GOP Wins First Test in Senate; Keeps Investigating Committee

30 Witnesses Clear Suspect In Kidnap Case

LODI, CALIF. (AP)—Thirty dancing girls—members of a class to which Earl Shelton said he gave lessons the night Alice Dean Devine was reportedly kidnaped—were offered as an alibi last night for the 40-year-old ex-convict.

Police in San Francisco said that in addition to the girls' statement, at least a half dozen other individuals had told them they saw Shelton the following morning, when Miss Devine had placed the kidnaper in Sacramento.

Police said, however, they would bring Shelton to Lodi today to be seen by Miss Devine.

Shelton was not under arrest and declared at San Francisco he was perfectly willing to go to Lodi, 85 miles east of San Francisco.

"I can't have something like that hanging over me," he told newsmen in San Francisco.

The beautiful high school girl was returned to her home Tuesday, telling of being abducted by a man who demanded $10,000 ransom from her wealthy parents.

Meanwhile, California state police teletyped the following "pickup" message:

"Pickup and hold for kidnaping, E.W. Stiles, described as 42 years, 5 feet 8 inches, weighing 165 to 170 pounds, dark brown hair, receding at forehead, sharp features; was driving a Ford sedan medium gray in color, thought to be a 1937 model.

"Above suspect held victim captive in motel near Sacramento since dark Jan. 20. Victim was kidnaped in Lodi and was blindfolded, tied and gagged while being hauled around in car.

"Suspect left victim to make telephone call and victim worked free of ties and notified officers. Suspect used the name of Giles in Lodi. However, he signed the name of E.W. Stiles on motel register. Any information for Millard L. Fore, chief of police, Lodi, or this office."

Shelton Goes to Police
Shelton, former convict in San Quentin prison and now the operator of a photographic and model studio in San Francisco, voluntarily walked out with 582 one-dollar bills.

Dizzy Weather Florida Gets Colder; Antarctic Warmer

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The weather map followed a dizzy pattern yesterday with temperatures in northern Florida dropping as low as near the South Pole.

A cold wave from the midwest enveloped the eastern states, with freezing weather extending down into Florida. Jacksonville, Fla., recorded a minimum temperature of 29 degrees at the airport and Ocala, Fla., 32.

Meanwhile, reports from Little America said Antarctic temperatures Tuesday ranged from a low of 29 to a high of 31 above zero. Warm winds from the southwest began breaking up a cold wave in the midwest and forecasters said the warmer area would hit the east Thursday.

The only sub-zero weather in the United States was recorded in Maine. However, temperatures in northern Wisconsin and upper Michigan range from 5 to 10 degrees above zero.

Other low temperatures in the southeast included 24 degrees at Augusta, Ga., and 20 at Atlanta. The cold wave in the east caused a "shortage of natural gas in the Pittsburgh area, forcing a temporary curtailment of steel operations.

At Babb, Montana, where the community's 300 inhabitants have been snowbound since Dec. 30, a giant rotary snowplow cut a patch to the town, clearing the way for the arrival of food and other supplies.

Government Liable For Share of Union Portal Pay Claims

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON (AP)—There was mounting evidence yesterday that the government will have to shoulder a major proportion of any payments arising from the portal-to-portal pay claims filed against employers by labor unions.

The evidence came from Treasury Secretary Snyder in a news conference and from Assistant Secretary of the Navy W. John Kenney in testimony before a senate judiciary subcommittee. The committee is considering legislation to outlaw or restrict more than $4,000,000,000 in portal pay claims.

Snyder said the treasury had ruled that employers who have to pay back wages arising from the portal claims may charge the payments off against taxes for the years involved.

Kenney told the subcommittee the navy's liability under the back-pay suits may amount to as much as $900,000,000.

The navy figures came in the wake of testimony Tuesday by Undersecretary of War Kenneth C. Royall that claims against the army might reach $500,000,000. War department officials also told the subcommittee that the suits could erase savings of more than $3,000,000,000 which resulted from renegotiation of war contracts with a view to eliminating excess profits.

Treasury officials acknowledged that under the new ruling the government carries the brunt of financial liability for the hundreds of portal suits which stemmed from a court decision last June.

The court ruled then that all time employees are required to spend getting ready for their jobs is work and must be paid for.

Senators to Present Clashing Labor Ideas

By MAX HALL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two senators with clashing views, James Murray and Joseph Ball, will be the first witnesses today as the senate labor committee opens its long-awaited hearing on proposals to curb union activities.

The announcement was made today by Chairman Taft (R-Ohio).

The 13 committee members meeting at 1 p.m. CST, to touch off the five-week hearing expect to hear:

Murray (D-Mont) make a statement urging a cautious, studious approach to the union labor problem.

Ball (R-Minn) speak in favor of the Ball-Taft-Smith bill, which restricts unions in several ways. Secretary of Labor Schwelienbach and Assistant Secretary David A. Morse give their views on the labor bills so far introduced in the senate.

Murray and Ball are members of the committee.

Murray, last year's chairman, has joined with eight other senate Democrats to sponsor a resolution for a labor investigation by a 20-man commission, as proposed by President Truman.

Ball has collaborated with Taft and Senator H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) in the Ball-Taft-Smith bill, a revision of the 1946 Case bill which was vetoed by President Truman. He has also introduced bills to outlaw the closed shop and knock out industry-wide bargaining.

Meanwhile, Rep. Hartley (R-NJ), chairman of the house labor committee, said his group will hold its first formal meeting Monday, and will probably start hearings on house labor bills shortly afterward.

The senate hearing will start without all of the important labor bills before it. Senators Ferguson (R-Mich) and McCarthy (R-Wis) still have not introduced their expected bills, and Ball and Senator Morse (R-Ore) are writing new ones to add to those they have already submitted.

4 Republicans Cross Lines In 47-45 Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Republicans triumphed yesterday in their first big legislative battle of the new congress, winning a year's extension of life for the special war investigating committee.

Their victory came after nip-and-tuck roll calls which showed Republican lines holding adequately in a political pinch.

The final vote was 49 to 43, but the real test was the 47 to 45 count which defeated a Democratic move to take the investigation of war frauds and excessive war profits away from the special committee and give it to the standing committee on expenditures in the executive departments.

Four Republicans—Aiken of Vermont, Cooper of Kentucky, Morse of Oregon and Tobey of New Hampshire—voted with the Democratic organization on that WASHINGTON (AP)—Iowa's Senators Hickenlooper and Wilson, both Republicans, voted with the majority yesterday in rejecting a motion by Senator Tydings (D-Md.) to turn the duties of the special war investigating committee over to the standing committee on expenditures in the executive department.

The Democrats, in turn, lost the support of Senator O'Daniel (D, Tex.), although retaining the votes of two members of the special investigating committee, Connally (D, Tex.) and Kilgore (D, W. Va.).

The dispute over extending the life of the special committee until Jan. 31, 1948, was clear cut. The regular Republican organization backed the extension move; the Democrats went all-out in their effort to beat it.

Democrats argued that the creation or continuation of special committees violated the spirit of the congressional reorganization law, which whittled the number of standing senate committees down from 33 to 15.

Republicans contended that the investigating committee, founded by President Truman when he was a member of the senate, was a going concern with an informed membership and a capable staff which could complete the work at hand more efficiently than a standing committee with no previous experience.

Chicagoan Convicted As Yugoslav Spy

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—Ivan Pintar, 42-year-old native of Chicago, has been sentenced by a Yugoslav court to death before a firing squad for allegedly serving as a "foreign" wartime spy and plotting to overthrow Marshal Tito's present regime.

The court, sitting in Sisak in northwestern Yugoslavia, pronounced the sentence Tuesday night. Three Yugoslav citizens, one a woman, were condemned to death on similar charges. Eleven Yugoslavs were sentenced to jail terms ranging from five to 20 years, and one person was acquitted.

Pintar was accused of "being in the services of representatives of the international reaction," and of spying for the Ustachi, storm troopers of the puppet Croatian regime established by the Axis.

Woman Admits $2,950 Des Moines Bank Theft

Stages Holdup With Syringe

DES MOINES (AP)—An attractive brunette, who Police Chief Jack Brophy said had confessed two unassisted bank robberies, was in custody last night following the $2,950 holdup of the Des Moines bank & trust company during the height of the day's shopping period.

Brophy said Mrs. Opal Dixon, 38, of St. Louis, signed a statement admitting the $582 armed holdup of the United Bank and Trust company of St. Louis last Dec. 26 as well as yesterday's robbery in which she threatened to "blow this place to pieces" with contents of a silver medical syringe.

Syringe Harmless

Her seizure came within an hour after the woman bandit had walked calmly out of the bank with a currency-packed envelope which was recovered along with the syringe in the ladies' rest room of an adjoining office building. The syringe was "utterly harmless," Brophy said.

"I was tired of living on nothing," Brophy quoted the woman as saying.

Brophy, FBI agents and bank officials gave this story of the holdup:

At 1:15 a pretty woman, clad in a gray fur coat, walked into the bank and moved into the line before the cage of Teller Rex Cisco.

She tossed a large manilla envelope on the counter, flourished the syringe over her head, and said:

"This is a stickup. This place is covered inside and out. Get busy."

Cisco placed about $500 in the envelope, showed it toward her. "Not Enough"

"That's not enough," she said loudly, raising the arm which held the syringe. "I've got enough stuff here to blow this place to pieces and me with it. Fill that package."

Cisco stuffed more currency in the envelope and she took it, casually started toward the door and warned:

"I'm going out now. Don't any of you make a move."

F. L. Fiene, assistant cashier, said the 40 patrons and 20 bank

MRS. OPAL DIXON, who police said confessed to holding up the Des Moines Bank and Trust company yesterday, is shown in the custody of Patrolman Russell Lewis. Mrs. Dixon was captured less than an hour after the crime was committed. Police Chief Jack Brophy said she also confessed to a recent bank robbery in St. Louis. In the background is F. L. Fiene, assistant cashier of the bank and a witness to the robbery. (Photo by Des Moines Tribune) employees stood temporarily paralyzed.

"You could have heard a pin drop," he said.

Fiene said he then went cautiously to the bank entrance but the woman quickly lost herself in the crowd along the street.

The arrest came 50 minutes later when a woman answering the same description was nabbed by two police patrolmen as she emerged from the adjacent Equitable Life Insurance company office building.

The woman at first denied the holdup and said she had been to see her dentist.

FBI agents checked with the dentist who said the woman had paid him $75 in $5 and then borrowed a key to the ladies' rest room which she later returned.

The loot and syringe were found in the rest room waste basket.

St. Louis Robbery
In the St. Louis robbery, the method was almost identical. A brunette in a silver-colored fur coat came to the window of Teller Robert S. Walden, drew a revolver, and said "Hand it over, buddy, the place is covered." She casually walked out with 582 one-dollar bills.

Chief Brophy said the woman would be charged with bank robbery under state law which carries the 40 patrons and 20 bank

All French Parties Join in Government

PARIS (AP)—Socialist Premier Paul Ramadier formed a compromise coalition cabinet yesterday embracing all major parties, and thus gave France her first complete constitutional governmental setup in seven years.

After five days of negotiations, Ramadier finally succeeded in bringing the centrist Popular Republican movement (MRP) into the cabinet, by giving Georges Bidault the foreign ministry and working out a compromise on the national defense ministry.

Ramadier's own Socialist party was awarded the key interior ministry, which controls the police.

Asks DeGasperi to Form New Italian Government

ROME (AP)—Aldice de Gasperi who brought on Italy's current political crisis two days ago by resigning as premier, was asked last night by President Enrico de Nicola to organize a new government.

The Christian Democratic leader will begin consultations today with the heads of other parties on the formation of Italy's third cabinet in a little more than a year.

POLES ASK BIG SLICE OF GERMANY

SHADED AREA represents German territory demanded by Poland in memorandum placed yesterday before the Big Four deputy foreign ministers council which is drafting a German peace treaty in London. Poland asked for a new German frontier running from west of Swinemunde on the Baltic down to the west banks of the Oder and Niese rivers to Czechoslovakia. Granting of this request would give Poland permanent title to 40,000 square miles of German territory. (AP WIREPHOTO)

THE WORLD WATCH

Enter the New Age of Darkness

By STEVE PARK
Daily Iowan Columnist

Gentlemen, sound the trumpets! Call forth the people from the cellars and the attics and the shops! Proclaim the news in strident, piercing tones. The day is upon us. Enter the new dark age.

Enter and welcome, for man has grown too tired to think, to calculate to care, too nearedighted to see. Enter and rule for this is the century of terror, the epoch of slavery.

Enter and rule —but tell man, when he asks, that freedom is your right hand and human dignity your mantle. Tell him that you have come to save him — and you may destroy him.

PARK

By applying absolutism and coercion in thought. The age of reason has passed into the age of unreason and brutality which in turn gives issue to increased brutality; and the "realists" of our time propose only impossible solutions which the mind cannot accept nor sensibility endure.

More and more, the "realists," in the name of national expediency, seek to force us into the impossible dilemma of choosing, during an era of technological and scientific revolution, between a democracy which fits the conditions of the beginnings of the industrial revolution and an economic philosophy of the Victorian era, which has failed universally except in areas of chaos and extreme backwardness.

Democracy, which we hold so dear, can no longer be the exclusive privilege of only a small segment of the world's society. It must continually seek new frontiers and new advocates and now it must promise also a degree of economic security which previously it had delegated to individual initiative. Otherwise, it will find itself bottled up in ever narrowing areas and finally repudiated in the name of national security. The result of this in a capitalistic society is fascism.

Communism, which calls itself economic democracy, but which in reality is slavery on the national scale, has no success in those nations, which have expanded their economies constantly or in those which, unable to find new markets, have established a system of social democracy. Certainly the rise of fascism, which actually is stepped-up capitalism, must make it plainly evident that the modern police state can prevent, even under conditions of extreme provocation, the promised rising of the proletariat.

Yet, being unable to convince the people satisfactorily that one or the other of the proffered solutions is the correct solution for our times, the competing "realists," who adhere to them, are adopting the techniques of intolerance, coercion, brutality, fear to impress us to their service. And they tell us that civilization, liberty, national security, economic security, the dominance of the Caucasian race, our needs, our hopes—indeed the whole hope of mankind—depends upon complete acceptance of their programs.

Using the brutal methods of total war, they caution us that reason aids the enemy—the reactionary or the radical—who would destroy us. In the name of freedom, they preach intolerance and prejudice; in the name of progress they espouse reaction; in the name of decency they advocate hatred. They form the cult of extremism laying snares to trap the unwary, the unthinking. The foul shade of Hitler must chuckle at their antics—and applaud—for he has won his fight to turn man back to medievalism and to destroy the human soul.

Human dignity and human freedom are going by the boards; and in the name of democracy and next week's profits, the fantastic "realists" would annihilate them utterly.

Beware of the man who has an absolute solution; beware of the group that offers you Utopia; beware of the force that points the finger at a single group or nation, blaming it for all your difficulties. It is the representative of extremism.

Actually, there can be no solution to man's universal problems until there is universal order. There is no progress in anarchy—and we live in it. Only under law is democracy possible; only under law can human dignity be preserved—and the law must apply equally to all. There must be courts to interpret the law and justice to enforce it. Until then, there is little hope.

Beyond this, there must be equal access to the world's resources by all people. The Atlantic Charter promises this; the nations of the world have repudiated it. But until all nations are reasonably assured that they can get supplies of needed materials at stable prices (and at the particular profit of no one nation or group) the economic war will go on.

The new dark age is upon us. Shall we submit and be submerged, or shall we, by expanding the rights of people, expand our own wealth and happiness?

Selective Service Office Announces New Hours
New office hours for the Johnson county selective service office became effective this week.

Internationalism Ala Vandenberg

Senator Arthur Vandenberg has come a long way from the provincial Michigan politician who voted against the draft, lease lend and repeal of the neutrality act back there in those hectic days before Pearl Harbor.

After a dramatic if somewhat belated denial of isolationism just before the United Nations met in San Francisco to build an organization founded on international cooperation, the senator has become the Republican party's foremost spokesman on foreign policy.

After suddenly seeing the light in the last stages of the war with Germany, Mr. Vandenberg's record on international affairs since that time has frequently been labeled "statesmanlike." But now and then there have been indications that he has not completely cast off the prejudices and mental blind spots which laid behind his vigorous opposition to U. S. aid to the European democracies in their fight against Hitler.

For example, there is a paragraph in the speech he delivered recently in Cleveland in which he showed signs of not having grasped the hard realities of the world of today.

We are referring to that portion of his speech in which Mr. Vandenberg insisted that the Pan American conference be called immediately to draw up a mutual assistance treaty among the 21 nations of the Western hemisphere.

He underscored his insistence by saying, "There is too much evidence that we (North American nations) are drifting apart and that a communist upsurge is moving in."

This raising of the communist bogey in Latin America is especially illuminating in view of remarks made by retiring Secretary of State Byrnes who spoke from the same platform immediately following the senator's speech. Mr. Byrnes said he too was desirous that the long delayed conference soon be convened. He added, however, "but we do not wish to proceed without Argentina, and neither our ambassador nor any official of the state department is of the opinion that Argentina has yet completed the commitments which she . . . agreed to carry out."

In other words, the state department is still unable to give Argentina a clean bill of health. The commitments mentioned by Mr. Byrnes were a pact made at Chapultepec in which the South American country agreed to complete the commitments which she . . . agreed to carry out.

Note the contradiction between Mr. Vandenberg's position and that of Mr. Byrnes. The senator says the Pan American conference should be called at once to ward off the communist menace. Mr. Byrnes says the meeting cannot well proceed without the presence of the most important Latin American nation. But he adds, Peron's Argentina is not welcome as long as it remains infested with the vestiges of Nazism.

There is something disconcerting in Mr. Vandenberg's eagerness to sit down at the same table with Nazi-tutored Peron to map common strategy to combat the "communist upsurge."

What seems even more ominous is the fact that the new chairman of the important senate foreign relations committee shows evidence of not having learned the bitter lesson taught the world by the Nazis.

There never was and, we fervently hope, never will be an ideology and a government system more vile, horrifying and dangerous than the Nazi brand of fascism—not even communism.

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT

GOP Has to Fake Rivalry With Truman

By SAMUEL GRAFTON
New York Post Syndicate

The Republicans seem suddenly to have awakened to the thought that while harmony with President Truman is all very pleasant, there is going to be a political campaign next year.

The GOP is thus faced with the tactical problem of working smoothly with the president for a year and a half, and then having to try to pin his ears back for being a bad man.

The first Republican reactions to Mr. Truman's message on the State of the Union were very unpleasant. But now Mr. Carroll Reece, Republican national chairman, has had more than a week to think it over, and he has just sent a message to 7500 key Republicans throughout the country, firmly reminding them "it must not be overlooked" that this man is, after all, likely to be the Democratic candidate in 1948.

The line, as laid down, seems to be that there must be political rivalry along with legislative harmony, a proposition which is, perhaps, a somewhat obscure contribution to the science of government.

Naturally, Mr. Reece, as party chairman, feels it incumbent upon him to give ammunition to the 1500 Republican wheel-horses. Nothing loath, Mr. Reece attacks Mr. Truman's message on the ground that the president was not sufficiently specific, and did not tell the Republican majority in congress what to do.

but suddenly one becomes aware that his difficulty in finding grounds for contention is like a judgment on the conservative shift which has taken place in almost every branch of our government. How do you attack a rightward drift from the right? That is Mr. Reece's problem. The point about the Republicans is that their movement has won before they have won; leaving them pleased but a little anxious, because they would like to win along with their movement.

It is hard on a Republican national chairman to have to search out areas of disagreement, in a situation of which the most notable characteristic is the large area of agreement. The little comedy of contradictions tells a great deal about what the coming presidential campaign will be like, unless an independent candidate arises, in one party or the other, to lift the struggle above the level of irrelevancies, or the magnification of comparatively small differences into mighty issues.

Letters to the Editor:

Forget War's Hate, He Urges

(Once received, letters to the editor become the property of this newspaper and we reserve the right to edit them or withhold them altogether. Unsigned letters will not be published. Views expressed in letters do not necessarily represent those of The Daily Iowan.—The Editor.)

TO THE DAILY IOWAN:
It is men like R. C. Rea, president of American War Dads chapter No. 33, that cause wars and retard the progress of mankind.

In Tuesday's Iowan, Rea asked whether we want to share our citizenship rights with 88 German scientists who are now being held at Wright field under war department orders. These men, under Hitler, invented war machines which it is true killed many thousands of our men.

But, we might ask ourselves whether we're willing to continue sharing citizenship rights with these American scientists who invented a bomb so great and so destructive that the lives of thousands of people were wiped out in a matter of seconds—not months or years.

Rea is obviously like the average American, filled with war, resentment and hate. If is these men we will be able to thank for World War III.

All of us as we have come up through life have had a dispute with someone else. Perhaps it even came to the point of using fists—and someone got a black eye and a bloody nose. After the fight, we shook hands, made up and went on our way. We not only realized this was the sportsman's way of doing things, but also that if we wanted to avoid another fight, the best thing was to shake hands and make the other fellow our friend.

What applies to individuals and their problems also applies to nations.

True, we hardly have room now in this country for anyone else, but to say we should exclude anyone who was not on our side during the recent conflict is not only an insult to our intelligence, but downright narrowmindedness.

If we consider admitting these people who float to our shores in rafts, and the others who aided our cause, then why should we not consider admitting anyone? "To err is human, to forgive divine."

We admit that the German nation did make a mistake; now are we men enough to forgive and help that nation make up for its mistake, or would we have another war to see what our scientists can really do? Anyone who even fosters a thought of hatred or resentment toward anyone else is also fostering the thought of another war.

EUGENE BURMEISTER

Federal Aid for Education Essential

(The Washington Post)
We are facing a threatened breakdown of the American public school system. The teachers, who are, of course, the most vital element in that system, have reached a state of open rebellion. They have reached this state, it must be said, with a tardiness that does much more credit to their hearts than to their heads.

Out of love for their profession—and also, perhaps, in considerable measure because they chose to distinguish themselves from less intellectual workers who long ago learned that their livelihoods depended upon organized action and collective bargaining—the teachers have struggled along on wages that made their vaunted status ludicrous and left them unable to maintain even an elementary living standard.

Now necessity has forced them to unite and to demand higher pay. In a number of communities, they joined hands this fall and winter and refused to go on with their jobs until their demand was granted. The method proved effective. It can scarcely be doubted that teachers everywhere will resort to it.

The method has, indeed, been given the blessing of the cautious National Education association, a voluntary national professional organization. Its executive secretary, Willard E. Given, has advocated a "no contract, no work" policy, asserting that the NEA is opposed to teacher strikes. The distinction might be termed an academic one had its expediency not been demonstrated on several occasions by a non-academic apostle as John L. Lewis.

Exodus from the profession which has been taking place in recent years. The NEA says that 350,000 qualified teachers have quit their school jobs during the past six years "over and above the losses expected from normal causes." And this leaves out of account the inestimable number of qualified men and women who might have entered the profession had its remuneration been more adequate but who turned instead to better-salaried fields.

Our schools, in consequence, have faced augmented student bodies with diminished teaching staffs—and with teaching staffs of inferior caliber. It is essential that this hemorrhage be stopped. The revolt of the remaining teachers will serve the useful purpose of exposing its cause.

Action by state legislatures and municipal governments to raise the indefensibly low salaries of teachers must be inaugurated speedily if the schools are to be kept in session. But this cannot be cured with any easy poultice; it is too deep and has been festering too long.

We need to revolutionize our concept of the teacher's role in a democratic society and to reward it salarywise in proportion to its real importance. This means near a minor wage boost, but a real, over-all revision of salaries which will make teaching a desirable and satisfying career. This being so, it is plain, we believe, that a program of federal aid to the states for education is indispensable. It should come early on the agenda of the 80th congress.

441 Students Seek Degrees At Convocation

Candidates for degrees at the Feb. 1 midyear Commencement will come from 79 of Iowa's 99 counties, 30 states and five foreign countries.

Eighteen different classifications of degrees will be granted at the university's record midyear convocation, according to Prof. F.G. Higbee, director of convocations.

L.A.'s Head List
Of the estimated 441 degrees to be granted, 174 candidates are seeking bachelor of arts degrees and 66 seeking master of arts degrees. Fifty candidates seek a degree of bachelor of science in commerce and 43 that of graduate nurse. The master of science degree has been applied for by 32 students.

For the degree of juris doctor there are 14 candidates, for doctor of philosophy and bachelor of science in engineering, 10 each. Nine persons have applied for the degree of bachelor of science in mechanical engineering.

Failure to fill all requirements for degrees may prevent some applicants from receiving degrees or certificates, but the number is estimated to be small.

Johnson County Among Leaders
The largest number of degree applicants come from Johnson, Linn, Polk, Scott, Black Hawk, Woodbury, Lee and Tama counties.

Canada, China, India, Bolivia and Peru have candidates for degrees, and the states with the largest number of applicants are Illinois with 32, New York with 11 and Missouri with 10.

PERSONAL NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm M. Chesney of Pittsfield, Mass., and their son Malcolm Chesney Jr. of New Haven will arrive at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Tester tomorrow for the wedding of Terry Ann Tester and Robert W. Chesney.

Mrs. Ned Ashton, 112 South Dodge street, accompanied by Joy Wilson, A3 of Des Moines, Lucy Dean, A2 of Valparaiso, Indiana; Sally Henry, A2 of Cedar Rapids; Anne Buhmann, A2 of Iowa City, and Nancy Scofield, A4 of Morris, Indiana, left today for the water towers in Des Moines. The group will return tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Swanson are the parents of a son, Ralph John Swanson III, born Tuesday afternoon at University hospital. Mr. Swanson is a junior in the college of law.

Caroline Nutt, A1 of Douds, will spend the week end at home with her parents.

Mrs. James Ensign, Riverdale, recently returned from a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Moore, Toledo, Ohio.

Laverne Capel, A2 of Council Bluffs, Alpha Chi Omega, spent Tuesday at home attending the wedding of Joan Hartwell, former student at the university.

Lyman Bennett, A1 of Council Bluffs, Sigma Chi, is leaving for home Tuesday.

Dick Peterson, A1 of Council Bluffs, will leave Saturday for a visit at his home.

Butler to Read Paper
Featured on WSUI's Iowa State Medical society's broadcast this afternoon at 2:45 will be a paper on "Influenza" written by Dr. L. W. Swanson of Mason City. It will be presented by Larry Butler of the WSUI staff.

FASHION IN ACTION

"HEY, WATCH OUT for my hair!" shouts Jeanne Berson, A1 of Des Moines, as she is snowballed by a man with a parka and a mean right. Jim Schneider, A3 of Kankakee, Ill., sports the popular white pullover parka with rabbit fur trim seen so often on campus these days. His coat has the added practical value of a green reversible lining. The all-purpose, fur trimmed beige reefer modeled by Miss Berson has been styled from army officers' coats. With its warm sheepskin lining, it is a coat any college woman would find adaptable to winter occasions. The double breasted closing gives it a final mannish dash flattering to most figures.

Iowa Centennial Play Opens Feb. 25

Hancher, Committee to See Premier

The struggle between William Morgan as "The Rev. J. M. Stone, professor of natural philosophy," and Robert Burroughs as "Amos Dean, chancellor of the university," will continue until almost the drop of the final curtain in the centennial play production, "The Chancellor's Party."

Written by a university student, Don Liljenquist, the play's first performance will be presented Feb. 25 after the centennial birthday dinner.

The play cast was announced yesterday by Prof. E. C. Mabie, head of the dramatic arts department.

Stock Parts in Texas
Morgan and Burroughs are both newcomers to the university theater. Morgan has done stock parts in Texas.

Charles Gaupp, who played the lead in "Jacobowsky and the Colonel," will portray Frederick Humphrey, professor of mathematics.

Professor Mabie will direct the play. Assisting him are Charles Gaupp, Jane Blythe and Camille Henderson.

Glendon Gabbard, taking the part of E. M. Guffin, principal of preparatory department, has had dramatic experience here in "She Stoops to Conquer" and other university productions.

Other members of the cast are Arvella Free and Lucy Gabbard as Carolina Stone, wife of the Reverend Stone; Curtis Paul and Jack Moore as Augustus, their oldest son; Barbara Stanton and Harriet Bigus as Amanda Stone, their

Foreign Speakers To Lead Seminars On Religion in Life

Prof. Gonzalo Baez-Comargo of Mexico City and the Rev. Bryan S. W. Green of London are among the speakers scheduled to appear on campus during Religion in Life week, Feb. 9 through 14.

Comargo will lead seminar discussions throughout the week on "Intercultural Understanding," while the seminar on "Fundamentals of Faith" will be led by the Rev. Mr. Green, vicar of Holy Trinity church, Brompton, London.

Other seminar leaders will be Henry D. Jones, executive director of Dodge community house, Detroit, "Social and Economic Issues," Dean Sidney Sweet, Christ Church cathedral, St. Louis, "Road to Successful Marriage," Dr. Herriek B. Young, New York City, author of several books on South America, "Interfaith Understanding," and Dr. G. W. Stewart, former head of the University of Iowa physics department, "Religion and Science."

The seminars are scheduled for both afternoons and evenings. Seminar preference cards have been distributed through housing units for students to indicate the seminars they wish to attend.

The Mr. Rev. Jones and Dean Sweet will also lead a skeptic's hour as another feature of the week's program.

Other speakers include Prof. Samuel M. Dean, Yenching Union Mission university, Peiping, China; Arno J. Haack, executive secretary of YMCA-YWCA, Washington university, St. Louis, and Elizabeth Turner, Hwaiyuan, China, traveling secretary of the student volunteer movement.

Private conferences with the speakers may be arranged at the central office, YMCA rooms.

opinions and doing general legal research. Claims investigation and contract work would be included in insurance company examination and industrial work. Interpretation of existing laws and statutes would also be important.

"Most of the students have already determined to enter law practice, alone or in partnership," said Dean Ladd. "Law graduates will do large amounts of income tax work, which will carry them through the starting period of their practice."

"Many of them have positions with law firms which they will enter immediately upon taking bar examinations in February," Dean Ladd continued.

"They want to be lawyers," he declared. "There's a great demand for lawyers in the FBI, but the students are primarily interested in law practice itself."

No personnel placement service is maintained by the college of law, but Dean Ladd often acts as a contact for law graduates. "We do all we can to help by writing letters and recommendations," he explained.

Prospects Good for February Law Grads

This is the first in a series of articles discussing job opportunities in various fields for February graduates of the university.

February graduates in law should find job opportunities abundant, according to Dean Mason Ladd of the law college.

"All law students should obtain good positions within a short period," he predicted. "At the present time there is a shortage of lawyers due to the limited enrollment in law schools during the war."

"There are positions available in legal service with government agencies, in insurance companies and in private law offices," he continued, "as well as some opportunities in industrial legal work."

All government departments and agencies maintain sizeable legal staffs, Dean Ladd explained. Work in those divisions would include drafting and interpreting regulations, investigating facts and applicable law in all operational problems, writing memorandum

Shamrocks Edge Marians in Final Seconds

By DON MALONEY
Staff Reporter

St. Mary's Ramblers and St. Patrick's Shamrocks fought furiously for four quarters last night before a capacity crowd of 1,200 persons, but the outcome was decided in the final 15 seconds when diminutive Denny Tate, reserve forward for the 'Rocks, slipped in the winning basket that sank the Ramblers, 28-26.

The speedy sub's bucket climaxed an unforgettable, wild fourth quarter that had the fans gasping for breath as St. Patrick's came back twice to tie the score in the final minute—after trailing the Ramblers for most of the game.

With the score knotted at 24 all and a minute and a half left,

Johnny Sueppel sank a charity toss for the Ramblers, giving them a one point lead. The crowd swarmed onto the floor believing the contest to be over, and several minutes were required to clear the floor for the final hectic seconds.

Jerry Megan swished a long one handed shot giving the fighting Shamrocks their first lead since early in the ball game, 26-25, but Homer Boyd came back with a charity toss to knot the count again before Tate's winning basket clinched the issue.

Every second of the game was packed with thrills, and the greatest margin that separated the two rivals at any time was five points. Lanky Jerry Megan lead all scoring with eight points as he paced the Shamrocks, while Charles "Buzz" Mottet and Charles (Homer) Boyd both collected 7 points for the losers.

The shot percentages reveal the tension that plagued both teams. The Ramblers shot 54 times, connecting on 10 for a .185 percentage. St. Patrick's attempted 63 shots while hitting nine for .143 percent. The real difference shows up in fourth quarter statistics, as the Shamrocks hit on four of their last six attempts while the Ramblers were having trouble finding the hoop.

The play of each team was inspired by performances turned in by two guards. Carrot-topped Paul Flannery stopped endless Shamrock baskets with superb defensive guarding, while little Bob Grady continuously proved to be a thorn to the Ramblers as he seemed to be everywhere at once.

Jerry Megan opened the scoring for the Shamrocks after three minutes of the first quarter had gone by with a charity toss. Bill Seemuth matched this with another free throw, but the Ramblers went in front, 4-2, on baskets by Boyd and Mottet. McMahon tied the count up when he drove in for a lay up shot, but St. Mary's took the lead, 5-4, as the quarter ended, on Rocca's charity toss.

Sueppel swished a one handed shot for the Ramblers as the second quarter opened, and Mottet again stole the ball as the 'Rocks attempted to bring it up the floor. Mottet cased a bucket making it 9-4, but Megan put the 'Rocks back in the game with a field goal and a charity toss.

Flannery hit from the free throw line and Boyd sank a rebound for the Ramblers while Seemuth cashed in two charity tosses, leaving the halftime score at 12-10 in favor of St. Mary's. Bernie Brogla, subbing for Ed Rocca who had collected four fouls, turned in a fine performance.

McMahon tied the score up at 12-12 with a long one handed shot as the second half opened but Rocca put the Ramblers in front again with a charity toss. Near the end of the quarter Rocca sank one from far out, but Megan counted for the 'Rocks. The quarter ended as Rocca fouled out and Mottet hit one for the Ramblers while Herdliska hit a free throw leaving St. Mary's ahead, 17-15.

The tension caused both sides to miss easy shots in the fourth quarter before Herdliska swished a long shot from the guard spot to tie the score at 17 all. Midway in the quarter the Ramblers lead, 21-18. St. Pat's hopes received a jolt when McMahon left the game following a technical foul, but Seemuth hit for the 'Rocks while Mottet notched a charity toss for the Ramblers.

Grady and Seemuth each hit a timely free throw with less than a minute to go which tied the score at 24 all before the final baskets were scored. St. Pat's now boasts eight wins against four losses for the season, while the Ramblers record stands at seven in both columns.

Tonight's win at the high school gymnasium gives the 'Rocks a one game edge over the Ramblers in games played between the two schools in regular season competition. The series now stands at 26 victories for the 'Rocks and 25 wins for the Ramblers.

Friday night finds the Ramblers journeying to Cedar Rapids for a return engagement with Immaculate Conception whom they defeated earlier this season, 43-28, while St. Pat's plays host to Oxford at the southside gymnasium. Oxford humbled the 'Rocks, 36-21 in their last meeting.

By Bob Collins

Last night the high school basketball classic between St. Patrick's and St. Mary's was played. The game was everything that was advertised and then some and nobody asked for his money back. Both teams showed a lot of basketball and even more heart in scrapping every second of the 28-26 thriller.

But what a shame it is that the contest had to be played in the old Junior high school gym, a cracker-box affair with very poor seating facilities. The floor gave neither team a chance to go all out with the fire-wagon type of ball they love to use. Every time one of the boys would break down the side of the court, he'd end up in the crowd which overlapped the floor. Every long shot played hide-and-seek with the low-hanging rafters and the balcony prevented long shots from the side.

So to make a great event even better why don't the officials of the two schools get together and agree to play the next series of games on some neutral court where the boys have a chance. Every basketball fan in Iowa City would applaud such an effort. Yes, I know that this isn't the first time that this has been suggested. From what I heard last night, St. Mary's officials have favored such an undertaking but St. Patrick's officials have not. Of course, practice on the small St. Pat's gym would put the Shamrocks at some disadvantage if the game was held on a larger court, but from what the Irish showed last night they shouldn't duck the challenge for any reason.

In a game like this one, probably no one player should be picked out for special mention. But this boy Paul Flannery, sophomore guard on the losing St. Mary's five, really put on a defensive show. His saves were numerous and the Rambler Redhead covered the place like a blanket—everything he did was right last night.

Well the Hawkeyes are back in town and looking forward to the game Saturday night in Chicago with Northwestern. Every time anybody mentions the recent road trip the team shudders in unison and for good reason. But what they and the Hawkeye fans must realize is that there's a lot of basketball left this season.

Admittedly the practice last night didn't look too good with the Hawks snarling and snapping at each other. However, there's no excuse for a loss to Northwestern and that game should serve to mold the Hawkeye individuals into a team again. So it's up to the team to do what it will with the rest of the year. They can fold up like the proverbial kite or go on to regain their reputation.

Reports on the Indiana and Purdue games might answer your questions as they did mine. First of all the Iowa team figures Indiana a much better ball club than they do Purdue. The main reason Murray Wier didn't score more against the Hoosiers was a man by the name of Ritter who hung onto Murray, literally, like a long lost brother. Seems that the officials were watching Jorgensen and Wier so closely that they overlooked the friendly shoves and inquisitive elbows showered on them by the uninhibited Hoosiers.

Noble Jorgensen found himself in the hands of not one but two enthusiastic hosts most of the game. Indiana decided the best way to stop the Hawkeye sky-scraper would be to set their defense with one man in front of Jorgy and one man behind. So Hamilton and Williams two-timed Noble all through the evening.

Herb Wilkinson also received special attention from Indiana's Herrman who dogged him all the way. Herb's shots were of necessity, all made by leaping into the air and shooting rather than set attempts. At Purdue the Hawks encountered a disgreeable gent named Paul Hoffman who piloted a jet-propelled bunch of Boiler-makers. Hoffman roughed his way to numerous rebounds before knocking himself out of the game against Floyd Magnusson on a jump-ball play.

It's official now that Bob MacTaggart, former Northwestern basketball player recently declared scholastically ineligible, has enrolled at Iowa. Bob was quite a prep star at Davenport and played for St. Ambrose before going to Northwestern. The earliest date he could become eligible for Hawkeye teams would be next fall. Another Davenport star who migrated to Northwestern may come back to the fold. Loren Day seems to have dropped his work at Evanston and is debating whether or not to continue his education closer to home.

Iowa City Named Site of Sectional Cage Tournament

BOONE (P)—Lyle T. Quinn, executive secretary of the Iowa High School Athletic association, yesterday announced the sites for the 64 boys' sectional basketball tournaments Feb. 25-March 1.

Thirty-two AA high schools will not participate in the sectional playoffs but will advance to the district tournaments where they will compete against the 96 Class A teams who qualify in the sectional tournaments. These 32 teams represent the schools having the largest enrollments in the state.

Play in 48 of the tournament centers will include both Class A and B teams while at the other 16 sites only Class B teams will participate. In the sectional play the semi-final winners will advance to the district tournaments. Pairings in the sectional tournaments will be announced next week, Quinn stated.

The sites announced which will include both Class A and B teams are: Akron, Bloomfield, Brooklyn, Carroll, Coe College field house at Cedar Rapids, Centerville, Cherokee, Clear Lake, Creston, Decora, Dexter, Fairfield, Forest City, Fort Madison, Glenwood, Goose Lake, Grand Junction, Granger, Griswold, Humboldt, Humeston, Iowa City, Iowa Falls, Keota, Laurens, Manning, Mapleton, Missouri Valley, Monticello, Mount Airy, Nevada, New Hampton, Northwood, Oelwein, Pleasantville, Postville, Primghar, Reinbeck, Rock Valley, Rockwell City, Sheldon, Shenandoah, Spirit Lake, Strawberry Point, Tama, Villisca, Waverly and Winfield.

The 32 AA high schools which will automatically advance to the district tournaments are: Ames, Boone, Burlington, Franklin and Roosevelt high of Cedar Rapids, Clinton, Abraham Lincoln and Thomas Jefferson high schools of Council Bluffs, Davenport, St. Ambrose high of Davenport, Dowling, East, Lincoln, North, Roosevelt and Technical high schools of Des Moines, Dubuque, Loras of Dubuque, Fort Dodge, Iowa City, Keokuk, Marshalltown, Mason City, Muscatine, Newton, Oskaloosa, Ottumwa, East, Central and Trinity high of Sioux City and East and West high of Waterloo.

Badger Swimmers Invade Iowa

The Iowa swimming team has resumed practice drills for their coming meet with Wisconsin at the fieldhouse Friday afternoon. The meet, which will feature two undefeated tank teams, will begin at 4 p.m.

In their only start this season, the Badgers beat Lawrence college, 50-14, and boast a much-improved team over last season. They have four veteran swimmers and many prominent newcomers.

The Hawkeyes have won fourteen of the last fifteen meets with Wisconsin, losing in 1944 after twelve straight wins. The score at Madison last year was 53-31.

The meet is the second of two sports events on tap for the fieldhouse Friday afternoon, the first

Al Kawal Appointed Head Football Coach Of Drake's Bulldogs

DES MOINES (P)—Drake university, which won only two football games last fall, yesterday signed Al Kawal, assistant coach at Michigan State college, as head mentor, effective Feb. 1.

No definite tenure was specified in his contract, nor was his salary revealed although it was estimated in the neighborhood of $6,000 annually.

Kawal is a former football and basketball captain at Northwestern, where he was graduated in 1935. He is 35 years old.

Simultaneous with announcement of his appointment it was revealed that Drake intends to restore baseball to its athletic curriculum. Athletic Director Russ Cook said Kawal would name two assistant varsity coaches and a freshman coach and the new head mentor added that "one of them will double as head baseball coach."

Kawal succeeds V. J. (Vee) Green, who resigned last fall after 14 years of coaching the Bulldogs.

Fritz Crisler Denies Reported Shift to California Grid Job

ANN ARBOR, MICH. (P)—H. O. Crisler, University of Michigan athletic director, said yesterday that "someone is taking a shot in the dark" in presuming that he would become head football coach at the University of California.

"I have nothing before me," Crisler said at his home in Ann Arbor, "that would confirm reports that I would be offered the post vacated by Frank Wickhorst on the coast."

"The California folks have approached me but I have told them I am not seeking a job; I have a good one."

Crisler, who has been head football coach at Michigan since the 1938 season, said that University of California officials had talked with him "seeking my opinions regarding candidates for the post," and also had sought information regarding the athletic setup here.

"Someone in the coast heard that I had been contacted by the university and is just taking a

Ottumwa Sailors Name Team For Iowa City Golden Gloves

By DON PADILLA
Staff Reporter

Iowa City's Golden Gloves program picked up momentum yesterday with the announcement that the Ottumwa Naval Air station would enter a 15-man team.

With the addition of the sailors to the card, Co-Chairman Danny Mulherin said the entry figure had reached 40, with a possibility of 60 fighters being on hand when the first bell rings Tuesday night, February 11.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the bouts, has planned a two night meet, which is sponsoring the bouts, has planned a two night meet, with a third evening's program scheduled if enough hopefuls are signed up.

Mulherin also stated that the championship team from the American Legion show at Quincy, Ill., would be on hand for the Iowa City affair. Oscar Eggeson, chairman for the Quincy tourney indicated that he would bring a 12-man team.

Cedar Rapids, which has been staging a series of amateur cards will send a representation here from the stable of Lou Dochterman. Dochterman is the trainer who revived boxing in the Parlor City and his stable now contains some of the leading simon-pure leather throwers in the state.

Big question mark of the home town event is whether Bob Berens and Lyle Seydel will sign for the show. Both boxers are currently training at the local center, but are not official entries as yet.

The two boys are from the stable of Bob Rossie Sr. whose third fighter, Dean Housel, is now sidelined with a severe cold, but will soon go into training.

With Seydel and Berens in the fold, Iowa City would have strong representation in two weights. Berens is the former State middleweight titleholder and Seydel is rated No. 1 among flyweights.

Over four hundred dollars of gym equipment has been installed in the Community building, making it one of the finest anywhere.

Hitch in the training program is Trainer Al Couppee. The pro-football star, who returned here to enter school, has not been able to find an apartment. Call 2200 or stop in at the gym if you can help.

A heavyweight entry turned in to Co-Chairman Mulherin yesterday was Joe Grothug, who played a lot of tackle for Dr. Eddie Anderson's gridders last season. An experienced man inside the ropes, Grothug participated in a number of bouts while in the service.

Price of admission if you want to see from the ringside is $1.75, with the unreserved seats going at $1.25. Ducats are on sale at Kenney's Cigar store, Racine's, Shay's Barber shop and Kade's. JCC members will also apply tickets.

The Ottumwa Naval Air station entry list:

- 118-pound class—Auggie Caramazza.
- 135-pound class—John DeWinter.
- 147-pound class—William Hesse, Robert Pegg, Charles Hunt, Caesar Potter.
- 160-pound class—Allen Bosworth, Hershel Zieger, William Hyde, Louis DeSmith.
- 175-pound class—Patrick Keating, J. Sughrue, Robert Stockwell, Dean Tendler.
- Heavyweight—James Sevcik.

Wildcats Next Foe For Hawk Cagers

Seven games remain on the University of Iowa's basketball schedule and the next assignment for the Hawkeyes is Northwestern in Chicago stadium Saturday evening.

With three defeats in five games, the Iowans now face the terrific task of winning all seven remaining games to have much of a chance to figure in any title. And even that feat might not be enough.

Tied for sixth place in the conference, the Hawkeyes were about five percentage points below their usual average in the Indiana and Purdue games and their team play some of the time was substandard.

In Northwestern, Iowa will meet a team which has dropped its first four games, two to Michigan and one to Illinois and Ohio State. The Wildcats have been outscored an average of 10 points per game.

Iowa is second on offense in the conference rankings with an average of 58.8 but ranks seventh on defense with 52.8. Hawks have averaged 9 more shots per game than any other league team, 86.6, but shooting percentage in conference games is only .247 as compared with foes' .268.

Murray Wier, despite two comparatively "cold" nights, has a conference game average of 13.6, third-best in the league while Noble Jorgensen, who played two fine games at Indiana and Purdue, has a 12.6 average, and Herb Wilkinson has 11. Jorgensen's percentage is .342 to Wier's .271.

PREPPING FOR THE BIG SHOW

WORKING OUT on the punching bag is Jack Scanlan, university student who has entered the 175-pound division in the Junior Chamber of Commerce Golden Gloves tournament which will be run off February 11-13.

Is He Is or Is He Ain't Married; Lippy Quiet; Judge to Decide

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Laraine Day was ordered yesterday to make another court appearance soon—when she will be asked to show cause why her California divorce of last Monday should not be set aside.

The actress, who obtained a Los Angeles divorce Monday, a Mexican divorce Tuesday and married Leo Durocher a short time later in El Paso, attempted to convince an indignant judge yesterday that she meant no wrong in ignoring the California decree.

Judge George A. Dockweiler was not convinced. A few hours after talking to Laraine and the talkative Brooklyn Dodgers manager, he ordered Miss Day to show cause why the California decree should not be invalidated.

Miss Day divorced J. Ray Hendricks Monday but under California law she is not free to marry for another year thereafter.

The jurist said Miss Day will be required to answer an allegation that she did not show good faith in obtaining a Juarez, Mexico, divorce from Hendricks the day after she had already obtained one from him in Los Angeles.

Judge Dockweiler told reporters that during the conference yesterday the actress remonstrated: "Judge, you're crucifying me."

She told him that she had been very unhappy in her marriage in the past and asked him: "Don't you want me to be happy?"

Judge Dockweiler said he reminded her that she had apparently broken the rules as far as California law is concerned and that her happiness was not exactly at issue.

"Everyone has a cross to bear," Judge Dockweiler said he told her. Under California law, Judge Dockweiler said after the conference in chambers with the Durochers, Miss Day may not live with Durocher as man and wife for one year from Monday. He declined immediate comment on procedure that might be taken if they lived together outside California.

The court said that Miss Day, who lives with her mother in nearby Santa Monica, and Durocher, staying at a Santa Monica hotel, promised they would not live together in California.

"Mr. Durocher said he had been advised by attorneys for the Brooklyn Dodgers ball club that under New York law they could live together in that state," the judge said. "Both said that if that was legal and would not prejudice her California divorce decree, they proposed to live in New York."

"I propose to consult with the Los Angeles county attorney before taking any action. A problem of morals and law arises here, a question of whether this court is a policing agency—whether, if these people are obeying California laws, it is our duty to determine whether they are living as man and wife in some other state."

Durocher, 39, the Dodgers manager, was extraordinarily silent to reporters. On any question relating to his marital affairs he said "no comment." He said only that he would leave shortly for Florida and Havana, Cuba, where the Dodgers begin training Feb. 19.

"I am not making any statement," Miss Day, 26, told newsmen.

Majors Shift Training Sites

NEW YORK (AP)—Six big league clubs have switched training sites for the 1947 season during which enterprising baseball promoters will explore the virtually-untapped resources of Venezuela, Panama and Honolulu in search of excess dollar bills.

After this spring the teams will not be permitted to start work until March 1, and international tours will be out of order. As a result the New York Yankees and Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers, in particular, have planned extensive junkets. The first unit, the Yankees, leaves Feb. 13.

Although Larry MacPhail remains loyal to St. Petersburg, Fla., for at least three weeks of the two-month trip, the varsity Yankees will be seen in San Juan, Puerto Rico; Caracas, Venezuela, and Havana, Cuba, before they hit the Florida west coast.

The Giants, moving from Miami to Phoenix, Ariz., will make a trip to the Pacific coast and will plane to Honolulu before hooking up with Cleveland in an exhibition series.

Branch Rickey, alive to the possibilities of turning an honest dollar, will take his Brooklyn to Havana for the entire spring season with the exception of two side trips, one to Venezuela for a series with the Yanks and the other to Panama where the Yanks cleaned up a year ago. Daytona Beach, Fla., the Dodgers' 1946 site, will not have a big league team this season.

Arizona will have two clubs. Cleveland deserted Clearwater, Fla., for Tucson under its new president Bill Veeck. The up-and-coming Phillies moved in where the Tribe stepped out, taking over Clearwater and leaving Miami Beach.

Although Florida lost the Giants and Indians it gained two at the expense of California which now harbors only the two Chicago teams, the Cubs at Catalina Island and the White Sox

Loras Star Nation's Sixth Point Maker

NEW YORK (AP)—Although he is nursing a fractured wrist and did not play the last two games, Cliff McNeely of Texas Wesleyan still is far out in front of the nation's high scoring collegiate basketball players.

Before he went to the sidelines McNeely had rimmed 388 points in 17 games. Jim Lacy of Loyola at Baltimore has corralled 312 points in 15 games, and John Wilson of Anderson (Indiana) has 309 points in 15 games.

Mickey Marty, outstanding Loras college forward, is in sixth place with 278 points in 14 games.

Dixie Walker Sees Great Dodger Year

NEW YORK (AP)—Dixie Walker won't come out flatly and predict the Dodgers will win the pennant but the veteran Brooklyn outfielder says the Bums are far better equipped to battle the St. Louis Cardinals in 1947 than they were last season.

Since the Brooks battled the league champs right down to the wire in that precedent-shattering regular season deadlock, you can see what's in the back of his mind. "We have a lot of fine young ball players coming up. Out pitching will be a lot stronger. Pete Reiser should be himself all over again and we'll have Catcher Bruce Edwards all year. That last could have made the difference last season," said Dixie.

The hard-hitting flychaser, lean and tanned, was in town for the meeting of baseball's pension committee.

at Pasadena.

Pittsburgh, a prime attraction with the addition of Hank Greenberg, shifts from San Bernardino, Calif., to Miami Beach and the St. Louis Browns move out to Anaheim, Calif., across the continent to Miami.

Largest, Fastest Registration In SUI History Starts Today

7,500 to Register In Graduate School, Commerce, Liberal Arts

The largest registration in the history of the university will start this morning when approximately 1,300 graduate students register for the second semester.

Another 5,500 liberal arts and 700 commerce students will begin registration this afternoon to swell the total to 7,500 in the next two and a half days.

Registrar Paul J. Blommers said students will register from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. each day in the university's fastest single registration.

Registration procedure has been simplified greatly since last fall, Blommers said, and most students should be able to complete the process in "less than 30 minutes" if they follow instructions given them with their registration materials.

The simplified registration process makes use of International Business machines (IBM) cards on a scale never before used, Blommers said. The system will speed clerical work after registration and should enable class lists to be completed by the second week of the semester. Those lists were not ready until four weeks had passed during the current semester.

After registration cards have been filled out and approved by advisers according to instructions, the student's first step in the registration process at the Union is to fill out an IBM directory card given him when he enters.

Then the student will go to the proper desk in Union lounge where advisers for each of his courses are located. For each course he is taking he will receive an IBM card listing the course title, number, section and hours of credit.

In the upper left-hand corner of each class card the student will write in his student number which he received with his registration materials in University hall last week.

This number is permanently assigned to the student and will remain with him as long as he is in any college at the university. It should be memorized and the student number card should not be destroyed.

The student number has been assigned to enable the university to keep straight records of students with the same name.

With these class cards he goes to the Union Library, calls for the IBM master card (yellow) and turns in all cards at the River room.

At this final stage veterans stop for a card showing their entitlement to education benefits and receive a book requisition card listing their schedule for receiving book requisitions at the women's gymnasium.

New students will register Monday morning under this same system.

Medical and dental school students are enrolled for the full school year from their registration last fall, Blommers said, and those in the colleges of engineering, law and pharmacy will be registered by their respective colleges.

Blommers predicted that the registration time for students, cut in half since the first semester, will be reduced still more by next fall.

Use of carbon copies at that time will mean students need to list their class schedules only twice on registration cards, and the information blank will be approximately half as long as it is now.

Summerwill Re-elected To Bank Presidency

Ben S. Summerwill was re-elected president of the Iowa State Bank and Trust company at Tuesday's annual stockholder meeting, and all other officers were re-elected for 1947.

They are Dr. E.M. MacEwen, vice president; W.W. Summerwill, vice president; M.B. Guthrie, cashier; W.F. Schmidt, assistant cashier; James H. Schmidt, assistant cashier, and M.E. Taylor, auditor.

Dr. MacEwen, R.J. Baschnagel, George A. Thompson, Guy Stevens, Guthrie, Ben S. Summerwill and W.W. Summerwill were re-elected to directorships.

Campus Chest Fund Reaches $3,341.94

Money from 14 housing units and town and campus solicitation turned in since Monday has brought the total of the Campus Chest fund to $3,341.94.

Town and campus solicitation netted an additional $86.90 for the drive.

Additional contributions from campus housing units include Currier, $56.40; Alpha Delta Pi, $52; Pi Beta Phi, $39; Alpha Xi Delta, $33.50; Sigma Chi, $27; McChesney, $15.50; Russell house, $13.25; Hutchinson house, $12; Delta Chi, $10; Quadrangle, $5.

Fairchild house, $4.72; Clinton Place, $4; Currier graduate house, $4, and Phi Kappa Psi, $2.

Gas Hawks Set Date To Fly Control Models

The Iowa City Gas Hawks last night set Feb. 8 as a tentative date for indoor control live flying of their gas-powered airplane models.

President L. R. Johnson said the club also named two new members, bringing the total to 15. With the addition of five or six more members, he said, the club will be able to stage a model airplane flying contest next spring.

Anyone interested in joining Gas Hawks may contact Johnson at 2211 or call Hobby Harber, 80474.

Eleanor Wesselink To Give Voice Recital

Soprano Eleanor Wesselink, accompanied by Joyce Wilton, will give a student recital tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. in the north hall of the music building.

She will sing three numbers by Brahms, "An die Nachtigall," "In Waldeseinsamkeit," "Meine Liebe Ist Grün" and "Morgan" by Strauss.

Other selections by Miss Wesselink will be "Le 'esclave," "Le Papillon" and "Un bel di" from Madame Butterfly.

Her program will be concluded with "The Skylark," by Gretchaninoff, "At the Ball," by Tschai-kowsky, "Lilacs," by Rachmaninoff, and "The Nightingale has a Lyre of Gold," by Whelpley.

County Farm Bureau To Celebrate Climax Of Membership Drive

Johnson county Farm Bureau members will celebrate the successful end of their 1947 membership drive at a victory party in the Community building Saturday evening, Feb. 1.

Emmett C. Gardner, county extension director, said that approximately 500 new members are now on the bureau's rolls. Fremont township's 68 new members led the drive which closed early this month.

Tied for second place were East Lucas and Washington townships with 82 new members each.

Gardner said a total of 1,354 members had paid dues for this year as of Monday, compared to the bureau goal of 1,250 members. He said the bureau hopes to have 1,500 members by July 1.

Mrs. Frank Colony is reception committee chairman for the victory party; Emil Novy, program chairman, and Mrs. Lisle Hurlbut, table committee chairman. Entertainment will include special music numbers and tap dancing.

Mountaineers to See Color Films of Amazon

An illustrated lecture on "Amazon Jungle Tribes", by Lewis N. Cotlow, of New York, explorer, will be sponsored by the Iowa Mountaineers at 8 p. m. Sunday in the chemistry auditorium.

Color motion pictures of South American savages will be shown. The films were made by Cotlow on a trip 3,000 miles up the Amazon river.

Members of the Mountaineers must show their membership cards for admittance. Admission to non-members is 80 cents.

Hancher to Address Professors' Association

President Virgil M. Hancher will address the Monday meeting of American Association of University professors.

His speech on "The President's Office" will be the second of the association's series of lectures on university administration.

The meeting will be held in the senate chamber of Old Capitol at 7:30 p. m. Prof. Ralph E. Ellsworth, president of the association, said all faculty members are invited to attend.

Dan Kubby Fined $12.50 For Speed Violation

Dan Kubby was fined $12.50 in police court yesterday for speeding, and Robert H. Reynolds, route 2, paid $11.50 for driving without a chauffeur's license.

Fined $5 for driving without lights was Thomas Hirt, Hills. Four other persons paid fines for parking meter violations.

They were Edward O'Connor, $3, and R. D. Sharp, Robert Casey and Doner Anderson, Chicago, $1 each.

Cut Food Freezer Cost

FOND DU LAC, WIS. (AP)—A reduction of $50 in the price of food freezers, the first in the industry since post-war production began, was announced yesterday by the Sanitary refrigerator company. The cut lopped ten percent off the price of the firm's $500 farm locker plant unit.

Gallup Seeks 'I Think You're Crazy' Attitude in Youth

Upset Proof Positive in Search for New Truths, Suggests Poll Master

"I wish young people did want to be president!"

This was George Gallup's comment yesterday when he stopped for a half-hour visit in Iowa City, the place where he originated the methods of scientific public opinion polling now basic in the Gallup poll.

Too many young people, Gallup explained, have the idea that what has been done and proven is sufficient. He said he would like to see a young person come into his office and say, "I think you're crazy" and then be able to give evidence by showing how improvements could be made in the present methods of polling public opinion.

Illustrating his belief that no line of research is completely developed and that nobody knows everything, Gallup added, "I was talking to Walt Disney once and Disney said of certain people in Hollywood who pretended to know everything, 'They don't know as much as we don't know.'"

Work on a Good Idea

Gallup once told a friend that one way to succeed was to "get some good idea and work on it."

He still believes this is true and has actually proven his own theory. His thesis for a Ph.D. degree from the university contains the basic methods still used today in the vast organization he directs. These methods have also been adopted by the American Newspaper Publishers' association.

Gallup was in Europe last year in connection with American Institute of Public Opinion (Gallup poll) work. The Europeans, he asserts, are going through what they call an "austerity period," but they are gradually coming back to normal.

In America, Gallup says he has found that ideas on national issues are highly stratified.

By PHIL MILLER

Differences of opinion are often shown clearly between high and low income groups, but influences such as education and religion also are evidenced in poll results, he explained.

South Consistently Different

Through scientific compiling of information, Gallup says he has found that the "only section of the country that is consistently different is the south, that the "west coast is usually more liberal" and that the rest of the country is rather consistent in opinion.

A native of Jefferson, Iowa, Gallup received his B.A. and M.A. as well as Ph.D. degree here. He taught at the university for six years and laughingly says of that period, "I taught more courses than anyone I've ever heard of in my life and I taught the same thing in all the courses."

Laughing again, he said that there were some people who "thought I was crazy." He was too modest to conclude that he has since proven himself quite the opposite.

Gallup was editor of The Daily Iowan in 1923. It was during his "reign" that Associated Press news coverage was instituted and the paper changed from a university paper to a city paper. While at the university in 1926, he started Quill and Scroll, national high school journalism fraternity.

Hollywood Polls

Gallup's organization in Hollywood conducts studies on title choice, tests story ideas, charts public knowledge about pictures each week, checks the popularity of stars and previews movies each week with a "scientific gadget," as he calls it, but this is only a side issue to the public opinion polls he conducts and the surveys he does in advertising and business.

Answering a charge made recently in a Des Moines Register letter to the editor that Gallup poll questions are slanted, Gallup laughed and answered that he has been accused of practically everything.

"The answer is very simple. We'd be as foolish as AP or UP to want to slant news."

Gallup stopped here yesterday at the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity house on his way from Hollywood to New York City.

Iowa Legislature Gets First Bill Proposing State Aid to Schools

DES MOINES (AP)—The first major school aid measure of the current state legislature—designed to give $8,000,000 a year in state aid to schools—was introduced yesterday in the Iowa house of representatives.

The bill would distribute school aid on a per pupil attendance basis.

Rep. Fred Schwengel (R-Davenport), chairman of the house school and textbooks committee filed the bill.

The new measure asks an $8,000,000 annual fund in addition to $3,560,000 which the state is already furnishing Iowa public schools. It would provide about $19.80 a year for grade school pupils and $22.20 a year for high school pupils—available equally in all school districts.

Schwengel and eight other co-sponsors would finance the measure by transferring $8,000,000 a year from state sales and income tax fund. The state superintendent of public instruction would administer school aid.

TWA Pilots Get Raise
CHICAGO (AP)—An arbitration board yesterday put pilots of Trans World airline's four-engined Constellation and Skymaster planes into the $1,000 a month salary bracket.

Iowa City, and Edward of Wyoming; three sisters, Mrs. M.F. Sullivan, Mrs. Joseph Lenoach and Mrs. Frank Sedlacek, all of Iowa City.

The rosary was said last night at McGovern funeral home.

9 Candidates File Papers For Primaries

Forty-eight hours before the deadline for filing primary papers, nine candidates—seven Democrats and two Republicans—filed nomination papers to enter the city primary contest, to be decided Feb. 24.

Deadline for filing nomination papers is 5 p.m. tomorrow.

Democrats
Those filing on the Democratic ticket were:

Max S. Hawkins, 10 North Van Buren street, for fourth ward alderman; James M. Callahan, 303 E. Benton street, incumbent council member, for ward alderman; William H. Grandrath, 520 Grant street, for fifth ward alderman; Charles Smith, 906 E. Davenport, third ward alderman candidate; City assessor William J. White, 927 N. Summit, for his present position; Frank Fryauf Jr., 1025 N. Summit, for alderman-at-large.

Republicans
Filing under the Republican ticket were:

Alva B. Oathout, 627 Bradley, and A.O. Kelley, 304 E. Market, both Republican candidates for aldermen-at-large. Mayor Wilber J. Teeters, filing for re-election under the Republican banner, officially entered the race by presenting his papers at the city clerk's office late Tuesday afternoon.

The local Democratic central committee already had endorsed Hawkins for the fourth and fifth ward aldermen posts.

The committee, however, did not endorse the candidacy of either Callahan or Grandrath as aldermen candidates. Both men filed independently.

James A. Meade, Democratic central committee chairman, said he "had endorsed Jule F. Kasper for first ward alderman, because of his fine ability as a businessman, good judgment and over-all good record." Meade did not comment on Callahan's entry into the first ward race.

After filing papers yesterday Callahan asserted that "a great many of my friends have asked me to file. They want me to run."

Although not endorsed by the central committee, Callahan said he still thought there was a "lot of harmony" in Democratic ranks. He said he believes present differences are not too serious and expressed the belief that such opinions can be settled after the primaries.

Callahan declined to speak on a platform now.

As late filers began registering for the primary, the city Democratic ticket was well rounded out with exception of the office of city treasurer.

Meade said the central committee "had not yet endorsed a candidate for the post, but that's not saying there won't be one." The post is at present held by E.B. Raymond, Republican, who will again be the GOP selection.

Powell is a marine veteran and served four years in the South Pacific. He is now associated with the Home Insulation company here.

Hawkins, a fourth ward candidate for alderman, is associated with the Roland M. Smith Real Estate agency. Hawkins was a member of the famed 1939 Iowa grid eleven.

Grandrath is employed at the Means Bros. grocery and is also active in the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

City Assessor White will have no party opposition from the GOP which has already completed its ticket without naming an assessor candidate.

Plan Victory Dinner

A victory dinner for workers and officials in the Mercy hospital expansion drive will be held tomorrow noon in Hotel Jefferson.

L. D. Wareham, general chairman of the campaign, said all workers are expected to turn in complete returns of their solicitations at the meeting. Wareham expressed hope that the $150,000 goal would be reached.

Donations totaled $140,734 at the last report of progress Jan. 30.

NANCY'S LEGS ARE WELL NOW

ONE OF MANY POLIO patients given treatment in University hospital here, Nancy Renshaw is bright-eyed evidence for the power of American dimes. They helped her get well. Other youngsters in Iowa and all over the country will walk again because of this year's March of Dimes. The drive in Iowa City ends Jan. 31.

Sixteen months ago Nancy Renshaw of Mason City was paralyzed. Stricken with polio in September, 1945, she could move neither of her legs, her left arm nor her neck.

Now Nancy skips around with a great big smile and thinks there's nothing to it, kicking her legs as if she had ballet ambitions.

Starting to school unhandicapped, the six year old youngster had plenty of help in overcoming her attack of polio. The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, financed by March of Dimes money, paid part of the cost of hospital care and doctor bills. During her six weeks of early treatment in University hospital here, that amounted to $6 or $7 a day.

Research financed by the National Foundation also played a part in making Nancy's recovery easy instead of painful. Modern treatment chiefly involving physio-therapy methods restored her paralyzed arm and legs to life.

After six weeks in the hospital, Nancy spent five more in bed at home before she was able to be up. Then came a gradual process of recovering use of her limbs. There were several trips back and forth to Iowa City, with the little girl showing steady progress.

When Nancy was in town for a check-up this week, doctors said she need not come back again for six more months. She now walks with only a slight limp.

Happily demonstrating her vim and vigor to a Daily Iowan photographer, Nancy made no comments afterward. She merely grinned and scampered down the hall.

He said Mrs. Dixon broke down and confessed after she was confronted with her two daughters by a previous marriage, Mrs. Jewel Collins, 16, and Mrs. Janice Asplan, 18, both of whom were staying with their mother at a hotel here.

Floating Around Country

The chief quoted Mrs. Dixon as saying she had "just been floating around the country the last several years" living intermittently with her husband, J.G. Dixon, whom she wed in Chicago nine years ago. He said she denied using a gun in the St. Louis robbery.

She is a native of Kennett, Mo. James A. Hawkins, Des Moines salesman who was behind Mrs. Dixon in the bank line, said he could see the liquid splashing in the syringe vial and that the point looked to him "like a fuse."

700 Sign Petition For Vet Pay Raise

American Youth for Democracy's petition to congress to increase subsistence payments to veterans attending school under the G.I. bill had signatures of 700 Iowa Citizens and students yesterday.

The petition seeks to increase monthly pay for all veterans in school to $100 with an additional $25 for each dependent.

Wallace Chapter Secretary Elaine Glasser said that the petition booth set up in Bremer's Monday will stay open at that location through tomorrow.

Any person 17 years old or over is eligible to sign the petition, she said.

partly appeared at the San Francisco police headquarters last night after he learned, he said, from a radio bulletin that he was wanted for questioning in connection with the case.

Before his appearance at the police headquarters, Sheldon had been reported by Sacramento Police Capt. M.W. Linecum as having been identified through pictures as the man who took the pretty young student from Lodi to a highway motel near Sacramento Monday night and held her for a ransom of $10,000.

San Francisco police last night were checking a series of names of persons whom Sheldon said would verify his contention that he was not out of town Monday, the day Alice Dean was abducted.

SUI Alumna Honored By Belgium Government

Katherine Roberts, former university student, was recently awarded Belgium's Cross of Knight of the Order of the Crown by Baron Robert Silvercruys, Belgian Ambassador to Washington.

Miss Roberts wrote two novels, "Center of the Web" and "Private Report", about Belgium underground activities during World War II. She also reported on that country's post-war reconstruction problems in "And the Bravest of These."

She received a masters degree here in 1918.

The FBI said this was in a small sheaf of bills which Mrs. Dixon said was whisked up a ventilator shaft when she was hunting hiding places for the money in the rest room.

It was Iowa's first bank robbery of 1947. The last previous one in the state was staged at Carlisle last Nov. 23 when two young men now serving sentences in federal prison escaped with $4,500 from the Hartford-Carlisle savings bank.

The only other bank robbery in Iowa since 1942 was the $795 holdup of a branch bank office in Denmark last April. The perpetrator of that robbery also is in prison.

University Glassblower Herman Wiegand Likes to Make Complicated Trinkets

MAKING MUSIC on a glass trombone is Herman Wiegand, whose university laboratory is a storehouse of glass objects—from statuettes to ducks—which he has "blown up" in his spare time. Wiegand is official glassblower for University hospital, the botany, geology, zoology and hydraulic engineering departments.

The small, grey-thatched man beamed as he beckoned me toward the door, "Come into my laboratory and I show you some samples of my work," he said.

A glassblower for University hospital, the botany, geology, zoology and hydraulic engineering departments, Herman Wiegand has a laboratory filled with test tubes, medical instruments, multi-colored vases, statuettes and numerous other glass objects.

As I examined his trinket-filled show case he handed me a glass tube with a ball on one end. The encasing heat caused the livid alcohol in the ball to rise into the tube. A dancing little man bobbed ludicrously up and down in the mounting fluid.

"Making perfume is one of my hobbies, too," he chuckled, handing me a delicate, liquid-filled bottle. I popped off the cork and took a deep sniff. A thin stream of water slipped from a minute hole in the end of the bottle and ran down my arm. "That's only one of my tricks," Mr. Wiegand laughed. "I have several others."

He then produced the glass replica of a trombone. "Very nice," I thought, "but not too useful."

At that point he blew such a blast I was forced to rescue the top of my head. "I don't play myself," Wiegand added, "But a friend told me my horn played as beautifully as her husband's. He is a musician."

The glass blower whipped out a long, narrow tube perforated with five small holes and one large one. As he blew into the large hole and pressed the others, a series of high, clear notes sounded.

He also keeps a complicatedlooking all-glass French horn in the bottom shelf of the show case alongside some equally complicated-appearing test tubes.

"Here, I show you my own musical invention" the little man said, urging me toward the sink. He filled a small glass duck with water and instructed me to "blow hard." A shot of cold water struck me in the right pupil and ran off my chin. Wiegand made amends for his mischief by presenting me with a similar gadget.

I asked about the Bunsen burners attached to his work table and he obligingly turned one up to a hissing roar. He then took a long, thin, solid tube from the corner and held it over the blaze until it melted into two pointed glass sticks.

As my eyes popped, he used the point of the piece in his right hand to etch the arms, head, cap and body of a diminutive figurine from the heated end of the other stick. "Ach, this isn't so good," he exclaimed. "I work much better when I am not being watched. It makes me nervous."

"Now I show you something else," he said filing the end off a long, hollow tube and feeding it to the flame. The glassblower resembled a fairy elf as he blew a fat, twisted sausage. It reached oversize, cellophane-thin proportions. Suddenly the sausage burst into a million crystalline pieces—to the tune of a fifty-cent firecracker.

I gathered my books, frayed nerves and edged toward the door. Wiegand has blown glass for the university for 15 years. He comes from Germany. "No, I didn't learn my trade when I was a boy," he says. "Not until I was 14 years old."

Steve Park Sees '2 in 1' Problem Facing Federalists

A two-point program was outlined to the Student Federalist last night by Program Director Steve Park as essential to advancing the cause of world government.

The "two in one problem" presented by Park is:

1. To interest people in the concept of world government through individual and collective efforts of the chapter members.

2. To inaugurate a program of research to point the way towards "breaking down the barriers that at present exist between nations."

Speaking to about 50 persons in the YMCA conference room of Iowa Union, Park said that "Ways must be found to implement the United Nations organization into an effective form of world government."

Parks said that the approach of the university chapter of the Federalists to the problem must be "realistic as well as idealistic." Following the establishment of committees to coordinate actions of the group, Co-chairman Dave Stanley adjourned the meeting until Wednesday, Feb. 5.

Canadiens Break Slump

BOSTON (P)—Back in National Hockey league action on Boston ice for the first time in almost two months, the Montreal Canadiens rebounded out of their long losing slump by out-skating the Boston Bruins for a 4-3 triumph last night.
