Chicken out of Court Costs 5 Bucks

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—When only 11 jurors appeared to hear testimony before Circuit Judge DeWitt Crowe, the judge was unhappy. He ordered the bailiff to locate the 12th juror. The bailiff told the judge that he had telephoned the 12th, Mrs. Marion Lemkau, and she told him: "I'm sorry, but I can't come. I've got company coming and I have to bake some chicken for them." Judge Crowe fined her $5 for contempt of court.

Restraining Men Is the Way To Control Atom—Bacher

Atomic energy control rests in the governing actions of those men who could use that energy for destruction, Prof. Robert F. Bacher, member of the U. S. atomic energy commission, said yesterday.

Bacher, President George D. Stoddard of the University of Illinois and Dr. Archie Palmer, president of the University of Chattanooga spoke at a meeting of the Association of American Universities in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Bacher said atomic controls should consist of "restraints on the actions of men," not in repression of scientific and technological ideas.

Scientists, he said, sometimes find no protection from their own advance, as illustrated by the atom bomb, and are concerned that their works are used as destructive and not constructive ends.

Outlining the research that led to present work with atomic energy, Bacher emphasized that scientists cannot be apprehensive of finding the secrets of nature. He said some people see only the applied science side of such developments and forget the philosophical side.

The scientist's role is to promote understanding of nature and to give man more control over the forces of nature, Bacher said. This includes improving man's standard of living, he said.

He pointed out that atomic research has developed radioactive isotopes to aid in fighting disease.

Bacher said that applications of scientific research follow too closely behind the efforts to understand science. In the example of the atom bomb, he said, it took only 15 years from the beginning of the applied subject to production of the weapon. "But our understanding of it is no better than it was 10 years ago," he said.

Urging widespread promotion of science for constructive use, Bacher said, "Perhaps one of the important steps which can be taken to achieve a better integration of science into the development of civilization is in its presentation in the colleges."

Emphasizing the importance of educating the common man to the dangers of scientific "lethal weapons," Stoddard said that we must fight war in the minds of men where it is born.

He urged laymen to follow the lead of scientists as they seek to control their inventions.

He foresaw a twofold danger in the current difficulties in setting up controls:

1. That the non-democratic forces may win.

2. That the democratic forces in achieving victory may be diluted. "Inner man," he said, "can approach the golden rule. What he needs now is external support through social and political institutions."

He looked forward to the time when, through proper education, "the common man will act like the uncommon scientist."

Declaring that we cannot eliminate science from our daily lives as some have suggested, he said science has made us different from "classical and medieval man."

Though man may veer toward insanity, he said, he will never return to the cave. Science has shown us that the brain is "supreme," he said. Today "to fear thought is to fear life," he asserted.

Speaking as a psychologist, Stoddard said, "I do not believe that the threat of death to others will act as a deterrent to war."

Men, he said, are "numbered into fatalism" by the deaths that occur in our daily peacetime lives. It is even more difficult, he said, for men to be concerned with tragedies that may occur in distant places.

In stressing the importance of making the atomic bomb and lethal weapons hard to get at and use, he declared that the guns that go off are the guns that lie around "handy."

In conclusion, Stoddard quoted from the preamble to UNESCO: "Peace must be founded on the intellectual solidarity of mankind."

Intensification of scientific research in university laboratories is resulting in greater need for protection of the discoveries, according to Dr. Palmer.

Dr. Palmer dealt with patents and university research and the various methods employed by uni-

Brazil's Embassy Staff Held by Russ

LONDON, (AP)—Soviet Russia announced through the Moscow radio last night that she had placed the Brazilian ambassador and his staff under a "protective" surveillance and said they would be held in Moscow until the safe departure of the Soviet embassy staff from Brazil had been assured.

Brazil severed relations with Russia on Tuesday because of Russia's failure to apologize for attacks in the Soviet press on Brazilian President Eurico Gaspar Dutra.

Radio Moscow said Brazilian Ambassador Mario De Pimental Brandao and his staff had been taken "under surveillance" and would be held under guard—presumably within the embassy grounds—because the Soviet public was incensed at "holligan acts" against Russian diplomats in Rio de Janeiro.

The broadcast declared the 5-year-old son of Soviet Charge D' Affaires Sokolov was injured in the stoning of an embassy automobile in Rio de Janeiro's streets in which "bad eggs" also were thrown.

Disney Calls League of Women Voters Communists; Local Officials Disagree

Walt Disney called the League of Women Voters a Communist front organization yesterday and Mrs. Elmer DeGowin, state president of the league, said "the charge doesn't even deserve an explanation."

Disney stated that Herbert K. Sorrell, Hollywood labor leader, "used the labor relations board as it suited him," he made the charge at the congressional un-American activities committee investigations in Washington, D. C. Mrs. Kenneth MacDonald, 615 N. Dubuque street, local vice-president of the league said, "there's nothing communistic about urging people to vote, Disney is giving the people the wrong picture of what the league is trying to do."

Elizabeth Halsey, local president of the league said:

"Disney has made a charge he had no right to make; the league of Iowa is devoted to the promotion of democratic principles, and I feel sure that Disney does not have a true picture of what we are trying to do."

Koser Vetoes Council Move To Buy 250 Parking Meters

By RAY HENRY
Mayor Preston Koser last night in a special city council meeting vetoed the resolution passed by the council Oct. 13 to purchase about 250 parking meters from the Duncan Meter corporation.

The mayor read a prepared report in which he made these statements:

"I make no objections to the difference in the price submitted for the two meters. That is something for the council to determine, not the mayor.

"Here is my real reason for not signing the resolution and it can be summed up in one word—confusion."

Koser said Iowa Citizens and farmers from this area have been used to the automatic Park-O-Meter and a change to the manually operated Miller meter manufactured by the Duncan corporation would "confuse" the parking public.

The last time a mayor of Iowa City vetoed a resolution was in 1924, according to reliable sources.

Following Koser's statement, Alderman Max Hawkins asked for adjournment of the meeting until Oct. 27 at 7:30 p.m. The council passed the motion.

To override the mayor's veto, the council must now vote by a two-thirds majority to pass the resolution.

The original vote favoring the meters by Alderman Hawkins, Charles T. Smith, James Callahan, Frank Fryauf and William Grandrath would be a sufficient margin to override.

The question of purchase of the meters came up when the council by a 5-to-2 vote passed the resolution to buy Miller meters at a cost of about $80 each to supplement 155 Park-O-Meters on Iowa City streets which were purchased for $65 each.

Robert Lindsey, 718 S. Capitol street, on Oct. 16, petitioned the Johnson county district court to issue a temporary injunction against Koser, City Clerk George Dohrer and the Duncan Meter corporation. (See KOSER, Page 5)

Truman Asks Action To Stop Inflation And Totalitarianism

WASHINGTON, (AP)—In a radio broadcast to the nation, President Truman last night called for "prompt and courageous action" to stop inflation at home and to protect France and Italy against "totalitarian pressure."

He stopped short, however, of saying at this time what measures other than voluntary he will ask congress in the special session he has called to meet Nov. 17.

"When it meets," he said of congress, "I shall recommend a program for dealing with inflation, high prices, and the high cost of living. Adequate measures—enacted in time—are necessary to correct the present situation."

Turning to foreign needs, the president said, "Timely and forthright action is needed to relieve hunger and cold abroad."

Before Mr. Truman took to the radio, two high-ranking Republican lawmakers raised the cry that he was "playing politics" by linking rising costs with foreign aid in his special session call.

Rep. Halleck (R.-Ind.), house majority leader, and Rep. Wolcott (R.-Mich.), chairman of the house banking committee, were joined by Carroll Reece, GOP national chairman, in sounding the "politics" theme.

However, Chairman Eaton (R.-N. J.) of the house foreign affairs committee said, "Congress has to act promptly" in providing relief for France and Italy.

Austin Appeals for War—Vishinsky

LAKE SUCCESS, (AP)—Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky charged United States Delegate Warren R. Austin with making an "appeal for war" last night. He also clashed with the Turkish representative in one of the most heated sessions of the United Nations assembly's political committee.

The Soviet bloc's "warmonger" offensive spread to two fronts in the assembly and found Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt speaking out against a Yugoslav resolution in the social committee.

Vishinsky also declared that the U.S. reminded him of "Prussianism" and "Hitlerism."

Vishinsky charged that Austin sounded an "appeal for war" Thursday when the U.S. delegate called on the assembly to reject Russia's resolution condemning "warmongering."

Shortly before Vishinsky spoke, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt struck at a Yugoslav resolution in the assembly's social committee. She declared the U.S. is gravely concerned at "the growing practice of erecting tight, governmental monopolies over the information disseminated in many nations of the world."

Turkey, a recipient of American aid under the Truman program, started the day's debate with an accusation that the Russian government radio and the Moscow press is waging a campaign of "psychological aggression" against Turkish people and making "warmongering" attacks on the Turkish government.

Pilot Radioed That Plane Was on Fire; Sought Auxiliary Field

BRYCE CANYON, Utah (AP)—A United Airlines DC-6 transport plane carrying 52 persons, including two infants, smashed against a sloping hillside here yesterday, scattering bodies and wreckage over a wide area.

The four-engined craft, trailing smoke and flames at least 10 miles before it crashed, virtually was disintegrated.

Two Iowans were on board the plane. They were Jack Guenther, 33, of Des Moines and New York, managing editor of Look magazine, and Helen Morrissey, 25, stewardess, a native of Valeria.

The four engines, scorched and twisted, were thrown 200 to 300 feet beyond the burned area.

All bodies, including 47 passengers and five crew members, were mangled and burned. Most were unrecognizable.

Only three other commercial aviation crashes have taken a larger death toll. Fifty-three persons died in the wreckage of an airliner near Port Deposit, Md., last May 30. The same number perished in each of two other crashes, both at Bogota, Columbia, the first July 24, 1938, and the second last February 15.

Hawks Meet Notre Dame Today

Irish Rated Heavy Favorites In 6th Meeting Between Clubs

By CHAD BROOKS
Managing Editor
SOUTH BEND, Ind.—Football's glory trail will be wide open and inviting for Dr. Eddie Anderson and his embattled band of Iowa gridiron Hawkeys this afternoon when the Old Gold eleven invades football's capital to do battle with the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame. For 20 years the quickest route to football fame has been a victory over the Irish, especially when you aren't given a chance by the pre-game dope—and it's a sure thing that nobody is favoring the Hawkeys today.

And the Hawks themselves have no delusions of grandeur. They will be the first to admit that Notre Dame is the odds-on favorite today—it's just that Dr. Eddie and his band want to win so darn badly and they believe they have a chance to do just that.

The game has been billed as a passing duel between all-American Johnny Lujack of the Irish and Iowa's Al DiMarco, the Big Nine's top tosser.

On any straight man-to-man show, we'd give the Hawkeye pass master the edge over Mr. Lujack—but when you're playing the Irish the scales are a little out of balance.

DiMarco will be trying to throw today under pressure from football's hardest charging line. And we don't think Iowa's forwards can give him enough protection to make a passing duel possible.

Meanwhile, Lujack will be doing his own tossing from behind the "Iron Curtain" formed by this great Irish line.

It's the same story right down the line.

Iowa has a little speed, Notre Dame has a lot.

Iowa has a good deal of power, Notre Dame has more.

Iowa has a good line, Notre Dame has the nation's best.

Iowa has a good Big Nine ball club, Notre Dame is the second best outfit in the land.

But the Iowa boys want to win very badly and, if Dr. Eddie's regulars can stand the pace for 60 minutes today, anything can happen.

The Irish squad is loaded with power from top to bottom, but man-for-man in the starting elevens Iowa won't be giving away too big an edge.

Jim Martin, 6'2" and 205 pounds of defensive fury, will handle the left end duties for the Irish. A year ago he was the country's top defensive end, this year he's better. But Iowa's Hal Shoener is only a step behind and the best of the Big Nine has to offer in that department.

Leon Hart, 6'4" and 225 pound right end, is Notre Dame's top pass receiver and a very good defensive end. . . . But Iowa has Herb Shoener, recently developed into a good receiver and always a great defensive end.

George Connor is 225 pounds of all-American at left tackle for the Irish. . . . Jim Shoaf is recognized as the Big Nine's best man at the position.

George Sullivan, at 223 pounds, is more than adequate at right tackle for Notre Dame. . . . But Iowa's Bill Kay is better.

Bill Fischer, whittled down to 230 pounds, is a veteran left guard and a good one for the Irish. . . . But Iowa's Joe Grothaus is slowly building up quite a reputation of his own.

Marty Wendell, at 204 pounds, has left his center duties to take over right guard duties. . . . where he's probably a step ahead of Iowa's Ray Carlson, but only a small step.

Taft Will Run For President

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Senator Robert A. Taft yesterday opened a cellophane-wrapped surprise package — an announcement that he was a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

Most of his friends and a part of the public had suspected this for months.

The 58-year-old Cincinnati lawyer, son of the late President and Chief Justice William Howard Taft, was quickly assured the support of Ohio Republican leaders, and said he would leave to them most of the work of getting the nomination.

Business in the senate, where he has represented Ohio for nine years, will demand most of his attention, Taft explained.

Taft said there had been no discussion of any running "mate" for him in the Ohio primary election next May.

Maine Fires Cause $26 Million Loss

BAR HARBOR, Me. (AP)—Like refugees of war, thousands of persons yesterday fled this flame-wasted island colony of million-aire summer mansions to escape another night of terror of raiding forest fires which took 18 lives in the nation and burned a loss upwards of $16,000,000 across New England.

Maine — with six communities wiped out in addition to this devastated section of Mount Desert Island, vacation playground of the rich—was still under attack by four firefronts which were out of control.

As the army, navy, coast guard and Red Cross rushed aid by plane, all available local agencies and persons were rallying to help 3,500 evacuees who streamed out of Bar Harbor and other island areas in swiftly-gathered boats like a small-scale Dunkerque.

An evacuation center at Ellsworth estimated 2,500 refugees thronging there from Mt. Desert Island.

SOMETHING SPECIAL was in the offing for these university students as they crowded the Rock Island station at 1 o'clock this morning before leaving in special cars for South Bend, Ind., and the Iowa-Notre Dame game this afternoon. The Irish are heavy favorites in the tilt but these students hope to see the Hawks maintain their all-time series edge.

Clinton Holds First Spot

Nip Hawklets By 7-0 Margin

Clinton's River Kings kept possession of first place in the Mississippi Valley conference by downing a stubborn Iowa City high team 7-0 last night at Clinton.

The River Kings put on a sustained 73 yard march early in the second period to score the only touchdown of the game. Clinton Halfback Gene Hood went 11 yards on an off-tackle smash to climax the Clinton drive and Leonard Jordan kicked the extra point. The Clinton touchdown came with three minutes and 20 seconds gone in the second quarter.

City high's Little Hawks came back strong after that and took the ball from their own 27-yard line to the River Kings' 22. Fullback Bill Reichardt's running and the passing combination of Dick Doran to Gene Hettrick featured the Hawklets' only scoring threat of the first half. Doran completed two aeriels to Hettrick, one of which was good for 30 yards.

With the ball resting on the Clinton 22 yard stripe the River Kings held the Red and White offensive to a stand still.

Just before the first half ended Clinton had the ball on the five yard line of the Little Hawks. Clinton moved the ball to the Hawklet one foot line in four plays and a City high penalty gave the Reichardt of City high and Schuster and Nixon of Clinton put on a beautiful exhibition of running in the second half but neither team was able to score.

Last night's Clinton victory knocked City high out of a chance at the conference championship. The Hawklets finished loop competition with a record of four wins and two losses.

Next week the City high eleven journey to Burlington to play the Greyhounds of the Little Six conference.

Taking Time Out

With Buck Turnbull

Here we go again, ever trying to boost our sagging average of football predictions. Feeling sorry for our group of weeping experts, we're letting them take a breather this weekend. With only four toss-ups, instead of the usual seven.

Dr. Anderson takes a spirited crew of Hawkeyes into Notre Dame stadium this afternoon to battle the nation's No. 2 ball team. We have gazed for long hours into the crystal ball labelled "Iowa Fights" but even that old trusty brought forth no misgivings for the Fighting Irish of Frank Leahy. They've got everything that makes a football team click and bar a major letdown, the Irish will swell forth with the Notre Dame victory song at South Bend tonight.

The highly under-rated Purdue Boilermakers run into the Illinois Big Nine champions and try as we may, we cannot see how even Fitcher's Bob DeMoss can pull this one out of the fire in favor of Stu Holcomb's Engineers. But he is capable of giving Illini Quarterback Perry Moss many disheartening moments. A confident vote for the defending champions.

Another Big Nine duel finds the fast-moving Northwestern Wildcats matching wits with Indiana and George Talaferro. The Wildcats boast the conference's leading scorer in Halfback Art Murakowski. They'll score against the Hoosiers but we doubt if they'll be able to keep the pace of triple-threat Talaferro and company. Indiana in a squeeze.

Two undefeated teams—Penn State and West Virginia—face each other at State College, Penn., this afternoon. The Nittany Lions, with a team that now ranks ninth in the nation, have overwhelmed four opponents to date by a total of 196-6. Poor West Virginia can forget their undefeated ranking tonight.

On the next game we're going to skip the unanimous opinion of our four experts and pick Louisiana State to stop Vanderbilt's high-classed eleven. We think the Tigers of LSU are a little better than their scores have shown so far. A one touchdown victory for LSU.

The last two ball games of this week's ticket were so hard for us to figure out statistically that we had to quit in utter disgust. Out came the coin and here's what the flip foretold:

Southern California will have a rough time with "Pappy" Waldorf's fighting California team but the Trojans will be on the winning end of a very close score.

UCLA will come very close to finding their equal in SMU and quintuple-threat Doak Walker. But the Uclans have depth, speed and power to garner the win. (Anyway, the coin came up heads.)

Our record after last week is 20 wins, 9 losses and 6 ties.

even Iowa's Dick Woodard can rate with him.

Lujack and DiMarco, the rival quarterbacks, are both terrific... We give the edge to DiMarco but predict that Lujack will look better because of the team he has to work with.

Terry Brennan, Irish left half, can run like a scared rabbit, is a top pass receiver and a dangerous ball carrier... Iowa's Emlen Tunnell is just better, that's all.

Emil Sitko at right half is faster than Iowa's Bobby Smith, but doesn't hit as hard or as cleverly. John Panelli, Irish fullback, and Ron Headington, the Hawk power attack, are two of a kind... And if Panelli doesn't play, press releases say he won't, the edge goes to Iowa.

We still don't think Iowa has played their best ball game of the 1947 season. We think Iowa has a better backfield than the Irish, but is outmanned in the line and in reserve power.

We know that Notre Dame has been favored in five previous Iowa battles and has lost three of them. We know that the Irish are big favorites this afternoon.

Wolverine-Gopher Game A Sell-Out

ANN ARBOR, MICH., (AP) — Michigan's supercharged football express, roaring through the Midwest toward a possible Rose Bowl stop Jan. 1 at Pasadena, appeared in no immediate danger of derailment yesterday as the high scoring Wolverines headed into a Saturday collision with a sputtering Minnesota machine still reeling from last week's crashing 40 to 13 defeat at Illinois.

Although they have little reason to expect to see Michigan's first string offensive unit in action for more than its average of about one period a game, a sellout throng of 85,938 fans will jam the big Michigan bowl for the 38th renewal of the "Little Brown Jug" series with Minnesota. The game was sold out more than a month ago.

Fullback Bob Ojemann and Doug Dierks, halfback, showed up for the Blue Hawks, but fell down by a long toss and a line buck. Galloping through the mucky field, the Blues penetrated to the Bear one-yard-line twice, but failed to score in four downs each time.

Sees Stricter Flying Law Enforcement

There will be a stricter enforcement of the Iowa flying laws, according to J. W. Walsh, Iowa Aeronautical commission enforcement officer.

Walsh stopped at the Iowa City airport yesterday during a trip around the state in which he is checking plane registrations, safety violations, and explaining the commissions purpose to flyers.

The Iowa commission was authorized by the state legislature two years ago in cooperation with a CAA request that states aid in the enforcement of flying regulations. The commission, a five man board appointed by the governor's executive council, includes a director, education officer, enforcement officer and two engineers. "The commission and the Iowa Aeronautical code do not infringe on the federal laws but will work in conjunction with the CAA," Walsh said. "Our purpose is not only to enforce the law but to promote good feeling and stimulate the air industry."

The number of private planes has grown in the last two years from 500 to two or three thousand in Iowa, according to Walsh. About 300 of the pilots are flying farmers.

A sophomore student in the college of liberal arts, the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Nelson, Des Moines. The bridegroom, a senior student majoring in psychology, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Northcutt, Omaha, Neb.

Dr. L. L. Dunnington officiated at the ceremony.

Maid of honor was Marjorie Love, Iowa City, aunt of the bride. Marjorie Holloway, Center Point, was bridesmaid and Dorothy June and Ruth Anne Bodensteyner, Des Moines, cousins of the bride, were junior bridesmaids.

Noble Lopeman, A2, Pontiac, Ill., attended the bridegroom as best man. Ushers were Gene Butknecht, Cedar Falls; Frederic Haesemeyer, C4, Rockford, Ill.; Duane Mabb, A3, Thornton; and John Albaugh, brother of the bride.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Rose room of Hotel Jefferson.

Mrs. Northcutt was graduated from a Des Moines high school and attended Upper Iowa university at Fayette last year. She is a member of Phi Beta Phi, national social sorority.

Mr. Northcutt was graduated from Central high school, Omaha, Neb., and attended Grinnell college before entering the university. He is a member of Theta Xi, national social fraternity.

The couple is taking a short wedding trip and will be at home after Nov. 1 at 715 Iowa avenue.

DESIGNER'S NIGHTMARE

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT

Is Protest Un-American?

By SAMUEL GRAFTON
New York Post Syndicate

The poor must have a home in America, too. I know that America's poor are less poor than the poor of England or France, and I believe, from what I have been able to find out, that they are far less poor than the poor of Russia. But we do have our poor, and one of the dangers in the investigation now going on is the possible tarring of all advocacy of the poor as "un-American."

One of the worst results of Communism has been to seem to give leftism a geographic base, so that national and social questions have become confused. But we have really reached the stage at which to point out the shortcomings of the rich is treachery to America? We must pick our way carefully through these shoals, for the penalty of too much brassiness would be to give an easy victory to Russia, to concede just what she wants to establish, that Russia is the spiritual home of the impoverished of this world. We must make no such concession, explicitly, or implicitly.

The committee is not going into, is this? What swirling tides of fear and doubt must be running through our age and period to produce such alleged results? Without at all accepting the theory that a man's (even a Hollywoodian's) interest in the underdog makes him a communist, it can still be asked: If a significant portion of America's intellectuals are tainted, in the committee's view, with radicalism, what processes, what anxieties, have tainted them?

There happens to be one question to which the committee on un-American activities has been unable to obtain an answer, and it rises again and again to haunt the hearing. It is this: Why should men who are so rich as these accused Hollywoodians, be of leftist mind in any degree? Why don't they just take their cash, and keep quiet? What's with them?

The more sweepingly inclusive the committee's "communist list" grows the more curious does the question become. The answer is not to be found on the bare level of plot and counterplot. One can imagine a really sympathetic inquiry, trying to dig deep, in the national interest, into the nature of the processes and social fears that make men decline to conform altogether to the conservative view, and that lead to such bickering, as now divide the Hollywood community.

Menjou tried to answer, but the best he could produce was the theory that they were crazy. If that is true, a certain portion of the rich should have been so affected in all periods, and they have not been. The sickness, if it is one, is perhaps a sickness of our time.

The committee is collecting names instead, working on the surface of events. The danger is, as I have said, that we may give Russia a colossal victory, by seeming to treat all forms of protest as merely a mysterious pestilence, and thus bending the minds of disoriented men, watching from abroad, in the direction of the other side.

Hollywood Communist Investigation a Farce

The un-American activities committee is at it again. This time it's the "Communists" in Hollywood who are on the frying pan.

So far the investigation has proceeded with all the trappings of a Hollywood extravaganza. It has produced nothing beyond mere assertions that a few screen writers are on the "lunatic fringe" and are suspected of being Communists.

The height of the ridiculous was reached yesterday when Walt Disney's assertion that the league of women voters is a Communist front organization.

Filmland undoubtedly has its quota of all sorts of extremists. There are reactionaries, vegetarians, prohibitionists and fanatics who are employed in the industry, just as there are the same types of people in other industries.

But the committee could get its best evidence by adjourning hearings to the neighborhood theatre. There they would find that the vast majority of movies tend to be stereotyped, romantic, absurd, unreal — and of course they generally have a happy ending.

The movies are far from vehicles of Communist propaganda. They are largely a repeat on the favorite theme of "the American way of life": everybody is rich, most always happy and overcomes every problem with a thrilling romance which patches up all the little difficulties.

Most movies are exclusively entertainment. As such they are made to make money. They are about as devoid of ideas — any idea of any kind; Communist or otherwise — as a comic book.

Aside from the ridiculous aspect of investigating an industry which is so obviously propagating the very essence of the NAM line, there are four disturbing parts of the probe:

1. The Roman holiday atmosphere of the investigation is dangerous to the prestige of other legitimate congressional investigating committees. The investigating function is one of the most important means congress has of keeping itself informed.

2. The investigation is another in the thought-control series sweeping the country. Its effect will be to intimidate and coerce the movies into an even more rigid acceptance of what the Thomas committee thinks is American.

3. It raises, as in its other investigations, the basic question of the motives of the committee. Is it really after Communists, or is it trying to smear all those who have the least bit of independent political thought?

4. It is being conducted in a witch-hunting atmosphere. The committee isn't giving the accused a decent chance of denial. Counsel for witnesses must not cross-examine other witnesses.

Notice for Extinguisher Demonstrations Poor

TO THE DAILY IOWAN:
The editorial on Friday concerning the residents of Finkbine Park ignoring the recent "instruction" in fire fighting equipment shows a lack of the complete facts in the case.

The total information which I had concerning the demonstrations was:

1. A mimeographed note saying there would be a demonstration SOMETIME.
2. Two four-inch stories in The Daily Iowan, the first of which announced that there were to be demonstrations and the second gave the particular time for the Finkbine area but no mention of the exact location. Many people missed these articles.

It has been brought to my attention that the latter of these articles appeared on the day of the demonstration, and thus gave people inadequate opportunity to

College Fees Eliminate Many

Student fees have increased so much by many capable young persons are unable to attend college, Dr. John Dale Russell of the United States office of education, said recently.

Russell commented on trends indicated in a recent office of education survey made at the request of President Truman's commission on higher education.

"Much of the higher cost of college attendance is now met by student fees, more than 50 percent of which are paid by the federal government for veterans' education, Russell added.

Educational costs "will be too high for many family budgets" if student fees continue rising without "increased financial support from other sources after the GI legislation expires," he said. He indicated that this trend will limit college education to children of higher income families — a counter-democratic tendency," he added.

Two outstanding developments were apparent from the survey: 1. Student fees now provide for over half of the total annual college educational expenditures. Formerly these fees paid about a third of the total annual expense bill. Of this amount, the federal government paid more than half, or over $300,000,000 during the current fiscal year.

Colleges have become increasingly dependent upon student fees as their chief flexible source of income to meet increasing costs of providing higher education, said Russell.

College costs have increased because of the record enrollments, that turning the other cheek is a practical international policy, and that good intentions are sufficient armament for a nation.

They know there are certain people, too, who feel that chronic self-criticism is one way to display "liberalism." The Communists never want these people to run out of ammunition.

The main purpose, of course, is to distract the world's attention from the one real issue of the day, which is Communist aggression, and to prevent any constructive action looking toward settled world conditions.

Philadelphian (AP) — The Republican national convention in Philadelphia next June will be televised for the first time under gigantic news and radio coverage plans disclosed yesterday.

Coast-to-coast television coverage was outlined by Roger W. Clipp, head of Philadelphia radio station WFIL-TV

Congratulations and an Apology

Congratulations to the Hawkeye village council for its success in getting a big turnout for the demonstration of fire extinguishers Thursday night.

And apologies for including that so evidently active part of the married students housing section in yesterday's criticisms of poor turnout at previous demonstrations.

The Hawkeye village residents recognize the need for knowing how to use the extinguishers. We hope residents in other areas will follow suit and arrange demonstrations, which will be well attended.

Truman Calls Special Session—Finally

The Truman administration has finally been maneuvered into a position where a special session became a tragic necessity.

Rising prices threaten the success of efforts to keep Europe alive. The administration ducked the issue as long as possible. The people looked in vain for aggressive leadership in the crisis. They didn't find it at the White House and they didn't find it in Republican councils.

Washington news stories say, to call a special session. Even on the day of the announcement, prices had risen to a new all-time high. Further steps apparently are needed if food will be gotten to Europe.

The President will strengthen his own position, and that of the people of the United States, if a bold answer to the challenge is forthcoming in his message to the special session.

Then we will see how much courage the Republican majorities in both houses have.

One Case of Labor Trouble Under T-H Law

Statements that the Taft-Hartley will bring peace between labor and management are not borne out by at least one recent incident.

Supporters of the bill thought they could pressure labor unions into giving up their bargaining power by refusing them facilities of the national labor relations board.

But in Galion, Ohio, only a tense truce prevents bloodshed in a strike of CIO united auto workers there.

The company refused to bargain with the union until the non-Communist affidavits required by the T-H law are signed by union officials.

But the union simply has declined to use the facilities of the board.

So a case that might have been settled around the conference table is being fought out on the picket lines because of the discriminatory non-Communist pledge required by the law—a pledge employers are not required to sign.

As long as congress was in the business of making people sign pledges, they might have put in a provision making employers sign that they are not Fascists. But that, of course, wasn't part of the NAM-written law.

Russia Accuses U. S. of Her Own Tactics

By J. M. Roberts, Jr.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst
The dividing line between comedy and tragedy has become almost indistinguishable at Lake Success as the Russian delegates tie up the United Nations with their talk of trying to gag Americans.

Everyone in the United States who would keep this country strong against the very sort of aggression which has wiped out national autonomy and individual liberty in central Europe is a "warmonger" to the Russians.

accuse others of exactly what they are doing themselves, but this latest "Molotov cocktail" takes the cake for sheer farce.

Andrei Vishinsky has displayed, on occasion, some wit which suggests the bare possibility of a sense of humor. I wonder if he goes home every night laughing at the grave countenance of those who spend so much time trying to fight their way out of the paper bags that he fashions.

The Russians, of course, have a serious purpose. They know that there is a fringe of people in the democracies who really believe

Establish Scholarship For Honor Students In Advertising at SUI

A $750 scholarship award to be presented annually to an outstanding senior or graduate student in advertising has been available to the University of Iowa, President Virgil M. Hancher announced yesterday.

The scholarship has been established by L. R. Fairall, president of Fairall and Co. of Des Moines, and will be named for him.

First presentation of the award will be made this year to an advertising major of senior or graduate standing who shows unusual potentialities in the advertising field and who has maintained a high level of scholarship.

2-Hour Power Failure Darkens Stadium Area

Power failure last night caused all dwellings in the area surrounding the University of Iowa stadium to be without lights for two hours.

The failure occurred at 6:45 p.m. and lasted until 8:45. Areas darkened by the failure included Melrose avenue, Melrose circle, Stadium park, and University Heights.

Officials made no comment on the cause of the power failure. Workmen for the Iowa Gas and Electric company were dispatched to repair a transformer located at the corner of Melrose circle and Melrose avenue.

Interests Affect American Views on Palestine—Schaefer

Arabian oil explains the hesitancy of official Washington to take a stand on Palestine, Prof. Kurt Schaefer of the college of commerce told student meeting at Hillel house last night.

Speaking on "The Economic and Geographic Factors" in the first of a series of forums on Palestine, Schaefer said the discovery of oil in the Near East was unfortunate as far as Jewish settlement is concerned.

"Now it's a question of protection of the oil," he said. "Several large American corporations built and operate the pipeline running from Arabia which has one terminal on the Palestinian coast. That involves the U.S. and makes for a delicate situation."

The problem is not limited to the Jewish people, he said, but is a social and political one of monopoly and trusts big enough to influence the domestic and foreign policies of a nation.

Schaefer said he believes Palestine will become highly urban and industrialized in the next ten years.

"I don't think Palestine can become self-sufficient agriculturally," he said, "but chances are excellent as far as manufacturing and industry are concerned."

The whole region of the Near East lacks industry, he said, and presents a great potential market.

The solution will have to be industry based on the top skill which is now in Palestine," he said.

Seek To Close Deal on VA Hospital Site

Officials will meet in Des Moines Wednesday in an attempt to complete negotiations for the purchase of the site of the new veterans hospital to be located in Iowa City.

President Virgil M. Hancher and Fred W. Ambrose, business manager, will represent the University at the meeting in the state board of education office. They will confer with state board of education members, executive council and M. B. Wilson of the veterans administration, Washington, D. C., who will represent the federal government.

Chief difficulty in the negotiations is a restriction made by the state board of education that the hospital be built of permanent type construction.

Congressman Thomas E. Martin said that this restriction is unacceptable to the veterans administration.

Title to the land for the hospital has not been passed Martin said because of this restriction although the site was approved by the government.

Martin expressed his fear that Iowa City may entirely lose the proposed hospital unless officials from the veterans administration, the University and state can complete negotiations for purchase of the site.

The site selected is 13 acres northwest of University hospital to be purchased for $133,000. The land is bounded by Newton road on the south, Woolf avenue on the west, Highway 6 on the north and University property on the east.

Martin said that the veterans administration obviously does not plan to build a "water shed" here.

"There should be no doubt among university officials and members of the state board of education about the hospital being permanent type construction," Martin said, "for several million dollars have already been set for the building of a permanent type construction here."

However, he said that the veterans administration cannot approve titles which contain restrictions.

The 47 million persons employed in the United States in 1940 are estimated to have worked a smaller number of aggregate hours than the 37 million employed in 1910.

Pianist Jones Sets Pace for Jazz Artists

By KEN EBEL

Stravinsky's "Firebird" was playing in the Union last night as a capacity crowd poured in to hear Norman Granz' "Jazz at the Philharmonic". A more suitable near-mating of two traditionally opposed types of music could hardly be imagined.

For just as Stravinsky pushes on rhythmically and harmonically in classical music so do the men who played for JATP push on in modern music. Norman Granz has put together a group in which all musicians are striving for new ideas in jazz. In addition, he has done an outstanding job in presenting jazz in a setting as cultural as the hallowed halls of Harper. No blue smoke, no gin, few characters, but a great amount of music.

The presentation was excellent. Granz announced the numbers in each set and picked the tempos from slow and sweet to fast screamers. The musicians themselves decided on the numbers but they served as mere framework once the soloists took over.

Biggest and pleasantest surprise of the show was Hank Jones on piano. The program notes added a little information on this unknown pianist who has played with Andy Kirk, Billy Eckstine and John Kirby. But Hank's playing gave any listener all the information he needed. Playing solo, obligato, a duet with Hawkins, or having fun with bassist Ray Brown, Jones was superb. Playing with the good taste of Nat Cole, be-bop ideas as good as Al Haig, and using a right hand that was all Hank Jones, he was it.

Bassist Ray Brown has an amazing right hand that moves all over and around the bass and a dead-pan humor that would do credit to Buster Keaton. When he wasn't bowing "Always" or "Near You", he was playing a lot of running bass behind other soloists and otherwise being a top jazz musician.

J. C. Heard, Howard McGhee, Flip Phillips and Bill Harris were the other men who played the first set. Phillips was playing as driving a tenor as I've ever heard him play and for my money shaded Hawkins, who played the middle set with the rhythm section.

Harris was trying, seemingly too hard. The trombone is an unwieldy instrument for this type of concert and on the uptempo numbers Harris (and probably no trombone player) could keep pushing and still create good musical ideas. That Harris is still a fine musician was demonstrated in his slow "I Surrender Dear." The last dozen bars or so were the type of trombone he can, and should play.

Howard McGhee played more notes around and above high C than the ordinary trumpet player can play in the lower register. Strangely enough, he seemed to function better in the rare atmosphere. A few notes higher and

Poets Must Grasp Problems of Their Age, Spender Says

Can poetry survive in the modern world?

Stephen Spender, English poet, Paul Engle, of the English department and Alexander Aspel, visiting lecturer in the Romance languages department discussed this question in the senate chamber of Old Capitol last night.

This is the second discussion in the fall series of lectures and discussions presented by the Humanities society, a faculty and graduate group.

If poets recognize and solve the problems of our age, poetry may survive in the modern world, said Spender.

"We live in a materialistic age," said Spender, which has led to the evolution of specialized groups, like the laborers, the scientists and the philosophers. There is no understanding among these groups, he explained. Each thinks the other is more significant in the world today.

"There is no longer a common spiritual language," said the poet. In the past there were symbols like the cross or the crown which society knew and understood, he said.

"Poets, today, are not able to draw on symbolic language," said only the dogs would have heard it.

Of course, Coleman Hawkins is a jazz great. He gave the crowd "Body and Soul" and worked over "Stuffy" with a variety of cute tricks and good ideas.

Helen Humes sang the last set: "Them There Eyes", "I Want To Be Loved But By Only You", and a salty blues concerning the unhappier aspects of being crazy about a married man. She closed the show with her own "Be-Baba-Leba".

The second show played to a house a little over half full, with the crowd and the music a shade more frantic.

The Granz' group plays in Omaha tonight and will play at Nebraska and Kansas universities next week. Granz said that the group may be back in February.

The U. S. Great Lakes shore line (exclusive of the Canadian shores of the Great Lakes) is about equal to the combined Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf coasts of the United States.

Spender. If poetry is not generally understood, it cannot survive, he asserted.

Poetry written in recent years has been extremely obscure or extremely concrete, said Engle, who thinks poetry will survive.

Modern poets are unconsciously writing poetry which is a fusion of these two extremes, said Engle. Their work is less concrete, and at the same time, less abstract.

Aspel, who also believes poetry can exist in this age, said that surrealistic poetry—poetry spontaneously inspired—could not be written about the suffering of today's people. The poet has to portray this in language which is understood by the people who have suffered, he explained.

It has been estimated that an average of more than 5.5 percent of the labor force in the United States was out of work in the 1920s.

The locks of the Sault Ste. Marie handle more tonnage than the combined movement through six major world canals including the Panama, Suez, Manchester, Welland, Cape Cod and New York State.
