3 Dead as Plane Hits Pikes Peak

COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO. (AP)—A missing Iowa National Guard C-47 transport plane was found smashed against a snow-covered slope of Pikes peak yesterday, three of its crew dead and four injured.

National Guard headquarters at Des Moines identified others aboard the plane as:

Maj. Robert R. Oliver, Albert Lea, Minn.; Staff Sgt. Aloysius Kessel, 27; Staff Sgt. Jack W. Glider, 38, and Sgt. Leo Simmons, all of Des Moines, and Lt. D. D. Clark, Minneapolis. The seventh man's name was not released.

One of the injured crewmen had apparently stumbled down a mountain trail to bring out a partly coherent story of the crash. He was identified as Master Sgt. John W. Knight, 28, of Des Moines, home base of the plane.

Shortly afterward, a Colorado Springs deer hunter, Leonard Detherage, 28, clambered to the ship through thick timber and foot-deep snow.

Inside the crushed fuselage Detherage found six men, with both the dead and the living wrapped in parachutes. Knight apparently had done this before setting out for help.

Detherage said the three survivors seemed to be seriously injured and only one was able to talk. He asked if "the other guy," apparently referring to Knight, had reached safety.

The plane struck the northwest corner of Pikes Peak and plowed along a ridge, remaining fairly well intact after skidding on its belly through snow and timber, according to Detherage.

The hunter made his way to the automobile road and guided members of the rescue party.

The plane was en route from Hill field, Utah, to its home base at Des Moines on a civil air patrol flight.

Rescue All Aboard Crippled Seaplane

NEW YORK (AP)—The Coast Guard cutter Bibb yesterday rescued 18 persons who spent a hazardous night on a crippled flying boat in the North Atlantic.

The cutter then headed for Boston with all 69 of the plane's passengers safely aboard.

The Bibb's skipper and his crew worked under adverse weather conditions for nearly 24 hours to remove the men, women and children from the trans-Atlantic plane.

The big flying boat crash-landed near the cutter Tuesday when fuel ran low. The plane was sunk by guns of the Bibb.

Cedar Rapids Woman Suicide at Solon

Mrs. Bessie Fields, 60, Cedar Rapids, committed suicide by hanging, yesterday afternoon, while visiting the Solon home of her sister and brother-in-law, according to Dr. Frank Love, Johnson county coroner.

The body was found by her sister at 6 p. m. in an abandoned building on the farm. Love estimated Mrs. Fields had been dead about an hour when discovered.

Mrs. Fields had been hospitalized recently for several weeks following a nervous breakdown. The last few days she had reportedly "been greatly depressed."

Plan Pep Rally For Grid Team

Send-off today for members of the football squad leaving for the Ohio State-Iowa game will be held at the Rock Island railroad station at 3:15 p. m.

According to Paul Van Order, member of tailfeathers, cheerleaders will be present until the train leaves at 3:30.

Give University of Iowa Report on European Conditions

SUI's 'Report on Europe'

By JAMES DOOLITTLE
Western Europe is a battlefield for two opposing ideologies, and food is an "important weapon," Rex Conn, farm editor of the Cedar Rapids Gazette told an audience of 600 farmers, students and towns-people yesterday afternoon in Macbride auditorium.

Conn and three other members of the Iowa farm group which recently returned from a flying tour to study food and farm conditions in Europe each gave brief talks on different regions. The meeting then was opened to questions from the audience.

"Europe is in the midst of economic stagnation and the economy of Germany is at a standstill. Life has been reduced to the fundamental elements of food, fuel, clothing and shelter," Conn said. "European democracy is strongly tinged with socialism, but at least it is not communism. The little man—the farmer, the worker — will decide the course his country will take. He struggled through the war and now after two and one-half years he finds it even worse. He is in a blind alley, and can see no chance for improvement."

William B. Davidson, Stanwood livestock farmer, said the key to the recovery of Germany is to get its industrial production going by stimulating coal mining. He said German miners were given a food ration of 4,000 calories as an incentive to work. The normal German ration is 1,550 calories. Of this, the Germans themselves product only about 600. Davidson did not visit the Russian zone of Germany.

The German farmer, although working hard, faces the problems of obsolete equipment and lack of commercial fertilizers, Davidson added. About 60 percent of the food raised is turned over to authorities for rationing in the cities, he said.

The Germans are not trying harder for increased production because they don't know what is to become of them as a nation, Davidson continued. He believes that morale and production could be raised by making a peace treaty as soon as possible.

The second speaker was Harold Watters, Danville grain and livestock farmer, who told of conditions in France and Belgium. The French look to the United States for 80 percent of their imported foodstuffs, with more coming from South America and Canada, he said.

One reason for the call for help,

Watters said, is that the worst drought in 50 years occurred this year. The French diet is about 2,300 calories and is supplemented on a flourishing black market.

Belgium is in somewhat better condition, Watters remarked. There is an outward show of prosperity due to heavy purchases of uranium by the United States. Under the rationing program, butter costs 84 cents a pound. The price on the black market was $2.75. Watters said the farmer eats the best, because he is closest to the food supply. Although Belgians are extremely short of commercial fertilizer, they could teach us a lesson in its effective application, he said.

The third speaker was Charles Hearst, Cedar Falls, who described the situation in the United States government."

France Prepares 'Drastic Measures' To Relieve Strikes

PARIS (AP)—France's strike wave grew more threatening yesterday and the government was reported preparing "drastic measures," including operation of the Paris subway system by troops, in order to break the capital's transport tieup.

Meanwhile, the Communist-dominated general confederation of labor called on "the entire working class" throughout France to "actively support" the strike of subway and bus workers in the capital.

The French merchant seamen's union announced 36,000 sailors, officers and shore workers would walk out this morning and tie up French and African ports.

Footsore Parisians had more bad news when the taxi drivers' union prepared for a 24-hour strike today in sympathy with the subway and bus workers.

The government put more emergency bus and truck services into action throughout the day after requisitioning private busses and trucks, ordering in army trucks and calling for volunteers to drive them.

Truman Authorizes Dollars for France

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman made $50,000,000 available to France yesterday for purchase of food and fuel.

The state department reported France still is so short of dollars she has put out official feelers toward possible seizure of private funds of French citizens in this country.

Undersecretary of state Robert A. Lovett told a news conference the U. S. government is studying legal points involved.

For the present, Truman authorized the army to use $50,000,000 of its funds to buy francs from the French government. With the francs, the army department then will pay France for services and supplies for American troops and for "other expenditures of the United States government."

Million Dollar Damage From Winds, Waves

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP)—A hurricane from the Atlantic battered this city with 80 to 100-mile winds and the neighboring Georgia-South Carolina coast with damaging tides and waves yesterday, then blew itself out last night in South Georgia.

The weather bureau reported that the fast-dissipating storm, with winds of only 17 to 22 miles an hour, was somewhere between Albany, Ga., and Tallahassee, Fla.

Damage at Savannah alone was officially estimated at $1,000,000 and at nearby Savannah Beach at $500,000. Total property damage elsewhere, although apparently not severe at any place, was expected to total another $1,500,000.

Thousands of trees were uprooted and strewn across highways, and communication lines were badly disrupted. The greater part of the blow spent itself, however, on unpopulated coastal marshlands.

Only one casualty was reported, an unidentified man being crushed to death by a falling tree near Charleston, S. C.

Most residents of Savannah Beach had time to seek safety on the mainland before water covered the connecting causeway. The Red Cross reported more than 1,000 persons took shelter in Savannah's city hall. Countless others jammed themselves in neighborhood schoolhouses.

Two cabin cruisers were left atop the causeway leading to Tybee island when waters receded. From the island, itself, came reports that Trinity church was being blown down and many homes severely damaged. Most of the buildings at Saffold Field, on nearby Wilmington Island, were flattened. Several planes were demolished.

Highest tides in history inundated Morehead City, N. C., and skiffs were used to remove residents of waterfront homes. Bogue sound waters rose to three feet on a street adjacent to Morehead City hospital.

Ask Aid Action

CIO's Appeal Unanimous

BOSTON (AP)—The CIO last night called for "prompt action" on European aid after hearing Secretary of State Marshall declare that such a move was urgent because the world faces "actual disappearance of the western civilization on which American living is based."

Top CIO leaders spoke in support of American foreign policy, without a single dissenter, and the convention unanimously favored aid which President Philip Murray said "would go beyond the Marshall plan if necessary."

The two-hour discussion followed Marshall's declaration that food and coal are "immediate requirements for Europe."

Marshall told the convention that "the basic problem of world recovery is production" and Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Automobile Workers, followed that with his assertion that "the power of American economy must be geared to human needs."

Reuther asked, however, that labor be given a place "at the council tables in Washington and that labor be drawn into active participation in carrying out foreign policy."

The secretary told the national convention of the CIO that he was

"reaction to the efforts of the enemies of democracy to disrupt the structure of our society in the domestic field."

The 600 CIO delegates and 1,500 visitors and guests applauded that statement and again when he said: "No section of the American population has a more vital stake in the preservation of free institutions in the world than has American labor."

Marshall said that the "basic problem of world recovery is production"; that food and coal are "immediate requirements."

Will Hang Japs

ST. LOUIS, (AP)—Mary Magruder Mingis, grey-haired librarian for the army corps of engineers here, disclosed yesterday she had offered to serve as hangman for Japanese war criminals in the Philippines "to help even the score for what they did to my brother."

Will Clayton Quits Undersecretary Job

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Undersecretary of State Will Clayton resigned yesterday with a strong plea for congress and the American people to help European recovery.

In a farewell news conference, Clayton said failure to bolster the war-devastated countries would involve a grave danger of economic and social disintegration abroad. The result, he said, would imperil both the economic and political future of the United States.

Clayton's resignation, effective today, drew expression of "deep regret" from both President Truman and Secretary of State Marshall.

Hospital Patient Plunges to Death

Mary Norris, 26, Alexander, Iowa mental patient at University hospital died at 8 p. m. yesterday, hospital authorities reported, from injuries suffered after leaping from a fourth floor window.

The accident occurred about 3:30 p. m. when Miss Norris went into the bathroom, leaving her attendant in the room. Miss Norris apparently opened the bathroom window and jumped to the ground.

She was admitted to the hospital Aug. 30, after being brought from the Independence State Mental hospital.

Train Traps 4,000

Riders Crawl To Safety

NEW YORK, (AP)—Frightened, soot-blackened subway riders scrambled to safety through a smoky tunnel deep under the East river today after a rush-hour train stalled and stranded an estimated 4,000 passengers in the tunnel.

Begrimed women collapsed as they reached the surface after crawling along catwalks and tracks and climbing 100-foot inclines or emergency stairways. More than a dozen passengers were taken to Beekman hospital and treated for shock. Others were revived by police emergency squads at the scene.

Four trains, with office-going riders packed shoulder to shoulder, were held in the dark river tunnel for more than an hour after the first train developed mechanical trouble and stalled.

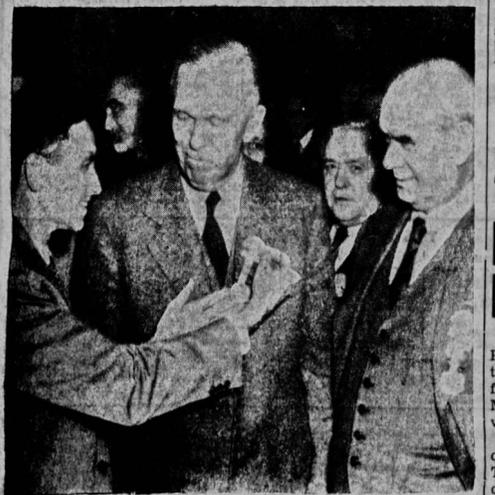

As minutes passed, heat in the jammed cars of the first train increased. Women became hysterical, some fainted.

"There was fire under the seats," one man said. "The conductor tried to put out the fire with an extinguisher, but this made more black smoke."

Finally Roy Fullem, 23-year-old former sailor, opened the doors of the first train by emergency handles.

"Do you know what we were talking about all the time?" asked Abria Fogel, 17-year-old clerk. "We were worried about our jobs, and wondering whether the boss would believe our story."

Mee 'Bad Boy'-Satira

Erotic Poet, Dancer Says

HAVANA, CUBA, (AP)—Dancer Patricia Schmidt ("Satira") yesterday told the court trying her for the slaying of her lover, John Mee, that he was "a very bad boy" who wrote erotic poetry.

The prosecution completed its questioning of the 22-year-old Toledo, Ohio, performer and the defense began its interrogation before court was adjourned until tomorrow. Indications were that the trial would last another week.

Miss Schmidt's father, John Schmidt, who told reporters "I am here to be beside my daughter in her trouble. I want to take her back home with me."

Patricia kissed her father and stepmother, who also was present, but the excitement at the reunion upset her stomach just before trial resumed for the third day of testimony.

The prosecution is asking a 30-year prison sentence for the fatal wounding of Mee aboard his yacht in Havana harbor last April.

In response to questions by prosecutor Felipe Gonzalez Sarain, Patricia said she had told Dr. Lester Mee, Wilmette, Ill., father of the slain Chicago attorney, that Charles Jackson, Mee's companion on the yacht, was really her lover.

"Jack (her name for John) Mee told me to lie so his father would not know how bad he was," she said.

"Was Jack Mee really a bad boy?" the prosecutor asked.

"Yes, for many reasons, he was a very bad boy," Miss Schmidt responded.

Poultry Stocks Hit New Oct. Record

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The agriculture department reported yesterday on the eve of "poultry-less Thursday"—that poultry stocks in cold storage Oct. 1 were the largest on record for that date.

The stocks increased 23 million pounds during September to reach a total of 206 million pounds. The total of stored eggs, shell frozen and dried was equivalent to 12,200,000 cases, one million cases below the figure of a year ago, and the lowest holdings in 25 years.

Northwestern Searches For Line-Backers

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Coach Bob Voigts searched his Northwestern university football squad yesterday to replace his first choice line backer who are out with injuries. Gasper Perricone took the place of Richey Graham as the defensive fullback in yesterday's workout.

Coaches were hopeful that Dick Price, No. 2 line backer and center, who was hurt on the opening kickoff at Minnesota, would be ready for action Saturday against Michigan.

Purdue

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Purdue held an extended scrimmage session yesterday as Coach Stu Holcomb sought to polish its running attack and bolster its pass defense for its intercollegiate game with Boston University Saturday.

Hope was expressed that Tackles Lou Karras and Ray Stoelling and Guard Earl Murray, who were injured in the Notre Dame game, may be ready for some action against Boston.

Illinois

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Coach Ray Eliot shifted Lou Donoho from third string guard to second string center yesterday as the injury-riddled Illinois squad worked out in preparation for the Minnesota game at Champaign Saturday.

Contact was brief as Eliot fears further injuries. Sam Zatkoff, right end, suffered an arm injury but will be able to play Saturday.

Michigan

Injuries Continue Plaguing Hoosiers

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Indiana's injury-ridden Hoosiers had only three regulars in the varsity lineup yesterday as they tried to get in shape for their game with Pittsburgh here Saturday.

One of the three, Halfback George Taliaferro, was hampered in his passing by a bandage on a lacerated finger. Other regulars in action were End Bob Ravensberg and Halfback Mel Grooms.

The latest casualty was Right Guard Bob Harrison, on crutches with a knee injury.

Wisconsin

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The University of Wisconsin football squad worked on defense again yesterday, spending the first part of the period on pass defense and the last hour on dummy scrimmage against Yale plays demonstrated by the freshmen.

The squad leaves by chartered plane today, accompanied by Governor Rennebohm of Wisconsin, for Hartford, Conn., where the Badgers will make camp until time for Saturday's game at New Haven.

Notre Dame

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Notre Dame's line had a heavy workout yesterday, drilling on offense in an effort to bolster the team's rushing game and on defense against Nebraska plays run by the freshman squad.

Emil Sitko was reported definitely out of the Nebraska game with a pulled neck muscle, and Bill Gompers, who has been sharing the right halfback assignment with Sitko, was on the doubtful list with a shoulder injury. End Frank Kosikowski and Guard Buckley O'Connor also were in the lineup.

Shoeners To Act As Co-Captains

By BUCK TURNBULL

A 36 man Iowa football travelling squad, announced yesterday by Coach Dr. Eddie Anderson capped three days of preparation for their Big Nine tilt with Ohio State a Columbus Saturday with a rough scrimmage at the practice field yesterday afternoon.

The team will leave Iowa City for Chicago by train at 3:34 p. m. today, arriving at the Ohio capital tomorrow morning at 8:20. The trip from Chicago will be made by pullman.

Dr. Eddie also announced yesterday that the defensive spark-plug twins, Ends Herb and Hal Shoener, will captain the Hawks in quest of the first Iowa victory against the Buckeyes since 1928—the boys from Columbus have rolled up 123 points to Iowa's 13 in the four games following that year.

This afternoon at 12:30 Dr. Eddie will run his charges through a light limbering-up drill before boarding the train. It will be the first trip to Columbus for any Iowa team coached by Dr. Eddie.

The travelling squad includes eight ends and five right halfbacks with only five guards and two fullbacks on the list. However, no player of any consequence will be left behind because of injuries.

Two right halfbacks, Duke Curran and Bud Kaisershot, have returned to the team after injury lapses of more than three weeks. Dr. Eddie said yesterday that Curran should see a good bit of action but he is still doubtful of Kaisershot's lame knee.

Should the Hawks kick-off, Johnny Estes, reserve quarterback, will probably move into the starting lineup in place of Bob Smith. This also would result in Lou King getting the opening call at a defensive halfback.

Fearing a possible upsurge of the Buckeye line, which has not shown too well so far this season, Dr. Anderson drilled his linemen yesterday on their timing and blocking against a huge wooden "blocking sled."

The backs practiced their timing out of the T-formation and later worked against a dummy backfield testing their pass of fence. Most of the tossing was done by Quarterback DiMarco, who currently leads the Big Nine in pasing with 239 yards gained through the air.

Ohio State officials have announced that they expect a capacity crowd of 76,000 for the Iowa game with 72,000 tickets already sold.

Game Captains

IOWA'S TWIN ENDS, Herb and Hal Shoener, will lead the Hawkeyes in their invasion of Columbus, Ohio, Saturday. Dr. Eddie Anderson announced yesterday that the Shoeners, defensive stars of last week's Indiana game, will act as co-captains in the Ohio State game.

The Travelling Squad

State In Rough Session

AMES (AP) — The Iowa State college football squad yesterday went through its roughest workout of the week and the only rough one scheduled for the week, in preparation for Saturday's game with Michigan State at East Lansing.

Youth Football Casualty

DETROIT (AP) — Arthur Kirschner, 19, who suffered a broken neck Sunday in a football game between two recreation league teams, died yesterday, the city's first 1947 football casualty.

'Babe' Holds Lead At Halfway Mark

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) — Mildred (Babe) Zaharias of Denver led at the halfway mark of medal play in the two-division Hardscrabble women's open golf tournament here yesterday with 150 after 36 holes.

Mrs. Zaharias shot a 74 yesterday to add to the 76 she scored Tuesday on the first 18 holes.

Defending Hardscrabble Champion Betty Jameson of San Antonio established a new woman's course record with a six-under-par 73 to lift herself from sixth to third place in the nine-entrant medal play. Added to her 79 of Tuesday, yesterday's round gave her a 152.

In second place between Mrs. Zaharias and Miss Jameson was Patty Berg of Minneapolis, whose 74 yesterday made her 36-hole total 151.

With her 73 Miss Jameson broke her own course record of 75 established last year.

Youth Plays Football On Artificial Legs

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — When Bill Casey, 13, who lost his legs under a train in 1942, reported for the St. Patrick's grade school football team this fall, Coach Al Moran did not know about his candidate's handicap until three days after drills got underway.

Bill, who operates handily on artificial limbs, plays regularly on the school's seven man two-hand touch football team, serving his mates as a placekicker, runner and passer.

Bill wants to enter Marquette or Notre Dame and be a placekicking specialist, where speed would not make much difference.

Law Commons C, South Grand Advance

South Grand shut out Law Commons A, 12-0, and Law Commons C defeated North Grand, 13-0, to gain the quarterfinals in the South Quad — Gables — Law Commons League. Law Commons B' trounced South Quad I, 27-6, in the lower bracket.

Joe Febaugh ran for one South Grand score and pitched to Dick Walker for the other.

Bill Trease passed for four Law B touchdowns and three extra points. He hit Brad Morris for two tallies and a point after, Lloyd Douglas for one marker and two extra points and Joe Jackson for the other score.

Following are previous Iowa-Ohio State scores:
1922 at Columbus—Iowa, 12-9
1923 at Columbus—Iowa, 20-0
1924 at Iowa City—Iowa, 6-0
1925 at Columbus—Iowa, 15-0

Dick Dunkel's College Football Averages
For week ending October 19

Explanation: The Dunkel system presents a factual, unbiased picture of the relative strength of teams as revealed by the scoring correlation method. This method answers the question, "How well has each team performed relative to the strength of its opposition to date?" The teams set their own figures by the average scoring margin they establish above or below the average rating of their opponents. Averages are index numbers—not percentages. They indicate each team's potential scoring margin in the PAST over the weakest team in the country. Thus, a 5.0 team has been 10 scoring points stronger than a 0.5 team. In this manner past performances of any two teams can be compared regardless of location. The ratings have been continuous since 1923.

Editor, Farmers Report on European Trip

Old Soil Still Good, Crop Yields Prove

Although Germany's soil is old it is still good, as shown in their annual crop yields," Rex Conn, farm editor of the Cedar Rapids Gazette, said in an interview yesterday.

The farm editor pointed out that the prime problem was Europe's lack of fertilizer and machinery. Conn said that there was little humor in Europe. Occasionally there was a laugh on the trip but it was overshadowed by the austere and sober circumstances prevalent in Europe. "The feeling became more obvious after reaching Germany," he said.

The trip to Europe was an excellent idea, according to Conn—well worth the time and money. The former farmer believes that much can be gained from the recent trip.

Conn was born in Marengo and graduated from Iowa State college in 1922. He has farmed in many sections of the state until four years ago when he started to work for the Cedar Rapids Gazette as farm editor.

Sees U. S. Need for Steady Customers

"Round trip fares to Europe won't help me buy more acres for my farm," admitted William Davidson, Stanwood, "but it gave me a chance to see some of my future customers."

Davidson, owner-tenant of a 480 livestock farm, feels in the near future it will be necessary to have a steady European market.

"We need those people to buy our products," he added.

Davidson admitted he was lucky

Little Glamour on Bumpy Plane Trip

"The first lap of our plane trip to Europe was bumpy... that's all the glamour we witnessed," claimed Harold Watters, member of the 26-man Iowa farm-expedition to Europe.

Red-headed Watters, with the aid of two employees, operates a 440 acre grain and livestock farm in Danville.

"This is a great war for American wheat growers, Watters stated. "Evidence of the large crop can be seen clearly in our district," he added.

Watters feels he learned a great lesson in the use of land on his trip. "European farmers can teach us a great deal about intensive farming."

It was their use of fertilizer that interested Watters the most. He added, "They have a better

Cigarette Economy Still Grips Germany

Charles Hearst, Cedar Falls farmer, one of 26 Iowans recently returned from Europe, said he wasn't given much time to make up his mind about joining the expedition to Europe.

Hearst said he received a phone call one evening requesting him to go along with the farmers and editors headed for Germany. "I told them I would let them know in a couple of weeks after I had tied some loose ends up," Hearst said. "I was then told I had to be ready to leave at 5:30 the next afternoon."

In an interview yesterday afternoon the Cedar Falls farmer said that Germany was still on a cigarette economy. He pointed out the value of cigarettes by stating that about two-and-a-half packages would buy a ton of wheat there.

Hearst said that German's were seen frequently scrounging and picking in their fields in search of food after dark.

He shattered rumors that German's ransacked garbage cans looking for food by saying, "The Germans don't have any waste to throw into garbage cans."

It would be a good idea to send county agents from Iowa to Germany to show the German's community life, according to Hearst. Hearst said that his brother, James, and he own 520 acres of land on which they raise grain for the feeding of hogs and beef cattle.

The amount of water required by the different plants to produce a pound of dry matter varies from 270 pounds to 576 pounds.

Eight Men Appear In District Court

Eight persons, indicted by the Johnson county grand jury in its report, Oct. 6, appeared before District Judge James P. Gaffney for arraignment yesterday at the Johnson county courthouse.

Four men pleaded guilty to charges of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

Harry W. Crain, 1019 E. Burlington street, was sentenced to pay a fine of $500 and costs or serve 150 days in the county jail. Judge Gaffney suspended one-half of the sentence and paroled Crain to Sheriff Albert J. (Pat) Murphy for six months. Crain's drivers license was revoked for 90 days and he was given until Nov. 6 to pay the fine. Crain was convicted on a similar charge July 18, 1944.

Elmer Leroy Trumpold, Cedar Rapids, and Henry F. Griffin, Riverside, were both sentenced to pay fines of $300 or serve 90 days in the county jail and have their driver's license revoked for 60 days. One-half of the sentence was suspended for each man and they were paroled to Sheriff Murphy for six months. Griffin was given until Nov. 6 to pay his fine. Attorney Charles Penningroth, Cedar Rapids, represented Trumpold and William H. Bartley represented Griffin.

William A. Nelson, Hills, appeared on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated. Nelson, who was convicted on the same type of charge Jan. 27, 1940, had his case continued until Oct. 22. According to Jack White, county attorney, Nelson appeared later yesterday afternoon and changed his plea to guilty. R. Nielson Miller, county clerk, said he had received a check covering the $250 fine and costs from Nelson.

John J. Griffin and John Kellaney pleaded guilty of lascivious acts with children. Both men were sentenced to serve six months at hard labor in the county jail. The court credited them with the time that they had been in jail since their arrest.

Edward Lucas was attorney for Kellaney and Ingalls Swisher was attorney for Griffin.

Pleading not guilty to charge of assault, Richard K. Ratchford was released on $500 bond. The charge against Ratchford states that he "did on or about August 26, 1947 assault Mrs. Henrietta Ratchford with the intent to inflict great bodily injury. Swisher and Swisher are attorneys for the defendant.

The court appointed Attorney Will J. Hayes to represent Roy O'Leary who faces a charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated. O'Leary pleaded not guilty to the charge and was released on $500 bond. He was convicted on a similar charge Nov. 22, 1946.

Marks Appointed to Classification Group

A.C. Marks, director of the University of Iowa's office of non-academic personnel, will hold a three-man University Personnel association committee to standardize the job classification of university employees throughout the country.

The appointment was made by Donald E. Dickason, chairman of the University Personnel association and director of the non-academic personnel office at the University of Illinois.

The committee will conduct a study leading to the "standardization of class specification and position title nomenclature of employees," the appointment said. Rates and conditions of employment will also be studied and standardized.

Other members of the committee are: Colin Maclaurin, personnel officer, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Mass., and J.N. Edward, personnel director, California Institute of Technology, Pasadena, Calif.

Court Disputes State's Right To SUI Land

Can Mean Transfer Of Property Sought By Parking Committee

A ruling yesterday by District Judge Harold Evans left to the state supreme court the decision on what will become of a square block of land on the university campus granted to the state by an 1890 city council.

Evans decision overruled a state charge that the district court lacked jurisdiction in the case. This means that if the state supreme court refuses to review the case, or if it agrees with Evans' decision, the case will be tried in district court here.

The disputed land, adjacent to East hall and the electrical engineering building on the university campus, is tentatively slated as the site for the university's proposed communications building. However, it has been suggested as a parking lot by the Community Parking committee.

The parking lot possibility was not mentioned in the court case submitted yesterday by Mrs. Celia Carson, 906 E. College street. She entered it in behalf of "a number of citizens" who protest the university's possession of the land.

The state will probably ask the supreme court of Iowa to take the appeal over Evans' ruling, according to Arthur O. Leff, attorney representing the state attorney general's office.

As a result of yesterday's ruling the case will have to be tried in district court unless the state supreme court overrides.

The state's attack of the district court's jurisdiction came up for hearing Sept. 9.

Yesterday Judge Evans overruled and denied that special appearance "as to all grounds" after considering the briefs and arguments.

Commenting on the ruling, Evans said that "justice can better be meted out by the actual trial of this cause."

In purporting to enact an ordinance giving the state exclusive use of the area for the university, the city council and mayor about March 7, 1890, acted without legal authority and in violation of their duties as municipal officials, according to the petition by Mrs. Carson.

Her petition also charges that the Iowa general assembly's act in 1890 to legalize the enactment of the Iowa City ordinance is void and unconstitutional.

America's Future Rests on Mid-East Oil, Says DeGolyer

"When the day comes when we no longer have access to oil in the Middle East the United States will cease to be a world power," Dr. Everette DeGolyer, petroleum geologist, said last night.

In a lecture sponsored by the geology department and the graduate college, DeGolyer revealed that the United States uses over five million barrels of oil a day. "We are geared to an oil economy," DeGolyer said. He pointed out that the rate of oil discovery in this country does not keep pace with our tremendous consumption.

Russia is America's prospective obstacle in the Middle East because Baku, in Azerbaijan, is gravitational center of Russia's oil potential, DeGolyer said.

Without the Middle East the United States has only limited oil reserves. Oil off the coast of California may amount to eight or nine billion barrels a year but

Johnson Sees Need For World Court

Prof. Jack Johnson of the political science department characterized present Russian-American relations as a "competition" between "two poles of attraction" in a speech last night before the Young Republican league.

The only hope he saw for the prevention of a clash between Moscow and Washington was the establishment of an "International organization to adjudicate the differences between these two poles of attraction."

Johnson admitted that the success of such a world court would depend on the willingness of the participating nations to abide by its decisions.

He termed the Truman doctrine and the Marshall plan examples of a change in American foreign policy in the last six months. We realize now that we have to compete openly with the Russians in Europe, he said.

"We must demonstrate that we have something to sell," he declared.

However, Johnson saw no ultimate good coming from "bribing the people of Europe." The United States, he said, must show a genuine interest in European rehabilitation to prevent the spread of Soviet influence.

will not keep pace with consumption, he said.

DeGolyer traced the techniques of oil discovery and said that the science of petroleum geology is relatively new. As oil resources decrease the need for petroleum geologists will increase, he said.

DeGolyer is senior partner in the firm of DeGolyer and McNaughton of Dallas, Texas, consulting geologists and petroleum engineers. During the war he was director of conservation in the office of the petroleum coordinator. He is a former member of the United States Geological survey.

Police Seek Owner Of Child's Tricycle

Somewhere the sun is shining, somewhere hearts are light—but there is no joy in an Iowa City home today where a child is sobbing for his lost tricycle.

Yesterday a three-wheeler, decorated with white chevrons resembling sergeant's stripes, was turned in to the police department lost and found room. By seven last night no one had showed up to claim it, and since the tricycle carries no license plates police are unable to notify the youthful owner that his treasure is safe.

British MP Here Next Week

Kenneth Lindsay, member of the British Parliament since 1933, will give two lectures here next week.

A noted educator, he will speak to the humanities society at 8 p. m., Monday and to the university's Great Issues class at 3:30 p. m. Tuesday. Held in Old Capitol, both meetings are open to the public.

Lindsay will discuss "Recent Developments in British Education" at the Humanities society meeting. His topic Tuesday will be "European Cultural Recovery."

Since 1945 he has made extensive inspection tours of Europe and Middle Eastern countries. The Spectator, Manchester Guardian and Observer, British newspapers, carried reports of his observations.

A member of Parliament from Kilmarnock Burghs from 1933 to 1945, Lindsay has continued since 1945 as a member for the combined English universities. He has been active in parliamentary debates, and has been in opposition to both the Churchill and Attlee governments.

Lindsay is the author of three publications: "Social Progress and Educational Waste," "English Education" and "Eldorado—An Agricultural Settlement."

Fence Erected for Templin Park Pond

Erection of a fence around the quarry on N. Riverside drive has been completed, R. J. Phillips, director of the university physical plant, said yesterday.

A special type of non-climbable fence has been on order by the university for more than four months. The shipment was received late Friday from the Keystone Wire company, Peoria, Ill., Phillips said.

This fence is primarily for the protection of children living in the Templin park area. It was ordered prior to the near-drowning Oct. 3, of young Phil Penningroth, 5, son of a university student-veteran.

Petition for Longer Thanksgiving Holiday

Students at the university will have to wait until next week to learn if the Thanksgiving holiday will be longer than the one day Nov. 27 now scheduled.

A committee from the Student council will meet with the university calendar committee to discuss the possibility of taking one and one-half days from the Easter vacation and adding this time to the Thanksgiving vacation.

This action was authorized by the Student council Tuesday. The committee will report to the council next week.

Serious Shortage of Nurses Faces U. S.

The American public faces a nursing situation described as "critical" by the American Nurses' association.

Speaking for its 155,000 registered professional members, the association declares that "the public must be roused to a clearer understanding of the present crisis if the health of the American people is to remain safeguarded."

The demand for nurses has skyrocketed in the last few years, according to a statement released by the ANA. Despite this increased demand there are many factors keeping would-be nurses from joining the profession and discouraging many registered nurses from continuing professionally.

Two factors are:
1. Inadequate economic security and unsatisfactory conditions of employment.

2. Faulty distribution of nursing service.
Commenting on this report, Mrs. Gella Clyde, acting director of nursing service, University hospital, said:

"We do not have a critical shortage of nurses here at the present time. But conditions are probably better here than throughout the state."

According to U. S. department of labor statistics for October, 1946, the average cash salaries for nurses in all fields, with the majority providing their own living quarters, amounted to $170 to $175 per month.

Salaries for graduate nurses at the University hospital were increased from $177 to $205 in July of this year. "Increasing salaries is the best method of attracting nurses into the profession," Mrs. Clyde said. "It was the dominate factor in relieving our shortage."

The ANA statement points out that the vast majority of nurses work a 48-hour week, while a great many still work as many as 54 or more hours a week.

The working week was cut to 44-hours at the University hospital when salaries were increased. Some nurses still work split shifts, however, and this practice is discouraged by the ANA.

On distribution of nurses, the ANA supports a nursing service equally available to all who need nursing care, regardless of economic status, in both rural and urban areas.

Nurses like all other professional groups, tend to concentrate in metropolitan areas this report said. Research and educational facilities are easier to obtain in these areas. A more satisfying social life is possible where economic conditions are more favorable.

The ANA, with the cooperation of state nurses' associations, has organized a non-profit, national-wide counseling and placement service available without charge to nurses and employers alike. This activity is designed to pro-

Third of Lectures On Atomic Energy Scheduled Tonight

Further basic concepts of atomic energy will be explained by Prof. George Glockler, head of the chemistry department, in the third of the atomic energy lecture series tonight at 8 o'clock in Macbride auditorium.

Last week Glockler outlined and illustrated with slides some chemical actions as a preface tonight's lecture on understanding basic atomic concepts. His two lectures are the beginning of the course the university has set up to explain the scientific, social and economic aspects of atomic energy in the world today.

Prof. J. I. Routh of the biochemistry department who organized the course, said yesterday that comments he had received on Glockler's first lecture indicated that the audience was impressed with the simplicity of the lectures. "People who had never had any chemistry or physics told me they are understanding basic science for the first time," Routh said.

The lecture will be accompanied with illustrations and will be followed by a general discussion period when the audience may ask questions.

Russian-U. S. Backing of Palestine Report

Russian backing of the proposal to partition Palestine into separate Jewish and Arab nations apparently was a surprise to even the American delegation at the UN.

The American delegation certainly voiced the appropriate reaction when they expressed "gratitude."

It is encouraging that at least in some cases the east and the west can work together.

The Russian action is all the more encouraging because of Russia's internal religious division. Moslems in Russia number about 20 million, and are thought by authorities to be the second largest religious group, next to the Russian Orthodox church.

That makes Russia's decision to resist the Arab objection to Palestine partition all the more notable. The Arabs, being part of the Moslem world, have expected and in many cases received Russian support in the past.

No one, including both the Russian and American delegations, have contended the partition plan is perfect. Both nations have reserved the right to suggest alterations and amendments.

But, in spite of the many complexities involved in the Palestine dispute, it would seem that the partition proposal is the best advanced to date.

The real test of the Palestine solution will come when a decision on use of arms to enforce partition will be debated. Here again, neither the Russians or the U.S. have definitely committed troops. The Arab attempt at intimidation must be met.

The agreement, in principle, on the recommendations of the UN special committee on Palestine (UNSCOP) is a notable achievement of cooperation.

Notes on Flying Farmers' 'Report to State'

Whoever originated the idea of a "report to the state" by Iowa's flying farmers in Macbride auditorium yesterday deserves a big bouquet. Frankly, we're not just sure who thought it up. Those concerned with the plans refused to take any credit. Let's just call it a cooperative effort well done.

Reports like this that increase the confidence of the state in the university. It's always hard for our predominantly rural population to visualize the need for a great and growing university. Panels and forums such as these help the people appreciate the function of the university.

The flying farmers are only very immediate symbols of the gradual reversal of the traditional "isolationist" sentiment among midwesterners. One of the group remarked at a noon luncheon that he left Europe and was home eating with his family 24 hours later. "We simply can't isolate—not when we're only 24 hours from starvation!"

We are only too happy to be proved wrong about our assertion yesterday that not more than a dozen persons would attend. That some 600 turned out showed that at least that many weren't "proud, selfish and scared."

And the content of their speeches outweighed that of at least a few visiting lecturers. They were direct and informal. They had no prepared manuscripts. They covered in a logical manner a great deal of territory—both mental and geographical.

The vote for the return of rationing—if necessary—ought to do two things:

1. show outsiders that a representative portion of the student body is serious about the dire necessity of helping to feed Europe.

2. It also to be a warning to those unwilling to share in the "voluntary" food rationing program that what we naturally don't like—if it can be avoided—may become a grim reality if the "voluntary" program fails.

Rome Election Encouraging

By J.M. ROBERTS JR.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Final returns from Rome's municipal election indicate that Premier De Gasperi's national government is stronger than might have appeared, and in no immediate danger of having to give back the cabinet posts it took from the Communists in May.

The Christian Democrats, party of the national government, ran a poor third in Rome last November. This was partly attributed to disappointment among its supporters that it had formed a coalition with the Communists in the national government.

The party's vastly improved position in the city now is being attributed to its renewed anti-Communist stand, and therefore taken as a sign that the Communists aren't all they were cracked up to be.

The Communists have been making a lot of noise, and there had been talk that, through their ability to cause strikes and create disorder, they might force the government to recall them into the cabinet.

Now, however, the premier can probably be expected to fight it out on the lines already chosen until the national elections which are expected to be held next spring.

In Sunday's voting in Rome the Christian Democrats and the Communist-dominated Peoples Bloc (which is itself not all Communist and subject to further losses of support as that party becomes more and more openly connected with Russian policy) broke about even.

The remainder of the vote went to small parties which range from moderate left (anti-Communist) to the extreme right. That means Rome is strongly anti-Communist, and the party of the national government is almost twice as strong as it was before it broke with the Communists.

The Christian Democrats apparently raided the extreme right Common Man party for most of its increase, rather than actually weakening the Communists. But a group of Socialists, demanding that their mother party break off its coalition with the Communists after the recent announcement of their inclusion in Russia's new central European Axis, also ran an independent ticket and did cut into the Peoples bloc.

All of these things carry encouragement for De Gasperi's non-Communist government and for the hope that American relief this winter will be able to tide Italy over her crisis and save her from becoming a part of the Russian sphere.

There had been real fear that Italy might become the first country to join the Communists through a free election. That would be an incalculable asset to the totalitarians, whose gains so far have come only through coercion. The chances of avoiding it now appear to be at least some better.

A Rare Bit of Sunshine

AS PEGLER SEES IT

MacPhail: Turbulent Yankee

By WESTBROOK PEGLER
(King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

NEW YORK—Larry MacPhail served 17 years in the baseball industry and, from first to last, was known to the laity as a picturesque, even turbulent, fellow.

There is a form of noblesse oblige on the sport side of our honorable profession which forbids us to spell out the reasons why such a one socked another. But, after years and years, that shrewd, salty fellow, the man in the street, begins to wink and smirk and the secret is all over town.

So now the mystery of MacPhail is revealed and we find that our picturesque, outspoken, uproarious fellow is just another copy of the same noisy nuisance who is tolerated by the owner, the help and the clients at the corner saloon until, finally, he turns an ash-tray through the back-bar mirror and the old man takes him by the slack of the pants and heaves him out for good.

Now the world series is both an athletic, or sporting, and a social feast on our calendar. The athletic, or sporting, phase is public; the social phase is confidential. During the long rebellion against the foul amendment, the Volstead act nowhere was mocked with more ardor and determination than in the corridors and cells of the retired and discarded players, managers and scouts and the world series journalists, except by the statesmen at the national political conventions held one year in four.

The method of the world series hospitality varies. In New York in the three old autumns of golden memory when the Giants and the Yankees were playing at the polo grounds, the main festivities were discussed in large rooms at the Commodore.

Auxiliary brawls were held at the old Waldorf and the Martini-que on Broadway. The arena at the Commodore was more or less exclusively for the working press, who numbered about 400 ink-stained wretches from sport rooms from here to San Diego.

Tommy Laird used to come un-failingly from San Francisco, Fred Digby from New Orleans and welcome and pleasant strangers from Havana, Caracas and Honolulu.

These were the early years of prohibition and yet some genie had spanked his palms together and dozens, maybe hundreds, of cases of soothing bourbon, Scotch and gin happened to occur. There was a pathetic feeling in those times that every bottle of potable stimulant probably would be the last that ever could be had in the United States. The result was an ignominious fogginess. Decent men and women often overloaded in a sad effort to emulate the squirrel who tucks the acorns in his jaws.

Admission to the falling-down, or rejoicing, rooms provided for the press and provisioned by some nameless benefactor was by card and badge, which also were required for the press-coops at the Polo grounds.

But many of us were caught between our manners and our humanity, so a guest, having passed inspection at the gate, would borrow one, or several, cards and badges from colleagues already within, and go into the highways and byways collecting friends forlorn in hunger and thirst and lend them wherewith to crash the gate.

On the off chance that they were parties to this enormous hospitality, I salute the memory of Capt. Til-Huston and Col. Jake

Just Like the Comics

TO THE DAILY IOWAN: You championed the right of newspapers to present all shades of opinions in your rationalization of retaining Paul Mallon's column.

On the same grounds, you could probably champion the retention of Westbrook Pegler's column.

But on what possible grounds can you rationalize the waste of valuable newspaper space which you devote to that assinine daily cartoon, "Sally's Sallies"?

Reader Defends Pegler, Says He's 'Educational'

I was filled with remorse when I read James Meade's letter concerning the "slanders" of Westbrook Pegler.

It is hard to realize that in this contemporary world there remain persons so naive as to wish that everything could appear through rose colored glasses.

Pegler happens to be the first thing I read in The Daily Iowan. Perhaps Meade would prefer to revoke the democratic respect for another's opinion. It is a reflection upon his own intellect that he cannot tolerate another's ideas if they happen to differ from his own.

I'll agree that many of Pegler's arguments I can't accept, but they do contribute good wholesome food for thought; a definite contribution to education.

Here and ancestor worship is said to have gone out of fad some time back. It is very nice to remember the only good qualities in a man except that when the bad qualities happen to have brought danger to millions of unsuspecting "worshippers."

This editing of a limelight personality after death happens to be comparable with the Hitler censorship which Meade claims he is against.

I spent my time in the service fighting for this freedom and now that we've won it, I think it should be maintained.

I suggest that you run a column of Victorian poetry so that some of your readers may enjoy their bacon and eggs.

And out of the fairness to your readers which Meade requests, I say let's keep Pegler.

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT

Choose Points or Peace

By SAMUEL GRAFTON
(New York Post Syndicate)

What attitude shall one adopt and live by during the current crisis between Russia and the west? It seems to me the desire for peace is still the strongest, the safest. The least likely to ensnare one in the dangers of historical error and moral warping.

In other words, after you have listened to some speaker make a powerful, clever, even a documented and reasoned attack on Russia, does something within you want him to go on and propose some plan for solving the problem and establishing the peace?

Or are you satisfied, politically, morally and esthetically, with the attack alone? If so, you are perhaps already partially mobilized inside.

Do you pounce eagerly upon a new argument against Russia, or is there a little bit of regret somewhere within you that the situation has deteriorated enough to produce such arguments? Would you be delighted with, or sorry over, new evidences, say, of Russian expansionist tendencies? Have you, over the last two years, slipped into the mental habit of making points instead of making peace?

The people of the world are entitled, of course, to take the same approach to the other side, also. Is the organization of a new Comintern, or of a half or three-quarter Comintern, a step toward peace, or is it an episode, in a mobilization for a fight?

What evidence does the Soviet Union give that it believes it to be possible, and desirable, for a capitalist United States to live out its own destiny in a peaceful world?

Does Russia entertain such a belief? Doesn't the Soviet effort to prove that American capitalist thinking resembles that of Hitler Germany come dangerously close to setting up the doctrine that peace with America is impossible?

Remember that the issue is peace; it is a distortion of the issue to change it into a noisy schoolyard dispute over which side is better. Who has set up for us the formal and untimely problem of instantly deciding which side is loftier, purer, nobler, and how has this problem come to be substituted for the real problem we faced at the end of the war, which was the making of peace?

It is possible to become so lost in watching the successive points made by each contestant (with head shifting from side to side, as when one watches a tennis match) as to forget that the game itself is bad?

To what judge, sitting on what bench, are we addressing these impassioned briefs? The issue is peace, not the assertion of superiority, and, in fact, the best way to assert superiority, and to make it stick, is to show capacity for leadership in making peace.

To want peace, to demand peace, to talk peace, to issue peace plans, to request the Soviet Union to come forth with peace proposals, is the only meaningful way in which to conduct this controversy.

The world listens with a sinking heart to the ingenious fellow (whether he be an American politician or a member of the new fractional Comintern) who hints that peace is impossible, and who douses the whole issue in a muggy, metaphysical salad dressing, thick with unripe analyses of national differences, and seasoned with a dash of determinism.

Nothing is more indeterminate than determinism, as the last war showed, when it disclosed ourselves and Russia fighting on the same side.

The issue is still peace, and the side which can ram home into the consciousness of the world its desire for peace will need no press agents to extol its virtues or to win it adherents.

Lewis Victor In AFL Row

SAN FRANCISCO (P)—John L. Lewis' thinly veiled threat to walk out of the AFL and declare an organizational war against AFL unions brought him a minor victory yesterday at the AFL convention.

Instead of acting on a resolution proposed by the majority of the resolutions committee which would have threatened large segments of Lewis' miscellaneous district 50, the convention voted to refer that resolution and a Lewis-sponsored minority report to the executive council.

This was the procedure which Lewis had advocated in a surprise new attack on his associates in the federation.

The maneuver which sent the whole controversy to the executive council instead of permitting the overwhelming majority to squelch Lewis on the convention floor for the second day in a row was made by William L. ("Big Bill") Hutchison of the carpenters.

Four Men Are Fined For Traffic Violations

Four convictions for traffic violations were recorded on the police court docket last night. Judge Emil G. Trott fined Joseph L. Mahr, Cedar Rapids, $10 and $1.50 costs for improper passing. Avis F. Mullenbug, Ainsworth, was fined $30 and $2.50 costs for speeding in a 25 miles per hour zone.

Hal B. Beck, 1843 N. Court street, Ottumwa, also charged with speeding, forfeited a $20 bond by not appearing in court.

For failure to obey the order of an officer directing traffic, Elihu Allison, 111 1/2 E. Washington street, was fined a total of $5 of which $2 was suspended.

 ed conditions in England, Scotland and Luxembourg. He said that England produced about 30 percent of its food before the war and was able to raise that figure to 41 percent during the war.

The English are trying to raise the figure to 50 percent in an effort to be self-sufficient during the period of reconversion, Hearst said. An attempt to lower food prices through cooperation of the ministry of agriculture and the farmers union resulted in lowered production.

As a result, Hearst said, the government has now guaranteed prices with a gradual increase for the next four years. The British diet is extremely starchy and has about 2,800 calories. The hard winter last year was responsible for the loss of a great number of sheep and cattle, Hearst added.

British farms are a curious mixture of very modern equipment and methods with very ancient ones, Hearst said. They have good yields on soil that is not too fertile. Scotland seemed to be busier and more efficient in its use of farm help.

Hearst said the outlook for youth was depressing for the next 20 years and that many young people wanted to emigrate. Conn said that if there were food riots, Communists would come to the rescue in France and Italy. He said there was no danger of Britain going Communist. The Communists are telling their story much more effectively than we are, he observed.

Conn emphasized that the present drive for grain to Europe is not a gift, but simply an increase in international trade. He said Europeans were denying themselves the products of their factories so they could pay for the grain.

It costs the United States $50 million a month to support Germany and it will probably cost more in the near future if Britain withdraws from her zone, Conn said. The nations of western Europe must solve their problems together, he added.

During the question period which followed, a show of hands revealed that the audience as a whole was in favor of a return to rationing if it should become necessary, whereas the farmers in the audience were opposed.

Davidson intervened at that point to say that rationing was not needed and Conn said it would be to late to wait for rationing.

The question of machinery on European farms is complicated by the problem of small fields, Davidson declared. He said that a more pressing need and one that could be more easily supplied was the need for commercial fertilizer.

The farmers paid for the European trip with their own funds. They were introduced to yesterday's audience by President Virgil M. Hancher. Prof. Orville L. Hitchcock was program chairman.

Battle on Over Purchase Of 250 Parking Meters

The Old . . .

Vet Leaders Deny Making Statements

By RAY HENRY
Iowa City took on the proportions of a miniature battlefield yesterday over the choice of parking meters.

Headquarters for the battle were situated at the police department where Alex Johnson, Magge-Hale Park-O-Meter representative, held out, and room 520 in the Jefferson hotel where Hugh Kron of the Duncan-Miller Meter corporation set up headquarters.

First skirmishes took place when the Park-O-Meter and the Miller meter representatives had a verbal set-to Monday night at the city council meeting.

Several small arms shells whizzed by the council members ears that were fired by Police Chief Edward Ruppert and Dan Dutcher, chairman of the city parking commission. They both recommended the meters now in operation.

Following these gunfire reports, the city council voted five to two to purchase about 250 meters, at a maximum of $80, each from the Duncan-Miller meter corporation of Chicago. The councilmen turned down an offer to buy the other company's machines for a minimum of $65 apiece.

Mayor Preston Koser, however, has not signed the contract with the Miller meter company to purchase the meters. He has 14 days to sign the contract. If he does not, it goes back to the council where a two-thirds vote is required to make it valid.

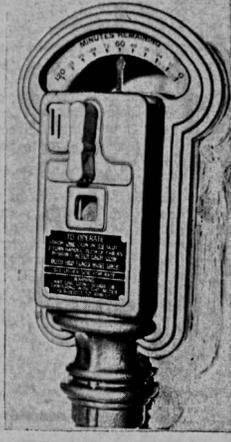

The first shot fired yesterday was straight at the target, but fell short. A local newspaper quoted officers of four veterans organizations as saying they all favored the addition of new meters, but not at a higher price than the original meters.

The four veterans organizations quoted as making the statement were: The American Legion, The Veterans of Foreign Wars post 2581, The American Veterans of World War II and The Disabled American Veterans organization.

The man who contacted the various groups for the "statement" was Deputy Sheriff Marold Gaspey, a member of several of the veterans clubs.

Sam Shulman, commander of the VFW, said: "Gaspey had no authority to give a statement from our organization."

Ben E. Summerwill, commander of the American Legion, declared: "He was not authorized to

And You Got a Ham Sandwich for 15 Cents

By MERRITT LUDWIG
"Butter 36 cents a pound, eggs 31 cents a dozen, hamburger 18 cents a pound."
Prices from back in grandmother's day? No sir! These were grocery prices in Iowa City on October 16, 1941—the last year before the war.

In general, grocery prices advertised in Iowa City papers on that day exactly six years ago were half what they are today.

Look at the chart below and compare prices with those advertised in the paper today.

1 lb. butter	36
1 doz eggs	31
1 lb. coffee	29
1 doz med. oranges	23
10 lb. Idaho potatoes	35
22 can peas	18
22 can pork & beans	10
2 1/2 cna sliced peaches	19
1 can tomato soup	09
1 lb. veg. shortening	18
1 lb. can red salmon	39
1 lb. size soap flakes	18
5 lb. cane sugar	29
10 lb. flour	39
20 oz. box oats	07
1/2 lb. baker's choc.	05
2 lb. American cheese	41
1 lb. lard	13
1 lb. hamburger	18
1 lb. beef rd. steak	35
1 lb. center cut pork chops	30
1 lb. 1st gr. bacon	25
1 qt. gr. A milk	11
1 20 oz. loaf wh. bread	10

On that day in 1941 the headlines were reading, "Moscow in Dire Peril as Nazis Advance." Hitler's forces were just 90 miles from the Russian capital.

On want ad pages in Iowa City papers six years ago today these were typical used car prices: '39 Ford tudor, $465; '40 Mercury sedan, $775; '40 Buick "special", radio, heater, new tires, $795. Remember this was in 1941 and these "used cars" were only a year or two old.

On that same day, 42 apartments and 14 houses were advertised for rent.

A furniture store was selling a Simmons innerspring mattress for $19.95—on sale, of course.

At one of Iowa City's leading theaters, Orson Welles in "Citizen Kane" was the feature attraction. Walt Disney's "Reluctant Dragon" was showing at another movie house.

In the comic section, "Boots and her Buddies" were out looking at the moon. Today she's married with one small son and a lot of typical postwar problems.

Wash Tubbs was all mixed up with a sequence about G-men and German spies. Wash's family has also grown with the years—he's now the father of mischievous twins.

Ceylon is about the size of West Virginia but has nearly as many people as Texas.

Cause for Divorce: He's Going to Spain

Jose Puig-Guri is going to Spain and he isn't coming back, according to a divorce petition filed by his wife yesterday at the Johnson county courthouse.

In the petition Mrs. Gwen Elizabeth Puig-Guri said he left for Mexico some time in November, 1946, and notified her of his plan to leave for Spain later. Her husband's attitude has ruined her health, Mrs. Puig-Guri said in the petition.

They were married Sept. 29, 1945 at Olin, Iowa. Attorneys Barnes, Chamberlain, Hanzlik, and Wadsworth represent the plaintiff.

Public Health Director Name Borts Chairman

Dr. I.H. Borts, director of the state hygienic laboratory, was elected chairman of the conference of state and provincial public health laboratory directors at their annual conference in Atlantic City, N.J., Oct. 11.

Dr. Borts returned Tuesday night after spending nearly 10 days in the east attending the conference.

To View Problems of Muscular Therapy

A convention of the Iowa and Minnesota occupational therapy associations will begin tomorrow at the University of Iowa medical laboratories. Marguerite McDonald, supervisor of occupational therapy at the college of medicine and head of the section at University hospital, announced the following program.

Friday, Oct. 17

9:30 a.m. Registration, room 120, medical laboratories.

10 a.m. Physical therapy demonstration—Mrs. Olive Farr, RPT, instructor of physical therapy, University of Iowa.

11 a.m. "Medical Aspects of Poliomyelitis"—Orrie A. Couch, M.D., resident in medicine, University of Iowa.

12:30 p.m. Luncheon, Jefferson hotel.

1:30 p.m. Craft auction, Jefferson hotel.

2:30 p.m. "Medical Aspects of Cerebral Palsy"—Dr. Arthur Steindler, head of orthopedic surgery, University of Iowa.

3:15 p.m. "Speechwork in Cerebral Palsy"—Spencer F. Brown, associate professor of the psychology and speech clinic, University of Iowa.

4:30 p.m. Occupational therapy department open house. "Angora Spinning"—Laurel Morre, Montezuma, demonstrator.

8 p.m. Movies, medical amphitheater, University hospital.

Saturday, Oct. 18

9 a.m. Business meeting.

10 a.m. "Rehabilitation Program at the State Sanatorium"—Neil Morey, director of vocational rehabilitation, Oakdale.

11 a.m. "Rehabilitation"—Clayton Gerken, technical director of veterans administration guidance center, University of Iowa.

make any statement for the Legion."

Dick Knudson, commander of the AMVETS, said: "I didn't make any such statement as that which was printed yesterday."

Robert Hess, commander of the DAV, said: "I didn't give permission to use the statement that was issued."

The second shot of the battle was fired but the shell proved to be a dud.

Iowa City Patrolman Ollie White, in company with this writer, at random inspected 23 of the Park-O-Meters now in operation on local streets.

The mechanism of the meters were checked for rust and corrosion. Of the 23 checked, 19 of them had the coin rotator plate rusted.

Don Purvis, meter mechanic for the police department, reported that the Park-O-Meter company had sent or were sending this part free of charge to replace the ones rusted. The replacement part is made of a rust-proof stainless steel.

Four of the meters checked already had this part replaced.

By evening, the warring forces had withdrawn to their dugouts—but the campfires are smoking with a fury.

Mrs. VeDepo Given Custody of Children

Settlement was made yesterday on the divorce suit of Lucille P. VeDepo and William F. VeDepo at the Johnson county courthouse.

Mrs. VeDepo, plaintiff in the suit, received custody of three minor children, household effects and $5 per week for each of the children. In her petition the plaintiff charged cruel and inhuman treatment.

They were married Dec. 28, 1943, at Rich Hill, Mo., and separated June 29, 1947.

Women Voters Help Draft National Plan

The Iowa City League of Women Voters will complete suggestions for a two-year national program of action at a public meeting at 9 o'clock tonight in room 102 Macbride hall.

The program, discussed by all league members after a meeting Tuesday, will be sent to national headquarters as part of a campaign to consider league opinion from the "grass roots," officers of the organization said.

A poll among Iowa City league members indicated many feel world peace and the development of the United Nations as a workable instrument are the most pressing problems in the world today, the officers reported. Others mentioned the trend toward fascism in the United States and the infiltration of communists into the labor movement.

To avoid war, many said they would be willing to accept a lower standard of living.

League members indicated in the poll, that, the organization might help promote world peace by eliminating selfish, narrow points of view and attempting to clarify the real conflicts between the United States and Russia through an objective study and analysis of the situation, officers said.

Patrolman Prevents Execution of Puppy

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—An attempt to dispose of a small puppy in gangland execution style was thwarted yesterday by a policeman.

Making his rounds, Patrolman Samuel Burger heard a noise in a dump.
