GOOD MORNING, IOWA CITY!

Mostly cloudy and continued rather mild with occasional showers.

MARSHALL TELLS NATION—

Stalin Believes Compromises Possible

WASHINGTON (P)—Premier Stalin told Secretary Marshall that compromises are possible on the great issues splitting the wartime allies, Marshall revealed last night.

But the American secretary of state, just back from the Moscow conference which bogged down in disagreement on all main points, warned in a radio report to the nation that the fate of Europe cannot wait on "compromise through exhaustion."

"Disintegrating forces are becoming evident," he said. "The patient is sinking while the doctors deliberate." Without becoming specific, he said: "Whatever action is possible to meet these pressing problems must be taken without delay."

Marshall, in a lengthy speech, reviewed the disagreements between Russia and the other Allies at the Moscow conference, which was called to draft a peace treaty for Austria and to make a start on writing a blueprint for Germany's peacetime future.

The American secretary declared Russia's proposals for a centralized German government and heavy reparations would have resulted "in a deteriorating economic life in Germany and Europe and the inevitable emergence of dictatorship and strife."

He also accused the Soviets of "propaganda appeals to passion and prejudice."

He said charges were made "which varied completely from the facts" as understood or as factually known by the American delegation.

But he said that some progress was made because differences were clarified, and "future negotiations can start with a knowledge of exactly what the issues are that must be settled."

Marshall advised in his detailed report—his first major address since he became secretary of state in January—that "we must not compromise on great principles in order to achieve agreement for agreement's sake."

But also, he said, "We must sincerely try to understand the point of view of those with whom we differ."

His disclosure of what he was told by Stalin at their conference at the close of the foreign ministers meeting followed that observation.

Marshall reported that Stalin said the conference represented only the "first skirmishes and brushes of reconnaissance forces" on the European peace settlement.

Marshall paraphrased the Soviet leader's remarks to him thus: "Differences had occurred in the past on other questions, and as a rule, after people had exhausted themselves in dispute, they then recognized the necessity of compromise."

"It was possible that no great success would be achieved at this session, that he (Stalin) thought that compromises were possible on all the main questions, including demilitarization, political structure of Germany, reparations and economic unity. It was necessary to have patience and not become pessimistic."

Then Marshall continued: "I sincerely hope that the generalissimo is correct in the view he expressed and that it implies a greater spirit of cooperation by the Soviet delegation in future conferences."

Cannot Ignore Time Factor

"But we cannot ignore the factor of time involved here. The recovery of Europe has been far slower than had been expected. Disintegrating forces are becoming evident. The patient is sinking while the doctors deliberate."

"So I believe that action cannot await compromise through exhaustion. New issues arise daily. Whatever action is possible to meet these pressing problems must be taken without delay."

Marshall did not specify what these possible actions might be.

Marshall wound up his half-hour report over three national radio hookups with the advice that "the state of the world today and the position of the United States make mandatory, in my opinion, a unity of action on the part of the American people."

In a tribute to Chairman Vandenberg (R-Mich) of the senate foreign relations committee and Senator Connally (D-Tex) for their bipartisan senate leadership on the $400,000,000 program of aid to Greece and Turkey, Marshall said that the unity of purpose in Washington was of "incalculable assistance to me in Moscow."

Marshall reported in detail on the conference failure to agree on what he described as the critical and fundamental German problems:

1. The limits to the powers of a central government.
2. The character of the economic system and its relation to all of Europe.
3. The character and extent of reparations.
4. The boundaries for the German state.
5. The manner in which all Allied states at war with Germany are to be represented in the drafting and confirmation of the treaty.

Some of his sharpest criticism of Russia's course at the conference was in his report on the disagreement over German economy.

Marshall said that the Soviets had operated their occupation zone "practically without regard to the other zones" and had refused to disclose what foodstuffs were available and what reparations were removed.

He said the economic merger of the British and American zones was attacked by Soviet authorities as a breach of the Potsdam agreement and as a first step toward German dismemberment, "ignoring the plain fact that their refusal to carry out that agreement was the sole cause of the merger."

"It is difficult to regard their attacks as anything but propaganda designed to divert attention from the Soviet failure to implement the economic unity agreed to at Potsdam," Marshall continued. "Certainly some progress toward economic unity in Germany is better than none."

Marshall said that Soviet efforts to amend the American proposal for a four-power pact led him to conclude that Russia "either did not desire such a pact or was following a course calculated to delay any immediate prospect of its adoption."

In the background of Marshall's review of the Moscow conference and the present status of relations with Russia is the measure for $400,000,000 worth of aid to Greece and Turkey to bolster them against communism.

The house rules committee failed to agree yesterday on the procedure for house debate and action on the bill, already passed by the senate, and will meet again today to hear opponents of the legislation.

Chairman Eaton (R-NJ) of the house foreign affairs committee told the rules group that the proposed aid to the two Mediterranean nations is "fraught with danger" but that "not to take the step is fraught with more danger." He also said that the entire $400,000,000 will be a gift in reality, although part of it is billed as loans.

Rep. Rich (R-Pa) of the rules committee commented that the situation will mean war "eventually." If that is the situation, he added, "What the devil's the use of waiting?"

Eaton replied that Russia is not able or ready to wage war and Rich declared: "That's why I want to take advantage of them. There's no use in fooling any longer."

Marshall, since leaving Moscow on Friday, has denied the conference was a failure despite the lack of major agreements between Russia and the western powers. He contended at Berlin that the session had the effect of clarifying issues in advance of further meetings of the foreign ministers next fall.

Drive for Full Debate On Palestine Problem

NEW YORK (P)—The Arabs will be opposed by the United States and Great Britain. Both have insisted this session must be confined to the mechanics of setting up an inquiry committee.

The fireworks will pop at the initial meeting of the general (steering) committee scheduled for 9 a.m. (CST) today at the assembly's headquarters in Flushing Meadows.

Snapping along at a fast pace without fanfare, the assembly named Dr. Oswaldo Aranha, former foreign minister of Brazil and a firm believer in the Pan-American union, as its president. He received 45 votes of 54 cast on the first secret ballot.

Recess Phone Talks After 'Stormy' Time

WASHINGTON (P)—The government last night recessed the telephone strike negotiations overnight after what was officially called a "stormy session."

A Bell System official told reporters: "We are just where we were 10 days ago."

United States Conciliators Peter J. Manno and William N. Margolis disclosed that the major obstacle was the union's insistence on a dollars-and-cents wage offer and the company's stand for arbitration.

A union denunciation of the department of labor as "the tool of management" last night prompted a conference of Secretary of Labor Schwelmbach with three top leaders of the striking National Federation of Telephone Workers.

The accusation was made by Ernest Weaver, president of the Association of Communications Equipment Workers.

Weaver's displeasure was aroused by a statement which he said the conciliators wanted him to sign. He interpreted it as a proposal that he repudiate the NFTW with which his union is affiliated.

Weaver now is acting national strike director.

5 State Unions Reject $2.50 Raise Offer

ST. PAUL, Minn. (P)—Five state unions, acting individually, yesterday rejected the offer of the Northwestern Bell Telephone company of a $2.50 a week increase.

When the offer was extended Sunday night it was described as a possible pattern for settlement of the nationwide telephone strike which started April 7.

Individual announcements of rejection came from Minnesota, Nebraska, Iowa, North Dakota and South Dakota.

Support Truman In '48? Too Early To Say—Wallace

WASHINGTON (P)—Henry A. Wallace roared with laughter yesterday at a suggestion that President Truman anticipates his support in 1948 and declared "It's too early to say about that."

Asked whether he plans to join with Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) to head a third party in the presidential election, he said that "we'll make a rendezvous next year to see about that. I still hope the Democratic party will become the liberal party. If not, there will have to be some steps taken—no doubt about that."

And as to his own political ambitions, if any, he said that "the only question of my running for office would be to benefit peace in the world, and if it would do that I would run as hard as I could."

More than 100 newsmen crowded Wallace's headquarters at an apartment house and the gathering became so large that it was shifted to a larger room.

The last minute shift of rooms brought a statement from the Mutual Broadcasting system here that "this was a maneuver to foil the recording" of the conference planned by Mutual and National broadcasting company crews who had set up apparatus in the first room.

Mutual reported that when its crew placed a microphone before Wallace in the new location, he put it on the floor, placed his left foot upon it and remonstrated: "This is a press conference, sir! I make it a rule not to mix radio with press interviews."

Wallace accused Mr. Truman of giving the United Nations "the run around" in advocating military aid for Greece and Turkey, and declared "I don't

Capital Plans Big Hello for Mexican President

WASHINGTON (P)—The nation's capital laid out its biggest and brightest welcome mat yesterday for President Miguel Aleman of Mexico.

Aleman is scheduled to arrive at 3 p.m. central standard time, today aboard President Truman's private plane, the "Sacred Cow."

It is a good will visit primarily, but it might result in a loan to aid Mexico's postwar industrialization.

Government officials estimate that between 200,000 and 250,000 persons will turn out to greet the 43-year-old Mexican chief of state.

Washington's streets were decorated yesterday with crossed U.S. and Mexican flags. The Air Transport Command terminal of the Washington National airport where Aleman will land is bedecked with red, white, blue and green bunting.

A full schedule has been arranged for Aleman's two and a half days in Washington. He will address a joint session of congress Thursday, lay a wreath on the tomb of the unknown soldier and stay at the White House as President Truman's guest tonight.

Diplomatic authorities say the Aleman visit, which includes New York City, West Point, Chattanooga, Tenn., and Kansas City, Mo., will serve to solidify already cordial U.S. relations with Mexico.

They add that President Aleman, despite the full schedule, probably won't be too busy to talk business with President Truman and other officials.

The youthful president of Mexico is returning a call made last month in Mexico by President Truman. Mexico City went all out in its enthusiasm for Mr. Truman and Washington officials have sought to build up a similar welcome for "Don Miguel."

CIO Accepts 15-Cent Raise From IHC

CHICAGO (P)—The CIO United Farm Equipment and Metal workers, following a nationwide pattern established by workers in the steel, electrical and automobile industries, last night accepted a 15-cents-an-hour wage increase offered by the International Harvester company.

The union, largest among Harvester employees, said it had accepted the general wage increase of 11 1/2 cents-an-hour proffered by the company earlier yesterday but added that no contracts had been signed pending negotiations on "other issues."

The farm equipment announcement confirmed an earlier statement by U.S. Conciliator Glenn Flesman who sat in on negotiations between the company and the union which represents 30,000 production and office workers in ten Harvester plants.

Flesman added that the union also had accepted "in principle" an offer for six paid holidays which, in effect, amounts to a 3 1/2 cents-an-hour increase. He said both parties were still negotiating on "the application" of the holidays clause.

The company had made the offer to 62,000 employees in 21 factories, represented by 11 unions, and said it would not affect current prices of Harvester products, although a price reduction on most lines was announced last month.

Harvester officials said the offer, if accepted by all unions, would cost the company an estimated $25,000,000 annually and would represent about 8 1/2 percent increase above present wages.

Threatened Gag on Voice of America

The heavy hand of economy seems about to throttle the voice of America. Last week the house appropriations subcommittee by wielding the power of the purse killed the state department's office of international information and cultural affairs (OIC).

Unless the senate restores the appropriations, the curtain will be rung down June 30 on one of the most promising worldwide selling projects ever attempted by any nation.

Designed to send the message of America to all parts of the globe, the program was launched last year by executive order. In its first year of operation, the agency set up information outlets in 67 countries. To spread the gospel of democracy abroad, the OIC currently maintains a staff of 2,861 persons here and overseas.

Not the least important is the broadcast beamed to the Soviet Union. The broadcast was started in February and supplements the Russian language magazine, America, which is distributed in that country.

The decision to kill the information agency points up very clearly the dangers in-involved in our government's new international stop-communism policy.

There seem to be two ways the so-called Truman Doctrine can be implemented. We can attempt to halt the spread of communism by making it suffer by comparison with democracy. By expanding the operations of the OIC, we can give the confused, harassed peoples of the world an opportunity to learn about the American way of life. This is the same, logical, positive approach. This is the safe approach.

Or we can attack the problem of communism in a negative fashion. We can become so obsessed with the idea of containing the ideology that we make no attempt to promote the democratic ideal. We can tell the world it must not accept communism, yet giving it no opportunity to learn about democracy.

The house appropriations subcommittee seems to think that this latter approach is the better. We can only hope that when the senate takes up the matter it realizes that loss of the OIC brings us one step closer to the use of the atomic bomb in the battle of ideologies.

A Well Earned Opportunity

When Dr. Wilbur Schramm departs for his new job as head of the communications research institute at the University of Illinois, he will be leaving us with a couple of mixed emotions.

Of course, we are happy for him. His outstanding success as director of the Iowa school of journalism these past four years has made him more than deserving of this new opportunity.

At Illinois, Dr. Schramm will try to mold an institute which will contribute to our knowledge of the press, radio and motion pictures. He has long been interested in learning and teaching how these media can best serve our society, and can be counted upon to devote to this cause the same enthusiasm, ability and boundless energy which marked his work here.

However, our happiness for his new opportunity necessarily bears a tinge of sorrow for ourselves, the school, the university and the state. It will be difficult to replace a man of his calibre.

He has laid a foundation in journalism here. We can only hope to continue building on that foundation.

They Should Have Known Grandma

We see in the news where a mental patient known as "Music Master X" has regained his faculties in the past year to the extent where he now prefers Bach to Chopin. This is of great interest to the psychiatrist and perhaps to the musicians of the country—but it leaves us cold.

It happens that a tone deafness has haunted our family from the time Grandma blew the trombone in Father's ear. Since that time, Father has never been able to tell the difference between notes. Of course, he always had Mother there to remind him that he didn't know "do, re, mi," about anything anyway.

To get back to the mental patient, the doctors say in analyzing his case that there is a special significance in his choosing Bach over Chopin. Bach, they say, is more virile. That may be, but there is really nothing more virile than Grandma's trombone.

It was always her not-so-secret grief that she was unable to raise a mustache. "A mustache," she used to say wistfully, "is the best thing to strengthen a trombonist's lip." Her statement has more significance than might appear on the surface. It explains so many things—including Jerry Colonna. Grandma was as virile, in her slyphorn way, as Man Mountain Dean.

Commenting on the case of the mentally deficient musician, the doctors revealed that "X" had progressed to the point where he is now able to choose, rather than have to be told, what to perform. This is amazing in "X's" case. Grandma could never take musical suggestions. A hint that a glissando was too forte would bring the world (and perhaps a trombone) down around the offender's ears.

"A year ago he could play the piano but he could not coordinate his mind and hands enough to turn the pages of his music," one of the doctors said.

Grandma didn't know one note from another. She knew first, second and third trombone passages from "Semper Fidelis," "Chicago Tribune," and "Lazarus' Trombone," and what she didn't know, she played anyway. Maybe the doctors should examine Grandma.

Among the things we must practice is that while we seek fervently to ferret out the subversive and anti-democratic forces in the country, we do not the same time, by hysteria, by resort to innuendo and smears, and other unfortunate tactics, besmirch the very cause that we believe in, and cause a separation among our people.—DAVID E. LILLIENTHAL.

Everywhere in Latin America today I found fear, unrest, and uncertainty—including Jerry Colonna. Grandma was as virile, in her slyphorn way, as Man Mountain Dean. Commenting on the case of the mentally deficient musician, the doctors revealed that "X" had progressed to the point where he is now able to choose, rather than

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT Can't Have Franco And Freedom Too

By SAMUEL GRAFTON New York Post Syndicate

It is one of the axioms of conservative thinking that security means death, that unless Americans are willing to live dangerously, taking their chances on occasionally being out of work, or going broke, our system will speedily lose its hormones and degenerate into flabby incompetence. I have heard many a fine old crusted conservative denounce the doctrine of security from the cradle to the grave as an immense threat to growth and freedom, and I have seen the pattern of veins on the nose grow purple as the speaker has called on us to keep alive the spirit of adventure.

What is hard to understand, however, is how these same adventure-loving people can believe that our system can live safely forever behind a screen of Greek and Turkish and Spanish and reaction, that it can cuddle up on the lee side of this new global social security plan, so to speak, and be proof against all winds. Are we to live dangerously only within our system, and is our love for taking chances to stop short at the edges?

To set Spain really free, and Greece, too, and to take whatever risks are involved, would seem to be the equivalent, in international affairs, of that kind of invigorating freedom our conservatives recommend to us for our domestic activities. It seems to me that for a free people to coddle themselves behind a Franco may be more perilous than for a free people to coddle themselves behind unemployment insurance. Franco may even be worse than hot school lunches as an example of reliance on an instrumentality filled with potentially deadening effects on our love for freedom.

outside, for a system which proposes to thrive on a doctrine of insecurity within, seems somehow contradictory. The thought appears to be that within our system, men must brace themselves to endure the strokes of fate and circumstance, and must run the risks of sometimes going unemployed, or of living through a recession, all for the sake of their moral health; but that the system as a whole can be wrapped snugly in a blanket made up of fascist rags and banners, pieced out with dollars.

It is somehow hard to believe in that blanket, and it might be safer if the conservative dogma about living dangerously were to be exported, at least to the point of freeing Greek political prisoners, broadening the government, refusing support to the throne and setting up a free Greece to take its chances in a chancy universe.

What ought to be at least as good for freedom's morale and as rich in liberty vitamins as it is to run the risk of being unemployed here at home, a danger we are often counseled to embrace for the sake of political health.

If we do not work along this line, the Greek program may come to look like reaction's social security, a departure from the strict tenets of freedom for the sake of a probably unreliable bit of reassurance against Russia. Part of our moral trouble today is based on the fact that we do not agree on what freedom means, but the confusion is never so manifest as when we export aid to repressionists for the purpose of saving liberty within.

GRAFTON

Men who hesitate to embrace, say, crop control ought to have even more qualms about folding the present Greek government to their hearts; it is obviously even less democratic, and not nearly as pretty.

What price adventure now? The whole concept of trying to erect a rigid, total security, from the

Moscow Censor Back on Job

(Wes. Gallagher, chief of The Associated Press staff in Germany, has returned to Berlin from Moscow, where he assisted in reporting the foreign ministers conference.)

By WES GALLAGHER BERLIN (AP)—The Moscow censor is back on the job.

For a few weeks, during the foreign ministers' conference, he didn't have much to do. Under agreement among the governments, the censor did not function on conference copy. The plan worked well for most of the conference, but the tempers of visiting reporters and Soviet officials were becoming a bit frayed when the meeting adjourned.

Generally speaking, the foreign ministers conference was reported from Moscow just as it would have been in Paris, London or New York. For five weeks all copy marked "CFM" moved rapidly and in full via cable to the United States and Great Britain.

Then it suddenly started to take anywhere from four hours to nine in transmission. This situation coincided with Soviet foreign office complaints to American and British authorities that some copy was being improperly marked "CFM."

Opening the conference, the Soviet foreign office notified the American, British and French delegations that any conference copy should be so marked and it would not be scrutinized nor delayed in telegraph offices. All other copy would have to pass through the regular censorship, the foreign office said.

It was left up to the correspondents to decide what was and what was not "CFM." However, two copies had to be submitted and it was apparent one copy was for censorship after the story had moved.

The Russian foreign office made only two complaints on United States copy in the opening days. One was that a story on department store prices had been marked "CFM" and another that a story on United States security measures had been so marked. The American press department defended the security story as legitimate CFM copy and apologized for the other. However as the conference waxed hotter and tempers shorter more complaints were made by the Soviets that this or that British, American or French story was not properly conference copy.

The climax was reached when one American agency telephoned a press conference with ex-Governor Harold Stassen of Minnesota on his interview with Stalin without submitting it to censorship.

The day after this happened the women supervisors at the telegraph offices started turning back copy which they did not think was "CFM" although so marked.

They denied they were censors. They said they were just readers and had instructions to demand an extra copy of any story they did not feel was conference material and send to censorship.

Asked their definition of conference copy they replied "anything that takes place in the ministers session."

Sometimes no extra copies were demanded but the story took nine or 10 hours to get to the United States and five or six to England where it had been taking one or two hours.

Since telephone calls remained "unhampered" most correspondents used this means of filing their stories and it did not materially affect the bulk of copy.

It was apparent from the increasingly angry denunciations of American and British correspondents in the official Communist paper Pravda that the allied press was irritating Soviet officials.

The Soviet press played the conference straight for the opening weeks and usually gave a fairly full text of all the meetings. Exchanges in which American, British or French delegates bested the Soviet representative were frequently skipped, however.

Any point which Molotov might make on reparations of Germany was frequently commented on and written time and again by Soviet commentators giving an "interpretation" of developments.

Russia Closes Borders to Comrade Cupid

By JAMES D. WHITE AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Russia will gain no friends and may lose a good many by closing the Soviet border to Comrade Cupid.

Apparently no Russian girl married to a foreigner is being allowed to leave the country. Several countries, including the United States, have tried comparable policies which sooner or later had to be changed because they proved inhuman and unworkable. Moscow apparently overlooks this. It has allowed only ten exit visas in the past two years to Russians who wanted to join foreign husbands abroad, and now seems to be withholding them altogether.

Recently the British tried to get 15 Russian wives out for their husbands, who were British Servicemen. The Kremlin said no.

Now it comes out that there are roughly 1,100 cases of Americans in the same fix. This is no explanation as to why we hear about it at this late date.

Perhaps Soviet censorship is responsible, but if so the American embassy in Moscow must have reported to the state department the 17 refusals it has had on these cases during the past two years from the Soviet foreign office. Maybe the state department has given out the figures on the story before, but if so the American press has overlooked a story of much human interest.

In its latest effort, the Kremlin embassy picked 15 cases of Russian wives whose American husbands were embassy code clerks or servicemen. Even these, with their real or fancied special status, were turned down by the Kremlin.

Letters to the Editor: Says Students Voted For Big Names

(Once received, letters to the editor become the property of this newspaper and we reserve the right to edit them or withhold them altogether. Unsigned letters will not be published. Views expressed in letters do not necessarily represent those of The Daily Iowan.—The Editor.)

TO THE DAILY IOWAN:

In my statement giving the reasons for my withdrawal from the campaign for delegate at large on the student council, I cited the lack of interest on the part of students and the farcial aspect that the campaign had taken as the principal reasons for my doing so. After viewing the results of the recent election, I have become even more strongly convinced that this state of condition exists, and possibly even more so than I had thought of.

The winner of the "Tailfeathers" award was H. Wilkinson, and he obviously deserved it. But, this same H. Wilkinson won with ease the post of student council delegate at large. With the skeleton platform, and with the small amount of publicity that he had, it is a wonder that he managed to receive the huge plurality that he did, or is it?

Could it be possible that many of the students voted for this candidate merely because of his basketball exploits? Could it be possible that many of our Iowa Coeds scanned the newspapers for the pictures of candidates, and chose the one with the "cute wavy hair"? Could it be possible that many of our students glanced quickly at the ballot, put an X in the box next to their friends name, and then took for their second choice the name that they had seen most frequently, be it in a box-core or on a sports page?

The answer to the above questions, is merely one more question, "Could it be possible that the State University of Iowa will have the same sort of student government that they have had during the past two years?"

'Tooting Three' Rouse East Hall With Hymn
With strains of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" resounding through the basement of East hall one afternoon last week, late stayers at The Daily Iowan were entertained by three aspiring musicians from the speech department.

Played in three-part harmony on tonettes, the music was a welcome relief from the rattle of typewriters.

Fearing repercussions for coming out in the open with their suppressed desires to be musicians, the trio refused to reveal their names for publication.

All the same, their rendition proved that it is no longer necessary for a king to call up his fiddlers three. These three just fiddle for the fun of it.

Lapsed GI Policies Convertible to New Insurance Plans

Yesterday marked the beginning of "GI Insurance Week," a concerted effort by Iowa City veterans organizations and service agencies to "sell" GI insurance to veterans in Iowa City.

Fred Roberson, insurance underwriter, has been named by Mayor Preston Koser to head the information program which will run until Saturday noon.

The veterans' and service organizations, including the Red Cross and commercial insurance agencies, have donated their time to give information on how lapsed GI insurance can be reinstated.

Easily Reinstated
For a limited time, veterans can reinstate lapsed National Service life term insurance merely by paying two monthly premiums and signing a statement that they are in as good health as when the policy lapsed, according to William Doherty, head of the Veterans Administration Contact office here.

Roberson cited the privilege of lump sum payments to beneficiaries as one of the many new features of the NSLI act as recently amended by congress.

"In addition, the GI may convert his term insurance to various types of endowment policies, and there is also the added feature of disability income for permanent and total disability available at a low extra premium," Roberson said.

Many Have Dropped
"Veterans in this area have dropped thousands of dollars worth of GI insurance. Though they may not realize it now, some day they will be sorry."

"During the coming week, there will be an opportunity to reinstate that insurance by a very simple procedure. No veteran should miss it," he said.

Totals of GI Insurance Reinstated Published

A total of $455,000 worth of GI insurance was reinstated between March 26 and April 25 at the VA contact office here, according to William Doherty, head of that office.

This is $325,000 more than in the previous period which began Feb. 26, but far less than the amount of $1,980,000 reinstated between Dec. 26 to Jan. 25. Between this last date and Feb. 25, $710,000 was reinstated.

The number of veterans interviewed since March 26 was 252, which is 180 more than called at the contact office in the previous period. The number interviewed between Dec. 26 to Jan. 25 was 1,036. The number between that date and Feb. 25 was 856.

Amounts of insurance converted during the same periods are: Dec. 26 to Jan. 25, $298,500; Jan. 26 to Feb. 25, $160,000; Feb. 26 to March 25, $248,000, and March 26 to April 25, $868,000.

William J. Jackson Chosen New President Of Holy Name Society

William J. Jackson has been appointed president of the Holy Name society for the Iowa City deanery, it was announced here Sunday.

Appointment of the Iowa City attorney is the first time since the war caused discontinuance of the organization. Designed to reorganize chapters in this area of the nation-wide society for Catholic men, the local meeting was one of six held in recent weeks in the Davenport diocese.

The Rev. Edward W. Neuzil, pastor of St. Wenceslaus church and spiritual director of the deanery, made the appointment which, because of his absence, was read by the Rev. J. P. Hines, assistant pastor of St. Wenceslaus.

Aged St. Mary's Clock Chimes On After 62 Years Still Strikes Quarter Hours

By RICK TIMMINS

The time is 12 o'clock midnight. Through the stillness of the night, the resonant chiming of St. Mary's clock breaks the tranquility of the mid-spring evening.

To many the chimes are unnoticed, but 96 times a day the hours and quarter hours are heralded by the striking of the timepiece. Much of the lore concerning the clock has been lost through the years, but a few facts are still recorded about its existence.

The clock was built and installed about 1885 by its inventor, J. Barorka of Iowa City. The cost of the clock at that time was $1,750.

The clock itself is separate from the mechanism that controls the hands. Placed many feet below the clock, this mechanism is housed in a small room to shelter it from the elements. It is a series of cables and cogs leading from the housing to the clock controlling the speed of the hands as they revolve.

Supposedly it's an eight-day clock, but the caretaker of the church, Leonard Belger, hesitates to let it unwind to that extent. Winding of the hour and quarter hour sections of the clock usually takes about ten minutes to complete and is done by placing a crank on a shaft and winding the cable onto a reel. Care has to be taken when the clock is being wound because the striking of the clock sets part of the mechanism into action.

Once the clock has stopped, there is no way to reset it until the same hour rolls around again. However, it does have a regulator to keep it from gaining or losing time. The adjustment is made by using a pipe wrench to loosen or tighten a large screw on the top of the works.

Very little maintenance work is needed to keep the clock in running order. However, cables must be oiled and grease placed on the cogs of the works about once a month to keep them running smoothly. Other than that the old clock runs unattended.

Iowa Society Grants Speech Clinic $1,475 For Summer Work

The Iowa Society for Crippled Children and the Disabled has granted $1,475 to the University of Iowa Speech clinic summer program, Mrs. Dorothy Phillips, executive secretary, said yesterday.

She said these funds were allocated from contributions received by the society during this year's Easter seal sale.

Because of this grant, many additional children will be able to attend the clinic this summer, she said. Last year, the society granted a similar fund and 67 instead of 20 children were able to attend the clinic.

The clinic, beginning June 15 and ending July 25, will provide corrective instruction for stuttering, voice articulation disorders, retarded speech, harelip and cleft palate disorders, cerebral palsied (spastic) children, and those with impaired hearing.

Funds will be used to provide dormitories for the children, secure matrons and house mothers, equipment and personnel needed to take care of the children.

Dormitories will be located at 8 and 12 East Bloomington street where they were last summer.

"Only other facilities available for quartering children attending private homes in Iowa City, are the clinic," said Mrs. Phillips, "are the number available is insufficient."

"The children who will get the chance to receive this wonderful care and clinic this summer are all grateful to the people of Iowa who contributed money to the Easter Seals campaign," she said.

Chicago Institute to Show University Print Works At Special Display

A special exhibition of prints by students in the University print group will be held at the Chicago Institute of Art from May 2 through June 8.

A private showing will be given in an adjoining gallery for the works of Prof. Mauricio Lasansky.

In his invitation Carl O. Schniewind, the Chicago institute's curator of prints and drawings, called Iowa "the most progressive graphic art school in the country."

"It will be a great pleasure to have your work here and to give the Chicago public an opportunity of seeing it," he said.

Some of the student prints to be shown in Chicago have been in as many as 15 professionally competitive exhibitions. These include shows by the Library of Congress, the Association of American Artists in New York and the San Francisco Museum of Art.

Lasansky's works are represented in most of the major museums and private collections throughout the nation.

The University print group dates from 1945 when Lasansky came to the University.

Hawkeye Villagers Stage Cleanup Campaign Week

Man's eternal struggle with nature, and the ravages on nature by civilization, is being highlighted this week in Hawkeye village.

April 27 to May 3 has been designated as "cleanup week" and during this period the villagers will attempt to beautify their natural environment, according to Bill Fulton, campaign chairman.

They will assault the village area with rakes, brooms, hoes and shovels, Fulton said, in an effort to remove the winter's accumulation of bottles, trash, cans and paper.

Further communiques on the progress of the battle will be issued during the week-long battle, Fulton added.

PUZZLE: can you put the man in the boat?

Here is a man hard at work. See him frown. He wishes he were somewhere loafing. Retired for good. Catching a big fish, maybe.

Can you put him in the boat? You can do it simply by making two folds in this newspaper.

The answer is below: Perhaps you would like to retire, too? Achieving this is a little more difficult. You cannot do it by folding a newspaper. It is necessary to have folding money. The way to collect this useful material is by regular purchase of U. S. Savings Bonds, which give you back $4 for every $3 invested.

The easiest way to buy them is through Payroll Savings. Get on this Plan. Stay on this Plan. It is the only way most of us can ever hope to take life easy, like the man in the picture.

ANSWER: Fold line A down to join line B. Then fold line C down to join line D.

Must Re-Educate Germany's Youth Haefner Asserts

If Germany is to accept democracy rather than communism, America must re-educate the German youth, Prof. John H. Haefner asserted yesterday.

Unless we start from the ground up in establishing an educational system in Germany we will lose the ideological war which the Russians are successfully waging in their occupation zone, he warned.

Speaking to the home economics club of his recent trip to Germany, Haefner declared that the Russians are spending 10 times as much on education in Germany as we are and are printing textbooks at the rate of 6000 per hour.

Read Russian Magazines

The Germans crave contact with the rest of the world, Haefner stated. They read avidly Russian literature comparable to our "slick" magazines because it is available to them in large quantities.

Haefner also stated that "Germans are fed up with the results of Nazism but will not accept democracy unless it proves itself."

"Germany must be oriented in our direction, and only through revision of our military personnel system will this be possible," he continued.

Three Bottlenecks

Three bottlenecks hinder us from accomplishing our educational objectives, according to Prof. Haefner are:

- 1) Conflicting relationships between American military and civilian occupation personnel.
- 2) A military government too small for the job it has to do.
- 3) Failure to let the state department supervise occupation.

"Germany frowns on the present system of American deNazification and fears the Soviets will consider the Germans collaborators if Russia ever occupies the American zone," he said. In order to combat this he thinks we should appropriate more money to keep American personnel in Germany.

Another thorn in the German side, according to Haefner, is the fact that American military police have taken over some German schools as living quarters and many dependents of the occupation forces are living in some of the better German homes.

Free Day Nursery To Serve Children Of Graduate Nurses

A free day nursery for children of graduate nurses employed at University hospitals is now being established, according to Gerhard Hartman, superintendent of University hospitals.

"The need for graduate nurses is more urgent today than ever, and it is felt that by providing this nursery school, many nurses who have graduated and who are now mothers will be able to re-enter their profession," Hartman said.

To be located at Westlawn nurses' residence, the nursery will be entirely free and will include necessary medical and nursing supervision.

Mrs. Gelia Clyde, acting director of nursing service said: "Many graduate nurses are eager to aid in the present nurse shortage but cannot due to lack of facilities for care of their children."

"We feel the nursery will provide a strong incentive to many of these women to return to their profession."

Interested nurses in this vicinity should contact Mrs. Clyde by calling University hospitals, extension 292.

Plumbing Contract End Brings Worry Of Barracks Delay

With the original completion date of May 1 just two days off, work at the university's 680-unit barracks-apartment project is virtually at a standstill.

Officials at the site estimate the project is only about 80 percent completed, which is about the stage reached at the time of the April 1 wage-negotiation walk-out of many of the workers.

Expires May 1

Added slowdown for contract negotiations may take place when the plumbers' labor contract expires May 1, said an unconfirmed report.

Involved in the negotiations between building trades unions and construction interests in Cedar Rapids are the cement finishers, iron workers and laborers at the project.

Project carpenters have been unable to work since April 4 due to the absence of the laborers.

Also Halted

Work on the 25-unit barracks-classroom project on east campus has also been halted since April 1. Both these projects are contracted by Metcalf-Hamilton Construction company of Kansas City, Mo.

R. D. Sharp, project manager for the company, could not be contacted yesterday for comment upon the labor situation.

May Basket Flowers Bring Romantic Notes

By ROSEMERRY EASTLACK

Iowa City school children will be hanging May baskets once again this year. Some kindergarten classes are in the process of making them now, and other children are already making up their lists.

Most May baskets contain flowers and a few pieces of candy. The baskets are made from wall paper, construction paper, and even discarded boxes and baskets. Children are busily making plans and promises to their close friends about the surprise basket.

How long has it been since you sat down and constructed a May basket of flowers and candy? And just what kind of flowers would you put in the basket if you were making one?

According to the Society of American Florists there are some modern meanings to the century-old language of flowers. We all know that daisies won't tell, but when someone says it with orchids or gardenias they simply are saying "To a lovely lad."

But what do the other flowers say? When you receive a red rose the sender is saying "I love you," and when it's a white rose the message reads "You're heavenly!" "I'll always remember" is the message for tea roses. Flowery speech in pink roses say "Please believe me" while "Try to care" comes with yellow roses.

But the quickest way to get out of the dog house is to forward a purple hyacinth with the message "Please forgive me."

You're the man most likely to succeed

Hawkeye Nine Hits Road For Irish, Michigan Tilts

Need Wins Over Wolverines To Recapture Big Nine Lead

Iowa's baseball forces could move back into the No. 1 spot in the Western conference race this week end providing Northwestern and Illinois cooperate.

The Hawkeyes leave today for South Bend where they will play Notre Dame tomorrow and Thursday and then go on to Ann Arbor for an all-important loop series with Michigan Friday and Saturday.

A sweep of the Michigan series would assure Iowa of second place in the conference and if the Wildcat-Illini series ends in a split the hawks will be out in front.

Currently Illinois is leading the pack with five wins in six tries while Northwestern has three wins in as many games. Iowa is in third with a 3-1 record—the only loss being the 5-4 11 inning beating meted out by Wisconsin last Saturday.

Coach Otto Vogel has plans of using Bob Faber, winner of four games this season—two in the conference, and Wes Demro, the lad who allowed Wisconsin only three hits in nine innings as a relief pitcher, against Michigan.

For the Notre Dame series Jack Bruner will probably go tomorrow with Roy Stille ready for duty Thursday.

Hawkeye batting power is still at a high level with the squad averaging at .236 with Don McCarty, third baseman, the leading hitter with .400. Jack Dittmer, freshman second baseman, and Doc Dunagan, shortstop, follow closely with .360 and .340 respectively.

At Ann Arbor Iowa will run into a team that has had fair success out of the conference this season but dropped a game series to first place Illinois last week.

In a nine game southern jaunt Michigan wound up with a 5-4 record and then came home to jolt Notre Dame 11-10 and Western Michigan, a team Iowa beat 14-3, 7-6.

However, Wolverine coach Ray Fisher has a top hurler in 27-year old Cliff Wise, an ex-G.I. who was one of the Big Nine's leading chucksers last spring.

On Saturday Fisher may throw another right hander, Dick Schmidtke, or a lefty, Wal Rankin, at the Iowa hitters.

The rest of the Wolverine lineup sounds like a squad roster from last year's football team. Fullbacks Wiese and Jack Weisenburger will be in right field and at shortstop, respectively, Bumps Elliott, half-back, plays center field; and Don Tomasi, guard, is the second baseman.

Nebraska Wins, 12-3

AMES (AP)—Nebraska's hard hitting Cornhuskers trounced Iowa State's Cyclones here Monday, 12-3, in the first of a two-game baseball series. The victory gave the Huskers undisputed possession of first place in the Big Six, with 4 wins and 2 losses.

Zale-Graziano Bout Awaits State Okay

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP)—The "Hot Potato" middleweight title bout between champion Tony Zale and Rocky Graziano will be held at Wrigley field on Wednesday, July 16—if it can hurdle a brewing state legislative challenge.

The Illinois athletic commission yesterday approved the date and the 54,000-capacity site for the much-discussed return bout between Zale and rugged Graziano, who is under suspension in New York state for failing to report a $100,000 bribe offer.

The Illinois commission on April 18 sanctioned the bout, a natural, but unwanted in New York City where Zale got off the floor to retain his title against Graziano last September. Since then, the Chicago bout has drawn the fire of three Illinois state senators.

The legislative trio on Wednesday will submit a resolution to the state executive committee directing the athletic commission to rescind its approval of the return brawl.

If the resolution is favorably received, the sponsors, including Peter J. Miller of Chicago, former commission secretary, will prepare a bill to bar an Illinois appearance by a fighter under suspension or suspension in any other state.

The New York commission's suspension of Graziano, however, is not recognized by the National boxing association of which Illinois is a member.

Zale already has opened training here for his title defense while Graziano is expected to set up camp soon. Their thrilling New York battle attracted a gross gate of $342,000 from 30,000 patrons.

Irvine Schoenwald, who with Arthur Wirtz, manager of the Chicago stadium corporation, will promote the title scrap, told the commission yesterday that price scales will be worked out at a later date.

Wirtz, when the bout first was approved, said he intended to keep the duet fees at a reasonable level "for the average fan who pays the freight." A half-million dollar gate is regarded a certainty at Wrigley field which has a baseball capacity of 45,000 and can be rigged for some 9,000 more for boxing.

Virgil Trucks Sued

CLEVELAND (AP)—Virgil Trucks, Detroit Tigers pitcher, yesterday was sued for $32,500 damage in common pleas court here by Charles F. Heidler of Cleveland Heights.

Heidler charged he was beaten and kicked by Trucks in a Hotel Statler corridor here last Sept. 20.

Six Derby Nags Enter 'Jinx' Run

MacPhail Gets 'Word' From Happy Thursday

CINCINNATI (AP)—Larry MacPhail, general manager of the New York Yankees, has a chat scheduled at 11 a.m. Thursday with baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler, and the betting (if such a word may be used in a baseball story) is that the voluble red-head will be listening instead of talking this time.

Chandler originally had ordered MacPhail along with Yankee Owner Del Webb and Dan Topping, to appear tomorrow for a conference, but that was changed yesterday after MacPhail announced he had a previous engagement, and Topping and Webb said they couldn't be here.

Under the new setup, MacPhail will confer alone with the commissioner, and Topping and Webb will be called later.

The Chandler-Yankee conferences are expected to center around rumors that MacPhail had not observed the commissioner's order silencing all hands after he had suspended Leo (The Lip) Durocher, Brooklyn Dodger Manager, for the 1947 season.

MacPhail was quoted as declaring that "Chandler didn't have sufficient ground on which to hand a five-minute suspension."

The Yankee general manager, also was quoted as saying he did not vote for Chandler for commissioner until the fifth or sixth ballot, although the impression was out that he was the man who backed the former Kentucky governor and clinched the berth for him.

Tales Of Woe Fails To Stop Hopefuls' Bid

By SID FEDER

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Trainers of six Kentucky Derby candidates—including five of the sure starters in Saturday's big heat—showed the folks yesterday that they're not superstitious by deciding to take a crack today at one of the more woeful derby jinxes—the derby trial.

No winner of the trial in all its ten-year history ever has gone on to pick up the derby pot.

For one of them this time—John's Pride, from the Brickleys (Ark.) barn of John A. Kinard, Jr.—the jinx didn't mean too much, because it is not considered likely that John has enough pride to enter the run for the roses. He's just not that much race horse.

But the other five—Faultless, Steppfather, Double Jay, Cosmic Bomb and Star Reward—all are brave young men for sticking their respective chins out in this manner, despite the fact there's a $9,075 paycheck waiting for the winner of the trial and that it's the last chance any of them have of polishing up their running shoes for the hundred-grand heat just four days ahead.

Faultless, for instance, is rated up there with Phalanx, as the horses any of the other expected 10 gallopers in the field will have to beat. Now, "Plain Ben" Jones insists jinxes don't worry him much but he explained that he won't decide definitely until this morning about whether the tall son of Bull Lea, even though he's entered.

Stepfather and Cosmic Bomb

Trout Blanks Tribe With 5-Hitter, 3-0

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians' new outfield fence was displayed for the first time yesterday but Dizzy Trout of the Detroit Tigers really fenced in the tribe by hurling a five-hit 3-0 shutout and slamming a home run.

The Tiger right-hander retired the side in order in five of the nine innings and drove in two of the three Bengal runs.

His third inning homer with none on sailed past the outfield fence and into the lower stands in left field. Trout dropped a single in center to send Pat Mullin in during a two-run Detroit rally in the eighth.

Red Embree allowed the Tigers only one run and three hits for six innings but weakened in the seventh and eighth when Detroit added its other two runs and five blows. Les Willis hurled the ninth after Embree retired for a pinch hitter.

The Indians threatened in the fourth and ninth. Dale Mitchell and manager Lou Durocher singled with one out in the fourth but Trout picked Mitchell off third for the second out and then forced Pat Seery to ground out.

Seery walked and Joe Gordon singled with two out in the ninth and Dick Wakefield then backed tight against the left field fence to take Keitner's long drive.

In 9 years of major league pitching Jim Bagby has won 92 games and lost the same number.

Had their final brief blowouts yesterday to sharpen up for the mile. Steppfather, the up-to-now $200,000 flopper, zipped the three eighths of a mile in an eyebrow-raising :35 3/5, while Cosmic Bomb, hope of New Orleans oil man Bill Helis and the early derby winter book favorite, was a second-slower.

 believe we can buy peace that way."
 Bitterly assailed by congressmen for his criticism abroad of United States foreign policy, Wallace said:
 "I didn't go to Europe to criticize U.S. foreign policy. I went to strengthen the hand of those people who want peace. I shall continue to fight."
 Wallace said he still thinks the United States should make "a very large loan to Russia at a low interest rate because she suffered such terrible devastation during the war," but said he never had mentioned a specific amount. He was quoted abroad as suggesting $10,000,000 to $17,000,000,000.
 Wallace went into a long explanation of the background of reports that he had attacked the United States for a policy of "ruthless imperialism." He said his comment was based on a Life magazine article dividing the world into two spheres.
 "I made it clear that I feared this might be a first step leading to ruthless imperialism," he said. Later, referring specifically to the Truman Greco-Turkish program, Wallace said:
 "I felt this program was dividing the world into two camps. There is a terrible danger all over Europe of people being split between the right and the left—a danger leading to civil war."
 Pressed to say flatly whether he believes United States foreign policy is responsible for dividing Europe into two camps, Wallace hesitated, then said:
 "No international situation is precipitated by any one country, but I do think U.S. policy particularly tends to affect France, where there is the gravest peril."

Poland, Britain In Trade Pact

LONDON (AP) — Poland and Great Britain have agreed to sign a $232,000,000 trade pact, it was disclosed yesterday, and a British diplomatic informant said the accord represented "a vast improvement" in relations between the two countries.

A board of trade spokesman who announced the agreement said under its terms Poland would accept an unfavorable balance in trade in exchange for a British decision to release $28,000,000 in Polish gold which it has held since the war.

The pact with Britain would represent the first time a country within the Soviet sphere of influence had signed a major trade accord with one of the "Big Three" western powers.

'The Woman in Red,' Dillinger's Nemesis, Dies in Romania

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — "The Woman in Red," who led John Dillinger into an FBI trap that resulted in the killing of America's Public Enemy No. 1 in Chicago 13 years ago, died last Friday in a quiet town in southwestern Romania, the Timisoara newspaper Vestul said yesterday.

Ana Cumpanas, known in the United States as Mrs. Anna Sage, was 56 years old at the time of her death and a legal autopsy showed that she had succumbed to a liver ailment.

Deported by the United States government in 1936, Mrs. Cumpanas returned to her native Romania where she made her home at Timisoara, leading the life of a well-to-do citizen.

Despite her relative opulence, the newspaper said, Mrs. Cumpanas maintained to the end of her life that U.S. federal authorities had "cheated" her out of the $170,000 reward for which, she contended, she had agreed to "put the finger" on Dillinger, whom she described as a former business associate. Her deportation was based on a conviction in Gary, Ind., of running a disorderly house.

She was credited with having pointed Dillinger out to FBI agents as he left a Chicago motion picture theater in 1934. Dillinger elected to battle it out with the G-Men and was shot and fatally wounded. Mrs. Cumpanas earned her soubriquet of "The Woman in Red" on that occasion because of the costume she wore.

Recommend Spending $11,400 For Ralston Creek Improvements

City Engineer Urges Four Changes Made

City Engineer Fred E. Gartzke recommended to the city council last night four improvements for Ralston creek costing an estimated total of $11,400.

Submitting a report requested by the council two weeks ago, Gartzke urged these changes:

(1) Construction of a 230-foot retaining wall 10 or 11 feet high extending south along the creek's east bank from the present bridge on Benton street. Cost would approximate $8,000.

(2) Straightening of the channel from the end of this curved wall to the creek bridge on Kirkwood avenue. Together with reinforcements along the bank, this would cost about $1,200.

(3) Realignment of the channel from College street to Evans street to eliminate a "bottleneck" retarding the flow of water. Estimated cost—$1,000.

(4) Erection of a new bridge over the creek at the end of Washington street at a cost of about $1,200.

According to the engineer, Ralston creek's "most urgent" requirement is the retaining wall and straightening between Benton street and Kirkwood avenue. He pointed out that the channel has eroded across South Linn to within 13 feet of a private residence. Alderman William H. Grandrath of the fifth ward called upon councilmen not to "hesitate any longer." Pointing out that a sidewalk and railing are about to be undermined in this locality, he said the city "may have a law suit on its hands if we don't do something soon."

Gartzke's report was referred to the special committee on Ralston creek.

Pass Cab Ordinance
The council last night also culminated a series of conferences with local taxi operators by passing a new ordinance to replace the one enacted last Feb. 10. The old ordinance was to have taken effect next Thursday.

Under the new measure, cab companies must carry $20,000 insurance policies for accidents involving injury to more than one person and $10,000 policies for accidents involving just one passenger. For accidental property damage, $5,000 policies must be carried.

License fees of $25 must also be paid for a company's first vehicle, with each additional cab requiring a $10 license. Individual $2 drivers' licenses demanded under the old ordinance were omitted from last night's measure, together with a requirement that drivers display photo cards in their cars.

Taxi men had protested the insurance provisions but the new law left these unchanged. Formerly, license fees were to be $100 for the first taxi and $15 for each additional one. Other general features of the taxicab ordinance were left unchanged.

New Radio Equipment
Police Chief E. J. Ruppert appeared before the council and requested prompt consideration of bids for new frequency modulation radio equipment to give the

THERE USED TO BE A STREET where Ralston creek now rounds a bend across South Linn (1) near the Benton street bridge. But the street has gradually gone down the Iowa river via Ralston creek and erosion, and now a sidewalk bordering it (2) is also on the verge. Fence posts already have been undermined, menacing a railing along the embankment. Also exposed by erosion is an old gas main (3), long out of use. Acting upon city council direction, City Engineer Fred Gartzke last night submitted recommendations on how these and other defects can be remedied. A retaining wall would line the creek bed for 230 feet and permit restoration of Linn street. Investigating the problem is a special council committee composed of Alderman W.H. Grandrath (chairman), Clark F. Mighell and Max S. Hawkins.

department improved coverage in this area. He said it may not be possible to get FCC approval of the desired wave length unless action is taken soon.

A council committee will investigate the matter.

Parking Tickets
Ruppert also pointed out that out-of-town motorists who park overtime outside of meter areas will not be given tickets if their registration cards are displayed so that police can see them. This information came after Alderman Charles T. Smith reported that merchants have requested "courtesy cards" for visitors, giving them special parking privileges.

Ruppert said this system is often "abused" and emphasized that if persons living three miles or more from Iowa City display registration cards visibly on their cars' steering shafts, they will not get overtime tickets for areas outside of downtown parking meter districts.

R.D. Mott Resigns
Robert D. Mott, superintendent of the local sewage disposal plant for nine years and employe there since 1936, submitted his resignation to the council. He attributed the request to the "health of my family which makes a change of climate advisable."

Accepting Mott's resignation, councilmen also received and filed an application for the position from M.F. Neuzil, who is now employed with a construction company in Davenport.

Notice of Injury
Council members also received a notice of injury from Mrs. Bessie E. Slade, who reported sustaining "permanent injury" in a fall caused by a "defective sidewalk" in front of 209 E. College street last March 15. Maintaining that the extent of damages cannot yet be ascertained because she is still undergoing treatment, Mrs. Slade advised the council to "take heed and govern yourselves ac-

The shortest recovery time of a reported stolen car went on record Sunday morning at the police station—two minutes flat.

Two minutes later a patrol car found it parked in the 100 block on E. Washington street. However, police say they are skeptical about the whole thing: was it stolen or misplaced?

Brigade Helps Firemen Quell Farm Blaze

A 20-man bucket brigade worked with local firemen to control a blaze which yesterday destroyed a hog house. Badly scorched a machine shed and damaged a corn crib at the home of Eldon A. Memler on Court avenue just east of the city limits.

Observers said the fire apparently started when either a cigarette or a spark from a tractor ignited husks as corn was being shelled.

Fanned by a brisk wind, the fire razed the hog house, damaged a corner of the corn crib with a quantity of corn and threatened a machine shed full of valuable implements.

About 20 neighbors manned a bucket brigade to keep flames from spreading further. Arriving at 2:40 p. m., the fire department saved the machine shed and extinguished the corn crib blaze. It took 20 minutes to bring the fire completely under control.

No estimate of property loss was available last night, pending a survey by insurance representatives.

Witnesses said that if the machine shed had ignited, the Memler home also would have been endangered. It was thought a number of young pigs may have been lost in the hog house fire.

Local firemen also answered two calls Sunday—one at 11:30 a. m. for a grass fire at College street and College court, the other at 1:30 p. m. when a discarded cigarette started a small blaze in wooden flooring of the condemned Benton street bridge. Damage was slight.

Cancer Drive Hits One-Tenth of Goal

Contributions to the Johnson county cancer drive have reached $300, according to Mrs. Lloyd Howell, county chairman.

She said today: "I have received contributions from 50 cents to $50 and they're all welcome. So far, contributions have run about $60 a day."

Mrs. Howell stressed that no house to house canvass would be conducted and that individuals could send their money to her address, 505 River street.

Money from the drive will be used to give free examinations to indigent patients, contribute to cancer research, provide public education to encourage periodic examination for cancer and for other purposes, she said.

The Johnson county goal is $3,000, and the drive will run into May.

VFW Encampment Elects Kelso, Shulman

Delegates from the 20 southeastern Iowa posts heard Frank Miles of Des Moines ask for an honorable and lasting peace at the Sunday night banquet at the Hotel Jefferson.

Officers elected by the group were: Robert Johnson, Fairfield, commander; John Wilson, Burlington, senior vice-commander;
