U. S. Hits Bulgaria's Hanging Of Argarian Party Leader

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The United States accused Bulgaria yesterday of violating "elementary principles of justice and the rights of man" in hanging Nikola Petkov, a leading foe of its Communist-controlled government.

The 54-year-old head of the Argarian party was executed yesterday morning in a Sofia prison on charges that he plotted against Prime Minister Georgei Dimitrov's government.

The State department said in a formal statement that his trial and conviction was a "travesty of justice." It said the trial was only one of "a series of measures undertaken by the Communist-dominated Fatherland Front government to remove from the Bulgarian scene all save a purely nominal opposition and to consolidate, despite its professions to the contrary, a totalitarian form of government."

This denunciation, read to reporters by a State department official, underlined again basic differences repeatedly springing up between the United States and Russia and her satellites over Communist tactics to seize and cement control over central European governments.

There were no immediate signs whether the United States would join Britain in a formal diplomatic protest of Petkov's hanging or in some form of retaliatory measures.

Diplomatic officials here told reporters the two countries could make their anger apparent by continuing to blackball Bulgarian membership in the United Nations, turning on the diplomatic heat at various spots, and appealing under terms of the Bulgarian peace treaty to an international commission against violation of human rights.

In London government informants said Britain, which made 11 unsuccessful attempts to save Petkov's life, would lodge a sharp protest with the Bulgarian government against the execution.

Russia refused to join in British-American efforts on Petkov's behalf on the grounds it would constitute "interference" in Bulgaria's internal affairs.

Man Cries 'Wolf' In Hurricane Belt, Lands in City Jail

WEST PALM BEACH, FLA., (AP)—Willie Gilmore, 57-year-old Negro, was jailed "for safekeeping" early yesterday after reportedly racing through the streets yelling: "Big storm coming . . . 175-mile-an-hour winds."

Negroes poured into the streets in all types of sleeping attire from a half-dozen blocks before police caught up with prankster Gilmore. His victims went back to bed mumbling threats of vengeance, and police took Gilmore to a safe cell for a while.

West Palm Beach was hit last week by 110-mile winds.

Meanwhile, weary Floridians watched with a feeling of relief yesterday the progress of a stubborn tropical storm as it moved slowly out of the Gulf of Mexico.

Chief forecaster Grady Norton said that the storm, with winds in gusts of 60 to 70 miles an hour, was moving slowly northward about eight miles an hour with the center about 60 miles northwest of Tampa.

Three or more tornadoes-offshoots of the storm—took their toll in houses and trees in the Jacksonville, Ocala and Marion county areas but no one was hurt. Norton said tornadoes were common when a tropical storm was around.

The latest tornado hit Jacksonville's south side yesterday, taking off several roofs and uprooting big oak trees in a half-mile path. Telephone and power lines were flattened over a two-mile area.

More Funds From U. S.

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The financial task confronting the United States under the 16-nation proposal for putting western Europe on its feet loomed even greater yesterday. For the world bank made plain that any money it puts into the plan must come from American investors.

This means that virtually all the funds requested by Europe—a total of $22,440,000,000 in a four-year period—must come from the United States if they are provided.

Long Skirts Win; Repair Sidewalks

PITTSBURG, (AP)—City Councilman E. J. Leonard has long urged that something be done about defective sidewalks but nothing happened until he brought up the matter of the new long skirts for women.

The long skirts, coupled with the usual high heels, are going to increase the probability of turned ankles and falls because of broken or crumbling paving, Leonard explained.

The council immediately passed a motion that all property owners be ordered to repair their walks.

Seeks Control Of Speculators

NEW YORK, (AP)—The eastern subcommittee of the joint congressional committee investigating high prices will ask President Truman today to take action to curb speculation on commodity exchanges, the chairman, Sen. Ralph E. Flanders (R-Vt.) announced yesterday.

Testimony yesterday stressed charges that speculation in the exchanges was in large part responsible for recent increased prices of food stuffs.

Taft Asks Nation to Thank Supporters Of Taft-Hartley Act

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Answering the challenge of organized labor, Senator Taft (R-Ohio) asserted last night that every member of congress who voted for the Taft-Hartley act — Democrat and Republican alike — deserves the "gratitude" of the nation.

In a bristling answer to what he characterized as a labor campaign of "propaganda and vituperation," Taft brought his presidential pulse-taking tour to the Pacific Northwest by declaring in a speech prepared for delivery before a Republican audience:

"Every man who voted for the law is entitled to the gratitude of those who wish to maintain a government without special privilege, and with liberty and justice to all."

As originally released to reporters, the statement said the act's backers in congress were entitled to popular "support."

This was amended to "gratitude" because Taft aides said the political implications went beyond Taft's meaning.

The senator, they said, did not feel political support, over and beyond party lines, should hinge on any single issue. Taft himself has repeatedly urged the election of a Republican congress.

In a major address before the combined Republican clubs of King county, Taft recalled the bipartisan majority in congress which over-rode the Presidential veto of the Taft-Hartley act.

"More than half of all the Democratic members of congress voted to override," he said.

"There would have been no such vote if congressmen and senators had not known that their constituents were insisting upon a labor bill."

Soviet Official Missing From Military Zone

Mystery Surrounds Disappearance of Thuringia Premier

FRANKFURT, GERMANY (AP) — A high American source in the United States zone of Germany said last night Dr. Rudolph Paul, missing premier of the Soviet zone state of Thuringia, was in American hands.

"There is no question that Paul is here in the American zone and is being held by certain American authorities," the source said.

The source, who declined to allow publication of his identity, said Paul, who disappeared from the Russian zone Sept. 1 with his wife and an interpreter, was being held in the Frankfurt area.

Despite this statement, army intelligence authorities denied Paul was being held by American forces.

The conflicting statements added to the mystery surrounding Paul who, according to several unconfirmed reports, fled to western Germany after a disagreement with Russian authorities.

Earlier yesterday the French licensed newspaper Kurier said Paul had escaped to a western zone with all his documents, including a projected constitution for a Soviet Socialist republic of east Germany.

The constitution, Kurier said, had been made ready for presentation to German voters of the Russian zone in the event the London foreign ministers council failed in November to iron out differences on the German peace treaty.

Call General Strike For Trieste Today; Accuse Communists

TRIESTE, Free Territory (AP) — Radio Trieste announced that Sindacati Uniti had called a general strike in Trieste yesterday afternoon and the British-American military government promptly declared the action was "the first Communist attempt to hamper the essential life of Trieste and bring discredit" to the week-old free territory.

In order to combat the tactics of the Communist-dominated union, the military government said it would take "all steps necessary to ensure that every man and woman wishing to work will be given the fullest protection."

Sindacati Uniti had called strikes previously in the shipyards and gas works. The latter strike left the city without gas for heating and cooking and brought the number of idle to approximately 5,000.

The military government statement said "It is obvious that agreement is being prevented by certain outside elements who for their own selfish political reasons are attempting to spread the strike."

The statement did not identify the "outside elements," but added: "The Allied military government will take definite action against those present who are found intimidating or threatening peaceful citizens."

Radio Trieste did not elaborate general strike. On what prompted the call for the strike, the U.S. army headquarters in Trieste awaited a reply from the Yugoslavs on the demand for return of an American officer and two enlisted men who the U.S. army said were taken captive by the Yugoslavs yesterday, while on mounted patrol duty on the border.

Taft-Hartley Bill Gets First Test on Union's Challenge

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The office of the general counsel of the national labor relations board issued its first complaint under the Taft-Hartley act yesterday, accusing an International Typographical union local in Baltimore of refusing to bargain with an employer.

The filing of the complaint will put to its first test a policy adopted last month by the ITU, an affiliate of (AFL). Woodruff Randolph, president of the international, instructed delegates to the union convention to sign no more contracts with newspapers or printers.

He said they should issue notices of employment terms. These could say, in effect, that the typesetters would work only in shops employing ITU members exclusively.

If the policy worked, it would get around the ban on closed shops in the Taft-Hartley labor law. A closed shop contract requires an employer to hire only union workers.

The complaint was issued by Ross M. Madden, NLRB regional director. It said that Local 12 and the International Typographical union "have at all times since on or about Aug. 26, 1947, refused and continue to refuse to bargain collectively in good faith with Graphic Arts League acting on behalf of the companies in respect to rates of pay, wages, hours of employment or other conditions of employment of the employees in the unit set forth."

Taft's Hand Crushed

SEATTLE, (AP)— Sen. Robert Taft (R-Ohio) suffered a badly crushed left hand when the driver of his car slammed the door on it in the confusion of a vociferous and tumultuous reception here late yesterday.

Morris Plummer, member of the reception committee, said the accident occurred after something was tossed at the car. Plummer said it was "an egg or a tomato or something."

GOP Expects Demo Support

CHICAGO (AP)—Rep. Joseph W. Martin (R-Mass.), yesterday asserted that "thousands of Democrats" would assist in the election of a Republican president in 1948. Addressing the Illinois Congressional delegation at the beginning of a speaking tour that will carry him to the West Coast and back to Rockford, Ill., by Oct. 21, Martin asserted that Republican party workers would receive Democratic assistance during the 1948 campaign.

"One high Democrat—you'd be surprised if I told you his name—told me it is high time the nation changed administrations," Martin said. "The augen stables need cleaning, and you will find thousands of loyal democrats — men who have never voted the Republican ticket in their lives—voting the Republican ticket in 1948."

Martin disclaimed presidential ambitions for himself at an informal news conference preceding the meeting. He said: "I am not a candidate and I have no intentions of becoming one. I have the job I want"—speaker of the house of representatives.

He said "nothing in my knowledge" led him to believe a special session of congress is necessary at the present time. There have been reports that President Truman might summon a special session to deal with European affairs or with the domestic price situation, including a possible return of food rationing.

Arabs Fight UN Palestine Plan

NEW YORK (AP) — The Arab countries yesterday threatened counter-measures against the United States, and Syria predicted a complete rupture of relations with any members that support the plan before the United Nations assembly for partition of Palestine.

The middle east bloc said the Arab world would "take all necessary measures to oppose the United States both inside and outside the United Nations" if Secretary of State Marshall supports the plan for Arab-Jewish partition.

Syrian Chief Delegate Faris El Khoury said the Arab countries would "break off all relations" with members supporting partition.

He also said "money, men and arms" would be thrown into the battle to have a free Palestine with its present Arab population majority kept intact.

These threats and maneuvers—all made off the assembly floor—came as warnings that the Arab bloc had decided finally on the line to be taken in opposition to Zionist aims in the long committee debates beginning today at Lake Success.

The Arab group formed a six-man committee including the heads of the five delegations (Syria, Lebanon, Egypt, Iraq, Saudi Arabia) to call on Secretary Marshall personally to reverse what they deemed to be American support of the partition plan. The sixth member of the group is Jamal Hussein, deputy chairman of the Arab higher committee for Palestine.

UN Majorities Balk Russia

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavy United Nations majorities steam-rollered Russian opposition yesterday and approved American proposals to deal with the Greek and Korean crises and consider creation of a new veto-free security agency.

Over the persistent objection of Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky, the 55-nation assembly also approved an American-supported Argentine proposal that it debate and suggest revision of the new Italian peace treaty. This issue brought a split among the western powers as well as between them and Russia.

The six votes of the Slav bloc held solid in the minority throughout on all east-west issues. Russia and the United States showed upon the same side of the voting on only one issue—creation of a special 55-nation committee on Palestine—and on this the Arab bloc was an adamant minority in opposition.

The air of contest and bitter controversy which marked the assembly's week-long general debate prevailed throughout the voting on 61-item agenda. Finally this was adopted without change from the form in which it had been submitted to the assembly by the 14-nation steering committee.

As the debate closed and discussion of the agenda opened, Secretary General Trygve Lie made an impassioned plea for harmony and compromise among the battling great powers. He was applauded unanimously but otherwise got no immediate observable result.

Vishinsky ignored the appeal. Immediately afterward he began a point-by-point attack on Ameri-

National Radio Net Offered To Senators

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Democratic National Committee said yesterday Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) is willing to debate with Senator Taft (R-Ohio) the question of who is "to blame for high prices."

In a statement, the committee said Taft made a "vague campaign speech offer" to debate and that O'Mahoney has accepted a Mutual Broadcasting system proposal for a Taft-O'Mahoney debate on the subject over a national radio hookup.

Taft, now on a tour of western states, and O'Mahoney have been exchanging words at long distance.

In a recent joint statement with Senator Lucas (D-Ill.), O'Mahoney asserted that Taft led the fight in the 79th Congress to "wreck" price controls. Taft retorted in a statement last night that Democrats controlled the 79th congress, that he "cooperated in passing a reasonable OPA bill," but President Truman vetoed it and removed all controls after a second bill was passed.

He asked whether Lucas and O'Mahoney "desire to reestablish OPA" and suggested they "state their solution for high prices instead of calling names."

Senator Connally (D-Tex) edged into the long-range debate yesterday by telling reporters that Taft seeks to blame high prices on the Truman administration and thus "hold out hopes to the public that election of a Republican president would be to their interest."

He added: "The Republicans now are in control of both houses of congress and have been since Jan. 3, 1947. What has that party done to prevent high prices?"

UCLA Ticket Sellers Plan For Capacity

The one big question that is circulating through the state of Iowa is, "What are the Hawks' chances?" And another question that is reverberating throughout the nation is, "Who's going to win the Iowa-UCLA game?"

Friday night, Sept. 26th, is the date set to determine these questions and millions of rabid football fans around the nation will drop their cares for a couple of hours and tune their radios into the ABC nationwide hook-up for the play-by-play broadcast. And about 102,000 other fans will gather in the Los Angeles coliseum to witness the spectacle themselves.

"big wigs" went through its first treatment in the Rose Bowl game. Since the thumping that UCLA took in that same Rose Bowl game at the hands of Illinois, 45-14, questions have come and gone but all centered on the same subject, "Was there that much difference between the two conferences?"

And so, with all these questions in mind and knowing that they will play a big part in answering them, Iowa's Coach Dr. Eddie Anderson, three assistant coaches, 36 football players, and a party of Iowa officials, news and radiomen will arrive in Pasadena at 8:12 this morning.

Tonight they will get their first workout of the season under the light. Tomorrow night they will work under the same procedure at the Coliseum and then rent Friday in preparation for the game.

And when kickoff time comes around our Hawkeyes will face an experienced team—a team that has been favored to beat them. Coach Bert LaBrucherie of UCLA will send a first string line onto the field which will average a little better than 210-pounds per man. This compares with 198 for the Hawks. The Bruin backs will average 190, six pounds better than Iowa. Although the Uclan linemen scale 12-pounds per man on the Hawks, that 12-pounds will not mean two much when the actual football game gets under way. The Iowa line is rated as one of the best in the land.

In the backfield, Iowa will have to depend a lot on the southpaw passing of Quarterback Lou King, who showed that he is a much sharper performer in this department in the opener against North Dakota State, than he was last year. King will be battling against UCLA's Quarterback Bennie Rieges, an untested signal caller but very highly-rated.

Rieges has been pushed hard in practice by Carl Benton, who showed up well early in the season last year until an injury sidelined him for the majority of the games. Noted for his passing, Benton stands 6:1 and weighs 185. He may draw the starting assignment.

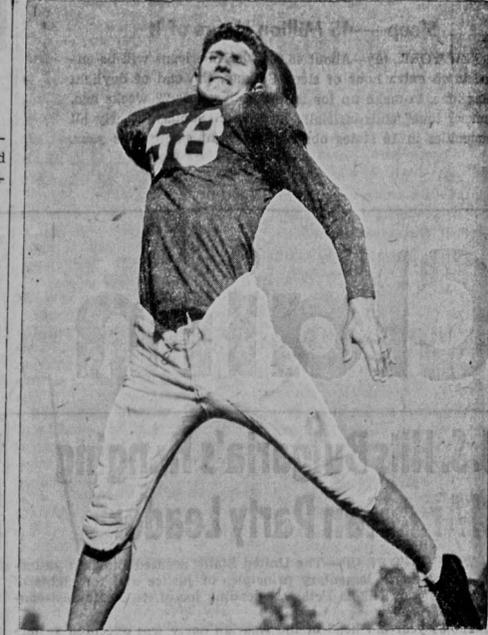

Other top ball players in LaBrucherie's clan—which includes eight starters from the Rose Bowl game—are Center Don Paul, an all-American candidate at 225-pounds; End Tom Fears, another all-American possibility at 220-pounds; Cal Rossi, halfback, and Jerry Shipkey, 215-pounds fullback.

Another star performer—remembered mainly because of his 103-yard touchdown gallop against the Illini in the Bowl game—is Al Hoisch. Although he may not start, the 145-pound speedster will probably see a lot of action, his chief use being to spread the defense while the other pile-driving backs are hitting the line.

Apparently the UCLA management is expecting a capacity crowd in the vicinity of 102,000. The UCLA ticket men informed Iowa ticket sellers the other day that they can urgently use any left-over duats.

Station KRNT plans to start their broadcast of the game at 10:15 p.m. Iowa time. Other stations hooking into the same broadcast are WNAX, KMA, KXEL, KBUR-FM and KSWI-FM.

BENNIE RIEGES, UCLA quarterback now that Ernie Case is gone, will play a big part in the Bruin attack. Rieges, a 195-pounder, throws his passes out of the T-formation. (UCLA photo by Stan Troutman)

Intramural Program, Fall Tennis to Start

Full Scale Plan Set-Up By Beebee

With the organization meeting of the interfraternity council league yesterday, plans for men's intramural sports for the 1947-48 school year got under way.

Despite the lack of outdoor facilities because of temporary barracks construction on playing fields, a full schedule is being arranged. Present plans call for about 73 teams participating in 23 different sports. In the past, 65 percent of the male student enrollment has participated in intramurals.

Schedules in touch football, tennis and golf are being arranged for the outdoor season this fall. Although all-university champions are selected in indoor sports, the weather usually interferes before such a selection can be made in those events held outdoors.

Dr. Frederick S. Beebee, director of men's intramural sports, has announced that practice fields will be available for all teams. Squads desiring use of the fields may arrange times by calling the intramural office.

Dr. Beebee has arranged the following schedules for further organization meetings:

- Professional fraternity leagues ... Thursday, Sept. 25, 4 p.m.
- Quadrangle ... Monday, Sept. 29, 4 p.m.
- Hillcrest ... Tuesday, Sept. 30, 4 p.m.
- South Quad-Law Commons ... Tuesday, Sept. 30, 7:30 p.m.
- Married student's league ... Wednesday, Oct. 1, 4 p.m.
- Town league ... Wednesday, Oct. 1, 7:30 p.m.

All of these meetings, with the exception of the Town league, will be held in room N-3 of the fieldhouse. The meeting to organize the Town league will be held in room 221-A of Schaeffer hall.

In these meetings schedules will be arranged and all necessary rules will be established. In addition, a committee to review eligibility and protests will be selected at the meetings. All controversies will be settled by this committee, composed of three regular members and two alternates. The seven leagues are set up so that men participate in intramurals according to the area in which they live or organizations to which they belong.

Dave Day, Hawkeye Guard, Quits Squad For More Study Time

Dave Day, guard and letter winner on last year's Hawkeye football team, was the fifth member of this year's squad to turn in his grid togs. Day turned in his uniform Monday afternoon.

The 200-pound lineman from Brighton, Ia., won two letters at the University of Minnesota previous to winning a major "I" here at Iowa last fall. This was to have been his last season of collegiate football.

Day, who saw plenty of action in last Saturday's opening encounter against North Dakota State, said yesterday that scholastic difficulty was the main reason for quitting the squad.

He is interested in market analysis in the commercial engineering field and expects to receive his M. A. degree at the end of this semester. Day said that football was taking up too much of his time and that he needed the time to put in on his thesis.

Bums Slap Giants

BROOKLYN, (AP)—Brooklyn celebrated its newly-claimed National league championship before the home folks yesterday, clubbing the New York Giants, 6-1, on Jackie Robinson day. St. Louis had eliminated itself from any mathematical chance Monday night by bowing to Chicago.

With the pressure off, the Dodgers had little trouble snapping their three-game losing streak.

Hot Off The Gridiron

Hoosier First String Shapes up for Huskers

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—Indiana's probable starting lineup against Nebraska at Lincoln Saturday was shaping up yesterday as the Hoosiers polished their offense for the Huskers.

Notre Dame

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—George Connor, captain and left tackle of Notre Dame's football team, will be out of action for several days because of an ankle sprain suffered in Saturday's intrasquad game, it was disclosed yesterday.

Illinois

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Walt "Slip" Kersulis, 6 foot 4 inch end, was promoted to the second team and starred as a pass-catcher as the University of Illinois held a final scrimmage yesterday for its game against Pittsburgh.

Bob Prymski, tackle, and Jimmy Evans, halfback, continued with the first string, replacing Lou Agase and Paul Patterson, who are injured.

Fesler Works on Defense Against Missouri Plays

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Intensified defensive work against Missouri plays was planned for today by Coach Wes Fesler for his Ohio State university Buckeyes after yesterday's scrimmage in which he felt the fourth string was too successful with the Missouri offense.

The Buckeye mentor, however, was satisfied with the appearance of his own first string on the offensive and completed his starting line-up by giving the nod to Fullback Joe Whisler.

Ollie Cline who powered the OSU backfield for two seasons will see plenty of action and carry much of the fullbacking load this season, Fesler said.

Wisconsin

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Jack Wink, 25-year-old veteran quarterback from Milwaukee, was named game captain of the University of Wisconsin football team yesterday for the Badgers' Big Nine conference opener against Purdue here Saturday.

Coach Harry Stuhldreher advanced Guards Ray George of Madison and Don Knauft, Freeport, Ill., from the second to the first team at the end of the second consecutive day of stiff drills on pass defense and offense.

Team physician Dr. John Bentley said Dan Orlich, sophomore halfbacks from East Chicago, Ind., would be out of action for another week to ten days as the result of a kidney injury.

Coach Klotz Plans to Halt Tennis Slump

Iowa's new tennis coach, Don Klotz, will greet some 24 netsters, including three lettermen, with the opening of fall practice next Monday.

Coach Klotz has announced that he is starting a long range program designed to snap the slump which has been plaguing the university tennis team. He urges that anyone interested in either varsity or freshman tennis report at the fieldhouse anytime Monday.

Lettermen William T. Metz of Burlington, Ralph S. Brown of Dubuque and Sidney D. Newnam of Columbus Junction are expected to form the nucleus of the varsity squad. Numeral winners from last year's squad expected to report are Paul Hasbrouck of Grundy Center and William B. Crain of Iowa City.

Don Lewis of Fort Madison, last year's high school singles champion is listed with the promising freshmen expected to report.

No matches have been scheduled for the fall but the Hawkeye coach expects to book some with the Cedar Rapids tennis club, Iowa City netsters and possibly with Coe and Grinnell colleges. Big Nine and varsity spring schedules will be arranged in December.

Halbert, Norman Miss Cyclone Drill

AMES, IA. (AP)—Divided into four groups, Iowa State's football squad romped through light practice for three hours yesterday—a group in each corner of the field.

Two regulars absent from yesterday's practice were Webb Halbert, ace Cyclone ball carrier, and Ron Norman, veteran quarterback.

Halbert was on the sidelines with a leg injury suffered in Saturday's game with Iowa State teachers and Norman took the day off after being up most of last night prior to the birth of a son at 7 a. m. this morning.

Yanks, Bums Set Records

NEW YORK (AP)—The world series won't start until 1:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Sept. 30, in New York's Yankee stadium but already a flock of unofficial records have been established.

It is the first time that both contestants—in this case, the Yankees and the Brooklyn Dodgers—have backed into the series.

The Yanks clinched their American league pennant on Sept. 15 while rained out—they sat in their locker room as the Chicago White Sox trounced the Red Sox, eliminating the Boston club from the race.

Tuesday night the idle Dodgers became National league champions as the Chicago Cubs stopped the St. Louis Cardinals.

The schedule, which had the Cardinals and Cubs playing a night contest, made the Dodgers, the first pennant winner to be crowned at midnight.

The series also is the first since 1919 in which a pair of freshman managers will oppose each other. Stanley (Bucky) Harris was drafted from the Yank business office to direct the field play of the team last winter. Burt Shotton was drafted from his Florida front porch by Branch Rickey at the start of the season to direct the Dodgers after Commissioner A. B. Chandler had suspended Leo Durocher, erstwhile Brooklyn boss.

It is the first series in which a Negro, the Dodgers' Jackie Robinson, will participate.

And it also is the first series since 1940 that is scheduled for seven consecutive days without a break for either traveling or ticket selling. The subway series, with the two parks separated only by the price of a nickel, made travel dates unnecessary. Chandler's permission for the Yankees to sell their tickets in four-game blocks rather than three-game strips eliminated the ticket selling vacation. The Yankee pasteboards—if you already have them—will get you into the first second, sixth and seventh games. The Dodgers will be host in the third, fourth and fifth.

THE BUMS GO MUSICAL. Jubilant Brooklyn Dodgers gather around the piano at Ebbets field yesterday in their impromptu celebration over the clinching of the pennant. Playing the piano for the musically inclined team is Catcher Bobby Bragan. Seated on end of stool in foreground with a broad grin is Manager Burt Shotton.

And it probably is the first series for which one club is returning $3,000,000 in cash to its followers. The Brooklyn officials estimate that the mailed requests for series tickets exceeded the supply by that amount.

Yanks Can Win With DiMag

NEW YORK (AP)—The professional odds-makers who have established the Yankees rather heavy favorites to beat the Dodgers in the coming subway series simply are betting that Joe DiMaggio will, over a span of games, tan the hide off Brooklyn's youthful pitching staff.

That must account for it, because otherwise the two league champions look much too evenly matched in every department of play to justify such generosity on the part of the commissioners, or bookies. Throw "The Clipper" out of there and it would be most difficult to split the two teams, man for man. If the tall, solemn Joe had not recovered from an injured heel well after the season began, it is doubtful the Yankees would have finished better than third or fourth. Baseball men generally agree he has been the most valuable player in the American League, rivaled only by his relief-pitching teammate, Joe Page.

A direct comparison of the outfields of the World Series rivals is somewhat difficult to undertake. If DiMaggio hits as he can, and his superb fielding skill needs to be utilized at a crucial point or two, then the Yankees not only will have a greater outfield than the Dodgers, but they likely will win the series.

Yanks Win Two
 75—NEW YORK (AP)—New York Yankee world series stock soared yesterday as Allie Reynolds and Frank Shea turned in a pair of brilliant pitching jobs in a double win over the Washington Senators, 2-0 and 3-1.

Herman's Status Still in Doubt

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The surgeons began probing the Pittsburgh Pirate ill's yesterday but temporarily kept mum on whether amputation of Manager Bill Herman from the payroll will be deemed necessary to effect a cure.

The men who must decide to wield the knife or give Herman a chance to finish his two-year contract are the Bucco owner, gathered here for a week-long diagnosis. They already have spent more than a million dollars in an unsuccessful effort to improve the standing of the seventh-place club they took over last year.

Club President Frank E. McKinney said:

"There's no indication of Herman's status being in jeopardy until a full examination of the causes for the club's poor showing is made. Then, wherever the chips fall, there's where they will lie."

He reiterated his recent announcement that he was "bitterly disappointed" in the Bucco's seventh place position but added:

"We didn't expect a pennant winner or a first division club this year. We served warning (to the public) that it would require three or four years to rebuild. You can't build a ball club overnight."

Tigers Recapture Second Place, 4-1

CHICAGO (AP)—Hal Newhouser used his sixteenth win of the season to pitch the Detroit Tigers back into undisputed possession of second place in American league standings with a 4 to 1 triumph over the Chicago White Sox before 942 chilled cash customers yesterday.

Newhouser allowed 10 singles but did not give up a run until the ninth. Eddie Lopat, duelling Newhouser for top honors among left handed pitchers in the junior circuit, was the loser although he gave up one less hit. Lopat's mark is now 15 won, 13 lost. Newhouser has 17 losses.

Detroit tagged Lopat for two runs in the second then two more in the eighth.

'Chattin' with Chad

By CHAD BROOKS

In recent weeks we've stuck our young and tender necks out so far that the chopping off process is not only simple but well nigh inevitable. Anybody that thinks he can pick the order of finish in a conference of the Big Nine caliber is plain foolish.

But we still aren't satisfied. If picking champions and positions of finish is difficult, choosing an all-conference team in this star-studded league should be completely out of the question. So we'll prove once again that we're the biggest sucker alive and try to do just that.

Left end is simple. Len Ford, Michigan's 205-pounder is a shoo-in. Ford was a star on offense last year . . . packs power on the Michigan end-around plays . . . can pass 'em or grab 'em.

Left tackle, we'll stick to another Wolverine, Captain Bruce Hilkene. A returning ace for Fritz Crisler, the 190-pound Hilkene is the top man on a great Michigan line.

Left guard we'll award to Indiana captain, Howard Brown. Weighing in at 205, Brown went from the army to a regular berth in one week's time on the championship 1945 Hoosiers and has been a stand-out ever since.

The center job will go to Iowa's rugged Dick Woodard. This powerful 200-pounder was the best line backer in the conference a year ago, but saw very little action because of an injured shoulder. Shoulder healed—Woodard terrific.

Right guard, Minnesota's Chuck Dellago. Fast at 220 pounds, Dellago is the best of the mighty Gopher forwards. Out all last year with a broken leg. Should be very much "in" things this fall.

Right tackle, we'll go back to Indiana again and 225-pounder John Goldsberry. Enough to say that this speedy giant is probably the best lineman in the conference.

Right end is a difficult choice. The league is loaded with good men. We'll pick Purdue's 200-pounder Clyde Grimenstein and hope that a damaged leg holds up all season. Offensive star of the 1945 Army juggernaut, Grimenstein could be an All-American if the legs last.

Quarterback is a snap—Bob DeMoss of Purdue. One of the greatest passers in conference history . . . among the nation's best for the past two years . . . Has completed 115 of 230 tosses over two year period for 50 percent and 1,587 yards . . . led the league in yardage gained passing last fall.

Left halfback is Michigan's Bob Chappuis. Set an all-time record for yardage gained from scrimmage a year ago. A terrific runner and sensational passer. Is a sure All-American for '47.

Right halfback will be the Illinois captain, Art Dufelmeier. An amazing broken field runner with fair power and good speed . . . handicapped last fall by series of injuries . . . was outstanding when in lineup.

At fullback is the pride and joy of football happy Ohio State, the young giant Ollie Cline. An exceptionally fast 205-pounder who can run over or around 'em . . . was second string All-American in '45 . . . in the service last fall . . . All-American cinch this year.

Centennial Theme To Rule For Homecoming Celebration

Dome of Old Capitol To Be Featured on 1947 Game Badges

Plans for the 1947 University of Iowa centennial year Homecoming celebration are now underway, according to Prof. Louis Zopf, general chairman.

"The theme of the homecoming this year will be the centennial year," he said. "The homecoming badges will be a replica of the University centennial design picturing the dome of Old Capitol."

Musical festivities will be under the direction of Prof. C. B. Righter who has promised several "spectacular and colorful" stunts for the homecoming Iowa-Indiana football game Oct. 11. The band will also perform at the traditional pep rally now being organized by the student council under the direction of Dr. William D. Coder.

Part of the homecoming celebrations, Professor Zopf declared, will include the Dolphin swim show which will run for three performances on Friday, Oct. 10 at 8 p.m. and Saturday, Oct. 11 at 7 and 9 p.m. The title of the show is "Holiday in Paris."

Professor Zopf urges all dormitory and "Greek" houses to decorate for the occasion. Appropriate prizes will be awarded to the winning dormitory or house.

In keeping with past homecomings, the traditional corn monument will be erected on the corner of Clinton street and Iowa avenue.

A contest to select the design of this year's corn monument is now open. H. E. Jaekel, president of the Associated Students of Engineering, announced yesterday.

The person who submits the winning design will receive a $10 prize, Jaekel said. All entries should be left in the office in the Engineering building.

The A.S. of E., who will select the winning design and erect the monument, suggested a centennial theme for the annual homecoming edifice.

Anyone connected with the university may submit a design for the corn covered structure, Jaekel added. It will be erected by Oct. 9, the Thursday before homecoming.

Traditionally the monument is burned if the Iowa football team is victorious.

Federalists To Meet

The university chapter of United World Federalists will hold its first meeting of the semester Thursday, Sept. 25, at 8 p. m. in the Y. M. C. A. conference room of Iowa Union.

The club will formulate plans for the year and extends an open invitation to anyone interested in world federation to attend.

Register Saturday For Pre-Med Tests

Professional aptitude tests for applicants to the 1948 freshman class in colleges of medicine will be given on a nation-wide basis October 25, by the Association of American Medical Colleges.

Eligible candidates must register in room 114, University hall, before noon Saturday, September 27, according to Robert Ebel of the university examination service.

This test is a series of examinations designed to measure the nature and extent of a candidate's ability and knowledge in comparison with other candidates for the study of medicine. Ebel explained that results are intended to supplement the candidate's college record with an objective inventory of his mental resources.

The professional aptitude test will be given again February 2, 1948.

Seek Student Council Action On Affiliation With National Group

The question of whether or not to affiliate the university with the United States National Student association will be the first major issue to confront the Student council when it meets next Tuesday.

At that time Al Trick, A4, and Virginia Anderson, A4, student council members and SUI delegates to the NSA constitutional convention held in Madison, Wis., late last summer, plan to ask the council to conduct an open meeting of students and faculty members to discuss the question of affiliation and ratification of the NSA constitution.

Trick said yesterday that the purpose of the organization was to eliminate isolation on the American campus by providing for cooperation and interchange of ideas on a national scale.

Some 750 delegates, representing 1,100,000 American students, attended the Madison convention and evolved a constitution. They decided:

1. To avoid partisan politics.
2. To refuse voting or advisory rights to existing national student groups such as Student Federalists or American Youth for Democracy, etc.
3. To permit southern students to work for the elimination of educational Jim Crowism without directly flaunting state laws.
4. To negotiate affiliation with the International Union of Students to provide for international cultural and student exchange.

In order for SUI to become a member of NSA, the constitution must be ratified either by the student council or by the student body as a whole. The student council is to decide the procedure.

If the university decides to affiliate, it will be assessed according to student population to help meet the estimated $32,000 operating expenses for this year.

"That would come to about three cents for each student on the campus," Trick said.

In urging student support for affiliation, Miss Anderson said, "I have no doubt that university students will realize their responsibility in making NSA an important voice for democratic education. NSA opens a new phase in the student life of this country and the world."

New Film Council Meets in Chicago

Dean Bruce E. Mahan of the extension division and Lee Cochran, executive assistant in the extension division, are in Chicago to attend a meeting today of the board of directors and state chairmen of the Film Council of America.

The council was formed last summer to promote the use of documentary and educational films by various public groups, such as the Parent-Teachers association and church groups.

The council plans, during the current meeting, to extend and augment the more than 50 councils that are now active in the United States.

In Iowa there are film councils in Cedar Rapids, Davenport and Des Moines. The local film councils are composed of the presidents of the various groups which are interested in documentary films.

Dean Mahan is a member of the executive committee of the board of trustees of the council, and Cochran is the state chairman of the local council committee.

Mahan and Cochran plan to return to Iowa City this evening.

Check Cars in Iowa City Traffic Survey

LINED UP FOR A TRAFFIC CHECK are these motorists near City park bridge. Yesterday was the first day of the eight-day traffic survey by the state highway commission to determine the flow of traffic in Iowa City for the purpose of preparing a report on Iowa City's traffic problem. The interviewers, university students, ask the motorists four questions in the 30 second interview: (1) place of origin of trip, (2) destination, (3) address of vehicle registration and (4) purpose of trip. The survey, which is under the direction of Carl Schach, assistant traffic engineer for the highway commission, will end 10 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 2.

British Ambassador Heading for America

LONDON (P) — The U.S. Embassy announced yesterday that ambassador Lewis W. Douglas was preparing to return to Washington, close on the heels of a "kings messenger" bearing the Marshall plan conference report, for discussions on aid to Britain and Europe.

Douglas will sail Friday with William L. Clayton, undersecretary of state for economic affairs, who has been a key figure in Geneva trade negotiations and liaison talks with the Marshall plan conference committee in Paris.

The ambassador's trip raised speculation here as to its possible significance in connection with some sort of stopgap American aid for Britain pending long-range help such as the Marshall plan.

Hold Vets' Jubilee In Council Bluffs

German Seeks Relatives in Iowa City

"Herrn Burgermeister Jova City, U. S. A."

This is how a card from Germany was addressed to Mayor Preston Koser which was received last Saturday.

The card was written in German and had to be translated.

Gerry Schroeder in the university's German department, made the following translation:

Wilhelm Krusche Goslar, Hoher Weg 19 29 August 1947

"Relatives used to live in your town to whom I would like to turn at this time, if they are still alive. My uncle David Mueller, deceased for quite some time now, (whose wife was a sister of my father Daniel Krusche) informed me that he had a brother living there (Iowa City), who owned a quarry and several daughters, who have probably become the owners by now.

"I would be very much obliged to you, if you would guide this card into their hands. My wife and I used to live in Bunzlau (Silesia, now under Polish administration) and have been evacuated after eight month of misery and lament and loss of all our belongings to place, where we have now a small living room at the above mentioned address and must feed ourselves, without income, miserably on a small dole.

"We have no clothing, shoes and linen etc., and although at one time we lived well, as employees of a pottery concern, we have now become beggars. We have never belonged to the NSDAP (Nazi Party) and are orthodox Lutherans. My wife is 52 years old. I am 19. We are 1.74 and 1.72 meters tall, my shoe size 44; that of my wife 41. For myself we urgently need a raincoat, and warm wintercoat, hat, size 56, or a cap, shirts and shoes. For my wife, who is anemic, we need warm underwear, scarves, winter-hat or a woolcap, stockings and socks, raincoat and shoes. We would also very much welcome a CARE package with food, which we miss very badly. We can also give further information concerning our relatives. We hope that our card will reach its destination.

(Signed) Wilhelm Krusche and wife."

Canada Names Goldwin Smith To UN Group

Goldwin Smith, formerly associate professor of English history here, has been appointed special consultant to the Canadian delegation to the United Nations now meeting in Lake Success, N. Y., it was learned yesterday.

Smith is at present a professor of English history at Wayne university, Detroit. Word of his appointment was received here by friends.

He came here in 1938 as an instructor of English history and was granted a leave of absence in 1941 when he entered the diplomatic service in Ottawa, Canada.

He was senior consultant for the national selective service in Ottawa for a year. From 1942 until 1945 he served in Ottawa as special assistant to the secretary of state for external affairs.

Returning to the university here in 1945, he taught English history until his resignation from the department on June 2 of this year.

Professor Smith's degrees are a B.A. from the University of Western Ontario, 1933; M.A. from the University of Toronto, 1934; and Ph.D. from Cornell university, Ithaca, N. Y., 1937.

He was an instructor in history at the University of Missouri after his final degree and the following year he came to Iowa.

He is the author of "The Treaty of Washington—1871", a study in imperial history published in 1947. In addition to his book, Professor Smith has written about 20 articles in various journals on history and philosophy.

The average human being takes into his body about 250 gallons of water every year.

Marshall Plan: Four Steps for the U. S.

Submission of the report of the European nations asking for help under the Marshall plan means that a special session of congress is more than ever a matter of urgent importance.

A Europe facing its ninth winter under the privation of war and its aftermath is not likely to hold much courage if the U. S. delays in fulfilling its part of the Marshall plan.

Much study and detailed analysis of the 16 nations' report will be necessary. That will take time. Each month of delay reduces the effectiveness of our proposal.

Even if the request were granted today it is doubtful if much help could actually alleviate the conditions certain to exist this winter. But the sooner our decision is made, the more hope will be held out to those nations where winter brings with it the threat of economic collapse.

Under Secretary of State Robert A. Lovett has candidly stated that a special session may have to be called to authorize "stop-gap" credits. This constituted the first official recognition of the economic plight facing western Europe.

There has been a tendency on the part of the administration, from President Truman down, to give the impression that no action on our part beyond study of ways and means would be required until congress meets for its regular session in January.

Yet at the same time there has been a persistent view of a different nature expressed by administration officials. That has been the tendency to view events in Europe as a "crisis."

The administration has been slow to point out that what we face in Europe is not a temporary crisis, but the painful, long-run readjustment of an entire continent to new conditions. This readjustment will require not only emergency congressional appropriations, but a far-reaching reconsideration of our own position in the world economy.

Europe's plight is due to a wide range of causes, some deeply rooted in history, some directly due to two world wars and a major depression. In the nineteenth century the industrial nations of western Europe, with Britain in the lead, exported manufactured goods and investment capital in payment for the food and raw materials they imported from less developed areas — among which, strange as it may seem in retrospect, was the United States before it forged its first rank as an industrial nation.

World War II left Europe in a state of devastation and impoverishment which is still difficult to imagine. Factories were damaged or destroyed; fields were neglected; tools and machinery became obsolete; stores of precious raw materials were dissipated; transportation was disrupted.

European nations, already weakened by the drain of World War II, suffered grave losses of manpower, skilled and unskilled, and an understandable deterioration of morale resulting from fatigue, malnutrition and the terrors and anxieties of six years of war and German occupation.

Today Europe needs more than ever the food it lacked even in its most fortunate days. But it is no longer producing adequate quantities of manufactured goods to take care of its minimum requirements, let alone for export.

Several European countries were forced to liquidate a part of their overseas investments to pay for war costs. And colonial powers of the markets and raw materials they used to command — for example, in Indonesia and Indo-China.

The European economy, drained by the war and its aftermath, must be replenished but production can be resumed only if Europe can resume imports of essential raw materials, among which the most urgently needed right now is coal.

Europe's plight is often described as a "dollar shortage." This is only partially true. Actually, there is a desperate shortage of goods both in Europe and in the United States.

Even if this country were ready to lower its tariff barriers and purchase everything Europe has to sell, it would not find much to buy under present conditions of European underproduction.

Similarly, even if congress were ready tomorrow to vote the sum suggested by the 16 European nations at Paris, the dollars would be of no effective aid to Europe unless our economy could produce the food, tools, machinery and raw materials required for European reconstruction.

It becomes increasingly clear that the key task both in the United States and Europe is to develop greater productive capacity, both to make good wartime losses and to supply current needs.

To achieve this goal, we shall have to consider several lines of approach. First, as indicated by Lovett, we must be willing to advance to Europe credits during the initial period of recovery — but credits that can be promptly transformed into goods.

This means increased productive capacity here. Some industries, notably the steel industry, indicated only last week before a congressional committee that they feared a major depression and hence did not feel it wise to expand production.

Senator Taft, who also has suggested that goods are the primary need of Europe, has been unwilling to go the whole way and stress that more goods necessarily demand greater production. He has been notably uninterested in government charges that at least a dozen major heavy industries have been primarily interested in curtailing production to keep prices high.

Some of the most vocal supporters of the Marshall plan have turned their backs on the increasingly concentrated control of our economy by a few dominant producers. We all know that control by a few corporations in each line ultimately leads to restricted production and artificially high prices.

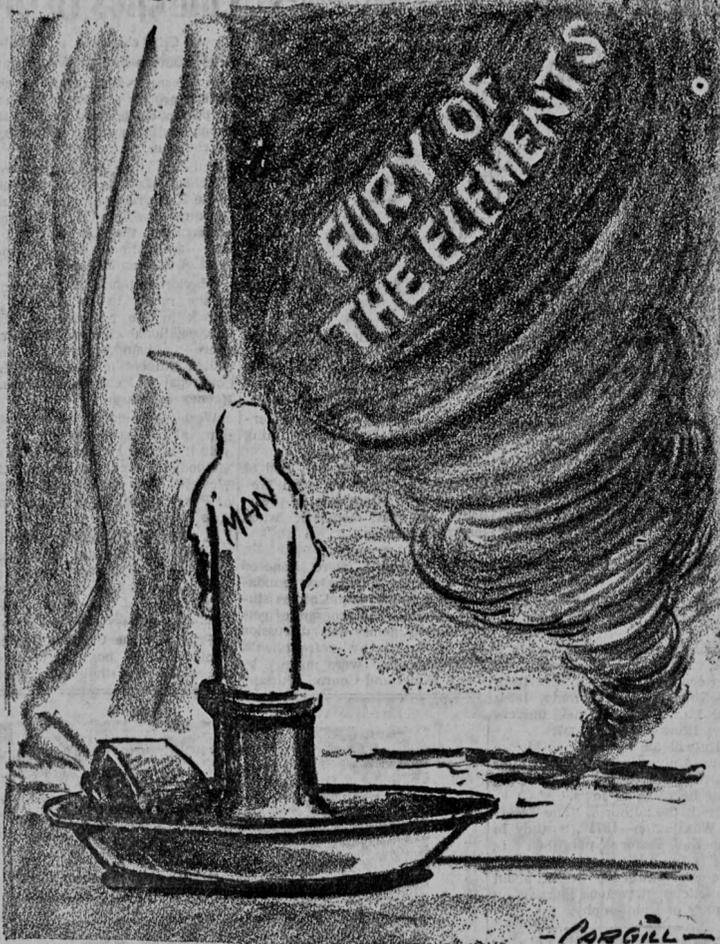

Aid for Europe also means assigning priorities on certain urgently required goods—for example, coal mining machinery—for export to Europe. And it may mean some form of rationing and price controls if "voluntary rationing" should prove inadequate. This would be necessary to prevent prices from spiraling to the point where our own economy becomes chaotic and to make our credits prove worthwhile in the amount of goods they will purchase.

Second, as Europe's industrial production reaches the stage where exports in volume become possible, we must be willing to increase imports from the continent, which means reduction of tariffs on certain goods.

Third, we must be willing to invest large amounts of capital in undeveloped areas, to increase the capacity of these areas to purchase goods not only from us but also from the industrial nations of Europe. This will mean restudy of economic relations not only with former colonial territories now achieving independence, but also with the countries of eastern Europe and the Balkans.

And, finally, we must be willing to face the fact that if Europe is to increase its production, it will have to rid itself of restrictive practices like cartels. We cannot count on industrialists who in the past sponsored such cartels to destroy them. We will have to work with other groups in Europe if we want Europe to produce more—and we should not be frightened off by the labels of these groups. What counts is their ability to increase production.

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT

What Happened to Jim?

By SAMUEL GRAFTON
New York Post Syndicate

When I was fourteen I belonged to a club that lasted for a few weeks.

It had no special purpose, except that we were going to take bicycle trips, and the more cultured brothers wanted to write essays to read to each other. When the hotter members got going on what they could do they made it sound awfully important. We used to become so tentatively silent when any outsider came near us while we were talking about the club, and that was a fine, big feeling. As I say, it lasted a few weeks.

We had a meeting once, in one of the boys' living rooms, and one subject of new members came up. Somebody suggested Jim.

We didn't know many Negroes, but Jim was in our section at high school. He seemed very grown up to us. He was the first in the class to wear long pants.

But it wasn't only the pants. He was always surprising us. He'd turn out one day to have a little roll of money in his pocket, paper money, almost a scary object to us, and we'd learn that he worked after school and supported his family.

Once he told us he could cook, and often did. He stood somewhere between ourselves and our teachers in our minds, and he could stop a fight just by walking over.

Philadelphia isn't a southern city, of course. It looked a little southern in some ways, back then.

It had a lot of those low tin awnings in front of stores. I didn't get to see those again until years later, when I visited some of the lower Mississippi river towns.

I remember when Brody, the grocer, had his tin awning pulled down, and he and the fellow who did it argued for an hour over whether Brody ought to be paid for the value of the tin, or whether the fellow who pulled it down ought to be paid for taking it away.

It was a new problem, and they didn't know just how to handle it. I guess you could have called it a quiet city in a changing world.

Anyway, when this boy suggested Jim, nobody objected. It got quiet for a minute, and we had a scared feeling, and then we had a big, brave feeling. We put it up to Jim next morning.

He had a funny look when we talked to him about it. He listened, in his grave way; he used to listen with his head down a little, the way teachers listen.

"Let's not talk about it ever again," was the first thing he said.

He said it with that funny look; there was a kind of smile in it, and something else, something private. "I can't join your club," he said, and he laughed, and then he gave one of the baldie haircut boys a Dutch rub to change the subject.

Not long ago, I was lying on a beach, and there was a man I knew nearby. He was reading one of the new existentialist novels, lately translated from the French.

He put it down for a minute, and his daughter, twelve, or fourteen, or something, picked it up. It's a pretty rough novel in some ways, and she snatched it from her. "Why can't I read it?" she asked.

"Never mind," he said, hiding the thing behind his back. He looked at her, grinning, a little ashamed, and rather confused.

It was exactly the look Jim had had the day he wouldn't explain to us why he couldn't join our club, and it made me think of him again, and wonder what had happened to him.

Russians, Anglo-Americans Scramble for Iranian Oilfields

By ABUL QASIM DABIR
(Former director of the American division of the Iranian ministry of finance)
Special to The Daily Iowan

TEHERAN—The Russian and Anglo-American scramble for oil will soon come to a head if the bill for formation of a mixed Iran-Russian oil company is placed before Iran's National consultative assembly.

Iran's Prime Minister Ghawam-us-Saltanah promised Russia as far back as April, 1946, to bring this bill before the assembly, which is meeting for the first time in 15 months.

He was urged by Soviet Ambassador Sadechikoff, who has just returned to Teheran from Moscow, not to make any modifications on the bill.

Ghawam, however, insists upon certain changes in these terms which specify that Russia holds a majority of shares for the first 25 years, and Iran for the second 25 years.

In the northern province of Guilan adjacent to the oil fields, Ghawam owns large plantations of rice and tea which he naturally doesn't want to become the scene of communist activities.

Pro-British and American newspapers, and the majority of landed gentry and wealthy class are strongly attacking the bill.

1. Iran will become a convenient starting point for spreading Bolshevism.
2. Northern provinces where the Iran-Russian oil company will operate are the most fertile and populous and therefore likely to absorb most of the laborers and workers now employed in the Iranian oil company. In addition to this, the climate of Khuzistan where the British are now exploiting oil is hot and unhealthy.

3. Once the Russians get a foothold in the northern provinces they will have command of the Persian Gulf as well as oil fields in Iraq. They will have a complete tactical and strategic advantage over western democracies.

4. Russians will be able to compete in Asian and European markets by selling oil at cheaper prices. They can supply oil by overland route to India and China, two of the greatest potential markets.

Some observers remark that by giving better terms, Russia will be able to outbid Britain and America from these markets.

But malcontents deprived of a voice in Iran's government and the poorer people, whom misuse and corruption by the higher classes and officials have made desperate, maintain that if Russians get this oil, they will improve economic conditions. Money from this untapped oil would greatly aid northern provinces.

They contend that the British, fearing wholesale labor migrations to the more favorable northern climate, will try to improve their methods and behavior. At present the Khuzistan province where the oil fields and refineries of the Anglo-Iranian oil company are situated is the most backward region in Iran.

Supporters of Russia's demand claim that the Anglo-Iranian oil company is a government subsidized concern whose administrators are taken from British army and civil service personnel.

Finally, by giving Russia this concession, they believe they can maintain a competitive balance and also keep on friendly terms with them.

There are issues involved in this conflict that are being compromised by the forces of time. Western capitalism has for some years been compromising with Socialist economic theory, and the Russian monopolistic state has been finding that there are uses for individual enterprise.

But there are fundamental differences between what we call democracy and what the Russians call communism. There is, for instance, the issue of whether the state shall derive its power from the people, or whether it shall itself be the sole source of human rights.

Such issues involve an almost religious fervor, and are not negotiable. They must either be withdrawn from international affairs or one side must admit it is wrong.

The United States does not believe it is right for Russia to coerce her neighbors either to de-

Inside Washington

By THE CENTRAL PRESS

WASHINGTON—Despite soaring prices, do not look for any restoration of government price controls. There is virtually no chance that they will come back.

Congressional leaders of both parties are convinced that the American people would never stand for a return of the OPA or anything like it in the peacetime economy. Although a control program might get labor support, the entire business community could be expected to fight it vigorously and effectively.

However, one step against rising prices may be in the form of tightening of export controls. The government may see fit to act in response to the growing protest against sending American goods out of the country in a period of domestic scarcity.

Another, less tangible move may be a step-up in the administration's pleas to business for price reductions. These pleas, begun months ago, have thus far failed to produce any clear cut result.

Incidentally, the Marshall plan for aiding Europe may contribute to even higher prices here at home. Shipments of supplies overseas can be expected to increase demand here, and when demand goes up, so do prices.

Many government economists feel that the world aid program and the domestic price situation are closely united. They say the American consumer is going to pay for European aid through higher prices for almost everything he buys.

MANPOWER SHORTAGE?—Although United States employment already is at the peak level of around 60 million jobs, federal officials are talking about a further climb and the possibility of a manpower shortage next year.

The key to the situation is the Marshall plan. At the present time an estimated five million United States workers are engaged in the direct production of goods for export. But if the country embarks on a broad-scale aid program, such as envisioned by Secretary of State George C. Marshall, federal employment experts believe many more workers will be needed to turn out the materials to be sent abroad.

There will be a slump in employment in export production should the Marshall plan be dropped and exports take a nose dive next year. Exports fell off slightly in June and July but not seriously enough to affect employment.

BACK IN NOVEMBER—The prediction on Capitol Hill is that congress will return to Washington in November to tackle stop-gap aid to Europe.

Some prognosticators say the date will be Nov. 3 or 10. It is anticipated that key committees will be called back several weeks before the session opens to pave the way for the enactment of emergency legislation.

The committees which will probably be called back are those on foreign affairs in the house and senate. By conferring with the administration and holding early hearings, they could have the necessary legislation ready for action when the session gets going.

Give the United Nations a Chance

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
AP Foreign Analyst

Trygve Lie, secretary general of the United Nations, speaks with the voice of people everywhere when he calls on the great powers to give the United Nations a chance, but his hypothesis that fear alone is at the root of the trouble will bear scrutiny.

Big power suspicions, he says, lead to fear and hate; it's the spirit in which issues are approached, not the machinery of the U. N., which is at fault.

But it is the action and policy which produce fear that is really at fault. The first reaction might be to ask Stalin and Truman to get together and see what can be done. That may yet prove to be the best possible try.

But everything would still depend on someone's willingness to sacrifice major national policies.

The idea that fear is based on ignorance, on intangibles which can be brushed aside in frank discussion, is a little too hopeful. Instead, there are matters of definite right and wrong to be adjudicated.

The United States does not believe it is right for Russia to coerce her neighbors either to de-

10,000 Homes for Greece Approved

ATHENS (AP)—The American mission for aid to Greece has approved an $18,000,000 Greek housing program to produce about 10,000 new or reconstructed homes and to provide materials for completion or repair of 7,000 existing dwellings.

AMAG approval took form of a recommendation to the currency committee that $2,000,000 of mission funds be appropriated for the purchase of lumber and other building materials.

The Greek government plans to use approximately $16,000,000 from the sale of consumer goods imported by AMAG to pay labor and other local costs, officials say.

The program is divided into sections dealing with rural and urban housing needs. Rural plans call for the construction of 3,000 new homes and 4,000 rebuilt homes in 140 villages throughout Greece.

In addition, aqueducts and water tanks will be supplied 15 villages, roads leading to several villages will be restored, and building materials will be provided for 5,000 families whose homes need repair, they point out.

The program for urban housing recommends that 600 new homes be built in 10 principal cities and that building materials be provided to complete 2,000 now unfinished urban homes.

Nod Given To Russian GI Trainees

BUCHANAN, MICH. (AP)—The furor over proposed on-the-job training for eight Russians subsidized at the Clark Equipment company yesterday as both the union and the immigration department gave at least temporary approval to the project.

Local 468 of the CIO United Workers called off a scheduled protest strike vote, which had been set for Wednesday.

Reginald Boyle, local president, said the company had assured its 1,800 workers that none would lose their jobs or take a wage cut as a result of the Russians' arrival.

E. E. Adcock, director of the U. S. Immigration Office at Detroit, dispatched observers to the area and reported late yesterday "there is no evidence of any violation of immigration laws."

DES MOINES, (AP)—Plans for the first postwar convention of the Professional Photographers of Iowa were made at the board meeting here yesterday.

The group of 400 commercial and portrait photographers, inactivated during World War II, was reactivated with the election of officers last summer.

The convention will be held here May 9-11. Merit awards will be given photographic exhibits from Iowa and surrounding states. Manufacturers will bring exhibits of modern equipment and professional demonstrations of technical and equipment will be given.

DES MOINES, (AP)—The Polk county board of supervisors yesterday employed Boone County Attorney Paul E. Hellwege as special counsel to assist in the prosecution of suspended supervisor Roy Hild in Boone county.

Hellwege was employed at the request of County Attorney Carroll Switzer, who told board members that Judge Sherwood A. Clock has approved the retention of Hellwege as "local counsel" for the state in the Hild case.

As a result of the sudden illness of Assistant County Attorney Ed S. Thayer, prosecutor of the Polk

Panhandler Hit By Inflation

The price of everything is going up these days, even the demands of pan-handlers.

One middle-aged knight of the road approached a university student near East hall Monday. He began his sales talk in the usual manner, saying he was a veteran of the "Wildcat" division and that people should have sympathy for an ex-soldier. Discharge papers were produced.

"Say, can you let me have some money for a sandwich? I haven't eaten today," he went on.

Fishing in his pockets, the student produced a quarter.

"Say, buddy, can't you make that 30 cents? I have to have 30 cents for a sandwich," the panhandler said as he took the quarter.

He finally shuffled down the street, still muttering that he had to have 30 cents to buy a sandwich these days.

Study Erosion Problem at Lake Macbride

Group Draws Plans For County, State Conservation Efforts

State, county and city authorities met yesterday to study soil erosion problems on the Lake Macbride watershed north of Iowa City.

Commissioners of this soil conservation district are studying a proposal for cooperation with the state conservation commission on the project.

The district commissioners, headed by Kenneth H. Wagner, West Liberty, will draw up plans this month for a final agreement to be signed by the state commission and the Johnson county district.

However, money now available for conservation in the Macbride watershed will serve "only as a beginning," said V. W. Flickinger of the state conservation service. "We shall have to get a plan, specifications, make a start, and then ask for more money," he said.

Of the $77,000 set up by the fifty-first general assembly for erosion control in Iowa, $5,000 was allocated for the Lake Macbride watershed.

Pointing to the need for an expanded erosion control project, Clark Huntley, chairman of the state soil committee decried losses in the June floods.

Lost, he said, were 150 million tons of Iowa top soil, chemically worth a dollar a ton, plus damage to lowland and cities—a total loss of approximately $300 million in six weeks.

Furthermore, added Huntley, Iowa produces 10% of the nation's food, and as her productivity decreases, taxes will increase.

Howard Oak of the local soil conservation office named as "critical" areas at Lake Macbride those closer to the lake. According to C. F. Balloun, farm planner, 2,000 acres located on the south side of the watershed are in the most critical condition from soil erosion.

D. B. Nolan of the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce emphasized that flood control on the Iowa and Des Moines rivers must be tied in with soil conservation practices.

Others participating in the discussion were J. P. Burns, district commissioner; Wes Ashby, state conservation officer; George W. Fonken, soil conservation service; Lawton J. Petrick, secretary of the Izaak Walton league; Wayne E. Putnam, Junior Chamber of Commerce of Iowa City; Ray E. Smalley, county AAA; E. T. Wellberg, farm forester; H. S. Hershey, state geologist; L. C. Crawford, district engineer of the U. S. Geological survey, and A. R. Schrader, assistant secretary of the state soil conservation commission.

Civic Music Group Votes Incorporation

An informal meeting yesterday afternoon in the assembly room of the Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric company ended with signing of articles of incorporation by the Iowa City Civic Music association.

Dan C. Dutcher, president of the association, Mrs. Robert Gibson and Mrs. Dorothy Rankin signed the articles.

A brief discussion as to whether or not the music group should join the American Society of Composers, authors and publishers ended with the decision to wait until after the approaching membership drive was over.

Approximately 1,150 subscriptions will be sold this season for the four concerts to be held in the auditorium of the City high school.

Last year's members will be permitted to re-subscribe during the week of October 6. New members may join the following week. Season tickets will be six dollars for adults and three dollars for high school students for the season.

In charge of publicity for the group this year will be Frank E. Swisher. Mrs. Dorothy Rankin and Mrs. O. B. Limoseth will attend to mailing subscription blanks and concert notices.

Ballroom Association Elects Fort Dodge Man

DES MOINES, (AP)—Larry Geer, Fort Dodge, was elected president of the Midwestern Ballroom Operators association yesterday as the group's convention ended here.

Geer, who has been secretary-treasurer, succeeds Carl Fox, Mason City.

Tom Archer, Des Moines, was re-elected a director for three years, and Verle Sissel, Oelwein, elected for two years.

Quonset Fire Victim In Serious Condition

Two-year-old Linda Schweitzer was in serious condition last night at University hospital after receiving burns on the upper part of her body when her bed caught fire Monday night.

Linda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cletus R. Schweitzer, 124 Quonset Park, was burned when an electric vaporizer, placed in her bedroom, accidentally set her bed afire.

The child was rushed to the hospital in a police car and given blood plasma in preparation for a skin-grafting operation.

The fire was confined to the bed and blankets and did not damage the Quonset hut.

In 1940, the Philippines had a total of 54,764 motor vehicles. After the war, only 12,281 were left.

Council Votes For College Court Addition

Approval of the new College Court addition was given by the city council in its meeting Monday night, following the recommendation of City Attorney Edward Lucas and City Engineer Fred Gartzke.

The 31 home addition will be started within the next 60 days and is being done by Charles Morganstern, realtor, and Hubert Miller, contractor.

Other action by the council included granting permission to Leo E. Duffy to connect his property with the city limits near Highland avenue.

Expenses of $98.95 for Mayor Preston Koser's trip to Washington, D. C., were approved and a six-name petition was heard against the grading and surfacing of "G" street between 5th and 6th avenues.

A representative of the Elgin Street Sweeper company of Elgin, Ill., appeared before the council and showed a group of photographs of a sweep the city may buy.

The sales contract of the company listed the machine under consideration at a cost of $8,740. The contract was referred to the streets and alleys committee.

City Clerk George Dohrer read a letter from the city clerk of Bettendorf, Iowa, requesting the resale price and condition of the city's present street sweeper.

The city council voted to appoint the following election boards for the October 7 special swimming pool bond issue election:

A COACH DOESN'T HAVE TO BE TOUGH

While other coaches were fumbling with the perplexing G. I. problem in football last season, Illinois' obscure Ray Eliot (real name: Nusspickel) hit the jackpot in the Western Conference and in a decisive 45-14 rout in the Rose Bowl. He tries no top-sergeant stuff, yet he ended up as "Coach of the Year." For full details about Ray's sudden and surprising success, be sure to read A Coach Doesn't Have to be Tough, an exciting article in this week's Post...
