Security Council Admits Defeat As Russia Vetoes 2 Proposals

LAKE SUCCESS (AP)—The United Nations security council last night admitted its inability to solve the explosive Balkan problem after Russia invoked the big power veto to kill two more American-supported attempts at a solution.

At the end of a stormy session, the 60th council meeting held on the Balkan question, Council President Faris El Khoury of Syria told the delegates they had reached the end of the road.

There was nothing left, he said, but to refer the problem to the 65-nation general assembly which meets in New York Sept. 16 and to inform the assembly that the veto had paralyzed the council.

Herschel V. Johnson, deputy U.S. delegate, said after the meeting that if the assembly also failed to find a solution, the United States would consider new steps. He said there was nothing in the U.N. charter to prevent joint military action in defense of Greece.

The council's failure to reach a decision left the fate of the Balkan investigating commission and its subsidiary group in doubt. El Khoury expressed a belief that these bodies would continue indefinitely, but Russia and Poland challenged his opinion.

The general belief was that they might withdraw their representatives from the Balkan groups. El Khoury told newsmen he thought this possible.

Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko ran Russia's string of vetoes up to 16 with his two this evening. He had invoked this special voting privilege three times Monday to block the admission of Ireland, Portugal and Transjordan into the U.N.

The Balkan proposals he killed were:

1. An Australian resolution, supported by the United States, to order Greece, Albania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia to "cease all acts of provocation" and to try to settle their differences by direct negotiations.
2. An American resolution, declaring that Albania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia were threatening peace by aiding Greek guerrillas and ordering them to stop such actions immediately.

The vote on both resolutions was nine to two, with Russia and Poland casting the negative ballots.

Fistfight Ruffles Film Studio Labor Hearing

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Two irate lawyers battled briefly with their fists yesterday at a congressional subcommittee hearing into the film studio labor situation.

The fight broke out after Joseph A. Padway, attorney for the American federation of labor, charged Irving McCann, counsel for the committee, with "gestapo tactics." McCann sprang from his chair, removed Padway's glasses, and swung.

Bystanders, including film actors Ronald Reagan and George Murphy, interceded and the two men were separated after a brief tussle.

'Rusty Gun Fired Bullet' In Hills Death

A ballistics report from the state bureau of investigation revealed that the bullet found imbedded in the skull of Robert D. McCullough, whose body was found last Thursday near Hills, was fired from a caliber .32 gun, Sheriff Albert J. (Pat) Murphy announced yesterday.

Sheriff Murphy said it would be difficult to trace the weapon that fired the bullet because of the condition the gun must have been in. He said the test showed it must have been worn and rusty.

The partially decomposed remains were discovered by two tenant farmers along a fence they were inspecting. The location was a quarter-mile from the Iowa river, and authorities believe the body may have been washed there by floods last June.

McCullough was last heard from Feb. 13 when he left Des Moines, supposedly on his way to his parents' home in Wapello. When found, he was dressed in winter clothing.

Embargo Dispute Ends

WASHINGTON (AP)—A short-lived row between the United States and Canada ended yesterday when the office of defense transportation lifted a partial embargo on U. S. coal shipments to the dominion.

The embargo, invoked by ODT last Wednesday midnight, followed a dispute over delay in returning badly needed U. S. freight cars from Canada.

Prison Author Earns $35,000

BORDENTOWN, N. J. (AP)—Edwin J. Becker, 32, who wrote himself into prison on a forgery charge, is writing his way to freedom with a series of books and short stories which so far have earned him $35,000.

He also is carrying on correspondence, started while at the New Jersey state prison farm here, with a University of New Mexico employee whom he said he hopes to marry someday.

While working for a Red Bank newspaper in 1944, Becker wrote six bouncing checks for a total of $165. He was on a binge prompted by a threatened libel suit over a story he had written, Warden R. William Lagacy quoted him as relating.

He has had stories—mostly about outdoor life—published in Colliers, Esquire, Coronet, Pic, Readers Digest and other national magazines. His agent, Bertha Klausner in New York, said more than 100 of his stories have been published, in addition to a book, "Coble Hill."

The New Jersey court of pardons reviewed the case and reduced Becker's 12-18 year prison term to make him eligible for parole in August, 1948. Part of his literary earnings had gone to make restitution for the bad checks he had authored.

Spanish Explosion Wreckage Uncovers 105 Blast Victims

CADIZ, Spain (AP)—The Spanish national radio, giving the first official casualty figures in the Cadiz explosion of a naval torpedo and mine factory, said last night 105 bodies have been recovered and rescue crews were continuing to search the wreckage.

Generalissimo Franco's government banned publication in Spanish newspapers of any mention of dead and injured totals, but estimates of the number of dead mounted sharply when it was found that a hospital, an orphanage and a factory had collapsed under the force of the blast. According to one unofficial report 300 men, women and children were entombed in those buildings.

All evening newspapers in Madrid devoted columns to the explosion but in obedience to the government order did not give any casualty estimates. Not a single picture was published.

The office of the captain general of Sevilla province which has jurisdiction over Cadiz said neither the destruction nor the casualties were as great as reported, but he declined to disclose official estimates.

An official explanation of the explosion still was not available last night, nearly 24 hours after the blast caused thousands to stampee from houses and public places thinking an earthquake was rocking the city.

Rumor No U.S. Aid For South America

QUITANDINHA, Brazil (AP)—Secretary Marshall was reported yesterday to have cited the already heavy economic commitments of the United States in Europe and elsewhere in reply to continued demands at the inter-American conference for a "Marshall plan" for Latin America.

Marshall, instituting a "door rapping" policy, called upon the foreign ministers of Argentina and Chile. Today he will deliver a major policy address in which he is expected to outline his country's views on questions facing the 20-nation conference in drafting a treaty for defense of the hemisphere.

Marshall was reported putting the finishing touches last night on his speech, and it was understood he would dwell upon the theme that the United States already was exerting itself in full in assisting European nations economically.

This line of argument was expected to form the basis for the United States reply to Latin American requests for more economic assistance.

His talks with the foreign ministers yesterday were part of a "get acquainted plan" which a predecessor, Cordell Hull, carried out with great success. Marshall made his first call Monday night on Mexican foreign minister Jaime Toerres.

Marshall met for 40 minutes with Foreign Minister German Vergara of Chile and the latter declared afterwards that the American secretary referred to the world economic position of the United States. Said Vergara: "I saw the complete sincerity of his viewpoint and his desire to avoid economic calamity in the world. These world problems are so important that we are unable to demand from the United States special attention for one given area."

Indonesia Ignores Dutch, Turns to UN

LAKE SUCCESS (AP)—The Indonesian republic yesterday swept aside suggestions for direct negotiations with the Dutch over hostilities in the East Indies and appealed to the security council to order United Nations arbitration.

Former Premier Sutan Sjahrir, addressing the council, said the Dutch were holding a pistol at the heads of the Indonesians and this would block free negotiations.

His renewed request for U. N. investigation and arbitration foreshadowed the termination of the American offer of good offices. Subsequently the withdrawal of the U. S. offer was announced in Washington.

The United States formally withdrew yesterday its offer to bring the Indonesians and the Dutch together for direct negotiations for a peaceful settlement of their small scale hostilities.

The young general, who advised his men previously "it is better for Indonesia to become a sea of flames rather than be colonized again," made no mention of the cease fire order from the United Nations security council which both sides agreed to observe effective Aug. 5.

His orders, broadcast from the Republican capital of Jogjakarta, directed his troops to fight until the sovereignty and territorial integrity of the Republic was restored.

Prepare for Long Fight

BATAVIA, Java (AP)—The Indonesian army was ordered by its commander-in-chief yesterday to prepare for prolonged warfare and the uneasy two week truce between Dutch and Indonesians appeared less secure than ever.

The Dutch announced they had taken "drastic retaliatory measures" against the Indonesians, but gave no details.

General Soederiman, 32-year-old former schoolmaster, instructed his troops to frustrate all Dutch efforts to exploit economic assets of the Netherlands East Indies which have fallen into their hands, and to apply the torch in a continuation of a scorched earth policy aimed at depriving the Dutch of any additional gains.

Ernest Bevin Likely Nominee For Prime Minister's Post

LONDON (AP)—The Daily Mail said last night that Prime Minister Clement Attlee "has told his closest colleagues in the government that for reasons of health he intends to resign the premiership in the near future."

A page one story by Wilson Broadbent, The Mail's veteran political correspondent, reported "it was said in usually well-informed circles Monday night that Mr. Attlee will nominate Mr. Ernest Bevin, the foreign secretary, as his successor."

Although Attlee had been under fire from a substantial section of his own Labor party for his handling of Great Britain's economic crisis, The Mail's story was the first flat report that the prime minister might resign.

The Mail said that Sunday—when Attlee and his cabinet ministers held a secret meeting at No. 10 Downing street—the prime minister agreed to carry on until the British-American loan revision talks in Washington had passed their most critical stage.

If Bevin becomes prime minister, the newspaper said, Chancellor of the Exchequer Hugh Dalton is expected to become foreign secretary.

Sir Stafford Cripps, president of the board of trade, "is already mentioned" as Dalton's successor in the treasury post, the Mail said.

About the time the first edition of Wednesday's Mail appeared on the streets last night, a government announcement said Cripps had cancelled plans to visit Burma at the end of this month "owing to the pressure of public business."

All cabinet ministers have kept silent about Sunday's hastily called cabinet meeting, which some authoritative sources said was ordered to discuss the Washington loan revision talks. Attlee himself left London yesterday to resume his vacation in Wales.

"Mr. Attlee's health has been deteriorating for some time," the Mail said. "While delegating authority, Mr. Attlee has always insisted on doing a tremendous amount of desk work. This has led to nervous exhaustion."

"Without doubt, the present unrest within the Labor party, and his inability to placate the would-be rebels in the past three weeks, must have reinforced Mr. Attlee's decision to heed medical advice."

Attlee faced a severe test of his party leadership last week in a private meeting of Labor members of parliament when he was reported to have won an endorsement of his steel nationalization plan by the narrow margin of four votes, with more than 100 Laborites abstaining.

A group of left-wing parliamentarians demanded that the government proceed at the next session of parliament to nationalize Britain's vital steel industry. Attlee, informed sources said, won his demand that the cabinet be allowed to decide when to proceed with the plan in view of the current economic crisis.

Rain Makers Utilize Dry Ice—Plus Cloud

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—Two Peorians took up Mark Twain's challenge yesterday and did something about the weather.

William Kraft, a former navy pilot, and his brother, Jack, shovelled a load of dry ice from their airplane into a cumulus cloud. A few minutes later rain pelted the scorched, dry streets of Peoria.

The Krafts sighted a cloud over Metamora, near here, and climbed to from 18,000 to 20,000 feet. They poured the dry ice into the cloud through the plane's camera hatch.

Meteorologist Wayne A. McDaniel announced he was not a party to the experiment and stood by his forecast of continued hot and humid weather.

Suspend Certificate Of Mine Manager

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—The state department of mines and minerals yesterday suspended the certificate of competency of Arlie Cook, night mine manager of the New Orient mine where three men were killed in a blast Aug. 14, on charges of "negligence."

The report said:

"Evidence indicates the working place had not been examined in accordance with law prior to the men entering the mine" for the night shift. "Responsibility for improper examination of the mine is due to the negligence of night Mine Manager Arlie Cook."

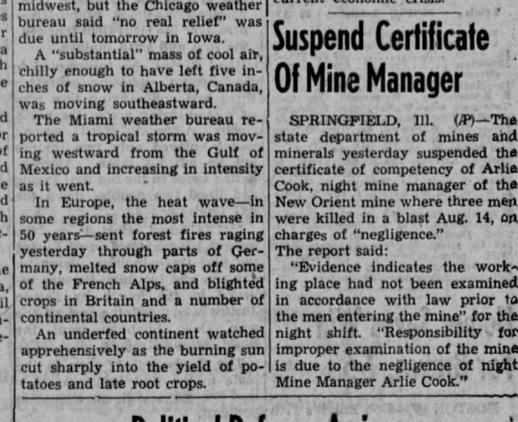

Have Little Hope for B-17 Crash Victims

HONOLULU (AP)—The Hawaiian sea frontier, after a third fruitless night, announced yesterday it probably would abandon at dusk its apparently hopeless search for Ambassador George Acheson Jr., and four others missing in the fatal crash of his Washington-bound plane.

Lt. Virgil Carley, 30, listed among the missing in the B-17 crash, formerly lived in Sioux City and moved to Jefferson, Iowa, about seven years ago with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Johnson.

Carley, co-pilot on the B-17, entered the army in 1942. His wife and child, who had been residing in Jefferson, left only last Sunday for Seattle en route to join him in Tokyo. Mrs. Carley was contacted at Seattle after the tragedy and is returning here.

Sees Plot in Housing Query

WASHINGTON (AP)—The organization session of the $100,000 congressional housing investigation exploded yesterday with charges by Senator Tobey (R-NH) that a "sinister group" is trying to destroy the inquiry.

Representative Gamble (R-NY) was chosen chairman of the senate-house investigating committee after a bitter battle between Tobey and Senator McCarthy (R-Wis), both contenders for the chairmanship. McCarthy was made vice-chairman.

Tobey immediately attacked the committee procedure, which barred proxy votes, and declared "the child is born by malpractice."

Moreover, he told reporters that when the committee meets again all the actions of the organization session may be overturned.

Tobey declined to identify the "sinister group" he said is trying to thwart the inquiry.

Cardinals, Brazle Halt Dodger Spurt, 11-3

Cards Pound Joe Hatten to Slay in Race

BROOKLYN (AP)—Lefty Al Brazle, a "sleeper" whose tantalizing curve ball was very much alive yesterday, teamed up with his battery mate, Catcher Del Rice to halt, temporarily at least, Brooklyn's pennant march by leading the St. Louis Cardinals to an easy 11-3 victory over the Dodgers. A crowd of 33,465 paying customers saw the third of the four-game series at Ebbets field.

The Red Birds' victory reduced the Dodgers' first place National League to 5 1/2 games and snapped the Brooks' mastery over the Cards which had endured through five consecutive games.

Having poured three front line pitchers—Howard Pollet, Harry Brecheen and George Munger—into the disastrous double defeat Tuesday, and with his fourth starter Murray Dickson needing another day of rest, Manager Eddie Dyer of St. Louis had to pick Brazle who had not started a game since July 11.

The slender southpaw rewarded his pilot by stopping the Dodgers with eight safeties and one run until the 90 degree heat and a belated Dodger rally forced his retirement in the ninth. Jim Hearn, a righthander, replaced Brazle and was touched up for two more hits and a pair of runs before he retired the side.

The Dodgers used four pitchers in an attempt to stop the Cards. Each was scored upon with Hank Behrman, who replaced starter Joe Hatten in the first inning, being charged with the defeat, his fourth against three wins.

Behrman took over after Hatten had yielded a run on four walks and a single by Stan Musial and prevented further scoring by striking out Ron Northey and Martin Marion with bases loaded. The Dodgers got that run back in their half of the first inning, but Behrman proved easy pickings for the Cards who belted him for a pair of runs in each of the second, third and fourth innings before he gave way to George Dockins. Dockins allowed three runs in the three innings he worked and Rex Barney gave up the final St. Louis run in the eighth.

The Cards accumulated 11 hits, one less than the Dodgers made off Brazle and Hearn, but took advantage of nine walks, a hit batsman, a balk and a wild pitch to roll up their lopsided margin and deadlock the season's series with Brooklyn at 9-11.

Homer Saves Win For Braves, 7-5

BOSTON (AP)—Bob Elliott's 17th homer, with two on and two out in the ninth, gave the Boston Braves a 7-5 win over the Pittsburgh Pirates last night before a 23,192 crowd. The Pirates forged ahead in their side of the last frame when Billy Cox sparked a two run rally with a triple down the right field foul line.

After the Pirates had gained a 5-4 lead on Hank Greenberg's third single, Cox' three base blow, which the Braves protested as foul, and Jimmy Bloodworth's safe drive into right, Walt Lanfranconi managed to get the side out.

Buck McCormick opened Boston's ninth with a mighty drive into center while battling for Lanfranconi. But Tommy Holmes popped into a double play. Johnny Hopp and Danny Litwhiler singled consecutively against Al Lyons, third and last of the Pirates' moundmen, before Elliott lashed the game winner over a left field wall on the first pitch.

RED SCHOENDIENST, Cardinal second baseman, rolls safely into second base on teammate Erv Dusak's grounder to third in the second inning of the game in Ebbets field yesterday. Ed Stanky, Brooklyn second sacker, takes throw too late to tag Schoendienst. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Hainline in Third Round

Wins Second Round Net Match Easily in Parks Tournament

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Top-seeded Dick Hainline, University of Iowa tennis star, moved through the second round of the mens' National Public Parks tennis tournament yesterday with an easy 6-1, 6-1, 6-0, victory over left-handed Gus Franczyk of Buffalo. Hainline is the defending mens' singles champion.

Mary Arnold Prentiss of Los Angeles, seeded No. 1 among the women, won over Henrietta Trankle of Buffalo, 6-2, 6-2.

Fred Kovalecki of Detroit, seeded No. 2, dropped his first set to James Moore of Buffalo, 2-6, as he misjudged the bounce on Butler university's asphalt courts. Then he settled down and won the next three sets, 6-2, 6-1, 6-2.

Chattin' with Chad

By CHAD BROOKS

One of the biggest pieces of Iowa City sports news to hit our desk in quite some time dropped in last night completely unheralded—for that matter, almost with an apology for bringing itself to our attention.

It seems that Complete Auto's Cardinals, Iowa City's crack softball aggregation, have signed one Zeke Cunningham for the remainder of this season and all of next year.

In case the name Cunningham is not familiar in these parts, friend Zeke is one of the nation's greatest softball twirlers—a star pitcher for the national championship Fort Wayne Zollners.

Cunningham's name first came to our attention last night while talking with the Complete Auto manager, Ralph Tucker. We'd been asking Ralph about his diamond schedule for the rest of this week and had been particularly interested in his plans for finding some pitchers to spell off the one able bodied Cardinal chucker, Paul Reberry.

"Oh yes," Ralph answered our anxious query. "I've got some help for Paul. Harold Leach, our number two pitcher earlier in the season, is ready to go again and then we've just signed Zeke Cunningham for the remainder of the season."

And when we pressed for further details about the nationally ranked pitching star Tucker admitted that he had been signed for the 1948 season as well, assuring Iowa City of an outstanding team again next summer.

Cunningham will be in an Iowa City uniform for the first time tomorrow night when the Cardinals return to Des Moines for second round play in the state softball tournament.

The Complete Auto nine will meet the Albia All-Stars at 6:30 tomorrow night in the capital city and, if they win, will face either Boyt Harness of Des Moines or the Marshalltown Moose at 9:30.

Reberry, one of Iowa's best softball chuckers, will probably pitch the first game in Des Moines with Cunningham going after the second contest and a semi-final berth in the tourney for the Auto-men.

Then on Sunday night the same two pitchers will be in action in Iowa City as the Cardinals tangle with Marshalltown Moose in a Midwest league double-header at Kelley field.

The league championship will be decided in this Sunday's twin-bill with Marshalltown needing a single victory for the crown and Complete Auto trying for a clean sweep that would give Iowa City the championship.

PASS THE HASH . . . Iowa City's second big summer fight card is on tap for 8 o'clock tomorrow night at Kelley field, with Lyle Seydel, local 118-pounder, crossing gloves with Merrill Van Patten of Indianapolis in the feature bout. . . Bob Rossie of Iowa City will be given another shot at LeRoy Cavil of Des Moines in the semi-windup. Rossie was awarded a TKO in the last meeting between the two when Cavil injured a hand in the first round.

Bob Snyder, head football coach of the Los Angeles professional Rams, seems to be right proud of his new rookie fullback, Dick Hoerner. . . Says Snyder, "Hoerner is the greatest freshman fullback I have ever seen in the National League." . . . Mighty time praise for the former Hawkeye star but it will probably be some time before Large Richard sees any pro action—he suffered a broken hand in a recent scrimmage session and will be out of action for some six weeks.

And from Jeff Cravath, Southern California football mentor who is lecturing at a coaching clinic in Spirit Lake this week, comes warning that UCLA is ready and waiting for Iowa's September football invasion of the west coast. . . Cravath claims the Bruins will be "just as strong as when they won the coast conference last year."

Cedar Rapids will become the junior baseball capital of the mid-west this afternoon when American Legion junior nines from St. Paul, Cincinnati and Davenport open a three-day double elimination series to decide which will represent this section at the Legion Little World series next week. . . The three teams are the best from a 12 state area. . . Games will be played at Daniels park, starting at 1:30.

And from Brooklyn comes word that reports of the St. Louis Cardinals' collective deaths were a little premature—for the sixteenth time this season—and all those nice obituaries the sports writing set had had prepared since the middle of May will have to go back to their bottom drawer hiding places.

Dodgers Also Guilty—Frick

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Ford Frick, president of the National League, said yesterday in a telegram to Bob Carpenter, owner of the Philadelphia Phillies, that the Brooklyn Dodgers were "just as guilty" of unsportsmanlike conduct as the Phils in the second game of last Sunday's doubleheader.

Frick's telegram said in part, ". . . the opinion seems to prevail that the Philadelphia ball club was the only club that was guilty of stalling. This is not true. It is the testimony of the umpires that both clubs engaged in such tactics and that Brooklyn was just as guilty as Philadelphia was in stalling for delay. I ordered the game continued because I felt that both clubs were guilty of unsportsmanlike tactics."

Frick ordered the second game of the doubleheader, called because of the Pennsylvania curfew law, to be continued Sept. 25 from the last half of the seventh inning with the Dodgers leading 5 to 4.

Tops Reynolds In 2-1 Duel

DETROIT (AP)—Besting Allie Reynolds, the Yankee ace, in a nip-and-tuck hurling duel, Little Stubby Overmire pitched the Detroit Tigers to a 2-1 decision over New York's American league leaders yesterday with Hoot Evers' eighth homer of the season providing the margin.

Overmire yielded seven hits but scattered them well except for the second inning when Bill Johnson, Johnny Lindell and Ralph Houk singled in succession for the only Yankee run.

A hit batsman and one of the four passes Reynolds issued gave the Tigers a scoring chance in the opening inning and George Kell singled Eddie Mayo across from second after two were out.

Evers, who slammed his homer into the upper deck in left field in the sixth inning, was the only other Tiger to touch third base, although Detroit had eight hits off Reynolds.

The Yanks gave Allie, striving for his 16th victory of the season, brilliant fielding support but it wasn't enough to keep him from absorbing his seventh loss.

Detroit put men on first and second five different times against Reynolds but couldn't make it pay after the opening inning.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies turned on the Chicago Cubs here yesterday and behind the splendid hurling of Ken Heintzelman and Schoolboy Rowe defeated them in both ends of a double header, 8-1 and 8-2 before 6,239. Harry Walker hit safely in both games to run his game.

In the first game, the Phillies pounded Hank Borowoy for 10 hits to hand him his eighth straight defeat since July 3. Harry Walker led the attack with three safeties to run his consecutive batting streak to 16 straight. He also tallied his 15th triple. Ken Heintzelman held the Bruins to six hits for his sixth victory against five defeats.

In the second game, the Jays pushed over three runs in the third inning on walks to Walker and Del Dennis, Johnny Wyrostek's double and Jeep Handley's long fly after Andy Seminick's sacrifice. The Phils were never headed as Schoolboy Rowe held the Cubs to eight hits and gained his 11th victory against 9 defeats.

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago White Sox snapped a four game winning streak for the Philadelphia Athletics last night by handing the visitors a 4-0 lacing before 16,139 persons. Joe Haynes blanked the A's on nine hits to gain his eighth win of the season. The White Sox handed Jesse Flores his 13th loss.

Luke Appling, who got two singles in three trips to raise his American league batting average to .332—a gain of three points—drove in the first Chicago run in the fourth. Appling's safety scored Rudy York from second.

Dave Philley scored behind York when Bingo Binks' throw to the plate rolled to the box seats. Taft Wright hit his No. 4 home run with Ralph Hodgin aboard in the sixth for Chicago's last two runs. Philley doubled and Flores was relieved by Bob Savage. Russ Christopher finished for the A's.

Phils Pound Bruins In Twin-Bill, 8-1, 8-2

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies turned on the Chicago Cubs here yesterday and behind the splendid hurling of Ken Heintzelman and Schoolboy Rowe defeated them in both ends of a double header, 8-1 and 8-2 before 6,239. Harry Walker hit safely in both games to run his consecutive hitting streak to 17.

In the first game, the Phillies pounded Hank Borowoy for 10 hits to hand him his eighth straight defeat since July 3. Harry Walker led the attack with three safeties to run his consecutive batting streak to 16 straight. He also tallied his 15th triple. Ken Heintzelman held the Bruins to six hits for his sixth victory against five defeats.

In the second game, the Jays pushed over three runs in the third inning on walks to Walker and Del Dennis, Johnny Wyrostek's double and Jeep Handley's long fly after Andy Seminick's sacrifice. The Phils were never headed as Schoolboy Rowe held the Cubs to eight hits and gained his 11th victory against 9 defeats.

Davis Won't Face Bears

EVANSTON, ILL. (AP)—The Chicago Bears are rated two to one favorites to win their fifth straight victory over the College All-Stars before 103,000 fans at Soldier field Friday night because Coach Frank Leahy's best backfield may spend the evening reclining on the collegiate bench.

Leahy's highly-publicized backfield stars—Glenn Davis and Doc Blanchard of Army, Charley Trippi and Bob Fenimore of Oklahoma A & M either are injured or hurriedly learning plays in the All-Star's T attack.

Davis probably won't play at all. Leahy says the Cadet star has a "locked" right knee, an injury developed in the final shooting scene of a movie he made recently with Blanchard.

Blanchard is in need of conditioning after reporting only last weekend when Trippi also arrived. Trippi, a veteran of three previous All-Star games, is spry after a successful season with Atlanta of the Southern association, but he had less than a week to shake his "baseball legs."

WHAT A STORY THIS ONE MAKES

Dream Brings Her From—

Bombay to Iowa City

By GAIL MYERS

This story began in Bombay, India, in 1929. Saroj, a little Hindu girl, was almost 8 years old. She decided to become—of all things—a woman doctor.

Today that little girl is Dr. Saroj I. Munim, specializing in obstetrics and gynecology under a resident, fellowship at University hospital.

A medical career did not come easily to the youngest daughter of an orthodox Hindu family. Saroj's father died when she was very young and her three brothers had to work hard to become a businessman, an accountant and a doctor. Her three older sisters married and established homes according to custom.

It was hard for Saroj to convince her family she should have a medical career. Aided by a five-year government scholarship for scholastic achievement, she was able to attend Seth G. S. medical college in Bombay. She was graduated in 1944, took two years of postgraduate work and came to Iowa in 1946.

People Need Much Care

Single and 26, Dr. Munim plans to establish a medical center in some small town near Bombay. "The people outside Bombay need much care, but they do not have the advantage of the large clinics of that city," she says.

In another three months Dr. Munim will have completed a year's residence at Iowa. She plans to study hospital methods for a while at Johns Hopkins university and in New York. Then she will go to England for six months more study.

"Many doctors from India go to England only to get their foreign qualifications," she points out, "but I came to the United States because I want to know about the most advanced surgical and gynecological methods. I must learn these things well because a woman doctor in India must work hard to compete with the men in her field."

Would she like to practice in the U.S.? "It might be nice—they are so congenial here at Iowa," she admits. "But India needs me so much!" Some Indian women do not allow any man but the husband to look on their faces, and it is to these women that Dr. Munim feels she can give the greatest help. "A woman doctor of obstetrics and gynecology is necessary for many Indian women," she says.

Unless in hospital uniform, she dresses in her native sari. "It is very comfortable and will never go out of style," are her reasons. "America is a very free country," she says, "but women have strict conventions of dress—a dress for every occasion."

Dancing an Art

She has definite opinions on most things American. Dr. Munim is "not impressed" with ballroom dancing. "Dancing in India is an art, performed by people who spend their lives at it," she claims. She thinks dancing loses something when a jumbled mass of people shuffle around without a purpose.

How does she feel about American sports—football, for instance? "Oh, the band—so colorful, such straight lines—the band at a football game is wonderful!"

But she does not like American food.

"As a doctor I can see that the diet is well-balanced here, but I do not eat meat, and it is hard to find protein substitutes in America. Also, I like spices which I cannot get here, and the ones I brought with me from India are gone now," she says.

That's Saroj's story. Watching her at work in the University hospital you can see what tremendous energy she has. It is this energy and a will to help India that drove a little Hindu girl to make her dream come true.

Bartlett-Jorgensen Wedding Vows Said

Before an altar decorated with baskets of gladioli, Ruth Bartlett became the bride of Willard Jorgensen Sunday afternoon in the First English Lutheran church.

The Rev. Ralph Krueger performed the single ring ceremony. Dorothy Evans, Iowa City, was bridesmaid and James Jorgensen, Clear Lake, was best man. Ushers were Harold Brawner, Iowa City, and Myron Bartlett, brother of the bride.

A reception was given in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Bartlett, 505 S. Lucas street, following the ceremony.

Mrs. Jorgensen was graduated from City high school and is a stenographer at the University psychopathic hospital. Her husband, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jorgensen, Clear Lake, was graduated from high school at Clear Lake and is a sophomore at the University of Iowa.

After Sept. 1 the couple will be at home in Iowa City.

Movie-Goer Loses Bike

Robert Kacena, 713 Davenport street, reported to police yesterday the theft of his bicycle.

The maroon and white bike was stolen from in front of the Capitol theater, he said, while he was at a show.

Set Vets' Pre-Registration August 25-27 for Fall Term

Plan Means Quicker Mailing of Subsistence Checks, Coder Says

Pre-registration of veterans for the fall semester will take place Aug. 25, 26 and 27 at the veterans service office, 110 Iowa avenue, it was announced yesterday by William D. Coder, director of the veterans service office.

Coder said that the pre-registration is to enroll veterans with the regional VA office, and does not take the place of the regular fall registration.

However, by registering with the veterans office now, Coder pointed out, veterans will be assured of receiving their subsistence checks on time this fall.

According to Coder, veterans do not need to know the exact courses they are going to take in the fall session. They will estimate the number of hours for which they will register.

Other information needed to complete the pre-registration is the veteran's "C" number, the college in which he will enroll and his major field.

Anyone who is in school at the present time, or anyone who has been at the University of Iowa and has not used his G. I. bill privileges since he last registered here, may take part in the pre-registration, Coder said. However, no new students will be registered at this time.

The special registration is for all veterans in all colleges except the college of law. Law students will have registration during the same period at the law office in the law building.

Coder also stated that it will cause less difficulty in the receiving of individual checks if the veteran will indicate whether he wishes to interrupt his training program during either Christmas or Easter vacation of the coming school year. However, Coder said, this may be done later if the veteran desires to wait.

Seeks Dads' Club Help To Find New Location for Rink

Dick Schindler, operator of the Cliff roller rink, last night asked the Community Dads Club of Iowa, No. 1, to help him obtain a new location for his skating rink which was closed on the complaint of near by residents.

Schindler said that the music "could be heard only faintly" a few blocks from the rink, located at the north edge of Iowa City close to City park.

The Dads agreed that the skating rink should be maintained as a recreational facility and said they would suggest other locations at a later meeting.

Sales from the Dads' $1 ticket drive are going well, according to ticket sales chairman Doug Fairbank. Proceeds from the drive will be used to further Iowa City recreational projects and to provide 16 Iowa City and Johnson county boys and girls with free bicycles.

Tentative plans for children's activities at the field day Aug. 31 were outlined by John Wilson. Besides the children's stunts and games, a Dads' "old timers" baseball team will play a Moose lodge squad.

Fairbank said it may be possible to obtain the Moose drum and bugle corps to add color to the events. The dads voted $10 to buy four poles needed for the baseball backstop at City park.

Club president C. B. Krita appointed Earl Gilpin chairman of a committee to work out details of a program to sponsor Iowa City children who may be in danger of becoming juvenile delinquents.

Ward Coulter also was named to the committee.

Next meeting of the organization will be held Friday, Aug. 22, in the council chambers at City hall.

Two motion pictures, "Playtown U.S.A." and "One Thousand Dollars for Recreation," were shown at the meeting.

Mrs. Roth, Grund Case Principal Last Year, Files Against Husband

DES MOINES (AP)—Mrs. Dorothy Roth, a principal in the Judge Grund case a year ago, filed contempt of court proceedings in district court yesterday against her divorced husband, James L. Roth.

Mrs. Roth is asking that her former husband be cited for contempt for alleged failure to comply with provisions in the Roth divorce decree, granted in March, 1946.

She alleges Roth has failed to permit her to have custody of their two minor children, Janet and James Jr., on alternate weekends, as provided in the decree.

A year ago, Mrs. Roth charged that Municipal Judge Harry B. Grund made advances toward her in his office. The judge asserted the charge was a "frameup" and the grand jury later ignored assault charges Mrs. Roth filed against Grund.

Miss Wharton Weds William Hildebrand

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Wharton, 21 N. Johnson street, are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Nadine, to William J. Hildebrand Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hildebrand, 18 N. Van Buren street.

The wedding took place at 4:30 p. m. Monday in St. Patrick's rectory.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. P. J. O'Reilly performed the ceremony.

Maxine Belger, Iowa City, was bridesmaid and John Hildebrand, Whittier, Calif., served as best man.

Mrs. Hildebrand was graduated from Iowa City high school and the Irish commercial college. She is employed as secretary in the sports publicity department of the University of Iowa.

Her husband, a graduate of St. Patrick's high school, attended the University of Southern California and was graduated from the University of Iowa college of commerce. He is employed in the tabulating department of LaPlante-Choate, Cedar Rapids.

Following a wedding trip through the west, the couple will be at home in Iowa City.

To Enter Seven Sheep At Iowa State Fair

Making a bid for cash prizes and blue ribbons in the National Livestock show at the Iowa state fair will be Donald Burns of Tiffin. According to preliminary entry lists Burns will exhibit seven prize Corridale sheep.

Burns competition will consist of some of the most famous livestock herds from 20 states. More than $100,000 in cash prizes are being offered for livestock alone at the 1947 fair, Aug. 22 to Aug. 29.

Issue Five Marriage Licenses Yesterday

Marriage licenses were issued to five couples in the county clerk's office yesterday.

They were: Robert J. Liddy, Monticello, and Jane Davenport, Anamosa; Otis E. Hennessey and Georgia Hamilton, both of Kansas City, Mo.; Gerald F. Neuzil, Tiffin, and Teresa Jean Donohue, Iowa City; Robert E. Green and Shirley G. Sherburne, both of Lone Tree, and Stanley Gustafson and Harriet Bovin, both of Chicago, Ill.

Family Living Costs Rise 20.7 Percent In 15-Month Period

WASHINGTON (AP)—The bureau of labor statistics yesterday reported that family living costs jumped an average 20.7 percent in 34 cities in 15 months.

The survey, covering the period ending June 15, was made for the joint house-senate economic committee which will hold public hearings this fall on price increases.

It was made public by Senator O'Mahoney (D-WYO), member of the committee who said it includes costs for a worker, his wife and two children "at the prevailing standards of efficiency, education and health."

O'Mahoney explained that congress set up funds in 1945 to determine "what it costs a worker's family to live in the large cities." The special study was prepared by Commissioner Ewan Clague of the bureau who will meet here Thursday with some members of the price-study committee.

The senator said the dollar and cents data represented by the increase will be calculated later.

The bureau's survey indicated that largest increases between March 15, 1946, and June 15, 1947, were Scranton, Pa., 24.3; Chicago, 23.7; Houston, Tex., 23.5.

Smallest increases were: Kansas City, Mo. 17.1; Los Angeles, 17.4; and Seattle 18.0.

Funeral Tomorrow For J. A. Rinella,

Funeral services for Joseph A. Rinella Sr., 84-year-old former fruit and grocery merchant of Iowa City, will be held at 9 a.m. tomorrow at St. Mary's church.

The rosary will be recited at 7:30 this evening at the McGovern funeral home. Burial will be held in St. Joseph's cemetery.

A local resident for more than 50 years, he died at his home at 5½ S. Dubuque street at 3 a.m. yesterday.

He came to this country at the age of 21 from Italy where he had been born in 1863. He resided for a time in Ft. Wayne, Ind., and in Dallas, Tex.

He is survived by two sons, Anthony J. and Joseph Jr., both of Iowa City; by five daughters, Mrs. William Hannah and Mrs. Leo Gorman, both of Iowa City, Mrs. D. Amici of Orlando, Fla., Mrs. Frank Postero of Athens, Ga., and Mrs. John E. Kelley of Cedar Rapids, and by six grandchildren.

IN THE STILL OF THE NIGHT A MAN DIED.

He had worked late—he was tired—thoughtlessly he walked to the right along the darkened highway. Beyond the turn of the road were the lights of home.

Speeding through the early darkness, a driver urged his car along, hugging the edge of the road. A dim shape, a sudden sickening jolt—and the terrorized driver, his car careening, sped on—around the curve, past the lighted cottage beside the road. And in the still of the night, a man died.

These are the ingredients of accidents and death at night. Often the victim contributes to his own death by not walking to the left, facing traffic. But far too many pay with their lives for the reckless driving of the hit-and-run car coward. To him self-preservation is more urgent than the saving of a life.

To his kind let this be a warning. Of all highway and traffic violators, the hit-and-run driver fares worst. Sooner or later, his crime leads to prison and disgrace.

The highways shall be cleared of these auto highwaymen.

Why Allow Profit on State-Owned Park?

Reprinted on this page today is an exchange of letters between The Daily Iowan and the state conservation commission.

We were particularly anxious to get the facts concerning operation of the concessions at Lake Macbride state park. A good number of persons have complained about the charge there for beach and bathing privilege. We wrote the state conservation commission before commenting on this particular situation because we wanted to get the facts clear.

From the commission's reply, it would seem that four facts are clear:

1. There is a certain amount of maintenance and supervision that must be done to keep Lake Macbride usable for the public.
2. The commission has adopted the policy of letting this work out to private individuals by means of contract.
3. In order to take care of this necessary maintenance and supervision, the public is expected to pay for the privilege of enjoying a state park.
4. The individual concessionaire is entitled to a percentage of the gross income above $1,500.

It would seem that the charge for the use of Lake Macbride bathing facilities is justified. Even if the charge were not made, and bathing facilities were maintained, necessary expenses would be incurred. This would have to be paid for by the public ultimately, whether it be taxes or specific charges to the individual users.

But a second examination convinces us that if this policy of a private concession on swimming were carried to its logical conclusion, there would be no state parks at all.

We assume that the theory behind the very existence of state parks is that they are set aside as public lands for the use of all who wish to use them.

This is also the basic theory behind public schools.

Those who wish to use them are free to do so, inasmuch as it is assumed that they have paid for their fair share of the taxes required for their upkeep.

We suppose it may be just for the public to pay a small charge for the use of the facilities, but this could be carried to the conclusion that one ought to pay for the privilege of even entering the park.

Or, one could be required to pay for the privilege of the picnic grounds, or building fires, or parking cars, etc. Is not bathing one of the facilities that one expects at a state park, just as one expects that his tax money will provide a place to park his car when at Lake Macbride?

Perhaps the charge is justified on the same basis that one expects to pay for swimming even in a municipal pool. There is one difference, however:

The money received at a city pool generally goes back into a general fund, and does not go to an individual as his private profit.

We can understand that more as a matter of convenience, rather than anything else, that concessionaires are allowed to operate small refreshment businesses, pop corn stands, etc., in a state park.

But for a state-owned facility, such as the lake itself to be made a place of extensive private business, seems to us to defeat the very nature of state parks.

The commission might just as well give some one a concession on the gate—allowing him to charge everyone who enters. Certainly the beach and the lake are just as much to be enjoyed as the rest of the park.

It might be said that the state would have to assume the duties now paid for by the concessionaire. The fact remains that the concessionaire is making money, even after providing only the same facilities which the state would have to provide.

That ought to be self-evident. If the concessionaire is not making money, he would hardly continue to operate the concession.

To turn over a state-owned beach and lake for private profit would seem much like turning over a municipal pool (like we hope Iowa City gets) to a private individual, saying "Here, you take the pool, charge everybody, and make as much as you can under the prices we set."

No one would think of doing that—in a city-owned pool. But that very same thing is done at state-owned lakes.

The charge for the use of the beach and bath house may be, and probably is, justified, just as at a municipal pool. But we doubt the wisdom of allowing a private individual to make a profit on the venture in a state-owned park.

Dutch Balk at a United UN

Thus far it literally beats the Dutch that their Indonesian problem has not become an issue of Soviet-American power politics.

If it had, Indonesia would be just another Greek tragedy showing at the United Nations theater. If the Dutch had America behind them, they could tell the United Nations to blow bubble gum and get away with it. Soviet Russia could do nothing so far away from home.

However, things have not worked out that way. Soviet Russia and the United States do not take opposite sides on the Indonesian question (not yet, anyway) and this leaves the Dutch in the unprejudiced position of a small power telling the United Nations what it will and will not do.

It happens that the Dutch flounder in a trough of history. Whereas the Indonesians, right or wrong, ride the crest of a wave so immense that few nations care or dare to defy it.

This wave is the ambition of a billion Asians and colonials to live their own lives—meaning better lives.

The wave has hit the security council at Lake Success and in a left-handed way nearly everyone there admits he knows what it means.

At first, fellow colonial powers sided instinctively with the Dutch. There were Britain, France, Belgium—and Portugal would have been there too if she could.

More recently there have been some significant abstentions by empire delegates in the voting, and on one issue after another the Dutch have met defeat in spite of the legal case they are presenting.

They ended the week by once more challenging the right of the UN to send a commission to investigate what goes on in Indonesia, where both Dutch and Indonesians are doing themselves in the eye by ignoring cease-fire agreements.

The Dutch may be trying to rebuild their empire shattered by the Japanese and in part the Nazis, but in so doing, they are merely imposing on the natives what the Nazis and the Japanese would have installed as their type of rule.

The rule of the Dutch may be a bit more humane, but it's all the same to the natives concerned.

SAMUEL GRAFTON and PAUL MALLON are on vacation.

Macbride Beach Fee Explained

(Reprinted below is an exchange of letters between The Daily Iowan and the state conservation commission in reference to the beach charge at Lake Macbride. See Editorial to left—The Editor)

We are writing you in reference to the beach privilege charge at Lake Macbride state park.

Many persons have complained to us of the 25 cent charge for the use of the beach there. I have talked with Mr. Chase, who, we understand, has a contract entitling him to such a charge in return for which he assumes general supervision of the beach area, including cleaning and maintenance.

We are writing to ask:

1. Is such a contract the general policy of the commission?
2. What determines whether there shall be such a charge? That is, are all lakes in the state under such an arrangement and if not, what is the basis for distinction?
3. Does the existence of such a contract, save the state money which might otherwise have to be spent for maintenance and operation?
4. Is Mr. Chase's contract a public contract in that the terms are open for public inspection and if so, would it be possible for you to inform us of the terms?
5. Is Mr. Chase's profit a matter of public record? Is he required to report it to the commission and is it possible to disclose what he is making from state-owned property?

We will appreciate very much your answers to these questions because persons of this area are interested in knowing the facts about the situation at Lake Macbride.

THE DAILY IOWAN

We are very happy to comply with your request for information concerning the operation of the beach at Lake Macbride State park.

We will give you the background on the history of the concession before answering your questions.

The concessionaire pays the state a definite concession fee for the privilege of operating the bath house and beach.

The state furnishes only the building and the concessionaire is required to furnish all equipment to operate the concession, all baskets, bathing suits, towels, etc., and also is required to pay for the electricity used in the building and on the beach.

He employs the necessary help required to operate the concession, and is required to employ life guards who are qualified as instructors to protect the public while they are in the water.

The concession fee is based on the minimum yearly rental, plus five percent of the gross receipts above $1,500.00.

These services and facilities are expensive and certainly no one, including the state, is going to furnish them without at least partial remuneration.

The charge of 25 cents per person entitles the use of dressing room and checking service, and also the use of one towel which partly remunerates the concessionaire for furnishing the facilities. You also realize, of course, that the concessionaire will not make any fortune at these prices.

The commission does not have sufficient funds available to operate such facilities free to the public. We are also interested in keeping the prices as low as possible to be consistent with the cost of maintaining services and facilities, however. Even though the state operated these facilities it would be necessary that the people using them pay a small fee.

You will recall that even in the case of municipalities furnishing swimming pools that the people using the facilities are required to pay a fee.

As a part of the terms of Mr. Chase's contract, the commission requires that he furnish adequate life guards and the bath houses open to protect the people swimming at the beach.

We also require that the bath house be maintained, clean towels and bathing suits be available, beach supervisors be provided, that everything in the vicinity of the bath house be kept in a sanitary condition, and electricity be furnished to light the beach.

When one stops to consider the fact that a safe beach is provided and life guards are present to protect children and others who are not competent swimmers, the fee of 25 cents which is charged is not out of line consistent with the services rendered.

Life guards of the caliber which are employed now run in the neighborhood of $200 per month with board and room furnished. This is considered a special privilege and according to law, the commission is permitted to charge for special privileges in state parks consistent with the cost of furnishing (this service) and the reasonable value thereof.

Many people do not understand why it is not permissible for the public to come to the beach in their bathing suits or change their clothes in their cars. You can well imagine the sights that you would see if these practices were permitted.

Five hundred or 1,000 people changing clothes in cars in the park would most certainly offend other people who come to that area, and who may or may not be interested in bathing and bathing. Therefore, for the proper administration of the park, we cannot let people change their clothes in their cars.

It is against the policy of the commission for anyone to swim in areas other than those designated which is usually the beach which has been provided for the bathers.

This item should be called to the attention of the public (again though) I believe you have already done so in your paper. It is necessary that we have some control over the use of the lake, so bathers should be discouraged from going beyond the life line, unless they are expert swimmers, swimming out of boats, swimming in undesignated areas, etc.

If they disobey the rule, it must be understood that they are doing so at their own risk. With this as a way of explanation which will give you some background, I will now answer your specific questions inasmuch as they have not been previously answered.

The policy of issuing contracts is the general policy of the commission and is in effect at all areas where concessions are operated on artificial lakes. Lake Macbride is no different from any other area in that respect.

The existence of a contract does save the state some money, as otherwise it would be necessary to provide in the neighborhood of $2500 to $3000 additional for the maintenance or operation of the beach as it would be necessary for the state itself to hire the life guards, clean up the beach, provide the necessary beach supervisors, and other services which the concessionaire is providing at this time.

Mr. Chase's contract is a matter of public record and the terms are open for public inspection in this office at any time. (anyone) may desire to inspect them.

According to the terms of Mr. Chase's contract, which has been approved by the commission, he pays $75.00 a year rent plus 5 percent of the gross receipts over $1500.00.

Conflict in Middle East

(Many significant changes are impending along those shores of the Mediterranean known as the Arab speaking world. At the center of the Arab nationalist movement is Egypt. Max Boyd, chief of the AP staff in that area, surveys post-war trends of the middle east in the following dispatch.—The Editor.)

By MAX BOYD
CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—The nationalist movement among 70,000,000 people of the Arabic speaking world is approaching a crisis in Palestine and Egypt.

Along the southern and eastern shores of the Mediterranean, from which the western Allies bombed and fought their way into Europe after the Nazis had overrun it, Arab political leaders in many lands are demanding an end to "foreign domination."

The hub of this movement is Egypt. The current trouble spot is Palestine.

Syria and Lebanon, promised independence when Allied troops needed their help to defeat Vichy forces, raised their determined cry for complete freedom before the final shot was fired in the war. Their brief, but fierce fight with the French led to the end of the French mandate and the withdrawal of French and British soldiers.

In neighboring Palestine the Arabs, who contend that Jewish immigration is an invasion of their country, are up against Zionists who feel just as strongly that a Jewish state in the Holy Land is the only solution to the plight of thousands of Jewish refugees in Europe.

Last week, the long-expected trouble between Arabs and Jews broke out in bloody violence. Palestine, already torn by Jewish terrorist attacks designed to drive out the British who enforce limits on immigration, saw more than 30 Jews and Arabs knifed, beaten, shot and blown to death.

Many Zionists will be satisfied with nothing less than a Jewish state and unlimited immigration. Many Arabs say they will fight to prevent the formation of any Jewish state, no matter how small a part of Palestine it may be.

Practically every section of the Egyptian press warns that there will be trouble in Egypt if the UN security council fails to back Egypt's demands for withdrawal of all British troops from the Nile valley.

How serious such trouble might be, no one knows. But undoubtedly there is a far larger supply of

Lee Says Charges Of Abuses Unjust

LEGHORN, Italy (AP)—Lt. Gen. John C. H. Lee, commander of the U.S. army's Mediterranean theater of operations, said yesterday articles published in American newspapers charging "abuses" in the theater had "not only done an injustice to his command, but also a disservice to the United States."

The army has invited American correspondents stationed in Rome to come to Leghorn to look over Lee's command. Ten writers accepted. The articles were written by Robert C. Ruark, a Scripps-Howard staff writer.

Also, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the army chief of staff, ordered the army's inspector-general, Maj. Gen. Ira T. Wyche, to come to Italy to investigate. Wyche arrives today.

Ruark charged there was in Gen. Lee's command "a really frightful misuse of the privileges of rank," including an overworking of the saluting rule, and "brutality and consistent degradation and humiliation of the men."

In the few days I have been in Leghorn, I have talked with scores of enlisted men, some of whom voiced complaints. None to whom I talked said he had been treated brutally.

Soldiers assigned to drive automobiles complain of too long hours on occasion and erratic meal times. They dislike long waits for officer passengers.

There is "chicken," a soldier's word referring roughly to zealous enforcement of military punctilio. Discipline is strict. Spick-and-span clothing and sharp salutes are required.

Since January, according to records shown the correspondents, four soldiers had been court-martialed for failing to salute. Three got fines, of $5, $10 and $15, respectively. The man who failed to salute Lee received the $5 fine. A white military policeman who failed—or refused—to salute two Negro officers got the $15 fine.

Ruark said that Lee's manner of living puts a heavy bite on the taxpayer. Lee lives well and admitted it. He entertains often. Some of his entertaining, he said, is authorized in his capacity as overseas commander, such as when he receives foreign or American government officials.

His private train was put at his disposal by the Italian government, which put the same train at the disposal of previous theater commanders.

As for planes and cars, Lee said he had no more than other theater commanders.

small arms and grenades in the hands of Egyptians today than at the time of the 1919 Egyptian revolution when trains were derailed, crops destroyed and hundreds of persons killed.

The chance of strife-provoking incidents between Egyptians and British troops has been minimized by the withdrawal of British forces from Cairo and Alexandria to the Suez canal zone last spring, but troops still rub elbows with Egyptians at the canal zone cities of Port Said and Ismailia.

In the spring of 1946 student demonstrations against the troops turned into battles with Egyptian police.

Several other riots in which more than a dozen Egyptians were killed and two British soldiers beaten to death occurred before Prime Minister Ismail Sidky Pasha wiped out further demonstrations with stern police measures.

The British, who contend they have the right to keep troops in the canal zone until 1956 under their 1936 alliance with Egypt, offered in negotiations with Sidky Pasha last year to get their soldiers out of Egyptian territory before the end of 1949.

But the negotiations broke down over the future status of the Sudan, now under joint rule of Britain and Egypt.

Britain maintains garrisons under treaty rights in two other middle east countries, Iraq and Transjordan, but she agreed some time ago to negotiate a revision of the pact with Iraq.

Egypt, most modernized of the Arab states, is gaining leadership not only by her appeal to the UN, but also by granting refuge to exiled Arab nationalists from Palestine and northwest Africa.

Haj Amin Al Hussein, mufti of Jerusalem, who fled first to Iraq and then to Germany when the British tried to arrest him as the leader of the 1936 Arab revolt against Zionism, is directing the Palestine Arab executive committee from Cairo.

Abd El Krim, who fought the French and Spanish in Morocco in the 1920's and demonstrated rare leadership qualities, is giving interviews here and promising to fight France again if the UN fails to listen to independence demands from North Africa.

One of Britain's chief worries in this troubled situation is the security of middle east oil. The United States navy, which uses more oil from Saudi Arabia than any other single supplier, is interested in this problem as well.

Hold Rites For Glidden Victims, Killer

GLIDDEN, Ia.—Joint funeral services for Elgie Wessel, 55, and his niece Lois Mae Wessel, 16, slain at the Clayton Wessel farm near Glidden Sunday night, will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Methodist church here. Private funeral rites have been arranged for Leslie Jacob (Jack) Heuton, 27, who fired the shots which killed the two persons and wounded two other members of the Wessel family before committing suicide. Sheriff Tom Pinnegan said, meanwhile, that reports listing a possible one-sided romance on the part of Heuton among speculative motives in the slayings were not supported by any evidence he has found. Pictures of Lois Mae were found in Heuton's billfold, the sheriff reported. Clayton Wessel, 40, Lois Mae's father who was critically wounded in the attack, was reported slightly improved yesterday at the hospital where he is being treated for five bullet wounds in the abdomen and chest. Donald Wessel, brother of Lois Mae, also was better. He has a bullet wound in the side.

'Communist' Ruling For Labor Officers Causes Controversy

WASHINGTON (AP)—An official ruling that all "officers" of the CIO and AFL must swear they are not communists before affiliated unions may use the services of the national labor relations board started a controversy yesterday that seemed likely to end up in the courts. Robert N. Denham, general counsel of the board, issued the ruling under the new Taft-Hartley act effective Friday. He held that the act requires affidavits showing no communist affiliations from "officers" of "national, international and parent labor organizations." And he ruled that "officers" are all persons described as such in the organization's constitution. The question immediately arose whether members of the CIO executive board, who include Ben Gold, an avowed communist, are "officers." An NLRB spokesman told newsmen that "no interpretation of the law as it affects the CIO executive board will be made until the question is brought before the board." Meanwhile Tom Shroyer, chief counsel of the senate-house committee set up to keep tab on administration of the act, said some committee members had expressed the view that the law requires the affidavits from officers of international unions within the AFL and CIO but not from "officers" of those two parent organizations. During a convulse for electing a pope, each cardinal present occupies a throne since, during a vacancy of the Holy See, each member of the College of Cardinals is a potential sovereign. The Tour de Beurre of Rouen Cathedral was so named because funds for its construction were given in return for permission to eat butter in Lent. Estimates on the amounts spent on recreation in the United States in recent years vary from two billion to $20 billion dollars annually.

University Housing Creates Parking Headache for Police

Football Fans Get Parking Information From Police Chief

The university's temporary housing program has helped a lot of students but it will mean additional headaches to the Iowa City police force in solving parking problems when the football season gets underway next month.

Until this year the areas west of the stadium and on Finkbine golf course have been used as parking lots during football games, but housing for veterans has changed that.

Advance study of the problem by Police Chief E. J. Ruppert has resulted in this advice for out-of-towners seeking a place to park during Hawkeye games:

For people who will be driving south or west after the games, the best, and undoubtedly easiest, place for them to park is in University Heights.

Fans who plan to come to Iowa City from the north or west should park in Manville Heights.

They may come in on Highway 218 from the north, cross City park bridge, and drive up fairly close to the stadium.

Regardless of where a person parks his car, he will still have to walk some distance. Ruppert indicated it would be better for people to walk from their parked cars and save time rather than to drive close to the stadium and possibly become entangled in a traffic jam.

Another parking place that will handle hundreds of cars coming into Iowa City from the north is the upper City park area. Fans who park there will have to walk south on Riverside drive to Grand avenue, turn right and head west past the field house for the stadium.

For fans who will be traveling east after the game there is parking space east of the river, Chief Ruppert recommended. There will be ample parking space in the residential areas, he indicated.

One place where parking will not be allowed is on East Burlington street, Ruppert said. That street was recently painted for four-lane traffic; the two outside lanes for trucks and slow vehicles, and the inside lanes for faster vehicles. The lanes were painted from one block east of the Burlington street bridge to South Gilbert street.

Greazel Files Suit For $7,500 Damages

Fred Greazel filed a $7,500 damage suit in district court yesterday resulting from injuries he received as a bystander in an auto collision Aug. 19, 1946.

Norman L. Caskey and Dr. Phillip Cahn were named as defendants.

In the petition, Greazel claimed he received a broken leg and other injuries when he was struck by a car driven by Cahn after a collision between Cahn's auto and a truck driven by Caskey.

The accident occurred on Highway 6 while Greazel was working for the highway commission.

The petition states Greazel was hospitalized for eight days and unable to work for several weeks. He asked for a judgment of $7,500 plus interest and court costs.

The plaintiff requested a jury trial. He is represented by Attorney Will J. Hayek.

Dean Mahan Addresses Parent-Teacher Group

Dean Bruce E. Mahan of the extension division left yesterday afternoon for Evanston, Ill., to take part in a national congress of parents and teachers workshop at Northwestern university.

Dean Mahan will address the group on "Films for Parent-Teacher Meetings" and will show motion pictures on family education and world understanding.

He will also preside at a dinner session tomorrow evening which brings the three-week workshop to a close.

Sudden Stop Causes $105 Accident Damages

A car driven by Ronald Opfell, route 5, received $100 damage to the grill and fender when it ran into the back of an auto driven by John Hueffner on Burlington street, Monday afternoon.

According to the police accident report, Hueffner stopped suddenly without signaling and Opfell crashed into the rear of his car before he could stop.

Hueffner's car received $5 damage to the rear bumper guard and tail pipe.

Bound to Grand Jury

Following a preliminary hearing, Stanley H. Johnson, address not given was bound over to the grand jury yesterday by Police Judge Emil G. Trott on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

Judge Trott set bond at $1,000.

Audrey Rummells Plays For Kiwanis Luncheon

Members of the Kiwanis club were entertained at their luncheon meeting yesterday by pianist Audrey Rummells, West Branch high school junior.

First-place winner in pre-state and state piano competition last spring, she placed second in regional competition at the national high school music contest in St. Joseph, Mo., May 9 and 10.

For the Kiwanians Miss Rummells played Tchaikowsky's Piano Concerto Number One, Chopin's Waltz in C-sharp minor, and Chopin's Etude number three, her contest selection.

Evictions Now Handled by Local Courts

Iowa Citizens continue to bring their eviction problems to the area rent control office though it can no longer authoritatively deal with them.

The new rent law, which became effective July 1, contains specific protections against evictions but places enforcement of eviction controls in the hands of local courts.

"Forgetting that local courts now have complete jurisdiction in eviction matters, people continue to consult us on the subject," T. J. Wilkinson, area rent director, stated yesterday.

"We are happy to advise on anything within the jurisdiction of the rent office, but a person inconveniences himself by directing to us nowadays any queries on evictions. These should go to the courts."

Wilkinson said the courts now determine the length of the waiting period which must elapse before tenants can be evicted when a house is sold. "Waiting periods are decided according to local law and may be as little as three days in the case of non-payment of rent."

A more or less customary waiting period under local law is thirty days.

"Evictions to allow occupancy by others are limited by the new federal law to immediate personal occupancy by the buyer or landlord himself," said Wilkinson.

"Other conditions under which evictions may be made are very specific in the law."

He gave assurance that the tenant who continues to pay the rent to which the landlord is entitled and lives up to the obligations of his tenancy generally has no more reason to fear eviction than under the old law.

Schedule Last Rites For Dr. McGinnis, Former Iowa Citian

Dr. James F. McGinnis, 74, former assistant in the chemistry department at the university, will be buried tomorrow afternoon at Santa Barbara, Calif.

He was formerly a photographer for the chemistry department and has been associated with a photographic studio in Iowa City. He had lived in California and practiced and taught chiropractic methods there for the past 28 years.

He was also associated at one time with the B. J. Palmer school of chiropractic in Davenport where he was director of the clinic and director of X-ray department.

He was born in Iowa City July 25, 1873, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McGinnis. He was the grandson of Michael McGinnis, a stonemason who helped build Old Capitol.

He is survived by twin daughters, Neola and Leola of Alhambra, Calif.; six brothers, Roy, Wes and Joe McGinnis of Iowa City, Art of Rock Island, C. C. McGinnis of Cedar Rapids, and Ernest of Santa Barbara, and by three sisters, Mrs. Al Crawford of Iowa City, Mrs. Jake Scheetz and Mrs. Frank Rohret of Oxford.

Wilson Seeks Divorce, Asks Custody of Child

Cedric M. Wilson filed suit for divorce yesterday against Betty Jehn Wilson in Johnson county district court.

Alleging cruel and inhuman treatment, Wilson asked for judgment giving him custody of the couple's child. They were married Jan. 15, 1944.

Attorney for the plaintiff is Eugene Coltrane.

Some primitive tribes play games at funerals in which the dead person is supposed to take part.

Females Not the Weaker Sex in Mosquito-Land

ONE OF THE MORE SCENIC SPOTS in Iowa City, this could well have been the breeding ground and "home sweet home" for one of those buzzing little blighters that have kept many an Iowa Citian awake at night with the high-cycle whine which announces the presence of the Culex mosquito in the room. It's too late to do much about the mosquito now, except to swat her (it's the female that bites), but thorough mosquito control measures this spring would have included complete spraying of all such spots with DDT. Mosquito experts have said that the cool weather this spring kept the mosquito ranks thinned down, but they say it's...

STAGNANT POOLS LIKE THIS ONE resulting from the flood waters in June that provide excellent breeding grounds for mosquitoes in hot weather. Other means of mosquito control, besides DDT spraying, according to Dr. Kenneth MacDonald, assistant professor of hygiene and preventive medicine at University hospital, are by drainage of such swampy pools and by keeping surroundings clean and sanitary. Mosquitoes seem to love such spots because, in the peace and quiet, they can breed, rear their young, telling them all the facts of mosquito life, and fill them with a hatred for human beings and a desire to make life miserable for them during the long summer nights.

Need Spray and Drainage To Thwart 6-Legged Party Pests

By BOB SCHMIDT

Mosquitoes, zooming around lawn parties, pestering picnickers and night strollers, are generally making themselves obnoxious to Iowa Citizens again this summer.

There just isn't much that can be done to thwart attacks by these six-legged creatures either. So, many Iowa Citizens do their best to repulse them by burning smudge-pots, rubbing themselves with oil of citronella (mosquito repellent) or just plain swatting the things when they get stung.

Dr. Kenneth MacDonald, assistant professor of hygiene and preventive medicine at University hospital, has some information on the species that bite people and raise those uncharming welts.

"The only biters of the culex (common mosquito) are the females," Dr. MacDonald stated. They need blood to mature their eggs, and won't stop at anything to get it.

Now these tiny insects hide out in the daytime and come out at night to feed. The droning females, having a long and slender, but firm stinger, are out for blood. Blame all your mosquito welts on females, men, the males feed on plant life.

The "itch" in mosquito bites, Dr. MacDonald stated, comes from a "toxic (irritating) saliva passing through the proboscis (nose or stinger) which irritates the skin and causes swelling."

So far the city is not doing anything about mosquito control, mainly because it presents no real problem. Cool weather earlier this summer kept the mosquito ranks thinned down, but the stagnant pools resulting from the flood provided excellent breeding grounds for mosquitoes in hot weather.

"Most effective means of combating mosquitoes is by spraying large areas of their breeding grounds with DDT," Dr. MacDonald suggested. "Other means of eliminating breeding grounds are by drainage of swampy pools and by keeping surroundings clean and sanitary."

The whole threat of this summer's mosquito crop lies in the Culex. Other disease-carrying types, "just aren't considered a problem at all this summer," said Dr. M. E. Barnes, head of hygiene and preventive medicine at the hospital.

It's in the flight stage that the Culex causes all the commotion. When the Culex mosquito is pregnant she needs blood to feed her youngsters. She prefers human blood. At this stage she is out gunning for the human species.

The three types of disease carriers are the anopheles quadrimaculatus, most dangerous because it prefers human blood to all other kinds of blood (2) the anopheles punctipennis and (3) the anopheles occidentalis, both of which prefer animal blood to human blood.

The doctors explained that the only way anopheles mosquitoes can infect humans with malaria is to bite a person already infected with malaria, then carry the germs to some other person.

To prove the point that malaria cases are on the decline, Dr. Barnes gave the figures on cases in Iowa in the past years. The state health department reported 16 cases in 1943 (while all the men were away to war, Dr. Barnes interjected), 21 cases in 1944; 465 cases in 1945 (after most of the men had returned), and 322 cases in 1946. He expects a further drop for 1947.

SUI Artists Vie for Fair Art Awards

Twelve artists from the University art department are among 79 persons who will compete for $675 and sweepstakes art awards in the annual art salon at this year's Iowa state fair. Prof. Mauricio Lasansky said last night.

Those entered are Prof. Mauricio Lasansky, Prof. Joseph Cox, Thomas Lias, Dorothy Eisenbach, Houston Chandler, Byron Burford, Carroll Hogan, Joan Cox, Ray French, Lee Chesney, Doris Lee Byrd and LeRoy Burket.

Lias has entered one print in the lithographic section, one print in the serigraph section and one print in the color etching section.

Professor Lasansky has one print in the color etching section; Eisenbach has entered one painting in the oil section, and Professor Cox has entered one painting in the mixed technique section.

Chandler has entered one piece in the sculpture section; Burford has entered one painting in the oil section, and Hogan has one painting in the oil section.

Chesney has entered one painting in the oil section and one print in the etching section; Byrd has two paintings in the oil section.

FORFEITS $20 BOND

Paul E. Berry, Sioux Falls, S. D., forfeited a $20 bond when he failed to appear in police court yesterday. He was charged with speeding.

ANOTHER BATTLE-SCARRED VICTIM of Mrs. Culex sadly contemplates life. She's lucky that her assailant wasn't Anopheles Annie, a malaria bearer, who may transfer the disease germ to a victim after having previously bitten a malarial victim. Dr. M.E. Barnes, head of hygiene and preventive medicine, said malaria is on a decline here.

Floerchinger Divorce Granted Here Yesterday

Aloe Floerchinger was granted a divorce on grounds of cruelty from George Floerchinger in Johnson county district court yesterday.

The plaintiff was awarded custody of the three children, $7 a week alimony and $18 a week for support of the children.

The defendant was given the right to visit the children at any reasonable time and was ordered to pay $50 toward the plaintiff's attorney fee. Costs were assessed to the plaintiff.

The couple was married July 28, 1937.

The plaintiff's attorneys were Messer, Hamilton and Cahill. The defendant was represented by Lucas and Bowen.

POST OFFICE — CEDAR RAPIDS

I WOKE UP SCREAMING, this victim of the Culex mosquito said later. He here demonstrates the "last ditch" or "fire when you see the whites of their eyes" method of defense. Not to be outdone, Mrs. Culex put up a gallant battle before succumbing to brute force. The victor, chewing madly on atabrine tablets, was hauled away for a blood transfusion.
