SACRAMENTO, CALIF. (AP)—The dogcatcher got a goat in his net and now wishes he hadn't.

House GOP Members Seek Further Emergency Aid Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rank and file Republican legislators called last night for a whittling of the $590-million recommended by the house foreign affairs committee for emergency aid to France, Italy and Austria.

GOP Floor Leader Halleck (R-Ind.) said following a meeting of all house Republicans that the committee's figure, trimmed $7-million from the sum authorized by the Senate Monday, was regarded by many representatives as "still too high."

New Atomic Weapons Are In Production, Lillenthal Declares

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Atom Age observed its fifth birthday anniversary yesterday, toddling forward with precocious strength toward new weapons, new medical discoveries, new displaced persons and possibly toward "the ultimate secrets of nature."

New atomic weapons, made from both uranium and plutonium, are "in current production and under design" by American scientists and engineers, David E. Lillenthal, chairman of the atomic energy commission, revealed in a speech at Atlantic City, N. J.

Whether these weapons are atom bombs or some new and perhaps even more deadly military use of atomic power was not disclosed by Lillenthal, who addressed the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

He said the U. S. has spent some $2,500,000,000 on atomic development and the total will rise to approximately $5,000,000,000 in the next few years "if this country really means business."

The commission chairman said the reason a group of businessmen and engineers was given access recently to secret atomic information was that chosen groups must have this data if atomic energy is to advance rapidly for peaceful as well as military purposes.

The fifth anniversary was observed formally at the University of Chicago.

Convict Who Cheated Chair Dies in Bed

RAIFORD, FLA., (AP)—J. W. Buchanan, 76, cheated the electric chair for 20 years—and died in bed signed a death warrant for lack.

Convicted in 1927 of slaying two prohibition officers, Buchanan made appeal after appeal. Each stayed a new execution date. His last appeal failed in 1932, but oversight saved him again.

"It just so happened," related the warden, "that no governor had signed a death warrant for him since."

Doomed to electrocution, Buchanan died peacefully in Raiford prison hospital late Monday.

Fight Premier With National Labor Front

ROME, (Wednesday) (AP)—Italy's Communist party early today called Premier de Gasperi's Christian Democrat party a dictatorship "seeking to enslave Italy to the foreigners" and appealed for a nation-wide "labor front" to fight it.

A lengthy communique issued after a two-day meeting made it clear the leftists had no intention of abandoning strikes, demonstrations and political violence as weapons in their three-week-old war of nerves on de Gasperi.

As the active front in this war moved from northern to southern Italy, the Communist directorate sent greetings to "workers of all parties" who, it said, had displayed their "decided will to resist" the "reactionary counter-offensive stimulated and supported" by the government.

There are no Communists in de Gasperi's cabinet. Continued ignorance of the Communists and their allies, the communique said, would be an "act of open hostility" against the workers and intellectuals and mean "permanent division of the nation" with "provocation to disorder and civil war."

The leftist "citizens committee" of Milan, which staged a smoothly functioning near-insurrection last week, yesterday declared itself "satisfied" and apparently signalled the end to the dispute with the government over the appointment of a prefect.

The mysterious committee, also known as the "committee of agitation," in its announcement applauded the army and police for "demonstrating in a particularly delicate situation... a high sense of democratic public spirit and humanitarian responsibility."

The army was ordered by the government to take over the city and province of Milan on Friday when thousands of partisans gathered before the palace of the leftist prefect, Atore Troilo, who was slated to be removed and given a job with the UN. However, the army never took over.

At that time, a billfold with $13, a gold cigarette case, a comb, a tube of lipstick and a small white button were in the purse, according to Miss Nolan. When recovered last night, the money and the case were gone from the pocketbook, but a flashlight had been put in the purse. Miss Nolan said the flashlight wasn't in the purse when she lost it.

A search after the game failed to find the purse. Yesterday the purse was reported on the ice below the bridge. Adamson borrowed four grappling hooks and a rope from the fire department about 6:30 last night and went to work.

At 9:30, the purse, dangling on the end of a hook, was recovered and taken to the police station. During the recovery process one grappling hook was lost. Police are checking the pocketbook for fingerprints.

Lashes Federal Bookkeeping

WASHINGTON (AP)—Presidential "political appointees" and the whole vast structure of federal bookkeeping came under fire yesterday as congress delved into the handling of billions of dollars by the reconstruction finance corporation during World War II.

T. Coleman Andrews, former auditor chief of the general accounting office, told a house subcommittee on federal expenditures that the government's bookkeeping is so bad no one really knows whether the treasury had a surplus or a deficit in the last fiscal year.

The "surplus" of $757 million the treasury announced was "just a balance of cash," he said, and even businesses which are broke usually have some cash on hand. Turning to RFC accounts, he said they were so "inept" that the story of what became of wartime billions could only be disclosed "if you dug hard enough. But it will never be apparent in any government reports."

Andrews appeared as the first witness in the house group's investigation of RFC expenditures. Former Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones was RFC chairman from 1932 to January, 1945.

Andrews blasted what he termed the selection of "political appointees" to head the nation's great money-handling agencies. He urged that such posts should go to men "who have demonstrated by every act of their lifetimes that they have no politics and who are above the civil service level with its 'fixed formula' of qualifications."

Andrews said his report on the RFC, sent to congress last summer, "indicated waste and extravagance, but did not charge any specific wrong-doing."

Mail 10,000 Copies Of New Magazine, The Alumni Review

Mailing of 10,000 copies of the Alumni association's new magazine, The Iowa Alumni Review, will begin today as the first issue goes out to members of the association and to other alumni over the country.

This is the first magazine publication of the group since The Iowa Alumnus was discontinued in 1925.

Subsequent issues of The Iowa Alumni Review will be sent only to annual and life members of the association, although approximately 9,000 copies of the first issue are being sent as publicity material to Iowa alumni who are not members.

This launches the association's first full-scale membership drive in recent years.

The magazine, which features news of the university and of alumni activities, will be published bi-monthly, according to Loren Hickerson, executive secretary of the alumni association and editor of the magazine.

Managing editor of the publication is Robert Noble, an executive assistant in the alumni service.

Tentative plans for the future development of the magazine include articles by Iowa alumni, information on member groups in various cities and towns and monthly publication.

Membership fees for the association are $4 a year for a regular membership and $6 a year for a "family" membership for husband and wife. Graduating seniors may join the association for $2 a year for five years following graduation, but must pay the regular $4 fee thereafter.

Campus Chest Drive Expected To Reach $2,000 by Tonight

The Campus Chest drive gained momentum yesterday and Chairman Ray Tierney, A4, predicted that collections will reach $2,000 by tonight.

Tierney said campus organizations are cooperating very well and the drive's success now depends on individual solicitors.

Six bands will furnish music for an all-university matinee dance sponsored by Campus Chest at Iowa Union Saturday 2 to 5 p. m., according to Bud Booton, publicity chairman.

Playing in the main lounge one hour each will be Larry Barrett, Bill Meardon and Nat Williams. Jay Wieder, J. Ellsworth and the Savoy orchestra will play in the River room. The Union board is providing the main lounge for the dance.

"Seeds of Destiny," an Academy Award winning film of student life in war-torn countries, will be shown free to students by the Campus Chest committee at 221A Shaeffer hall today at 4:30 and 7 p. m., tomorrow at 4:30 p. m., and at 225 Shaeffer hall tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. The film was released through the World Student Service fund, one of the drive's recipients.

Students not contacted through organized housing units may contribute to the booth in front of Old Capitol which will be manned daily throughout the drive. Campus Chest badges will be given to each individual who donates a dollar or more.

Tells Educators Field Should Be Functional

By FRANCES NESHEIM

Education in the next decade should become more "functional," with a tie-up between experience and textbook learning, Prof. Edgar Johnston of the University of Michigan told nearly 350 educators from Iowa and nearby states yesterday.

High school students, he said, desire education to prepare them for life, instead of the college preparatory courses they are now getting in high school.

Johnston spoke at the 32nd annual conference on administration and supervision sponsored by the University of Iowa extension division and college of education.

The Michigan professor gave several points he thought secondary schools should follow. Among them were:

- 1. Maximum personal and social development of the individual. 2. Confidence of students as citizens in the family and community. 3. Successful participation in home and family. 4. Appreciation of literature and the arts. 5. Skill in use of language as communication, not only as English and grammar rules. 6. Health—both mental and physical. 7. Inter-cultural education.

Speaking on education of handicapped children at the evening session, Prof. Samuel Kirk of the University of Illinois said "we have found that most of these children can be educated in public schools. Institutional care is not the latest word in educating them."

Kirk said there are three groups of handicapped children, the physically and mentally handicapped and the socially maladjusted, who should be given special education.

Kirk also mentioned the problem of mentally superior children which educators "do not know what to do with."

"In this country we believe in equal opportunities for all," Kirk said. "Unless a school system provides an educational program for handicapped children or superior children it is not living up to this belief."

Other conference speakers were Prof. John Haefner and H. Vernon Price of the University of Iowa, and Norman Stageberg of Iowa State Teachers college.

The conference ends today. Speakers will include Wendell Johnson and James Curtis, University of Iowa professors, and Prof. Kirk.

RAOUL CALAS Ousted from Assembly

French Assembly Approves 1st Article Of Anti-Strike Bill

PARIS, (Wednesday) (AP)—The French National assembly overrode Communist opposition by a decisive margin early today and approved the first article of Premier Robert Schuman's drastic, five-part anti-strike bill.

The article, suspending for three months the present French law, punishes sabotage by a maximum 180,000 franc ($1,500) fine and three months imprisonment. The vote favoring the article was 402 to 183, with only the assembly's Communist bloc opposing it.

The other four articles of the bill will be debated and voted on one by one, after which there will be a vote on the bill as a whole. The vote came as France's three-week-old strike wave began ebbing. A highly placed neutral official said last night he believed the Communists were beginning to lose their first big offensive in the French "cold war."

As the assembly neared completion of a drastic strike-control law, ministry of labor sources estimated the number of strikers had dropped to "well under" 2,000,000. At its peak the strike movement had tied up nearly 3,000,000 men, it was unofficially estimated.

The national assembly spent 3 1/2 hours this afternoon hearing Communist orators protest the expulsion by a symbolic force of guardsmen early this morning of Communist Deputy Taoul Calas from the chamber.

The 9 1/2-hour Communist occupation of the chamber to prevent the expulsion of Calas for allegedly "inciting the army to revolt," apparently had cleared the atmosphere.

One deputy commented, "Their maneuver has eliminated from France the Communist bogeyman who has haunted French politics since the liberation."

Bargaining Will Begin Early In '48

Leaders Say Unions Seek To 'Lighten Burden Caused by Inflation'

WASHINGTON (AP)—CIO leaders yesterday demanded a third round of post-war wage increases for the 6,000,000 members of CIO unions.

President Philip Murray and the nine vice-presidents of CIO made the announcement at the end of an all-day meeting. They expressed their determination to "lighten the unbearable economic burden" they said had been brought on by price inflation.

"To this end," the union leaders announced, "the CIO and its affiliated unions shall proceed through the channels of collective bargaining to obtain substantial wage increases for the American workers to restore their loss in real income suffered through inflation and assure sustained purchasing power as the foundation for continued maximum employment and production."

The CIO's demand posed a heavy additional problem for the administration, driving against odds to get President Truman's 10-point economic program through a Republican congress.

In an effort to meet congressional demands that it "get specific" on the program, the administration was drafting two anti-inflation bills.

Murray told reporters that the first of the collective bargaining negotiations probably will start early next year. His own steelworkers union, will not open negotiations until April. This was taken to mean that some other CIO group such as the United Automobile Workers, the maritime unions or the United Electrical Workers will start the ball rolling.

"We are all living in hope that it will not be necessary to have strikes," Murray told a questioner. The so-called first round of wage increases after V-J day amounted generally speaking to 18 1/2 cents an hour and were obtained in the spring of 1946. A second round, of 15 cents, went through last spring.

Wolves, Irish Dominate AP All-America

Noire Dame Puts Two on AP First Team

By TED SMITS
Associated Press General Sports Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—Notre Dame and Michigan, as befits the victorious records of these midwestern football giants, dominate the 1947 Associated Press All-American squad announced yesterday.

Johnny Lujack, Notre Dame's superb T-formation quarterback, is the only repeater from 1946, and is joined on the first team by William Fischer, sturdy Irish guard, Notre Dame's tackles, Ziggy Czarowski and George Connor, are on the second and third teams.

Masters of Michigan's offense, Bob Chappuis, is in the first backfield, with Bob Mann, Michigan's great offensive end, and Chalmers Elliott, regarded by many as a back almost the equal of Chappuis, on the second team.

Thus each has four on the squad, with Notre Dame the only college to place two on the first team.

Other first team members are: Paul Cleary, Southern California, and Bill Swiacki, Columbia, ends; Bob Davis, Georgia Tech, and Dick Harris, Texas, tackles; Steve Suhey, Penn State, guard; Charles Bednarik, Pennsylvania, center; Ray Evans, Kansas, and Doak Walker, Southern Methodist, backs.

Geographically the first team presents four mid-westerners, three easterners, three men from the south and southwest and one from the far west. Of the 33 men on the three teams, six are from the east, 11 from the midwest, 12 from the south and southwest, and four from the far west.

Selected on the basis of reports from more than 250 Associated Press newspaper sports editors and staff writers, the composition of the first three teams reflects the year's trend to team play rather than individual brilliance.

crop of pass catching ends; by a powerful group of centers of almost equal ability; and by the performance without, however, a single dominating figure cast in the mold of such heroes as Red Grange, Dutch Clark, or, more recently, Army's Felix Blanchard and Glenn Davis. There is in fact little to choose between the men on the all-American backfields down to the third team.

The new rule lifting all bars on substitutions meant that the "iron men" of yesterday have disappeared and specialists in all phases of the game have taken their place.

Carrying specialization to its ultimate is Swiacki, first team end, called by his coach, Lou Little, "as good a receiver as I've ever seen on any team in college, school or pro ranks." Swiacki's ability to gather in the ball rain or shine, running or faling, over his head or at his shoelaces accounted for the stunning 21-20 victory over an Army team that had gone unbeaten for more than three years.

At the other end is Paul Cleary of Southern California, a more banded player, strong on defense, a good pass catcher and dangerous as a runner on end around plays. He seldom makes a mistake.

Davis Standout at Tackle
Standing out at tackle is Bobby Davis of Georgia Tech, a 225-pounder who is six feet, four. He and bruising treatment—he is not brittle and can dish it out as well as take it. He is a sharp shooting passer and a brilliant runner.

Adding running punch and power to the backfield is Ray Evans of the University of Kansas. He can pass with the best, is a bruising blocker and a strong defensive back—but it is as a runner that he earns his place in the first team backfield. His own coach, George Sauer, spares no praise. "He is the greatest back I've ever seen, including college and pro," says Sauer.

Walker Only Sophomore
Only sophomore in the otherwise all-senior first team backfield, Doak Walker of Southern Methodist has been acclaimed by many experts as "the best back of the year." He does everything—passes, runs spectacularly, blocks, punts and is a key defensive man. Much will probably be heard from him in the coming two years.

If the first team backfield could be stretched to five, it would take Charles Conery of Mississippi, who holds the distinction of setting a new college record for completed passes—a total of 120 for 1186 yards in the first nine games. This slender senior could also carry the ball, and he was helped materially by the fact that every time he went back the defenses were spread out for fear of a pass. Probably no college team in the country depended so much on the performance of one man as did Mississippi on Conery.

Thus, lined up behind the first team backfield are four men of virtually equal ability: Conery, Chalmers (Bump) Elliott of Michigan, Harry Gilmer of Alabama and Charlie Justice of North Carolina.

In this group many rate Elliott as equal to his teammate Chappuis; Gilmer is the spark of the powerful Alabama offense, and Justice, dangerous every time he carries the ball, has progressed materially since his freshman year in 1946.

Hold Edge Over Wolves

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

NEW YORK (AP)—Notre Dame clung to its ranking as No. 1 college football team in The Associated Press poll yesterday and the Fighting Irish will be defending that lofty position as well as their perfect record when they collide with Southern California Saturday.

Sports writers participating in the weekly balloting kept Coach Frank Leahy's all-victorious South Bend's in the top spot by a mere eight points over Michigan's unbeaten Big Nine champions, compared with the 30 points which separated the two powers the previous week.

Notre Dame drew 58½ first place votes and Michigan got 54½, with three of the 129 experts calling first place a tie between the two. On the usual basis of ten points for a first place vote, nine for second, and so on, the Irish compiled 1,184 points to 1,176 for the Wolverines.

Southern California, Pacific Coast conference champion and Rose Bowl host, moved into the third slot this week, changing places with Southern Methodist which dropped to fourth after missing its bid for an all-victorious season by playing a 19-19 tie with Texas Christian.

The unbeaten but once-tied Trojans, who will be trying to become the first team in two years to whip Notre Dame Saturday, polled two first place votes and 836 points, compared with 745 points and no first place ballots for Southern Methodist.

The total vote with points figured on a 10-9-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis (first place votes in parentheses):

1—Notre Dame (58½)	1184
2—Michigan (54½)	1176

U-High Halts Roosevelt, 29-23 Hawk Cagers Work On Defensive Lapses

Local Spurt Tips CR Team

University high marked up their second victory in as many starts, last night easing past Roosevelt high of Cedar Rapids, 29-23, on the Bluehawk floor.

The visiting Rough Riders took a four-point lead early in the first quarter but finished the period on the tail end of an 8-5 count. Never again did Roosevelt come closer than three points of the Blues.

Coach Lou Alley's Bluehawks pumped in seven straight field goals in the last half of the first quarter and the first part of the following period. They led 16-12 at halftime.

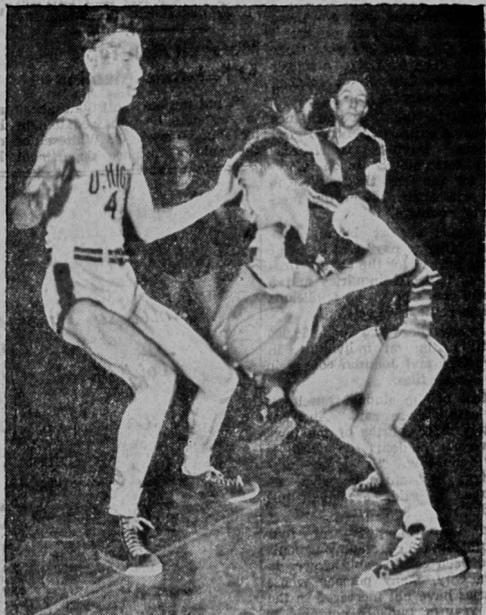

Both teams flailed away at the basket in the third quarter with Roosevelt holding their own through charity tosses.

The first six minutes of the fourth period produced only three points, a field goal for the Blues, and a free throw for the Rough Riders. In a late spurt Bob Rasley dumped a set-up shot and Fritz Harshbarger contributed two free tosses to ice the game for the Bluehawks.

Superior rebounding and ability to score from beyond the free throw loop spelled the difference for the Blues. Both backboards were controlled by the lanky locals.

Bob Rasley, U-high forward, headed all scorers with ten points, two from the free-throw line. Forward Russ Wiley led the losers with four field goals.

Roosevelt's second team squeezed past the Blue and White seconds in a preliminary game, 14-13.

Hawklets Trounce Badly Outclassed Washington, 49-14

By SPANK BROTHERS

City high defeated a badly outclassed Washington high school team 49-14 last night in the City high gym.

Big Gene Hettrick, who scored 20 points for the Hawklets with his tip-in shots from under the basket, helped the City high cagers out to an early lead which they never relinquished.

After a slow start the Little Hawks pulled ahead to a 14-5 first quarter margin. Bob "Whitely" Diehl, Jerry Dunham and Hettrick continued to score, increasing the lead to 27-3 by half time.

The third quarter was the feature of last night's game. Washington was unable to score during the entire quarter. The Orange and Black from south of Iowa City attempted nine field goals and three free throws but were unable to put the ball through the hoop.

Coach Gil Wilson sent his Hawklet first team to the showers midway through the third period with the scoreboard reading 45-10, and the City high reserves finished out the ball game.

The Davenport "B" squad romped to a 41-21 victory over the City high "B" team in one preliminary contest and the City high sophomores defeated the Washington "B" team in a game preceding the main event, 29-16.

Hawk Cagers Work On Defensive Lapses

With one game under their belt, a rousing 82-43 victory over Carleton college of Northfield, Minn., Monday night, Iowa's cage team began hard scrimmage drills on defense yesterday afternoon in preparation for their second non-conference encounter with South Dakota university at the fieldhouse Saturday night.

The defensive play against the Carls, termed as the Hawkeye's most serious lapse by Coach Pops Harrison, was far below Big Nine standard, especially on defensive rebounding. No doubt this will take a good bit of the cagers' time between now and Jan. 5, date of the conference opener against Ohio State.

"Defensive rebound work was especially lax as our boys failed to get into good position," Pops said. "Sporadic team and individual lapses on defense also were evident. We gave away several baskets that we can't afford to lose."

Yesterday's defensive drill against a freshman five saw Bob Schulz and Jack Spencer working at the front line guards, Metcalfe at center, and Murray Wier and Charlie Mason, the dynamite duo who scored 18 and 12 points respectively against Carleton, at the forwards. Later in practice the second and third teams worked against the frosh.

While the Hawks were sinking Carleton with comparative ease, their next opponent, South Dakota, was winning just as handily over Sioux Falls college, 70-40. The Iowa-Dakota meeting Saturday will be the second for both clubs.

Wendell Hill, Hawkeye junior varsity basketball coach, yesterday announced an 18-man squad for this season. Members of the JV team are eligible to play with the varsity.

They are: Lloyd Berg Jr., James Clark, Elwin Duham, Arnod Espe,

Irish Defeat Parnell, 36-30

BY AL SCHMAHL
 Assistant Sports Editor

St. Patrick's staged off a 1st quarter Parnell rally last night to capture a 36-30 win in a rough and ragged contest at Parnell. Thus, the Irish gained their second consecutive victory of the young cage season.

With both teams playing a pressing man-to-man defense on the very small Parnell court, the action throughout was fast and furious. Many times the ball changed hands with neither team getting a shot at the basket.

The Shamrocks of Parnell jumped into an early 4-0 lead when the Irish mixed up their defensive assignments. At the end of the first quarter St. Pat's held a scant 9-7 lead.

St. Pat's upped their lead to 19-13 by halftime and led 25-14 midway in the third period. But by the end of the quarter Parnell had closed the gap to 29-21.

Midway in the fourth period the Irish held a 34-25 lead, but the scrappy Shamrock five, led by Finnegan, cut the margin to 34-30 with a minute to go. At that point, Duffy broke in for a lay-up shot to give the Irish their winning margin.

Paul Flannery Out Of Rambler Lineup

Fighting the injury jinx that has beset them all season, St. Mary's Ramblers take to the court tonight in an attempt to get back into the win column when they meet St. Mary's of Clinton on the Junior high floor at 7:30 p. m.

Paul Flannery, ace guard, will be missing from the Rambler lineup for tonight's contest. It was originally thought that Flannery was suffering from a spleen injury. However, later diagnosis has determined that it may be only strained stomach muscles and that he may be out for only a few days. He will be X-rayed today to determine the extent of his injuries.

But Coach Frank Sueppel has one bright spot in the gloom surrounding the Ramblers' court fortunes.

Mottet, regular starting forward, will be back in action after being absent from the first five games due to a throat infection.

St. Mary's Hilltoppers, who have their same team back from last year, posted a win in their only previous game this season.

The starting lineups:
 ST. MARY'S (IOWA CITY) ST. MARY'S (CLINTON)
 Sueppel, F. Dermodey
 Back, F. Junker
 Boyd, C. DeLaney
 Rydel, G. Cramm
 King, G. Clark
 Place: Junior high gym.

Guard Against Credit Buying

This Christmas will see more merchandise purchased on credit in Iowa City than any year since the war, John T. Wiese, manager of the Iowa City credit bureau, predicted yesterday.

It will be the first year since 1940 to be entirely free from government buying restrictions. Many commodities made available for the first time since the war will again be on the merchants' counters.

A guard against buying "beyond ability to pay" will be made by the bureau for the buyers' protection. "Special inquiries and a careful check on credit applicants will be made," Wiese said.

Already there are some 50,000 credit ratings on individuals in Iowa City and Johnson county in the bureau files.

Most of the student purchases are cash, Wiese said. Approximately three-fourths of the Iowa university students do little if any charging. "A large percentage of students who do charge," he said, "are single girl students."

In the past three or four months, he added, credit payments have been considerably slower in Iowa City. Many persons whose salaries have not increased in the last year or two are not able to meet the higher cost of living.

"Now is a very poor time to go into debt," Wiese advised. In order to avoid credit trouble he urged:

1. Not to buy any more than you can afford to pay for now and,
2. Be sure you have your money or the last cash payment on an installment purchase.

Present McBroom Portrait to University

A portrait of the late Prof. Maude McBroom of the college of education was presented to the university last night.

At a dinner for the thirty-second annual conference of administrators in education, Elmer T. Peterson, dean of the division of research and training, accepted the portrait for the university. Mrs. James Kent, 7 Kirkwood circle, was the artist.

Prof. McBroom, who died last July, was a member of the faculty of the college of education from 1922 until her death. She was a past president of both the local chapter and the national organization of Pi Lambda Theta, honorary association of women in education.

Prof. Forrest C. Ensign of the college of education, in making the presentation, said Prof. McBroom "was a truly great teacher who taught, as she did everything else, with clarity and verve."

Ensign praised Pi Lambda Theta and Phi Delta Kappa, honorary fraternities for men in education for initiating the movement for the portrait as a memorial to Prof. McBroom. The portrait was financed by her many friends and former students throughout the country.

Speech Conference To Conduct Survey Of 100 Participants

An attitude questionnaire covering everything from "international issues to the length of women's skirts" will be presented to participants in the forensics conference to be held there Friday and Saturday.

Leroy Cowperthwaite, graduate assistant in the speech department and manager of the conference, said yesterday the answers to questions on the scale "will present a good cross-section of student opinion" on the issues involved.

One hundred students representing 16 colleges and universities in the conference will answer the questionnaire.

Included will be questions such as "Whom would you vote for if a presidential election were held tomorrow?" "Should OPA controls be re-instituted?" "Should more or less emphasis be placed on college athletics?" "Should students grade their professors?" and even "Who will win in the Rose Bowl?"

Prof. A. Craig Baird announced that graduate assistants in charge of phases of the conference program will be Margaret Wood, Denison, discussion; Ruth Koch, Rock Island, Ill., public speaking; Fred Barton, Abilene, Texas, extempore speaking; Herbert Kazzell, New York, N. To Investigate Conservation Of Fuel Oil

Married students' fuel conservation committee will meet tomorrow with J. Robert Cotter, manager of married student housing in his Riverdale office at 7 p.m.

The six member committee, named two weeks ago by Robert Van Horne, president of the University Married Students organization, will investigate ways of conserving fuel oil.

Local oil companies last month reported a possible shortage for this area.

Members of the committee include Ernest Montague, North park, Charles Murry, Riverside park, Mrs. Clark Sloan and Mrs. Evan Hultman of Hawkeye village and William Yappa and Ivor Hyndman of Riverdale.

"It still looks as if we're in for a fuel shortage here," Cotter reported yesterday.

He attributed his statement to: 1. Prediction by national oil men of spot shortages this winter.

2. Preparation by oil companies of information on fuel conservation.

A spot shortage may occur here, Cotter said, because the "demand within this area has increased tremendously" with the addition of temporary housing. Kelly oil company, one of the suppliers for married student housing, said yesterday they expected to receive fuel conservation pamphlets "very shortly." This information, published by the petroleum industries committee, will be distributed in temporary housing areas.

The 43 works will be exhibited in the main lounge of Iowa Union through Feb. 8, following the formal presentation at 4:30 p.m. Sunday.

The collection will be accepted in behalf of the university by President Virgil M. Hancher. Prof. Earl E. Harper, director of the school of fine arts, will preside at the ceremony, sponsored by the fine arts committee of the Union board.

Well-known works included in the collection are George Constant's "The Checkered Jacket," Philip Guston's "The Young Mother," and Fletcher Martin's "Home From the Sea," all in oil. Each is valued at $1,500.

Van Epps, formerly head of the department of neurology of the college of medicine, has been collecting art works as an avocation for many years. Now retired and holding a professorship of neurology, he is considered one of Iowa's foremost art patrons, according to Harper.

Industrial Recreation for Iowa City

The local recreation commission headed by J. Edgar Frame and the Community Dads club, under the presidency of C. B. Kritt, so far haven't had to worry about industrial recreation.

But it's conceivable that in the decade or so ahead proposed industrial development in Iowa City will bring with it recreational problems.

If the over-all, city-wide supervision by the recreation commission and the progress made by the Dads in their projects for local children are a good indication, Iowa City will do its part in planning industrial recreation in cooperation with industrial managers.

Am magazine recently printed the success story of Martinsville, Virginia. Martinsville is a small industrial city of about 20,000 population, above average for the normal Iowa small industrial community. It boasts 18 widely varied manufacturing plants—again above average for the Hawkeye state.

The city recreational manager cooperated with the plant manager to develop recreational facilities on plant property, emphasizing inexpensive and easily installed facilities for sports like archery, horseshoes and softball.

From that beginning a bowling alley and other more elaborate equipment were provided. The city is now planning a large co-operatively-owned recreation center.

The first community-wide project was a horseshoe tournament. The other recreational sports followed in rapid-fire order, building up gradually to the more complex activities.

Am magazine points out that labor-management relations have been very cordial in Martinsville since the start of the program, though obviously other factors are involved.

Martinsville is an exceptional example of small city industrial recreation. But where the need arises, there's no reason why such a program wouldn't be equally good for the corn belt's small industrial cities.

Campus Chest Drive Helps WSSF

Malnutrition, poor living conditions and skyrocketing inflation menace students in Chinese universities.

Reports from other war-torn countries paint an equally gloomy picture of student life in foreign lands.

SUI students wishing to help Asiatic and European students such as these can do so by contributing to the Campus Chest drive now in progress.

The World Student Service fund, one of the beneficiaries of the drive, gives relief and assistance to students and professors in the universities of war-devastated countries. Food, books, study grants, medical care and housing are benefits which WSSF provides.

WSSF gets its funds by sponsoring campaigns on U.S. college campuses, and works through the International World Student Relief organization based in Switzerland. More than 825 American institutions gave $520,000 last year to the fund.

A third of WSSF's income goes to work in Europe, a third to China, and the rest is used for work in North America, new work in the Far East and administrative expenses.

Severest problems among students and professors abroad are lack of food and medical care. Countries seriously needing help include China, the Philippines, Malaya, Siam, Greece, Italy, Austria, Hungary, Poland and Germany.

Many American universities have already campaigned for WSSF this year. Big Nine universities that have raised sums are Michigan, Northwestern, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

The total world budget of WSSF for student relief for 1946-47 is $2-million. A total of $1-million is to come from this country and the rest from England, Canada, Sweden and others.

WSSF has been endorsed by the National Student association which the Student council recently voted to join.

Big-Three Stakes in the 'Holy War'

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

As Jews and Arabs fight through the streets of Jerusalem there is grave fear that their dispute may set the whole middle east aflame, and apprehension lest it eventually involve the great powers.

American military observers in Washington are reported to be freely discussing the possibility that Russia may intervene by sending troops, ostensibly to protect the Jews.

That would create a situation which Britain and the United States, with their vast oil interests south and east of Palestine, could not ignore. A Russian military toehold in Palestine would be a threat comparable to anything heretofore connected with her ambitions in Greece and Turkey. This serves to emphasize the critical question of when Britain intends to get out of Palestine. August has been set as the extreme limit of her stay, with indications her troops might be largely evacuated even before then.

The earlier the British leave the more critical will be the Jewish position. While they are feverishly preparing their own defenses, it seems that for a time the Arabs, with their British-trained and British-officered Arab legion in Trans-Jordan and their vastly greater numbers, will have the upper hand if they choose war. Headed by Brig. Gen. John B. Glubb, who works for the Emir of Trans-Jordan in the British interest but powerfully independent of official British control, the Arab legion is estimated to number between 15,000 and 45,000 well-trained men. It was used during the war to put down the pro-axis uprising in Iraq and also in the British campaign against the Vichyites in Syria and Lebanon.

The Jews, of course, can put up formidable resistance. They have the brigade which fought with the British in Italy and also, if they can be persuaded to work together, two tough guerrilla forces in Hagana and Irgun.

I am informed that negotiations for cooperation between Irgun and Hagana are under way in Palestine today. Irgun is the militant group which has fought the British at every turn, and which is opposed to partition of Palestine, wanting it all. Hagana stands more for law and order, and seeks to prevent Jewish excesses. It urges patience now, with acceptance of the U. N. plan for Palestine in the hope of greater gains later.

But both Jews and Arabs always have held an implied threat over the heads of Britain and the United States that they might invite Russia to help them out.

There is no secret about why Russia chose, for once, to side with the United States on the partition question. One of her prime policies is to get the British out of the middle east. For years, working through highly organized cells with headquarters in Syria and Lebanon, she has been preparing to step into the vacuum which would thus be created. She would undoubtedly jump at the first opportunity to outflank Turkey and Iran and extend her sphere to the environs of the Suez canal.

This would threaten the entire British military position now being built up in east Africa, which is an important link in America's own world-wide situation for Turkey, where the United States is supporting, in large part, an army of more than half a million men for the very purpose of thwarting Russian expansion.

It's the Little Things That Count

By SAMUEL GRAFTON

They were spending one of their rare weekday evenings together at home. Harry had no classes, and Margaret found herself trying to remember, in detail, why she had married him.

Tumult and Shouting

I think we (the United States) ourselves are to a large extent responsible, through our policy, for the condition which now exists, and which calls for this (emergency) relief.

The condition which we strive to meet is due to a large extent to the actual conduct of affairs in the European countries themselves. It is due to the fact that they have adopted the principles of socialism. They have not conducted their governments in a manner which would tend to increase the productivity of those countries, and therefore raise their standard of living.

SEN. ROBERT A. TAFT

Are we going to leave Europe in chaos? Is chaos our objective? If it is we had better know. If I say that if a settlement is to be blocked every time we try, we cannot go on forever with the chaos in Europe as it is now.

BRITISH FOREIGN SECRETARY BEVIN at Big Four meeting

The cost—in dollars and in sacrifice—of any program such as the Marshall plan must be weighed, in the last analysis, against the cost of its alternative. And the alternative in the present case is to do nothing. Such a course, it seems to us, holds a risk for our way of life beside which the sacrifices entailed by the Marshall plan seem, by contrast, almost trivial.

THE NEW YORK TIMES

American democracy today is on trial. It is arraigned before the bar of world opinion.

Every American, therefore, also stands trial. A harassed, hungry, and desperate world appeals to us, comparatively new custodians of international responsibility, for new hope, help, and leadership—a stake for the future. Now is the time for reevaluation of our democracy and reassertion of our national conscience.

It is certain that if we fail in maintaining our national democracy, we must surely fail in world leadership. To drift is to invite disaster; inertia is our worst enemy.

Democracy is the essence of the will of the people. It is not a tangible trophy that we can capture and package for exhibit. It is an ideal, an expression of the soul and mind. We can only sustain it by living it—honestly, positively, constructively.

For the sake of all of America's sons and daughters, we must contribute today to a greater democracy. Their lives, enriched by our efforts, will be better prepared for the challenge of contributing to the greater world of tomorrow.

She was sorry to have started on that line of thought, but there it was. He was about ten pounds heavier, she decided, than he had been, then.

He had wiped the dishes, after dinner, and she had begun thinking about their marriage in the kitchen. He was good about helping. But he wouldn't have touched a dish before they were married, and somehow she wouldn't have expected him to.

She glanced at him, while she straightened the room. He sat in his chair, a little heavily, with the paper in his lap, but not really reading it. He was tired, she knew, and in a little while he would have to hit his books.

She felt a pang, suddenly. He was so tamed, compared with the way he had been before their marriage.

"Would you like some more coffee?" she asked. But he didn't seem to hear her, and she did not repeat the question.

She even knew, and it was kind of awful, how much money he had in his pocket.

It would be, she thought, about $4.30. It was Monday, and he had a five to start the week on, and he would have had lunch today.

No, wait, he had twenty-five more. His Uncle James had sent his usual check for Christmas, which he always mailed around Thanksgiving because, as he put it, young people couldn't afford to have frozen assets.

Letter to a Teamster's Wife

By WESTBROOK PEGLER
King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Mrs. Willa Mitchell, Cincinnati, O.

Dear Mrs. Mitchell: In the November issue of the official magazine of the teamsters' union, you write about the poverty and anxiety of a mother of four children, between 8 and 15, whose husband, a union driver, works 11 or 12 hours a day for about $55 a week. I assume that Mr. Mitchell's take-home pay is much less. You said you were a little better off than some other teamsters' families because your rent was only $17.50 a month and the average pay of the others, on the word of the union, itself, was only $50.

This is a queer advertisement for a union whose high-salaried royal group, courtiers, nobles, and intrigants, some of them fat and pompous and others lean and hungry, are always boasting of their priceless service to the men who drive those motorized box cars over the icy highways—the likes of Mr. Mitchell.

If they have done so much to earn their enormous pay and lavish expenses and the loyal attachment of the little people, as Mrs. Roosevelt called all you Mitchell's agents, recently, that service doesn't show in your own report on the financial condition of your family. You don't need a union these days to get your pay up to $55 a week for five days or 11 or 12 hours.

You tempt me to wander off in an argument on price control but I will just lay it down and continue. Price controls no longer controlled prices. The black market had taken over and there was no meat at all. You will remember if you think back, at ceiling prices and the black market prices were awful.

President Truman, himself, just about election time, wiped out most of the controls in a vain grab for votes and thereafter congress, not the national association of manufacturers, repealed the OPA, and it was congress—also, not the NAM, that passed the Taft-Hartley law, not once but twice. Your union bosses in the international teamsters and other publications will tell you that the NAM passed the Taft-Hartley law but it was congress that passed it, twice.

When you write that wages will have to be made high enough so everyone can at least live without worry, Mrs. Mitchell, you are speaking of a job for your husband's union, not congress. What else is the union for? What kind of union is this whose members have to put in 11 or 12 hours a day, and still can't show their children butter in 18 months?

Cincinnati—That is where old Brockey Farrell, the fifth vice-president, who died in October, ran an absolute dictatorship over 11 teamsters' unions for 24 years by Tobin's appointment and in all that time wouldn't let the men hold union meetings and refused to account for millions of dollars in union money.

And, finally, when some of the boys got their nerve up and sued in court, the upshot of it all was that the issue never was tried, the facts never were revealed, and four lawyers got $5,000 apiece of your money by court order.

I will give you some startling information tomorrow, Mrs. Mitchell. You people are paying a union to deceive and exploit you. At $55 a week and on a butlerless and almost meatless diet do you really feel indebted to your rulers?

Legion, Congressmen Attacked

Housing Expert Hits Lobbying

Former U. S. Housing Administrator Nathan Straus has accused the American Legion and five congressmen of blocking housing legislation or being favorites of the "ruthless" real estate lobby. The accusations were made in a signed article published in the December issue of the American magazine.

The Legion "has become one of the real estate lobby's most effective allies" in preventing construction of homes so urgently needed by many of its own members, Straus declared. "The reason we don't get more houses," he asserted, "is that the real estate industry is wedded to an antiquated, inefficient, but highly profitable way of doing business, and wants to keep it that way."

The congressmen he named as favorites of the real estate lobby which President Truman has proposed be investigated are: Rep. Jesse P. Wolcott (R-Mich.), chairman of the house banking and currency committee.

Rep. Charles K. Fletcher (R-Calif.).
Rep. John J. Riley (D-S.C.).
Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.).
Sen. John W. Bricker (R-Ohio).

In blasting the Legion, which has opposed the pending Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill, Straus wrote: "The real policy-making of the Legion is still controlled by graying, conservative veterans of World War I who, in many cases, are prosperous operators in the real estate and building business. The lobbyists saw to it that most of the policy-making on housing by the American Legion... was handled by real estate men or friends of the real estate business."

As for the congressmen, Straus stated: "Wolcott is the biggest stumbling block in the way to passage of the Taft—or any other—" long-range housing bill. For two years he has stymied all action on the Taft bill. And he pushed through the house his bill to permit certain rent increases.

"Both Fletcher and Riley have spent most of their lives in the real estate business, and both still list themselves as executives of savings and loan associations. How both Fletcher and Riley popped up on the important banking and currency committee, which controls housing legislation, immediately after entering congress as 'freshmen,' has mystified congressmen who have sought for years to get on that committee."

Straus said McCarthy engineered the coup by which "the independent-minded Sen. Charles W. Tobey (R-N.H.) was tricked out" of chairmanship of a joint congressional committee to investigate the shortage and high prices of housing.

"He (McCarthy) installed Rep. Ralph A. Gamble (R-N.Y.) as chairman and got himself elected vice-chairman," wrote Straus, adding that the senator's "activities on housing legislation have ended him to the real estate lobby. "Bricker is a director of the Buckeye State Building and Loan association of Columbus which is affiliated with (Morton) Bodfish's U.S. Savings and Loan league. Bodfish has spoken very highly of Bricker and his energetic activities in introducing measures the lobby liked. Bricker, for example, tried to help out landlords by campaigning to get them all a flat 10 percent rent increase."

Here, according to Straus, is the Big Three of the real estate lobby: Herbert U. Nelson, spokesman for the 37,000 realtors in the National Association of Real Estate Boards who, the former housing director contends, "is not even registered as a lobbyist."

Morton Bodfish who is paid by the 3,600 building or savings and loan associations affiliated with the U.S. Savings and Loan league.

Frank W. Cortright who speaks for the 10,000 major home building contractors affiliated with the National Association of Home Builders.

Proposes Banquet TO THE DAILY IOWAN:

The 1947 football season is now history and the players have checked in their uniforms. But, we have failed to thank the members of the team and coaching staff for their efforts in any way, shape or form. In consideration of an effort to foster better school spirit, may I suggest one feasible method of creating some unanimity among students, faculty, and interested alumni.

I propose that in future years at the close of the football season the members of the team be honored at an all-university banquet, at which the students, faculty, and interested Iowans can get together and say "thanks..."

Win, lose, or draw, the men on the team all deserve honor and recognition.

Disagrees With Yu TO THE DAILY IOWAN:

Referring to Mr. T. C. Yu's report on Chinese universities last Sunday, I want to point out that in describing the political conflicts within Chinese schools he forgot to mention the spontaneous anti-civil-war movement of the students.

Martyrdom is hard to bear without a cause, and if "the malicious plot of the Communists" had persuaded many students to choose death and torture it had certainly been more successful than I expected.

Also, I can't agree with Mr. Yu that in China "words from a professor are mostly taken as gospel truth by the students." According to my observation, the majority of the Chinese students are even more critical than the average American student, in spite of the respect they show to their professors.

True agreement is to them a fruit of independent thinking, and has never been known by them to be obtainable through servilely admitting to dictation.

Perhaps the courageous, spontaneous anti-civil-war movement of the students has been closely related to their way of independent thinking, for only the truth-loving dare to be right.

Tribute to Long Hairs TO THE DAILY IOWAN:

The contrast between the advertisement of the Longhair society and the "pathetic plea" of the barbers Sunday is certainly a tribute to the sincerity of the students engaged in the protest.

The barbers' cartoon seems ample evidence of their unawareness of the situation and lack of consideration for the students' point of view. Local clothiers and restaurant owners must have had a good laugh indeed over the very idea of students partaking of two-dollar dinners and buying $75 overcoats.

Council Will Investigate Job Service

The Student council last night appointed a temporary committee to study the possibility of organizing a coordinated university placement bureau. Members are Bill Reis, C4, and Dean Stichoth, C4.

Reis told council members meeting at Old Capitol that the present system of placements is inadequate. He said some business heads hesitate to send interviewers here because of the "mumbo-jumbo" situation they encounter.

Whether students can look forward to a Thanksgiving vacation next school year will be decided in a few days by the calendar committee, according to Keith McNurten, D2. The plan submitted to the committee recommended that school be closed the Friday and Saturday following Thanksgiving.

Members of the calendar committee are Dean R. A. Kuever of the college of pharmacy, Dean Bruce E. Mahan of the extension division, Dean E. T. Peterson of the division of research and teaching and Paul J. Blommers, acting dean of the college of education.

The council decided to write all Big Nine universities to find out which give Thanksgiving vacations.

Decision on the proposed plan to grade professors must be postponed until reports have been received from universities using the system, reported Al Trick, A4. Trick will investigate the possibility of making a national study of universities that have adopted the faculty rating plan.

The council appointed Virginia Anderson, A4; Catherine McFarland, A4, and Trick as delegates to a regional meeting of the National Student association Dec. 13 and 14 at Grinnell. Purpose of the meeting is to draw up a constitution and set up a functional system for the Iowa region.

NSA, recently joined by the university, provides for cooperation and exchange of ideas among American colleges and universities on a national scale.

Jean Sprott, A3, Student council representative on the committee for "Panacea," campus show, said at least three scripts are being prepared by students. A $40 prize will be awarded for the winning script and lyrics submitted. Contest deadline is Dec. 12.

Pheasant a Day Average for Hunters in County

The average Johnson county hunter shot one pheasant a day in the 10-day 1947 pheasant season, according to a report released by the state conservation commission this week.

The report was compiled from questionnaires sent to conservation officers. The average number of birds bagged per hunter per day from Nov. 11 to Nov. 21 was 1.03. The state high was Mitchell county with 1.75. Blackhawk was low with .07. Only nine counties had prosecutions for hen shooting with only 19 hunters involved.

The commission had no definite figures on how many sportsmen took advantage of the pheasant season.

Prof. Miller Tells Kiwanis Club About Arctic Fossil Hunt

"We found some of the finest fossils that ever came out of the arctic area," Prof. Arthur K. Miller of the geology department told members of the Kiwanis club yesterday noon. "And much credit for success is due the army for their cooperation."

Prof. Miller described the long and difficult preparations for his trip to Baffin Island, Canada, last fall.

"I had tried for years to find transportation to Baffin Island, and always found I had missed the few ships that were going there," declared Miller.

During the war the army established a base there, he said. After cutting much "red tape" Miller was able to get priority on a plane.

Once on Baffin Island, he and an assistant started out for a limestone mountain across Frobisher bay from the army base.

"Not much vegetation grows up there," he said, "except around the mountain where arctic cotton thrives."

Altogether Miller spent ten days fossil hunting, and returned to the United States with 100 pounds of select fossils.

Local Needlework Guild To Distribute Clothing To Iowa City's Needy

Needy families in Iowa City will receive new garments collected Friday at the 14th annual ingathering of the local branch of the Needlework Guild of America, Mrs. Albert Husa, secretary of the guild, said yesterday.

Each member of the organization will give two articles, "one to wear and one to wash," Mrs. Husa said. She stressed that all the garments, for adults and children, will be new.

Some members are going together to buy warm snow suits, coats and shoes. Household linens and other necessities may be included, she said.

The articles collected will be distributed primarily through parochial and public schools during the year, she said.

250 New Meters In Operation Today; Tell Parking Rules

Mayor Preston Koser announced yesterday 250 new manually operated parking meters would go into official operation at 8 a. m. today.

The new meters, located where parking was formerly limited to one hour, permit two-hour parking for 10 cents.

Police Chief E. J. Ruppert emphasized rules for parking in metered spaces.

In parallel parking zones, cars should be parked with right front wheel in line with the meter post. The chief pointed out this will eliminate confusion and prevent violation tickets when motorists, by mistake, put their coins in the wrong meters.

In diagonal parking areas, cars should be parked with the meters directly in front of them.

Koser said the police department will be in charge of meter maintenance and money collection on a temporary basis.

Report O'Neill Death Crash Damage Suit To Open Tomorrow

The O'Neill vs. Sangster damage suit, arising from Regina O'Neill's death in an auto accident June 12, will probably open tomorrow, County Clerk R. Neilson Miller announced yesterday.

Veniremen, from whom the jury will be chosen, will report at 2 p. m. tomorrow at the Johnson county district courthouse, he said.

Judge Harold D. Evans will preside at the trial. The deceased's father, Edward O'Neill of Morse, is bringing the suit to collect $25,000 from Earl Sangster, 1106 E. College street. Sangster owned the cab involved in the collision which fatally injured Miss O'Neill.

Miss O'Neill's fiancé, Robert Ruess of West Liberty, was driving the car in which she was riding and Charles Jacobs was the driver of the cab.

Four other suits against Sangster are pending as a result of the collision.

Attorneys D. C. Nolan, William J. Jackson and Harold O. Keele represent the plaintiff and Ries, Dutcher and Osmundson are attorneys for Sangster.

Resume Picketing Of Barber Shops

Picketing of seven local barber shops by Long-Hair society members was resumed today from 2:30 to 5 p. m.

Shops again picketed included Wards, Winters', Carl's, Peterson's, Dick and Joe's, Peters', and the Hotel Jefferson barbershop.

In a meeting Monday night, Paul Puckett, A4, Sterling, Ill., official representative of the Iowa City barbers, and Sam Bishop, A2, Churdan, Long-Hair chairman, failed to agree that a 25 cent haircut price increase was justified.

Puckett declined to consider a compromise, saying that the barbers have explained why the price was increased and have received no "constructive" reason why the price should be lowered.

The Long-Hair society was formed three weeks ago by students protesting the local barbers' Nov. 3, haircut price increase from 75 cents to $1.

Both the Long-Hair and barber representatives declined to comment on the situation yesterday.
