House Votes to Curb Strikes, Revise New Deal Labor Law

Senate Committee Readies Own Measure Designed to Restrict Labor Union Activities

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill to curb strikes, restrict union activities and make some sweeping changes in New Deal labor law was passed overwhelmingly yesterday by the Republican-controlled house.

But even as it went to the senate, the labor committee there completed a milder measure of its own, stripped of some of the major house provisions, and sent it to the floor for debate to start next Wednesday.

The house vote on final passage was 308 to 107. This would be margin enough to override any veto by President Truman, if the lineup on such a test should remain the same.

While the senate labor committee's vote was 11 to 2 for its legislation, Senator Taft (R-Ohio), committee chairman, announced he will lead a fight on the floor to restore some of the stricken provisions through amendments.

Anti-Closed Shop Bill Gets Approval Of House Committee

DES MOINES (AP)—The house sifting committee yesterday recommended passage of the senate approved anti-closed shop bill by a vote of 22 to 7. The committee had refused twice previously to report the bill to the house.

After the committee had first declined to recommend passage of the measure, petitions were put in circulation calling upon the house to take the measure away from the sifting committee. The petitions, it was reported, were slow in gathering signatures but the action of the sifting committee yesterday will sidetrack the petitions.

The committee considered eleven bills yesterday, but reported only six.

The proposal to pay a bonus to Iowa veterans of World War Two was one of those bills the committee refused to recommend. The vote on recommending the bill was 12 to 8 against it.

Senate to Consider Veterans Bonus Bill

DES MOINES (AP)—The senate bill setting up machinery to make $85,000,000 available to pay a state bonus to Iowa veterans of World War II will be placed on the calendar of business today.

Under the bill World War II veterans would be entitled to $10 for each month spent in domestic service and $12.50 for each month in foreign service with a maximum of $500.

Foremen File Strike Notice Against Ford

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Foremen's Association of America yesterday filed a 30-day strike notice with the labor department against Ford Motor company plants in the Detroit area.

The independent labor union, which claims to represent more than 3,000 Ford supervisory workers, listed "wage equalization" and "raiding of ranks" among its strike issues.

Taft meanwhile voted for the bill to get it out to the floor, along with senators Aiken (R-Vt), Ball (R-Minn), Smith (R-NJ), Morse (R-Ore), Donnell (R-Mo), Jenner (R-Ind), Ives (R-NY), Elbert Thomas (D-Utah), Ellender (D-La) and Hill (D-Ala). That first includes senators of both views—some favoring a stronger bill, others favoring an even milder one.

Voting against the bill in the senate committee were Senators Murray (D-Mont) and Pepper (D-Fla), both opposing any restrictive labor proposals.

Here is how the labor bill passed by the house yesterday compares with the one approved by the senate labor committee:

Reach Settlement In Railroad Strike

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—Settlement of the long and bloody Toledo, Peoria and Western railroad strike, during which its president was slain from ambush and two union pickets were shot and killed, was announced last night.

The 18 months old strike was listed by the U. S. Labor department as the longest current labor dispute in the nation.

Thirteen striking railroad brotherhoods and the railroad announced settlement of the strike, which began Oct. 1, 1945. In a joint statement at the company's offices.

During the strike, George P. McNear, president of the railroad, was slain from ambush March 10. His death is still being investigated.

No Warning of Explosion Danger, Says Dock Worker

By HARRY BLANDING Editor, The Temple Telegram Written for the Associated Press

TEMPLE, Tex. (AP)—Maurice Patterson, a dock worker from Holland, Texas, yesterday told the story of the Texas City disaster from the viewpoint of a laborer who barely escaped from the explosion ship, the Grandcamp.

The thousands who stood on the Texas City docks Wednesday morning watching the burning Grandcamp had no warning of explosion danger, Patterson said. We was one of a gang of 20 workers who went on the Grandcamp early Wednesday morning. His group was ordered off the burning ship a short time before the explosion.

"It was ammunition of some kind in No. 5 hatch that blew up," Patterson said. "The nitrates in No. 4 hatch—we had loaded about 68,000 bags of it in there—were burning when we went on the ship, but the explosion came when the fire hit the ammunition hatch.

"Those people on the docks, who had come down to watch the fire, never had any warning that there might be an explosion. They just stood there waiting for it."

Patterson said another crew of 20 dock workers was on the Grandcamp when the ship blew up.

"I guess all of them were killed," he said. "I don't know how many of my crew were killed. I was maybe 100 yards away when the explosion came. . . . The blast seemed to blow all of the water out of the bay. . . . I remember that a big wall of water hit me, and that there was oil all over me. . . . But none of the pieces of the ship hit me. . . . I stumbled around until I found my car. . . .

"There was a big chunk of the ship stuck in the back end of the car, and the gasoline was running out, but I got it started and got home some way. . . . I was too knocked out to be any good."

Patterson received treatment at a Temple hospital for shoulder and hip injuries, but was able to be on his feet.

"We tried to stop the fire on the Grandcamp," he said, "but it was burning all down in the bottom of the ship."

"We tried to seal the hatches and turn in the steam, but it didn't do any good. Hatches were blowing off before we got off the ship."

ENROLLMENT AT IOWA STATE AMES (AP)—Although enrollment figures at Iowa State college for the current spring quarter have dropped more than 600 from last quarter's figures, the more than 8,500 students now registered set an all-time record for spring quarter enrollment, the registrar's office announced yesterday.

The estimate of the dead and injured came from the Red Cross. Late yesterday Deputy Sheriff Dick Parker of Harris county, in charge of the central morgue at the high school gymnasium, said the known dead totaled 238.

This figure, parker said, included 15 bodies at Houston, 17 at Galveston, 206 here, including 16

Persons wishing to obtain information about friends and relatives in the Texas explosion area should contact the local Red Cross chapter at 15 1/2 South Dubuque street or by calling 6933, according to Mrs. Lorna Mathes, local executive secretary.

Telegrams will be sent to the Dallas chapter of the Red Cross. Dallas will then question the Galveston chapter over a direct teletype system. Galveston will check with the master files on the disaster and notify Dallas, who will then advise the local chapter.

Parker said all zones except the still burning Monsanto area had been checked by rescuers.

Election Letters:

Candidates' Forum...

(The Daily Iowan will accept letters from student election candidates and their campaign managers providing they are less than 300 words in length. We ask that the letters be terse, accurate, honest and specific—The Editor.)

Calls for Intelligent Arguments in Campaign

TO THE DAILY IOWAN:
Looking over the endeavors of the candidates for the forthcoming student election on April 22 to call attention to themselves as logical choices for student representation, I find them lacking in intelligent argument. Every day I read in your "Letters to the Editor" column letters from various candidates that are nothing but insincere wranglings, that have as their sole purpose self-aggrandizement and an attempt at notoriety by creating false issues.

Moreover, I have observed in their advertisements a similar lack of rationality. They have employed meaningless slogans, rhymed their names to catchy phrases, and performed other ludicrous stunts that give no indication of their worthiness. One even went so far as to offer as a vote-getting enticement the fact that he had written a negligible number of the jokes that went into the production of the "Dove and the Duck."

The college student is supposed to be among the most intelligent of American citizenry, and I sincerely hope that they will not be fooled by such campaign hokum but will exercise their energies and votes towards the election of those candidates that they feel will be most deserving.

It is interesting to note that almost all of the candidates have professed in their platform a desire to strengthen the Student Council's power. It should be the desire — no, it is the duty — of all student voters to vote for their choice according to their belief that he will do all in his power toward achieving this end. The student body can only prove its worthiness to have more power by supporting this important election and electing those representatives that will perform their jobs sincerely and well.

Candidate Reiterates Precepts of Platform

TO THE DAILY IOWAN:
My letter, published in The Iowan last Sunday exposing the secret coalition movement formed under the auspices of Mister George Prichard, seems to have set of a great stir. In doing this it has accomplished its purpose by giving publicity to the effort of this group to carry off the coming campus elections.

In answering my letter, one critic made great issue of the fact that Prichard is not a candidate for any office. Of course, he isn't. If he were to run for office he could hold only one position. Why do this when you can find stooges who will run under your direction and take your orders.

I should like to remind that critic that not all politicians hold office but that some of the most powerful are men practically unknown to the public.

One of the most interesting and gratifying results of my letter was the withdrawal of one of Prichard's men from the race for MANTEO, N.C. — This little place is fairly conservative, but even here conservative opinion doesn't seem quite so sure of itself as it did a year ago. One of the storekeepers moaned about high prices. "I thought when we got rid of price control that shortages," he said. "But it's worse when the stuffs in the store, and you can't afford to buy it." He thought for a long moment; "that old OPA wasn't so bad," he said, and he said it like a troubled man as if the words were wrung from his insides.

Mr. Truman's stock is much higher in this small North Carolina town than when I checked a year ago. Since there are practically no Republicans here at all, the falling away of the president's support and now its return, makes an interesting study. It corroborates the feeling that the Republicans' purse has very little to do with the rise of the Republican party last fall. It was a kind of wave motion; support fell away from the Democratic party after trustee on the student publications board. His action serves an excellent verification of the existence of the secret coalition, which coalition members so loudly deny the existence of.

They have accused me of "loading up the old mud-gun." They neglected to mention the fact that they provided me with the ammunition. Now, Mister Melvin Heckt charges me with having been a party to the early coalition movement. That is absolutely untrue and Heckt knows it. My knowledge concerning the earlier movement is limited entirely to the account which was printed concerning it in The Iowan. From my reading there I acquired a thorough dislike of the whole idea and regarded it with just as much distaste as I regard the present attempt to capture an election against the will of the majority.

I wish to reiterate at this time that I am not and never have been a member of any coalition group, whatsoever, but that I oppose them heartily, be they secret or otherwise, and that I regard it as my duty to expose their existence, where they attempt to exist undisturbed. I stand for no single group or groups but for the interests of each student and every student.

FRANCIS J. CAVARRETTA

Seeks Council Post As Married Town Man

TO THE DAILY IOWAN:

My candidate is definitely not associated with any coalition. Instead he has filed for candidacy as town man representative because he believes that the town men should be represented by a man who is familiar with the difficulties faced and the problems to be solved. Bob Doty has attended SUI for 3½ years, first entering the university in 1941. Since that time he has made an outstanding record in the college of engineering, being elected to two honorary fraternities which indicates his scholastic and personal attainment.

Bob agrees that there should be better liaison between the university administration and the council on student affairs. He believes that a student rating of instruction in courses should be established so that their anonymous suggestions would be helpful to the staff in overcoming difficulties the students now face.

Bob Doty is a typical town man. He is 28 years of age and has been married for two years. This enables him to be familiar with the legislation which should be enacted to help minimize some of the difficulties married students now face. If elected he shall initiate legislation which will permit wives of students to purchase admittance to university functions, such as athletic events, on an equal basis with students. This is a problem never before faced by the university, but with the arrival of some 4000 married students it is imperative that something be done about it and be done soon.

For the reasons stated and many too numerous to mention, I am certain that most town men on campus will agree that Bob Doty will make them an excellent, honest and worthy representative on the council on student affairs.

Eight Questions About Greece

(The following article was passed on to us by Miss Anne Waterman, 231 Fairview avenue, who is the niece of the author, Miss Constance Votey. The article first appeared in the York, Pa., Gazette and Daily the end of March. Miss Votey served more than two years with the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration in Greece. She has covered Greece during those two years, not only in the cities, but through the mountain villages up to the Bulgarian and Yugoslav borders. From her first hand observation, she discusses four questions concerning the American intervention in Greece, and poses four additional questions which the state department might answer before congress votes approval of the Truman proposal.)

1. BEFORE THE UNITED STATES enters into a commitment to finance military operations in Greece why can we not wait for a report from the United Nations commission in Greece?

The Security Council appointed a mission with representatives of 11 member countries to study the present situation in Greece with a view, as I understand it, to determining whether the guerrilla warfare now going on in southern Greece, as well as in the northern border, is instigated by communist forces in Greece as well as from outside. This mission arrived in Greece on Jan. 30 and was to leave for Geneva on March 31 to prepare their report.

2. WILL FINANCING A military operation in Greece be the surest way to combat communism in that country or will it instead appear to the people of Greece and all other European countries as an cynical betrayal of their belief in the United States as an upholder of democracy and the rights of free people?

In my opinion, which is shared by other American members of the UNRRA Greece mission, the surest way to combat communism in Greece is to provide the necessities of living to the Greek people and restore their hope of individual self-maintenance. Are we sure that this will be done by a grant of funds to the present Greek government, even though we provide them with administrative and technical personnel as requested in paragraph four of the Greek government note.

3. WILL THE AMOUNT of money proposed in the president's message for relief and rehabilitation purposes be sufficient to restore Greece to any degree of self-sufficiency or self-maintenance?

From the proposed 400 million dollar loan, 150 million is earmarked for Turkey and 125 million for Greek military affairs. This leaves only 125 million for relief and rehabilitation purposes. UNRRA spent 350-million in Greece for relief and rehabilitation, and yet, according to the note from the Greek government to the United States, the end of the UNRRA period finds Greece without resources to enable her to solve or attack the problems of the reconstruction of her country. Will not this additional 125 million from the United States, if turned over to the present Greek government, be used as ineffectively as the UNRRA funds?

4. WILL SUFFICIENT AUTHORITY be granted to American personnel who are sent to Greece to advise and observe the expenditure of American funds in Greece to assure that their services are effective?

An instance of the official attitude of the Greek government toward the advice of UNRRA technical experts is illustrated by the following quotation from one of the leading Athens newspapers, Kathimerini, of December 20, 1946. This statement was an official release from Mr. Kanizias, minister of supply, attacking the authority of the Central Clothing committee, the official UNRRA government committee for control of the distribution of donated clothing throughout Greece. (This committee was made of representatives of the Greek government, UNRRA, the American Red Cross, the Australian Red Cross, the Greek Red Cross, the Near East foundation and the Greek War Relief association.) Mr. Kanizias states:

"A committee which affects distribution according to its free will with no control whatsoever. The ministry pays warehouse, staff and transportation expenses of this clothing with no right to interfere in the method of its distribution. Distributions are effected by the committee whenever and in the manner it wishes while the Ministry has paid until now 4,000,000,000 drachmas for expenses with no right of intervention whatever. This of course cannot continue and the state must obtain certain rights in distributions."

Although there were many sincere and hard-working members of the Greek government during the two years that I worked in Greece, it is a fact that the government as a whole was frequently unresponsive to advice of UNRRA personnel and many UNRRA supplies remained undistributed at the port of Piraeus, due to the failure of the Greek government and the UNRRA technical personnel to reach agreements on sound distribution plans.

As a specific example, some 100 tons of woolen yarn purchased by UNRRA for the use of the village women of Greece in making hand-knit garments was still in the warehouses when I left Greece on Jan. 23, 1947, due to refusal of the minister of supply to release it for the purpose for which

Mr. Stassen Meets Generalissimo Stalin

(New York Herald Tribune)

Mr. Stassen was evidently able to convey something of the American point of view to the Russian; Mr. Stalin in return gave a suggestive glimpse of the processes of policy and government in the vast empire over which he presides. The long exclusion of the Herald Tribune from Moscow turns out to have been just a slip-up in the ponderous and intricate machinery of highly centralized bureaucratic government. Mr. Stalin in fact regards the Herald Tribune as "an outstanding newspaper," and the exclusion, which was "an accident and not our policy" is being corrected.

Press censorship, on the other hand, is definitely a policy and not an accident; and here Mr. Stalin, with the elephantine memory of the bureaucrat, goes back for justification to an instance of irresponsible reporting which occurred at Tehran. That was more than three years ago; retraction and apology were proffered, and the episode itself was no more than the kind of thing which any Western statesman repeatedly takes in his stride. Few democratic administrations have escaped seeing themselves represented as "a sort of zoological garden"; but Russia is not the West, and since that kind of thing repeatedly happens when censorship is relaxed, the Russians "of course" have had to keep the censorship going.

To Westerners it will seem an odd way of running the affairs of nearly two hundred million people. The extreme sensitiveness to opinion, the intensely personal touch, the small, remembered incident affecting policy for months or years thereafter, the "accidents" and obstructions of super-centralized administration which tend to channel all action up to top authority—these things do not strike the West as evidences of either tolerable, flexible or even efficient governance. But what a direct contact like Mr. Stassen's does remind us of is the fact that they are deep-rooted in the Russian system. Mr. Stalin is at least as much a prisoner of his institutions as we are of our own; they are facts which we can not disregard, and the face-to-face interview which makes them clear is likely to do more for basic understanding than all the theorizing indulged in by other statesmen.

it had been purchased. This yarn, however, since January, 1946. Also, there were some 3,500 tons of manufactured clothing still undistributed at the time I left Greece. A similar situation existed with regard to many other UNRRA commodities.

5. WHAT IS THIS BRITISH ASSISTANCE that is to cease on March 31 that is other than military assistance?

6. ARE THE AMERICAN PEOPLE to be informed of the details of the security laws of the present Greek government, rebellion against which is one of the causes of the present guerrilla activity?

7. WILL SOMEONE PLEASE CLARIFY for the American people what is this threat which we must so hurriedly avert (or try to avert)? Is it political expansion of Russia or is it the attempt of the Greek left wing to overthrow the extreme right wing government of Greece, or is it the basic factor which is causing unrest in Greece, namely the destitution and consequent desperation of the Greek people?

8. WOULD A REHABILITATION PROGRAM, administered as well as financed by the United States direct to the Greek people by any greater violation of the sovereignty of the Greek state than the financing of the United States of military operations in Greece? With 250-million at stake it should be as easy to persuade the Greek government to ask for a peaceful administration intervention as it was to persuade them to ask for military intervention.

Hillcrest Puts Trick On Student Council

Alan W. Trick, A2, Des Moines, was elected yesterday as Hillcrest's Student Council delegate for the 1947-48 school year.
He received 276 votes, defeating Ernest F. Ulbrich, A2, Dubuque, with 90 votes, and Francis F. Robbins, A3, Woodward, with 53 votes.
Trick expressed appreciation of his backing and said he expected students to demand a strong voice in council affairs next year. He pointed to a "critical attitude of the students toward the inability of the student council to safeguard the interests of students" and "declared the council has tended to act as a "rubber stamp," because of "constitutional hamstringing."

A free midnight showing of the Russian film, "Alexander Nevsky," will appear at the Capitol theater tonight.
The Russian dialogue movie with musical score by Prokofiev, has been shown once before by the university. This is its first appearance at a downtown theater.

Red Sox Thump Senators

Boston (AP)—Jumping into a 4-0 lead in the first two innings, the Boston Red Sox yesterday defeated the Washington Senators 4-1 behind Joe Dobson, whose last Fenway park performance was a four-hit 6-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in the fifth game of the World Series.
The Senators threatened several times but sharp fielding by the Sox kept them in check, save in the third frame when they manufactured their only run before 12,779 paid fans.

Tax Bill on Slot Machines a Paradox

The bill placing a two percent tax on slot machine "take" which was sent to Governor Blue Wednesday poses some interesting theoretical and practical problems.

The new bill is expected to bring in about $500,000 a year. Besides one-armed bandits, the tax will also be levied on shooting galleries, pool tables, juke boxes, pin-ball machines and other similar amusement devices to which no tickets are sold.

Strangely enough, in the case of slot machines, this new tax law is a tacit admission that a previous law is being violated. The vicious "slots" are banned by state statute. The tax bill now makes legal a source of state income that springs from an illegal device.

In other words, the legislators have said in effect that the present statute outlawing the slot machines is either unworkable or it is not being enforced. This law has been reduced to a token statute probably for much the same reason that similar legislation has failed—good sense and temperance can't be legislated.

On the practical level it's a little difficult to see how this slot machine tax is going to be collected. Obviously state officials are going to have to play the tricky game of not letting one hand know what the other hand is doing.

To collect the tax, the revenue officials must obtain information that other state officials empowered to enforce the anti-slot machine law are supposedly unable to gather. They are going to have to know where the machines are and who owns them. This information will probably take some digging out since it is pretty certain that the slot machine operators won't submit this damaging information voluntarily.

If the governor signs the tax bill, some future legislation probably will be forced to admit that the law banning the "slots" makes collection of the tax practically impossible.

It undoubtedly will be argued that since the anti-slot machine law has proved ineffectual anyway it should be repealed rather than forego an important source of revenue.

Our Ignorance Is Showing

Polltaker George Gallup has written a most disturbing article in the current issue of the National Municipal Review.

We've always felt that there was widespread political ignorance in America but we never imagined it to be as bad as Dr. Gallup's facts indicate.

The public opinion expert points out that a lower percentage of eligible voters have taken the trouble to vote in recent elections than was the case 50 or a 100 years ago, and the trend seems to be toward LESS voting participation.

Only 35,000,000 of the 91,600,000 eligible voters went to the polls last November, for instance. Even the hot presidential election of 1944 drew only 48-million voters.

According to Dr. Gallup, twice as many Englishmen, proportionately, voted in their last national election. Nearly four times as many Italians voted in the national referendum last summer. The French had to go to the polls four times last year, but interest was still high enough in the election there last November to bring in twice the number of ballots, proportionately, as were cast that same week here in the United States.

Dr. Gallup's polls showed that in January, 1946, only 31 percent of the American voters knew that elections for congress were going to be held in November. And here are some other examples of public ignorance or disinterest as revealed in Gallup polls:

One third of all citizens who have had the advantage of a college education do not know the number of years for which a U.S. house of representatives membership is elected.

At the end of the 1944 presidential campaign, only two-thirds of the voters could name the Republican vice-presidential candidate and even less than that the Democratic candidate. Two months after the election, only 68 percent of all voters could name the man elected as vice president—Harry S. Truman.

Only four voters out of 10 can name both U.S. senators from their state; only half of all voters can name their representative in congress.

Dr. Gallup attributes this apathy chiefly to two things: (1) failure of our schools and colleges to give students a rudimentary knowledge of government structure and operation and to arouse interest in governmental affairs, and (2) "the incredibly low plane on which most of our campaigns are fought."

"Any student," says Dr. Gallup, "can graduate from virtually any college in the country today and not have even a basic knowledge of the structure of our government." Many actually graduate without actually knowing that we have national elections every two years, he adds.

Dr. Gallup's facts are a serious indictment of American political ignorance. It would seem that a tremendous job of education is called for—not merely formal education but the type of education that neighbors give to neighbors.

To Err Is To Lose a Whole Day

M. V. Nadkarni wrote us a letter yesterday and several people called to tell us about the little error in yesterday's Iowan. It seems, in case you hadn't noticed, that the datelines yesterday all read "Wednesday, April 16."

Now we could go into a long explanation of how such things happen, but that would only bore you and we wouldn't look the better for it either.

Letter writer Nadkarni thinks we forgot to tear off the "page a day" calendar in the office. If he wants to think that, it's OK with us, but honestly we have only the "page a month" kind.

The thing that bothers us most about the error is that April 17, 1947, is lost to us forever. That makes us sad because April 17 must have been a nice day and one we know we would have enjoyed.

We hope our readers will not think too badly of us. After all, to err is human and that's just what we are. Besides, what's a day or two between friends?

Student Forum Cites Council Inadequacies

The weakness of the student council is the result of three factors: (1) lack of student interest, (2) insufficient publicity of student council activities, and (3) inadequate finances.

This was the consensus of the panel and audience of a council-sponsored forum on the powers of the council and its relation to the administration. The forum was held last night in studio E of the radio building.

Bette Jo Phelan, panel member, said student interest in the activities of the council is apparent only during elections and when the council sponsors entertainment.

Explains Lack of Interest

One of the audience attributed this lack of interest to the lack of a council program with merit and a lack of platforms of candidates which will interest the student in his council.

"There has been too much witch-hunting, charges and counter-charges, in this campaign. This has decreased the faith of students in the purposes of the council, he said.

Dorothy Kotteman, panel member, suggested that student interest will be secured when there is a unified program of student activities on the campus, with other organizations subordinated to the council.

"The sooner it gets the backing of student interest, the sooner its influence will be felt," she stated.

To the charge of lack of sufficient publicity to council activities, Dick Yoakam said from the audience:

"The council's activities won't get publicity unless they are newsworthy."

Would Increase Council Power
Increase in the power of the council was suggested by one of the audience as a means of making its activities newsworthy and increasing interest.

Bob Ray, panel member, suggested integration of the council, the Union Board and the Board of Trustees of Student Publications, with some members of each organization occupying seats on the others.

In deploring the lack of adequate finances, Gordon Christensen, panel member, said council members have had to contribute

Other Methodist students wishing to attend the conference may call 3753 to arrange for transportation and registration.

Finances may be secured by allocation of a part of the tuition of each student to the council, several of the audience suggested.

Prof. H. Clay Harshbarger of the speech department was moderator of the forum.

Engineer Students Hear Mecca Report

The Associated Students of Engineering have written off the $400 deficit with which they started the year, President William J. Bauer reported to that group Wednesday night.

He summarized the financial report on the engineers' Mecca week, explaining that one item of expense, "Queens — $51," was attributable to flowers and gifts. The AS of E now has about $200 in its treasury, according to Bauer. Out of that may have to come the cost of removing paint from the walls of the law building, he said. Bauer feels sure that no engineering student was responsible for painting the "Mecca" on law building walls March 18 but fears that university officials will assume engineers responsible for the incident, basing the assumption on precedent.

The association set May 1 for a meeting at which nominations will be made for officers for next year. In early-day Illinois, Wagon freight charges were often $10 a ton for twenty miles.

Scientific Farming To Aid Infiltration Control In U.S., Predicts County Farm Agent

Scientific farm production will help to lead the country out of the present inflationary period, Johnson county Farm Agent Emmet Gardner predicted yesterday.

Speaking at the noon Rotary luncheon at Hotel Jefferson, Gardner cited pressure groups, including farm pressure groups, as one of the greatest dangers in this country today.

Instead of submitting to leaders who do not think clearly, "We should make up our minds on issues as they come up," he said.

More Jittery Now Gardner told Rotarians he believed the American people were "more jittery now than during the war."

During the course of his talk, the county farm agent explained some of the great advances made in agriculture in recent years.

A "new blight disease" reduced the production of Iowa oats 50 percent last year, he related. But new oats varieties developed on a scientific basis were tried now he can plant as much as eighty acres per day." The county agent cited the use of modern machinery and scientific developments by farmers as the big reason for the advance.

Cow War Waged Gardner pointed to the Cedar county cow war, when farmers refused to have their cows vaccinated for tuberculosis, as one time when the county agent wasn't very popular.

"At one time as many as five percent of all cattle shipped from Iowa were tubercular," he recalled. "Tubercular cattle are rare now."

To show how help from farm agents has been accepted, Gardner told of one farm woman who asked him to diagnose the illness of her little boy.

The Johnson county farm agent said that in spite of advances, farmers are busier today than they "were 25 years ago." "They just see more to be done," he said.

Almost 20 pounds of coffee per capita was consumed in the United States during 1946.

Report Two Burglaries

About $40, a 100-pound sack of sugar and 5 cases of beer were taken in a burglary of two neighboring south Gilbert street business firms sometime Thursday morning, police reported yesterday.

Police said the cash was stolen from the Howell-Shrader Co., 529 S. Gilbert street, and the sugar and beer from the Iowa City Bottling Works, 525 S. Gilbert street.

AWARD JUDGMENT TO WHITE A default judgment was entered against George E. Spicher for $274.46 yesterday in justice court after he failed to appear in court.

Spicher was sued by Jack C. White for payment of a note originally let to Spicher by A.B. Gingerich on Oct. 1, 1944. It was later assigned to White by Gingerich.

Attorneys for White were Lucas and Bowen. There were about 214,000 auto service stations in the United States in 1946.

Council Elects Clyde, Barnt for Committee To Govern UMSO

Joe Clyde and Council Chairman Roger Barnt will represent Hawkeye village on the interim committee which will govern the University Married Students organization until Oct. 1.

They were elected by the Hawkeye council Wednesday night and will take office with two representatives from each of the other three UMSO divisions Monday.

Suspension of the UMSO council and constitution was the result of a decision by the office of student affairs to study the organization's constitution for the purpose of revision.

Barnt announced at the village council business meeting the appointment of three village men as deputy sheriffs and the designation of two more to be sworn in by Johnson county Sheriff Pat Murphy.

Those already sworn in are Barnt, Lou King and George Balke. Doug Dowell and Dick Morison will be sworn in, probably today, Barnt said. Another man will be selected to take the oath in the near future.

These six men will have the duty of maintaining the peace of Johnson county in the village. This action resulted after the village council had been informed by the Iowa City police that the city

Boulton Wins Prize At Engineers Meet

Verne R. Boulton, E3 of Iowa City, won an American Institute of Electrical Engineering prize Wednesday with his paper on "Color Television."

He and 13 other University of Iowa electrical engineering juniors and seniors attended the student branch meeting, part of the state sectional meeting of the American Institute for Electrical Engineering at Des Moines.

The prize, choice of an electrical engineering handbook or a cash award to take the student to the institute's district meeting, was awarded Boulton after close competition with two other members of the group, Ralph M. Rotty, E4 of Kirkwood, Mo., and Richard M. Ringo, E3, of Iowa Falls. Rotty presented a paper on "Meteorological Engineering For Electric Utilities" and Ringo read a paper on "Atomic Energy." Prof. Edwin B. Kurtz, head of electrical engineering department, and Lawrence A. Ware accompanied the students. Kurtz is a branch counselor and Ware served as a judge of the student competition.

Faber To Hurl Conference Opener Against Rivets Today

Iowa's Big Nine conference hopes rest on the right arm of the loop's strikeout king Moose Faber and the big boy will go against Purdue in the conference opener for both teams in Lafayette today.

The last time out Moose was in great shape whiffing 12 Western Michigan batters for a 14-3 victory on the Iowa diamond. Backing him up were 14 solid Hawkeye hits—featured by the 400-foot double off the bat of shortstop Doc Dunagan—and Vogel is expecting his impressive array of sluggers to keep up the onslaught against conference opposition.

At Purdue the Hawks will run into four good pitchers. Iry Claxman, Bob Ladd, Randy Noel and freshman Mel Henson. Henson recently set down the Evansville entry in the Three-I league and will be tough against Iowa.

Leading the parade of Boilermaker hitters is Centerfielder Red Anderson who holds the best average on the club with five hits in nine trips during non-conference play.

Another tough slugger Iowa pitchers will face is Clary Gantz who plays right field. Augie-Martin, hard hitting left fielder, is the Purdue lead off man and was instrumental in beating Evansville. Last year's star shortstop, Johnny Galvin, is one regular on the Boilermaker squad who retained his position and bats in the No. 3 spot.

One of Purdue's best basketball guards—Bill Berberian—will handle the second base chores for the Mel Taube nine and is a first year man in baseball. Berberian, a fine player afield, is reportedly weak at the plate.

Vogel has a problem in that his two leading hitters are both second basemen. Don McCarty is currently leading the club with a .470 average while Jack Dittmer has an even .400. Dittmer failed to play in the Hawkeyes only home start to date because of a spike wound suffered on the southern trip.

At first the choice will be either converted second baseman Don Thompson or Pte

Everett. Both are adequate hitters with Everett having the edge in speed and under Vogel's "run 'em dizzy" policy Everett may start against Purdue.

The rest of the Iowa lineup will remain the same with Lyle Ebner, catcher; Doc Dunagan, shortstop; Keith Kafer, third base; Dale Erickson, left field; Bud Flanders, center and Bobby Smith, right, scheduled to start.

In case of postponement of today's clash a double header will be scheduled for tomorrow.

Six Big Nine Teams Collide As Baseball Season Gets Rolling

CHICAGO (AP)—Two leading title contenders, Ohio State—already owning two victories over defending champion Wisconsin—and Illinois collide at Champaign, Ill., today in the opener of a two-game series as the Big Nine baseball race picks up speed.

Two other conference sets are booked this weekend with Minnesota invading Northwestern and Iowa playing at Purdue in league debuts for all four teams. Last team to make its conference get-away will be Michigan which opens April 25-26 at home against Illinois.

The Illini, bolstered by two Rose Bowl football stars, Julie Rykovich and Russ Steger, launched their league season last Saturday with a double triumph over Indiana.

Steger, guitar-trumming freshman from St. Louis, Mo., plays right field and leads Illinois hitters with .429 in 14 trips. Rykovich is in left field and batting .333. Another Illini slugger is third sacker Bob Wakefield, brother of Detroit Tiger's star Dick, who has a .400 mark.

In today's opener, the well-balanced Muckeyes will send Freshman Pete Perini to the mound against Johnny Brittin, Illinois right-hander back from the 1943 squad. Perini limited the champion Badgers to five hits last week.

Northwestern's Wildcats, winner of four out of nine practice starts, will encounter a Minnesota team that has been kept indoors by the weather until this week and will be making its first competitive appearance of the season. In their host role to Iowa's Hawkeyes, Purdue's Boilermakers

Old Habit In New Surroundings

IT DIDN'T TAKE LONG for National league fans to see Hank Greenberg swing for four bases. Yesterday the big Pittsburgh first baseman collected his first homer of the season against the Cubs in the second inning. Greeting him is Buc Third Baseman Frank Gustine (16). Chicago Catcher Bob Sheffing watches the event.

Brooklyn characteristically was the first team to hit this explosive problem on the head by bringing up what should prove to be one of the rookies of the year in Jackie Robinson, one of the outstanding Negro athletes in modern history. How Robinson will fare in the big time is a matter of conjecture but it will largely depend on Jackie's ability to stand up under the strain and to overcome prejudice by his conduct and his work on the field.

What Joe Louis has accomplished in boxing can be duplicated by Robinson in baseball. It's another step in the story of the progress of the Negro race in America and an important one. Sports is a great equalizer and develops man's respect for man more swiftly than almost any other media. Brooklyn also rated another headline without a ball being fired when Commissioner Chandler suspended Leo Durocher for a year. Evidently the constantly growing chorus of criticism from sports writers and other fans of the game needed Hap into positive action. Perhaps a Commissioner was born and a clown buried with the announcement but a better bet is that Chandler will relax and rest on his laurels until some other situation develops that shocks a voice from the masses. He's as consistent as March weather.

As for Durocher, the game is bet-

Hank's Homer, Errors Sink Bruins, 7-1

Sports Shots

By Bob Collins

Business out of town prevented me from seeing the Iowa baseball opener but eye-witness accounts all add up to something we suspected before—Iowa has a poised, powerful club which is strong down the line and two deep in most positions.

The only question as they open the Big Nine race today at Purdue is how much the team is away from its peak as the result of restricted practices and rained-out warmup games. In this league the team that wins must open fast, hold the pace and finish in a sprint. The season isn't long enough to allow for any wasted games.

A heavy run of other sporting events also tried to slip by when Sports Shots was temporarily out of order. The major league season opened and with it a new story entitled "Negro players in organized ball."

Brooklyn characteristically was the first team to hit this explosive problem on the head by bringing up what should prove to be one of the rookies of the year in Jackie Robinson, one of the outstanding Negro athletes in modern history. How Robinson will fare in the big time is a matter of conjecture but it will largely depend on Jackie's ability to stand up under the strain and to overcome prejudice by his conduct and his work on the field.

What Joe Louis has accomplished in boxing can be duplicated by Robinson in baseball. It's another step in the story of the progress of the Negro race in America and an important one. Sports is a great equalizer and develops man's respect for man more swiftly than almost any other media.

Brooklyn also rated another headline without a ball being fired when Commissioner Chandler suspended Leo Durocher for a year. Evidently the constantly growing chorus of criticism from sports writers and other fans of the game needed Hap into positive action. Perhaps a Commissioner was born and a clown buried with the announcement but a better bet is that Chandler will relax and rest on his laurels until some other situation develops that shocks a voice from the masses. He's as consistent as March weather.

Town Men Slated To Practice Softball

With the intramural softball season about to begin, Dr. Frederick Beebee, intramural director, announced yesterday that men living in town will have a practice session this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Sections Black and Dean will practice on field 1; Leonard and Pickard on field 2; Loyola and McLean on field 3, and Schaeffer and Totten on field 4. All men living in these sections and who are interested should report at that time.

The softball schedule starts next week. If there are any men who do not know in what section he belongs, he should contact Dr. Beebee.

ter off without him then with him despite his acknowledged ability. Somehow the champions of sports carry a responsibility similar to that of a school teacher, a doctor or a judge. They must conduct themselves on and off the field in a manner to inspire respect. Self disciplining is one of the burdens of the career and when a man refuses to accept the dignity of his job, the game has no place for him.

Herb Named All-America

Herb Wilkinson, one of the greatest basketball players in Iowa history has been named to the Helms Athletic Foundation all-American basketball team for the third consecutive season.

The 1947 team was announced yesterday by W. R. Schroeder, managing director of the Foundation, and placed Wilkinson at a defense post on the second team.

The six-foot, four-inch Hawk star copped a first team berth in 1945 and a second team vote following the 1946 season. The Helms system places ten men on each of three teams, with six forwards and four guards as the basis instead of the usual two forwards, two guards, and a center.

Other Big Nine players who made the three team selection are Ralph Hamilton of Indiana, first team; Paul Hoffman of Purdue, second team; and Jack Smiley of Illinois, third team.

Dear Joe and Jane:

We are very much impressed by your enthusiasm in seeing the finer foreign films.

This afternoon we received a call from Larry Brown, a student at your school, telling us a petition had been started requesting we run Alexander Nevsky as a midnight show Friday night.

He told us he could get enough students to make it worth our while to run it.

Okay, Larry Brown! To show you how much we appreciate your enthusiasm and sincerity, we will run Alexander Nevsky, BUT

FREE OF CHARGE

So you're invited to be our guests at the stroke of midnight to see

ALEXANDER NEVSKY

Our only regret is that we only have 400 seats. So we will have to limit the offer to the first 400.

TEXAS CITY

Most of the city's 15,000 population fled Wednesday night. Chlorine gas, among other things, had been a serious threat. At noon yesterday, about 6,000 citizens had returned and a traffic jam developed in downtown Texas City.

No efforts were made Wednesday night to extinguish the oil fires, but yesterday tens of thousands of pounds of foamite were used by hundreds of firemen.

In Washington President Truman offered the resources of all federal agencies for relief.

The army, navy and other federal agencies rushed aid to the disaster scene.

Senator O'Daniel (D-Tex) introduced a resolution demanding a "full and complete investigation" of the disaster.

Hal Boyle, Associated Press war correspondent who served on all of the active war fronts in World War II, flew over the city yesterday and reported that he had seen "no concentrated devastation so utter" except in Nagasaki, where the second atomic bomb fell.

The damage along Texas City's waterfront exceeded that at Bari, Italy, where 17 vessels burned, including three ammunition ships, following a German air raid, Boyle reported.

He described Texas City yesterday as looking much like war-bombed Ploesti, Romanian oil capital, and said the fire-ravaged industrial section, which once housed chemical, grain, bagging, sulphur, tin, petroleum and other major industries, was a two-mile torch. He found the residential section was a deserted village, its fate still dependent on wind conditions.

The waterfront area is in charred ruins. White pillars sticking up from the wreckage bear a startling resemblance to military graves, row upon row, Boyle said. Chunks of steel were in streets and yards.

Must Let Germans Build Up Export Trade, Holt Declares

Western democracy in Germany does not have a ghost of a chance of surviving unless the German people are allowed to build up an export trade, John B. Holt, economic advisor and liaison officer on the American administrative staff in Germany, said last night.

"Two years after the fighting ended we find ourselves pitching credits, cash and personnel into a battle for German export trade," Holt explained. "But this is the only practical choice we have as long as we are committed for political reasons to continue the occupation."

Holt said that the enthusiasm with which our troops were greeted has changed to disillusion and bitterness. The German population is undernourished, anemic and economically frustrated.

Holt said that the American and British zones have outlined a three-year plan to build up export trade in order to help the Germans pay for food and other needed imports.

Trade to be Boosted

The 1946 export trade is to be trebled during this year, doubled again in 1948, and increased to 900 million dollars in 1949. If the plan fails congress will have to make appropriations to feed the German people, according to Holt.

"Our fundamental policy has not changed," Holt said. He explained that the basic purpose of the Allied occupation is a demilitarized, self-sustaining economy for Germany. This plan is based on the Potsdam agreement and provides measures to assure that Germany never again would threaten her neighbors or the peoples of the world, Holt said.

Nothing to Buy

In describing general conditions in Germany, Holt said that the people have plenty of money but nothing to buy. He said, however, that public relief rolls and unemployment are not high. Cigarettes have become a recognized medium of exchange.

Holt recently returned to this country from Berlin on a special mission for the army of occupation. He will return to Berlin in the near future. He will give another lecture at 8:30 this morning in Macbride auditorium.

UWF Nominates 7 For New Officers

The local chapter of the United World Federalists last night made seven nominations for officers to be elected at the group's next meeting.

Harlan Hockenberger, George McBurney and George Burmeister were nominated for president. Annette Stein, Marie Book and Ruth Celke were nominated for secretary. Herry Watts is unopposed for the position of treasurer. After the president has been elected, one of the remaining presidential nominees will be elected vice-president.

Mock Trial Jury Brings Split Verdict In Clyde vs. Cook

The jury brought in a split verdict at the final session of the mock trial of Clyde versus Cook last night in the law building court room.

Two of the eight jurors believed Clyde should be awarded $800 in hospital expenses for an accident he suffered last July. The other six held that the case should be dismissed.

"The case involved a damage suit brought by Joseph Clyde for injuries he received when struck by a car driven by Paul Cook (Ray Frank).

The case revolved around whether the broken neck and skull fracture sustained by Clyde were brought about by his own negligence in crossing the street and whether he would be permanently disabled.

Two doctors, a policeman, Bill Hardin and Cook were called to the witness stand during the two nights of the practice trial.

Testimony was also admitted from Clyde who was in the hospital. One of the key pieces of evidence admitted was a sketch of the accident.

Counsel for Clyde were John C. Fishburn and Marvin De Gooyer. Representing the defendant were Norman Erbe, Albert J. Pfaltzgraf and Robert Mason.

Phi Beta Kappa Elects Four
Four more students have been elected to Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic fraternity, it was announced yesterday by Prof. C. R. Strother, secretary.

The new members, to be initiated May 19, are W. Anne Huper of Iowa City, Mary McCracken of Villisca, Duane O. Paulsen of Burlington, and Rachel E. Updegraff of Sigourney. They will graduate at the June convocation.

VFW Plans School Marble Tournament

Plans for the grade school marble tournament sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 2581 were discussed at a meeting last night, according to Club Manager Don Rogers.

The contest will not be held until "we can be assured of two or three days of good weather," Rogers said. Champions of each grade school in the city will be crowned and the city championship will be decided "sometime during summer vacation."

Winner in the city will be sent to the state contest, Rogers said. Prizes for city champions will be announced later.

Seniors elected are: Stephen W. Driftmier, Shenandoah; William J. Hibbs, Iowa Falls; Lois J. Johnson, Red Oak; Curtis L. Jones Jr., Amara; Arthur R. Keller, Fairfield; Clyde A. Kinzey, Kingsley; Franklin K. Listerbarger, Fairfax; David Schneck, Brooklyn, N. Y., and Leonard B. Vranicar, Joliet, Ill.

Richard E. McKinstry, Waterloo, who received the bachelor of science in Commerce degree in February, and Maynard B. Woodbury, Corwith, who received the same degree in August, 1946, were also elected members of the fraternity.

To become eligible for election to the fraternity, a student must have attended the university for at least three semesters, have sufficient credit hours to permit his graduation at the next convocation and a scholastic average on all credits earned at the university such that he will rank within the highest 10 percent of the senior class in the college of commerce.

Present members of the senior class who become eligible for election at the close of the present semester will be elected in June.

Kalender Quits Council Race

Stanley S. Kalender, A2 of Brooklyn, N. Y., last night announced withdrawal from "the campaign for student council delegate-at-large."

In a letter "to whom it may concern," he expressed dissatisfaction with: students' interest in the council, the "inadequacy of the student council to cope with really important matters", the "farical aspect" of the campaign, "coalition groups", and the campaign as "an opportunity" for many "to see their names in the paper regardless of what they have to say."

Kalender was the third student to file for candidacy. With an official withdrawal by Kalender, there would be only 20 candidates left in the race for four positions as delegates-at-large to the student council.
