Keep Pacific Bases, House Report Urges

WASHINGTON (AP)—A house naval subcommittee grimly advised the United States yesterday to hold and man a far-flung chain of "stepping stone" bases in the Pacific—among them the Japanese mandated islands—against the possibility of war.

"If used in reverse, they could become stepping stones onto our continental shores," declared the three-man group which returned less than a month ago from a 20-day survey of the Pacific bases.

The committee's formal report to congress contained but a single reference to the United Nations, saying merely that "many matters will be settled on an international plane" by that organization.

Nor did it mention at all the UN trusteeship council, or the possibility that any or all of the islands may be placed under its supervision, as has been proposed in some quarters. Instead, it said at one point that island air landing strips could be maintained at a low cost, "using natives supervised by military government personnel."

In many respects, the new demands for retention of Pacific bases by the United States duplicated those of more than a year earlier. But the committee's newly-logged report came after crystallization of the trustee council proposals within UN's framework.

The committee stated that islands would be valuable not only for "strategic outposts, but many can be classed as emergency fields for trans Pacific air travel.

Even a Child Can Do It; 14 Escape Jail in New York

By JOE HALL

NEW YORK (AP)—New York City's jails have proved so porous recently that even the kids are walking out.

Two teen-age boys pushed open a wire screen in a third floor window of Youth house, a detention home, and clambered to the ground yesterday—bringing to 14 the number of prisoners escaping from municipal institutions in the last eight days.

Eleven at Large
One of the pajama-clad boys was recaptured only a block from the home. Two other escaped prisoners have been taken into custody, but 11 of the 14 still are at large.

The whole thing has been a severe headache to City Correction Commissioner Albert Williams, who was drafted for his new job Dec. 27 by Mayor William O'Dwyer and hardly had a chance to learn the way to his new office before his jails started leaking. Williams had been deputy police commissioner.

"This department is in deplorable shape," he said bluntly yesterday. "We are not undermanned and it is silly to say we are. We have more than 1,200 employees.

"But the job of running the department is a bigger one than I figured when I took over. The escapes are due to carelessness."

The biggest prison de-population step came Jan. 2 when nine men, several with long criminal records, sawed a cell window bar and streamed out of Brooklyn's ancient, dilapidated Raymond street jail.

The warden blamed it on the condition of the 100-year-old structure, declaring "its bars are rotten, its windows are rotten."

The next day a prisoner succeeded in getting away from a patrolman and escaping at Bellevue. Last Tuesday a Riker's Island penitentiary prisoner was missing at the end of his day's work in the laundry. And Thursday a convicted burglar walked out of the Bronx county jail, known as the "country club jail" since it was completed nine years ago.

Eight Hurt in Wreck South of Iowa City

Eight persons were injured, one seriously, in a two-car collision on highway 218 south of Iowa City last night about midnight.

Four of the eight, all of whom were taken to University hospital, are university students.

The students were Otto Anderson of Sioux Rapids, reported seriously injured; James Lauman and Glen Cullen, both of Sioux Rapids, and Charles A. Hanson of Washta. Others involved in the crash were Vernon Dearman of Wapello, Delaine Kurtz and Robert Conley, both of Washta, Don Oberman of Danville and Clark Sexton of Oakville.

University hospital refused to comment on the extent of injury to the victims.

Russia Requests Special Privileges in Spitsbergen

OSLO, NORWAY (AP)—The Norwegian foreign ministry issued a communique yesterday saying that Russia had made a wartime request for special privileges in Spitsbergen, strategic arctic archipelago, and indicating that further negotiations could be expected.

A high government official who declined to be quoted by name asserted last night that no formal request had been received from the Russians for military bases. Earlier, diplomats said the ministry's statement indicated that such a request had been made.

The official said that the Norwegian government would not have to consider any detailed Soviet demand.

The ministry's communique said "preliminary" discussions were held in London during the wartime exile of the Norwegian government. It did not make clear why the announcement was made at this time.

Spitsbergen was placed under Norwegian sovereignty in 1920 as part of the Versailles agreement, under which Norway promised she would "not create or allow to be established any naval base and not to permit construction of any fortification which might be used for warlike purposes." Russia signed the accord in 1925.

The foreign ministry statement did not specify just what special privileges Russia claimed.

Infant Death Rate Drops to New Low

WASHINGTON (AP)—More babies than ever before stand a chance of living beyond their first year, the public health service reported yesterday.

In an account of infant mortality, the service said the rate of infant deaths has reached the lowest point in the nation's history.

Final figures on 1945 showed that the country over, there were 38.3 deaths under one year for every 1,000 live births.

Preliminary figures on the first 10 months of 1946 point to a decrease of 3.2 percent under the 1945 rate.

The 1945 maternal mortality rate was 2.1 per 1,000 live births, a reduction of almost 9 percent of 2.3 in 1944.

Ball Proposes to Limit Union Power to 100-Mile Wide Area

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Ball (R-Minn) introduced a bill yesterday which he said would prevent industry-wide strikes, limit the scope of collective bargaining, and make it impossible "for John L. Lewis to be an absolute dictator."

Put briefly, the latest of Ball's series of labor bills would confine collective bargaining either to a single company or to companies in a single city or area—in no case more than 100 miles wide.

It would reduce the power of the national officers of unions. Ball told a news conference the national unions could "advise but not dictate."

He said that under his bill they would tend to become bodies resembling industry's trade associations, and the local unions would gain all the power that the national unions lost.

Ball said the problem of breaking up "labor monopolies" was "by all odds the most important problem in this field."

Other Developments
As he submitted his far-reaching proposal there were two other important labor developments in congress, vividly different:

1. Eight Democrat senators sponsored a proposal to create a

20-man investigating commission not to be disturbed. For example, a single contract could be written for 600 different printing firms in Chicago.

And central bargaining would be okay for all the scattered plants of a single company, such as General Motors.

Limits Union Power

But the national headquarters of a union could not try to force any of its local units to seek particular terms in a contract, nor even agree with the local unit to do so.

Ball said there would be nothing to prevent local unions from copying the example of other units, just so there was no evidence of collusion.

Employers, too, would be forbidden to engage in industry-wide bargaining.

Violation of the provisions would be punished by court injunctions and contempt of court trials—the same way Lewis was punished in the soft coal strike last month.

Third of Series

The bill is the third of a series of measures Ball has introduced. Last Monday he teamed with Senators Taft (R-Ohio) and H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) to introduce a revised version of last year's Case bill, and on Wednesday he introduced a bill to ban the closed shop. He still plans to introduce a bill changing the Wagner act in several ways.

Hoffman, in proposing to abolish the NLRB, said in a statement that "the Wagner law is not a remedy—it has not lessened labor disputes nor removed their causes."

Hoffman would create, in place of the NLRB, a "national labor mediation board."

EXPLAINING HIS LABOR BILL to newsmen is Minnesota's Sen. Joseph Ball. The Republican legislator pointed out that under the bill, the latest in his series of labor proposals, industry-wide bargaining between unions and employers would be broken up. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Can Be Cut $3-4 Billions, Claims Taber

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman yesterday proposed a $37,528,000,000 spending program for the government in the next fiscal year and Republicans promptly blasted it as far too high.

Mr. Truman, in an annual message, called his budget realistic and "hard boiled" but Chairman Taber (R., N.Y.) of the house appropriations committee set out to trim it by at least $3 of $4 billions.

"Excessive in many respects," snapped Taber.

House Republican Leader Halleck of Indiana said the Republicans in Congress "will find ways and means to cut below this budget without interfering with essential government functions."

Comment included: Rep. Clarence J. Brown (R., Ohio), said "The president's budget message is an astounding document. Except for national defense and tax refunds, the administration proposes to spend $9,721,000,000 more in 1948 than in 1946—the last war year."

Mr. Truman estimated the government would wind up $202,200,000 in the black by June 30, 1948, when the fiscal year ends, provided income taxes are left alone. Further, he said in his annual budget message, this surplus would swell to $1,800,000,000 if congress (1) continues luxury taxes now due to come down July 1 and (2) increases rates to wipe out the postal deficit.

At a seminar Wednesday in which he and top-ranking advisers went over the 1,434-page budget with newsmen, the president showed a touch of pride in saying:

"The budget which I shall transmit to congress on Friday is balanced. If the estimates are realized, the budget will be in balance for the first time since 1930—18 years."

Mr. Truman takes the view that national defense, fixed charges such as interest on the public debt, tax refunds required by law, international affairs and aid to veterans amount to an irreducible total of nearly $33,000,000,000.

The remainder in the $37,500,000,000 budget covers spending by department and agencies in programs for which they asked considerably more.

Mr. Truman plans to ask congress to raise postal rates to eliminate the annual deficit incurred in carrying the mail.

By asking no money to operate the draft, Mr. Truman indicated he expects congress to let selective service die March 31. On the other hand, he asked $10,250,000 to start universal training, a point of controversy in congress.

On the farm front, Mr. Truman predicted the government would lose at least $330,000,000 in supporting prices of 1947 crops. He asked congress for measures to prevent excessive spending on surplus crops and called for a cut in subsidies paid farmers for soil conservation.

Mr. Truman acknowledged that crop support prices would have to be increased, along with unemployment benefits, should there be a business slump.

But he took no allowance of one. He said his new revenue estimates are based on the assumption that business activity will average slightly higher than in the calendar year 1946.

He estimated that collection of income taxes from individuals will rise by $483,000,000 to $19,120,000,000—with the "if" that there is no rate cut. He expects revenue from corporations to drop by $957,000,000 to $6,270,000,000 because of the end of excess profits levies.

Mr. Truman's $37,528,000,000 spending figure for fiscal 1948 is about four times greater than the pre-war average. His income of $37,730,000,000 is about six times greater.

Budget in Brief

President Truman figures that during the 12 months starting July 1, the government will:

Take in $3,730,000,000 as compared with $4,230,000,000 in the year ending June 30.

Have to spend $37,528,000,000 as compared with $42,523,000,000.

End the next fiscal year with $202,000,000 on hand, as compared with a deficit of $2,293,000,000 expected June 30.

Reduce the national debt from $260,400,000 to $260,200,000—a per person reduction of $12.67 to $1,819.58.

Spend $11,587,000,000 on the army and navy, as compared with 15,150,000,000.

Grant $7,343,000,000 in veterans benefits, as compared with $7,601,000,000.

Uncle Sam Makes Odd Buck or Two

Taking Bribes, Doing Washing, Are Couple Of His Sidelines

By FRANCIS J. KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government blandly admitted yesterday it is looking forward to receiving $2,400 in bribes next year.

Also $500 from selling town lots in Alaska.

And $10,040,000 for doing somebody's laundry and dry cleaning.

Those and some other pretty startling items were in the national budget among the receipts which President Truman is counting on to total $37,730,000,000 in fiscal 1948. He hopes.

The government is playing its cards close to its vest on the bribery item. It took in $5,898 in bribes to its officers in the year which ended last June 30. But who knows how business will be next year. The budget officer put down a cautious $2,400.

(It seems that if you give a federal agent a bribe, and the agent reports you, the government not only puts you in jail but it keeps the money.)

The sales of Alaskan lots by the U.S. of A. brought in $603 last year. And by taking in washing and pressing pants, the government made $22,421,268 in 1946. The budget man cut this figure in half for next year. Maybe it's maybe because there won't be so many GI duds to wash.

A nickel here, a nickel there—It soon counts up.

Look now: We ought to drag in at least $20 for furnishing fire protection for timber of private owners. Six thousand bucks for admission fees. The nation's commission on pay telephones in federal buildings—a nice $2,200,000. Vending machines? Put down $8,600; that will pay a congressman's salary for nearly seven months.

The effects of army deserters ought to be worth $200. "Unclaimed odd pennies in employes' payroll allotment accounts for war saving bonds"—another five grand.

People just up and donated the government $218,844 last year, but the pessimistic budget bureau figures it won't run more than $10,800 in '48. The income tax collector's shadow fell across his crystal ball.

Congressmen used to send their constituents free seeds. Sorry, Mac, that's all changed now. Seed sales figure out a cool one hundred dollars.

There's a $116,200 item from the sale of dairy products.

By the way, did Henry Wallace ever get the international milk route started before he left the cabinet?

Fire Destroys U.S. Hangar

Ottawa, (AP)—A United States army hangar at the RCAF's airport at Goose Bay, Newfoundland, has been destroyed in a fire with a possible loss of $2,000,000, according to reports received here today.

CHICAGO (AP)—The American housewife's soaring food budget finally has started down.

For the first time since war exploded over Europe in 1939, more retail food prices are being marked down than up, a coast to coast spot survey of representative cities showed yesterday.

Butter, which broke sharply on the Chicago wholesale market and registered declines on the New York, San Francisco and Los Angeles markets, was among the list of major food items falling in price.

The Atlantic and Pacific Tea company announced butter prices would be slashed five cents a pound in its Chicago and Detroit area stores and 3 cents in New York today. Most other cities reported a steady decline in butter prices since December peaks.

Food wholesalers in Chicago said the only major commodity still showing an upward price trend was coffee. Price reductions already have been made at the retail level in numerous cities on lard, fresh and canned meats, canned citrus fruit juices and dried peaches and dried apples, they added.

Virtually all food industry sources said flatly that "the day of sharp increases in food prices is over." Many predicted numerous other declines would be in evidence when the summer pack of canned goods comes on the market.

One food wholesaler said large canned goods inventories by both wholesalers and retailers were forcing price markdowns in many cities.

In the wholesale markets, butter dropped 4 1/2 to 5 1/2 cents at Chicago, 2 1/2 to 3 cents in New York, and 1 to 2 cents in San Francisco and Los Angeles.

The survey showed the retail price situation in the following cities:

Pittsburgh—Biggest drop was in citrus fruits which have fallen 25 percent. Butter was selling at 79 to 89 cents a pound with one chain reporting a six cents drop in a week.

Atlanta—Citrus juices down 35-40 percent under last year, canned meats off sharply, butter down 6-8 cents, cheese down 12 cents a pound, lard down 20 cents from 50 cents a pound top, meat down "considerably."

Detroit—One large Michigan chain reported citrus fruit juices down 50 percent in last month; canned meats down "considerably." Flour and sugar were listed as the "only really strong items."

Chicago—Butter down from 93 to 74 cents a pound in one food chain; soap down two to three cents a package in some stores; citrus fruit juices, dried apples and dried peaches down; a drop in egg prices was forecast; dressed turkeys down 4 cents a pound.

Kansas City—James R. Browne, president of the Kansas City Retail Grocers association, said fruit juices were down from 59 to 26 cents, oranges 40 to 25, meats 30 percent from the October peak, navy beans down five to 10 percent, lard down from 49 to 29 cents, butter down 95 to 83 and salt pork down 65 to 47.

Rochester, N. Y.—A Williamson grower reported Wayne county farmers were dumping about 100,000 crates of celery with a retail value of $600,000 because prices offered farmers were below cost.

Washington, D. C.—Washington stores reported "spectacular slashes" in the price of lard and canned Florida citrus juices, with meats, butter staples and most canned goods generally holding the line.

A spokesman said many stores were selling butter at cost to "appease" housewives. Big retailers have upped meat prices a few cents after a short-lived attempt to hold a 59-cent top during the Christmas period.

WESTLAWN PREVIEWS EASTER PARADE

UNVEILING THE LATEST trends in 1947 spring fashions are Bernadine Thompson, N4 of Van Horne, and Francis Page, N4 of Elgin, Ill., featured in a style show at Westlawn dormitory Wednesday evening, sponsored by Strub's department store. Miss Thompson is modeling a lark shade suit with pelmum effect, and Miss Page is wearing a smoke grey sharkskin suit, accented with a shag topper. That's the new trend in spring fashions. The long torso is here, the knees are covered and the simple businesslike silhouette of the war years has disappeared with all the clothing restrictions. Capes and fleecy spring toppers, revealing full gathered backs and lavish full sleeves, are especially prevalent, with capes being paired with suits, coats and dresses. Women now free from war jobs and uniforms will go in for femininity in a big way, as formals and evening clothes indicate the pencil slim skirt is back again, and dance dresses are drawing their inspiration from the Victorian era, with dropped shoulder lines, cascading ruffles and full, billowing skirts. Over 50 colorful styles, many prominently featured in current fashion magazines, indicated a special emphasis upon pelmum details.

Chinese Universities, Students to Profit From Chest Donations

More than 90,000 students in China who migrated inland during the war are going back to partially or completely demolished universities, where books, clothing, food, medical supplies and even writing supplies are scarce or unobtainable.

American students wishing to help far east and European students such as these can do so by contributing to the World Student Service fund, a beneficiary of the Campus Chest drive slated for Jan. 13-16.

WSSF's purposes are to promote student relief and rehabilitation, university reconstruction, student world solidarity and universal justice, cooperation and peace.

Students in some war-torn countries are now able to help themselves somewhat, but there is still a great need for help in both Europe and the far east.

The greatest needs in Europe now rest in Poland, Hungary, Greece, Austria, Yugoslavia and Germany.

WSSF gets its funds by sponsoring campaigns on all U. S. campuses, and works through the international World Student Relief organization.

The total world budget for student relief for 1946-47 is $2,000,000. Of this total, $1,000,000 is to come from this country.

Illinois Paintings On Display Today

Paintings and sculpture by Illinois university faculty members are on display in the main gallery of the art building beginning today.

The exhibit of 24 paintings and three sculpture pieces will close Jan. 26.

Including oil paintings and water colors in various styles and sculpture (done in plaster and walnut, the art pieces represent the work of art, commercial art and commercial design instructors.

A price list for the exhibited work is available in the art department office.

Triangle Club Observes Centennial With Dinner

Pioneer food will highlight the Triangle club supper celebrating the state centennial, to be Tuesday evening at 6:15 in the Triangle rooms at the Iowa Union.

Prof. H. J. Thornton of the political science department has charge of the program.

Iowa's '52-20' Club Numbers Only 572 Full-Fledged Members

According to an Iowa employment security commission report, only one Iowa veteran in three drew weekly $20 readjustment payments for as long as ten weeks, prior to Jan. 1 this year.

The report also indicates that, of the 126,000 Iowa veterans who had been discharged a year ago, only 572 have taken the maximum 52 week allowance.

About 80,000 Iowa World War II veterans applied for readjustment allowances in the period covered by the report. The IESC statistics indicated the average veteran received the weekly payments for about 9.5 weeks.

Lawyers Triumph In Quiz Program

A verdict in favor of two Iowa City lawyers, William Bartley and Louis Shulman, was returned on last night's WSUI quiz program, "It's News to Me."

The decision of 78 to 75, in favor of the lawyers, was made after a half hour wit battle with two senior law students, Gordon Christenson and David Stone, over such issues as portal to portal pay and Iowa scholarship awards.

Quizmaster was Charles Swanson, instructor in the school of journalism, acting for Prof. Arthur Barnes who is out of town. Dick Yaokam judged the answers.

Clarinetists to Play Student's Quartet

Leon Karel, music department graduate student, is the composer of the first number on the program of Monday's music department student recital to be held in the north music hall at 4 p.m.

Clarinetist Mark Kelly, Richard Hills, Elbert Masmar and Laverne Wintermeyer will play Karel's "Clarinet Quartet in B flat."

Other students who will participate in the recital are Nadine Pearson, Jack Borg and Keith Huffman, violinists; William Littlejohn, Yvonne Harmon, Anthony Dengler and Betty DeMoss, pianists; Duane Heap, who will sing a baritone solo, and Paul Anderson, who will play a horn solo.

Norma Cross, music department instructor, will play the Franck "Sonata for Violin and Pipe" with violinist Jack Borg, and will accompany Huffman's violin solo.

Other composers represented on the program will be Mazart, Schumann, Chopin, Brahms and Debussy.

By JERRY JURICEK

Iowa City is a difficult town to get around in, even for natives. Streets such as Brookland Park drive, Halley avenue, St. Clemens street, and North street confuse cab drivers, delivery truck drivers, and even police officers. Picture then, the plight of the poor student with a car, who has a date with a girl living on E. Des Moines street, or Varsity heights.

One cab driver commented, "A person needs a city directory and an engineer's map of Iowa City to get around."

One of the few persons not confused by the non-systematic naming of Iowa City streets is B.E. Manville, local realtor who had a hand in naming streets in the northwest part of Iowa City. Manville described the naming of Manville and Manville Heights streets as a process of sitting down with former city engineer "Joe" Watkins. They found Woolf road was one of the easiest to name. A family whose name was Woolf was the only family living on the street, and the result was natural.

River street was another easy one. It was only a rutty track, but it connected the loop of the Iowa river between Iowa City and Coralville. Then, a street was named for the home town, another for a friend, and one for a sister.

Merton Ferson, former law librarian for the university, was a neighbor of Manville and had a street named for him. Ferson is now retiring dean of the law school at the University of Cincinnati.

Manville felt his friend, Joe Watkins, should also have a street named for him. Joe demurred, claiming a street should be named for a dead person. Thus, Magowan street came into being, named for a former city engineer.

In the original part of Iowa City, street naming was a different situation. Here, the abolitionist movement, the Hudson's Bay Fur Co. and various prominent persons came into play.

John Brown, famous Kansas slave releaser, is supposed to have stopped on the northern side of Iowa City, with Brown street marking his visit. A fur trader named Gilbert had a trading post at Napoleon, south of Iowa City. His contribution to the present street system is Gilbert street.

Both Johnson street and Johnson county are named for the same man, a former vice president. He was Col. Richard Mentor Johnson, described in history as a "humpty-dumpty man", vice-president under president Van Buren. Colonel Johnson is said to have shot the famous Indian chief, Tecumseh.

The bringing of the name of a governor of New York may be attributed to early settlers of Johnson county who came here from New England. They remembered Gov. Dewitt Clinton with Clinton street, and named the towns of Clinton and Dewitt after him also.

Iowa avenue is another of the streets having an interesting history. Under original plans, the state capitol of Iowa was to be at one end of the terraced street, the governor's mansion at the other end. Unfortunately, the capitol was moved to Des Moines before the governor's mansion could be built.

Today, while Iowa City expands, new streets will be named, and no one may be sure where the names will be found.

McCollister Farm Popular Place

Caters to Bears, Rodeos, Airplanes and Students

By DORIS ENGELBY

Bears, rodeos and airplanes have all played a part in the history of the James McCollister farm located one and a half miles south of Iowa City across the river from the airport.

Formerly the site of the town Napoleon, the farm is better known to university students as the location of Showers picnic grounds.

Johnson county's earliest laws were made in the courthouse at Napoleon, a town which consisted only of this building.

For many years students have roamed over nearly 50 acres of timberland stretching for a mile and a half along the Iowa river.

The farm has been under the management of Charles N. Showers since the death of his grandfather, James McCollister, in 1927. Long well-known to many Iowa Citizens, unusual happenings in recent years have brought the grounds into the general public's eye.

A large black bear kept in a cage on the farm approximately four months nearly 10 years ago, was the main character in the first of these incidents. The bear traveled a number of years with his trainer doing acts in towns over the midwest. After he became too vicious to trust near people, the bear was kept on the McCollister farm until plans were made for his disposal.

Late summer of this same year a privately owned airplane crashed while trying to make a forced landing on one of the pastures. The damaged planes was hauled to one of the barns where it was stored until it could be repaired.

Eight years ago two "barnstormers", refused permission by Iowa City airport officials to operate their planes from the airport, made arrangements with Showers to use his land for a landing strip. The strip was graded and used by the "barnstormers" for a week to give rides to hundreds of passengers. These same fields are now used by flying students from the airport to practice forced landings.

More crowds were brought to the farm six years ago when a one-day rodeo was set up on one of the level pastures. Men and boys from Iowa City and surrounding communities came to test their skill at riding the wild broncos of the rodeo.

The winding stairway of Old Capitol boasts walnut wood cut from the Showers timber to be used as replacement material. The timber also provides lumber for repair work on the farm buildings.

Buggies, shays and sleighs along with an old wooden hand-drop planter and plow have attracted their share of attention, too. These are on display in various buildings on the farm which they have watched "grow up." Students have used the buggies and sleighs from time to time for their parties at the picnic grounds.

Don's Central Tap

Sports Shots

By Bob Collins

This business of being an athlete must be a trying one. One minute a fellow is a champ and the next minute he's a chump depending upon his success in making baskets, hitting a homerun, winning a race or some other endeavor which is a lot dependent upon skill and more there a little upon good fortune.

The outstanding example at the moment is Dick Ives. Iowa's veteran forward, who has been off his shooting game all season despite almost desperate efforts to regain his form of other years when he scored 731 points in three seasons as a Hawkeye regular. So far this year Ives had hit for 40 points in seven games and has lost temporarily his starting post as Coach Harrison searches for more balanced scoring.

Nobody has ever accused Ives of not being one honey of a ball handler and team player. Defensively this year Dick has been as good as ever and his rebounding highlighted several contests. But all this is overlooked as the fast-breaking Ives continues to experience hard luck on shots.

In yesterday's practice, Ives was looking better and perhaps he'll get the chance and break loose against the Buckeyes or Gophers. It's a cinch that one of these days those hours of practice are going to pay off and then the Hawks will have things going their way. Murray Wier is still hitting from anywhere in the court but the little redhead can't be expected to make a third of Iowa's score in each and every game.

The Buckeyes are going to be tough tonight and it should be a hard-fought game between two teams who can't afford to lose. But the Monday game between Iowa and the Golden Gophers may top it in thrills. Minnesota will present their big Jim McIntyre, 6-9 center, who has scored 117 points in 10 games so far this season.

The giant pivot ace is a holdover from Minnesota's team of last year when the Hawks succeeded in holding him to a seven point total in two games. Jorgensen and Metcalfe, however, will have their work cut out for them because how goes McIntyre, goes the Gophers.

Another thing which makes this game a natural is the history of Iowa-Minnesota games which includes 67 games to date. Many of the contests were close games but none was more sensational than Iowa's 63-61 overtime victory last year at Iowa City. The Gophers probably have Wier on their list if for no other reason than his spectacular shot which tied up the game in the last three seconds of the regular period.

Ithaca, N.Y. (P)—George K. (Lefty) James, assistant coach at Cornell for 11 years, was appointed head coach yesterday to succeed Ed McKeever, who resigned several weeks ago.

St. Pat's Defeated By Knights, 37-26

(Special to The Daily Iowan) Somebody put the lid on the basket last night as far as St. Patrick's Shamrocks were concerned, and the St. Ambrose Academy scored a 37-26 revenge victory over the Irish at Davenport.

The Shamrock offense bogged down in all but the second quarter before a determined Knight defense and their own erratic passing game. Jerry Megan led the St. Patrick's club with eight points while Dan Johnston led St. Ambrose with 11 markers.

Megan put the Shamrocks into an early lead with a basket but St. Ambrose rolled up nine straight points before Megan made a free throw to put the quarter score 9-3.

The second quarter was all St. Pat's. Megan sparked the rally with five points and McMahon got his only basket of the night. The score at intermission was 17-14 in favor of St. Ambrose.

The third quarter opened with Coyrn's basket and Johnston hit another before Herdlika made an Irish free throw. Fennelly pushed the count to 23-15 with a basket and Coyrn added a gift toss. Seemuth hit for St. Pat's in the last minute and made good his free throw when he was fouled on the play. Grady scored with a free throw and the count was 24-19.

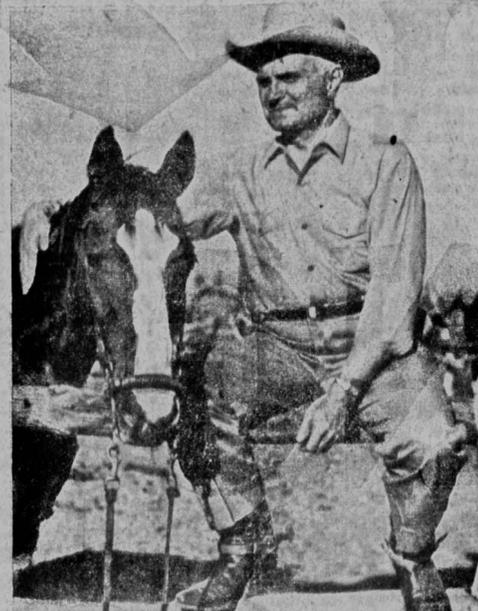

McMahon started the last period with a free throw but Holmes, Tonn and Fennelly retaliated with baskets for St. Ambrose before Seemuth hit one for the Irish. Then Holmes, Fennelly and Johnston iced the game with another basket barrage.

Hawkeyes Host to Ohio State Tonight

Cowhand Bierman Rides Again

MINNESOTA FOOTBALL Coach Bernie Bierman togged out in a ten-gallon hat, boots and spurs, sits on a rail fence while vacationing at Phoenix, Ariz., and plots how to elevate the fortunes of the Gophers next year. Bierman has gone on record as saying that Minnesota will hit the comeback trail next fall and reach a peak in 1948. And the Hawks figured they were pretty tough last year. (AP Wirephoto)

Revised Iowa Lineup Ready For 'Crucial' Buckeye Battle

The University of Iowa basketball team featuring a revised lineup in an effort to gain more balanced scoring puts its hopes of climbing into the Big Nine division on the line tonight when the Ohio State Buckeyes invade the fieldhouse for an 8 o'clock game.

Coach Harrison has experimented with various combinations throughout a week of heavy practice sessions and won't select his starting five until just before game time. He has indicated, however, that Dick Ives will be missing from his usual forward post in the opening lineup with either Floyd Magnusson or Dave Daner getting the call.

Ralph Metcalfe who has been showing up strong in practice this week may start in place of Noble Jorgensen at center for Iowa.

The game shapes up as a tussle with the Ohio State team needing the win as much as Iowa does to improve their league record of one win and one defeat.

The Buckeyes and the Hawkeyes are expected to play a similar type game with both teams relying upon fast breaking offenses and short, fast and agile forwards. Iowa's Murray Wier and Ohio State's Jim Harris carry the bulk of the scoring punch for their respective teams and how they fare may determine the game.

On paper the Buckeyes stack up as a formidable outfit. Defending Big Nine Champions of last season, they boast a lineup that includes all-America guard Paul Huston and an all-Conference guard, Warren Amling.

So far this season the Bucks have had trouble with their offense which has averaged only 41 points a game but scouting reports emphasized that they have the balanced talent to break loose with a basket barrage.

By DON SCANNELL
Erasing a three point deficit in the final minute and a half of play, Iowa City's unpredictable cage team poured in five, quick points to hand the Franklin Thunderbolts a 33-31 defeat last night at the City high gym.

The win puts the Hawkllets firmly at the top of the Mississippi Valley standings with five wins and no setbacks while the loss drops the Cedar Rapids quintet into a four and two record in conference play.

Sonny Dean, Iowa City's steady guard, and his equally steady running mate, Jim Sangster, provided the fireworks that saved the Hawkllets from certain defeat. With the Little Hawks trailing, 31-28, and only a minute and 30 seconds remaining in the game, Dean swished a long set shot from behind the free throw circle to bring the home team within one point of the invaders. Sangster tied it up with a free throw and Dean followed with a repeat performance of his previous shot to provide the Hawkllets their margin of victory.

Before this final flurry of points, it appeared that the Little Hawks had seen too much of a sweet forward, Bob Hoff, who dumped in 20 points in the evening's work to lead all scorers.

Hawk Swim Drill Open

Swimming fans may get a look at the 1947 Iowa swimming team this afternoon at 2:30 in the fieldhouse pool when Coach Dave Armbruster plans on holding time trials in preparation for the meet with Northwestern on Monday, Jan. 20, at Evanston.

The first quarter was a seesaw affair with the Thunderbolts leading 9-7, thanks to Hoff's eight points. In the second period, the Little Hawks crept into a short-lived two point lead but Hoff continued his torrid pace with left handed push shots, one with the ball in the air as the half ended, to give the invaders a 16-13 midway margin.

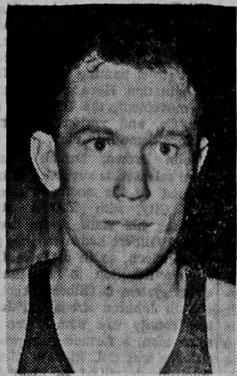

In the hectic final period, the visitors led eight points on a pair of buckets by Peterson before the Hawkllets began to pare away at it. Reichardt came to life with two quick two-pointers and Sangster deadlocked the game, 27-27, with four minutes to go. Drake put the Hawkllets into a momentary lead into a free throw but Hoff and teammate Bob Cohrs boosted the count to 31-28 before Dean's shots iced the game. In the waning seconds Franklin took several desperate shots at the hoop but to no avail.

Seydel Wins Des Moines Bout, Witt Tops Berens

Bob Berens, Iowa City, lost by decision to Dick Witt of Des Moines in a headline attraction in the capital city last night. It was Berens second loss to Witt, who took away the Iowa University student's State middleweight boxing title last November.

Iowa's two top ranking flyweights, Lyle Seydel of Iowa City, and Bill Mason of Des Moines were featured on the same card with Seydel getting the nod from the judges in a close fight.

Ohio State Defensive Stars

WARREN AMLING - GUARD

PAUL HUSTON - GUARD

BUCKEYE GUARDS, Warren Amling and Paul Huston, are set to try to stall the high-scoring Iowa offense in tonight's basketball classic in the fieldhouse. Huston is an all-America player and Amling was all-conference last year.

They looked like easy victors with a 39-26 third quarter edge. But then the Hawks, hoisted from their bootstraps by Anderson's glowing 27-point total, swarmed all over the invaders. Anderson barreled in 12 markers in the final episode alone, but had aid from Bob Ojemann who sailed in two late ones.

At four minutes, U-high was still out 43-32, but they poured in 15 before the end. Ojemann welded things at 44-all with a minute and a quarter to go.

The Panthers' Don Newton scored, but Fritz Harshbarger struck back, sending the crowd into an uproar through the final seconds.

Paced by Center Ron Benson, who collected 18 points for the night, Monticello opened fast. They spurted to a 5-0 lead and held sway 13-7 at the first quarter.

The Panthers out-talied the locals 11-9 in the second canto, and went to half rest with 24-16 margin.

It was the same in the third as the Panthers outprowled U-high 15-10 and gained a commanding margin. During this period Benson and Anderson started trading baskets.

The Bluehawks had a rough time for three quarters. The Panthers, rising with height and fine marksmanship, surged up and down court almost at will.

Married Vets Policy Stated by Coder

Return to former policy in applying for married persons subsistence by veterans attending school under the GI bill was announced yesterday by Dr. William D. Coder, director of university veterans' service.

Veterans who apply in the future for subsistence for married persons will receive the increase as of the date of an informal request for such change or date of marriage, whichever is later.

The old policy, in effect for the last month, required a certified copy of the public record of marriage to be on file with the veterans' administration before the change could become effective.

The certified copy is still required, but the effective date of change in subsistence rate is no longer dependent on its receipt.

Pella, Iowa's Bit of Holland—

Plans Another Tulip Time Festival

—After a Three-Year Absence

By WAYNE SCHAKEL

Pella, Iowa—(Special to The Daily Iowan)—Tulips will bloom and a bit of Holland will live again during the spring in this small Iowa town after three years without celebration of Pella's annual Tulip Time.

The festival was last held in 1943 when it was decided by townspeople and the local historical society that it should not be held again until more favorable postwar years.

Now, thanks to importation of more than 77,000 tulip bulbs from Holland, the famous Dutch festival will be held this May during the town's centennial year with more beauty than ever.

When Holland was being overrun in 1940 by the German army, John Res, tulip broker from Sasenheim, the Netherlands, was in Pella observing celebration of the festival.

Word had just arrived of the bombing of Rotterdam, and Res, overcome with emotion at the sight of children in the festival parade who depicted orphan children of Holland, could no longer stand the thought of his Holland in distress.

Turning to George Ver Steeg, editor of The Pella Chronicle, he cried, "Steeg, I can't stand it. I got to go." With that he turned from the crowd, got in his car and left town.

He went to the east coast and finally gained passage to Holland where he hoped to help his countrymen in their time of need. But his hope was spoiled when the German army impressed him into their military service where he remained until the German defeat.

He returned to the United States last year on a tulip bulb selling trip and was so impressed with relief work the people of Pella had done for their Dutch cousins he offered them tulip bulbs at cost for their next Tulip Time.

Civic groups and individuals have sent well over five thousand 11-pound packages of food and clothing to the Netherlands since relief packages were allowed to be shipped in the fall of 1945.

Bulbs listed at 5-25 cents in seed catalogues were shipped to Pella at an average cost of 3.8 cents, and the whole shipment of 77,000, received Nov. 11, is now underground and ready to bloom in May.

The Chamber of Commerce and

PRETTY DUTCH GIRLS like Mrs. Virginia Van Gorp Burkman, queen of a prewar Tulip Time in Pella, will wear authentic Dutch costumes like this to add to the natural beauty of thousands of tulips planted each year by the townspeople to make Pella one of Iowa's largest and prettiest flower gardens. (Photo courtesy of The Pella Chronicle).

Roy Drake, executive vice-president of the Pella National bank, guaranteed $3,500 necessary for purchase of the bulbs, but quick sale obviated need for any financial concern.

Tulip bulb headquarters was set up in an unused building downtown under the direction of Mortimer Goodwin, former executive vice-president of the Pella National bank.

Twenty-eight volunteer workers catalogued the bulbs which were sold out by Thanksgiving time.

Large plantings were undertaken in the several parks in town by the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs, the American Legion post, AmVets, Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Federated club, postoffice employees, Central college and the public schools.

9 Pay Parking Fines

Dollar fines for overtime parking were paid yesterday by Bert Kent, M. D. McCreedy (2), J. Moore, Peter O. Sigerzeth, Byron Nelson, Elizabeth Carter, Francis Sueppel and R. Sullivan.

Amos Kelso was fined $1 for parking in a prohibited zone.

Sale preference was given to these plantings and to individuals who live on main thoroughfares.

Added to some two or three hundred thousand bulbs already on hand from previous years Ver Steeg predicts "the most beautiful display of tulips we have ever had."

Other plans for the centennial Tulip Time will be begun late this month.

Car Skids on Ice, Telephone Pole Falls—On Innocent Bystander

Slippery driving conditions contributed to this week's second auto accident yesterday as Levi Kauffman, 16, of Kalona skidded into a telephone pole at 515 E. Burlington.

The pole fell into the street and was struck by a second car driven by Irvin Detwiler, 1130 E. Washington, who was driving behind Kauffman.

Kauffman said his car skidded as he turned slightly to avoid a car driving onto Burlington from a side street.

Damages to Kauffman's car were reported to be $225, and Detwiler estimated his damages at $50.

Conditions of Iowa City streets are generally improving, police report, and some thoroughfares are completely free of ice. Numerous icy spots still remain, however, and motorists are urged to drive carefully.

Ceiling Unlimited Dr. Ciconia Sprees, Brings Five!

Dr. Ciconia (The Stork) Ciconia, presumably encouraged by ideal flying weather yesterday, worked overtime at Mercy hospital and delivered no less than five babies. Three a day is considered high according to local Ciconidae union standards.

Heading the list were twins, born to Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Latham, 304 S. Summit street. One was a boy weighing three pounds, 13 ounces, the other a four-pound, three-ounce girl. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ellsworth, 1206 Yewell street, became the parents of a 7-pound, 10-ounce boy.

Another boy, weighing 8 pounds, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Willis Cohn of West Liberty. To conclude the spree, a 4-pound, 13-ounce daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Beever of Wilton Junction.

There are only some 11,000 whites among the 193,000 people living on Barbados, West Indian island. The rest are Negroes.

Canada produces most of the world supply of palladium, a precious metal of the platinum family.

The percentage of American families which have five children has been approximately halved since 1920.
