A committee to draft plans for a council-sponsored variety show to be held in December was named at the meeting. Members of the committee are Dick Youakum, G of Pittsburgh, Pa.; Dick Baxter, G of Mt. Pleasant; Herb Olson, A4 of Winfield; Dorothy Kotteman, A4 of Burlington, and Kathy Larson, A4 of Sioux Falls, S. D.

A report on the Vovier Cugat concert, sponsored by the council Nov. 4, showed a profit of $1,087.75 with local expenses not yet deducted.

Miss Larson, council secretary, read a letter from President Virgil M. Hancher stating that the board of deans had refused a council petition for an all-university holiday the Friday and Saturday after Thanksgiving. The request was not granted, President Hancher reported, because the university calendar for the school year had already been arranged.

Joan Hawkinson Elected Delta Delta Delta Head

Joan Hawkinson, A3 of Des Moines, was elected president of Delta Delta Delta sorority Monday night in the chapter house to fill the vacancy left by Ellen Larson, A4 of Dayton, Ohio, former president.

Miss Larson is leaving the university because of the serious illness of her father.

Pat Jansen, A3 of Davenport, was elected vice-president to fill the vacancy left by Miss Hawkinson, and Patricia Maloney, A2 of Cedar Rapids, is the new activities-publicity chairman.

Tea Dance to Be Held At Iowa Union Today

A tea dance will be held in the River room of the Iowa Union this afternoon from 4 to 5:30 p. m., according to Anne Pederson, P3 of Mason City, dance chairman.

Co-chairman for the dance is Robert Ray, G of Davenport, and Donald McDowell, C3 of Iowa City, is executive chairman.

Sub-committee members include: Marian Pollitz, C3 of Cedar Rapids; Max Callen, E3 of Centerville; Raymond Sutter, P3 of Burlington; Paul Taylor, A3 of Sioux City; Elmer Jones, L1 of Iowa City, and Phyllis Oltman, A3 of Oak Park, Ill.

Swanson to Address Advertising Classes

Verne Swanson, advertising manager of Armstrong's department store, Cedar Rapids, will speak to a combined meeting of advertising classes tonight at 7 o'clock in Macbride auditorium.

Agnes Fitzpatrick, Bernard Loney Wed At St. Pat's Church

Before a flower banked altar of bronze and yellow chrysanthemums, Agnes Fitzpatrick of Denver, Colo., became the bride of Bernard Loney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Loney, 823 Bowery street, at 7:45 a. m. Monday in St. Patrick's church.

Rt. Rev. Msgr. Patrick J. O'Reilly officiated at the double-ring service. William Holland, soloist, sang "O Lord I Am Not Worthy", "Ave Maria", and "Panis Angelicus", accompanied by Mrs. Mary Condon, organist.

For her wedding, Miss Fitzpatrick wore a dressmaker suit of powder blue wool complemented by a fuchsia feather hat. Her corsage was white gladioli and white pom-poms. She carried a white prayer book and wore white gloves.

Maid of honor was LaVone Loney of Iowa City. Gene Fitzpatrick, the bride's brother, served as best man.

Mrs. Loney was formerly employed at the Bell Telephone company in Denver, Colo., and is a graduate of St. Patrick's high school.

Her husband graduated from St. Patrick's high school and served in the army overseas for two and one-half years. He is now employed by Lenoch and Cilek.

Student Federalists To Vote on Acceptance Of Club Constitution

The final draft of the constitution of the newly organized Student Federalist organization will be voted on at a meeting tonight at 7:30 in the Methodist student center, Annette Stein, A1 of Ottumwa, temporary secretary of the organization, announced yesterday.

The group, organized several weeks ago, is open to any student on campus interested in federal world government.

Temporary officers include Virginia Anderson, A3 of Harcourt, and David Stanley, A1 of Muscatine, chairman; Dick Podol, A2 of Oskaloosa, and "Bud" Hockenberger, A1 of Des Moines, calling committee, and Miss Stein.

Marion Downs to Sing At Benefit Concert In Methodist Church

Marion Jackson Downs, lyric soprano of Austin, Tex., will present a benefit concert at 4 p. m. Sunday in the sanctuary of the Methodist church.

According to the Rev. Victor Goff, minister to students, benefits from the concert will go to the World Student Service fund for destitute students in Europe and to the Wesley foundation building fund.

Mrs. Downs' program will include numbers by Handel, Mozart, Schubert, Strauss, several modern selections, and a concluding group of Negro spirituals.

After the concert she will conduct a community sing in the church social rooms. The public is invited to both the concert and the sing.

Miss Romedahl Returns From Speaking Tour

Mildred Romedahl, associate counselor of Wesley foundation of the Methodist church, returned to Iowa City yesterday from a speaking tour on which she described her recent trip to Europe as a delegate to the World Student Christian federation conference.

Monday afternoon Miss Romedahl spoke at the City-wide World Community day service at the First Methodist church in Boone. Monday evening she presented movies of her trip to members of the Luther Methodist church in Luther, Iowa, and Tuesday she addressed students at the Napier Consolidated school in Ames.

Beebee to Map Plans For Town Intramurals

Dr. Fredrick F. Beebee, head of intramural sports, will outline the intramural basketball program at an Association of Town Men's meeting tonight at 7:30 p. m. in room 221A, Schaeffer hall.

Team captains will be chosen and social activities will be discussed at the meeting.

All men not in university housing are invited to attend.

Alpha Phi Omega To Elect Officers Tomorrow at Union

Active members of the local chapter of Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, will hold their semiannual election of officers tomorrow night at 7:30 in the YMCA rooms of Iowa Union.

Seven men are now serving as advisers to the fraternity, President Tom Neenan, A4 of Cedar Rapids, said yesterday.

Besides Robert L. Ballantyne of the office of student affairs, chairman of the advisory committee, the men are Prof. Jack T. Johnson of the political science department, Prof. Norman C. Meier of the psychology department, Dr. Fred L. Fehling of the German department, Marion L. Hult of the office of student affairs, Michael Hackeem of the sociology department and George Gragg, Iowa City boy scout executive.

A state convention of Alpha Phi Omega will take place Dec. 7-8. The local chapter of the fraternity will be host to four other Iowa chapters at the convention, which will be the first of its kind, according to Neenan.

Representatives of the local chapter will attend the first post-war national convention Dec. 28-29 at Kansas City, Mo., Neenan said.

Needleworkers to Meet

Officers of the local Needlework guild announced yesterday that they will hold their 14th annual ingathering Friday, Dec. 6.

On that day members of the organization will turn in all their clothing contributions to the local group. Their contributions will then be sent to needy families throughout the United States.

Meeting to Discuss Hospital Expansion Slated for Tonight

Johnson county rural leaders will meet at 7:30 tonight in Mercy hospital for the second in a series of meetings in connection with the hospital's expansion project. Two hundred invitations to the meeting have been mailed, according to W. J. Holland, West Branch, area chairman of the fund-raising campaign.

Division leaders in the business classification of the drive to raise funds for the $600,000 addition have been named and preliminary preparations completed. John Nash and E. F. Lenthe, co-chairmen of the business group, presided at the meeting of the classified section in campaign headquarters Monday.

Ten members of the advanced gifts committee met yesterday noon at the Hotel Jefferson under the chairmanship of James E. Stronks.

The campaign, with a goal of $150,000, will start soon in Iowa City and the area served by Mercy hospital. The remaining $450,000 will be furnished by the Sisters of Mercy, Chicago province.

Local AYD Group To Meet Tomorrow

The local chapter of the American Youth for Democracy will meet tomorrow night at 7:30 at the Unitarian church for election of permanent officers to serve the rest of this semester. Publicity Chairman Elaine Glasser, A3 of Brooklyn, N. Y., announced yesterday.

Plans will be discussed for the mass rally of all civic action organizations in Iowa City which AYD will sponsor soon in an attempt to solve the alleged discrimination in local barber shops against Negroes, Glasser said.

Damage Case Settled

An accident damage case scheduled for petit jury trial yesterday in district court was settled out of court over the weekend. Jurors, who reported at the courthouse yesterday morning were immediately excused by Judge James P. Gaffney.

The suit, in which Marcella P. Kearns brought damage charges against William A. Hannah, resulted from an automobile collision June 27.

Army to Accept Men For Three Year Hitches In Overseas Divisions

Sgt. Charles S. Lund, head of the Iowa City army recruiting station, announced yesterday that the war department is accepting three year enlistments in five former combat divisions now on occupation duty in the Pacific theater.

The divisions are the 1st cavalry division, and the 6th, 7th, 24th and 25th infantry divisions.

Sergeant Lund further announced that men enlisting in these units will be shipped directly from the place of enlistment to Ft. Lewis, Wash., for training and shipment to the Pacific theater.

Death Notices

Christine Redenbaugh

Funeral services for Christine, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Redenbaugh, Woodlawn apartments, who died shortly after birth at 1:15 a. m. yesterday at Mercy hospital, were held at the McGovern funeral home at 2 p. m. yesterday.

Burial was in Oakland cemetery. The Rev. James E. Waery officiated.

Seth Mann Jr.

Military funeral services will be held at 9 a. m. tomorrow at St. Mary's church for Seth Mann Jr., 25-year-old farmer and navy veteran of World War II, 525 S. Johnson street, who died at Mercy hospital at 10:45 a. m. yesterday following an illness of several months.

Survivors include his wife; one daughter, Susan Kay; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Seth Mann Sr., and two brothers, Kenneth and Charles of Oxford.

Mann was born Oct. 12, 1921, at Oxford. After attending University high school here he enlisted in the navy and served three and one-half years in the south Pacific. He was married to Marian Halsch July 24, 1945.

The rosary will be said at the McGovern funeral home at 8 o'clock tonight. Burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery.

The number of white collar workers in the U. S. grew from under 15 percent of the working force in 1910 to almost 24 percent in 1940.

HANCHER SPEAKS AT MUSIC ASSOCIATION DINNER

Killing Frost Hints That Winter's Here

Unseasonably warm fall weather ended, at least temporarily, here yesterday morning when a 24 degree temperature was recorded between 6 and 7 a. m. by the CAA weather station at the municipal airport.

It was the first killing frost of the season here and reported to be the latest ever recorded.

Temperature yesterday climbed back into the 40's and a high of 45 was recorded late yesterday afternoon.

Unofficial forecasts predict that clear but cool weather will remain in Iowa City for two days.

Service station operators reported that several students and townspeople who had delayed putting anti-freeze in their automobiles had frozen engines yesterday morning. Windows of automobiles that were left outdoors were coated with a heavy layer of frost.

Emmett C. Gardner, county extension director, said yesterday that the frost would be "very beneficial" in drying out Johnson county corn. The corn has been generally too wet to store, with moisture content averaging 26 percent. To avoid spoiling, corn should not be piled before moisture content has dropped to at least 21 percent.

Farm Bureau Leaders To Meet Tomorrow, Plan Membership Drive

Johnson county Farm Bureau leaders will meet at 6:30 p. m. Thursday in the Jefferson hotel to plan a county-wide membership drive which will begin Dec. 9, according to Emmett C. Gardner, county extension director.

The organization now has a membership of 1,101 and plans to increase it to 1,250. If its membership goal is reached, the Farm Bureau will include 50 percent of Johnson county farmers, Gardner said.

The Farm Bureau board, the organization committee and 21 township captains will attend the meeting Thursday. One and possibly two more planning meetings will be held before the beginning of the ten-day drive.

The Farm Bureau, which has over 100,000 members in Iowa, has doubled its membership in Johnson county since 1940.

Build New Entrance

The newly constructed east entrance to the Catholic Student center is open for use, according to the Rev. Leonard J. Brugman, director of the center.

The new entrance will accommodate residents of Riverdale and students living in the Riverside area.

Ten Persons Pay Police Court Fines

Ten persons yesterday paid a total of $139 in police court fines which ranged from $22.50 to $6.50. Speeding and disturbing the peace were the most common offenses with three men fined for each. Four other fines were paid for malicious mischief and traffic violations.

Donald W. Poggenpohl, 307 S. Madison street, and L. J. Garlock, Clinton, were fined $22.50 each for speeding, and Wilbur Dodge, Streator, Ill., paid $20 for a similar offense.

Fined for disturbing the peace were Clarence Goff, $16.50, and Richard Gough and John E. Stahle, $11.50 each.

Bennie Abbott, City cab driver, was fined $11.50 for failure to have his car under control Sunday when he was involved in an accident at the corner of Dubuque and Court streets.

Two fines totaling $10 were paid by James B. McKenzie, Hillcrest, for driving through a stop sign and driving a car without license plates.

Two students, Robert McHugh, Hillcrest, and Charles Ziskovsky, Fieldhouse, paid $6.50 each for malicious mischief.

Dungeon Expose Rumors Are Flying —She's Denying

"The joint is a dungeon. They haul in unsuspecting medical students and chain them to their seats. Then the exams begin — those who fail are tickled with a scalpel until they cry 'sacroiliac', and then they are summarily dismissed from the school."

Such were the rumors that reached the news room of The Daily Iowan yesterday concerning the system for giving tests in the college of medicine.

Loaded for bear and brutalities, a reporter left for the alleged Mayhem Manor (medical laboratories, to you) after hearing that examination techniques in the college were weird rites held in a dungeon-like room for the discouraging of ambitious medics.

Visions of a 'dungeon expose' vanished when Alice White, secretary to Dean E. M. McEwen of the college of medicine, led the doubting lad into the basement of the medical laboratories where the examination room is located.

The room was large and high. Seats were placed at intervals of three to four feet and the atmosphere was as comfortable as an examination room could ever be.

"The room seats 120 students," Miss White pointed out. "They receive their examination papers as they come through the door and take seats corresponding to the numbers on the examination."

"But where," inquired the reporter, "are the chains and locks to hold the poor kids in their seats?"

Long and careful explanation finally dispelled the reporter's doubts. He discovered there was no truth to the rumor that the doors to the room were locked during examinations.

"I think someone has been pulling your leg," Miss White smiled. "We are really quite civilized here."

The reporter was inclined to agree.

L.E. Dennis to Speak

Lawrence E. Dennis, instructor in the political science department, will speak on the "Significance of the Recent Congressional Election" before a women's physical education assembly at 8:30 tomorrow morning.

The assembly is sponsored by the women's physical education council and meets every week, according to Alice Adair, A4 of Redding, head of the council.

Frank Messer Reports $100 Campaign Costs

Frank Messer, Iowa City, unsuccessful Democratic candidate for the supreme court, reported to the secretary of state yesterday he spent $100 in his first district campaign.

"Highest campaign costs filed, as required by law, were incurred by Philip Allen, Onawa Democrat, who reported he spent $1,862 in his unsuccessful campaign for seventh district Iowa congressman.

Lowest cost was three cents, listed by J. W. Anderson, Sioux City Democrat, who lost in his race for justice of the state supreme court. He said the three cents was the cost of postage for mailing his return.

Four Teams Remain In Town Bridge Play

Four sets of partners remain after one night of play in the all-university contract bridge tournament or town men and women at the Iowa Union lounge, Gwen Oppenheimer, A3 of Marshalltown, chairman of the bridge and games sub-committee announced yesterday.

The semi-finals for yesterday's winners will be played today from 4:30 to 6:30 p. m. at the Iowa Union lounge under the direction of members of the bridge and games subcommittee. Finals are scheduled for Wednesday night.

Tonight's winners include Charles Igram, A2 of Cedar Rapids and Monty Putne, A2 of Shenandoah, Tom Marsh, A3 of Cedar Falls and John Goodrich, A2 of Waterloo, Richard B. Brustein, G of Newark, N. J., and Hal H. Goonen, E4 of Newark, N. J., Herb Olson, A4 of Winfield and Wayne Sands, M4 of Clinton.

Former SUI Student Leaves for Europe

Betty R. Liechty, former university student from Kingsley, Iowa, was among 125 American Red Cross workers who sailed from New York recently for assignment in United States occupied zones in Europe, the American Red Cross at St. Louis announced yesterday.

Before joining the Red Cross staff in 1943, Miss Liechty taught school for three years. She is a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority.

City High Students To Present Comedy

A comedy play, "My Sister Eileen," will be presented at 8 p. m. Friday in the big auditorium of City high school by the City high school junior class.

The technical staff includes: Director, Lola C. Hughes; assistants, Edith Slavata, Virginia Williamson, Ann Lawson, Patsy Kelley and Cleone Schneck; stage construction manager, Paul Bowlers.

Stage crew, Harold Brawner, James Brown, Jack Davis, David Dunlap, Eldon Happ, Lyle Lord, Dick Reece and Bill Reichardt; stage manager, Charles Kelley; lights, Gaylord Graham, James Poland and Francis Spencer.

Properties, Stanley Kaiser, Flora Boulton, Virginia Bireline, Norma Tallman and Arlene Wolfe; costumes, Joan Conover and Betty Lynch.

Make-up, Joy Ashton, Clara Crumley, Betty Bort, Betty Bolinger, Marilyn Boyle, Louise Cannon, Darlene Barker, Edith Slavata, Betty Lynch and Betty Schaefer.
