Communists Denied Funds In House Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — After tacking on an amendment designed to deny federal educational funds to communist veterans, the house veterans committee yesterday approved a bill increasing government payments to married G.I. students.

It also approved another measure granting a new car to veterans of all wars who have lost the use of a limb, or are paralyzed, blind or nearly blind.

The measures still must go through the house and senate and be signed by the president before becoming effective.

The government help for the married veterans attending school would be raised from $90 to $105 a month. In addition, they would get $20 for one child and $15 for each additional one. The $65 a month figure for single G.I. students was not changed.

Any veterans in school, single or married, would forfeit their right to government aid if they advocate overthrow of the government. They would forfeit too, if they belong to an organization certified by the FBI to the veterans administration as advocating such overthrow.

If they accepted federal help in spite of such curbs, they would be subject to felony charges punishable by fines and prison terms.

3 Anti-Union Items Junked In Labor Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — House conferees on labor legislation have agreed to scrap three major union-curbing provisions of the house bill, Rep. Hartley (R-NJ) said yesterday.

Hartley told reporters the house group he heads decided informally to yield to the senate on house-voted clauses which carry:

1. A prohibition against nearly all industry-wide collective bargaining.
2. An authorization for private employers to obtain injunctions against some kinds of strikes and boycotts.
3. A ban on mass picketing and violence in picketing.

Hartley announced impending abandonment of these provisions after a separate hour-and-a-half meeting of the house conferees this morning. Then they headed for a brass tacks session with the senate group.

Referring to the three concessions, Hartley said: "We didn't take any formal vote, but I'm telling you that's the way it's going to be."

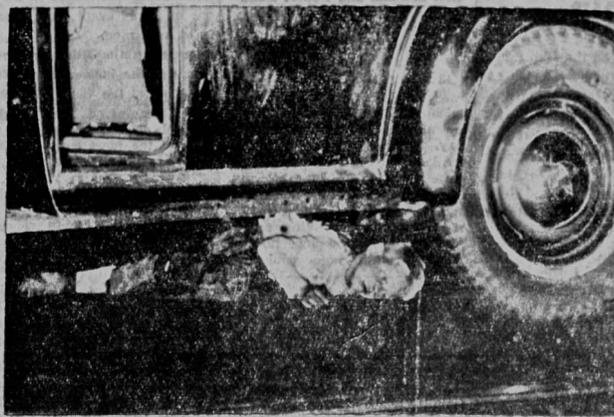

The New Jersey congressman told reporters the house members were motivated by a desire to get a bill which the senate would pass over a possible veto by President Truman. The house measure has more curbs on unions and strikes than the senate bill.

Hartley said that in return to yielding on the picketing provisions, the house expects the senate to accept some sort of safeguard which would permit non-strikers to get through picket lines to their jobs.

As the conference committee drove to finish its job of adjusting differences between the two bills by tonight, Senator Taft (R-Ohio), chief of the senate conferees, told reporters his group intends to make "no substantial concessions" to the house on major issues.

BILLIE HOLIDAY JAILED
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Billie Holiday, 28-year-old Negro blues singer who earned and spent $250,000 in the last three years, pleaded guilty yesterday in U.S. district court to receiving and concealing narcotic drugs and was sentenced to a year and a day in the federal reformatory for women at Alderson, W. Va.

Frantic Father Seeks Aid For Injured Son After Auto Accident

BRUCE THOMPSON, 6, LIES PINNED and bleeding beneath an auto (left picture) on an Oakland, California street after he was struck and run over late yesterday. His father, J.E. Thompson, who was nearby when the accident occurred, crawled under the car in an attempt to free the lad. In picture at right he holds his hands on his son's neck to stop the bleeding while he frantically demands the arrival of the ambulance which has been called. Some 20 passersby lifted the car off the boy. (AP WIREPHOTOS)

Deposed Nicaraguan President Seeking Sanctuary in Mexico

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Leonardo Arguello, president of Nicaragua for 28 days, was reported seeking asylum in Mexico yesterday after having been deposed in a national guard coup planned by former President Anastasio Somoza and replaced by a wealthy cattleman-banker.

A news dispatch from Managua, the Nicaraguan capital, said the congress of the Central American country had declared Arguello "unfit" to hold office at a special session last night, and had named Benjamin Lacayo Sacasa acting president. Lacayo Sacasa, a veteran politician, was the first presidential alternate.

This dispatch reported that Arguello had sought diplomatic asylum at the Mexican embassy, and might try to slip into Mexico. Somoza had ruled Nicaragua as chief of state for 10 years, but stepped down from the presidency May 1 in favor of Arguello, his protégé, who was elected with his blessing.

Sources close to the Nicaraguan situation in Panama said Somoza had engineered the coup because Arguello had turned against him and had tried to order him into exile. These informants said Arguello also had dismissed several Somoza supporters from high government posts.

The U.S. state department said in Washington it had been informed by the American embassy at Managua that Arguello, his wife and 11 national guard officers loyal to them had taken refuge in the Mexican embassy.

A tight censorship hindered the flow of news from Nicaragua, but there were no indications either in Washington or elsewhere that there had been any rioting or bloodshed in that country.

Gallows Claim 22 Nazi Camp Guards

LANDSBERG, Germany (AP) — Twenty-two guards and foremen at the Nazi's Mauthausen concentration camp died on black-curtained gallows here yesterday in the yard of the prison where Adolf Hitler once brooded as a prisoner and wrote "Mein Kampf." Twenty-seven more, including an Austrian gauleiter, are to be hanged by American soldiers today.

The Mauthausen executions, ordered by an American military court for the alleged slaughter of more than 700,000 victims of many nationalities, are the largest in the history of allied war crimes prosecution.

Under a sunny sky yesterday's 22 hangings were completed in two hours and 37 minutes by three G.I.'s using two scaffolds. A few minutes before the hangings began, two Polish displaced persons, convicted of murder and rape after the war, were executed by G.I. firing squads in another corner of the prison yard.

Farm Boy Kills 4 Playmates

IMLAY CITY, Mich. (AP) — Leonard said he then shot the three sisters, Barbara, 16, Gladys, 12, and Janet, 2, as they picked flowers, because "I thought the best thing to do was kill them all."

Sister Finds Bodies
When the children failed to return for supper, a 19-year-old sister, Ella Mae, searched for them. She found the bodies of the three girls together, and that of Stanley about 100 feet away.

Taking the family car, Terpening drove to Port Huron where he abandoned it. He then hitchhiked through Detroit, sleeping in a gas station on US-24 near the Ohio state line.

Meanwhile, informed by Terpening's parents that he was missing in the family car, Michigan state police sent out a widening alert and asked Canadian authorities to watch their side of the border.

Hitched a Ride
The youth, penniless and still dressed in the khaki clothes in which he left home, caught a ride yesterday morning with Norman Dombrosky, an Erie, Mich., farmer.

Dombrosky said his 15-year-old son, Norman Jr. had seen Terpening standing by the road and called his father's attention to his close resemblance to the wanted youth as described in radio broadcasts.

When Terpening told Dombrosky his destination was "anyplace" the farmer immediately drove to the suburban Toledo, O., office of justice R.O. Stevens, who summoned constables to arrest the unresisting boy.

The youth was described by his father, Oliver, as a "problem child" who quit the 11th grade of the Imlay City high school last November and ran away to Louisiana. His father sent money for his return.

Justice Albert Perkins signed a warrant accusing the quiet, former high school student of murder. "I don't know; I just don't know why I did it," State Police Commissioner Donald Leonard quoted Terpening.

Then the officer said the youth added: "I've always kinda wondered what it would be like to kill somebody. I'll tell the truth, I did it. I just wanted to see someone die."

Leonard said the boy then told through tears how in the past he thought of killing his stepmother, Myrtle, because he "didn't get along with her."

Instead, the commissioner said, Terpening suddenly and without warning shot the Smith boy as the latter sat down to rest during a hunt for crows.

Order Merger of Federal Housing Agencies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Merger of the government's loosely-knit housing functions under a single, permanent "housing and home finance agency" was ordered by President Truman yesterday.

Mr. Truman sent his proposal to Capitol Hill as "reorganization plan number three of 1947." The new agency will come into being 60 days hence unless Congress specifically disapproves.

While the proposed set-up would leave the emergency housing program untouched, Mr. Truman said it would set up a long range federal establishment which will unquestionably make for greater economy and efficiency.

The task of housing its citizens will remain a major objective of the nation "throughout the next decade," Mr. Truman said in a message accompanying the plan.

He added that unless reasonably prompt action is taken, the improvised wartime marriage of the housing agencies will dissolve with "consequent confusion and disruption" upon the expiration of the first war powers act.

"When this occurs the housing programs of the government will be scattered among some 13 agencies in seven departments and independent establishments," the President noted.

"Such a dispersal," he said, "not only would be inefficient and wasteful but also would seriously impair their usefulness."

Charge Misdemeanor In Missouri Primary

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A Jackson county grand jury declared yesterday "It is our belief that Rover C. Slaughter was deprived of the nomination for congress in the fifth Missouri district by fraudulent miscount of votes."

It was in the fifth district in last August's primary that Slaughter lost the Democratic nomination to Enos Axtell. President Truman had publicly asked for Slaughter's defeat because of differences over domestic policies.

Axtell, in turn was defeated by Albert L. Reeves Jr., in the general election.

The grand jury, which has indicted 78 persons for vote frauds, made its final report, asking "a complete recount of all ballots" in the congressional primary race.

The four-page report stated that the inquiry had "demonstrated that Perrin D. McElroy and Michael O'Hern won" in the Democratic primary last August, although both were declared losers in the official count.

The fifth district is adjacent to the fourth, which includes President Truman's home precinct.

Trapper Hits Jackpot; Bobcat Triples Bounty
AUGUSTA, Me. (AP) — What looked like only a $15 bounty to a Patten trapper who had caught a large bobcat proved to be three times that amount yesterday.

While Game Warden Sherwood Howes and the trapper viewed the catch, the female cat gave birth to two kittens in the trap.

The fish and game department said "If that's the story, the trapper is entitled to a state bounty of $15 for each cat."

Gen. Evans Carlson, Marine Raider, Dies

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Brig. Gen. Evans F. Carlson, marine corps raider of World War II fame who retired to a mountain cabin on the slopes of Mount Hood in quest of peace, died early yesterday. He was 51.

He twice suffered heart attacks last November and a third attack Monday night brought death.

The general public first came to know him when "Carlson's Gung Ho Raiders" attacked Makin island in 1942 and laid waste Japanese installations.

And The Little Kitten Wasn't Even Smitten
EAU CLAIRE, Wis. (AP) — A tiny kitten tried to cross a busy street and—

John B. Allen, 25, swerved his car to avoid hitting it, and crashed into a pole bearing an electric transformer. High tension wires broke, fell on the car and set it afire. Allen got out safely. The car was a total loss.

The fire department arrived, put out the fire and started to leave. A second pole collapsed, missing the truck by five feet.

The power circuit, covering a large section of the city, was out for 12 minutes.

The kitten was unharmed.

FBI Declares Mob Member Has Confessed

JACKSON, N. C. (AP) — Warrants charging seven persons with kidnaping for taking Godwin (Buddy) Bush, 24-year-old Negro, who was taken from the jail here in an apparent lynching attempt last Friday were signed before Magistrate J. H. Boone here last night.

Sheriff J. C. Stephenson of Northampton county declined to say when the arrests would be made. He referred all questions to Solicitor Ernest B. Tyler who in nearby Rich Square earlier had announced that warrants had been drawn up against four men on the basis of a confession the FBI said it had obtained from one of the alleged members of the mob.

The FBI said in Washington yesterday the confession it had obtained implicated "seven other white persons" in the affair.

Tyler said the identity of the men would not be revealed until they had been arrested by Stephenson.

In a statement given to The Associated Press by long distance telephone, Tyler said, "We are charging them with kidnaping, the only felony involved in the case."

The solicitor said the warrants were being obtained on the strength of a confession from one of the members of the mob which took Bush, a suspect in the alleged attempted rape of a white woman, from the jail. The Negro escaped after making a daring break for freedom just after he had been placed in an automobile in front of the jail. He then gave himself up to the FBI.

In Raleigh, Governor Cherry said he was "glad they're making some progress" when informed that the federal bureau of investigation had obtained a confession from one of the mob.

"I hope they'll get enough evidence to sustain convictions," Cherry added.

An announcement from FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said the evidence in the case had been examined by the department of justice, which held that no violation of federal law was involved.

Hence, he said, the confession "and the identity of the others participating" had been turned over to State Solicitor Tyler at Jackson.

The FBI gave out no names.

Bus Drivers Set to Strike In Midwest

CHICAGO (AP) — Representatives of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Burlington Transportation company met with federal conciliators yesterday in an attempt to avert or delay a strike of 375 bus drivers set for today in 13 states.

However, T. L. James, vice president of the company, said "It appears that the strike will go on as scheduled at 6 a.m. today."

Jesse E. Jacobson, federal conciliator, who has been meeting with brotherhood and company officials, was not immediately available for comment.

James said the strike, if put into effect, would involve a total of 850 employees.

James said the strike was called after the company and the union failed to agree on the union's demand for higher wages. He said the company's position was that "it cannot pay any more than has been offered to its employees."

The present scale for drivers is 5.25 cents a mile and the company has offered 5.45 cents. The union demands 6.25 cents. The company had advised all its employed that they would be taken from the payrolls if the strike was called.

The company, known as Burlington Trailways, operates in Iowa, Illinois, Missouri, Nebraska, Colorado, Kansas, Wyoming, Montana, South Dakota, Utah, Arizona, California and Nevada.

Union officials were not available for comment.

Bruins Baffer Five Pitchers For 14 Blows

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Chicago Cubs moved into the National league lead last night when they batted out 14 hits off five Cardinal hurlers to hand the St. Louis club its first night defeat of the season — 10 to 3. Bob Chipman gave up 11 scattered hits to the Redbirds.

Manager Charley Grimm had to revise his Chicago Cubs' lineup for last night's game after center fielder Andy Pafko flew to Chicago for treatment of an infected kidney.

Harry (Peanuts) Lowery was shifted from third base to center field and Stan Hack, previously excused from night play, was re-installed at his third base post.

Fannin Hurls Browns To Split With Chisox

CHICAGO (AP) — Young Cliff Fannin pitched the St. Louis Browns to a 2-0 victory yesterday, allowing the Chicago White Sox three hits after the Browns lost the opener of the double header, 5-2.

Fannin went six innings without giving up a hit. He struck out eight batters and walked none in scoring his second win of the season. The Browns collected six off Frank Papish, Chicago southpaw.

In the opener, the Sox scored four runs in the sixth inning and one run in the seventh.

St. Louis scored both of its runs in the seventh. Walt Judnich opened with his No. 5 homerun. Jack Early followed with a triple, scoring after pinch batter Ray Coleman's fly.

The second game was scoreless until the sixth. With two out Papish walked Vern Stephens. Vern stole second and continued on to third when catcher Joe Stephenson threw into center field.

Al Zarilla doubled to score Stephens. Jerry Witte's single counted Zarilla before Papish restored order.

U.S. Stars Shine In Britain

By BILL MACKLIN
CARNOSTIE, Scotland (AP) — America's powerful challenge for the British amateur golf championship gained impetus yesterday as five of Uncle Sam's Walker Cup stars swept through second round matches and only one, Smiley Quick, fell by the wayside, swatted down by a teammate.

By a quirk of the draw, it fell to Ted Bishop of South Natick, Mass., the American amateur champion, to eliminate the scrapping little Public Links titlist from Los Angeles, just as he beat him in their thrilling 37-hole final in the amateur event last summer at Baltusrol.

This time the angular, balding Bishop did it convincingly, turning on a spectacular streak of golf on the back nine to defeat Quick, 3 and 2, on the 16th green.

So exasperated was Quick at missing a three-foot putt on the final green that would have kept the match alive that he smashed his favorite putter and tramped off muttering to himself. The outburst gained him headlines in the British press last night.

An hour later Frank Stranahan, the Toledo, Ohio, strong boy, virtually duplicated Bishop's blazing stretch as he swept to a 6 and 4 second round triumph over Donald Cameron of Scotland.

Marvin (Bud) Ward of Spokane, Wash., advanced to the third round with a one-sided 6 and 4 win over Ray Winter of England; Dick Chapman of Pinehurst, N. C., won his second rounder from W.J.B. Birardet of England, 4 and 3, and Willie Furness of White Plains, N. Y., squeaked into the third round with a 1 up win over Count De Benders, who won the British title in 1932 as John De Forrest.

Hawkeye Golfers In Title Quest

Unbeaten Iowa Team Faces Heavy Action

Iowa's undefeated golf team invades the land of the Boilermakers tomorrow when they meet Purdue and Wisconsin in a triangular meet on the Purdue course.

Thursday's tussle will be the final tune-up for the three teams before teeing off in quest of the Big Nine golf crown on the Lafayette links Friday.

Coach Kennett last night named his starting lineup as Charles Updegraff, Bob Rasley, Bob Graham, John Campbell, Dan Seechan and Robert Lundstedt.

The Hawkeyes are undefeated in conference competition this season with a record marred only by a 13½ to 13½ tie with the Minnesota coppers. The Old Gold linksmen have also bested Bradley and Coe in non-conference play.

All of the Big Nine will be represented in the 72-hole title play that goes off the first tee Friday morning with Iowa, Minnesota and Ohio State ranking as the best bet; to beat the powerful Purdue team on its home course.

Hawk Runners In Loop Meet

Coach George Bresnahan will take a squad of 13 track men to Evanston tomorrow to vie for honors in the Big Nine outdoor track and field championships beginning Friday in Dyche stadium.

The power-laden Illinois cinder team is an odds-on favorite to defend its title successfully with outstanding contenders in all but one of the 14 events and favorites in at least nine.

Heading the Illinois parade of stars is the incomparable Herb McKinley, the fleet Jamaican, who scampered to a world's record of 46.2 seconds in the 440 at the meet last year. McKinley will also defend his 220-yard dash laurels.

All winning relay teams and the first three place winners in the individual events will represent the Big Nine in a dual track meet with the Pacific coast conference at Berkeley, Calif., Jun 28.

Iowa's chances appear brightest in the dashes with Capt. Jack Simpson rounding into shape as one of the speedier dash men in the conference. Simpson has run the century in 9.7 seconds this season and was beaten by only one stride by Wisconsin's Dick Houden last week.

Kell Has Field Day; Tigers Rout Feller

DETROIT (AP) — Combining the hitting of George Kell with the hurling of Al Benton and Hal Newhouser, the Detroit Tigers beat the Cleveland Indians 4-2 in the rain yesterday, handing Bob Feller his fourth defeat of the season against five wins.

Kell, drove in three of the Detroit runs with four singles and scored the other himself as the Tigers tagged Feller for eight hits in six innings.

Feller walked only two men, but the two passes helped load the bases in the Detroit first and Kell promptly knocked in two runs with his first single.

Nats Blank Yanks, 4-0

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington snapped New York's winning streak at five games here last night, overcoming a 4-0 deficit to defeat the Yankees, 5-4, and deal Allie Reynolds his fourth loss before a crowd of 24,547.

Room for 16 More Racers In Speedway

By DALE BURGESS
INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Almost half the starting positions were still vacant last night for the 500-mile Memorial Day race at Indianapolis Motor Speedway after a morning rainstorm and mechanical bugs had permitted only two more cars to qualify yesterday.

The final qualification session today, originally scheduled for noon to 6 p.m. (CDT), was stretched both ways and will run from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. If necessary, as many as three cars can be sent on qualification runs simultaneously.

Seventeen cars have qualified, sixteen positions are still open, and there are 35 potential starters in the garages. Five other cars are enroute to the track, including two Tucker partner post-entries accepted yesterday.

The 16th and 17th qualifiers were Hal Robson of Berkeley, Calif., who averaged 122.096 miles an hour in the Indianapolis-owned Palmer Special, a four-cylinder Offenhauser, and Pete Romceovich, a first-time starter from Gary, Ind., who averaged 117.218 in a Camco motor Ford Special entered by Anthony and Joe Granatelli of Chicago.

Robson, brother of the late George Robson, 1946 winner, had been named tentatively to drive the German-built Mercedes imported by Don Lee, Inc., of Los Angeles. The Mercedes probably will be piloted by Duke Nalon, veteran Speedway driver.

Chet Miller and Ralph Hepburn also have been considered for the car, but Nalon last night was reported to have the inside track.

The day brought two more belated entries for the race, boosting to 48 the number of cars nominated. It seemed likely that those not yet qualified would jam onto the track today in an effort to be in the lineup when the starter waves his flag at 11 a.m. (CDT) Friday.

The last two entries came from Joe Lencki of Chicago, who acted as spokesman for the American Society of Professional Automobile Racers in the holdout of that organization for more prize money. Lencki nominated two Tucker Partner Specials and

8 Foreign Nations In Amateur Match

CHICAGO (AP)—Eight amateur boxers, all European champions from eight different nations, will swing at American chins tonight in the 10th international ring rivalry before a capacity crowd of 21,000 at the Chicago stadium.

The foreign scrappers are survivors of an all-European tournament held at Dublin, Eire, on May 17. The eight American fighters, with one exception, were champions in the Chicago-New York inter-city bouts at the stadium on March 28.

The heavyweight showdown is between an Irish blacksmith, Gearoid O'Colmain, whose flailing fists have flattened scores of rivals, and Dick Hagen, Chiango Negro, who has won 19 out of 20 bouts.

In the light-heavyweight class, Heinrich Quentemeyer, Holland war hero, battles Dan Bucceroni, a sailor attached to the Great Lakes, Ill., Naval training center. The fistie title fireworks will start with a pair of flyweights, Bob Holliday of Cincinnati and Luis Martinez, 21-year-old Spaniard from Barcelona.

In the 118-pound class, Laszlo Bogacs of Budapest, Hungary, proclaimed the most rugged of the European boxers, engages Robert Bell, 18-year-old high schooler from Cleveland.

At 126 pounds, Kurt Krueger, Swedish veteran from Stockholm, who has engaged in more than 450 fights in 20 years, wades into Eddie Marotta, Cleveland, one of the Chicago squad's co-captains.

Next, the lightweight bracket brings together Josse Viissers, an 18-year-old Belgian, and Herschel Acton, 135-pound Golden Glove champion in 1946.

John Ryan, British army sergeant major who spent the war teaching paratroopers how to box, will encounter Johnny Keough of Cleveland in the welterweight division.

Nick Ranieri, of Chicago, a terrific middleweight puncher, who is both 1947 Golden Gloves and National AAU champion, faces Aime Escudde, a mechanic from Beziers, France.

named as his drivers Emil Andres of Chicago and Charles Van Acker of South Bend, Ind.

Blackwell's Four-Hitter Stops Bucs, 6-1

CINCINNATI (AP)—Lanky Ewell Blackwell gave Pittsburgh only four hits yesterday as Cincinnati romped to a 6-1 triumph, but the Pirates got half their blows with two out in the ninth to spoil the big righthander's bid for his second shutout of the season.

A long double by Frankie Gustine and Ralph Kiner's single produced the Pittsburgh run in the final inning.

The Reds got one run in the third as Frankie Baumholtz singled and came home as Benny Zientara, swinging on Edson Bahr's first pitch, laced a double to right center field.

The Reds sewed it up with five runs in the fifth on three base hits and an error by Hank Greenberg.

Rat Control Expert Explains Best Ways to Fight Rodents

J.W. Hunt, rat control expert from the U.S. public health service in Kansas City, last night told the mayor's committee on rat and fly control how Iowa City can meet its rodent problem on a long range basis.

His talk at the City hall came with a committee announcement that a citywide "cleanup week" will be instituted next Monday in connection with a projected fly control campaign and rat control measures. Mayor Preston Koser said he will issue a proclamation later this week covering details of the forthcoming drive.

Hunt recommended a broad program which would entail "ratproofing" downtown buildings enacting a special ordinance to this effect, poisoning the rodents, cleaning up places where they thrive, employing a permanent specialist to direct the work and educating the public on the general rat problem.

He stressed that no program can eliminate rats entirely, explaining that "you'll always have a few around, but can get them down to where they won't be a major problem." Furthermore, Hunt asserted, a poisoning program by itself "is strictly a temporary measure."

Pointing out how rodents menace public health, the expert said typhus fever has been spreading with rats from southern and coastal areas to as close as Kansas City and St. Louis.

Bubonic plague also has spread from the west coast to Kansas and Nebraska at a rate of 200 or 300 miles a year.

"You're only a year or two away if the trend continues," Hunt warned. "You can do something now and prevent it or you can wait till it's here, bury your dead and then go in."

He classified rats among "the smartest of mammals"—as an animal which "knows his traps, knows his poisons and acts accordingly."

"So if we don't do something he's going to be taking over the country," Hunt predicted.

In this connection Sanitary Engineer A.L. Bennett of the state health department last is planning to stage a DDT spraying program in the second week of June in connection with the cleanup drive. It includes representatives from the city council, junior and senior chambers of commerce, league of women voters, university and local food handlers.

Its chairman is City Restaurant Inspector Charles Schindler.

Chemist to Explain New Drug

Streptomycin, a drug potentially of greater value than penicillin, will be discussed here Monday by Prof. Herbert E. Carter of the University of Illinois.

PROF. HERBERT E. CARTER

Carter, a leading organic chemist in this field, will talk on the chemical character of streptomycin at a meeting of the Iowa section of the American Chemical society at 7:30 p.m. in the chemistry auditorium.

Streptomycin, like penicillin, is developed from a mold. Because of the time needed for its growth, it is very expensive. Its chemical structure must be known before it can be prepared for quantity production.

Streptomycin gives promise of being effective against many organisms which resist the actions of both penicillin and the sulfa drugs, according to Dr. Robert M. Featherstone of the University hospital pharmacology department.

Its potential uses are in combating tubercular bacillus, typhoid, bacillary dysentery, tularemia (rabbit fever) and undulant fever, Dr. Featherstone said.

Carter received his B.A. degree from DePauw university and followed it with M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Illinois, the latter coming in 1934. He has been a faculty member at Illinois since 1932. In 1943 he was given the Eli Lilly award in biochemistry.

His talk Monday will be preceded by a dinner at Hotel Jefferson.

World War I G. I. Near Life-Long Goal—B. A. Degree

During the first world war a freshman at Washburn college in Topeka, Kan., entered the army shortly before the armistice was signed.

This June, 29 years later, that student will receive a bachelor of arts degree in political science at the University of Iowa. His name is Robert L. Ballantyne.

Thousands of students know him as the man in the student employment office in Old Capitol who finds parttime jobs for them. The university registrar knows from his records that Mr. Ballantyne is a candidate for a B.A. degree, was born in West Calder, Scotland, and has transcripts from five colleges and universities dating back to 1918.

In 1923 Mr. Ballantyne entered the Eastern Washington state normal school and in 1924 and 1925 attended Kansas Wesleyan college. He studied in the Kansas City school of law in 1931 and 1932.

He entered the University of Iowa in 1941 and worked part time in the department of visual education. In 1942 he was appointed manager of the division of student placement in the office of student affairs.

Mr. Ballantyne has sandwiched his scholastic studies in the department of political science between his work as employment director and secretary of the student aid committee, assisting qualified students in obtaining scholarships and financial loans.

Mr. Ballantyne is married and has one son, Robert Hubbard. He intends to remain at his present position at the university after he receives his degree.

"Getting this degree is the culmination of a life-long ambition," he said.

The number of people who eat in restaurants has more than doubled since 1940 and about 30 percent of all food expenditures are spent in eating places.

Trailer Wives Pray For One Dry Tuesday

When it's washday at Dinty's it always rains. At least several housewives at Dinty's trailer camp near Coralville think so.

It seems that householders at the camp have to take different days of the week to do their laundry.

And those who drew Tuesday's lot are mighty unhappy about their arrangements.

According to those on the Tuesday wash shift, it has either rained or snowed for the last 12 Tuesdays. And while it was pouring rain yesterday, one sympathizer had a word of encouragement for the unhappy wives.

Said he: "Maybe the 13th Tuesday will break the jinx."

Ask Students to List Full Time Summer Jobs

Students with full-time summer jobs are asked to stop at the student employment office in Old Capitol and sign a card giving information about their work.

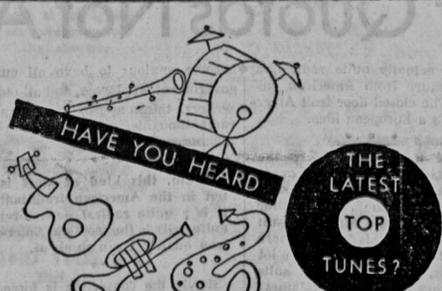

Robert L. Ballantyne, director of student employment, said he needed the information to give definite answers to employers who inquired about student help from the university.

Information on the cards will include the student's name, home address, and name and location of the firm or person he is working for.

The information on the cards will enable Ballantyne to have many more jobs for students in future summers, he said.

"Every student who signs one of these cards will be helping some student in the years to come to find summer employment," he added.

ISSUE MARRIAGE LICENSES Marriage licenses yesterday were issued to John P. Greene and Mary O'Neil, both of Iowa City; John A. Bogen, Sioux City; and Bonnie Lochrie, Osceola, and Floyd Brenneman and Louise Miller, both of Kalona.

Wallace's Voice Grows Stronger

It has now become apparent that Henry Wallace is not a weak voice crying in the wilderness. Before his current coast to coast speaking tour is completed, it is expected that some 150,000 persons will have heard him. In Chicago, for example, his overflow audience spilled out of the huge stadium. Franklin Roosevelt was the only other political figure whose drawing power was great enough to fill the Chicago stadium. This enthusiastic reaction has surprised even the Wallace fans. It is reported to have the Democratic party planners pricking up their ears. In view of the response it is becoming increasingly difficult to pass off Wallace's attack on the Truman doctrine as idealistic warblings. Apparently a lot of Americans like the Wallace brand of idealism. Perhaps the notion is spreading that his idealism is actually the realism of the atomic age. It's probably always a shock for the politicians to discover how much interest somebody can stir up in the American people by merely talking in benevolent terms about the brotherhood of man. Of course quite a number of the persons who turned out to hear Wallace came just to see the show. Others came, and for reasons of their own, missed the point of his speeches and went away believing that he was saying that Russia was always right and the United States was always wrong. But who is so cynical to deny that the majority of them came because they, like Wallace, feel that world peace depends on goodwill and cooperation and not on the boomerang of power politics.

But If the Lady Says No . . .

The fashion business is purring seductively again, getting ready to go to work on the female mind of America. The business figures it's time for another total fashion change—such as we had in 1929 when skirts headed for the ankles like mad. It is not difficult to see the reason for the change the boys intend to bring about by propaganda late this year or the next. It can be described in very simple terms, such as MONEY! The business, it is estimated, made $15-billion from the women of America and Europe when they dropped skirts in 1929, and lust is overpowering them again. The whole idea of a handful of people persuading millions of women to discard their complete wardrobes just to "keep up with the Joneses" is almost too ridiculous. But we wouldn't be writing this if we thought it impossible. They did it before and they'll do it again—if the women allow it. It becomes even more ridiculous, however, in the light of the great need in Europe today for clothing—not the frilly type, just the old fashioned kind that cover your body and keep you warm. All the material that would go into new and unnecessary clothes for style-conscious American women would probably provide a new outfit for every simple well-patched European. Another consideration: It's an established fact now that American wartime savings are dwindling, to say the least. The millions that it would take to put new wardrobes in female closets from coast to coast could very well bring this depression we hear so much about right down around our ears. The wife tells us that the fashion magazines are already plugging for changes such as the longer skirt, the tiny shoulder, the dropped waistline and the hippy pleated dinner-bell skirt. The longer skirt seems to be the one that's being pushed the hardest, probably with the idea that if the gals fall for that one, the rest will be easy. This longer skirt business, of course, brings up a purely non-economic objection. How many men are there who would like to see the skirt lowered? Not very many, we'd venture to say, and they have most of them locked up. So if the women choose to strike against this plot, we're sure they'll have all the male allies they want. But despite the objections, the humanitarian considerations and the undemocratic implications, the fashion business will undoubtedly proceed as planned. We just hope the good ladies of America haven't forgotten how to say NO.

That's Right, You're Right, Mr. Gwynne

We're not one to let a good deed go unheralded, even if it comes from a congressman. Representative John W. Gwynne from Waterloo, who generally votes down the line with the other Iowa congressmen, seemed to step a bit out of character recently when he cast a negative vote on the Mason bill. Enough other members of the house judiciary subcommittee agreed with Gwynne to stop this unfair measure from becoming law—at least temporarily. The Mason bill would exempt news gathering agencies from the anti-trust laws. It arises from the Supreme Court decision last year which went against the Associated Press in its attempt to deny a franchise to the Chicago Sun. The legislation, if not indirectly sponsored by, at least has the full support of the Chicago Tribune's Col. McCormick, who led the fight on the AP board of directors to discriminate against the Sun. Representative Noah Mason of Illinois introduced the bill, explaining in innocent terms, "it provides only that the anti-trust laws shall not be construed to prohibit any press service company from exercising its own discretion in the selection of its customers or from furnishing its services on an exclusive basis in any community." What Mr. Mason meant is that press services should be legally allowed to set up monopoly situations. Iowa's Gwynne saw the bill for what it was as could be deduced from his simple explanation of his negative vote. "The same rules," he said, "ought to apply to the press as any other industry." A tip of the hat to you, Mr. Gwynne. The intrusion of business principles in the universities goes to weaken and retard the pursuit of learning, and therefore to defeat the ends for which a university is maintained. —THORSTEIN VEBLEN.

Atomic Energy Calls for Clear Thinking

(From an editorial in the June Bulletin of The Atomic Scientists)

If there is something we can not afford in dealing with atomic energy, it is muddled thinking, policy based on ignorance, hearsay, prejudice, partisan expediency or wishful thinking. The justification for the intrusion of scientists into national and international affairs, is the compelling necessity for a factual, realistic attitude as a basis of political decisions of our statesmen and political thinking of our citizens. The slogan "let's keep the secret of the atomic bomb," for example, is as unrealistic — and therefore dangerous — as the counter-slogan "let's destroy American bombs." The first proposition is meaningless because there is no such thing as the secret of the atomic bomb; the suggestion acquires a definite — and then very limited — meaning only if it is specified what kind of scientific or technical information is meant to be kept secret.

energy was first suggested—at the time when the official program was that of "keeping the bomb a sacred trust" — this proposal naturally found most ready acceptance in liberal and radical circles. True, even at this early stage an attempt was made to substitute for the meaningful notion of international control, the meaningless slogan "let's give the bomb to the United Nations." However, the "phony" character of this slogan was so obvious that it was soon discarded. The adherence of the Soviet Union to the Truman-Atlee-King declaration and the prolonged silence of Moscow on plans of international control, has encouraged wishful thinking by those who saw the Soviet Union as a protagonist of international collaboration frustrated by the imperialists of Britain and the U.S.A. They took it for granted that the Acheson-Lilienthal blueprint can not but meet with wholehearted approval of the U.S.S.R. (In this, they were of one opinion with Senator Taft.) Since then, the Soviet Union has revealed itself as the main obstacle in the way of cooperative international development of atomic energy — an attitude which could easily be anticipated from the general Soviet distrust of "entanglements" with capitalist economy.

entering the development of atomic energy everywhere in the world. For Wallace and those who claim adherence to his principles, this plan should be a bright star in the dark skies of world affairs; its full support should be their first article of faith. But has not the Lilienthal plan been adulterated by Mr. Baruch with his intransigent insistence on the abolition of the veto? So say many "liberals", who base their attitude on second-hand slogans and not on factual knowledge. Here again, they share confusion with Senator Taft. They, too, seem unaware that the Soviet Union opposes the principle of international ownership and management of atomic energy plants even more strenuously than it does a change in the veto rule. True, Wallace and Baruch had a much-publicized row about the American plan. But it dealt only with two incidents: the veto, and the time schedule. In the second point, Wallace admitted that he was mistaken and that the American proposal is to give the UN the right to devise a complete step-by-step program. And, as to the veto, Wallace's criticism (with which we agree) was that it was irrelevant to the main purposes of the plan and should not be pressed if it makes Russian acceptance more difficult. Wallace argued against all that may stand in the way of realization of the Lilienthal-Baruch plan, and by no means against its fundamentals. But what about Mr. Wallace's followers? *

regret that a grave disagreement has developed between the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. atomic energy plans, and gave the following explanation: "U.S.S.R. refuses to give up its right for peacetime development of atomic energy." The words missing in this motivation—which make all the difference—are "development of atomic energy without control by any international body." While some American conservatives are for the international control of atomic energy merely because the U.S.S.R. is against it, certain American "liberals" are lukewarm to it for the same reason. *

world. Both sides must take risks—the alternative being an almost complete certainty of a catastrophe for both of them. Mr. Wallace and his friends should use whatever influence they have with the Soviet leaders to persuade them that the Lilienthal-Baruch plan is not a clever scheme for capitalist domination of the Soviet economy. Affirmation—or rather re-affirmation—of support for the international management of atomic energy, as the first concrete step towards world cooperation for security and prosperity by those whom Pravda recently listed as the "friends of the Soviet Union" would be the best contribution to world peace that Mr. Wallace and his friends could make at the present time.

The second proposition (as well as its reversal "lets go on making and storing bombs"), also is based on a dangerous delusion, because preparedness for atomic war depends but very slightly on the stock of assembled bombs, and almost entirely on the quantity of accumulated atomic explosives and, to a lesser extent, on the know-how of bomb construction, two factors left untouched by the proposed (or refused), "destruction" of the bombs.

This has brought confusion into the minds of many "liberals". The A.D.A., which was so obviously a "good thing" before, became suspect, if not evil, after Mr. Gromyko's denunciation of it as a "cartel." *

Mr. Wallace has called for a "global New Deal." The Lilienthal-Baruch plan is the first concrete proposal for a global New Deal put before the nations of the world a blueprint for world-wide cooperation in the development of atomic energy for the benefit of all mankind, with American science, manpower, technology and money offered generously for fos-to achieve security and survival of America, the more enlightened of our conservatives and capitalists are prepared to sacrifice their belief in the supreme virtue of private enterprise and national sovereignty. The Soviet Union must be persuaded to sacrifice, in the well-understood interest of her own security and survival, her belief in the supreme virtue of socialist isolationism in the capitalist

Immigrant Quotas Not American

By SAMUEL GRAFTON, New York Post Syndicate

The Daughters of the American Revolution have come out against increased immigration, which they do every year as automatically as a householder puts the cat out every night. But I don't quite understand how the DAR can be so terribly sure that the policy of free-immigration, which made America strong and great, is a wrong policy. It is like rejecting the tenets of our youth, and casting away the vitamins we grew up on.

GRAFTON

We do more and more of this business of departing from principles that made us what we are, and calling that departure Americanism. You cannot defend the current virtual ban on immigration as soundly traditional, because it isn't. The tradition runs exactly the other way.

I am not at all sure that we don't need the arrival of some ten to twenty millions of immigrants in the next few years to solve some of our problems. At least I can turn to the history books for justification, and say that is the way we used to do it, and that it worked. The funny thing is that the policy of banning immigration is actually quite radical, as a departure from American custom. The closed door isn't American; it's a European idea. (But a speaker before the DAR last week said that every foreigner who comes here competes with some American for a job, a house, a car and a suit of clothes. If this be true, there must have been an amazing lot of jobs, houses, cars and suits of clothes in the original Jamestown and Plymouth settlements, to have lasted so well up to the present day. One wonders where we would be now, if we had adopted this line of reasoning a hundred years ago.)

I am perturbed about the seemingly casual way in which we give up tried and tested doctrines for their exact opposites. It is as if we were becoming convinced that the only way to preserve our national character in this tangled world is to step out of character.

To close our doors against the stranger is to behave like some fearful European duchy. It may give us a momentary illusion of cuddling safety, but it means giving up precisely those qualities of fearlessness, broad national hospitality, and scrambling growth which have made us so entrancing an actor on the world's stage. And it goes with so much else that is happening today. It goes with the way we have suddenly become anxious to have all our government employees, and all our writers, think approximately the same thoughts, and in the same manner.

Again, this kind of stuff is not in the American tradition; it is a quite radical departure; uniformity is the most un-American quality I can think of.

Slowly the conviction is forced that we are being pushed into playing the other fellow's game, closing our doors, as he does, looking into people's heads to see what they think, as he does; going cramped, confined and narrow, as he is. In the eerie worldwide battle now going on, we are giving up our best asset, the one that has most excited this planet, the fact that we have never been afraid of people, their presence, their work, and their thoughts.

What gets me, as I say, is the casualness with which we make these decisions. Having grown great by throwing open our doors, and by letting people think as they please, we now propose to keep our greatness by closing those doors, and having a house committee perpetually peering inside the great American skull. How does one justify doing the exact opposite of what has always worked? We are watering down the very qualities on which we can't be matched.

It seems to me that the only way to be safe is to be ourselves. We have won all our previous fights, but we have won them standing on our feet, not on our heads.

City Airport to Add New Office and Shop

Construction is expected to begin in the near future on a new repair shop and office building at the Iowa City municipal airport.

The contract was awarded yesterday to R. H. Wildman, local contractor. Wildman was one of two local contractors who submitted bids to the airport commission last month. His bid was $19,750.

To be located several hundred feet west of Highway 218 and about 100 feet north of the newly constructed beacon tower, the new building will be built of concrete block and steel. It will be 50 by 66 feet with the shop portion of the building measuring 50 by 50 feet.

Also to be included in the building will be office space, a lobby and restroom facilities. Chairman Verne Bales of the airport commission said yesterday that construction will probably be begun within the next month or so.

Name Jack Schroeder Top Catholic Student

Jack L. Schroeder, A4 of West Point, Iowa, was named the outstanding Catholic student on campus at a Newman club banquet held at Hotel Jefferson last night.

New club officers were also announced at the banquet. Dick Wissing will be president; Maurcen McGivern, vice-president; Agnes Pierick, secretary, and Paul McNally, treasurer.

Named to the executive council were Jack Gallagher, Stan Cebuchar, Mary Hennessy, Betty Mutschler and John R. Carroll.

University Students—

Hit-The-Books

Let's have a cup of coffee. Have to hit the books tonight!"

This is the rallying cry of university students as they enter final examination week. Although study techniques vary, all students are engrossed in textbooks, notebooks and reference books.

Libraries become a social "must." Seats in Macbride are as scarce as in a local movie on Saturday night. Students begin arriving at 6 p.m. With legs twined around chair rungs, they spend the evening peering over their glasses at textbooks. The hair-twisters, pencil-tappers and finger-nail-chewers are united in the search for hidden knowledge.

At 9:45 p.m. a low shuffle begins. It becomes a muffled roar by 9:55. "Let's have a cup of coffee!"

Hordes of hungry students descend upon drug stores and restaurants. Lined three-deep at counters, they down cups of black coffee. Four more hours of study and — well — it takes food for thought!

There Are Distractions

Straight chairs and tables arranged in stiff patterns sometimes prove a handicap to study. Even the most conscientious student may find himself counting the students at his table or the number of tables in the library.

And so, bent on an evening of study, the more socially inclined student trips down to Iowa Union. Here he may relax in the comfort of a soft chair in the Union library.

Propping his feet on a footstool, he flicks cigarette ashes into a conveniently placed tray. His right ear is tuned to jive floating up from the River room while his left ear catches strains of Sibelius as they drift in from the classical music room.

All the comforts of home! He sighs contentedly and returns to the philosophy of Rousseau — neatly summarized in a 783-page volume.

From the Union sun porch the voices of bridge players can be heard. "Four spades." "Five hearts." "Five no-trump." The student scratches his head. What was it Rousseau said about primitive man? Maybe a cup of coffee would stimulate his think-

Over Black Coffee

Deserting Rousseau, he heads toward the Union grill.

Solitary Confinement

Other students prefer the sanctity of their rooms for study. Sending everyone else to the library, this cunning student retreats to his "cell." Donning study clothes (blue jeans, sweat shirt and wool socks), he sinks down in an easy chair and opens his economics text.

All is not quiet for long. Footsteps, voices, the clang of pots and pans in the next room are followed by, "Hey, Joe, we've made some coffee. Come on in and have a cup."

Tossing the book aside, our conscientious student enters into a two-hour gab session.

Scientific Approach

Several houses down the street another student is preparing for an evening's study. Believing in complete relaxation, he gets ready for bed.

With notebooks, textbooks and pencils at his elbow and the roommate's pillow at his back, he is ready for hours of study. Glancing at the clock, he reflects, "In two hours I'll make some coffee to keep me awake until I finish reviewing this sociology."
