OKLAHOMA CITY, OKLA. (AP)—A black tom (or tom-boy) cat belonging to Sybil Lackey, young statehouse clerk here, delivered the goods when allowed in the kitchen to smoke out a mouse.

He dived for it so fast his breeze blew paper into the hot water heater and set the house on fire.

Firemen restored the status quo. No one has restored the mouse.

Prof. Winfred T. Root Dies at 68

History Head Served SUI For 22 Years

PROF. W. T. ROOT

Prof. Winfred Trexler Root, 68, head of the University of Iowa history department since 1925, died yesterday afternoon at his home at 214 Church street.

Earlier Root was taken home from his office by an associate after he had complained of not feeling well. His death followed a heart attack.

He is survived by his wife; a daughter, Mrs. Anne Prange, now in Japan, and a 3-year-old grandson, Winfred. The funeral has not yet been arranged.

In regard to Root's death, President Virgil M. Hancher said last night, "The passing of Prof. Root is a great loss to the University of Iowa. In the 22 years he spent on the campus, he has greatly endeared himself to the generations of students, the faculty and the college at large."

"He was a great service to the university in training able historians and to the Trinity Episcopal church in which he served as a senior warden."

Root was born Mar. 9, 1879, at Mt. Joy, Penn., the son of Martha and Benjamin Root.

He received his A. B. in history from Princeton university in 1902 and a Ph. D. in 1908 from the University of Pennsylvania.

On June 3, 1908, he was married to Anna Harper.

During World War I Root was director of war instruction and director and lecturer of "War and Peace" at the University of Wisconsin. In World War II he was instructor of meteorology and director of history courses in the army specialized training program at SUI.

Root was appointed head of the SUI history department in 1925 after teaching in the history department at the University of Wisconsin from 1908-1925.

He was a member of the American Historical association, Mississippi Valley Historical association and a fellow of the Royal Historical society of England.

French Labor Unions Take Government's Back-to-Work Offer

PARIS (AP)—The Communist-led General Confederation of Labor (CGT) accepted last night the government's terms for ending the month-long strike wave which has paralyzed the French economy. It directed idle workers to return to their jobs today.

The CGT claimed a "victory" in its wage demands on the government of Premier Robert Schuman and bitterly attacked his regime for "stopping at no methods" to break the strike and ordering the police "to fire on the strikers."

The government ultimatum, however, had directed all workers to return to their jobs today or face loss of a cost-of-living bonus which would be granted to all men and women on the job.

In addition to granting all workers a cost-of-living indemnity of 1,500 francs (about $12) a month retroactive to Nov. 24, the government terms provide:

1. Raising the minimum monthly salary from 7,000 francs (about $58) to 10,000 francs (about $87). The strikers had demanded 10,800 francs ($90).
2. Increasing indemnities for large families.
3. Non-payment of wages to strikers for the period they were idle.
4. Establishment of an over-all economic policy with the help of representatives of labor and employer policy with the help of representatives of labor and employer to balance wages and prices.
5. No reprisals against strikers except those found guilty of sabotage or restricting the rights of non-strikers to work.

Congress Gets President's Control Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress yesterday received the administration's anti-inflation blueprint specifically requesting power to ration meat, gasoline and other commodities as needed, as well as authority to buy up the entire wheat crop and to allocate steel and other scarce items.

Republicans viewed it as a case of asking "too much and too late" and proceeded with their own plans to enact legislation next week which would extend export controls as its only compulsory feature.

The GOP program, as tentatively outlined, would seek to halt the price spiral through other voluntary measures, rather than through the "standby authority" requested by President Truman.

Secretary of Commerce Harrison outlined the following items which would be included in the allocation program, with the government deciding who should get available supplies, at once:

1. Iron and steel, including rolled, forged, cast and drawn products.
2. Grain and grain products; rice and rice products; dried beans and peas; fats and oils of vegetable, animal or marine origin; livestock and poultry and their products; and milk and its products.
3. Freight cars and other railroad facilities and equipment "regardless of ownership."
4. Tin and tin products; anti-mony; cinchona bark and quinine held by any government agency; and nitrogenous fertilizer materials.

Moreover the measure would give the President authority to allocate any other materials, if, after public hearings, he found that a shortage was basically affecting "industrial production or the cost of living." It would extend export controls, allocation and priority powers through Mar. 31, 1950.

Russ, France Expel Envoys, End Parley

PARIS (AP)—Russia and France expelled each other's repatriation commissions yesterday and Moscow broke off trade negotiations, ruining France's chances for 300,000 tons of badly needed Soviet wheat. A sharp Russian note broadcast by radio Moscow also contained a threat to terminate the 1944 French-Russian alliance.

A foreign ministry spokesman said the 12 members of the Soviet repatriation commission, engaged in returning Russian citizens in France to the Soviet Union, were put on a train for Berlin Monday night because they had trafficked in "subversive activities."

Radio Moscow, accusing the French government of "unilaterally annulling" a two-year-old repatriation pact, said the four-man French mission also was expelled from Russia.

Yesterday's developments followed a raid Nov. 14 by French mobile guardsmen upon Camp Beaugard, operated by the Russians as a repatriation camp. A woman, being sued for divorce by a naturalized Frenchman, and three children were removed from the camp and a small quantity of arms seized. The French government subsequently decided to take control of the camp.

Eleven days later, the French rounded up and deported 19 Soviet citizens, including the officers of the Soviet Patriotic union for "interference in French affairs" during the wave of strikes and disorders.

On Nov. 27, the French spokesman said, France asked the Russians to withdraw their repatriation mission, and when no answer was received, the government ordered the 12 members to leave the country.

3 Prepare Tax Bills For Iowa Assembly's Special Session

DES MOINES (AP)—Preparation of proposed bills to provide different methods of reducing the Iowa income tax began yesterday. The bills will be presented to the special session of the legislature convening next Tuesday.

Meeting with Atty. Gen. Robert L. Larson yesterday were Louis Cook, research consultant for the state tax commission, and Henry Wormley, special assistant attorney general for the commission.

Larson said he expected the conferees will draft three types of bills.

One would be a bill merely returning the tax to the half rate basis, on which it has been collected in the last five years. The legislature last winter returned the payments to full rate on this year's income, payable next year.

A second plan would call for increasing, probably doubling, the deductions now allowed from the computed tax.

A third bill would be the so-called "sliding scale" bill whereby the rate of tax would be set at half rate, three-quarters rate or full rate depending upon the balance in the state treasury.

ROME'S COMMUNIST-LED Chamber of Labor lifted its mid-night deadline for government acquiescence to its ultimatum yesterday, but fresh disorders broke out in Sicily where police reinforcements scattered communist marchers at Vittoria and Bologna.

The threat of a general strike in the capital and province lessened as the Rome Chamber of Labor announced it had deferred a decision on a general strike until tonight.

A "POSSIBILITY" that congress may approve the meat rationing powers sought by President Truman was voiced yesterday by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson. In addition, Anderson declared in a press conference at Colorado Springs that exports of wheat to Europe's hungry would not cause any grain shortages in this country.

THE DISTILLERS Coordinating committee yesterday asked the government to draft a grain conservation program for the whisky industry, to take effect when the 60-day shutdown ends Dec. 25.

PRICE INCREASES averaging an estimated 5 percent will go into effect today on most International Harvester company products, the company announced yesterday. President John L. McCaffrey said the new prices will average 2 percent higher than the levels of Mar. 9 when the company reduced its prices.

Premier Quits In Bulgaria

SOFIA, BULGARIA (AP)—Premier Georgi Dimitrov submitted his resignation and that of his government to the Bulgarian parliament last night.

(Two hours before the dispatch concerning the resignation was filed by Sofia, another dispatch said the premier proposed, and parliament approved, that the government submit a blanket resignation today. The earlier dispatch said Dimitrov probably would form a new constitutional republican government.)

No recent dispatches from Sofia have indicated that Dimitrov would resign or that there would be a change in the government.

Reorganization Makes Stuit Dean of Student Personnel Services

By PHIL MILLER, City Editor

President Virgil M. Hancher late yesterday announced the following university staff changes.

Dean C. Woody Thompson of the office of student affairs has resigned. He will become director of the bureau of economic and business research in the college of commerce.

Prof. Dewey B. Stuit of the psychology department will assume a new post, dean of student personnel services.

The new director of student affairs working under Stuit will be Prof. Walter R. Goetsch. He will be assisted by Miss Helen Reich, now assistant dean of student affairs.

Prof. Robert L. Ebel, assistant director of the university examination service, will become director of that service. He succeeds Acting Dean Paul J. Blommers of the college of education.

All changes are effective Dec. 15.

Hancher said last night, "Dean Thompson has raised this question of changing positions for over a year now."

"However, it has been impossible to arrange the change until

DEAN THOMPSON

PROF. DEWEY STUIT

we could coordinate the student personnel services under Professor Stuit."

Dean Thompson, who is ill, was unavailable for comment last night.

Administrative Dean Allin W. Dakin said last night Thompson "asked to be allowed to shift" from student affairs back to commerce, his original field of study. Dakin said Thompson has plans to expand the activities of the bureau in the interests of the people of Iowa.

He plans to undertake social and economic studies and render service to business and governmental organizations.

These changes, however, are not complete and must be approved by Hancher.

The bureau of business research has been partially inactive and without a director since Prof. Sidney Miller left the university in

British Seal Off 'No Man's Land'

JERUSALEM (AP)—British troops with "shoot to kill" orders were moved into the blood-stained border area between Tel Aviv and Jaffa last night in a move to end aggression on the battlefield where Arabs and Jews have waged their fiercest fighting in 10 days of Palestine communal warfare.

Acting desperately to stamp out the disorders that have claimed 112 lives, injured approximately 600 persons and destroyed property with an estimated worth of $10,000,000, British authorities placed a dusk-to-dawn curfew on the Tel Aviv-Jaffa "no man's land" and sealed it off with British troops.

Palestine police were being used for patrols inside the area, where four Jews were killed today, and soldiers formed lines along the border. The order put 20,000 Jews and Arabs under house arrest from 5 p. m. to 6 a. m. until further notice.

The curfew order said persons found violating the curfew were "liable to be fired upon by security forces."

Counting at least 24 killed in Aden and four in Syria, The Associated Press tally of dead throughout the Middle East since the UN decision to partition Palestine mounted to 240.

The first outbreak of Arab fury over partition as evidenced by violence appeared to be gradually subsiding in Palestine, but Hussein Khalidi, chairman of the higher executive, delivered a scorching attack upon the United Nations at a news conference, where he declared:

"The sooner the U. N. disappears, the better."

Thousands of Jews, men and women 17 to 25, crowded registration offices of the Jewish agency "manpower census." Officials estimated 70,000 to 80,000 would sign up for security forces and posts in the proposed Jewish state.

Will Succeed Dr. Peterson

The appointment of Dr. Nathan Anthony Womack to head the department of surgery of the University of Iowa college of medicine was announced yesterday by President Virgil M. Hancher.

The Iowa state board of education approved the appointment at a meeting in Council Bluffs.

Womack, one of the founding members of the American Board of Surgery, will assume his duties as professor of surgery and head of the department here on or before July 1, 1948, Hancher said.

He will fill the post left vacant last September by the resignation of Dr. Frank R. Peterson. Dr. Robert T. Tidrick, associate professor in the college of medicine, has been acting head of the surgery department since that time. He will continue until Womack arrives from Washington university, St. Louis.

Womack is now a professor of clinical surgery and surgeon to out-patient clinics at Washington university and associate surgeon at Barnes General, St. Louis Children's and St. Louis Maternity hospitals in St. Louis.

Regarded as one of the nation's leading surgical pathologists, his primary research field, Womack is also a clinical surgeon of international renown, Hancher said.

He has been a member of the examining committee of the American Board of Surgery, and was appointed to the editorial board of the Annals of Surgery this year.

Peterson resigned in August after a controversy in which he stated his disagreement with the new medical plan on a two-year trial in the medical college. His resignation became effective 30 days later.

One of the principal points of the new program was to do away with the part-time work of department heads at University hospital. Department heads previously had derived the larger portion of their income from private practice.

The professional activities of the new chief of surgery include memberships in many professional groups: the American Medical Society, fellow of the American College of Surgeons, Societe Internationale de Chirurgie, American Association of Pathology and Bacteriology, American Gastroenterological association, Society of University Surgeons, American Association for Cancer Research, Society of Clinical Surgeons, Society of Experimental Biology and Medicine, Halsted club, as well as numerous other regional and national groups.

Hunger Strike Ends

MC NEIL ISLAND, WASH. (AP)—Inmates of the federal "prison without a wall" on this Puget Sound island answered the dinner bell again yesterday noon after a two-day "hunger strike" protest against the food.

Warden P. J. Squier attributed the difficulty, involving slightly more than 1,000 of the prison's 1,500 inmates, to diet restrictions under the meatless Tuesday and eggless Thursday program.

Molotov, Bidault in Heated Dispute Over German Boundaries

LONDON (AP)—The three western foreign ministers chased Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov in circles of controversy for three hours during their meeting yesterday without registering any important progress or gaining any hint of compromise.

The meeting was highlighted, American observers said, by caustic exchanges between French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault and Molotov who was said to have linked the removal of Germany's zonal boundaries with the payment of Soviet reparations claims and the setting up of central German governing agencies.

Secretary of State George C. Marshall and British Foreign Secretary Bevin and Bidault accused Molotov of making reparations and central agencies a "pre-condition" of any removal of German zonal boundaries, which Molotov denied he was doing Monday. Yesterday he merely replied that the subjects must be decided "simultaneously."

Bidault then made it plain that France would not agree to any central agencies until the Saar question was settled in France's favor.

Joe Louis' Foes Begin Humming

Hoping for Bomber's Fall

By MURRAY ROSE
NEW YORK (AP)—The heavy-weight boxing division is humming like a wartime shipyard yesterday all because of Champion Joe Louis' showing against Jersey Joe Walcott last Friday night.

agers and their heavyweight charges like a shot of kickapoo juice. This doesn't mean that the ring pilots are breaking down the doors of the Twentieth Century sporting club to clamor for title shots.

They all know that the champ and the Camden, N. J., papa of six are going to do it all over again outdoors in June and without much doubt the site will be this town's spacious Yankee stadium. They realize that Walcott is entitled to this big money shot but win, lose or draw they want to get in on what happens after.

If Louis wins the chances are that he will retire as the undefeated champion of the world. The Brown Bomber has his heart set on this and his narrow escape Friday has strengthened his resolve to go down in ring history with the title "champion" before his name. Louis' handlers, Marshall Miles and John Roxborough, have indicated that the champ still may continue after the June bout. But if the gate hits the expected $1,500,000 or more, Louis most likely will collect and call it a day.

If Louis should lose to Walcott, the yapping of the hounds will be heard in loud discord. In the various hangouts of the boxing men, the talk chiefly centers around Louis' inept performance and the sudden uplift of spirit among the potential challengers.

The heavyweight title generally is valued at a million and those managers who haven't a likely super-dreadnaught on hand are starting to scour the bushes.

Few are undertaking Walcott, either. The crafty fight he waged against Louis has boosted his prestige to a high level. And despite his sidestepping, backpedaling tactics against Louis, he displayed a hefty right hand punch.

MUSCATINE—A highly rated Muscatine five handed City high its second loss of the season at Muscatine last night, 35-28.

The game was rough and ragged with neither team giving a par performance. The Muskies jumped into an early lead in the contest and were never headed.

Seven minutes of the first quarter elapsed before the Hawklets broke into the scoring column on a field goal by Center Gene Hettrick. At the end of the period the Muscatine five held a 7-2 advantage.

City high equaled the Muskies in the scoring column during the second period and left the floor at the half trailing 16-11.

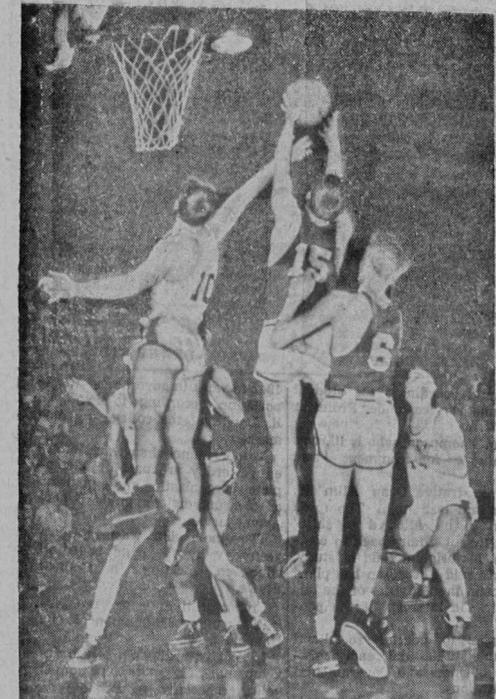

Muscatine raised its lead to 27-17 by the end of the third quarter. The Little Hawks outscored the Muskies, 11-8, in the final period, but they could not overcome the Muscatine advantage.

Hettrick paced the scorers with 14 points. McLeary dumped in 8 points to lead the winners.

City high's sophomores defeated the Muscatine sophomores, 32-26, in the preliminary tilt.

Flannery Returns to Rambler Lineup for Fort Madison Tilt

St. Mary's Ramblers meet one of their stiffest tests of the home season tonight when they tangle with Central Catholic of Ft. Madison on the Junior high gym at 7:30 p.m.

Ft. Madison has rolled to two straight triumphs, one of them being a 74-14 win over St. Mathias of Muscatine.

St. Mary's also is boasting a winning club, having triumphed six times in their last seven appearances, and have won 16 out of their last 17 regular season games.

Local fans will see a revised Rambler lineup tonight. John Sueppel has moved over to center making room for Dale Seydel at Iowa.
Seydel, who has been playing guard during the absence of Paul Flannery, has won a starting berth by his stellar play, and will move to forward. Flannery will be back at his regular guard slot. Buzz Mottet at forward and "Pinky" Long at guard round out the lineup.

Ft. Madison will be led by their sharpshooting guard, Pospel, and their twin combination, of Donald and Ronald Kurtz.
The future of local Catholic rivalry will be previewed in the curtain raiser at 6:30 p.m., when St. Mary's seventh and eighth graders meet St. Patrick's eight graders.

ST. MARY'S: Seydel, Mottet, Sueppel, Flannery, Long

NL Holds Fate of Coast

Majors Might Add 'Frisco, Los Angeles

NEW YORK (AP)—The National league today reached a decision on the Pacific Coast's Major league ambitions but withheld an announcement pending discussion by the American league tomorrow morning.

Although President Ford Frick and league officials refused to disclose their vote, it was reliably reported that a compromise has been reached by which the Majors will leave the door open for potential future expansion to include any pair of cities from any section of the country which prove they can support that type of baseball.

If this plan also is adopted by the American league and passed by the joint meeting Thursday, the Coast's bid for immediate provisional acceptance as a third Major league would be defeated.

If the Majors follow the expected plan on the Pacific Coast question, the door would then be left open for admission of certain cities, such as San Francisco and Los Angeles, after they have brought their parks up to Major league standards and satisfied the other members of their own league. This might also result in Hollywood and Oakland moving to the big show resulting in 10-team major leagues. Of course, it will be made clear that all initiatives must come from outside the majors.

However, this step is something that is not likely to be taken in the immediate future.

While the Coast league matter occupied the attention of the big leaguers, National league headquarters released official attendance figures for the first time, showing that 10,388,470 paid to watch its games in 1947. With the American league total approximately 9,486,000 the two leagues drew 19,874,470.

Trade talk cooled off after yesterday's six-man Pittsburgh-Brooklyn swap. The only deal of any consequence sent Second Baseman Johnny Berardino from St. Louis to Cleveland for Outfielder George Metkovich and cash, estimated at $50,000.

Iowa Swimmers Decline Foreign Tank Meets

Wally Ris and five other members of Iowa's swimming team, to be designated by Coach Dave Armbruster, have been invited to compete in foreign meets over the holidays; however, the bids had to be declined.

Brazil, Argentina and Cuba have tendered bids for the athletes to participate. The opportunity had to be passed up due to confliction with class schedules and with the NCAA aquatic forum, which some of the Hawks will attend at Ft. Landerdale, Fla., over Christmas.

Twelve Hawkeye Officials to Attend Big Nine Conference

Big Nine baseball, tennis, and golf schedules for 1948 will be drawn up this weekend at the annual December meetings of the Big Nine conference in Chicago.

Irish Rip Riverside

St. Patrick's cage team easily outclassed a weak St. Mary's of Riverside five here last night to gain its fourth consecutive win of the season, 38-20.

The Irish held the visitors scoreless for the entire first quarter and had a 20-6 halftime lead.

The game was poorly played throughout. Riverside presented a loose passing, poor shooting team and the Irish soon got the fever themselves.

Tommy Falls, reserve Irish center, suffered a dislocated shoulder in the first half and will be out for several weeks.

Announce SUI Winners At St. Louis Art Show

Malcolm Myers, art department instructor, won a purchase prize for his print "St. Anthony," at the St. Louis Art museum this month, the art department announced yesterday.

Housewife Tells of Moscow Talk

By MERRITT LUDWIG

From protocol to pots and pans—the experience in one year of Mrs. Don Lewis of Iowa City, now a housewife, but last March a member of the U.S. delegation at the Moscow meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers.

Mrs. Lewis said yesterday she'd like to be at the current foreign ministers' meeting in London. But since she can't, she's reading every line about the meeting she can find—and between the lines too.

An expert on German economic affairs, Mrs. Lewis served as information specialist at the Moscow conference. Since 1943 she had worked in the State department's foreign economic administration preparing background material on the subject of postwar Germany.

Mrs. Lewis went to work for the state department when her husband was stationed on war duty in Washington, D. C.

"I'd done some work in economics," she said, "and when I applied for a job, they gave me one."

Commenting on the London meeting, Mrs. Lewis described the complex preparations made before the foreign ministers get together.

State department personnel work for months preparing briefs on any and all topics on which the ministers might talk. All pertinent documents are indexed and voluminous data collected.

Mrs. Lewis' work at the Moscow conference was chiefly in handling "top secret" documents. When State Secretary Marshall or other officials called for a document, it was her job to find it and deliver it quickly.

The actual meetings of the ministers are very formal, she said. "Very often most everything that's said is read from prepared statements," she commented, "and the burden of translating every word into French, Russian, and English keeps the pace of the meeting rather slow."

"Molotov (Russian foreign minister) was less interesting than I had expected," Mrs. Lewis said, describing her attendance at some of the ministers' actual meetings. "He was very handsome, but had a certain softness about the face and hands. He wasn't rugged looking like Stalin."

She said Molotov was "always serious and spoke quietly, sometimes almost inaudibly."

Despite press reports to the contrary, Mrs. Lewis said Molotov displayed no personal enmity toward the other ministers.

"Particularly charming" were her words for Ernest Bevin, British foreign secretary. He had a blunt, almost gruff manner, but always showed real humor.

Mrs. Lewis said French Foreign Minister George Bidault was like a matinee idol in appearance, but he carried little weight at the Moscow meeting compared with the influence he has shown so far at London.

"Secretary of State Marshall is a man we can be proud of," said Mrs. Lewis. "When Marshall spoke at the Moscow conference, everyone sat up and took notice."

She said he maintains a serious manner, speaks slowly and deliberately. He has a "friendly but firm" attitude at all times.

Mrs. Lewis chanced to see Stalin in one of his rare public appearances. It was at the opera one evening, and thereafter she was the envy of the whole American delegation.

Activities of the U.S. delegation in Moscow last March were Mrs. Campbell was graduated from the University of Iowa in June, 1947 and has been employed as health-education director at the YWCA in Mason City. marked by extreme security, according to Mrs. Lewis. American guards were stationed where the U.S. delegation lived and worked.

She said they were warned that microphones might be hidden in their hotel rooms or dining rooms. One microphone was discovered, she said, in the room of an American official.

The Russians were friendly but not too cordial, according to Mrs. Lewis. "They never invited us into their homes," she added.

Mrs. Lewis said her work these days consists in being "just a housewife." She fills her leisure time, however, with speaking to community groups about her experiences in Russia.

Willoughby Urges American Action on Displaced Persons

Americans must do something about the displaced persons problem in Europe, according to George Willoughby of Des Moines, who spoke to the Great Issues class yesterday.

Willoughby is area director for the American Friends Service committee and director of the Midwest Institute of International Relations.

He said "things look favorable for passage of the Stratton bill in Congress when it meets next year." Willoughby based this prediction on reports from the Friends lobby in Washington as well as public attitude which is becoming more favorable to the bill all the time.

The Stratton bill which has been introduced in the house calls for admission of 400,000 DP's to the U.S. over a four year period.

Latest reports, according to Willoughby, show there are between 850 thousand and one million DP's in the U.S., British, and French zones of occupied Europe. "This DP problem must be solved," said Willoughby. "We can't just let things take their course."

He listed four reasons why the U.S. should act to relieve the DP problem:

1. Support of the U.S. share of DP's in Europe is costing this country $100 million this year.

2. If the U.S. doesn't act now, it will be faced by a greater DP problem in the long-run.

3. Unhappy, insecure DP's are a potential source of international troubles. Most of them are in Germany, a country which they already hate.

4. Humanitarian, Christian reasons—"If we believe in the individual, we ought to come to the aid of these persons."

Voluntary repatriation is not solving the present DP problem in Europe, said Willoughby. The U. S. government has expressed objections to the Russian proposals for forcible repatriation.

Absorption of the DP's into the countries where they now are is virtually impossible, Willoughby continued, since many of them were originally German and Italian refugees.

Emigration and resettlement, he said, is the only solution to the problem.

He added that the world is waiting to see what the U.S. will do about admitting its share of the DP's. "If we admit our share," he said, "They are likely to follow suit."

In answer to a question as to who will take care of the DP's admitted to the U.S., Willoughby replied that many would be cared for by relatives who live here. He said many groups such as the Friends are prepared to assist DP's in establishing homes and businesses in this country.

Describing the DP population in Europe, Willoughby stated: 80% are Christians, mostly Catholic; 20% Jews, most all are of eastern European nationality groups; 60% are Polish.

Most of the DP's, according to Willoughby, are working class people.

Kenneth Klaus, Harold Peteski, William Hoppe and Charles Becker will play in a string quartet Wednesday afternoon at 4 p. m.

The traditional Union Christmas party for all students will begin at 4 p. m. Thursday the 18th. Prof. Earl E. Harper, director of the school of fine arts, will play the piano as accompaniment for the singing of Christmas carols.

Another feature of the Thursday party program will be a short play directed by Raymond Hill, graduate in the dramatic arts department.

Federal Community Property Taxation

Married couples may receive next year the privilege of dividing their income in half for tax purposes. This would mean, for some, a substantial saving in the amount of federal income tax they pay.

Even if the projected Republican tax-reduction bill, carrying the split-income provision, should be vetoed and the veto sustained, a separate bill for the provision would almost certainly be passed, on the basis of the present political lineup.

Some states now have such tax legislation. Through such legislation holds advantages for many, there are certain offsetting disadvantages for certain married taxpayers.

In a community property state, an unfaithful wife may have left her husband, may not have seen him for 20 years, but still be entitled to half his property.

An oft-repeated story tells of the gold-laden miner from Alaska who in one night of celebration in Seattle acquired a wife. When the haze cleared, and he moved to dissolve the marriage, the court ordered a wall built through the center of their house and ownership divided.

Other disadvantages in community property states hit wealthy people particularly. And these states are loathe to give up their preferred status. They can be expected to fight federal community property laws unless at the same time the federal estate and gift tax law is amended to include the splitting principle.

Under the federal tax law, the entire community property of both spouses is subject to taxation on the death of either. Thus, the estate of the decedent partner must pay tax on half of the community property which in law was never his or hers. The theory is that the tax is levied on the transfer of unencumbered title to the surviving partner.

This tax discrimination affects only the larger estates. Net estates (the gross estate minus deductions) are subject to two estate taxes: a basic estate tax with an exemption of $100,000, and an additional estate tax with a deduction of $60,000.

An estate of $200,000 is now taxed $34,200. If the tax were applied to only one partner's half of the estate, under present tax rates, it would amount to only $4,800, or about one-seventh of the tax under the present law.

Also, under the present federal law a gift from a married couple, in community property states as well as in non-community property states, is taxed as a unit.

A gift of $100,000 from Mr. and Mrs. X now requires a tax of $15,525. If the splitting principle were applied, and each were considered to have given $50,000 under present rates, the gift tax would amount to only $10,500, or about two-thirds of the tax under the present law.

League of Women Voters' New Booklet

Every student knows that money is important. If you're one of the rare ones who doesn't, ask the person sitting next to you.

It takes money — oh dad, what a lot of it — to go to college. Tuition must be paid. Food costs are up. Every month the room bill must be paid. There are the dribbles for shows, and dances, and hair cuts; and cokes, laundry, bus fare, and books, until it seems you never know how few could spend so much money so fast.

That was the point of departure for a new booklet just published by the Iowa City League of Women Voters and now being distributed throughout the county.

Money seems to be just about the most important thing in government, aside from men to elect and run it. Government costs a lot of money — to each and every one of us. We don't pay all the taxes directly. Some are hidden in the form of excise and sales taxes. We pay some of them in higher prices.

So where our money goes in government is as important as where it goes in personal spending. That's what the League's booklet is all about, "being a little book which tries to be helpful in finding out where our tax money goes, what we're getting for it and how we can get more."

The book does a good deal more than just talk about money. In reality, it's a detailed explanation of how government operates, in Johnson county, Iowa City, and the school districts.

It tells how to vote correctly, on which dates the voting is done, and how to "have a say" in politics. It tells how to work effectively in politics between elections.

The booklet is well illustrated. Charts and graphs make complicated sets of figures understandable. There's a map of voting precincts in Iowa City.

As the handbook says, it was "made possible by community cooperation. Some people have helped with money, some with assistance in collecting facts, some with service in putting this book together."

It is fitting that the book should be dedicated to the late Maude McBroom, whose life strengthened not only the university but the whole community. "As immediate past president of the League, she introduced the handbook idea that organization and patiently shepherded the idea until it became this major project in citizenship in Johnson county."

The League has performed a valuable service in preparing this booklet. It should be read by all who want to intelligently participate in local government.

The women's reward for their many, many hours in preparing the booklet is their knowledge, and that of the whole county's, of a valuable contribution toward making democracy work.

Marshall Determined on Big-4 Showdown

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Russia has made her expected move to embarrass the western allies at the London conference by making a show of willingness to compromise on Germany.

Marshall, Bevin and Bidault now are faced with the necessity of refusing unacceptable Russian suggestions and still convince the Germans that they do not oppose unity.

Few people believe that Molotov has any intention of making any real concessions for the sake of a settlement. If he could trip the Big Three into an agreement whereby Russia could continue to hamstring the rehabilitation of Germany, of course he would love it. That would keep matters such as they are. There is not the slightest possibility that the western powers will fall into such a trap, even though they may be hurt by being forced into unilateral action in western Germany.

Molotov's obvious intention is to keep on bargaining, or pretending to bargain, as long as possible, and then, when the allies exhaust their patience and go ahead with the integration of western Germany into the European recovery program, to cry that they are responsible for dismembering the Reich.

Russia's actions throughout Europe would seem to preclude any possibility that the allies can work with her in Germany or anywhere else. There is a point where leaning over backward to keep negotiations going can ease the western powers to lose their equilibrium. "Keeping the record straight," which has been about all the American diplomats have hoped for in recent months, is important. But getting on with the "cold war" is more so.

Secretary Marshall is reported determined to precipitate a showdown on whether Molotov really intends to negotiate. But Marshall himself is probably in no doubt.

The allies are not going to agree to German reparations payments to Russia which under present circumstances would merely mean paying the bills ourselves while German production, needed in the fight to preserve western Europe, is drained off to help the enemy.

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT

Artists and Censorship

By SAMUEL GRAFTON
New York Post Syndicate

The council of the Authors' League of America points out, with burning clarity, that the recent Hollywood dismissals constitute a new kind of censorship. It is censorship, not of a man's works, but of the man himself. The entire man is declared unwholesome, from head to toe, and this is done without reading his works or looking at his movies, or pointing to a single sentence or line of dialogue in them as objectionable. It is censorship in blank, wholesale fashion, of a man's work unread and of future work still unwritten. It is the creation of a special category of non-kosher writers, on political grounds, and without reference to what they have produced.

You can't censor a book or play without taking the offending work into court, pointing to the specific passages complained of, proving that they are harmful, and sustaining your case against cross-examination and counter-testimony. Recent events have shown that you can throw out a whole author with much less trouble, and without giving him any legal safeguards or conceding that he has any rights.

And in the case of a book, it can still be published, with the offending portions removed, while future work by the same author can be brought out without prejudice. But in the case of the ten Hollywood figures a judgment, as the Authors' league council points out, has been rendered against the victim's total output; those who buy literary property are, in effect, warned that if they so much as touch ten lines of prose written by one of these people in 1954, they will do so at their peril. At this point censorship shades over toward intellectual lynching.

When I write in this style and manner I receive letters, some straight," which has been about all the American diplomats have hoped for in recent months, is important. But getting on with the "cold war" is more so.

Secretary Marshall is reported determined to precipitate a showdown on whether Molotov really intends to negotiate. But Marshall himself is probably in no doubt.

The allies are not going to agree to German reparations payments to Russia which under present circumstances would merely mean paying the bills ourselves while German production, needed in the fight to preserve western Europe, is drained off to help the enemy.

When Russia agrees to joint control of the Austrian and Romanian oil wells, then maybe the allies would talk about joint control of the Ruhr. That means never.

When Russia is ready to really clear out of Germany and leave the people free to establish a democratic government, not a bureaucracy which could easily be turned into a police state as the Communists have done throughout eastern Europe, then perhaps they could get a hearing on a central government in Berlin. That will only be the day when they abandon the "cold war" and drop their ideas of expansion and world revolution.

There must be a hollow laugh behind the mask of tragedy, over the council room in London as Bidault, Bevin and Marshall "negotiate" while Molotov's fifth column try to take over Europe, and while his government officially excommunicates France and virtually breaks off relations.

The ensuing paragraph is an example of that political publicity, and propaganda, which is published in the guise of innocent babble about the amusement trade.

"At the Larry Adler opening, at Cafe Society, famous Helen Keller was able to follow the harmonic rhythms this way: A friend finger-coded the tempo to the palm of Miss Keller's hand. Sitting at the same table, Jo Davidson alternately cried 'Bravo!' and caricatured Larry on a napkin."

This is from the column of Ed Sullivan, of the New York News. Sullivan seldom attempts a column herent discussion of any of the strong subjects which he flicks. That would require continuous thought and organization of lan-merely squiffy, some very earnest, asking whether it is not necessary that our republic defend itself against subversion. It certainly is. But you have to prove the peril before you take the action. In the case of a man who makes movies, I think you must prove the peril in his movies, and in the case of a man who writes books, the peril in his books.

You cannot proceed on the basis of what is in the backs of men's minds; not in a country which respects privacy and in which district attorneys are required to prove overt acts, and in which men may not be made to testify against themselves.

This returns us to the point that nobody has been able to prove subversive content in any Hollywood film. The Author's league council is right in pointing out what a strange business it is to put over an oblique censorship of men without reference to their works. The council could have gone further and reminded us that the creation of special categories of wholesome and unwholesome men is one of the most unattractive features of the totalitarian philosophy that we reject.

Yes, we must defend ourselves against subversion. But it is not being too smart alecky, I think, to suggest that government by defamations and changes in men's status without writ or process, are some of the things we must defend ourselves against in a dismally un-free world.

We can and should defend ourselves against totalitarianism by diplomacy, by use of our economic strength, and, at home, by proving the overt act, but not by running about like shrews, dragging people in, out of their homes and offices, and asking them what they think, or by making hysterical purges in industries selected more or less at random. For that is a decline in order, and order is the skeleton of freedom.

As He Says, 'No News Here'

By WESTBROOK PEGLER
King Features Syndicate, Inc.

These essays have contended that professional gossips, gathering prattle about the vain illiterates, the transitory spouses, the con-men and gun-men, Communists and innocents of the amusement industry, should be closely supervised by adult editors of proven professional judgment.

Otherwise, these strongly opinionated children may do mischief where they may not so intend.

Since the discovery of the constitution by a little party of serious thinkers consisting of one night-club comedian, one movie actress, a press-agent and a jewelry salesman, in the Cub room of the Stork, in 1935, newspaper columns originally allotted to babble of no conceivable importance have been more and more usurped for loaded subjects.

Journalists who graduated from the rank of office boy by the process of putting on long pants have become editorialists of the most emphatic personality. They argue social platitudes with a savage vehemence which impugns the decency of citizens who detest them personally for valid reasons of taste, manners and intelligence.

They are not necessarily unintelligent or even insincere, although the standard of book-learning is not high and some have become so rigidly fixed in holy attitudes that they preach even in smirking innuendoes about current adulteries. All of them earnestly believe that they are competent to lay down foreign policy, and would abolish Jim Crow in Mississippi, but not in the Stork or Twenty-one.

The ensuing paragraph is an example of that political publicity, and propaganda, which is published in the guise of innocent babble about the amusement trade.

"At the Larry Adler opening, at Cafe Society, famous Helen Keller was able to follow the harmonic rhythms this way: A friend finger-coded the tempo to the palm of Miss Keller's hand. Sitting at the same table, Jo Davidson alternately cried 'Bravo!' and caricatured Larry on a napkin."

This is from the column of Ed Sullivan, of the New York News. Sullivan seldom attempts a column herent discussion of any of the strong subjects which he flicks. That would require continuous thought and organization of language. A child can string together little 30-word blurbs of unrelated notes. Young reporters and ageing journalists of proven professional class are embittered by the recognition and pay accorded some of the Broadway and Hollywood tattlers.

Analyze this item. Larry Adler is a vaudeville act. He plays a mouth organ. The mouth organ is a device, not an instrument. The playing of it, however well, is more a trick than an art. There is nothing new about Adler's skill. He has been at it for years. No news here.

Helen Keller is deaf, dumb and blind and an inveterate attraction, now 67. She was communicating by touch before Sullivan was born. She has been giving these demonstrations in public for more than fifty years. She knowingly chose her political company a long time ago. No news here.

Davidson is a sculptor identified with an offshoot of the late Sidney Hillman's Political Action committee. The title of his political cell suggests that it speaks for artists, scientists and professional persons. Actually few scientists joined it and the vast majority who never did lacked the means so to inform the public.

Any dauber, mud-pie modeler, mouth organist or Broadway-Hollywood-Miami gambling house paragrapher may call himself an artist or professional man. Adler may call himself an artist just as a phrenologist may call himself a professor.

Even Sullivan is a professional man in the sense that he is a journalist of a sort. He has been implicated in some proceedings on the platforms of movie houses as a master of ceremonies and he once wrote with endearing naivete of the delight of painting one's face and exposing one's self to the rapturous awe of the passing public by standing at the stage door. He is not bad, but juvenile. Yet he has the power to make propaganda and grant free advertising.

Doctor Warns of U.S. Weakness

AMA Chief Says, 'We Fail To Use Our Best Brains'

Dr. Edward L. Bortz, president of the American Medical Association, said recently that "as a nation we have fallen woefully short of utilizing our best brains." He spoke in Atlantic City, N. J., before the annual conference of the Middle States Science Teachers association and the Middle States Association of Colleges and Preparatory Schools.

"Before students are directed into fields of science, adequately trained teachers—adequately paid—are one of the nation's principal needs today," the Philadelphia doctor said, adding: "It's a sad commentary on our present educational system that boys and girls of superior capacity, energy and promise have been unable to continue into college."

In his prepared address, entitled "Science Teaching in the Atomic Age," Dr. Bortz said:

"There need to be improved high school instruction and provision for helping individual talented students to pursue their studies into advanced courses. With a broad science teaching program in the hands of qualified instructors, a more generous flow of better trained young minds will be turned over to college authorities for specialized training . . .

"New techniques in chemistry, physics, and allied branches bid fair to greatly alter man's understanding of himself and the environment in which he lives. These disciplines suffer today from a great lack of trained personnel to carry on and probe the secrets yet unrevealed. The fields of education, medicine, engineering, and industry are all desperately in need of trained personnel. This need carries directly to the portals of our schools.

"There has been such a tremendous acceleration in the various fields of science that a serious shortage in trained personnel has occurred. Workers in the various fields of science must be obtained from our educational institutions.

"The trace-back to the public schools of the nation is a direct path to the source of our nation's manpower. The base of democracy is our educational system and the fitting of our manhood and womanhood for intelligent and efficient participation in the nation's program for national survival.

"In the search for sanity and a balanced national existence leaders, must emerge from our American schools. They need to be trained in the spirit of science. The foundation of this training should be an intelligent understanding of biology—the science of living.

"From this as a base, an education for each boy and girl should progress in those fields that are fundamental to personal and national success. Unfortunately we cannot brush aside the possibility of another war. The best way to avoid it is to so train our youth and our citizens, to condition all of them for the part each one may be called upon to play.

"I am impressed with the fact that today a program of security, to be effective for the entire nation, will require a large number of highly trained scientists who can utilize the powers that have been developed by scientific research.

"The day of large armies, large navies, and individual gunfire is passed. There is danger, it seems to me, of establishing in the minds of our citizens a false sense of security if the youth of our land are turned over to the military for the purpose of training in the art of personal combat.

"When one atomic bomb can obliterate an entire city, and six might render ineffective our national government, one of the great emergencies of the moment is to instill in the minds of everyone a sense of responsibility for our national existence.

"The basis of a modern program for security would be training in science. Instead of a limited program for conditioning one group of our people—namely the boys of high school age—for military training, there should be set up a nationwide plan which would include all citizens who might be called upon to serve. The ideals of democracy versus totalitarianism should be clarified at all school levels."

International Club To Hold Elections

The International club will elect officers at its second meeting of the year Friday at 8 p.m. in the parlors of the Congressional chamber.

All students and staff members from foreign countries are invited to attend.

Social, program and constitution committees will be appointed to function during the current year. A poll will also be taken of the group to determine the number remaining in Iowa City during the Christmas holidays so that a social program may be planned for them.

Entertainment will be provided by the Latin American club. Refreshments will be served and dancing and games will follow the business meeting.

Students in Error

TO THE DAILY IOWAN:
I wonder how many of our student body realize the significance of the slow returns on our Campus Chest drive?

The gripes I hear by fellow students on the poor spirit of cooperation shown by the "administrative officials" or "alumni" in not helping maintain a healthy school spirit, seem to me to be a case of the pot calling the kettle black.

If the student body is not interested enough in cooperating to help themselves, how can they be justified in criticizing others about a lack of school spirit or expect their cooperation to benefit our university?

Let's Not Forget

TO THE DAILY IOWAN:
Nothing was too good for our servicemen during the dark days of 1941-45. A grateful nation dares not . . . shall not forget the thousands for whom the war has not yet ended.

More than 500,000 veterans of the recent world holocaust were hospitalized in government institutions so far this year. Of that number, nearly 125,000 will remain as permanent or semi-permanent patients.

As president of the Hospitalized Veterans foundation, I earnestly solicit the financial support of every patriotic American in providing greater comfort, happier hours and lasting entertainment for these boys. The foundation is non-profit and non-sectarian and is headed by 72 prominent citizens from all walks of life and nearly every state.

We are working closely with hospital chaplains to provide the things they need to maintain the morale and lighten the burden of the boys who gave so much.

Let's not forget our hospitalized heroes.

Here's Where Your 'Steep' Fine Goes

Fines collected in the Iowa City police court from law violators is distributed in substantial amounts into three worthy funds.

The city consolidated fund, the county school fund and the county general fund have received during the first 10 months of this year a total of $16,714.08, according to records kept by Police Judge Emil G. Trott.

During this period the consolidated fund, which is comparable to a city general fund, has received $14,240.90. Fines for parking violations amounted to $6,049 of this total.

The county school fund received $2,192.88, and the county general fund collected $280.30 during this same period.

Fines are collected on two types of charges—city and state. Most charges are city, since the majority are filed by local police.

Fines and court costs of all city cases go into the consolidated fund. Parking fines have contributed the largest single amount to this total.

State case fines and forfeited bonds on state charges go into the county school fund. The court costs on these cases go into the county general fund.

The $2,196.88 received by the school fund is a great help. As Judge Trott jokingly puts it, "When a school teacher comes in on a state case, it doesn't hurt so much to have to impose a fine. It all goes back into the school fund anyway."

A glance at monthly totals shows an upward trend from January to November. In January offenders paid $1,200, while $2,552.50 was collected in October.

Warm weather, which influences people to get out more, probably has a great deal to do with this trend.

July and October were the highest parking violation months, with $848 and $786 collected respectively. August and September were also much higher than cold weather months.

The average offender will always think the fine is a "little steep," but at least he knows the money is put into good use, Trott said.

Approve Exhibition of Famous Art Works for Iowa

Show May Open Here January 11

The exhibition of 30 famous paintings from the Metropolitan Museum of Art at the university art building was approved by Iowa's State Board of Education, President Virgil M. Hancher said last night at Ames.

The actual appropriation of shipping charges to bring the exhibit from Texas to Iowa City and maintenance costs of the show, Hancher said, is a technicality that will be taken care of at a meeting of the board's finance committee here Dec. 22.

Metropolitan officials Monday offered to loan the paintings to SU for three months. The paintings could not be shipped here until the board of education approved the loan.

Actual shipping costs may not be too much, Administrative Dean Allin Dakin said.

Paintings by many well known artists of the Renaissance such as Rembrandt, Titian, Bellini, El Greco, Rubens, Fra Filippo Lippi, Domenico Ghirlandaio, Tintoretto, Cranach Hals, Reubens, and Rosa Bonheur are featured in the show.

An administrative and promotional committee of university officials met today in Prof. Earl E. Harper's office. Plans for the opening of the show were discussed.

The exhibition will probably open Sunday, Jan. 11, and continue for the next three months, according to Harper. He thought "this is probably the first time such an exhibition has come to Iowa" and "there may be a private, full-dress preview of the show before it officially opens for the public."

Numerous gallery tours will be given during the three-month period the show is here. "I hope every university student will see the exhibition," Prof. Lester D. Longman, head of the art department, commented.

Longman originated last year the idea of having a Metropolitan show brought to Iowa. Longman and Harper visited Francis H. Taylor, director of the museum, in New York last March.

A Metropolitan man recently inspected the art building's facilities for handling such an exhibition. The facilities were found to be fire proof and entirely satisfactory, Harper stated.

The collection, traveling in a special railway express car under armed guard, is expected to arrive here late this week, according to The Associated Press.

"We didn't want the paintings to arrive in Iowa City until after Christmas," Harper said.

The art work has been on exhibition until recently in the art museum at Dallas, Texas.

Council Lists Steps To Improve School Spirit at University

Will Investigate Better Methods of Handling 1948 Campus Chest

A five-point program for stimulating school spirit was presented to the Student council last night at a meeting at Old Capitol.

The council also discussed plans for better university placement services, the Christmas vacation transportation problem, Campus Chest and "Panacea," campus show.

The committee investigating school spirit outlined the following tentative objectives:

1. To promote better understanding between athletic heads and students by instituting a post-football season banquet.
2. To better inform students on student government.
3. To increase understanding between students and faculty.
4. To promote more class events and inter-class competition.
5. To get players and coaches to attend all pep meetings.

Members of the committee are Jan Gutz, A4; Gene Glenn, A2; Dean Stichnoth, C4, and Keith McNurien, D2.

Bill Reis, C4, will investigate a plan to poll seniors for their ideas on more effective placement facilities and will report his findings at the meeting next Tuesday.

Reis reported that the college of liberal arts seems to be the only school lacking good placement services. He added that there are some plans already underway for the readjustment of the liberal arts placement program.

Bob Brose, A2, was appointed to investigate transportation facilities for students going home over Christmas vacation. Council members said transportation was inadequate last year and many students were delayed in leaving Iowa City.

The council also voted to call a meeting of Campus Chest solicitors to draw up specific suggestions on how next year's drive can be improved.

Jean Sprott, A3, Student council representative on the committee for "Panacea," reported that three scripts are known to be in preparation for the campus show. A $40 prize will be awarded to the student who submits the winning script and lyrics. Deadline is Dec. 12.

Paul Lange, C4, was introduced to the council as the new Quadrangle representative. He replaced Tom Neenan, A4, who was acting in a temporary capacity.

Catherine McFarland, A4, was appointed as Student council delegate to a meeting Thursday night which will investigate the possibility of a more effective student government.

Campus Chest Drive Comes To End; $6-Thousand Short

The Campus Chest fund drive officially ended at 5 p. m. yesterday $6,111.99 short of the $10,000 goal, according to Chairman Ray Tierney, A4.

Tierney expressed regret that the drive did not yield more than the $3,888.01 collected, but added: "What we have achieved will go a long way to alleviate the suffering of the people we endeavored to help."

He said he wished to thank the many persons who helped with the drive and also everyone who contributed.

Four Men Appointed to SUI Staff

Four appointments in the fields of botany, English, psychology and the office of the registrar were announced yesterday by President Virgil M. Hancher.

Approval of the appointments was received from the Iowa State board of education in its meeting at Council Bluffs yesterday.

Dr. Robert Muir will join the staff of the department of botany as an assistant professor beginning July 1, 1948. He holds a Ph.D. degree from the University of Michigan granted in 1946 as well as an M.A. granted in 1941. He earned his bachelor's degree at the University of Wyoming in 1938 and was a Rhodes scholar at Oxford in 1938.

In 1939 he was a member of the Michigan botanical exploration in Corsica. Since his discharge from the army air forces in 1946, he has taught at Pomona college in California.

A new assistant professor of clinical psychology and senior psychologist in the psychopathic hospital will be Dr. Woodrow M. Morris, at present director and chief psychologist of the division of special clinical services at the University of Michigan.

Prior to naval service as a clinical psychologist in the neuropsychiatric service of the U. S. naval hospital at Great Lakes, Morris was chief psychologist of the Pontiac State hospital at Pontiac, Mich. He will join the Iowa staff Feb. 1.

Scheduled to begin his duties as assistant registrar and examiner at the university on Dec. 15, is J. Harvey Croy. He holds an M.S.

degree in mathematics from the University of Iowa and has been teaching mathematics in Franklin high school, Cedar Rapids, for the past nine years.

Andrew Lytle, prominent author and teacher, has been appointed lecturer in the department of English. He will assume the duties of Paul Engle, who will be absent from the university on a commission to do a book of poems on a portion of American history. Lytle formerly was editor of the Sewanee Review, a literary magazine. He is a historian and novelist and will join the staff Jan. 1.

Says Typographers Strike in Protest Of Taft-Hartley Act

The current strike of the International Typographers union with Chicago newspapers is a protest against the Taft-Hartley act, Rev. Jack Telfer of Ottumwa told the local Progressive Citizens of America group last night.

The union insists on verbal agreements with the newspapers, he said. If the union signs written contracts it will fall under Taft-Hartley restrictions and lose its closed shop. Union wage demands would probably be granted if a written contract was signed, he said.

Telfer, who broadcasts a news program from Ottumwa under the sponsorship of the CIO Packing House workers, outlined three main defects of the Taft-Hartley law:

1. It upsets industrial relations established under the Wagner act

Telfer pointed out that the act assumed equality between labor and management. Actually, he said, there is no equality because the employer controls the worker's livelihood.

2. It endangers economic prosperity by weakening labor's bargaining power. Telfer believes "mass buying power", not production, is the key to prosperity. The law weakens union bargaining power, makes it more difficult for workers to gain needed wage increases, and cuts their purchasing power. This hastens economic collapse, he said.

3. It is a menace to Democratic liberties because it imposes a "political inquisition" on workers with its non-Communist requirement.

It also limits labor's right to finance political action.

Hold Burial Today For Mrs. Burrell

Funeral services for Mrs. Loreta Burrell, 64, who died Saturday night after being struck by a hit-and-run driver in Tulsa, Okla., will be held at 10 a. m. today at Oakland cemetery.

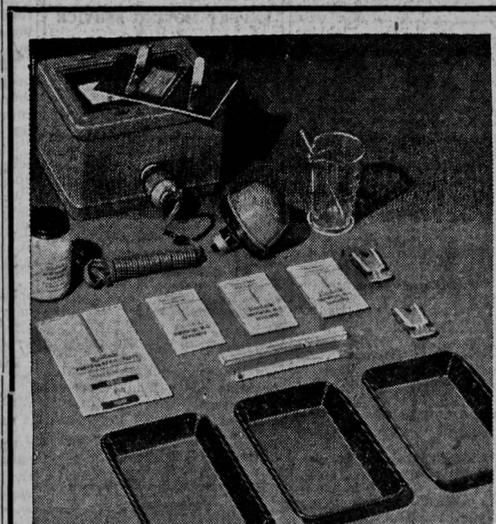

Without funeral home in charge. No service will be held at the funeral home since services were held in Tulsa, where Mrs.

Burrell had been visiting relatives.

The body arrived in Iowa City at 4:42 a. m. today, and will be at the funeral home until time for the service.

Mrs. Burrell, who moved to Iowa City in 1920 and lived here for 20 years, had been living with her daughter, Mrs. F. W. Wander, in Davenport for the past few years.

It is believed that far more fish are caught by other fish than by man.
