Use Sitdown Tactics in French Assembly

Communist Deputies Fight Strike Bill

PARIS (Tuesday) (AP)—Paris police cleared sitdown strikers from six power plants in the capital area today as Communist deputies, employing similar sitdown tactics in an attempt to kill the government's drastic anti-strike bill, occupied the chamber of the national assembly in relays. The Communist deputies began a disturbance at a session of the assembly which became so tumultuous that Edouard Herriot, president of the assembly, suspended the meeting last night. It will resume at 3 p.m. (8 a.m., CST) today. The session ended before the deputies could enact Premier Schuman's powerful strike control bill the government wants to use to break the Communist hold on the labor movement. The power plant strikers, whose refusal to work halted Paris suburbs yesterday, darkened many Paris homes, crippled other public utilities and closed down theaters and movie houses, were cleared from powerhouses at St. Ouen, Arrighi, St. Denis, Ivry, Genevilliers and Issy Les Moulineaux. No incidents were reported and when the police had finished their work, no Paris area power plants were left in strikers' hands. The service began to improve immediately and it was reported authoritatively the government planned to run the system with army technicians. Communist deputies relieved each other in teams throughout the night in occupying the assembly chamber after one of them refused to accept a vote of censure for "inciting the army to revolt" which would expel him temporarily.

Wage-Price 'Freeze' May Be Necessary, Harriman Testifies

WASHINGTON, (AP)—President Truman's chief lieutenant on the economic front told congress yesterday that a general freeze of prices and wages may become necessary unless the administration's program for curbing inflation is adopted. Secretary of Commerce Harriman, testifying before the house banking committee, said a new inflationary spiral may be set off by a meat shortage in the spring. "I believe," he testified, "that it is advisable to start developing a program now rather than to risk the need of hasty action later when the only feasible course might be to put on the brakes of some type of general freeze of prices and wages and then to proceed to correct the individual inequities as rapidly as possible." Saying a high cost of living "emergency is here, very grave, right now," Harriman urged congress to grant the administration power to impose selective controls over prices and wages and to institute consumer rationing on some items. This prompted a statement by Banking Chairman Wolcott (R-Mich.) that the administration is trying to sell congress "a pig in a poke" by not proposing detailed legislation for economic controls and not saying specifically how such controls would be applied. Some Republicans have criticized administrative departments for sending drafts of bills to Capitol Hill, and Harriman said he was reluctant to "impose my language upon the congress."

Chest Drive Gets Good Start

Foreign Ministers Agree 'Big Four' To Write Reich Pact

LONDON (AP)—Convoking of a three-power conference to merge the American, British and French zones of Germany appeared a possibility last night as the foreign ministers conference staggered from disagreement to disagreement amid a flood of Soviet attacks against the western powers. Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov again devoted most of yesterday's 170 minute session to portraying Russia as the only defender of Germany against the "imperialistic" western countries. Minor agreements were reached on peace treaty procedural matters without touching on fundamental issues. One agreement provides the Big Four foreign ministers will write the treaty itself, taking into consideration both the two-thirds votes and the majority votes of all the allied nations attending the peace conference. A similar provision was used in preparing the treaties for Germany's satellites. Failure of the four powers to agree thus far even on fundamentals appeared to lend added significance to a statement earlier yesterday by Foreign Minister Georges Bidault. If this conference fails, Bidault declared, France may merge her zone with the economically united American and British occupation areas. Both the American and British delegations have stated repeatedly that no definite plans exist for establishment of a western German government. Conference observers considered it a strong possibility that immediate steps would be taken, by the United States, Britain and France to work out a western zone merger if this Big Four meeting fails.

Noble's Bond Set at $5,000

Robert D. Noble, managing editor of the University of Iowa alumni magazine, need not be served immediately with an arrest warrant on his indictment on reckless homicide charges, Circuit Judge Dan Pyle ruled yesterday in South Bend, Ind. The indictment was returned last week in connection with the deaths of a St. Mary's college student and her Notre Dame escort in an auto accident at South Bend Oct. 25. Noble suffered a fractured leg in the same accident, in which his car rammed into a tree after hitting the two students. According to The Associated Press, Judge Pyle set bond at $5,000 and ruled that Noble may return to South Bend from Iowa City for a court appearance when he recovers from his injuries. Noble's attorney, Paul Butler, said Noble would waive extradition and return here as soon as possible to plead innocent. A coroner's jury earlier exonerated Noble.

Student Gives $36 First-Day Donation

The Campus Chest drive got off to a flying start yesterday as Robert B. Wheelock, G, Sioux City, donated $36 to "the most important contribution students can make." Campus Chest Chairman Ray Tierney reported last night that the drive appeared to be progressing satisfactorily. A movie, "Seeds of Destiny," will be shown free to students today through Thursday in connection with the drive, according to Bud Booten, publicity chairman. The film, a realistic portrayal of student life in war-torn countries, was released through the World Student Service fund, one of the drive's recipients. Showings will take place at 221A Schaeffer hall tonight at 7:30 p.m., tomorrow at 4:30 and 7 p.m., Thursday at 4:30 p.m.; and at 225 Schaeffer hall Thursday at 7:30 p.m. A speakers bureau, headed by George McBurney, A2, will send 19 speakers to fraternities and sororities today and tomorrow to explain the drive's aims. The bureau is a part of the Forensic association under the supervision of the speech department. Any students not contacted by solicitors at their housing units are urged to contribute at the booth in front of Old Capital, said Tierney. The booth will be manned daily throughout the drive. Organizations which will receive funds from the drive are World Student Service fund, United Negro College fund, American Cancer society, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Nile Kinnick Scholarship fund and emergency fund. Students may earmark contributions to any of the above groups.

U. S. Will Test 'A-Weapons' At Pacific Base

WASHINGTON (AP)—Construction of elaborate atomic "testing grounds" is underway on the faraway Pacific atoll of Eniwetok, half way between Hawaii and the Philippines, the government disclosed. The announcement was so worded as to raise the possibility that the U. S. has some new weapon in addition to the A-bomb. A three paragraph announcement from the atomic energy commission spoke of atomic weapons in the plural. Government officials said security reasons prevent an explanation of whether this means the existence of an atomic weapon other than the bomb. One spokesman said, "You can draw your own conclusions." The announcement hinted that the tests will be on a major scale for it said Eniwetok was chosen, among other reasons, because "it is isolated and there are hundreds of miles of open seas in the direction in which winds might carry radioactive particles." The closest large land area is New Guinea, about 1,500 miles to the southwest. Previous tests have indicated the radioactive particles may be blown great distances. On Eniwetok the armed forces will construct installations for scientific equipment, structures where personnel may be protected when tests are underway, control and observation posts and housing for scientists and other personnel. The announcement said the testing grounds will provide a means of proving that "desired results may or may not be obtained from various laboratory studies that are underway."

World in Action—Around The Globe

THE U. S. AIR FORCE said last night it had picked up faint radio signals in Frankfurt, Germany, which it believed originated from a C-47 transport plane missing for three days with 20 persons aboard. The air force had all but given up hope of locating the plane or finding any of its passengers alive.

THE CHARACTER of John Lester Mee, Chicago lawyer fatally shot by Dancer Patricia (Satira) Schmidt, is due for discussion when Patricia's trial is resumed in Havana today after a 12-day recess. The recess was granted to allow defense witnesses to study documents relating to Mee's character. Among them are letters written by Mee which a defense attorney has said will "show that he was unstable," and which "might set Patricia free."

SIX PERSONS died yesterday in a fire that raged through a four-story building in Philadelphia which housed a dormitory for homeless men. Seventeen other persons were burned and critically injured as the flames, which firemen said started in an overstuffed chair in a first floor store, whipped quickly through the building.

THE FIRST of 650,000 income tax forms went into the mails to Iowans yesterday. The blanks, the so-called "long form," are destined for businessmen, farmers and taxpayers with over $5,000 income. Other tax forms which will go out this month are corporation tax forms and partnership information blanks.

MRS. MILDRED LAMARRE told her story yesterday to a federal grand jury in Washington. The jury is investigating the case of Maj. Gen. Bennett E. ## House Restores Cut, But Wants Funds for China

Martin Expects Bill To Reach White House By End of Next Week

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill authorizing $597 million in emergency winter aid to France, Italy and Austria was passed, 83 to 6, by the senate late yesterday. But the house foreign affairs committee voted soon afterward to hold the amount down to $590 million and add China to the list of countries to be helped.

Both of Iowa's senators, Hickel and Wilson, voted for the bill. Voting against passage were Senators Langer (R-ND), McKellar (D-Tenn.), Moore (R-Okla.), O'Daniel (D-Tex.), Robertson (R-Wyo.) and Taylor (D-Idaho). Supporters of President Truman's full program of helping western Europe through the winter as one means of fighting communism appeared certain to press for raising the house figure to the full $597 million for France, Italy and Austria alone.

"The President," Presidential Press Secretary Charles Ross said, "was much gratified by the size of the majority." Members of the house foreign affairs committee said they hoped to bring their bill before the house tomorrow or Thursday and Speaker Martin (R-Mass) predicted it would be ready for presidential action by the end of next week.

The committee's bill did not specify any particular amount for China, but members voted earlier to give China $80 millions. This would leave $530 millions for Austria, Italy and France—$67 millions less than the President requested.

The committee last week cut $108 millions from the emergency program but restored $38 millions yesterday for Italy, most of it to be spent on wheat. Then in a last-minute decision it put back $3 million for France. Before voting, the senate adopted an amendment by Senator Kem (R-Mo) which would guarantee freedom of American press and radio representatives to watch the operation of the program in the three western European countries.

Lucas Favored in Poll

CLEVELAND, (AP)—A poll of U. S. senate Democrats by The Cleveland Plain Dealer and The Dallas News showed yesterday a preference for Sen. Scott W. Lucas of Illinois as the party's vice-presidential nominee in 1948. Lucas polled 8 votes and Senator Millard E. Tydings of Maryland, 7. Gov. Mon C. Wallgren of Washington was third with 3, and 13 other votes were scattered among 10 more selections. Eight senators polled were undecided, five were unavailable and another voted for "no one but Tydings," who drew the bulk of his support from the southern members of the party.

16 Schools in Speech Meet

Names of the 16 participating universities and colleges in the fourth annual Iowa Intercollegiate Forensics conference to be held here Thursday and Friday were announced yesterday by Prof. A. Craig Baird, director of forensics. They are: United States Military Academy at West Point, Illinois State Normal university, Michigan State college, University of Indiana, University of Kansas, University of Marquette, University of Minnesota, University of Missouri, University of Nebraska, Northwestern university, University of Notre Dame, South Dakota university, Ohio State university and University of Wisconsin.

Barbers Refuse To Consider Compromise; Pickets Return

A compromise between local barbers and the Long-Hair society is "out of the question," the barbers' spokesman declared last night. Paul Puckett, A4, Sterling, Ill., represented the barbers at a dinner meeting last night with Long-Hair Chairman Sam Bishop, A2, Churdan. The meeting was open to the press. Long-Hair society members will resume picketing of seven local barber shops today from 2:30 to 5 p.m., according to Tom Dorsey, A2, Keokuk. Dorsey was elected to handle Long-Hair public relations at a meeting yesterday afternoon in the Iowa Union conference rooms. Local barbers increased haircut prices from $1.75 to $2 on Nov. 3. "Are you authorized to speak for the Iowa City barbers?" Bishop asked Puckett. "So far as I can," Puckett replied. "Would the local barbers agree to a compromise with us?" Bishop then asked Puckett. "That is out of the question," Puckett declared. "Haircuts are $1. We have explained why the barbers have raised the price and given reasons for the increase. We have received no reason why the $1 price should be lowered." Bishop then asked Puckett if the barbers would consent to cutting the haircut price to 75 cents for students. "The barbers would do this if the other merchants would make

Wage Increase Promise Averts Strike in Rome

ROME (AP)—A nation-wide strike of city employes, set to begin late yesterday morning, was averted early yesterday when the Italian government agreed to furnish the municipal governments with sufficient money to allow promised wage increases. The city employes national federation, announcing the government action, directed its members to continue work "until further notice." The decision to call off the strike eased some pressure on the national government of Premier Alcide de Gasperi, which also announced settlement last night of a political dispute that caused extensive leftist agitation in Milan Friday and Sunday.

Prosecution Rests

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—The prosecution formally concluded its case yesterday against 23 officials of the I.G. Farben chemical combine on trial before a United States military tribunal on war crimes charges. Opening defense arguments will be made Dec. 18, after which the court will adjourn until Jan. 12 when the defense will begin presentation of its case.

Arabs To Start General Strike Today

MOVES IN MIDDLE EAST—Beirut and Damascus (1) reported anti-partition protests and troop movements toward Palestine. Jerusalem (2) listed eight Jews killed and four others wounded. BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—The Palestine government braced itself yesterday for a three-day general strike of Arabs which might mean "trouble" and new outbreaks of violent opposition to the partition of the Holy Land. A member of Haganah, the moderate underground Jewish force in Palestine, said last night the Palestine government was "considering a plan" to withdraw all police and military forces from Tel Aviv, Ramat Gan and Cetah Tzivah area, handing over the law enforcement duties to a Jewish command. The source said the move, which would constitute legalization of the Haganah security forces, was expected "in the next few days." The premiers and foreign min-

Iowa Shows Offensive Punch In Winning Basketball Opener

By BUCK TURNBULL
Sports Editor

The University of Iowa Hawkeyes, displaying a blistering offensive punch, trampled little Carleton college at the fieldhouse last night, 82-43, in the opening basketball game of the 1947-48 season.

Led by the unconscious antics of fiery little Murray Wier, who scored 18 points, and the top-notch pivot play of Red Metcalfe and Roger Finley, the Hawks surged to a 36-19 half-time advantage and coasted home in the last half with Coach Pops Harrison flooding the court with reserves.

Before 8,300 howling fans, Wier and company pulled away right at the opening whistle and never headed for the entire 40 minutes. After four minutes of the first half, the Hawks had an 8-0 advantage before the Carls of Minnesota could find the range.

From then on until a little more than six minutes were left in the opening half, Wier and Metcalfe traded baskets . . . the little redhead would fire one over his head . . . if it missed, which didn't happen too often, the big redhead would tip it back in.

Major Loops Talk Trades

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Trade winds kept the baseball lobby buzzing with rumors about a bid deal by the New York Yankees yesterday, but no concrete action resulted from the winter meeting speculation.

Persistent reports had Pitcher Walter Masterson or Early Wynn of the Washington Senators headed for the Yankee stadium in a major swap still in the tentative stage.

Manager Bucky Harris of the world champions would admit nothing beyond a statement that a deal for a pitcher quite likely would be made. If such a transaction is completed the Yanks plan to hold up the announcement for the major league meetings next week at New York.

The Yankees weren't the only club trying to stir up business. Although this is a major league convention, it is largely a meeting of the majors and their farm connection. Even more important than technical changes in the intricate baseball law, is the desire of each club to improve its roster for next season.

Bill Veeck, president of the Cleveland Indians, went into a huddle with Bill DeWitt, head of the St. Louis Browns who said yesterday he would deal outfielder Jeff Heath and all men over 28, except Pitcher Nelson Potter. The Detroit Tigers were on the prowl for infield talent, needing a second base and shortstop combination if they again are to become a pennant factor.

Recent activity by the Boston Red Sox who acquired Shortstop Vern Stephens and Pitchers Jack Kramer and Ellis Kinder from the Browns for about $345,000 and 10 players has made all American league clubs realize they must strengthen. With Joe McCarthy back at the helm, the consensus around these meetings is that the Sox are the team to beat in 1948.

Heisman Memorial Award to Lujack

NEW YORK (AP)—Johnny Lujack, field general of Notre Dame's all-conquering football team, yesterday added the Heisman Memorial Trophy to his long list of honors for gridiron prowess.

The 22-year-old quarterback from Connellsville, Pa., received a total of 742 points in the Downtown A. C.'s annual poll of sports-writers and broadcasters to determine the nation's outstanding college football player.

An all-America back last year and a virtually certainty to duplicate the feat this year, Lujack will personally receive the gleaming prize at the sponsoring club's dinner here Dec. 10.

A great passer as well as an able strategist, Lujack won easily over Michigan's Bob Chappuis who collected 555 points. Doak Walker of Southern Methodist was third with 196 followed by Charley Conerly, Mississippi, 186; Harry Gilmer, Alabama, 115; Bobby Layne, Texas, 74; Charley Bednarik, Pennsylvania, 65; and

Hawklets in Final Warm-Up Tilt With Washington Tonight

City high's Little Hawks meet Washington high school of the Little Six conference tonight in the local gym at 8 p. m.

Tonight's contest is the last so-called warm-up game before the Hawklets start to mix it up against Mississippi Valley conference and other top-flight opposition.

Coach Gil Wilson, whose City high cagers will be seeking their third victory in as many starts, will probably start Diehl and Hetrick at the forwards with Dunham at center and Reichardt and Beals at the guards.

Two preliminary contests are also to be played this evening. The City high "B" team will tangle with the "B" squad from Davenport high school in a game starting at 5 o'clock and at 6:15 the Little Hawk sophomores play the Washington high "B" team.

Bluehawks Host To Roosevelt of CR

In their first test on the home court, University high's cage squad will take on Roosevelt high of Cedar Rapids tonight. Tip-off time is 8 p. m., preceded by a second team game at 7 p. m.

The Bluehawks won their opener last Friday, squelching Williamsburg, 41-24. Roosevelt strength is a comparatively unknown quality in the Blue and White camp.

Probable starters for U-high are: Bob Rasley and Curtis Miller, forwards; Dennis Hagler and Bob Ojemann, guards, and Fritz Harshbarger, center.

Ojemann alternated at guard and center against Williamsburg, leading the Blues with 14 points.

Bill Swiacki, Columbia, 61. The first six are all backs. Bednarik is a center and Swiacki an end.

A senior who is being pursued by pro scouts, Lujack follows in the steps of Army's Glenn Davis, winner of the 1946 award. Doc Blanchard, Davis' teammate at West Point, won the trophy in 1945.

'Pops' Satisfied With First Cage Contest

By AL SCHMAHL
Assistant Sports Editor

On Jan. 29, 1942, Iowa cagers lost a non-conference home game to Kansas, 53-51. Since then a Hawkeye team has never been defeated by a non-conference opponent in the Iowa fieldhouse.

Parnell Host To St. Pat's Tonight

St. Patrick's cagers will go after their second victory of the young basketball season in Parnell tonight. The Irish opened their season a week ago with a convincing 49-29 win over Cosgrove.

Parnell, in its opener, was held to a one point victory over that same Cosgrove five. Since then, they suffered a two point defeat at the hands of Oxford.

However, the game may be much closer than comparative scores would indicate, for the Parnell team will be host in this contest. The floor at Parnell is very small and Father R. J. Pacha expects Parnell to throw a tight zone defense at his charges. A low scoring contest could easily develop under these playing conditions.

Father Pacha plans to start the same team as last week. This five, Duffy and Grady at forwards, Dalton at center and Herdlika and O'Connor at the guards, showed up well against Cosgrove. Tommy Falls, promising reserve center, will probably see considerable action.

If the Parnell zone keeps the Irish from close-in shots, the long range eye of O'Connor could be the deciding factor in the contest.

The spectators thoroughly enjoyed seeing the surprising offensive show of the well-built guard. But the crowd got its biggest thrill from the ball-hawking antics of the two small men on the Iowa squad, Murray Wier and Charlie Mason.

The two forwards, both high school stars from Muscatine, were constantly in the hair of their larger opponents. They stole the ball, intercepted passes and recovered an amazing number of rebounds while pouring in 18 and 12 points respectively in their comparatively short stay in the game.

When Wier and Mason were in the game together at the start of the second half, they put on a dual show of a type that has not been seen around here in some time. Big Leonard Metcalfe surprised the crowd in the early stages of the game when he hit on a two handed-over the head shot. He repeated with another later in the game.

stop that man—Iowa Guards Jack Spencer (lunging towards Carleton player) and Bob Schulz (23) attempt to halt the basket shot by Carleton Forward Frank Schlaffler (52) in the non-conference opener last night won by the Hawks, 84-23. The Carleton man between Spencer and Schulz is unidentified. (Daily Iowan Photo by Phyllis White)

When Tony scored his final set-shot, the Hawks were far out in front, 76-40. Jack Watkins added a foul shot to make it 77-40 and Bob Freeman hit with a charity toss and Iowa led, 78-40.

A little more than a minute was left when Bob Vollers tapped in a rebound for the Hawkeyes and the score was doubled, 80-40.

Freeman batted in a lay-up to make the Iowa lead 82-40 but Bill Cawley pushed in a set shot for Carleton and Howie Bleeker tallied the final point with five seconds remaining on the clock for the final score of 82-43.

If there was any one thing which the Hawks showed a definite weakness in, it was rebounding. Numerous instances occurred throughout the game when the Carls would capture easy rebounds from the Hawkeye forwards and centers without even a fight.

The Iowa forward combination of Stan Straatsma and Floyd Magnusson proved to be impotent in the scoring statistics, although both had a number of shots. Straatsma pocketed one basket in six attempts while Magnusson was held scoreless.

But it may be that a fellow named Mason might be handling the starting forward slots when conference games roll 'round. They're both small but they both score. And if Mason comes anywhere close to matching Wier, there could be brighter days in store for Pops Harrison.

200 Women Distribute Voter's Handbooks

The League of Women Voters officially launched distribution of the Johnson county voters handbook, "That's Where Our Money Goes," yesterday, following a luncheon at the First English Lutheran church.

Some 200 women, both league members and volunteers, began house-to-house delivery of the political guidebook, designed to inform residents about the political framework and operation of Johnson county.

Every Johnson county family will receive a free copy of the handbook through league distribution. Copies are also available at the City hall.

Some 15,000 booklets are expected to reach county residents. In Iowa City, Mrs. George W. Martin is in charge of distribution. Under her are precinct captains supervising ward-by-ward coverage by distributors.

Here's how city distribution is organized:

First ward: first precinct—Mrs. Allyn Lemme, second precinct—Mrs. Ivan L. Hedges.

Second ward: first precinct—Mrs. Marvin Miller, second precinct—Mrs. C. H. Millikan.

Third ward: Mrs. George W. Martin.

Fourth ward: first precinct—Mrs. Evans Worthley, second precinct—Mrs. Fred Fehling.

Fifth ward: first precinct—Mrs. Coleman Jacobson, second precinct—Mrs. S. Humbert Abrasio.

Mrs. Harold D. Evans is first precinct adviser and Mrs. Thomas Farrell is second precinct adviser to the fifth ward.

Mrs. J. J. Runner, in charge of county town and rural distribution, announced yesterday that booklets have been mailed to these outlying districts.

A WSUI quiz program tonight at 7:30 o'clock will decide whether parents or school children know best where their money goes. Prof. Orville Hitchcock of the speech department will act as moderator.

The lineup of contestants: Prof. A. K. Miller of the geology department and his daughter, Peggy, a University high sophomore; Mrs. William Hart and her son, Bill, a City high senior; Mrs. W. T. Hagebeck and her son, Frederick, an 8th grader in junior high, and George Ebert and his daughter, Donna, a City high freshman.

You're Telling a Secret!

by Elizabeth Woodward
America's foremost authority on young people's problems

You spent hours making yourself out for the big day. And you passed inspection from every angle. You lined up your lines... plotted your imprint on various hims and hers. Success was a foregone conclusion.

Then you made your grand entrance. Walked across the room. And before you opened your mouth... you'd told your secret.

Everyone who watched you walk had you doped out. Your disposition... your personality... your opinion of yourself.

You didn't think about that. You'd concentrated so hard on the impression you were going to make that you'd forgotten you could undo it in spite of yourself. It behooves you to discover in a full-length mirror just what secrets you're telling behind your own back!

Do you strut? Shoulders back... head tilted... nose skyward? Is your pan slightly dead... eyebrows elevated? You may be the friendliest person in the world... but your walk is saying that you care only about you.

Do you scoot? Your tailfeathers close to the ground... shoulders bent against the wind... arms flapping the air for extra momentum? You may be capable of the weightiest thoughts... but you impress folks as being too hurried to stick to one subject... too fickle for long-range friendships. You're fun... but not to be taken seriously.

Do you slink? Joints all limber... leading with the tummy? Your disposition may be quite definite... but you're making people think you're unsure and shy.

They expect you to have a buttery voice... to fawn for favors... to spill over with gush and goo.

Do you swish? Feet dancing... skirts swaying... head tossing... eyes alight... voice full of song? It goes with bouncing good humor and a lively interest in stuff and things. Such a stride invites people to join the parade with you.

Artistry with make-up and clothes can accomplish wonders with your raw material. But three or more thoughts to your posture will help you keep a few other secrets to yourself!

Kemp Heads National Interfraternity Group

Membership, Pledging Get Parley Airing

Edward W. Kemp, A4, Waterloo, was elected chairman of the National Undergraduate Interfraternity council at its convention in New York City last Friday and Saturday. Kemp is president of Sigma Alpha Epsilon here and captained the 1946-47 university wrestling team.

Kemp, one of three SUI Interfraternity council delegates, presided over the undergraduate group, which met in conjunction with the National Interfraternity conference's 39th annual session.

Other student delegates were Fred Stines Jr., A3, Newton, Phi Gamma Delta and Interfraternity council president, and Melvin D. Heck, C4, Grundy Center, president of Delta Upsilon.

Representing SUI at the senior conference were Dean C. Woody Thompson, office of student affairs, and Graham E. Marshall, fraternity business service manager and adviser to fraternity men.

Convention topics included membership restrictions and pledging activities in national social fraternities.

In a joint session key-note address, David A. Embury, conference chairman, declared, "Any attempt on the part of a college administration to dictate to fraternities in regard to membership restrictions would be regimentation, a thing contrary to education in a democracy."

It is the democratic right of any group of men, he said, to form a college fraternity with any membership restriction they see fit to impose.

"There is nothing arbitrary or capricious or unnatural about restrictions based on race, creed, or color," he asserted, claiming the college fraternity is the "closest knit, most intimate group to be found anywhere outside the family group."

Restrictions are not based on any hatred or prejudice, or any false sense of superiority of one race or religion over another, he continued, any more than a state or sectional society is based on hatred of other geographical sections.

The undergraduates declared that membership restriction is a question to be determined solely by the individual national fraternities and tabled a resolution asking the National Interfraternity conference to request member fraternities to abolish restrictions based on race, color and creed.

Dr. John O. Moseley, University of Nevada president and organizer of the "Greek Week" program as a substitute for "Hell Week," outlined his program to the undergraduates.

It is designed to prepare pledges for initiation and to develop interest of chapter alumni and members both in fraternity and interfraternity ideals.

Delegates indicated this was the best substitute for the former "Hell Week," which is being ruled out on a steadily increasing number of college campuses.

Dr. Moseley was presented the conference award for 1947 "for distinguished service to youth through the American college fraternity."

Seven Men Study Proposed Reservoir

H. Garland Hershey, state geologist, and L. C. Crawford, district engineer, are attending a meeting in Des Moines today of a seven-man committee which is studying the proposed construction of a flood control reservoir near Iowa City.

Gov. Robert D. Blue will send the committee's report to Washington, D. C., before Jan. 3 as Iowa's recommendation on building the reservoir. The governor appointed the committee.

The group will discuss testimony and evidence submitted at a recent public hearing here. The committee has received many letters and suggestions about the reservoir since the hearing, Hershey said yesterday.

Those attending the hearing unanimously favored building of the reservoir. It would cost approximately $12,000,000 if built at Turkey creek dam site nine miles upstream from Iowa City or $9,975,000 if located at Hoosier creek 18 1/2 miles upstream.

Panacea Scripts Due Dec. 12

The deadline for original scripts for the all-student Panacea show is Friday, Dec. 12. Plans are now being made for staging the musical comedy in Macbride auditorium the first week in March.

Any university student may enter a script, Margery MacDonald, A4, Panacea committee member, said yesterday. Writer of the script used in the show will be awarded $40.

Scripts, which should be turned in at the Iowa Union desk, may be based upon any theme and should be long enough for two hours of entertainment. No musical scores need to be included in the entries.

Choice of the Panacea script will be made by Dec. 14, Miss MacDonald announced. After the committee decides on the script and theme, students will be given an opportunity to submit original music in another contest.

Mortar board, Omicron Delta Kappa and Student council are sponsoring the Panacea show this year. Bill Bauer, G, Jean Sprott, A3, and Miss MacDonald are the committee in charge of arrangements.

Faculty members from several departments will assist in choosing the script and music for the show. Tryouts and rehearsals are scheduled for a month preceding the show. A director will be named after the script is chosen.

VA Gets Early Start On 2nd Semester Work

First evidence of the approach of the second semester was seen Monday when the university's veterans administration office began mailing letters to professors asking for a list of required textbooks that will be used during the semester.

Professors are asked to return the list by Dec. 20 so that the veterans office can process them during the Christmas vacation. The administration staff will operate at full strength during the holidays.

A slight decrease is expected in the number of veterans book requisitions issued the first semester, according to Dr. William D. Coder, director of the office.

The International Relations study group of the American Association of University Women will hear a talk from Ali Noury-Esfandiary, graduate student from Iran, at their meeting tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in room 219, Schaeffer hall.

The speaker's name was misspelled in Sunday's Daily Iowan and the headline for the story reported the meeting would take place Tuesday.

Lewis N. Brown, chairman of the board of Johns-Manville corporation and a 1915 graduate of the University of Iowa, has recently written a book, "Report on Germany," published by Farrar, Straus and company of New York City.

Brown recommends that no funds be appropriated for the Marshall plan until the British and French agree to consolidate the three zones in western Germany under the same plan of organization that was used during the Allied invasion. He suggests that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower be called to Europe to re-establish the consolidation before his retirement, and that Gen. Lucius D. Clay be appointed to head the organization.

No Formula For Marriage, Shoben Says

Successful marriage is not based upon any standard formula, Dr. Edward Shoben said yesterday at a meeting of the YWCA major in marriage group.

Four factors leading to marital happiness are, according to Dr. Shoben, (1) the attitude of sharing everything, (2) a compatible attitude toward sexual relations, (3) personal security and (4) independence from parents.

Nagging by their wives is objected to by many husbands. The men also criticize their wives for lack of affection, interference with hobbies, lack of consideration, slovenly appearance and conceit.

Dr. Shoben pointed out that surveys indicate chief complaints by the women are that their husbands are selfish and inconsiderate, unsuccessful in business, untruthful, harsh with their children, sensitive and unaffectionate.

Most men have been taught that their role is as head of the household, Dr. Shoben remarked. Nagging is a threat to their ego. When a man marries a threatening woman he has a feeling of insecurity, he said.

"The ascendant-submissive relationship is on the way out," Shoben said. Status of women has changed, and they have found they can do some things as well as men, he said. However, he commented, the average husband still wants his partner in marriage to regard him as a "great big wonderful man" and let him make five-eighths of their decisions.

Most women desire prestige as wives. A man's success in business means reflected glory for his wife, he pointed out.

"Sexual relationships are a barometer of marriage," Dr. Shoben said. If a couple is sexually maladjusted, it is probably a symptom of problems in other areas rather than the principle cause of their unhappiness, he said.

People frequently marry because they feel the need of an approved outlet for their sex drives, Dr. Shoben stated. However, if a marriage is based upon that drive alone, problems may be multiplied.

This was the second in the series of major in marriage meetings. The next one will be held Dec. 14, Virginia Rosenberg, A4, chairman, announced.

Says Humanist Needs New Perspective

The humanist should stop "sulking in his study," and start learning about science and its relation to the world, said Josef Jauch, associate professor in the physics department, in a speech given in the senate chamber of Old Capitol last night.

Jauch spoke on "The Scientific Age—a Challenge to the Humanists," the sixth in the fall series of lectures and discussions sponsored by the Humanities society, a faculty and graduate group.

The humanist, defined by Jauch as a man who studies history, languages, literature and the arts, should assume most of the burden of educating the public on the effect of science on the world. If he understands science, he pointed out, the humanist is better equipped than the scientist to judge its humanistic implications.

The scientist is not responsible for what he produces, stated Jauch. Research starts from simple beginnings, he explained, and the results may be used for good or evil.

Most of the criticism against science, Jauch stated, is based on the by-products of scientific progress. Science has helped to reduce famine and curb disease. It has also contributed to the death of many people, as witnessed in the atomic bombings, he implied.

The scientist, however, did not have these specific aims in mind when he carried on his agricultural, medical and atomic research, implied Jauch. The scientist investigates an idea because he feels a need to do so, he explained.

The humanist largely overlooks science's humanistic value, Jauch pointed out, and, therefore, forms an unrealistic concept of science.

"Science provides us with aesthetic value—the creation of new theoretical ideas," he explained. The scientist is essentially an artist, said Jauch. The only difference is the materials used, he explained.

The discussion which followed Jauch's lecture was the liveliest one in the Humanities society's fall series. Jauch's direct challenge evoked a flat refusal from a member of the audience, who declared he did not wish to assume Jauch's idea of a humanist's responsibility.

Most of the criticism against science, Jauch stated, is based on the by-products of scientific progress. Science has helped to reduce famine and curb disease. It has also contributed to the death of many people, as witnessed in the atomic bombings, he implied.

"If the barbers have the right to organize and raise haircut prices," Bishop continued, "the Long-Hairs have the right to organize in protest."

"What would you consider an adequate living wage?" Bishop asked.

"So many factors enter into determining this that it is almost impossible to say," Puckett answered. "The average journeyman's earnings before this price increase were from $45 to $54 per week. In these times this is not

The new Parking Meters mean easier parking in downtown area

Now when you come to Iowa City, Iowa the Friendly City, you are going to find parking in the downtown area much, much simpler.

OPERATING HOURS

MONDAY thru FRIDAY - 8:00 a. m. to 6:00 p. m.

SATURDAY - 8:00 a. m. to 9:00 p. m.

Sundays and Holidays Excepted

To avoid a violation the parker must set the meter in operation as directed on the face of the meter. (1) Place coin in proper slot. (2) Make complete turn of handle to the right as far as handle will go. Both "violation" flags must be completely out of view before the meter is in operation.

Parking meters have been installed in Iowa City for your shopping convenience . . . to make available parking spaces nearer the stores you wish to visit . . . and reduce walking distances to and from your car with bundles.

By depositing from 1 to 10 pennies OR 2 nickels you may park for periods ranging from 12 minutes up to 2 hours. All time is "Cumulative" so you pay only for the time you want and get all the time you pay for up to the maximum legal parking time. This system permits economical parking for the shopper who wishes to PARK-BUY-AND-GO and pay only the minimum amount necessary.

Cumulative CHEAT-PROOF BECAUSE

That's why public acceptance of the MILLER is 100%. For example, for 2-hour parking MILLER 10-penny-2-Nickel meters "cumulate" all time like this:—

1st penny gives	first 12 min.—Total: 12 Min.
2nd penny gives	second 12 min.—Total: 24 Min.
3rd penny gives	third 12 min.—Total: 36 Min.
ONE NICKEL gives	NEXT 60 min.—Total: 96 Min.
4th penny gives	ninth 12 min.—Total: 108 Min.
5th penny gives	tenth 12 min.—Total: 120 Min.

Double Parking Will NOT Be Tolerated . . . and Cars Must Be Parked Within Space Lines Painted on the Street. "NO PARKING" Areas Must Be Strictly Observed.

WILL YOUR CAR START AT 30 BELOW?

Let's face the truth . . . No, your car will not start at 30 below if your ignition system is not functioning properly; if your points are worn, bad or weak spark plugs, a run down battery, a weak coil, . . . All these will prevent your car from starting in sub-zero weather. Now is the time to make sure that yours will start. Remember also to check with us for all your winter driving accessories.

Iowa Helps Aid DP's

It's encouraging to see how enthusiastic Iowans are about helping Europe's stricken peoples.

A decade ago some politicians and public opinion experts looked upon Iowa as the heart and soul of middlewest isolationism. Here is the more recent record:

1. Iowans sacrificed both lives and labor hours in the war effort.
2. They have shown an avid interest and desire to help work for world peace.
3. Their generosity has been reflected in contributions to varied relief organizations feeding and clothing many Europeans.
4. They gave more than $26,000 to the Friendship Train for French and Italian peoples.

Iowa's latest advance in the field of human welfare is the state displaced persons committee. This voluntary group, headed by Rollo Bergeson, Iowa secretary of state, has begun a three-way survey to measure the state's desire and capacity to provide homes and work for Europe's displaced persons (DP's).

Specifically, three subcommittees will try to determine: (1) How many Iowans having relatives among DP's want to bring them here, (2) How many farm workers could be brought here and their subsequent benefit on Iowa's agricultural labor shortage and (3) What are this state's needs for non-farm workers.

The subcommittees—a church group, an agricultural labor subcommittee and a non-farm labor unit—comprise much of the working machinery under the main committee. Another subcommittee on public relations will publicize progress made.

Volunteers who are interested in the DP problem make up the committees. According to Chairman Bergeson, many Iowans have relatives (now displaced persons) in Europe. This is shown by the 117,245 foreign-born residents in Iowa in 1940.

Of these, 35,540 were German-born; 1,284 Polish, and a Russian-born total of 3,671. The majority of European DP's are natives of those countries. They do not wish to return to their homelands, which are for the most part under Communist rule.

We already boast thriving colonies of Dutch (7,840 foreign-born), Danish (10,977 foreign-born), Norwegians (8,642 born abroad), Swedish (11,406 Swedish-born) and Czechs (5,552 born in their fatherland).

This state's share of the 400,000 displaced persons allocated to the United States under the Stratton bill would be a mere drop in the bucket.

Entry of displaced persons may create minor problems of re-adjustment in labor relations and housing. But the fact that labor leaders have approved the Stratton bill should help to iron out these difficulties.

We're proud to see that Iowans are doing this bit to help the DP's.

Campus Chest Benefits Kinnick Scholarship

The Nile Kinnick Memorial Scholarship fund, one of the recipients of the Campus Chest drive now in progress, is directly beneficial to students.

The fund provides scholarships up to $750 for students who possess scholarship, leadership, citizenship and the emulation of the ideals that were exemplified by Nile Kinnick. Scholarships are granted by the University of Iowa Student Aid committee on the nominations made by the educational committee of the Iowa State Junior Chamber of Commerce.

A memorial to university students who died in World War II, the fund was established in January 1944.

Nile Kinnick, in whose memory the fund was named, was an All-American football player on the 1939 Iowa team and winner of the Heisman trophy of that year.

He was elected to Phi Beta Kappa and the Order of Artus, honorary commerce organization. He was killed while serving as a navy fighter pilot when his plane crashed into the Caribbean sea June 2, 1943. In the words of Lawrence "Pops" Harrison, head basketball coach, "The scholarship fund not only carries out a fine memorial to Kinnick, but also sets an example for other students to follow. Outstanding high school students in the state will set their sights on the scholarship since it is of such high merit."

The fund was originated by the local Junior Chamber of Commerce and was joined in the fall of 1944 by the state Jaycees. In the spring of 1945, the university alumni association and the "I" club began to assist with the fund.

Money in the fund is held in perpetuity and the net income therefrom is used to pay for the scholarships.

Winners of the 1947-48 scholarships are Richard C. Riecks, Danbury; James P. Sandrock, Dubuque; James A. Sangster, Iowa City; Max W. Sowers, Ames, and Donald F. Fryauf, Iowa City, all A1; Willard K. Shaw, A2, Marshalltown, and Robert G. Zender, C4, Cresco.

Russia Faces Two-Way Squeeze

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The United States delegation to the foreign ministers meeting in London is applying heavy pressure on the Russians from two directions.

One is to convince them that, failing of any unification agreement, a prosperous western Germany will be created to aid western Europe against the spread of bolshevism.

The other is to offset the Russian contention that they are the only ones who stand for German unity, and to convince the Germans that what the Bolsheviks really want is mastery, not rehabilitation.

There is always the latent hope, of course, that such pressure will cause Molotov to make some real concessions in his stand for a strong central German government (which the Communists could hope to take over as they have similar governments elsewhere) and reparations which Germany would be unable to pay now except through help from the west.

But as long as Russia is determined to defeat the Marshall plan and to foster economic chaos in western Europe for revolutionary purposes, there is no likelihood of any concrete success. The American program obviously is designed principally to keep the record straight. For a long time American diplomats have devoted themselves to that end, doubting that Russia has any intention of negotiating in good faith, but always keeping the door open for any change of heart.

On this latter point, it seems inconceivable that Russia could find anything in her program of disruption to balance the dangers of a unilateral allied program in western Germany. The Communists can always hope, of course, that they can create sufficient economic trouble for the western powers to make them drop Germany. But this chance would seem to be a slim thing against the possibility that Trizonia will be turned into a strong economic and potential military weapon.

France's announcement that she is ready to enter into negotiations for merger of her German zone with Anglo-American Bizonia if the conference fails is a part of the allied pressure. At the same time, talk of a separate peace with a federalized western Germany has lessened. Russia would face a Trizonia unified for economic purposes, with a German administration controlled by the allies but with sufficient promise to raise German hopes for the future. The Ruhr's production would be integrated into the Marshall plan, and its existence would be a constant barrier to Communist expansion in whatever form it may take including war.

Russia's cue at London, then, would be an attempt to take advantage of the American desire never to formally recognize the de facto splitting of Europe. Molotov just might make some show of compromise, in the hope of being able later to prevent real unification by the same tactics which vitiated the Potsdam agreement for four-power control. The western bloc shows no sign of falling for such tactics.

Dewey Becomes Aware of China

By SAMUEL GRAFTON
New York Post Syndicate

Governor Dewey came down to the Weldorf from Albany the other evening to do a speech about China, and the effect was very strange.

GRAFTON

Nobody had been talking about China much during the preceding days, and it was like the old Clayton, Jackson and Durante routine about "wood," in which the audience used to be subjected to an amazing series of changes on this theme, though none of them had had it in mind on coming to the show.

The governor, it happens, is on rather a hot spot. He supports the administration's foreign policy, yet as a potential presidential candidate for next year, he must do some intelligent opposing. Sometimes he does by saying that our foreign policy is good, but that he invented most of it. Sometimes, contrariwise, the governor does it by saying that he supports our foreign policy, but that it isn't very good.

One has an uneasy feeling that perhaps he gives $10 prizes to executive mansion employees for thinking up such what-a-bright-boy-am-I points of attack as the China thing.

This kind of in-fighting is typical Dewey. At such times he becomes a kind of male Clare Boothe Luce, dropping bright gags about how we need a "two-ocean foreign policy," and about how there are more people in China than there are in western Europe, and so on.

The point is that the administration has done a good deal of fretting about China. For years we have been sending emissaries over to report on the facts, and it has happened that the resulting report reveals so much graft and corruption in the national government that it has to be suppressed. When we do send aid to the national government so much of it is misused that the only result is to convert more of the Chinese people, by brigades and platoons, to communism. The idea of Dewey giving heavy advice on China to Marshall, who has been there, is rather funny.

Dewey's blithe acceptance of the national government, with throb effects, skips lightly by the critical sections in the famous Marshall report of last January.

Marshall, no hothead, and no Communist, denounced the "dominant reactionaries" in the Chinese government and said that only the liberals could save China.

He thus comes close to announcing the policy that we ought to help anybody who is anti-Communist, regardless of what else he is. But any such line would subordinate the positive, pro-democratic content of our foreign policy to its anti-Communist content; and it is the pro-freedom content which gives our policy life and affirmation.

Dewey hasn't found a hole in our foreign policy; he has merely fallen into one of his own. Marshall remarked crisply last January that the national government's reactionaries "have evidently counted upon substantial American support regardless of their actions." In Dewey's case they seem to have been right.

De Gaulle Has Two Right Hands

By JACK McDONOUGH

Charles De Gaulle, newly arisen in French political esteem, has two able right hands: Andre Malraux and Jacques Soustelle.

Both of them, one a writer and the other a professor, have the glory that surrounds Frenchmen who were big pistons in the resistance. Both of them have snappy brains, and neither can be called a militarist.

Although some leftists believe lanky De Gaulle is a not-to-be-trusted militarist with strong man ideas, it is noteworthy that Malraux and Soustelle are leftist of origin and still represent, to some extent, leftist sympathies.

Alexandre Aspel, assistant professor of Romance languages here at the University of Iowa, and a former link in the French resistance chain, spoke colorfully of these men who first fought with arms and who fight now with De Gaulle in the battle of French recovery politics.

Good looking Andre Malraux, 46, a writer, serves the present function of political theorist for De Gaulle. Aspel, particularly impressed by Malraux's brilliance, said,

"All those who have approached Malraux have been impressed by the rapidity of his thinking and by the originality of his views. He speaks swiftly; he is very nervous."

Aspel spoke of Malraux's fluency of thought, of the depth of his political perception and how deeply Malraux has been immersed in the flow of the times.

A well-known author, Malraux, received in 1933 Le Prix Goncourt for his "La Condition Humaine," (Man's Fate) written about the Chinese revolution. Malraux has said that he has not changed, but that the world has. To interpret this statement would not delight reactionaries by placing Malraux with them, for although Malraux has never been a Communist, he has written about them, and he has spoken highly of their discipline in battle and in politics.

Aspel interpreted Malraux's statement to mean that although the Communists have been Malraux's comrades-in-larms, he believes that the future fight of Communism is no longer to be one for freedom and dignity of man, as he believed it to be in Spain and in China, but a fight for a new collective slavery.

In moving with the times, Malraux displays tremendous energy and an almost fanatic desire to be in the heat of fiery political or military battle.

That is why he went to China and fought side by side with the Communists against the Kuomintang. That is why he was a squadron leader in the Loyalist air force in Spain in 1936 where he was wounded. He came to America on a tour in 1937 to gather funds for the Loyalists. His thirst for action is the reason he organized a resistance force in southwestern France during the recent war.

has lessened. Russia would face a Trizonia unified for economic purposes, with a German administration controlled by the allies but with sufficient promise to raise German hopes for the future. The Ruhr's production would be integrated into the Marshall plan, and its existence would be a constant barrier to Communist expansion in whatever form it may take including war.

Russia's cue at London, then, would be an attempt to take advantage of the American desire never to formally recognize the de facto splitting of Europe. Molotov just might make some show of compromise, in the hope of being able later to prevent real unification by the same tactics which vitiated the Potsdam agreement for four-power control. The western bloc shows no sign of falling for such tactics.

It is also an indication that Malraux's name will appear more and more in newspapers. He has long been an admirer of De Gaulle, and De Gaulle seems to like Malraux more than a little.

After he was wounded in the Spanish civil war, Malraux wrote one of his best known books, "Man's Hope," wherein he said that the only form of revolution from now on will be international war, that the day of internal revolution is over.

Aspel remarked that it was also Malraux who repeated with peculiar emphasis Napoleon's statement that the tragedy of our times is "politics," that is, the tragedy is in man's social problems, not in his personal life.

When the Germans invaded France, Malraux was caught, but he escaped to organize resistance in southwestern France. He led a group of Maquis which contained Communists as well as those of other political hue. It was during this resistance that he tied up with De Gaulle, whom he did not then know personally.

He carried on the fight under the name "Colonel Berger" and when De Gaulle returned in 1944, Colonel Berger entered his Marquis as a division in the regular French army and while advancing with the French forces into Germany, he met De Gaulle.

Just how then do we link Malraux with De Gaulle? What have they in common? According to Aspel, the "grandeur" of De Gaulle furnishes at least one thing in common. And certainly, anything that can be done to raise the culture of a country the slightest bit, Aspel thought, will add to the "grandeur." Culture is the main worry of Malraux. He has always fought to assert the dignity of man, and he believes that without culture, there is no dignity.

In an interview published in "Combat," in November, 1946, Malraux spoke of bringing culture to the peasant. This did not mean, Aspel interpreted, levelling culture to the peasants' intellectual height, but putting culture in easy reach to the peasant. But would the peasant reach for it? Aspel thinks that with the Frenchman there is "always a feature of intellectual effort."

Malraux's idea for bringing culture to the peasants is to place in each village a "house of culture," stocked with good musical records, good books and paintings.

If the rumor is true that Malraux will be made a sort of propaganda minister, he will not be lacking in thought on the international situation. And what does Malraux think of France's international place?

He gave the answer a year ago in a speech at UNESCO, recalled Aspel, a man with a Memory. France, said Malraux, is the mediator of understanding between civilizations. This is so, he said, because only France has attained such a degree of understanding civilizations. The French pride themselves on this ability to understand, said Aspel.

But with civilizations encircling cultures, which civilization would Malraux support? Apparently the western civilization, because he believes it is the only civilization able to understand cultures.

Aspel said in effect that when a new culture enters the western civilization there is a pricking up, a flurry of fuss over it, and a general enriching of the civilization's other components.

And that is why, said Malraux, the western civilization is universal.

Thirty-five-year-old Jacques Soustelle, facing life through black horn rimmed spectacles, has been politically active since he joined the Vigilance Committee which became active since Hitler's Reich.

Young Soustelle, doctor of ethnography, comes on the French scene as De Gaulle's secretary general in the Rassemblement du Peuple Francais (R.P.F.). According to Aspel, he may offer De Gaulle "the sympathies of the university intellectuals."

He came to join the "Vigilance Committee of Anti-Fascist Intellectuals" after becoming an aid to Paul River, director of the French Musee de l'Homme, and the important man in the Vigilance Committee.

The leadership of the Musee de l'Homme, formed a homogeneous group of democratic individuals, Aspel said, who were progressive in their ideas and very active. Their goal was to modernize educational institutions.

The group had the "honor" of being the first resistance against the Germans," Aspel said. He qualified "first," however, by saying that it was the first French resistance group in which the Germans made arrests. And when Aspel said "honor," he referred to the "nobility" that a German-hating Frenchman accord someone arrested in this group.

This group instituted a resistance organization in Lyon, southeast of central France, with a branch in Paris. They smuggled out of the country those persons whose heels were warm with German breath. All of its six Parisian members were taken by the Germans in 1940.

Soustelle became minister of information in the Free French government in London when he escaped from France at the end of 1940. While he was still on the continent, he supplied the London government with information obtained through espionage. In 1943 he joined De Gaulle in Africa and stayed with him

Autobiography of a Sucker

By WESTBROOK PEGLER
King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Something tells me that the man who started selling the St. Louis Browns to Richard Muckerman, 10 years ago or so, probably was the same fellow that was spinning around that suite up there in the Chase hotel in St. Louis back in the twenties when the Cardinals had won a pennant and we were very young and so was the outhouse inside us.

What for kind of looking type of party was he, Muckerman? Was he kind of tall and jaundiced-looking with kind of sunk-in eyes and a Texas hat and a watch-chain with an odd-fellows fob? Talked a sort of a whiney drawl, did he, Muckerman, and playing caroms off the bathroom door and the sofa where that lady was setting?

Sounds to me mighty like the same man, Muckerman. A few years older than the time he sold me Lil Stoner, the old Detroit pitcher, in that suite at the Chase hotel for $1,500, and $500 for a catcher, because a pitcher is 'no good without you got a boy to catch him. It couldn't be anyone else.

And, tell me, Muckerman, now, was that a right pretty sort of lady, a red-head, setting there on the sofa all night long while the gallant stags were harmonizing and arching their necks and fetching her drams and ev'body thought she was somebody else's true loving spouse?

Muckerman, you and me, we have had the same dream. Same cast. Same plot, shook up a little. In a hundred rooms, at the Copley in Boston for the Harvards and the Yales, at the Ritz in Philadelphia, the Commodore, the Drake and those old pigeon-lofts in Washington, the scene was always the same, give or take a few characters. And always there was a nice-acting, pretty-looking, red-headed, sir-I'm-a-lady kind of lady on the couch.

Edna! That was her name! Her name was Edna, because I remember one night we all put our little touzeled heads together and sang "There is always a girl named Edna."

Well, this whiney-voiced party somehow picked on me to buy Lil Stoner who had been a real good pitcher for the Tigers and had gone down to Dallas when his term was up. I said, "no, I don't want to buy him."

Then this lady, Edna, began to say, "Why don't you buy Lil Stoner, Red?" and she started to cry and yell.

until the general, symbol of life, freedom and French "grandeur," finally appeared in France at the end of five torturous years of German occupation.

Aspel said that Soustelle is a very active man with inflexible "will." He served in De Gaulle's cabinet during De Gaulle's interim leadership from the liberation until January 1946.

What place Soustelle will now fulfill is not definite. It is hinted that he will become the new minister of interior, a post in the French cabinet with policing France as one of its functions.

Mrs. Don Lewis To Discuss Russia

A first-hand description of Russia will be given today by Mrs. Don Lewis at the international affairs meeting in the YWCA rooms at 4:30 p.m.

Mrs. Lewis, whose husband is a member of the university psychology department, worked for the United States delegation at the council of foreign ministers in Moscow last spring.

During her month-and-a-half stay in Moscow she served as a technical secretary and information specialist.

Mrs. Lewis said most of the conference meetings were open, and she saw Molotov frequently. She saw Stalin once when attending an opera.

In her speech before the international affairs group she will give her general impression of the trip and her own viewpoint towards Russia.

The meeting is open to all students and faculty members.

Camera club will meet at 7:30 Thursday night in the Hawkeye Photo barracks near East Hall. Members should bring their cameras. Models will be provided.

Seniors in the colleges of Liberal arts and commerce who have received Hawkeye cards listing their appointments and who have missed those appointments are requested to have their pictures taken for Hawkeye by Dec. 5. Hawkeye senior pictures are being taken at EHTB temporary barracks on Jefferson street. Seniors who have not received cards will be notified by card about pictures at a later date.

Prof. R. S. Hoyt of the department

I never could stand a lady yelling and carrying on, so the upshot was that somebody pulled out a check on a little old busted bank down around Poplar Bluff and I filled it in for $2,000, and he wrote out a bill of sale for Lil Stoner and one.

When Christmas came I wrote Lil Stoner a nice note. I said I didn't want to stand in the way of his advancement so, inasmuch as I didn't have any ball-club, I was giving him his unconditional release, then I wrote an article for the great American free press giving the same notice to one, my catcher.

So, now, Muckerman, you tell me.

Was that how it was you bought into the Browns that night at the party in Jefferson City?

And tell me, for my purely historical interest, how was Edna and have the years been kind to her?
