IOWA VET KILLED IN CRASH

THIS IS THE WRECKAGE of the light plane in which Emmert C. Emery, 25, of Perry, was killed Sunday evening when the plane crashed as he was practicing stunt maneuvers in company with Duane W. Adamson, manager of the Adamson airways in Perry. The two were preparing for air show appearances this summer. The body of Emery, a navy air veteran, was found wedged in the cockpit after the crash. Adamson, who was flying another plane, landed shortly before the crash. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Robert Penn Warren Wins Prize for Novel

NEW YORK (AP)—Eddy Gilmore, Associated Press foreign correspondent who is chief of the Moscow bureau, won one of the eight annual Pulitzer journalism prizes announced yesterday—the award for distinguished telegraphic reporting in international affairs. The gold medal for “the most disinterested and meritorious public service rendered by an American newspaper” during 1946 went to the Baltimore Sun for a series of articles by Howard M. Norton dealing with the administration of unemployment compensation. Four awards were made in the field of literature and one in music. No prize was given for a play, the judges apparently feeling that no production last year met with the criterion of an “original American play, performed in New York, which shall represent in marked fashion the educational value and power of the stage.”

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—The strike of 17,500 employees of the Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. in five midwest states was settled last night, Gov. Luther W. Youngdahl of Minnesota announced shortly before midnight (CST). The governor said an agreement had been signed between company officers and union representatives calling for $3.50 and $4 weekly pay raises, with the increase averaging $3.60. He reported the workers, members of the Northwestern Union of Telephone workers, would return to their posts in Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska and the two Dakotas at 7 a.m. (CST) today.

Howard L. Young, Iowa City branch manager of Northwestern Bell Telephone company, said he doubted if the company would get into full operation this morning, but expected full-scale operations to get underway by tonight. He said he believed that long distance calls in the five-state area, and in Illinois, where the strike has already been settled, could be handled rapidly by noon. The greatest difficulty he expected was in organizing shifts of workers on such short notice, and expected some delay in notifying workers that the strike had ended.

Franze Wille, local steward for the American Union of Telephone Workers, said the six long lines workers employed here would not return to work, since their union had not been party to the settlement. He said their notification of the end of the strike would come from union headquarters in Omaha.

In any event, he said, A.J. Pudgil, president of local 1411, National Federation of Telephone Workers, would receive first notice of strike negotiations having been completed.

At a late hour last night, Pudgil said he had not yet been notified by NFTW headquarters in Des Moines of the settlement. He expressed doubt that 105 local members of his union would be able to return to work by 7 a.m. today, as stated in the Associated Press dispatch.

Informed of the $3.60 average settlement figure, Wille commented that the agreement was “not too bad in view of the fact that Northwestern Bell is one of the lowest paying members of the Bell system.”

Both Wille and Pudgil said workers would be contacted as soon as possible after official notification of the strike's end came from union headquarters in Des Moines and Omaha.

Urge Senate Approval Of Greek Relief Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—The senate was asked by its foreign relations committee yesterday to approve President Truman's full $350,000,000 request for foreign relief despite house action cutting the fund to $200,000,000.

The committee declared the relief program “is indispensable to the success” of the president's proposal to give Greece and Turkey $400,000,000 financial and limited military aid to bolster those two countries against threats of Communism.

The committee said the Greek-Turkish aid proposal makes no provision for furnishing food, clothing and medical supplies to Greece and that relief to the Greek people is necessary if the program is to be successful.

Reduce Labor Department's Appropriations

WASHINGTON (AP)—With an economy coalition in control, the senate last night passed a labor department-federal security agency appropriation totalling $1,876,398,986—or about $100,000,000 less than President Truman asked. Earlier in the day, the house appropriations committee whacked $162,893,515, or 23 percent, off the president's budget for the state, commerce and justice departments and the federal courts. Senate approval of the other measure came after a combination of Republicans and southern Democrats had slapped down a series of amendments to increase funds for labor department agencies.

The house appropriations committee, in sharply cutting the other large bill, decreed a 22 percent reduction for the state department, including complete elimination of the “Voice of America” broadcasts and all other parts of the department's foreign cultural relations program.

Acting quickly, Secretary of State Marshall and Walter Bedell Smith, U.S. ambassador to Russia, joined the pleas to more than a score of congressional leaders of both parties to keep the “Voice of America” speaking, particularly to Soviet Russia.

Ambassador Smith, who arrived from Moscow Saturday for consultation, estimated that by 1950 Russia may have 7,500,000 short wave radio sets capable of receiving the U.S. broadcasts.

Forecast U.S. Aid To French Coalition On Anti-Red Basis

PARIS (AP)—A high ranking American official source said last night that the United States was preparing for possible increased aid to the tattered French economy provided Premier Paul Ramadier can hold together his new non-Communist coalition government.

This statement was made after a French cabinet minister asserted that President Truman's program for aiding democracies under threat of Communist domination had prompted Ramadier to oust the five French Communists in the cabinet.

The American source said top officials in the United States embassy were drawing up a detailed report on what sort of assistance the French regime would need and how much could be expected from the United States.

This source added that a decisive factor in America's readiness to throw her weight into a new bulwark against Communism in the west may be whether the French Socialists, Ramadier's party, want to become a vehicle for a new implementation of the so-called “Truman doctrine.”

The informant said that if the Socialist party machine consents to head an anti-Communist coalition, then Washington may be expected to lend a sympathetic ear to requests for help in maintaining Ramadier's economic policy of freezing wages, holding down prices and increasing production.

French officials said their immediate need was for wheat to maintain the current daily bread ration of 250 grams.

On the long term basis the French say they need more coal.

Izvestia Aims Blast at U.S. State Dept.

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW (AP)—Izvestia charged yesterday that the U. S. state department was backing reactionaries “who stimulate hostility toward the Soviet Union,” and accused Secretary of State Marshall of “slandering casting guilt” on Russia for the breakdown of the foreign ministers conference.

In a page-long editorial, the government newspaper also declared that Marshall had “deviated from the truth” in his radio report on the conference.

Many Russians make no secret of their belief that the state department has become generally anti-Soviet, but the Izvestia editorial was the closest that anyone has come to putting the belief on the record.

The editorial intimated that the alleged anti-Soviet sentiments went deeper than the state department, and quoted Senator Vandenberg as saying that Marshall's speech had been discussed, before its delivery, by Democratic and Republican leaders at the White House.

John Foster Dulles, Marshall's Republican advisor at the Moscow meeting, was accused of “also distorting facts” in his radio summation of the work of the conference.

Izvestia said that Marshall's speech had created the “wrong impression” and “serves reactionaries who are backed by the state department of the United States and stimulate hostility toward the Soviet Union.”

The prize for “a distinguished novel published during the year by an American author, preferably dealing with American life,” went to “All The King's Men,” written by Robert Penn Warren, a professor at University of Minnesota. The novel tells of the rise to power of a southern political leader.

Warren taught at the University of Iowa in 1941 as a visiting lecturer in the Writers' workshop and has returned to the campus frequently as a guest lecturer and consultant in the workshop.

Vaughn Shoemaker, Chicago Daily News cartoonist, won the award “for a distinguished example of a cartoonist's work published in an American newspaper during the year.”

He was the only individual winner this year to have received a Pulitzer prize previously; his other award was in 1938.

The prize for “an outstanding example of news photography” went to Arnold Hardy, Georgia Tech student and amateur photographer whose dramatic picture of a woman leaping to death in the Winecoff hotel fire in Atlanta last December was purchased and distributed by the Associated Press.

Other journalism prizes included:

“For distinguished correspondence during the year”—Brooks Atkinson of the New York Times, for a series of articles on Russia. Atkinson, formerly the Times' Moscow correspondent, has resumed his job as the paper's drama critic.

“For a distinguished example of telegraphic reporting on national affairs”—Edward T. Follard of the Washington Post for a series of articles on Columbians, Inc. “For distinguished editorial writing during the year (1946)—William H. Grimes of the Wall Street Journal.

“For a distinguished example of a reporter's work”—Frederick Woltman of the New York World-Telegram for articles on “the infiltration of communism into the United States.”

The advisory board, which made the recommendations to the university trustees for the prizes, also awarded a special citation to Columbia's graduate school of journalism and the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, whose former publisher, Joseph Pulitzer, was donor of the prizes.

The citation, in recognition of the 100th anniversary of the birth of Pulitzer, which occurred last month, and the 30th anniversary of the prizes, expressed the board's “gratitude to the university and to the school for their efforts to maintain and advance the high standards governing these awards.”

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch was mentioned in the citation “for its unwavering adherence to the public and professional ideals of its founder and its constructive leadership in the field of American journalism.”

The Post-Dispatch won the meritorious public service prize in 1937 and 1941.

180 Convicts Still at Large in Palestine

JERUSALEM (AP)—Palestine police manned gun-bristling road blocks last night all the way from Acre eastward to the green plains where the river Jordan flows, in search of more than 180 convicts reported still at large from explosion-shattered Acre prison.

Unofficial government sources said several fugitives from the ancient prison, whose walls were blasted open Sunday by some 30 members of the Jewish underground, were recaptured during the day. Twelve Arabs and 12 Jews were retaken a few minutes after the mass break, largest in mid east history, which was staged under cover of a slashing tommy gun attack.

Sixteen persons were killed either during or in connection with the attack, British announcements said. Of the dead, six were listed as members of the attacking party, four as Jewish prisoners, one as an Arab prisoner, and five as Jews who were shot to death when they refused to halt at a roadblock near Acre. Twenty others were wounded.

A Legacy of Life or Death

This is the story of a little girl named Betty Ann Wahl, age 19 months. She's much like most little girls her age, except for one thing—most little girls don't have a Daddy who works on an atom smasher.

Sometimes Betty Ann's father takes her to his office in the physics building while her mother teaches her math class. She plays while Daddy studies. Her favorite toys there are some old

She doesn't know what the atom smasher is or what it does. All she knows is that it's a lot of fun being inside it where you can watch the shiny pipes and your voice sounds funny when it comes back to you.

Another advantage she has over her Daddy is that she can crawl through the smallest opening at one end of the tank. Her Daddy probably wishes sometimes when he's crouched over working inside the smasher that he was as small as his daughter.

When Betty Ann stands next to the 50-foot-long atom smasher, you can hardly see her. The contrast somehow reminds one of Man, so small, facing the immense, complex problem of atomic energy.

Betty Ann thinks that this piece of machinery which she calls the "atom-massuh" is pretty big and wonderful, but she doesn't realize that it's even bigger than it looks. It's bigger for what proximity fuses—the same proximity fuses that brought death to hundreds of enemy soldiers during the war. To her, they're just toys—pretty fascinating ones at that.

And on days when her Daddy isn't too busy, he takes her way down underneath the physics building to see the atom smasher. Sometimes he even lets her inside it.

Her Daddy has to bend over when he's in the tank, but Betty Ann can stand quite comfortably except at the end where she has to be careful not to bump her head on the low hanging pipe.

it does, for what it means to Man. It is capable of producing a power that can give Man abundant life or total death, depending on what he does with it.

Betty Ann doesn't know that now, but someday she will. Someday she'll know what that tank is for . . . she and all the others like her—your kids and my kids.

And pretty soon our children will be asking us: "Now that we've got it, Daddy, what will we do with it?" They might just as well be asking: "Daddy, will we live or die?"

That's a question we'd better have an answer for—a good answer.

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT Democracy, Wealth Our Unused Assets

By SAMUEL GRAFTON
New York Post Syndicate

Like any institution, the United States of America must take account of its assets and figure them for what they are worth in helping to win the battle for life. One of our assets, not to use too refined an expression, is money; and when the house of representatives cuts our foreign relief fund from $350,000,000 to $200,000,000, it cuts us off from the use of our own strength. In effect, it ties one of our arms behind our back. To have it and not use it is almost the same as not having it.

Another of our assets, and a greater one, is democracy; but here, too, the obsessive fear of using what we have shows itself. We, the free nation, prepare to work with a decrepit monarchy in Greece, just as we, the rich nation, prepare to cut 43 percent from a carefully-determined minimum figure for foreign relief. We might almost as well be poor and undemocratic, so far as the view which a number of people are going to obtain of us is concerned.

Not to use what one has is almost like not being what one is. One wonders what sort of victory can be won in foreign affairs today by being untrue to type. The fact of our wealth is just that, a fact, and one of the merits of Mr. Wallace's proposal for a many-billion dollar reconstruction fund is that it includes and embraces this fact; it calls on the eagle to be an eagle, and not to pretend to be a fish.

In a world in which Communists use communism and socialists use socialism, democratic capitalism might reasonably be expected to use democracy and capital; but it is one of the contradictions of our approach to the world that we seem to want to do it some other way.

It is as if suddenly we had become alarmed; one can almost hear the sharp intake of breath, and the gasp. A year ago last December, the house of representatives voted, 327 to 39, to give $1,350,000,000 to foreign relief; last week the house voted, 225 to 165, to cut a relatively minor $350,000,000 appropriation to $200,000,000. The implied change of policy is much bigger than any saving involved. We are, in effect, standing on our heads for a dime; and the important thing in the end will not be the dime, but our posture.

When a change of this size takes place in so short a time, it ought to ring bells in any commentator's mind, for it is a genuine reversal, a true political upheaval, and not at all what it purports to be, a trim little economy measure.

It means that from now on we are going to try to do it the mousy way, playing it safe and small, trying to protect ourselves by shoring up little reactionary governments here and there, and cutting costs on the total endeavor by pinching where we can on foreign relief. Whatever the differences between Truman and the Republican majorities in congress, this will be the net of their joined efforts, a strangely coherent combined operation.

But a much smaller power could aim for this; and we are under-shooting the goal that could be peculiarly ours, and only ours, to be a massive center for freedom and hope, to which liberal movements could always turn with automatic confidence, and the hungry also. And if we do not act as such a center, we might almost as well not be one; to be is to act, and not to act is not to be. What do we expect the planet to cling to us for, our curly hair and our sparkling eyes?

Had I not done this, there certainly would be a new model car sitting in a garage now, getting a body repair job.

I don't know. Maybe I'm wrong in assuming the Iowan looks for things that could stand a lot of improvement, but the local traffic situation is certainly something to look into. Why should Iowa City have one of the highest insurance rates in the country? Why should it be dangerous to walk on the streets at night? May-be these few words will start somebody to thinking. I sincerely hope so.

Immediately after Easter vacation, I had occasion to drive a car through the Iowa City "loop" during a busy portion of the afternoon. And, it was not without apprehension. In fact, I was scared stiff.

I happened to be on the right side of a driver (woman) at a stop light. This lane is commonly used in larger cities for a right turn or for traffic going straight ahead. Yet, through some stray strange quirk of fate, the driver to my left made a right turn. Made a right turn did I say? She cut right like a hungry Boa would go after a fat bit of nourishment.

At the next corner, I followed an old trick of jumping a stop light.

Russians Work Feverishly to Rebuild and Produce

By JOHN HIGHTOWER

LONDON (AP) — The Russian people appear to be making prodigious efforts this spring to rebuild their war-wrecked cities and towns and to step up the production of their firms and factories.

Evidences of this show up not only in the press and periodic five-year plan progress reports but also are visible for hundreds of miles along the railway that runs from Moscow through Smolensk to Brest-Litovsk, Warsaw and Western Europe.

After seven weeks in Moscow at the foreign ministers conference, I have just completed a trip over this railway and on through Warsaw, Berlin, Brussels and Calais to London. I traveled on a special train with the British conference delegation, and the four-day journey provided a study in contrasts between the Soviet Union and Poland, Germany, France and England.

Generally, the trip showed that the Soviet Union, despite the driving power of its Communist leadership and its ambitious economic plans, has still a long road ahead before reaching the industrial development of the western nations and producing a population with the individual skills and initiative of the western peoples.

In Russia there are still countless tons of twisted steel wreckage of railroad cars, locomotives, rails, tanks and trucks rusting along the railway and beside the black earth of newly plowed fields. For scores of miles on the approaches to Smolensk, bomb pits, shallow trenches and caved-in dugouts spread over the pastureslands.

There is little livestock in the fields between Moscow and Brest-Litovsk. New houses being built in the white Russian countryside are almost entirely of the log cabin variety. Virtually no stone or brick construction is to be seen. Asphalt and concrete highways do not appear to exist, and while a few roads have cobble stone surfaces, most are rutted trails.

These observed facts help pose the problem of Russian recovery and industrialization. They do not take into account the work going forward in the great industrial areas, except for factories seen around Moscow. In general, the Moscow factories are outmoded by American standard. In general, reports reaching Moscow on reconstruction in the Don river basin and the Urals indicate steady progress.

Visible signs of rebuilding on the way out from Moscow to the west include the new log cabins, many miles of new telephone and telegraph line under construction, the vast amount of land being put under cultivation and here and there a bright splash of new paint, although most structures are weather-beaten and unpainted. Some trucks may be seen in the country district, but almost no passenger automobiles are to be seen outside Moscow.

By contrast, from the Polish border westward, most of the recoverable steel from wrecked war machines has been reclaimed or cleaned up into junk heaps. Ruined brick and stone houses dot the country side, but new buildings are going up in stone and brick as well as wood. The fields in the west are more intensively cultivated and have a more orderly appearance than those in Russia. Bomb craters and dugouts seem pretty well plowed under.

There is more livestock visible in Poland than in Russia and automobiles of all descriptions are more in use.

The great cities of Russia — Moscow and Leningrad — were not nearly so damaged in the war as Warsaw and Berlin. Most of the damage in Moscow is no longer visible. What does strike the western visitor to the Soviet capital is the state of deterioration of the older buildings, which appear to be slowly falling to pieces, and the muddy, often junk-filled courtyards, even in midtown.

Some building is going forward in Moscow but not on the scale required for early relief from overcrowding. The Soviets have plans to make their capital one of the world's most beautiful—with broad streets and modern new buildings, including skyscrapers.

Origin of Religion School Related

Founders Overcome Religious Objections

At a banquet yesterday celebrating the 20th anniversary of the school of religion, the story of the origin of the school was read for the first time by O. D. Foster, guest professor.

About twenty-four years ago, Prof. Charles Foster Kent of Yale university suggested that the University of Iowa establish a school of religion "independent of all church moorings and influence." Kent was on a year's leave of absence to visit state universities as "roving evangelist and goodwill ambassador of Yale."

Idea Alienated Churches
Kent's plan was to have religion taught "scientifically by scholarly specialists." According to Dr. Foster's paper, this was considered the only way religion could be presented to students in state universities, although the idea "alienated the churches and made the problem no easier for the university whose very financial blood was drawn from church people."

President Walter Jessup appointed a committee to study the possibilities of this project. About the same time, Dr. Foster was invited to visit this university to see what organized religion might propose. It was then the plan was presented that is in effect today—official support by the churches.

After university approval, it was necessary to win approval of the religious groups, which proved to be a difficult task since there was no precedent for this type of school.

Rockefeller Institute Aided
Financial aid of $35,000 was secured from the Rockefeller Institute of Social and Religious Research, after leaders in all faiths were able to assure the foundation it was not "risking a potential boomerang."

Many of the goals set by the founders have been achieved, Dr. Foster said. The school has proved that "official religion can cooperate with state education without compromise, to the good of all and the detriment of none."

F. C. Waples, first to speak following the banquet, pointed out that the school of religion is unique not only for its interfaith cooperation, but also because "religion is not hampered here by political control of a state institution." Each professor with the exception of the director, is supported by his faith.

Greetings From Churchmen
Greetings were given by the Most Rev. Henry P. Rohland, archbishop of Dubuque, representing the Catholic faith; the Rev. Archibald Cardie of Burlington, Protestant, and Prof. George W. Stewart of the physics department, for the university. Greetings for the Jewish faith were presented by E. P. Adler, publisher of the Davenport Daily Times, in the absence of Rabbi Eugene Mannheim of Des Moines.

Dean Earl J. McGrath read a message from President Virgil M. Hancher and citations were awarded to those men or their widows who were closely identified with the founding of the school. Following the banquet, the annual meeting of the board of trustees was held in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Will Give Exams To Foreign Students Trying for U.S.

Beginning in September, examinations will be given abroad by state department officials to foreign students planning to enter U.S. schools. University officials say this will have a two-fold effect:

(1) It will tend to delay arrival of foreign students having a "half knowledge" of the English language.

(2) By a more accurate measure of the intelligence of each student, it will aid university admissions officers in placing the student in the educational level to which he belongs.

However, according to Richard E. Sweitzer, foreign students adviser, this scheme is not expected to make a drastic cut in the number of foreign students entering the U.S.

"The plan may delay or postpone the arrival of some students," he said yesterday, "especially among those who must study the language further in order to pass the tests."

Sweitzer, who has recently returned from a Chicago meeting of the Institute of International Education, explained that these examinations will not altogether eliminate those foreign students who are unable to speak English.

Certain universities (the University of Michigan, for example), offer English courses especially for these students. If the student wants to attend one of these schools, he may do so if he is otherwise qualified. [The University of Iowa does not, at present, offer such a course.]

About 15,000 foreign students now attend U.S. schools. Of this number, about 130 are enrolled at the University of Iowa. Sweitzer expects foreign enrollments to reach between 150 or 160 by fall.

The tests will be prepared by the college entrance examination board at Princeton, N. J.

Foreign Study Opportunities Offered American Students

Opportunities for study in Europe and Latin America are suggested by brightly illustrated posters on several university bulletin boards.

In Switzerland and France, Mexico and Cuba, students may learn the customs and habits of other cultures while they continue their formal education.

Some of the colleges and universities offer primarily language study. Others, like the University of Havana, have a wide range of subjects from which the American student may choose.

At the Royal Italian University of Foreigners in Perugia, Italy, students may learn the language while they study Italian art, music, political science, history and archaeology.

Some of the foreign schools demand that a student have a background in the language of the country. The National University of Mexico, however, offers a broad program of liberal arts and asks no previous experience with Spanish.

A year at the University of Zurich in Switzerland would cost approximately $1,800, including passage. Another European institution estimates a year's expenses at $2,500. Many of the schools have been approved for veterans' subsidy.

The Villa Des Fougeres in eight-century-old Fribourg, Switzerland, is the European branch of Rosary college. Their foreign study plan is carried out with the cooperation of the University of Fribourg.

For travelers who don't want to attend formal classes, there is Le Camp Francaise at Shawanigan Lake, British Columbia or Seine-at-Oise, France. The purpose of

Judges Announce Art Salon Winners Of Quality Awards

Quality awards made by judges of the Student Art salon now in the main lounge of Iowa Union and the main gallery of the art building were announced Sunday.

The popularity award voting by students will continue all through this week, however.

Among the 40 oils in Iowa Union the first quality award was given to "Figure," a work done in rather subdued tones with a great deal of originality by Margaret Olney, A1, Marathion.

Sally Ristine Second

Second quality award in painting was given to Sally Ristine, A2, Iowa City, for her still life, "Blue Banjo Handle."

All other works are in the main gallery of the art building.

"Antelope" an engraving in three colors by Arthur Levine, A2, Chicago, received the first quality award in the print division. Wendell Black, G, Iowa City, ranked second with his abstract etching, "Counterpoint."

Two gouaches win the quality awards in the watercolor and gouache division. "Chants after War," a piece in two panels by H. C. Cassill, A3, Randallia, ranked first and "Nude" by Dean Warnholtz, A, Riverside, was second. "Ladies with a Dog," by Sybil Fonda G. Fonda, N.Y., won first quality award among the drawings.

A novel technique was used in this work of catching floating oil paint on drawing paper by first submerging the paper in water then raising it above the water level. The drawing was made around the oil design obtained.

Second quality award went to "Sporting" an India ink and sepia drawing by Wayne Nowak, A4, Des Moines.

Graceful "Fish" Wins

A graceful, smooth-flowing "Fish..." by LeRoy Burke, G, Akron, won first quality award in sculpture. This work takes maximum advantage of the peculiarities of the piece of wood from which it was made.

Other pieces in the show include "Bull," a plaster relief in three colors by Paul Brach, A3, New York City, and a beaten lead mask by H. E. Chandler.

Gallery hours in the art building are from 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily. Iowa union is open from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

All-Campus Elections May 14 To Choose New Union Board

Nominees Selected From Sub-Committee Members of 1946-47

Union board will meet at 7 o'clock tonight to nominate members of its present sub-committees to run in forthcoming Union board elections.

May 14 has been set as the date for liberal arts and commerce elections. Liberal arts students, including those in pre-commerce, will vote in the Union lounge. Commerce students will vote in University hall.

Representatives from other colleges will be selected according to methods used by each college in past years.

Sixteen to Serve

An indeterminate number of candidates will be selected tonight from which 16 will finally be chosen by student vote. They will serve during the 1947-48 year.

Union board representation consists of three men and three women from the college of liberal arts; one man and one woman from the college of commerce; one representative each from the colleges of dentistry, education, engineering, law, medicine and pharmacy; and one representative from the graduate college and the school of nursing.

48 on Subcommittees

At the beginning of the fall term, 48 students representing various organizations were chosen for sub-committee work. From this group the present board will select candidates. They must:

- 1) Have a minimum of 12 hours work on sub-committees.
- 2) Be enrolled in the college they are to represent.
- 3) Be in school next year.
- 4) Have a grade average necessary for graduation.
- 5) Have good character and executive ability.

The Student Board of the Iowa Union, as it is called in its constitution, was organized in 1929 to "initiate, promote and control student activities of all types which shall be held in or around the Iowa Union building."

Included in this year's committees were those on tea dances, matinee dance, bridge and games, Married Mixer, housing, library and fine arts.

In addition, Union board sponsored the free "Off the Record" mixers, and its committee was in charge of the Homecoming dance and the Beaux 'n' Arrows dance.

20 Babies Die Of Diarrhea In Pennsylvania

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Twenty-five babies have died since March 1 of a mysterious form of diarrhea for which doctors say there is no known cure.

Twenty of the deaths were blamed on an outbreak at Allentown, Pa., and five others occurred at Somerville, N.J.

At Temple university hospital here, where 13 sufferers from gastroenteritis have been brought from Allentown, a spokesman said a special staff of doctors and nurses working in a carefully isolated ward apparently were making progress in their battle.

All of the children were reported in "good condition" and the hospital said the prospect of additional fatalities was "considerably lightened."

Florence Purnn, superintendent of the Somerset hospital at Somerville, reported the five deaths there had occurred since April 27 with 10 others still ill. She added, however, that none was regarded by doctors as being in serious condition. All have been isolated.

2 DIE AT HOSPITAL

Two persons died at University hospital yesterday.

They are William Brown, 66, Homestead, and Mrs. Grace Rhoades, 56, Mt. Pleasant. Brown was admitted to the hospital Friday and Mrs. Rhoades was admitted April 16.

Westiders Vanquish East in Interfraternity Softball Fracas, 12-9

Interfraternity weekend activities were climaxed Sunday afternoon on the softball diamond at City park when an all-star nine, representing frats from the west side of the Iowa river rapped out a 12-9 win over their crosstown rivals.

The East team's starting hurler, Duane Francis, held the victors to 6-3 for four innings, but Seymour Raben's double in the fifth with two men on base, and then West's Stevens' doubled to score Raben and bring the two teams to a 6-6 tie in the fifth.

Three sensational catches by Don Olson, West left fielder, helped clinch the win for Coach Mel Heckt's squad, although they were never behind after the fifth frame.

Lanky Dick Woodard of the West nine drew applause from the spectators, including alumni, girl friends and well wishers, when he blasted out a long homer in the first.

Another Woodward — Nevin Woodward wielded a nifty bludgeon for the East team, bagging three hits.

Art O'Neill, East's catcher, played a bangup game all the way, according to Coach Don Dooley.

The man in blue behind the plate was Roger Kane. Jim Kenworthy ruled supreme on the baselines.

Request City to Help Build Softball Field

A request for city help with a softball field will get consideration tonight by a special committee of aldermen, representatives of the park board, recreation commission and the Iowa City Softball association.

The meeting was set for 7:30 p.m. today in the City hall council chambers after a delegation of softball men approached the council informally last night when it met as a board of tax review. DeWayne Justice and Kenny Moss requested aid from the city in setting up a diamond and installing lights. The field would be used by both the senior and junior softball leagues here this summer.

Asserting that adequate facilities are not now available, the men suggested that financial aid from various civic groups also may be forthcoming if the city permits use of city park or a City high school field with lights for night games.

Mayor Preston Koser appointed Alderman Charles T. Smith to head a committee composed of Alderman Frank Fryauf Jr. and Clark F. Mighell, who will meet with the other agencies concerned. Earl Gough, chairman of the softball association, also is expected to attend.

House Hunting? Archaeologist May Have a Tip for You

Looking for a smartly decorated five-room house with a bath and a fireplace?

Prof. George E. Mylonas, Washington university archaeologist, found plenty of them in an attractive residential district when he helped excavate the city of Olynthus, a Greek town of 360 B. C.

Like house-hunting, archaeology requires patience and diligence, Mylonas said in a lecture last night in the art building auditorium.

"It is no treasure hunt," he explained as he told of the slow, laborious and pains-taking work connected with the excavation of Olynthus. A pick-ax was the biggest tool used and excavators had to work with small forks, knives and even tooth picks.

Mylonas told of piecing together 600,000 fragments of pottery found in Olynthus in an effort to discover some idea of the culture that existed before our time. He said that 4,000 coins revealed the commercial activity in the city and the period in which the inhabitants lived.

While relating that the bones of a small animal were discovered in a copper kettle over a fireplace, a dog began barking from the audience. Mylonas apologized to the dog and explained that the cooked animal must have been a rabbit.

The archaeologist explained that he has been working for 25 years in an attempt to decipher the writing on a stone tablet. One tablet turned out to be a mortgage which the inhabitants placed over their doorway to show how much they owed on their house.

Still Attending 4 Accident Victims

Joseph B. Wells, a victim of the two-car accident near Wilton Junction late Tuesday, said last night he returned to University hospital yesterday for examination of recurrent headaches developed since his release Thursday.

Wells had one of four loose front teeth removed yesterday following an X-ray at the hospital. He plans to return today for more examinations.

Meanwhile, Dorothy Marine, Wilton Junction, was still semiconscious yesterday and in serious condition from a brain concussion one week following the wreck.

Noble Jorgensen, former SUI basketball player, is "much improved" from abdominal injuries and is in "satisfactory condition," according to hospital officials.

Audrey Hitt, Wilton Junction, is also in "satisfactory condition" with a fractured jaw.

Breezy Over The Air—

'Rambles' Takes Planning

—Behind The Scenes

By SAM GOTTESFELD

The sweet strains of "Stardust" introduce WSUI's popular noon time half-hour recorded show six times per week. A smooth show it is, too, with the mellow and blue contrasting with the loud and hot, and Bill Platt's lively chatter helping things along.

But who decides what records to play? How many shall be sweet, and how many jivey? Bill Platt furnished the answers. He says "Requests plus my personal choice equals 'Rhythm Rambles'."

Bill not only announces the show but does the behind-the-scenes planning. He receives some 150 listener requests a week, and, guided by these, delves through the huge cross-files of the WSUI record library to set up a balanced and varied half-hour program.

Bill usually spins nine discs per show. He may open with a blast of strong rhythm like Boyd Raeburn's "Sympathy," change the pace with a ballad or blues number, follow with a few currently popular tunes, and wind up with fringed tempo like Red Allen's "Get the Pop."

To please an audience of varied taste, Bill tries to present a happy cross-section of American music. Apparently he succeeds, for most of his mail is friendly toward the program.

Bill himself prefers the musical stylings of Woody Herman and Stan Kenton — liberal popular music, the blues and classical popular stuff rather than average ballad or jump tunes.

Like most "disc jockies", he boosts those entertainers who have not hit the top in the enterainment world, but who he feels have the talent to reach the peak.

Margaret Whiting is one of his platter "protoges." She relies on her terrific voice alone for the punch she delivers," Bill commented.

There are 8,000 records in the WSUI collection, and when he feels in a pioneering mood, Bill pours over the files for an old or all-but-forgotten piece, or a platter by a little known band or combo. His reward is a more distinctive show.

There is more to "Rhythm Rambles" than meets the ear. Over the air it is informal, breezy and apparently effortless. Behind the scenes, there is careful planning, for Bill wants to please his listeners.

Arguments Near End, Expect Jury to Get Hiatt Case Today

JEFFERSON (AP)—Closing arguments to the jury were begun in the Robert Hiatt case late yesterday afternoon following a day devoted chiefly to the state's attempt to rebut the defense contention of "temporary emotional insanity."

Anything Goes on Bulletin

Jesting Scribbles on Pleas, Sales Notes Provide Chuckles for Quad Chowline

By SAM GOTTESFELD

Art students may display their alabaster sculpture, and fine arts students may boast of their prize-winning poetry and stories; but for many the most colorful display of imaginative work to be seen at the university is the Quad bulletin board.

Situated directly opposite the Quad grill, the board is spongelike from repeated jabs of thumb tacks. It bears in mute dignity both the sober announcements of university-sponsored lectures and the scrawled notices of Quad residents.

These refreshing ads vary from requests for weekend auto rides to Holstein or Keokuk to high-pressure pen-and-ink commercials announcing the sale of sweaters "too small for me," textbooks, typewriters and motorcycles.

Currently, the board shows that there is a 1935 Oldsmobile for sale, that someone wants to buy a camera or locate a "not too proficient" tennis opponent.

In the past the following notices have appeared: A student's plaintive appeal for a ride out-of-town because his gal needed him badly, an impassioned plea for someone to buy a pair of size 11 shoes.

A recent sports coat sale jingle ended in these classic lines: "... if you want a good buy, bring 15 dollars and I'm the guy."

Daily, this indoor billboard delights the "chow line" which winds its way through the corridor down to the cafeteria. Most students rarely fail to scan its notices if not for need of a size 38 tuxedo, then for the wit of the ever-present bon mots.

But the real creative artists are those Kilroy-ish phantoms who masterfully edit the notices with pencil scribbles. Miraculously, apropos phrases appear on the announcements— acid comments worthy of the New Yorker, smutty sayings that G. I.'s scrawled in the castles of Germany and the brothels of China.

There was a field day some weeks ago, when someone posted an open threatening letter to the culprit (unidentified) who had stolen his bicycle.

It was a genius who recently added the phrase "advocate of free love" to the platform of a female student council candidate right below her slogan "efficient—full-time effort."

Nobody knows when these wits operate. But somewhere in the Quad they burn the midnight oil thinking of the wise-cracks that will entertain the fellows as they sip their morning coffee or munch the evening's last ice cream cone in front of the board.

The bulletin board is a Quad institution. It is an employment and a lost-and-found bulletin, a market report, a poets' corner and a proving ground for pranksters.

Hawkeye Nine to Meet Ohio State This Weekend

Tennis, Golf, Track Teams Face Action

After being set back to fifth place in conference standings last week end with a double defeat at the hands of Michigan's powerful nine, Iowa gets a chance this Friday and Saturday to climb back up the ladder when they engage three-place Ohio State on the Hawkeye diamond.

Michigan slapped the Hawks 10-1 in the first game of a doubleheader at Ann Arbor Saturday and came back strong to the nightcap with a repeat victory, 7-3. The two losses left Iowa with 3-3 stand-in the Big Nine loop.

Two of Ohio State's losses came earlier in the season when Illinois tagged the Buckeyes in both ends of a double bill. The Buckeyes captured a pair of victories when they slipped by Wisconsin with one-point margins on consecutive days.

Friday's game is slated to begin at 3:30 and Saturday play will start at 2:00.

Leading Iowa batters for all games is Don McCarty, second or third baseman, with .357; following is Jack Dittmer, second base, with .325. Doc Dunagan, shortstop, has a .309 average for all appearances at the plate. The team's batting average is .254, as compared with Ohio State's .204. Iowa must win the remainder of the Big Nine games to have any chance to figure in the title. Northwestern is currently leading the conference race with a 4-1 record.

The Iowa tennis team makes its first home appearance Saturday when Hawkeye netsters meet Wisconsin at Iowa City. Iowa won its opening net match against Iowa Preflight at Ottumwa, but lost to Chicago and Northwestern.

Golfers go into action at Madison, Wis., Thursday where they will engage the University of Wisconsin in a Big Nine conference match. The Hawkeye golf team has won two matches this season, both against non-conference opponents.

Following the meet with Wisconsin, the golfers travel to Minneapolis for a Saturday match there with Minnesota.

Iowa thinclads will also be in Minneapolis Saturday for a meeting on the cinderpaths with the Gophers.

Detroit's Pat Mullin Leads American Loop Batters With .425

CHICAGO (AP)—Detroit's Pat Mullin, with a collection of four homers and seven doubles among his 17 hits in 40 trips to the plate, had the American league batting lead nailed down yesterday with a hefty .425.

Six points behind, at .419, was Washington's Buddy Lewis who collected only three hits in his last eight appearances while Mullin banged six in his last 10 trips. Third place was held by Bob Dilling of St. Louis with .417.

This "400" trio was trailed by Luke Appling, Chicago, with .396; George Binks, Philadelphia, .388; George McQuinn, New York, .340; Les Fleming, Cleveland, .333; Hal Peck, Cleveland, and Walt Evans, Detroit, .327 apiece, and Taft Wright, Chicago, .325.

Mullin's two-base production gave him the lead in this specialty, and his four homers tied him in first place with Pat Seery and Joe Gordon of Cleveland Charley Keller of New York and Jeff Heath of St. Louis.

Ruby York of Boston was ahead in runs batted in with 12 while Dave Philley of Chicago, Sab Mele of Boston and Elmer Vale of Philadelphia were tied in output of triples with three apiece. Wright had stolen the most bases, four.

Jack Kramer of St. Louis and Sid Hudson of Washington had the top pitching records with three wins and no defeats. Joe Dobson of Boston and Chicago's Thornton Lee had posted two wins without a loss, and five pitchers had one victory without defeat.

Drake Stops ISC 3-2

AMES, Iowa (AP)—Bill Evans overcame the handicap of a brooknose here yesterday and came back into the ball game in the eighth inning to help Drake defeat Iowa State, 3-2.

Evans broke his nose in the second trying to make a shoestring catch, and came back in the eighth to score the winning run for Drake on Clint Steele's looper to short left field.

Iowa State put on a last-minute drive that failed in the ninth when Jim Hogue was out at the plate trying to get home on Don Paulsen's fly to left field.

S. singles tennis champions, study a map of the United States with Elwood Cooke in the Cookes' apartment in New York yesterday after the women had announced that they had turned professional and would tour the United States, making their first professional appearance in Los Angeles, June 7 and 8.

Lack of Runs Keeps Potter From Winning

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Nelson Potter, long the hard luck member of the Browns' pitching staff, is unwilling enough, living up to his reputation in 1947.

So far his team mates have given him a grand total of two runs in the three games he has pitched, an average of two-thirds of a run a game. Clever mound artist that he is, the 35-year-old right hander from Mount Morris, Ill., can't figure out a way to win with less than one run.

And to make the defeats all the more bitter, Potter's own performance has been far above ordinary. He has yielded an average of but two runs a game.

Pilot's Boss Sees New Win In Preakness

BALTIMORE (AP)—The rain, Jet Pilot and four other contenders for the $100,000-added Preakness hit town together yesterday while "Silent" Tom Smith became "Talkative Thomas" and appeared confident next Saturday's classic was in the bag—rain or shine.

Walker Paces National Loop

NEW YORK (AP)—Dixie Walker, the "elder statesman" of the fuzziy-cheeked Brooklyn Dodgers, is showing the way to the National league hitters with a classy .439 average through Sunday's games.

With 18 hits for 41 at bats, the Dodger right fielder enjoys a 13-point bulge over Frank Gustine, the Pittsburgh third baseman who is in the runnerup spot with .426.

Tommy Holmes of Boston, who opened the season on the bench, is the other member of the 400 club at .404 followed by Bob Elliott, a Boston mate, .377 and Bill Rigney of New York, .375.

Despite Walker's lofty mark, the big news of the infant National league season has been the home run hitting of New York's Johnny Mize. With eight homers in 12 games, Mize gives promise of hitting the big numbers by mid-season. "Big Jawn" also has driven in the most runs, 14, one more than Walker and Cincinnati's Eddie Miller.

Gustine is tied with Johnny Wyrostek of the Phillies for most runs, 13, and is deadlocked with Frankie Baumholtz of Cincinnati for most hits, 23. Johnny Jorgensen of the Dodgers, Del Ennis and Wyrostek of the Phils and Ray Lamanno of Cincinnati each have hit six doubles and Jim Russell of Pittsburgh has connected for two triples to show the way. The stolen base has been a lost art. Emil Verban of the Phils and Bobby Adams of the Reds leading the pack with only two each.

On the pitching side, Schoolboy Rowe, an old American leaguer now doing business for the Phils, had copped four in a row without defeat and lefty Warren Spahn of the Braves has a perfect 3-0 record.

Sports Shots

By Bob Collins

One of these days, enough people are going to get tired of seeing 450-foot drives end up as "cans of corn" and start a move for a uniform size for all baseball fields. Today, for instance, it wouldn't be hard to convince Coach Otto Vogel's Hawkeye baseball team that such a move is in order.

While the wide open spaces of the Michigan outfield didn't defeat the Hawks, they did contribute to the drought of Iowa runs. Several of Iowa's Sunday punches looked good for extra bases before the fleet Wolverine outfielders went into the next county to snag them. Of course, the comedy of errors combined with some lusty Michigan hitting really made the Hawks glad they weren't playing a triple header.

But, to get back to the original premise, the size of baseball fields is something that could be and should be controlled to within a reasonable degree of tolerance. A reasonable minimum and maximum distance to left, center and right fields could be established to assure the players of the continuance of the premium that is attached to hitting a long ball.

The Big Nine fields are lacking in this respect as well as in many others. And the discrepancies that are apparent in the conference layouts are also true of parks from the sandlots to the majors. In fact the major league edifices are perhaps the greatest violators.

The Polo grounds, home of the New York Giants, is a pitcher's nightmare with a rightfield foul line of only 257 feet and a leftfield line of a mere 278. Pull-hitters from either side can count on a circuit walk on a loud pop up. Woe to the fellow that hits dead away, however, because it's 505 feet to the centerfield wall.

Crossley field, home of the Cincinnati Reds has a rise in left field that bothers a lot of outfielders and spoils a park that is about right in distance to fences. The St. Louis Cardinals play in what is generally termed a gravel pit with an infield that is as rocky as a cemetery.

The Brooklyn Dodgers' home, Ebbets field, has a short, 297-foot right field wall that is well tended by eager outfielders trying to get under a high fly. The rest of the place isn't bad but the Giants still claim it's haunted.

Cleveland recently had to cut down their Municipal stadium with a short set of fences, and Pittsburgh took one look at their new long-range artist acquired from Detroit and inserted a shorter fence in left field to form Greenberg Garden.

Wrigley field is a thing of beauty compared to the other fields and Comiskey park is a close second. Griffith stadium in Washington and Connie Mack's Shibe park are well proportioned. Boston's Fenway park is a ill-shaped affair with a 302-foot right field wall and ten acres of center and left field for outfielders to get lost in.

Even Yankee stadium, the "house that Ruth built" could stand a longer baseline with only 296 feet to right field and 301 to left field. The scoreboard in center is 461 feet away from home plate.

There will always be variables to the game which help make it interesting but a certain amount of effort in blasting a ball should result in the same profit from field to field. The only other alternative is to "hit them where they ain't" and few are the players that can accomplish that. The existing parks can't be changed much but the new ones that are being built around the country should be bound by rules to certain size limitations.

Coach "Pops" Harrison held his first spring basketball drill Monday afternoon with the expected group of veterans of last season reporting. Pops probably welcomes the change after ending his annual tour of the knife and fork circuit. He spoke at some 45 luncheons and dinners since the end of the season and addressed about 14,000 players.

Here's hoping that among the 14,000 there was a 6-8 center of ability with desire to attend Iowa because that position will be a major problem next winter. The spring training will last about three weeks.

The subject of basketball reminds us that Iowa's New Year's Eve opponent this year has been selected. Harvard university, the first eastern foe of the Hawkeyes for many a year, will help ring out the old and bring in the new. The Crimson should be a better qualified foe than Texas Christian whose exhibition last Dec. 31 left much to be desired.

Betz, Cooke Join Professional Ranks, Schedule Matches

NEW YORK (AP)—Ending any suspense there might have been, Pauline Betz and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Cooke announced yesterday they had turned tennis professionals and would engage in a long series of matches against each other.

The two girls, among the better lookers tennis has produced, were suspended as amateurs by the U.S. Lawn Tennis association last month when the news got around that Elwood Cooke, husband of Sarah, was offering to book them as professionals.

Pauline, present National and Wimbledon net queen, and Sarah, twice former National champion in 1941 and '45, will play their first "warm-up" match at Duke university at Durham, N. C., on May 16.

'Old Fox' Rickey On Spot Again

Kirby Higbe Trade Upsets Dodger Fans

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP)—Branch Rickey, with a hide like a rhinoceros when it comes to shedding criticism, again has demonstrated his utter disregard of adverse public opinion in peddling a mess of players, chief among them Kirby Higbe, through long service at Ebbets field, has become something of a favorite with the Brooklyn fans.

Then too, Higbe has won two games for the club this year, and if by chance the Dodgers are edged out in the pennant race by a narrow margin, the idea will be that had the veteran pitcher not been sold the flag would fly in Brooklyn.

However, Rickey has faced these problems before. As late as last year, for that matter, then he sent Billy Herman, another favorite, to the Boston Braves. There are still many who think, perhaps with some justification, that had Herman remained with the club the Dodgers would have won the pennant.

While Rickey was with St. Louis he disposed of several favorites at what at the time seemed to be the height of their careers, although consequent developments in practically every case proved the Cards did not lose in the transactions, and in nearly every case the star was not missed.

The fact seems to be that Rickey is several long jumps ahead of the fans, and everyone else, in figuring the eventual results of his deals, and for that reason maybe it wouldn't be too smart to criticize him in the present situation.

We do know that he does not consider Higbe a great pitcher. A good pitcher, sure, but one who never will be great until he gets the confidence and control to put all his stuff on the ball when he has a three and two count on a batter. That is one of Rickey's yardsticks of greatness in a hurler.

Conesville, Cotter Win In Sectional Tourney

Conesville defeated Lone Tree 10-0 and Cotter beat Williamsburg 9-1 yesterday afternoon in the semi-finals of the high school sectional baseball tournament at the Iowa City high field.

Dale Everett, Conesville first baseman, broke up the first game when he hit a mighty homerun with the bases loaded in the fifth inning against Lone Tree. The officials called the game at this point by virtue of a high school ruling that when one team is leading by 10 runs at the end of five innings the contest shall be awarded the team which is ahead.

In the nightcap the mighty mites from Cotter, who conquered Iowa City 3-2 in eight innings Saturday, bested Williamsburg by scoring in every frame but the first to win 9-1. Ray Hendrickson, Cotter roundhouse hurler with the bases loaded in the fifth inning against Lone Tree, pitched his mates to an easy victory by striking out 15 Williamsburg batters.

Workmen Resume Barracks Job

Plumbers, Laborers Get Wage Increase

About 35 laborers and 19 plumbers returned to work at the university's 636-unit barracks-apartment project yesterday and carpenters are expected to return today, it was announced yesterday.

Laborers have been absent from work since April 1 and plumbers since May 1 while negotiations for new wage contracts were underway between their unions and Allied Construction interests in Cedar Rapids.

Their return was made possible by receipt from the Chicago regional office of the federal public housing authority of tentative approval of these new contracts.

Official and final approval must await the receipt of the written contracts of each negotiating union, FPMA Project Engineer Orville Thompson said yesterday.

The laborers' new contract calls for $1.20 an hour (a 20-cent raise) and the plumbers will receive $1.95 an hour, also a 20-cent raise. Enough material should be distributed about the project by the laborers so that the carpenters can return today, Thompson said.

The carpenters had never walked off the job but had been unable to work in the absence of the laborers. Negotiations between the carpenters' local and Iowa City contractors brought them a new contract, for a reported $1.50 an hour.

Iron workers and cement finishers are still absent from work, Thompson said. FPMA approval has not yet been given to the iron workers' new contract calling for a 17 1/2-cent-an-hour raise to $1.92 1/2 and no agreement has been reached between the cement finishers' union and ACI.

The project is about 80 percent completed and return of all necessary workers should "make it pretty well completed within eight weeks," Thompson said.

Painters and electricians have been at work on the project continuously during the negotiations by the other unions.

About six laborers returned to work at the 25-unit barracks-classroom project on east campus yesterday, according to R.D. Sharp of Metcalf-Hamilton Construction company, builders of the two projects.

They are pouring concrete for the floors and carpenters should begin work on the classrooms later this week, one official for Metcalf-Hamilton said.

All 25 classrooms should be completed by July, he said.

Man Confesses 13 Burglaries In Iowa City and Coralville

Police yesterday erased the docket of one-half of the reported break-ins here this year with the arrest Saturday night of George Allen Furman, 26, of 312 First avenue.

Furman, a laborer, and father of a 3 1/2-month-old baby, confessed to 13 burglaries in Iowa City and Coralville. He was picked up on a minor charge.

Investigating officers in routine check said they discovered the stolen property of two Coralville firms in his possession.

He admitted taking a flashlight, wristwatch and $21 from the Superior Oil Co.; and 175 three-cent stamps and $7 in change from the Ruan Transportation Co. Friday night.

Subsequent to his appearance at a police court preliminary hearing where he pleaded guilty to a charge of "larceny from a building in the night time," he was removed to the county jail.

Furman was unable to post $2,500 bond set for his appearance before the grand jury.

His arraignment was for the two Coralville break-ins. However, police said the additional burglaries would probably be included in his trial.

He signed a confession to the following burglaries:

Feb. 26 and Mar. 28 Shellady's Super market—$219 and $40.

Mar. 28 and Apr. 19 Farmer's Super market—$54 and $68.

Apr. 3 Armory and Bulk Oil Co.—Nothing.

Apr. 6 Maid Rite cafe—$50. Iowa Fruit Co.—$33.

Apr. 17 Iowa City Bottling Works—nothing. Howell-Shrader Co.—$40.

Apr. 24 Braverman and Worton—(Furman said he only got four or five dollars in change, although $10 was reported taken).

Police said Furman told them he used the money he stole for an old car and "considerable drinking." He denied having an accomplice.

Furman refused to comment yesterday at the county jail on a statement that his wife and baby were found without food by police.

Sheriff Albert J. (Pat) Murphy said that Furman reported he had about "$25 coming from the last place he worked." Furman worked at various places in town, police said.

Police Chief E. J. Ruppert related yesterday that the police and county attorney made a collection for Mrs. Furman and the baby.

A charge of breaking and entering in the night time is punishable by a 1 to 10-year prison sentence, according to statute.

Iowa League Replaces Former Mayor Teeters

Former Mayor Wilber J. Teeters has been replaced as president of the Iowa League of Municipalities by Fred Miller of Ankeny, it was announced yesterday in the league's bulletin.

Miller will serve as acting president until the group holds its annual convention in Des Moines Oct. 15 and 16. He was vice-president under Teeters, who was defeated by Mayor Preston Koser in Iowa City's March 31 municipal election.

The league's constitution provides that all executive committee members except secretary must be elective public officials.

Iowa Business Up, March Figures Show

Most Iowa business except in the building field is still on the upgrade, Prof. George R. Davies of the university bureau of business research reported yesterday.

Figures for March released in the bureau's monthly bulletin showed a general gain in comparison with February and also with the same period a year ago. Farm product prices were up 11 percent over the preceding month, bank debits 23 percent and insurance sales 5 percent.

These three items also were higher than in the first three months of 1946—a 48 percent boost for farm prices, 31 percent for bank debits and 21 percent for life insurance. Other gains were in industrial payrolls (26 percent), in prices paid by farmers (22 percent) and in employment (10 percent).

Although building losses showed up in the comparison with March of last year, this field exhibited a March, 1947, increase over February. Due partly to seasonal reasons, gains were shown in residential building permits (188 percent), building permits (119 percent), and public building contracts (108 percent).

But the March, 1946, comparison indicated losses this year of 70 percent in residential building contracts, 52 percent in building permits, 50 percent in business building contracts, 46 percent in residential permits and 39 percent in building contracts.

Smaller construction dealers were noted in a comparison of 1947's first three months with a corresponding period in 1946.

24 Barracks Apartments Ready for Occupancy

The university's office of dormitory housing announced yesterday that 24 barracks apartments would be ready for occupancy by Friday of this week.

Eight of these apartments are located in Westlawn park to the rear of the Children's hospital. The remaining 16 units are in Riverside park. Unfurnished apartments in the Westlawn area will be ready by Wednesday of this week.

J. Robert Cotter of the dormitory housing office also said funds had been approved for the erection of 18 garbage houses. Two of the buildings will be erected in quonset areas with the remaining 16 structures scattered throughout barracks-apartment sites.

Stassen Slams 'Negative' Aid For Greece

WASHINGTON (AP)—Harold E. Stassen criticized President Truman's program for Greece and Turkey yesterday as "negative" and declared that this country should "develop a positive, constructive approach."

Specifically, he declared that "we should not finance, arm or advise an all-out military offensive" against the Communist-led guerrillas in Greece but should try instead to win them over through an economic program which would bring prosperity.

The Republican presidential aspirant told a news conference, however, that he is supporting the senate-approved version of the president's $400,000,000 Greek-Turkish aid program largely "because it is a matter of bipartisan foreign policy."

Stassen said the only way to end the division in Greece is to establish in the territory now under control of King Paul's government a successful economy which will attract by its prosperity the support of the Greeks who have banded themselves against the government in the mountains.

Insisting that the money to be made available for Greece be spent under careful supervision, Stassen said that if it is not "it will be largely wasted, dissipated and diverted from aiding the people."

"We should not finance, arm or

115 Veterans Renew GI Life Insurance

A total of $460,500 worth of National Service Life Insurance was reinstated during "GI insurance week" (last week) in Iowa City, according to William J. Doherty of the VA contact office.

Of the 121 veterans contacted by the VA and the service agencies aiding in the drive, all but five or six reinstated, Doherty stated.

All veterans seeking information concerning previous reinstatement or conversion may now get an answer from the VA within 10 days by use of a special form available at the contact office here.

The office is located in room 205, Iowa State Bank and Trust building.

advise an all-out military offensive against the Greeks in the mountains in opposition to the government," he said. "If we do it will involve a tragic, ineffective and unsuccessful spilling of blood by Greek versus Greek in an attempt by military means to settle the form of government and the economic problems of Greece."

He added that the city is still

Cafe Owners, Grocers Pledge Support to Anti-Pest Drive

Agree to Back City's Clean-Up Campaign Against Rats and Flies

Iowa City restaurant and grocery store owners pledged full support to the city's "tentative" rat and fly control campaign at a special meeting held yesterday by Mayor Preston Koser and city food handlers.

"The support of city food handlers is needed to make a success of a city clean-up and health campaign such as the one we hope to have here this summer," said Robert L. Gage, Chamber of Commerce secretary.

"It is common knowledge that the origin of rats and flies is in the restaurants and grocery stores' accumulated wastes," Gage stated. "But the support of city food handlers does not guarantee the campaign will be carried out."

There they will see all types of rodent- and insect-killing demonstration. Control by D.D.T. will head the showings.

ANTI-SOVIET SWEDES

LONDON (AP)—The New Times of Moscow said last night that an "anti-Soviet" attitude had been detected in some Swedish newspapers.

investigating the rate and fly situation to be sure Iowa Citizens are "behind such a campaign."

Gage said that "campaign or no campaign" Iowa City must clean up its streets and alleys.

"People think nothing of throwing popcorn boxes, candy wrappers and newspapers into the gutters," he said. "This must stop or a campaign against rats and flies would do no good."

Mayor Koser, Emmett C. Gardner, county farm agent, and Gage will attend a district fly and rat control meeting Thursday in Cedar Rapids.
