No Ride to R. R. for V. I. P.

FARGO, N. D. (AP)—A nurse's request that a veterans administration utility car be used to take a hospital visitor to the station here to catch a train was turned down a few days ago because the man wasn't on VA business. He found another way to get to the station. Yesterday hospital officials recalled that the visitor was Carl R. Gray Jr., who Friday was named national director of the VA.

Molotov Balks On Austria Pact, But Agrees to 6-Point Agenda

LONDON (AP)—An appeal by the western powers for at least one quick Big Four agreement to "assure the people of the world" failed last night to move Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov into consenting to immediate consideration of an Austrian treaty.

The opening of the conference of foreign ministers indicated that Molotov had changed his position little, if any, from the meeting last April in Moscow.

The foreign ministers of the U. S., Britain, France and Russia agreed on a six-point agenda, but split in the usual 3 to 1 fashion over whether Austria or Germany should get top consideration.

Molotov did agree to take up the U. S. proposed four-power 40-year disarmament treaty against Germany—provided it was coupled with discussion of what Molotov said was the "failure" of the western powers to carry out present demilitarization policies for the Reich.

Britain, France and the United States said agreement was near on an Austrian treaty.

The three western ministers repeatedly stressed that they believed Germany the more important of the two problems, but asserted it was imperative that some agreements be reached in view of the many previous deadlocks in addition to the long delay on the Austrian treaty.

Molotov insisted that Germany come first as the most important problem, and accused the U. S. in particular of placing Germany in a secondary position and of changing its policy.

The six points were:

Report of the Vienna commission on an Austrian treaty.

Form and scope of a provisional political structure for Germany.

Economic principles relating to Germany.

Preparation of a German peace treaty (including frontiers).

United States proposal for a draft disarmament and demilitarization treaty for Germany between the Big Four.

Implementation of the decision taken at the Moscow sessions last April on German demilitarization.

Hancher Upholds 'No Pet' Decision

President Virgil M. Hancher yesterday upheld the decision to enforce the "no pet" clause in married student's temporary housing leases.

In a meeting with Raymond Stephenson, chairman of the pet owners, Hancher referred to the health report by Dr. M. E. Barnes, head of the department of hygiene and preventive medicine.

"The report on my desk says pets are a health hazard," he said. "If I don't act on it and an epidemic should break out, the direct responsibility falls on my shoulders."

Stephenson reported Hancher's decision to the pet owners meeting in the parish house of the Trinity-Episcopal church last night. The group discussed the situation and decided to leave the matter in the hands of their lawyer.

Dorner Quits Staff To Enter Private Surgery Practice

Dr. Ralph A. Dorner, associate professor of surgery at University hospital, will enter private medical practice limited to chest and general surgery with Dr. J. B. Synhorst, Des Moines surgeon. Dorner's resignation, submitted Monday to Dean Carlyle Jacobsen, will become effective Jan. 1, 1948.

"My association with the hospital has been very pleasant," Dorner said, "but an excellent opportunity presented itself which I feel I couldn't turn down."

Dorner said the medical service plan now in operation at the hospital may have had some influence on his decision to resign.

"It is still too early to give an opinion on the effectiveness of the plan," Dorner remarked.

With the exception of three years in service, Dorner has been a resident of Iowa City since 1930.

In addition to his staff position at University hospital, he has been in charge of chest surgery at the sanatorium at Oakdale. Since May 1946 he has been chest surgery consultant for the veterans hospital at Des Moines.

Dorner was graduated from the university's college of medicine in 1934 and took his internship here. He held a surgical residency at University hospital from 1935 to 1936 and was an instructor in pathology from 1936 to 1937. He completed his surgical residency here in July, 1941, and later was made an associate in surgery.

In 1942, Dorner entered the army and held the rank of major with the third auxiliary surgical group. He participated in six campaigns: Africa, Sicily, Normandy, northern France, Battle of the Bulge and the Battle of Germany. He was awarded the Bronze Star, the French Croix de Guerre with palm, the Distinguished unit badge and the Meritorious unit plaque.

Returning to University hospital's staff in September, 1945, he became an assistant professor in July 1946 and was named associate professor of surgery July 1, 1947.

Long-Hairs Decide To Resume Picketing After Meeting Fails

Long-Hair society members voted at a meeting in Iowa Union yesterday to resume picketing of seven local barbershops today from 2:30 to 5:30 p.m.

Meanwhile, a plane flew over Iowa City and vicinity yesterday afternoon, dropping leaflets which urged local men to get the "new look."

Shops to be picketed include Winters', Ward's, Carl's, Peterson's, Dick and Joe's, Peters' and the Hotel Jefferson barbershop.

"We appreciated the local barbers meeting with us Monday and are sorry no agreement could be reached," Sam Bishop, A2, Churdan, Long-Hair chairman, said yesterday.

"We will continue picketing as a means of centralizing student protest against the haircut price increase."

A Long-Hair committee and two representatives of the local barbers failed to agree Monday in a discussion of the present increase.

Dick Johnson, A1, Bloomfield, remained chairman of the picketing committee, reorganized at yesterday's meeting. Other members include Don Newbrough, A2, Eagle Grove, representing fraternalities; Ed Buxton, A2 Waterloo, and Jim Woodbury, A4, Corwith, men's dormitories; Paul Opstad, A2, Iowa City, and Dave Taylor, A2, Derby, Town Men.

But Adds $60 Million for China To Emergency Help Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP)—An 18 percent slash in President Truman's request for $597 million European emergency aid was voted yesterday by the house foreign affairs committee. Then it threw in $60 million for China.

This broadside revision of the administration's carefully planned winter relief program is included in a bill the committee is writing to lay before the house.

On the senate side, the foreign relations committee unanimously approved the $597 million figure.

Specifically the house committee bill proposes to set up $489 million for France, Italy and Austria this winter, whereas Mr. Truman asked the full $597 million for these three countries to prevent "chaos."

The administration did not include China in the emergency proposal to the special session, but Secretary of State Marshall has used the $60 million figure in discussion of Chinese needs for this fiscal year.

Even with China included in the house bill, its revised total would be $549 million—or a net overall cut of $48 million.

Rep. Vorys (R-Ohio) said the reduction in projected help for the three European countries was based on information the committee obtained of the amount of goods that will be available for them.

Asked if the $549,000,000 total is a "final" figure, Vorys said no, that it represents committee action "to date" on the bill.

Speaker Martin called the House Republican steering committee to meet Tuesday to discuss the legislation and possibly to take a unified position on it. The steering committee shapes party policy in the house.

In the senate, where the European stopgap aid authorization measure already has reached the floor, the second day of debate pushed it toward a vote, possibly today. Senators voted in an amendment which directs that relief buying be done in a manner having the least effect on domestic prices.

Blue Calls Special Session for Dec. 16

DES MOINES (AP)—A special session of the Iowa legislature was called by Gov. Robert D. Blue yesterday for Dec. 16 to consider reduction of the state income tax.

He outlined at his news conference several suggestions which have been advanced, but the plan which apparently is favored most is one to return the tax to half rate next year and let the 1949 regular session determine the rate from then on.

The governor said the method of reduction would be up to the legislature, but added he personally favored increasing the exemptions.

The half rate has been in effect since 1942, but the regular session last winter voted to return to the full rate on payments made next year on this year's income.

Since then state revenue has been unexpectedly large.

On the basis of increased revenue some legislators and others have been urging a special session since last summer. However, the Iowa Farm Bureau federation and the Iowa State Education (teachers) association said they would continue to support the higher tax rate.

Those organizations are expected to present strong opposition to any reduction in the rate, on the grounds that the extra revenue is needed to finance higher state aid to schools and other state financial commitments.

The governor said he expected soon to ask the speaker of the house, the lieutenant governor, and the Republican floor leaders of both houses to consider the various proposals for reducing the tax. He said he expected the group would have a bill ready when the special session convenes.

"The inflation that we are suffering from has naturally hit the little fellow the hardest," he said. "It has been particularly hard on the salaried worker. His income hasn't risen as much or as rapidly as the income of the farmer or the industrial worker."

Other proposals for reducing the tax include one to change the rates, and one set a schedule of rates depending upon the expendable balance in the treasury.

Truman Will Rest

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman next week will take his first rest in more than two months, going to Key West, Fla., for a five-day stay.

He will leave Wednesday and return Monday.

Mr. Truman will fly to Key West in his C-54, "The Sacred Cow." His DC-6, "The Independence," has been grounded along with all others of its type for inspection.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Cries of "socialism" rang out on Capitol Hill yesterday as administration spokesmen went to bat for President Truman's anti-inflation program. The spokesmen also told congress that tax cuts in the near future would make inflation worse.

"You are proposing socialism!" Rep. Frederick C. Smith (R-Ohio) shouted at Undersecretary of Interior Oscar L. Chapman, who was urging that the administration be given power to put price ceilings on coal and oil and to ration gasoline if necessary. Chapman appeared before the house banking committee.

JESSE M. DONALDSON

Career Man Named Postmaster General As Hannegan Resigns

WASHINGTON (AP)—Postmaster General Robert E. Hannegan resigned yesterday to head the St. Louis Cardinals baseball club and President Truman named an ex-postman to take his place in the cabinet.

The appointment went to 62-year old Jesse M. Donaldson, first assistant postmaster general, who has had 42 years in the postal service. It was a surprise appointment, even to Donaldson, who was called to the White House and told of his elevation only a short time before the President's public announcement.

It marked the first time a President had reached into the ranks of postal "career men" to fill the boss-job in the department.

Subject to senate confirmation, Donaldson will take over the top job next Monday when Hannegan's resignation becomes effective.

Donaldson is a native of the farming area near Shelbyville, Ill. He once taught school there and worked summers in the fourth-class postoffice at Hanson, Ill., where his father was postmaster. His career with the service started with his appointment as a city letter carrier in Shelbyville in 1908.

A department employe continuously since then, he has been a postal inspector at Kansas City, Mo., and Chattanooga, Tenn., deputy to both first and second assistant postmaster generals, and chief inspector of the postal service. Mr. Truman named him first assistant postmaster general in July, 1945.

PARIS (AP)—The national council of the Federation of Railroad Workers last night ordered an immediate general strike, the second in five months, bringing the number of workers on strike in France to close to 1,500,000.

Paris already faces a shortage of milk and meat because of a partial transport strike, and a bread shortage because of a flour millers' walkout. Premier Robert Schuman's new cabinet met to consider basic policies to cope with this labor situation which has grown to paralyzing proportions since its start at Marseille two weeks ago.

Local Manufacturer Refutes Warning By Iowa Business Bureau

Manufacturers of B-Lo, a locally produced anti-freeze, last night promised a "showdown" with Iowa Better Business Bureau and denied statements made earlier this week by Hal R. Sheridan, Des Moines, bureau manager.

Kobes said the company has sent a letter to Sheridan.

Jake Kobes Sr., part owner of the local concern, said the bureau used "obsolete" information in warning motorists against using magnesium chloride based anti-freezes similar to B-Lo.

He said the company has been unable to find any legitimate complaints against the product, but "we are going to get to the bottom of this thing. We do not want to market a product that is no good."

Sheridan, who left Des Moines on a speaking engagement, could not be reached for comment last night.

In an article appearing in the Des Moines Register yesterday, Sheridan quoted the National Bureau of Standards as saying:

"Both magnesium and calcium chlorides are too corrosive for use in automotive anti-freezes."

But the Kobes Brothers Manufacturing company in a statement yesterday said magnesium chloride based B-Lo contains "inhibitors" against rust and corrosion.

They claimed the product had been tested and proven safe for use in vehicle cooling systems.

Sheridan said the Society of Automotive Engineers assured the National Better Business Bureau that they know of no inhibitor which will make these inorganic salts safe for use.

Last night, Kobes said the SAE research department told him in a letter they hadn't released any information on the subject since 1943.

Here is the company's complete statement:

"With reference to the article appearing in the Des Moines Register (quoting Sheridan) pertaining to the use of anti-freeze preparations containing calcium chloride or other salts, we understand that there have been a number of such preparations placed on the market which do not contain effective rust and corrosion inhibitors. Car owners should be warned against their use in cooling systems.

Breadon Announces Sale of Cardinals

Postmaster Hannegan New Redbird Head

ST. LOUIS, (P)—The St. Louis Cardinals and their far-flung minor league holdings were sold yesterday to Postmaster General Robert E. Hannegan and Fred M. Saigh Jr., St. Louis attorney.

Sam Breadon, who invested $2,000 in the National league club as a "civic gesture" 30 years ago and built one of baseball's strongest organizations, announced the sale at a press conference.

At the same time, Hannegan's resignation from his cabinet post to head the Cardinal organization was announced in Washington to become effective Dec. 1.

The purchase price was estimated at $3,500,000, a figure which would make it the largest transaction of its kind in baseball history. The price was not announced.

The deal embraces all assets of the Cardinal organization, including 16 farm clubs, funds on deposit and mid-town real estate which Breadon acquired years ago as a possible site of a new Redbird stadium.

Hannegan becomes president of the Cardinals and chairman of the board of directors, succeeding Breadon, who announced he would remain with the organization as "voluntary adviser." Saigh will be vice-president and treasurer.

Breadon stated that majority control of the Cardinal organization was sold to Hannegan, "who will personally have controlling interest in the club." Saigh was described as the principal minority stockholder.

Marengo Here For Inaugural

City high's Little Hawks inaugurate their 1947-48 basketball season tonight in the City high gym against an untested Marengo high team. Tip-off time is scheduled for 8:15 p. m.

The Hawkslets have been preparing themselves for the cage season since Nov. 15 under the supervision of Coach Gil Wilson.

Wilson fashioned a state championship team in 1946, his first year as cage mentor at the Red and White school. Last year he tutored his Hawklet cagers to the Mississippi Valley conference title, winning 18 of 22 games.

Pacing this year's five will be Center Gene Hettrick, leading scorer for the Red and White last season, Veteran Bill Reichardt, 6 foot 2 inch Jerry Dunham, set shot Artist Bob Beals and Bob Diehl, a promising courtster who played very well as a sophomore last year, form the nucleus of this year's City high squad.

The Hawkslets, with a speedy crew averaging better than 6 feet in height, will use the fast-break type of offense. Coach Wilson has all of his men in top physical condition for tonight's opener, with the exception of Bill Reichardt, who is favoring an ankle injury received in football.

The City high Sophs, coached by Howard Moffitt, will play the Tipton Sophs in a preliminary game which is scheduled to get underway at 6:15.

Irish Rip Cosgrove, 49-29

Grady Leads Rout For St. Pat's Team

St. Patrick's Shamrocks displayed too much speed and class for Cosgrove high school basketball team here last night, slapping down the visitors, 49-29.

Led by Forwards Bob Grady and Roy Duffy and Guard Bernard O'Connor, Father R. J. Pacha's cagers maintained a safe margin during the last three quarters of their season opener.

Only during the first period, when Cosgrove found a vent in the middle of the Shamrock defense, did the invaders threaten. Balanced scoring by Grady, Duffy, O'Connor and reserve Center Tom Falls thrust the Irish into a 27-14 halftime lead.

Little Bob Grady settled the matter by dumping three quick fieldgoals in the third stanza.

Father Pacha used all of his reserves in the fourth quarter but Cosgrove could not even hold their own in the scoring.

Grady, a speedy but diminutive veteran, paced the scorers with six fieldgoals. Duffy followed with eleven points, one by virtue of a charity toss. Connors collared ten points by field-tallies.

Cosgrove gained 12 of their 29 points by free throws. Forward Paul Long and Guard Jimmy Robert garnered five points apiece to lead the Red and White scoring.

Although he accounted for only four free tosses, Mert Herdlika, Shamrock guard, rebounded well and contributed much to the win by his floor play.

The Shamrocks hit the road for their next game Dec. 2 with Parnell. Cosgrove was edged one point by Parnell last week.

'Weekend at Waldorf' for Earl

Earl Banks, Hawkeye guard, is leaving Iowa City this afternoon for New York City to attend a dinner at the Waldorf Astoria hotel on Nov. 29.

Banks received a telegram from William S. Mack, Pepsi Cola executive, about three weeks ago notifying him of his selection by a special committee of sports writers as an outstanding football player.

Mack invited him to New York to receive a special gift to be presented by the mayor of New York at this dinner. His expenses are being paid by the committee.

Banks will stop in Chicago and remain there until Friday morning. His wife will accompany him from there to New York. He said he expected to be back in Iowa City by Monday.

Dick Dunkel's College Football Averages For Thanksgiving Day, November 27
Explanation: The Dunkel system presents a factual, unbiased picture of the relative strength of teams as revealed by the scoring correlation method. This method answers the question, "How well has each team performed relative to the strength of its opposition to date?" The teams set their own figures by the average scoring margins they establish above or below the average rating of their opponents. Averages are index numbers—not percentages. They indicate each team's potential scoring margin in the PAST over the weakest team in the country. Thus, a 50.0 team has been 10 scoring points stronger than a 40.0 team. In this manner past performances of any two teams can be compared regardless of location. The ratings have been continuous since 1926.

Dvorsky-Solon Case Goes to State Court

Paul Dvorsky, Solon, yesterday appealed his case against the Town of Solon and Charles Shimon Jr., Solon, to the Iowa supreme court.

Dvorsky asked that the Town of Solon be held liable in his suit for $17,305 damages arising from a collision last April involving his automobile and a fire truck owned by Solon and driven by Shimon, a volunteer fireman.

When the case was tried at the Johnson county district court early this month, Judge James P. Gaffney ruled that the Town of Solon was not liable because the fire truck was engaged in a governmental function when the accident occurred. Gaffney added that a counter-claim by the Town of Solon for $1,193 damages was not dismissed, but depended on the verdict by the jury.

Gaffney's ruling made Shimon the sole defendant, but the jury failed Nov. 9 to return a verdict after 46 hours deliberation and was dismissed.

W. F. Morrison and D. C. Nolan are attorneys for Dvorsky. Will J. Hayek and Jack C. White represent the defendants.

5 Foreign Students Give Reasons U. S. Should Be Thankful

Five foreign students told members of the Kiwanis club yesterday noon that Americans have many reasons for being thankful on Thanksgiving day.

"Americans should be thankful, if for no other reason, for the opportunity to be thankful," said Costas Issidorides, graduate student from Greece. "A nation that can still celebrate such a holiday is indeed fortunate."

Ranjana Sidhanta, graduate student from India, said the American people ought to be thankful for freedom from fear.

"While Americans are celebrating this Thanksgiving day," she said, "they should never forget to defend their priceless freedoms which are always imperiled."

Siao-fen Chen, music student from China, said the American people should be thankful for their standard of living, which is in extreme contrast to the poor living conditions of Chinese people.

"The American way of life is worth being thankful for," declared Janine Freyens, Belgium liberal arts student. "When I first arrived in this country I was surprised to find the people so healthy and happy, and that certainly is worth being thankful for."

Simon Ince, student from Turkey, said Americans have many reasons for giving thanks on this holiday.

"People in the United States can be thankful for freedom from hunger and want," said Ince. "They should be grateful that America has an economic, political and cultural unity."

"There is evidence that Americans have lost some of their faith in the future," he declared, "and in this respect they are little better off than the rest of the world. But they should be thankful that some are beginning to realize this."

Richard E. Sweitzer, adviser to foreign students, introduced the speakers.

Nada Miller Engaged

ANNOUNCEMENT IS MADE today of the engagement and approaching marriage of two university students, Nada Miller, A2, and Harold R. Colwell, A3. Miss Miller is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas L. Miller, Bayard, and Mr. Colwell's mother is Mrs. Mary B. Colwell, Framingham, Mass. The wedding will take place Jan. 2 at the Methodist church in Bayard.

Name 3 Local Men To Hospital Group

Dean Wilbur Teeters, Dr. Andrew Wood and Rev. Elmer E. Dierks, all of Iowa City, have been appointed members of the hospital chaplains committee of the Department of Christian Social Action of the Iowa Inter-church council.

The group will work with the personnel committee of the council in the selection of a chaplain for Oakdale and University hospitals. It will also prepare an allocation of its budget to all member denominations of the council and set up standards for the choice of personnel.

Old Gold Theta Rho Initiates Three Women

Three candidates were initiated into the Old Gold Theta Rho organization, junior group sponsored by the Rebekah lodge, at its regular meeting Monday night at the IOOE hall.

New members are Eileen Slade, Loretta Frei and Peggy Propst. Mrs. Phyllis Slade, assistant adviser, was in charge of the initiation.

Factory Official To Talk At Engineering Parley

L. J. Fletcher, director of training of the Caterpillar Tractor company, Peoria, Ill., will speak at the weekly meeting of the student branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers today on "What Industry Expects of Young Engineers."

The group will meet in studio E, engineering building, at 1:30 p.m.

Approximately 3,500 people on farms die every year as a result of fires.

Reedquist Promoted To Vice-President

Harold Reedquist, general manager of Bremers, has been promoted to vice-president of the firm according to an announcement by Julian Brody, Des Moines, president of the company.

At the same time it was announced that Francis St. John and Ralph Peery have recently been employed by the firm. St. John has joined the store's staff as assistant buyer.

Peery, recently with Ritchie's of Oelwein, is salesman and manager of the hat department.

IN the telephone business, much of the knowledge of "where we are" and guidance as to "where we are headed" comes from the analysis of statistics.

Telephone statisticians and engineers are constantly studying trends and figures. They assemble the facts, analyze them, correlate them, discover their significance, draw guidance from them:

The work of these men is vital to our never-ending task of improving telephone service. In such work many college-trained men have found satisfying and rewarding careers.

And this is but one of the many interesting phases of the telephone business:

There's opportunity and adventure in telephony:

British Produce More—On Less Food

The new production records that are being made almost weekly by British workers are being achieved in spite of the fact that British rations are now falling below the danger level.

The new food cuts recently announced mean that the average British diet will fall below the minimum calories, which are considered necessary by most medical men for maintaining normal energy. The cuts are part of the increased austerity made necessary for Britain in order to solve her external financial crisis.

She is eating less than during the darkest days of the war in order to save dollars and other "hard" currencies, yet she is working harder and producing more.

The people of Britain must now observe an average minimum diet of 2,700 calories a day. This does not mean that everyone eats exactly at this sub-minimum level.

There are wide variations between the 900 calories consumed by babies and the 4,500 calories supplied to some heavy workers. Extra rations are allowed to miners, agricultural workers, a few other classes of heavy workers, also to pregnant women, children and some invalids.

By a rigid policy of "fair shares for all," a complete control against the appearance of any black market, and by keeping prices low, the authorities hope that the British will be able to get through their eighth grim winter of austerity without too much effect on the national health.

Up till now, children and other special classes such as expectant mothers, have been better fed and healthier than they were before the war. The "fair shares" policy has also seen a drop in the number of notifiable diseases.

In spite of their scanty food, British workers are working long hours. The national average for manufacturing industries is 46.3 a week. The miners are now voluntarily working longer hours in order to boost production.

Sugar has been cut from ten to eight ounces a week. The farmers have worked so hard to recover from the disastrous winter last year that Britain will be able to grow all the beet required in order to provide the whole of the new ration of sugar.

Bacon has been cut to one ounce a week. It was hoped it might be restored to two ounces weekly, but as it comes from Canada the drain on dollars is too severe. Most British homes will therefore have bacon at only one meal in every two weeks.

The meat ration remains at $20 worth a week per person. Dried egg stocks are expected to run out shortly.

The points value of dried eggs was recently raised, so that if a housewife buys one package she spends one-third of an entire month's allowance of points-rationed foods. Shell eggs are almost impossible to find in the shops today, although each person in Britain is eligible for a quota of 66 for the whole of 1947.

The most severe cut is potato rationing. Each person is now allowed three pounds a week. The cut has been made necessary because of this year's poor potato harvest. Three pounds works out at about one large potato a day.

Many people feel that potato rationing is "worse than bread rationing," since potatoes have helped "fill out" most meals. Sir Stafford Cripps warns the British people: "We must either pay dollars or go without. We must help ourselves to the utmost by producing more goods and by the production of more food in Britain."

Half the food on Britain's tables today is homegrown, though before the war she produced only a third.

Britain's farmers have thrown themselves into this program energetically, working through voluntary county committees. During the next five years, they hope to expand the production of wheat and eggs, restore part of the wartime expansion of wheat and barley, and add 400,000 acres of linseed to the country's total crop area.

For France: A Time for Prayer

By RELMAN MORIN

It was a letter from Paris, newly written, and the last line read: "We are expecting great things very soon now. We pray..."

The man who wrote it is white-hot for Charles De Gaulle.

He has never been white-hot (and certainly not red) for any party or any party leader before this. Once, he vaguely admired Leon Blum, but he distrusted the Socialists as a group. He disliked the Communists. As for the Gauguards, the rightists, he was never sure whether you should fear them or laugh at them.

He was frankly relieved, some two years ago, when De Gaulle resigned after briefly heading the provisional government. "He has had enough glory for one man," he said. "Let him write his memoirs now. The time for him has passed."

A great many people felt that way when De Gaulle stepped down.

To the French, he was automatically suspect, by reason of being a French general. They wanted no "man on horseback," no new Napoleon or Boulanger.

Moreover, he was asking for very strongly centralized powers in government, almost dictatorial powers. He argued that you can't afford the luxury of democratic methods in time of crisis. They didn't like the sound of that.

So the thought expressed by the man who wrote the letter—"the time for him has passed"—was pretty typical, widely held.

But now he is a white-hot Gaulist, and there are millions like him. It appears that De Gaulle is heading straight back to power, and traveling fast.

How has it come about, this change?

Months ago, the struggle between Russia and America would continue, growing ever more intense. And it did.

So, first, there was the force of his arguments in 1945, the fulfillment of his gloomy and unwanted prophecies.

Second, there has been applied in France, as in so many other parts of the world that terrific pressure from both sides on the middle-of-the-roader. There was a Communist coup, deliberately contrived, to force the French masses to the left. It has failed, but by its intensity it has made the people choose. They know now that they will never live peacefully, nor will they have enough to eat, until the issue between the Communists and his opponent has been finally settled.

And lastly there is De Gaulle himself. He is better known now, as a thinker and a leader. In 1945, he was regarded as just a soldier who had symbolized resistance to the Germans, but with no grasp of politics or economics.

De Gaulle is no glamor boy. He could use a good press agent. He is all brain and fire. You don't often see the fire because it is concealed beneath a massive iciness. He is brusque, taciturn, lonely, and supremely uncompromising.

These are not the qualities of an endearing figure. He has none of the qualities, in fact, of a politician or a demagogue.

In a small room, he is hard to appreciate, and even harder to know. But curiously enough he has tremendous appeal speaking from a balcony to a large crowd. Something in him surfaces then, and a totally different personality appears. It is not entirely his argument; usually he speaks over the head of the common listener. It is not his delivery; he is awkward, blocky, and his gestures are studied.

In large part, it is his sincerity. He means what he says, and he has the fervor, then, of the saints and martyrs.

And so today he is on the way back to power, unless all signs fail. The people who believe in him are "expecting great things." And they pray. For France, certainly, this is the time for prayer.

Time to Protest
TO THE DAILY IOWAN:
"Movie Writers, Directors and Producers Cited for Contempt of Congress."

These are not bad men. In fact, I think they are men of unusually good will, fighting for an unpopular cause. Most of us think it is a wrong cause, but in this they differ and this is their prerogative in a democratic government.

They are not trying to overthrow the government by force; probably they are not urged by personal ambition each to become a little Stalin. They are not spies paid by a foreign government. If they believe in communism, it is because they think this will mean the greatest good to the greatest number.

When or if they joined the Communist party it was probably with the belief that in our capitalistic country their jobs depended only on insatiable greed of their employer and the movie customers; that in our democratic country a congressional committee would not inquire into their party affiliation.

Until recently this was what capitalism and democracy implied. If they have committed a bankers and owners of motion picture companies there is no crime it was because they were placed in a false position by the Thomas committee. If there is a growing disrespect for congress it is caused not by the stubbornness of such men but by the occasional aberration of congressmen themselves. And the behavior of certain committees.

The Thomas committee was looking for press notices rather than evidence. To give relevance to the hearings it would be supposed that some evidence of disloyal propaganda in moving pictures would have been first produced; this would have tended to justify the inquiry. This is exactly what was not done. Instead the committee hearings were mostly name calling. As a result the hearings had a "bad press" (to quote Congressman Tom Martin).

The "contempt" for these proceedings was really found in the editorials of our responsible newspapers rather than in the refusal of these witnesses to testify against themselves. (The British press used the word "nauseating.")

Nevertheless, these men have been cited for contempt. As always when dignity is at stake the vote was nearly unanimous. If these men have become criminals, their crime was wantonly thrust upon them by the committee. Their martyrdom, perhaps valuable to their cause, has been given to them.

They have been allowed to raise a big issue and broadcast it from a congressional platform; how much is the ordinary American citizen to be kicked around for holding an unpopular belief?

If it is necessary to state party allegiance perhaps I had better state mine. Though not entirely regular, I have voted the Republican ticket more often than not. I consider Hoover a great, patriotic American (which sometimes rates exclamation marks); among senators I have the greatest respect for straight-shooting Bob Taft. But party has nothing to do with it. Even we Republicans have believed in freedom of thought.

Several weeks ago Congressman Martin expressed his views in your columns. In personal correspondence he has told me that he believes in suppressing Communists only when they believe in overthrowing the government by force. With this all Americans should concur. These Hollywood folk wish to use ideas, not guns, as weapons. This is as it should be.

Unfortunately there seems to be an abnormal number of radicals among the creative artists. This is an occupational hazard. Among ably a disproportion of conservatives. And so things seem to cancel.

Very little subversive propaganda seems to have filtered through from the writer to the screen. At all events, this is what freedom means.

Because of the peculiar nature of labor unions, as instruments of force, we cannot afford to have unions in basic industries controlled by opponents of our accepted system. (Witness France.) But as to free speech, we should have more of it.

I concede that these men may be technically guilty of the "contempt" of which they are accused. Therefore they may be convicted in court. But I assert that the real crime rests with a congressional committee which has used its right to investigate without the discretion that such power presumes. (There was obviously more publicity than investigation. These victims are not the first. At present another group (an author, a college professor, a surgeon, a housewife) are in a New York jail for a similar offense.)

It seems to me that it is time to make a protest.

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT We're Haunted by Ghost of an Old Love

By SAMUEL GRAFTON
New York Post Syndicate

We live in a world haunted by the ghost of an old love. There was that moment during the war when most of mankind stood together. We cannot quite forget the feelings then stirred, the flood of books which rushed from our presses, dedicated to a new mystique of global democracy. I wrote a couple myself; I reviewed 20; I did it over again in a thousand columns.

Now some try to recapture the emotion of men and nations rallying, the common cause, the hard and clear objective. Some do it, too, with notable success, and clear sincerity, for if the motives of a man like Henry L. Stimson, say, are not good, and for the good of all, then one simply does not know how to judge people any more.

Yet something is missing, down at the bottom, in spite of good motives, expected to produce not peace and paradise, but a workable standoff. Can the emotions which once went into drawing a portrait of a united world be effectively taken up, and used in, and expressed by, a program for stabilizing half a world and then waiting, perhaps a long time?

Can the ghost of our old love, the love for a united world, be satisfied thus, or will it make disturbing protests in the night as the Marshall plan ships head over the water for Europe?

To this question there are several answers, and quite strong ones, even though they take the form of more questions: "What else would you do? With whom are you going to make a planet-wide peace? What assurances would you get, and what about them would you accept and trust?" And it is true that a Communist action has begun in France and Italy, and that we may yet see French and Italian Communists trying, however vainly, to keep American help out of their own ports, and from their own people, perhaps losing everything in doing so, even their own relative positions, yet dedicated, with wild intensity, to making the effort.

For there is hate on that side, too, quite probably a more systematized and deadly hate than on our own; the residue, among the people of the side alleys of Europe, of a hundred years of waiting for the society in which they lived to show more than a passing and emergency concern for their welfare.

The explanation that they are Communists does not explain, for it only leads to another question. Why are they Communists? So it is true that one reason the world is split into halves is that there is, on the other side perhaps more than on our own, a lack of faith in the wholeness of the planet.

What, then, remains? Only, finally, to lock horns, to butt and push, and give blood in conflict? Is that all, and is it enough? Will it lay the ghost of the dead moment of love, which still haunts us? Or must we not, somehow, even in this unlikely setting, continue our search for pacification?

Is not, after all, the doctrine of "the inevitability of conflict" a Communist doctrine, of which "the inevitability of compromise" is the democratic opposite? There is something of this larger approach in such support of the Marshall plan as Mr. Stimson's. He forecloses, even now, against no one; he is "anti" no one, not even the Russians; still somehow, he keeps hope alive as he summons us to stand for Europe and humanity.

To amplify this murmur, to enlarge this approach, to avoid all littleness, doggedly and desperately, as evil in itself, is the only way to keep healthy within us the sound emotions of a few years ago, just as it is the way to refute the arguments of the opposition, and to orphan its hate.

Therefore, Beck brought in the constitutional amendment creating the position of executive vice-president with plenary powers, is subject only to Tobin's veto.

It is expected that Tobin will name Beck to the job on Dec. 1. The salary is up to Tobin. It probably will be $25,000 and liberal, but limited expenses. Beck's amendment does not even require that the new sub-dictator shall be a member of the union.

If Tobin pulls a surprise and names somebody else, Beck can pull out of the union about 250,000 subjects under his reign in 11 western states. In that case, the Taft-Hartley law would protect him by forbidding the old king to declare a boycott and a secondary picket line.

That, however, is not even a speculative possibility in the plans of the anti-Beck forces. They are desperate men. If Beck becomes boss, they are doomed and many of them deserve well for their long labors.

Accordingly, they are making their plans to pull out many locals in San Francisco, Los Angeles, New York, Philadelphia and Boston and to join with an old independent Chicago union in a convention to organize a new rival international union.

In that case, these seceding unions will demand that the national labor relations board under the Taft-Hartley law protect them and all employers having contracts with them and all clients of those trucking firms from any reprisals by the old king and Beck.

There are almost a million subjects. There is a treasury of $17-million, cash.

Strange as it may seem, Dave Beck, the most pushful aspirant for the throne of Dan Tobin, the old king, may invoke the Taft-Hartley law to promote his revolutionary ambitions, although he has damned this act as slavery law.

If Beck's political plan should succeed smoothly then a number of less prominent rival household princes and barons of outlying provinces certainly will take advantage of the Taft-Hartley act. They will invoke its protection to secede from the big international union without reprisals.

Premature revelation of his scheme forced Beck to change his plan slightly. A vain old bumbler, Tobin wanted the final compliment of a single term as president of the AFL. He was expected, in that case, to turn over all his duties and powers, except his final veto power, to Beck and devote his year as president of the AFL to speeches about his own and great services to "labor." But political troubles intervened in the AFL and Tobin was thwarted.

Palace Revolution in the AFL

A palace revolution is smoldering in the teamsters' union of the AFL, one of the great, autocratic kingdoms of the union movement. There are almost a million subjects. There is a treasury of $17-million, cash.

Iowa Alumni Review Ready Next Monday

By MERRITT LUDWIG

Old fashioned ideas about Christmas giving are "a bunch of baloney," according to Dr. and Mrs. L. R. Boland, 10 Koser avenue.

So this year they aren't giving any gifts to their friends and relatives.

"Instead, we're sending the money we'd spend on gifts to help the needy overseas," Mrs. Boland said yesterday.

"Aunt Mathilda really doesn't need the umbrella stand we were going to send her, and cousin Susie won't miss the little satchet."

"Really, most people wouldn't miss getting those little presents," Mrs. Boland continued, "and Americans spend so much on them."

She said they feel they are catching the real 1947 Christmas spirit by giving to Europeans who are so desperately in need.

In place of a gift, the Bolands' friends are getting a letter explaining their feelings. The letter asks that the friends send the Bolands no gifts, but rather send the gift money for relief supplies.

Mrs. Boland said they were thinking about their Christmas idea all fall. The clincher came when they saw the movie "Shoe Shine," which depicted desperate conditions in Italy.

Dr. Boland maintains a dentistry practice in Iowa City while he takes graduate work at the university. Mrs. Boland is an undergraduate in psychology. They have a three-year-old child.

Boland graduated from the dental college in 1943 and served two years in the army dental corps.

And so today he is on the way back to power, unless all signs fail. The people who believe in him are "expecting great things." And they pray. For France, certainly, this is the time for prayer.

Initiate Sixteen Into Honorary Fraternity

Sixteen university students were initiated into Phi Eta Sigma, honorary fraternity for freshman men, last night at 5:30 in room 315, Schaeffer hall.

Prof. Dewey Stuit of the psychology department was made an honorary member of the Iowa chapter at the ceremony. Stuit is affiliated with the University of Illinois chapter.

The students initiated were Harold Ray Bergman, Paul James Fleming, Evan Leroy Hultman, Merle Edward Kruse, Robert Smith Martin, Allon E. McGlothlen, Fern Leroy Murfin, Leroy Noe.

Robert J. Reinders, Frank John Renner, William Henry Ryan, Walter Cale Schubert, Alan Dean Tyree, George T. Waaser Jr., Eugene C. Zempeluch and Paul A. Zimmerman.

Town Men Schedule Unification Meeting

A get-acquainted meeting of all Town Men will be held Thursday, Dec. 4, at 7:30 p. m. in room 221A, Schaeffer hall.

In announcing the meeting last night, the executive council of the organization said an attempt to further unify the group would be made. Speakers and movies are on the program.

The council also voted to organize an all-member band to play for future dances and parties. A representative of Town Men will be in the office of student affairs from 5 to 6 p. m. Monday through Friday next week to talk with anyone interested in playing in the band.

Engineering Students Elect Class Officers

Other freshman officers elected were Richard Emmert, Iowa City, vice-president, and Adolph Nitsch, Cedar Rapids, secretary-treasurer. Sophomores also elected Forrest Rehberg, Independence, vice-president, and Donald Edwards, Dav- enport, secretary-treasurer.

To Determine Winners In Bridge Play-Offs

Winners of the University of Iowa bridge tournament will be determined next week when play-offs take place in the women's lounge of Iowa Union.

Joe Sutter, chairman, announced yesterday that winners from the individual housing units would begin playing Monday at 4:30 p. m. and play through Friday.

The tournament is sponsored by the Union board.

Dr. Barnes Declares 'Mild' Chicken Pox Epidemic Here

City Clerk Reports 65 Quarantines in Last Two Months

A mild epidemic of chicken pox has quarantined 65 Iowa Citizens since the first of October, according to city health report figures released yesterday by City Clerk George Dohrer.

Dr. M. E. Barnes, head of hygiene and preventive medicine at University hospital, said yesterday, "The number is not particularly alarming considering the many school children susceptible."

"However, with 65 cases during the two-month period," he said, "Iowa City has a mild epidemic."

Forty-one cases have been reported to the city clerk so far this month. In the last two years, the highest previous figure was 28 cases in January of 1947.

In Nov., 1946, only three cases were reported.

No persons were quarantined with chicken pox during August and September of this year.

This is the second mild communicable disease epidemic in 1947. Thirty-seven cases of measles were reported in May and 26 in June.

Two patients with measles have been quarantined so far this month, and one case of scarlet fever was reported.

The health reports also showed three cases of polio since Nov., 1945. The last case receiving the city physician's attention was in January of this year.

Since the first of the year, six diphtheria victims received attention.

More cases of communicable diseases were reported in May, 1947, than any month in the past two years. At that time, three cases of chicken pox, one of whooping cough and five of diphtheria were reported, plus the 37 measles cases.

Social Problems of Atomic Energy Not New, Saunders Says

"Social problems resulting from discovery of atomic fission are not new," Prof. Harold W. Saunders told an atomic energy series audience in Macbride auditorium last night. "They are the furtherance of those started in the industrial age," the chairman of the sociology department said.

Social problems resulting in war have assumed new importance because of the atomic discovery, he added.

"The main reason for the present social problem is the lag of social science behind the rapidly developed physical science," Saunders declared.

Although we do not utilize the knowledge of social science we now possess, effort must be made for a greatly expanded program to bring this science up to equal physical science, Saunders explained. This can be done by (1) public recognition of the problem and support, (2) provision of funds for research and (3) recruiting the best "brains" into the field.

"This may mean research as expensive as that which led to the discovery of the atomic bomb," he warned.

Taking one of the social aspects of the problem, Saunders said, "War is a natural result of a combination of conditions. If war is going to be reduced, it must be analyzed as a natural phenomenon."

There are three factors that result in war, he said. They are (1) population pressure, which is the difference between the scale of living and the standard of living, (2) backwardness of groups in understanding other groups and (3) feudalism, which is a class organization of a privileged few and a mass of serfs.

The next speaker in the atomic energy lecture series scheduled for Thursday, Dec. 4, will be Prof. C. A. Hickman of the college of commerce. He will explain some of the economic aspects of atomic energy.

An estimated 50 persons attended last night's lecture.

Local Scout Budget Approved by Board

The executive board and advisory council of Iowa River Valley council 181, Boy Scouts of America, approved the 1948 council budget at a closed meeting last night in Hotel Jefferson.

Action also was taken on a newly formed trust fund. The man who will head the fund has not yet been appointed, according to Scout Executive George R. Cragg.

The dinner meeting was held at 6:30 in room 303 of the hotel.

Thornton Featured on U-High Holiday Program

Prof. H. J. Thornton of the history department will give a Thanksgiving address this afternoon at a special assembly at University high school.

The program will feature Thanksgiving music and community singing.

Kenneth Record will sing a solo "Bless This House" accompanied by Dolores Sanders, music teacher, and the band under the direction of R. J. Mercer will play a Thanksgiving medley.

Methodist Church Club To Give 'Yuletide Fling'

Holiday activities will begin at the Methodist church Dec. 5 when the Friendly Newcomer's club sponsors "Yuletide Fling", dinner-dance for all young married couples of the church and the university.

Johnny Byers' orchestra will play for the dancing which follows the 7:30 dinner in Fellowship hall.

Mrs. Robert Whiteley, chairman of the annual affair, stated yesterday that tickets should be purchased by Dec. 1, and may be secured at the Wesley Foundation annex, 213 E. Market street, Gibb' drug store and Ewers Men's store.

John Dinzole

An Old "Army Game" Pays Off.

By JOHN BERG

John Dinzole, A1, Omaha, Neb., is laughing at the local barbers and their price raise. He is also laughing at the Long Hair society. Dinzole cuts his own hair.

Admiring the result of his latest effort in a mirror, he said, "It's an old trick I learned in the army."

Dinzole was reluctant at first to talk about his unique talent. Honest admiration of the clipping job finally won him over and he offered to demonstrate his technique.

With a half-smile on his face, Dinzole ran his left hand through his hair a couple of times and then picked up an ordinary scissors. "I suppose a regular barber's scissors would work better," he said, "but this is what I use."

He works mostly by "feel," but admitted he checks the progress frequently with a couple of mirrors.

Dinzole slowed down noticeably as he trimmed the neighborhood around his ears. He laughed self-consciously and remarked, "Nipped my ear once. Been kind of careful ever since."

Strangely enough, Dinzole has never cut anyone's hair but his own. He has declined all hair cutting jobs offered him during the current crisis with, "It would be like trying to tie a necktie on someone else."

Anti-Leftist Offices Sacked in Italy Riots

ROME, (AP)—Political terror, dormant over the week end, burst out again in southern Italy yesterday with two slayings, rioting and the sacking of anti-Communist political party offices.

While last week's strife centered in Apulia in the heel of the Italian boot, the new outbreaks were in Calabria, in the toe.

A minor outbreak also occurred in Rome last night when a bomb was thrown from a passing automobile against a building in which the Communist newspaper Unita is printed.

Ansa, Italian news agency, said the trouble began at Cardito when a Communist shot and killed a young member of Premier Alcide De Gasperi's Christian Democrat party.

The ministry of the interior said police were forced to use guns at Bisignano when a leftist crowd attempted to storm the Uomo Qualunque (Common Man) movement headquarters. The police fire killed one Communist and wounded another.

Mrs. Morgan Succumbs After Lengthy Illness

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Morgan, 88, 517 E. Jefferson street, died yesterday at Mercy hospital. She had been in failing health for the past few months and was submitted to the hospital Nov. 15.

A life-long resident of Iowa City, she was preceded in death in 1918 by her husband, David Morgan, contractor. She is survived by her sons, Charles H. and Dr. Earl E. Morgan of Sioux City, two grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

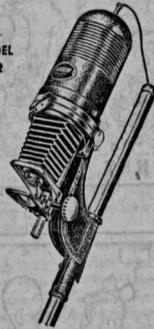

Funeral services are planned Friday at 9 a. m. at St. Mary's church with burial in St. Joseph's cemetery. The body is at the McGovern funeral home.

Discuss SUI School Spirit Improvement

The university's Student council appointed a committee last night to investigate a positive approach for stimulating school spirit.

Members of the committee are Janet Gutz, A4, Gene Glenn, A2, Dean Stichnoth, C3, and Keith McNurlen, D2.

Meeting in Old Capitol, the council also studied the possibility of setting up an advisory student library committee to survey student opinion on library conditions and hours.

Catherine McFarland, A3, and Bob Brose, A2, were appointed to discuss the matter with Ralph E. Ellsworth, director of libraries.

A program recommending that three cheerleaders accompany the University of Iowa football team on game trips was drawn up and will be submitted for approval to the university trip committee.

The group also discussed a plan increasing Thanksgiving vacation next year. The proposal, which calls for beginning classes on Thursday and Friday of registration week, would allow an extra day of vacation.

McNurlen and Brose were named to meet with Dean C. Woody Thompson to decide whether the registration committee can change its program in accordance with the plan.

Jean Sprott, A3, reported progress on plans for "Panacea," campus show to be produced next March. Forty dollars is being offered for the best musical comedy script submitted. The deadline for entries is Dec. 12.

The council appointed McNurlen and Stichnoth to investigate the use of Old Capitol by campus groups.
