Brewers OK Plan To Limit Use of Grain

Industry Spokesman Says Cut To Have Little Effect on Output

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The nation's brewers agreed last night to limit their use of grain, including a 25 percent cut in corn consumption, without necessarily lessening the output of beer and ale, the citizens' food committee announced.

Top representatives of the industry, it was reported, agreed on a plan to cut the amount of corn used in each barrel of beer by one-fourth, and to halt use of sorghum grains and to stop buying edible barley.

This is in addition to the industry's previous pledge to eliminate use of wheat and table grades of rice.

Food Committee Chairman Charles Luckman estimated the corn saving at 650,000 bushels a month. He said another 350,000 bushels will be saved because of a normal seasonal decline in beer production.

The grain conservation measures will be effective for three months beginning Nov. 1.

A spokesman for the United States Brewers foundation, which claims to represent 90 percent of the industry's capacity, said the agreement should result in little if any decline in production and no change in quality.

This official, who asked that his name not be used, told reporters most of the country's 450 brewers will probably be able to find substitutes for the grain given up in the voluntary campaign to help save 100,000,000 bushels for Europe.

Eisenhower Told of Move, Backers Say

NEW YORK, (AP)—The Draft Eisenhower for President league said yesterday General Dwight D. Eisenhower had been informed by letter of the league's purpose, but in Washington a spokesman for the general said Eisenhower "had no prior knowledge of the club."

Maurice Mumford, executive vice-president of the league, made public the letter.

Maj. Gen. Floyd Parks, chief of the army's public information division, said Eisenhower had confirmed the statement which said the general "neither seeks nor desires political office and anyone who purports to represent him differently is mistaken."

When informed of Parks' statement, Mumford replied: "We wrote the general a letter addressed to the pentagon and if he didn't receive it it was because some of his underlings didn't give it to him."

"We're drafting him for the presidency and it is our right and privilege as American citizens to do so."

Parks said the Draft Eisenhower clubs were formed "without General Eisenhower's knowledge or consent." He added that "consent would have been emphatically withheld."

The chief of staff is president-elect of Columbia university in New York and is expected to undertake his new duties early in 1948. Parks said that when Eisenhower will be able to leave Washington "depends on when he finishes his job and can turn it over" to a successor.

MOSCOW, (AP)—Moscow observers said yesterday a Soviet state planning commission report indicated Soviet Russia will have several million tons of grain for export this fall and winter.

CIO to Campaign for 65 Million Voters; Asks People To Ignore Party Labels

BOSTON (AP)—The CIO set yesterday a goal of 65,000,000 to 70,000,000 registered voters for the 1948 election and called for one million political action workers to carry to the households of America a labor campaign they said could be won.

The convention of the 6,000,000-member congress gave no official indication of candidates they favored.

The 600 CIO delegates moved for "unprecedented" organization of the American people to ignore party labels in voting after hearing President Philip Murray declare "the American Federation of Labor, the railroad brotherhoods and the liberal people of the nation are in complete agreement with us on our political aims."

CIO Political Action Director Jack Kroll asked for a million volunteer block workers to expand labor's stand in their neighborhoods.

Michael Quill, head of the Transport Workers union, was cheered when he told delegates President Truman "must return to the ideas of the people." Quill added:

Lewis Loses Ruling Position On AFL Executive Council

SAN FRANCISCO, (AP)—Snubbed by John L. Lewis, the American Federation of Labor yesterday dropped the craggy-browed chief of the United Mine Workers from its ruling councils for the coming year.

Making good his defiant threat not to serve again on the executive council that he had savagely castigated as "dehydrated," Lewis and his mine workers were conspicuously absent from the annual election at the concluding session of the two weeks convention.

Green told reporters he expected the AFL would make a court test of the federation's political action program which this convention set up.

To Lewis' place on the executive council was elected Daniel W. Tracy, 54, president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

Standing ovations were given 75 year old William Green, re-elected for the 24th time as president, and George Meany, the New York plumber reelected secretary-treasurer.

Meany and Daniel J. Tobin, president of the Brotherhood of Teamsters, emerged from the turbulent convention scene as undisputed strong men of the AFL.

Today Lewis sulked in his tent with his miners when the election of officers came up. He was neither

A $5,000 Scare

TOWSON, MD., (AP)—A jury decided yesterday Mrs. Leona Mahle was injured $5,000 worth by the landlord who scared her out of an apartment.

The verdict was returned against Frank P. Hendall, already sentenced to a 90-day jail term on charges of assault and battery upon Mrs. Mahle and her almost-blind husband.

McGovney, 70, retired professor of constitutional law at the University of California and former dean of law schools at Tulane and University of Iowa, died yesterday of a heart ailment.

"I do not feel that today Russia really contemplates any military aggression, but there can be no doubt of its determination to spread the religion of communism throughout the world," he added.

Taft said the administration's "floundering" in its plan for food saving proved it did not know how to put on a voluntary program.

Representatives of the two meter companies clashed yesterday at the council meeting over the merits of their respective machines.

Purchase of the new type of meter was authorized in a resolution by the council.

Mayor Preston Koser said last night he had not signed the resolution. According to the 1936 municipal code the mayor can do three things:

1. He can sign the petition.

2. He can return it with his objections in 14 days for the council's reconsideration.

3. He can let the resolution become law without his signature 14 days after the council signed it.

The statement last night by the five council members said an investigation was made of the types of meters and "it was determined that the Miller meter was the best meter when a two-hour, 10-penny, two-nickel meter is desired."

They described the meter as an "accumulative meter which gives the individual 12 minutes for each penny or a full 60 minutes for a nickel."

"The Park-O-Meter is such, when made into a two-hour meter, that if a person were to insert four pennies and register the 48 minutes, and then insert a nickel, he would see that the meter would only go to 60 minutes."

"The Miller meter would give an additional 60 minutes for that nickel and would go to 108 minutes."

"We feel that the public is entitled to receive value for money placed in the parking meter and the meters were purchased with that thought in mind."

The aldermen stated they had checked with users of the Miller meter. In Cedar Rapids they found the city was "very much satisfied with the Miller meters."

"The controversy seems to be over the council investing $3,750 more than they would have invested if the Park-O-Meter would have been purchased."

"It must be remembered that when such a purchase is made the city does not pay one cent out of its city treasury, for the meters are paid for by money received through the meters."

The statement said the Park-O-

U. S. Foreign Policy Is Riot Of Inconsistencies, Taft Says

COLUMBUS, OHIO, (AP)—Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio last night described the administration's foreign policy as a "riot of inconsistencies." He added:

Hawks Entrain for Ohio State

75,000 to Witness Iowa, Buckeye Clash

"Ohio State here we come!" This was the cry of 36 Iowa football players yesterday afternoon at the Rock Island depot as they boarded their Chicago-bound streamliner. The team arrived in the Windy City early last evening and immediately stepped onto a Pullman which was scheduled to get into the Ohio capital at 8:20 this morning.

The trip is the second of five for the Hawks and their first of four consecutive road trips with only Minnesota remaining on the home schedule in the season close-out Nov. 15.

A Dad's Day capacity crowd of 75,000 will witness the Buckeye-Hawkeye clash, the second Big Nine tilt for Ohio and the third for Iowa. The Bucks dropped their conference opener with Purdue two weeks ago, 24-20, while the Hawks lost to Illinois, then downed Indiana last Saturday.

And if one were to judge the game tomorrow on the records of years gone by, Ohio State would be an overwhelming favorite. The two teams have figured in 11 games to date, with the Bucks winning six, Iowa four and one tie. But since Iowa's win in 1928, Ohio State has piled up four straight victories and 123 points to the Hawkeyes 13.

However, tomorrow Iowa will enter the game as a one touchdown favorite against an Ohio State team which has fallen far below their pre-season merits.

Although boasting some of the finest backs in the country, the Buckeyes have been seriously hampered by an inexperienced but big line. They barely squeezed by Missouri, 13-7, in their opener Sept. 27, lost to Purdue the following weekend, and then were trounced into the turf by Southern California last Saturday, 32-0.

But comparative scores mean little in Western conference games. It is apparent that neither Ohio State nor Iowa has been playing up to their apparent strength. The Hawks have come along slowly so far this season with their best exhibition shown last Saturday in their win over Indiana. Whether the Bucks will improve over past performances is another question. According to rumors, a gridiron explosion on the Columbus field is long over-due.

Iowa Scout Pat Boland, who observed the Ohio State eleven on two occasions, said, "Buckeyes remind me of a powder keg with a long fuse attached. The fuse sputters along for awhile, then quickly ignites the powder."

Boland described Ohio Fullbacks Joe Whisler and Ollie Cline as two of the finest in the country and added that Halfback Dean Sensenbaugh is capable of wrecking any defense.

A Football Hero Gets All the Gals

"You gotta be a football hero to get along with the beautiful girls" — and the tune goes on.

The words to this song were never wrong and yesterday they really expressed the situation.

As Iowa Hawkeyes waited for the train to carry them to their game with Ohio State yesterday afternoon, one gridiron was receiving a send-off from not one, but two beautiful gals. The lucky guy was Tony Guzowski, an end on this year's Old Gold eleven, who was the center of attraction. Tony was being admired by his two best friends, his attractive wife and his pretty young daughter.

And the song goes on.

Potent City High Invades Des Moines

Little Hawks at Dowling

Maroons Lose 3 Starters

City high's Little Hawks, winners of their last four grid contests, will invade Des Moines tonight to do battle with a supposedly weak Dowling high eleven. The game, to be played on the newly lighted Dowling field, will start at 8:15.

Coach Johnny Knolla of Dowling reported that he had dismissed six members of his squad, including three Maroon starters, for disciplinary reasons.

With only one victory to their credit this year, Dowling will undoubtedly be weaker than ever in their underdog role this evening.

City high and Dowling clashed here in Iowa City last year in a hair raising game which saw the Little Hawks hand the Maroons their only loss of the year, 21-7.

Coach Knolla has built this year's Dowling edition around Quarterback Joe Bates, who may fill the air with footballs labeled with trouble for City high.

Coach Frank Bates' Red and White crew is all ready for this one and the Hawklet mentor probably will start the same team that opened against Dubuque last week. Some last minute changes may occur at kick-off time. In the event that the Little Hawks boot the opening kick, Rox Shain will start at fullback in place of Reichardt to do the kicking. Dick Williams may start at quarterback and Dick Brown at left end if City high kicks-off.

The probable starting lineups:

Disclose New Council Soon

Names of the 15 women to act on the first freshman council of the University Women's association will be announced the end of this month according to Betty Dickinson, UWA vice-president in charge of the selection.

"It will be the first time that accredited representatives of the freshman class have had the opportunity to participate in university women's activities," Miss Dickinson said.

Members of the freshman council of UWA will work in conjunction with regular UWA council members on projects sponsored by the association, she explained.

Among these events are freshman and transfer orientation activities, Spinster's Spree, Information First and vocational conferences.

Women are being selected on the basis of poise, leadership abilities and interest in campus activities, Miss Dickinson added.

The freshman council will be a self-governing unit of the association and its president will be a member of UWA council.

Informal Rush Not by Invite

Open house tomorrow afternoon for women going through the informal rushing program will not be an invitational affair, according to Helen Reich, advisor to the Panhellenic council.

The 12 social sororities will each hold open house from 1:30 to 4:30 for the rushes.

Any junior and senior transfer women and all women who have completed one semester's work with a 2.0 accumulative grade average are invited to visit the chapter houses tomorrow. Those women who have not signed up may attend the open houses and register later in room 9, office of student affairs, Old Capitol.

Miss Reich added that other affairs during the three-week period will be invitational, however.

Food Bill Drops Seven Cents

By MERRITT LUDWIG

Iowa City grocery prices did the flip-flops this week. Nine of 24 basic food items went down in price and five went up. But an analysis of the changes shows the student housewife's grocery bill will be about the same this week as last.

On a market basket basis, the price of groceries dropped seven cents. Last week the basket was $16.61. Yesterday's figure was $16.54.

The price of butter went down two cents for the second consecutive week. Coffee and vegetable shortening, both of which rose the previous week, also took a two-cent per pound drop.

A two pound box of American cheese was reduced three cents yesterday. This was contrary to grocers' forecasts a week ago that the price of cheese would rise steadily.

light in the grain-saving campaign was also reduced in price—eight cents for a ten pound sack. Salmon, sugar and oatmeal were also reduced slightly.

At Iowa City meat departments, pork chops cost less this week. One grocer said he was following the wholesale price decline by marking down a pound of pork chops four cents.

By contrast, bacon went up four cents a pound and lard continued a one cent rise for the second week.

A dozen first grade eggs cost two cents more than last week. Canned peas and baker's chocolate each took a one cent rise.

Yesterday was eggless and poultryless Thursday. Grocers, however reported no reduction in sales of these items. In fact, one store had four grades of eggs for sale ranging in price from 69 to 54 cents per dozen.

One grocer remarked that cereal prices are on the upswing. He expects a 12 ounce package of breakfast food to cost two cents more next week.

He attributed this rise to increased freight costs rather than grain prices. Last week the Interstate Commerce commission granted a 10 percent freight rate increase to certain railroads.

Up, Down The Clothes Line; BMOC's Voice Ayes, Nays

By CHARLES SANDERS

Since fashion experts and women have come to blows over the new fashion trends, let's take a look at the man's viewpoint, and get the real low-down from "the one who the lady dresses for."

Men students were canvassed on these four topics: skirt length, black hose, bustles, and bleaching or tinting part of the hair.

Fifty-five percent of the men disliked lengthening skirts below the knee. Here's why:

"Don't accentuate the positive with a bustle!"

The economic situation of today will not allow such foolish false-economy.

Addressing the weekly meeting of the Rotarians in the Jefferson hotel yesterday noon he declared, from the topsoil of Johnson county.

"Most people think conservation practices would be too expensive, when the actual truth is, conservation pays now. Not to practice the essentials of conservation—crop rotation, contour farming, and use of lime and fertilizers—can lead to ruin."

As an example of the amount of soil that can be lost, Mendel said, "The amount of silt that passed through Des Moines in the June flood period would equal one inch Tinting or bleaching part of the coiffure brings a resounding "no" as 90 percent turn thumbs down. The biggest criticism is the cheapening effect.

Black hose aren't too "sharp" in the opinion of the male students.

Sixty percent indicate negative and 15 percent "okay" them. Another 25 percent like them only when worn with black dresses.

"Sexy," comments one of the supporters.

One student after answering all these queries added, "And I also like the new low cut of the neck line. To see what I mean, look in 'Life'."

But whether these views will affect the campus queens' wardrobe is a different story. Maybe "male-appeal" isn't the important thing that BMOC's think.

Girl Scout Troops Celebrate Birthday In Special Events

Iowa City girl scout troops plan many special activities in observance of Girl Scout week here Oct. 26 to Nov. 1.

Girl Scout week is held annually in commemoration of the birthday of Juliette Low, founder of girl scouting in the United States. Each day during the week is dedicated to some phase of the girl scout program.

Although plans for all Iowa City girl scout troops are incomplete, several will observe the week through these special events:

On Oct. 27, homemaking day, Mrs. Irwin Maske will instruct Brownie troop 28 of Henry Sabin school in baking cookies at her home, 1015 Diana street.

Intermediate troop 37 from Iowa City junior high school will commemorate homemaking day by rearranging cupboards at the girl scout cabin in City park. They will hold a cook-out that evening.

On Oct. 28, citizenship day, St. Patrick's intermediate troop 10 will work on a community service project at the girl scout office. They will prepare tuberculosis Christmas seals for mailing to Iowa City residents. Mrs. D. P. Mattei and Mrs. A. W. Ullrich will be in charge of the group.

Intermediate troop 8 of Henry Sabin school will tour the Iowa City sewage disposal plant on health and safety day, Oct. 29. Their leader is Mrs. William G. Wolfe.

Other local troops will announce plans for girls scout week later.

'48 Hawkeye Free To Senior Nurses

Because nursing students were issued ID cards this week, senior nurses will receive free Hawkeyes this year. Leah Mendelson, yearbook business manager, said yesterday. This is the first year student nurses have had the cards.

Previously only seniors in the colleges of liberal arts, commerce, law, medicine, dentistry and engineering had received free copies of the yearbook.

Senior nurses who have ordered yearbooks are urged to come to the Hawkeye office, W-5 in East hall, as soon as possible so that the notes they signed may be marked now.

Miss Mendelson said.

Civil Service Jobs Open for Students Graduating in 1948

Civil service positions for junior professional assistants and junior agricultural assistants, paying $2,644 yearly, have been announced by the civil service commission. The positions will be in Washington, D.C.

Junior professional assistant includes administrative technician, bacteriologist, astronomer, medical bacteriologist, chemist, economist, engineer, geographer, legal assistant, mathematician, patent examiner, physicist, psychologist, and others.

Some of the fields covered by junior agricultural assistant are: biologist, botanist, geneticist, home economist, soil conservation engineer, textile technologist, agronomist, zoologist and forester.

Full information concerning examinations for these positions may be obtained from civil service regional offices and from most first and second-class postoffices.

Commerce Majors, Laws to Match Wits

Prospective lawyers and executives will provide the opposition on WSU's quiz program "It's News To Me" tonight at 7:30.

Al Jaspers, L1, and Don Lettow, L3, will match news comprehension ability with Harry Siemmons, C2, and Clair Penny, C3, on WSU's weekly guest-testing program.

Ray Guth, quizmaster, and Dave Martin, scorekeeper, will officiate at the mental battle.

Soil Expert Asks Conservation Steps

The United States will face a grave problem in the next 20 years as a result of depleted soil resources, according to Frank Mendel of the soil conservation service.

Addressing the weekly meeting of the Rotarians in the Jefferson

Hotel yesterday noon he declared, from the topsoil of Johnson county.

"Most people think conservation practices would be too expensive, when the actual truth is, conservation pays now. Not to practice the essentials of conservation—crop rotation, contour farming, and use of lime and fertilizers—can lead to ruin."

"The amount of silt that passed through Des Moines in the June flood period would equal one inch

Carbon is about the fourteenth most common element in the earth's crust.

Vienna Professor To Lecture Here

Paul L. Dengler, director of the Austro-American institute in Vienna, will speak on "Educating World Citizens" at 4:30 today in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Dengler's lecture will be sponsored by the graduate college.

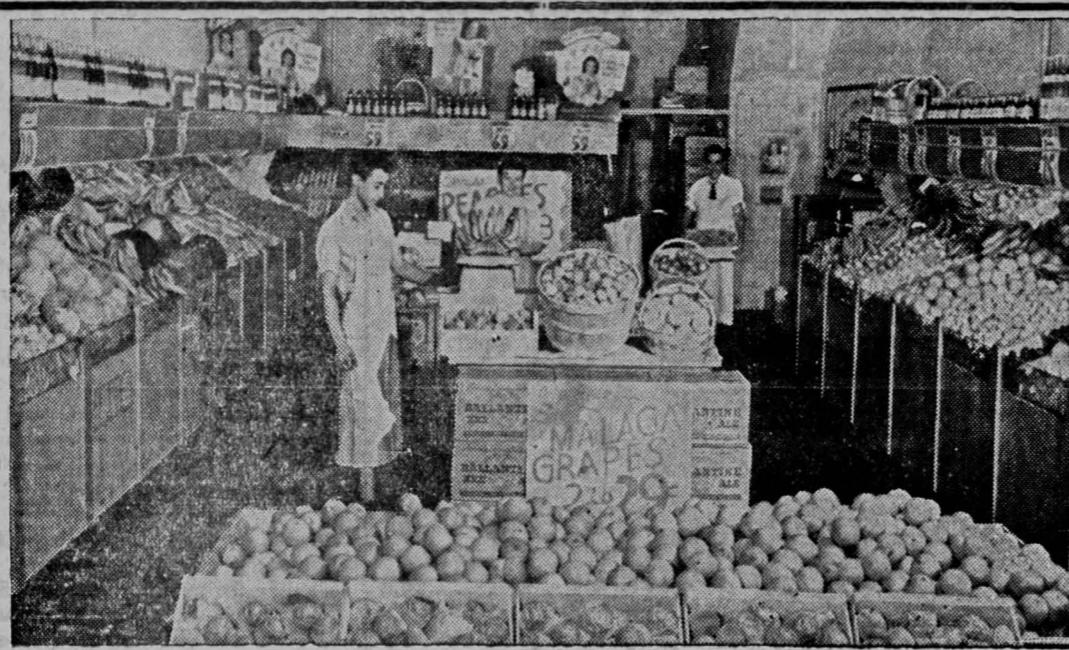

The speaker is a faculty member of the University of Vienna and has served as a visiting professor at the University of Hawaii during the past year.

Dengler represents the Austrian ministry of education in this country. He is also one of the directors of the Austrian league for the UN and a member of the Austrian commission for UNESCO.

He served as a visiting professor at the university during the first semester of 1934-35, offering courses in "Education and Nationalism," and "The Former Hapsburg Empire."

Dengler is lecturing in the United States under the auspices of the institute of international relations.

Council Purchased Meters in Good Faith

The city-wide argument over purchase of a new type parking meter is, in our opinion, a tempest in a teapot.

The Republicans hope to make political capital out of the action by a Democratic city council and the Democrats are afraid they will. Things even went so far yesterday as the filing of an injunction in district court to prevent the mayor from signing the contract.

On Monday night, at its regular meeting, the council decided to buy 250 of a new type meter. The cost was a maximum of $80 per meter. Purchase of more of the type now in operation would have cost a minimum of $65 per meter.

Many local citizens fell on this apparent difference of $15 per meter without considering this fact: The new type can be installed about a month sooner. The revenue to the city during this period will cut the cost about $7 per machine, making the cost only $8 difference.

We don't pretend to know which is the better type of parking meter. But we do think the council acted in good faith, and the evidence shows that they did carefully consider the different types.

The charge has been made that the city council acted without holding a public hearing. It seems to us that was entirely unnecessary. What is a public hearing for? To let the public have its say on POLICY matters.

Thus, when the matter of installing the first meters was under consideration it was perfectly right and proper to hold a public hearing, even though everyone knows a public hearing can be a farce.

But this was a different matter. The question was purely technical: which is the better TYPE of meter? What could the public add to this discussion? This was a matter which called for expert judgment and the weighing of technical data.

On many of the questions it was flip a coin and take your choice. Or should we say put a nickel in the meter and see how much time you get?

The argument on a public hearing, if carried to its logical conclusion, would require a public hearing on what type of cement to buy for the city streets.

A public hearing would have watered down to just exactly what happened at last Monday's city council meeting: the two meter salesmen talked before the council and hailed the relative merits of their own product. And the council still would have had to make a choice.

As a matter of fact, both local newspapers printed news articles before the council meeting stating that the meter question would be discussed.

The arguments for both the present and the new type are presented below:

FOR THE PRESENT TYPE

1. A different type would confuse the public.
2. They are cheaper.
3. They are automatic.
4. They provide a "cash register" to count the deposited coins automatically.
5. There has been little trouble with those now on Iowa City.
6. One cannot park very long on the time paid for by another.
7. Thus, insertion of the first penny pays for 12 minutes.

For example: If Mr. B goes to the bank for a few minutes and then drives out of the parking zone, insertion of the next penny still gives only 12 minutes total parking time.

The argument is: Mr. X who drives in with 5 minutes still to go on Mr. B's time, should have to pay for his full time, instead of the meter kicking over to 17 minutes—five minutes of which were paid for by Mr. B.

FOR THE NEWLY PURCHASED TYPE

1. They are of a better construction.
2. The better construction justifies the added expense.
3. They can be installed about a month earlier than could more of the old type, due to different delivery guarantees by the two companies. Therefore, the city will get revenue during this period, cutting the cost down to about $7 more per meter, and not the apparent $15 in the purchase price. The present type is not the cheapest make.

4. They provide a "cash register" to count the deposited coins so easily, and they do not have to be wound by a policeman, as with the present type. Each time a coin is inserted and the hand-operated, the mechanism is wound.

5. They give accumulated time. For each penny inserted, 12 minutes of parking time is given. As in our previous example: If Mr. B goes to the bank, comes back to his car with 5 minutes remaining but decides he will make another errand, the meter will kick over to 17 minutes with the insertion of a penny. The present type meter would kick up to only 12 minutes in this case.

6. Since no "cash register" is involved, there is less mechanism to get out of order.

7. Cedar Rapids and other Iowa towns have this type, and they have experienced very little mechanical difficulty.

Cooper Case Outcome Satisfies Cousins

DES MOINES (AP)—Norman Cousins, who first revealed the beating of a Jewish resident of Iowa City, said yesterday he was satisfied with the results of his exposure of the incident.

Cousins, editor of the Saturday Review of Literature made his comments in an interview. He was here to address a public forum tonight.

Cousins discussed the beating of Elihu S. Cooper of Iowa City by two youths early last summer.

Originally, Cousins discussed the Iowa City incident in a magazine article but did not identify the place or the persons.

"I received letters from a dozen middle western universities saying that they had heard something similar had happened at their schools," he said.

Cousins had no criticism of action taken by local officials, particularly in view of Cooper's unwillingness to bring charges. A

Johnson county grand jury recently declined to return an indictment in the case.

"The question of prosecution is incidental and the local officials are the best judges of that," Cousins said. "The important thing is the larger meaning of the incident. That is the responsibility of the individual not to be simply a bystander in such cases."

"Another important thing is the lesson in Christianity which Cooper gave the people of Iowa on two youths early last summer.

Originally, Cousins discussed the Iowa City incident in a magazine article but did not identify the place or the persons.

"I received letters from a dozen middle western universities saying that they had heard something similar had happened at their schools," he said.

Cousins referred to a statement by Pres. Virgil Hancher, Iowa University president, expressing the university's regret that such an incident occurred.

Reader Flays Pegler As 'Raving Neurotic'

TO THE DAILY IOWAN:

When are you going to drop Pegler's column? The patience of your readers is exhausted.

Why Pegler? You could have chosen such Wall Street fellow travelers as Walter Lippman or Dorothy Thompson. They at least maintain a semblance of dignity, but why this madman?

The miscreants or martyrs here concerned are Leo Durocher and Rocky Graziano. Both are good but both were bad.

Happy Chandler, the commissioner of the baseball industry, gave no reason why he suspended Durocher for the season of 1947. In my opinion, which is never humble or erroneous although it often stands alone, this was a whimsical, personal judgment of a man who had been touched off balance by a confusion of events.

An equal effect might have been wrought by a briefer suspension or just some loud, public wagging.

However, no injustice was done because Durocher is an old baseball man and clubhouse lawyer and he knew all along that when he signed "articles" with the professionals he submitted to a special mess of laws and angers.

Like a sailor in the old days, he knew that a man who gave scandal could be whispered out of baseball totally. But he knew this was most unlikely to happen to anyone of fairly decent behavior.

He knew that public opinion would protect such a man from a cruel and wanton sentence.

After all, we must strive to be fair.

But can't we have a little more dignity, a little more restraint in presenting the conservative viewpoint?

We would much rather listen to a well-balanced, well-adjusted Wall Street banker than we would to this raving neurotic, Westbrook Pegler.

I could write a persuasive plea, although not a defense, for Graziano. The army took him just when he was beginning to pick up money for fighting, so he just went AWOL and made some fights and got some of that easy money.

The fights all were announced and reported in the papers and, although Rocky was using a pseudonym the town was crawling with army intelligence and MP's and they should have picked him up.

However, in entering his profession under certain beneficial conditions, Rocky submitted himself to a special code of laws and punishments. He probably never has read the boxing law.

I covered fights in New York for many years and I haven't read it yet. He probably didn't memorize the regulations and learn specifically that he could be suspended for life if he failed to report to the prizefight commission an attempt to bribe him to take a dry dive.

But anyone who has had as much friction as Rocky with the cops and the courts knew that he

NEW YORK—Some of my colleagues on the sport side have been arguing that it isn't right to punish a man by some special law of baseball or pugilism for an act which is not illicit in the view of the cops.

Or to punish him for some offense already expiated in the public clinic. That would be double jeopardy, wouldn't it? Yup, it would and it is supposed to be repugnant to our delicate sense of justice, but that is just what we say. It really is not repugnant at all.

The miscreants or martyrs here concerned are Leo Durocher and Rocky Graziano. Both are good but both were bad.

This was only four years after the fall of the czar of Russia and you would not have thought it would lie in the mouth of the free American to holler for a czar.

But we asked for one and we got Judge Landis. Later, the movie business developed a ripe and gamey stench and the public acclaimed Will Hays as czar of the cinema.

But our lawyers and doctors were taking a chance when he kept his mouth shut.

These alley kids are smart and Graziano knew it was up to him to blow the whistle on the man who propositioned him.

He not only failed to report the proposition but he lied when he said he just didn't know who the man was. Rocky elected to leave this fellow in circulation, free to fix more fights, knowing that the commission could lay him up for good. Possibly he was afraid the mob would bump him off for squealing.

Still he observed the gangster's code so he certainly was no victim of injustice when he was suspended.

The ensuing suspension of Graziano in Illinois because he had misbehaved in the army and served a sentence for it was sanctimonious business. To sock him here as a gesture toward the veterans who were honorably discharged was plain patrioteering.

The practice of cramping the behavior of the members of certain trades and professions by special rules was not started by the sport industry.

In baseball it goes back to some fixed ball games in the eighties or nineties and some monkey business later by owners who insisted on picking their pet umpires.

After the expose of the historic mockery of 1919 in which most of the White Sox laid down to the Reds, there was a clamor for a "czar" of baseball.

Fights Meter Purchase

Lindsey Asks Court To Bar Council Action

A petition was filed yesterday with the clerk of the Johnson county district court seeking an injunction to prevent the purchase of 250 two-hour parking meters by the Iowa City council.

The council's resolution Monday night approving the purchase "was introduced and passed without notice given to the public or possible interested bidders," the petition stated.

The petition, filed by John Lindsey, 718 S. Capitol street, named the city of Iowa City, Mayor Preston Koser, City Clerk George Dohrer and the Duncan Meter corporation of Chicago as defendants.

Lindsey's attorneys, Albrecht, Knob and Taylor, will ask that a hearing be held on a temporary injunction tomorrow, a courthouse official said yesterday. Lindsey requested that the injunction be made permanent upon final hearing.

Prior notice was given to the public and interested bidders were asked to submit sample machines, the petition stated, when the first 150 meters were purchased by Iowa City.

The city council Monday night passed by a 5 to 2 vote a resolution approving purchase of 250 meters at $75 each plus freight and installation charges from the Duncan Meter corporation, the petition stated. The 150 meters now in use were purchased last December from the Magee-Hale Park-O-meter company at $61.50 each, the petition said.

According to Lindsey's petition, the Magee-Hale company submitted a bid Sept. 9, 1947, to the council and agreed to install the additional meters at $61.50 each and the bid was not acted on by the council.

Lindsey said the Magee-Hale company's machines were chosen for installation here early this year after sample machines were examined by engineers from the University of Iowa faculty.

His petition also stated that the city would have to maintain two complete and separate systems and sets of spare parts for the maintenance and upkeep of parking meters at greatly increased expense to the city."

Lindsey charged that, because the resolution was passed without prior notice, the council's action was "inequitable, unreasonable, tainted with fraud, illegal and void."

The plaintiff also asked that he be granted judgment for costs of the action and for such other relief as the court may deem proper.

tional revenue for the city, the statement continued.

The councilmen contended there was no criticism made of the city council when the Park-O-Meter was purchased last year "even though the council did not buy the cheapest meter available."

"This time the city council has not attempted to buy the cheapest meter, but has attempted to buy the best meter and to buy a meter which would give the public value for each coin inserted."

"We, in voting for the Miller meter, were thinking of the money the parking public would save over a period of years by the accumulative feature of the Miller meter."

The councilmen summed up their statement as follows:

"From all of the articles and statements made against the purchase of the Miller meter it would appear that the protestors consisted of the following persons:

1. A parking meter salesman and his district representative who are disgruntled because the purchase was not made from their company.

2. A deputy sheriff of Johnson county, Iowa, who does not even vote in Iowa City but votes in the county.

3. A former member of the Kansas City, Mo., police department who is now associated with the State University of Iowa, and who has only lived in Iowa City a little over a year.

4. A chairman of the chamber of commerce parking committee who recommended the purchase of 2-hour meters and then became disgruntled because the council purchased the best 2-hour meter available.

5. A chief of police who allows a parking meter salesman to make his headquarters in the police station.

"Why are these people so interested in protesting the council's action?"

The men referred to in the statement are:

1. C. H. Thompson, salesman, and Alex Johnson, sales manager, of the Magee-Hale Park-O-Meter company. They could not be reached for comment last night.

2. Deputy Sheriff Marold Glasper. Last night he said:

"I personally have never thought of the city council as an unscrupulous group of individuals. I believe that no man among them is without honor, but I still maintain regardless of public sentiment, money is being spent unwisely when it could be placed for so much good."

3. Richard L. Holcomb, associate professor of the university bureau of public affairs, who, following the Monday night council meeting, said he favored purchasing the Park-O-Meter.

New Fashion Club To Toss Hobbies For Another Loss

By BETTY PROSSER

CHICAGO, (AP)—As if the fashion world hadn't done enough this year to that struggling segment of the population known as husbands, here's a new one—the "dress of the month club."

This organization proposes to operate similarly to the book, fruit, candy and what-have-you clubs. Its objective is to make every little woman feel downright drowsy unless she's wearing the "dress of the month club."
