Russia Balks Veto Change Discussions

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y. (AP)—Soviet Russia in a dramatic re-statement of policy denounced last night all attempts to discard or change the veto system in the United Nations security council. This apparently included even talking about it further in the foreign ministers meetings in New York City.

The Soviet delegation's statement to the political committee of the U N assembly came unexpectedly within four hours after V. M. Molotov, Soviet foreign minister, had sat down in New York with representatives of the four other powers to talk over the complaints of the small nations against the veto.

Russia thus stated again its categorical opposition to all attempts to change the charter either to modify or discard the veto; to considering motions designed to effect those changes; and even to a French proposal that discussion be postponed in the committee for two or three days while the foreign ministers talked it over.

Over the opposition of Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet Delegate, the French proposal was adopted by a vote of 38 to 6, with five nations abstaining.

Australia, one of the chief critics of the veto, abstained but Paul Hasluck, Australian delegate, said after the balloting that in view of the "disappointing" declaration of Soviet Russia the "earlier we get back to this the better."

At the meeting of foreign ministers in New York yesterday, Molotov reserved the right to reject all suggestions for changing the veto system.

New Zealand rejected yesterday as "completely unacceptable" a Soviet-supported Indian proposal that the administration of trust territories be transferred from individual nations to the United Nations.

The 51-member budgetary committee heard U. S. Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Mich.) warn that the possibility of "overspending" is a greater threat to the U. N. than even the veto.

In the budgetary committee, Russia refused to take part in plans for UN purchase of League of Nations property unless Russia is given a share of the payment to the defunct peace agency. Russia was expelled from the league when the Red army invaded Finland and the league cut the Soviet Union off without a penny when it expired this year.

The first assembly session in more than a week will be held today to receive three new members into the United Nations.

At 9:15 a. m. (C.S.T.) representatives of Afghanistan, Iceland and Sweden will meet Paul-Henri Spaak, assembly president, Trygve Lie, UN secretary general, and the eight assistant secretaries-general, in an ornate conference room at the Flushing Meadow assembly hall.

He declined to identify the "invaders" but said they were "entrenched along a solid line, the ends of which are tied to the Yugoslav border."

Jimmy Walker Dies After Long Illness

Former New York City Mayor Was Symbol Of 'Mad Twenties'

JAMES J. WALKER

NEW YORK (AP)—James J. Walker, 65, former New York mayor and one of the city's most colorful personalities, died last night at 6:25 p. m. in Doctors hospital.

Walker was taken to the hospital early Sunday morning suffering from a blood clot on the brain and had been in a coma since. He had been in ill health for several months.

Last rites of the Roman Catholic church were performed for him at the hospital Sunday.

Walker's life mirrored the times and the city in which he lived. When elected mayor in November, 1925, after a career as a lawyer and Democratic state assemblyman and senator, Walker set out to put New York City on the map. His silk topper and suave manner became a symbol of the "Mad Twenties"—the age of prohibition and get-rich-quick.

He pleaded for Mooney's Release

In 1931 he ran against popular opinion by appearing before the Governor of California to plead, vainly, for the release from prison of Tom Mooney, who then was serving a life sentence for his alleged part in San Francisco's Preparedness Day parade bombing.

Re-elected in 1929, Walker quit his mayor's post during the Seabury investigations which accused him of malfeasance in office and demanded his removal.

He went on trial for his political life before then Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt in August, 1932, and two weeks later resigned without completing his defense. He spent the next few years in Europe.

Sponsors Liberal Legislation

During 15 years in the state legislature Walker sponsored considerable legislation of a liberal character, including bills providing for Sunday baseball and motion pictures. He fathered the Walker boxing law, which legalized boxing in the state, taking it away from the domain of private clubs only. He also sponsored a law requiring the Ku Klux Klan to register its membership with the secretary of state.

Walker married Janet Allen in 1912. They were divorced in 1933, and Walker married actress Betty Compton at Cannes, France. His second marriage also ended in divorce seven years later.

He settled down to become a gentleman farmer and adopted two children, Mary Ann, now 11, and James J., Jr., 10.

Nebraska's Governor Given Post in Germany

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. Dwight P. Griswold of Nebraska has been appointed to the staff of Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, the military governor of the United States zone in Germany, the war department announced today.

ODT Orders Passenger Travel Curbed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government yesterday ordered a 25 percent cut in passenger service provided by coal-burning locomotives starting Sunday night and disclosed that freight restrictions, too, are under consideration.

The order is designed to save 12,000 tons of soft coal a day in view of the threatened strike.

It was promulgated by the office of defense transportation even before the justice department obtained its temporary restraining order against John L. Lewis, but it was not announced until shortly afterward. Apparently it will remain in effect at least until the outcome of the legal test set for Nov. 27, but may be lifted quickly then if the strike threat evaporates.

The order to reduce passenger mileage 25 percent from the Nov. 1 schedules leaves it up to the individual railroads just where they will cut their services. It becomes effective at 11:59 p. m. (eastern standard time — 10:59 PCS) next Sunday.

The ODT reported that the railroads have only a 30-day coal supply on hand, on the average. Six roads have 10 to 15 days' supplies, and 10 roads have less than 10 days' supplies.

At the same time car loadings are at the seasonal peak and the roads are carrying a heavier freight volume than at any period since 1930.

Diels to Aid Railroads Bridge Coal Shortage

CHICAGO (AP)—Most railroads operating out of Chicago reported last night they are better equipped to meet the government's order to cut coal consuming passenger service 25 percent than last spring when a similar curtailment order was issued.

The reason, the railroads said, is that they now have more diesel engines and fewer of the coal burning type.

This was the situation reported by individual lines:

Illinois Central — Widespread dieselization was expected to make it easier for the I. C. to furnish essential transportation, yet reduce passenger service by 3,700 miles daily. Chicago-St. Louis service is entirely dieselized. One diesel train daily operates between Chicago and Iowa.

Burlington — Main line to the west is heavily dieselized. However, many steam trains still are in operation and schedules will have to be curtailed.

Officials Fear Coal Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dire forecasts of the effect of a soft coal strike on every phase of the nation's life were made by eight government officials yesterday in affidavits supporting the government's restraining order against John L. Lewis.

This is what they swore:

Secretary of the Interior Krug—"The general welfare and the national economy would be vitally and irreparably damaged" by a soft coal strike. There were 57,000,000 tons on hand Saturday. Within 60 days a coal strike would close 64 percent of electrical power utilities, 60 percent of steel and rolling mills, 90 percent of by-product coke plants, 86 percent of class 1 railroads, 90 percent of cement mills and 70 percent of other industrials."

Secretary of the Navy Forrestal—"Any reduction of rail and other transportation will hit the navy directly. And "any curtailment of the nation's industry and transportation facilities" will hamper

Lierle Charges AYD 'Oversteps Bounds'

Attacks Intervention Of Group in Local Barber Shop Issue

Dean M. Lierle Jr., AI of Iowa City, last night charged that American Youth for Democracy "has overstepped its bounds" in taking the local barber shop issue "into its hands."

Lierle, who said he represented Canterbury club, made the charge at an AYD-sponsored meeting of campus and town organizations called to discuss plans for a demonstration rally against alleged discrimination against Negroes in local barber shops.

"I want to know," Lierle said, "why AYD took the initiative in this dispute from the Social Action committee."

"I personally don't like AYD," Lierle said, and insisted that a group with a "better reputation" take over leadership in organizing the proposed "educational rally."

Addressing meeting Chairman Charles Grosser, AI of New York City, president of AYD, Lierle declared, "Your interest is apparently in the interest only of AYD."

Grosser then offered to resign the chair, but was given a 13-10 vote of confidence on a second show of hands.

A lengthy dispute followed as to whether university organizations should take the initiative in this "town problem" or whether Iowa City civic, fraternal and social organizations which failed to represent themselves at last night's meeting should be asked again to cooperate and take the initiative.

Commenting on the need for planned action, the Rev. Elmer E. Dierks of the First Baptist church, stated that present plans for the rally should be formulated so that the issue would not compromise any one group through premature publicity before concrete plans had been formed.

The meeting ended in a vote by the 11 organizations' "unofficial representatives" to meet again one week from tonight to map further plans for the proposed rally.

CIO Condemns Communist Interferences

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—The CIO convention—taking time out from talk of higher wages in 1947—yesterday condemned Communist interferences with its unions.

Pushed by President Philip Murray, a policy declaration opposed to Communist activities in union affairs was passed unanimously by 560 delegates to the CIO's eighth convention.

Earlier in a keynote address Murray declared "unprecedented" corporation profits in 1946 were a greater threat to the nation than any threats of Communism.

Murray, who pointed the convention toward a higher wage drive in 1947, said the policy declaration was "not CIO legislation. He declared "legislation concerning the subject is one that becomes the exclusive property of each of the unions."

Murray in his address punched across these points:

1. The most important business of the convention was to plan for wage increases.
2. The rate of business profits after taxes for 1946 was $15,000,000,000, three times 1939 profits.
3. That while the Communist party threatened "our government, our institutions," business profits were a "far greater threat than anything that has ever confronted the American people."
4. The Republican party was "mistaken" if it thought its victory in the recent election gave it the right to "crucify" labor.

Maritime Strike Settlement Expected Soon

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Conclusion of the seven-week-old Pacific coast maritime tieup, by the coming weekend was in sight last night, dependent only on settlement of the disputed issues of preferential hiring and Alaskan pilotage pay demanded by AFL deck officers.

The log jam in negotiations was broken Sunday when a settlement was reached between employers and Harry Bridges' CIO longshoremen and CIO marine fire-

Disobedience Might Jail UMW Chief

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal court yesterday ordered John L. Lewis to haul down his signal for a soft coal strike as President Truman sent four cabinet members on the warpath against him.

A temporary restraining order by Justice T. Alan Goldsborough directed Lewis to tear up his contract termination notice and make no slightest signal that could start a mine walkout. Jail could be the penalty for disobedience.

But already at least 32,000 miners were idle and pits closed down in seven states. The fate of future operations was uncertain. The court order does not compel the miners to work.

Attorney General Clark procured the order with affidavits from the secretaries of war, navy and interior, plus five other top officials. They detailed dire consequences that a strike would cause in every phase of the nation's life.

Mr. Truman, vacationing at Key West, Fla., held two telephone conferences apiece with Clark and Secretary of the Interior Krug. His secretary, Charles G. Ross, said that "the president is aware of everything that is being done, and everything that is being done is being done in accordance with his instructions."

The temporary restraining order is the first phase of a legal battle in which the government seeks a declaratory judgment against Lewis which would outlaw any strike or contract termination as long as the government operates the mines.

The order runs until 3 p. m. Nov. 27. At 10 a. m. that day, Justice Goldsborough will consider the government's plea for a temporary injunction pending his final decision, and hear arguments of attorneys for the government and the United Mine Workers.

The order restrains Lewis and all his associates from:

1. Permitting the contract termination notice to continue in effect.
2. Issuing or publicizing any notice that the contract has been or will be terminated while the mines are in government possession.
3. Breaching the contract.
4. Inducing or encouraging the miners to strike, slow down or otherwise interfere with operations of the mines.
5. Interfering with the court's jurisdiction.

Attorney General Clark, in the memorandum asking for the restraining order, declared that Lewis' contract termination notice was "unlawful" on three grounds:

1. It breaches his contract with the government, which says it is for the duration of government possession of the mines. Lewis has contended, however, that a reopening clause from previous contracts with the private owners is continued in the government pact.
2. It instigates a strike in the government-held mines, violating the public policy declared by congress in the Smith-Connally act under which the mines were seized. The policy, Clark argued, is that such facilities shall continue in uninterrupted production.
3. It interferes with "sovereign functions of the United States" necessary to insure operation of the mines "in the interest of the war effort and to preserve the economic structure in the present emergency."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR:

Council Asked 4-Day Thanksgiving Holiday

(Once received letters to the editor become the property of this newspaper and we reserve the right to edit them or withhold them altogether. Unsigned letters will not be published. Views expressed in letters do not necessarily represent those of The Daily Iowan—The Editor.)

TO THE DAILY IOWAN:

It seems to me that a natural reaction to the letter published in Sunday's Daily Iowan from the seven veterans who want Thanksgiving at home would be "Why doesn't the Student council do something about it?"

To forestall such a question, I would like to tell you exactly what has been done. The Student council sent a petition to the president's office in October, which was immediately referred to the university calendar committee. That committee gave a great deal of thought to the petition, made recommendations, and the petition was then brought up at a meeting of the board of deans of the university.

The request for a Thanksgiving holiday has been carefully considered—in fact, it was about a month after we sent in the petition that we received the reply. It is not an arbitrary decision made by an unsympathetic faculty; rather, all factors were carefully weighed, and it was finally decided that it would do more harm than good to upset the work schedule for class lectures and laboratories, which had been planned a year ago.

I feel that the students have the right to know exactly what was done, so following is a copy of the petition filed by the Student Council, and a copy of President Hancker's reply.

"The council on student affairs, on behalf of, and at the request of constituents, voted unanimously at a regular meeting on Oct. 8 to petition the university administration for an all-university holiday the Friday and Saturday following Thanksgiving. This would give many students a chance to get home for the holiday—for many their first Thanksgiving at home in several years.

"Also the council feels that since the university is no longer on the accelerated war schedule, such arrangements might well be made.

"The council would appreciate immediate faculty consideration of this petition, and recommends that such a holiday be granted."

And the reply: "Recently I had occasion to consider the request of the council on student affairs that an all-university holiday be granted on Friday and Saturday following Thanksgiving. That request was referred to the appropriate committee for consideration and was considered at a meeting of the board of deans of the university. It was decided that no change should be made in the calendar at this time because schedules have been fixed for some time, and programs of work planned in accordance with the stated calendar."

KATHRYN LARSON, Secretary, Council on Student Affairs

all professor's doctrines—"more work and more hours for those indolent students." So, with all this in view, one can see that it would be no less than catastrophic... to allow more than one day of vacation.

Seriously, though, I'd like to know the real reason and hope that through channels of the Iowan I'll be able to find out. Too, I doubt that anything can be done, but just wanted to add my plea to the hundreds that will probably be received.

TO THE DAILY IOWAN:

We are just three more of the many veterans on campus who agree wholeheartedly with the seven who want Thanksgiving at home this year. Almost every college in Iowa is granting a four-day holiday, thus permitting many fellows and girls who have been unable to go home for Thanksgiving in the past years to do so this year.

Not only these persons, but many others who live outside a 50 or 100 mile radius, would be able to go home, too. Think of the hundreds of students who live in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Illinois, or even in Iowa, just a little too far away for one day, who will be spending that day (a national holiday) at the Union or at a downtown cafe.

These seven fellows are not alone in having the heart to tell their folks they won't be able to be home to help them celebrate their first Thanksgiving for many years. There are hundreds, yes, perhaps, thousands of students who feel the same way. And, one could hardly blame these students for going AWOL Wednesday afternoon and not reporting back to duty until Monday morning.

DALE E. CORRELL, EUGENE BURMEISTER, BILL YEOMAN

TO THE DAILY IOWAN:

I'm among those thousands of veterans referred to by the seven veterans whose letter was published in Sunday's edition of your paper. My folks and my wife's folks are both making plans for a Thanksgiving together. As yet I haven't had the heart to tell them we just can't make it. Maybe I have a shred of hope that something will be done about this situation. I am luckier than some, though. This will only be my third Thanksgiving away from home. After I received my discharge from the Navy, there was the thought that freedom would be mine again. At last we have the right to sign a petition, but I think it's a sad situation when that sort of thing has to be the last resort as it has been in many colleges and universities. I'm not condemning those who have made this rule, but, won't they reconsider the problem with the thought that quite possibly that one day spent here at school is worth sacrificing for a much deserved Thanksgiving at home... or is it that a petition is our only chance? If so, let's not wait 'till it's too late.

Mr. Hughes Repeats, 'Go to Moscow'

This is in reply to Stanley S. Kalender and can also serve as a reply to anyone else who may have misunderstood my recent letter, in which I advised certain individuals to take a one-way trip to Moscow.

I certainly did not mean to imply that anyone who has the slightest criticism of our government should leave the country. Probably nobody is ever perfectly satisfied with the way things are run and to speak out against what you don't like is the American way. But when Mr. Park states flatly that Russia is offering "the democratic and freedom-loving peoples of the world" more than the United States is offering them, I can only draw one conclusion: Mr. Park is endorsing the Russian form of government over that of the United States. And in that conclusion I am sure that any unbiased observer could not help but agree with me.

I do think before I speak, Mr. Kalender. And that is precisely what I speak as I do. I think about what would happen to this country if we adopted dictatorial Communism. And so I say: it's your privilege, even your duty, to call attention to what you believe to be the evils of our government; but to those, such as Steve Park, who are basically unsatisfied with our democratic way of life in this country, I repeat—GO TO MOSCOW AND STAY THERE.

Proposed Tax Slash Makes One Wonder

By SAMUEL GRAFTON New York Post Syndicate

The political change coming over us is like a change in climate. Not only are the Republicans going to new things, but they are going to do them in a new way. That way is rather rough-and-ready; a technique exemplified in the proposal to cut personal income taxes by "20 percent for everybody." That sounds fair, and the plan is neat enough, like a Christmas bonus, but one wonders if this is the right way to run a government.

The cut means three billions less in revenue, more than it took to develop the atomic bomb, an enormous amount of money, a great weapon to be used for good or ill. Now surely, some tax cuts are more socially useful than others; deeper cuts in the lower brackets, for example, where almost all income received is spent, might stave off recession, or even avert cost-of-living strikes.

Three billions would give the government a lot of room in which to maneuver, and do some careful figuring, to get the best for the money; but no, it is to be "20 percent across the board." In an age in which almost every industrial process is checked by electronic devices, it still seems permissible to conduct an operation on government with an axe.

The same spirit shows up in the plan by Representative Taber, of New York (who will be chairman of the next house appropriations committee) to fire 1,000,000 government employees. Now a truly scientific inquiry might show that only 999,999 should be fired, but Mr. Taber seems not to care. Or it might turn out that only 354,976 should go, if government is to remain efficient and do the maximum job for all of us. This business of starting with the round number, instead of with the facts of life, seems to me to be characteristic of the new spirit. All of the Republican's deep-seated hostility to government, and distrust of it, is wrapped up in this operating method.

One feels it again in the blast by Representative Thomas A. Jen- in a deterioration of our relations with other countries."

Professor Robeson cited the appeasement of business interests, the dropping of lend-lease without warning and the sidetracking of the loan requested by Russia as examples of a lack of vision which "make other nations think we are turning away from cooperation and internationalism."

"Our internal policies on price decontrol have cheapened the value of loans we have made," according to Professor Robeson. "Other nations view this as 'dirty pool'."

He listed England, Denmark and Sweden as countries which are "turning to other nations who know that trade is a 'two-way proposition. We want to sell but we are not inclined to buy.'"

Commenting on the dismissal of Wallace from the president's cabinet, Professor Robeson described this incident as the "crowning example" of short-sightedness. "Wallace was the only remaining symbol of international cooperation and goodwill," he maintained.

Poison—South of the Border

We hear so much about the eastern and western blocs in the postwar society of nations that we are overlooking a growing evidence of the emergence of still another bloc, a bloc which is potentially more dangerous than either of the first two.

So far this third bloc has been little more than an idea in the mind of one man—Dr. Jose Arce, chief delegate to the United Nations from fascist Argentina. Dr. Arce has been working overtime since the general assembly opened its current session trying to build his third bloc. He has called frequent conferences of Latin American states in an effort to organize them into a united front which would, of course, champion the Argentine way.

It appears that Dr. Arce is counting on Argentina's recognized economic influence in South America. He evidently hopes to win for Argentina political prestige among all nations as well as a seat on the economic and social council.

Early in the assembly, for instance, he proposed that the economic and social council be expanded from 18 to 24 members. And when most of the delegates indicated that such a move was out of order at this time, Dr. Arce then proceeded to attempt to seat Argentina on the council as it now stands. It has already been generally agreed that Mexico should have this representation, but Argentina's entry into the fight may force a more conservative compromise choice.

And in the assembly's political committee, Dr. Arce, recognizing that a majority of the UN's battles are being fought on a procedural level, has already won a minor victory. He submitted to the committee an amendment to a membership resolution, a procedural maneuver which re-defined the membership powers of the general assembly over the security council. This amendment was approved, 20 to 14, with 15 abstentions.

The significance of this approval was that no less than 15 of the delegates voting to pass the amendments were from Latin American nations. Panama was the only Latin American state voting against it, Venezuela abstained and Mexico and Nicaragua were absent. The United States as well as Russia, China and France voted against the amendment.

It would seem, therefore, that Argentina was on that occasion speaking for practically the whole of Latin America. This is not to say that the Latin American states have been in such united agreement on all issues, but on this particular issue the influence of Dr. Arce as a self-appointed spokesman for a third bloc is unquestionable.

A bloc of Latin American nations is a dangerous thing for the same reasons that the present eastern and western blocs are dangerous. But any bloc which is dominated by a fascist state such as Argentina is doubly dangerous. Its influence could possibly be such as to destroy the whole purpose and nature of the United Nations.

Industrial Engineering Survey Published

By JOHN MATPELL

Latest in a 10-year series from the Iowa Industrial Engineering laboratory, an "Industrial Engineering Survey" by Dr. Ralph M. Barnes, professor of industrial engineering, was published last week. The survey, reporting results of an industrial engineering questionnaire sent last winter to more than 80 manufacturing industries, is the newest result of the laboratory's motion and time studies research program.

Since 1936 the Industrial Engineering laboratory has been doing research on ways of making assembly-line processes easier for workers and less costly for managers.

For instance, as a result of a project testing five different styles of foot pedals for machines, the local laboratory has decided on one design easiest for an operator to use.

A recent extension of these so-called time and motion studies has been a work measurement project, the results of which are useful especially in industries where pay is made proportional to individual workers' output.

Dr. Barnes and his assistants have been helped by more than 4,000 engineers in 500 industries to set up scientific standards for measuring how much work it is to do a given job. From this start they find out how much should be expected of a worker on that job in an eight-hour day, how much more pay should be given for added production, and how the pay for two jobs should compare. They think eventually a national standard "day's work" can be defined.

To spread results of these researches performed at the university and confirmed by special tests elsewhere, the Iowa Industrial Engineering laboratory has published more than 50 bulletins, articles, and books, largely with Dr. Barnes' name as author, since 1936.

Sixty motion pictures on time and motion studies made or obtained by the laboratory and distributed by the university bureau of visual education have been seen by over a quarter million people a year.

And in nine years, the three-week Iowa Summer Management course has integrated the results of Iowa researchers with the best in other management methods for 500 industrial engineers. So pop-

Can We Balance Old, New Religions, Dr. Bach Questions

Can we maintain old traditions which God has set up, and go ahead with enthusiasm of new religions, balancing the two into a final happy medium? That was the problem presented last evening at a meeting of the City high school P.T.A. by Dr. Marcus Bach of the University of Iowa school of religion.

Elaborating on two little-known religions, Unity School of Christianity and Psychiana, Dr. Bach explained how these forms of worship mean at least as much to their followers as do the more commonly-known religions.

The Unity School of Christianity began in a small building on a muddy road in Kansas, and had as its founder a man named Charles Fillmore. Thinking perhaps the church, or a small fragment of its original structure, might remain, Dr. Bach revisited the spot 20 years after first seeing it. To his surprise there had grown up around this church a small city called Unity City; and where there had been only a muddy road before now two main highways intersect.

Illustrating the faith of the believers in these religions, Dr. Bach cited the case of a follower of Psychiana who believed herself to be cured completely of diabetes, stopped taking insulin, and was well. Although it is hard to believe that psychology could exist in religion to such a degree, examples like that occur repeatedly, Dr. Bach asserted.

Along with these external pressures comes pressure from within in the form of the most-favored of

His trip to Iowa City is sponsored by the Lutheran Students association. By vote of the Student Christian council advisory committee, each student church group in Iowa City has elected to contribute to the WSCF to help with the tour.

Spinsters See Sunrise In Rush for Tickets

"Mornin', you look kinda dead this a. m." "Please, girls, go to the end of the line in the main lounge." "Hey, look. There's a fellow in line. Somebody must've talked fast." "Girls, let's keep this a single line."

Conversation was high for 6:30 a. m. when Iowa 'spinsters' buying tickets for their "spree" Saturday night formed a line that completely surrounded the main lounge of Iowa Union yesterday morning.

Though 68 tickets were sold in the first ten minutes, there are still 100 left.

Girls walking victoriously away from the desk voiced the unanimous opinion, "Gee, I just hope the fellows appreciate all this."

French People Seek Aid from Russians, Barzun Declares

The French government is looking toward Russia instead of the United States for help, Dr. Henri Barzun, former visiting lecturer in the university Romance languages department, said in an address here yesterday.

"The Communist party has gained power in recent elections because the Russian government is offering the people of France a new house, while the United States is offering the old one they had before the war," Dr. Barzun explained.

Stressing that the over-population of Europe has always been a threat to the economic wealth of a nation, Professor Barzun said that France asked 16 years ago for food and economic changes to save Europe from another war.

Europe is divided into two camps—Socialism and Communism. The continent is in the same position it was 10 years before the war. More industries will be established throughout Europe, and France must do the same to survive as a leading nation, Professor Barzun said.

Controversy Looms Over Rose Bowl Pact

Big 9-Pacific Coast Moguls Meet Today

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Southern California chapter of the Football Writers association unanimously adopted a vigorous resolution yesterday urging the Pacific Coast conference and the Western conference, at their unprecedented meeting in Berkeley today, to issue a joint invitation to Army to play in the Rose Bowl New Year's day.

Members, before a gathering of more than 60 grid officials and experts, declared, in part, . . . whereas, Army is willing to play in the Rose Bowl, . . . Army represents the middle states as well as the western states, . . . Army's three-year record makes it the greatest in the land, . . . the Southern California public is completely convinced Army should play in this, Southern California's own Rose Bowl . . . It should be invited."

The resolution noted that "the proposed Rose Bowl agreement between the Western and Pacific Coast conferences will be irreparably harmed at its inception by a nationwide wave of criticism if Army is not now invited."

Meanwhile officials of the two conferences were either in route or already in Berkeley for the session today to discuss the proposed five-year Rose Bowl pact between the two loops.

On-the-record comment was scarce, but representatives of the two colleges here. Southern California and U. C. L. A., were said to be prepared to back a recommendation that the two conferences jointly invite Army to Pasadena. The two schools' teams meet Saturday to decide the coast championship—and the Rose Bowl honor.

The last word received here from Commissioner K. L. Wilson of the Western, or Big Nine, was: "We have no comment regarding the possibility of the bid going to Army."

A controversy loomed in the Pacific-Big Nine pact proposal. Some quarters predicted a behind-the-scenes battle over the long brewing agreement, with several northern schools said to object to a closed door policy which would exclude all but Big Nine teams playing in the bowl.

Army Coaches Worried

Navy's Much Beaten Admirals Present Tough Problem Blaik's Aides Declare

NEW YORK (AP)—Army's football team, which took some battering in last Saturday's decisive victory over Pennsylvania, should be at full strength for its climactic contest with Navy, Nov. 30. But even that knowledge can't make optimists out of Coach Earl Blaik and his staff.

Large Herman Hickman, the line coach, and his first assistant, Col. Harvey (Jabbo) Jablonsky, came down from West Point yesterday to report to the weekly session of the New York Football Writers' association and they stressed the "Blaik fears Navy" theme to the best of their ability.

Quarterback Arnold Tucker and Tackle Goble Bryant, both hurt in the Penn game, and Shelton Biles, the other first string tackle who was injured in practice last week, all should be ready to play against Navy, Hickman said. In addition Herschel (Ug) Fuson, who has been out since the West Virginia game with a shoulder separation, likely will be able to play.

Tucker hurt an ankle on the third play against Penn, limped through the first half and then retired. His ankle still was swollen yesterday. Hickman said, but he should be able to run within a few days. Bryant suffered a badly gashed hand in the game while Biles, twisted his knee Thursday in a scrimmage that ordinarily wouldn't have been held.

"In my four years at West Point we never have been as worried about any game as we were about Penn and we never have worked so hard," Hickman explained. "The boys were down after that scoreless tie with Notre Dame. They felt they had wasted their opportunities to score. So we took them out Tuesday and had a hard scrimmage. I never saw the team look worse. Wednesday we scrimmaged again and looked still worse so Thursday, the day that Army never has a hard drill, we scrimmaged again.

"After the first few minutes of the Penn game they came back and played about the best game of the year."

"We're afraid of Navy," Hickman insisted. "It always is a tough game and they're liable to get in there and claw our eyes out."

Navy After Smelly Goat

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Gov. Coke Stevenson of Texas calculated yesterday to get the Navy's goat—to help Navy beat Army Nov. 30.

He put feelers out for the smelliest, toughest, meanest, buttingest, old Billy in the state to sub for last year's gift of a blue-blooded but apparently meek Angora he sent the Naval academy for a mascot.

After the Midshipmen lost their seventh straight game Capt. E. B. Taylor, athletic director turned to Texas for help.

"The goat we now have is of blue blood. We are looking for red blood this time. We are determined to beat the Army and we want a tough goat to help us," he telegraphed Gov. Stevenson.

Capt. Taylor added the Navy wanted a goat that was not only mean, tough and smelly, but one that hated mules.

has a zestful enthusiasm for the game, but has a distinct preference for "Saturday only" competition.

Addressing the Herald-American quarterback meeting, the Hawkeye mentor, himself back from military medical service, asserted:

"I have never had a team that got a bigger kick out of playing a game on Saturday than my bunch of Iowa kids this year. But I never had one, either, that detested practice like this one.

"All in all, considering the beating those ex-veterans took in military routine, the GI's have done a grand job coming back to football. They can't be driven the way younger boys can, but they know what their mission is each week and they are doing their best."

Dr. Anderson rated Notre Dame, which whipped Iowa 41-6, as the strongest team encountered by the Hawkeyes this season. The T-formation's popularity will continue for some time, he said, but probably will be mixed with more single wingback and other types of offense in the near future.

Red Grange, Illinois' famed "Galloping Ghost" of the mid-twenties, selected an all-time, all-professional team composed of Bill Hewitt (Chicago Bears) and Guy Chamberlain (Chicago Cardinals), ends; Fred Gillies (Cardinals) and Cal Hubbard (Green Bay Packers) tackles; Hank Anderson (Bears) and Danny Fortmann (Bears), guards; Bulldog Turner (Bears), center; Dutch Clark (Detroit Lions), quarterback; George McAfee (Bears) and Cliff Battles (Washington Redskins) halfbacks; and Bronko Nagurski (Bears), fullback.

Above are three members of last season's squad who were instrumental in the drive to state honors. They are, in the usual order, Bob Beals, Sonny Dean, and Jimmy Sangster, all guards.

City High Gridders Invited to Bowl Game in Georgia

Iowa City high's mythical state championship football team has received an invitation to play in the annual New Year's day game at Memorial stadium in Columbus, Ga., it was announced last night at the Elks' club banquet for the City high and U-High grid teams.

It is unlikely that the Hawkeyes will be able to accept the offer as the Iowa High Schol Athletic Association forbids football games after Dec. 1. The Little Hawks would represent the north against one of the top southern high schools.

The Hawkeyes' won nine straight games this fall, sewing up the Mississippi Valley conference crown and tripping such non-conference opponents as Dowling high of Des Moines, Moline, Ill., and the Little Six conference championship Burlington eleven.

Toastmaster Bob Davis introduced coaches Don Barnhardt of U-high and Herb Cormack of City high who in turn presented the members of their squads to the Elks.

The main speaker of the evening was Jimmy Fay of Emmetsburg who extolled football as a means of building character in the American youth of today.

Iowa Season Goes in Books

The football season of 1946, translated from action on the gridiron to records in the files, was shelved alongside its 57 University of Iowa predecessors Monday.

And some of the chapter heading in those files might include:

(1) Five wins, four losses, the number of wins being superior to the 57-year average of 3.9 victories and is one more than the total victories of the past three seasons.

(2) An even break in conference games at 3-3 which might bring a possible tie for third in the final conference standing or a clear fourth if Illinois, Michigan, and Indiana win their last game.

(3) The first division ranking of the Hawkeyes after the pre-season experts had consigned Iowa to last place and predicted no more than one conference win.

Statistically speaking, in nine games Iowa compared with opponents something like this in the composite marks: points, 129 to 92; first downs, 100 to 97; 1,807 yards in 437 rushes for 4.1 average to 1,217 in 407 for 3 average; 39 completed passes in 91 attempts for 352 average to 47 in 106 trials for 590; total yards gained, 2,159 to 1,806.

Bob Smith, right halfback, was rushing leader with 503 yards for 4.6 average; followed by Dick Hoerner, fullback who missed the last two games, with 335 for 4.6; and Emilen Tunnell with 333 for 4.1 average.

Tunnell led in total offense with 541 yards with Smith having 520 and Tunnell was No. 1 passer with 28 completions in 58 trials for 48%. His best receiver in yards

Quonset Hut Faucets Here, No Hot Water

Because water faucets for 15 Quonset huts at City park bridge were missed to St. Louis, the 30 units were not ready for delivery to the university last Saturday as had been expected, J. W. James, federal public housing administration project engineer, said yesterday.

The faucets have been received and are being installed now, he said, and work should be finished by noon today.

This will leave the units minus hot water heaters and cooking units, James said, although a prior proposal has been submitted to the university to use available oil cook stoves until the missing equipment is received.

No estimate was available yesterday for a new date when the Quonsets can be delivered to the university. In addition the expected hot water heaters and cooking units, James reported that a certain amount of grading remains to be done before the area will be ready. University officials will arrange for this work, he said.

Meanwhile, construction has now been begun on the 11th and final area of the 680-unit housing project on west campus, according to R. J. Sharp, construction foreman for Metcalf-Hamilton Construction company of Kansas City.

There are 132 units in this area, located west of the football stadium, he said.

20 Dolphin Members To Attend Aquatic Forum At Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

University of Iowa swimmers will be represented at the National Aquatic swimming forum which will be held at Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., over the Christmas holidays by 20 members of the Dolphin club it was announced by President Ernie Stranglen yesterday.

Held annually before the war, the forum is scheduled for Dec. 21 to Jan. 4. Feature of the meet will be a Eastern-Western relay event which will be conducted with members of teams from colleges all over the country competing against each other on Christmas day.

County Attorney White Files Five Charges

County Attorney Jack C. White has filed information in Johnson county district court against five persons on charges of larceny or driving while intoxicated.

William A. Griffin and Gil Ayres of Iowa City drew larceny charges on the alleged theft of 40 pigs Oct. 14 from Joe Huff, Lone Tree farmer.

Also charged with larceny is Tom Kettles who is accused of taking a billfold containing $111 from Glen Barker Oct. 5.

Drunken driving offenses were filed against Ronald T. Brooks, and Robert Schneberger.

SUI Student Fined $100 On Petty Larceny Count

Darrell A. Stoner, 18-year-old university student, was fined $100 and costs yesterday by Police Judge John Knox on a petty larceny count.

Stoner was apprehended in Cedar Rapids Friday afternoon while he was attempting to pawn an electric shaver. He was returned to Iowa City Friday night for hearing.

He admitted shoplifting in several Iowa City stores.

It feels so-o-o-o good to relax tired, aching muscles under the soothing warmth of a G-E HEAT LAMP. Dries hair and nail polish quickly, too.

NOW only $7.25

Approved heat lamps are also sold by other reliable dealers.

Police Hold Soldier, Wife, Runaway Boy On Larceny Charge

An over-leave soldier, his wife, and a 15-year-old runaway boy were held by Iowa City police yesterday charged with larceny of an accordion.

The trio, Pfc. Richard Eckert, 18; his wife, Marcella, 21, both of Kalamazoo, Mich., and Raymond Chrisman 15, of Gary, Ind., a parolee from the boys industrial school at Waukesha, Wis., were arrested about 5:30 a. m. yesterday after they aroused the suspicion of two policemen who questioned them.

Officers George Hall and Frank Burns discovered the three asleep in Eckert's car on the West Branch road at the edge of Iowa City. A search of the car produced an accordion and a pair of fur mittens which had been reported stolen Sunday night from a car owned by Arlene Lacinia, West Branch.

Eckert told police he was returning late to Lowry Field, Denver, Colo., from an emergency furlough.

Police Chief O. A. White said Chrisman was a hitch-hiker picked up by the Eckerts.

A check on the trio is being made with Indiana and Michigan police departments, Chief White said.

Prof. Root Examines Educational Reform

The essential question of educational reform is one of employing good teachers and dismissing the incompetent, Prof. W. T. Root, head of the history department, asserted at a Humanities society meeting last night.

Speaking on "The Professor and Liberal Education," Professor Root declared that a liberal arts college is not much of a college if it is not the home of great teachers.

"There is a strong need in the graduate colleges to place more weight upon intellectual ability, breadth of knowledge and vision in the preparation of teachers for the liberal arts college," Professor Root said.

Describing teaching as a different art, Professor Root said that it should not be entrusted to those who have no love for it. He cautioned that the Ph.D. degree carries no guarantee that the holder has the temper and genius needed in a classroom.

Iowa City Weather Sets New State Record For Weekend Variety

Iowa City temperatures established a state record for variety in range over the weekend.

A low of 17 degrees was recorded early Sunday morning and a state high of 41 degrees was recorded by the CAA weather station between 1:30 and 2:30 p. m. Sunday.

Temperatures climbed yesterday, however, to a high of 47 degrees at 2:30 p. m. and gave promise of moderately cold weather at least for today.

Some students of archaeology believe that the Navajo Indian pottery in New Mexico shows a resemblance to pottery found in western Nebraska.

AVC to Vote Tomorrow On Constitution Changes

Members of the American Veterans Committee will vote on proposed amendments to the AVC constitution at a meeting set for 8 p. m. tomorrow in the council chamber of the City hall.

The meeting, originally scheduled for Thursday, was moved up one day because of conflict with a university lecture, according to Robert Iversen, chairman.

Those members unable to attend are asked to send a proxy vote by another member.
