READING, PA. (AP)—A man appeared in Berks county court yesterday and asked for permission to change his name. The petitioner told the court that if his name was not changed it would cause him great confusion. His name is Boseslaw Niczslaw Moczydlowski. He wants to be called William Mitchell Moczydlowski.

Aid To Come From Taxes, Truman Says

Marshall Plan Draws Proposal To Exert Pressure on Russia

WASHINGTON, (AP)—President Truman said yesterday that the $16,000,000,000 to $20,000,000,000 out of aid to Europe under the Marshall plan must be paid for out of taxes.

The chief executive made the statement at a news conference while senate and house committees grew increasingly critical of a proposed $597,000,000 allocation for three western European countries until long-range assistance can be provided.

Yesterday's hearings on short-term aid to France, Italy and Austria brought proposals that strict curbs be imposed on U. S. exports to prevent the Soviet bloc in Europe from building its military strength at American expense.

They also brought a statement from Rep. Herter (R-Mass.) that France is pleading for U. S. aid while it has up to $3,400,000,000 in hidden gold among its citizens and some $500,000,000 of assets in the U. S. He wondered why such assets couldn't be used as collateral for American loans.

Rep. Lodge (R-Conn.), a member of the house foreign affairs committee, urged that the U. S. use economic pressure on Russia. Secretary of Commerce Harrison, former ambassador to Russia, said, "I don't think it would be proper to shut off trade, but I believe we should not ship materials which are a direct contribution to military strength of eastern European countries." Harrison testified before the house committee in favor of the short-term aid program.

Objections by senators and representatives appeared likely to delay adoption of the short-term program beyond the Nov. 30 "deadline" proposed Wednesday by Secretary of State Marshall. Senate criticism of the Marshall program came largely in the form of questions about what western Europe could send the U. S. in return for aid.

"Some of us, before this show is over are going to want some information about uranium," said Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich.). Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.) mentioned the possibility of getting strategic air and other bases from nations we give help.

Cite Meyers' Denial Of Owning $35,000 In Aviation Stocks

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Senators probing wartime financial deals by air force officers were told yesterday that Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers held aviation stock worth $35,000 on the date he reported to his superiors he had no such holdings.

Trying to learn how the retired air force general financed a $4,000,000 purchase of government bonds on margin, the senate war investigating subcommittee heard this testimony:

1. William Rodgers, committee counsel, read a letter by Meyers, stating in reply to a "secret" air corps questionnaire on aviation stock holdings, that on Feb. 5, 1943, he owned only 200 shares of General Electric.

2. Carmine S. Bellino, a committee investigator, testified that 2,700 aircraft shares, valued at $35,074.50 were listed with a broker on the same date as held by Meyers.

3. The committee produced evidence that the air force in 1945 received but didn't investigate an anonymous letter charging that Meyers reaped "immense profits" from purchasing stock in companies he knew would get air force contracts.

The letter, dated June 22, 1945, said that Meyers is "now worth between one and two millions." It was addressed to the federal bureau of investigation, which sent a copy to the air force.

These developments followed a disclosure that the air corps had launched an investigator January 7, 1946, on its own to "squell" rumors that high ranking officers were holding large blocks of stocks in aviation companies with which they dealt.

Col. William P. Nuckols, an air force public relations officer, revealed that on Jan. 7, 1943, a "secret" memorandum had been sent to 10 air force procurement officers. It asked them to list securities they owned in companies with which they dealt.

Meyers was among those receiving the query.

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The treasury announced yesterday refunds and credits totaling $455,972 to Howard Hughes for overpayment of his personal income taxes in 1945-46.

Hughes' taxes have come up in the current senate investigation of the plane manufacturer's war contracts.

Young Demos Hear F.D.R. Jr. Rap Taft

BY R. BRUCE HUGHES Editor

CLEVELAND—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., fired a double barreled blast against Russia and Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) last night in a keynote address before the Young Democratic Clubs of America.

The son of the late president, now a New York lawyer and active in the American Veterans committee, said:

1. America "Doesn't like being pushed around" by Russia and "resents foreign slurs on the character and integrity of our leaders."

2. The Taft "dribble" represents "a Republican congressional leadership that still dallies in the remnants of isolationism."

Roosevelt, who made his bow as an active Democratic party worker before the 1940 Miami convention of the YDCA, when he read a speech for his father, said that Young Democrats would have to take a leading part in solving today's problems.

He declared that to his knowledge actual construction dates have not been set, although contract bids will be taken Feb. 4.

Representative Glen Johnson (D-Okla.), another member of the veterans affairs committee, said he thought the Iowa City location would give that city "one of the finest and most modern hospitals in the country."

He said the veterans affairs committee was unanimous in its belief, after looking over both hospital sites, that only a permanent, fire-proof hospital would gain approval from the veterans administration.

The Texas congressman, who addressed the first postwar national convention of Young Democrats last night, reiterated his opposition to the permanent use of Schick General hospital at Clinton.

THE UN ASSEMBLY yesterday at Lake Success rejected an earlier Russian boycott threat of Secretary of State Marshall's proposed year-round sitting of the "little assembly" and approved it by a 41 to 6 vote. Six Russian nations voted against it and the Arab nations abstained.

TUESDAY'S NATIONAL election in the Philippines yesterday showed President Manuel A. Roxas' Liberal party piling up a commanding lead. Five Liberals and three opposition candidates were leading in the eight senatorial races.

HUGH DALTON, British chancellor of the exchequer, resigned last night after he admitted he disclosed tax secrets to a newspaper in advance of his budget estimate to parliament Wednesday. Sir Stafford Cripps, minister of economics, succeeds him.

WALTER REUTHER, now in full command of the CIO united auto workers, said yesterday in Atlantic City, N. J., that he will demand more voice for his union in forming basic economic policy in the automobile industry. He also said that the election of 18 pro-Reuther candidates to the 22-man UAW executive board would not make the industry "happy."

War Board Named To Advise Truman

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman yesterday formed a national resources board to advise the White House, in event of war, on the best way to mobilize America's military, industrial and civilian strength.

It immediately held a meeting at the White House. Members are Secretary of Treasury Snyder, Secretary of Defense Forrestal, Secretary of the Interior Krug, Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, Secretary of Commerce Harrison and Secretary of Labor Schwelmbach.

The chairman is Arthur M. Hill of Charleston, W. Va., who took office Sept. 26. Mr. Truman also announced the appointment of Admiral Louis E. Denfeld as chief of naval operations.

The work of the board will include drafting programs for use in time of war of the natural and industrial resources for military and civilian needs and for stabilization of the civilian economy.

The national committee expects to have 80 carloads of food by the time the train reaches Chicago, and 160 carloads when it arrives in New York, Pearson predicted.

Nicola Giulii, Italian representative, and Jean J. Viala, French representative, who are traveling with the train, expressed their gratitude for what Pearson called "American teamwork."

"I know that the children of Italy will more than pray for you," said Giulii.

The American, Italian and French flags were painted on one of the train's cars. The flags were underlined with the words "Viva la France," and "Viva l'Italia."

The drum and bugle corps of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and the Boy's American Legion performed at the railroad station gathering.

Cedar Rapids children climbed up on the speaker's platform, and blew their bubble gum while they listened to the representatives.

"The only thing we haven't got on the train is a carload of bubble gum," Pearson remarked to one of the committee members.

Probe Starts Today WASHINGTON (AP)—An investigation into government departments "withholding" information from the public and congress will be started today by a house expenditures subcommittee, Chairman Hoffman (R-Mich.) announced yesterday.

He said in a statement that the purpose is "to learn just how far executive departments intend to go in denying to the people and to their representatives in congress vital information" on expenditures of public funds.

Hospital Association Urges Blue Comply With Federal Rules

The Iowa state health department faces a possible loss of $2 million annually in federal funds if it does not comply with federal regulations by Jan. 1.

This situation yesterday prompted the Iowa Hospital association to send a resolution to Gov. Robert D. Blue and Dr. Walter L. Biering, state health commissioner. It urged that every reasonable measure be taken to achieve eligibility.

"The Iowa Hospital association has no intention of embarrassing either Governor Blue or Dr. Biering in proposing the resolution," Gerhard Hartman, president of the association, said last night. "It is proposed to set forth the health needs of the state of Iowa that are jeopardized by administration impasses," he added.

The resolution was adopted by the board of trustees of the hospital association after they reviewed a statement by Dr. Estelle Ford Warner, director of the state health service.

The statement said unless state health department meets federal requirements by Jan. 1, Dr. Warner will recommend suspension of the first quarter 1948 federal allotment for federal state health and welfare service. Nothing has been done as yet by the state to achieve federal eligibility, Dr. Biering told The Daily Iowan last night.

Federal funds for hospital survey and construction purposes in Iowa total $6,759,557. Of this total, $1,392,906 is marked for 1948, the resolution said.

The ineligibility of the state for federal hospital construction funds means delays in carrying out much needed construction, the resolution said.

According to the resolution, many communities have raised their own funds through voluntary subscription and planned for construction with federal aid. Aid would be in the ratio of $2 local funds for $1 federal funds.

One of the causes of ineligibility involves the merit system examinations. Federal regulations require written examinations. Oral examinations are all that are given now.

Deviation from the federally approved salary scale is great, according to Dr. Warner. Some employees are paid above the scale and some below it in Iowa.

She said that Governor Blue does not particularly like the merit system in public employment because he believes it is difficult to work with departments in which the merit system is in force.

Attack Mayor, Tie Up Port In Marseille

Direct Terror Wave At Italian Government And Hint at Revolt

PARIS (AP)—Violence in southern France and throughout Italy brought governments of the two countries into head-on collision yesterday with left-wing political forces and a reference by the Italian Communist chief to "democratic revolution."

French Premier Paul Ramadier, speaking to Communist deputies in the national assembly, charged their party with responsibility for Marseille riots Wednesday. One person was killed and 30 to 50 injured at Marseille when a mob invaded the city hall and attacked the De Gaulle mayor. Communist labor leaders tied up the Marseille port and threatened the Rhone delta with a general strike.

"If you want a dictatorship, we will fight you to the end," the Socialist premier said to the Communist deputies.

In Italy, a wave of terror that took on a pattern of nation-wide violence directed at the Christian Democrat government of Premier Alcide De Gasperi, had resulted in seven deaths or assassinations in nine days.

Palmiro Togliatti, Italian Communist chief, told reporters his party intended to stay on the "parliamentary plane as long as that is possible." But he said to one of them, the representative of a liberal newspaper: "For the rest, you who are a liberal show me that it is possible to organize Democratic revolution."

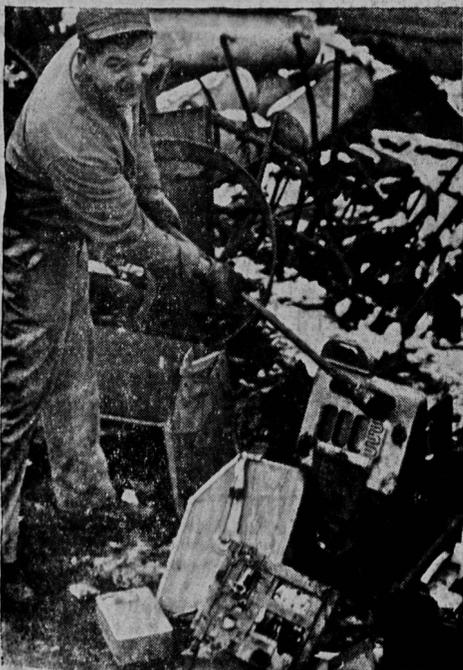

Naples police fired on Communist rioters, and Interior Minister Mario Scelba declared in the constituent assembly that "attempts against the state and against democracy will not be tolerated."

Navy Announces New Faster-Than-Sound Jet

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—A needle-nosed combined jet-rocket plane designed to surpass the speed of sound has been completed by Douglas Aircraft corporation and awaits its initial test, the navy announced yesterday.

The new Skyrocket, which will join the Douglas Skystrake in the navy's sonic speed experiment, is expected to perform in the 650-750 miles per hour range. The speed of sound varies from 763 miles an hour at sea level to 660 miles per hour at higher altitudes.

Representative Says VA To Push Plans For Hospital Here

Special to The Daily Iowan

CLEVELAND—Representative Olin H. Teague (D-Tex.), who last spring investigated the site of the proposed Iowa City veterans hospital, said here yesterday in an interview that he is confident that the veterans administration will push plans to construct a 750-bed hospital as soon as possible.

The Texas congressman, who addressed the first postwar national convention of Young Democrats last night, reiterated his opposition to the permanent use of Schick General hospital at Clinton.

He said the veterans affairs committee was unanimous in its belief, after looking over both hospital sites, that only a permanent, fire-proof hospital would gain approval from the veterans administration.

Terms Palestine 'Armed Camp'

Gillette Says Britain Is Dictator There

GUY M. GILLETTE

There won't be a third World War unless we compromise with our principles, Guy M. Gillette, former U. S. senator, told an audience which crowded into the senate chamber of Old Capitol yesterday afternoon.

Speaking on "Report from Palestine" in the first Information First lecture of the fall series, sponsored by the University Women's association, Gillette declared Great Britain had no legal right to continue her dictatorial policies in Palestine.

"The mandate issued to Great Britain by the League of Nations after World War I ordered her to facilitate immigration and settlement of the country," Gillette said. "In 1924, the United States underwrote the mandate as issued by the league, although we were not a signatory to the original agreement."

"But in April, 1944, Great Britain stopped further immigration to Palestine," he continued. "She issued restrictive laws and turned Palestine into an armed camp."

"From that time on Palestine has had war!"

Gillette said he went to England and talked to Bevin, Churchill and others to discover the reason for their "illegal" acts. The answer given was they "couldn't get out of Palestine because it is essential to protect the lifeline of the empire."

"I believe in the sanctity of the pledged word—in nations as well as in individuals," Gillette declared.

"The United States has guaranteed the independence of Palestine. We have not pledged to underwrite any empire under the sun."

Europeans resent American aid only if they have to adopt our political viewpoint, former Senator Guy M. Gillette said last night at a meeting in Old Capitol sponsored by the university Young Democrats club.

"I would like to see relief separated entirely from political considerations," he declared.

Citing a UN charter provision that gives people the right to select the type of government they want, Gillette said there are people who prefer "monarchy and the Soviet system" to democracy.

He said the best way to sell democracy is to demonstrate "the fruits of democracy."

"You need look no further than the Friendship Train now in Iowa to know that down in his heart every American is not only sympathetic to the needs of the world but also wonderfully generous," Gillette said.

He said the UN is now on trial and is "tottering" because of the way the Soviet Union has misused UN machinery.

A really effective international organization could be set up only if nations consented to surrender some of their individual rights, Gillette pointed out.

Warning that the nations of the world must not lose their way "in a fog of misunderstanding," he said "the cement of mutual interest" formed by nations in the last war must not crumble now.

At a banquet in the Jefferson hotel earlier in the evening, Gillette was endorsed by the state Young Democratic club as a candidate for United States senator.

Michigan Favored in Wisconsin Tilt

Wolverines In Stiffest Test This Season

CHICAGO (AP)—Michigan faces the sternest test of its undefeated, untied season Saturday against Wisconsin's surprising Badgers at Madison in the Big Nine football campaign's semi-climax.

The championship of the Western conference is at stake, with the winner Rose Bowl bound. A standing room crowd of 45,000 will witness the decisive contest.

The game would produce the most stunning upset of the season if the Badgers, once tied but undefeated in conference competition, should triumph.

The Badgers are fortified with a capable first team that may be a match for the Wolverines in speed, rushing, defense and spirit. But Michigan has polished skill in passing and more reserve strength. This makes the Wolverines the favorites.

Michigan's strategy throughout the season has been to hit its opponents fast and hard and leave them groggy. Unless the Badgers have the power and hold the Michiganers in check through the first half, they may find themselves staggering later.

Through seven games, the Wolverines have shown themselves to be most effective in the first half, but they have scored in all but seven periods. So actually there is no letdown in their many-pronged attack.

Over the season the Wolverines have registered 70 points in the first period, 80 in the second, 69 in the third and 55 in the fourth. They have scored 284 points against all opposition in seven games.

Elsewhere in the conference, Minnesota, shooting for a piece of second place, engages Iowa at Iowa City. Illinois bangs into Ohio State at Columbus. Notre Dame, meeting Northwestern at Evanston, seems sure to chalk up its seventh triumph of the season. Purdue is looking forward to a victory over Pittsburgh at Lafayette, and Indiana figures to take Marquette at Bloomington.

'Chattin' with Chad

By CHAD BROOKS

Hey, Joe. Yes, you there going into Schaeffer hall carrying that French book.

I hear you want something done about the University of Iowa football situation.

Well, why don't ya do something about it?

We know it's silly to talk about this as your football team. The days when a college eleven represented the student body disappeared rapidly when athletic directors found there were 50,000 suckers (maybe we should be polite and say fans) who would pay three bucks a crack every Saturday to see the "old school" in action.

But, commercialized as it is, this is the only football team we students have got and, darn it, we'd like to see them win.

A team doesn't win or lose any given game because of student support alone . . . or coaching alone . . . or alumni contribution and material alone . . . it's a combination of a lot of factors that make a winner.

And you, Joe, can at least help to some extent.

We've seen Illinois' student body actually drive their team down the field on a touchdown march with the very volume of their cheers.

We've seen Wisconsin's student body stand bare-headed and reverently in freezing temperatures—every one of them singing the Badgers' loyalty hymn.

We're heard the Notre Dame stands welcome their team on the field with a blasting cheer that literally froze the opposition in their tracks.

And we've heard the half-hearted efforts of Iowa's cheering section.

Yeh, and we know that the Iowa cheers are not exactly the spine-chilling type. And we know that it's a lot easier to cheer a winner than a loser. But it's our opinion that student body contempt has done as much toward ruining this year's football team as any other factor.

But, of even more importance, we'd like to know just how many students have tried to sell Iowa to the top high school athletes from their home town area.

Undoubtedly a few of you have. Probably more of you have experienced the same thing that happened to me . . . sold the athlete on the school and then couldn't sell the school on the athlete. In my own case the boy was a basketball player and last year was a regular on Illinois' quintet.

But, by gosh, we've at least got to keep on trying. Everybody else can give up on our football team, but we can't. It's the only one we've got.

Ever since last Saturday afternoon we've been trying to get enough space in this paper to pass out a few bouquets. And today it looks like we've finally made it.

Number one goes to Ross Anderson. A pre-war regular, playing his last season for the Hawks, Ross has been rather unhappy watching the younger fellows play the football most of this season.

But last Saturday he got a chance when the regulars wore out—and did right well by himself. Not a spectacular ball player, Ross simply dug in . . . went in low in the fashion of old-time rock-'em Hawk eye linemen . . . and plugged a big hole in a near perfect fashion.

Dr. Eddie Anderson has called Ross the "best lineman on the field" for Iowa in this Wisconsin game and has made him captain for the Minnesota affair.

Then there's heavyweight wrestler Bob Geigel, third string right tackle. When Dr. Eddie got tired of seeing the Badgers make mincemeat out of veterans Bill Kay and Jim Cozad he sent Bob into the breach—and he produced, plugging Iowa's biggest weakness.

And we'd like to mention Joe Grothus and Bob Smith, a pair of regulars who produced Saturday. Grothus is our nomination for the best guard in the conference. He's rough, he's willing and he's talented. Smith was probably the hardest working Hawk on the field. His crushing blocks and rugged ball-carrying, even after the game was obviously lost, stood out Saturday.

For our part we'd like to at least sing three bars of "On Iowa" for these four boys. And we're glad that somebody went out of their way to sell Iowa to them. Let's go out and get a few more like them for the only football team we've got.

Clinton River Kings And East Waterloo In First Place Tie

Clinton's River Kings and the Trojans of East high in Waterloo, both undefeated in conference play, are co-champions of the Mississippi Valley conference.

The River Kings won six loop games without a defeat, and the Trojans won five league games while losing none to share the top 'Sippi league spot.

West Waterloo, unbeaten until last week, completed conference activities with four victories and one loss to obtain second place in the final tabulations. West was defeated by East last Friday night, 14-0.

The Wahawks of West high were scheduled to play six conference games this fall, but rain postponed their game with McKinley of Cedar Rapids. If West had beaten East there would have been a chance for the Wahawks to tie Clinton for the League title. Since the game now has no bearing on the conference standings it will not be played with the Cedar Rapids school.

City high's Little Hawks claimed undisputed third place in the standings. The Hawklet record for the year is four wins and two losses in the conference.

Wilson high's Cedar Rapids gridders put away their grid togs for the year after winning three and losing three in 'Sippi competition. Wilson owns fourth place in the standings.

Roosevelt and Franklin of Cedar Rapids tied for fifth. Each school had a record of two wins and four losses.

Dubuque finished in seventh by winning two and losing five. Davenport, which won its first conference game of the year last Friday, finished in eighth in the loop, and McKinley of Cedar Rapids lost six straight conference contests for the league's cellar position.

The final Mississippi Valley standings:

Clinton	8	0
East Waterloo	7	0
West Waterloo	4	1
Iowa City	4	2
Wilson	3	3
Roosevelt	2	4
Franklin	2	4
Dubuque	2	4
Davenport	1	5
McKinley	0	6

Infielder Stanley Rojek, 28, and First Baseman Edward Stevens, 28, form the bric-a-brac the Buccos picked up for an unannounced sum.

Rojek, a right-hander, hit 263 in the 32 games.

Stevens, described as "a smooth first-sacker and power-hitter" was crowded out by Jackie Robinson. Left-handed all the way, he hit .285 and belted 27 homers, 17 doubles and four triples for the Dodgers, Montreal farm in the International league last year.

AAU Tank Meet Here

The Iowa AAU swimming meet is scheduled for Jan. 17, 1948, at the university fieldhouse pool, it was announced yesterday by Coach Dave Armbruster.

The Iowa varsity squad, captained by Wally Ris, National AAU sprint champion, will compete as a unit. Iowa State will also present its team. Iowa freshmen will compete as unattached athletes, as will many swimmers from other colleges throughout the state, some high school competitors and YMCA watermen.

Preliminaries are set for 1 p.m., with finals to be run off following the Iowa-Indiana basketball game in the evening.

Iowa City will also be the scene this year of the Western Conference meet to be held after the completion of the regular campaign, March 12 and 13.

Iowa will go through a schedule of six dual meets. Home fans will be treated to witness last year's Big Nine champion Ohio State Buckeyes, who meet the Hawks here Feb. 14. Other meets are:

Feb. 12 Minnesota, here
Feb. 21 Michigan, there
Feb. 21 Purdue, there
Feb. 28 Illinois, there
Mar. 5 Wisconsin, there

Louis Will Set Mark In Wolcott Battle

POMPTON LAKES, N. J. (AP)—Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis boxed half a dozen rounds at his training camp here yesterday and then reminded newsmen that he will set something of a record when he meets Jersey Joe Wolcott in a 15-round title bout in New York, Dec. 5.

"I will have defended my title 24 times," said Joe, "which is more times than all the heavyweight titleholders combined have defended the championship."

Hawks Get Look At Gopher Plays

Iowa university gridders went through a stiff scrimmage yesterday against the fourth string as the Hawks prepared for their season's finale against Minnesota Saturday. The reserves used Minnesota plays against the varsity in a scrimmage that lasted until an hour after practice field lights had to be turned on.

Dr. Eddie Anderson, celebrating his 47th birthday anniversary yesterday, declined to predict the outcome of the Gopher tussle, but he indicated that the Hawks would go all out in an effort to win.

Nine Hawkeyes will end their eligibility with the Minnesota contest. They are Backs Lou King, Bob Smith and Duke Curran; Ends Herb and Hal Shoener and Jack Kelso; Tackle Bob Zender; and Guards Russ Benda and Ross Anderson. Anderson will captain the Hawkeyes in the Gopher tilt.

The bronze statue of Floyd of Rosedale, pedigreed pig, will go to the winning team. Governor Clyde Herring of Iowa lost the live pig to Minnesota Governor Floyd Olson on a bet in 1935. Later a statue was cast to serve as a perpetual winner's trophy.

On a band around Floyd's middle are the yearly records, showing that Minnesota has won 10 times and Iowa twice since the original bet.

A contingent of 21 St. Paul newsmen will fly down to lend lusty support to the Gophers. The newsmen were winners in a recent contest sponsored by the St. Paul Dispatch-Pioneer Press among its carrier salesmen and will come here at the paper's expense.

Joe Louis, Heavyweight champion, will defend his heavyweight crown for the 24th time Dec. 5.

Wolverines Taper Off For Wisconsin Game

ANN ARBOR, MICH. (AP)—Fritz Crisler's unconquered Wolverines, hungry for the Western conference football championship, an undefeated season and a Rose Bowl invitation, yesterday made final preparation for Saturday's all-important clash with Wisconsin.

A victorious Madison, Wis. trip would realize two of those prizes for Michigan and leave only the questionable power of the Ohio State Buckeyes barring the path to a perfect season.

Tapering off for the climactic Badger contest, Crisler sent the versatile Wolverines through only a light workout, chiefly devoted to dummy scrimmage and signal drills.

Ramblers Play at Riverside Tonight

St. Mary's Ramblers will be in quest of their second victory in two starts when they journey to Riverside tonight to tangle with St. Mary's of Riverside.

St. Mary's won their first start on the comeback trail to another state tournament berth with an impression win over St. Paul's of Burlington last Wednesday night.

Riverside lost their initial contest last Tuesday night against St. Joseph's of Ft. Madison, 39-18.

In two contests last year the Ramblers took both ends of a home and home bill. "We just got by them last year when we played there, and they are always a hard team to beat on their home court," Coach Suplee said last night.

'No Reason for Pessimism,' Gillette Tells American Youth

BY SAM GOTTSFELD

Tall, white-haired former Senator Guy M. Gillette closed his eyes and furrowed his brow yesterday when he was asked to counsel American youth who are disillusioned by post-war international disagreement and domestic instability.

Then he said, "There is no reason for any of the young people of today to be pessimistic or to allow disillusionment to destroy their faith in the future."

"Of course, the domestic economy is inexorably bound up with international problems. But success will come if we inform ourselves about the history of the struggle toward world peace and if we are determined to reach the goal. The hopes and enthusiasms that youth can bring to problems are among the strongest assurances of their solution."

Gillette, who served in Congress from 1933 to 1945, the first four years in the house and the last eight in the senate, laughingly declined to comment when he was asked if he intended to actively re-enter politics.

At the present time he is president of the American League for a Free Palestine, speaking for justice for Jews in a Palestine homeland. He has been making a nationwide tour and estimates that he has spoken to 100,000 people on the Palestine question in recent months.

Explaining his personal political philosophy, Gillette declared, "Time and time again I have voted against measures which I felt were against the organic and foundational principles of our government. I have never felt that political or temporary exigencies justified compromising the sound underlying principles of our nation."

President Truman will be re-nominated if he wishes to run for the presidency in 1948, Gillette believes.

"It is a political axiom," he said, "that you can't repudiate your own administration by refusing a president a second nomination if he desires it."

Looking at the current tax situation, Gillette said, "Of course there are none of us who are not in favor of tax reduction and none of us who do not favor reduction of the national debt."

But "in the light of the expenses of carrying our governmental economy, our armed forces and our international obligations" a tax cut presents "a problem so complicated that it requires months of study by experts," he commented.

In conclusion, Gillette stated that young people have the greatest stake in international cooperation for peace.

"By peace," he said, "I do not mean only the absence of war, but the presence of justice, morality, decency and brotherhood."

Foreign Student Mixer To Be Held Saturday

A get-acquainted mixer for university foreign students will be held Saturday from 8 o'clock to 10:30 p. m. in the Fellowship hall of the Methodist church.

Purpose of the party is to acquaint foreign students with each other in preparation for reorganizing the International Students club.

Co-op Adds Ice Service

Ice tickets for married students in temporary housing areas will be delivered with regular deliveries by the University Married Student organization co-op store, Don Messick, manager, announced yesterday.

This new service was begun yesterday and is open to all co-op members, he said. Each ice book is good for 500 pounds and will be sold at the regular price.

Announce Betrothal Of Former Student

Announcement of the engagement of a former university student, Mary Alice Miller, was made yesterday by the bride's parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Robert S. Miller, Burlington, Vt., former Iowa City residents.

Miss Miller is engaged to Robert N. Bigham, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Bigham, Omaha, Neb.

The bride was graduated from Benson high school, Omaha, and the University of Iowa in June, 1944. She attended graduate college at the University of Chicago for one year and during the past year has been engaged in Red Cross work at Santa Ana, Cal. Mr. Bigham was also graduated from Benson high school, Omaha, and Harvard university, Cambridge, Mass.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Rev. Bertram Replaces Rev. Choitz For Sunday

The Rev. John Bertram, Lutheran hospital chaplain for Iowa City, will deliver the sermon at St. Paul's Lutheran church Sunday in the absence of Rev. John F. Choitz, who is attending a Gamma Delta convention at Lincoln, Neb., this weekend.

Rev. Bertram's sermon will be "Christ, the Almighty, Son of the Living God."

His work in and about Iowa City is concerned with administering spiritual aid to Lutheran hospital patients, and holding regular services at Oakdale sanitarium.

'Odd Man Out' Not Quite Great

By JACK O'BRIEN
Carol Reed's "Odd Man Out" is a good picture. It is sometimes almost, but not quite, a great picture.

At its best it draws an arresting inference of what must have been one of the greatest faults of the Irish rebellion (or any rebellion)—the people without intellectual sincerity, without political motivation who found themselves swept along in its tide.

It provides a disturbing portrait of the confusion of loyalties, the disintegration of consciousness and the elimination of basic humanitarianism, which are stimulated by revolution.

It is suspenseful. It is well acted.

If this were an ordinary film it could have been fine in an ordinary way. But it is a film which might have been extraordinary. We are most concerned with the crippling things which detract from its potential greatness . . . things which are exaggerated and much more irritating here, accompanied by excellence, than they could ever be in any ordinary film.

There are such irritating camera devices as: the scene in the air-raid shelter in which the little girl dissolves into a policeman; the bar scene when Johnny's spilled beer leers and screams at him; the Dali-esque jury of paintings, and the disenchanted castle of the derelict artist, doctor and vagrant.

Most of the humor seems strained and uncomfortably out of place.

But the greatest irritation comes when, somewhere in mid-stream, the film strikes a disturbing note of allegory. This helps to account for a certain personal and non-individual air about Johnny which had combatted our sympathy for him as a mere man. But as a sort of badly beaten Everyman, cursed by all the brutal elements of man and nature, battled over by personifications of love, religion, the physical and the artistic, he loses every vestige of the human quality—and with that, much of our sympathy.

With the possible exception of the allegory, with its weak box-office potential, most of these mistakes are strictly from Hollywood. Our own films have been profitably guilty of similar technical sins for some time.

In the usual domestic product they are an indistinguishable part of the extravagant and unreal whole. In "Odd Man Out" they are glaring flaws of artificiality in what is only seldom extravagant and is frequently quite real.

It's disturbing to discover that the disease may become international.

Yet, strangely enough, "Odd Man Out" suffers most in an inevitable comparison with an American film, John Ford's "The Informer."

Ford's film was populated with very real people. It was un-muddled by amateurish allegorical overtones.

But greatest of all its merits, it recognized that the noblest tragedies involve intellectual, not physical.

Greer Funeral Sunday

Funeral services for Gertrude Greer, 42, lifelong resident of Iowa City, will be held at 2 p. m. Sunday at Beckman's Funeral home, with burial in Oakland cemetery. The Rev. Donavan G. Hart will be in charge.

Miss Greer died Wednesday afternoon at her home at 703 Iowa avenue. She is survived by a sister, Mildred, also of Iowa City.

Three Go to Convention

Gamma Delta, student organization of St. Paul's Lutheran church, is sending a delegation to the national convention at Lincoln, Neb., today through Sunday.

The following students will attend: Dick Brauer, A3; Robert Buelow, C3; and Amanda Hagen, A2.

sical, conflicts. Johnny is lost largely because, as we are informed with an almost brutal lack of subtlety, he is like a doomed bird—his left wing is "broken."

Despite all efforts to complicate it, rhetorically and morally, his struggle remains purely physical.

The informer was intellectually incapable of analyzing his situation. His futile efforts to save himself only hurled him further along in his destruction. He fumbled and bungled his way to death. His hopeless, hysterical stupidity . . . his inability to gauge the fundamentals of error and recalcification made him a noble figure of tragedy.

Mason's physical handicap makes him merely pitiable.

His entire performance is more a physical feat than either intellectual or emotional. The agonizing pressure of his physical pain doesn't allow him to react either to the people or the circumstances which mold a maze of tragedy about him.

So far as dialogue or emotional complexity is concerned, Mason has the least demanding role in the picture.

But physically this is the most grueling chore since Jennifer Jones crept and crawled halfway across a technicolor Arizona for David Selznick. Mason falls, he's stamped upon, dragged, shoved, thrown. He's rained upon and snowed upon.

His ultimate death comes not as an instance of tragic justice or injustice. It comes as the long-delayed ablation of a benevolent samaritan. He is simply taken out of his misery. If he hadn't been shot, he most certainly would have died from wounds, bruises, shock and over-exposure.

But like the hero of "The Informer," even when "Odd Man Out" is defeating itself . . . it is interesting.

Coralville Dam Hearing Called

The general public can express its views and offer suggestions at 10 o'clock today at the Community building on the proposed $12 million Coralville flood-control reservoir.

A special seven-man committee appointed by Gov. Robert D. Blue will hear individual opinions before recommending either the Turkey creek or Hoosier creek sites to the governor.

"During the hearing, oral statements will be heard," H. Garland Hershey, chairman of the committee, said yesterday, "but we request that all statements and facts be accompanied by a written statement or summary."

Though the national government can build at either site, it is asking for a recommendation from Blue, who in turn appointed the committee to aid him.

The Turkey creek site is nine miles upstream from university dam and would cost $12,311,000. The Hoosier site is 18½ miles upstream and would cost $9,975,000.

Approval of the Turkey creek site would necessitate changing Lake MacBride. It would have a 492,000 acre-foot capacity, compared with 392,000 acre-feet at the Hoosier site.

The Hoosier site would not affect Lake MacBride. (An acre-foot is equal to an acre of water one foot deep.)

The project is designed to protect land below the dam from floods. About 15,000 acres above and 11,500 acres below the Iowa and Cedar rivers junction are subject to floods, such as was experienced last spring.

Hershey said the committee would submit a report to Blue as soon as possible. Blue then has 90 days to send his recommendation to Washington, D. C.

Re-Design Veterans Hospital; Capacity To Remain Same

Army engineers yesterday released details of revised plans for the Iowa City veterans hospital. Chief engineer Wendell E. Johnson of the Omaha district said preliminary plans are now being prepared and will be completed in December.

"The outward appearance of the hospital will be about the same as the original plan," said Johnson, "except that the south wing at both the east and west end of the structure will be much shorter."

The VA plans to build the 500-bed hospital on a 13-acre tract northwest of university hospital.

"Present planning indicates the hospital will be one story less in height; however, the bed capacity will not be reduced," Johnson stated.

Re-design of the hospital has been necessitated by current high construction costs, according to Johnson. In the interest of economy, he said, some of the less essential features will be eliminated.

Building new telephone lines for you takes well planned teamwork by these two »

Behind this giant plow train, burying a new transcontinental telephone cable, there's a story of typical teamwork by Western Electric in helping the Bell Telephone Companies to give you faster, even better service.

As the supply member of the Bell Telephone team, Western Electric is producing the coaxial cable which can carry 1800 telephone messages at once—can transmit television network programs, too. Complex machines—designed by Western Electric engineers—are turning out this cable mile after mile to keep the plow trains pushing forward on schedule.

Ever since 1882, Western Electric has been an integral part of Bell Telephone service—helping to make it the world's best at the lowest possible cost.

Official Says Rent Decontrol Up To People

"It's up to the people of Iowa City to decide whether they want rent control or decontrol," area rent director T. J. Wilkinson said yesterday.

He said he was glad to see rent control discussed in the Iowa City press and hoped public interest in the problem of rent control would be further stimulated.

Wilkinson stated it was not his business to make recommendations about rent control or decontrol in Iowa City.

"Following a directive from the housing expediter to each rent director in the U.S., I approached the Iowa City rent advisory board and asked them to make a recommendation for either continued controls or decontrol," he said.

"The power to make this recommendation," he stated, "lies with the local rent advisory board."

The board is preparing a report to the housing expediter which Wilkinson has called for on Nov. 15.

A reliable informant has stated the local board is prepared to recommend decontrol. However, board members are said to be undecided as to what decontrol date to set.

The present rent control law expires Feb. 29, 1948. Congressional committees are considering the possibility of a new law to come up in the regular session in January.

Educational Equality A Mockery—Brown

Equality of opportunity for higher education is sheer mockery in the United States, Dr. Francis J. Brown, executive secretary of President Truman's commission on higher education, told the Great Issues class yesterday in a public meeting in Old Capitol.

The fact that half of the children in the nation are raised in families with incomes of less than $2,600 a year, and one-third in families with incomes below $2,000 makes democratic education a myth, Brown stated.

Brown reported the commission found the nation has not yet made up the educational losses which it sustained during the war. Although institutions are bulging at the seams, only 12 percent of the youth of college age are in college at the present time.

In discussing the need for changes in the organization of higher education, Brown stated there is need for a strong effective agency within the federal government which will bring about a greater degree of coordination.

Brown said if the trend toward higher student fees increases, it will lead to the restriction of education to the children of parents in the upper-income bracket.

Additional Stop Revises Westbound Air Flight

United Air lines westbound flight will arrive in Iowa City 20 minutes later because of the addition of a Cleveland stop on the route, B. D. McWilliams, station manager announced yesterday.

Effective tomorrow, the plane will leave here at 4:50 p.m. The later schedule was made possible when the CAA approved night operations at the Iowa City airport last Nov. 6.

Art Guild Presents French Movie Tonight

A French movie, "Lower Depths," by Maxim Gorki, will be shown tonight at 8 in the art building auditorium, student art guild announced yesterday.

Starring Jean Gabin, Louis Jourvet, Suzy Prim, and Vladimir Sakoloff, the film is based on a story about a group of social outcasts in Moscow.

Tickets may be purchased at the door.

'I Want to Be Like Stalin'

(Fourth in a Series)

This series on Russian education has been based on a newly published book I Want to Be Like Stalin by Dr. George S. Counts and Nucia P. Lodge of Teachers College at Columbia University. I Want to Be Like Stalin is a translation of portions of the textbook Pedagogy approved in 1946 by the Soviet ministry of education to tell Russian teachers about their jobs.

So far we have presented a general appraisal of Soviet education by the authors and analyzed six principles of Soviet education.

Today we present the last of eight principles developed in the official text. Tomorrow we shall consider the six disturbing elements of Russian education as seen by the authors.

(All quotations in today's article, except where noted, are from the Soviet text as translated.)

7. COURAGE AND STRENGTH

Here stress is put on training the will. The qualities aimed at are "purposefulness, resolution, persistence, initiative, courage and endurance."

The exposition offered of each of these traits is, in general, what might be expected in a western text, but the emphasis on initiation is striking.

"A mighty means in the training of the will is example. How often have we heard children say: 'I want to be like Stalin.' 'I want to be like Chkalov.' 'I want to be like a hero in the Patriotic War.' This should be comforting to the Soviet teacher."

Stubbness, caprice and laziness are especially warned against. "Organically children are active; for them to be lazy is unnatural. Yet the truth of the matter is that, though they are active by nature, they are not industrious. The habit of work must be developed in them by means of correct education."

8. ALL MANKIND

"Lenin showed that eternal and unchanging ethical standards do not exist. Ethical standards are determined by the development of society and by social relations."

"Also for every concrete social form there are corresponding ethical standards. The ruling ethics in society are the ethics of the ruling class."

Wealthy classes, as Lenin says, regard their morality as the morality of all mankind and founded on "the commandments of God." "We say that is a fraud, that is a deception designed to dull the minds of the workers and peasants in the interests of landlords and capitalists."

"The working class must create a new morality—a higher and nobler morality, because it is the morality of the great majority of the population."

This Communist morality has a universal outreach. "Stalin always links patriotic education with the cultivation of a feeling of friendship toward other peoples and a feeling of deep respect for other peoples."

He is quoted: "The strength of the Red Army consists finally in the fact that it does not and cannot have racial hatred toward other peoples, even toward the German people . . ."

Discipline is stressed again, but "there is a definite discipline which corresponds to every social order. The discipline of the whip harmonizes with the feudal order and the feudal discipline of labor."

"The capitalistic organization of production rests on the discipline of hunger. In either case submission is placid and absolute. In bourgeois society the discipline of hunger is often cloaked by 'democratic' discourses on the freedom of labor."

"The new discipline is forged through the 'long and stubborn struggle and labor of the workers.' But it is conscious discipline, not like that of the 'old school' which was based on 'drill.'"

The Showdown in Korea

The United States seems to have won the first round in the UN debate on Korea. The major showdown may come if and when Moscow carries out its threat to boycott the UN commission now being organized to supervise elections in Korea.

These elections are to select, not a government, but Korean representatives to take part in the UN discussions on Korea. The Russians insist that no commission go to Korea until "truly elected" Korean representatives had participated in the discussions.

The U.S. contended that no representatives could be "truly elected" unless a UN commission supervises the elections. The Russians say that representatives have already been elected in their zone. The coming election is expected to be Korea-wide, and two-thirds of the Koreans live in the American zone. What happens if the Russians refuse the commission to their zone?

What the Russians really are after is for both sides to withdraw their occupation forces. The U.S. is agreeable, but wants machinery of Korean government established before the troops pull out.

Leaving Koreans to their devices now might well abandon Korea to the Kremlin. The Russian armies could withdraw just across the Korean border and camp there, but the U.S. forces would have to go far away across the sea.

Conservative Trend Seen in England

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst
Lord Inverchapel and other Europeans are, to a great extent, fighting windmills in their fear that aid under the Marshall plan might be made contingent upon their ending their experiments in socialization.

I have heard repeatedly that Washington is not concerned over such nationalization as is being tried in England and France. The only concern is lest those governments, under political pressure, should attempt further experiments which might upset our planning for European economic recovery. It is probably true that the United States would not take kindly, for instance, to any British move toward nationalization of her steel industry now.

American authorities back from the recent world bank meeting in London think there is a sure trend there toward a return to the middle of the road, that there will be a conservative government in 1950 if not before, and that such nationalization as had real popular support has already been attained. Tuesday's announcement of Britain's new labor regulations, amounting to a shock even among liberals. That's the system that Russia uses. The British press referred to it as a step toward a slave state and totalitarianism.

The regulations require that all men not gainfully employed, and women between 18 and 40, must register at labor offices which will be authorized to direct them into jobs.

There is, of course, no question that Britain is in a war, that drastic steps are necessary, or that Britons intend to surrender their liberties more than temporarily. And they are doing it under a government which they elected, and which they can recall.

But there is the question of what may be the next steps if, instead of winning, Britain shows signs of losing the war. And of the habits which develop in the sort of bureaucracy which must be built to administer such programs.

'D RATHER BE RIGHT

Triumph for 'Common Sense'

By SAMUEL GRAFTON

The Marshall plan is only our old friend lend-lease dressed up a little bit, and if we hadn't cut lend-lease off abruptly at the end of the war we wouldn't be needing a Marshall plan now.

In other words, the coming extraordinary session of congress is actually a special session called to correct a whale of a mistake. If we had stayed on the beam at the end of the war, and had continued lend-lease, we might have been a year ahead of the European crisis instead of, as now, probably a year behind it.

The point is important because there was almost no opposition in September, 1945, when we decided to drop lend-lease. And when a whole country joins happily in a mistake we ought to chew it over to see how it happened.

It should have been apparent to any intelligence that Europe wouldn't float if left alone after the kind of war it had been through. But a new President, who hadn't had the advantage of spring-training, and who was trying to conciliate an irreconcilable Republican opposition, lopped off lend-lease as almost his first official act after hearing from Europe that the war was over. He seemed to have been waiting for the telegram with the ax in his hand. The pipe-lines to Europe began at once to suck air instead of food, and thus we started on that majestic chain of stumbles which has led us to the present moment.

What happened in 1945 was a triumph for that special kind of spit-in-the-corner "common sense" which is too often the boast of American politics. It was a triumph, in some cases, for that consuming dislike of the foreigner which had been held within bounds during the war, but which popped out squealing with the surrender. It was the triumph of the shoestring necktie over the statistician, the smoking czar over the professor, the divisive spirit over the unifying one. The war's over, isn't it? What in hell did those countries ever do for us? Thus spoke "common sense." It is only now that we are beginning dimly to see that in handling such problems as the stabilization of the world this kind of "common sense" is about as useful as it is in the grinding of five-element photographic lenses, or in the calculation of interstellar space.

And actually, we didn't even save all our money after ending lend-lease. This kind of common sense is forever losing through a hole in its pocket the dollars it refuses to spend on painting its house. We had to give some to UNRRA, we had to

Looking fine! Terrific! But terrific! How's the wife? Never saw you looking better in your life. Follow my eye, pal, I hadn't better point. But over yonder's Greasy; he really owns the joint. And with him, that's the judge of the court of special pleas. But I can't seem to place the other two gees. The judge, his brother, he's in slot machines. And strong as horseshit, here to Noo Orleans. Charged water, pretzels, swizzle-sticks and sports Policy and, you know, disorderly resorts. Narcotics, handbooks, table-cloths and jackets. The baseball, football and basketball rackets. Over there in Jersey he's the guy to see. In problems up to murder in the first degree. Grand juries, trial juries, anything you wish. General operations; he's a blue plate dish. Swooners, crooners and junkies, natch. Well, here's looking at you; down the hatch. Get a load of that commotion over there. The honorable justice is going on the air. Give him a line in a column and he

Will give you an exclusive on the court's decree. Runs up from Washington to fire off his lip. Eats on the cuffero, including also tip. Sometimes he will read his opinion out loud. And glower at the pause, to impress the crowd. The national committee man is coming in now. An ambulance-chasing alcoholic lobbyist. For a G-note he can fix it so you can cop a plea. Or get you in some day for lunch with Harry S. T. That little fellow yonder, who looks like a clerk. Not him the other one, that one's a jerk. I mean the quiet-looking, scrawny little guy. You wouldn't hardly figure him for FBI. Great little copper what I mean! Terrific. Spot you a ton of weight and lay you out stiff. Sit around here and they all drift in—Celebrities and buyers, down from St. Paul, Minn. Columnists, comedians, jockeys, hoods and fighters. Tourists and lecturers and famous novel-writers. Promoters and producers and the Hollywood crowd. Hollering and showing off and cutting-up loud. Telling how they love the weak, the helpless and the needy. How they hate intolerance and bigots and the greedy. Used to be they socialized in nothing but frivolity. But now the new sensation is the gag they call equality. Here comes Frankie boy and with him, Joe Fischetti. Every night they grab a load of vino and spaghetti. Lucky and Longie—all our notedest gorillas. And the zombies they are loading ain't exactly sa-parillas. God Bless America! Bless Democracy! I mean but terrific! My country 'tis of thee!

UNESCO--A People's Platform

Operated by World Citizens

By SAM GOTTESFELD

Currently meeting in Mexico City is an international body designed to give educators, scientists and representatives of the press a chance to accomplish world peace.

This organization, the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural organization, fights its battle for peace in the minds of men, where prejudices give birth to war.

Prof. H. O. Croft, head of the mechanical engineering department, and Iowa's only representative on the U. S. national commission for UNESCO, described the international body as one "operated mainly by the peoples of the world."

Dean E. T. Peterson of the graduate college attended the national conference for UNESCO in Philadelphia last spring. He believes, "UNESCO is the one activity associated with UN that citizens can directly participate in."

Theoretically, the group is made up of men and women from 35 nations representing the fields of education, science, social science, philosophy and humanistic study, arts and letters, and the mass communication media—films, press and radio.

This is the UNESCO setup:

As a UN specialized agency, it is linked with the UN general assembly through the economic and social council. Member nations organize their own national commissions, which choose delegates to an annual UNESCO general conference. (The second general conference is meeting in Mexico City until Dec. 3.)

The general conference elects an 18-member executive board with, not more than one member from each nation. This board selects a director-general who is chief administrative officer in charge of a permanent secretariat of 500 persons. The present director-general is British novelist J. B. Priestley.

Here is a closeup view of the organization of the U. S. national commission:

An act of congress July 30, 1946, provided that commission representatives be chosen according to their association with educational, scientific and communication groups.

For example, Croft was chosen a delegate in the science division because the American society for engineering education was given representation on the commission. This society chose Croft, immediate past president, as its delegate for a two-year term.

Members of the commission include such persons as Pres. George D. Stoddard of the University of Illinois, Surgeon-General Thomas Parran, Chester Bowles, Gen. Omar N. Bradley, Archibald MacLeish, Milton Eisenhower, Howard Hanson, Eric Johnston and Edward R. Murrow.

The U. S. commission has a maximum of 10 representatives appointed by the federal government, 15 from state and local governments, 15 chosen at large and 60 from educational, scientific and cultural organizations.

Croft commented that even the federal and state appointees are for the most part educators and non-political men.

However, Croft pointed out, "all national commissions have not been chosen in a democratic way. Many delegates to the general conference have close connections with the governments of their respective countries."

One glaring absence in UNESCO membership is that of Soviet Russia. Russia has stated that UNESCO is merely a front for capitalist propaganda. But Russian-influenced Czechoslovak and Yugoslavia, UNESCO members are probably keeping Russia well-informed on UNESCO activities.

"Patience" and understanding are the keys to bettering international relations, according to Croft. He deplored the sensationalism of the America press which has done much to widen the rift between Russia and America.

The UNESCO constitution was drafted in London in November, 1945. A year later the first general conference was held in Paris, and a budget of less than $6-million was approved. Croft called it an "experimental" budget. A much larger sum is needed to carry out UNESCO activities, he said.

At Paris, UNESCO realized that its small budget could not cope with Europe's vast needs for libraries and school materials. It decided to act as a clearing house for separate voluntary agencies already existing in countries that wished to extend aid.

On the eve of the convention, Henry Wallace addressed a PCA meeting here, declaring, after his return from Europe, that "forces of black reaction have carried the United States perilously close to the Germany of 1932."

The speech, made in the same auditorium that the Young Democrats are using, was entirely by coincidence, but it symbolized the main dilemma of the Democrats—how to keep the party liberal enough to avoid threats of a third party led by the former Democratic vice-president and at the same time cast off the extreme left-wing stigma. Although snubbed officially by convention officials, Wallace's speech created plenty of corridor talk yesterday.

President Truman in a message to the convention called on Young Democrats to "rally young people to the battlefield of politics. Since the turn of the century, the percentage of eligible voters who have actually gone to the polls has shown an alarming decline. This is a symptom of political ill health in our democracy," the President said.

In the organization's elections Roy Baker, Texas attorney, con-

An indication of what the present general conference may accomplish is shown in the instructions the national commission gave its delegates to Mexico City. These are considered the main American goals for 1948:

1. Educational reconstruction in war-devastated Europe.

2. Promotion of the free flow of ideas, formation of a world radio network and plans for distribution of textbooks.

3. Education for international understanding by promoting a knowledge of other peoples, based on the recognition of the need to sympathize with other points of view without necessarily accepting them. Also analyzing textbooks and dissemination of methods and materials for adult education.

4. Easing of international

"tensions." The commission "considers that the problem of tensions affecting international understanding must furnish a central theme on the program of UNESCO and must be accorded possibly the highest priority."

As for the future of UNESCO, Peterson believes participation by all citizens in UNESCO programs is of prime importance.

Though he granted that schools were a logical starting point to educate youth for international understanding, he declared, "We can't wait for a generation to pass" before understanding begins to spread.

"Stimulation, motivation and widespread dissemination of information concerning UNESCO aims 'through increased adult education is the hope for the organization," he concluded.

Market Basket Reaches $16.89

Flour, Bacon Lead Prices

By MERRITT LUDWIG
The grocers were right! Food prices went up this week as they predicted.

The Daily Iowan market basket index hit $16.89 yesterday, just eight cents less than the all-time high set this fall.

One grocer said yesterday, "There's nothing spectacular about it—prices are going up; that's all there is to it."

Prices of five of 24 basic food items surveyed yesterday went up with flour and bacon in the lead. A pound of first grade bacon cost an average 89 cents yesterday, four cents over last week. A 10 pound sack of flour increased for the second consecutive week, jumping to $1.19.

A slight run on decontrolled sugar produced a price increase last week. Yesterday five pounds of cane was back to 53 cents, where it stood most of the fall.

A pound of coffee and a No. 2 can of peas were both up one cent yesterday. Ten pounds of Idaho potatoes were priced at 65 cents, a two-cent rise.

The Daily Iowan market basket survey is based on prices of 24 basic food items found by previous survey to be in most common use by student families in Iowa City.

Prices listed are an average of those in seven representative Iowa City stores.

The market basket index is an estimate of what a student family of three persons can expect to spend for groceries in a given week. Cost per food item is weighted in accordance with the amount of that item a student family uses in a week.

The index set an all-time high in September 24 at $16.98. Yesterday's prices were lower than September 24 on the following items: butter, eggs, oranges, pork and beans, salmon, ground beef, round steak and pork chops.

Yesterday's prices were higher for coffee, potatoes, peas, soap flakes, sugar, flour, oats, chocolate, cheese, lard, bacon and bread.

Five Births at Mercy

A 7-pound, 3-ounce daughter was born Wednesday in Mercy hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Greenawald, Solon. Mr. and Mrs. George Neiderhisar, Tiffin, became the parents of an 8-pound, 6-ounce daughter.

A 6-pound daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Brown, West Liberty. A 5-pound, 15-ounce daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Whiting, 917 Dearborn street.

Yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Walter Donahue, 319 N. Dodge street, became the parents of a 6-pound, 12-ounce daughter.

J. C. Kennedy Funeral

Funeral services for James C. Kennedy, who died suddenly at his home Wednesday noon, will be held at 9 a. m. today in St. Mary's church. Burial will be in Clinton.

Says Rocket, Atom Allow Little Defense

The audience at the atomic energy lecture last night in Macbride auditorium got a nuclear-physicist's eye-view of weapons of modern warfare.

Prof. Arthur Roberts of the university physics department described the use of rockets, biologic agents and atomic forces as weapons.

Defense against most weapons has resulted in a counter-weapon, he said, but from these newest destructive inventions there is little defense.

The film, "One World or None," showing the effects of the atomic bomb was shown after Robert's lecture.

Roberts has been active here in all aspects of atomic energy, taking part in scientific, political and social organizations concerned with atomic energy. Before coming here in 1946, he was associated with the radiation research laboratories at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and last summer he worked on nuclear physics at Columbia university.

Next week's atomic lecture by Roberts will be titled "The Secret of the Atomic Bomb." A film on the destruction at Hiroshima and Nagasaki will be shown.
