Hawks Hope For Gridiron Magic Today

Speed Merchants Give Favored Role To Indiana Hoosiers

By CHAD BROOKS Managing Editor

Football and homecoming—magic combination of every fall season—put in their annual appearance at Iowa City today and hope once more rides high in the corn belt.

This afternoon Iowa's own gridiron Hawkeyes meet Indiana's hustlin' Hoosiers.

Few of the football faithful have any false illusions about this game. Indiana is generally favored by from six to 14 points—not so much because of overpowering Hoosier strength as the poor showings Iowa has turned in against UCLA and Illinois in their last two outings.

The Hoosiers' strong points—blinding speed and an often brilliant passing attack—fit into Iowa's newly found weaknesses as if Indiana mentor Bo McMillin had planned things that way.

The Indiana star, George Taliaferro, is one of the last of a dying race—a great triple-threat back who can sweep the ends and pitch deadly passes with equal facility.

The Hoosiers' ends, Bob Ravensberg and Lou Mihajlovich, come from the same pass, grabbing mould that produced UCLA's Tom Fears and Bill Clements and Illinois' Sam Zatkoff and Ike Owens. These end combinations have been the major stumbling block for corn belt hopes so far in '47.

And there are other Hoosier stars in town today: John Goldsberry at right tackle is among the league's fastest linemen—and at 225 pounds.

Captain Howard Brown, 200-plus pound guard who plays tackle on defense, has been labeled as "the best lineman in the conference" by an Iowa scout.

Harry Jagade, line smashing fullback, is one of the league's best power runners—and will be in the lineup today according to McMillin despite a week's supply of press agent copy that had him among the injured.

And Nick Sebek, a recent army dischargee, handles the quarterback duties and likes to do a lot of passing on his own right.

One might be allowed to say this is just what the Doctor didn't order as Dr. Eddie prepares to send his powerful but slow Hawkeyes into action today.

But then, Hoosier reputations have never amounted to much as far as Anderson coached teams have been concerned. In Dr. Eddie's five years at the Iowa helm the Hawks have beaten Bo McMillin's boys four times—and they expect to do it again today.

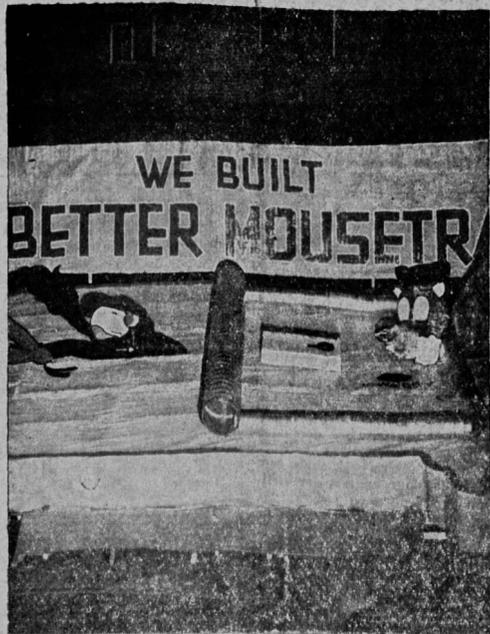

Dr. Eddie is planning to introduce Bob Longley to the Big Nine conference this afternoon—at a right halfback spot. Longley, who can run faster than any other able-bodied back on the Hawk squad, has seen brief action at left half this season, but will make his full scale debut today.

Bob Smith, back at right half where he was a 1946 standout or at his new fullback job, will carry the brunt of the Iowa running game, however.

Anything Goes As Night-Clubs Battle Crowds

Hotels, Fraternities, Dorms, Sororities Bulge With Overflow

By DON RICHARDSON

It's Homecoming 1947 and Iowa City is a city teeming with guests and celebrants who are helping the University celebrate its 58th reunion of alumni.

Swarms of people began descending on the city yesterday and sleeping space was at a premium. Hotels had the "No Vacancy" sign out several months ago and one manager said his reservation list "in case of cancellation" was "as long as from here to the city hall."

One alumnus caught the spirit early and wrote last month reserving a sofa at his fraternity and having the local tap notified of the "extra burden."

Impromptu parties broke out yesterday afternoon at fraternity houses and spread to the local taverns. Tavern keepers reported that business was "very good." One proprietor said his place was crowded and added, "We're just getting underway."

Iowa City's restaurants and cafes swelled under the rush of people seeking a meal, a sandwich or a cup of coffee. Alumni and students waited in line for a seat at a table or a place where they could be served.

Later in the evening a pep rally was held on the east approach to Old Capitol. Summoned by blasts from the whistle at the mechanical engineering building, students, children and townspeople flocked to hear University President Virgil M. Hancher and other speakers, including Dr. J. K. von Lockum of Cedar Rapids, president of the Alumni association, and Dr. Max Kadesky, president of the university's I-club.

The Scottish Highlanders added color and rhythm to the assembly as they paraded up S. Clinton street and flanked up to the gathering before passing the "cornless" homecoming monument. Engineering students stood a determined watch by the structure to prevent over-excited people from burning it.

The monument's gold and black hawk gazed with fierce eyes on the Tailfeathers members who were dashing about making last minute sales of the homecoming badges.

Students cheered lustily that "we're going to beat Indiana," after hearing Ray Carlson, today's game captain, and Dr. Eddie Anderson give short talks. After more cheers for the team and music from the University band, celebrants dispersed to other centers of amusement.

Across the river, "Holidays In Paris" went into its second night with Larry Barrett's band providing the music. Before Queen Sally Sears and her court, the university swimming fraternity performed high dives, comedy acts and a fire dive. Two shows are planned for tonight in order that homecomers might attend the colorful event.

At Iowa Union, informally dressed students danced to the rhythms of the "old latherer," Joe Sanders, and his Nighthawks. Some of the throng tried to find amusement at nightclubs located on the edge of the city. The receptionist at one club said the place had been packed all evening and guests were arriving constantly only to be turned away.

Adding to the merriment, City high held its Homecoming last night. High school boys and girls were out in strength to crow about their team's victory over Du-buque.

After the taverns and theaters closed last night, the crowd drifted away. Some headed for bed and sleep; other merrymakers carried on until late this morning in hotels and fraternity houses as alumni and undergrads determined to make a night of it.

Iowa City was jammed last night, but the full onslaught of the more than 52,000 guests is yet to come. The greatest influx is expected this morning.

Italy Receives Nazi-Looted Gold Hoard

WASHINGTON (AP)—A store of gold worth $28 million captured by the U. S. fifth army corps from Germans who had stolen it from the Bank of Italy, was made available last night to the Italian government.

The gold cache was found in May of 1945, at Fortezza, Italy, where the retreating Germans had hidden it.

Great Britain and the United States agreed last night to turn it over to the non-Communist Italian government, providing it with additional assets needed to continue purchases of wheat and fuel during the winter.

The Italian government can either use this gold to furnish additional backing for its currency or follow Britain's example and sell it to the United States government for $35 an ounce.

of four-man combinations available for action.

The line will feature game Captain Ray Carlson at right guard, a position he took away from Earl Banks a week ago and practically sewed up for the season with a great performance against Illinois.

Sharing the starring role up front, however, may be a pair of defensive ends, Herb and Hal Shoener. Indiana likes to run from the single wing—and they like to run wide with Mr. Taliaferro carrying the mail.

This is the kind of stuff the Shoeners eat alive. Last fall at Indiana they put on an amazing defensive showing and another one of the same type could change the entire complexion of today's game. The Shoeners will probably turn offensive end duties over to a speedy trio of Jack Dittmer, Jack Kelso and Bob McKenzie, however. And these three give the Hawks a dangerous long-passing game.

Joe Grothus at the other guard, Dick Woodard at center and Jim Shoaf and Bill Kay at the tackles will round out the starting eleven—and a very big prayer will round out the Hawkeye hopes.

Pacific War Dead Get 21 Gun Salute On Arrival Home

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The nation brought home its first Pacific war dead yesterday with sorrow and pride.

As the funeral ship Honda Knot, bearing the bodies of 3,028 who fell in the Pacific war reached San Francisco, the United States paid its highest military salute, and thousands lined the quay in mourning.

While the Presidio, sixth army headquarters, fired the 21-gun salute, Secretary of the Navy John L. Sullivan told the hushed audience gathered on the Marina green:

"Today, in sorrow and yet with pride, America repatriates the mortal remains of those who fell in the hurs and months of the war. "Whenever and wherever they fell they died to safeguard the destiny of man. "They impose upon us, the living, the sacred trust of their final hours, their last thoughts, their common dream of the safety and welfare of America, and an enduring peace for the world."

Meyer Asks Blood Test In Paternity Charge

NEW YORK (AP)—At his own request, round John W. Meyer, Howard Hughes' free-spending press agent, will have a blood test in reply to a charge he is the father of a slender, blonde cigarette girl's eight-month old son.

Special sessions Justice Frederick L. Hackenberg yesterday granted the request made by Meyer's attorney, Jerome A. Strauss, and set trial on the charge for Dec. 4.

New Storm Menaces Florida

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A tropical storm with winds up to 60 miles an hour and moving slowly toward hurricane velocity swept up out of the northwestern Caribbean Sea last night headed for the western tip of Cuba as northeast

The bureau said last night indications were that the storm would increase further in intensity within 12 hours to probable hurricane force, after it crossed Cuba west of Havana late last night.

Meanwhile, hurricane busting planes were poised at Schenectady, N. Y., awaiting instructions as to whether to attempt to "dissipate" the storm with dry-ice and other chemicals.

The weather bureau advised storm-weary South Florida to "remain on the alert for additional advices and possibly a warning last night and Saturday."

To Sue Under Anti-Trust Act

WASHINGTON (AP)—The justice department announced yesterday it will bring court action to break up interlocking directorates among "competing" corporations.

Civil suits will be filed under the Clayton act, it said, against certain directors in large concerns because they have refused to give up one or more of the board seats they hold.

The announcement disclosed that the department's anti-trust division has investigated 10,000 directorships in 1,600 big corporations since last May 1. It said the survey showed approximately 1,500 persons holding directorships in more than one company and that 60 of these were sitting on the boards of "two or more competing concerns."

The department declined to make public any names of those involved.

It said it had suggested resignations in such cases, and that "20 directors have resigned or agreed to resign from the boards of 11 corporations."

He referred to the recent Moscow-sponsored formation of a Communist "information bureau," with headquarters in Belgrade, set up by seven eastern European nations and Communist representatives from France and Italy.

"In fact, it may stiffen their opposition and tend to unite the supposed victims of communism. It should have the same effect upon us as a nation," he told a reporter.

In separate interviews, Connolly's three colleagues voiced similar opinions.

Arabs Surrounding Palestine Council Plans Next Actions

Council Plans Next Actions

BEIRUT, LEBANON (AP)—Arab sources said last night the armed forces of the Arab world, which unofficially is estimated to be able to muster 200,000 to 250,000 regulars, were concentrating on the Palestine frontiers to cordon off "terrorist organizations and Zionist forces."

Other official quarters here and in Palestine declared they had been unable to detect any unusual troop movements.

While troop maneuvers were reported to progress to implement a decision of the Arab league of seven nations, the league council went back into session last night to plan the next "military precautionary actions against Zionism."

Bloc Could Unite Foes of Communism, Four Senators Say

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia was pictured by four U. S. Senators yesterday as fatally pursuing "the psychology that broke Hitler and Germany" through fostering a European Communist bloc openly designed to combat American democracy.

Senators Connally (D-Tex.), Brewster (R-Me.), Russell (D-Ga.) and Cain (R-Wash.) joined in predicting that this latest gloves-off maneuver will backfire. The lawmakers welcomed it as bringing a smoldering conflict between this country and Russia into the open.

An informal poll on Capitol Hill showed that most available senators and representatives believe the Communist action will smooth the way for both European stopgap aid this winter and the long-range Marshall plan when they come before congress.

"The nations of Europe will not calmly allow nine countries to force down their throats the doctrine of Communism," said Connally, veteran former chairman of the senate foreign relations committee.

He referred to the recent Moscow-sponsored formation of a Communist "information bureau," with headquarters in Belgrade, set up by seven eastern European nations and Communist representatives from France and Italy.

"In fact, it may stiffen their opposition and tend to unite the supposed victims of communism. It should have the same effect upon us as a nation," he told a reporter.

League Boosts Eisenhower

NEW YORK (AP) A national officer of the "Draft Eisenhower for President league" said yesterday league members would enter the wartime supreme commander's name in Republican presidential primaries in Wisconsin, possibly in New York, and "wherever else we can."

Maurice Munford, executive vice-president of the league and president of the U.S. Supply company, made the statement at a news conference after issuing a league charter to a group of Eisenhower enthusiasts here.

Munford acknowledged that Eisenhower had not authorized the activity in his behalf.

Bo McMillin Worries Over Hoosier Injuries

Grossman Out; Jagade Will See Action

By JOHN TURNBULL
Sports Editor

"I'm worried," said Bo McMillin, coach of the Indiana football team as he ambled into the Roosevelt hotel in Cedar Rapids yesterday afternoon.

The Hoosiers arrived in the Parlor City by train and immediately changed to their football uniforms and went out to Coe field a brief workout. And all their work was directed toward spoiling the University of Iowa's 36th annual Homecoming at the Iowa stadium today.

"We've got a lot of injuries to cope with," said the genial coach from Indiana. "We're not sure whether Jagade and Grossman will be able to play much of the game, but the rest of the lineup will be just about the same as started against Wisconsin."

But the Hoosiers will bring a mighty credible lineup into Iowa City. They have two of the best ends in the Western conference plus a triple threat left halfback named George Taliaferro who passes, runs and kicks with the better backs in the country.

"Western conference football is much improved this year," said McMillin. "We expect to get a little better as the season goes along but right now, we can't tell. Jagade, who was bothered by tonsillitis all week should see a good bit of action at the fullback position. But Grossman—I don't think he'll be much use against Iowa tomorrow. He's got a bad shoulder and a stiff neck."

In announcing his starting lineup, Bo said that it all depends on who kicks off and who receives. "I believe that I'll start Bob Ravensberg and Lou Mihajlovich at the ends; Tom Moorehead and John Goldsberry at the tackles; Bob Harbison and Howard Brown at the guards, and Joe Jolice at center.

"As for our backfield, that is a question," said McMillin. "In place of Grossman at quarter, we'll probably start Nick Sebek, who played second string to Ben Raimondi—remember him—in 1945. Yes, Bo, we remember Raimondi!

"At the halfbacks it'll be George Taliaferro at left halfback—that's for sure—and either Mel Grooms, if we kick off and Dick Deranek if we receive. And fullback will be Hugh McKinnis. He's been playing a halfback spot but he'll be splitting with Jagade—he's a hard runner."

Bo was high in praise of the Iowa team. "Sure, we respect them. We know darn well that they have a better football team than they've shown so far. Bob Smith is one of the best backs in the country. And their line played good against Illinois—they could be awful tough."

Phi Delt's, Phi Ep's In Quarterfinal Round

Phi Delta Theta beat Phi Epsilon Pi and Phi Kappa Psi blanked Phi Kappa Alpha to gain the quarterfinals of the Social fraternity touch football loop yesterday.

The arm of Dick Grenda figured in all the Phi Delt scoring. He threw twice to Chuck Silliman and once to Phil Cady for touchdowns and hit Silliman and Clair Jennett for an extra point apiece. Phi Ep tallied on a pass from Mel Kadeski to Chuck Shulkin and Kadeski dropped kicked the point.

Little Hawks Win 4th Straight Game Over Dubuque, 20-0

City high continued on the victory path last night by downing the Dubuque Rams 20-0. Thus the Little Hawks won their fourth straight game, all conference affairs, since losing their opener to West Waterloo.

In last night's battle, the Hawks showed a shifty attack. But the real story lay in the line play. The entire line showed up well, giving an amazing demonstration of blocking, tackling and charging.

Dubuque managed to withstand City High's first quarter attacks, but the Little Hawks went wild in the second quarter.

Shortly after the period started, Bill Reichardt blocked a Dubuque kick and Gene Hetrick fell on it in the end zone for the first touchdown of the game. Rox Shain failed on the attempted conversion.

Minutes later Reichardt slanted off tackle and went 15 yards for the second City high touchdown. This time Shain converted to make the score 13-0.

With about one minute to go in the first half and Dubuque with its backs to the wall, Virg Troyer crashed through and made such a terrific tackle that Umacht of the Rams fumbled. John Rinella recovered on the Dubuque 15.

From there Dick Doran flipped a pass to Hetrick in the end zone and again Shain converted for the final point of the game.

The only serious scoring threat in the second half occurred when Henry Rate intercepted a Dubuque pass on the 45. He went all the way, but the play was called back.

Reichardt and Shain stood out in the Hawket backfield. Francis Beasley and Troyer showed exceptional line play.

Taking Time Out

With Buck Turnbull

Round and round she goes and where she stops nobody knows. And that's the way our head has been going these past few weeks—just like those days when we used to attempt to solve algebraic equations. Confidentially, these football predictions are driving us batty.

Last week we hit our all time low but we're back again for some more brutal punishment. Yes, the four experts are still with us, too. How long, though, is quite a question.

We've whipped up seven more "toughies" for this afternoon... a flip of the coin would be the best way to predict them.

It's Homecoming for Iowa City and the Fighting Hoosiers of Indiana have agreed to produce the opposition for Dr. Eddie Anderson's Hawkeyes. And opposition will be an under-statement. Coach Bo McMillin has another good Hoosier ball club led by the ever-dangerous George Taliaferro, flashy left halfback.

But Dr. Eddie's boys are on the rebound following two sound thumpings at the hands of UCLA and Illinois. And this afternoon they will answer the question that the gridiron world has been asking ever since the UCLA tilt—"Will the Hawkeyes make trouble in the Big Nine?" Personally, we think they're a better ball club than they have shown so far. With a fired up team in their 36th Homecoming, we'll stick to the Hawkeyes.

New York City is the scene of the nation's No. 1 grid spectacle of the day. The Black Knights of West Point go down to Yankee Stadium from their pinnacle above the Hudson river to risk their 30 game winning streak against Illinois' powerful juggernaut. And from our vantage point it looks like the Big Nine Champion Illini in one of those thrillers.

Minnesota and Northwestern inaugurate their Western conference season at Minneapolis today. The Wildcats and Bob Voight's startled gridiron fans last Saturday when they squeezed over UCLA, 27-26. We think it was "over their heads football" and are picking Bernie Bierman's Golden Gophers.

Besides the Illinois-Army battle, New York City will also see another of the best games of the afternoon. Columbia and Yale, two top elevens of the east, toe the mark at Baker field. And it looks like Lou Little's Lions to take Old Eli.

In the intersectional clash of the Pacific coast and the Big Nine, "Pappy" Waldorf returns to the Midwest with a strong California team to meet Wisconsin's Badgers at Madison. They'll beat the victory drums back in Berkeley tonight.

Duke's Blue Devils, winner of two in a row—against Tennessee and North Carolina State—face the hapless Middies of Navy, loser of their first two games. The Middies have been built-up considerably since their great showing against Army last year. However, as yet they have shown nothing in regards to their press-releases. No other decision than Duke.

In the seventh game on our card, we're going to stick our necks out and pull for Rutgers over Princeton.

Our record after last week is 12 wins, 7 losses and 2 ties.

Army Risks 30 Game Winning Streak Against Illinois Today

NEW YORK (AP)—Army opposes the biggest threat to its unbeaten streak since the Notre Dame game of last year in its contest today with Illinois, 1946 Big Nine and Rose Bowl champion, in Yankee stadium.

All but 5,000 of the 71,000 seats were sold in mid-week and officials hurriedly ordered the printer to provide them with standing room pasteboards.

Each team is shy some of the name players of last year but each has conquered a pair of rivals this year with apparent ease. The Illini subdued Pittsburgh, 14 to 0, before crushing Iowa, 35 to 12. Army moved past Villanova, 13 to 0, and then conquered Colorado, 47 to 0.

The intersectional tilt, which replaces the usual Army-Notre Dame contest on the New York City program, is the fifth between the two schools. Each has won two of the earlier meetings, each getting the triumphs in his own bailiwick.

Army has not been defeated since it lost to Navy, 13 to 0, to close out the 1943 season. Twenty-nine of the games since then have been victories while Notre Dame held the Cadets to a scoreless tie last Nov. 9. Illinois has a modest win streak of eight.

The entire cadet corps of 2,200, plus the famed Army band of 100, will be brought down from nearby West Point for the contest.

The probable lineup:

Blue Hawks Romp To Victory Over Monticello, 27-13

By STU JOHNSON

The Bluehawks of University high smashed their way to a 27-13 victory over Monticello in yesterday's Homecoming game at the University practice field.

Piling up first downs in rapid succession, the Blue and White backs charged through gaping holes in the Monticello forward wall to rack up their first season and conference win.

University high collared three tallies by long marches and one by virtue of Bob Ojemann's 85-yard sprint after he intercepted a Monticello pass.

Coach Leslie Linn's Monticello Panthers relied mostly on the play of Quarterback Don Skelly. Flat passes from Skelly to Paul Schneider, right halfback, netted both Panther goals.

Skelly's first toss connected early in the first quarter. Mildred Claus, fullback, failed to convert on an off-tackle run and the Panthers led, 6-0.

Coach Lou Alley's Blues bounced back sending converted Quarterback John Carson and Ojemann through and around the line for consistent gains. Dick Larew pushed over the tally and Ojemann bucked the line for the extra-point.

Monticello took advantage of a bobbed punt-catch and recovered the ball shortly after the start of the second half. Skelly tossed twice to Schneider to nail a touchdown and a conversion. Monticello was out front, 13-7.

The Bluehawks bucked down and scored a touchdown and a conversion to take the lead again. A Panther drive was thwarted in the last period when Ojemann snagged a Skelly pass and raced 85-yards down the left sideline to the pay dirt. Doug Dierks failed to convert through the Red line.

Leading 20-3, the Bluehawks added one more score and extra point to secure the game. Carson drove through tackle from his own 30 for the tally and Ojemann plunged over for the extra-point.

Tri Deltas, Phi Deltas, South Quad Winners

"Mow 'Em Down!" "Smoke the Hoosier out!" "Indiana Stew!" "Hoosiers Riding for a Fall!" "Iowa Rolls!"

With these signs on Homecoming decorations to set them off, University of Iowa fraternities, sororities and dormitories went all out yesterday to make this one of the most colorful Homecomings in the history of the university.

Throughout most of the day a busy hubbub from the housing units rang through the air, as hammers, saws and willing hands pitched in to make each display "best on campus."

One local dress shop joined into the spirit of the occasion by dressing a manikin in the garb of an Iowa football player — yellow pants, white jersey and all.

Winners of the annual decoration display contest were named last night by the judging committees from the Lions, Elks and Kiwanis clubs. They are: Sororities, Delta-Delta Delta, first place; runner-ups, Alpha Xi Delta and Sigma Delta Tau.

Fraternities, Phi Delta Theta, first place; runner-ups, Psi Omega and Alpha Tau Omega. Honorable mentions, Theta Xi and Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Dormitories, South Quad, first place for the second successive year.

To each winner will go a traveling cup contributed by the three judging clubs.

Biggest and most impressive display of the day was the "cornless" Homecoming monument.

The monument was designed by Mark Meier, E3, Iowa City. He was handed the $10 winning prize at the pep rally last night.

However, the fun wasn't confined only to decorations and monuments. Even before the city began to respond to the slow influx of 52,000 expected guests and alumni, sweater-clad Tailfeathers from the student pep organization set out to win a new record for Homecoming badge sales.

One happy Tailfeather, T. G. Van Camp, E3, hit a humorous note when he persuaded coach Bo McMillin of the Indiana team to buy a homecoming badge. Tailfeather Van Camp said the Hoosier mentor offered little resistance.

Prof. Louis C. Zopf, homecoming chairman, reported last night a total of 20,200 sold by Tailfeathers.

The black team sold a total of 10,300 while the gold team has sold 9,900. Badges will remain on sale until game time today, the Tailfeathers said. The goal, as set by Zopf, is 32,500.

Theta Sigs To Hold Fall Rushing Party

Fall rushing for Theta Sigma Phi, professional journalism honorary sorority, will begin with a party Wednesday night at 8 o'clock in the YMCA rooms of the Iowa union.

Eligible for pledging are junior and senior women majoring in radio or editorial journalism who have above average scholarship rating and have demonstrated their journalistic ability.

Virginia Jessen, rushing chairman, pointed out that professional Panhellenic rules prohibit a member of Theta Sigma Phi from belonging to any other professional fraternity. Since Gamma Alpha Chi is an advertising honorary sorority, only women who have indicated preference for radio or editorial journalism will be rushed by Theta Sigma Phi.

Terry Grimes and Lorella Petreln will be in charge of the Wednesday night program. Bobbie Henderson will be social chairman, and Marjorie Schmidt will have charge of invitations.

Correction

A miscalculation in the Oct. 3 market basket price showed the amount for sliced peaches to be $1.02. It should have been 85 cents.

Thus the index should have shown a 10 cent decrease, instead of a seven cent increase as reported.

Consequently, the Oct. 10 index published yesterday should have shown only a 27 cent decline, instead of the 44 cent decline reported.

This week's market basket index is $16.61. The corrected market basket index for last week is $16.88.

Harold E. Stassen's Des Moines Speeches

Some writers and indeed, the former Minnesota governor himself, like to depict Harold E. Stassen as a liberal presidential candidate. Some even went so far as to predict that he would be able to draw some liberals out of the Democratic party.

If any who harbored such thoughts heard his speeches at Des Moines, we're sure they would have come away disappointed. Let us briefly note a few items of his speech before the Iowa bankers association, entitled "Capitalism in a Postwar World."

First he points out the obvious fact that the greatest crisis of our age is the struggle between the two systems—that of the Russians and our own.

Then he lists the well-known political liberties for which we strive: individualism, human dignity, spiritualism, freedom and inalienable rights. Never once does he apply these to the economic system which has changed so markedly since our political philosophies were developed.

He did not point out that the most serious indictment of our economic system is that in large measure the rise of the factory, large scale finance, sprawling corporations, and the assembly line of production have in fact materially lessened those liberties in an economic sense; and that control of money has exerted its influence in the political field to make those liberties exist in some cases only for the holders of economic wealth which brings with it power.

Not once did he even so much as mention that while our political liberties are pretty well defined, that the great new area of "new frontiers" lies in the expansion of economic freedom for great numbers of people.

Never once did he stop to ask how much freedom a factory worker has with an income barely enough to pay his current expenses with nothing to salt away in the bank; how much dignity is bestowed upon a laborer who must swear he is a non-Communist before he becomes an equal before the Taft-Hartley law; how much spiritual value is gained from turning the third bolt on the rear wheel of an automobile all day long on an assembly line; how many inalienable rights a person has who is caught in the web of economic insecurity.

Those, it seems to us, are the real challenges the capitalist system faces. Face and solve those challenges and we think the Communist problem will pretty well take care of itself. For if they are not solved, we think all the speeches in the world will not save us from Communism.

Next Stassen develops his thesis that the Communist system alone is materialistic. It seems to us that all economic systems are essentially materialistic, for that is what they are concerned with.

But an objective analysis of the two systems, we think, would convince one that the Russian system is less materialistic, for it depends on spiritual zeal and patriotic desire and to some extent compulsion to produce goods, while ours depends almost exclusively on money.

We found this out during the war, when both management and labor had to be coaxed to produce more by offers of greater profits and wages.

This doesn't mean that the Russian system is better. We happen to think it isn't, as the capitalistic system is much more likely to induce production through the profit-wage incentive (humans being what they are) and still leave the greatest area of political freedom.

The point is that once having accepted capitalism as the better scheme, there are still many injustices and maladjustments which must be ironed out. Our energy should be concentrated in that endeavor. But Stassen apparently didn't think this even worth mentioning.

Stassen did endorse the President's "save food" campaign, which showed some measure of a bipartisan approach to this important problem.

In his speech at the Republican rally—an occasion entirely separate from the bankers convention—Stassen tried to recover some of his "liberalism."

He seemed to be doing fine—in words, at least—until he came to the Taft-Hartley act. He said he approved of it in spirit as it now stands, with possible revisions needed on the non-Communist affidavit and political activities sections.

Stassen had gained some fame for his handling of labor questions in Minnesota. He had convinced both labor and management that their problems could be best solved if the human element were recognized. How he could then approve the spirit of the Taft-Hartley bill is hard to understand.

Some Notes on the Bankers' Convention

Evidences that one of the major problems facing both the bankers and the entire nation is inflation were everywhere.

Each of the many speakers referred over and over again to that vital question of how to stop the spiral.

One speaker was confident we would never have another disastrous depression. The bankers didn't seem to be very much convinced—as revealed by their questioning of him.

And they had seen the historical truth graphically depicted on a huge chart of our long-time "boom and bust" cycles. This chart was placed at the registration table. Thus, even before their meetings began, the bankers had seen the evidence.

Another speaker implied that the inflation battle must be fought—not on Wall Street or Pennsylvania avenue—but on Main Street. It wasn't fair. They didn't start the inflation cycle, and they didn't know how to stop it.

Many of the speakers were authorities in their fields. Most of them were only fair as speakers. But all of them reflected the conservative viewpoint of their audience. Now, maybe they should have invited a heretic—say Henry Wallace, just for a change of diet.

Along that same line, we think it would be a good idea if every convention would invite a speaker as diametrically opposed in belief as they could find. The AVC could invite Herbert Hoover, the NAM could listen to Harry Bridges, etc.

It would make the program more lively. It would challenge their basic assumptions, it would stir them from their lethargy. The CIO newspapermen did just that at their national convention, inviting the counsel for the newspaper publishers. Nobody came away converted, but even the newspapermen had fun listening to him.

Taft handled himself much better in his press conference than did Stassen. He showed a good sense of humor and displayed a pretty deep knowledge about some complicated subjects—much as one might disagree with his views.

But he was pretty dead in his formal speech from a manuscript—but it was a pretty dead subject: "Debt and Taxes."

When he swung back into the familiar GOP cry of New Deal socialism and bureaucracy the next day at the Republican rally, he spoke up with notes and did a much better job of speaking.

THE LIE DETECTOR

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT

Loyal as a Village Idiot

By SAMUEL GRAFTON
New York Post Syndicate

The State Department's loyalty code seems a trifle negative. In effect, it defines a trustworthy American as one who has never committed treason, supported foreign governments, joined Communist or Fascist parties, or their fronts, or shown signs of habitual drunkenness, sexual perversion, moral turpitude or financial irresponsibility. But one could readily fulfill all these qualifications, and still be a dreadful jerk.

GRAFTON

This is negative loyalty, loyalty judged on the basis of what one has not done. A character who passes these tests is undoubtedly loyal, in one sense, as a block of wood is loyal, or as a village idiot is loyal. But isn't there something positive about the quality of loyalty, which ought to show up in the standards in some way?

The negative approach is risky. My aunt hasn't had an automobile accident in twenty-two years; she has never scraped a fender or frightened a pedestrian. That sounds as if she were a wonderful driver, but it happens she doesn't drive.

The State Department has an absolute right to loyalty among its employees, and it needs standards which can be written down on paper, and interpreted by reviewing officials. These must be lucid and simple. But couldn't there have been one little clause, saying that in determining the question of trustworthiness the Personnel Security Board must take into account any actions which tend to show that the employee under review entertains positive feelings of devotion to America and to the democratic way of life?

I can conceive of an American, deeply stirred in 1932 or 1933 by the Nazi menace (a decade before the Nazis declared war on us), joining even a "front" organization to oppose Hitler. His loyalty, maybe, is of the kind that would not let him sleep at night, for fear of the rising danger to democracy.

I can conceive of him suggesting to a fellow American that he, too, join. I can imagine the second man saying: "Ah, that's a lot of hokey, Hitler's all right. Forget it." Under the State Department code, the second man is a better loyalty risk than the first. He has never had an accident. He also has never driven.

How, then, do you work it out? I don't know. Loyalty is a subjective quality; it is hard to get at it by objective tests. But the point is that it is a quality, not just an absence of other qualities, or a void. Love is also a subjective quality, but one usually recognizes it when it turns up, and it is not merely the absence of hate.

The danger is that the State Department, and government generally, may under this approach, acquire over the years a staff of sleekly uniform nonentities, unreacting men, able to slip through the ragged recipient of our cup of coffee and our bowl of slum to stick around for the hallelujah and hit our sawdust trail. We want to save him from that old debil Stalin and the vodka that steals away his manhood and his soul.

Stalin wants him, too, however, and may want him badly enough to be willing to fight for him. Our question is, do we? And, having fought for him and won him, are we stuck with him forever in the role of baron of all the world?

the meshes of a mechanical and negative testing. These will be the tame ones of our community, the professional non-goers-out-on-limbs, while the imaginative and sensitive ones (those who react to world events as, say, Thomas Jefferson reacted to events in France in his day) may decide that government is not for them. One wonders if government can stand the loss, and if dull conformity can carry us through the years ahead.

After all, the new State Department code has provisions, such as those barring support for any foreign government, which might have caused Byron to be proclaimed a poor Englishman for fighting for Greek independence, and Lafayette a bad Frenchman for helping us to win freedom. Who questions that these men were loyal to the ideal of liberty?

The State Department is perhaps doing the best it can, setting up rules of thumb which can at least carry it, as an operational entity, through a complicated time. But it is at best a crude safety first code, not a loyalty code, and in its own way it reflects that mechanical abhorrence of deviation which is one of the festering sores in the Communist philosophy. It could be argued, without too much sophistication, that a dull, pious, scared conformity is not a positive American virtue.

And how are we going to hold our heads up proudly in the years to come without using all of our wonderful, energy-giving American virtues?

Sepulchral Silence or Fascinated Listening?

TO THE DAILY IOWAN:
The seemingly objective review of Robert Lowell's poetry reading was corrupted by the antagonistic slanting of one paragraph: "Lowell read his poetry in a morbid monotone while his audience listened in a sepulchral silence."

In addition, the remainder of the article is a repetition of biographical fact. There is a singular lack of the bubbling nimpoopoo which is the mark of Daily Iowan approbation for other great artists. No mention is made of an embarrassed, shy young man, who in spite of this gave an intense and honest reading of his poetry and himself to an overflowing audience that listened in fascination.

Tailfeathers' 'Public Opinion' Challenged

TO THE DAILY IOWAN:
Here on the campus we have been treated to an interesting example of the development of a morality.

An organization with an overt backing of the university and the student body has proceeded, and to a great extent succeeded, to make the wearing of a (homecoming) pin the badge of "sociability."

What was once "public opinion" only in the minds of the Tailfeathers, has, by a subtle use of a psychic mechanism, become "public opinion" overtly.

If my aim were only to discredit or embarrass the Tailfeathers or anyone else, it would be small indeed. But the psychic phenomenon which is demonstrated is of far greater importance than any embarrassment incidental.

It illuminates quite clearly how easily and subtly a small minority affecting by their actions the popular consent of the people may come into the position of ruling the mass of citizens by assuring the guardianship of morality.

To accuse the Tailfeathers of any conspiracy is, of course, preposterous. What any individuals has done in the present situation is of little consequence in itself.

Yet, the same lack of forethought on the part of the public under the conditions might have national or world consequences of the most profound nature. Nations have been pushed into wars or tyrannies by just such a judicious use of "public opinion."

AS PEGLER SEES IT

Is Russia Talking Us Into World War III?

By WESTBROOK PEGLER
King Features Syndicate, Inc.

NEW YORK—The Russian government had a definite purpose which they believed worth-while in starting their campaign of personal slurs against President Truman. The calculated purpose of this nastiness was to provoke repartee from our side.

Recent experience in similar situations with Hitler and Mussolini may have had no influence toward our involvement in the war, but the odds are that it did. They ribbed us and we ribbed them back. Then the row got louder and rowdier and there was just no hope of a handshake until the usual proceedings had been had in the cellar of the saloon or out behind the signboard.

When that happened, we just didn't know our own strength. So we knocked the bums dead and now find ourselves tempted by our charitable nature to support their wives and children indefinitely. Our charitable nature is likely to be the ruin of us yet. But what would they be doing for steak and potatoes if there were no such nation as the United States? If we didn't exist, what then? There never was a sucker like us on earth before.

Russia can't insult the United States. They might get your goat, but are not insulted by something offensive on your shoe. You are disgusted and annoyed but not insulted. If we do let them get our goat, they win the inning or heat because that plainly is their purpose in running this program.

Then we have allowed them to move us into position for the next poke.

If we keep our temper, however, we outscore them. First, we deny them the effect that they have tried for, and, at last, we have made them commit themselves in a way that cannot be "interpreted" harmlessly even by Eleanor the great, who now ought to get out of public life, having done harm enough in gratification of any selfish individual's vanity.

The Russian government has led at us with gratuitous declarations of hostility to the people of the United States, who cannot be distinguished apart from their government because we are it. That is not a comfort to any of us and it is least pleasant to the mothers of American boys between the ages of twelve and 15. This was the age bracket of most of the American fighters of the second great war at the time that Eleanor's husband sent to Germany a seedy and misanthropic old mediocrity named William E. Dodd, who did his satanic dammed to see that those children must fight on Russia's side against the Germans, and finally had his way.

It is not a comfort to know because took my potato to a cafeteria dietician and asked her if, in all seriousness, she thought that the potato was worth ten cents.

The woman regarded the potato with complete lack of enthusiasm for a minute or two; and then, in an equally disinterested tone, she said, "The buttered potato is worth ten cents!"

The country has gone to hell!
GEORGE C. RUFF
Grand Ave. Cottage 343

yond any false reassurance that Russia has singled us out as the great enemy in the next world war. But it is better to know this than continue to escort Russian scientists and technicians through our plants, showing them everything, while they sneer in our faces and refuse to show us so much as a screwdriver in their country.

It is better to know this and be warned, than to continue to let Eleanor the great give imperious orders to rat-gray flunkies in our state department to admit Communist enemies to our country in the guise of friends and persecuted refugees.

We have never quite faced the monstrosity of this old lady's arrogant gall in this conduct. Who ever authorized her to give orders in our government? What post was she ever elected to?

Now there is something to be gained from the Russian swipes at President Truman and our national intentions.

Practically all that Stalin said, through a journalist called Boris Gorbato, which may be a house name used by a dozen hacks on the staff of the Literary Gazette of Moscow, was either quite true or within a shade of the truth. It was nasty but true. If you speak of Harry Truman's bow-tie and his high-water pants with a smile, no harm is done, although I never thought he looked at all short in the pants.

All that about Truman and Pendergast was true, too, and I have written it just as mean myself. Mr. Truman can blame himself for any hurt he suffers for this now.

All that was written about the sordid and cynical corruption of the vaunted "democratic process" at the Roosevelt convention of 1944 is true, sparing inaccuracies which make the whole no more shameful. It was a disgraceful proceeding and the worse for its enactment by a lot of mocking fakers who made a fool of the common man and fooled him so lastingly that even today millions of him would fight you in defense of Roosevelt's name against the slightest imputation.

And when the Russian wrote about our new imperialism in Europe he was, God help us, absolutely right. We had imperial moments before and we did cool off for a long time, but the feeling of bigness, importance and power in the world is now costing us lives in war and millions or lifetimes of work, education and personal achievement through our spending on prestige and power and trying to buy good will.

A Swiss or a Costa Rican may live a happy life. He doesn't have to live up to bigness.

An American who works one day each week to pay his federal taxes works 20 percent of his life for the government. If, for a rough figure, half of the money goes for prestige, power and good will, he spends three entire years in involuntary servitude, or slavery, to foreign countries, in a working career of 30 years.

He never understood or intended this to be so, even for the purpose of saving the Bessarabians, Macedonians or Poles from starvation, Communism or any other fate.

Any Russian propagandist who brings this unsuspected but dramatic fact home to the American citizen does him an unintentional favor. This salvation may be a laudable project but it isn't legal with us, as far as we know, feasible.

The most emotional salvationist among us can't deny that we ask

Report Italy, France Need No Aid Now

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Three congressmen newly returned from a six-week tour of Europe said yesterday they believe France and Italy can get through the winter without emergency aid from the United States, but Rep. Monroney (D-Okla.) disagreed.

Rep. Andresen (R-Minn.), who visited 11 countries, told reporters: "Things are not as bad as they have been portrayed to us by representatives of our own government. I think Europe can make it to spring, all right, without too much suffering. There is no mass starvation as we had been led to believe."

Rep. Mahon (D-Tex.) estimated that France and Italy will be able to maintain adequate living standards with their present resources until March 1. Rep. Richards (D-S.C.) set the date at April 1.

But Monroney, who also visited Europe, said: "If we don't give interim relief until some sort of long-range aid can be planned, Russia will step in just at the right time this winter. Russia will send enough grains and other food to get across the idea that she is the only country with a real interest in starving people."

Another picture of conditions came from Murray D. Van Wagoner, former governor of Michigan and now U. S. military director of Bavaria, who said almost all Germans are hungry and are suffering "slow starvation."

$3-Million Increase In 1947 Net Income Of Rock Island Road

Net railway operating income (after federal taxes) of the Rock Island railway showed a $3-million increase for the first eight months of 1947 as compared with the same period of 1946, figures released by the railway indicated.

(The Daily Iowan previously had mistakenly interpreted figures showing a $6-million increase in net revenue from railway operations (before taxes) as "profit.")

Total railway operating revenue for the 1946 period was $106-million, compared with $117-million for the 1947 period. At the same time, operating expenses also increased, from $81-million in the

No Decision To Seek Bids On Parklawn

The year-old question of whether or not bids will be advertised for the construction of Parklawn apartments was left unanswered yesterday when the board of education met in Old Capitol.

Plans for permanent university buildings are being referred to the building and construction committee, according to David A. Dancer, secretary.

Dancer admitted the board spent time discussing "Parklawn and other proposed buildings."

Parklawn, 374 apartment project for married students, has been on the university's permanent construction schedule since April, 1946. Bids then indicated the project would cost more than $2,000,000. Plans were dropped for the time because of the high bids.

Other projects high on the university building agenda include a permanent library and a communications building.

Report Shows Johnson Co. Farms Good

By MERRITT LUDWIG
Last Tuesday's agriculture department report of typical farm living conditions in the United States should show Johnson county far above average in the opinion of Emmett C. Gardner, county extension director.

He contested the agriculture department report yesterday by describing typical conditions in this county. Gardner accounted for the difference between typical American and typical Johnson county conditions by noting that the national average includes the poor farm conditions in the south.

The report said members of the typical farm family "live in an old house, either in serious disrepair or unrepairable. They are without running water, telephone, central heating or bathtub."

The report went on to say, "The windows and doors are poorly screened. Flies attend every meal, spring and summer. There are mice in the kitchen and rats in the barn..."

Gardner painted a contrasting picture of the typical Johnson county farm. He said, incidentally, there are over 2,500 farms of an average 160 acres in this country.

The key to farm modernization, says Gardner, is electricity. He estimates three-fourths of Johnson county farms have electricity and what's more, the average farmer uses three times as much power as the ordinary city family.

The addition of running water to a farm home goes along with electrification. Most farmers in this county have electric pumps which maintain running water supplies not only in the house but in the barns and poultry houses too.

The majority of farm wives no longer stoke a cook stove with corn cobs and wood. They have bottled gas ranges and a few have electric ranges.

Gardner said he doesn't know of a single farm in this county which doesn't have a car. One fifth of the farms have at least one truck.

The day of the farmers' isolation from town activities is gone, said Gardner. Most every farm receives at least one daily newspaper and farm families are ardent radio listeners, hearing at least two news broadcasts each day.

Gardner said it used to be that a farmer would get to bed early, but with the convenience of cars, town meetings are only a few minutes away. He thinks farm people have a more avid interest in athletics than townspeople.

Summarizing the agriculture report, Gardner said that it can't possibly apply to the Midwest.

"Farmers here are ambitious and are working for efficiency and convenience all the time," said Gardner.

Decentralists To Discuss Bulwarks for U. S.

America's answer to socialism, communism and monopoly will be the theme of the fourth national decentralist conference at Parsons college, Fairfield, Oct. 24 and 25.

The conference will bring together representatives of organizations which are engaged in programs to strengthen American institutions.

Chairman of the conference will be Willis Nutting, formerly of Iowa City, and son of the late Charles Nutting, long-time member of the University of Iowa faculty. Nutting is now professor of sociology at the Notre Dame university.

The Chicago Bears have won the National Football League championship seven times.

Tackle Ben Mann of Mississippi spent the summer laying pipe for gas lines lines.

College Revenues Increase As—

Students' Costs Rise 41 Percent

—Nationwide Survey Indicates

More than one out of every three students who sought admission to an American college were unable to get in this fall, the annual Investors Syndicate survey of higher education revealed recently.

The nationwide survey of senior colleges and universities disclosed that the average school is rejecting 34.3 percent of all applicants.

Significant among the survey's findings was the fact that while colleges' costs have increased 103.1 percent since 1939, their average revenue has increased 110.7 percent due to government aid, higher tuition and larger endowments.

Although the average budget was slightly unbalanced in the prewar years, it will be slightly in the black this year.

The survey pointed out, however, that this largely reflects greater prosperity in the smaller schools, many of which were only partially filled before the war.

Estimated costs for students have gone up 41 percent since 1939 with the sharpest rise in room and board charges, according to the survey.

Costs for room, board and tuition for the average student on the Iowa campus, which totaled $400 in 1939, have now risen to approximately $630, an increase of 63.5 percent.

For the first time, veterans out-number non-veterans among the student bodies of the nation, the survey indicates. While in 1946 there were a few more non-veterans in the classrooms, present figures show that 52.1 percent of all students were formerly in service.

Figures released by the registrar's office at the University of Iowa on Sept. 26 indicate that the percentage of veterans on the Iowa campus is even higher, totaling 56.5 percent.

The survey estimates total college attendance this year at more than 2,315,000. Of the total, about 70 percent or 1,620,000 are men and 695,000 are women. In 1939 only 61 percent of the national total were men. The increase in the number of men enrolled reflects the return of many students whose educations were delayed by the war.

Seventy-two percent of the University of Iowa's 10,130 students are men.

As for employment after graduation, the schools report that 96 percent of the most recent male graduates and 90 percent of the women are now settled in jobs. Estimated starting salary for men was $2,407 a year, for women $2,002. The average male had 4.1 jobs from which to choose, while the average girl had her choice of 3.6.

The trend toward more basic education seems to be marked. Almost all the colleges report they have added courses to improve the students' knowledge of world affairs and social problems and to broaden their culture. Only half say they have added courses to give more vocational training.

Both veterans and married students get a vote of confidence scholastically. Nearly 80 percent of the schools say that veterans excel other students while less than 2 percent compare them unfavorably. Married students are better than single students in the judgment of 57 percent of school administrations while less than one percent rate them lower.

Kadera Pleads 'Not Guilty'; Nine Others Arraigned In Court

Herman J. Kadera, 416 N. Dodge street, yesterday pleaded not guilty to a charge of adultery at an arraignment before Judge James P. Gaffney in the Johnson county courthouse.

Kadera, who was released on $5,000 bond, was indicted by the Johnson county grand jury Monday. Luella Kessler, named as co-respondent, also pleaded not guilty and was released on $5,000 bond. Attorneys Will J. Hayek and Clair Hamilton represented Kadera and Scott Swisher appeared for Mrs. Kessler.

Nine other persons, indicted by the grand jury, appeared at the arraignment.

A representative of Leroy E. Weekes, Post No. 3949, Veterans of Foreign Wars entered a plea of not guilty for the post to a charge of illegal possession of slot machines. The club posted a $1,000 bond Tuesday. Attorneys for the organization are Messer, Hamilton and Cahill.

Edward Shores of Springfield, Ohio, was sentenced to pay a fine of $300 or serve 90 days in the Johnson county jail after he pleaded guilty to a charge of driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated. Judge Gaffney suspended one-half of the sentence and paroled Shores to Sheriff Albert J. Murphy for six months. He was credited with the six week period he was held while awaiting arraignment.

Marvin Topinka of Solon entered a plea of not guilty to a charge of abusing a child. He was released on $10,000 bond. Will J. Hayek is Topinka's attorney.

Three men, Stanley H. Johnson, Jesse N. Snider and Ray Furman, entered pleas of not guilty to charges of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated. Johnson, who was convicted of two similar counts, in 1942 and 1946, was released on $500 bond and represented by Attorney E. P. Korab. Snider, who was convicted of a similar charge in 1941, posted $500 bond and was represented by Attorney Scott Swisher. Furman who was released on $500 bond, was represented by Attorneys Swisher and Swisher.

Judge Gaffney assigned Attorneys Edward Lucas and Ingalls Swisher to represent John Kellaney and John J. Griffin who were indicted for lascivious acts with children. Griffin and Kellaney will be arraigned Oct. 15 to enter pleas on the charges. They are being held in the county jail on $2,000 bail each.

Reynolds Gray, facing a charge of lewdness and indecent exposure, did not appear. His attorney Fred Stevens, said Gray was in a local hospital. The court deferred his plea for 30 days.

According to Sheriff Murphy, the other nine persons indicted on the grand jury report probably will appear for arraignment next Wednesday.

Hold Final Rites For Willis Stutsman

Funeral services for Willis Stutsman, 47, farmer who lived northeast of North Liberty on the Lake Macbride road, were held at 2 p.m. yesterday at the Oathout funeral chapel. The Rev. Ira J. Hoover of the Sharon Evangelical church officiated and burial was in Oakland cemetery.

Stutsman, despondent because he would have to vacate the farm he was working by next March, shot himself with a .410-gauge shotgun, Wednesday, according to Coroner Frank L. Love.

He had been planning to move from the farm, owned by Ira Albright, since early this summer, according to friends. The gun he used did not belong to him, according to friends.

The deceased was born in Johnson county Dec. 31, 1900, the son of L. L. and Stella Hartsock Stutsman. He married Lavae Mathes Dec. 22, 1926. They have been farm residents since that time.

He is survived by his parents; his widow and a daughter, Joan, living at home; a sister, Mrs. Wallace Nicola of Clinton, and a brother, Paul Stutsman of Kalona.
