Russian Lists Three More 'Warmongers'

Vishinsky Adds Two Cabinet Members and Byrnes to His List

LAKE SUCCESS (AP)—Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky listed two American cabinet members and James F. Byrnes as "warmongers" yesterday in the third sustained attack on what the Russian delegation calls "criminal war propaganda" in the United States.

Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, Australian foreign minister, immediately counter-charged in the 57-member political committee of the United Nations charged in the 57-member political committee of the assembly with the contention that the Russian press and radio are encouraging war by "persistent, unrestrained attack on the United States of America."

Vishinsky increased to 15 the list of American individuals he has attacked as "warmongers." Yesterday he singled out Secretary of Commerce W. Averell Harriman, secretary of defense James Forrestal, and former Secretary of State Byrnes as belonging in the class he calls "warmongers."

Vishinsky attacked Harriman first yesterday. He said Harriman had said "in a frenzy that the Russians are trying to swallow up the world."

The Russian devoted two of the closely typed 17 pages in his prepared speech to former Secretary of State Byrnes and Byrnes' book, "Speaking Frankly," which was published last week.

He departed from his text to call Byrnes' writing "junk." "Byrnes is trying to break the record in producing slanderous fabrications against the Soviet Union," Vishinsky said, getting back to his text.

Evatt defended Byrnes in his answer, saying that Vishinsky probably has not yet read Byrnes' book. Evatt said that "nobody has tried harder" to bring about world peace than Byrnes.

Greek Truck Ambushed

ATHENS, (AP)—Press reports said last night 26 gendarmes were killed and four others wounded when a military truck was ambushed by guerrillas near Amalios on the northwestern coast of the Peloponnese.

$20,000 Worth of Gambling Equipment Seized in Des Moines Warehouse Raid

DES MOINES, (AP)—An estimated $20,000 worth of gambling equipment was seized yesterday by deputy sheriffs who broke into a transfer company warehouse here.

O. F. Gibbons, owner of the Gibb's Transfer company, John Kennelley, Des Moines, and W. A. Sims, one of Gibbons' drivers, were being questioned at the county jail last night.

The three were charged with illegal possession of gambling equipment and released on bonds of $300 each. Hearing was set for Monday.

Seizure at the warehouse came after deputies Wilbur Hildreth and Leo Quinn had arrested Sims.

The deputies said they stopped an open-bodied truck northwest of Des Moines and found it was carrying a dice table.

They said that when Sims told them he had picked up the table at Gibb's Transfer company, the deputies proceeded to the office of the transfer company.

Father Blasts Rock In Search for Son

PUEBLO, COL., (AP)—A father began yesterday the grim job of hacking through 30 feet of limestone to learn if a body sealed in a rock quarry near here is that of his 17-year-old son.

Byron Vannest, an older son and two neighbors began the work with picks and dynamite. They plan to work "all day and part of the night," to reach the body that they are unsatisfied is that of Kenneth Vannest.

The youth disappeared March 24, and three months later boys playing at the quarry found some of Kenneth's personal effects near a cave entrance. A volunteer was lowered down a shaft in the cave and reported a body wedged far in the dark recesses. He was unable to reach it, and could give only a meager description.

Authorities then ordered the cave sealed as a burial place after it was estimated it would cost $30,000 to recover the body. Funeral services were held, ostensibly for Kenneth, but the elder Vannest wanted to be sure. "We don't know how long this is going to take," he said yesterday, "but Mrs. Vannest and I have to know whether the body in the quarry is that of our son."

company books and other records. Sheriff Howard C. Reppert said the records established that gambling equipment was being hauled to Polk county night club to be used for one night stands on special occasions.

Gibbons had not been at transfer company when the seizure was made but deputies turning to the warehouse last found him seated in the office talking to John Kennelley.

Kennelley was informed that name and the name of his brother Rich Kennelley was on the transfer company records and on equipment.

Congress May Convene Early

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Indications grew stronger yesterday that the issue of a special session of congress may be decided today when President Truman lays out facts on Europe's winter before Capitol Hill leaders.

Authoritative disclosures that early meeting of congress will be a prime topic were followed announcement that the hour of the usual Thursday news conference has been left open. This may mean that Mr. Truman considering giving reporters results of the meeting.

Mr. Truman was supplied by state department with all facts it had about stop-gap aid Europe in preparation for meeting with the lawmakers.

This was announced by Undersecretary of State Lovett. He indicated Mr. Truman may talk reporters today about the Italian situation.

Vote Qavam Idea Void

TEHRAN (AP)—The Iranian Majlis (parliament) declared null and void yesterday the agreement negotiated by Premier Ahmed Qavam in 1946 which would have given Russia the right to explore for oil in northern Iran.

The secret vote was almost unanimous among the deputies present—102 for and only two against.

Delay Decision on Substitute Scheme For Grain-Saving

WASHINGTON (AP)—Today is "poultryless Thursday" again. Citizens Food committee officials delayed a final decision on a substitute grain-saving scheme yesterday.

Chairman Charles Luckman conferred late yesterday by telephone with his seven-member executive committee on a proposal advanced by the nation's poultry producers Tuesday as a substitute for the poultryless day.

A panel of the committee, along with industry and labor representatives, discussed meanwhile a request by AFL distillery workers to call off the 60-day liquor making holiday scheduled to start at midnight Saturday. Results of the meeting were not announced.

In a broadcast directed to mayors, Luckman said the food conservation campaign aimed at saving 100,000,000 bushels of grain for western Europe by mid-1948 needs the help of every American.

Mayor Charles M. J. Hustinx of Nijmegen, Holland, who also took part in the broadcast, said Europe badly needs the food which only Americans can provide.

Sees 'Complete Marshall Plan'

NEW YORK, (AP)—Secretary of State George C. Marshall said last night the "Marshall Plan" was not a plan but a suggestion and "when it is completed it will truly be a program of the United States government and not of any one department or agency."

"I do not believe any project of our government has ever received more careful study and preparation than has this problem but to strengthen the foreign positions in the war period and to expand—replacing Germany and Japan with America in the world market."

Young Squirts Their .75 Specials Aim Too Well

Armed with .75 Specials, four youthful gunmen stood on an Iowa City street corner yesterday afternoon shooting away at passing motorists.

They scored nearly all bullseyes until police got the drop on them.

Then the boys meekly surrendered their multiple-shot war pistols and promised to "never do it again."

Before police confiscated the weapons for a period of time the boys carved their initials and notches on the guns in order to identify them later. The automatons were placed for safe keeping in a shoe box at police headquarters which contained seven firecrackers left over from last July.

During the past two days, eight other squirts have been picked up by the police. Some boys were nabbed for shooting back at movie cowboys from theater balconies, and striking innocent bystanders below.

Apparently the black, plastic toys were smuggled into town from other areas, for none are on sale here. A high school football team is reported to have returned from a game trip with the repeaters in their possession.

Fullfill Mother's Wish; Tiny Tot With His Aunt

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Eight-week-old Donald Francis DeCesare rested yesterday where his mother on her Frankfurt, Germany, deathbed wanted him—in the arms of her sister in Dayton.

The tiny tot reached that haven late Tuesday night after a 4,000-mile trip in an air transport command plane. He was accompanied by his father, Lt. Carl DeCesare of Edgewood, Md., and WAC Sgt. Thelma Williams of Xenia, Ohio.

Taylor Sees 'Pink Side' in Films

Tells of Increased Communist Activity

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Actor Robert Taylor, starring at the big investigation of communism in Hollywood, yesterday named Karen Morley as a "disrupting influence" at meetings of the Screen Actors guild.

The handsome actor told the house committee on un-American activities he has seen plenty of things "on the pink side" in the movie business. He said indications of Communist activity there have increased in the last four or five years.

The inquiry, playing for the first time to standing room only in the huge caucus room of the old house office building, also turned up:

1. Testimony from James K. McGuinness, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer executive, that 10 or 15 leading Hollywood writers are Communists.

2. A promise from committee Chairman J. Parnell Thomas (R-N.J.) that evidence of Communist spying will unfold next week.

3. An announcement from Thomas that some time this week or next the committee will bring out "complete records" on "at least 79" persons with subversive links who are "active" in Hollywood.

German Peace Conference Without Russia, Byrnes Says

COLUMBIA, S. C. (AP)—Former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes proposed last night that the United States, Britain and France act "now" to call a full-scale German peace conference regardless of the attitude of Russia.

Byrnes, in effect, predicted the success of the big-four foreign ministers conference in London next month. He argued that Russia had proved its unwillingness to cooperate in a generally acceptable German peace settlement and asserted the three western nations would have to call a German peace conference of victor nations from now on.

"If they are going to do it at all," he said, "why not do it now?"

The former secretary outlined his views on the next peace-making moves in an address prepared for a meeting of South Carolina national groups here under Mayor's sponsorship. His words decried, the pattern proposed in his "Speaking Frankly."

Byrnes suggested the United States and the other powers make a deal without Russia, if Russia does not cooperate. He added that Russia persisted then in holding eastern Germany, the other nations if necessary should use force of "last resort" under United Nations sponsorship of the United Nations security council.

Byrnes specifically denied what was described in his speech as a "leaked" report of his book. He said it presented him as an advocate of meeting Russian obstinism with atomic bombs.

He said the Red army from many by force if necessary.

New Cabinet Faces Economic Strife

PARIS (AP)—Premier Paul Ramadier formed a new cabinet yesterday to face what he described as France's grave economic situation.

The new cabinet, formed eight hours after the members of Ramadier's previous government had resigned, is composed of seven Socialists, three Popular Republicans, two Radical Socialists and one Independent.

Before the new cabinet was announced a reliable informant said Ramadier, a Socialist, was reorganizing the government to exclude any ministers with leanings toward Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

Government Says Defense Plans Needed

Forrestal Stresses Necessity for Speedy Industrial Mobilization

WASHINGTON (AP)—Civilians were warned yesterday that any future war would bring stringent government controls on manpower and industry in order to create a speedy and total mobilization.

Secretary of Defense Forrestal voiced this warning in explaining that an industrial mobilization plan was shelved after Pearl Harbor because it failed to evaluate the extent which "the entire economy must contribute to modern war."

He attributed the action to "national indifference on the subject of military preparedness."

Appearing before the senate war investigating committee, Forrestal stressed the necessity for charting a future defense program in accordance with lessons learned during the recent war.

Two other witnesses agreed with Forrestal about the need for stronger controls over the entire civilian economy in any future war.

But both testified that time, money and lives might have been saved in the last war if industrial mobilization plans based on World War I had been utilized more promptly.

Thomas J. Hargrave, chairman of the munitions board under the new defense act and an Eastman Kodak executive, said strong controls in the future war must fall upon "production, manpower, and economic stabilization."

Hargrave said his agency now is developing a master plan for mobilization of industry, stockpiling of $2,500,000,000 of strategic materials, and keeping about 120 specialized munitions plants available on a stand-by basis.

BULLETIN

A man who identified himself as Willoughby Lee, Sr., 1832 Muscatine avenue, walked into University hospital about midnight last night for examination, following an automobile accident.

Hospital authorities said he was not in serious condition but it was too early to state what injuries he may have suffered.

Police had no record of the accident and Mrs. Lee reported last night she knew nothing about it.

Zhdanov Speaks to World Communists

MOSCOW (AP)—Andrei A. Zhdanov in a declaration published yesterday called upon Communists and their sympathizers everywhere in the world to join in a battle against what he charged were attempts by the United States to achieve "world domination by American imperialism."

Zhdanov, a member of the Soviet Communist party politburo, said Russia would take the lead in attempts to wreck the Marshall plan and prevent the United States from making Europe a "49th state."

His remarks, printed in the Communist newspaper Pravda, disclosed for the first time his summation of the international situation before the nine-nation conference in Poland which led to creation of the international Communist information bureau in Belgrade.

He said that before the second world war United States "imperialists" followed an isolationist policy of non-interference in the affairs of Europe and Asia, but in the new post-war period "Wall Street bosses launched a new policy."

"They put forward a program of using all their military aid and economic might, not only to hold onto but to strengthen the foreign positions in the war period and to expand—replacing Germany and Japan with America in the world market."

Gallacher Won't Congratulate Elizabeth

LONDON, (AP)—Willie Gallacher, one of the two Communists in the British parliament, disassociated himself from a resolution congratulating Princess Elizabeth on her impending marriage yesterday in a speech which Laborite McGovern called "most disgraceful."

Prime Minister Attlee and Conservative Leader Winston Churchill dropped political differences and joined in offering the motion, quickly adopted, expressing "our sincere cordial congratulations."

SOME THINGS YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT
AVIATION CADET TRAINING

Here, in question and answer form, are some facts on the U. S. Air Force Aviation Cadet program. They cover details you may have been wondering about—and will be useful to you if you want to learn to fly and begin a career in one of today's fastest-moving fields.

- 1. Who is eligible for appointment to the Cadets?
You, if you're physically fit, single, between 20 and 26½ years old, and have completed at least one-half the requirements for a college degree from an accredited institution—or pass an equivalent examination.
- 2. How long does the training last—and what does it cover?
You receive approximately 52 weeks' training—worth $35,000—in primary, basic and advanced flying, along with other related courses designed to give you the finest background in your specialty.
- 3. What's the story on duty after graduation?
After successful completion of the course, you will be commissioned a Second Lieutenant, Officers Reserve Corps, and assigned to pilot duty with the U. S. Air Force at a starting monthly salary of $336 (including flight pay). You will serve on active duty for three years unless sooner relieved, and be eligible for $500 a year bonus for each year of active duty as a Reserve Officer. If you're interested in a Regular Air Force commission, you'll be given a chance to qualify.

4. What are the civilian career opportunities?

That's one you can answer for yourself by taking into consideration these facts: Contrary to what some people think, aviation is not overcrowded—for pilots or anyone else. No field is expanding more rapidly or offering more profitable openings to qualified men. After Aviation Cadet training, you can compete on an equal basis with any flier in the world.

These are only a few of the advantages. Why not stop in today at your nearest U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Station and get all the details?

Dr. J. T. McClintock, director of post-graduate studies in medicine, has announced the following program:

Doctors attending the conference should see the bulletin board in the main corridor of University hospital for details of each day's program.

Repairing Here Is 'Pane-ful' Affair

It costs the university approximately $38 every week to repair broken windows in the temporary housing areas, according to J. L. Taylor, foreman of the paint shop.

An average of 20 window panes are broken weekly in these areas, he added. The cost of each pane is 65 cents plus $1.25 for labor.

Taylor's explanation for damage in these areas was "the great number of children living there and the type of window which opens on a hinge."

During summer vacation about 500 windows were broken on the campus, Taylor estimated. He explained the figure was high "probably because of the addition of temporary housing."

Two university buildings which need frequent repair, he added, were the dental building and the medical laboratory. Windows at the medical laboratory are 36 by 44 inches.

"Although double strength glass is used, the openings are large enough to permit easy breakage," he explained.

Dental building windows have a metal sash which has a tendency to rust, Taylor stated. The upper section raises 3/4 of an inch from rust and cracks the glass, he added.

Nominations for the freshman class for president are Mat Miletich and H. C. Houghton, Red Oak; for vice-president, Jack Merriman and G. C. Clausen; for secretary-treasurer Les Turner and William Kellogg.

Truman Vows Trade Policy Will Continue

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The nation's largest exporters and importers heard last night an assurance by President Truman that the administration's policies will keep both exports and imports at a high level.

But John Abbink, president of McGraw-Hill International Corp., told them at the world trade dinner which concluded the 34th annual convention of the National Foreign Trade Council that "all the Marshall plans ever conceived will not help matters" unless Europeans buckle down and start working. Abbink predicted rough sledding in congress for the Paris report.

And Lewis H. Brown, chairman of Johns-Manville Corp., warned that war is possible unless congress and the administration act this fall to formulate a plan to rehabilitate all of Europe.

President Truman's message was read to the 1,500 representatives of manufacturers, transportation, banking, exporting, importing and investment corporations and governmental agencies.

Test Pilot Denies 'Information Leak' On New Jet Plane

ROSAMOND, Calif. (AP)—Chalmers (Slick) Goodlin, former navy combat flier and Bell aircraft test pilot, described yesterday as "silly and without foundation" charges that he had permitted "information on a new supersonic military plane to leak out."

"The whole thing is absurd," said Goodlin. He was referring to testimony of Writer-Critic John C. Moffitt before a house committee in Washington investigating Communist influences in Hollywood.

Moffitt said the information was obtained by Hollywood Literary Agent John Weber from a magazine article written by Goodlin.

"In the first place," said Goodlin, "every line of that article had been cleared with and approved by the army air forces public relations section. They gave me the go ahead and I turned the article over to the William Morris agency (which employs Weber). I'm not sure, but I don't think Weber ever saw it. I dealt with someone else."

Goodlin's article, which he said will appear in the January issue of an aviation magazine, deals with his experiences flying the SX-1, a Bell rocket plane designed to penetrate the supersonic speed barrier.

CONTINUE TEA DANCES

Fires Rage on in New England

FLAMES SWEEP through woods yesterday and endanger farm buildings near the town of Newfield, Me., close to the New Hampshire state line. This was one of many forest fires raging in the wooded areas of several New England states.

GOOSE ROCKS BEACH, Me. (AP)—New or rekindled forest fires yesterday spread destruction through woodlands of the northeastern states, where already two lives have been lost and $3,000,000 in property loss suffered in rich New England vacation territory.

An end to a prolonged drought was not even predicted and danger mounted rather than abated. Maine led the fire casualty areas with gale winds driving 40 scattered fires, the worst in this village, near the Kennebunkport summer artists colony, where scores of families were forced to flee flames which destroyed more than 200 buildings.

New fires were reported yesterday in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut, and New England. Reports of looting and arson came from some Maine and Massachusetts sectors where fire-fighters, aided by volunteers, battled fatigue as well as the flames.

Maine Fire Commissioner Raymond E. Rendall set total loss thus far at $2,500,000 and in Massachusetts damage was estimated by officials at $500,000.

Three Plan Poetry Forum Tomorrow

Stephen Spender, English poet, Paul Engle of the English department and Alexander Aspel, visiting French lecturer in the romance languages department, will discuss the question, "Can Poetry Survive In The Modern World?" tomorrow, 8 p. m. in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Spender, poet, novelist and essayist, has been in this country a month. He is a visiting professor in the creative writing workshop at Sarah Lawrence college, Bronxville, N. Y.

The discussion will center on what has happened to poetry in the last few decades, and the relationship of today's poetry and the present scientific age, Engle said.

It is estimated that it takes about 10,000 years to build up a layer of coal one foot thick.

Announce Shortest Pheasant Season In Iowa Since 1941

The shortest pheasant season since 1941, with a bag and possession limit of only two cock birds, was announced by the state conservation commission this week. Pheasants may be hunted in Johnson county from Nov. 11 through Nov. 20. Shooting hours will be from noon to 4 p. m.

The 1947 pheasant population in Iowa is estimated at 35 percent less than the 1946 population. By limiting the kill to cock birds, the commission hopes to give the sportsmen a limited season without preventing the rebuilding of the flocks.

For similar reasons, there will be no Hungarian partridge shooting in Iowa this fall. The emphasis in hunting will be shifted to quail, on which the commission announced an open season.

In Johnson county this season will be from Nov. 1 through Dec. 15, with shooting hours from 8:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. The bag and possession limits will be eight birds.

Hunting licenses are $1.50 for any Iowa resident. They may be procured from R. J. Jones, Johnson county recorder.

Bystanders Become Active

Iowa Citizens have had plenty of opportunity recently to search their souls for the answer to the question whether bystanders to racial and religious intolerance are any less guilty than those who actively practice intolerance.

The issue was clearly drawn in the local beating of a young Jew. We protested that those who watched the beating—and there were plenty who did and knew about it—were just as guilty by ignoring it as the actual attackers.

A vividly contrasting example has occurred at Pacific Junction, Iowa. There, instead of being bystanders, six men stood up for the rights of a stranger—who happened to be a Negro.

The Negro subsisted on odd jobs. As he was conversing with some residents in the town, local officials accused him of "vagrancy." They asked him where he would spend the night. Of course, he did not know.

They inquired about his asking a resident for a drink of water. He said he also had gotten some food—which he paid for by working.

The officials ordered him out of town. But six men—a high school teacher and basketball coach, some war veterans, a mill worker and others—protested this high-handed conduct.

They knew as well as we do that a charge of "vagrancy" can be the excuse for all sorts of flagrant violations of an individual's rights. When the charge involves a person of a different race or nationality there's all the more likelihood of expanding the definition of "vagrancy."

But the bystanders became active. They followed the arresting officers to the justice court. They offered to give the Negro a place to sleep for the night.

Then the vengeance of the officials turned on the bystanders. They have been accused of "violently and tumultuously assembling."

We admire these men who dared to stand against the local officials to protect a stranger's rights, who refused to be mere bystanders in the face of injustice, who were filled with a sense of responsibility for their fellow man.

These were white men, with good jobs, secure in the community. We can imagine they had every temptation to stand aside, to consider it none of their affair.

But they didn't, Pacific Junction, and indeed the whole state, can be proud of these active bystanders who have given a new meaning to the motto of our state: "Our liberties we prize, and our rights we will maintain."

Council Acted Wisely in Pool Site Choice

The City council wisely has voted to accept the City park site for the swimming pool.

This avoided a long, dragged out controversy as to the pool's site, and will mean construction can get underway much faster than if plans had to be re-drawn for a site other than that approved in 1941 by the city planning commission.

There clearly was an overwhelming mandate expressed in the special election. And there clearly was solid sentiment that favored getting the pool built as quickly as possible—regardless of its site.

The council showed its quick and conscientious response to public opinion—which is the way the democratic system should operate. The council thus demonstrated again the merits of that system.

We Turn to India for the Answer

A group of SUI students recently listened to a young woman from India speak on the problems of her country. The students attending were probably more politically conscious than the average or they would not have been in such a group.

One of them, representing quite adequately the attitude of the group, asked the young Indian what the United States could do to help India achieve unity and independence.

"Show us democracy," she answered.

The students were quick to admit that the United States is not a model of democracy. The next question was "How can we give something we haven't got?" and then "How can we get it ourselves?"

The fact that the speaker, herself a student and a representative of what is mistakenly considered an illiterate urchin of the world family, was able to give a coherent and practical answer to this question is in itself a lesson to us.

And the most distressing aspect of the incident is that the query needed to be made at all. The askers were presumably well schooled in the still-warm tradition of political freedom and trained in the use of that freedom as it exists today. They were educationally the more fortunate of Americans.

And they turned to India for a lesson in the use of their citizenship!

Only War Could Top the Coming Crisis

By J. M. ROBERTS JR., AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The United States is heading into a period of crisis in international affairs which could hardly be exceeded by anything except a definite threat of war.

Great Britain, France and Italy are threatened with economic collapse. Germany, great industrial center of Europe, is prostrate and only now have the doctors agreed that a little resuscitation is in order.

China, traditional friend of the United States whose fall into the Communist sphere would be a staggering blow to the Truman plan, is strong Communist revolution but also with disunity in the Nationalist camp.

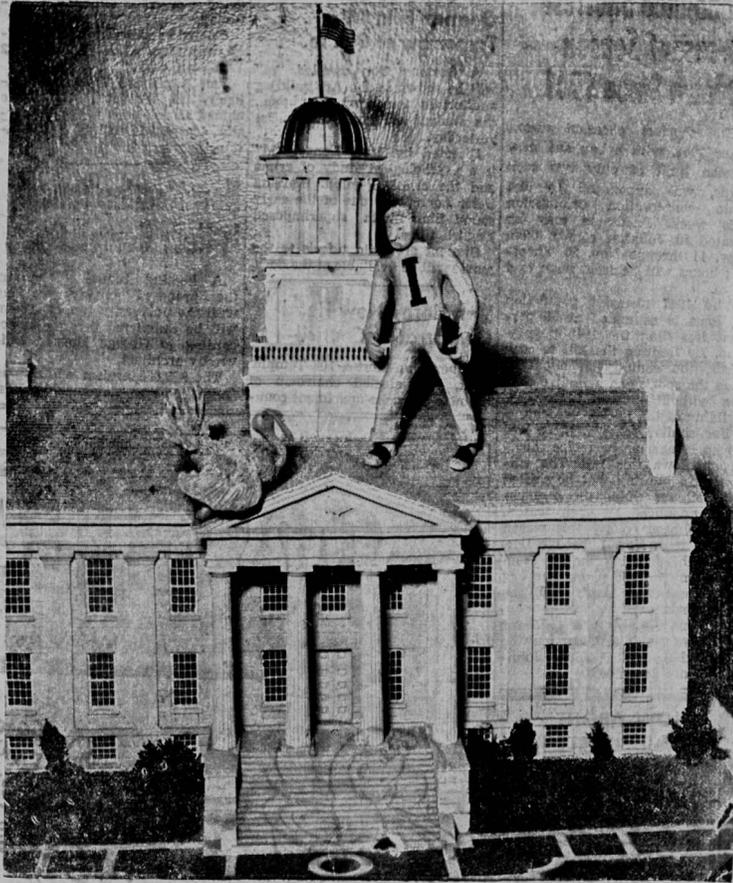

The Palestine problem involves far more than a mere working solution of a controversy between Arab and Jew. It presents a grave strategic question, tied directly to our assumption of Britain's traditional role as world stabilizer.

The United States, blocked by Russia at every turn in Korea, has thrown that problem into the lap of a United Nations organization which is poorly equipped to handle it, as witness the futility of its efforts merely to stop a little shooting in Indonesia or do anything about the Greek situation.

Behind the scenes, the United States is still hoping to rescue Poland and Czechoslovakia from Russian hegemony, and has not entirely given up on the rest of Russia's new sphere. Moscow, on the other hand, is determined to work until the last possible moment for the economic and political capture of Italy, France and any other weak spots that develop on Russia's perimeters.

A feeling is developing that the present tension is too great to last, that a break must come, that this "last moment" is approaching for a Russia which cannot risk war. It may arrive some time during this winter's battle for the relief or destruction of western Europe's economy. If relief wins, then Russia may be expected to seek a period of relative quiet for consolidation of her forces for the next fight.

Says Pegler Writes on Unimportant Issues

TO THE DAILY IOWAN:

The entire world is beset with weighty problems. Europe starves, the United Nations slowly dies and the atom marches on.

There is room on all sides for constructive ideas, but Westbrook Pegler contents himself with such momentous subjects as Rock Graziano, the sorry state of U.S. restaurants and unwarranted (and completely useless) attacks on a national leader long since beyond harming anyone, except perhaps Pegler.

It seems that friend Pegler developed a neurosis, a FDR complex, and though the Roosevelt "regime" is over, Pegler continues to smear in a manner beyond reason or even good taste.

Do Daily Iowan readers have to continue to be disgusted by the ravings and the useless accusations of this egomaniac?

AS PEGLER SEES IT

Americans Reject Equality Theory in Practice

By WESTBROOK PEGLER, King Features Syndicate

NEW YORK—Offhand I can think of no more hypocritical fraud on the people of the United States than the self-inflicted doctrine of equality among and between mankind.

Not one person in a million believes in this. Even those few who do so believe qualify their attitude with elaborate explanatory notes. The rest of us only pretend to believe that the wicked and the good, the ignorant and the educated, the yellow and the brave, or even the dull and the amusing, are equal.

It is true that a minority of religious persons, by their habitual proximity to God, keep themselves reminded of their limited belief in equality. That is to say, they pinch themselves daily or once a week and assert, privately, that they humbly waive superiority as souls.

However, it does not follow that even these subscribers believe in universal equality of persons, the diligent, and so forth. Americans regard as virtues some qualities which, on examination, plainly prove to be mere affectations. Cleanliness is one. The hygienic person abhors the unwashed and uncombed and even the unpressed, and feels superior to him.

So robust this feeling is that one firm operated by progressive American business men spent millions profitably flattering the self-satisfaction of the one group and drowning in the vile pools of their loathing those who have BO.

Yet, short of that point at which the nonbathers break out in leprosy, what authority tells us that the clean are nicer than the soiled? And who being tidy would deny, under confidential vows, that he felt superior to the others, who include, significantly, many of the poor?

The Christian policy toward poverty, which, by the way, is invariably paraphrased if not frankly cribbed by political candidates, here builds a paradox. For, while it is elaborate to say that cleanliness is next to Godliness, still cleanliness is highly respected. And still poverty and filth are complementary, and not always perforce.

We honor heroes and despise the blameless wretches who are afraid in danger and wisely run away. That is a standard of virtue that we just made up.

Without research, I venture the suspicion that it was propagated by barons or military executives to overcome the natural and not at all despicable desire of men to escape pain, captivity and death. Man saw danger and he ran.

Before medals were invented this was recognized as the intelligent thing to do. There was no public opinion to inflate the hero or coerce the coward and the individual consulted only himself.

We even send men to jail for laziness in some communities. In gloomy mumbles at the wake we observe that poor Ed, or George, that wonderful man, actually

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT

High Price Blame Shifted

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

I know a philosophical grocer's boy, who said to me the other day: "It's funny. Couple of years ago, when a woman used to come into the shop and complain that we hadn't had any butter for her for weeks, we used to tremble, I can tell you."

"And now?" I said, realizing it was my duty to play straight man. "There was a woman in this morning, said she hadn't bought any butter for a month. We didn't even blush. The boss congratulated her, said she was a good American, fighting high prices. Then she said she'd served spaghetti instead of meat six times during the past two weeks. The boss patted her on the shoulder and said she was doing just fine, keep it up and in time prices were bound to come down."

"I see," I said. "The point you're making is that by being too quick in giving up rationing, we've got to the same place as if we'd kept it . . ."

"That's the economic approach," said the grocer's boy, "in which I am only moderately interested. My point is a moral one. During the war, the guilt for shortages or overcharging used to be on our side of the counter."

"Now it's on the customer's side. If prices are high, or the customers have to do without, it's because they're pigs and eat too much. We've passed the hot potato across the counter. It's a neat job in shifting responsibility, I can tell you. It's what happens when people let go of each other's hands."

"I don't quite understand that last," I said, as he wanted me to. "Well, during the war, the customers were all together. They would holler cop, and work each other up, if we did anything obviously unfair. Now they're so alone. The woman who is broke, she just wanders around, looking at the specials, and she ends up with that same spaghetti box. She's got nobody to go to about it any more."

"Also," he said, "there's this new thing, the Marshall plan."

"Where?" I asked.

"Never mind. I mean, this week we have to raise the price of bread a cent, to sixteen. Woman comes in, looks at the increased price, and she figures, well, that's the fault of the Marshall plan."

"It's a good plan," I said.

"Sh-h-h. I am in favor of western civilization, hundred percent, and I want to save it. But my point is a simple one. Here's the administration, trying to make friends for the Marshall plan, and at the same time it lets the food situation make enemies for the Marshall plan. It's a whacky set-up, and on balance it's probably mobilizing opposition to the plan faster than it's mobilizing support. You take this woman with the draggy cotton stockings—"

"Who's she?"

"Comes into the store. Well, she doesn't eat much, I can promise. First they tell her the way for her to eat more is to eat less, and now on top of that, they load the Marshall plan on her. She's carrying an awful load, that babe in the draggy socks, and I don't think it's fair or moral to ask her to carry it alone, without contrails, as Mr. Truman wants her to."

"How would you sum up?" I asked.

"Ubicumque est, quodcumque agit, renidet; hunc habet morbum," answered the grocer's boy, "which, being translated, means, wherever he is, and whatever he's doing, he keeps smiling, and in his case it has become a vice."

OK Plans To Feed 3 1-2 Million Children

LAKE SUCCESS, (AP) — The United Nations special committee yesterday approved plans for non-political distribution of aid this winter to hungry children in Europe and Asia.

The committee agreed unanimously on plans of the international children's emergency fund to aid 3 1/2 million children with "supplementary" meals of 300 calories daily for six months beginning in November.

Both the fund report and several delegates pointed out that only a small part of the actual needs could be met with the $26,624,988 now on hand.

Membership in the fund is voluntary. So far only the United States, Canada, France and Norway have made contributions. Australia, Czechoslovakia, the Dominican Republic and Luxembourg have announced they would contribute.

SALLY'S SALLIES

"The Doctor writes his prescriptions in verse to kill—time, he says."

Mauldin Flays Legion 'Political Machine'

The American Legion is branded a political machine in the hands of a small group by Bill Mauldin in his forthcoming book, "Back Home," which will be published Oct. 31.

The book is a record in cartoon and text of the author's experiences in the U.S. since his release from the army.

Charging that legion policy is made at the top, and individual members are denied any real voice, the ex-GI cartoonist, in an angry chapter on "gimme gimmie" veteran organizations, says:

"The young veteran who is interested in having a voice in his country's future during the next few crucial years, and hopes to make himself heard through the nation's largest veterans' organization is out of luck.

"Occasionally posts, and often individual Legionnaires, protest top level policies and can throw their weight around locally. But the vibration of dissenting voices seldom extends beyond the next county. Individual members have been chucked out of posts, and posts have had their charters revoked when they have become annoying."

Contending that its current motto is "policy first, veteran second, citizen third," Mauldin flails out against the legion for "putting other interests above the veterans administration."

The old legion's "selfish interests" caused it to condone an inefficient VA administration, Mauldin says.

Instead of helping Gen. Bradley (current head of VA) to clean it up, the legion actually impeded him, because he was willing to work with them but not for them.

Mauldin says: "While professing much sorrow over the roofless nogrins of its young membership, the legion's high command has been strongly against every plan the government has put forth to ease the housing shortage.

Regarding the "reprehensible" hospital situation under Hine's (Gen. Bradley's predecessor) administration of VA, he charges the legion with exploiting the situation for its own benefit, rather than agitating for improvement. "This is one of the blackest indictments against the American Legion," he says.

The tremendous growth in legion membership during the past two years may be attributed in part to its "big machinery," but largely it is "a product of America's behavior towards its erstwhile heroes."

Condemning the tendency among civilians to judge both service and ex-service men by "chiselers, whiners, and goldbricks who are bound to show up in any group of people," and the similar trend among veterans to judge all non-veterans by "the landlord who chisels, the grocer who cheats, and the woman who didn't wait," Mauldin cautions the non-veterans against an ever-widening gap between the two.

"If the non-veteran citizens do not exert a little more effort to give constructive aid to the veteran in regaining his place in society, then he must expect the consequences," he says.

"Demagogues have winning ways, especially with a man who has no one else to whom he can turn in his troubles."

Ben E. Summerwill, commander of the Iowa City American legion post, said Mauldin's criticism of the legion "only reflects back on the World War II veterans."

"This is because the young veteran won't participate in legion affairs. If the legion World War II veterans in Iowa City turned out in the number they are capable of, they could run the local post cold mackerel."

Summerwill said if they ran the local post, they would in turn administer of VA, he charges the legion with exploiting the situation for its own benefit, rather than agitating for improvement. "This is one of the blackest indictments against the American Legion," he says.

Chile Starts Russ Roundup

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—Chilean police began a wholesale roundup of Communist leaders yesterday following the diplomatic break with Soviet Russia and Czechoslovakia which the government explained was made necessary to protect the nation's control over its labor affairs.

Police announced that 200 Communist leaders had been seized and that warrants had been issued for 300 more accused of instigating a "rebellion" among Chilean coal miners.

The newspaper Diario Ilustrado said four members of the party's central committee were among those arrested. It added that police were seeking all 45 members of the committee, which was charged officially with ordering the "rebellion" Tuesday in an effort to thwart troops sent into the pit to remove sit-down strikers.

Council Announces Committee Member For Panacea Show

Jean Sprott, A3, Grand Haven, Mich., was named student council representative on the committee for "Panacea," campus show written, acted and produced by students, at the council meeting Tuesday night.

Director of the show is Dan Schuffman, A4. It is sponsored by the student council, Mortar Board, women's honorary, and Omicron Delta Kappa, men's honorary.

A committee was appointed to work out with Tailfeathers and the cheerleaders a plan for sending cheerleaders to out-of-town athletic games. Members are Dean Stichnoth, C3, chairman; Keith McNurien, D2, and Bob Brose, A4. Another committee was named to present information on the National Student association to the students. The council will consider affiliating the university with the association.

On the committee are Virginia Anderson and Al Trick, both A4. Non-council members will be added later.

Plans will be investigated to honor the football team at a "recognition day" Nov. 15 at Iowa Union.

The council authorized Trick to select a chaperon for the student trip Saturday to South Bend, Ind., for the Iowa-Notre Dame football game. Half the chaperon's expenses will be paid by the council.

Formation of a fund for university parties was discussed, and the council was instructed to exercise its discretion in working out detail with Union board's Central Party committee. The fund is designed to assure money for bringing "big-name" bands to the campus.

Stadium, Westlawn Parks Get Fenced In

A fence encircling the north, west and south sections of Stadium park was completed yesterday, according to Robert Cotter, assistant to the director of dormitories.

This five-foot, non-climbable fence extends from Melrose avenue along the railroad tracks to the golf course and the north end of the stadium.

Fencing for the Westlawn park area, also on order, is expected to be erected soon, Cotter announced.

Iowa City Music Vendors Say—

Recording Ban Won't Hurt

—For A While At Least

By MERRITT LUDWIG and SAM GOTTESFELD

Rest easy, music lovers, Petrillo's ban on new recordings won't hurt much—for quite a while at least.

This assurance came yesterday from three men of the music trade in Iowa City. They were referring to the Saturday announcement by James C. Petrillo, chief of the American Federation of Musicians, that no union members would make recordings after December 31.

President Bill Meardon of AFM local 450 in Iowa City, pointed out that the big recording companies have huge backlogs of unreleased records. WSUI's Rhythm Rambler, Jerry Feniger, confirmed this statement and added: "It'll be a long time before music lovers see the effects of Petrillo's ban—a couple of years anyhow."

Don Kesler, owner of 22 Iowa City juke boxes, said he doubts whether Petrillo can carry out his threat to halt record making "Even if the ban goes through," Kesler said, "recording companies can re-press old recordings to which they have the rights."

Meardon, speaking for the local musicians union, said he doesn't expect the ban to cause more work for dance bands.

"The ban will make it tough on young song writers," said Meardon. "Records are the best way of introducing their new tunes."

According to Kesler, the introduction of new songs may not be so important anyway. He noted a trend in recent revivals of "oldies" such as "Jealous," "Sleepytime Gal," "Sugar Blues," and "Body and Soul."

Meardon and Petrillo may have a point in saying recordings are putting musicians out of work. The local bandleader pointed out there were at least 16 "big" bands in Iowa City in 1938. By "big" he meant a band of 12 or more musicians.

Today there are 11 bands in Iowa City and four of them are made up of five or less pieces.

Meardon said the great increase in recorded music in the last 10 years has changed people's attitudes toward music for dances. They're satisfied with juke-box music for a dance now when they wouldn't think of it before the war, he said.

He recalled the fraternities and sororities each had four parties a year before the war at which they hired a local band. This year, said Meardon, most of them use juke boxes.

This changing attitude about music for dances is making it tougher to get name bands in Iowa City, Meardon said. "A name doesn't mean so much anymore when you can get the same thing on a disc."

Meardon declined to predict what the long-range effect of the Petrillo ban will be. "If you'd been in it even as long as I have, you'd know it's an unpredictable business," he concluded.

Future Teachers' Club To Hold First Meeting

Members of the University organization of Future Teachers will have their first general meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in room 221-A, Schaeffer hall.

Officers of the chapter are Joseph Cassidy, A4, Waukon, president; Dick Johnson, A4, Burlington, vice-president, and Alice Dehn, A4, Burlington, secretary.

The organization is open to undergraduates in the college of education.

IT MAY COME TO THIS if James C. Petrillo's "no recording" rule stops union musicians from making records. Juke box fans may have to settle for off-key platters cut by amateurs like the one pictured above. However, music men in Iowa City say the ban won't be effective for quite a while. ## George Was Neat Character Changes In Two Hours

By RALPH DARROW

George used to be neat. Yesterday he bought a "cheerio," one of those ice cream-on-a-stick affairs. After unwrapping the confection, he refrained from throwing the paper on the walk. George liked a clean city. He was neat.

Now to throw the thing into a trash can, thought George. Strange. None of this corner. Down Iowa avenue he went in search of a garbage container. Odd. No can on that corner either.

A persistent cuss, George turned south on Dubuque street and so to the next corner. Still no trash can in sight.

"Doggone," said George. I'm going to find a trash can in this town if it takes all afternoon. Down Dubuque street he went. North on Linn. South again on Gilbert. Then back on Van Buren. The hot sun beat down as George crisscrossed Iowa City. Wet creamy goo oozed from the still tightly clutched wrapper. Investigating flies attempted to raid the treasure.

Still George searched. He was neat.

Two weary hours later he gave up. Back at the corner of Clinton and Jefferson he disgustedly threw the limp paper into the street. He had covered over 40 blocks of the business district and vicinity without finding one single city-provided trash can.

George now does as many other citizens of Iowa City do. He discards papers, match books and banana peels right onto the sidewalk.

George is no longer neat.

It is estimated that it required from one to two and a half million years to build up the coal beds of Pennsylvania.

Railway Express Rates For Interstate Loads To Increase Saturday

Railway Express agency rate increases for interstate commerce will go into effect Saturday, according to E.W. Barnes, manager of the Iowa City office.

The increases, ranging up to 53 percent, will be figured on a graduated scale, he said. Short distance shipments will increase the highest percentage.

In comparing old rates with the new increases, Barnes said 100 pounds of baggage shipped from Iowa City to New York will cost $7.05 instead of $5.04. This is an increase of 40 percent.

The same shipment being sent to Chicago will cost $3.15 instead of $2.29 or an increase of about 50 percent.

The new rates will affect only interstate commerce now. Intra-state rates will be increased Dec. 31, Barnes said.

Dr. Miller Backs State Sterilizing of The Feeble-minded

Sterilization of the mentally unfit is only a remedy, not a cure-all, Dr. Wilbur B. Miller, director of the Psychopathic hospital here, said at the Lions club luncheon yesterday.

"It permits us to discharge many patients from institutions whom we wouldn't dare to discharge otherwise," said Miller, who is also a member of the state board of eugenics.

He pointed out that an Iowa law passed in 1928 permits involuntary sterilization of feeble-minded persons after the state board has reviewed the case.

"We have never forced anyone to be sterilized against his wishes. We feel that we can do a great deal of good by sterilizing only those persons who want to be sterilized," Miller said.

If birth control could be taught to the mentally deficient, he said, there would be no need for sterilization, but the feeble-minded and the insane are not willing to practice birth control. Because of this, he explained, feeble-minded families reproduce at a rate twice as fast as normal families.

Eugenic sterilization, he said, is used to prevent those persons who are a menace or a burden to society from reproducing others of their kind.

Some people, Miller said, argue that sterilization of feeble-minded women will encourage them to turn to prostitution or promiscuity. He discounted this argument, stating that the operation decreased this tendency if the woman is taken back into her family.

Two improvements are necessary in the present system of Iowa, he said. The eugenics board needs an organization to explain to the public the advantages of the board, and a voluntary sterilization board should be added.

American Red Cross Will Not Participate In Campus Chest Drive

The American Red Cross will not take part in the Campus Chest drive, according to a statement issued yesterday by the Johnson county chapter.

"The character of the Red Cross and its responsibilities under the international treaty and its congressional charter make it impossible for the Red Cross to take part in a combined fund drive," the statement said.

This has been the organization's policy since 1918. It was established because experience has shown that participation in local or national joint fund-raising projects limits the free participation of every American citizen in their Red Cross, the statement added.

Included in the Campus Chest drive will be the World Student Service fund, the cancer drive and the Nile Kinnick scholarship fund. This is the only drive on campus sponsored by the Student council.

Asks for Children In Divorce Petition

Anita Geringer, 1312 Keokuk street, yesterday filed suit for divorce from L. R. Geringer at the Johnson county courthouse.

Asking custody of three children, Mrs. Geringer said her husband had treated her and their three children cruelly and had falsely charged her with adultery.

In the petition she charged also that her husband commenced a divorce suit Aug. 27, 1947, for the purpose "of causing the plaintiff mental suffering and undermining her health and endangering her life." This suit was dropped by Geringer Oct. 18.

She asked $50 per month alimony, $75 support for the children and payment of support of another child, now an inmate of a state institution at Glenwood. Mrs. Geringer also asked title to real estate owned jointly by the couple with the stipulation that the defendant complete payment for the property.

Her attorney is E. P. Korab.
