Russia Loses First Round in Battle of Veto

Assembly to Consider Argentine Proposal For Veto Conference

NEW YORK (AP)—Russia lost the first round of the veto battle in the United Nations assembly last night while the whole Soviet bloc drove ahead with its new campaign against the United States on "war-mongering" charges.

Russia protested in a heated meeting of the 14-nation steering committee against assembly consideration of an Argentine proposal for a special U.N. conference on the veto.

The steering committee passed the proposal on to the assembly by a vote of 9 to 2. Russia and Poland were the two against. India, China and France abstained.

This meant that the veto fight definitely would burst out in the assembly itself and in the political committee as soon as its turn comes.

Andre A. Gromyko, Soviet delegate who has cast 19 of the 20 Russian vetoes recorded in the security council, charged that the two-year campaign against the veto was "hostile" to the Soviet union.

Gromyko did not name names but Dr. Jose Arce, of Argentina, who has asked the assembly to approve the general conference on the veto, snapped back that Gromyko was making a veiled threat. Arce said it had been suggested the United States, Britain, France and China were behind the move.

China's delegate, T.F. Tsiang, spoke up to say that the time is not yet "ripe" to change the veto.

Hours earlier in plenary session of the 55 United Nations White Russia seconded the strong Soviet blast at the U.S. and called on the assembly to fight "those who are now yelling about a new war."

Strikes Cause NY Express Embargo; Violence In Detroit

By The Associated Press
Strikes Friday cut off shipments of air and railway express of less than carload size in and out of New York and brought a threat of use of troops to quiet labor strife in Detroit.

Meanwhile, the five operating railroad brotherhoods announced they would seek a 30 per cent pay increase for 350,000 workers, to become effective Nov. 1, and the government postponed its deadline for signing of non-communist affidavits by labor leaders to Oct. 31.

The railway express agency announced the New York embargo on shipments of less than carload quantity after a strike of 6,700 AFL teamsters at Midland Thursday tied up the agency's trucks in the New York-New Jersey metropolitan area. A spokesman for the teamsters said two locals had walked out in a dispute involving wage increases and reduction of the work week from 44 to 40 hours.

Governor Kim Sigler of Michigan went by plane to Detroit Friday to inspect the scene of a three-month-old strike by 600 CIO garage mechanics.

Six persons were injured and several arrested in clashes between flying squadrons of Local 415, CIO-United Auto Workers, and police Wednesday and Thursday.

Sigler said he intended to use "the full power of the state" to settle the dispute which involved demands for wage increases and a city-wide master contract.

Announcement of the non-communist affidavit deadline postponement was made by Robert N. Denham, general counsel for the national labor relations board as NLRB field agents prepared to start dismissing cases involving AFL and CIO unions after next Tuesday, the former deadline.

Grid Hopes High as Hawkeyes Open

Bisons Play Here Today

By CHAD BROOKS

Four months ago a pair of unknowns, Al DiMarco and Bob McKenzie, sent football hopes in the Iowa corn belt soaring to fever pitch—and this afternoon the Iowa football faithful, an estimated 30,000 strong, will flock into Iowa stadium to witness the first installment of their "dream" season.

The gridiron Hawkeyes, boasting their best pre-season rating since the early 1920's, will tangle with North Dakota State's Bisons at 2 p. m.

When Mr. DiMarco, pitching, and Mr. McKenzie, catching, put on their amazing passing exhibition in last spring's intra-squad game the defensively strong Hawkeyes saw visions of championship and Rose Bowl games.

Now, with the '47 grid opener only a matter of hours away, the bright dreams have dimmed somewhat—leaving Iowa in a dark-horse conference roll, rated anywhere from second to sixth by the football experts.

Today's game with North Dakota State can rank as little more than a "dream rehearsal" for the big games to come.

A year ago, the Bisons folded by a 39-0 score before the Hawks and the '46 Bison star, Center

The visitors have left—a decent passing attack, a line that outweighs the Hawks and a prayer. The 30,000 fans who watch the Hawks this afternoon know the score—they aren't going to get a new opening game attendance record just to see this football game, they're looking for some mighty important answers.

Last fall the Hawks boasted what was probably the toughest defensive outfit in the conference—they lost their championship chance because a collection of slow Old Gold backs and slower ends just couldn't score enough touchdowns.

Identifies Self As Principal in Assault Case

Edward Thomaes Asks Chance to Air His Side of Cooper Attack

By RAY HENRY

Edward Thomaes, 26, 527 S. Van Buren street, identified himself last night to The Daily Iowan as the only student involved in the E. Stamm Cooper assault that took place May 6 in the lobby of an Iowa City hotel.

Thomaes, who was on the university football squad before the war, said that he plans to appeal the university's decision not to let him re-enter school and he is "glad the grand jury is going to consider the case."

He stated he did not know that the Johnson county grand jury would definitely hold a hearing on the case, but he said that he is "very desirous of having my side of the case presented."

On September 12, Dean C. Woody Thompson, head of the office of student affairs, issued a statement that Thomaes would be denied the right to re-enter the university. The statement made no mention of the student involved.

Dean Thompson said Thomaes had a right of appeal to the committee on discipline, a group of eight faculty members.

The committee does not simply review the dean's decision, he declared; but rather, it investigates each case in its entirety, reviews all available evidence and arrives at an independent decision.

The university considered several other incidents in which Thomaes was involved before taking action. On September 4 he was convicted of driving while intoxicated and fined $150 by District Judge Harold D. Evans. In commenting on the Univer-

Back Flood Control Plan

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A group of Missouri basin flood control leaders yesterday drafted a resolution protesting any action by the national water conservation conference which might adversely affect execution of the Pick-Sloan program for development of the Missouri river.

All are members of the Missouri river states' committee, an advisory body in the administration of the Pick-Sloan plan. The body comprises the governors of 10 states together with two representatives chosen from each state by the governor.

They planned to submit the resolution to the national conference late yesterday.

Among members of the group which drafted the protest resolution were: John Prince, chairman of the Kansas City branch of the Mississippi Valley association; L. C. Crawford, Iowa City; Don S. Jones, Lincoln, Neb.; and Raymond F. Lund, Rapid City, S.D.

Dynamite Wired, Says Overell Case Witness

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP)—A state rebuttal witness in the Overell murder trial yesterday testified that 33 sticks of dynamite found aboard the yacht on which Walter Overell and his wife died, were wired to a battery.

The testimony was introduced to combat a defense contention that a circuit had not been completed to the 33 unexploded sticks, and that Overell himself accidentally had set off a smaller, undetermined number which took his life and that of his wife, Beulah, in Newport Harbor March 15.

Debris, Close Calls Accompany Storm To New Orleans

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD
NEW ORLEANS (AP)—When the storm blew over, excited citizens of New Orleans burst out of hiding like bees around a damaged hive.

"You couldn't do a thing to keep them off the streets," Policeman H.M. Hughes said. "Everybody had to get out and inspect the damage."

Hughes stood near a taxicab, a smashed taxicab, an island in tons of steel debris. It had been hit by a tower toppled from a building.

"I heard a big rumble," Hughes related. "I looked up and saw the tower leaning and I yelled a warning to the cab driver. I guess he didn't hear me. I started running and heard the terrific crash and men yelling. We got the three men out of the cab. Only one was hurt. The others could thank their lucky stars."

"Several blocks away Policeman Angelo Fortunato pointed to a bread truck smashed by a falling sign."

"I saw that truck pull up to the curb," he said, "and its driver climbed out to go in a drug store for a cup of coffee. He had no more than gotten through the door of the drug store when that sign fell. If he hadn't wanted coffee, he might have been in bad shape right now."

It was impossible to walk along some streets of the city while the hurricane was in progress.

Main Canal street is blocked off at many places and powerless streetcars are lined along it. One block is roped off because a five-ton sign is hanging precariously from a building and over the street.

It was a sign which showed changes in the weather. Now and then during the hurricane you could hear the minor explosions of plate glass windows. The whole front of a barbershop blew out and empty chairs turned slowly in the wind.

Three tower poles blocked one avenue and on St. Charles street a main power line had fallen. Trees blocked traffic. Some were snapped off and others uprooted.

Storm Veers To East, Will Miss Arkansas

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—A wandering, bitterly devastating tropical hurricane was bearing inland toward Natchez, Miss., last night, leaving five dead on the gulf coast, while a belated and revised report from northwest Florida said a tornado there injured 100, five critically.

The tornado spun in on Apalachicola, Fla., from the outer fringes of the hurricane and in a few short moments had cut a swath of 250 feet for three miles through the town.

Fourteen persons were hospitalized at Apalachicola and the injuries to five were listed as critical. The Red Cross expected two among the five to die.

Meanwhile, this city was counting its property damage. Mayor De Lesepes Morrison estimated the total at $3,000,000, including $1,750,000 for automobiles, homes and places of business; $500,000 for signs, plate glass and seawalls, and about $250,000 to trees, shrubbery and other property.

Between New Orleans and Baton Rouge thousands upon thousands of acres planted in sugar cane were flattened by the terrific wind. There was no immediate estimate of damage to the crop.

Eastward from New Orleans the hurricane drubbed and drowned the gulf coast as far as Biloxi; after arriving from a vicious trip through southern Florida.

As for the big wind itself, Alexandria, La., said it was veering to the east, instead of moving northwest toward Arkansas as previously indicated, and apparently was going to miss that middle Louisiana city. Alexandria said winds there had died to 35 miles per hour and the barometer was rising.

Despite communications handicaps reports drifting in said Gulfport, Miss., had hundreds homeless and its beaches were strewn with wrecked yachts. Biloxi's Mayor G. B. Cousins Jr., called for 200 soldiers from nearby Keesler field to patrol the beaches with orders to shoot looters.

LaGuardia Condition 'Extremely Critical'

NEW YORK (AP)—Fiorello H. LaGuardia's physician said last night the 64-year-old former mayor was in "extremely critical" condition and that he was "sinking rapidly."

LaGuardia has been in a coma almost continuously since Tuesday night when he collapsed at his home. He underwent an operation last June which disclosed an inoperable pancreas condition.

Bankers Strike in Bolivia—in Sympathy

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP)—Several industrial workers' unions and the bank employes' union voted last night to strike in sympathy with miners, who walked off their jobs yesterday at midnight after the government decreed a state of seige to thwart "agitators and subversives."

The government said the state of seige was decreed because of discovery of plans for a civil war or imminent revolution.

Taft Warns Of Inflation

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said yesterday that another depression is possible "if this price situation remains the same," and called for stabilization of wages and prices to avert it.

His statement was made to a newsman following an address to the commonwealth club while a parade of pickets, estimated at 1,500, marched on the sidewalks in front.

In answer to a question, Taft said, "this price situation might bring another depression if it remains the same. We have escaped the kind we had in 1920. But we have not passed the danger point for the type that came ten years after the last war."

Taft declared in his address that high prices will be the central issue on which the 1948 presidential campaign will be fought.

sity action, Thomaes said, "The university has been unfair in their decision. I have no desire to go back to school, but the remarks that will be carried on my scholastic record will hinder me greatly from getting a coaching job."

Thomaes received his master's degree in physical education in August, 1946.

Verification that the grand jury would study the circumstances surrounding the Cooper assault was made yesterday.

The complete story as it has developed so far is this: Cooper, a teacher in a Jewish school in Iowa City, told his story to university authorities on May 12, according to Dean Thompson.

At that time and until the present, Cooper has refused to identify his assailants. He has maintained that the "erring youth should be reached through methods of education and religion rather than through punishment."

In the August 2 issue of the "Saturday Review of Literature," Norman Cousins, editor of the magazine, released the first public account of the story.

Cousins reviewed the information that had been given to him by a University of Iowa professor. Cousins had previously talked to Cooper, but no mention of the assault was made then.

Nothing regarding the locality of the incident was made by Cousins. He said that it had happened in a "large midwestern university."

City High Pulls Surprise, Upsets Blue Devils, 12-6

Iowa City high school's grid team pulled the first big upset of the young football season last night by thoroughly whipping Davenport high, 12-6, at the Blue Devils home field before 9,000 jam-packed fans.

It was Fullback Bill Reichardt and End Virgil Troyer who completely out-manuevered the Imps with Reichardt gaining most of the ground for the Little Hawks. He was undoubtedly the best man on the field.

The Hawks scored first with 1:30 seconds of the first half to go when Quarterback Dick Doran rifled a pass to Troyer from the Blue Devils' 23 to their 12 and Troyer scampered over for the tally. Then, midway in the third quarter, Brawner bucked over for the second score from the 1-yard line to make the score Iowa City 12, Davenport 0 at the end of the third quarter.

The Blue Devils scored their touchdown in the last 30 seconds after two pass interferences had moved the ball to City high's 7-yard line and Hadaway circled end for the score.

Taking Time Out

With Buck Turnbull

Comes the day that every good man must play a game of chance. With the sports writers, we pride ourselves in making the red-hot predictions—which invariably blow up in our faces while "Big Wheel College" is getting patted by Kewash Tech.

But as all suckers will, we always come back for more. So we have been talking into printing predictions of the top seven football games every Saturday—starting today and lasting for the rest of the gridiron season. And as our cohorts in crime, we have picked four of the hottest experts ever to hit this fair city and if their prognostications don't run true to form, they may be the fastest experts ever to leave the fair city.

As a matter of course and before we jot down our own predictions, let us introduce the four master-minds. To them, all we need say is that RECORDS WILL BE KEPT. And they will be totaled when said football season is over. So pick your favorites, football fans, and watch them stumble around the country (figuratively speaking) trying to pick the nation's top ball games.

First on our list is "Shakey" Harold Yeglin, staff sports writer of the Des Moines Register. We introduced Harold first because he is good when the going gets rough.

Second, "Alibi" Bob Brooks, chief of the sports staff at WSUI. Bob, radio's typical fast talker, will try some of his fast stuff in this column every Saturday.

Third, "Possibility" Bill Miller, The Daily Iowan's grid "guesspert". Bill claims that he's pretty good but we'll have to wait and see.

Fourth, "Smiling" Chad Brooks, football writer of The Daily Iowan. We put Chad last because he thinks he's going to win. If he were first he might get over-confident.

And now we'll get out our schedule, find the top games and give you our predictions.

Staying in the home state for the first two games, we'll pick Iowa in a breeze over North Dakota State. The Bisons will not trouble Doc Eddie's boys too much. Up at Ames, Iowa State college opens their season with Iowa State Teachers college and may run into a battle. We'll stick with the Cyclones, though. Incidentally, our boy, Bill Miller, plans to forge out in the lead early because he picked a "flyer" and chose the Teachers.

In other big games, we'll take Kentucky over Mississippi in a very close game; Kansas will have a tough time with T.C.U. but should be able to pull out a win; Penn State in another close one against Washington State; Oklahoma A.&M. will meet Kansas State—two of the also-rans—and the Ookies ought to win in a game made good by the class of the teams, and Texas Tech could surprise everybody in their game with Texas but until the Longhorns lose, we'll string along with them.

The experts' opinions:

Anderson Says Injured Grid Stars Ready

Today marks the 59th year that an Iowa gridiron team will go onto the field for an opening football game and this one should be the biggest in history with an estimated crowd of more than 30,000 expected to be on hand.

For the second successive year the Hawks will meet North Dakota State college of Fargo, N. D., in their opening warm-up tilt.

ATTENTION FOOTBALL FANS

In order to help solve the severe shortage of parking space for the Iowa home football games, you are asked to park your cars east of the river and take a bus or walk to the stadium.

Business Manager of Athletics Frank Havicek, and Police Chief E. J. Ruppert announced Thursday, that Grand avenue from Riverside drive west to South Grand avenue would be barricaded in order to solve the headache.

The only vehicles allowed on Grand avenue will be city buses and taxis.

There will be special buses running for the game so just catch one for the field house where they will unload.

best football season in the nation's history. A band consisting of representatives from 25 Iowa high schools will form the Iowa high school massed band to make a total of more than 975 musicians. In addition, there will be approximately 200 baton twirlers who will perform between halves.

The regular Iowa band plus the Scottish Highlanders will make their first appearance in the opening conference game with Illinois, Oct. 4.

Dr. Anderson said yesterday that all of his injured players—which includes more than half a dozen—will be ready to see action if they are needed. However, it is expected that the Hawkeye mentor will go easy on his injured stars with the upcoming UCLA game foremost in his mind.

THE STRATEGY—Coach Dr. Eddie Anderson talks things over with his starting game captain, Center Dick Woodard, yesterday and makes sure that Dick is in tip-top shape. An injured shoulder kept Dick out for most of the season last fall. Dr. Eddie announced earlier in the week that the centers will be the captains for the opening game today.

Bisons Boast Big Linemen, Good Passer

spring fitness of IF King can work under fire the way he has shown in scrimmage session, the quarterback position will be strong. If neither happens, Iowa's biggest weakness will remain in the signal calling department.

Bob Smith, moving over from right half, will take good care of the fullbacking. Dr. Eddie Anderson has listed Smith with the nation's half dozen best backs.

The half backs are questionable once again. Johnny Tedore, who can run hard but not fast, will start at left half. Dell Bartells, who can run hard and fast but not always too cleverly, will start at right half.

Emlen Tunnell, who runs like a disappearing gremlin and passes like a Luckman but who lacks both power and speed, will undoubtedly take over Tedore's duties when an injured knee heals.

And Duke Curran, who runs very fast but with no power, will spell Bartells.

If Dr. Eddie could only find some way of making one good back out of this quartet things would be mighty smooth. As it is—well, maybe today's game will answer some mighty big questions.

As for the boys from Fargo, they are a comparative unknown quantity in these parts. They arrived yesterday and had a brief workout at the stadium before retreating to the confines of their hotel.

The Bisons will have a starting backfield averaging about 185-pounds which will operate behind a line averaging 205-pounds, outweighing the Hawks by about five pounds per man.

King-pin of their line will be 235-pound Clink McGeary while Bobby Heer and Dennis Drews will lead the backs with Alvin Lund directing the single wing from his quarterback spot.

Mel Ott Announces Baseball Retirement; Holds Many Records

NEW YORK (AP) — Mel Ott's 22-year-old playing career came to an end yesterday when the New York Giants manager announced he had removed himself from the active list to make room for rookies from the Minor league farm system.

The personable 38-year-old native of Gretna, La., has been with the Giants since he reported to the late John McGraw at the age of 16.

Playing with the Giants from 1925 through 1947, and managing since 1941, Ott has appeared in three World series and 11 all-star games. He holds the modern record for service with one club and a host of home run marks. His lifetime batting average was .304.

Among other important records, he has hit more home runs than any other player in the history of National league, 511; scored more runs, 2,876; batted in more runs, 1,860; hit for total bases, 5041; collected most bases on balls, 1,708; most extra base hits, 1,071; and most extra bases on long hits, 2,165. For eight years he hit 30 or more homers a season.

Real Post-War Football Season Starts

Coaches Enjoy Loaded Teams For Big Year

NEW YORK (AP)—The football season everyone has been waiting for—the first real postwar season—gets under way today with a marked absence of the "push-overs" traditionally associated with September football.

Coaches agree that, for the first time since the war shattered their 1942 squads, there is no complaint about the quality of material available at most colleges. Their squads are well stocked with experienced athletes whose records extend as far back as 1940 and the returning GI's, troubled last season by "service legs" and inability to get into playing condition, are displaying their old-time speed and agility.

It is an unusual coach this year who doesn't have the thought of a post-season bowl game somewhere in the back of his head, although they are quick to point out that their opponents have improved just as much as their own teams since last fall.

Athletic directors also are looking ahead with considerable satisfaction as pre-season ticket sales indicate record attendances this year. Already many of the major contests are sellouts, and indications are that tickets for any "big" game will be hard to buy on the day it is played.

While a certain number of big colleges will open today against comparatively easy opposition, at least a half dozen games on the slate may eventually have a bearing on the sectional or national rankings of the teams involved.

Among these are Penn State vs. Washington State in the east; Kentucky vs. Mississippi in the south; Texas vs. Texas Tech in the southwest; Texas Christian vs. Kansas and Oklahoma A. and M. vs. Kansas State in the midwest and California vs. Santa Clara on the West Coast. Most of these games will be played at night.

Less important in the general picture but still games of considerable interest are Iowa's lid lifter against North Dakota State, Iowa State vs. Iowa Teachers, Missouri vs. St. Louis, Texas Aggies vs. Southwestern (Texas), Arkansas vs. Northwest Louisiana, Villanova vs. Kings Point, Clemson vs. Presbyterian, Richmond vs. Randolph-Macon, South Carolina vs. Newberry, Davidson vs. Elon, Tulsa vs. West Texas, Brigham Young vs. Colorado Western State and Montana State vs. Oregon and Colorado A&M vs. Colorado Mines.

Iowa, with a husky team and a husky schedule, starts a week ahead of the other Big Nine schools; Villanova hopes to get ready to crack Army's winning streak and the other games all involve at least one member of a major conference.

Brazle Keeps Card Hopes Alive, Stops Cubs, 5-2

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals kept their flickering pennant hopes alive last night and ended a 6-game losing streak by turning back the Chicago Cubs, 5 to 2 behind Al Brazle's tight pitching.

A defeat for the Cards last night would have eliminated them from the race and given the pennant to the Brooklyn Dodgers, who did not play yesterday. The Redbirds could gain a tie by winning all their remaining ten games if the Dodgers lose their remaining eight.

Hot Off The Gridiron

Fesler Drills Kickers In Ease Up Session

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Coach Wes Fesler gave his kickers a chance to show their wares yesterday as he temporarily eased up on his practice-wary Ohio State gridders.

Fesler drilled all his punters, extra point specialists and the lads who may boot kick-offs for the Buckeyes, then added some work on defense, the most pressing weakness at the moment.

Minnesota

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—University of Minnesota football scrimmage was beset with numerous rest periods yesterday as the temperature hit an unusual mid-September 93 above.

Passing practice held the spotlight but the percentage of completions was low. Jack Stuhlman, up from the 1946 B team appeared to have clinched himself a spot at the varsity right end, despite the presence of four letter men candidates for the job.

Notre Dame

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Because of the prevalence of injuries on his Notre Dame football squad, Coach Frank Leahy confined yesterday's practice session to light drills in preparation for an important intrasquad scrimmage this afternoon.

Plunging Fullback Scores 3 Touchdowns

Led by Fullback Don Swartzendruber, who scored all three of their touchdowns, Wellman high school drubbed University high of Iowa City yesterday at the University of Iowa practice field, 19-0.

The husky fullback was the whole show for Wellman both on offense and defense. He climaxed the afternoon's play in the third quarter by breaking off right tackle and scampering for 77 yards for the second Wellman score. Following this touchdown W. Miller of Wellman kicked the only good extra point of the game. After battling up and down the field in the opening quarter, Wellman broke the ice after the second stanza opened with Swartzendruber bucking the line for the first score.

Fans Mob Jackie On Dodger Arrival

NEW YORK (AP)—Jackie Robinson, Negro first baseman of the Brooklyn Dodgers, was besieged in a telephone booth yesterday by several hundred fans, mostly white, as the National league leaders came home to a tumultuous reception.

A half dozen police were summoned to rescue Robinson, and the crowd then followed him into the subway station, leaping over turnstiles to pursue him into the train.

"I love it. It's wonderful," said Robinson when asked how he felt about the noisy welcome in Pennsylvania station. "I wasn't running away. The only thing I wanted was to call my wife and let her know I was back in town. It's

The Dodgers split up after the train arrived and as a result a score of varied receptions occurred.

Mrs. Harold Reese couldn't find her husband, and over the loud speaker came the announcement, "Peewee Reese, meet your party in the station master's office." That started a mass rush that also brought out police reserves.

College Girls Go to Church

When you walk down the aisle tomorrow, all the eyes will turn to the new college girl. You're wearing a longer skirt — your hips are softly rounded to match the new shoulder line. Your skirt has a friendly drape. Yes, you're new from tip to toe. Your hat is young, too, because it's extreme and because it dates back to the gay 20's. (Don't forget to wear gloves, they're important.) Eyes turn to the new college girl . . . she's going to church.

STUDENT SUPPLY

Dial 6913 17 S. Dubuque

All's Confusion as Plans Run Riot for SU1 Spouse Tickets

"Spouse tickets," for husbands or wives of students attending the university, will not be issued until sometime before the football game with Illinois, Oct. 4, Frank Havlicek, business manager of athletics, announced yesterday.

Those persons who are planning to purchase the "spouse tickets" will be able to obtain them in the following manner:

1. Special cards will be issued today, at the football stadium, beginning at 12:30 p.m., to those "spouses" who attend the North Dakota State game.

2. The "spouses" should fill out these cards and give them, along with the regular $2 admission price, to the man in a special booth at the north end of the west side of the stadium. The whole procedure should take only a few minutes, Havlicek indicated.

The athletic department, Havlicek said, will begin issuing the actual "spouse tickets" soon after the official, photographed ID cards are given to the students.

3. The spouse, to pick up the actual "spouse tickets," must call at the athletic office in the fieldhouse and must be accompanied by the student husband or wife, who must have his or her student ID card.

The student's ID card, with the photograph on it, will be checked with the student presenting it and with the card given to the spouse this afternoon and left by him or her at the special booth at the north end of the west side of the stadium.

4. The "spouse ticket" costs $18, payable at the athletic office at the time they are issued.

Following the purchase of the "spouse ticket," the treasurer's office will use the cards filled out for the game today to refund the $2 for the cost of the ticket.

This will be done at a later date. The $2 is not deductible from the cost of the "spouse ticket" at the time of purchase, Havlicek emphasized.

The "spouse ticket" will gain admission for the holder to all athletic contests throughout the school year, Havlicek said. However, it must be accompanied by the ID card of the student husband or wife, or by that student in person.

The "spouse tickets" will entitle the holder to admission to the regular student section at all athletic contests. The tickets will resemble an "I" book which is purchased by university non-academic personnel.

The "spouse tickets" are not called students wives tickets, Havlicek said, because they are also purchasable by non-student husbands whose wives are university students.

Any married student who does not desire to purchase the spouse ticket should go through the regular procedure in buying a ticket for the game today. All tickets are general admission.

Third Speeding Violation Brings Fine, Suspension

His third speeding violation cost Orville M. Price, 1325 Keokuk street, a $25.00 fine in police court yesterday. Judge Emil G. Troit suspended his license for 15 days.

Harvey G. Green, Merville, appearing on a highway patrol information, was fined $22.50 for failure to stop at the scene of an accident and for carrying no driver's license.

Roosevelt Calls Taft 'Marie Antoinette'

DETROIT (AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., said yesterday he wants to organize "Democrats with a small D" against "the unfortunate trend of our government to serve special interest groups."

The son of the late president aired his views at a press conference preceding a rally of the Detroit chapter of the Americans for Democratic Action of which he is a vice-chairman.

He described Sen. Robert A. Taft's recent suggestion that Americans eat less extravagantly to reduce living costs as "neither practical nor patriotic—but typical of Mr. Taft's thinking."

The Ohio Republican, Roosevelt said, reminded him of Marie Antoinette's famous remark of "Let them eat cake." Hereafter, he added, "We should call him 'Marie Antoinette Taft.'"

(Marie Antoinette, Queen of France at the time of the revolution, was said to have remarked "let them eat cake" when she was told the people had no bread.) Roosevelt said he did not believe in talk of a third party "as typified by Henry Wallace."

As an individual, Roosevelt said, he supports President Truman for the 1948 campaign, but he is "preserving an open mind" on possible Democratic vice-presidential candidates.

Slash Radio Advertising

ATLANTIC CITY, (AP)—The radio industry received yesterday a new code under which advertising would be limited and broadcasts would be shorn of any practice which would mislead, shock or alarm the public.

The code, effective Feb. 1, 1948, was adopted behind closed doors by the 25-man board of directors of the National Association of Broadcasters in a post-convention session.

For independent and small station broadcasters who objected to certain provisions the board provided a "loophole," which would permit them to suggest changes in the code before it goes into effect.

The members were asked to present their views and suggestions in person or by letter to the board by Nov. 1. The board said it would "review and revise" the code at its November meeting, to be held probably at Washington, D. C.

Under the code advertisers would receive a maximum of three minutes for every 15-minute "segment" of broadcasting time. During daytime programs commercial announcements would be limited to a maximum of seven minutes an hour and to six minutes each hour at night.

Voluntary Food Rationing

The food committee of the cabinet (secretaries of state, agriculture and commerce) will submit a report to President Truman next Monday on means of meeting the needs of European countries during the coming winter without further increasing food prices to American consumers.

Advance speculation says their report is expected to recommend a system of voluntary rationing similar to that administered by Herbert Hoover during the first world war.

The powers of the federal government to ration foods (except sugar) to consumers expired with the second war powers act on last March 31. Congress extended the power to ration sugar until Oct. 31, but consumer rationing that product was terminated by the department of agriculture in June.

Government authority to allocate fats and oils and other products needed for export was continued until next March 1 at the request of Secretary of State Marshall.

No attention was given by congress to a request from the President that general authority be conferred upon him to reestablish wartime commodity controls in case of a "national emergency that we do not now foresee."

Consumer rationing of wheat, meats and other food products could be reinstated only by a new act of congress. And as Secretary of Commerce Harriman has observed, even if that were desirable, reestablishment of the rationing machinery would take too long to be of any great help to Europe or the American consumer during the coming winter.

So it would appear that our chances of shipping enough food abroad this winter to keep Europe alive depend on voluntary rationing.

In testimony before congressional committees when the now-expired price control act was under consideration in December, 1941. Hoover recommended a first trial of the system of voluntary rationing employed in 1917-18, and a resort to compulsory rationing only as a last extremity.

To have rationed the whole American population in world war I, he said, would have entailed great difficulties and expense, and intolerable delay.

He believed when he took the office of food administrator that "the spirit of self-sacrifice of the American people could be relied upon for so great a service as to accomplish the necessary results upon a voluntary basis."

In October, 1917, home pledge cards were issued to housewives by the food administration asking one wheatless meal each day and sparing use of meats. A later card pledging one wheatless day and one meatless day a week was signed by the food buyers for 14 million families.

"Meatless Tuesdays" so greatly increased the supplies of meat that it was possible to suspend them in the spring of 1918, but stocks of wheat continued to decline.

A proclamation by President Wilson in January, 1918, asked all patriotic citizens strictly to observe Monday and Wednesday of each week as "wheatless days." In addition, housewives were asked to serve one meal on other days "at which should be eaten no wheat or wheat products whatsoever," and to limit their total wheat consumption to 70 percent of prewar.

Another device, put into effect in February, permitted sales of wheat flour to consumers and eating places only when equal quantities of substitutes, such as corn or rice flour, were purchased.

In the summer of 1918 the need of wheat saving was so great that observance of a voluntary ration of six pounds of flour per person per month was requested by the food administration. The amount of sugar that could be acquired by retailers was dropped in August, from three pounds to two pounds per customer per month. But it had been restored to three pounds before the end of the war.

Voluntary rationing was verging on compulsion at the time of the Armistice and Bernard Baruch, then chairman of the war production board, is authority for the statement that compulsory rationing would have been necessary in certain lines if hostilities had continued into 1918.

The situation that confronts the Truman administration today is substantially the same as that faced by the Wilson administration during the autumn of 1917, when the country had been six months at war.

The remedy may be a return to the "wheatless" and "meatless" days to insure adequate supplies of food for the European allies of the United States during world war II.

Atomic Energy Course Encouraging

Announcement that the university's first course in atomic energy will begin Oct. 2 is encouraging news. It means that the layman can expect to learn at least some of the elementary and basic facts about the power that can destroy us all or else prove to be mankind's most beneficial discovery.

Which it will be depends largely upon its use. Its use in turn depends upon knowledge. As the atomic age advances, more and more complex decisions regarding its use must be made. In a democracy, we assume that those decisions must, in the last analysis, be approved by the people.

It is entirely possible that sometime in the future, the use of atomic energy could be the central issue in a presidential campaign. What would the ordinary citizen know about it? On what basis would he make his decision?

The atomic energy course, suggested this spring by The Daily Iowan, should help to answer some of these questions. And it should provide the stimulation to spur some on to more detailed and advanced knowledge of atomic energy.

For in that field, as in many others, knowledge surely is the key to power.

Russia Is in Diplomatic Corner

Andreï Vishinsky spoke the words, but the echoes which resounded through the great United Nations assembly hall came down through ten years, when other men in Berlin, in Munich and in Berchtesgaden shouted about desiring peace in a Europe to be reformed according to their own ideas, and snarled at a world which refused to go along.

The Russian added not one constructive thought. He took the old, hackneyed Communist line of suspicion, hate, disruption and noncooperation, and stuck to it. He probably has done a great

THIRTY DAYS HATH SEPTEMBER—

Grain, Meat Prices Decline

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
All grain prices crashed yesterday in the major North American markets and livestock prices drifted slightly lower or held barely steady at the 12 principal markets in the United States.

The declines, continuing a week-long trend in the United States, came at a time when wholesale food prices reached all-time peaks and demand for high-priced food items was slumping somewhat in the nation's retail stores.

The high cost of living problem brought a warning from Senator Taft (R-Ohio) that another depression is possible "if this price situation remains the same," and aroused fears of some retailers that surging food costs might hurt sales of non-food items.

Calling for stabilization of prices and wages, Taft suggested that the nation seek to level them at 50 to 60 percent above 1939 levels. He said prices and wages now were 80 to 100 percent above 1939.

The grain price break, second in two days, was started by an agriculture department report that half the American corn crop was safe from frost damage and by increased offerings of cash corn by farmers and country elevators.

Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson said the break in American grain prices had occurred "because the people are beginning to realize that the wheat crop is there" and that there is no real shortage of the bread cereal. In a train stopover at Chicago, he expressed the hope the grain market decline would "start a downward trend" in the cost of living.

favor for those who have been developing American foreign policy on the theory that, there being no prospect of cooperation with Russia, the other nations must (1) do the best they can for economic and political stability without her and (2) contain her expansionist and revolutionary policies at any cost.

Collecting all of Russia's refusals to cooperate into one speech adds nothing to the weight of her two-year record of non-cooperative acts. It does say that she has done it apurpose, and intends to keep it up, which is no news, either. Nor is the repetition that the Russia does not want war. The other delegates already have completed that phrase in their own minds by adding "until she is ready, or until she underestimates how far the world will let her go."

Mr. Vishinsky's tone is being echoed by his marionettes. The white Russian delegate—who has less right to pose in the UN as the representative of a sovereign state than would a Hawaiian princess—threatens to meet atomic bombs with atomic bombs. That's his contribution to world amity.

It seems obvious that Russia wants to organize half the world for the war with the other half, which her leaders have always said must come, and that she is screaming her head off because other nations object.

At the Chicago board of trade, world's largest grain exchange, wheat, corn, oats and soybeans dropped the permissible limit under exchange rules—corn for the second successive day.

September wheat closed at $2.61 a bushel, 10 cents lower than Thursday for a two-day price drop of 16 to 18 cents. September corn dropped the eight cent limit to $2.46 a bushel for a two day drop of 16 cents. Oats lost the six cents daily limit, September closing at $1.11 1/4, and soybeans fell the eight cents maximum, November $3.26.

The latest of several grain price upsurges started on the Chicago exchange July 21 and peaks were reached last week. From the low of July 21, wheat prices were carried up 63 to 70 cents, corn 64 to 68 cents and oats 32 to 39 cents. The declines since last week dropped wheat prices 23 to 30 cents, corn prices 21 to 24 cents and oats 12 to 15 cents.

At the Chicago stockyards, medium and good grade steers were down 75 cents to $1.50 for the week, cows declined 50 cents to $2.50, hogs 50 cents to $1 lower and good and choice lambs down 25 cents to $1.

In New York, wholesale meat prices continued the week's downward trend, but retail prices remained steady. New York cotton futures closed 55 cents a bale lower to 10 cents higher and domestic sugar futures closed one cent a pound higher, because of fears of hurricane damage to the Louisiana crop.

Meanwhile, as food programs, calling for less use of high priced items, were suggested in several cities, a survey indicated consumers already were doing just that.

Dun and Bradstreet, in a report on retail sales, said there was some drop in demand for meat, butter and eggs, more calls for oleomargarine, and that high-priced liquors were being passed up for beers and ales. Fresh and canned vegetables, fruits and juices were in considerable demand. Frozen foods were popular.

The survey showed retail sales increased very slightly in the week ended Wednesday and were one to five percent ahead of the same week a year ago. The increase in sales over a year ago was in dollar volume, with unit volume moderately lower.

Henry A. Wallace, former vice president, told a news conference in Philadelphia that the "only effective way" to lower the cost of living was for congress to restore rationing and price control.

Senator Ives (R-NY) told a reporter, however, that price controls would cut production and encourage black markets and that he would oppose their restoration except as a last resort.

President Truman headed back to the White House from Brazil, where he will delve into the issues of high prices, aid to Europe and a possible special session of congress.

Buyers' Strike Uprise

By SAMUEL GRAFTON
(New York Post)

A surprising number of conservatives endorse some form of the idea of a buyers' strike. One reason is that it puts the cost of economic readjustment on the poor. Hunger is not a progressive device. A housewife engaged in a buyers' strike does without meat, without milk, without new clothes. She is not improving, but worsening her position in life, and that of her family.

A buyers' strike has the same effect on diet and health as a depression, and depression is the classic, conservative device for correcting a boom. A buyers' strike is a simulated depression; it is something like making rain artificially by dropping dry ice in the clouds, and conservative opinion does not object to it because, like a depression, it puts the cost of correcting a national imbalance upon the individual.

You eat less during a financial panic, and you also eat less during a buyers' strike. Economically, the buyers' strike is only Adam Smith with a shot in the arm.

There is no great social progress involved in the change of slogans from Marie Antoinette's "Let them eat cake," to Senator Taft's "Let them eat less." The Department of Health of the City of New York reports that the health of pregnant women is already deteriorating because they are engaged, of necessity, in a buyers' strike against meat and milk. This, during a boom; and it shows how the buyers' strike is, for all practical purposes, a depression which the boom wears on its lapel.

To be shouldered into cheerfully calling a buyers' strike is to allow one's self to be put into the ridiculous position of asking for punishment and promising faithfully to like it.

Inside Washington

By THE CENTRAL PRESS

WASHINGTON—As the general assembly of the United Nations meets, the success of a state department strategem to force Russian co-operation in world recovery is being determined.

Best-informed American diplomatic sources say that the repeated United States protests to Russia against Soviet expansionist and obstructionist tactics did not just happen.

Each protest was made deliberately, and followed by another, to provide for the general assembly a convincing record of the Kremlin's responsibility for the international turmoil and poverty which exist two years after the war's end.

Domination of the Balkans through dictatorial methods, refusal to participate in the Marshall plan, obstruction of Korean independence, inspiration of the Greek rebellion, objection to increasing production in Germany have all been protested by the state department.

Also protested have been the mistreatment of American nationals and interference with the Japanese peace treaty.

These protests and the Soviets' unyielding stand have all been made public just as promptly in the hope that the record will so incriminate Generalissimo Josef Stalin that he will be forced to moderate his strategy and go along, at least part way, in helping rebuild the world.

● AFL, 1948?—One of the biggest items of news on the labor front recently received little public notice.

This was a hint from AFL Secretary-Treasurer George Meany that the federation may abandon its traditional non-partisan political policy in 1948.

Since the days of the late Samuel Gompers, a quarter of a century ago, the AFL has been non-partisan politically—adhering only to the slogan of "support our friends and defeat our enemies."

For weeks and months now, AFL leaders have been blasting the daylights out of the GOP and assailing the record of the Republican congress. In view of this, Meany's recent statement may mean that the AFL will endorse the Democratic ticket next year.

This would be sensational news. A majority of the powerful AFL executive council, ruling body of the federation, is staunchly Republican. The GOP-sters include Meany himself, John L. Lewis and William (Big Bill) Hutchison, head of the potent carpenters' union.

However, even Lewis has been taking the hide off the Republican party and his UMW Journal in every issue tells the miners they were let down by the recent GOP congress. This line of attack isn't conducive to minor support of the GOP presidential candidate next year.

More Deaths, Typhoid Caused by Jap Floods

TOKYO (AP)—Fresh floods across 15 square miles of north-eastern Tokyo today, added eight more bodies to an estimated toll of 2,000 Japanese dead in the five-day-old typhoon-born disaster.

Army engineers said there was danger of further inundation in this jam-packed capital city, and that the situation would remain critical for four days.

The army reported an outbreak of typhoid among Japanese residents in the flooded town of Ishinoseki, Iwate prefecture. No cases of typhoid were reported among the Americans.

American planes continued to drop food to Ishinoseki. Virtually all of the town was under water.

To Start Delivering Mail Twice Daily

Resumption of twice daily mail service to the university and Iowa City business and residential sections effective Tuesday was announced yesterday, according to Postmaster Walter J. Barrow.

An influx of families into the town and students to the campus created a mail load to and from Iowa City a third larger than heretofore. Since the post office budget could not accommodate the expanded facilities, temporary once-a-day delivery service was imposed last May, Barrow said.

Approval of a supplementary budget of $23,720.44 for city mail carriers and clerks will assure twice daily service for the remainder of the month and part of October. Postmaster Barrow expressed belief that the October-December quarter budget would be approved and twice daily service would continue.

Say Russia Balks At Austria Peace Pact

VIENNA, Austria (P)—The special allied commission on the Austrian treaty which has held 50 sessions in the last four months in an effort to reach a compromise was seen as a complete failure yesterday by diplomatic observers.

These observers—American British and French—said they believed failure to make any progress, after weeks of digging up facts and figures, was due to Russian reluctance to sign any peace treaty for Austria which would oblige her to withdraw her line of communications troops from Hungary and Romania as well as Austria.

Russia does not wish to leave southeast Europe as long as there is a possibility that the United States may send troops to Greece and Turkey, some of these informants said.

Keepers Chase Stork, Prepare for the Future

CHICAGO (P)—The books say if you clip a stork's wings short he can't fly.

But the stork at suburban Brookfield zoo either hadn't read the books or needed a barber. He flew—for the first time in five years.

Ralph Graham, acting zoo director, rallied four guards and keepers for a chase, which started Friday afternoon.

They sighted him viewing late model cars at parking lot. His next stop was a green at the Riverside Country club golf course.

Next he surveyed the grounds of Vaughn veterans' hospital. For six hours the chasers toured the suburbs in his wake.

They gave up at nightfall when he hid in a cemetery. You couldn't tell him from a tombstone in the darkness, Graham explained.

Today the men came to work early, prepared to resume the search.

There, in the zoo yard, was the stork.

Graham couldn't explain why the bird came back but said: "We aren't taking any more chances. Before he got his breakfast this morning his wings were clipped very, very short."

According to his report, he was severely cut and bruised and went to a doctor friend for treatment. Two witnesses gave this version of the incident on August 8.

Melvin Allison, night manager of the Huddle, said the two men "had been drinking". When they approached him for entrance into the coffeeshop, he told them they would have to wait in line.

"They said, 'Looks like nobody's getting in but the Jews' and then started to leave the building. About that time I saw Cooper approach them, but I didn't hear the conversation. I didn't see the two men knock Cooper down," Allison said.

The second witness, Joe Schaaf, manager of a local department store, related the beating in this manner:

"The fight took place in the Jefferson hotel vestibule between the inner and outer doors, and the two young fellows had the victim of their attack backed up against the inner doors beating him with their fists."

"After standing inside for a minute or so I heard the attackers say, 'Give him some more!' and thereupon they shoved him into the east corner. One beater stepped back and the second proceeded to beat the victim to the floor with his fists and then kicked him unmercifully in the head, mid-riff, in fact, his whole body."

"Moving the victim to the corner gave me a chance to go through the inner door of the vestibule to the outer door. I made the remark in passing, 'I wouldn't kick a fellow when he was down.'"

"Whereupon, the attacker who had been doing the kicking swung backhanded, hitting me. I went outside and very shortly the fight ended.

"I went to the police station and reported the incident," he said. Cooper's story, however, was denied by Thomaes who on August 14 said in a copyrighted story in The Daily Iowan that he did not hit or kick Cooper.

Thomaes explained the assault incident in this way: "An acquaintance of mine and I were waiting in line to get into the Huddle. When we got to the head of the line, the doorman let two couples in ahead of us."

"My friend then made the remark, 'It looks like you have to be a Jew to get something to eat.' "I looked around and Cooper motioned for me to tell the fellow with me that he wanted to talk to him."

"He went over to Cooper and I heard Cooper say, 'Let's go outside and talk this thing over.' "I saw them go out into the vestibule of the hotel and watched them talk awhile."

"As I watched, what seemed to be an exchange of blows followed. Cooper fell to the floor near the vestibule door and as he lay there someone pushed the door open. The fellow that came through the door was Joe Schaaf."

"I did not hit Cooper. All I saw was what looked to be like an exchange of blows. As far as I could tell, the main injury Cooper received was from the door hitting his head."

"I don't think Cooper was kicked as he claims. I didn't kick him, I know."

Dean McGrath Asks Leave for Nation-Wide Study

Carnegie Corp. Gives $10,000

Grant of nearly $10,000 by the Carnegie corporation to Dean Earl J. McGrath of the college of liberal arts for a special study of educational programs in schools throughout the country, was announced yesterday by President Virgil M. Hancher.

A 90-day leave from October 15 to January 15 is expected to be granted McGrath by the state board of education in their October meeting to enable the Dean to complete the study.

His visit will include 25 colleges and universities including Harvard, Princeton, Yale, Columbia and universities in Minnesota, Illinois, Florida and California.

Purpose of the study is to discover common features of the educational programs that have developed throughout the country. McGrath will spend from three to five days at each school.

During his absence, the direction of the college of liberal arts will be referred to E. T. Peterson, executive dean of the new division of research and teaching, President Hancher said.

McGrath's study will be primarily concerned with changes on teaching methods rather than specific curriculum. Therefore, much of the time spent at other schools will be as an observer in classrooms.

Another object of the visits, will be to interchange views and ideas between schools interested in general education. McGrath plans to pass along to each school the advantage of his observations and information gained during the study.

An extensive report of the findings will be made to the Carnegie corporation at the close of the tour. Tentative plans include a conference in each of four sections of the United States to enable representatives of all colleges in each area to become familiar with material gathered in the study.

The grant was made because of McGrath's wide interest in liberal art education and because of his position as editor of the Journal of General Education.

On the shorter phases of McGrath's tour, he will be accompanied by Mrs. McGrath. He expects to return here January 15 to prepare for duties preparatory to the opening of the second semester of the school year.

Attorneys Launch Local Court Drive

A voter's petition to establish a municipal court in Iowa City and a committee of attorneys to investigate and comment upon the matter are being contemplated by the Johnson county bar association.

Atty. Glenn R. Bowen, association president, pointed out that present overcrowding of the Johnson county district court and the possibility of the state's eliminating justice of the peace courts makes a municipal court essential. Such courts are already established in Des Moines, Sioux City, Cedar Rapids and Keokuk.

Attorney D. C. Nolan, with the support of District Judge James P. Gaffney, introduced the subject to a recent bar association meeting in the Hotel Jefferson.

Harshbarger To Head 1948 Summer Session

The director of the 1948 summer session at the university will be Prof. H. Clay Harshbarger, executive secretary of the liberal arts advisory office.

The announcement was made yesterday by university President Virgil M. Hancher.

Harshbarger served as assistant to Dean Earl J. McGrath, head of the college of liberal arts, who was director of the 1947 summer session.

Most of Mexico is a high tableland, ranging from 3,000 to 8,000 feet in elevation.

UMS Play-School for Vets' Children to Begin Oct. 2

Married veterans at the university may register their children Sept. 25 and 26 for the play school sponsored by the University Married Students organization.

Registration will take place from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. at the Congregational church, according to Mrs. Allen Ruttenbeck, supervisor of the play school.

Children, two to five years of age, of student veterans will be given first preference, she said. Children of other married students will be accommodated at the interdenominational play school if space permits. Only 25 children will be handled on any one day, Mrs. Ruttenbeck said.

The tuition for the play school has been set at $3 a month for children attending two mornings a week, and $6 a month for children attending four mornings a week. The tuition is payable at the time of registration.

Both parent and child are asked to be present for the registration.

Pelzer, Lee Schedule Exhibit Of Paintings

An exhibit of oil and watercolor paintings by Mrs. Mildred Pelzer and Mrs. J. C. H. Lee will be displayed Sept. 26 through Sept. 30, at the country studio of Mrs. Pelzer, north of Iowa City, off highway 218.

Fellow club members of Mrs. Pelzer have been invited to the opening, Friday evening. The exhibition will be open to the public starting Saturday afternoon.

Many of Mrs. Pelzer's oils and watercolors were painted in Florida last winter where she was awarded two first prizes in the Florida state art show, Orlando. While in that state, the Iowa City artist held exhibitions in Winter Park and Orlando. Her paintings include landscape, flower and a series of church pictures.

Mrs. Lee, who did most of her paintings in New Guinea and the Philippines where she served with the Red Cross during the war, will display pictures depicting landscapes and scenes of native activity and amusements.

Following the exhibition here, Mrs. Pelzer plans a similar show at the Civic art gallery, Davenport.

tion, Mrs. Ruttenbeck indicated.

The school will open Thursday, Oct. 2, and will be held on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday of each week.

It will operate on a cooperative plan; each mother has to assist the supervisor at least one morning each week, Mrs. Ruttenbeck said.

Nation's Contractors Gather For Parley

Three hundred of the nation's leading contractors will assemble in Des Moines on Sept. 29 for the fall meeting of the governing and advisory boards of the associated general contractors of America, it has been announced.

Trends on costs, availability of materials, equipment and manpower, and their effects upon construction volume will be studied.

Speakers will include Roy M. Green, dean of engineering and architecture at the University of Nebraska and Col. Robert J. Fleming and Maj. Robert M. Shannon, corps of engineers, Washington, D.C.

460 Lutheran Societies To Attend Ames Confab

Women representing the 460 societies of the Iowa-Des Moines conference of the Methodist church will meet in Ames Thursday for the annual meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service, it was announced yesterday.

Included in the day's program will be addresses by Thelma Stevens of New York City office, Mrs. David Shipley, Evanston, Ill., and Ruth Eveland and Maurine Cavett, conference missionaries.

Iowa City, in the Davenport district, does not plan to send delegates.

CORRECTION

The Daily Iowan yesterday carried a story on the Iowa Union open house which was intended for today's edition. The program, as listed, remains the same but is to be initiated at 8 p.m. today and not Friday as indicated.

Power Interruption Helps Fray Nerves

Electric power throughout the university was interrupted for approximately 20 minutes yesterday afternoon when transformers at the university power plant blew fuses, according to E. R. Snider, heating plant superintendent.

The power failure, which occurred between 4:30 and 4:50, halted elevators at University hospital, according to Gerhard Hartman, superintendent. No other disturbance was reported from the hospital where, Hartman said, battery-operated lights can be utilized in emergencies.

One instructor at the Memorial Union said the failure came at the time when courses were filling up and schedules were conflicting.

The air-conditioning also failed with the power, and the instructor said the hundreds of freshmen registering immediately felt the temperature start on the upgrade, at the time when nerves were getting frayed.

The failure did not cause registration to slow down, because the huge sky lights admitted the rays of the bright sun and allowed everything to proceed, according to this same instructor.

Iron ore found in Liberia is rated as equal to Swedish ores in quality.

NLRB Delays Union Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP)—A showdown on the non-Communist affidavit issue was postponed yesterday when the national labor relations board and its general counsel, Robert N. Denham, gave AFL and CIO leaders until Oct. 31 to swear they are not Communists.

NLRB agents in the field, who were set to start dismissing union cases next Tuesday because the top AFL and CIO leaders have not determined their policy toward the affidavits, were authorized to withhold action if requests for more time are based on "reasonable grounds."

Some 5,000 cases involving union grievances, requests for collective bargaining elections, etc., are pending. Yesterday's action had the effect of saving the bulk of these cases from dismissal for the time being.

The CIO said nothing about the action, but AFL officials told reporters they are pleased by it, "if in the meantime the board reverses the Denham ruling and reverses it."

Denham has interpreted the Taft-Hartley act as meaning that all top officers of AFL and CIO must sign the affidavits, else unions affiliated with these organizations will be barred from using the NLRB facilities.

Joseph A. Padway, acting for the AFL teamsters and several other AFL unions, went to the board with a petition asking it to reverse the Denham ruling. He asked the board to rule that under the law only officers of unions would have to sign, not officers of federations of unions.

The postponement gives both the AFL and CIO an opportunity to fight the whole question out on the floor of their conventions. The AFL meets for two weeks in San Francisco, beginning October 6. The CIO meets one week in Boston starting October 13.

UWF Man Info Booth

Information booth for students interested in United World Federalists has been placed in the YMCA room of Iowa Union, Vice-president George McBurney said yesterday.

UWF is a student group devoted to strengthening of the United Nations to attain a federal type of world government, McBurney said.

'Took Dogs to Bed,' Will Is Contested

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Contesting a will leaving $30,000 to two Irish setters, attorney Harold A. Fendler yesterday told superior court that the late Carleton R. Bainbridge took his dogs to the movies, discussed the pictures with them afterwards, and read them bedtime stories.

"One dog liked one type of bedtime story," he added, "and the other preferred an entirely different type," he said.

"It was wholly unnatural and illogical," asserted Fendler, representing Sherman Bainbridge, a brother of Carleton Bainbridge, onetime prominent attorney.

He declared Bainbridge slept in the same bed with the dogs and ate off the same plate with them. He argued the former attorney's mind was deluded as the result of a long illness.
