LIQUOR-BY-DRINK BILL GETS 1ST OK

Plan to Unify Services Goes To Congress

Bill Would Combine Army, Navy, Air Force Under One Secretary
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman laid before congress yesterday his plan for unification of the nation's armed forces, calling for the creation of a national defense establishment headed by a civilian secretary with cabinet rank.

All three branches of the armed forces — army, navy and air — would come under the $15,000-a-year secretary of national defense.

All would be administered as individual units, however, although their respective secretaries would not hold cabinet rank.

The proposed act specifically provides that the navy department shall comprise "the entire operating forces of the United States navy including naval aviation," as well as the U.S. marine corps.

Thus the president proposed to settle the bitter dispute over disposition of the navy's air support, which navy advocates have vigorously insisted should remain in the navy.

Sen. Gurney (R-SD) of the senate armed service committee and Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.) of the senate expenditures committee both want jurisdiction over the bill and both promised speedy hearings if they get the legislation.

More than a score of sweeping revisions are entailed in the president's plan, entitled "National Security Act of 1947." These include:

1. Creation of a new department of air force, with a secretary appointed from civilian life by the president.
 2. Transfer of army air forces to the department of air force "as deemed necessary or desirable" by the secretary of national defense.
 3. Creation of a war council to advise the secretary of national defense on matters of board policy relating to the armed forces.
 4. Establishment of a research and development board, headed by a civilian secretary, to advise on "scientific research relative to the national security."
 5. Establishment of a national security council to advise the president on "the integration of foreign and military policies."
- The act provides that the secretary of national defense would replace the secretary of war in the line of succession to the presidency. Currently, the secretary of war ranks fourth in the list behind the vice-president and secretaries of state and treasury.

Senate Passes $4½ Billion Cut in Truman Budget

Green Concedes Employers' Right To Free Speech

WASHINGTON (AP)—AFL President William Green said yesterday that he was "willing" for congress to assure free speech for employers and to have unions register and file financial reports.

Green, appearing before the house labor committee, continued to oppose nearly all of the labor legislation before congress.

He said that congress should keep out of jurisdictional strikes, saying that it's impossible to outlaw them.

Here's what he conceded under questioning by Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich):

1. "Now wait! I'm willing that the Wagner act be changed so that the employer can engage in free speech." (The act now says an employer can put his side of any question before his employees but not in any way that involves coercion or threats of reprisals. Employers have often said administrative rulings under this clause have deprived them of free speech.)

2. "On financial reports of unions, we're willing." (Green explained later he meant public reports by national unions, but not by local unions because the financial information might help employers in bargaining against the locals.)

3. "If it's matter of union registration, licensed, on a voluntary basis, we have no objections." —As Green took the witness chair before the house committee, he read a long statement saying the "real purpose" behind labor law proposals is to "destroy unions." He said pending bills "would produce such industrial confusion as to seriously undermine the present world position of the United States." Green declared that the two major causes of industrial unrest in the last year were inflation and "government interference."

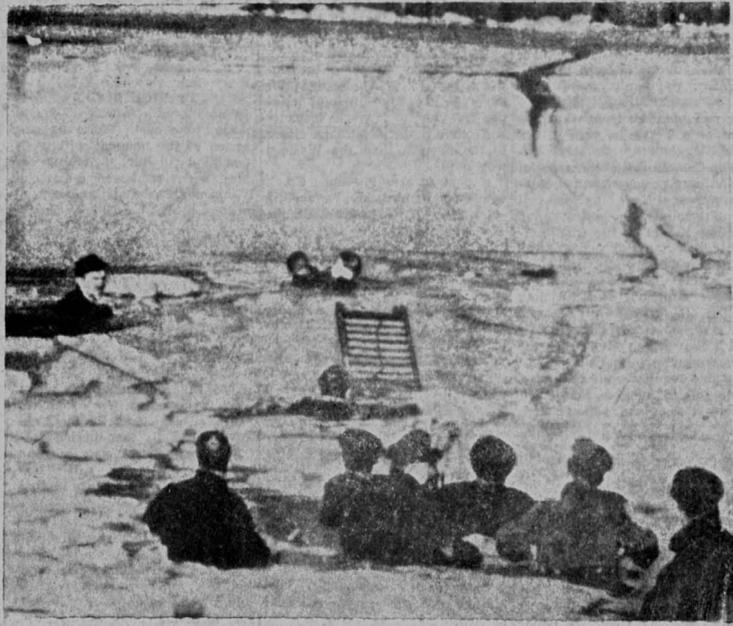

Lewis Douglas Named Ambassador to Britain

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lewis W. Douglas, who once broke spectacularly with the new deal but later held wartime posts under Franklin D. Roosevelt, was chosen by President Truman yesterday to be ambassador to Great Britain.

Mr. Truman thereby capped a long list of public offices in which Douglas, 52-year-old Arizonian, has already served.

Douglas has been a soldier in France in the first world war, a state legislator, member of congress, director of the federal budget, a lend-lease expediter in London in World War II and deputy war shipping administrator.

DEATH DEFEATS ATTEMPTS TO RESCUE DROWNING BOYS

Terms Bevin's Blast 'Most Unfortunate'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House yesterday called "most unfortunate and misleading" the publication of the debate on Palestine in the British house of commons Tuesday.

The statement, handed out by Charles G. Ross, press secretary, said the discussion in commons tended to leave the impression that American interest in Palestine "is motivated by partisan and local politics."

In the debate Foreign Secretary Bevin asserted that President Truman wrecked a chance for settling the Palestine issue by issuance of a statement during the 1946 campaign calling for immediate immigration of 100,000 Jews into the Holy Land.

The White House said Mr. Truman's statement of last Oct. 4, merely reaffirmed the attitude toward Palestine and Jewish immigration which the American government "has publicly expressed since the summer of 1945."

Eruption Perils Sicilian Towns

ROME (AP)—A fiery stream of lava, bubbling from a new crater broken in the side of Mount Etna, was reported in press dispatches from Sicily yesterday to have branched into separate forks which rolled threateningly toward several communities.

While villages fled in panic, Italian authorities rushed motor vehicles to Cisterna and Passo Pisciaro to assist in the exodus if the flow continued, the dispatches said. They added that the molten mass had surged to within a mile and a half of Passo Pisciaro, first village in its path.

The eruption of the Sicilian volcano, relatively quiet since 1928 when it destroyed the village of Mascati, was said to have begun last Tuesday when the lava blasted out the new crater.

The Rome newspaper Giornale d'Italia said the fiery flood began advancing in a stream 300 yards wide at a rate of about 70 yards an hour, and that when it reached the plain of Damusi, at an altitude of about 1,600 yards, it broke into three forks.

The incandescent mass was said to have built up to a depth of 200 yards in some ravines.

The correspondent for Giornale d'Italia said the general flow of lava was headed toward Colabasso and Guarola and that two forks menaced Passo Pisciaro, a small outlying portion of the community of Castiglione di Sicilia.

The Italian news agency ANSA reported that rich forests already had been destroyed by the surging mass.

Senator Green (D-R) went the other way with a proposed amendment to apply all of the budget saving to the debt.

All those proposals remained to be voted on when the senate quit for the night.

As for the ceiling on spending, Chairman Taft (R-Ohio) of the senate Republican policy committee predicted to a reporter that a senate-house committee eventually will arrive at a figure of $5,000,000,000 or slightly more as the overall pledge for reducing expenditures.

The senate's vote for the $4,500,000,000 cut represented a victory for the armed services, which had contended that the larger savings promised by the house would cut so deeply into army and navy funds as to make them ineffective for national defense and to support American foreign policy.

The house's $6,000,000,000 slash was said to involve lopping $2,250,000,000 of military and civil functions of the two departments. Most senators appeared to believe the senate figure would take no more than $750,000,000 away from the two services, if that much.

Would Protest Military Funds

WASHINGTON (AP)—Tacitly rejecting any major cuts for the army and navy, the senate voted 51 to 33 yesterday to slash $4,500,000,000 off President Truman's $37,500,000,000 budget for the year starting July 1.

This compares with a $6,000,000,000 cut already approved by the house. The house action had led to cries that the army and navy might be crippled at a critical juncture in world affairs.

Chairman Knutson (R-Minn) of the house ways and means committee told a reporter after the senate vote that the cutback of only $4,500,000,000 would throw overboard his bill for a 20 percent across-the-board slash in individual income taxes, reducing the figure to 10 percent.

He quickly added, however, that "the house will never accept" the senate figure.

Still pending in the senate as Knutson spoke was a proposal by Senator Knowland (R-Calif) to require that $3,000,000,000 of any government surplus be applied to the national debt.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) proposed to cut Knowland's debt retirement figure to $1,000,000,000, leaving room for a $3,500,000,000 tax reduction if revenues come in as expected.

Senator Green (D-R) went the other way with a proposed amendment to apply all of the budget saving to the debt.

All those proposals remained to be voted on when the senate quit for the night.

As for the ceiling on spending, Chairman Taft (R-Ohio) of the senate Republican policy committee predicted to a reporter that a senate-house committee eventually will arrive at a figure of $5,000,000,000 or slightly more as the overall pledge for reducing expenditures.

Belgian Veterans Riot In Brussels, Demand Payment of Bonuses

BRUSSELS (AP)—A demonstration by former Belgian prisoners of war demanding payment of bonuses turned into a riotous battle yesterday in which 50,000 marchers broke through police lines, trampled and crushed each other and only were stopped by machinegun and rifle fire from behind the steel fence of the Parliament building.

A day-long condition of siege of the Parliament building was not broken until last night when a ring of armored cars, machine-guns, gendarmes and troops finally restored order in the angry throng and the cabinet members were able to emerge from behind their locked doors.

Unconfirmed reports said a dozen people were killed but an official of the ministry of the interior said only one person was dead as the result of a heart attack. Unofficial estimates said 100 were injured, but the ministry placed the list at 40. St. Pierre hospital authorities said four gendarmes and 20 police and civilians were admitted for wounds and "many more" at other hospitals.

Organizations of former prisoners of war and persons once deported by the Germans for political activities, who have been demanding a special legal status and remaining payments of the bonus promised them during the war, chose the approximate hour for their parade when Lt. Col. Raoul de Fraiteur, minister of defense, was appearing before the cabinet.

De Fraiteur explained that the bonus had not been paid because Belgium does not have the money now.

Prime Minister Camille Huysman said the government already had paid out 7,500,000 francs ($170,000,000), and issued an order forbidding another demonstration scheduled for Sunday.

Paris Workers Call Wage Strike for Today

PARIS (AP)—Municipal employees of Paris and many suburbs served notice yesterday they would strike today at 4 p.m. (9 a.m., CST) to support their demands for a "vital minimum" wage scale.

The announcement did not state the duration of the walkout, but officials assumed it would be a token strike, possibly for the balance of the afternoon. Communications workers recently staged a four-hour strike. Transport workers and national government workers joined that demonstration.

Urges Civil Control Of Pacific Islands

HONOLULU (AP)—Interior Secretary Krug yesterday termed conditions on Samoa, Guam and Tarawa "basically the same as those which brought about the Boston tea party" and declared administration of the islands should be transferred quickly to civil control, preferably his interior department.

In an interview after his arrival from Tokyo, he said General MacArthur was in accord with the basic principle of giving the 80,000 natives of the Caroline, Marshall and Marianas Island the right of free political determination. Such a move would not jeopardize the national defense, he said.

Before leaving Tokyo, the secretary said Okinawa and the Ryukyus should remain under MacArthur's control. The interior department administers Hawaii, which is demanding statehood, which is demanding statehood. Krug will remain here until Sunday discussion that demand with island leaders. The U.S. navy governs most other U.S. controlled Pacific islands, including Guam, Samoa and Tarawa.

Local Option Wins 28-22 Senate Vote

Measure Provides General Referendum; Faces Test in House

DES MOINES (AP)—The senate late yesterday passed 28 to 22 legislation which would allow Iowa cities and towns to have taverns for the sale of liquor by the drink if their voters approved.

The enabling bill, containing a direct local option provision, was passed after two days of debate and will go to the house today.

It would permit the sale of spirits along with beer over the bar along with beer in any community where the city council adopted a licensing ordinance after being authorized to do so by the electors.

A local option election, which would have to be held in connection with the general election, could be called upon petition by 25 percent of the voters in any area involved, but the privilege of permitting sale by the drink would be extended only to cities and towns. County boards of supervisors would have no authority to issue licenses.

As the bill stands it restricts the number of liquor taverns that could be operated in any city or town depending upon size.

This limitation would be: one tavern for each 3,000 of population or fraction thereof in cities up to 24,000; an additional tavern for each 4,000 persons in the population range between 24,000 and 76,000; and one additional place for each 5,000 persons in excess of 76,000.

Private clubs and fraternal organizations would be eligible to sell liquor over the bar under a license fee lower than those to be charged taverns.

Mapor provisions of the bill: No liquor could be sold where food is served except hotels with at least 15 rooms.

Liquor sold by the drink would have to be purchased from the state liquor control commission and would be subject to a five percent sales tax, the proceeds of which would go into the state general fund.

License fees would be a minimum of $1,500 for taverns and $750 for clubs in cities of more than 10,000 population; $1,000 for taverns and $500 for clubs in smaller cities.

Taverns would be forbidden to have any tables, chairs, booths, or screens, and all drinking would have to be done at the bar. The places would be allowed to sell liquor only between the hours of 11 a.m. and 11 p.m.

Sales would be prohibited on Sunday and on all legal holidays designated by state law. The location of taverns would be confined to zoned retail areas in cities which have zoning ordinances and to regular business blocks in those which do not have such ordinances. Other provisions call for strict enforcement to guard against law violations.

Measures Would Ban Sports Betting, Bribes

DES MOINES (AP)—Companion bills to prohibit betting on athletic contests and acceptance of a bribe to throw such a contest were among a host of measures tossed into the senate hopper before the deadline yesterday for the introduction of individual bills.

Fines of $500 to $1,000 or sentence of one year in the Fort Madison penitentiary are provided as penalties for violation of either proposal.

If Industry Fails to Produce—

Revival of Controls a Possibility

CHICAGO (AP)—Rep. Jesse Wolcott (R-Mich) yesterday asserted that industry would have "90 to 120 days to produce with a vengeance, and if it does not so produce, congress will put controls back on."

At a news conference prior to addressing the convention of the National Association of Home Builders, Wolcott asserted "there has been no necessity for the comedy of errors of the last six months of 1946."

"The only thing to do now to get prices down, is to saturate the market with all kinds of goods. Government controls have been an influence to boost prices through restriction of production. I predict the OPA will die as an organization on June 30, or possibly before, through a refusal of deficiency appropriation. Sugar controls probably will go to the department of agriculture, rent to the national housing agency."

"But if we find we have made a mistake, congress can reestablish the controls, and unless industry does produce with a vengeance, congress will put controls back on."

Wolcott, chairman of the house banking and currency committee, said he expected that decontrol legislation would be enacted by mid-April, and that congress would adjourn by mid-July, "giving us from 90 to 120 days to rectify any mistakes we may have made."

AFL Leader Denies Unions Delay Housing

CHICAGO (AP)—A labor union leader yesterday declared "I defy anyone to show me a case where the so-called restrictive practices of labor unions have delayed any job."

Harry C. Bates, president of the AFL Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers union, issued the challenge after Ray Sawyer, national Am Vet commander, asked "Is it true?" that union workers engage in six restrictive practices which he listed.

Sawyer and Bates were members of a panel on labor supply at the annual convention of the National Association of Home Builders. Addressing Bates, the Am-Vet leader asked if it was true:

- "That lathers are only permitted to lay 30 to 35 bundles of lath a day when they are capable of 60?"
- "That unions will not permit factory-glassed glass to be installed upon a given job?"
- "That the plasterers require three coats of plaster when the contractors say two coats are sufficient?"

"That the painters require that brushes be four and one half inches in width and do not permit the use of spray guns?"

"That cement finishers are demanding what amounts to portal pay on veterans housing?"

"That you must buy plumbing through a master plumber?"

Bates replied, "I defy anyone to show me a case where the so-called restrictive practices of labor unions have delayed any job. There is no limit on the output of a bricklayer." He added:

"I don't believe the statements about restrictive practices. Don't blame labor for your (the home-builder) lack of cooperation on the job. Go down on the job yourself, give your men good working conditions and good wages and the men will work as they always have—a good day's work."

Earlier James C. Downs, Chicago real estate market analyst, predicted that the housing demand of Americans would not be met before 1950.

LOCKED OUT OF SCHOOL—BUT NO COMPLAINTS HERE

THESE STUDENTS turned up at one of the two schools in Buffalo, N.Y., remaining open despite a teacher's strike only to find that the doors were closed yesterday because of an inadequate coal supply. A union truck driver refused to unload coal Tuesday because of pickets. The three-day old teacher walk-out is the largest in U.S. history with 79 schools already closed and 19 more that won't open today. Of Buffalo's 2,960 teachers, 2,400 are on strike seeking higher salaries. (AP WIREPHOTO)

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT

Czechs Caught Between Extremes of East, West

By SAMUEL GRAFTON
(New York Post Syndicate)

PRAGUE — Here is where you find out what it is like to live in a small country, caught in the middle between the big ones. When Russia and the West fall out, the leftwing papers here begin to attack the United States; the rightwing papers answer back, and the shadow of the great disturbance falls across the life of the city.

When there is a lull in the affairs of the great nations as at present, the local press relaxes; it is as if a nerve had stopped jumping. There are all sorts of associations here, for promoting friendship with the United States, for promoting friendship with the Soviet Union and so on. The rightwing parties favor associations devoted to better relations with America, while the leftwingers prefer associations dedicated to improving contacts with Russia.

One of the associations interested in friendship with America put on a ball the other night. It was jammed. Tickets to it were reported to have sold on the black market for 20 dollars, or about ten times the official price. "Naturally," says a Czech, "more conservatives than leftists went to this affair, though of course there was nothing in the nature of a boycott by anybody." Everyone asks "What about Henry Wallace?" They do not ask about any other American; it is as if Wallace's name alone stood for that unlikely miracle which could bring East and West together. And that is an event which would, of course, ease the tensions of daily life here almost as much as a warm south wind. Both left and right ask after Wallace equally; the way his name has flared across Czechoslovakia indicates how, when you live in a small country, you scan the skies for signs and portents of your destiny, before having to learn your future by telegraph.

The problem is so obvious here that there is no attempt at concealment; you can't ignore it or even be tactful about it any more than you could be about the presence of a horse in your living room. "The Communists have a special position here because we feel Russia approves of them," a Czech will say quite calmly; not in derogation of either Russia or the Communists, but as if he were discussing the weather.

The other day, President Benes, speaking to members of a society devoted to friendship between Czechs and Slovaks, said separately that if Slovakia were to separate itself from the republic now, the inevitable result would be that it would fall to Russia. There was no anti-Russianism in his remark, as the rest of his speech showed; but there is a certain small country way of talking about the great powers objectively, as if they were volcanoes or rivers, which gives a citizen of a great country a most peculiar feeling.

In the first general election here, the people in the eastern part of the country, nearest the Russians, registered the biggest part of the vote, nearest the Russians, registered the biggest vote against the Communists; those in the western part, near the American occupation zone in Germany, gave the Communists the heaviest support. A diagram of the vote would look like an illustration of the behavior of opposed electromagnetic poles.

The tensions, of course, turn inward; the left leads the way, for example, in setting up such activities as volunteer work brigades and other projects perhaps closer to the Eastern than the Western way of living. I spoke to a middle-aged Czech who had spent a day shoveling snow because the streets of Prague need clearing. "I don't mind it," he said. "It is good exercise, and maybe it helps our little experiment in trying to stay free in this peculiar world. Only one thing," he said, rubbing his back, "don't you Americans let the Germans rise again, because you fear Russia. We can endure what we have to today, but I don't know if we could stand all that and the Germans too."

Are We Headed for a Psychological Bust?

By DICK ELGIN

Watch out America, you're headed for a bust! We're not concerned at the moment with a financial bust but something far more widespread and disastrous. It is something that can creep up on an entire population, engulf each individual and control his life without his presence even being recognized.

What we are speaking of is a psychological bust. It follows almost every war and can treat victor and vanquished just alike. Indeed, often it can be far more deadly to the nation that wins.

To illustrate what we mean by psychological depression, we need only go back to the United States in that period following the first World War, the greatest ideological battle this country had waged up to that time.

During the course of the war, Americans were not merely fighting for themselves, they were fighting for something which, while very intangible, was very real to them. They were fighting for the rights of man, a concept which had been adopted and developed by their country — "the great democracy."

BUT, WE MADE ONE LITTLE MISTAKE. A mistake which changed the future of the whole world and the lives of its millions of inhabitants. Perhaps it wasn't even a mistake. Attribute it to fate, or the supernatural or what you will, its end result is none the less grave.

The average American was fighting for too much during that conflict. He was fighting to rid the world of evil, to make it a decent place for a peaceful man to live in, and to end war and aggression forever. Ideologically, this was not too much to fight for, someday it may be accomplished—perhaps tomorrow. But it proved far too much for post-war America to put into actual practice.

The United States soon came to realize that all of her allies were not primarily concerned with the same ideologies. Some were interested too—rightly or wrongly—with extracting retribution and acquiring territory from the vanquished countries. To the average American, who believed that the course to world peace and universal brotherhood did not lie along this path, the result was disastrous.

We began immediately to suspect every other nation of ulterior motives, of using us as their pawn, and having accomplished this, using our "holy" war to further their own gains. What a "rude awakening" we had!

Another factor shook our faith. During the war, we had been taught the average German was something of a devil, that he committed atrocities, and from our own conclusions, we decided the world would be better off without him. Then—the end of the war, and in accordance with our best Christian teachings, we were supposed to forgive and let live. Just a complete about-face which left the average American completely bewildered.

We were willing to fight a war for our ideologies, but we had been led to believe that the German had no place in "our beautiful new world." After all, "hadn't he started the war?" Now, we were told, if our ideologies are correct, we must apply them to everyone, including the German.

The result of such a complete turn about-face was an inevitable and acute case of national schizophrenia. Add to it the rude awakening we had concerning the "motives" of our allies, and we've really got something!

nothing to help us work for that which we had fought. The more we withdrew, the less we were listened to, and the less we were listened to, the more we withdrew. We became extremely self-conscious and soon came to look upon ourselves as we imagined others regarded us—as idle crackpots and harmless dreamers, wholly incapable of a practical thought.

It may seem to some that this whole picture of what happened is being over emphasized. Perhaps it is. But to have the entire population of a nation suddenly come to the conclusion that what they had hoped for was after all impractical, to have doubts creep into their minds on a matter sacred to them, could not help but shake their faith to the core.

Was it any wonder, then, that we wallowed in our isolationism, entered a financial depression, and became cynical?

Now, apply all this to the United States following World War II. We have just finished waging an ideological battle which even surpassed that of the first World War. Instead of trying to establish a League of Nations, we are now attempting to set up some form of world government. At the moment, it would seem as though this is the only course to save our civilization.

But already the first wave of disillusionment and cynicism is returning home. For a period during the war it was swept away by a renewal of ideals and faith, but once again we are beginning to believe that maybe we fought in vain. The next question is, will we withdraw again and allow our dreams to collapse from under us? Or will we work this time to see our dreams fulfilled?

If we choose the first course, we had better prepare ourselves for the worst shock of psychological depression conceivable.

TO THE DAILY IOWAN:
Mr. Gleekman's statement that I said there were paid agents of the Communist party in Iowa City is not true. I merely said that it would not greatly surprise me to discover such agents at work.

I should like to comment that even if there were paid agents of the Communist party in Iowa City they would have a perfect right to be here. Last year my parents celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary. It was more than just an occasion to be enjoyed by my parents, for it was, as all birthdays and anniversaries in our family have always been, a household celebration with friends invited in to add to the merriment.

Perhaps I should not have even hoped that my foster parents would share the attitude of my parents, but unfortunately in the innocence of youth I for weeks had dreamed of the coming festivities at Iowa University. But alas and alack it was not to be. Now my thoughts were sad, not bitter; just sad that such a momentous occasion should have passed and so few to enjoy it.

Secretary Suggests AYD Might Reveal Agents
TO THE DAILY IOWAN:
To Mr. Gleekman's criticism of The Daily Iowan reporter's failure to report that Mr. Lorch, then acting president of the ADA, had said at the first meeting of ADA that there are paid agents of the Communist party on campus, I must reply that THE REPORTER WAS QUITE RIGHT IN NOT REPORTING WHAT MR. LORCH HAD NOT SAID.

Mr. Gleekman has shown praiseworthy eagerness to make public the names of any such agents. However, I might suggest that the American Youth for Democracy (AYD), with which I have heard Mr. Gleekman's name associated, might offer greater opportunities for discovering those ungrateful Americans than the Americans for Democratic Action (ADA).

TO THE DAILY IOWAN:
"And Then There Were Some"
Tuesday evening as I walked by the Union I stopped for a second to listen to the gay laughter of the six hundred within. I approached the door hoping only for a glance into the bright interior with its fine-gowned ladies and suave, dashing men. My way, however, was blocked by a kindly lad who, though quite compassionate toward me, was forced to turn me away. I returned to the street more somber than the ebony night through which I walked on my return to Currier Hall.

Once in my room I sought refuge from the melancholy shadow that had gripped me. The first thing that caught my eye was the bold faced typed headline of The Iowan, "University of Iowa Enters Second Century." I cast the paper aside and threw myself prostrate on my bed.

As I lay there I recalled thoughts that shortly before filled me with happiness. How much school was like home, I used to think. As a child my parents had assumed the role of teacher, protector and friend, but then one day they could teach me no more so they sent me off to foster parents. I had nothing but gratitude for both of them.

More ardent page two readers undoubtedly noticed the omission of Larry Dennis' column yesterday and Steve Park's today. We are happy to report that they are not on strike. Both of them have been ill, but will be back on the job soon.

To Analyze State Bills
Mrs. William Porter and Mrs. Richard Yoakam will discuss "This Week in the Legislature" on WSUI, today at 2:15 p.m.

TO THE DAILY IOWAN:
It seems to be that first come is first served these days at the periodical reading room. That is, "First Come" tears out the article

"LET'S PLAY WILLIAM TELL!"
A cartoon illustration of a man in a top hat holding a rifle, with a child nearby. Text includes "BUDGET REDUCTION" and "NATIONAL DEFENSE".

Republicans Toy With the Budget

For the past month the country has been somewhat amazed at the glibness with which certain Republican members of congress boasted they would cut President Truman's 1948 budget estimates by $6-billion, or at least 4 1/2-billion.

Seemingly there was no rhyme or reason to these boasts. The economy bloc was carefully secretive as to just how and where the slashes were to take place. They talked in meaningless generalities.

They made certain they didn't disclose just how much they expected to cut the rural electrification administration. They made vague hints about reducing the costs of our overseas commitments. It did leak out—accidentally and to their dismay, we suspect—that they hoped to curtail army and navy spending by 1 1/2-billion.

It is now developing, however, that all this fine talk about drastic reductions of federal expenditures for the next fiscal year is highly diluted with political eyewash. It seems, actually, that many of the budget-slashers in congress have been making their rabid economy speeches with their fingers crossed.

As debate goes on in the senate it is becoming increasingly apparent that these grandiose reduction proposals are merely for the record and the headlines. Senator Wherry let the cat out of the bag last week when he said the legislative budget estimate was only an objective—something to shoot at. The final total of the government's costs for the year, he admitted, wouldn't really be known until the senate and house act on specific appropriations bills as they come up.

This statement by the Republican party whip seems a tacit admission that the meat axe approach (to use Senator Lodge's expression) isn't the way to reduce the budget. The statement implies that the GOP knew all along that it couldn't grab a figure out of the air and say this is it.

In other words, it is all just a sort of a game. As part of the game, the Republican congress will go on record with a budget that undercuts Mr. Truman's by, say, 4 1/2-billion. This slash, especially when it's kept vague so as not to harm the interests of any particular group too much, will sound fine to the folks back home.

Then when they come to consideration of specific appropriation bills, the economizers can let their political consciences be their guide. As Senator Wherry intimated, after congress passes on the individual appropriation bills directly affecting the constituents, it is very possible they'll find they haven't really made such a big hole in federal spending after all.

Political Pressure on Universities

Raymond B. Fosdick, president of the Rockefeller foundation, made some remarks before a Swarthmore college audience recently which hit at a fundamental problem confronting state colleges and universities.

Mr. Fosdick, emphasizing the important position of private institutions such as Swarthmore in our educational system, declared that "state colleges and universities have frequently been jeopardized by the arbitrary acts of those who hold political power. When that time comes, the private institutions must be the counteracting agencies to keep the light of freedom burning.

"When Governor Talmadge terrorized the University of Georgia, it was institutions like Emory university and

Agnes Scott and Mercer that maintained in the state the basic agencies of independence. The steady influence of Tulane university in the days of Huey Long in Louisiana cannot be overestimated. "When the board of regents in Texas recently threatened the integrity of the state institutions, it was Rice Institute and Southern Methodist university that held the banner of free scholarship."

We can't vouch for all Mr. Fosdick's remarks, but we do feel that his observation concerning political interference into state colleges and universities is based on fact. Responsible leaders of such state institutions have in the past shown an awareness of this danger. It is of extreme importance that they continue to do so.

An Ounce of Prevention

In St. Clairsville, Ohio, a coal mine recently settled a portal-to-portal pay dispute without going to the supreme court. The Hanna company, owner of the mine, did it to their satisfaction and the miners by eliminating the problem altogether.

For years the miners rode coal cars four miles underground through gas filled tunnels to get to work. The company changed all that by building a new portal, equipping it like the Waldorf and placing it directly above the coal beds.

An express elevator was installed which descends in 22 seconds. Night shift workers used the elevator for the first time this month. They looked it over and went down grinning. All they had to do was step into the lift, press a button, ride down to a well lit cement corridor, pass through a revolving door and go to work.

a dressing room for 600, drinking fountains, modern toilet facilities, lounge, an elaborate restaurant serving hot meals every three hours and ultra-violet lamps to minimize the dangers of spreading air-borne cold and other germs.

Modernization of this type is long overdue in the nation's coal mines. But at last we have a starter. When other mines take the broad hint we will be able to say, as one miner did when he saw the new Hanna building: "Say, this is all right!"

The American ideal is a society, a brotherhood of free men; men free to think, to speak, to worship; men free from the domination of arbitrary political masters; men free from any economic strangulation which would make freedom a hollow catchword of demagogues. If democracy does not mean these things, then it is a perversion of that word — BISHOP BERNARD J. SHELL, D.D.

Spring Hat Styles Works of Old Masters Inspire Milliners

Many of miladies new spring hat styles will come from beautiful paintings of the old masters, Rembrandt, Renoir, Gainsborough, Watteau and Huldah are among the famous artists inspiring spring hat fashions.

Spring "bustle back" hats, for example, are fashioned after a 17th century Watteau painting. In Watteau's picture, a French lady wears a bonnet with ribbons and flowers on the back.

Huldah's painting, "Girl in Pink Hat," gives millinery fashions a whole series of chapeaux in pink tones, ranging from shades of pale pink to bright fuchsias.

Beginning March 1, millinery designers will present their new creations across the nation in observance of National Millinery week. In Iowa City, a reproduction of Huldah's painting and the new hat styles will be presented by Strub's department store during the national week.

Mrs. Isabel W. Sunkel, Strub's millinery buyer, who has just returned from a national millinery show in New York City, says, "The hat silhouette this spring is smaller, neater and more head-hugging."

Mrs. Sunkel claims flower garden and fruit orchard hats with ribbons and feathers are going to be in style this year, and sailor hats and derbies with plaid ribbons will be in order for Easter.

Easter parades will also display open crown hats, and the surprise of the season may well be the hats featuring birds of brilliantly dyed plumage.

Out of the Bandbox

Swish on your way Mermaid!

by Elizabeth Woodward

America's foremost authority on young people's problems

In a world without mirrors...and men...YOU should bother 'bout beauty! That's for us land lassies...who watch its reflection in the eyes of the observer.

So out of our way! You were born beautiful...we have to work at it. It's a strain and a struggle to be as sleek as you are...as streamlined...as graceful with our pedal extremities. We're up against eyebrows that straggle...shiny noses...limp locks...collars that wilt...polish that chips...and clothes that rumple. Our dozens of details can spell DILEMMA!

Why fret, you ask? Why not take it easy? Why not let well enough alone?

Some of us weren't born with faces that launch a thousand ships. Some of us drew voices like foghorns. Some of us displace more than our share of room. Some of us were dealt out hair like seaweed. Why settle for that...is what we want to know? Not when we can do something about it!

Maybe we can't alter the basic shape of our faces and figures. But we can curry and groom them until they fool a few folks into thinking it's beauty. Not rule of thumb beauty. We want to be interesting to look at...and interesting to know. That means a sleek exterior...the bandbox look. And inside...no frowzy thinking...no gooey emotions...no scatterbrained personal relationships. We want no rough edges...we want to be manicured to the ears!

And that takes work! But it's worth it when THAT GLOW comes into a man's eyes. But you wouldn't know about men, would you, Miss Mermaid?

'47 Baconian Talks to Start Wednesday

The four Baconian lectures of the 1947 series will be given for graduate students and faculty members starting next Wednesday, Dean Carlyle Jacobsen of the graduate college announced yesterday.

All the lectures will be given in the senate chamber of Old Capitol at 8 p.m.

Prof. Hunter Rouse, director of the Iowa Institute of Hydraulic Research, will present the first lecture of the series. His subject will be "Eddy Action in a Stream-lined Age."

Prof. T. L. Jahn, zoology department, will speak March 19 on "Some Fundamental Problems of Vision."

"New and Old Approaches to Literary Study," will be Prof. Victor Harris' topic April 9. Harris is a member of the English department.

Prof. Warren Nelson, anatomy department, will give the last lecture of the series April 30. He will talk on "Endocrine Physiology of Puberty."

Purpose of the annual lecture series is to give faculty members and graduate students the chance to broaden their horizons. "As a member of a community of scholars," Dean Jacobsen told graduate students, "you will wish to share in the intellectual life of that community beyond your sphere of specialized interest."

The Baconian lectures, he explained, are presented for the purpose of acquainting students and faculty with trends of study and with new discoveries in the several areas of knowledge.

Boulevard Lectures On Sex Education

Stressing the importance of sex education, Dr. Lois Boulevard yesterday gave the first in a five-lecture series on "Marriage Hygiene," sponsored annually by YWCA's Major in Marriage group. As an introduction to yesterday's lecture on the physiology and anatomy of sex, Dr. Boulevard stated that the reproductive system is strongly affected through the nervous system by incorrect ideas about sex.

Although information on sex has increased in the last 25 years, Dr. Boulevard pointed out, there is still too much ignorance and misunderstanding on the subject.

Approximately 500 students filled the chemistry auditorium to hear the lecture. The next four lectures, to be presented every other week by Dr. Boulevard, include the sex act, methods of contraception, venereal disease and a question session.

Order of Artus Meeting

The Order of Artus, honorary economic society, will meet today for a luncheon in Iowa Union. Leo W. Sweeney, president of the organization, has announced that the luncheon topic will be the "New Zealand Social Security Plan." Prof. M. H. Kuhn of the sociology department will speak.

In 1917 the United States harvested 2,908 million bushels of corn from 111 million acres, but in 1944 a record crop of 3,228,361,000 bushels was harvested from only 98,722,000 acres.

THEY JUST COULDN'T WAIT TO GET THEIR GRADES

LAST SEMESTER GRADES were given out for the first times yesterday and from the crowds of students who appeared at University hall, it would seem most people were pretty anxious to find out how they made out. If you didn't make it yesterday you can still pick up your grades outside the registrar's office if you're enrolled in the graduate, liberal arts or commerce colleges. Engineering and pharmacy students get their grades from the deans of their colleges.

Iowa Among Winners Of Research Fellowships

One Iowan, Stanley M. Howe of Ames, was among the 14 fellowship winners for scientific research, Prof. H. O. Croft of the mechanical engineering department said yesterday.

Croft has just returned from New York where he helped select the winners from 40 applicants.

Croft expressed surprise that no students from the University of Iowa applied for the fellowship which are granted annually from the General Electric educational fund to outstanding graduate students in American universities. The fellowships award up to $1,500 for advance studies in engineering, physical sciences and industrial fields.

Croft represented the American Society for Engineering Education on the General Electric committee which made the selections Feb. 7 and 8.

Rep. Martin Favors Use of VA Hospitals At Clinton, Iowa City

Word was received here yesterday from Fred M. King, vice-chairman of the United Veterans hospital in Clinton that Rep. Thomas E. Martin has replied to a letter from the group concerning their efforts to re-open Schick hospital.

Martin wrote: "I am glad to know that your splendid efforts to secure full use of Schick hospital does not in any way conflict with the proposed hospital construction in Iowa City."

"I have always been in favor of the full use of Schick hospital and the only point I objected to in your program was the reference to the Iowa City hospital that might indicate that it was surplus or unneeded, whereas the Iowa City project has a totally different purpose and is in no way conflicting with the full use of Schick hospital."

Partisans of the Iowa City project have felt Schick's re-opening might prevent construction of the veteran's hospital here. Backers of Schick in Clinton feared a new hospital here would mean Schick's doors would remain closed.

The council has had two previous meetings, at which time they elected officers and discussed the need for certain improvements in the barracks-apartments area.

Arrangements for garbage disposal, new screens, fire extinguishers, watchmen and fire guards, and laundry facilities have already been made by the council.

March 5 has been set as the date for the next barracks-apartment council meeting.

Kaiser Talks On Telegraph Curtailment

A new angle on curtailment of Western Union telegraph service in Iowa City was given yesterday by Conrad Kaiser, manager of the local telegraph office.

"Curtailment of Western Union services in Iowa City would have absolutely no effect on the public," he said.

"At least 30 days notice would be given in such case," he explained, "and it would mean only that the downtown office would close approximately an hour earlier in the late evening."

The telegraphers' union, an AF of L affiliate, is seeking to prevent closing or curtailment of service in a reported 43 Iowa Western Union offices.

The FCC in Washington, D. C., is currently hearing the company's request for curtailment of service throughout the country, Kaiser pointed out. The company wants to close or curtail certain offices that are not on a paying basis.

Vinton is the only Iowa town for which a formal closing application has been made to FCC. But according to the labor union report, telegraph services would be curtailed in Iowa City, and the Washington, Iowa, office would be closed.

Kaiser said closing a Western Union office doesn't leave a town without telegraph service, because "substitute agencies would take care of the message."

"Here in Iowa City, for instance, isolated messages are always handled through the Western Union agent at the Rock Island station. Closing at 11 or 11:30 p.m. instead of 12:30 p.m. would mean that the few messages to be sent after closing would be sent at the railway station," he explained.

Kaiser emphasized that no official word has yet been received from the telegraph company on the matter.

Bea Kemp Elected Head Of Iowa Future Teachers

Mrs. Bea Kemp has been elected president of the Iowa Future Teachers association, it was announced yesterday.

Mrs. Kemp is president of the newly organized university chapter. She was elected president at the first state convention held Feb. 20 and 21 in Des Moines.

A senior in the college of liberal arts, majoring in home economics, Mrs. Kemp is from Le Mars.

The association consists of eighteen Iowa colleges engaged in teacher training with a membership of more than 500.

Iowa City was selected for one of the four regional conferences of the organization to be held in the state this spring.

Testing Metal with a One-Way Stretch

University Materials Testing Lab Helps Make Buildings, Bridges Safer

By CARL A. CLARK

Discoveries to make our buildings and bridges safer come regularly from the materials testing laboratory of the University of Iowa.

A new type of bar for reinforcing concrete beams, improved concrete corners, and the strengthening of concrete by pre-stretching the re-inforcing bars have been developed at the laboratory. Work on a better method of testing the strength of concrete mixtures is still in progress, but nearly completed.

Looking like a torture chamber where wood and steel and concrete are stretched, twisted and crushed, the laboratory has continually been the scene of important research in the strengthening of materials.

Machines capable of producing 200,000 pounds pressure are used in the laboratory, and a new machine which can produce a pressure of 300,000 lbs. is now on order. One of the machines can apply a twisting force of 60,000 inch lbs. A 100,000 lb. pressure machine has been in use for over 50 years.

Another improvement in the bars used to reinforce concrete was achieved in 1945 with the development of pre-stretched reinforcing bars. It was discovered that a bar which is stretched 10 percent will increase the strength of the beam up to 50 percent. This also results in a saving of 10 percent of material. This work was accomplished under the direction of Professors B. J. Lambert and Ned L. Ashton of the civil engineering department.

An important project of another type was the study of the effect of impacts produced by locomotives on railway bridges. Conducted by Charles T. Looney, formerly of the university civil engineering department of Yale university, the experimental work was done in the SUJ materials testing laboratory.

The purpose of this research was to discover the effect produced by a locomotive passing over a bridge, particularly when it has a flat wheel or is going very fast, or when the tracks are uneven.

Tests made on an actual bridge with a locomotive produced essentially the same results as those achieved when a model locomotive and bridge were used in the SUJ laboratory.

Work on the latest project is nearly completed. It is to develop a cheaper and better method of testing the strength of concrete mixtures, and is the result of seven years of research in the laboratory.

The primary use of the laboratory, however, is not research, but instruction in the undergraduate course in properties of engineering equipment. Its capacity is severely tested by the present enrollment, but will be relieved somewhat by the new 300,000 pound machine shortly to arrive.

A recent addition to the laboratory is that of soils testing, which is under the direction of Professor J. J. O'Mara. It is for the purpose of research, and for classes in the testing of soils for foundations.

The second in the Iowa City Music association series, the concert will be open only to holders of current memberships.

Students to Discuss Social Rules Changes

A "frank discussion" of student social problems at 7:30 tonight in Iowa Union is being sponsored by Mortar Board.

Social chairmen from every housing unit on the campus have been invited to participate. "We feel many university rules have been outdated," said Betty Erickson Vaughn, A4 of Spencer, chairman of the project.

"A university social rule says no other parties can be held on the night of an all-university party, but the rule was made before there were 10 thousand students on the campus."

General recommendations from the discussion will be sent to the committee on Student Life.

Mrs. Vaughn asked housing unit social chairman to send alternatives if they cannot personally attend the meeting.

The group of 66 students to be divided into three discussion sections, will have as moderators Jean Collier, A4 of Freeport, Ill., assisted by Winifred Shields, A4 of Kansas City, Mo., Dorothy Kottmann, A4 of Burlington, assisted by Yvonne Livingston, A4 of Iowa City, and Mrs. Vaughn, assisted by Betty Jo Phelan, A4 of Mason City.

Nat Williams Named Varsity Band President

The group will plan varsity band parties during the year. They will meet Saturday with the regular band council.

Iowa Wrestlers Meet Illinois In Showdown Tonight

Rival Aces Risk Records

Iowa's undefeated wrestling team faces its stiffest challenge of the season tonight when they clash with Illinois, Big Nine defending champions, at Champaign.

With both teams loaded for bear, this final dual-meet for the Hawks rates as a toss-up with a possibility that the decision may go either way by the closest of margins.

The Illini, boasting three conference individual champions, are power-laden from top to bottom and one way or the other some perfect records are due to be spoiled.

Coach "Hek" Kenney will throw his trio of aces, Lou Kachiroubas, Dave Shapiro and Norm Anthonisen at the Hawks in the 136, 165 and 175-pound weights. Kachiroubas won the conference 128-pound title last year, Shapiro was conference and NCAA titlist at 165; and Anthonisen capped the Big Nine light-heavy crown.

Tangling with Kachiroubas will be Duane Hanson, undefeated this season and former conference titleholder at Northwestern. Dick Geppert draws the rugged Shapiro and Iowa's favorite, Joe "The Handyma" Scarpello collides with Anthonisen in the top match of the evening program.

One change has been made in the Hawk forward walk by Coach Mike Howard. Jim Woltz, returned to the 155-pound slot, where Capt. Ed Kemp has held forth this year. Kemp moves down to the troublesome 145-pound position, the fourth man to handle that weight so far.

Besides Hanson, perfect records will be risked by Roy Pickett, 128-pounder and Scarpello. Only one bout each has been lost by Vern McCoy, 121; Dick Geppert, 165; and Kemp.

In conference meets this year the Iowa team has trampled Wisconsin, Northwestern and Minnesota, outscoring their opponents, 62-20, in addition to whitewashing Bradley Tech in the season opener.

Major League Baseball Stars Get Set For Opening Contests

HAVANA (AP)—Leo Durocher doesn't know whether he'll work smiling Ed Heusser as a spot starting pitcher or in relief, but the Brooklyn pilot believes the 36-year-old righthander from Bountiful, Utah, is going to be a "tremendous help."

When asked yesterday his plans for Heusser, who was with the Cardinals when Leo was still the kingly shortstop of the National league, Durocher replied:

"He has a rubber arm—never sore—and he can walk in there and get you out of a jam without even warming up. Of course, it is much too early to say how and when we are going to use him, but it is always nice to have a smart old bird like Heusser around."

Feller to Hurl

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—The Cleveland Indians will whip up their training pace today with a nine-inning game between teams of pitchers by Bob Feller and Mel Harder.

Rightfielder Hank Edwards joined the squad a few days ahead of schedule and hit a ball over the 375-foot wall and bounced another alongside the 410-foot sign.

Purdue-Indiana Tilt Changed to Butler Fieldhouse Monday

LAFAYETTE, IND. (AP)—The Indiana-Purdue basketball game scheduled for next Monday night in the Purdue fieldhouse will be played in the Butler university fieldhouse at Indianapolis, athletic director Guy Mackey of Purdue said last night.

Mackey said also that negotiations were under way with K.L. (Tug) Wilson, western conference commissioner, and Harry Stuhldreher, athletic director at Wisconsin, to arrange to play the second half of the interrupted Wisconsin-Purdue game at a place and date to be decided. Purdue was leading, 34 to 33, when play was interrupted by the collapse of the bleachers causing fatal injuries to three students and injuring more than 250 persons.

Iowa Track Team Underdog Saturday

A 20-man Hawkeye track squad will leave tomorrow noon for Madison, Wis., where they will compete with Wisconsin and Northwestern in a Big Nine triangular meet Saturday.

John Oxley, Iowa ace distance runner who suffered a slight foot injury in a collision with a football player in the fieldhouse Tuesday, is making the trip.

The posters do not give either Iowa or Northwestern much chance to defeat the talent-laden Badger cinder team. Gehrman of Wisconsin toured a 13-lap track to the tune of 4:23.1 in the mile last week against Purdue as compared with Dick McClanahan's record of 4:25.2 at Notre Dame.

Otto Conducts Clinic

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Clint Hartung and Whitney Lockman will be the first pupils today in a series of clinics which Manager Mel Ott of the New York Giants plans to conduct daily for rookies—one or two at a time.

Ott believes Hartung's stride in stepping into the ball at the plate should be shortened, as the big Texas rookie almost does an acrobatic "split" in swinging. Lockman's backswing needs correcting.

Wakefield Finds Eye

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—After two days of limbering up workouts the 14 pitchers in the Detroit Tigers' camp began throwing to Dick Wakefield, only outfielder on hand, was the day's hitting star.

Eddie Mayo took another workout at second base, fielding ground balls, and declared at the end of a two-hour session, "I never felt better in my life."

Mayo underwent a back operation last summer to cure an ailment that kept him out of the Tiger lineup most of the season but he is out to earn back his regular job this year.

U-high's Bluehaws, geared to offensive precision, tossed their potent fast break at West Branch here last night and romped to an easy 44-29 decision in a first round Class A sectional game at city high gym.

The win pushed the 'Hawks into an 8:45 p.m. Friday semifinal against Wilton Junction which drew a bye in the initial round.

One Reason For U-High Win

After a 5-all first quarter, the Bears faded. They scrapped and fought hard but the 'Hawks were miles ahead in all departments.

Captain Nick Anderson, who belted in nine points before withdrawing in the third period, collaborated with Don "Gussy" Helm to send U-high off to the races in the second. The aggressive "Gussy" snatched up three successive interceptions and converted two into buckets. On another he passed off to Fritz Harshbarger, who bulged the margin.

Tiffin Falls, 27-24 To Cosgrove Quintet

Cosgrove squelched a desperate last quarter rally by Tiffin last night to edge out a 27-24 tournament victory.

Trailing 21-12 at the end of the third quarter the outsized Tiffin crew began to pick up momentum. A handful of free throws and a couple of baskets by Jim Wenman pulled them up 25-22. Then Jim Rohrer of Cosgrove scored on a sleeper and the winners held their narrow lead.

According to Meade, newly elected Democratic committeemen and committeewomen will assemble immediately after the convention for a reorganization of the party's controlling body.

Home-For a Homeless Family of Eight

The Hall family, whose house on South Riverside drive burned Saturday, will soon have another placed on the foundation of the old one.

Travers Cramer, a box car body dealer of Cedar Rapids, left Cedar Rapids yesterday at 11 o'clock, hauling the box car by truck. He arrived in Iowa City at 12:30 p.m.

The box car, set next to the foundation, has one end on rollers. The other on jacks. A truck, placed under one end of the car, will carry half the weight over the foundation while the opposite end of the car is pushed on rollers. The new house is 40 feet long and eight and a half feet wide.

According to Cramer, an old hand at box car houses, they can be lined with wall board and made comfortable even in winter.

Until the new home can be readied, the Hall family is staying with relatives on a farm near North Liberty.

Neighbors and friends have come to the aid of the Halls by donating clothing, furniture and money.

Hillcrest is also collecting money in response to the call for aid to the Hall family. Hillcrest council president Bob Jensen announced last night that a total of $125 has been collected so far from dormitory members. Proctors will continue to receive donations for the fund through the rest of this week.

Stanley, president of the local chapter, received credit for helping formulate a compromise.

It was revealed that Robert Lee Humber, a North Carolina lawyer who has been successful in getting legislatures of 14 states to go on the record for world government, has promised to come to Iowa to work on the state legislature. No date of arrival was given.

Carl Sandburg, Iowa poet, promised the local chapter the free use of any or all of his writings or statements in their work.

World Federalists Issue New Policies

United World Federalists, formed last night to announce new policies and report the proceedings of the Asheville, N.C., conference, held last Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The two lines of policies planned are to get the United States solidly behind a movement to amend the United Nations charter bringing about world government, and secondly, by a grass roots movement, to influence U. S. delegates to United Nations to promote world federation.

The Asheville conference achieved the merger of four major groups organized for world government. They were formerly Student Federalists, Americans United for World Government, World Federalists, and World Republic.

Two smaller organizations which joined the merger on invitation were Georgia World Citizens committee and Massachusetts Committee for World Government.

It was announced at the meeting that the business had not gone so smoothly at the national conference as had been anticipated. Harlan Hockenbery, publicity chairman, said policy conflicts came up.

Americans for United World Government stood pat with World Federalists and Student Federalists to work through United Nations for world government. World Republic, however, was in favor of a grass roots movement. David Believing that a jolt would serve to slow cars traveling through their village, the Riverdale council last night decided to lay sidewalk-barriers across the trailer camp road.

The council appointed Charlotte Perman to replace Gert Beacher as representative of area No. 4. A "Fun Night" committee was also appointed to consider plans for card parties to be given periodically in the camp.

The present American glider record is a distance of 314 miles.

Mrs. Sunier was the first teacher of former President Herbert Hoover.

C of C to Sponsor Window Display Contest in March

A spring opening window display contest will be held in Iowa City during the week of March 10. This was decided by the Chamber of Commerce at their Coffee club meeting yesterday morning.

The chamber also discussed the ministerial request that all Iowa City stores close from 12 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Good Friday, April 4. Yesterday morning's meeting reached no official decision since all chamber members were not present.

All Iowa City stores will be eligible to enter the window display contest. Entrance fees will be $2. A $25 savings bond will be awarded as first prize to the best window trimmer. The windows will be judged on their originality, selling appeal, neatness, drawing power and artistry. Other prizes will also be offered in bonds.

A neutral committee of five persons, probably university personnel, will do the judging. As yet they have not been selected. The judging will take place during the official spring days, March 11 and 12.

The meeting ended after a short discussion of possible chamber activities during the high school state basketball tournament, March 19 to 22.

TO PROBE NEWSPRINT SUPPLY
WASHINGTON (AP) — The house yesterday set up a special committee to investigate newsprint and paper supplies.

NEGRO FORUM DISBANDED
The Negro forum has disbanded here. Chairman William Be-shears, A3 of Des Moines, stated yesterday that because of lack of interest and because other groups serving the same purposes existed on the campus, the forum would no longer meet.

The forum sponsored social dances and heard guest speakers.
