CHICAGO (AP)—Mrs. Vivian Knafelz looked high and low yesterday for her missing 3-year-old son Richard—but not high enough. After police and neighbors had scoured a south side area for several hours, Mrs. Knafelz found Richard asleep on the top shelf of a bedroom closet. "He likes to sleep a lot," she told police.

Oregon's Snell Believed Dead In Air Crash

KLAMATH FALLS, ORE., (AP)—The shattered wreckage of a plane carrying Oregon's governor, secretary of state, state senate president and their pilot was sighted yesterday "so damaged that no one could be alive."

The plane, which left here Tuesday night when the state officials started a southern Oregon hunting outing, crashed at the top of a hill, three miles west of Dog Lake in the rough, timbered lower Barnes valley.

Aboard the craft were Oregon's key state executives—Governor Earl Snell, 52; State Senate President Marshall Cornett, 49, next in line of succession to the governorship; Secretary of State Robert S. Farrell Jr., 41; and Cliff Hogue, 42, Klamath Falls pilot.

The crashed private plane was seen from the air, but darkness and rain prevented a definite ground check of the fate of Oregon's leaders.

Radio communications said last night that searchers had crisscrossed the rugged, heavily timbered area three times without finding the wreckage, concealed by pounding rain and darkness.

Two reports—one from Hamilton Field, Cal., and one from Oregon's acting adjutant general—that the plane had been found with all dead were without confirmation from the forest service searching parties.

Private pilots from Lakeview, Ore., sighted the wreckage—wings bent at a 90 degree angle from normal, trees snapped off, a swath cut through the hillside—late yesterday afternoon.

World in Action—Around The Globe

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

THE COOPERATIVE for American remittances to Europe (CARE) said in London yesterday that up to 55,000 food parcels costing $10 each will be given to Princess Elizabeth as a wedding present for distribution to Britain's needy widows who have children.

THE UNITED STATES air force yesterday revealed plans in Washington to triple its pilot training program. The expanded program will increase the number of aviation cadets from 1,000 to at least 3,000 during 1948. This is expected to add about 2,000 flying officers to the air force each year.

DR. JULIU MANIU, veteran leader of the National Peasant party, went on trial in Bucharest yesterday on charges of "high treason." He is being accused of discussing with American diplomats plans for the violent overthrow of Communist-led Romanian government.

ALF M. LANDON, Republican presidential candidate in 1936, said at Garnett, Kan., last night that Senator Robert A. Taft was the sole political leader in the country who "had the courage to state the world food issue plainly." Landon referred to Taft's recent "eat less" message to the American people.

SENATOR BREWSTER (R-ME) said in Washington yesterday that the United States "got absolutely nothing" for $80,000,000 lend-lease advanced to Saudi Arabia in connection with oil developments there.

Two Held in Death of Florida Waitress

CLEARWATER, FLA., (AP)—The battered and nearly nude body of 17-year-old Nancy Haynes, St. Petersburg waitress, was found on a lonely road at daylight yesterday.

Sheriff Todd Tucker said it had not been determined whether she died from a beating or had been struck by a car. Held without charge were two men who Deputy Sheriff Harvey Meeks said had admitted being with the girl late Tuesday night.

Meeks said they told him they quarreled with Miss Haynes and let her out of their automobile about two miles from where a bakery truck driver found her body later.

South Bend Deaths Appear 'Accidental,' Coroner Proclaims

The final verdict in the South Bend accident involving Robert Noble is not expected for several days, Jim Jordan, information director at the university, reported yesterday.

But while the investigation into the traffic tragedy continued, a report Monday in the South Bend Tribune quoted the coroner there as saying the affair looked entirely accidental.

According to Jordan, who returned yesterday from South Bend where he assisted in the investigation, the presidents of Notre Dame and St. Mary's and highway officials are getting together to decide what to do to alleviate the "death trap" crossing where the accident occurred.

The two students who were killed in the tragedy early Sunday marked the fifth and sixth traffic deaths at the spot in three years, officials reported.

U. S. Asks for Unit Elected by Koreans To Talk With UN

LAKE SUCCESS, (AP)—The United States called on the United Nations yesterday to create a temporary commission to insure "truly elected" representatives of the Korean people will be chosen to discuss Korea's independence with the United Nations assembly.

Russia and five other members of the Soviet bloc in the 57-member U. N. Political committee immediately attacked the U. S. proposal. Russia's Andrei A. Gromyko tagged it as a move to "put the cart before the horse."

Does Eggless Thursday Force Tuesday Sales?

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The agriculture department announced yesterday it will put its holdings of 61,000,000 pounds of frozen whole eggs on the market for domestic use.

It will receive offers on Tuesday of each week, beginning Nov. 4.

State To Deed Land to VA For Building

500-Bed Structure Planned on 13 Acres Near SUI Hospitals

The proposed Iowa City veterans hospital moved an important step nearer reality late yesterday through action by the state executive council and state board of education.

These groups, meeting in Des Moines, voted to remove restrictions on sale of state-owned land on which the federal government plans to build the 500-bed hospital.

The restriction to which the executive council had held previously provided that title to the land should not pass to the federal government until the hospital had been completed.

The state also had insisted on assurance from the federal government that the Iowa City hospital would be a permanent type structure. M. B. Wilson, representing the veterans administration at yesterday's meeting, said the VA would send to the state a "letter of intent" regarding plans for the hospital.

A clue to government plans was received in a letter to The Daily Iowan yesterday from Brig. Gen. R. C. Crawford, acting chief engineer of the army. The corps of engineers is drawing plans for the hospital.

Crawford stated that the hospital is being redesigned. The change of plans has been necessitated by current high costs of construction.

The government plans to build the hospital on the 13 acre tract at the corner of Newton road and Woolf avenue, northeast of University hospital.

University President Virgil M. Hancher and Business Manager Fred Ambrose attended the meeting yesterday. Hancher said he had the assurance of Congressman Thomas E. Martin, Iowa City, that the VA planned to build a permanent structure. Hancher said Martin felt there was no risk in approving sale of the land for that purpose.

After state officials voted to deed the property without restrictions, Wilson said the VA had set Feb. 4 as a tentative date for awarding construction contracts.

University hospitals Superintendent Gerhard Hartman said last night he welcomed the construction of the veterans hospital. He stated:

"We intend to cooperate by making our staff and facilities available to assist in giving a high quality of care to veterans."

From Mayor Preston Koser came this comment: "On behalf of Iowa City, I want to say I'm glad things have been cleared to make way for the new hospital. I'm sure it will be a boon to the city and go far toward making it the outstanding medical center in the midwest."

C. R. Awaits Friendship Train

Polish Leader Raps Catholics

WARSAW (AP)—Premier Jozef Cyrankiewicz openly warned the Roman Catholic hierarchy in Poland yesterday that further attacks against the Soviet-backed Warsaw regime would be met with swift action by the government.

The premier, in addressing the opening session of parliament, dismissed the strange disappearance of Peasant Party leader Stanislaw Mikolajczyk as being for the good of the nation.

Cyrankiewicz told parliament that frontier guards had prevented the illegal flight of 35,000 persons from Poland this year, but failed for some reason to stop Mikolajczyk.

In a strongly worded warning to Poland's Roman Catholic church leaders, Cyrankiewicz, told the parliament session—attended by British and American representatives in the diplomatic box for the first time since the elections last January—that the government would tolerate constructive, but not untrue, destructive criticism.

Favors Europe Aid Before Tax Cutting

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress should refrain from cutting taxes until it figures out European aid costs, Secretary of the Treasury Snyder said yesterday.

He also advised the United States to keep its budget balanced and continue trimming away each year at the $259,000,000,000 national debt while the European recovery program operates.

Costs of the Marshall plan are not decided. As handed to the United States, the program calls for about $6,000,000,000 the first year.

The balanced budget idea has Republican backing. Chairman Taft (R-Ohio) of the Senate Republican policy committee predicted in an interview at Boston this week that Marshall Plan appropriations will total up to $5,000,000,000 a year and that the debt can be whittled at the same time.

Also Taft said that while the special session of congress is doing this it can cut taxes. But Snyder told reporters he opposes changing the present taxes until congress determines the amount of aid.

Will Add to Food Donation

The "Friendship Train" will arrive in Cedar Rapids about Nov. 14 on its transcontinental trip collecting shipments of food for European relief, Rex Conn, chairman of the Cedar Rapids food committee, said last night.

The train, which leaves Los Angeles Nov. 7 bound for New York, is sponsored by Charles Luckman's citizens food committee. It is being conducted in conjunction with President Truman's four-point food program to combat hunger and communism abroad.

State Senator LeRoy Mercer last night pointed out the political importance of the food shipments. "If the people over there get this food and know that Americans have sent it, they will be certain that we have not forgotten them in their plight," Mercer said.

Everyone, he emphasized, should contribute to this program. Mercer said, "If we can get a truckload of food from Iowa City, it will help greatly."

The 8,000 people in Moscow, Idaho want to add a carload of dry peas to the train, according to a telegram received yesterday by Luckman. They offered the food, the telegram said, as "evidence that there is a Moscow that believes in world friendship."

Iowa City Mayor Preston yesterday morning indicated he would back the program as soon as details were announced.

Cedar Rapids will see that two boxcars of oats are coupled on the train when it stops there, Conn announced yesterday when he explained the program which has been set up for that community.

In charge of the eastern Iowa Friendship Train contribution is an executive committee appointed by Conn who recently returned from a tour of Europe and D. D. Offringa, Linn county extension director.

Details of the eastern Iowa program will be announced as soon as they are arranged for the territory around Cedar Rapids.

According to Luckman's plan, the food carried to the New York port on the Friendship Train will arrive in France and Italy about Christmas. Asked why France and Italy had been singled out to receive the food, Conn explained that the greatest threat of communism and most political unrest in Europe existed in those countries.

Assails Bubble Gum

PITTSBURGH, (AP)—Americans of the future may have a new look, but if it's a result of chewing bubble gum, it likely will include buck teeth, says Dr. Ernest F. Ristert, dentist of Philadelphia.

Relief Applicant in Mink Causes Probe

NEW YORK, (AP)—The state board of social welfare, opening an investigation into alleged relief abuses in New York, heard testimony yesterday that a woman who wore a mink coat when she applied for aid was housed in a hotel room and given a monthly grant of $222.75.

Bernard Shapiro, supervisor of social welfare in the state social welfare department, testified that others maintained in hotels included alcoholics, persons incapable of handling money, a family headed by a man earning $100 a week and mothers of children born out of wedlock.

Benjamin Fielding, the city's new welfare commissioner, said that if the facts warrant, action will be taken against city welfare department employees and efforts made to recover the public funds involved.

Shapiro said the woman with the mink coat was given help for herself and her 4-month-old child, born out of wedlock, although she had received $60,000 from her divorced husband since 1940 and was fully employable.

The woman was lodged in a hotel from Dec. 2, 1946, to May 21, 1947, because she said she was accustomed to expensive hotels, the supervisor said. In May she was moved to the municipal lodging house and later to the YWCA. Finally she was placed in a furnished room with an allowance of $162 a month, he testified.

Cite 4 More For Contempt

WASHINGTON (AP)—With assembly line precision, congressional probes of alleged communism in Hollywood yesterday ground out contempt citations against four more screenland figures, bringing the total to eight.

The quartet: Producer Samuel Ornitz, Director-Producer Herbert Biberman, Director Edward Dmytryk and Producer Adrian Scott.

As with four other writers against whom it has started contempt actions, a house subcommittee on un-American activities got nowhere with questions whether the four are Communists.

Ornitz protested the committee was using "loaded" questions. Biberman accused it of "shameful and cowardly" tactics.

But another movie writer, Emmett Lavery, beat the committee to the punch on Communism. He volunteered that he is no Communist, never has been and never intends to be. And, speaking as president of the Screen Writers Guild, Lavery said Communist influences "do not have control of the guild."

Committee members said it was "refreshing" to have a writer testify "without screaming about the bill of rights."

Eventually the contempt casts could reach a federal court, where convictions would carry a maximum penalty of a year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

Wisconsin Coed Evicted

Dating Negro Brings Action

MADISON, WIS., (AP)—A University of Wisconsin coed declared yesterday she was evicted from her quarters in a private rooming house because she dated a Negro student last Saturday.

Her landlord and landlady immediately issued a statement confirming the fact and adding they had taken similar action against another girl student.

Iris Alexander, a student from New York, said she was given notice to leave after she returned from an inter-racial party at the university memorial union with a Negro student she declined to name.

Owners of the rooming house, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Rupe, said in a joint statement they had asked Miss Alexander to leave and had done the same to another student, Constance Felton, senior from Brooklyn "for sympathizing with Miss Alexander and indignantly telling Mrs. Rupe off regarding the matter."

"The other girls would not stay here if Miss Alexander and Miss Felton continued their interest in

"This is our home. We don't want to go into a Negro's home and we don't expect them to enter ours. There is no religious prejudice concerned—we took Protestants, Jews and Catholics in our home for the first time this fall. But a private home is no place for inter-mixing."

Miss Alexander, who is chairman of the social relations committee of the university student board, told interviewers she now is staying with friends. She said she had placed the matter before the student board. Miss Felton could not be reached for comment.

Deny Lone Tree Party

Eight social fraternities on N. Dubuque street yesterday rescheduled their "Dubuque Street Brawl" for the CSA hall on N. Johnson street after their proposal to stage the affair at Lone Tree was denied.

Dean C. Woody Thompson of the office of student affairs said the group was denied the Lone Tree location by a subcommittee of the committee on student life. He said parties are not approved for locations outside the city limits.

Urges Outlawing of Race Bias

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman's committee on civil rights yesterday recommended that congress and the state legislatures outlaw segregation and discrimination based on race, color, creed or national origin—and do it "now."

The committee also spoke out against "public excitement" on the Communist question, but declared that real Communists and Fascists should be exposed.

The committee made 35 specific recommendations to strengthen "the American way" of life and delved into explosive issues which have embroiled congress in some of its bitterest struggles.

Discrimination against Negroes in the south was criticized at length. Other regions, in the north and west, were singled out for violations of civil rights. The nation's capital itself was scored as "a graphic illustration of a failure of democracy" and as the gateway to "Jim Crow" transportation in the south.

Mr. Truman hailed the report with a statement saying he hopes the committee has given the country "as broad a document" as the Declaration of Independence . . .

Young Democrats Organize

Plan to Apply for University Charter

The nucleus of a university Young Democrats club was formed last night when some 25 persons met at an organizational meeting, chose temporary officers and prepared to negotiate a university charter.

The temporary officers are Henry Allan, A3, Chicago, president; Don Shaw, L3, Oelwein, vice-president, and Phillip Norland, A1, Kensett, secretary.

County Attorney Jack C. White, state president, addressed the group, expressing hope that the new organization would be politically and socially active.

He outlined the club's aim as "promoting the policies of the Democratic party."

The Young Democrats, he said, were organized in January, 1932, when it was realized that young people should have a definite vote in the Democratic party. Some 8 million young people

Babe's Restaurant Closed by Sheriff

DES MOINES, (AP)—The padlocking of Babe's restaurant, taproom and meat market was effected yesterday by Sheriff C. Reppert after District Judge Loy Ladd ordered the place to be closed "immediately."

Judge Ladd called for the original padlocking order to be carried out in denying the application of Mrs. Josephine Hall, trustee for the property owners, for permission to operate a restaurant in part of the premises.

Mrs. Hall had offered to post an abatement bond for the value of the building if the court would permit operation of a restaurant in the downstairs section.

In denying the application, Judge Ladd said "efforts by operators of the building have not been in good faith" since he issued his May, 1946, liquor injunction against Alphonse (Babe) Bisignano, operator of the restaurant and taproom.

The temporary officers will contact faculty members to find an active adviser for their organization. Allan will apply to university officials for a university charter. More definite steps in writing a constitution will be taken up at future meetings.

Church Group Plans Aid for World's Needy

Iowa City church women will meet at the Congregational church for "World Community Day" on Friday, Nov. 7, to consider the needs of the world's children.

All women of the city are invited to the meeting sponsored by the Iowa City branch of the United Council of Church Women, according to Mrs. B. J. Lambert, president of the council here.

Mrs. E. B. Zeller of Cedar Rapids will be the principal speaker. Her topic will be "UNESCO and the UN."

The meeting will begin at 10:30 luncheon at noon. Those who attend continue all day, with a tent are asked to bring contributions of clothing to be sent overseas.

Theme of the council this year is "The World is My Community." The council's aim is to aid foreign children by contributions from America, and impressing the nation with the "simple virtues of Christian sharing and mutual helpfulness."

For several weeks, the council has been receiving clothing donations at the Congregational church. The clothing is packed in individual bundles; one of each intended for a needy child overseas.

The council has suggested that Iowa Citizens pack shoeboxes with a pair of shoes in good repair and with notebooks, pencils and crayons. School supplies also are urgently needed, according to Mrs. Lambert.

A consecration service for boxes at the Congregational church altar has been planned for "World Community Day."

Mrs. Ruth Smith Hanson, Spirit Lake, yesterday announced the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Sybil Ann, Iowa City, to Edwin Morgan Schmidt, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Schmidt, Davenport. Miss Hanson is secretary to the director of the school of fine arts and Iowa Union. Her fiancé was graduated from the university college of law last August. The wedding will take place Nov. 16 in the Methodist church, Iowa City.

Committee To Draft Hillcrest Constitution

Membership of a 14-man committee to draft a new Hillcrest constitution was announced yesterday by George Kaufman, C3, council president.

Al Trick, A2, Des Moines, will serve as chairman of the committee. Members appointed from the council are Kenneth Oelrich, P4, Schaller; Calvin Henry, A2, Council Bluffs; Ned Snyder, A3, Onawa, and Jack Heysinger, L1, Kansas City, Kan.

Other members, selected by councilmen and proctors, are Jim McGuire, A3, Des Moines; Gerald Eckhardt, C4, Davenport; Bob Benson, A3, Burlington; John Kennady, A4, Chicago; Randall Meyer, E4, Mt. Union; Vincent Bell, A3, Morrison, Ill.; John Hubiak, G, Forest City, Pa.; Stuart Weller, A2, Rockford Ill. and Joe Smith A1 Des Moines.

Kaufman said that several changes made since the council first began to function nine years ago make the new constitution necessary. He cited as an example the liaison committee which refers the suggested changes or complaints from the dormitory to the university.

Hillcrest residents voted to draft the new constitution a mass meeting last week.

First meeting of the constitutional committee will be held tonight. Kaufman said he hoped the first draft of the new constitution will be presented to the council at its Nov. 10 meeting.

Open Laundry To Couples in Housing Units

University laundry facilities are again available to married students in the federal housing units, Robert J. Cotter, assistant to the manager of dormitory operations, said yesterday.

A schedule will be set up by the university laundry to provide two-day service after representatives from the housing units are selected by each council, Cotter said.

The service is designed for heavy items difficult to wash in the small housing units during the winter, he said. It includes items hot water and hard soaps will not injure.

A $1.50 deposit for each laundry bag is required, he said, but it will be refunded upon return of the bag when a couple leaves or ceases to use the laundry.

The service started in March, 1946, upon the request of Hawkeye village council Cotter said. Later it was extended as new housing units were occupied until it had been made available to 265 families during the past year.

Young GOP's Seek Political Answers

The university Young Republicans league is circulating a political questionnaire in several "representative" university classes, according to Walter Johnson, executive secretary.

Several hundred questionnaires will be answered in selected economics, political science and speech classes, he said, asking students to choose their favorite Republican presidential aspirant from the following list of prospects: Stassen, Taft, Dewey, Warren, Vandenberg, Eisenhower and Bricker.

Five other questions concern American Communists, the length of presidential tenure, the Taft-Hartley act and the proposed 18-year voting age.

Results of the poll will be announced shortly, Johnson said.

New Zoo, Mate Bares Teeth

By RICK TIMMINS

City park yesterday was the scene of a wedding uniting Skippy Bear and Daisy Bear.

The couple is "at home" in Skippy's cage, but a glance can tell you things are not as they should be.

Daisy arrived at 11:30 a. m. from Madison, Wis., to join Skippy. Already, vicious rumors have been making the rounds of the other cages because it is known Daisy left a mate in Madison to come here.

The couple already has had the usual run-of-the-mill arguments concerning food, housing conditions and who is family boss. Daisy definitely has won the latter argument. Skip is completely cowed and stays in the doorway of the cave home growling, pawing the ground and showing general dislike of the situation.

Skip's bachelor life came to an end when Hoppy, his companion who was traded for Daisy, left yesterday for the zoo in Madison.

Skip and Hoppy originally were donated to City park zoo by the Eagles lodge. Later, an attempt was made to trade one of the male bears for a female. The trade, even-up, was accomplished through the Board of Park Commissioners, Madison, Wis. R. H. Hayes, director of Madison's zoo, brought the female to Iowa City and took Hoppy to his new home.

Skip is now two and one-half years old. Daisy is three and one-half, but both bears are approximately the same size. Daisy was born in the forests of northern Wisconsin, but Skip was born in captivity. Caretakers said there would be no change in the feeding habits of Daisy because the Madison and Iowa City zoo menus are virtually alike.

Felder Joins Faculty Of ROTC Department
Capt. Charles K. Felder has taken up duties as assistant professor of military science and tactics in the university ROTC department.

Felder is a veteran of 10 years service and served with the Fifth air force in the Pacific area during the war.

He was a member of the air inspector's office, air materiel command, Wright field, Dayton, Ohio, before coming to Iowa City.

Critic Approves Quartet's 'Enthusiasm'

By JOHN L. HARVEY

The chamber music situation in Iowa City looked good last night as the "faculty quartet" paid its respects to Beethoven and Brahms.

Participating in the program—which was broadcast over WSUI—were Imre Waldbauer and Mary-Ann Mikes, violins, Egon Kenton, viola, and Hans Koebel, cello. The performance consisted of Beethoven's quartet, opus 18, number 5, and Brahms' quartet, opus 51, number 2.

It is safe to say that no quartet—at any concert—has ever played the Beethoven quartet with more enthusiasm. Sometimes the sheer energy of the playing got the better of the players, resulting in a somewhat harsh tone—and in exaggerations of attack and dynamics. This particular Beethoven work is rather fragile—and might have received a more subtle treatment.

The same enthusiasm resulted in a powerfully persuasive rendering of the Brahms work. Its rugged, rather symphonic patterns lend themselves very well to this sort of treatment—and the performers made the most of that fact. Any lack of nuance was more than compensated for by the vigor and grandeur of the performance.

Most of the enthusiasm was generated by the playing of Waldbauer, the first violinist, but the other players responded well to the whip of his playing. Mary-Ann Mikes, a newcomer in the university, handled the second violin parts with considerable suavity and control.

The viola doesn't have much to say in these quartets, and what it did say—it said rather huskily. There is little fault to find, however, with Kenton's phrasing and remarkable ability to subordinate himself to the group. Outstanding was the poised cello-playing of Koebel, which profited from his perfect technical assurance.

The unity of the ensemble was fairly good, though there was a little too much first violin, a slight tendency to solo. However the reviewer, for one, would enjoy hearing more from this group.

ODK-Sponsored Class In Parliamentary Law Begins; 127 Enrolled

One hundred twenty-seven persons have enrolled in the parliamentary law class sponsored by Omicron Delta Kappa, President Herbert Wilkinson, D4, announced yesterday.

The class will meet today at 4:30 p. m. in room 221A, Schaeffer hall. Prof. Kirk Porter of the political science department will instruct the group in fundamental parliamentary procedures.

Invitations to attend the class were extended to officers of approximately 75 student organizations. Originally designed for officers of these groups, the lectures are open to anyone wishing to attend.

Recruiting Caravan Stops in Iowa City

One of two Iowa National Guard caravans stopped here yesterday while on a state-wide tour that is rapidly making recruiting history.

The caravans—an Iowa idea—are meeting with such an effective public response that the technique may be copied as a recruiting medium by the guard in other states.

At Estherville, where no guard unit existed, one of the caravans attracted such interest that 52 men signed up within 24 hours. The guard immediately took steps to set up a guard unit there.

Included in the display stationed in front of the Englert theater was a six-wheeled M-8 armored scout car. The Iowa City detachment expects to receive three cars of this type in the near future, according to Capt. Frank Tallman, commanding officer of the unit.

Other equipment includes a 155 mm. howitzer pulled by a tracked prime mover, a 75 mm. recoilless rifle that can be fired from a man's shoulder, captured enemy small arms, and ordnance and engineer repair trucks.

The caravan is part of Operation 88,888, designed to enlist that number of men in the National Guard in the two-month period ending Nov. 16. The unit left Des Moines Oct. 14 and a similar unit is touring the western part of the state.

Lt. Col. Otto H. Kaberle and 15 enlisted men are accompanying the eastern caravan which will go to Washington, Iowa, this morning.

Schaeffer Town Men Elect Worth Johnson

Worth Johnson has been elected president of Schaeffer township of the Town Men's association, Faculty Advisor Richard Schweitzer announced yesterday.

Other officers for Schaeffer township are Karl Winborn, program chairman; Lloyd Messerli, secretary; David Taylor, social chairman; Kenneth Reyhons, activities chairman, and Rex Parks, intramurals chairman.

The Town Men's association has been divided into 11 "townships," which form the operating units of the association. All men who are not pledged to fraternities or housed in dormitories are eligible for membership.

All Law Seniors' Photos Taken Today For Hawkeye

Hawkeye will photograph law seniors today in barracks EHTB, on Jefferson street, between the east and west wings of East hall.

Photographs of liberal arts and commerce seniors will be taken the last of next week if the registrar's office has released an official senior list, Carolyn Anderson, yearbook editor, said yesterday.

These students will be notified by postcard of the time their pictures will be taken, she added.

Seniors in professional schools will be photographed next week. The $2 charge will be collected when the pictures are taken.

Accept Finkbine Units, 14 Remain in Project

The university has accepted two more apartment units at Finkbine park, Robert Cotter, assistant to the director of dormitories, announced yesterday.

They were turned over to the housing office for immediate assignment.

Fourteen apartments at Finkbine, of the university's 632 housing unit project, are still unfinished.

They will probably be completed in a few days, Cotter said.

'48 Hawkeye Sales To End Tomorrow

Advance sales of Hawkeye, university yearbook, will end tomorrow, Leah Mendelson, A3, business manager, reminded students yesterday.

Thereafter, she said, no 1948

yearbooks may be purchased. Hawkeyes are sold by individual salesmen, at a booth on the east side of Old Capitol and in the Hawkeye office, W-1, East hall. Contracts for page allotments in Hawkeye are being issued to all SUI organizations, Miss Mendelson said. She asked that the organizations return signed contracts as soon as possible.

Offer $200 In Halloween Fete Prizes

A mass Halloween parade and costume party with $200 in cash prizes offered will be given for Iowa City school children Friday night by the Moose lodge.

The lodge plans to spend more than $1,000 providing entertainment for the children in an effort to give them a constructive rather than destructive Halloween.

Entertainment includes the parade, fireworks, five vaudeville acts, with Leo Cortimiglia as master of ceremonies, dancing to Hal Webster's orchestra and refreshments at the Community building.

Although sponsored by the Moose lodge, the program will be conducted by the Community Dads in cooperation with the recreation center.

The parade will assemble at 6:30 p.m. at the north side of the Community building and will start promptly at 7 o'clock, J. Edgar Frame, superintendent of recreation, announced.

Children are asked to come costumed to the parade. They may enter floats, decorated bicycles, wagons or tricycles if they desire.

Students will be admitted to the party by pledge cards distributed through all the schools.

Part of the $200 in prizes will be presented for the best costumes and floats and the remainder will be given by drawing the signed pledge cards from a barrel during the program at the Community building.

An estimated 2,500 children are expected to participate in the parade.

The party is the first of its kind to be held in Iowa City. Leo Kohl, Moose secretary, said it is an attempt to make Oct. 31 a national children's day. Similar entertainment is being provided by lodges throughout the state.

Judges for the parade are Mayor Preston Koser, Fire Chief J. J. Clark, Police Chief Edwin J. Ruppert, City High Principal Ralph A. Austermiller, Junior High Principal Otis Walker, Chamber of Commerce Secretary Robert Gage, School Board President Clark Caldwell.

City high teachers Marilyn Miller, Martha Ann Isaacs, Charlotte Jeffery Chinoth, Atty. William R. Hart, Atty. Edward Lucas, Mrs. Harold Blecha of the Moose ladies, Bob Lind, David Stochl, Ben Summerville Jr., Ted Stuck, Mrs. Howard Beye, Mrs. Charles Mott, Mrs. John Kelly, Russell Mann and Atty. D. C. Nolan.

Committee include—Fireworks, Cliff Critta and Earl Gilpin; publicity, Bill Norris; parade, Frank Fryauf Jr., chairman, William Grandrath, the Rev. Donovan Hart, Charles Smith and Jim Calahan.

Going Down Before Building Up

EXCAVATION is proceeding for the foundation of the new addition to Mercy hospital. In the center, workmen are preparing forms for reinforced concrete footings for the five-story building. In the center is an old cistern, caved in and filled with mud when the hole was first started.

Ghosts Visit SUL Children's Hospital

By RAY MARKS

"Who has been sitting on my tombstone," said the first of three ghosts that stalked Children's hospital last night.

"Somebody has marked my tombstone," moaned the second ghost.

"Somebody broke my tombstone," said the baby ghost, "and here he is."

With that, Little Willie, portrayed by one of the women from the YWCA, jumped up, grabbed his smiling jack-o-lantern, and ran out of the girls ward at Children's hospital with the ghosts behind him.

"They didn't scare me," said a little girl propped up in her bed with pillows, "I saw them coming."

The short skit that strangely resembled the story of Goldilocks and the Three Bears was part of the entertainment the University YWCA gave Children's hospital last night.

The girls went from ward to ward so that all children in the hospital could see it. Other entertainment included games and songs.

Asked what she would like to do most on Halloween, one little girl said, "Soap windows." This suggestion was quickly ruled out when entertainers told her Halloween didn't come until Friday night.

Prof. Else Sites Educational Machines

"Modern education trains men to be cogs in machines," Prof. Gerald F. Else, head of the classics department said last night.

At a dinner sponsored by Phi Delta Kappa, men's honorary education fraternity, Else declared that the emphasis today on teaching men to fill jobs produces tools for society but no leaders.

"Leadership, like liberal education, has become a spare time activity," Else stated.

A leader, educated to think independently, serves society. He serves himself by knowing how not to be enslaved by that society, Else commented.

Society makes no provision to train the independent thinker in the full development of his abilities according to Else. This results, he said, in over-specialization. "The over-specialized person is a caricature of a complete personality," he declared.

Education in ancient Greece served society by training leaders but it neglected the followers. Today education is designed to help the individual to fulfill his economic role at the expense of his duty to society.

Education's primary duty is to the individual, Else insisted. By combining liberal and vocational training the individual can be taught to serve both society and himself, Else said.

Morrison Gets Lab Post in Journalism

William James Morrison of the University of Missouri has been appointed to head the new newspaper production laboratory in the University of Iowa school of journalism, President Virgil M. Hancher announced yesterday.

Morrison is expected to arrive this weekend to begin purchasing equipment and to plan the course of study for the laboratory.

A graduate of the University of California at Los Angeles, Morrison has been in charge of the linotype curriculum for two years at the University of Missouri's school of journalism at Columbia, Mo.

The laboratory is designed to give basic training in newspaper production methods to all students in journalism. It is expected to be in operation by February.

Plans are still being made as to location of the laboratory, Charles E. Swanson, journalism instructor, said last night. Morrison's first job, he said, would be to make a survey of costs of equipment and decide whether temporary barracks will be suitable to house it.

Morrison has had more than 10 years experience in news, advertising and mechanical departments of daily and weekly newspapers. He was head of journalism departments in Burwell and Holdrege high schools in Nebraska for eight years and was an instructor in news writing and typography at the University of Nebraska.

Slice a few bits of onion in ice water and then soak carrot sticks in the water for half an hour before serving. This makes them extra crisp and gives them a flavor all their own.

At that time rains filled the Iowa river bank and some Riverdale residents were forced to vacate. A dyke was built in front of Iowa Union and workers pumped water from university building basements.

Weather Has Its Ups and Downs

Iowans have alternately been deluged and dried out, chilled and overheated during the last six months and like everyone else, they have complained.

But Iowans, like everyone else living in a temperate zone, are the innocent victims of cyclonic activity—plus many other complicated weather factors.

Cyclonic air masses form in warmer zones when a warm air front meets a cold air front. The masses are 50 to 900 miles in diameter and move about 20 to 30 miles an hour around a central low pressure area.

According to Prof. J. H. Jauch of the physics department, the movement of these masses is partially responsible for hte changes in weather.

In the above graph, temperatures given by the CAA weather station are averaged for 10 day periods. The upper line marks the high for the day and the bottom line is the low reading.

The period started with a low reading of 29 degrees in April. During June, the cyclonic masses moving across the state caused the up-and-down motion of the temperature line.

refrigerators. For contrast, pictures taken six months before showed pretty girls in bathing suits throwing snowballs. "Beat the heat" became a trite expression.

For two weeks the temperature remained above 90 degrees. The lack of change was due to an anti-cyclonic mass over the mid-continent, according to Jauch.

But the cyclonic and anti-cyclonic air masses are not entirely to blame. Jauch said, "The real causes of weather are complicated by many other factors—many of them unknown."

Professors Should Be 'Graded,' Too

Ten thousand customers at the University of Iowa are students buying a product called education. The buyer has little to say. He can take the product or leave it.

Students should have a chance to judge their educational product, and present the evaluation to the university's administration.

Although the university is the sole judge, it has little chance to get the opinions of the buyers. The average class enters its classroom. The professor follows, closes the door, and presents the product. He may mumble or he may ramble. He may be the type to induce sleep or the type to make just enough noise to keep the student awake.

Or he may be one of the better professors, the one who gives the student his money's worth. To the new student it's all a game of chance. Does the university know what goes on behind its closed doors from the students' point of view? Not unless they do it by radar.

If a student went shopping, paid for a quart of milk and received only a pint, the results would be different. The storekeeper would hear about it.

In buying this product called education the student should be able to evaluate his educators, and turn the results over to the administration. If enough students do this, the university can start improving its program where it's bad, or supporting it where it's good.

The University of Iowa could improve itself by inaugurating a system of student appraisal of teachers. The student council could perform a worthwhile task by operating the judging system.

The gimmick in the whole procedure would be the spirit in which the students approached the appraisals. If they were capricious, vented resentment over a poor grade, or were motivated by purely personal reasons the idea would fail.

We hasten to point out that those same considerations can influence the grading of students.

The hope of the system would be that students approached it with a fair and conscientious attitude. If it were found through trial and error that students were merely voicing petty gripes, the trial would have to be abandoned.

But we think the idea ought to be given a trial period.

It Would Be a Bargain For $30

The small sum of $25 to $30 halted official consideration of a traffic directing device in Iowa City which is still needed.

This is a sign to direct trucks coming into town on highway six from the west to use the Burlington street bridge and not the Iowa avenue bridge.

As pointed out Tuesday, the Crandie viaduct over Iowa avenue has too low a clearance for the big trucks, resulting in snarled traffic and tempers.

"Some time ago," Police Chief Ed Ruppert said yesterday, "some councilmen discussed the possibility of erecting a reflector sign at the intersection. When it was discovered the cost would approach $25 to $30, it was dropped, and nothing has been done about it since."

He said the fact that "souvenir hunters" might remove the reflectors played a big part in the consideration.

If the present city council doesn't want to spend that amount for a new sign at the intersection (the present sign may be confusing to the truckers, Ruppert said), they might consider placing a plain board sign further west along highway six to warn truckers of the 11 foot clearance at the Crandie viaduct. This, however, would not be effective at night.

Or a local community-minded service organization might erect the sign, with appropriate notice of sponsorship.

City Dump Still a Civic Eyesore

Iowa City is, to a stranger finding himself in the center of town, a rather picturesque mid-western city.

Among other attractions, Iowa City can boast of a leading university with a magnificent campus stretching on both sides of a placid stream.

In the west part of town, many gracious homes add contrasting luster to the city's older section which is dotted with many victorian residences.

But Iowa City, even with its parks, river, the campus, and rolling hills, is not unmarked.

To the person entering the city from the south on highway 218, it is conceivable that they might think they were entering a slum section of some large city.

The welcome card is the city dump, located within easy smelling distance of the highway. Salesmen who visit Iowa City often can always tell when they are getting close to town because of the smoke from the burning trash.

People who live close to the area are bothered, at least in the summer, by the multitude of flies that breed in the dumping area. Rats by the thousand make their homes and grow fat on trash accumulated over the many years.

Last spring The Daily Iowan presented this problem to the city. At one time city officials employed a sanitary engineer to advise on possible action. To this day, nothing more has been said; nothing has been done.

Holding Anti-Communist Line in China Costly

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR., AP Foreign Affairs Analyst
American policy toward China, already considerably muddled, has been thrown into further confusion by the action of the Nanking government in outlawing the democratic league, a coalition of small leftist parties.

There has been a growing realization since announcement of the Truman doctrine in March that the anti-Communist line must be held in China as well as in Greece and Turkey. But in Greece, for instance, there is hope that the job can be done with a few hundred million dollars. In China the bill might run into the billions and still do no good unless the country can be unified. The Chiang government is so full of graft and inefficiency, so beset by internal opposition because of its non-representative nature, that there are fears it cannot, in its present form, be depended upon for long pull.

There are reports that General Wedemeyer was so vitriolic about these conditions that his report could not be published.

The Chinese government is fully aware that much if not everything depends on American aid. It has been making efforts to qualify, but is faced by an almost insoluble situation. Civil war, inflation, political and economic disunity have been piled upon the effects of the long war with Japan.

It is hardly likely then that the government would have taken a step which might hurt its chances in the United States, except under the gravest pressure. Democratic league elements must have been giving deadly support to the Communists to have induced the move.

The United States also has other important considerations in the matter. Among them is the lengths to which we may be led once we throw in wholeheartedly to help Chiang stop the Communists. If the Nationalist armies receive American equipment and really go

SUCCESS STORY

Jazz Music Takes To Concert Trail With Big Success

By CHUCK SMITH

It's often said "necessity is the mother of invention." Apparently this age-old expression has found its way into the lagging dance-band profession with quick and telling effects.

As a result, dance-roued bands who once feared the road are now beginning to look forward to it with desire and vigor.

The new desire is due mainly to the invasion of the so-called popular type of bands, combinations, and trios into the profitable concert field, once held sacred by the masters of the classics. Since the beginning of the year every conceivable type of musical artist has entered the concert hall with unbelievable success; their programs including jazz, swing, bebop and calypso.

The popular concert had its beginning with Paul Whiteman and Duke Ellington several years ago. However Ellington has played annual concerts at Carnegie Hall in New York City since his advent in the field.

Judging by the popularity of jazz-swing-bebop or what have you, it could be that concerts have just started to grow. It might well be the new out for dance bands that are finding less and less people dancing these days.

Today it has become so important that every band and performer with something to offer seeks a concert route. Duke Ellington plans to do more than 100 shows between now and the middle of 1948.

Carnegie Hall in New York City has been the scene of the largest and most successful ventures. In the last month more than $100,000 has been grossed by musicians appearing in Carnegie and Town hall. Josh White at Town Hall drew a turn-away crowd and grossed $3,500. Jazz at the Philharmonic grossed $6,200 at Carnegie hall.

Following the big town, out of town promoters have begun to side-track the age-old dance promotion and jump on the concert bandwagon. Stan Kenton and Louis Jordan embarked on concert tours in the early part of the year.

Several cities which heretofore were strictly dance towns have since become concert havens. One such town, Cedar Rapids, had the King Cole trio and Spike Jones and his City Slickers in concerts last month. In keeping with the trend, Louis Armstrong and his "Esquire All Stars" give a well attended concert there Tuesday night.

The concert fever hasn't exactly escaped this small college town. Iowa Union was the scene of two concerts by Norman Grantz and his Jazz at the Philharmonic Friday evening. Yes, this concert idea has reached into Iowa City. Who knows, one might discover that Duke Ellington is scheduled to appear in Headlight, Iowa, population 12, for a Thanksgiving concert.

to work, will the Russians come to the aid of the revolutionaries in Manchuria?

If they did, would China expect the United States to come in with both feet?

Court Hints of 'Widespread Aversion' to U. S. Communists

By WESTBROOK PEGLER King Features Syndicate, Inc.

The New York court of appeals has ruled that a person who has falsely been called a Communist or accused of sympathizing with Communism may be hurt in his reputation and feelings. According to the present rule of the U. S. supreme court, all such charges must be false unless the victim admits his guilt, in which case he couldn't sue anyway. The supreme court rejected proof uncontroverted by the defendant.

In the case of Harry Bridges, ordered deported as a Communist hostile to the American government, the nine old men insisted that a person remained pure despite intentional cooperation with the Bolsheviks in all their works short of advocating the violent overthrow of the United States, as is. It was a photo-finish, for more opinion ran against Bridges in the lower courts than for him. He won and managed to stay here free to promote his good works in who he so me collaboration with declared enemies of the nation only by a generous display of bigotry by the court.

As one dissenting justice noted, the court violated its own custom in hearing the Bridges case at all. The practice was to refuse to examine decisions by administrative bodies where there was any evidence at all to support an administrative order.

Many stalwart Americans of unquestionable loyalty had been victims of rulings by prejudiced bodies the labor relations board, for instance. But they were stopped at the door of the supreme court.

It is estimated that only about five percent of the coal of Pennsylvania survived the geologic ages since it was formed.

Reader Hazard neatly phrases the dilemma of a sports writer: "give the facts no matter who wins" versus "no matter who wins give the player credit." Now which is it?

Even With Pegler?

TO THE DAILY IOWAN:
Reading your paper today was, after three days in Chicago, and growing disgust with the Tribune, like a breath of fresh air.

I'd begun to wonder if the Tribune's views were—as I had been told—those of Illinois and adjacent states almost entirely.

You gave great reassurance that at least in one university center it isn't so. (But Chicago is a university center, too!)

Thank you for the evidences of good sense and courage which your editorial page shows.

I'm a visitor from Massachusetts, passing through.

Reader Irked by Football Write-Up

TO THE DAILY IOWAN:

Your write-up of the football game between Iowa and Notre Dame was the most biased concoction of baloney that I have ever read. It should have been obvious to a normal person that the better team won and that the issue was never in doubt.

In some cases breaks win ball games; but good teams make these breaks or cause the opposition to commit some mistake that they can turn into a score. That is just what happened when Bob Smith fumbled.

Chad Brooks might be the answer to Dr. Eddie Anderson's prayer, an all-American at any position. He should be good for something. It is a cinch that at sports reporting he is a complete failure.

In his pre-game color account it was apparent that he was in no way concerned with the Notre Dame side of the game. Being in South Bend, he should have had a fair idea of just who would constitute the starting lineups. He missed but good, especially Sullivan and Strohmeyer. George Sullivan has never been the starting tackle this year, Czaroski has been starting at right tackle for three years and seems a cinch to stay there for the balance of this year. Strohmeyer lost his job at center to Bill Walsh over a week ago; the story was nation-wide.

As to the Johnny Lujack-Al DiMarco newspaper feud that in reality never existed. In his own class DiMarco is great, but it should seem obvious to everyone that Al was a bit out of his class when he tangled with Lujack and Notre Dame. Tripucka the reserve quarterback is also superior, in my mind. Lujack is one of the greatest quarterbacks in the business. To be of all-American material, the man should play safe. If Lujack can't play safely, I shall make a personal apology to you, DiMarco does not play defense. That alone detracts from his accomplishments. No doubt Al will improve more and more, but the comparison this year is preposterous. Next year, I think, it might be a different story.

In your comparison of the players, Iowa seemed to be as good if not superior. Just why did Notre Dame win if such is the case?

I have just one suggestion to make. If you cover a ball game give a factual account of what takes place. We here at home, who are not as fortunate as you to see all the games, want the facts no matter who wins. And above all, if a guy makes a mistake, forget about it. Don't keep harping on the subject. No matter who wins, give the players credit. They are giving their best.

WILLIAM HAZARD, A2
C10 Quadrangle
(Accounts of football games vary as widely as eye-witness interpretations of automobile accidents. As to the lineups in Saturday's paper: the inclusion of Sullivan was an error, pure and simple, of writing his name instead of Czaroski when, indeed, it was the latter's name which was intended.)

Strohmeyer had started every game before the tussle with Iowa except against Nebraska—it was a slight injury which kept him out of that one. His name was released by Notre Dame officials as the starter against Iowa. Starting lineups released before the game are always tentative and subject to change.

Reader Hazard neatly phrases the dilemma of a sports writer: "give the facts no matter who wins" versus "no matter who wins give the player credit." Now which is it?

Chad Brooks will continue to report not only the bare facts but also his interpretation of them—The Editor.)

Probes Without Proof Tend To Turn Into 'Witch Hunts'

By SAMUEL GRAFTON New York Post Syndicate

The house committee on un-American activities is making a great deal of its "right to investigate." When the committee is challenged, it murmurs these sacred syllables about its "right to investigate" with the air of a woman complaining that nobody else knows what it is to be a mother. A nd there is a "right to investigate."

But it is an unlimited and unbounded right, without restriction in law, custom, ethics and morality? Would the committee be justified in yanking any nameless pedestrian in off the streets, and going through his pockets and his mind, as part of its search for subversion?

Without some proof, or strong indication, that the wayfarer in question was a menace to the independence, freedom, peace or prosperity of the United States, such a going-over would be highly improper. And this is where the Hollywood probe breaks down. The committee has not made a prima facie case, or any kind of case, to show that the products of the motion picture industry are in any way a peril to America. That should have come first, that had to come first, to justify everything else that has been happening in his probe.

In the absence of such a demonstration, the probe has been bound to become a witch-hunt. The first question of all is: "What has been shown on the motion picture screens that menaces America?" The answer is: "Nothing." So long as that is the answer, the probe is without justification; the committee might equally well have chosen to investigate the wedding-cake industry, on the incredible ground that it might sometime go subversive and make poisoned goods.

Without this element of proof of danger, the probe becomes mere inquiry into what people think, and a tremendous pressure instrument to tell them what to think. The Committee is conducting a search into men's minds, in a kind of vacuum, like the search for absolute zero. It is working hard, but it cannot tell us what is guarding us against, in specific relation to the industry it now has on the pan. The right to investigate is not the right to seattle gossip, nor the right to fish, and one asks whether congress really considers that it has given this committee a key to every mind and heart in America.

The committee's most important contribution has been an inadvertent one; it has thrown open the whole question of building safeguards against unfair use of the congressional investigatory power. There is no governmental right in America which does not have some limitation. There is even a traditional cadence to the manner in which the American people express their thought, and to "no wrong without a remedy," and "no taxation without representation" there might be added "no probe without a peril." Prove your danger, in other words, or hold your subpoena.

And on the question of keeping us really safe against actual danger, it is not without significance that the F.B.I. was able to carry us, sabotage-free, through the war, without causing one-tenth of the social and political disturbance which the Thomas committee has stirred up.

The doctrine that a committee must prove a danger in order to have a probe would suddenly furnish a skeleton to what has become over recent years an increasingly chaotic and formless business, for it would provide a test as to the relevancy of questions and testimony. There are few who would not consider such a test to be better than the personal judgment of a committee chairman, arbitrarily deciding whom to eject from the room, and whom to accord a public platform, high and resonant.

Fifth Atomic Talk Tonight

The audience tonight at the fifth in the atomic energy lectures will hear explanations of an "atomic pile", "radioactive isotopes" and peacetime atomic uses.

Prof. L. A. Turner, head of the physics department, will give the lecture at 8 o'clock in Macbride auditorium. An Encyclopedia Britannica film on atomic energy also will be shown.

Prof. J. I. Routh, director of the course, said yesterday that Turner will explain the little-understood terms relating to atomic energy, and will outline proposed peacetime uses for atomic energy.

In an interview last week, Turner said that in considering peacetime applications of atomic energy, use of radioactive isotopes has been underemphasized. He said the use of isotopes for medical and biological research throughout the world springs from radioactive isotope production in America. Industrial power from the atom, he added, is a very long-range project.

Court Calls More Jurors; Postpones O'Neil-Sangster Suit

The Johnson county district court yesterday called 20 additional veniremen to serve as petit jurors.

The veniremen will report Monday at 10 a.m. They were drawn because many jurors picked in August were excused from duty, according to County Clerk A. Nielson Miller.

The 20 are possible jurors for the jury trial of Paul Dvorsky vs. Town of Solon which begins Monday.

The case of Edward O'Neil vs. Earl Sangster, which involves the death of Regina O'Neil in a collision here June 12, was listed for Monday, but has been set aside until the November term of court.

Dvorsky asks $17,305 damages for a collision involving his automobile and a fire truck owned by Solon. The defendant is seeking $1,193 damages in a counter-claim.

D. C. Nolan and W. F. Morrison are attorneys for Dvorsky. Will J. Hayek and Jack C. White represent the town of Solon.

The veniremen are George Bedell, Herbert Cochran, Grace Webster, Frank Karel, John Fisher, Paul Rohret, Mrs. Ellen Linkhart and Stella Swanson.

Wilda M. Hester, Bert Nolan, Anna M. White, Winifred Shannon, Margaret Crum, George J. Prybil, Mary Brennan, Lester Johannson, Olive Ricketts, John B. Thompson, Martin Hiscock and Edith W. Hudgens.

Organ Plays on, But— It Takes a Lot of Wind

—In Church's 'Pump Room'

Bellows Pumper Donald Hall Help May Come Through "Mechanization"

By RAY GUTH
Excluding local firemen, 12-year-old Donald Hall is the "pumping" man in Iowa City.

Every Sunday morning at 10 o'clock he's on hand at the Unitarian church to pump up the air pressure in what Pastor Evans A. Worthley terms "the only hand-operated organ around here anymore."

Donald has a strong right arm, (and a strong left one, too) judging from the size of the big wooden handle on the bellows. He shifts arms now and then to "keep from getting too tired."

The Rev. Mr. Worthley says the organ was installed when the church was built in 1908. Since then countless boys have taken their turn at pumping air into it.

The "pump-boy" stands out of sight in a back room of the church and listens for what can be described as a "clock." Some boys in the past may have heard it as a whipcrack, however, for it means that the organist wants to accompany the choir and needs more air pressure.

Just to make sure that the lad doesn't fall asleep on the job, there's an air pressure gauge prominently displayed near the keyboards.

Back in the "pump room" you can see some evidence of how the boys have amused themselves in between hymns. The wooden bellows machinery is covered with initials and names.

Donald, son of Prof. and Mrs. Everett Hall, says that he actually pumps about one third of the two hours he spends on duty each Sunday.

The only bright spot in his life, so far he can reason, is a promise from Rev. Worthley that "we may mechanize it one of these days when we can get an electric motor."

Former Senator Gillette To Give Information

Former Senator Guy M. Gillette of Iowa will speak on Palestine at the first Information First lecture of the year, Nov. 13, it was announced yesterday at a council meeting of the University Women's association.

Elaine Lenney, president, also announced the appointment of Susan Grenna, P2, Minot, N. Dak., as Information First chairman to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of LaVonne Holm.

The new freshman UWA council plans to meet at 7:30 Nov. 4 at Iowa Union for an organizational meeting, Betty Dickinson told the council.

Pardon Me, It's the Phone

By FRANK HOLOWACH
Each man, woman and child in Iowa City made 500 telephone calls last year—if each is an average resident.

Residents and students held no less than 15 million telephone conversations in 1946, according to R. A. Williams, manager of the Iowa City exchange of the Northwestern Bell Telephone company.

At this rate, they contributed their full quota toward the total of 42 billion telephone calls in the nation. Each person in the United States average 301 calls during the year.

Iowa City, with a total of 10,528 telephones, has between 45,000 and 55,000 local calls every day, Williams said. Subscribers place from 1,800 to 2,300 long distance calls daily.

Beginning of the fall term at the university increases the number of daily local calls by at least 10,000 and the number of toll calls by 500, he added.

Counting students as part of the city's population, Iowa City has one telephone for every three persons.

The United States has nearly three-fifths of the world's telephones, according to figures released this week by the American Telephone and Telegraph company. This is one for every four persons as compared with one for every 43 over the rest of the globe.

The Soviet Union had one phone for every 140 persons at the end of 1946.

The telephone company has no way of counting the number of wrong numbers dialed each day.

"The University of Iowa and the University hospitals have their own switchboards," Williams explained. "Calls to university extensions from Iowa City phones must go through these switchboards and cannot be dialed directly."

Persons dialing university numbers from outside phones should first dial 8-0511 and then give the operator the extension wanted.

The local exchange employs 85 long distance operators to handle the great number of toll calls.

New telephone directories are being printed and will be delivered at an early date, Williams said.

Scouts To Collect Paper on Saturday

Iowa City Boy Scouts will collect waste paper Saturday in the sixth drive of the year, G. R. Gragg, scout executive, announced yesterday.

In five previous drives scouts have collected an average of 25,000 pounds, Gragg said. Total for the September drive was 14,430 pounds.

Scouts will pick up paper on both sides of the Iowa river Saturday, but otherwise will follow the usual procedure. Householders are asked to have the bundles on the curbs by 10 a.m. By noon scouts will have taken all the paper to corners to be picked up by trucks.
