Reece Accuses Truman Of Keeping Prices High

President's Mother 'Better'

GRANDVIEW, Mo. (AP)—Mrs. Martha E. Truman, heartened by her presidential son's presence at her bedside, was reported "much better" last night after suffering a relapse in the early morning hours.

"Mother Truman is stronger, she is talking stronger and feeling much better," Brig. Gen. Wallace H. Graham, the president's personal physician, told reporters through Press Secretary Charles G. Ross.

The pulse of the 94-year-old mother of the president was stronger last night as she fought to recover strength lost in a setback to her recuperation from a fractured right hip. The injury was received during a fall in mid-February the "third fracture" for the peppery little lady in recent years.

President Truman had flown to his mother's bedside ignoring a driving rainstorm, wind, and an official warning that tornadoes might develop near his landing field.

The president spent the afternoon with her, leaving the modest cottage only long enough for dinner at the nearby farm home of his brother, Vivian.

Brig. Gen. Wallace Graham, the president's personal physician, reported at mid-afternoon that there was no change in Mrs. Truman's condition. Earlier, he said she was suffering from a tired heart and that her condition was very serious.

As the president landed at the Grandview airport, the Kansas City weather bureau was broadcasting warnings of possible tornadoes in the area.

The warnings were based on the report of a tornado cloud sighted by the airport control tower at the Olathe airbase. The weather bureau said later this report proved erroneous and was believed to have been the result of a smoke cloud being mistaken for a tornado funnel.

Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said General Graham gave this picture of Mrs. Truman's condition:

"Complications which appeared about a week ago had cleared up, but her heart is growing weaker. She has not been in pain, has retained all of her mental faculties, and has not been given sedatives."

"She knows her own condition. She is an excellent diagnostician," Ross said the physician told Mr. Truman.

Her fracture apparently had been healing satisfactorily until the relapse yesterday. The cast was removed from her leg a week ago.

Nazis Tried to Get Secret Armistice With Russia in '43

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Nazis hoped for an armistice with Russia in 1943 which would have been kept secret from the western Allies and in which the Soviets would have continued to draw lend-lease from the United States.

This sly but unsuccessful move by Hitler came to light last night in captured German naval documents which also disclosed:

1. Bombing of the United States with a new high-speed, long-range, six-engine plane was considered but was abandoned in July, 1943, because the few airplanes which could get there would be no significance but would only arouse the will to resist in the population.

2. Adm. Karl Doenitz, as commander-in-chief of the navy, wanted to use "the new weapon of the air force," apparently the V-1 robot bomb or the V-2 rocket, to attack Allied shipping at Gibraltar in the summer of 1943. He proposed to launch them from the area of Marseilles, France. But Hitler vetoed the plan because of "the risk that some of the new weapons might fall on land at Gibraltar and that the British will find out what they are." It was not until the following year that they were loosed at London.

GOP Chairman Rips 'Strategy' Of Democrats

WASHINGTON (AP)—Carroll Reece, Republican national chairman, said last night that the Truman administration is determined "to keep prices high in the hope of reaping political advantage."

Reece wrote some 10,000 fellow party workers that the Democratic strategy includes "stubborn resistance to every measure proposed by the Republican congress to ring down the cost of living, while at the same time endeavoring to blame congress for the rising price level."

"It will be a good trick if the administration gets away with it," he said, "but it is inconceivable that the voters will be fooled."

The Republican leader reasoned as follows:

"1. The president himself has indicated very strongly that he will veto any tax reduction bill passed by congress this year."

"2. He (the president) and his subordinate officials have protested vociferously against any cuts in his exorbitant budget" and "the high cost of government is one of the major factors in the high cost of living."

"3. Administration spokesmen have been voluble in their predictions that Mr. Truman will also veto any labor bill which may be passed by this congress."

Reece said that "the Republican congress, in the pending bill for improved relationships between labor and management, is seeking to increase the nation's capacity rate, he argued, means that 'inevitably, prices will go down.'"

Congress might not override a presidential veto of a tax reduction or a labor bill, Reece said, and "hence it is quite possible that Mr. Truman may win a temporary victory in his drive to keep prices up."

Democrats want to "perpetuate their outrageously high prices" so as to "dodge the responsibility for their own misdeeds," he contended, adding:

"The administration leaders are now trying to convince the people that the new congress, in office only four months, is responsible for all the misgovernment the nation experienced during the preceding 14 years."

"If they can perpetuate that hoax upon the people, then they hope to return to power in 1948."

Introduces Bill To Make GI Bonds Salable

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Dwight L. Rogers (D-Fla.) yesterday proposed a new plan for enabling former GIs to get cash now for their terminal leave pay bonds.

His bill, to be introduced tomorrow, would make the bonds transferable so that veterans could sell them to anyone who might be interested in holding them as investments.

The bonds, which are not negotiable now and may not be cashed for five years after the veteran's discharge, bear two and one-half percent interest. Rogers would require purchasers under his plan to pay veterans at least the face value of the bonds plus the interest which has accrued to the date of their transfer.

Rogers, co-author of the 1946 act that gave former enlisted men and women the bonds in payment for leave accrued but not received before their discharge, introduced a bill on the opening day of this session calling for the government to cash the bonds immediately.

This measure has been bottled up in the armed services committee. Rogers has obtained some 100 signatures to a petition to force the bill to the floor for action, but he needs 218.

Ask Acquittal for 10 In Lynching Case

GREENVILLE, S. C. (AP)—The state rested its case yesterday against 31 white men accused of lynching a South Carolina Negro, and Circuit Judge J. Robert Martin Jr. took under advisement defense motions for directed acquittal of ten defendants.

Judge Martin said he would consider the applications over the weekend, and announce his decision tomorrow when he reconvenes Greenville county's criminal court.

The defense moved for acquittal of five defendants who were implicated by self-acknowledged members of the lynch-mob, but themselves refused to make statements to police and federal agents.

Acquittal was also asked for five others. The defense claimed the state failed to link them properly with the murder.

The state accused all 31 with murder and with conspiracy to murder in connection with the brutal lynching of Willie Earle. The Negro was taken from the county jail in adjoining Pickens county, questioned on a lonely roadside by the lynchers, and then taken to a spot near an old slaughterhouse where he was beaten, knifed and finally shot to death.

Judge Martin refused to admit in evidence a series of gruesome photographs, showing how the Negro was beaten and savagely knifed before his head was all but shot away by three charges of quail-shot from a single-barrel, 12-gauge shotgun.

Hink Pink London Game Seeks Rhymed Retort

By ED CREAUGH
LONDON (AP)—There's no use trying to keep this quiet. It would leak out eventually anyway.

The British have a new game called Hink Pink.

You say to somebody, "Hink Pink, Moo."

If he is a good player, he replies, quick like a bunny, "Cow Row."

Then everybody giggles.

Try again? "Hink Pink, Stalin." Response: "Head Red."

"Hink Pink", you see, is an invitation to think up two one-syllable words which rhyme. "Moo" and "Stalin" in these examples are the clue words. You are supposed to think up two rhyming words suggested by the clue.

Once you have mastered the fundamentals you are ready for the more advanced game of Hinky Pink, which deals in two-syllable words. There are even more advanced games for the heavily intellectual, called Hinky Pink and Hink Pinky.

Who plays the game? Not schoolgirls, so far as careful inquiry goes, but grown persons. It was the evening's entertainment one night this week for a group that included a psychiatrist, a radio writer, an artist and a newspaperman.

One sprightly organizer in Hampstead, London suburb, has founded what he calls the "Hink Pink Institute." Its functions are uncertain.

No one seems quite sure who started Hink Pink. Naturally no one will take responsibility.

Senate to Plan On $33-Billion Budget — Taft

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Republicans may abandon efforts to agree with the House on how much to cut President Truman's budget, Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said yesterday, and work toward a $4,500,000,000 savings goal.

Taft, who heads the Senate Republican policy committee, said that if no compromise is reached with the House on its $5,000,000,000 savings proposal, the Senate Republicans will go ahead on the theory that the President's budget can be whittled to $3,000,000,000 and try to pass a tax bill which will take a net of $2,000,000,000 out of the next fiscal year's expected revenues.

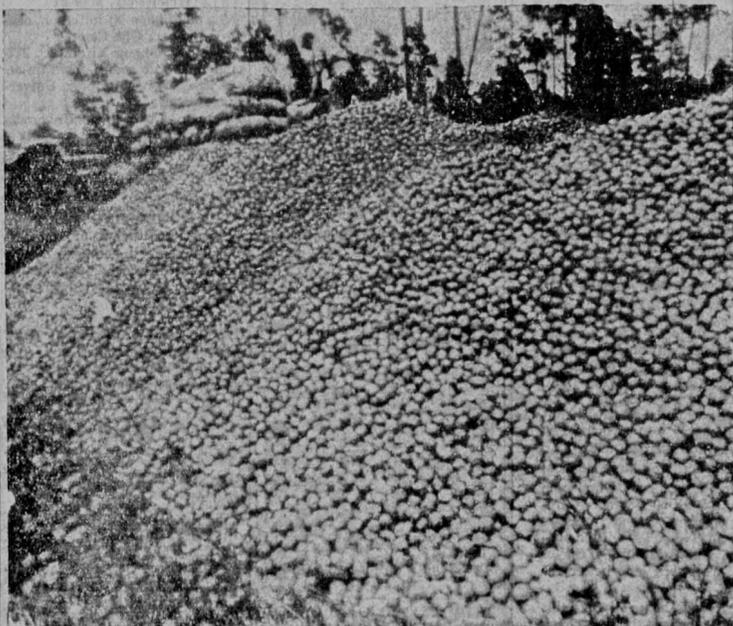

The Republican majority on the Senate finance committee issued a report on the tax bill today saying that reduction of individual income taxes would help maintain "the existing high levels of employment and output."

The report said government revenues now are booming. It estimated a surplus of $2,300,000,000 for the year ending June 30, as compared to a $1,250,000,000 surplus prediction by President Truman a month ago.

Taft, while he did not foreclose further conferences with House leaders, told a reporter he is not inclined to accept any increase in the amount the Senate voted to attempt to trim from the President's $37,500,000,000 spending estimates for the year beginning July 1.

While some leaders of the House are said to have conceded that a $6,000,000,000 cut might be too high, they are unwilling to accept the lower Senate figure.

Battleship Oklahoma, Headed For Junkyard, Sinks in Pacific

PEARL HARBOR (AP)—The tragic battleship Oklahoma, raised from a shallow grave after the Japanese assault on Pearl Harbor, sank quietly in mid-Pacific yesterday, thwarting the mainland junkyard for which she was bound.

The venerable warship, symbol of American sorrow and pride, went down without a soul on board at 1:40 a.m. (6:10 a.m. CST), 540 miles northeast of Pearl Harbor.

One week ago yesterday she had left in tow of the tugs Monarch and Hercules, and was due in San Francisco bay on Memorial day.

The hull was shipshape when she left. Suddenly and inexplicably she began to list heavily late yesterday.

Friday night Capt. Kelly Sprague of the Hercules radioed that waves were washing over the Oklahoma's desolate decks—long since stripped of guns and superstructure. He was ordered to head back for Pearl Harbor, but a little later—as if determined to escape an ignominious fate on the scrap heap—the Oklahoma parted the tow lines and plunged toward the bottom of the ocean.

So cleanly had the Oklahoma died that not even a scrap of flotsam was to be seen.

Thus closed the colorful but unheroic career of a ship that never, in two wars, succeeded in fulfilling her intended destiny. She never, in all her 31 years, had fired a shot at an enemy.

The 29,000-ton ship was laid down in 1912, launched March 23, 1914, and finally commissioned May 2, 1916. The authoritative directory, Jane's Fighting Ships, listed her and her sister ship, the Nevada of Bikini fame, as super-dreadnaughts, first of the "everything or nothing" theory of ship construction, with tremendous armor, ten 14-inch guns, sixty 5-inchers, and myriad smaller weapons. She was 583 feet long; 107 feet, 11 inches wide; and had places for more than 1,300 fighting men.

In the first world war she was based at Berehaven, Ireland, but saw no action.

In the peacetime years, while training thousands of cadets and sailors, she made headlines by colliding with a railroad barge at Bremerton, Wash., and with the battleship Arizona on another occasion.

The Oklahoma was anchored at Pearl Harbor when the Japanese planes struck on Dec. 7, 1941. The nearby Arizona was destroyed.

Pierced by five torpedoes, the Oklahoma herself was on the bottom and capsized within 11 minutes. She went down so fast that her crew did not have time to man the guns.

The navy raised her 18 months later. Battered and obsolete, still reeking of violent death, she was abandoned late in 1944.

Throughout the rest of the war she lay at anchor in Pearl Harbor. Eventually she was sold to the Moore Drydock company of Oakland, Calif., for $46,000. She had cost $75,000,000 to build and untold sums to raise.

The company had planned to start cutting her up for scrap in June. Instead, the Oklahoma died at sea.

Byrnes Deplores U.S.-Russ War Talk

WASHINGTON (AP)—James P. Byrnes, former secretary of state, believes "we can overcome those difficulties" which handicap peace, and that in both Russia and the United States "there is too much talk about war and too little talk about peace."

The people of neither country want to go to war, he said, and only blundering leadership could bring about another conflict.

He called on both Russia and the United States to realize that neither can dictate the terms of peace and that "there is no place for the 'take it or leave it' attitude."

Byrnes' speech was for a gathering of Variety Clubs International in receiving the 1946 award which this organization of people from the entertainment world presents annually to some person who has "helped to make this world a better world."

It was his first major public pronouncement on foreign policy since he turned over the state department to Gen. George C. Marshall early his year.

Teachers Crisis Still With Us

Boards of education throughout Iowa and the rest of the nation have in most cases been able to offer teachers better salaries for the next September term. But there is still a very serious shortage of trained teachers.

Increases granted so far are fine as far as they go. But the great majority of them have been of a temporary nature and they still leave the American teacher pretty far down on the economic scale.

This is not to say that the situation has not improved quite considerably. Here in Iowa, for example, we had 4,108 unfilled teaching jobs at this time a year ago. Today we have only about 2,500 vacancies.

But so serious is the situation still, that Iowa school boards will again have to make use of that distasteful wartime practice of hiring teachers who do not have regular certificates backed by the customary qualifications. We'll probably have enough teachers by the time fall rolls around, but it's small comfort to realize that many of them are not fully qualified.

The fact remains that despite increases the salaries of public school teachers, measured in purchasing power after taxes, average about 20 percent less than they did eight years ago. Unless this situation is remedied soon, we can feel reasonably assured that competent teachers will continue to desert our schools for the more lucrative professions. More than 350,000 of a total teaching staff of 900,000 have left the profession in the last six years. And it is estimated that more than 100,000 of the teachers hired to fill these vacancies cannot meet the minimum educational requirements—requirements which the profession itself admits are none too high.

Of course, the crisis in American education is not exclusively a matter of salaries. Unsatisfactory working conditions also play a part.

Many schools are dilapidated and terribly overcrowded. Some smalltown school boards oppressively insist that school teachers be the paragons of piety the board members wish they were themselves. Protection of a proper degree of academic freedom is sometimes missing. The teacher is rarely accorded a prestige comparable to the importance of the job.

These elements too are responsible for our serious teacher situation. But the first and absolutely essential step toward surmounting the crisis is the provision of tolerable salaries.

State legislatures, including our own, have shown some awareness of this problem and some of them have increased state aid to education. None of them, however, has gone far enough.

Until teachers are able to earn a salary commensurate with the important position they hold in our society, the educational crisis will be with us. And we think all of us can agree that this is the sort of crisis we cannot long afford to perpetuate.

Survey Finds Nationwide Neglect, Brutality, And Ignorance in Institutions for the Aged

With the number of old people in this country increasing, all public homes for the aged combined can accommodate only about 83,000, according to a survey in the June issue of the Woman's Home Companion. The report gives evidence of nationwide neglect, brutality and ignorance in care of the aged, with private and public institutions equally guilty.

"Unlike some primitive tribes, we do not kill off our aged and infirm. We bury them alive in institutions," the report states. "To save our face, we call these institutions 'homes'—a travesty on the word."

During six months spent in visiting both public and private homes for the aged in all parts of the country, the Companion reporter found shocking conditions in rural county homes, big city wards and commercial homes alike. Dilapidation, ragged clothing, thin cotton blankets (for the ever-chilly old), cheerless basement rooms and backless benches showed a depressing picture of public indifference.

"Punishment cells" and locked cells, some in buildings built ten years ago, some in dank century-old structures were too consistently prevalent.

In a county home in Ohio, for example, the magazine reports men inmates are kept in dirty cages with two men to one cot, imprisoned only for the crime of being old and poor. In New York City's home for dependents, porches are being used as dormitories, chairs are lined up in long rows touching one another, and a dining-room built for 200 must accommodate 600 old people who eat in three shifts.

Last January, 900 patients could have been released from New York hospitals if there had been any place where they could have gone to get care. In Cleveland the infirmary had a waiting list of 200 when last visited and in April, 1946, St. Paul, Minnesota, was short more than 600 beds for the care of chronic patients.

Shocking too is the report's revelation that nearly a third of the nation's public homes for the aged are concentrated in three states—Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and New York. Yet while most are overcrowded with long waiting lists, some of these institutions have empty beds because admission requirements are restricted by old laws—such as "residence in Georgetown" as the town was defined in 1805.

The high-priced nursing homes for the aged have better equipment than most of the public institutions, but rates ranging from $250-a-month to $150-a-week still do not guarantee good care for inmates. In one of these in Washington, D.C., for example, a part-time cook departed daily at 5 o'clock; supper, served at 4:30 p.m., consisted only of cake and fruit. There was no nurse or attendant of any kind on duty during the night and patients had insufficient covering and care of other kinds.

Under good management and supervision, the report points out, homes for old people need not be inadequate and desolate. Only 28 of our states have licensing laws for nursing homes. Passage of these laws, with provisions for adequate personnel and inspection would be necessary first steps in improving conditions.

It is high time the magazine states, that the nation give some thought to the care of its old people, ever-increasing in numbers. There is no national organization devoted to solving their problem. Even the Townsendites, a powerful lobby, formulated no plans for meeting the most important need—a good home with good care.

The report concludes with a recommendation for the passing of adequate licensing laws and an educational program to acquaint the public with conditions in their own communities. "Old age in itself is not a tragedy, but our neglect and abuse of the aged makes it so."

THE WORLD WATCH—

Czechs, Poles Trying to Live In Both U.S., Russian Orbits

By STEVE PARK
Daily Iowan Columnist

What will happen when a small nation, caught in the middle of the two worlds dispute, attempts to orient itself economically in one direction and politically in the other? The answer, it would appear, shall not be long in coming.

For the past six weeks, representatives of the governments of Poland and Czechoslovakia, both of which lie under the shadow of Russian influence, have been meeting quietly in an unnamed Czechoslovakian city to formulate plans for coordinating their economic policies and for re-orienting their trade toward the West.

It cannot be assumed that this action represents a drift away from cooperation with the Soviet Union; neither country is prepared in any sense to aggravate Russia at this time. On such a basis, there would have been no conference, since both nations are Communist dominated.

But, neither government, in spite of a strong desire to build up trade with Russia, dares ally itself too closely with the Soviet in the economic field. One important cause is the great disparity in living standards. Actually, living standards in Russia are about half as high as those in the two small countries. Close economic collaboration with Russia would bring the living standards in Poland and Czechoslovakia tumbling and this in turn would weaken the political hold of the governments in power.

A second discouraging point lies in the fact that both these countries depend upon foreign trade for from 25 to 35 percent of their national incomes while the Soviet Union relies on international commerce for less than four percent of its income.

At the present time, Russia has very little to export. As a result, Russian trade with these nations has fallen precipitately, while other trade sources have been increasing. An attempt at closer economic collaboration with Russia would have a definitely adverse effect upon the trade balances and would probably have political repercussions.

The probability is that both countries will make advances to the West for loans in the future, provided, of course, that the political stipulations attendant to such loans will not be overly restrictive. Only a few weeks ago, the Czech government turned down an American loan because it was not prepared to accept the Truman Doctrine.

Nevertheless, Truman Doctrine or not, the political implications of Czech and Polish economic orientation to the West are likely to be far-reaching. Both nations will be placed in an unenviable position between the West and the East. In such a situation there is little hope of pleasing either the East or the West.

The Soviet regime certainly will show no enthusiasm for a Polish and Czech desertion of the Russian economic camp. The Moscow hierarchy has always believed in the ascendancy of economic over political activity. Indeed, the main advance of Russians in the Balkans since the war has been through economic means. The first thing Moscow did after her troops moved in was to take control of the industry of the Balkan satellites and to tie their economies into the Soviet scheme.

This turning to the West for trade relations may seem to the Russians to be the first step toward breaking out of the Soviet orbit. Certainly, the West will make every effort to bring these countries into an Anti-Communist bloc.

Czechoslovakia and Poland undoubtedly will take a different view. However they stand in relation to trade balances, they are likely to take a dim view of political orientation to the West. Both have had bitter experiences of being abandoned to Germany by their Western allies.

Both realize, too, that Central and Eastern Europe are under Russia's thumb and that actions hostile to Russia will net them only trouble in the future. They understand that they have the precarious role of buffers and dare neither fish nor fowl for fear of aligning themselves with the losing side.

Apparently the proposed trade plans are being made in the desperate hope that they can be politically on one side of the fence and economically on the other.

The difficulty lies in the fact that economic activities have political implications and political activities have economic implications. The two cannot well be separated.

Such a split personality will not long be tolerated by the great Powers. The West undoubtedly will try to use economic means for political penetration; the Soviet Union will probably attempt through political means to interfere in the national economies of these countries.

Since there can no longer be such a thing as neutrality in the world, Poland and Czechoslovakia must sooner or later get on one side of the fence, and the process of moving one way or another are certain to create new antagonisms between East and West.

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT The Grim Fanaticism of Our Foreign Policy Doesn't Fit Us

By SAMUEL GRAFTON
New York Post Syndicate

As to what is wrong with American foreign policy, one might murmur that it has perhaps too much Cotton Mather in it, and not enough Roger Williams. It could also use more Mark Twain, Jack London and Walt Whitman. These not very learned allusions are only an indirect way of stating that American foreign policy suffers from a certain moralistic grimness and a nervous fanaticism, neither of which qualities is very typical of us as a people.

Any foreign policy which ignores the broad currents of tolerance and laughter in American life, can not be truly representative of what we are, and have almost always been. We are closer now to the unsmiling McKinley, than to the Lincoln who used to tell jokes. We are having a field day for the stuffed shirts and the twopenny moralists, for unlightened respectables and eager conformists.

Once upon a time our little adventure in support of the Greek throne would have been laughed at (in our name and on our behalf) by a Mark Twain, an Artemus Ward, a Bill Nye, a Petroleum V. Nasby, a Charles Battell Loomis and a Finley Peter Dunne. Good mockers these, and we loved them, and they loved us, for we were sufficiently secure inside our American selves not to be unduly alarmed by humor that ran athwart the current of the time.

Today a joke on this score would be treated like a joke at a funeral; lower lips would tremble in outrage and dismay. We hardly have an American irreconcilable left to our names, and we are confined to the weak humors of conformity.

The chief single victory the Bolsheviks have won has been to impose their own sullen, sodden mood upon our entire age, so that we are reduced to fighting them with emotional weapons which are in effect, theirs and not ours.

Perhaps the greatest cultural change in the last two generations is that we have shifted from a time when our leading writers used gayly to fight deep current prejudices, to a time in which they morosely express and articulate them.

We would, in an earlier day, I think, have sent aid to Greece; but a wave of American laughter would have kept us from entering into a solemn love affair with Greek reaction and the Greek throne. We could not have kept our faces straight if we had tried it. And any Greeks who were like ourselves, in their love of political freedom, would have come toward us confidently, expecting a pat on the back and a cup of coffee. But the difference goes even deeper: in that earlier day there would have been in the very tone of our conversations with the Bolsheviks (had there been any then) a certain cocky American freshness; a quality which used to rise spontaneously to our lips at a time when our doors were open to newcomers from all over the world, when we feared neither man nor ideas, but were high with newness and growth and laughter and untroubled love of the world we lived in.

I do not think it is out of place to mourn for these dwindling qualities, or to believe that they used to help us, and make us friends, and keep us strong. To long for their resurgence is to be faithful to a good American tradition; there may even be a kind of fidelity in the angry uniformity which creeps over us now, in the imitative dourness which has invaded our handling of our affairs. There is a certain shiver in that, for which it is hard to find a counterpart or a voice in all our previous generations, the ones that made us great.

You Gotta Have Cash Left for Popcorn!

HAWLEY, Minn. (AP)—High school students think prices at Hawley's only theater are too high. So 14 of them picketed the theater last night. Charles McDonald, 13-year-old spokesman for the pickets, estimated that only "14 or 15" persons entered the show-house.

"Our folks are backing us up," young McDonald said. "It's sort of a secondary boycott with them." In a petition to R. H. Vieth, owner, the children asked for reduction of the present price of 40 cents, including tax, for everyone over 12 years old.

"I'm ignoring them," was Vieth's only comment.

Women Like Ingrid, Bing Best

Ingrid Bergman is the favorite movie actress of American women and Bing Crosby is first among male stars for the second year in succession, according to results of the Woman's Home Companion's latest and third annual opinion poll which will appear in the June issue.

With about one in every three women voting for Ingrid Bergman, the stars rated as follows:

- Actress
1) Ingrid Bergman.....Bing Crosby
2) Greer Garson.....Walter Pidgeon
3) Bette Davis.....Gregory Peck
4) Claudette Colbert.....Gary Cooper
5) Irene Dunne.....Cary Grant
6) Rosalind Russell.....Clark Gable
7) Joan Crawford.....Spencer Tracy
8) Katharine Hepburn.....
9) Olivia de Havilland.....
Joseph Cotten

10) June Allyson.....Lionel Barrymore
In similar polls conducted by the Companion in 1945 and 1946 among its 3,700,000 readers, top laurels went to Greer Garson and Walter Pidgeon in 1945, and to Greer Garson and Bing Crosby in 1946.

Ingrid Bergman, who rated second last year, reached top place in 1947 for her performances in "Notorious" and "Saratoga Trunk," according to comments of voters. Greer Garson still ranks high in the opinion of women of the country with one vote in every five. Of those in the favorite ten last year, Margaret O'Brien and Judy Garland have dropped out of the running with Katharine Hepburn and Olivia de Havilland moving up. Miss de Havilland gets this year's special Companion award for her rapid rise. Last year she wasn't even in the running.

Although girls under 26 years of age gave Gregory Peck more votes than they did Der Bingle, ladies over 26, and especially over 36, gave Bing such a big vote that he continued to come out on top. Cary Grant came out so close to Gary Cooper for fourth place that the result was almost a photo finish and it was the vote of women over 46 that carried Cooper first over the finish line.

Jimmy Stewart and Lionel Barrymore moved up into the first ten this year with Van Johnson and Ronald Coleman dropping out.

Interesting angle of the poll was the change in preference as to types of motion pictures. Musicals came up from second to top place, while romantic dramas, most popular last year, dropped to fourth. Psychological dramas rose from a one percent vote last year to a vote of preference of 42 percent for 1947 with women 36 years of age and under largely responsible for this rise. Documentary films showed a very strong trend with older voters in 1946, now they are also very popular with young women. Feature cartoons and news reels too, have gained much support from the younger voters as against 1946.

How to Beat the Fly

By JORDAN JACKS
Iowa can be fly-free this summer and every summer if Iowans will employ the "SSS" fly-killing method.

"We're fighting five definite kinds of flies," states Dr. Harold (Tiny) Gunderson, Iowa State college extension entomologist. "We can destroy the house fly, the stable fly, the blow fly and the fruit and fungus fly by shooting, swatting and spraying them."

Key to state fly control is the "wonder insecticide," DDT. DDT coupled with normal sanitary precautions in the home, in the food handling concerns and on the farm will rid Iowa of flies in a period of one month, he states.

All Iowa must pitch into the fight, Gunderson asserts. The best time to apply DDT is the first few weeks of June. Sanitation should be carried through at all times.

If Iowa rids itself of these five types of flies, it will also lower the disease rates, of typhoid fever, diarrhea and, Gunderson hopes, infantile paralysis.

For fly control in and around the home, Gunderson recommends:

1. Wash out garbage cans for DDT in the places where flies breed or rest will bring good results.

For inside spraying of restaurants, butcher shops, grocery stores and home garages, Gunderson recommends:

1. A solution of one part of 25 percent DDT in xylene with four parts of water applied at the rate of one gallon per 1,000 square feet of surface.

2. All foods wrapped in wax paper, cellophane or left in the open should be covered. Also cover all surfaces which come directly in contact with foods. Newspapers will do for covers.

Almost any type of sprayer can be used in applying DDT, Gunderson says. A flat nozzle sprayer which produces a fan-shaped spray will give the best results, however, he adds.

When spraying large surfaces inside and outdoors, Gunderson recommends 60 pounds spraying pressure. Hand pressure over small surfaces will be adequate, but painting DDT over such areas will give better results.

"Rid your home of flies this summer, and you help rid Iowa of diseases carried by the insects," Gunderson declares.

Lila Fliss Weds John Reichardt In I.C. Ceremony

Lila Jean Fliss became the bride of John D. Reichardt yesterday morning at 9 o'clock in the First Methodist church. The Rev. L. L. Dunnington performed the single ring ceremony.

Elegne Fliss, 232 N. Linn street, was maid of honor and Al DiMarco of Mason City, best man.

The bride wore a shell pink girdling suit and corsage of gardenias, and the maid of honor wore an apple green suit with a corsage of red roses.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Fliss, route 7, and is a graduate of Iowa City high school. The bridegroom, son of Mrs. L. A. Schnare, route 3, attended University high school.

After a brief wedding trip the couple will make their home in Iowa City.

MR. AND MRS. T. W. HAWKINSON, Des Moines, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Joan, to David D. Millikan, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Milligan, also of Des Moines. Miss Hawkinson is a junior at the University of Iowa and her fiancé is a senior at the university. The wedding will take place Aug. 9 in Des Moines.

TO WED JUNE 8

ANNOUNCEMENT HAS BEEN MADE of the approaching marriage of Rosemary Brock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Brock, Winterset, to George J. Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Moore, Des Moines. Miss Brock was graduated from Winterset high school and will graduate from the University of Iowa in June. Her fiancé was graduated from Roosevelt high school, Des Moines, and will also graduate from the university in June. The wedding will take place June 8 in The Little Chapel of the Congregational church.

Frats Plan Booklet For Fall Rushees

Interfraternity Council President Art Below yesterday announced plans for a booklet to help rushees through next fall's rushing program.

An editorial staff has been chosen for the booklet, which will be published in July. The staff includes Bill Tucker, A3, Atlantic, editor; Mel Leiserowitz, A2 Des Moines and Bob Phinney, A2, Council Bluffs, associate editors. Plans to publish the booklet were made at the interfraternity council's last meeting of the school year, held hursday. The program and dates for next fall's rushing were also decided at the meeting.

To Wed June 7

ANNOUNCEMENT IS MADE of the engagement of Donna Ferkin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Scriven of Montour, to Harold V. Hayes, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Hayes of Casey. The wedding will be June 7 at the Iowa City Methodist church. Both the bride-elect and her fiancé are sophomores at the university.

SUI Concert Season To End Wednesday

"Harold in Italy", Berlioz's popular concert symphony, will be featured by the university symphony orchestra in its final concert of the season in Iowa Union lounge at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

Byron Darnell, G of Pueblo, Colorado, takes the symphony's viola solo parts.

After intermission, the orchestra will play Sibelius' symphonic poem, "Pohjola's Daughter", Adagio from Mahler's Fifth symphony, and the overture "Carnaval", opus 92, by Antonin Dvorak.

Of "Harold in Italy", composed in 1834, Berlioz said,

"I conceived the idea of writing a series of scenes for orchestra in which the viola should find itself mixed up. One principal theme keeps recurring throughout the work, being superadded to the other orchestral strains." Otto Jelinek performed the solos a few years ago with the university orchestra.

Free concert tickets may be obtained at the main desk in Iowa Union beginning tomorrow.

Knowler to Speak

Prof. Lloyd A. Knowler head of the mathematics department, will speak Tuesday on "Quality Controls for Profit" to the Tri-City chapter of the National Association of Cost Accountants. The meeting will be held in the Le Claire Hotel in Moline, Ill.

Extinguish Blaze At Hier's Grocery

Firemen had to break in two doors to extinguish flames which licked the ceiling at Hier's grocery store, 931 N. Dodge street, about 12:30 this morning.

No one was injured in the fire but groceries and store supplies were destroyed by the smoke and flames.

The fire was discovered by James B. Morris, L1, Law Commons, who was walking by. Morris saw the flames at the rear of the store and ran to a nearby house and called in the alarm.

No estimate of damage was made.

TRADE ORGANIZATION

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Marshall last night urged agreement on a charter for the proposed international trade organization as a "great step toward economic stability and the common security."

Vet's Guidance Center Has No Crystal Ball But Helps in Defining Individual Problems

By ROBERT RUIH

Five veterans each day are now receiving vocational and educational guidance, Elbert E. Beaver, chief of the Veterans Administration Guidance center in East hall, said yesterday.

Arrangements are now completed to give vocational guidance counsel to 100 veterans a month. "We have greatly reduced the interval between the time when a veteran applies for guidance and the time he receives it," Beaver said.

Three thousand printed forms are ready for distribution to veterans who will interrupt or change their college training. These forms urge veterans who wish advice about their best occupational field or college courses to apply for an appointment at the guidance center.

Beaver emphasized that these counseling services are particularly of value to men who:

- 1) Have decided on an occupation or course, but who want a "check-up."
- 2) Are undecided about the kinds of work in which they would be happiest or most successful.
- 3) Are thinking about changing courses or dropping school altogether.
- 4) Feel they're not making good progress toward the jobs they're interested in.
- 5) Make good grades in some courses, but have trouble with others.

"The veterans' administration guidance center has no crystal balls or magic wands," Beaver said. "We don't know all the answers but we can help a veteran define his problems so that he has a far better idea about his best occupational fields or college courses after he has completed counseling than he had before."

Every student veteran should ask himself these questions, Beaver said. Am I satisfied with my courses? Is my grade average satisfactory? Am I making progress towards the job I want?

Veterans can arrange for an appointment by going to the VA guidance center or the student counseling office in room E-122, East hall.

"Services are confidential and a veteran's only obligation is to meet all appointments," Beaver said.

Darnell Will Leave For Denver Symphony

Honey chiles, . . . are you po' people longin' for a hunk a shortcake smothered with strawberries and topped with whippin' cream from SWANER FARMS DAIRY?

—The LAST WORD—
Slowly the laundry bag slid down to the ground. The two men(?) stood silently until it was within their reach, . . . then gently they placed the precious cargo in it and watched it ascend the wall of the Pi Phi house and then disappear in to Marnie Herrald's room. "Aha," Miles Harden whispered to Tom Murphy, "By the way she winds up that rope, I know it's not the first time she's had hamburgers afer hours!"

—The LAST WORD—
BEAT THE HEAT!!
When that summer "heat wave" hits . . . don't let it catch you unprepared!! Assure yourself of cool comfort during the torrid months by stopping in at MULFORD'S and looking over their supply of fans. Fans of all kinds and descriptions; table, floor or pedestal styles, either with steel or rubber blades . . . but all fans that will blow away all heat discomfort when the thermometer passes 90°. And while you're in MULFORD'S look over their other electrical equipment; see their large array of irons, clocks and all those desired household appliances. Stop in MULFORD'S tomorrow.

—The LAST WORD—
For the past week the SAEs have been automatically gathering after dinner and setting up a howl for their song leader, Bob Butler. For three months now they have practiced every night for the University Sing as well as working on music for the Seals show and they just can't seem to get out of the habit.

—The LAST WORD—
We won't give 'em back to the Indians! . . . 'cause we know you'll want the moccasins at STRUBB'S SHOE STORE. Done up in brown and white or all white and with white soles, these Indian style shoes are enough to make any squaw squawk for a pair. No matter how much wampum we're offered by those red-skins in their wig-wams, we won't let 'em go, so there will be plenty for you pale-faces, priced at $4.95 at STRUBB'S SHOE STORE.

—The LAST WORD—
Met a fugitive from the "Fiji Party" . . . You know, that was the Phi Gam's native fling when the palm tree swayed and the grass skirts swung . . . He said everything went off per schedule . . . the illuminated waterfall was full of fish (gold ones, that is) and the grass huts held up fine. Yep, a date to that "Fiji Party" meant a fine time!

Guest Consultant for this week is Arch Madden, social chairman for the SAE house. Arch really doesn't live up to his title, however, because he says he's had fewer dates this semester than any other fraternity man on campus. But if he doesn't get around he must know someone who does, 'cause he really knows what's going on! But these dateless evenings are getting him down. He says even his best friends won't tell him what's wrong. (Wonder if he knows how to use this new invention, the telephone?)

It would seem that Duster Cook, SAE, is trying to set a new record for the number of sorority formals attended in one semester. The latest development is that he has two scheduled for one evening. Cute trick if you can handle it! And then there are some guys who say they have trouble getting dates!

—The LAST WORD—
WHY WAIT 'TIL WINTER?
Why not have your Fire Tender stoker from the LAREW COMPANY installed now? The weather won't always be this warm and why be bothered with a conversion when it's cold? . . . Have it done NOW. A Fire Tender stoker cuts down on coal expenses, offers a large measure of safety, and it's clean. So don't enslave yourself to a furnace this winter, let a Fire Tender stoker from the LAREW COMPANY fire it for you.

—The LAST WORD—
Contrary to public opinion Stan Straatma, SAE, did know the words to the two songs they sang at the song fest. What's more he can sing. . . he wasn't just mouthing the words!

—The LAST WORD—
Birthday! Graduation! Farewell! Whatever occasion may arise . . . Let HERTEEN AND STOCKER help you solve your gift problem. From their large array of gift items you're bound to find something that will please the recipient. Stud sets, key chains, watch bracelets, tie sets, compacts, bracelets, earrings, pins, birthstone rings . . . just to mention a few articles available at HERTEEN AND STOCKER'S. Get that special gift for that "special" someone at HERTEEN AND STOCKER'S tomorrow!

Where to Go . . .

"Mike" Maley and LaVerne Capel, Alpha Chis, stop on their way to an afternoon tea to enjoy the beauty of coming summer. The place: A shady nook on the spacious lawns of Old Capitol. The dresses chosen from STRUB'S.
Mike's typical summer frock of fine combed chambray is created by Hal-Mar. Sun tinted pastels of blue and pink dash the V-shaped inset on the top front and back of the dress and also trim the large patch pockets.
La Verne is wearing a summer weight chambray, frosted with fine white eyelet embroidery. Her choice for the fashion circle is one of the many Paula Brooks models now featured exclusively at STRUB'S.
The accessories: Matching picture hats, purses and gloves also are chosen from STRUB'S.

I.C. Woman to Leave For Denmark Today; May See Coronation

It should be a happy family get-together in Skellebjerg, Denmark, when Mrs. Ancher Christensen, 924 Iowa avenue, arrives in Denmark aboard the SM Bafory.

After visiting her brothers and sisters, she will return to the United States August 2. Her brother, Mr. Anton Nielsen of Los Angeles, his wife and three children will meet Mrs. Christensen in New York and accompany her on the trip. Her sister, Mrs. Krogh from Lone Tree, was to join her last night.

They planned to leave Iowa City this morning.

She expects to find "fair" conditions in Denmark, but is taking hard-to-get sewing machine needles, rice, raisins and coffee. Mrs. Christensen hopes to arrive in Denmark before the coronation of King Frederick IX, she said.

Suggests Student Credit For Business Experience

An Iowa State college professor, addressing Iowa City businessmen yesterday advised giving students college or high school credit for work done in business as well as classroom.

Dr. M. D. Potter, associate professor of education, said both student and business could benefit by a combination of classroom and practical experience.

Students would have regular classes while work in business would serve as a supplementary laboratory, Potter said. To make it a working program, he said, cooperation of businessmen and educators must be gained.

Calls Dance A Key To Friendly Relations Between Nations

To you a dance may be just a dance, but folk dances may be a key to international understanding.

Prof. Dudley Ashton of the women's physical education department explains that you can understand people by studying their dances.

Graduate women in her course this summer will be learning the dances of northern and southern Europe. Called "Dances of One World", it is the second of a series of four summer courses.

Professor Ashton explains that dances are a cultural development based on customs and characteristics of a people.

Students will learn the English and Irish reels and jigs, Morris and sword dances, Scandinavian dances, the tarantella of Italy and the saraband of Spain.

The sword dance which the Scottish Highlanders have performed is danced with variations in all countries, says Professor Ashton.

"One of the best sword dances I ever saw," she said, "was danced by two Russian soldiers."

Weather may not affect your dancing moods, but according to Miss Ashton, climate has done things to dancing. English dances are staid and set, like the people, and in learning them classes must be careful not to vary the form.

Spanish dances, like the people, are more emotional and cannot be standardized. Professor Ashton has worked out her own arrangements of basic movements.

Scandinavian dances, she says, are gay and carefree, like the people. "They work hard all day, and they dance hard at night." Many dances came out of medieval trade guilds of cobblers, weavers and spinners.

One peasant Spanish dance, the Sardana, probably will not be put to its native use by this class. In

To Honor Women Phys, Ed. Majors

"Leggin's to Leotards" will be the theme of a banquet honoring senior women physical education majors at 6:45 p.m. Tuesday in the River room of the Iowa Union.

Speeches by staff members and students will stress progress in physical education from pioneers in "leggin's" to the modern-day woman in dance dress "leotards". Approximately 130 physical education majors and instructors will attend.

Committee heads for the banquet are Carol Clark, decorations; Frances Falk, entertainment; Anna Gay, programs; Barbara Timm, seating arrangements; Opal Bane and Joy Wilson, invitations; Yvonne Franzke, finances; and Carol Brockway and Jean Wigness, menu.

Camera Club Schedules Picture Scavenger Hunt

A picture scavenger will be the feature of the last Camera club meeting of the school year.

The meeting will be held Tuesday night in the Chemistry building. Members will be sent out with their own cameras to take pictures assigned like a scavenger hunt.

Barcelona, the sardana is a political technique that a city boss might envy, used to call people together for community ceremonies.

Castanets are another feature of Spanish dances which Miss Ashton will introduce to the classes. Each castanet has its own meaning: the "female," held in the right hand, clicks out a melody, while the "male," held in the left, beats out the accompaniment.

Professor Ashton says she has been playing them properly only since last September, and does not expect her students to master the technique in an eight-week course.

Author Previews Forthcoming Book At AAUW Meeting

Norwegians, noted for their skill as fishermen and sailors, had great patience in dealing with the blizzards and droughts of the mid-west during the early part of the 19th century, American Association of University Women were told yesterday.

Mrs. Leola Nelson Berghman, an American of Norwegian descent, reviewed her forthcoming book, "Americans from Norway," at the last meeting of the A. A. U. W. yesterday afternoon in the University clubrooms.

"The Norwegian record," Mrs. Berghman said, "reaches back further than any other group, except the Indians. The first white child born in North America was a Norwegian boy," she continued.

According to Mrs. Berghman, the real Norwegian immigration began in 1825. The first generations of Norwegians, the bulk of whom settled in the middle-west, were farmers. Their sons and daughters have gone into other works, particularly in the scientific and technical fields.

Mrs. Berghman, wife of Prof. Gustav Berghman of the philosophy and psychology departments, has read extensively, and collected reports and correspondence from

More Funds Available To Pay Air Reserves For Training Periods

Air reserve officers have been allotted additional active duty pay for the current fiscal year, Col. W. W. Jenna, commandant of the military department, announced yesterday.

Jenna said he received information from the commanding general of the Second air force that the allotment for active duty periods is over and above those mentioned in previous announcements.

Jenna urged air reserve officers to take immediate action if they are interested in active duty training periods this summer. He said that more than one period of training may be taken if each period is in a different fiscal year. The present fiscal year ends June 30.

Both rated and non-rated officers and qualified officers may be ordered to active duty, Jenna said.

historical societies of Norwegian descent for the past few years.

She expects to complete her book in two years. It will be one of a series entitled, "The Peoples of America," edited by Louis Adamic.

Before the book preview, Lucille Dahlgren and Mrs. Robert Ballantyne were elected vice-president and treasurer respectively of the A.A.U.W. for the coming year.

Iowa Mountaineers Plan Two-Day Hike To Devils Lake, Wis.

Swimming, climbing, and horse-back riding are on the agenda of the Iowa Mountaineers outing to Devils Lake, Wis., May 23 to May 24.

The Mountaineers will take the trip in a truck, leaving 6 p.m. Friday and returning Sunday evening.

An outdoor camping area has been selected for the group, complete with water, a beach for swimming and a riding stable nearby. All cooking will be done in the camp.

Cook for Each Meal
At night the members will sleep in waterproof sleeping bags. Part of the food will be brought from Iowa City, the rest will be purchased in Baraboo, a nearby town. A cook will be assigned for each meal.

During the two days, hiking groups will visit all interesting landmarks while several climbing group tackle the major climbs around the lake. Boats also may be available.

Campfire Program
Saturday evening a campfire program has been planned. For those who wish to attend church Sunday morning, transportation may be had to Baraboo.

To take advantage of the scenery along the trail, each person is urged to carry a camera and plenty of film. The club will purchase the best shots for their records.

County Cancer Drive $400 Short of Goal; Campaign to Continue

Contributions to the Johnson county cancer drive are just $400 short of the $3,000 goal, Mrs. Lloyd Howell, chairman, announced yesterday.

Though the campaign was to end May 15, state headquarters has asked that the drive be continued until the end of May.

Results of the drive in townships and small school districts have been especially good, said Mrs. Howell, and several 4-H clubs have made large donations.

Mrs. Howell declared contributions must continue in order to make the drive a success. Checks payable to the American Cancer society can be mailed to Mrs. Lloyd Howell, 505 River street.

Mayor Koser Urges Poppy Day Sales

Calling upon Iowa Citizens to observe next Saturday as Poppy day here, Mayor Preston Koser yesterday issued this proclamation:

"Whereas, the young men of Iowa City have offered their lives in the nation's service and

"Whereas, the memory of those who have given their lives is cherished by us all and is an inspiration to us all in these grave days and

"Whereas, their service and sacrifice is symbolized by the memorial poppy of the American Legion and American Legion auxiliary, now therefore

"I, Preston Koser, mayor of the city of Iowa City do hereby proclaim Saturday, May 24, 1947, to be Poppy day in the city of Iowa City, and urge all citizens to observe the day by wearing the memorial poppy in honor of the men who died for America in the battles of World War I and World War II."

DiMarco's Passing Gives Gold Eleven 34-32 Win

AND THEN HE DID A LITTLE PASSING TOO!

Last Half Rally Overcomes Early 19-0 Disadvantage

By BOB COLLINS
Daily Iowan Sports Editor

Little Al DiMarco from Mason City gave 6,000 fans something to think about yesterday afternoon as he put on an unheralded show of passing magic to rally his Gold team to a 34-32 win over the Black eleven in the intra-squad "battle of the bruises."

On a field littered with individual stars of both fine teams, DiMarco stole the show with his talented tosses which scored three touchdowns and set up a fourth.

Once the former American Legion junior baseball pitcher and his battery mate, End Bob McKenzie, got their aerial magic underway, the early Black advantage faded. But in the early stages of the game the veteran Black machine did on the ground what the Golds accomplished through the air, and just as convincingly.

Led by Em Tunnell, Duke Curran and Bob Smith, the Blacks raced through and around the Gold defenses to roll up a 19-0 margin in the second quarter. The hard-charging Black line, with Earl Banks and Joe Grothus leading the way, worked with precision and the Gold team appeared in danger of being routed.

Bouncing Bob Smith opened the scoring with a 17-yard blast after Tunnell, King and Curran had moved the ball from the Gold 47 with a diversified running and passing attack. Al Baffo added the extra point with a place kick.

The Golds, with a fine new half-back, Bob Longley from Davenport, carrying the load, rolled to a first down before the Blacks' End Bob Phillips intercepted a pass on the Gold 48-yard line.

With the sureness that comes with game experience, the Blacks moved to another score without relinquishing possession of the ball. Tunnell and Bob Smith paced the attack with the Gremelin going over standing up from the six-yard line.

The third score was set up when Charles Zieke recovered a Gold fumble by Fullback Kaisershot on the winner's 31-yard line. A 20-yard pass by Jim McKinstry to Bob Phillips put the ball on the six-yard line and Shelby Brown ghosted his way over right tackle for the score. The try for extra point was blocked again and the Blacks relaxed with a 19-0 lead.

A reserve lineup was sent in and the Golds took full advantage of the chance to get back into the ball game. Longley, Del Bartells and Otis Finney collaborated with a fierce ground assault which rolled up five first downs in a 78-yard march climaxed when Longley plunged over from the four. The extra point backfired and the touchdown hungry Blacks took charge again.

On the second exchange of the ball, Em Tunnell cracked over right tackle and went 60-yards before he was tripped up on the Gold nine-yard line. Smith scored on a vicious plunge and the Blacks led 25-6.

But DiMarco was starting to pitch strikes. On the last play of the half he tossed a 34-yard beauty to Jimmy Smith who raced and faked his way 24 additional yards to make the nightcap, Spud Chandler settled down, allowing only two hits the rest of the way, to win his second game. The Yankees pecked away at Eddie Lopat, picking up a run in the second and two in the third.

count 25-13 at the gun.

The crowd was audibly pleased with the turnaround and the feeling that the Gold prosperity couldn't last was erased early in the second half when the combination of veterans and rookies put together a sustained drive of 71-yards to bring it up to 25-20.

Longley and Bartells gave variety to the steady diet of DiMarco passes as the Gold team racked up five first downs on the way. The pay-off play showed Longley streaking over from the three on a quick opening play that was T-formation at its best.

The teams traded first downs at the end of the third quarter and beginning of the fourth before the Black team went to work again. Taking the ball on the 48 they moved to a score when King went over on a quarterback sneak and Grothus place-kicked for a 32-30 margin.

That score should have washed the Gold eleven up for the day but just five passes and three first downs later DiMarco hit McKenzie with a bullet toss and a touchdown from the 12-yard line to make the score 32-26. Estes kicked the extra point and the crowd sensed an upset in the 32-27 score.

The break came on a fumble by the Blacks' Jack Legg which was recovered by the Gold on the 48. Eight passes shredded the Black defense—one of them good for 13 yards tossed by DiMarco while he was practically lying on his back. McKenzie time after time worked himself into the clear and took the last toss for the game-winning touchdown on a play that covered 17 yards. Estes added the placement and it was all over but the shouting.

The play of both teams was sharp and the list of standouts is legend. But DiMarco, with his 16 completed passes in 24 attempts, and his catcher, McKenzie, made the difference yesterday. As someone said, "It was a great show—wasn't he!"

Hawk Hitters Have Bad Day

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Minnesota took advantage of some weak Iowa hitting here yesterday to gain their first victory of the conference season 2-0. The loss cost Iowa a second place tie with Ohio State and gave the Hawks a 5-5 record in the Big Nine.

Tepe pitched for the Gophers and was never in trouble as he allowed the Hawks only six hits. Jack Bruner, who starred Friday on a quarterback sneak and Grothus place-kicked for a 32-30 margin.

That score should have washed the Gold eleven up for the day but just five passes and three first downs later DiMarco hit McKenzie with a bullet toss and a touchdown from the 12-yard line to make the score 32-26. Estes kicked the extra point and the crowd sensed an upset in the 32-27 score.

U.S. Golfers Win Walker Cup Matches

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP)—Seemingly inspired by the magnificent play of Marvin (Bud) Ward, America's Walker Cup team summoned an amazing burst of golf yesterday to sweep to victory in six out of eight singles matches against Britain's leading amateurs and regain by a final score of 8 to 4 the coveted team trophy which has resided in the royal and ancient clubhouse here since 1938.

Up to the time that Ward, the Spokane, Wash. veteran, set forth with fire in his eyes, the Americans had been locked in a grim hand-to-hand struggle that gave no hint of the ultimate victor. After Ward, down three holes at the end of the morning round, came back to reach his opponent, Leonard Crawley, by 5 and 3, his teammates turned the thing into a rout.

When the dust finally settled over the famous "Old Course," only Ted Bishop and Fred Kammer Jr., of the American side had failed to rack up victories, Smiley Quick, National Public Links champion, had slaughtered Jimmie Wilson of Scotland by 8 and 6, the day's most one-sided margin, and the big cup was on its way back to America.

The final count of 8 and 4 included the two victories scored by each team in the Scotch four-somes Friday.

Spahn Trips Cards Again

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals ran afoul their southpaw hoodoo again yesterday and dropped a 3 to 2 decision to Lefty Warren Spahn and the Boston Braves.

The Virginia bred Brabacan was second by a wide open four lengths over Earl Sande's Stage Kid, who nipped Jet Pilot at the wire for third money. Blue Border, much cooled from his gaudy galloping of last year, made one brief move rounding the stretch turn, then quietly slid to fifth.

The proceedings got Faultless a $20,950 winner's slice out of the $25,000-added pie, thereby boosting his earnings to $213,670 for two seasons and making him the No. 1 money-man among the three-year olds to date.

Joe DiMaggio's third home run of the season, a drive into the left field stands opening the ninth inning, gave the Yankees the victory in the opener.

Twin Win Puts Yanks Into Third Position

NEW YORK (AP)—Overcoming a three-run deficit in each game, the New York Yankees swept both ends of a double header from the Chicago White Sox yesterday by identical 4-3 scores. The double triumph, coupled with the Cleveland Indian's loss to Washington, vaulted the Yanks into third place.

Joe DiMaggio's third home run of the season, a drive into the left field stands opening the ninth inning, gave the Yankees the victory in the opener. After spotting the White Sox three runs in the first inning of

Browns Top Sox 4-2

BOSTON (AP)—Right-handed Ellis Kinder pitched great ball yesterday in his first 1947 start by doling out six hits to the American league champions as the St. Louis Browns defeated the Red Sox 4-2.

Kinder walked only one and fanned three. One of the six hits the Sox made was Eddie Pallagrini's third home run of the season high into the left center field screen in the eighth inning. Spahn registered his sixth straight victory without a defeat while Howie Pollet, the league's best pitcher last year, lost his fifth game in six starts. Redskin Catcher Phil Masi was the hitting star.

Hawklet Mile Medley Team Sets New Mark

Though City high could do no better than last place in the Mississippi valley conference track meet at Cedar Rapids yesterday, the mile medley team of Troyer, Williams, Wilson and Davis set a new conference record of 3:42.1.

Other events in which the Hawklets placed were: tied for third in the 880 relay. Roth tied for fifth in the high jump. Lyle Lord got fifth in the mile and the mile relay team placed second.

Davenport with 96 points won the meet followed by Clinton, Dubuque, Franklin, Wilson and Iowa City in that order.

City High's golf team tied for second place in the district golf meet at Davenport. Low scorers for Iowa City were Cannon and Dean with 85's and Burney and Kelly with 88's.

The Hawklet baseball game with Waterloo East, scheduled for yesterday morning, and the district tennis meet at Cedar Rapids were rained out.

Illini Win Big Nine; Split With Purdue Nine

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Illinois clinched the Big Nine baseball pennant yesterday by splitting a doubleheader with Purdue.

The Illini's Marv Rotblatt tied a modern conference record by winning his sixth victory against no defeats as he pitched his team to a 6-0 triumph over Purdue in the first game.

Purdue piled up five runs in the second inning of the afterpiece on a combination of three singles, two walks and an error to hand Illinois its third defeat in 12 games, 5 to 4. Monroe Sarge, Olin Martin and Merlin Galvin punched the deciding singles for the Boiler-makers. Illinois out-hit Purdue 10 to 4 but was charged with three costly errors, and left 14 men stranded.

Irish Beat Ex-Irish

SOUTH BEND, Ind. Iowa Golfers Take Hoosiers

The Iowa golf team kept its record unblemished yesterday by defeating Indiana 15 1/2 to 11 1/2 in a Big Nine dual meet at Finkbine field.

Rain and a soggy course boosted the morning scores in the doubles matches but the afternoon singles duels provided the best golf played at Iowa this season.

Medal honors for the day went to Hoosier Brook Pennick who nosed out James Rasley of Iowa 2-1. Pennick canned his approach shot on the 160-yard 18th hole to score an eagle duce and headed Rasley in the best match of the day with a 69. Rasley carded a 70.

Laws on Garbage Disposal Pointed Out in Anti-Pest Drive

By ART HEUSINKVELD

Public unfamiliarity with ordinances on garbage and refuse disposal drew partial blame Friday night for Iowa City's perennial rat and fly problem.

City councilmen, business representatives and interested organizations suggested that the city's projected drive against vermin and insects include an informative program on what the law requires.

As a public service, The Daily Iowan presents these excerpts from the Municipal Code of Iowa City:

GARBAGE—Prohibited disposal. It shall be unlawful for any person to throw or cause to be thrown any offal, slop, or waste from any creamery, factory, shop, slaughter house, boarding house, restaurant, laundry, meat market, or private residence, or other household refuse upon any street or alley, or upon any lot or land within that part or parts of the city established by the city council as a district in which garbage shall be collected by the city garbage collector.

Garbage cans: It shall be the duty of the occupant or lessee of such buildings or apartments within the district established by the city council for the collection of garbage to furnish a water-tight can large enough to hold the kitchen slops of any such building or apartment, for at least three days, in which all such kitchen slops must be disposed, and the same must be kept completely covered at all times and be placed at a convenient place in the rear of the lot or property near to the alley, in easy access to the city garbage collector. All slop must be drained of any superfluous liquid matter before being disposed in such cans.

Other materials kept from cans. No empty cans, bottles, broken glass, and iron, or any other material of this kind shall be disposed in any garbage can; the same shall be hauled away at the expense of the occupant or lessee of such buildings or apartments.

Penalty. Every such person failing, omitting or violating this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not less than $1 nor more than $100 and costs of suit.

REFUSE DISPOSAL AND CITY DUMPING GROUND—Offensive sights and odors. No person shall cause to be placed on any street, alley, public or private ground or permit to remain on any lot or parcel of ground under his control any deposits of manure, filth, offal, dead animals, decaying or decayed matter, old cans, broken bottles, or other refuse or rubbish or any other substance or materials where offensive odors or sights are engendered except such place shall be designated by the city council as a dumping ground for such refuse.

Prohibited refuse. No dead or decaying animals or food or any substance defined as garbage and required to be handled by garbage collectors shall be disposed at the city dump.

Exposure to flies. No person shall leave any garbage or other offensive substance exposed to flies or other insects.

Ralston creek. No person shall cause to be placed in the Ralston creek or on the banks thereof, refuse, garbage, or other noxious substances including empty cans, bottles, broken glass, old iron, or other material of similar nature.

Penalty. Any person violating any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not less than $1, nor more than $100 and costs of suit, and may be imprisoned until such fine and costs are paid, not exceeding 30 days, and each day's violation may be deemed a separate and distinct offense.

Death Notices

Ward Rowland

Private funeral services for Ward N. Rowland, 60, Johnson county resident, will be held tomorrow at 9:30 a.m. at Oathout funeral chapel. The Rev. James E. Waery will conduct the services and burial will be in Welsh cemetery.

Mr. Rowland died in University hospital about 12:20 p.m. Friday as a result of self-inflicted shotgun wounds in the upper abdomen, according to Coroner Frank L. Love.

Retiring from farming, Rowland moved to Iowa City in 1928. He attended Irish's business college and the Iowa Business academy before he started farming. Rowland was born March 19, 1887, the son of Isaac N. and Harriet Rowland, Johnson county farm couple.

Surviving are the widow, a daughter, Mrs. Dortha Elliot, San Diego; three sisters, Mrs. W. H. Griffith and Mrs. W. J. Weeber, Iowa City, and Mrs. Jack Taylor, Chico, Calif.; a brother, Will L. Rowland, Iowa City, and two granddaughters.

He was living in the home of his sister, Mrs. Griffith, route 4.

Lillie Adams

Funeral services for Lillie Adams, 79, will be held tomorrow at 10:30 a.m. at the Oathout funeral chapel with the Rev. Dono-

Organ Dedication New Methodist Organ Has 1,000 Pipes

Dedication of the new organ in the First Methodist church today will mark the culmination of plans first laid in 1940.

Valued at approximately $25,000, the organ has over 1,000 pipes ranging in size from some as small as lead pencils to others over 16 feet in length.

During remodeling of the church from 1940 to 1942, it was decided the Bennett tracker-action organ, installed in 1908, should be replaced.

Partly Rebuilt

Because the amount of funds raised at that time was insufficient, only 18 ranks of pipes were installed and dedicated in 1942. Of these, 12 were taken from the old organ and rebuilt, revoiced and tuned in St. Louis.

Installation of the last shipment of pipes and organ parts is now being completed.

Dr. Earl E. Harper, director of the school of fine arts, has acted for the church in planning the organ with the builders of the instrument, the Kilgen Organ company, St. Louis.

Given as Memorial

A campaign to raise funds was inaugurated during the past year under the leadership of Dr. L. L. Dunnington, minister, Mrs. Edward Weber and Harry Greene.

The organ was given as a memorial to Mr. and Mrs. Samuel W. Mercer by their children and grandchildren. The Deagan chimes were given by Dr. and Mrs. Harry Jenkinson in memory of their son, Roger, who lost his life while in service during World War II.

van G. Hart officiating. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery at Solon.

Miss Adams died at her home at 708 Grant street at 7 a.m. yesterday after a lingering illness.

She is survived by two sisters, Matilda Adams, with whom she lived, and Mrs. Catherine Hope, Iowa City.

A lifelong resident, she operated the Adams Sisters Hat Shop her with her sister until her retirement in 1921.

John P. Oakes

Funeral services for John P. Oakes, 81, will be held at 3 p.m. tomorrow at the Oathout funeral chapel with the Rev. P. Hewison Pollock officiating. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery.

Oakes died at Mercy hospital at 11:08 Friday. He had suffered a stroke ten days ago.

He is survived by his wife; a daughter, Mrs. George Kruse, Des Moines; a son, Perry J., and a brother, Perry C., both of Iowa City.

Oakes, a lifelong resident here, had operated the Oakes Bros. coal company with his brother since 1910.

Gordon's Not an Ordinary Goat—You'd Like Him

At Least, He's Popular in the Children's Room at the City Library

ALL EYES are glued on the book illustration as Mrs. Martin Baron reads during the Saturday afternoon story hour at the children's library. Camera and flash bulb just couldn't compete for the children's attention with "Katy and the Big Snow."

You'd like Gordon, the Goat. Gordon isn't an ordinary goat. He didn't like trailing along after the lead goat the way the other goats did. He often wondered why he did trail along.

Then one day the lead goat walked straight into a tornado and all the goats were blown into the sky. When Gordon settled to earth again he decided he wouldn't follow the lead goat anymore. From now on, said Gordon, he would think for himself. Since then Gordon has gotten along much better.

Mrs. Martin Baron, in charge of the children's room of the city library, prefers "Me Too" and "The Little House," but—well, Gordon is a very nice goat.

The children like their library. They swarm in every day as soon as school lets out.

Most of them are very independent, Mrs. Baron says. She is willing and eager to help them decide what to read but most of the children head straight to their preferred section of the racks, knowing beforehand just what books they want.

Their library cards permit them to take out four books at a time but that's not enough for some of the children who use their parents' cards, too. And it's a rare occasion when one of the younger children fails to go the limit, says Mrs. Baron.

For example, Patty is a new library patron but she's an especially avid "reader." She comes in almost every other day, taking out four new books on each visit. Only 3 years old, she can't read yet, but she studies the pictures while her mother tells her the stories.

There is wide variety in children's book illustration. Munro Leaf achieves delightful facial expressions with only the simplest pen lines and dots for eyes in his "Gordon, the Goat," but other books have elaborate full color art work.

The library's readership indicates that the children generally become conscious of Mark Twain, Louisa May Alcott and other writers of children's classics when they're about 9 years old. Mrs. Baron suggests that it's then that parents, teachers and librarians should gently start prodding them to read such books.

From the ages of 4 to 6 the boys seem to prefer stories about firemen, trains and animals. From 7 to 9 they go for cowboys and westerns. Girls' interests are varied through those early years but they join with boys in liking mystery, horse, dog, adventure and career stories from 10 on.

Saturday is the big day at the children's library. The doors are open from 9 a.m. until noon and from 1 to 6 p.m. A steady stream of books crosses the desk throughout the day. Last month 2,748 books were borrowed from the children's library; 1,988 of them were taken out on Saturdays.

The big event of each Saturday is the 2 o'clock story hour. Mrs. Baron reads selected stories to a circle of children who are supposed to range between 3 and 8 years old but often include some as old as 11.

With smoothness born of necessity, Mrs. Baron continues reading while, with pages doubled back, she swings the book in a slow arc so that the children can inspect each picture. If she fails to clearly show an illustration, there will be a general clamor, amid which some especially eager children will jump up to see for themselves.

Harold Eugene Smith, Coralville, and Keith John Peterson, 935 East Market street, have enlisted in class V-6, U.S. naval reserve. Both men have applied for the navy summer cruise to the Panama canal zone.

Breza Fined $6.50 In Egg Truck Crash

Victor R. Breza, route 2, Solon, was fined $6.50 including costs yesterday morning when charged with failure to yield the right of way to a truck carrying a load of eggs valued at an estimated $2,500.

State patrolmen said that Breza crossed highway 261 in the path of Frederick J. Moore, route 2, Mt. Vernon, who was driving a 1946 Dodge truck loaded with eggs. Moore swung clear of Breza's 1946 Studebaker pick-up and overturned. Moore received a leg injury in the accident.

Also fined by Judge Emil Trott was Emma Enfield, route 3, Iowa City, who paid $11.50 including costs on a charge of disorderly conduct. William L. Rohner, 718 S. Summit, was fined $6.50 including costs for operating a motor vehicle without a license.

Enters Not Guilty Plea To Intoxication Charge

Virgil Burnett yesterday pleaded not guilty before District Court Judge Harold D. Evans to a charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

He was released on bond to await trial by jury later in the present term of court. His attorney is E. P. Korab.
