Cat Rises from Rags to Riches

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A stray alley cat seeking refuge from a rainstorm wandered into a hotel and won two prizes Sunday at the greater St. Louis cat club show.

The male Maltese, adopted and named "Mr. Silver" by hotel hostess Marcella Duffy, took top honors in the best color for kittens class and in the non-champion class.

POLL OPPOSES ANDERSON 2 TO 1

Rent Controls Favored 5 to 1 During Lively Public Hearing

By BOB HOOVER

In a spontaneous straw poll about a hundred persons voted 5 to 1 to retain rent controls at the rent advisory board's public hearing in city hall council chambers last night.

Doctor, lawyer, merchant, rich man, poor man, landlord and tenant, all were there and everyone had an opinion.

Emotionally charged with solid statistics in the electric atmosphere with more emotion than reason in several presentations. A few speakers claimed landlords would "rob" tenants if given the chance.

The hearing was touched with conflict, drama, humor, anger, disdain and even pathos. Spontaneous applause greeted some arguments while others drew catcalls.

Prof. Walter L. Daykin, who moderated the discussion, stepped in several times to halt verbal knock-down-drag-out battles.

When the smoky council chambers cleared, the rent advisory board was left with a few facts and a lot of impressions to guide them in making their recommendation sometime next week to National Housing Expediter Tighe Woods.

The board must decide whether or not rent controls should be removed in Iowa City.

After some prefacing remarks by Board Chairman J. A. Swisher, the first speaker, Cliff Richards, read a prepared statement by the Progressive Citizens of America's local chapter.

The PCA, favoring rent controls, asked the city council to enact a local rent control ordinance if congress lets the present rent law run out.

Attorney William H. Bartley, as president of the Johnson County Young Democrats, next opposed decontrol because, "it will hurt the working man."

As spokesman for the Veterans' Organization council, composed of heads of Iowa City veterans' groups, Sam Shulman handed the

De Gaulle's Party Takes Over Paris' City Government

PARIS (AP)—General Charles de Gaulle's Rally of the French People (RFP) assumed control of the Paris municipal government last night during a stormy city council session punctuated by Communist denunciations of the U.S.

Meanwhile, Paul Reynaud worked to establish a new French national regime strong enough to resist opposition from both the Communists and the de Gaullists. Both developments came as spreading unrest gripped large sections of France.

Pierre de Gaulle, the general's brother, was elected president of the Paris city council—a post corresponding to the office of mayor—shortly before 25 Communist members walked out of the chamber amid catcalls and boos.

Interrupted by cries of "back to Moscow," Communist Leader Raymond Boussus said members of his party would not sit in the same council with "Vichyites, collaborators" and "apprentice dictators."

U. S. Cuts Tariffs On 3,500 Products After Geneva Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sweeping concessions in United States tariffs were announced yesterday, affecting three-fourths of all imports and dropping the nation's tariff barrier to the lowest point in decades.

They take effect Jan. 1, under the general trade and tariff agreement signed at Geneva, Switzerland, on Oct. 30. Cuts and trade concessions by the 22 other Geneva nations are effective simultaneously, or soon thereafter.

Tariffs on more than 3,500 American products were affected. The trade agreements act of 1934 gives the administration authority to sign tariff-cutting pacts in return for concessions from other nations. Such pacts are not subject to congressional approval.

Slashes of 50 percent—the limit allowed by congress—were granted by the United States on the duties of a long list of important commodities including:

Copper, all softwood lumber, gasoline, Portland cement, wheat and wheat flour, beef, bauxite, quicklime, high quality furs, brandy, Jute burlap, manganese ore, textile machinery, photo film and many steel products and electrical items.

The tariff on wool and woolen and worsted fabrics are reduced 25 percent, but this country can boost rates again if the inflow exceeds five percent of U.S. production. The duty on Cuban sugar is cut from three-fourths to one-half cent a pound.

2 Sought in Rape, Murder, Give Up; End 12-Hour Siege

NEILLSVILLE, WIS. (AP)—Two young ex-convicts, who for 12 hours had kept at bay an armed posse seeking them in the rape of a coed and the cold blooded slaying of her brother-in-law, surrendered meekly late yesterday. Their hostages, a farmer, his wife and two sons, were unharmed.

With their hands in the air, the pair walked out of a barn in the heavily wooded area of north-central Wisconsin and surrendered.

Sheriff Ray Kutsche said the youths had "freely admitted" in oral statements both the rape and the slaying.

The youths are Robert Winslow, 23, of Owen, and Buford Sennett, 22, of Richland Center, both former state reformatory inmates who served additional time for escapes. They had threatened to "shoot it out."

They were identified from photographs by Miss Jane Ann Rosenblatt, 19, of Cleveland Heights, Ohio, a University of Michigan coed, as the men who had killed her brother-in-law, Carl L. Carlson, 25, then raped her repeatedly during a wild automobile ride Friday night.

Credit for the surrender went to District Attorney L. P. Lownik of Richland county, Sennett's home.

Howard Meier, a reporter for the Chippewa Falls Herald-Telegram, said Lownik appealed to Sennett over a loud-speaker equipped truck, telling him his mother wanted him to give up.

A few minutes later, Meier said, Sennett appeared in the doorway of a barn in the small clearing sheltering the farm.

He was followed at about 100 paces by Winslow. Both men were haggard. They were unarmed.

Train To Skip Memphis

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Heritage foundation announced last night it was canceling a showing of the Freedom Train in Memphis because of what it said was a proposal by the city's mayor that racial segregation be practiced at an exhibition of the train.

Louis A. Novins, executive vice-president of the foundation which is sponsoring the train, said the Memphis mayor had declared in a public statement that he would allow an exhibition of the train early in January only if half a day were devoted to visits by whites and the other half to Negroes.

De Gasperi Asserts Left-Wingers Forget 'They Are Italians'

ROME (AP)—Premier Alcide de Gasperi said yesterday that "disorders in the piazzas with forecasts of revolution will not make me desert the position confided to me and confirmed by the loyalty of the Italian people."

He declared the left had "forgotten to be, before all, Italian."

De Gasperi spoke partly in reply to Sunday's attacks upon his middle-of-the-road government from leftist newspapers and two left-wing political leaders.

A dispatch from Bari said that in Manfredonia yesterday 2,000 demonstrators wrecked offices of the Christian Democratic, Uomo Qualunque (Common Man) and Liberal parties and some of them seized the Common Man headquarters for use of the chamber of labor.

The premier said that, despite "Togliatti's talk of democratic revolution," if the Communists won in Italy, Italians would find "the Red Star" dominant.

Crash Fatal To Mrs. Broxam; Endowment Fund Is Started

Mrs. Pearl Bennett Broxam, 57, former WSUI program director, died at a Cedar Rapids hospital early yesterday of injuries received when her auto and a semi-trailer truck collided Sunday evening near Cedar Rapids.

The accident occurred about 7 p.m. Sunday, according to Cedar Rapids highway patrol headquarters. Mrs. Broxam, driving east on Highway 30 west of Cedar Rapids, turned out of a line of cars to enter a service station near the intersection with Highway 149. The truck was moving west.

Damage to the car and truck were not extensive, the highway patrol office reported.

Mrs. Broxam was employed in Cedar Rapids as public service director for radio station WMT.

The funeral will be held at 2 p.m. today in Harrison chapel at Maquoketa. Burial will be in Mt. Hope cemetery in Maquoketa.

Mrs. Broxam is survived by her husband, A. L. Broxam of Maquoketa, and two sisters, Mrs. Estelle Burke, Des Moines, and Mrs. Raymond Boudinot, Azusa, Calif.

President Hancher said yesterday: "The sad death of Pearl R. Broxam has been a great shock to me and to Mrs. Hancher and to all of us here who knew her. In her untimely death, Mrs. Hancher and I have lost a close personal friend of many years."

"During her tenure as a member of the university staff and since her departure to join the staff of WMT in Cedar Rapids, Mrs. Broxam has accumulated a multitude of friends in the Iowa City community."

"She had the rich gift for making and retaining friendships. To say simply that she will be greatly missed is wholly inadequate to express what is in our hearts."

War Plant President Testifies He Paid $58,000 to Meyers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bleriot H. Lamarre, who headed an aircraft parts plant which he said was set up by Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers, testified yesterday that Meyers ordered him to raise from $11 to $44.58 the price of fuse boxes it made under a military subcontract.

Lamarre, 35-year-old president of Aviation Electric company of Ohio, testified that as a result of this 1941 subcontract business, the company paid $58,000 to Meyers.

He testified further, in the senate war investigating committee's inquiries into the activities of Meyers as wartime deputy chief of air force purchasing:

1. That Meyers brought him and Mrs. Lamarre from California, where he was making $35 a week, and "elected" him president of Aviation Electric by writing minutes of a meeting that was never held.

2. That he was installed as president with a $31,000 salary, of which $28,000 was "kicked back" to Meyers.

3. That Meyers put up all the money to organize the firm in 1939 but that in 1943 directed that his name be stricken from company records. "I had gained the impression from him that in his position in the army he could not afford to be connected with any company," Lamarre said.

Meyers, not on the witness stand yesterday, told reporters that he never got anything from the company beyond what he had invested in it and had advanced to meet early expenses. He also said Lamarre had borrowed money from him and paid it back.

William Rogers, counsel for the investigating committee, developed that all but a few thousands of dollars of the $164,327 business done by Aviation Electric in 1941 came from a subcontract arrangement with Bell Aircraft.

Questioning by Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) brought replies that it was because of this business that the company made enough money to repay Meyers a loan of $30,000 and an additional payment of $28,000.

The $28,000 payment, Rogers told the committee, occurred when Lamarre was paid about $31,000 salary. Of this, Rogers said, all but $3,000 went to Meyers.

An endowment fund is being set up as a memorial to Mrs. Pearl Broxam, former WSUI radio station program director who was injured fatally in an auto crash near Cedar Rapids Sunday, William H. Bartley, local attorney, revealed yesterday.

To be known as the Pearl Bennett Broxam Endowment fund, the memorial will provide cash prizes and, if funds are sufficient, scholarships to worthy students in radio and journalism, Bartley explained.

President Virgil M. Hancher yesterday gave his "complete endorsement" to the proposed fund.

"Mrs. Broxam had a great and continuing interest in students," he said, "I am certain she would desire no more worthy or fitting memorial than one which would aid and stimulate students in the fields of radio and journalism, which were of greatest interest to her."

As a former SUI student who had worked under Mrs. Broxam, Bartley said, "During her 12 years as WSUI program director, Mrs. Broxam made many warm friends and acted not only as a teacher, but as a personal advisor to her students."

Bartley expects funds will be gathered from these 300 or more former students in radio journalism, her friends and classmates.

Fund organization has not been completed, he said, but until further word, contributions may be sent to the university alumni office.

Board of Athletic Control Delays Action on Resignation

By CHAD BROOKS Managing Editor

University of Iowa students voted almost 2 to 1 yesterday in favor of accepting Dr. Eddie Anderson's resignation as football coach at Iowa. The vote, tabulated by the university's student council, was 1347 in favor of accepting the resignation, 683 opposed and 708 "not qualified to express an opinion."

Later, the university's board in control of athletics refused Anderson an unqualified vote of confidence when they delayed action on his resignation until "not later than Thursday evening, Nov. 20."

The overwhelming results of the poll, an expression of opinion by the student body, were presented to the athletic board at their meeting last night.

At this meeting the board decided that Anderson's resignation was unconditional, but that reports had reached them that Anderson would like to remain as football coach at Iowa and they wanted a more complete statement from Anderson along these lines. Therefore, the board voted unanimously to delay action until they could uncover all the factors involved in the case.

The board's complete statement last night was:

"Dr. Eddie Anderson's resignation as submitted to President Virgil M. Hancher was unconditional. However, the possibility that Dr. Anderson would like to remain at Iowa as coach has been brought to the attention of the board, but up to this time the board has received no official statement from Dr. Anderson himself to this effect. As a consequence, the board has agreed to refrain from final consideration of Dr. Anderson's resignation until it has had an opportunity to confer with Dr. Anderson personally. The board plans to reconvene not later than Thursday evening, Nov. 20."

Earlier in the day, the Iowa City Quarterback's club voted 5 to 1 in favor of refusing Anderson's resignation.

It was believed in some quarters that Anderson's resignation, coming at this time, was an attempt to "pressure" the athletic board into a vote of confidence for the next three years.

This group claims that refusal of the board to accept the resignation at this time would give Anderson unlimited power in the Iowa athletic department for the three years still to run on his contract.

When informed of the board's (See ANDERSON, page 8)

Winant's New Book Says Russ Refuted Warning of British

BOSTON, (AP)—Russians—suspicious even before the war—shrugged off as "wishful thinking" a British warning of the German attack a month before Hitler invaded the Soviet, the late John G. Winant, United States wartime ambassador to London, says in a new book out yesterday.

"British intelligence had shown that Germany would, in all probability, attack Russia," wrote Winant in "Letters from Grosvenor Square." "This information had been passed on to the Russians, but was largely discredited by them as British wishful thinking."

Winant killed himself Nov. 3—a few hours after discussing with his publisher, Houghton Mifflin, a sequel. Friends said he was plagued by poor health and "disillusionment of today."

"If, on the morn of the atomic age," he wrote, we persist in once more hog-tying the diversity of talents and natural resources that can be contributed by all nations, we will assuredly plunge ourselves into mutual destruction, and turn our backs on the living possibilities of a golden age."

5 Die In B-29 Crash

Truman Seeks Controls

Urges Price, Wage Curbs

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman called on congress yesterday for authority to revive partial wage, price and rationing controls as "insurance" against the "catastrophe" of ruinous inflation.

And he had a battle on his hands.

Key Republicans and at least one Democrat, Senator Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma, said Mr. Truman's 10 point program means "regimentation."

House Speaker Martin said the chief executive evidently wants "a more colossal OPA" and:

"The President, having had service in the senate, certainly should know he couldn't get enacted in both houses measures of this magnitude, and as controversial, in unary action fails to meet the menace of inflation.

In case controls like those in wartime had to be restored, the President proposed consumer rationing of scarce products which basically affect living costs. He said rationing should operate on a "highly selective" rather than a blanket basis.

He said price ceilings should be applied—if they have to be used—to scarce goods important to living costs and industrial output. He said wage ceilings should be imposed wherever necessary to protect price ceilings.

With his plan for combatting inflation at home, the President coupled another administration bid for $597,000,000 to aid France, Italy and Austria this winter.

In short, crisp sentences Mr. Truman told congress it is "vital and essential" that it pass laws immediately to:

Mother Kills Mentally Ill Son

AURORA, ILL. (AP)—A sex-crazed 28-year-old man was shot to death yesterday by his mother because, she said, she feared he would try to force upon some other woman the improper advances he made toward her.

Growing hysterical after the tragedy that struck her home while her elderly mother slept, Mrs. Velma Reid, 50, an accountant, was taken to the county jail in Geneva where she was held without charge. An inquest was arranged for tomorrow.

Police Capt. Anthony Wegmann said the woman, a widow, had made three statements giving this account of the killing:

Her son, Louis, showed unusual musical talent as a boy and was considered a child prodigy of the piano by his teachers. As he grew to manhood he became victim to strong physical urges that prompted his commitment to the Elgin state hospital in 1939 as a sufferer of dementia praecox.

Most of the intervening years Louis spent in mental institutions. Yesterday Mrs. Reid went to the Chicago State hospital and obtained his release so he could be home with her and her mother, Mrs.

Sally Nedlow, 79, for the Thanksgiving holiday.

During the night the son stole into his mother's bedroom. She was aghast at his proposals, arose and tried to quiet him. They quarreled. Finally he announced he was "going downtown to find someone else."

The mother seized a .38-caliber revolver and ran after him, firing. She emptied the pistol at him, two of five shots going wild. He turned toward her calling, "Mother, Mother!"

She reloaded the chamber and fired twice more into his chest. He fell dead. Three unfired cartridges were in the revolver when it was found.

Frightened, Mrs. Reid ran from the house to one across the street, the home of the Rev. Owen Wherret, a Baptist pastor, and told what she had done. He summoned police who found the body on the living room floor, the pistol nearby.

Youth Held In Sweetheart's Death

ACCUSED OF KILLING his sweetheart Charles Ver Helst, 18, sits with his father immediately following his arraignment for murder yesterday in Mason City. The girl, Arlene Motz, 16, was found strangled beside Ver Helst's car Thursday night. Ver Helst said that he and Arlene, high school sweethearts for two years, had planned to elope Saturday. Ver Helst was released on $10,000 bail.

Anderson Blames 'Little Bit of Everything'

'Everybody Wants To Be Quarterback'

CHICAGO (AP)—Dr. Eddie Anderson—half in and half out as Iowa's football coach, and himself awaiting word as to his status—yesterday said "a little bit of everything" had led to the present turmoil at Iowa.

Anderson submitted his resignation as Hawkeye coach Friday, and the Iowa Athletic Board of Control met last night to consider the offer to quit. At the time he submitted his oral resignation to University President Virgil M. Hancher, Anderson said "loose talk" about himself and the squad had led to the action.

Anderson told the weekly quarterback luncheon sponsored by the Chicago Herald-American in answer to a written question, "What's the trouble at Iowa—is it players, or coaching, or alumni or what?" that it was "a little bit of everything." He did not elaborate.

Later in the meeting he said "a football team has come to be everybody's property. Everybody wants to call signals and play quarterback."

Anderson did not indicate whether the resignation was tendered with the hope that it might be refused so that he could continue with a "vote of confidence," or whether he genuinely wished to leave the Hawkeyes.

He said that President Hancher had been "very reluctant to entertain the idea of resignation, but at my insistence agreed to refer the matter to the board of control of athletics." He referred to Hancher as a "grand gentleman and one of my best friends."

Anderson called Notre Dame the best team Iowa had played this year in compiling a record of three victories, five defeats and one tie. He said Notre Dame "may spatter for a while but then they strike like lightning. But they do it in a nice way and you may be bruised but you go away feeling good." Iowa did not meet Michigan this season.

Cut Iowa Jayvees To 16 Man Squad

Coach Wendell Hill reduced the Hawk "B" squad to 16 players yesterday, and scrimmages with the varsity were underway.

The jayvee coach pointed out some likely candidates in the group, but he was not pleased with the pivot position rivals. The same shortage that faces Harrison and the varsity appears to be the top question with Hill. Possible centers just don't have the height.

Bob Yeager, the high-pocketed Sioux City lad, is green but works hard. He stands six feet, eight inches and could use his height to an advantage by getting off the floor after rebounds. John Hogeand, Marshalltown, and John Kelso are the other two centers.

Dick Reid of Wilton Junction leads the forward group and Hill's impression of Reid was optimistic. "He's very fast and a good ball handler."

The other six forwards are Alan Fisher, Independence; Len Shope, Glenbrook; Lloyd Berg, Council Bluffs; Elwin Duhn, Sterling, Ill.; Waller Schousen, Chicago; and Richard Wagner, Waterloo.

Two guards were praised among the six taking part in yesterday's scrimmage. Jim Clark, former Waverly high school star, and Cedar Rapids' Newell Pinch have been sharing the greater part of the load in the back court. Both are experienced floor men and Clark has a good eye on long shots.

George Wilson, Rockwell City, is another candidate who shows much promise. Ray Gile, Iowa City; Arnold Espe, Radcliffe; and Willard Shaw, Marshalltown, round out the guard hopefuls.

A tentative schedule has been drawn up, but only two games are positive at this point. The Wisconsin "B" team will meet the local squad here Feb. 7. An earlier contest has been arranged with Wisconsin there.

Fresh Cage Drills Start
All candidates for the freshmen basketball squad will report to the fieldhouse gym today at 3:30, Coach Vince Harsha announced yesterday.

Taking Time Out

With Buck Turnbull

Advance publicity on conference basketball teams is beginning to float into our office day by day and all say the same thing—look out for our team.

Here is one of the typical remarks, this coming from Minnesota Coach Dave MacMillan. "We are definitely better off than we were a year ago, particularly in depth."

Illinois is expecting a great season. The same goes for Michigan, Indiana and Wisconsin (yes, that guy Bob Cook is back again.) In fact, the only place that we have heard at least a little bit of griping is Purdue. They have lost Hoffman and Ehlers among others.

As it stands right now, the Golden Gophers from up north are the pre-season favorites. The Norsemen will have four of their first five back with Jim McIntyre, wily center, pacing the returning squad.

Besides McIntyre, the Gophers boast Jack Young, back to claim his starting guard post, while Ed Kernan and Bill Pepper will be returning to the forward slots. Just Chuck Buzz Wheeler, former Northwestern star while in the navy but who was hurt last season, into the other guard spot and you have a mighty creditable first five.

Across the border in Illinois, Harry Combes, former Champaign high school coach who was elevated to Doug Mills' position this season, has no less than eight lettermen among his 25 candidates.

Fred Green, six-foot, seven-inch pivotman is back along with a team who, in our opinion, should have been playing ahead of last year's "Fizz" Kids.

Chick Doster, third in scoring in the Big Nine two years ago, will return to battle with his old forward position along with Dwight Humphrey—he warmed the bench last year, too—and Bill Erickson.

Capt. Jack Burmaster, three-letterman, and Dick Foley should have the guard slots cinched. Then, if you need another forward, there's always Dike Eddie, three-sport star, who is still occupied with football. We also heard that Russ Steger, pile-driving fullback, is going to give basketball a whirl—just as a safety precaution if some of the court games get too rough.

Do you remember Michigan's first five last year under their new coach, Ossie Cowles? Well, they're all back.

There are probably a few of you who think you are better than average at picking the outcomes of football games.

Well, here is a quote from Saturday morning's Minnesota Daily, student newspaper, concerning the Iowa-Minnesota game.

Attempted Steal on 'Floyd of Rosedale,' Iowa-Gopher Trophy

An attempt to steal "Floyd of Rosedale" took place Saturday night, according to Deputy Sheriff Marold Glaspey.

Glaspey said pranksters broke into the Iowa dressing room at the stadium and ransacked a number of lockers trying to find the traditional Iowa-Minnesota football game trophy.

The deputy sheriff said the bronze trophy was in an adjoining room, but the culprits were unsuccessful in their try to jimmy the door to this room.

Athletic department officials said nothing had been stolen. This led them to believe pranksters were looking for the "pig," Glaspey said.

"Evidently the thieves saw the pig brought into the dressing room Saturday afternoon," he said, "and thought it had been left there."

An investigation of the break-in continued last night. Glaspey said County Attorney Jack C. White plans to hold "Floyd" as a "material witness" to the crime.

Speed Up Hawk Basketball Drills

With Iowa's first basketball game less than two weeks away, Coach "Pops" Harrison is intensifying the drills. Competition for starting berths for the opener against Carleton college here Dec. 1 is the stiffest in many years.

Sixteen men are on the varsity squad and the end of football season should show some additions from among the football players.

Leading the fight for the forward slots are Murray Wier, Floyd Magnusson, Stan Straatsma, Charlie Mason and Bob Volter. Leonard Metcalfe, Don Hays and Roger Finley are top-flight centers. Leading guard candidates are Jack Spencer, Bill Hall, Bob Schulz and Tom Parker.

Voller, Hays, Finley and Parker were on the "B" squad last year while the rest are all former letter winners.

Stephens, Kramer Go To Red Sox in Trade

BOSTON, (AP)—The acquisition of Shortstop Vern (Junior) Stephens and right handed Pitcher Jack Kramer from the St. Louis Browns for seven players plus undisclosed cash, estimated at from $50,000 to $100,000, yesterday highlighted Joe Cronin's first public appearance as general manager of the Boston Red Sox.

Smiling broadly and apparently highly pleased with his new job in Owner Tom Yawkey's front office, Cronin told baseball writers that the Browns gain immediate possession of Infielder Eddie Pellagrini, Catcher Roy Partee, both with the Red Sox last season, and Pitchers Jim Wilson, Al Widmar and Outfielder Pete Layden, members of the Louisville American association farm team.

"Stephens, of course, will be the Red Sox' 1948 third baseman," a writer prompted. "Joe McCarthy will decide that," Cronin countered neatly.

Grapplers Struggle for Positions

Opponents Outclass Hawkeyes In Virtually All Departments

Iowa's Hawkeyes, by defeating Minnesota Saturday, partially atoned for an otherwise disastrous season. The Hawks now are in fifth spot in the conference and are a possibility to hold that spot if both Minnesota and Indiana lose their final games this week.

In the conference the Hawkeyes won from Indiana and Minnesota, lost to Illinois, Purdue and Wisconsin and tied Ohio State. They lost non-conference games to Notre Dame and UCLA and defeated North Dakota State.

Statistics show that in virtually every department but passing the Hawks were topped by their opponents. Iowa set a new Hawkeye record in passing as they gained 1,092 yards through the air in all games.

The Hawks were outscored 179-145 over the season, and 59 of those Iowa points came in the season opener against North Dakota State, a team that failed to win a game in its own conference.

The nine opponents outgained the Hawks, 123 to 95, and outrushed them 1,865 yards to 1,030. In total offense, the Hawks trailed 2,122 yards to 2,491. They also trailed in kick returns, 973 yards to 1,235.

Iowa averaged 37 yards per kick while their opponents booted for an average of 34. However, the Hawks were forced to punt almost twice as many times as their opponents, indicating the futility of their offense more than anything else.

Iowa clearly outshone their opponents by recovering 21 of 31 fumbles. Of 20 Iowa fumbles, only 9 were recovered by opponents.

A new attendance record was set during the season as 484,402 fans watched the Hawks play.

Al DiMarco paced individual leaders on the Iowa team. He led in passing with 49 completions in 100 attempts for 644 yards and nine touchdowns. He also led in total offense with a net total of 555 yards.

Bob Smith gained 362 yards by rushing for a 3.2 average to pace that department. He also led in scoring with 30 points.

Em Tunnell was the leading pass receiver with 12 catches for 262 yards and four touchdowns.

Other Iowa leaders were Johnny Estes, who completed 15 passes in 34 attempts for 308 yards and two touchdowns; Em Tunnell, who rushed for 255 yards and a 4.5 average; Hal Shoener, who caught 11 passes for 152 yards and his twin brother Herb, who caught three touchdowns passes; and Ron Headington, who scored 27 points on three touchdowns and nine conversions.

In the only game tomorrow Dean plays Spencer to decide one of the finalists in the Town Men's league.

Newcomers Give 'Regulars' Tough Battle for Berths

By JOE NOBLE
Veteran grapplers are plentiful in Coach Mike Howard's 1948 grunt-and-groaner group, but the mat mentor remarks that "they will have to hurdle a few obstacles."

The obstacles are newcomers out to prove that their names should be included on the "select eight" when the regular season opens. They look like they mean business.

Forty wrestlers have turned up and competition is increasing with the first match two months off. The main emphasis is on conditioning and regular workouts and the battle for positions is underway.

Howard declined to hazard a guess as to the outcome of the 1948 season, but crossed his fingers and pointed out the important factors upon which their success depends. "We must hope that injuries don't show up, that a little excess weight disappears here and there, that more hours are spent in practice and better conditioning is gained," he said.

Joe "Handyman" Scarpello, Big Nine light-heavyweight and NCAA king, is back as Howard's chief point-refter. Scarpello, who was undefeated last year in the 175-pound class, drew praise from Howard when he saw another undefeated season for the champ. If "Joe can regain last year's physical condition,"

Both Ed Kemp and Roy Pickett have announced their intentions to report for practice this week. Kemp was last year's captain and an outstanding grappler in the 145-pound group. Pickett, 128-pounder of last year, could wrestle in any weight from 128 to 145 pounds.

Vern McCoy leads the list in the 121-pound unit and, according to Howard, has been "the most consistent worker to date. He is in good shape already and looks the best of any of them," he said.

The 128-pound class is headed by Rummy Macias, one of the cleverest wrestlers to appear at SUL. Macias' escape prowess makes him one of the toughest on the mat.

John Leo, a third-place winner in the conference two years ago at 121 pounds, is now the leading contender in the 136-pound class. The number one candidate for the 155-pounders is Kenneth Keith, while last year's Dick Goppert remains as the man to whip in the 165-pound group. However, the competition here can increase considerably if Ray Carlson, guard on the Hawkeye football squad, is able to report.

Virgil Counsell's frequent presence at practice gives him

List Roberts As Information First Lecturer

"Can Russia Actually Sabotage the Marshall Plan?" will be Prof. Roberts' topic Thursday when he addresses an Information First audience in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

The 4:30 speech will be the second in the fall series of Information First, current affairs lectures sponsored by the University Women's association.

Australian-born Roberts, a professor in the university's college of education, recently returned to Iowa after service in the U.S. army and in the Australian army's directorate of research.

He first visited the United States in 1937 on a Carnegie traveling fellowship to study American colleges and universities.

Director of adult education upon his return to Australia in 1938, he later entered the RAF in Malaya. Roberts returned to Iowa City in 1940 after receiving a medical discharge.

He gave nearly 700 addresses throughout Iowa on education topics and international affairs in the two years following his return. In 1942 Roberts was appointed acting director of the educational section of the British information service in New York. He entered the U.S. army in 1943.

The public is invited to attend Roberts' talk.

Spree Candidates Speak—

Most Eligibles Enjoy Eligibility

—Freedom Chief Advantage

Eligible bachelors like it that way.

Interviews with 26 candidates for the "Most Eligible Bachelor" title show that 21 enjoy their single status.

"Bachelors have more time to drink beer with the boys," claims Maurice Stark, L2, Webster City. Freedom is cited as the chief advantage of bachelorhood although Clayton Wood, A2, Stewartsville, Mo., wonders, "Is freedom really an advantage?"

Bob Ryan, C4, Riverside, Glenn Atkinson, C4, Marshalltown, and Jim Conrad, A4, Keokuk, think the single life costs less than double harness. Fred Haesemeyer, C4, Rockford, Ill., says it has fewer responsibilities "but that's the only advantage."

Four of the men think of no advantages but Ralph Katz, A3, Des Moines, insists, "Well, you don't have to get stuck with one girl."

Most emphatically against bachelorhood are Jack Fickie, M3, Henderson, ("I don't like it at all") and Conrad Amend, C3, Des Moines.

Bill Haberstroh, G, Hansboro, N. D., Phil Cady, A3, Des Moines, and Haesemeyer also deplore the single life.

By MARIE KIERNAN

"Boy it's tough seeing so many happily married guys around" says Haesemeyer. Haberstroh merely objects to "sleeping in a cold bed."

"Disadvantages of being a bachelor. Well they're mostly scientific," explains Atkinson.

"Sometimes being a bachelor is boring," admits Fay Haesussler, A1, Monticello.

"I just can't get any argyle socks unless I marry a girl who knits," gripes Kirk Chaney, A2, Spencer.

Other disadvantages irking the bachelors are: "I hate sewing on buttons"—Joe Grothus, C4, Davenport.

"Women are as hard to get along without as they are to get along with"—Bud Flood, A2, Cedar Falls.

"Dates are hard to get with this male surplus"—Sheldon Stritick, C2, Davenport.

"Opportunities are never opportunities"—Dick Feigert, C4, Van Wert, Ohio.

The most eligible of the 26 bachelors will be chosen at the annual Spinsters' Spree Friday.

Few of them agree on what they admire most in spinsters. Dick

Lewis, C4, Iowa City, declares he doesn't admire any of them while Haberstroh claims to love them all.

Any resemblance to Lana Turner is agreeable to Atkinson while Stritick and Grothus like variety. Roy Scholl, M2, Cedar Rapids, admires feminine understanding but Bob Reynolds, A2, Pacific Palisades, Calif., prefers "shapes."

Other admirable qualities in spinsters seem to be: "Availability"—Bob Jesson, M3, Muskegon Heights, Mich.

"The way they differ from men"—Jack Smith, A2, Jefferson.

"Their spinsterness"—Frank Keefe, A2, Clinton.

"Strong constitutions"—Pat Brandt, A2, Hartley.

"Personality"—Dwaine Wilcox, M1, Onslow.

"Legs"—Mel Erickson, A4, Skokie, Ill.

"Honesty"—Jim Conrad, A3, Mason City.

"I just thank God for women."—Phil Cady.

Six of the bachelors have favorite spinsters but two refused to commit themselves. Katz states he has "several favorites" but Clayton Wood asks, "Look, we're eligible aren't we?"

They are, girls. They are.

Sybil Hanson Bride Of Edwin Schmidt

Sybil Ann Hanson, daughter of Mrs. Ruth Smith Hanson, Spirit Lake, became the bride of Edwin M. Schmidt, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Schmidt, Davenport, Sunday night in a single-ring ceremony at the Methodist church.

Dr. L. L. Dunnington officiated at the ceremony. Jane Hanson, A4, Spirit Lake, attended her sister as maid of honor. Junior bridesmaid was Jeredith Hanson, Spirit Lake.

Robert Keller, Detroit, Mich., was best man and Norman A. Erbe, Boone; Harold A. Parmelee, Burlington; David Watts, Iowa City; and Robert W. Lambrecht, Glenview, Ill., were ushers.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the library of Iowa Union.

Mrs. Schmidt was graduated from Spirit Lake high school and attended the University of Iowa. She has recently been employed as secretary to Dr. Earl E. Harpor, of Iowa Union.

Mr. Schmidt was graduated from Davenport high school and received a B. A. degree in 1942 from Loras college, Dubuque. He was graduated from the university's college of law Sept. 6, 1947, and was a member of Delta Theta Phi, national legal fraternity.

The couple left for a two-week wedding trip to New Orleans, La., and will return to Davenport where Mr. Schmidt is an attorney at law.

Considers Hollywood's—

'Crossfire' Extraordinary Movie

By JACK O'BRIEN

"Crossfire" could easily have been just another good mystery picture. It's as exciting as the best of this popular breed. Technically, it's better done than most.

It must have been a temptation to let it go at that.

But RKO's new prexy, Dore Schary, and a dauntless band of cohorts have punched their ordinary little mystery into the thin but precious air of the celestial cinema. Their "who-dunnit" is almost certainly one of the most significant films ever canned in the Hollywood mills.

"Crossfire" is adapted from "The Brick Foxhole," an interesting but not extraordinary wartime novel of the Pentagon militia. Schary's three-man writing crew has performed a most rare achievement. It has written a scenario which is superior to the original.

The dialogue is excellent. The discovery that the people on a screen are not merely talking—that they are actually saying something—is usually pretty jarring to American movie-goers. But it's one of the few unnerving experiences that is really rewarding.

You're aroused from an easily purchased lethargy only to the satisfying rigors of enthusiasm. You want to listen. You have to listen.

William J. Morrison of the school of journalism will speak on "Teaching High School Journalism."

BAR ASSOCIATION—Johnson County Bar association will not have a dinner tonight in the main dining room of Hotel Jefferson. A report will be given on the establishment of a municipal court in Iowa City.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE—Junior Chamber of Commerce members will meet tonight in the main dining room of Hotel Jefferson. Open house is scheduled for 8:30 p. m. with dinner at 7 o'clock. A movie entitled "Fish Fare" will be shown.

POSTOFFICE AUXILIARY—Postoffice clerks auxiliary will meet at 2 p. m. today in the Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric assembly room. Those members unable to attend are asked to call Mrs. Donald Delsing at 6159.

RED CROSS—The board of directors of the Johnson county Red Cross chapter will meet today at 7:30 p. m. in the chapter headquarters.

Rolf M. Heiberg, field director of the American Red Cross at the veteran's administration, Des Moines, will speak on the home service policy of the Red Cross.

PANHELLENIC—Panhellenic council members will meet at 4:30 p. m. today in conference room 111, University hall.

THETA SIGMA PHI—Actives and pledges of Theta Sigma Phi will meet at 8 o'clock tonight in conference room 1, Iowa Union.

The cast is unbelievably fine. Players from whom we had come to expect little surprised us. Surprising, too, were others we'd never even seen before.

Robert Young is obviously happier behaving like a human being instead of worrying unbelievably about how to get rid of a beautiful wife with too much money. This is his finest role in a long time and he's excellent.

Robert Mitchum, one of the few believable soldiers to ever fight in Hollywood's wars, has his best role since "GI Joe." As the lieutenant in that film he helped give the commercial screen its only real glimpse of war-time conditions. Now, demoted to the rank of staff sergeant, he is equally GI and even more intelligent.

As a matter of fact, this entire group of Washington warriors, look and behave more like soldiers than any other guys named Joe who have been exposed to the blood, sweat and foxholes of a Pasadena Philippines or the technicolor halls of Montezuma. They're frustrated. They're bored. They're soldiers.

A new little blond named "Ginny" is terrific.

Paul Kelly, in a smaller but better role than he's had in years, proves himself the fine actor we always supposed him to be.

Robert Ryan is better than anyone could expect as the murderer and Sam Levine is as fine as everyone would expect him to be as the Jew that Ryan kills.

What gives the film its greatest strength is the courage and integrity with which it attacks one of the most vicious of the several psychological and sociological blights which weaken our basic interpretation of "democracy."

Few less muscular but equally malicious anti-Semites who see "Crossfire" will identify themselves with the murderous Montgomery. For dramatic purposes, his tactics have been sensationalized... a little.

Many who feel as he does will find solace in the realization—or rationalization—that they "could not kill anyone"—even a Jew.

But his dialogue should make some of them cringe. Words like "Jew-boy" and "Kike" and the way in which they are uttered even in "polite society" are as ir-

PERSONAL NOTES

A former university student, Keith Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence A. Anderson, Gowrie, recently was released from McCrary-Rost hospital, Lake City, where he had been recovering from injuries suffered in an automobile accident near Gowrie, Aug. 14.

Anderson received his B. A. degree in general science in June, 1947, and worked on his M. A. degree during the summer session. Anderson's father-in-law, Charles Metzger, lives at 722 Kirkwood avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Strickland, Yankton, S. D., former university students, were the weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Chadwick, 718 S. Dubuque street.

Mrs. Lester Royal, West Liberty, is the house guest today of Mrs. Isaac B. Lee, 115 S. Governor street, and will attend the annual guest day of the N. N. club at the home of Mrs. Willis M. Fowler, 318 Forest avenue, Mrs. Royal is the daughter of the late Mrs. Stephen Swisher, first vice-president of the club.

Rolf M. Heiberg, field director of the American Red Cross at the veteran's administration, Des Moines, will visit the local Red Cross chapter today and tomorrow.

Ted McCarrel, university registrar, returned Sunday from Highland Park, Ill., where he attended meetings of the Association of College Admissions Counselors.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stevens of Independence, Mo., were dinner guests yesterday of Mr. and Mrs. William Anderson, 906 E. Burlington street.

Her Marriage Revealed

ANNOUNCEMENT WAS MADE Sunday of the marriage of two university students, Betty Lou Schmidt, A4, and William M. Tucker, LI, at the Drake university student chapel, Des Moines, Nov. 8. Betty Rohrbacher, A2, Iowa City, and James Sweeney, L2, Cedar Rapids, were attendants. Mrs. Tucker is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Schmidt, Davenport, and was graduated from Davenport high school. She is affiliated with Pi Beta Phi, national social sorority, and Theta Sigma Phi, honorary fraternity for women in journalism. Mr. Tucker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tucker, Atlantic, was graduated from Atlantic high school. He is a member of Sigma Nu, national social fraternity. They are at home at 222 Huston avenue, Coralville.

Men's 'Flowering' Days May Be Over

Relax, fellows! Most of the women will go along with you if you decide on "no corsage" dances.

Sixteen of 20 women interviewed yesterday had no objections to formal or semi-formal dances minus flowers.

The idea has been considered by various men's organizations. Hillcrest council members, at their meeting last week, suggested that the proposed Dec. 5 tri-dorm dance be "corsageless" if semi-formal.

The interfraternity association has also been considering the "Flowers are only a one-night affair, anyway. I'd just as soon do without them," another added.

One woman declared that "most formals are frilly enough without a corsage."

The four dissenters were not without comment.

"Flowers are a tribute to women, and I'd rather have them than go to a dance," one coed stated. "I think the men can afford a corsage once or twice a year for the big dances."

Another woman said simply, "If I'm going to wear a formal, I want a corsage."

The other two who disliked the "no corsage" idea said they liked flowers and considered them an important courtesy.

So far the sixteen to four score puts the men and their flower revolt in the lead.

Barbers Veto Meeting With 'Long-Hairs'

Iowa City barbers refused yesterday to meet with representatives of the Long-Hair society, according to Dick Fishbaugh, A3, Shenandoah.

The society members asked local barbers to meet with them and discuss the Nov. 3 haircut price increase from 75 cents to $1. The request was made in a letter delivered to the barbers Saturday.

"Most of the barbers contacted yesterday said they had received the letter and read it. They said they would not consider meeting with us," Fishbaugh stated. "Some merely hung up the telephone receiver when they heard we were from the Long-Hair society."

"We know what we're doing," an employe of Winter's barber-shop was quoted as saying. "We didn't raise haircut prices on the spur of the moment. You can't expect to go in there and tell Mr. Winters how to run his business. Haircuts are worth a buck, and that's all there is to it."

The Long-Hairs said one local barber asked them, "Don't you think the barbers ought to live their own lives?"

"I won't come to a meeting. There's nothing to talk over," society members were told by another barber. "We are trying to run our own business. You people should go to school, and when you get out, you can try to make a living."

Frank Spratt, local barbers' association president, could not be reached for comment last night. In a meeting yesterday in Iowa Union conference rooms, the Long-Hair society discussed plans or picketing local barber shops.

D. R. Newbrough, A2, Eagle Grove, was elected chairman of a fact-finding committee.

The group decided to meet again tomorrow at 4:30 p.m. in the Iowa Union conference rooms.

Van Zwoll To Talk On School Revisions

Prof. J. A. Van Zwoll of the college of education will address the Linn county Schoolmen's club tomorrow night on school district reorganization within Linn county. The meeting will be held in Marion.

Van Zwoll will give the first of a series of talks initiating a public relations program in connection with the proposed reorganization.

Next Monday and Tuesday Dean E. T. Peterson of the college of education and Van Zwoll will discuss policies of school district reorganization at a conference of county superintendents of schools in Des Moines.

The problem of reorganization has come to public attention, Van Zwoll said, since the appropriation of $49,500 by the Iowa legislature to reorganize school districts into more efficient and economical units.

The basement of the veterans administration office, 110 Iowa avenue, was flooded when the cast iron pipe broke late Sunday.

No damage was reported by the VA office.

The repair work should be completed today, according to R. J. Phillips of the physical plant.

Keeper of the Kennels Tells of—

Doggy Escapades in Fraternity

—by Butter-Eating Saint Bernard

It was too early in the morning for Ato to give an interview.

Ato is a giant Saint Bernard, one of those dogs that carries wine casks around the Swiss mountains. He is now the mascot of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity, 828 N. Dubuque street.

One year and 5 months old, he weighs some 130 pounds and stands three feet high.

"Why he isn't even full-grown," exclaimed house president Jim Snyder. "When he reaches maturity he will weigh about 225 pounds."

Ato is a replacement. He was brought from Waterloo Sunday night to replace another Saint Bernard, so he's really Ato II.

The first Ato was a campus favorite, according to the fraternity men. He attended classes regularly and slept through lectures as soundly as any student.

He was an ardent football fan. A couple of the boys from the house were cheerleaders back in 1942 and 1943, and Ato could be seen at home games assisting the yell leaders in their duties.

He was a familiar sight begging ice cream along the city streets, said one of the members. No one bought an ice cream cone without getting one for Ato.

But during the war the house was closed and Ato was shipped off to the farm for the duration. He has never been seen or heard from since.

It is easy to see that Ato II is well fed. Cluttering the floor were the remains of a prime cut of beef. "We fed him practically a quarter of beef last night," declared Bob Charles.

Charles has been designated as "worthy keeper of the kennels" and finds his job a big one in every sense of the word.

"He is definitely a BIG factor in my life," laughed Charles.

Ato has already gone exploring about the house, the president said. Monday morning, his first in the house, he was found in the kitchen, relaxing after a good meal.

His meal had consisted of a pound of butter and a loaf of bread. "He didn't even bother to remove the wrappers," Charles said.

He isn't hard to feed, since he will eat anything from ice cream on a stick to T-bone steaks. But he's learned that his diet will not always be as rich as it was Monday.

Ato has been taught that his escapade in the kitchen must not be repeated, said a member, but he still likes to get as close to it as possible.

Ato is something like a bill collector—you just can't get rid of him, Charles declared.

"Last night when I wanted to go to bed, Ato had other ideas. He wanted to play. Wherever I went, he went along, holding my hand affectionately in his mouth," Charles asserted.

Before he was able to get to bed, someone had to release his hand from Ato's grasp and hold him until Charles reached his room.

"We haven't taught Ato his manners yet, nor has he begun attending classes. But we hope to get his formal education under way as soon as possible," all members agreed.

No damage was reported by the VA office.

The repair work should be completed today, according to R. J. Phillips of the physical plant.

Spinsters 'All Out' With Ticket Spree

Apparently university co-eds have been saving their pennies, for the last Spinsters' Spree ticket was sold at 3:30 yesterday afternoon—just eight and a half hours after the $3 tickets went on sale.

Claude Thornhill and his orchestra will play for the annual girl-take-boy dance Friday evening in the main lounge of Iowa Union.

The women didn't mob the desk at 7 a. m. as in previous years, according to Lloyse Fisher, in charge of the main desk at the Union where tickets were sold. However, 550 tickets for the informal party were sold by noon.

Home Ec. Honorary Initiates 5 Members

Five new members were initiated into Omicron Nu, home economics honorary society, last night at the home of Prof. Sybil Woodruff, 313 Hutchinson street.

New initiates include Mrs. Maxine Forsyth and Louisa Loewu, nutrition interns at University hospital; Lavon Ashton of the child welfare department, and Elizabeth Cooper and Margaret McDonald, both A4, Iowa City.

Officers of Omicron Nu are Mrs. Maureen Kidd, president; Mrs. Mary Margaret Ball, vice-president; Martha Burney, secretary; Mrs. Dorothy Lewers, treasurer, and Pat Dolan, editor.

Crash Kills Woman, Injures 4 Persons

A Wellman woman, Mrs. Carl Emde, 54, was fatally injured in a two-car collision near Wellman early Sunday morning. She died at 6 a. m. Sunday in Mercy hospital from internal injuries.

Her husband, Carl Emde, and Charles Judd, Kathryn Davis and Aldean Davis, all of Wellman, also were injured. Emde was driving the car in which he and Mrs. Emde were riding. Judd was driving the other car. The accident occurred about 12:44 a. m.

Judd and Aldean Davis were treated at the hospital and released. Emde, with a broken kneecap, and Miss Davis, with head and face lacerations, remained at the hospital.

Mrs. Emde is survived by her husband, one daughter, Mrs. Ray Whitehead, Washington, Iowa, a sister and three brothers.

Funeral services will be conducted this morning at Holy Trinity Catholic church, Richmond, by the Rev. W. F. Boeckmann. Burial will be in Holy Trinity cemetery.

Danish Gym Team Performs Thursday

Thirty-three members of the Danish Gym team will appear at the fieldhouse at 8 o'clock Thursday night. The performance will be sponsored by Phi Epsilon Kappa, men's professional physical education fraternity.

The team is making its second American tour after a series of performances in Germany and France.

Its program here will feature gymnastic acts, tumbling, skilled balancing and Danish folk dances.

Sponsors of the show have announced that tickets for the performance are on sale at the fieldhouse, women's gymnasium, Iowa Union and Whetstone's.

Almost half of the patients in U. S. veterans hospitals are mental and nervous cases.

She Gave Up Bright Lights—

Now She Sings a Different Tune

—'Give Me the Simple Life'

By DEAN MAYBERRY
Married couples from Jefferson co-op house were surprised Sunday night, when they saw Mrs. "Matt" Miletich, one of the wives who cooks for the house every Wednesday, singing in a Stan Kenton movie short.

Although they knew she had been "on the road" with Kenton's band, they were unprepared to see her on the screen. She told them the story when they returned to demand autographs and exclaim about the "celebrity in our midst."

Following her first year as a physical education major at SUI, Mrs. Miletich, then Margaret Dillman of Chariton, worked in the dining room of the City of Grand Rapids, an excursion steamer between Chicago and Milwaukee.

Mrs. Miletich sang one night with the ship's small orchestra which welcomed talents of employes and guests. One of the orchestra, formerly with the Merimacs, introduced her to that group for an audition. The Merimacs did not need Mrs. Miletich but procured an audition with Alvin Rey for her.

With Rey's band she went to New York City where she met Stan Kenton who was looking for a singer. In December, 1946, Mrs. Miletich went to work for Kenton.

On the stage she was Margaret Dale of Kenton's quintet, The Pastels. Doing a series of "one-night-stands," the band toured the United States and Canada.

In Hollywood last February they made the short, "Let's Make Rhythm," in which Jefferson house couples recognized Mrs. Miletich Sunday night.

Although she has seen the short a number of times, Mrs. Miletich was surprised Sunday too.

She said she first went to see the movie when she was in New York. She went alone—"so she could be embarrassed alone," she said. Then she admitted it "didn't turn out so badly."

She must have attracted a lot of attention, she thought, when she laughed at incidents that would be funny only to one "behind the scenes."

"The place I wanted most to see it play," she said, "was at home." The Ritz theater in Chariton put her "name in lights" and there was a story in the local paper.

Mrs. Miletich said she sees the glamour in being a singer more now than she did while she was singing. "Why am I not up there now?" she once asked herself.

Quickly she answered her own question remembering "one-night-stands, two-hours' sleep a day and cockroach-infested hotel rooms that cost $5 a day." She made a lot and spent a lot, she added.

She remembered these and other things such as seeing famous Hollywood personalities "eating ham and eggs right beside us" although they were already stars. She also remembered selecting clothes from the wardrobes of those stars while the Kenton band was making the movie short in which she appeared.

The Miletiches at Home

Here's The Reason Why She "Wouldn't Want To Go Back."

The blonde wife of a freshman in the college of law said, "Marriage and a career don't mix." She married "Matt," an ex-marine major from her home town, last October. The Kenton band broke up for a short time during the summer and Mrs. Miletich now sings with Bill Meardon's band.

She gets a thrill when friends recognize her on the screen or tell her about hearing a lately released record like "The Spider and the Fly," featuring The Pastels and June Christie.

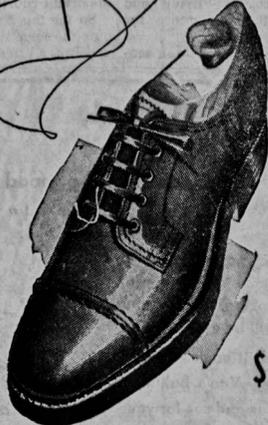

Mrs. Miletich concluded, "It's great to look back on but I wouldn't want to go back—and you can quote me on that."

Thanksgiving Dance Slated By Quad Men

Plans for a Thanksgiving dance to be held Friday, Nov. 28, were approved at a meeting of the Quadrangle council last night.

Paul Lange, Quad social chairman, gave a committee report at the tri-dorm dance to be held Dec. 5 in Iowa Union. The dance will be called the "Woodchopper Ball" and will be informal. Eight hundred tickets costing $3 will be sold for the dance, Lange said.

He also announced plans for the third annual Quadrangle open house which will be held Sunday, Dec. 14.

Dan Dillinger and Elliot McDonald were appointed co-chairmen of the Thanksgiving record party.

Tom Neenan, president of the Quadrangle association, appointed a committee composed of Dan Dillinger, Frank Herrod and Frank Eicher to nominate candidates for a Quad representative on the student council.

A Morality in Science Is Urged by Hutchinson

Senate of Scientists Could Be Answer

"Can we go further in the atomic age with a scientific laboratory which rejects moral responsibilities?" Paul Hutchinson, Chicago weekly newspaper editor asked last night.

Hutchinson, editor of Christian Century, an undenominational paper, spoke in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

His address, "The Part of Religion in the Atomic World," was third in the fall series of lectures and discussions, sponsored by the Humanities society, a faculty and graduate group.

The fate of the race will be decided by the scientist, said Hutchinson.

If the scientist constructs his project and hands it over to the government to decide whether or not its use will be moral, he said, hope for help from the church and humanitarian establishments is gone.

"That is true because government relationships are power relationships, mixed in the arena of politics," said the editor.

A "scientific senate" was suggested by Hutchinson as a possible solution to the problem of morality in scientific research.

"This would consist of a body of scientists to which projects could be submitted as they are conceived," he explained. "They (scientists) would then consider these projects, not only on the technical aspects, but on the human consequences."

Such a group would, perhaps, solve the problem of freedom of scientific research opposing the people's demand for race protection, Hutchinson stated.

'Play Game Right,' 'Pops' Tells Scouts

One hundred and sixty Cub scouts and their fathers attended the first annual Father-Son banquet of the Iowa River Valley scout council last night in the River room of Iowa Union.

Featured speaker at the banquet was "Pops" Harrison, Iowa basketball coach, who told the boys "to play the game and play it right." He introduced Murray Wier and Herb Wilkinson, university basketball stars, and told the cubs to "follow in the footsteps of these two fine men."

Robert Johnson, Iowa City, and John Sperry, Marengo, received Webelos awards, the highest given to Cub scouts.

Prof. Wendell R. Smith, master of ceremonies, presented George R. Gragg, scout executive, who emphasized the need for more adult leaders in cub and boy scouting and appealed to the fathers to help fill this need.

Hit-Run Driver Injures Estherville Couple Here

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Donovan, Estherville, were injured Saturday evening when knocked down by a hit-and-run driver on Washington street in front of Hotel Jefferson, according to a police report.

The report said the Donovans were crossing the street north of Dubuque street when a car going east on Washington street turned right, knocking them down.

Mrs. Donovan received shoulder bruises, a cut lip and bruises on the right side of her body. Her husband received a bruised left leg and knee.

Paul Hutchinson

Editor Cites Marshall Plan's Weakness

Paul Hutchinson, editor of the Christian Century, spoke slowly and weighed his words heavily yesterday afternoon when he said people were optimistic if they thought communism would lose out in Europe under the Marshall plan.

Leaning back in his chair and puffing on his pipe, the grey-haired author and lecturer gave opinions and conclusions he had formed after his trip around the world during 1946-47. Hutchinson was commissioned by "Life" magazine and the Christian Century to study the status of religion in the postwar world.

Speaking of the reconstruction of Germany, Hutchinson said the three-year plan to compel 80,000 German workers to demolish a billion dollars worth of German factories is no way to lick communism.

"This will bring popular resentment to a point which will play right into the hands of the Communists," he predicted.

Also, 20 percent of Germany's best farm land has been given to Poland, added Hutchinson, although western Germany's population has increased by 15,000.

As for the Communist danger in this country, Hutchinson thought it was "ludicrously exaggerated."

"We'd have to have a complete collapse of our industrial and so-

Life Magazine Exhibits Venetian Photos Here

Twenty-four enlarged photographs of Venice, Italy, are now on exhibition in the main gallery of the art building, the art department announced yesterday.

The exhibit, prepared by Life magazine, will continue until Nov. 30. The photographs are based on a series of articles dealing with the history of western culture.

Included in the show are color reproductions of paintings by Titian, Veronese, Giorgione and Carpaccio. Also included are photographs of Renaissance civic and private architecture.

Authorities say that more than 172,000 forest fires occur every year.

Christian Fellowship Needed—Hutchinson

"A world-wide Christian fellowship is the answer to the problem a panic-stricken world now faces," declared Dr. Paul Hutchinson at the university's first vesper service of the season last Sunday night.

The editor of the Christian Century, national Methodist publication, charged that "American atomic scientists are especially disillusioned" and thereby set the pace for the rest of the nation.

Hutchinson pointed to the "Iona experiment" now being practiced by a group of Scottish laymen and religious leaders who "are proving that a world-wide fellowship will and can work."

President Virgil M. Hancher and Dr. M. Willard Lampe, director of the school of religion, presided at the vesper service. Music was furnished by the university symphony orchestra.

Rail Crash Probe Begins

The investigation of the Rock Island railroad accident which derailed a double-header freight train and a diesel switch engine in Iowa City last Saturday will begin today at Rock Island, Ill.

Final details of the wreck will not be released until some time after the investigation, Frank Meacham, ticket agent for Iowa City said. The investigation will be conducted by the trainmaster of the Des Moines-Rock Island division.

The accident occurred early Saturday morning when a 60 car freight smashed into a switch engine standing on the main line.

Ray F. Dew, engineer of the switch engine, was released from the Mercy hospital yesterday. Dan F. von Volkenberg, fireman, was released following X-ray examinations, hospital authorities said.

The accident caused about $4,000 damage, according to railroad officials.

Jack Johnson To Speak

Prof. Jack T. Johnson will discuss "The Cold War" at a library chat Thursday, at 4 p.m. in the Iowa Union library.

Katie Billings, A3, Red Oak, will serve as program chairman. Mary Lou Votruba, A3, Des Moines, will pour coffee.

Commemorate International Students Day

The voices of the victims are stilled. A precarious peace has returned to the battlegrounds of Europe, but the minds of men are still troubled by memories of cold slaughter, torture chambers and concentration camps.

In a meeting sponsored by the Progressive Citizens of America at the Community building last night, four students from foreign countries paid tribute to students and scholars "who over the centuries have laid down their lives in the unending struggle for freedom and human decency."

The meeting last night was called to commemorate International Students day, the day on which, in 1941, 146 Czech students were massacred by the German police in Prague.

Augustin Gerard, French student, recalled the days of the French resistance. He stressed the responsibility students have to those who died.

"We who have survived almost have a feeling of guilt. It means that we just weren't at the right place at the right time. We, as students, have the responsibility to redefine words like freedom, democracy and decency. These words have been abused by many, we must reestablish their value."

Jose de Ayalla, student from Puerto Rico, called for a speedy solution to Puerto Rico's problems. "Right now Puerto Rico is an American colony," he declared. "Our students are working toward one aim: to have Puerto Rico granted statehood, or complete independence."

Speaking for Indian students was Ranjana Sidhanta. Denouncing British imperialism and rule by force, Miss Sidhanta outlined the part played by Indian students in India's "renaissance."

"Whenever students and scholars lose their liberty in any country, that country's liberty is lost," she declared.

Michael Flach, student from Prague, vividly recalled the days of the Prague massacre. He emphasized the need for students of all countries to fight for the principles they cherish.

Seek Post-Graduate School of Nursing

The Iowa State League of Nursing Education has asked university President Virgil M. Hancher to give serious consideration to the establishment of a post-graduate school of nursing, according to Mona Jackson, president of the state league.

"The public's increasing demand for good nursing service has put a heavy burden on Iowa's schools," Miss Jackson said, "but the load could be reduced if these schools were able to secure an adequately prepared staff of teacher and supervisory personnel."

She pointed out that no post-graduate nursing courses are available here at present and Iowa nurses usually go to Minnesota, Illinois and Colorado for this type of study. Since many do not return, the nurse shortage is increased.

Miss Jackson asserted there was a definite need for instructors, supervisors and experts in branches such as pediatrics, psychiatry and obstetrics.

She added that there was also need for a combined nursing and college course of five years leading to a nursing certificate and a college degree.

The Iowa State Nurses' association and the Iowa Board of Nurse Examiners have also advocated establishment of a nursing education department at the university.

Anna F. Stevens Dies; Funeral Services Today For Lifelong Resident

Anna F. Stevens, lifelong resident of Johnson county, died at her home at 202 Highland drive Sunday following an illness of several months.

Funeral services will be held at 3:30 this afternoon at Oathout Funeral home, with the Rev. Ralph Krueger, pastor of the English Lutheran church, in charge.

Mrs. Stevens was born in Iowa City, the daughter of Chester and Anna Paulus Fieseler. In 1904 she married George A. Stevens of Iowa City and the couple resided on a farm in West Lucas township until 1925, when they moved to Iowa City.

She is survived by her husband; four sisters, Mrs. Harrison Orr, Mrs. Mary Saylor, Mrs. Vince Orr, and Mrs. Paul Scannell, all of Iowa City; and three brothers, George, Iowa City, Charles, Coralville, and Walter, Ft. Dodge.

Army-trained men get more out of college says E. R. Silvers, Dean of Men, Rutgers University

This long-experienced educator advises young men to take advantage of the training opportunities in the Army and Air Force before entering college. Here's what his new book, Son of Tomorrow, says:

Recent high school graduates are handicapped

"The tempo of scholastic life has quickened and most of our recent high school graduates find the pace too fast for them... They become followers, with little opportunity of developing the qualities of leadership which a college should give."

Army experience enables student to go ahead faster

"The average seventeen and eighteen-year-old now planning to attend college would get much more out of college and contribute much more to it, if he first gave himself a chance to broaden his experience by going into service for at least eighteen months."

Just like Social Security. Only quicker. Pepsi-Cola pays up to $15 for jokes, gags, quips and such-like for this page. Just send your stuff to Easy Money Department, Box B, Pepsi-Cola Company, Long Island City, N. Y., along with your name, address, school and class. All contributions become the property of Pepsi-Cola Company. We pay only for those we print. (Working "Pepsi-Cola" into your gag, incidentally, won't hurt your chances a bit.) Dough-shy? Get dough-heavy! Or start a new hobby—collecting rejection slips. We'll help you out—one way or the other.

DAFFY DEFINITIONS

Here's a column inspired by one of man's most fundamental motivations—his primitive urge to make a buck. And why not?—a buck's a buck. Get daffy, chums.

Synonym—the word you use when you can't spell the word you want.

Pedestrian—a married man who owns a car.

Hangover—the penalty for switching from Pepsi-Cola.

Snoring—sheet music.

You've really got us to the wall when we'll pay a buck apiece for these. But that's the deal. $1 each for those we buy.

GOOD DEAL ANNEX

Sharpen up those gags, gagsters! At the end of the year (if we haven't laughed ourselves to death) we're going to pick the one best item we've bought and award it a fat extra $100.00

Little Moron Corner

Murgatroyd, our massive moron, was observed the other afternoon working out with the girls' archery team. Somewhat unconventionally, however—instead of using bow and arrow, Murgatroyd was drawing a bead on the target with a bottle of Pepsi-Cola. When asked "Why?" by our informant, who should have known better—"Duuuuuuuh," responded Murgatroyd brightly, "because Pepsi-Cola hits the spot, stupid!"

$2, legal tender, for any of these we buy. Brother, inflation is really here!

HE-SHE GAGS

Know a He-She gag? If you think it's funny, send it in. If we think it's funny, we'll buy it—for three bucks. We'll even print it. Sheer altruism. Take ten—and see if you don't come up with something sharper than these soggy specimens:

She: Why don't you put out that light and come sit here beside me?

He: It's the best offer I've had today—but I'd rather have a Pepsi.

He: Darling, is there nothing I can do to make you care?

She: D. D. T.

He: D. D. T.?

She: Yeah—drop dead twice!

She: Right now I'm interested in something tall, dark and handsome.

He: Gosh! Me?

She: No, silly—Pepsi-Cola!

Yep, we pay three bucks apiece for any of these we print. You never had it so good.

Get Funny . . . Win Money . . . Write a Title

What's the right caption? We don't know. You tell us. For the line we buy we'll ante $5. Or send in a cartoon idea of your own. $10 for just the idea . . . $15 if you draw it . . . if we buy it.

Truman Puts Nation's Conscience on Trial

President Truman's program to combat inflation in order to make our foreign aid effective is the bold statement of an aggressive policy that the nation has a right to expect.

For too long had the White House delayed in a forthright policy statement. Perhaps it was political considerations that in months past softened the administration's viewpoints.

But now the President has placed the issue squarely before congress in such a form that it cannot be avoided.

The issue is whether we believe enough in foreign aid to ready the controls necessary to make that aid mean something. A lot of politicians are jumping on the foreign aid bandwagon but aren't so sure about it when it means economic controls. That's the crucial question.

It is as momentous a decision as the nation ever faced. It is the real key to our intentions. The decision will be the tipoff to the desperate peoples of the world. They will know by how the congress votes whether we are loud-mouthed blabbers unwilling to back our words by action or whether we realize the opportunity history has thrust into our hands.

It was made plain that power to restore limited wage, rationing, price controls and other drastic measures need not be used if voluntary action meets the "ominous threat of climbing living costs."

As President Truman said, "If we fail to prepare and disaster results . . . we shall have gambled with our national safety—and lost."

The conscience of the nation is on trial. May God help us that we do not fail.

A-Bomb Not Strictly American Enterprise

It's beginning to have a familiar ring.

Russia may have the secret of the atom bomb, but does not have the industrial power to produce it.

About a month ago, Maj. Gen. Leslie Groves, in charge of development of the atom bomb told a military group this lulling story, predicting the earliest date of Russian A-bomb production in 1951.

A week ago after a Russian spokesman claimed there is no secret to the atom bomb, the American physicists echoed this same opinion: Russia may know how but she can't turn out the bombs.

This week word reached the world through the French press that Russia has its own Los Alamos atomic grounds in far-off Siberia—and incidentally, that tremor of the world took for an earthquake on June 15 was really a 12½ pound atom bomb, Soviet-style.

You know what happened. Nuclear physicists report that the Russian bomb "doesn't make sense." A university Russian expert told his class the whole thing sounded like the kind of propaganda the Russians use. And from scientists the familiar report "Russians may have the know-how, but lack the physical development."

Whatever label is placed on a report of Russian possession of The Bomb, it should bring home at least one significant fact to the American people and to the American UN negotiators. They'll have to stop thinking of atomic energy in the same light as the Mississippi River—strictly an American enterprise.

Secondary Boycott by Businessmen

Four local branches of the CIO united electrical workers union are fighting the desperate efforts of Minneapolis grocers to kill off a plan the unions devised to beat the high cost of living.

The unions contracted with a Minneapolis grocer to sell at no more than an eight percent markup. The unions, in return, promise to urge their 18,000 members to patronize the store.

The normal retail markup is about 20 percent.

But, according to a petition filed in a Minneapolis district court, it has become impossible to obtain supplies for the store.

The complaint alleged the Minneapolis retail grocers association had brought this about by threatening to refuse to buy from wholesalers who sold to the union establishment.

A union official said the rush of business since the store opened under the new plan had been so great that stocks soon will be exhausted unless replenishments are obtained.

Secondary boycotts are illegal under the Taft-Hartley act. Where is the defender of "free enterprise" who will rise up and protest this one? Where is the competitive spirit we hear so much about that will solve all our ills, when grocers can ban together to force out of business a store, whose only crime is that it does successfully compete with the conspirators?

The Words They Wanted to Hear

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

President Truman has told the democratic nations of the world what they have been wanting to hear—that the United States is prepared to go on a wartime footing if that is necessary to win the international battle against insecurity.

European reaction will, of course, be cautious until congressional action puts heat on Truman's words. There will be an awareness that such a program is not likely to go through now in its entirety. But there is bound to be an immediate response to his assurance that America is aware "That the manner in which we exert our strength now, and in the future, will have a decisive effect on the course of civilization."

Europeans have never been thoroughly convinced that the United States was in the fight with both feet. There has always been the fear that we would involve them in an economic war with the Soviet Union and then, growing tired of seeing our wealth drained off, leave them to their own devices. There has also been the fear that we would be unwilling to make the domestic sacrifices necessary to ensure that our economy would not collapse under the strain.

"We have learned," said the President, "by the costly lesson of two world wars, that what happens beyond our shores determines how we live our own lives. We have learned that if we want to live in freedom and security, we must work with all the world for freedom and security."

If Europe is convinced of that it may do more than any one thing to overcome the lethargy of despair which American observers have found there in the past few months.

Many European statesmen have forecast for years that the United States and Russia, the two great, developing countries of America and Eurasia, would eventually collide, and that one or the other would become heir to the power of the British empire. The Europeans have wanted to stand aside from this conflict until the winner could be determined. They were also desperately hopeful that they could avoid becoming the no man's land over which the battle would be fought.

Some of them have even approached a condition in which they would be willing to concede

'I Raised Him From a Pup . . .'

... and, being equally fond of my pet, could I keep him in our barracks if the dog petition goes through?

Scriptor Praises Own Efforts

By WESTBROOK PEGLER
King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Dispatches from Hollywood state that a bureau known as the Breen office has decreed that a biographical, documentary film on the general subject of Al Capone must not be produced.

The reasoning here eludes me because the same agency did not object to a biographical, documentary film on Franklin D. Roosevelt. A documentary is a film which is done with significant shots and props which suggest more than they necessarily say. We laymen first heard of them back in the early days of the New Deal when the government itself became a movie producer, with intent to make the capitalistic system look horrible and to invite the most friendly consideration of collectivism.

PEGLER

I wrote the story on the Capone film myself and I knew before I started that the moving picture industry and all its agencies would lay for it to knock it over because I was involved in the production. And with other reporters but with no help from the verminform parasites called Hollywood columnists who sit in their offices and call up "celebrities" for cheap publicity puffs and worry over invitations to cocktail parties. I was showing up in the Communists in Hollywood 10 years ago. They never have forgotten that. Now I am showing up the criminal underworld of Hollywood and that makes them wince, too.

Now the Pegler story on Al Capone did not glorify Al Capone but it did uphold the integrity and authority of popular government and it did salute Herbert Hoover and the Republican administration which he led, as the heroes of the showdown which ended with Al Capone starting 10 years in prison.

Many times over all these years a lie was published to make Hoover seem mean and jealous of a gangster's popularity. This story was that he set the treasury after Capone because Capone drew the autograph-hunters away from him in the lobby of a hotel in Miami Beach. That never happened. Actually, a committee of Chicago's leading citizens did call on Hoover in the White House and implore him to rescue their city from civic and moral anarchy and he did.

Far from glorifying Al Capone, that was the true story of this authentic biographical film of American history which the Breen office in Hollywood has barred on the pretext of sparing the public an evil influence while the Roosevelt biography is free to run where anyone will pay to see it. Herbert Hoover is still a forbidden but not a forgotten man, but Hollywood's power to boycott truth and justice and to prepetrate historical and political fraud is dying fast.

My next documentary will be an expose the like of which Hollywood never has produced in all some if not all of their liberty rather than run the risk of a new war which they believe may come if Russia finds herself losing the "cold war."

Europeans can be bucked up out of this funk by the conviction that the United States is really going into the fight with no intention of losing or of quitting before it is won. As the President put it, "To conduct ourselves in such a manner that men and women of all the world can move out of the shadows of fear and war into the light of freedom and peace."

Or, as another President put it 84 years ago tomorrow on the battlefield at Gettysburg: "—That government of the people, by the people, for the people shall not perish from the earth."

Atom Benefits Medical Research

Isotopes Open 'Golden Age'

By Carl Berger

In the slow-starting atomic chain reaction that began on a dismal day in Chicago in 1941 and grew into the destruction of the atom bomb, the first step in "a golden age of atomic medicine" was taken.

Out of the atom pile which came into being at Oak Ridge, Tenn., a by-product developed which has placed in the hands of American scientists and doctors invaluable tools—tools with which to track down and help slay diseases which have plagued mankind for centuries.

These tools are isotopic tracers or "tagged" atoms which, by being injected into the body, enable our doctors to "see" into the body and discover many of its now unknown functions.

Here's how they work. A leg amputation becomes necessary due to gangrenous infection. But the doctors are not sure exactly where to cut and still remain uncertain they have gotten all of the diseased part.

So they inject radioactive substances into the leg which circulate in the blood stream. By the use of a Geiger counter, an electronic device sensitive to radiolytic active matter, they are able to determine just where normal circulation ends.

Thus they can safely decide where to amputate, certain they are leaving as much as the living limb on as possible, and certain they are getting all of the diseased parts.

But what are radioactive isotopes? Where do they come from?

Dr. Fred A. Bryan, writing in the medical journal "Hygeia," described an isotope as just "atoms of the same elements having the same chemical properties but slightly different weights."

"For example, if we consider sodium," said Dr. Bryan, "we find there are present four different sodium atoms, one with a mass of 21, one with a mass of 22, one with a mass of 23 and one with a mass of 24."

"Any one of these atoms when combined with a chlorine atom will produce a molecule of sodium chloride, common table salt. Likewise, in any other chemical reaction they will react the same."

The radioactive isotope is created by merely taking the sodium, or zinc, phosphorus, carbon and other elements and exposing them in the same atom pile which made the bomb.

When the substances are withdrawn, they have been transmuted into unstable elements which, in disintegrating, throw off three types of charges.

These charges are negative particles called beta rays, alpha particles positively charged, and gamma rays that are little packets of energy traveling along a wave length.

The Geiger counter, previously mentioned, is a gadget which counts the alpha, beta and gamma rays given off by the disintegrating elements.

Our scientists, by feeding these radioactive substances to a person, are able to follow the path of the "tagged" atom through the body using the counter.

Since July, 1946, when the first shipment of radioactive isotopes was made by the Clinton laboratories at Oak Ridge to the Barnard Free Skin and Cancer hospital in St. Louis, a steady flow of these scientific tools has gone out to various medical research centers throughout the country.

On Sept. 8, 1947, the Atomic Energy commission announced it was also prepared to release the radioactive isotopes to hospitals and research centers in foreign countries.

Already the results of a year's work by American medical men are flowing in.

Here are some of those experiments and results as reported in the "Science News Letter," Aug. 9, 1947:

1. Discovery of a better treatment of congestive heart failure has been made in the Tulane university school of medicine. In patients with this heart condition, the sodium of the blood vessels as well as water escapes from the vessels into the tissues.

Because sodium is a "thirsty" element, water follows it out of the vessels resulting in the dropsy of congestive heart failure. As a result of studies with "tagged" atoms of sodium, patients are now given medicines to eliminate the excess sodium as well as the excess water in their tissue.

2. Treatment of chronic forms of leukemia, lymphoma and Hodgkin's skin disease with radiodog has turned out to be "exceedingly" useful in these conditions.

3. In an effort to learn more about how cancers are produced, cancer-producing chemicals are tagged with radioactive carbon 14.

4. Seeking conclusive proof that in heart disease when arteries are clogged (coronary thrombosis) other blood vessels take over the job of the blocked one. Red blood cells are tagged with radioactive phosphorus enabling a quantitative measurement of blood circulation.

5. Successful treatment of patients with overactive thyroid glands have been made. When patients are too sick for surgical removal of the gland, radioactive iodine has proved successful in the attack of cancer of the thyroid.

6. By tagging penicillin and other drugs and learning how they stop and kill germs in the body, new and better drugs may be perfected.

... ..

The isotopic tracers and tagged atoms, by their own existence, are creating new tools in battle with disease. This was amply demonstrated by the Honolulu laboratory of the Hawaiian sugar planters association in their attempts to avoid plant secrets.

Their research workers combined radioactive carbon with oxygen to form carbon dioxide and fed this "tagged" substance to a large sugar cane plant for one hour on a sunny day.

The radiodog thus formed will be made available now for nutritional studies on animals in studies on sugar metabolism in the body.

So great are the horizons of research with these new tools that the eternal fight takes on new focus. A wonderful new age of atomic medicine has come out of the destructiveness of the bomb and the benefits for humanity are boundless.

Of Princes, Panhandlers, Labels

By SAMUEL GRAFTON

Harry found himself reading the details on the coming wedding of Princess Elizabeth with a good deal of interest.

Maybe it was on account of his army experience, but he found that questions of rank and precedence fascinated him.

If I were a baronet, I probably couldn't even get in to the wedding. But a viscount should have a fairly good seat. All had to be ranged in order, like the creatures in a chess set.

I wonder where the king would put an assistant credit manager, he thought, as he walked home from work. That's me. He had formed the habit of walking home almost every day, though it was a long pull from the office, near the Manhattan end of Brooklyn bridge, to the midtown brownstone.

These were good streets. Good streets were streets with a lot of things in them, stores, pawnshops, improbable hotels, people sitting on steps. Upper Fifth avenue and Park were not good streets for walking, they were empty; but these, downtown, were good streets.

So that's what I am, he thought, as he passed a musical instrument shop. I'm an assistant credit manager. He glanced at himself in a window to see what an assistant credit manager looked like.

Funny, he thought. Two weeks ago I wasn't an assistant credit manager. What was I then? I must have had some classification. I guess two weeks ago I was an unemployed veteran. Now I'm an assistant credit manager. It was a world of classifications, and one had to select a place and assume a label.

He had formed the habit of stopping for a soft drink, at a little store with an open window. That way, he didn't have to go in anywhere and break the rhythm of his homework walk.

There was a boarded up loft beside the little store. It had a long flat doorstep and today two old men were sitting on it.

The proprietor knew Harry by now, and handed him his drink without conversation.

Something in the eyes of one of the old men caught Harry, as he dipped down into the bubbling water.

"Want something, pop?" he asked. "How about a hot dog?" The man turned away for a moment, embarrassed. Then, as if he had finished thinking about it, he turned back and nodded yes.

"I give him stuff, too," said the proprietor defensively, as he handed over the sandwich and took the dime.

Harry passed it to the old man, who turned away a little, as if it were an indignity to be seen chewing.

"Times tough, pop?" asked Harry. The man nodded, eating rapidly. "I remember when there were five saloons on this block," he said bitterly. "Five saloons on one block. They wouldn't believe that in other towns when I used to tell them about it."

Harry became aware of the other man on the step. He appeared to be dozing, his head against the brick wall, his hands in his pockets.

"How about your friend?" asked Harry. "Is he broke, too?" "Him?" said the old man. "Oh, no. He's all right. He's a panhandler."

Robbins Enlists in Army

Donald B. Robbins, 42, 339 N. Riverside drive, has enlisted in the army and left yesterday for direct assignment to the European theater, according to M. Sgt. O. A. McClung, recruiting sergeant. Robbins is a former member of the navy and lived at Oskaloosa.

Tumult and Shouting

Here is the sort of political speech some folks might like to hear in the 1948 campaign:

"Ladies and gentlemen, I shall waste no words.

"Hooray for George Washington! What we need is another Farewell Address—sent a special delivery to Europe.

"Hooray for Abe Lincoln. What we need is another Emancipation Proclamation—emancipation from Europe.

"Down with the Marshall plan. Down with the Truman foreign policy. Down with One Worlders. What this country needs is relief from foreign relief.

"To hell with all the debt welters of the first world war. To hell with financing British socialism and French inefficiency. To hell with what might happen in Germany or Greece. To hell with worrying about Russia. The smart thing is to let them bite off more than they can chew. And, above all, to hell with electing any more New Dealers.

"On to the polls, voters of the middle west, and make it possible once more to say:

"America is for Americans!"

We know now more than food is needed (to aid Europe). Europe must have food, but the weakened nations of the continent must also be shown the advantages of democracy. They must know—by seeing—that it works.

Van Horn To Address Air Force Reserves

M/Sgt. Glenn Van Horn of the ROTC department will address the Iowa City air force reserve detachment on administration at room 124, fieldhouse armory tomorrow night.

Roger Barnet, training and personnel officer, said the members would also receive information on examinations for future flying from Capt. John Bush, Cedar Rapids. The Iowa City unit is part of the 211th composite squadron, Cedar Rapids.

Present strength of the newly formed detachment is about 50 men. Three-fourths of the members are university students, Barnet said.

7 ROTC Sophomores Compete for Medals

Final competition among seven ROTC sophomores for the gold and silver Chicago Tribune medals will be held tonight in the fieldhouse armory.

Judge Evans Gives Grand Jury Recess

The Johnson county grand jury yesterday received no bills of indictment when the November term of court opened before District Judge Harold D. Evans at the Johnson county district court-house.

Judge Evans recessed the grand jury with the provision that it could be recalled any time before the end of the year.

Robert Brees, 926 Bowery street was named foreman of the jury. Other members are Oren Alt, Sharon township; Glenn Beltz, Penn township; Frank Fry, Washington township; Chris Jensen, Scott township; Lloyd Mullin, Lincoln township, and James Sladek, Pleasant Valley township.

To Conduct Conferences, Show Film Projectors, Recorder in 4 Counties

Four members of the extension division and college of education staffs left Iowa City yesterday morning to conduct a series of audio-visual teaching conferences in northwestern Iowa.

Prof. James E. Stroud of the college of education; Lee W. Cochran, executive assistant of the extension division; John R. Hedges, director of the bureau of visual education of the extension division and Loring M. Carl, graduate student in education, will demonstrate and describe the use of audio-visual educational aids to principals and school administrators in four Iowa counties.

They gave their demonstration last night in Emmetsburg and will give it tonight in Spencer; Wednesday in Sheldon, and Thursday in LeMars.

The demonstration includes the use of different types of projectors—motion picture, slide, film strip and opaque—and of a wire recorder.

The team will return to Iowa City Friday.

New Book Includes Paper by Johnson

A paper by Prof. Wendell Johnson of the psychology and speech pathology departments has been included in "Conflicts of Power in Modern Culture," a new book published by the Conference of Science, Philosophy and Religion in Their Relation to the Democratic Way of Life. Inc.

 The paper, "Symbols of Conflict: Some Language Structure Aspects of Culture Conflicts," was originally prepared for the seventh meeting of the conference, held at the International House of the University of Chicago, Sept. 9-11, 1946.
 The book is a symposium of papers presented at that meeting.

Methodists Get $29,000 for Student Center

Iowa City Methodists raised $29,000 Sunday for a new Wesley Foundation student center, according to Dr. L. L. Dunnington. The congregation pledged $14,000 at services Sunday morning. The church will contribute $15,000 from its budget for the next three years.

Iowa Citizens are to donate $50,000 of the $175,000 required for the student center. State-wide contributions will account for the remaining $125,000.

The foundation, which will provide facilities for 2,000 Methodist students here, is one of three being financed in Iowa. Others will be located at Ames and Cedar Falls.

One hundred student solicitors will canvass Methodist students this week to secure pledges for the fund. The student quota is $15,000. Students contributed $4,000 of the $14,000 pledged at Sunday services.

Marybeth Hartman, G. Vinton, is in charge of undergraduate canvassing. Elmo Humphrey, C. A. Marshfield, Wis., heads the group contacting graduate and married students.

Saying the church is "making splendid progress in the drive," Dunnington expressed confidence that financial goals would be reached by September. The new student center will replace the two buildings now being used by the foundation. Dunnington called these centers inadequate. They accommodate only 100 students, he said.

The Methodist official board will meet tonight to plan its drive for additional funds.

Anderson—

action last night, Anderson said, "I have nothing to say until I meet with the board. At that time I will make a statement."

Asked when he would meet with the board, Anderson replied, "possibly tomorrow (today)."

Earlier in the day, speaking in Chicago before The Herald-American Quarterback's club, Anderson said "a little bit of everything—players, coaching and alumni—had led to the football troubles at Iowa."

He went on to tell this organization that "a football team has come to be everybody's property. Everybody wants to call signals and play quarterback."

He added that President Hancher had been "very reluctant to entertain the idea of resignation, but at my insistence agreed to refer the matter to the board of control of athletics."

Well before the board meeting last night one press wire service (The International News Service) carried a rumor report to the effect that Don Faurot, University of Missouri mentor, will replace Anderson.

The report went on to say that "Frank Carideo, Iowa backfield coach, reportedly will resign soon to accept a position with a fertilizer company."

"Faurot is being prominently mentioned as successor to Anderson's status developed shortly after the coach submitted his resignation orally late Friday night to university President Hancher. At that time reports began circulating that the coach would stay in the job if he could be assured of the board's support."

The stated reason for the surprise resignation—Anderson's contract runs through 1950—was his desire for a showdown on what he called "loose talk" about his management of the Hawkeye eleven.

A coaching associate said, however, that recent articles in The Daily Iowan were the largest single cause of Anderson's resignation . . . that the athletic department fumed all week over the stories . . . that Anderson called the author of the articles to his office Tuesday afternoon (it was Wednesday, that much we can vouch for) . . . and that Frank Carideo, backfield coach, made the columns "required reading for his football class."

Bill Bartley leaped up with a rebuttal, maintaining that inequalities can be remedied by the advisory board under the framework of the present law.

Next a slight, middle-aged woman stood up and in a halting voice—barely articulate—brokenly protested against rising costs.

Landlord and tenant, pro and con, alternated their arguments. Personal duels were common.

Realator Charles Morganstern's comment that, "I don't see anyone in Iowa City suffering because of no place to live," brought Bartley to his feet again.

Shaking his finger at Morganstern, he cried, "Charlie, you don't mean to stand up here and tell me that!" This brought on the best belly laugh of the session.

To cap the evening, Russell M. Ross asked Swisher if there were any tenants on the advisory board. Swisher replied in the negative and asked Ross if he were a tenant or landlord. When Ross answered tenant, landlord Swisher offered to trade jobs with him.

Meter Installation Begins

WORKMEN BEGAN INSTALLING 250 parking meters on downtown streets yesterday afternoon. Installing engineer Claude Cohee of the Duncan meter company said that final installation will probably be early next week. Mayor Preston Koser yesterday did not know when meter parking in the new areas would officially start.

son along with Jack Meagher, current line coach and former Auburn head boss and Leonard Raffensperg of East high at Waterloo.

Both Faurot and Meagher were head grid coaches of the navy preflight school at Iowa during the war years.

Raffensperg was one of the first coaches in the country, high school or college, to adopt the T-formation and is considered especially popular with prep mentors in the state.

He is reported to have indicated his willingness for the job only if he were given free reign over Iowa football activities, something past coaches have found difficult to acquire.

The press service report, summarizing possible reasons for Anderson's resignation, said, "It has been no secret that Anderson's relations with his players were extremely strained and that dissension among the Hawks increased weekly. Two players engaged in a fist fight after the Wisconsin defeat last week."

If Anderson's resignation is accepted, intimates of the Hawkeye coach believe it means the end of his athletic career. A physician and surgeon, Anderson has mixed his conflicting careers at Iowa.

Members of the Iowa medical department agree that the doctor-coach has a brilliant future in his special field of urology and many have urged him to devote his full time to it.

Regardless of what final decision is made on Anderson's resignation, Iowa will start a new program to improve athletics. According to Athletic Director Paul Brechler, the new program will include enlargement of the Iowa football coaching staff, organization of a junior varsity squad with its own coaching staff, development of closer relationships between the university and Iowa high schools, and the strengthening of the alumni organization.

The present confusion over Anderson's status developed shortly after the coach submitted his resignation orally late Friday night to university President Hancher. At that time reports began circulating that the coach would stay in the job if he could be assured of the board's support.

He is reported to have indicated his willingness for the job only if he were given free reign over Iowa football activities, something past coaches have found difficult to acquire.

The press service report, summarizing possible reasons for Anderson's resignation, said, "It has been no secret that Anderson's relations with his players were extremely strained and that dissension among the Hawks increased weekly. Two players engaged in a fist fight after the Wisconsin defeat last week."

If Anderson's resignation is accepted, intimates of the Hawkeye coach believe it means the end of his athletic career. A physician and surgeon, Anderson has mixed his conflicting careers at Iowa.

Members of the Iowa medical department agree that the doctor-coach has a brilliant future in his special field of urology and many have urged him to devote his full time to it.

Regardless of what final decision is made on Anderson's resignation, Iowa will start a new program to improve athletics. According to Athletic Director Paul Brechler, the new program will include enlargement of the Iowa football coaching staff, organization of a junior varsity squad with its own coaching staff, development of closer relationships between the university and Iowa high schools, and the strengthening of the alumni organization.

The present confusion over Anderson's status developed shortly after the coach submitted his resignation orally late Friday night to university President Hancher. At that time reports began circulating that the coach would stay in the job if he could be assured of the board's support.

Community Dads Will Hunt Locations For Gum Machines

The community dads will solicit locations for gum machines immediately, the organization decided at a meeting last night.

The executive committee of Frank Fryauf Jr. and Theodore Fay split Iowa City into zones for the purpose of obtaining locations for the machines.

They assigned: Zone one—Bloomington and Linn street to Frank Fryauf Jr. Zone two—From Linn street west to Iowa avenue to Frank Clark.

Zone three—Everything south of Rock Island depot to James Callahan.

Zone four—Everything west of Iowa river to the Rev. Donovan G. Hart.

Zone five—From Bloomington street to Washington street and east of Linn street to Cliff Kritta.

Zone six—Made up of the business district, to be covered by Wayne Putman Jr., "Cliff" Hoag, Earl Gilpin, William Norris, Russell Mahan, and "Bob" Olson.

The Rev. Donovan G. Hart emphasized that the machines are fully insured, with public liability clauses in the policies. No merchant will be liable for damage done to or by the machine in his establishment, Hart stated.

Next regular meeting will be Thursday, Nov. 20, at 6 p. m. in the Community building.

board a statement urging retention of controls.

Shulman cited a "continued demand for housing in Iowa City" based on projected construction projects which, he said, would bring new families to Iowa City, and the lack of rental units now available in town.

First on his feet with a divergent opinion was C. W. Keyser, a landlord, who complained of a rent "freeze," claiming that rents are the same as six years ago, although other major budget items have risen in price.

Keyser cried it was, un-American and not constitutional to fix some prices but not others."

Bill Bartley leaped up with a rebuttal, maintaining that inequalities can be remedied by the advisory board under the framework of the present law.

Next a slight, middle-aged woman stood up and in a halting voice—barely articulate—brokenly protested against rising costs.

Landlord and tenant, pro and con, alternated their arguments. Personal duels were common.

Realator Charles Morganstern's comment that, "I don't see anyone in Iowa City suffering because of no place to live," brought Bartley to his feet again.

Shaking his finger at Morganstern, he cried, "Charlie, you don't mean to stand up here and tell me that!" This brought on the best belly laugh of the session.

To cap the evening, Russell M. Ross asked Swisher if there were any tenants on the advisory board. Swisher replied in the negative and asked Ross if he were a tenant or landlord. When Ross answered tenant, landlord Swisher offered to trade jobs with him.

Pool Group Meets Today

A special city council committee will meet at 3 p. m. today to discuss the proposed city swimming pool.

City Attorney Edward Lucas and City Engineer Fred Gartzke plan to meet in Mayor Preston Koser's office.

Koser, who is chairman of the committee, said yesterday that Engineer Ned L. Ashton and H. S. Ivie will also meet with the group. Ivie was a member of the recreation commission in 1941 when original plans for the pool were drawn.

A study of the contract with Howard Green to cover the pool planning will also be made.

Do you like Dancing?

Here's a dance nobody likes. Arthur Murray never taught it.

It's called the "All Day Squirm" and is performed by gents who wear undershorts with an unholy center seam that keeps them on the St. Vitus Varsity.

Moral: Switch to Arrow shorts and relax. Arrow shorts have no center seam, but do have plenty of room where it counts.
