

BREWSTER CLAIMS TRAP

An Editorial—

'Bystanders Are Not Innocent'

County Attorney Jack C. White announced late last night that he will begin an official investigation today of the attack on a Jewish person in a downtown Iowa City hotel early last May.

The dramatic presentation of an incident which happened in Iowa City this spring is contained in the August 2 issue of the 'Saturday Review of Literature.'

Written by Norman Cousins, editor of the magazine, the article is entitled 'Bystanders Are Not Innocent.' It concerns the brutal beating here on May 6 of a Jewish person in a downtown hotel.

This incident has been complicated by the fact that the victim has refused to press charges against his attackers. He has even refused to make an official statement to police.

Last night Dean of Students C. Woody Thompson issued an official statement that the 'person attacked has been in my of'

World in Action— Around The Globe

PRESIDENT TRUMAN yesterday pocket-vetoed legislation for a national science foundation, along with six other bills, and took congress to task for what he termed a proposed infringement on the powers of the president.

AT LEAST 25 persons were injured when the Illinois Central railroad's 'Green Diamond' passenger train rammed a Burlington railroad freight train at the crossing of the two lines near Litchfield, Ill.

A HAND-HOLDING New England, newlywed pair, Joseph L. Hardy Jr., 24, of North Kettering, Me., and his thin blonde wife, Lois Hunt Hardy, 21, of Portsmouth, N. H., waived the formalities and were bound over to a Truckee, Calif., superior court on a murder charge for the sex-lure slaying of an elderly vacationer a week ago.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN in his role of a good will ambassador will fly to Rio De Janeiro soon for closing sessions of a defense conference of all 20 American republics.

IT WAS JUST one happy family in Las Vegas, Nev., as Bernadette Meyers, 27, divorced Richard Carney of Renton, Wash., and married Albert Weber, 25. Carney gave his wife the family car, furniture and outstody of two children.

Say Wright 'In' As Mississippi Governor

JACKSON, Miss. (P)—Fielding L. Wright appeared last night to be headed for a full four-year term as Mississippi's chief executive, as reverberations from Tuesday's state Democratic primary resounded in Washington.

Sees 'Danger' Resulting From Taft-Hartley Law

YORK, Pa. (P)—John W. Gibson, assistant secretary of labor, said yesterday the labor department is 'apprehensive' over the Taft-Hartley labor act.

Fire Kills 2, Injures 50

LOS ANGELES (P)—With 2 men dead, more than 50 injured and 2,200 acres of valuable watershed denuded, a fire which started in Upper Tujunga canyon raged out of control last night.

Helicopters pressed into service to drop water to exhausted fire fighters in inaccessible regions were credited with saving the life of one man yesterday. Richard Dietzel, a volunteer fighter carrying a radio walkie-talkie set, found himself trapped by the flames in a branch of Lukens canyon.

He reported his plight via the radio and a few minutes later one of the 'windmills' sat down in the canyon and flew him to safety.

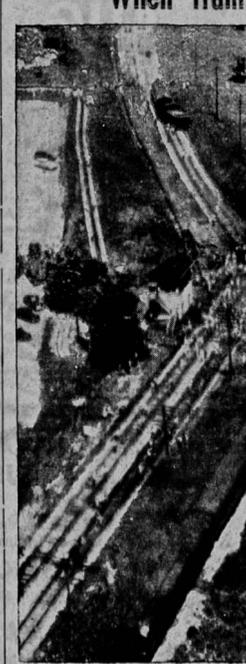

Eight hundred and fifty men were fighting the blaze, all in the Angeles national forest.

Treat

CHICAGO (P)—The water cooler emptied quickly at the Rubenstein Wholesale Upholstery company yesterday as the heat wave continued a third day, and no more bottled water was available.

President Bill Rubenstein solved the problem—apparently to the satisfaction of all employees. He filled the empty water bottle with cold beer.

Here's That Promised Relief From the Heat

SNOW JOKE KIDDIES but this is the best we can do in the way of that relief from the heat the weatherman promised us.

Hopes Dim for Quick Relief

City Cools Off! Only 98 Degrees

The three-day run of over 100 degree temperatures was halted yesterday when the thermometer at the Iowa City airport fell off its daily dizzy zoom at the 98 degree mark around 4 p.m.

This was only four degrees off the year's high of 102 reached Monday and could hardly be classed as the 'relief' promised by the weatherman.

Yesterday's low was 73 early in the morning. The temperature had fallen to 88 at 7:30 last night.

The Des Moines weather bureau expects a 'slow moving' mass of cool air to bring the readings down to the comfortable 60 degree class.

Nope! No rain in sight, they say.

See Little Prospect Of Corn-Saving Rain

No hope is held by the experts for rain to quench the thirst of Iowa's corn-crop which is beginning to be somewhat sunstruck.

Burlington topped the rest of Iowa yesterday with a mark of 102 degrees while most of the state had to be satisfied with temperatures in the 90's.

This halting of soaring statewide temperatures was caused by a 'cold wave' moving in from the wide open spaces out west, according to the weatherman in the capital city.

Three deaths attributable to the heat during the current hot spell have been reported. They were Frank Elston, 77 of Okoboji; Ambrose Hilderbrand, 60 of Davenport, and Mrs. J.B. Alexander, 71 of Onawa.

Denies Charge Of Hughes Under Oath

Millionaire Reaffirms Solon's Merger Offer In Sworn Statement

WASHINGTON (P)—Millionaire Howard Hughes and Senator Brewster (R-Me) put under oath yesterday a charge and denial that the senator offered to call off a war plane contract investigation if Hughes would merge Trans World airline with Pan American Airways.

They gave their squarely contradictory testimony at a tense hearing of a Senate War Investigating subcommittee.

Hughes accused the committee of applying 'the screws' to him. Brewster said attempts had been made to 'trap' him into preventing a full investigation of Hughes' contracts with the government.

The senator told of two talks he had with Hughes in which a TWA-Pan American merger was discussed. But he said Hughes raised the matter first, and insisted he never made a proposition to halt the hearings.

In a radio interview (over ABC) later, Hughes called Brewster's denial 'pretty weak' and declared that 'just about everyone in the aviation industry recognizes that Brewster is lying' in saying that he never had heard of a proposed merger between TWA and Pan American before his talk with Hughes.

The people in the industry are only too familiar with Brewster's relations with Pan American Airways,' Hughes said, 'and the people in the industry know that if Brewster were pushing the investigation of my war contract for really legitimate reasons and if Senator Brewster really believed me to be guilty of obtaining war contracts by improper means he would not be romancing me on the side, inviting me to lunch and making appointments over the phone to see me in California.'

'No, This just doesn't add up. Brewster's connection with Pan American is too well known, and it is too much of a coincidence that this investigation of my war contract was suddenly brought to life just when I refused to make the merger deal with Pan American.'

Hughes Is Sworn In 'Committee Applying the Screws'

Virginia City Closes Red Light District

VIRGINIA CITY, Nev. (P)—Houses of prostitution in this historic mining town were locked yesterday in what was believed to be the first complete shutdown since early Comstock days.

Orders to close the five gally-lighted houses were issued by the Storey county commissioners last night, and Sheriff Otto Tannehill and District Attorney Robert Berry promptly complied.

The action came as the aftermath to a bizarre shooting and subsequent mystery in Virginia City last week. Tony Harvey hanged himself after engaging in a gun duel with Louis Barton of New York in the home of Harvey's wife, Louise. Harvey formerly owned one of the vice houses and Mrs. Harvey formerly worked there, Berry said.

Greek Asks U. N. Action To Halt Russ

LAKE SUCCESS (P)—Greek Ambassador Vassili Dendramis declared last night that Russia and her Balkan satellites would completely absorb Greece unless action is taken to check the present Balkan situation.

In a slashing attack on Russia, Dendramis told the United Nations security council that Russia's veto of the United States plan for a 'watchdog' commission in the Balkans had definitely indicated Moscow's aim.

'The object,' he said, 'is to muzzle and to strait-jacket the means of defending the peace. The object is to give the appearance of a solution and to lull the world into a false sense of security until it is too late.'

Dendramis spoke as the council sought in vain to agree on some action to halt the Balkan disorders which most of the delegates agreed were a serious menace to peace.

He took the floor after Australia proposed that the council apply the 'Indonesian formula' to the complicated problem and Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko declared the proposal was 'not acceptable.'

Marshall Cancels Credit to Hungary

WASHINGTON (P)—Denouncing the recent Hungarian government upset as a Communist coup, Secretary of State Marshall yesterday disclosed cancellation of a $7,000,000 credit promised Hungary.

The state department simultaneously took a poke at another of Russia's Balkan neighbors by renewing an official protest against the Romanian government's widespread arrest of opposition leaders.

From Poland, meanwhile, came an appeal for restoration of the relief funds originally designed for that country in the new $332,000,000 American program. Marshall struck Poland off the list for aid July 23 after an American mission reported the Poles have enough food in sight to get by and officials considered it unlikely that the action would be reversed. The appeal was delivered to Marshall by Ambassador Josef Winiewicz who told newsmen that 'Poland really needs food.'

Attlee Names New Program

LONDON (P)—Prime Minister Attlee disclosed yesterday that Britain's borrowed dollars were running out at the rate of $3,240,000,000 a year and laid down a program of military retrenchment, Spartan hardship, 'limited' labor controls and 'some sacrifice' of personal liberty as the price this country must pay to survive.

The prime minister spoke to a packed house of commons while outside the houses of parliament and No. 10 Downing street unsmiling crowds waited to hear what new sacrifices would be demanded.

Attlee said there would be less food, less gasoline, less timber for new houses, less goods in the stores, longer hours of work.

He announced that U. S. Secretary of State George C. Marshall has agreed to negotiations on the fast-disappearing American loan of $3,750,000,000—which Britain had expected would last until 1950 but which Attlee said will be gone before the end of this year.

In these negotiations Britain will seek the easing of the convertibility provision, which became effective July 15, obliging her to pay dollars to any nation demanding them instead of British sterling for trade.

Marshall, Snyder Disagree on Loan

WASHINGTON (P)—Secretary of State Marshall held out to the British yesterday a guarded hope for American assistance in their economic crisis by some agreement under the Anglo-American loan pact which would lessen the drain on their dwindling dollar supply.

Marshall told a news conference it is his understanding that at least two provisions of the loan contract could be modified without congressional action. Those are the provisions under which Britain now has to buy from the United States without discriminating in favor of other suppliers, and has to convert pounds sterling paid out in other foreign markets into dollars on request.

Even while Marshall was expressing his opinions to a news conference at the state department, however, Secretary of the Treasury Snyder was telling other reporters at the treasury department that in his opinion modification of the year-old loan provisions would require congressional action. He said the United States has already taken those steps which it could without congressional action.

He referred to a recent decision of the national advisory Council on Foreign Financing which held that if the British desire to discriminate in favor of purchases from their dependent territories they may do so without violating the loan agreement.

Bleachers Fall at Hambletonian

73 Injured At Trot Race

GOSHEN, N. Y. (AP)—Seventy-three persons were injured and hundreds were hurled to the ground when two sections of temporary bleachers at the Good Time park track collapsed an hour before the running of the historic Hambletonian trotting stakes yesterday.

Only two persons were seriously hurt, State Trooper John Hogan reported, although 30 were taken to Goshen hospital for treatment. Most of them were released within a short time.

Forty-three others were given first aid at a Red Cross tent at the track. Many of these suffered only skinned faces and legs, Hogan said.

Hoot Mon Wins In Record Run

ROCHESTER, Mich., layout.

In the second heat, coming from behind to overhaul the Giamor Boy of this year's hayseed World series, Rodney, Hoot Mon hit the wire in two minutes flat for the mile—the fastest Hambletonian heat ever run—to fairly take the breath away from the 18,333 city slickers and country cousins who jammed this sleepy Orange county town with a new record turn out.

The winner skipped through a front-running race in the third heat in 2:02 1/5 to pick up the $24,979.86 winner's pay check.

Aside from these two—Hoot Mon and Rodney—there was nothing else in the field of 13. Each time they practically left their closest rivals out of sight up the track. In the first heat in which Rodney led from end to end to win by two lengths in 2:01 2/5—the third fastest Hambletonian mile ever trotted—Buckshot B from Martin Burke's stable in Troy, N. Y., chased them home.

HOOT MON crosses the finish line to win the third heat and the Hambletonian at Goshen, N.Y., yesterday. Rodney is shown coming in second in this heat and also finished second in the race. In the second heat, Hoot Mon won with a record Hambletonian time of two minutes flat. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Cards Pick Up Game on Dodgers, Five Out

Taking Time Out With Buck Turnbull

So Ford Frick, National league president, is promoting the idea of moving the St. Louis Cardinals to Chicago. It'll be great rivalry, Mr. Frick says, to have two National league teams in the Windy City—just like the Dodgers and Giants in New York.

Well, personally, we don't like the thought of such a situation, and Sam Breadon wants to clear out, why go to Chicago? There are 17's true that St. Louis is not a rabid baseball town. But if the Cards plenty of other towns in this United States that are capable of supporting a major league club without giving New York and Chicago a six team monopoly out of sixteen.

St. Louis, although boasting a population of more than 800,000, has never been able to support the Browns and Cards both—at least not on the money-making scale of the other big league towns. Their fans are rather poor all around. They can't even back a winning team such as the Cards.

So we're agreed to the point of moving the Redbirds if at all possible. Some of the experts, including Card President Breadon himself, kind of think Los Angeles or San Francisco are likeable sites. But the distance between New York and the Pacific coast is still 3,000 miles and the travel involved is almost out of the question.

Breadon has been negotiating with Walter O. Briggs, president of the Detroit Tigers, in a deal which would take the Cards to Detroit as the National league representative of that city. But Briggs and the American league are not crazy about it and nothing has been heard of the deal.

We can think of many a city who would roll out the carpet and throw a banquet every night if a major league team—and the Cards are not just any team—would move in.

What's the matter with Baltimore, Omaha, Columbus, Syracuse or Kansas City. They are all good minor league cities with people capable of backing any big team. The Cardinals are a showy ball club with many good players and they're still the World champions.

Birds Stop Cincy Rally To Win, 6-3

CINCINNATI (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals beat back a ninth inning Cincinnati rally last night to defeat the Reds 6-3 and extend their winning streak to an even half-dozen. Stan Musial and Terry Moore connected for round-trippers for the Cards as three Redlegs errors contributed to the St. Louis scoring.

Little Murray Dickson set the Reds down in the final round after Eddie Lukon had clubbed his eighth homer of the season with a mate aboard. It was the St. Louis right-hander's eighth win as against 11 losses.

Johnny Vander Meer, the loser, gave up only four hits during the seven innings he worked but left the game on the short end of a 5-1 score as his teammates committed three costly errors.

Musial doubledecked the game 1-1 in the fourth with his 12th homer of the season before Whitley Kurowski doubled and Enos Slaughter walked. The Cardinal pair then pulled off a double steal, Kurowski scoring as Catcher Ray Mueller threw badly to Third Sacker Grady Hatton.

The Cardinals added two more in the fifth as Center Fielder Bert Haas muffed a drive by Red Schoendienst with men on second and third.

Moore homered in the sixth and Kurowski's eighth inning double, which Musial followed with a single, rounded out the St. Louis scoring.

Braves Drop Leading Bums Behind Spahn

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Braves last night handed the Brooklyn Dodgers their second defeat in as many nights beating the National league leaders 7-3 behind Lefty Warren Spahn who won his 14th victory. Biggest blow for the Braves was Bob Elliott's three-run homer in the fourth frame, the Tribal third sacker's 14th of the campaign. A crowd of 32,252 paid, made the total for three games of the four-contest series 86,067.

Spahn, who had made four previous attempts to win his 14th, drove in the first Tribal marker in the second inning with a lusty triple to right center, the ball sailing over Pete Reiser's outstretched hand and rolling to the fence.

He held the Brooks in check after a shaky first inning, until the seventh frame when they scored all their runs. In that inning an error and four singles, one of them hotly contested by the Braves as a foul ball, accounted for the runs.

An Associated Press columnist, in looking over the 1947 football schedules, paused when he came to Iowa and studied the Hawkeye opponents. Then he remarked, "The only way Iowa could've dug up a tougher schedule would be to play doubleheaders every Saturday next fall."

There isn't much question that he's right, either.

Right now eight of the nine tussles chalked up for the Hawkeyes figure to be 60 minutes of rough ball game. Only the opener with North Dakota State should be a breather, if you want to call it that.

The Bisons from North Dakota don't even have the amazing Cliff Rothrock, line-backing center who made almost half the tackles against Dr. Eddie Anderson's crew last year, Rothrock will not be on hand for the game Sept. 20. He is in Chicago now practicing with the professional Chicago Rockets. Coach Jimmy Crowley of the Rockets says he plans to make a guard out of Rothrock and utilize his exceptional speed.

Crowley says that the former Bison is one of his fastest starting linemen and an exceptional line backer. Rothrock was recommended to Crowley by Dr. Anderson.

Tigers Sweep Two Games From Indians

DETROIT (AP)—Sweeping both ends of a doubleheader from the Cleveland Indians, 13 to 6 and 7 to 5, the Detroit Tigers vaulted ahead of the Boston Red Sox into second place in the American league yesterday as Bob Feller failed in a try for his 14th victory.

Feller couldn't hold a 5-1 lead in the opener but the defeat was charged against Byron Stephens, third of four Cleveland pitchers, when Detroit jammed across nine runs in the eighth inning on seven hits, two walks and a pair of errors.

The Tigers counted all seven of their runs in the first two innings of the nightcap off Mel Harder before Charles (Red) Embree came on to pitch one-hit ball 6 1/2 frames. The big lead was enough for Freddie Hutchinson to ride to his 11th victory.

Giants Blast No Homers But Jansen Downs Phillies, 5-2

NEW YORK (AP)—Rookie Larry Jansen turned back the last Philadelphia Phillies, 5-2 yesterday to gain his 12th victory against four defeats for the fence-busting New York Giants.

Jansen yielded eight hits and wasn't scored upon until the Giants had amassed all of their runs off starting and losing Pitcher Charley Schanz who yielded six blows in four innings.

In the first yesterday Del Ennis muffed Bill Rigney's leadoff liner for a two base error. Rigney moved to third on Buddy Kerr's groundout and scored when Thomson singled. After Johnny Mize walked and Willard Marshall flied out, Walker Cooper doubled to left to score Thomson and Mize.

The Giants picked up their remaining runs in the fourth on Sid Gordon's double, Jack Lohrke's triple and Rigney's fly out.

Philadelphia scored one in the fifth on a walk, Harry Walker's single and a groundout, and another in the seventh on Skeeter Newsome's single, a groundout and another one-bagger by Walker.

McCahan Halts Yanks, 5-3

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Bill McCahan, promising rookie right-hander of the Philadelphia Athletics limited the New York Yankees to five hits yesterday in pitching the A's to a 5-3 conquest over the American league leaders.

Two of the blows yielded by McCahan were home runs by Al Clark and Billy Johnson which accounted for all of the Yankees' runs.

The A's batted around and scored four runs in the sixth. That wrapped up the game and handed Veteran Bobo Newsom his first setback in five decisions since he was obtained by the Yanks from Washington.

Roger Wolff Laces Cubs for Bucs, 7-2

CHICAGO (AP)—Roger Wolff, the knuckle-ball refugee from the American league, yesterday escorted the Pirates to a 7-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs in the opening of a two-game series.

Wolff won his first National league victory by holding the Cubs to eight hits, three of which produced both Chicago runs in the first inning. Led by Jim Russell, the Pirates collected 11 blows off Pitchers Paul Erickson, Emil Kush and Doyle Lade.

The defeat was the third straight for the Cubs since they swept a three-game series from the league-leading Dodgers.

Two Bosox Hurlers Allow Nats 2 Hits, Lose, 1-0

WASHINGTON (AP)—Boston's Earl Johnson and Mickey Harris restricted Washington to a brace of infield hits here last night, but the Senators produced an unearned run in the first inning and Mickey Haefner made it good to beat the Red Sox, 1-0.

Washington scored its run and its only two hits off Johnson. Eddie Yost beat out a roller to second Baseman Bobby Doerr leading off in the Senators' first and continued to second on Doerr's wild throw. Buddy Lewis then beat out a bunt, sending Yost to third, and Yost scored when Tom McBride hit into a double play.

'Bystanders Are Not Innocent'

... but once, on May 12. We have attempted on several occasions to get him to come in again so that we could get from him sufficient details by which to proceed against the offenders.

"It seems to me that the first duty of anyone who has been so brutally treated is to support those who are in authority and who are anxious to see that the principles of democracy are maintained at all times. The case is ready to go to the Committee on Discipline, but it needs that essential testimony which only the victim can supply."

The victim has taken the position that he himself can decide the disposition of this case.

The essential point is that the community as a whole is concerned. What has happened threatens the whole structure of law and order. Hoodlums who beat up one Jewish person will beat up others. Hoodlums who beat up Jewish persons in Germany were allowed to continue their beatings too long. This is something more than an individual's case.

It is also imperative that the Jewish members of our community prevail upon the victim to cooperate thoroughly with the authorities.

Cousins' article, written shortly after he appeared as a lecturer on the university campus, is reprinted in part below with the permission of the "Saturday Review of Literature."

"It was the morning after I gave a public lecture under the auspices of the university. I was having my breakfast in the coffee shop of a well-known hotel.

"A gentleman came over, introduced himself as a fellow Nutmegger from Connecticut who had been at the lecture the previous night.

"He was teaching and doing graduate work in a field that he knew had been my own special interest as well; namely, the direct relationship between the decay of Greek civilization and the failure of the Greek states to come together under principles of federation.

"With so many points of mutuality, I was anxious to have him join me for breakfast. He spoke of the university and the faculty, for both of which he had the highest regard.

"I liked the basic humaneness of his general approach and attitude; I was impressed with his modesty and bearing and quiet scholarship.

"After breakfast, one of the deans met me in the hotel lobby and escorted me over to the campus for the morning roundtable.

"I told him of my conversation with my breakfast companion, and learned that the dean shared my high opinion of him.

"The dean then told me that my companion had just returned from the hospital. He had been painfully injured some 10 days earlier in the same coffee shop in which we had just had breakfast.

"It seems that about 9 p.m. on a weekday evening he had stopped in for a bite after working in the library. At a nearby table were several undergraduates.

"They began to pass remarks about Jews. Soon they were telling and laughing loudly at coarse jokes.

"Then one of them pointed to the Greek scholar. 'Look at him, he looks like a Jew!' he yelled.

"Of course he's a Jew,' someone else said roughly. 'I know all about him. He makes big dough teaching at that damned Hebrew school in town.'

"Hey, Jew!' the third one taunted. 'Whattaya doin' in a restaurant for white men? Git the hell out before we throw you out!'

"The gentleman sat quietly, sipping his coffee, his attention fastened upon a book.

"The jibes became increasingly abusive and vulgar. The gentleman got up to leave. An outstretched leg and a quick push sent him spinning to the floor.

"He was set upon by the undergraduates who punched and kicked him about the head and other parts of the body. There was blood on the hands and shoes of the undergraduates when they finally left, having decided, apparently, that it wasn't much fun beating up a body after it became inert."

The account, which did not mention either the victim or the university by name, is essentially correct with the exception of details.

It seems that the victim, a meek, mild-mannered scholar, had stopped at a downtown hotel coffeeshop after studying. While waiting in line he heard two men making loud and insulting remarks about Jews. One of the men saw him, and yelled, "There's another Jew!"

The victim spoke to the two men, suggesting that they talk over quietly the situation with him, instead of talking in the loud tone that was attracting attention.

Instead, when they had walked a few feet with him, one of the men grabbed him, knocked him down, and then kicked him.

In an earlier part of the same article Cousins had made the point that bystanders in Germany were guilty for passively standing by and allowing the same sort of brutality to be practiced in Germany.

Immediately upon publication of the article, we wired Cousins to ask confirmation that he was writing about the Iowa City incident. His reply follows:

"I deliberately omitted the name of the offending university, not because I was trying to be evasive or protective, for that would have contradicted the spirit of the article, but because I was anxious to see a number of universities reexamine their position with respect to the issues I mentioned. I felt that the purpose of the article would best be served if not one but many schools tried on the shoe to see if it fits. For that reason, while you have permission to reprint the article, I request that you do so without confirmation by me concerning the identity of school."

Not being satisfied with this reply, we talked to Cousins by telephone twice on Tuesday night, after having checked with university officials, the police, and the hotel management.

We intended to editorialize on the matter Wednesday morning. But it was impossible to contact the victim that night. We thought it unwise to publish the report without first contacting him.

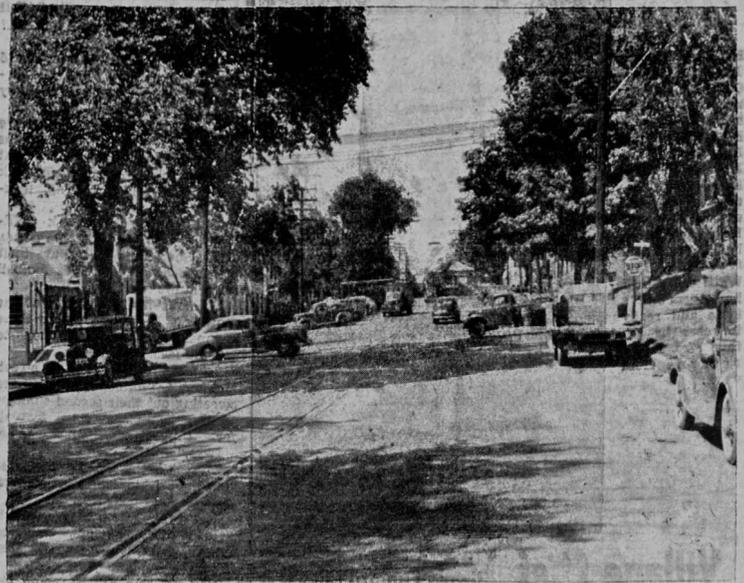

The first local public report of this incident consequently was contained in yesterday's Press-Citizen. Far from feeling any envy at a competitor's editorial "scoop," we congratulate them for the stand they have taken on this issue of basic human rights.

We were able to contact the victim early yesterday. He again expressed his opinion that the whole case should be dropped. We hope in view of the national and local disclosures of the case and the official interest of the county attorney that he will now work with the authorities.

The official investigation promised by County Attorney Jack White should receive the full cooperation of all concerned. This community cannot afford to be a bystander if we would plead not guilty to charges of racial discrimination.

Check on Capitol-Burlington Corner Reveals

It's 'Worst' Intersection

Iowa City's "Most Dangerous" Street Intersection
Seven cars averaged 50 miles per hour

By GAIL MYERS

How much of what you read in the newspapers do you remember? When you walk or drive through the intersection of Burlington and Capitol streets do you remember it has been called the "most dangerous street intersection in Iowa City?"

An advanced traffic engineering class of the peace officers short course held here earlier this summer called it "most dangerous" more than a month ago. They recommended two things be done:

1. Make a speed check on Burlington street traffic. If average speed is found to be above 30 miles an hour, "slow" signs should be installed west of the Capitol intersection.

2. Reflectize and raise the stop signs on Capitol street. Paint stop lines across Capitol street.

This is the story of a man who remembered what he had read.

He went to the city engineer. The city engineer told the man he had nothing to do with changing stop signs — of course, the city workers put up new signs when the police make the recommendations.

The man went to the police. The chief of police told him that nothing had been done yet about the signs. "You see," he said, "the council must pass on those matters when we recommend them—you talk to the city." And the speed check? "We have no way to make a speed check—guess we'd have to buy the equipment to make a check," said the police chief.

The man called the city clerk. "We have no proposal for sign changes on the Burlington-Capitol intersection," the city clerk told him. "But there is a matter of a stop light on Burlington and Riverside."

Then the man went to the corner of Burlington and Capitol. He timed cars for an hour and a half. His equipment for the speed check was a wrist watch and a note pad. He took down many figures and did some mathematics.

Seven cars averaged 50 m.p.h. in the block before the intersection. One car averaged nearly 60 m.p.h. Three semi-trailers averaged 45 m.p.h. before they reached the intersection, then picked up speed after hitting the Crandic tracks.

The uphill traffic moved as fast as the downhill traffic unless held up by a huge truck laboring up the hill.

Then the man paced off 35 paces on South Capitol street and looking north photographed the intersection to see how the stop signs show up in their present location. He did the same from the north side of the Burlington intersection.

Further complicating the traffic problem at this corner are the filling station traffic and the inter-urban tracks. "One of the worst things about that intersection is the condition of the road. Cars swing out of their lane to miss the bump at tracks," a city official said.

The traffic engineering class making the study in June announced that about 1,000 automobiles and trucks pass through this intersection an hour. The check was made during an average hour, not during a rush period. About 50 percent of this traffic is "through" traffic, the peace officers said.

The intersection had a record of 13 accidents in 1946. All but three accidents occurred on the southwest corner of the intersection, in traffic moving up Burlington street hill.

The corner of Clinton and Burlington, police believe, is busier than that at Capitol and Burlington. However, the latter is conceded to be the more dangerous.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

U.S. Foreign Policy Examined

By PAUL MALLON
(King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON—A rather important government official has returned from abroad, much discouraged over both the economic and political outlook.

His private conversational report to other administration authorities is being received with some awe and it will be a base guide to development of administration policies on defense, relief and perhaps diplomacy.

This official cannot see how Germany can recover with one-third of the country literally taken away (Russian's uncooperative zone) yet recovery is essential for a healthy Europe.

But more important was his conclusion that compromise with the Russians is impossible, and that a long and costly war is inevitable.

No evidence is discernible that these views will result in any critical change in policies which are developing, but the current trends may be strengthened and reinforced by bulwarks.

Secretary of State Marshall has abandoned hope of a usual summer vacation. The difficulties of developing detailed arrangements for his plan will take time.

His is not really a plan, but merely an announced purpose in a speech to continue aid to Europe for a few years more, if Europe will help itself, and give us ground for hope that our aid will be worthwhile.

Actually the administration is groping toward implementation of the Marshall thought being unanimously displeased at the prospect of endless continuation of the present loose money-giving.

The Truman cabinet recently spent a long time on an idea of giving goods instead of money hereafter. Secretary of Agriculture Anderson talked considerably about this, following the Columbus speech of Senator Taft containing some vague suggestions along the same line.

The idea seems to be that the United States should set up controls of exports, establish a purchasing board, procure the aid goods and then ship it.

All seemed to agree more or less about the necessity for a coordinating or purchasing board which would not run prices up here too high.

Indeed, there has been talk, deep within the administration, of establishing a two-price arrangement, one for foreign purchases and a second price for the United States, thus to prevent foreign demand from running the American price too high and supply too low.

Of course, this is merely the latest trend of inner administration talk about implementing the Marshall policy. The Republicans have study committees at work.

No one seems in much hurry because current appropriations are more than enough to take care of any natural emergency until January.

Marshall is developing some ideas for the conference of American foreign ministers at the gambling casino outside Rio, beginning Aug. 15. The European relief and refugee problems will be thoroughly analyzed there on a hemisphere basis.

Otherwise the United States is going ahead unilaterally to keep the Russian obstructionist tactics in the United Nations from blocking all world progress.

The Russians have shown they will filibuster and delay anything important, so we are moving on every issue (not only Greece and Turkey but also now Indonesia) to establish an American policy.

For instance, we offered our services immediately for mediation in the Indonesian affair.

Russia can stop the United Nations from doing anything by veto, but she cannot prevent the United States from doing the same thing, whether it be a Greek border mission study or an offer of mediation in disputes, presented and vetoed in U. N.

You might suspect the Russians would withdraw from U. N. so great is their vetoing and filibustering displeasure with its projects. That would be a normal reaction, but not Russian.

Few officials here have given a serious thought to the possibility of Russian withdrawal. They know Russia is in the U. N. to keep it from doing anything and will remain there for that purpose.

Similarly if the Russians want war and intend to bring one on, there is not much we can do except to make as much peace as we can around the world, strengthen our ties and prepare to defend ourselves.

Impoverished Russia is in no economic or military position to make war, but Hitler worked one up in a bankrupt nation, and you never can tell what nonconformists will do.

SAMUEL GRAPTON is on vacation. His column, "I'd Rather Be Right," will be resumed Sept. 2.

FAVORS "MORAL POWER"
BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — John Foster Dulles asserted last night that "moral power" could well be substituted for war in effecting "international change."

The recently designated U.S. delegate to the United Nations said: "Moral power is quite capable of assuming control of the situation. It can be the most powerful force in the world."

Inside Washington

By THE CENTRAL PRESS

Vandenberg at Crossroads

WASHINGTON—Senate President Arthur H. Vandenberg (R-Mich.), is standing at the crossroads of his long political career—at once the most dominant man in the Republican party and still very much of an "outside runner" for the 1948 GOP presidential nomination.

A stalemate between New York's Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and Ohio's Senator Robert A. Taft would throw Vandenberg's forces into powerful position to push him as a "dark horse" in an open field. Political observers feel that Vandenberg would make a strong run for the presidency should he be nominated.

However, barring being "drafted" for the presidential nomination, Vandenberg would like nothing better than to be secretary of state in a Republican cabinet. We would prefer it to the vice presidency. He has labored long—as he would put it—in the vineyards of foreign relations.

If Dewey should become president, he would have to choose between Vandenberg and John Foster Dulles, his past foreign affairs adviser. The choice would be difficult. Should Taft become president, Vandenberg's choice for the cabinet post would be virtually assured.

More Meat to Eat in 1947

● HIGH PRICE OF FEED—Americans are going to have more meat to eat in 1947 than any year since 1908, but they probably are going to have to pay high prices for it.

Figures compiled by the agriculture department show that 153 pounds of meat will be available for each person in the United States this year. That's the largest per capita supply in 38 years—seven pounds above 1946's record supply.

However, another report from the agriculture department indicates that meat prices will continue to stay high. The department's latest crop report forecasts a sharp drop in corn production from last year. This will tend indirectly to keep meat prices up.

Low corn production results in high feed prices, and since corn is a primary feed for livestock, you can expect meat prices to remain high as long as feed prices are up.

U. S., Russian Difficulties in Korea

● KOREAN BLOWUP?—Look for Korea to be the scene of the next blowup in United States-Russian relations. The two occupying powers have long been at odds over administration of their respective zones to the north and south of the 38th parallel.

Observers believe that Russia is stalling on any attempt toward unification in an effort to undermine American influence in Korea. American military authorities will yield their control to civilians under state department supervision in the near future, but army officials think the situation is still fraught with trouble.

They point out that the United States must be prepared to contribute several hundred million dollars' worth of aid to stabilize the Korean economy, and to help native industries become at least partially self-sustaining.

Their chief fears, however, are centered on the political arena. They say that political extremists on the right and left have gained the upper hand and that the problem of fostering moderate control in politics is becoming more difficult.

Grants Two Divorces On Cruelty Charges
 Two divorces were granted in Johnson county district court by Judge Harold D. Evans. Donna Rogers received a divorce from Hugh Rogers on a charge of cruelty. Judge Evans' decree awarded her custody of their child and denied Rogers visiting rights. Mrs. Rogers was represented by Attorneys Swisher and Swisher.

Also charging cruelty, Martho Luedeman was granted a divorce from Carl Luedeman. She was awarded custody of a daughter. Luedeman was awarded custody of a son and all household furniture. Both were granted the privilege of visiting the children. Mrs. Luedeman also was represented by Swisher and Swisher.

Gough Pleads Guilty
 Earl Gough, 315 N. Van Buren street, Tuesday pleaded guilty to a charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated and was fined $300 by District Judge Harold D. Evans.

Judge Evans suspended half the fine and revoked Gough's driver's license for 60 days.

Livestock Events at County Show Today

The 3-day livestock event of the 19th annual Johnson county 4-H achievement show will start today at the national guard armory and the Iowa City sales barn.

Livestock exhibits will take place at the armory and will feature dairy, pig and lamb classes. An auction sale of market pigs will be held at 2 p. m.

Today marks the close of the home economics activities of the show. Yesterday nutrition exhibits and the presentation of uses of food were held at the Community building by eight girls' clubs. This afternoon announcement will be made of the winners of the show.

Entries to be forwarded to the state fair, will be selected by Cleo Miller, judge, at 3 p. m.

Tomorrow the livestock exhibit will be held at the sales barn and baby beef heifers and steers will be presented and judged.

The annual baby beef auction will be held at 12:30 p. m. Saturday. The morning will be devoted to preparation.

Automobiles got three people in trouble with Police Judge Emil G. Trott yesterday.

In police court, William G. Davis, Washington hotel, was fined $22.50 for speeding.

Willard J. Walters, 1126 E. Washington street, paid $4.50 for failing to have a muffler on his car.

Fined $2, Lester A. Norton, route 7, was charged with improper fastening of his license plate to his auto. Judge Trott pointed out that the state code calls for license plates to be fastened rigidly in a horizontal position at least a foot off the ground on both the front and back of a car.

Both plates must be kept clean and legible and the rear one must be lighted when driving at night.

He was seen racing down the board walk on Iowa avenue and then north on Riverside. He was followed closely by a car full of attendants.

A quick search disclosed the patient hiding in some evergreens near Riverside drive. He was returned to the hospital.

Authorities at the hospital yesterday refused to comment on the escape.

Iowa Union Restricts Services for Cleanup

Starting today, services provided at Iowa Union will be severely restricted as the annual cleaning process gets underway.

Air conditioning will be turned off entirely.

All facilities except the lobby and the offices will be closed to the public. This means no cool lounge, no cafeteria and no soda fountain.

Hours will be from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. Monday through Friday. The entire Union will be closed evenings, Saturday afternoons and Sundays all day.

During the cleaning period, rugs will be removed and cleaned, floors and windows polished, draperies cleaned and furniture dusted.

Regular hours and service will be resumed about Sept. 15.

Air conditioning was turned off last night in the Union shortly after summer commencement

University Role Changing--Hancher

Must Teach of Past, Prepare For Future

A packed, air-conditioned, Iowa Union last night housed the largest summer-session commencement in the university's history. There were 574 candidates listed.

President Virgil M. Hancher, delivering the commencement address, faced an audience of mortars, tassels and fanning programs. The topic of his address was "Our Changing University."

"Perhaps the most remarkable change is in the increasing life span of our population," he said. Modern-day man lives three times as long as sixteenth century man.

He said the change is at an "increasingly accelerated rate." As analogies to his statements, he spoke of the increased speed of transportation and of scientific innovations.

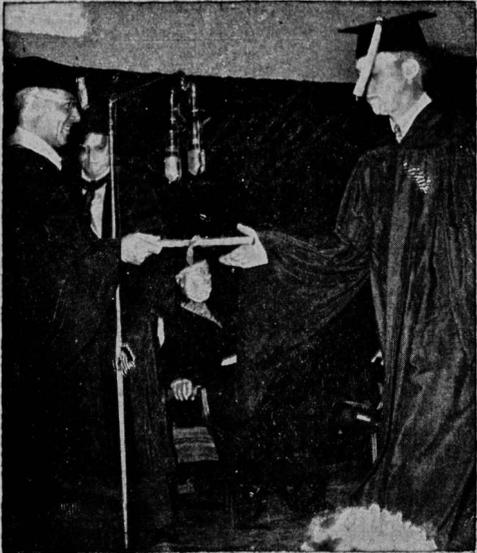

"The bursting of atomic bombs at Hiroshima and Nagasaki ushered in an age whose characteristics we cannot fully foresee," he declared. "We are uneasily aware of the uncomfortable implications of the jet propelled, pilotless rocket plane carrying atomic bombs. Most of us rarely think about, and so far have failed to grasp, the implications of the much less publicized but perhaps even more dangerous biological warfare."

"These instances highlight the changing society in which the modern American university finds itself. The teacher's job has been made difficult by the changing tempo. Education, he said, must teach the new generation to face the problems of "bygone generations" and also to live in a new society in which "old customs" no longer exist. This brings "a changing subject matter" to the natural and social sciences, "not conducive to a static university."

He traced rises in the scopes of certain professions and spoke of the "new professions" including journalism and radio. He urged professional men to keep not only abreast of developments within their own fields, but to keep up with world developments.

"The changing university in a changing society should enable men and women to come to terms with a dynamic world . . . it must hold fast to that which is good and seek that which is better."

As the candidates filed to the platform where President Hancher presented the diplomas, the university symphony orchestra played under the baton of Prof. William Gower. The selections were "Ballet music from Faust", Gounod; "Farandole" from "The Second L'Arlésienne," Bizet; "Tannhauser March," Wagner; the national anthem; "Overture Oberon"; Weber; "Marche de la Cloche", Delibes, and "Marche Pontificale", Gounod.

Somewhat dramatic in effect was Svendsen's "Coronation March", played at the recession of candidates.

Prof. William D. Coder was master of ceremonies, introducing the deans or representatives from the colleges recommending degrees. Preceding the recession was the benediction by the Rev. J. Ryan Beiser.

Cupid Strikes Again
Marriage licenses were issued yesterday to Edwin W. Wells and Norma L. Mathes, and to Richard K. Ratchford and Henriette Parrott, all of Iowa City.

Licenses also were issued to Richard G. Wilson, West Liberty and Florence Pitz, Middle Amana, and to Frank Schroeder, Zwingle, and Alma Ringen, Dubuque.

Sell Hotel Washington

Sale of the Washington hotel by its owner, Mrs. Stella Goodrich, to George W. Davis and C. H. Hartnagle was announced yesterday. Purchase price was not disclosed.

Davis is manager and Hartnagle is operator of the Jefferson hotel. Davis will manage both hotels.

The new owners plan to take possession Sept. 1 of the 42-room hotel, third largest in the city.

Plans have been made to remodel and redecorate and to increase the number of rooms with bath.

During the last six years the Washington had been owned by Harry Goodrich, who came to Iowa City from Oskaloosa. Goodrich died last February.

Tenants, Owners Face Rent Gamble

Only Congress Can Decide the Winner

By JIM McGUIRE
More than 10,000 Iowa Citizens are involved in a gamble if trends followed during the first month of the new rent control law are any indication.

Tenants and landlords are apparently gambling on whether or not congress will extend the rent control law beyond Mar. 1, 1948.

There are 5,110 units (including houses, apartments and rooms other than hotel rooms) registered with the rent control office. But so far, according to Waldo F. Geiger of the Iowa City rent office, only 115 leases have been filed which call for a 15 percent increase. Five leases called for less than 12 percent increase.

"Voluntary" increased rent agreements have been reached for less than two and a half percent of the total number of units. Concerning the absence of increased rent agreements for the remaining 4,990 cases, there are three probable explanations:

1. Both landlords and tenants are satisfied with present rent agreements.
2. Landlords and tenants have not yet reached a "voluntary" agreement to increase the rent by 15 percent or less. They have until Dec. 31, 1947 to sign such a lease.
3. The most likely explanation is that either the landlord or the tenant does not want to sign an agreement to increase the rent. If a lease contains a rent increase it can not end before Dec. 31, 1949.

Both tenants and landlords are gambling on the turn of future events. The gamble for both hinges on the fact that the rent control law ends Mar. 1, 1948. If congress does not extend it beyond then, government rent control will end.

If that happens—and the Iowa legislature does not pass a law to stop him—the Iowa City landlord will be free to boost rent to any amount he desires. (Although not yet enacted, an Iowa rent control bill has been prepared and is ready to be introduced to the state legislature.)

On the other hand, if a renter refuses to sign a lease giving the landlord a raise and rent controls are continued as they are now through 1948, then the tenant wins the gamble.

Dick Gray, former Villanova basketball captain, was a candidate for assemblyman in the last primary election in Trenton, N.J.

Plans Underway for Extension of Dam At Coralville To Control Flood Waters

Plans are being formulated for an extensive program of construction work on and near the Coralville dam so flood waters of the Iowa river can be handled better at that point.

These plans, as presented at a Monday night meeting between representatives of the Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric Co., a representative of the Cedar Rapids and Iowa City railway and the Coralville city council, include:

1. Extension of the east end of the dam, replacing the heretofore temporary dike with a permanent structure.

2. Possible construction of a permanent dike north from the company's generating station along the west bank of the river.

The dam extension is planned to include provisions for gates or some other means to permit the release of flood waters through the dam, diverting them from surrounding territory. The temporary dikes at the east end of the dam have been designed to give way before the flood waters.

The power company has just recently completed replacing the temporary dike which gave way during the early June floods.

"Floods are happening so frequently that the company cannot afford to spend $50,000 in replacing a dike every time one washes away," Robert H. Lind, district manager of the power company, pointed out.

Mayor M. H. Ewalt of Coralville said such a construction project would protect the town and Cranick tracks from high water. A temporary dike was erected hurriedly during the recent floods. Further and more definite plans for the dam construction are expected in about 30 days, it is reported.

Reporter Scooped On Own Graduation

Graduation came as something of a surprise to one man who received his bachelor of arts degree last night.

Jim McGuire, Rock Rapids, has been one of The Daily Iowan's ace reporters. He brought in scoops right and left. But he got scooped on his own graduation.

His advisor told him last February that he would not be able to get his degree until 1948. The mistake McGuire made was in believing that advice.

Anyway, he filed an application to receive his degree at that time and forgot about "sheepskins" for a while. He buried himself in his books and reporting for the Iowan.

Last week the director of convocations sent him instructions on how to obtain his cap and gown. "It's all a mistake," laughed McGuire. "I haven't completed my requirements yet."

Sticking the letter in his pocket, he made a mental note to inform the registrar's office of the error. Three days before commencement, he called at the office but found that the registrar was right. It was too late to get anouncement cards printed, too late to get commencement tickets for his family and friends. But he recovered sufficiently from the shock to be on hand when the diplomas were passed out.

"What with the war and staying out of school to work now and then," he said, "it has taken 11 years to get this diploma. Getting it six months earlier than I expected was a nice surprise."
