New York, N. Y. (AP)—The fourth district municipal court, eastside Manhattan, its docket loaded with eviction cases, received an eviction notice itself Tuesday from the owner of the building, the bailiff reported.

SUI To Further Investigate Extinguishers; Experts Don't Agree on the Better Type

Evidence accumulated yesterday that fire fighting experts are not in agreement on the better type of fire extinguishers for use in married students housing.

Chemists, manufacturers and the National Fire Protection association have argued the relative merits of two popular types of chemical fire extinguishers for many years without arriving at a unanimous decision.

Because the adequacy of the university's protection for barracks and trailers has been questioned, Business Manager Fred Ambrose said yesterday university officials would carry on further investigation to determine the safer type of extinguisher, supplementing their previous investigation at the time the extinguishers were purchased.

The university has furnished all apartment units with carbon tetrachloride extinguishers. Another popular type is the carbon dioxide extinguisher.

Meanwhile information obtained yesterday by The Daily Iowan indicates the carbon tetrachloride type now provided in the barracks is safe if used in accordance with certain precautions.

On the extinguishers is the warning to "extinguish fires promptly and avoid smoke and fumes."

The National Fire code lists the following advice:

"On all fires the stream should be directed at the base of the flames. On flammable liquid fires, best results are obtained when the discharge from the extinguishers is played against the inside of the wall of the container, just above the burning surface, so as to break up the stream near the burning surface—the stream should NOT be directed into the burning liquid.

The operator should walk around the fire while directing the stream, so as to get the maximum coverage during the discharge period.

"In small rooms, closets, or confined spaces, operators should avoid breathing the vapors or gases produced."

While the state fire marshall and the fire chiefs in Iowa City and Des Moines said they favored the carbon dioxide type, and the American Medical society said use of the tetrachloride type is a "dubious practice," other evidence was obtained which disputed their claims.

The National Bureau of Standards told The Daily Iowan by telegram yesterday that a recognized source said: "carbon tetrachloride is more toxic but experience with this type extinguisher appears not to have been unduly bad."

A staff member of the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn stated: "The quantity of phosgene (poisonous gas) formed in extinguishing fires (with tetrachloride) is relatively insignificant."

And a paper by the U. S. bureau of mines states: "Use of the tetrachloride type should not be discouraged . . . it has established an excellent record in the control of incipient fires over many years."

Send 1,500 More Jews To Cyprus

HAIFA, Palestine (AP)—The British navy brought the refugee ship Paducah into this port last night and the 1,500 visaless European Jews aboard were transferred to British vessels to be taken to Cyprus detention camps. The Paducah, renamed the Geula (Hebrew for "Redemption") and the refugee ship Northlands, renamed the Medina Yehudit or Medina Ivrit (Jewish state or Hebrew state), both had been boarded by the navy in Palestine waters.

Authorities said there was no resistance when a naval boarding party took over the Paducah and towed it to Haifa.

They said the Jews aboard the Northlands, numbering about 2,000, also offered no resistance. The Northlands was expected to reach port about dawn today.

Arrival of the vessels in Haifa was expected to add to the tension resulting from a threat by the Holy Land's 1,250,000 Arabs to strike from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m. today to protest the projected partition of Palestine into separate Arab and Jewish states. Such a partition has been advanced by the majority of a special United Nations committee.

Blue Lashes Communist Sympathizers

Gov. Robert D. Blue warned 350 students, faculty members and townspeople last night that those who "ridicule" and "smear" congress in its attempts to root out communism in America are helping to destroy our government.

In a 68-minute speech at Old Capital under the auspices of the Young Republican league, Blue asserted that the American citizen is "illiterate," because "he reads words instead of trends."

"Study the history of Russia" and her infiltration methods, he said. "It is the prologue to what will happen in the future."

He compared the warnings of the "American Legion and other patriotic organizations" that some Americans scoff at with the warnings that Britain and France did not heed about German Fascism before the war.

"You don't have to be a party member to be a Communist," he said. A fellow traveler is often more harmful than a party member, the governor added.

He described current relations between the U.S. and Russia as a "cold war," and emphasized that unless we learned to live with the Russians "the conflict of ideologies" would "blaze into conflict upon the field of battle."

Blue characterized Russia as a political, economic, religious and military "monopoly." The U.S. on the other hand, he said, has a constitution which with its division of powers and bill of rights is a "declaration against monopoly."

Blue analyzed the Russian system as follows:

1. A government that started out fundamentally Marxian socialism, but which is now failing as Social-ist experiments in Iowa within the last 100 years failed.

2. Fundamentally a totalitarian government which does not differ materially from the former Italian, German and Japanese dictatorships.

3. An extremely nationalistic form of government with "an ego it is trying to inflate because it has an inferiority complex."

4. A form of religion which inspires its adherents with a fanaticism that "is hard to believe."

Congressman Thomas E. Martin introduced the governor.

Taft Ends Tour With Slash At Democratic Administration

By JACK BELL CASPER, Wyo. (AP)—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) closed a western speaking tour last night with a slashing attack on what he called "the wavering uncertainty and lack of principle" of the Democratic administration in handling foreign and domestic affairs.

Asserting the state department "has been disorganized and working at cross purposes within itself," the Ohioan said in a prepared address that he cannot "feel confident whether the administration's policy is leading us in the direction of peace or in the direction of war."

In the most vigorous indictment of President Truman's administration he has delivered in a 12,000-mile western swing, Taft asserted:

"In the last analysis, the important domestic policies of the (Democratic) party must meet the approval of the CIO and the advocates of planned economy who look to a bankrupt Europe for their political principles."

Taft said it is "difficult indeed to find a consistent thread running through the action of the state department during the past year."

To Publish Letters of FDR Soon

NEW YORK (AP)—A volume of childhood letters by Franklin D. Roosevelt, "FDR: His Personal Letters," is to be published next month, it was disclosed yesterday.

The letters written by Roosevelt in childhood and youth to his mother vary in subject matter ranging from boyish protestations of affection to a college-time pronouncement that Theodore Roosevelt had erred in interfering in a coal strike.

According to Life magazine, which reprints a selection, Roosevelt's mother preserved every scrap of paper on which her son wrote. Samples:

From Hyde Park at age 6—"I am in a great hurry. I found two birds nests I took one egg we are all well. I am going to the Millie Rogers party and to meet papa. Good bye your loving Franklin."

From Harvard at age 20—"In spite of his (TR's) success in settling the trouble (strike), I think that the president make a serious mistake in interfering—politically at least. His tendency to make the executive power stronger than the house of congress is bound to be a bad thing, especially when a man of weaker personality succeeds him in office."

From Harvard at age 22, after he had previously disclosed plans to marry—"I know what pain I must have caused you and you know I wouldn't do it if I really could have helped . . . I am the happiest man just now in the world; likewise the luckiest — and for you, dear Mummy, you know that nothing can ever change what we have been & always will be to each other—only now you have two children to love and to love you . . ."

"We countenanced Communists in China while we took strong measures in Greece and Turkey. The state department has been disorganized and working at cross-purposes within itself. There has been a general unwillingness to give the people or congress all the facts."

Turning to domestic problems, Taft said "the Democratic party today is bankrupt in ideas and consistent theory. It has been blown back and forth by the exigencies of politics and propaganda."

"If the American people desire a resumption of progress along sound and consistent lines under American principles of liberty and justice, they today can only look to the Republican party," he said.

'Most Reluctantly', Jews Accept Plan To Split Palestine

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y. (AP)—The Jewish Agency for Palestine told the United Nations yesterday that its people were prepared "in sadness and most reluctantly" to accept partition of the Holy Land if that is essential to establish a Jewish national home there.

At the same time the agency warned that such a solution would require "some enforcement" by the United Nations, and called for creation of an international UN authority to supervise division of Palestine between Jews and Arabs during a two-year period.

The Jewish case was presented by Dr. Abba Hillel Silver, chairman of the American section of the executive for the Jewish Agency for Palestine. He appeared before the 57-member special Palestine committee named by the United Nations assembly to find a settlement for the old and violent issue.

Before this same committee Monday an Arab spokesman rejected any settlement by partition. He declared for one "independent and democratic Arab state" in Palestine and said the Arabs would fight for their views.

Fighting words lay close to the surface in Rabbi Silver's speech yesterday also and UN authorities apparently found as between the Jewish and Arab positions no ground for hope of compromise and little ground for any peaceful solution.

"Sincerely and without reservations we bring the offer of peace and friendship," Rabbi Silver said. "If it is met with the same spirit, rich and abundant blessings will rebound to all. If not, we shall be compelled to do what any people must do under such circumstances—defend our rights to the utmost."

There were no full-dress sessions of the assembly.

Billy Meyer to Manage Bucs

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Billy Meyer, one of minor league baseball's most successful pilots, yesterday was named manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates in his first Major league executive job. He received a two-year contract at the highest salary ever paid a Bucco field boss. Meyer replaces Billy Herman, who resigned by request after a one-year tenure under a two-year contract found the Pirates mired in a last-place tie, the worst showing in the National league since 1917. "We wanted an experienced manager like Meyer to be in charge during our rebuilding process," said Roy Hamey, Pirate general manager.

Bums Win Series Tilt Behind Casey

EBBETS FIELD, Brooklyn (AP) —Hugh Casey, a mellowed and bulging Brooklyn tavern keeper, left his cash register long enough yesterday to salvage a 9-8 victory over the New York Yankees for the Brooklyn Dodgers in the third game of the World Series and save the last remaining reason of 33,098 fans in Ebbets field. Back in friendly territory after having lost two weird affairs at Yankee stadium, the Dodgers held leads of 6-0 and then 9-4, only to see them melt away before a vicious New York attack which featured home runs by Joe DiMaggio and Larry (Yogi) Berra. When Casey took over with one out in the seventh, Berra had just belted his four-master over the scoreboard clock in right field to pull the Bombers within a single run of tying the count.

It was a mighty tense gathering that watched the Veteran Casey slam the door shut and spare the Dodgers another disaster. He yielded only one hit the rest of the way, forced the dangerous DiMaggio to rap into a double play in the eighth, and by unanimous consent of the official scorers was voted the winning pitcher and Brooklyn's mightiest man.

Five Fraternities Gain Second Round

Phi Delta Theta, SAE, DU, Phi Gamma Delta and Phi Epsilon Pi all racked up touch football victories yesterday to remain in the top bracket of the Social fraternity league. The Phi Delt edged Theta Xi, 13-6, and Phi Ep nosed out Delta Chi, 13-7, in two close contests, while SAE romped over Beta Theta Pi, 25-6; DU turned back Delta Tau Delta, 21-8, and Phi Gam shut out Sigma Chi, 15-0. Featured in the SAE victory was Wally Ris, Hawk swimming ace, who ran for two tallies and completed one to Mel Erickson for a third. Bill Wilkins had a hand in all the Phi Gam scoring as he took a pass from George Walker for one, pitched to Bob Dotson for another and finally broke through to register a safety. No more games are scheduled until Monday.

Kay Captains Hawks

Coach Dr. Eddie Anderson announced yesterday that big Bill Kay, Iowa's 215-pound right tackle, will captain the Hawkeys in their first Big Nine game of the 1947 football season against Illinois here Saturday.

Kay, from Walnut, Iowa, is in his fourth season of competition and last year was named as the Hawkeye's most valuable player. Although numerous changes may be made in the starting lineup this weekend, Anderson announced a tentative first string for the Illini tilt. Besides Kay, the lineup is: Ends, Hal Shoener and Tony Guzowski; Left Tackle, Jim Shoaf or Don Winslow; Guards, Joe Grothus and Ray Carlson; Center, Dick Woodard; Quarterback Lou King, Halfbacks Emlen Tunnel and Bud Kaisershot, and Fullback Bob Smith.

However, this is far from definite. Dr. Eddie has been shuffling players around in practice all week and could turn up with more than one surprise by game time. One such change would move Bob Smith to his old job at right halfback and see Ron Headington step in at full.

Illinois will fly into Cedar Rapids this afternoon and will work out at Coe field, coming to Iowa City Saturday morning. The Hawks, who practiced against a freshman team running Illini plays yesterday, will hold a light workout in game uniforms at the stadium this afternoon.

I.D. CARD WARNING

I.D. Cards are not transferable. All such cards which are given by their owners to other persons, and therefore misused, will be taken up at the gates of the stadium Saturday, Frank Havlicek, business manager of athletics, has announced.

Little Hawks Romp to Win

SPECIAL TO THE DAILY IOWAN — City High's Little Hawks continued on their winning ways last night as they downed McKinley of Cedar Rapids, 19-0.

With Snook, Dutcher and Brawner setting the pace, the Hawlets drove to the game's first touchdown midway in the first quarter. The march carried 59 yards with Snook counting from the 1-yard line, Shain missed the extra-point try.

The remainder of the first half was played on even terms and the Hawlets left the field on the long end of a 6-0 score. In the third quarter the Little Hawks again asserted their supremacy. This time Snook scored on a 17-yard run and again Shain missed the try for extra point.

In the final period Shain took over the fullback slot for Iowa City and promptly sparked the team on a 45 yard march. Shain scored on an end run from the 9 and this time his conversion attempt was good, giving the Hawlets their final 19-0 margin. Shain, who has been playing center since Iowa City's opener against West Waterloo, looked especially good at fullback in the last quarter when he relieved Snook. Brookner in the backfield and Hodges at tackle looked good in the losing McKinley cause.

West Liberty Host Tonight As U High Opens League Play

University high hits the road this afternoon to play their first Eastern Iowa conference football game at West Liberty.

The contest, scheduled at 7:30 p.m., will also be the first loop game for the West Liberty high Comets.

The Comets new mentor, John Hunter, member of the University of Iowa's football and track squads last year, boasts a scrappy but light squad. Running from a T-formation, the West Liberty grid-ders put the accent on a speedy backfield.

Improvement has been the watchword in Coach Lou Alley's Blue Hawk practice sessions. With a loss to Wellman, 19-0, and a 13-13 tie with Bloomfield, in spite of a second-half rally, the Blue and White hopes to wrest their first victory from West Liberty.

Regular left Guard Don Canney of the Blues is still on the doubtful list as a result of a knee injury.

West Liberty fared better in their two openers, sapping past Kalona, 12-7, and drubbing Wapello, 25-7.

Both squads balance quite evenly in weight and both are weak in reserve strength.

Family Food Costs Continue To Rise

Grocers See Further Climb 'In Few Days'

By MERRITT LUDWIG
The cost of groceries for an average student family continued its steady rise this week and increases in certain basic food prices in the next few days were predicted by grocers.

A student family market basket, composed of 24 basic foods, was up seven cents yesterday over last week's index. Yesterday's basket cost $17.05 while last week's was $16.98. This was the second consecutive week for a market basket increase.

Soap prices in Iowa City increased only one cent. This came as a surprise to most housewives who knew that leading soap manufacturers had given notice of a 10 percent rise in price on all soap. Some grocers reported their customers were stocking up on soap at the old price. In a few days, a large box of soap flakes, for instance, is expected to be up four cents.

Not so generally known is the expected increase in the price of American cheese. One grocer has already set the price of a two-pound box at $1.15 in anticipation of the increase.

The price of coffee, which has remained steady for months, is also due for a two- or three-cent retail price increase, according to information from wholesale dealers.

In produce departments this week, butter went up an average of 2 cents per pound. A dozen eggs went down 2 cents.

Ground beef remained 47 cents a pound, but round steak and center cut pork chops were reduced four cents a pound. A few meat dealers did not reduce prices.

They admitted reductions might be in order, but were unwilling to make them in view of continued record prices at livestock exchanges.

Meat dealers expressed belief that any decreases in meat prices were only temporary, with increases at even higher levels to follow soon.

Local bakers say increased cost of flour and other materials is leading to higher bread prices. However, they think increased bread prices can be held off for several weeks. One leading Waterloo bakery, however, has announced a retail increase of two cents on white bread. That bakery attributed part of the increase to higher labor costs.

A resume of price changes in basic foods this week as compared with last week shows three increases and eight decreases. Butter went up two cents while soap flakes and sliced peaches each took a one cent rise. These increases in major items were more than enough to offset drops in the prices of eggs, pork and beans, vegetable shortening, flour, chocolate, round steak and pork chops—items which figure less prominently in the market basket price.

The price index is based on a survey of seven representative Iowa City food stores. The items in the market basket include those foods used by a family unit of husband, wife and one child, as determined by a previous survey.

Service Clubs Will Judge House Displays

Prof. Louis C. Zopf yesterday named the Elks, Lions and Kiwanis clubs to judge the annual Homecoming decoration displays of dormitories, sororities and fraternities respectively.

The decorations are one of the big features of the homecoming celebrations, he said, and his committee "hopes that all the housing groups participate."

The displays must be in place by 6 p.m. Friday, Oct. 10, he added. They will be judged between 6 and 10 p.m. that evening and the winners will be named the following morning.

Each division winner will be awarded a traveling cup. Last year South Quad, Alpha Delta Pi sorority and Phi Kappa Psi fraternity won the traveling cups for their displays.

Any group which wins three years in a row gets to keep the cup, Zopf said.

Says Food Costs Threat To Farm Aid

High food prices will cause opposition to the congressional farm program next year, Rep. Thomas E. Martin said at the Rotary club luncheon in the Hotel Jefferson yesterday.

Explaining the congressional view of food control and soil conservation, Martin said the public will oppose the farm program because of current food prices.

"People tend to assume that things, will take care of themselves because of the high prices the farmer receives. They don't draw the distinction between high prices and conservation," the representative said.

The farm program, he said, was not "an attempt to get votes from the farmers, but land for following generations."

Martin's voice rose as he declared, "It isn't individual aid to the farmers. We're talking about saving soil."

He warned that the United States must carry on some kind of farm program or sink below her present position in the world. The first district representative added, "We cannot go on wasting the soil as we have in the last 10 years and not pay dearly for it."

Flood control funds, he believes, will be the most difficult to obtain. "There is a common feeling that congressional interest rises and falls with the water level," he added.

After seeing the June floods here, Martin said, he returned to Washington "geared up to say something to the committee" about flood control work for the Iowa first district. However, the last committee meeting was over so action must be taken next year, he declared.

Until flood control work begins here, he said, "all we can do is hope to alleviate the damage."

About 35 percent of the areas of the 24 U.S. national parks are timbered, representing about 19 million acres of forest land.

Band, Highlander Trip With Hawks Depends on Funds

The University band will make a trip to Notre Dame Oct. 25 and the Scottish Highlanders will go to the Ohio State game Oct. 18 if the trips can be financed, announced Col. W. W. Jenna at a meeting of the student trip committee yesterday.

The trips have been approved by President Hancher and the problem now is the raising of funds to cover expenses.

Prof. C. B. Righter, band director, reported that expenses for the South Bend trip will be about $2,500. The 100-man band will leave at 3:35 p.m. Friday, Oct. 24, and will return Sunday at 1:30 a.m.

William L. Adamson, pipe major of the Highlanders, estimated the group's expenses would be approximately $2,800. The Highlanders will travel by pullman.

Fred Ambrose, university business manager, reported that $3,000 is available from the student activity fund for the trip. The athletic department has offered to contribute $500 and Jenna said $500 could be raised from the ROTC unit fund.

Jenna recommended that a request for $1,800 be made from the athletic department finance committee in place of the appropriations from the student activity fund and the ROTC fund, would cover the expenses for the trips.

A-Energy Series Opens With Films Of Bikini Bombs

Four hundred students and towns people last night attended the first in a series of lectures on atomic energy at Macbride auditorium.

Featuring a color movie of the Bikini atom-bomb tests, the lecture series was opened with a prepared statement from Dean Earl J. McGrath of the college of liberal arts. McGrath left Iowa City earlier last night to participate in dedication ceremonies at Ohio university.

In the statement McGrath said the lecture series was started in order that "the opinion of those who know most about atomic energy could be carefully considered."

"Almost without exception," he said, "physical scientists believe that with the discovery of atomic energy we have entered a new phase of human experience and one filled with great potential danger of human life."

"No other event in recent years and possibly in the whole of history has such serious implications as the discovery of atomic energy," McGrath continued.

Prof. J. I. Routh, who is in charge of the series, outlined the lecture series which is divided into a scientific section and a social, political and economic section. Films, he said, will be used to illustrate future lectures also.

Taft's Foreign Policy Speeches

(Fourth of a Series)

Yesterday we added what in our opinion is one more indictment of Senator Taft: his opposition to using the United Nations for even the small purposes which it can accomplish. Previously we had considered his isolationist tendencies and his opposition to freer world trade.

Today let us consider his statement in his foreign policy speeches that he supports the position of Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, and the implication that Vandenberg in return supports him.

Vandenberg, it will be recalled, was one of the chief supporters of the United Nations since its inception, and he participated in the San Francisco conference which drew up the UN charter.

When the charter itself came up for approval in the senate, public sentiment was at its height. The charter was approved by the senate, with Taft voting for it.

However, when the very important participation act came up in December, 1945, Taft voted "no." Thus he showed his true colors. The principal purpose of the participation act was to grant authority to the President to join in economic sanctions and to make United States forces available to enforce the decisions of the UN security council without consulting congress.

Senator Vandenberg voted "yes" on this true test of those who were willing to provide the force necessary to make the UN work. This hardly sounds like agreement on basic issues.

Next, Taft offered three amendments to the participating act. One was an amendment which would have forbidden the American representative on the council to vote for economic or military sanctions against any country unless convinced that they would bring about a result in "accord with international justice."

While he used high sounding phrases, the senate knew his purpose was, in effect, to materially weaken the American representative. The amendment was defeated, 40 to 18. Vandenberg voted against Taft.

Another Taft amendment to limit the application of sanctions to a maximum period of three months was defeated without a roll call. Vandenberg, while not recorded because there was no roll call, spoke against Taft.

A third Taft amendment calling for immediate action by the UN to limit armaments and outlaw the atomic bomb was voted down, 54 to 16. Vandenberg voted against Taft.

That is the opposing record of the two men on the important votes in the senate on the UN. In each case they disagreed. Taft looks like he's trying to grab Vandenberg's position of bipartisan support on foreign policy. The record shows otherwise.

Stimulus for New Housing Needed

Tax exemptions and guaranteed return of investment on new rental housing are being proposed to meet the acute shortage of rental accommodations for low-income groups.

Although the 750,000 new homes under construction this year represent an increase over the 700,000 started last year, estimates of the annual need run as high as 1,500,000 units.

Furthermore, the ration of multi-family dwelling units for rental purposes started during the first seven months of 1947 (8 percent) is not appreciably larger than the ratio of such units undertaken through 1945 (7.36 percent).

Tax exemption would tend to offset the present high costs of construction which discourage capital from venturing into rental housing.

The movement to obtain tax exemption upon new housing has been limited thus far mostly to New York City. Tax exemption and other stimulants to housing investment will be considered by the joint congressional committee on housing, in hearings opening this month.

Experiments with tax exemptions were tried shortly after the end of World War I. Then, as now, building activity was discouraged by high materials and labor costs and high taxes.

The number of residential construction contracts awarded declined in the latter half of 1949, and continued downward through 1950.

The most notable legislative effort to encourage private investment in building was the New York state law of 1921 permitting cities to grant tax exemption for new houses and apartment buildings.

The law was limited in its application to new dwellings, begun before April 3, 1922, and completed within two years from that date. The maximum period of tax exemption was 10 years.

Five cities, including New York, adopted ordinances granting tax exemption under the statute. Emphasis was placed on dwellings for low-income families by restricting exemptions to buildings costing less than $1,000 per room and less than $5,000 per family unit.

The New York City mayor's

Committee on Housing reported in 1924 that tax exemption had added new housing facilities for more than 100,000 families.

These were in addition to what might normally have been supplied without tax exemption benefits. Critics of the experiments, however, claimed that it was nothing more than a subsidy, "making gorgeous profits for builders."

They claimed also that it failed to help low-income groups, because contractors concentrated on higher-price housing.

The rapid recovery of the building industry after 1921 was attributed more to the drop in construction costs than to tax exemption statutes in New York and elsewhere.

Construction contracts awarded rose steadily until 1925, when they reached an all-time peak of 937,000. Thereafter they stayed on a high plateau until mid-1928.

Another inducement which might encourage large-scale rental housing is a guarantee by the federal government against financial losses by builders. Investors today are reluctant to put their money into rental housing which they will continue to own, because of fear that such housing could be duplicated in a few years at lower costs.

A similar proposal is included in the Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill. It would authorize the government to guarantee a minimum annual rate of return on investments in rental housing by insurance companies and savings institutions.

Since housing construction has been stymied by the inability or the unwillingness of private builders, perhaps it is time to consider additional governmental support.

A too long finger on the picture of Britannia on British five-pound notes has revealed to the Bank of England that they are forgeries. The old girl may now get revenge on the crooks for being so careless about giving her a manicure.

Someone says the maple tree averages 354,563 leaves. In two months they'll all be on the ground where anyone who wants to is welcome to confirm the report.

SPEAKING OF "GREMLINS"

AS PEGLER SEES IT

Down Below the Surface

By WESTBROOK PEGLER (King Features Syndicate)

Allen Smiley, of Los Angeles, who poses as a producer and director of motion pictures, was present in his own apartment on May 25, 1944, when the late Bugsy Siegel, the gangster, was arrested there on a charge of bookmaking. Siegel was acquitted. George Raft, the movie gangster, was among the company and he testified as a character witness for Siegel.

He said: "I have known Mr. Siegel for many years. We have been friends for a long time. We went up to the apartment (Smiley's) and were sitting there discussing things about going to New York."

In August, 1944, Smiley was indicted with Tommy Dorsey, the band leader known as "the sentimental gentleman of swing," and Pat Dane, a movie and night club personality of note, who was then Mrs. Dorsey.

They were charged with amputating a portion of the nose of Jon Hall, an actor, at a party given by the Dorseys in their home. They all were acquitted. Dorsey was the first person in the amusement industry to perceive profitable talents in Frank Sinatra.

He hired him as a singer for his band. Presently, Sinatra became aware of unsuspected possibilities in himself but, like Primo Carnera, the Italian prizefighter, and Max Schmeling, the German, he unwisely "cut" himself into so many shares that he seemed destined to work much of his future for others unless he broke loose.

Sinatra assigned or sold 33 1/3 percent of himself to Dorsey, 10 percent to the General Amusement corporation, a booking and management company, and 10 percent to Leonard K. Vannerson.

He cut Dorsey and Vannerson in on his future in return for his freedom to go his way. Vannerson was Dorsey's manager. Later, Sinatra refused to distribute these shares of his earnings and settled with Dorsey and Vannerson for a small cash payment.

Meanwhile, female pickets, ostensibly bobby-sox fans of Sinatra, had picketed Dorsey's shows. On June 20 of this year, Bugsy Siegel was shot and killed by two bullets fired through the window of a home in Beverly Hills, Calif., which had been rented by Virginia Hill.

Miss Hill was a friend of Siegel and of Joe Adonis, the eminent New York and New Jersey criminal who is another underworld associate of Raft.

The source of Virginia Hill's income is not publicly known, although it appears to have been large. Several pundits of the gambling-house and underworld beat of the radio and journalism dropped knowing intimations that she was a "divorcee" and an "heiress," as though that would explain all.

There are hardly any reporters among these high-priced and pretentious impostors, however, and the city side never thought the matter worth a good reporter's time for a day.

Therefore Miss Hill's income is still a confidential matter between her and the internal revenue and others concerned.

Allen Smiley was with Siegel when he was shot. They were sitting together on a couch.

No arrest has been made. Siegel was by now heavily interested in the hotel and gambling property at Las Vegas, Nev., known as the Flamingo. It is an elaborate plant. The original promoter, Billy Wilkerson, a Hollywood publisher and restaurant promoter, said the total investment was $5,600,000 last winter.

Wilkerson said Siegel had muscled in, bringing two other new partners with him. He named Sam Rothberg, of Peoria, as one of the new partners introduced by Siegel.

Siegel was cordially received in that element of financially successful performers, promoters and parasites of the night club, radio and moving picture trades who constitute the "society" of the amusement industry.

Allen Smiley also was received without question. He has been known for years in Hollywood business, social and underworld affairs, which often are identical or indistinguishable, as Allen Smiley and by no other name. His identity has never been questioned in this set.

In the records of the bureau of immigration and naturalization of the department of justice, Allen Smiley is listed as Aaron Smehoff, alias Abraham Smickoff.

The present address is given as Sunset Plaza drive, Hollywood. The address at the time of the arrest of Siegel for bookmaking was on Sunset boulevard.

The same record states that Smiley, Smehoff or Smickoff was born in Beliza, Russia, on Jan. 10, 1907; was brought to Canada about January, 1914, by his parents; that his father, first name Hyman, became a naturalized citizen of Canada and under Canadian law was able to naturalize his several children, including Aaron or Abraham; that this person entered the United States by ferry at Detroit in 1922, at the age of 15; and, that, in September, 1926, he was confined in the Preston School of Industry at Ione, Calif., upon his conviction

Bulgarian Recognition No U. S. 'Slip-Up'

By J. M. ROBERTS JR. AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The state department announcement of diplomatic recognition of Bulgaria, coming right in the middle of efforts to bar that country from United Nations membership, has the appearance of a tactical slip-up but with mitigating circumstances.

Officials must have known the act itself would carry more weight than the accompanying explanation that recognition should not be considered as approval of the Bulgarian government.

They apparently didn't believe it would be sufficient, however, to make any important change in the UN vote, or to seriously embarrass the American delegation in its arguments. And, from their standpoint, it was time to announce the recognition.

The action had been under consideration for some time. It means, as the department explained, no retreat from U. S. opposition to the Bulgarian Communists.

It cures an observation post in the Russian sphere just as relations with Vichy provided a listening post among the Nazis during the war. It reassures anti-Communist elements in Bulgaria that they are not being deserted.

After the decision was reached, some time ago, it was necessary to obtain Sofia's approval of Donald Heath as minister. When that came the announcement followed as routine.

There is a possibility, as a matter of fact, that officials considered it a good opportunity to restate Washington's disapproval of Bulgaria as an actual contribution to the fight against her admission to the UN.

Also, the United States has been deliberately trying to eradicate the old conception that diplomatic recognition connotes approval. President Roosevelt took the new line as far back as 1933 in connection with recognition of Russia, and it has been followed generally ever since. The only unrecognized Russian satellite in Europe now is Albania.

And that gap has little practical significance, since Albania is really only a "county" in Marshal Tito's dictatorship.

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT

A Five Spot To Spend

By SAMUEL GRAFTON New York Post Syndicate

Harry had a five dollar bill left out of his terminal leave bond, and he did not know quite what to do with it.

He resented the five, in a way. It seemed to him an indignity that a five spot should mean so much to a man in his thirties.

After thirty, he figured, if a five was still desperately important to you, it was probably a sign that something was wrong in the whole picture of your life.

He had been sore about his age lately. The day he had cashed his terminal leave bond it had seemed to him the years were sliding pretty fast. It had been no time at all from the naked morning in Grand Central Palace induction center to the afternoon when he had had a terminal leave bond to cash.

Approve Nationalized Form of Industry

BRIGHTON, England (AP)—The Conservative party approved overwhelmingly yesterday the retention in Britain of some form of nationalized industry despite a challenge that such a program constitutes "milk and water socialism."

Sir Waldron Smithers, leader in parliament of the party's "old guard," opposed the resolution though only three opposition votes were recorded when the 3,000 delegates attending the party's annual conference endorsed the proposal by a show of hands.

The resolution, drafted by a group of leading conservative members of parliament, pledges the party to retain nationalization of coal mines and the bank of England and to keep some form of public ownership of railroads if and when the present labor government falls.

While it would leave much of the labor government's program in effect, the resolution calls for restoration of private buying in cotton industry and denationalization of road transport and certain phases of civil aviation.

The bureau records indicate that Smiley was arrested in 1940 charged with robbery and this is verified by Los Angeles police records.

The case was dismissed. He was fined $200 for contempt in Los Angeles. There are records of other arrests on charges of shooting crap, peddling without a license and violation of the state liquor laws.

Smiley has a registered number with the federal bureau of investigation and the California state and Los Angeles city police.

In a legal form for aliens which Smiley did not execute until 1945, several of these arrests are listed. A warrant was issued on Sept. 29, 1945, charging that Smiley had neither an immigration visa nor a passport when he entered this country and he was released on bond of $1,000.

Nevertheless he has been granted repeated postponements and he was not troubled even when he happened to be the witness at the murder of Bugsy Siegel.

Deportation proceedings may be stimulated now, but Smiley obviously has strong influence and may not be expelled. There are indications that during the war an effort was made to get him a free commission in the army or navy.

SALLY'S SALLIES

Yet it had been years. He had a glimpse of himself, working at little jobs as the years went by, and from time to time cashing something, terminal leave, state bonus, fed bonus later, maybe.

A flop like all the other flops on his brownstone street, except every once in awhile he would have a paper to cash. It had been going on for a long time now, this being a veteran.

Next week one of the little jobs was opening up and that made the five seem like spare money.

He could buy a pipe. There was one he wanted, in a pipe shoppe window; it was almost a straight-grain, if you didn't look at the part near the shank. It would have cost a dollar fifty before the war, maybe two, now it was five. But he had five.

Or he could call Margaret and say: "Astor bar, five o'clock, get it? The red dress."

It would be fun to be flip again, on the phone. Margaret had fallen in love with him during the flip war years. Why couldn't she have it once more, just because the war was over?

Then rage took him at the difficulty of making a choice, a difficulty which so magnified the value of the five in his pocket. What's so wonderful about a five, he thought, that a guy's got to worry three four hours about what to do with it? Put the lousy five on a pedestal, next, and burn it. Stick it in a locket and carry it near his heart.

There was a haberdashery near the Astor. He ducked into it. "Ties," he said to the clerk.

He picked one casually. It was five dollars, and he had to add a dime of his own for tax. It was a reckless extravagance, his ears hummed with the danger of it. But if a young man can't buy a tie, he thought, well. And maybe that was the way to stay young. Buy something you want once in a while, and not be an old fustup about every penny. Don't give up on being young too easy, and perhaps it would last.

Then, on the sidewalk, he remembered, dizzily, that he had had a use for the five and had forgotten.

He had meant to see the doctor. Those brown spots on the backs of his hands, and the little growths, they looked like growths, one on the shoulder, one on the left leg.

"Do it on credit," he thought. He stuffed the tie carefully into his pocket and walked to the doctor's.

The doctor was quite reassuring about it, after a close lookover.

"Perfectly all right," he said. "The skin does funny things after a while. These little doickneys are just a sign you're getting older, that's all. Nothing to worry about."

Most Merchants Favor More Parking Meters

Business District Survey Reveals 60 Percent Back Plan

By RAY HENRY

Approximately 60 percent of Iowa City businessmen are in favor of the installation of 250 two-hour parking meters in the business district.

About 20 percent of those merchants whose businesses may be affected by the Chamber of Commerce parking commission recommendation told The Daily Iowan yesterday they opposed the plan. Twenty percent offered no opinion.

Sixty-seven merchants were contacted in the survey; 40 commented favorably on the proposal, 14 were opposed and 13 were neutral.

Comment on the plan recommended by the parking commission Wednesday night ranged from, "I would like meters placed in every direction for eight blocks from the heart of the business district," to, "I am not in favor of them because they are a nuisance to my customers."

The streets that will be suggested to the city council in its next meeting for installation are:

- Clinton street between Iowa avenue and Washington street.
- Washington street between Capitol and Clinton streets.
- Washington street between Dubuque and Linn streets.
- Dubuque street between Iowa avenue and Washington street.
- Dubuque street between College and Burlington streets.
- College street between Dubuque and Linn streets.
- Clinton street between College and Burlington streets.

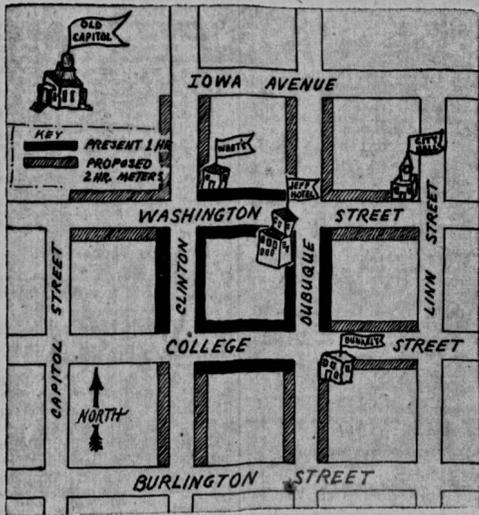

Other Iowa City merchants commented: "I am very much in favor of the plan. It would help business as more cars would have a chance to park here. As it is now, the one-hour parking is not enforced," was one statement.

A business man dissatisfied with the plan said, "Never saw a parking meter do anybody any good. People don't want to have to pay to come in and shop."

Three merchants said they thought out-of-town customers resent meters.

A former city council member stated, "I favor meters in this block and wherever else they can install them. I voted for the first ones and also favor these."

The United States uses about 500 million fence posts a year, enough to build 1,500,000 miles of fence.

Traffic Survey Ends: Engineers To Tabulate, Map Results for Study

The two-week Iowa highway commission survey to determine Iowa City's traffic needs ended at 10 o'clock last night.

The survey began Sept. 23. About 60 townspeople and university students served as interviewers at points in and around Iowa City to learn from drivers the vehicle ownership and the origin, destination and purpose of trips.

The accumulated information will be sent to Ames for tabulation and study, according to Carl Schach, assistant traffic engineer in charge of the survey. After tabulation maps will be drawn indicating the "lines of desire" for traffic flow. This may involve the possible rerouting of highways in town.

Schach said that he could not make any recommendations at the present time. Recommendations will be sent to the main highway commission office and to municipal authorities after they are formulated. Final information probably will not be ready until sometime early next year, Schach said.

Broken Line Delays Interurban Service

Service on the Interurban Cedar Rapids and Iowa City railway was disrupted yesterday by a broken high-line between Swisher and the Cedar Rapids airport, according to company officials.

Trains and cars were stalled for three hours at Iowa City and other points. Both the 11 o'clock and the noon cars leaving from here were delayed by the power failure. Service was resumed about 1:30 p.m.

Frank Luther Mott Visits City

Part journalist, part historian, army set up a university for G. I.'s at Biarritz, Mott was head of the journalism department.

In the spring of 1947, he went to Japan as a consultant for Japanese publishers and educators on democratic processes in education and communication. "Japanese newspapers are having a hard time of it," he said. "They have a paper shortage, union trouble, are over staffed and are subject to military censorship."

On the whole, he said, the Japanese are putting democratic ways and institutions into practice. They are "cleaning house" under the MacArthur program.

As an author-historian, Mott has just completed another book in his series on the history of American journalism. The book, "Golden Multitudes," is a story of the best sellers in the United States since the beginning of American printing. Published by Macmillan, the book will appear Oct. 21.

He sandwiched his visit here in between a speech for the Mississippi Valley Medical Editors association in Burlington and a lecture last night at Simpson college, Indianola.
