By JOE SHOQUIST
Al Richardson, the Miami university business student, walked into the Eastern Iowa tennis tournament at 9 o'clock yesterday morning and three matches later was slated to face Dick Hainline in a Sunday meeting to determine the men's singles champion.

Cool and efficient, the Triple A-crown holder breezed through a first round match with Bud Newnam of Iowa City, 6-1, 6-1, to advance to the quarterfinals against Bob E. Nelson.

With hardly a moment's break between the two matches, Richardson tore into Bob E. to record a 6-2, 6-2 victory. Fifth-seeded Nelson played a determined game but couldn't cope with his opponent's deceptive volleys and domineering style of play.

It took third-seeded Wayne Anderson of Shenandoah, Ia., to slow down the St. Louis ace. After dropping the first set 6-1, Anderson came back with the true makings of a champ to force Nelson to play his best before scoring a 7-5 win.

The fan's choice, however, still continued to be Dick Hainline of Rock Island, who will tangle with Richardson this afternoon at 2 p.m. on the Reserve library courts.

Dick did just as expected yesterday by polishing off Ken Donelson, Bloomington, Ill., in the quarterfinals, 6-1, 6-0, and Ken Cline in the semi-finals, 6-1, 6-3.

Cline scored the only upset of the tourney to advance to the semifinals by dumping fourth-seeded Bob A. Nelson out of the competition. It took him three hard sets, 1-6, 6-4 and 6-4, to do it.

Meeting today at 1 p.m. for the juniors' singles crown will be Ed Gould, Minneapolis, and Don Lewis, Fort Madison. Gould advanced by defeating Jack Dye, Davenport, 6-4, 6-2, and top-seeded Lewis moved up by virtue of a 6-0, 7-5, win over Bourke Dailey of Davenport.

One champion was decided yesterday when Norman Barnes, Cedar Rapids, defeated Jerry Jager, Davenport, 6-4, 6-2, for the boy's singles crown.

Moving up to the quarterfinals of men's doubles were John Ebert and Ken Donelson, Ken Cline and Dr. Clark Hillikan, Bud Newnam and Wayne Anderson, and Bob A. and Bob E. Nelson.

Semifinal play in that division will be the first action today, beginning at 10 a.m. Men's doubles finals will be played at 4 in the afternoon.

Juniors' doubles winners will be decided also at 4 p.m. when the smashing Don Lewis-Bud Popple combination clashes with Dean Constantine and Ed Gould of Minneapolis.

Top-rated Janet Tillotson, last year's women's singles victor, will put her crown on the line at 1 o'clock today when she meets second-seeded Mrs. Joanne Gibson in the final match of that division.

Stars of Iowa City '46 Grid Machine Favor Hawk Future

Nine of the members of City high's state championship football team that graduated last spring are making plans for the future. Six of them will probably come to the University of Iowa to continue their football careers.

Jimmy Sangster, unanimous all-state quarterback selection, will enter the university his fall along with "Chug" Wilson, one of the finest prep backs in the state last season.

Don "Corky" Fryauf, another all-state back, has received offers from several schools but Iowa stands a strong chance of obtaining the former red and white speedster.

Leo Zeithamel plans on entering Iowa this fall, but he is undecided as to continuing his grid career. The former Hawklet tackle wants to major in commercial art.

Kirk Carson, brilliant defensive end for the Little Hawks last season, has already had one semester of college at Iowa. He is working this summer but will continue his academic work in the fall. Another end on last year's great city high team, Joe Citek, will enroll at Iowa this fall.

Gerri Canon, Chick Evans and Dale Scannell will all leave Iowa City to start their college careers away from home.

Canon, who alternated with Carson at a wing post, will travel all the way to Kenyon college at Gambier, Ohio.

Evans and Scannell, two of the best high school guards in the state, will enter colleges in Iowa. Evans will try his luck at Drake in Des Moines and Scannell will go to St. Ambrose in Davenport.

Mickey Owen May Not Be Used by Council Bluffs

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia. (P) — Emmett O'Donnell, president of Legion Activities, Inc., sponsors of the semi-pro Council Bluffs Browns baseball team, said yesterday the sponsoring group has decided tentatively not to use Catcher Mickey Owen on a regular basis.

It had been reported earlier that Owen, suspended from organized baseball when he jumped the Brooklyn Dodgers to play in the Mexican league, had signed to finish the season with the Browns.

Ralph and Art Hayes of Council Bluffs and Don Van Vleet of Des Moines explained they had arranged to handle Owen's baseball appearances in this area and had planned to give the Browns first call on his services.

Faye Wenzel, Iowa City, defeated Gretchen Nissen, Cedar Rapids, 6-1, 6-2.
Mrs. Joanne Dunn Gibson, Des Moines, won by default from Mrs. Elbert Fulton, Burlington.

In all the pre-Zale, Graziano bout confusion, we forgot the little yarn about the time the Gary "Man of Steel" almost gave up the game. It's a little late now but perhaps it's worth retelling. The time was a few years ago when Tony was just another club house boxer, fighting for peanuts with enough hamburgers thrown in to keep him going.

They matched him one night in Peoria, Ill., with the pride and joy of the tri-cities, Kid Leonard of Moline. Leonard was one of the best spotters in middleweight history and packed so much power, gameness and all-around ability that the name fighters avoided him like a plague.

Zale was as easy to hit then as he is now and his aggressive style made him a natural for the Moline Kid. Leonard beat Zale that night in a manner which made the job Graziano did in Chicago seem like a series of love taps.

Zale was thrashed physically and so depressed mentally that he went into temporary retirement. He has commented lately that he seriously considered never boxing again. Fortunately for his career and his bank account, he reconsidered and went on to become one of the best in the game. Leonard, for his part, went on fighting whenever he could find an opponent and gradually faded from the limelight into respectable retirement. He's not remembered by the average fight fan but you can bet that Tony Zale remembers him—perhaps as the Graziano of another decade.

Jackie Robinson of the Brooklyn Dodgers has more to be proud of than just his .300 plus batting average. The signing of Negro players by the Cleveland Indians and the St. Louis Browns make it apparent that Jackie has sold the sports world on the ability of colored athletes.

It does seem that the Browns weren't too wise in their choices, however. Henry Thompson might make the grade but Willard Brown is too old to do the Browns much good. Brown has starred for the Kansas City Monarchs for the last 10 years and the sudden changeover is going to be tough for him to make.

If the major league clubs were looking for a good young prospect, they could do worse than Em Tunnell, Iowa grid star, who is quite a baseball player. Tunnell is playing amateur ball with the Amara Freezers coached by Hal Trosky, former Cleveland star. Reports say he's pitching wonderful ball and looking just as good in the outfield. While in the service, Tunnell was a star shortstop.

Evidently he can do everything but cook, and his youth makes him a natural for professional baseball. Of course, he still has a lot of football to play for the Hawkeyes and that should be first on his personal agenda.

South African Golfer Top Money Winner

TORONTO (P)— Bobby Locke, the South African golfer who now has taken top money in six of 10 North American tournaments, yesterday won the Canadian Open at Scarborough country club with a record-breaking 268, two strokes ahead of Ed (Porky) Oliver of Wilmington, Del.

Locke's victory put him in first place in the United States pro circuit money winners. He took first money of $2,000 and the Seagram gold cup back to his home club in Johannesburg.

Oliver finished with 270, still beating the Canadian Open record 271 set by Lawson Little of Cleveland in 1936 at St. Andrews.

Locke, like Little, shot in the 60's all the way through the four 18-hole rounds.

Low Canadian amateur—though he now plays club of Detroit Meadowbrook club—was Nick Wisnook, with 272. Wisnook was low-scoring Canadian amateur with 288 at the tournament last year at the Montreal Beaconsfield club.

Hawklet Nine Bows To Wilson; Lowden, McKinley Post Wins

By GEORGE HANRAHAN
Iowa City Little Hawks bowed to Wilson of Cedar Rapids, 11-3, yesterday in first round play of the summer sectional baseball tournament.

In the other games of the day on the City high diamond, McKinley of Cedar Rapids downed Clarence 4-2 and Lowden defeated Tipton 11-1 in a five-inning contest. The latter game was called at the end of the fifth under an agreement to halt any tilt if one team built up a 10-run advantage.

The City high-Wilson game was close up to the fifth inning when the Ramblers pushed across five runs on three singles, two walks, and an error to increase their lead to 9-3.

The Little Hawks did all their scoring in the third. The first two batters drew free passes and Jim Sangster drove them both home with a triple to deep center. Sangster scored on a fielder's choice.

Frank Simanowski, hurling for Wilson, kept three Little Hawk hits well scattered. He struck out eight batters and his team mates played errorless ball behind him.

In the morning tilt between McKinley and Clarence, Chafos and Stasny held the Clarence hitters to three-safeties—all in the fourth inning. The first two men up drove out singles and Clancy, catcher for the losers, brought them in with a triple.

McKinley also was able to garner only three hits but they were aided by five Clarence errors, a balk and a passed ball.

The Tipton-Lowden contest was a matter of just too many walks. The Lowden nine scored five runs in the second on five bases on balls, a single and three wild pitches. They added their final six runs in the fifth on six walks, a single, and a triple by third baseman Stolte. At this point the game was called under the ten-run-lead rule.

Oxford Junction forfeited its game to Wilton Junction.

Semi-final games tomorrow will pit Lowden vs. McKinley at 3 p.m. and Wilton Junction against Wilson at 5. The final game will be played Wednesday afternoon.

Yanks Edge Tigers, 2-1; Bosox Nip Browns, 1-0

32nd Win In 36 Games For Bombers

DETROIT (AP)—Back in high gear with the pressure off from their record-equalling victory string, the runaway New York Yankees squeezed out a 2 to 1 triumph yesterday over the Detroit Tigers—their 32nd victory in 36 games—and restored their American league lead to 1 1/2 games.

Allie Reynolds, Yankee fireball hurler, tossed a smart five-hitter at the second place Tigers to register his 11th win of the season in a duel with Detroit's Paul (Dizzy) Trout, who gave up only six blows.

The Yanks won it without delay in the opening inning, counting both their runs on George Stinewiss' single, Tommy Henrich's double and long flies to right by John Lindell and Joe Di Maggio, a run scoring after each catch.

Trout hurled effective four-hit ball after that to blank the Bronx batters the rest of the way but Reynolds was too stingy with his base hits when Detroit put runners on the sacks.

Altogether Reynolds walked six men and hit another but Detroit didn't have the punch when it counted and left 10 runners stranded.

Actually, the Tigers didn't have much power at the plate all day. Their first three hits, two of them doubles, were all tainted—one a dribbler past the right of the mound that Eddie Lake beat out and the others wind-blown two-baggers that fell between Yankee fielders and the foul lines.

The only base hit Detroit produced with a runner on board was Eddie Mayo's sharp double against the wall in right center in the eighth, which scored Vic Werz, who had singled, with the only Tiger run.

Stranahan, Ward in Golf Finals

BUD WARD

Meet Today for Amateur Title

DES MOINES (AP)—Frank Stranahan, defending champion from Toledo, O., scrambled from almost certain defeat to advance to the final round of the Western Amateur tournament with a 4 and 3 victory over Thomas Sheehan, Birmingham, Mich., yesterday.

Stranahan's victory, an uphill battle that found him 3 down at the end of the morning round of 18 holes, gave him a spot in today's championship stretch of 36 holes with Marvin (Bud) Ward, the genial golfer from Spokane, Wash., who defeated Robert (Bob) Willits, Kansas City, 3 and 1, in yesterday's semifinals.

It will be the third meeting of Stranahan and Ward, who stand all-even for their first two matches. Stranahan defeated Ward 1 up in 38 holes for the Western crown last year and was eliminated by Ward, 2 and 1, in the National amateur tournament.

Sheehan, swinging blazing-hot light irons and a steady putter, had a 5 up lead at the end of nine holes in the morning round as he made the turn in 31, five strokes under par, and finished the round 3 up.

The fighting Irishman, Notre Dame golf captain and National amateur medalist in 1939, lost his touch during the afternoon round and Stranahan had evened the match at the 24th hole.

Stranahan closed the match with a par 5 on the long, 482-yard thirty-third hole on Wankonda country club's hilly course.

Playing 3-under par golf for the second round—4-under for the day—Stranahan didn't lose one of the last 24 holes.

Ward, two-time National and Western amateur champ, had plenty of trouble beating Willits. Willits manned a sizzling putter in the morning round and held a 2 up lead through the 10th hole but on the 11th he missed a 2 1/2 footer.

Ward squared the match with a birdie 3 on the 340-yard 12th with an 8-foot putt and was never down again. Ward led at the intermission, 2 up.

The westerner's woods gave him trouble at the beginning of the afternoon round and he lost two of the first three holes as Willits pulled up all-even. But Ward hit a tremendous second wood on the par 5 471-yard 23rd and chipped a foot away for a birdie 4 to regain the front spot.

Bud missed a two-foot putt on the 27th and Bob deadlocked the match with his par 3.

They traded wins on the 28th and 29th, Ward taking the former with a bar 4 but losing the 29th on another miss of a short putt. Ward hit a long second wood to the green on the 529-yard 31st and narrowly missed an eagle 3. Willits, his second and third shots in the rough, finished with a 6, and was one down.

Another birdie 4 on the 482-yard 33rd hustled Bud into a two up lead and he ran out the match with his 7-footer for the deuce, on the 35th.

The first tee today is scheduled for 10 a.m. (CST). The afternoon round at 2 o'clock.

Williams Raps In Lone Run; Johnson Wins

ST. LOUIS (AP)—For their second consecutive game with Boston, the St. Louis Browns appeared to be playing a man named Williams yesterday as they dropped a 1 to 0 loss to the Red Sox, but Pitcher Earl Johnson's three hitter was a contributing factor.

Lanky Ted, whose five hits Fri. night including two homers were good for five runs, despite Boston's one-run defeat, singled to right field in the sixth and scored Johnny Pesky.

Johnson was in trouble as the first three Brownies to face him loaded the bases on singles. But Jeff Heath fled to Sam Mele, the Browns held their bases on deference to Mele's accurate throwing arm, and Willard Brown, Negro playing his first game with the Browns since he was signed Thursday, hit into a double play.

Hospital Tells Veeck He Needs Operation

CLEVELAND (AP)—Cleveland Indians President Bill Veeck, whose Tribe recently lost six straight games, had another siege of bad luck yesterday—doctors informed him to return to Cleveland clinic hospital for another operation on his right leg Tuesday.

The courageous ex-marine, who consented to removal of his right foot last November after he failed to recover from injuries received at Bougainville during the war, celebrated delivery of an artificial limb by throwing a dance soon after he left the hospital last fall.

Admitting that he had over-estimated his ability to scoff at doctors' orders, Veeck said: "This second trip to the hospital is my own fault. I tried to do too much, too soon."

The colorful Tribe prexy said he would spend a week or 10 days in the hospital, and added, "After that, I'll make sure that I'm okay before I start acting silly. I'll give my leg plenty of time to heal."

Late entries yesterday included Harry Todd, Dallas, Texas, and Dick Teil, Miami, who will fly to Cedar Rapids from the Canadian open at Toronto with Skip Alexander, winner of the recent Peoria open.

Pro awards in the all-medal play, one-day open, total $2,200, with $1,000 top money and $500 second. Ten merchandise awards including a set of Wilson matched irons and a Remington automatic shotgun will be given top amateurs.

SUI Vets Hand Uncle Sam a $2,400,000 GI Bill

University Controller Explains Instruction Contract With VA

By BOB RUH

Reach for your billfold, Uncle Sam, and just skip the small change. About 2,400 "G" notes will pay the bill the University of Iowa will send you about a year from now.

Only approval of the veterans administration is needed now to provide Uncle Sam with a basis for figuring his bill for educating the University of Iowa's veteran students. It looks as though the bill might run around $2,400,000.

Terms of the proposed "cost of instruction" contract with the VA for the coming school year were revealed here yesterday by Elwin T. Jolliffe, controller of the university business office.

According to Jolliffe, the contract has been signed by the president of the Iowa state board of education and is now waiting approval of the VA's regional office in Des Moines.

The new contract will provide the "cost of instruction" rates which serve as a basis for computing the bill for each veteran student. The $2,400,000 estimate made by Jolliffe is based on the average cost to Uncle Sam of educating a veteran in liberal arts (about $400) multiplied by the number of veterans expected to enroll in the fall (about 6,000).

Easy for GI's

It's easy for a GI to take care of his fees, books and supplies—he just signs a few slips. But the process of figuring the bill for GI education is an involved process, according to Jolliffe.

Three factors are employed: (1) the basic fees charged all students enrolled in the various colleges, (2) the cost of books and equipment, and (3) the cost of instruction.

It is this third item, the "cost of instruction," that is taken care of by the contract between the university and the VA that was announced yesterday.

Jolliffe explained that under the terms of the contract, all veterans—both from Iowa and non-residents—will be charged the basic fee for all students enrolled in the various colleges. (The basic fee for students in liberal arts is $65. Out-of-state students pay an additional tuition of $85, or a total of $150.)

The cost of books and equipment is then added to this basic fee. If this sum is under $500, and for practically all veterans it will be, then the university is permitted to charge the VA for the actual cost of instruction as outlined in the contract.

Explains Formula

According to Jolliffe, this "cost of instruction" is based on the following formula:

1. The university will compute the total amount of teaching salaries. (This is the total salary of all individuals on the staff and is applicable to the time spent by the individuals in actually conducting classes and laboratories. It does not include such persons as the president, treasurer, registrar, football coach, librarian, etc.)
2. This amount is divided by the total number of semester credit hours for which all veterans have registered for the year.
3. This resultant amount is known as the "rate of cost of instruction."
4. Fifteen percent is then added to this figure to cover the cost of what the VA calls "related teaching personnel and supplies for instruction purposes."

This final figure for the University of Iowa for 1947-48 is $6.27 for each semester credit hour in all colleges except medicine, dentistry and pharmacy.

On a basis of 16 credit hours per semester, the average schedule for liberal arts students, the "cost of instruction" charge for the year—two semesters—would be $200.64.

To this $200.64 would be added the basic liberal arts fee of $130 ($65 per semester) and the cost of books and equipment (generally about $50). The total amount for the year would be about $400.

Cost of Instruction Varies
Both the basic fees and the "cost of instruction" per semester hour vary with the colleges in the university. The basic fee for the colleges of medicine and dentistry is $115 each semester; college of law, $85; college of pharmacy, $75; college of engineering, $70; colleges of liberal arts, commerce, education, and graduate students, $65.

According to the new contract, the veterans' cost of instruction per semester credit hour for these colleges are: medicine, $42.12; dentistry, $28.68; pharmacy, $8.38; all other colleges, $6.27.

The limit the VA will pay for one scholastic year is $500. However, if a veteran's customary charges (basic fees and books and equipment) exceed the $500 limit, then the individual veteran is faced with two choices:

- (1) He can pay the university himself the amount over $500, or
- (2) By special authority he can use up his GI bill benefits at a faster than normal pace. The VA will pay the amount in excess of $500 but will reduce the amount of schooling he is entitled to under the bill. (In the past this has been figured at $2.10 a day.)

The cost of instruction formula is applied only when the cost of books and fees is under the $500 limit.

Fees Equal for All Vets
The contract makes no distinction between resident and non-resident veterans. The basic fee and cost of books and equipment is the same for both.

It is only when the cost of the basic fee and books has been computed that the rate per semester credit hour will be figured. The VA specifies that "cost of instruction" is in addition to "the fees charged all other students and supplies required for any other student pursuing a comparable course."

The contract between the university and the VA is similar to contracts the VA has with other tax-supported institutions. The rates charged the VA here are just about the same as for other public educational institutions. According to C.C. de Long, treasurer of the University of Illinois, more than half the direct cost of educating veterans is borne by the state.

At Illinois, for example, under the GI bill the federal government pays $6.65 for every credit hour taken by a veteran. However, the cost to the University of Illinois of educating a veteran is $17.09 per semester credit hour, according to de Long. The difference is

Speech Pupils To Present Play, Debate

Top-flight high school speech students from the midwest will stage a two-act play, "Women Have Their Way," Wednesday and Thursday nights at 8 o'clock in Macbride auditorium.

The play, a translation of an old Spanish comedy, deals with the efforts of busy-body village women made up through the university's appropriation from state taxes.

A survey made by W. Emerson Reck, director of public relations at Colgate university, showed that for every dollar spent today for instruction of an ex-GI, "only about 60 cents is paid from the federal treasury."

Reck claims that "although the GI bill permits the VA to pay up to $500 per school year, the average payment is only $393 per year." The Colgate survey revealed that private institutions are paid $418. Public institutions receive an average of $348.

According to this survey, "college presidents generally are convinced that, because of increased paper work, clerical help, etc., it takes between 10 to 15 percent more money to educate a GI than it takes to educate other students."

Behind the grease paint will be 14 students registered in the university's 17th annual all-state high school speech institute.

They are among 24 students who are attending the 6-weeks session and represent some of the outstanding high school speech talent in the country.

Prof. Clarence Edney of the speech department and speech head at university high is director of the institute. Several Iowa high school speech teachers are teaching at the session.

The young students of drama, debate and discussion aren't lacking in mantle decorations from the silver cup department.

Fred Wuellner of Farragut and Diane Schell of West Union, the leads in the play, took first and second honors respectively in dramatic declamation at a state-wide speech contest this year. Miss Schatz also placed first in the interpretive reading event.

In the same contest, George Webster, Muscatine, and Helen Hays, Vinton, were finalists in dramatic declamation. Miss Hays was also an interpretive reading finalist. They have supporting roles in the play.

The title role of "Junior Miss" was played by Judy Atwell, Ft. Dodge, also of the supporting cast, with the Ft. Dodge Community theater.

Although most of the students have had some dramatic experience, none has ever appeared in a comedy until now, Horace Hoover, director of the play, explained. Hoover is speech instructor at Oelwein high school.

They are finding comedy somewhat difficult, Hoover said, but it is designed to give speech education through dramatics. It helps them gain poise and confidence, he added.

On the other side of the speech fence, the debate group is vocally tossing next year's debate question back and forth. It concerns compulsory arbitration of labor disputes in basic industries.

Students in this group have been studying the question from every angle and giving it healthy expression in debate every afternoon at University high.

The debaters will publicly air their views Thursday afternoon at 1:30 in room 302 at the high school. Jim McKinney, Muscatine, and George Webster will take the affirmative side against Robert DeVoe, Dubuque, and James Whitlesley of Dallas, Texas.

SUI Doctors Attend Pediatrics Meeting

Two doctors from University hospitals attended the fifth International Pediatrics congress which held a four-day meeting in New York last week.

Dr. Genevieve Stearns and Dr. J. D. Boyd, both from the pediatrics department at Children's hospital, attended the congress at which doctors from nearly every country in the world were present.

Dr. Boyd was responsible for the direction and designing of an exhibit prepared by the Iowa Child Welfare Research station which was displayed at the congress.

According to an Associated Press story, four doctors from Columbia university's college of physicians and surgeons displayed an exhibit at the congress showing test tube evidence that aspirin is good for rheumatic fever. That is the disease that leaves large numbers of children with weak hearts.

Aspirin is regularly given to relieve pain in rheumatic fever but it has not been considered a medical remedy before.

Discuss Salesmen's, M.D.'s Duty to Deaf

Basic issues of the conflict between otologists and hearing aid salesmen were discussed at a speech and hearing conference round table yesterday in Old Capitol.

Dr. Werner Mueller, assistant surgeon at the Massachusetts Eye and Ear infirmary, Boston, led the discussion on problems in fitting hearing aids.

In response to a suggestion from Dr. Scott Reger, eye, ear and throat specialist at the university hospital, that a hearing aid is no better than the service on it, Mueller said, "I would go farther than that. I would say that no hearing aid is better than the local agency."

Hearing aid salesmen should be taught to look into an ear and see an ear drum. If they find wax or a punctured eardrum, they should be obligated to send the sufferer to an otologist, he asserted.

On the other side of the picture, Mueller said, "There are many otologists who aren't hearing-aid-minded." By sending him to get a hearing aid, they feel that they might lose that patient.

Truck, Auto Collide

The right side of a pickup truck driven by William Jacobs, 515 S. Linn street, received $75 damage Friday when it crashed with a car driven by Mrs. Leo Berghold, route 3.

According to a report by the county sheriff, the accident occurred west of Iowa City at an intersection of Johnson county poor farm road and the Coralville road.

"Young man, I'm not Mayor Curley," said Dr. Werner Mueller of Boston yesterday when he was approached for an interview.

Referring to the former Boston mayor's desire for publicity, Mueller tried to stop a story about himself. He didn't want publicity and there wasn't anything interesting about him, he said.

Mr. Mueller is modest. Besides practicing as an eye and ear specialist, he spends his time studying stars, playing the piano and double bass and experimenting with photography. These hobbies, he explained, satisfy his "insatiable curiosity" and keep him up with the world.

"I have my hobbies because I want to stay young. When I'm 80 years old and crippled with rheumatism I'll want to be able to do some constructive work."

He limped slightly as he walked away from Old Capitol where he had addressed an audience on the fitting of hearing aids. He was a visiting lecturer for the conference on speech pathology and hearing conservation.

Pointing at the observatory dome on the physics building, he asked, "Young man, do you see the dome on that building? Have you ever been under that dome?"

When he received a negative answer, he snapped, "Why haven't you? You should be interested in those things."

The 55-year-old doctor believes that everyone should develop an interest in some hobby and that he can begin at any age to learn about it. He explained that he took up the "bull fiddle" 6 years ago.

He looked at the observatory dome. This is his first visit here, Mueller said, and he has not seen the equipment. In Boston, he explained, he has a telescope with a three-and-a-half-inch lens for studying astronomy—when he isn't taking photographs.

For many years, he said, photography has occupied much of his spare time. He has a complete darkroom in the basement of his home.

"I wish I had my camera," he complained. "I would like to take some shots of this campus."

Mueller brushed his black hair in place and turned to the reporter. "Young man, don't try to make a story about me. There isn't anything interesting."

AVC Opens Drive For Vets to Renew Service Insurance

Local veterans who have let their national service life insurance lapse, will be the object of an American Veterans Committee drive this week, according to Chairman Robert W. Iversen. The Johnson County chapter of AVC will staff a booth in front of Old Capitol next Monday through Wednesday, July 21-23. They will help veterans reinstate their NSLI policies and assist them in filing claims for unused furlough pay as enlisted men. William J. Doherty of the local Veterans Administration contact office said that veterans have until Jan. 1, 1948, to reinstate their NSLI without physical examination. They have only to fill out a single form and pay the two months' premiums to keep insurance on a term basis. Veterans can convert lapsed term premium and one month's premium of the particular type of regular insurance they wish. Doherty said the extra month's payment is repayment to the government after he allowed it to lapse.

Says Farming Most Perilous

Its more dangerous to be a farmer in peacetime than a soldier in wartime. More farmers and members of their families are killed or crippled by accident each year than any other group in the country. Harold Parker, Johnson county Red Cross accident prevention chairman, said in an interview yesterday that every 20 seconds one of this nation's farm population dies or is injured by accident. Parker predicted that 1 in every 6 families in Johnson county will be the victim of some farm accident during the next 365 days. "National Farm Safety week begins tomorrow," he said, "but these six days must be something more than days set aside by the president." (President Truman designated July 20 to 26 as National Farm Safety week.) Parker pointed out that farmers have the poorest safety record of any major industry in the United States. "Sixteen thousand farmers died by accident last year," said Parker, "and these were 16,000 avoidable deaths." He indicated the most common cause of accidents, both in rural and urban homes, is the common, ordinary fall. Burns rank next as causes for accidental deaths at home, he said. He claimed the yearly cash loss is close to one billion dollars. Parker said farm safety is up to each individual in the farm family. He added, however, that organized classes in accident prevention would be given in Iowa City if interested persons would contact him or the Red Cross.

7 Iowans to Attend Flood Control Meet

Seven representatives of the Iowa Flood Control association will attend the Mississippi Valley association conference Wednesday in Kansas City, according to Robert L. Gage, Chamber of Commerce secretary. The members to attend are Dean F. M. Dawson, D. C. Nolan, W. W. Summerhill and W. F. Morrison, all of Iowa City; Noah Schrock of Oakville; Clyde McElhinney and Ed Hicklin, both of Wapello. The delegation, invited by the Mississippi Valley association to attend the conference, hopes to enlist assistance in the new Iowa project. Gage said that cities in Iowa interested in the new association will be contacted when the members return from the meeting. From this group a board of directors will be chosen to seek action from congress on the Iowa flood control problem. The Iowa Flood Control association was formed Friday night to initiate a move to get attention on flood control in Iowa. The meeting was called by the flood committee of the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce.

Iowa Baptists Will Hold 2-Week Training School

The Iowa Baptist summer assembly will have a two-week leadership training school for senior age Baptist young people of Iowa at Iowa Falls starting July 21. Earline Calta, Ronald Coldsnow and Dorothy Grapp, all of Iowa City, will attend as students. The Rev. Elmer E. Dierks, Iowa City, will be dean of men. He will teach a course in worship and will direct the young people in leadership of morning worship hour.

Racers Set for Soap Box Derby Today

Forty-five boys will line the top of Riverside drive hill this afternoon at 2 o'clock waiting for the gun to start Iowa City's fifth Soap Box derby. Previous derbies were held in 1939, 1940, 1941 and 1946. All derbies have been run on the Riverside drive hill located between Grove street and the intersection of Highway 6. Winner of the local race will receive a plaque, wrist watch and a trip to Akron, Ohio, in August to compete in the national Soap Box derby. In the A and B classes, gold, silver and bronze medals will be awarded the winners of first, second and third places. Class B races are for boys 11-12 years old and the Class A races for boys 13-15 years old. Thirteen entries are listed in the Class B division and 32 boys will compete in Class A races. Cars will race two at a time, with no time recorded, until a champion is determined in each class. The class victors will then meet for the city championship. Class B races will be run through first, followed immediately by the Class A races. The gravity-propelled racing cars have undergone a rigid inspection for the safety of all participants. The cars must comply with all national Soap Box derby rules. The maximum weight is 250 pounds for boy and car. More than 10,000 spectators attended last year's Soap Box derby here and this year's crowd is expected to set a new record. The Iowa City races are sponsored by the Iowa City Press-Citizen and Nall Motors, Inc., with the cooperation of the Iowa City recreation center.

Auto Hits Highline Pole; Opens 2300 Volt Circuit

Power lines carrying 2,300 volts of electricity dangled over cars going through Coralville on highway 6 after a motorist drove his car into a highline pole at 2:15 a.m. yesterday. Clarence Butts, Dunkel hotel, told state highway patrolmen he chose to hit the pole instead of an on-coming car. Butts said he was going east on Highway 6 when he met a car driving on the wrong side of the road. Highway patrolmen said the pole was supported only by Butts' car and leaned across the road at a dangerous angle until power company linemen repaired the damage. Patrolmen directed one-way traffic beneath the live wires. Damage to the car was estimated at $200. Hines to Attend Meet. Dr. Harry M. Hines, head of the physiology department, will attend a physician's post-graduate course at Madison, Wisconsin, July 21 and 22. We Need a Peace to Keep, Mr. Agar

During the war Russia and the United States repeatedly promised full cooperation in the postwar world. The declaration of the United Nations in 1941, the Moscow and Teheran agreements in 1943, the Yalta agreement and the U.N. charter in 1945, all contained such promises.

Yet today there is a wide rift. William Agar said in his lecture here Friday night that everything will work out all right and that there is no danger of war.

He emphasized that the United Nations was not designed to establish the peace, but to keep the peace after it is established. Keeping the peace is a fine objective, if there is time to establish any kind of peace worth keeping.

The stumbling block is the same that has plagued the champions of world government throughout history; namely, national sovereignty. At the U.N. conference two years ago the nations would not relinquish a single shred of their sovereignty. Thus, the veto power came about, and the U.N. in 1945 was faced with the same problem as the League of Nations in 1919.

The committee for survival has proposed amending the U.N. charter to "put teeth in it." But strength-giving amendments, or any form of real world government, means a limitation of national sovereignty. Is the U.S. willing to give that up? Is Russia?

U.S. public opinion in favor of entering a world government seems to be increasing. The public may already be well ahead of its leaders in congress. Polls show that 60 percent of Americans now believe we should take steps to get a workable world government; back in 1941 less than 10 percent were reported as so inclined.

Surely the widening gap between the Soviets and ourselves points up the need to redefine the rules of the game, and as quickly as possible.

The resolutions now before congress calling for amendments to the U. N. charter might make a good starting point.

Amendments which ought to be considered include: abolition of the veto, a police force equipped and empowered to deal with large nations as well as small, a world court system with jurisdiction over individuals, and the prohibition of secession on the part of member states.

In taking the initiative to put across these amendments, our moral position would be greatly strengthened. The burden would then be placed on other nations to accept or reject the proposals.

Many people blame Russia for stifling the United Nations and for her general non-cooperation, but this should not prevent our offering a new program.

It is all well and good to talk about keeping the peace. But the fact remains that we haven't yet got the kind of peace worth keeping. Mr. Agar recognized this, and he said we should start working now toward improving the United Nations as well as working out around the council table the problems that have been brought to the U.N.

There appears to us no valid reason why the U.N. shouldn't be one of the agencies through we establish peaceful conditions, as well as try to keep the peace.

If it wasn't set up to do that, then let's face facts and do something about strengthening its machinery.

If Only Harry Would Get a Tattoo

We're glad to hear that the new king of Denmark is tattooed.

With a national advertising campaign underway to popularize perfume for men, something has to be done to counteract the daintiness invading the masculine world. And a tattoo does lend that masculine touch.

Of late years the tattoo had been more or less out of style, frowned upon by the goodie-gooders and unimaginative. The tattoo industry was almost shattered. The artists of old had left for more lucrative fields. Stock designs of Betty Boop, bleeding hearts and poorly designed, sealy, reptiles hogged the field of available tattoo designs.

One did not see Grant Wood's "Daughters of the Revolution" masterfully executed on some hairy chest. No. Always some ridiculously drawn and uninspiring portrayal of a sinking ship or a lumpy, poorly proportioned, scantily clad exhibit of a hula girl.

Thousands of servicemen were embossed and new masters of the needle entered the industry. The latest technological developments, newer and more colorful dyes, speedier and more sanitary methods of tattoo application, were utilized. Stirring tattoo designs were originated.

In some hospitals, also, it is the practice to tattoo an identification mark on all babies. This practice is doing much to remove the false stigma, attached to the art of tattooing.

Now if Harry S. Truman would just get a tattoo...

Griswold Should Report on Greece

Dwight Griswold, head of the American mission, has arrived in Greece. We should expect, in fact, we should feel entitled to, a report on the Greek trouble as soon as possible.

Under the Truman doctrine, American money supports the Greek army. Are we not entitled, then, to some on-the-spot report of how that money is being spent?

The news of the fighting between Greek royalists and the guerrillas has been, at best, sketchy and incomplete. It has been based entirely on communiques from the Greek government.

There is little in the history of the present Greek government to warrant complete faith in its pronouncements. Immediately after the war, it was engaged in acts of terrorism and political persecution.

There is little doubt that highly-placed persons in the Greek government collaborated with the Nazis during the German occupation. While some of the royalists were collaborating, the guerrillas took to the hills to fight the Nazis.

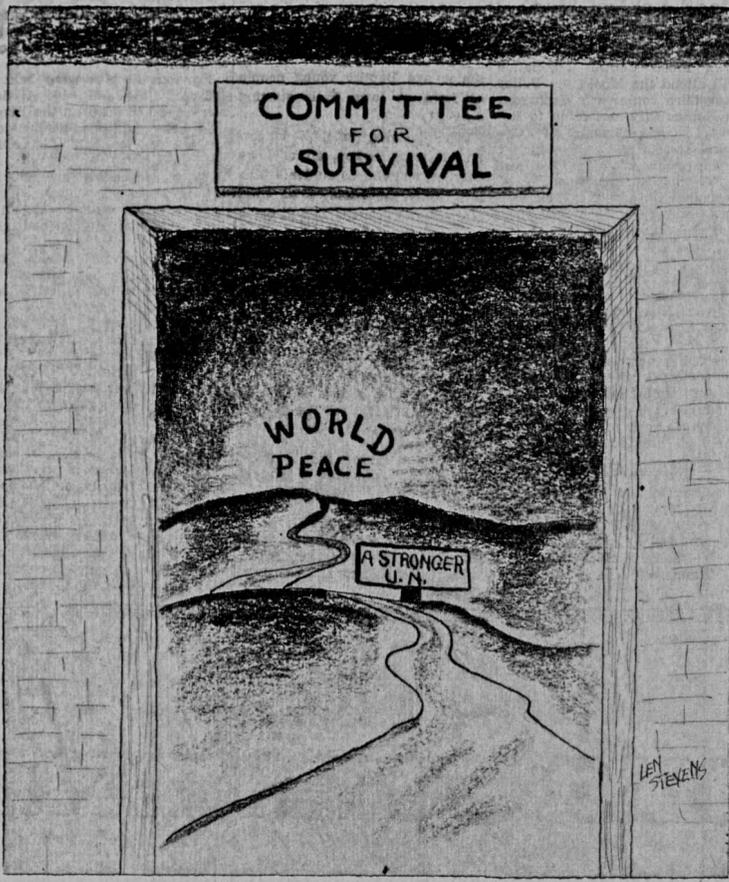

Discussions of the fighting and the charges and countercharges made in the U.N. security council have cleared up little. The United States has insisted that a permanent border watch commission be maintained in the Balkans. But this proposal has run into the stubborn opposition of the Soviet.

So it seems we need some facts about what's going on in Greece. We think Griswold should give these facts in a report to the American people if the highly explosive situation in that country is not to blow up in our collective faces.

And, if special instructions were given him, Griswold might also whisper in the ear of the King of Greece that reforms within the Greek government itself would quiet some of the understandable opposition of the guerrillas.

After all, the American government is providing a share of what the Greek army is using to fight the guerrillas. Surely the least we can do is to insist that the Greek government establish the minimum requirements of a democratic government.

Through This Door ...

Inside Washington

By THE CENTRAL PRESS

WASHINGTON—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is having quite a headache these days—one that almost any other person in the country would welcome, but not "Ike."

Here is his trouble: A great number of American corporations and business houses want the name of the army chief of staff and supreme Allied commander on their board of directors.

By adroitly worded and persuasive letters and by personal calls, the general is being solicited to join this or that board. He would draw all the emoluments that go with the titles. It is emphasized that he would have little to do, but all the firms know what his name would mean to their business.

Ike, however, is remaining steadfastly aloof from these inducements. He will accept none. The general has no plans except to continue for a while as chief of staff and then assume the presidency of Columbia university about Jan. 1.

Education gains Eisenhower and his great administrative and leadership qualities, but the glistening mahogany board tables of industry directorships will not cover the feet of the five-star general. But it's a headache just to keep on saying "No."

● GOVERNMENT GAL PANS A PARTY—Rep. Errett Scrivner (R-Kan.) recently asked Doris Bocooc, of Olathe, Kan., one of the government girls invited to Mrs. Truman's garden party, to write about her White House experiences in his weekly news letter. Here are some excerpts from Doris' article:

"I had been excited about this event for over a month—but did my illusions get knocked for a loop. In the first place, the weather clouded up and the party was held inside the White House rather than on the lawn as originally planned.

"Mrs. Truman wore a very attractive gray and yellow print dress, and if there was any feeling reflected in her face, it was that of boredom—as though she were thinking, 'Well, since I'm the president's wife, this is one of the things I have to do.'"

Doris concluded her article with this observation: "Despite the fact that the papers called it a delightful affair, I'll take a bacon, lettuce and tomato sandwich at the corner drugstore any time. But—I wouldn't have missed it for anything."

● COCKTAILS "TORPEDOED"—The securities exchange commission intervened to halt what was planned as one of the gaudiest cocktail parties in Washington history.

Preston Tucker, whose production of the Tucker Torpedo automobile was made possible by a reconstruction finance corp. loan, was to have been host at the gala soiree.

The occasion was to have marked the "unveiling" of the auto, and invitations were telegraphed to thousands of Washingtonians, including the entire capitol press corps.

But the telegraphic bids were quickly followed by wires stating that the party had been called off because of "illness in the Tucker family."

It soon became known, however, that it wasn't illness but the SEC which interfered with the event.

The SEC informed Tucker that it would not countenance such an ostentatious bid for publicity. Tucker thereupon decided to exhibit the car "privately."

Invitations were tendered by telephone this time and it was made plain that the showing would not include free drinks, free food, or free anything else, except a free look at the car.

Veto Elimination Raises British Vote

By JAMES D. WHITE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst
Writing a peace for Japan promises to be sticky business.

The United States started out last week by calling for an 11-nation preliminary conference in Washington, or San Francisco, suggesting August 19 as a date, and proposing a two-thirds majority vote instead of the big-four veto power which has helped the postwar Germany and Europe into knots.

America, in trying to lift Japanese peace talks above the veto power, automatically increases the weight of the British commonwealth nations at the conference, where each will have one vote.

Australia called for a meeting of commonwealth nations at Canberra on August 26, so they could talk over their ideas on what should be done with Japan.

Obviously the Washington conference date, August 19, conflicts with the Canberra meeting, and it remains for somebody to show that it wasn't called—partly, anyway—to head off any united front which the commonwealth powers might reach at Canberra.

In this connection, it is important to remember that Australia has often sided with Soviet Russia in criticizing American occupation policy in Japan. This criticism has been that American policy didn't go far enough, particularly in land reform, liquidation of the Zaibastu, etc.

Because of similar colonial interests, France and the Netherlands can be expected to see the commonwealth point of view readily, and this would create a bloc of votes just short of the necessary two-thirds majority of eight. If China or Russia or the Philippines joined in, the majority would be clear.

Hypnotism, Osta, Books

By KEN BROJACK
The more familiar we become with the art—or the science—of hypnotism the more fascinating the subject becomes to us.

Without having reached the state where we're willing to trust ourselves completely to the whimsical influence of another, we recognize a state of interest and curiosity in which this sort of final move is almost inevitable...

even though we've learned recently just how costly this sort of thing can be to a newspaperman. A friend of ours told us the other day about a local amateur hypnotist who, though practice, has developed his science to an impressive point of perfection.

He wooed and won himself a wife as the climax of a whirlwind romance in which he plied his poor unsuspecting victim with water disguised, under hypnosis as coca cola.

(An uncomfortable situation presented itself when, through a lapse of his own consciousness, he forgot to break the "spell" one night and the woman in the case found herself brushing her teeth with coca cola.)

But, back to the case of the newspaperman. When the student hypnotist was operating on campus before the war years, an exuberant spirit of his soul not astute representative of the reporter staff of The Daily Iowan was sent to cover one of his exhibitions at a campus fraternity house.

The reporter, a wise youngster of the Missouri school who "has to be shown," expressed repeated doubts about the hypnotist's ability even after he'd seen subjects reduced to a state of rigid immobility and stretched plank-like between two chairs.

There's only one way to handle a situation like this so the hypnotist took the daily's doubting Thomas into hand...

The reporter, restored to his natural state of uncertain awareness, returned to his desk, still dubious, and proceeded to write his copy. He blissfully turned it in to his city editor...

only to have the frustrated fellow blow his top, of course. It's practically impossible to write any comprehensible sentence without the letter "e".

A short time later the hypnotist received a frantic call from the reporter. He was quite shaken but in a responsive mood and willing to be convinced that there must be something to this business after all.

Care for a Slice of Fudge Cake, Gents?

"CHEESECAKE" is what photographers are usually after, but we'll take Mrs. C.B. McElmurray's fudge cake any day. Mrs. McElmurray lives in trailer 113 Hawkeye village.

Wives living in trailer units have their own special recipes and hints on "cutting corners" in the kitchen. Mrs. C. B. McElmurray, trailer 113 Hawkeye Village, recommends this fudge cake recipe for quick making and delicious eating. The cake bakes well, she says, with the oven adjusted to a medium flame.

Fudge Cake
 2 1/2 cups flour
 1 teaspoon soda
 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/2 cup shortening
 1 1/2 cups sugar
 1 teaspoon vanilla
 2 eggs
 1 cup sour milk
 1/2 cup cocoa
 1/3 cup hot water
 Sift flour once, then measure and mix with soda, baking powder and salt, and sift again.

Cream shortening, add sugar gradually, mixing thoroughly after each addition. Add vanilla, then the well beaten eggs and beat until fluffy. Add the flour mixture alternately with the sour milk. Mix cocoa and hot water to form a smooth paste, beat into batter. Pour the batter into two large layer cake pans and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 30-35 minutes. When the cake is cool, Mrs. McElmurray tops it with a chocolate powdered sugar frosting.

Deborah Page Wed To W. F. Wahrman

The marriage of Deborah Ann Page, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd E. Page, to William F. Wahrman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Wahrman, all of Denison, took place Saturday, July 12, at the First Presbyterian church in Denison.

The Rev. W. L. Tillman read the double ring ceremony. Attending their cousin were Mrs. Richard M. McCarthy, Riverdale, Ill., matron of honor, Shirley Sykes, Albert Lea, Minn. and Alice Jean Sykes, Ida Grove, bridesmaids.

Best man was C. K. Moore, Cedar Rapids. Ushers were Joe Smith, Denison, John Keller, Cyril Kauffman, both of Cedar Rapids, and Charles and Phillip Sykes, Ida Grove.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception for all guests was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents, followed by a wedding dinner for the bridal party and relatives at the home of the bride's parents.

Mrs. Wahrman was graduated from Denison high school in 1943. She attended Iowa State college for a year and this June received a bachelor of arts degree from the University of Iowa.

Her husband graduated from Excelsior high school, at Norwalk, Calif., and attended Long Beach junior college and the University of Iowa.

After a two weeks' wedding trip to California the couple will be at home in Denison, where the bridegroom will be associated in business with his father.
