

And They Say Airplanes Are Dangerous

EL DORADO, Kan. (AP)—Reversing the usual order of things, a house sideswiped a motor car here.

The building, being moved by Otto W. Hobson to a new location, careened into a parked automobile. Damage was estimated at $10 to the car and none to the house.

Truman Drops Fixed Sum in Aid Plan

Marines Leave for Mediterranean Duty

LOADED DOWN with full combat equipment, approximately 1,000 marines climbed aboard transports yesterday at Morehead City, N.C. A close-lipped silence, reminiscent of wartime secrecy, cloaked the movement of the Leathernecks, each a specialist in amphibious operations. The marines, all members of the second division, will be stationed on ships operating in Italian and Greek waters. No explanation was forthcoming from officers as to why the movement, scheduled to be completed today, was carried out yesterday. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Senator Seeks Oil Firm Probe To See If Fuel Is Hoarded

WASHINGTON (AP)—A congressional investigation of the major oil companies for possible anti-trust violations was proposed by Senator Johnston (D-SC) yesterday. He said there's apparently "a squeeze play going on to hurt the small independent dealers."

"It looks like the big oil companies are holding oil off the market so the people will be scared and they can run prices up," Johnston told reporters.

"If the big companies are doing this—as indicated in my state-prosecutions are in order."

Johnston said he would introduce today a resolution proposing the oil investigation. At his instigation, he said, the department of justice is checking on the distribution and storage of fuel oil.

His investigation demand came as a senate small business subcommittee, delving into the domestic petroleum shortage problem, heard testimony that Greece is getting about 7,000 barrels a day—one third of her requirements, from U.S. military sources under the American foreign aid program.

Senator Wherry (R-Neb.), chairman of the subcommittee, challenged the necessity for those shipments when domestic users are going short of oil.

"In reality," Wherry said, "the small businessman in Greece is getting a priority over the small businessman in America."

Greece is due to get 450,000 tons of petroleum during the first six months of 1948, compared with 368,000 tons during the last half of 1947, Walter Wilds, state department deputy coordinator of aid to Greece and Turkey, told the committee.

Russia Shuns Little Assembly

LAKE SUCCESS (AP)—The Soviet bloc in the United Nations boycotted the first meetings yesterday of the new and experimental "little assembly" sponsored by U.S. Secretary of State Marshall as a means of taking some of the workload off the regular assembly.

Forty-four nations out of the UN membership of 57 sent delegates to the opening session of the year-round sittings. The Soviet group—Russia, The Ukraine, White Russia, Czechoslovakia, Poland and Yugoslavia—kept its pledge not to attend.

Seven nations were absent without explanation. They were El Salvador, Ethiopia, Guatemala, Honduras, Lebanon, Paraguay and The Yemen.

The principal business was the election of Dr. Luis Padillo Nervo of Mexico as chairman without opposition.

Discuss Plans For Council Of 4 Dorms

By NEAL BLACK

The Quadrangle and Hillcrest councils last night took action on tentative plans for an inter-dormitory council to include four men's dormitories.

Quadrangle council members expressed disapproval of plans for the apportionment of representation among the dormitories but were in favor of the rest of the council framework.

Present plans call for equal representation of the dormitories on the council.

The Hillcrest council voted its approval by a large majority at a meeting last night.

The South Quad council has taken no action on the plans for the central group but the idea was approved before delegates were sent to the organization meeting, according to Stuart Moureau of the South Quad council.

The Law Commons council will consider the plans at a meeting tonight. John Tornell, president of the Law Commons, expressed confidence last night that the tentative plans would meet with the approval of the group.

The inter-dormitory council is being formed to work on social, scholarship and athletic programs and administrative problems of the housing units. These objectives were decided on at a recent meeting of delegates from the four dormitories.

The dormitories will have to approve a constitution and a charter must be obtained from the university before the group can go into operation.

Grandchildren Call Senator Taft 'GOP', Mrs. Taft Declares

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. Robert A. Taft said yesterday "the torch of liberty is like your husband or a furnace. If you don't do something about it, it will go out."

Speaking before the District of Columbia League of Republican Women, Mrs. Taft said among other things:

Senator Taft's grandchildren have begun to call him "GOP," pronounced just that way, instead of grandpa.

That "Bob Taft was the first" to take to the road to tell the GOP story of the last congress, although other congressmen traveled around too, "to see a dam site... I mean a site for a dam."

"I won't attempt to prophesy. I'll leave that to Mr. Henry Wallace."

The boy lost his leg when his home in Cassino suffered a direct bomb hit that caused the death of all his family.

6 Alaska Castaways Saved After 5 Days; 3 Others Rescued

SEATTLE (AP)—Rescue of a ninth castaway from a bleak point of the Alaska peninsula was reported by the coast guard last night. Another dispatch received from Kodiak by the 13th naval district said all of the 13 persons marooned during the last five days were alive.

The coast guard cutter Clover which earlier took aboard five men, two women and a small boy, radioed at 8 p. m. (CST) that another man, Jacob Osbekoff of Chignik, Alaska, had been saved.

Osbekoff was the sixth survivor from the wrecked cannery tender Spencer to be rescued after five days and nights of exposure in near-zero temperatures on the gale-whipped point. The other three brought to safety were members of a navy rescue crew whose surfboat capsized Saturday night.

Four other persons who were aboard the Spencer when it smashed into the rocks opposite Kodiak island Dec. 31 have not been accounted for, but the Kodiak dispatch reported they had not perished as had been feared.

Congress Opens Important Session Today

Surplus May Hit 7 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government rolled up a surplus of $1,658,190,000 in the first half (July 1-Dec. 31) of the current fiscal year, during which officials expect revenue to exceed spending by the greatest margin in history.

The surplus Dec. 31 was reflected in the daily treasury report yesterday. It contrasted sharply with a deficit of $20,937,000 in the first half of the previous fiscal year, but it was small against prospects for the next six months.

Government analysts yesterday estimated that heavy tax collections in the next few months will boost the surplus to about $6 billion and perhaps $7 billion by the end of this fiscal year next June 30.

The biggest surplus ever recorded in a full year was one of $1,155,000,000 under the Coolidge administration in 1927.

President Truman last August forecast a surplus of $4,667,000,000 for this fiscal year.

Foreign Aid, Inflation Curbs, Tax Plans Top List of Crucial Legislative Questions

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Republican-dominated 80th congress resumes work today with an election-year atmosphere of uncertainty hanging over the crucial questions to be decided.

Foreign aid, cost-of-living curbs and tax reduction head the legislative list.

And sharp differences between congressional leaders and the Truman administration were apparent on all three questions as the senators and representatives ended their 17-day recess.

Both sides well know that every action taken might have its effect on the election of a president, complete house and one-third of the senate next November.

Election prospects also weighed on other questions before congress—military preparedness, the housing shortage, rent control, health insurance among the more important.

President Truman will tell congress what he wants in a personal delivered "State of the Union" message tomorrow, an economic report Friday and his budget message next Monday. Radio messages will carry Mr. Truman's Wednesday speech, beginning at 12:30 P.M. CST.

Meanwhile the senate Republican policy committee scheduled for consideration this month the controversial St. Lawrence seaway project, a house-approved bill to authorize a state department foreign information service, and a house-approved civil service retirement plan.

The administration's campaign on behalf of the measure gained momentum yesterday with a top state department official, Charles

GOP Leaders Rap Democrats

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) and a group of other Republican leaders blamed high prices on Democratic policies last night. They said congress could cut taxes and limit foreign spending in the session resuming today.

Declaring that "as long as we have lavish Marshall plans, we will have Marshall plan prices," Taft said "police-state methods" won't curb inflation, and he called upon President Truman to adopt "American methods" if he really wants prices to stop rising.

Taft's indictment of the Truman administration, which he described as a continuation of the New Deal, was seconded by House Speaker Martin of Massachusetts, GOP national chairman Carroll Reece, House Majority Leader Halleck of Indiana and Senator Millikin of Colorado, chairman of the senate Republican conference.

Halleck said prices now would be much higher except that the Republican congress "got production under full speed ahead."

Mr. Truman, in recommending the "Marshall Plan" to congress as it was about to adjourn last Dec. 19, said the plan's administrator should be responsible to the secretary of state in foreign policy matters.

Several leading Republicans including Senator Taft of Ohio and Rep. Taber of New York, chairman of the house appropriations committee, have described the $17,000,000,000 figure as too high. GOP sentiment has developed (See CONGRESS, page 8)

Eliminates $17 Billion As 'Target'

Still Asks $6,800,000 For First 15 Months; Total Is Up to Future

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Truman administration was agreed to eliminate the $17 billion figure from its Marshall plan bill, leaving the future to determine just how much the United States will put up for European recovery.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.), chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, disclosed to a news conference last night that this has been done at his suggestion.

Vandenberg told reporters: "The net result of this is simply to take out of the bill the $17 billion target and recognize the reality that it is impossible to anticipate what the conditions of the world will be in the succeeding four years."

President Truman proposed the plan to the special session of congress just concluded as a four-year, $17 billion program.

An objection some legislators have been raising is the question whether the present congress could commit future congresses to continue the program. The present congress will end next January.

By taking the $17 billion figure out, Vandenberg said, future congresses will not be committed in any way on the amount of economic aid they will provide.

He said he favors the four-year over-all authorization, without amount. He said the administration bill, as altered, will still contain for a $6,800,000,000 appropriation to carry it through its first 15 months. This was the sum asked by Mr. Truman.

Vandenberg made his suggestion to Undersecretary of State Robert A. Lovett, but the decision accepting it was the President's.

In the light of the arguments which have been made thus far, Vandenberg's action appeared likely to ease the way for eventual passage of European recovery legislation.

UNION REBUFFS WALLACE
ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The New York state CIO last night "repudiated" the candidacy of Henry A. Wallace for president and blasted the third party movement as a "piece of political adventurism which can lead to nothing but disastrous consequences to all the American people."

Truman Eyes Tax Problem

WASHINGTON (AP)—One of President Truman's top consultants said last night the Chief Executive is weighing a proposal to recommend higher taxes on corporation profits to allow relief in low personal income brackets.

The plan, this White House adviser asserted, would be designed to offset Republican tax cutting demands by permitting relief for the smallest taxpayers without reducing over-all tax revenues.

This official, who declined to allow use of his name, said President Truman was firmly opposed to any across-the-board general tax reductions and will fight any attempt to reduce total yields below present levels.

This White House development followed an assertion by Rep. Knutson (R-Minn.), chairman of the house ways and means committee, that his $5,600,000,000 income tax slashing bill will be placed before the house on a "this or nothing" basis.

Amendments will be barred, Knutson said, adding that he expected prompt passage.

Subpoena Records Of Gen. Graham's Tradings in Grain

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators on search for "government insiders" who traded in commodity markets obtained broker's records yesterday of grain trading by President Truman's physician.

They arranged to hear Thursday from Harold E. Stassen, who set off the search in the first place. The senators also plan to call Mr. Truman's doctor, Brig. Gen. Wallace H. Graham, to appear Thursday "if we can prepare the evidence" in time, said Chairman Ferguson (R-Mich.) of the appropriations subcommittee engaged in the inquiry.

The subcommittee got the Graham records by a subpoena. The broker's firm which handled his account, Bache and Co., had signified its willingness to turn them over, senators said, but was reluctant to do so without a formal order.

Stassen, candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, said, "It's not enough that they get out of the market as I am told they are doing. They should get out of the government."

Legislator Beardsley Seeks GOP Nomination for Governor

NEW VIRGINIA (AP)—State Rep. William S. Beardsley, 46, New Virginia farmer and businessman, Monday became the first to announce a candidacy for the Republican nomination for governor in the June primary.

Announcing a four-point program, he said he felt "the fine traditions of the Republican party can best be maintained and advanced by uniting on a constructive program which serves the general welfare of all the people of the state."

If nominated and elected Beardsley pledged:

1. "A sound, constructive business administration. The magnitude and importance of the business of the state requires the same careful management as is necessary in the successful conduct of private business.

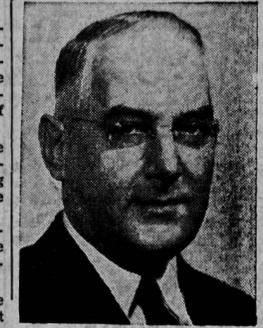

2. "Support for making the state aid to schools program permanent. Uncertainty regarding adequate school support must be definitely removed.

3. "Support for a farm to market road program that will give us rapid progress in the construction of such roads.

4. "Support for a sound state conservation program. The threat of political intimidation in the administration of the state departments must be removed."

Beardsley served in the state senate from 1932 to 1940, and in the house of representatives in the regular session last winter and in the recent special income tax session.

Born at Beacon, in Mahaska county, May 31, 1901, he attended school at Birmingham, Iowa, and graduated in pharmacy and chemistry from Bowen Institute.

He has been in the retail drug and jewelry business in New Virginia 25 years. For 10 years he has been actively engaged in farming and lives on his farm near New Virginia. Beardsley is married and has four children. He is a member of several Masonic organizations and the Odd Fellows lodge.

Hawks Outlast Ohio State in Opener, 49-41

Catapult to 36-18 Lead at Half; Wier Sizzles with 17 Points

By BUCK TURNBULL
Sports Editor

COLUMBUS, Ohio—Iowa's Hawkeyes won their opening Big Nine contest of the 1948 campaign, and their seventh straight game of this season here last night, as they dropped Ohio State, 49-41, on the Fairground Coliseum floor before a crowd of 5,500.

The win also snapped a long time Iowa jinx of not having won in Columbus in 25 years, but tonight it was Iowa all the way.

High-scoring Murray Wier led the Hawks in their conquest of the Buckeyes with 17 points.

Ohio State fans were more than a little displeased with the officiating. At times the game got rough and fouls were frequent and flagrant.

The Hawks jumped off to a neat 10-2 lead early in the first half, and never gave the taller Buckeyes the scoring edge throughout the entire contest.

The Iowans continued to move throughout the entire first half, and had doubled the score at halftime, 36-18.

At the very beginning of the second half—in fact as soon as the Hawks appeared on the floor after the intermission—the crowd began to rant and rave and ride the diminutive Wier. For a while it looked as if their efforts might turn the tide of the game.

The Hawks were colder than green icicles in the first ten minutes, Bob Schultz's free throw being the only Hawkeye pointer. The Buckeyes in the meantime had pulled to within ten points, 37-27, mainly through the efforts of Dick Schnittker and Bob Donham.

After Schnittker had added another basket to pull within nine points at 38-29, a free-swinging Schnittker elbow caught Schultz on the chin and the Ohioan was assessed a technical foul.

With time running out, the Hawks began to pull away toward victory. The crowd still roared every time Wier got his hands on the ball, and Murray quickly thanked them with another basket to give the Hawks a 43-29 advantage at the nine minute mark.

The last nine minutes were rough and rugged, but the Bucks never came within nine points of the Hawks.

Iowa started to stall with a 48-38 lead, and with four minutes left in the contest the Bucks never got a chance to close the gap.

The Hawkeyes attempted 67 shots during the entire game, six less than their rivals, hitting 18 field goals, and thirteen charity tosses. The Bucks connected with 17 shots from the field, and seven free throws.

Schnittker led the Ohio attack with 14 points.

Favor Louis In Return Go

NEW YORK, (AP)—Joe Louis will defeat Joe Walcott next June, probably by a knockout, in the opinion of over 80 percent of the sports editors from coast to coast who participated in the annual year-end poll conducted by The Associated Press.

Although the bout has not been signed by the Twentieth Century Sporting club or any other promoter, most of the writers assumed that the veteran Jersey batter who came so close to dethroning the champ would get the call.

Currently Walcott is holding out for a larger share of the gate from 20th Century for the outdoor fight. Philadelphia is the latest city to put in a bid.

Only five writers named other heavyweights. Three thought Gus Lesnevich, the light heavyweight king, would be the foe. One tabbed Joey Maxim as an opponent and another said he thought Joe would fight "somebody he can beat." No names were mentioned.

A little over a month ago there would have been no point to The Associated Press question, "Whom do you think Joe Louis will meet in June and what will be the results?" There had been little cause for concern about the result of a Louis bout for so long, that the name of the opposition had not mattered.

The Walcott bout in Madison Square garden, early in December, changed all that. Although Louis retained his crown by a split decision, with Referee Ruby Goldstein voting for the challenger, there was considerable disagreement with the verdict. Now the date and name of opponent are awaited with interest.

Most of the editors took Louis at his word that the June defense would be his last before retirement although a few said they thought Joe would win and then decide to take on at least one more battle.

Approximately half of the editors answering the query, believed Louis would knock out Walcott in their next meeting. The guesses ran all the way from four rounds to "inside ten." The sixth appeared most popular.

FLIP, BUT NO FLOP—Murray Wier, Iowa forward, finds himself sprawling through mid-air after attempting a shot in last night's game. Despite his precarious position, Wier glances anxiously at the flight of the ball. Wier flipped here, but he was no flop in the game as he led the Hawkeyes scoring with 17 points. Center Roger Finley (30) is the Hawk with the worried look. Center Neil Johnson is the Buck who seems to have given Wier a little assistance before his flight. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Purdue Upsets Hoosiers, 58-49

LAFAYETTE, IND., (AP)—Purdue's Boiler-makers upset Indiana's Hurryin' Hoosiers last night, 58 to 49, in the opening Western conference basketball game for both teams. Three Indiana players fouled out as Purdue came back from losses to Notre Dame and Butler in the Hoosier Holiday classic.

Purdue outscored Indiana from the field by only one goal, 21 to 20, but connected with 16 of 25 free throws while the Hoosiers were hitting nine of 15.

Indiana, twice winner over the Boiler-makers last season, ran up a 10-6 lead at the start, but Richard Axness, six-foot, three-inch Purdue sophomore, led a rally that put his team ahead at 13-11.

Purdue held a 30-23 margin at the half and was never headed. Indiana's chances were hurt when Forward Ward Williams, Center Charles Meyer and Guard Tom Schwartz fouled out late in the game.

Indiana, 72-46 winner over Notre Dame in Butler university's holiday program, got plenty of shots, but missed repeatedly. The Hoosiers fired at the basket 112 times to Purdue's 83.

Axness led Purdue's scoring with 18 points on seven fielders and four free throws. Lou Watson topped Indiana scorers with 16 points on seven field goals and two free throws.

U. High Whips Wayland, 44-35; Led by Ojemann

Bob Ojemann went on a last half scoring spree Saturday afternoon to lead his U. High mates to a 44-35 win over Wayland on the J. High floor.

Wayland had suffered only one previous defeat. That at the hands of a strong Burlington five. Wayland had numbered among its victims Mt. Pleasant and Fairfield.

Ojemann was held without a field goal in the first half, but found the range in the second half and took scoring honors with 15 points.

Illinois Trounces Wildcats, 52-47; Burmaster Stars

CHAMPAIGN, ILL., (AP)—Taking an early lead and holding it throughout the game, Illinois handed Northwestern its second straight Big Nine basketball defeat last night by scoring a 52-47 triumph.

The Illini, who were licked 52-47 by Wisconsin in their Big Nine start Saturday night, piled up a 25-16 halftime lead and after eight minutes of play in the second half had ballooned the margin to 39-20.

Northwestern then made its best bid of the game, cutting the advantage to 47-41 as Chuck Tourek hit for six points in 90 seconds.

The Wildcats' scoring star, Bill Sticklen, was held to two baskets by the guarding of Captain Jack Burmaster. Sticklen tossed in four charities for a total eight points to top Northwestern's scoring before fouling out with eight minutes of the game remaining.

Burmaster won scoring honors, hitting for seven points the first half and as many in the final period for a total. Bill Erickson pumped in 12 and Dwight Eddleman contributed 11.

Illinois, making only seven baskets in 40 shots the first half, wound with 16 out of 68 attempts. Northwestern tallied only four goals in 35 shots in the first period and totalled but 15 in 76 shots for the game.

Hogan Open Champ With Record 275

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—Ben Hogan, conquering a dense fog and a belated challenge by former National Open champion Lloyd Mangrum, captured the $10,000 Los Angeles open yesterday.

Hogan, firing his fourth successive sub-par round, posted a 67 for a total score of 275—five strokes under the record 280 for the Riviera Country club which he shot in winning the annual event last year.

The victory was Hogan's third in the 22 year history of this mid-winter links fixture.

A gallery of nearly nine thousand, bringing the four day tournament attendance to more than 40,000—another record—saw Hogan beat out Texas born Mangrum by four strokes.

Mangrum, who threw a scare into Bantamweight Ben midway in yesterday's final 18 holes, posted a 67 for 279 for the par 35-36-71 course, scene of the National open next summer.

Hogan's win was worth $2,000 while Mangrum as runner-up collected $1,400.

Third place, with a purse of $1,000, went to Ellsworth Vines of Pasadena, the former amateur and professional tennis champion, whose 72 gave him a total of 283.

Tied at 284 were Sam Snead of Hot Springs, Va., with a 68 yesterday, and Ed Purgol of Pontiac, Mich., who had a 73.

'Holiday With Strings' as 50 SUI Students, Graduates Wed

The holiday season seems to be a popular time for university students and graduates to get married. At least 25 couples agreed on that fact when they were married between Dec. 19 and Dec. 30.

Virginia Huenger, A4, Whiting, Ind., was married Dec. 19 in Iowa City to Peter Everett, A4, Croydon, Pa. The couple will be at home in Iowa City until June.

Sunday, Dec. 20 was the most popular day for weddings. Seven university couples were married on that day: Mary Forsberg, P4, Sioux City, to Robert Gregg, P3, Stanberry, Mo.; Helen Popovich, A4, Oakville, Conn., to Henry Word, Bickley, W. Va.; Patricia Swanson, A1, Santa Monica, Calif., to Jack Miller, C4, Brandon; Patsy Smith, C4, Charlton, to Joe Hixenbaugh, A4, Centerville; Mary Ellen Stratton, A3, St. Petersburg, Fla., to Jerry Niles, G, East Moline, Ill.; Berdena Wells, Montezuma, to Kenneth Mulford, E3, Iowa City, and Gladys Fredrick, A3, Waverly, to Frank R. Burge, Iowa City.

Five couples chose Dec. 21 as their wedding date. They were: Charlotte Doran, A4, Beaver, to Steve Dinning, C4, Des Moines; Sylvia Fischer, A4, Decorah, to William Smith, A3, Emmetsburg; Helene Houston, Rye, N.Y., to Charles Smith, A2, Sioux City; Jean Riley, Walker, to Charles H. Burkett, E2, Independence, and Sara Kountz, Des Moines, to Milo W. Deuel, P2, Cherokee.

Jean Kistler chose Dec. 22 as her wedding day to Philip G. Kendall. Both are former university students. They will make their home in Iowa City.

Genevieve E. Hole, A4, Sac City, was married to Milton C. Potee, C3, Ames, Dec. 26. Betty Cole, university graduate of 1947 from Iowa City, was married Dec. 27 to John R. Shay, E4, Iowa City. They will be at home at 223 Melrose avenue.

Three couples were married Dec. 28. They were Jean Davidson, A4, Clarina, to Bob Bordner, C4, Iowa City; Mary Ann Grayston, Des Moines, to William Joseph, university graduate of 1943 from Des Moines, and Doris Feder, New York, to A. Leo Levin, law instructor at the University of Iowa.

Dec. 29 was the wedding date for four couples. They were Patricia Chesebro, Davenport, to Earl K. Larson Jr., A3, Davenport; Helen Bracewell, Burlington, to James L. Doolittle, A4, Des Moines; Barbara Nielson, Lone Tree, to Reid W. Digges Jr., Virginia each, Va., and Joyce Carlton, Plant City, Fla., to Robert Payne, university graduate from Oelwein.

Check Status, VA Asks January Grads

Response to a Veterans administration request to January graduates that they correct enrollment status has been light, according to Dr. W. D. Coder, director of the university veteran's service.

"It is imperative," Dr. Coder said yesterday, "that all student veterans who plan to graduate or leave the university at mid-semester report to our office at 110 Iowa avenue to change their records. A possible penalty for not changing the record is loss of the 15-day leave pay due all students."

September enrollment cards were compiled in a way that showed all veterans as June graduates. Immediate attention is asked of all students concerned to bring records up to date.

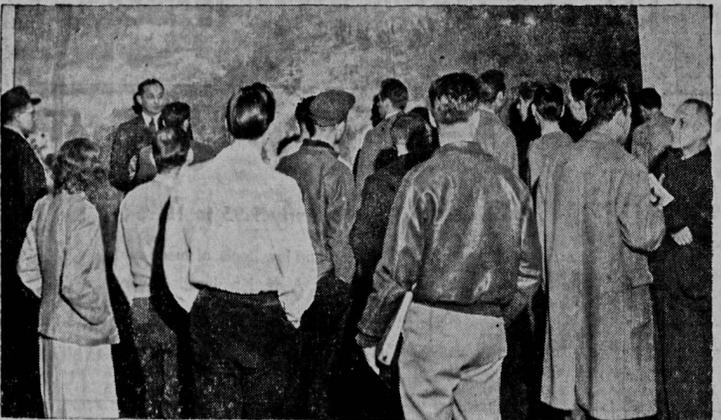

Exhibit Million Dollar Paintings in Iowa Art Gallery

TAKE IT EASY THERE! The large crate contains part of $1,257,000 worth of famous paintings from the Metropolitan Museum of Art. The paintings arrived in Iowa City yesterday and will go on display in the main gallery of the art building.

THEY COULDN'T GET THE CRATE THROUGH THE DOOR, so workmen removed the crate and carried the painting into the art building. The display begins Sunday and continues three months.

EARLY COMERS TO THE SHOW, spectators gathered around the uncrated paintings. Special guards were on hand to protect the canvasses.

Paintings Arrive by Sealed Steel Freight; Show Three Months

Thirty paintings valued at $1,257,000 from the Metropolitan Museum of Art arrived here yesterday morning inside a sealed steel freight car protected by two armed guards.

The train was met by railway express and university officials. Two trucks, manned by university crews, were used to transfer the paintings from the freight car to the art building gallery.

These precautions were necessary to insure delivery of one of the greatest loan exhibits ever assembled in Iowa. The paintings will be shown for three months beginning Sunday. It is the first time that a college or university has been granted such a loan from the Metropolitan.

Two experienced packers from the New York museum supervised the uncrating and hanging of the paintings. Student guards, appointed last week, plan to begin a 24-hour-a-day watch after the delivery. The museum packers will return at the close of the show to supervise reloading the exhibit.

"The Horse Fair," an 8 by 16 foot painting by Rosa Bonheur, had to be uncrated and removed from its frame since it was too large for admittance into the art building. University crewmen separated the painting's mounting into four parts. Inside the gallery, the picture was reassembled for final hanging.

The paintings have recently been exhibited in Dallas, Texas. Enroute since Saturday from Texas.

Two Charge Cruel, Inhuman Treatment in Divorce Petitions

Charging cruel and inhuman treatment, two men yesterday filed divorce petitions in the Johnson county district court.

Lloyd J. Lantz, 125 1/2 E. College street, asked for a divorce from Mabel M. Lantz, custody of a 6 year-old child, household furniture and his 1933 Chevrolet.

The couple was married May 20, 1939 in Iowa City and separated in May, 1944 when Mrs. Lantz asked for a divorce. She received the decree in November, 1944.

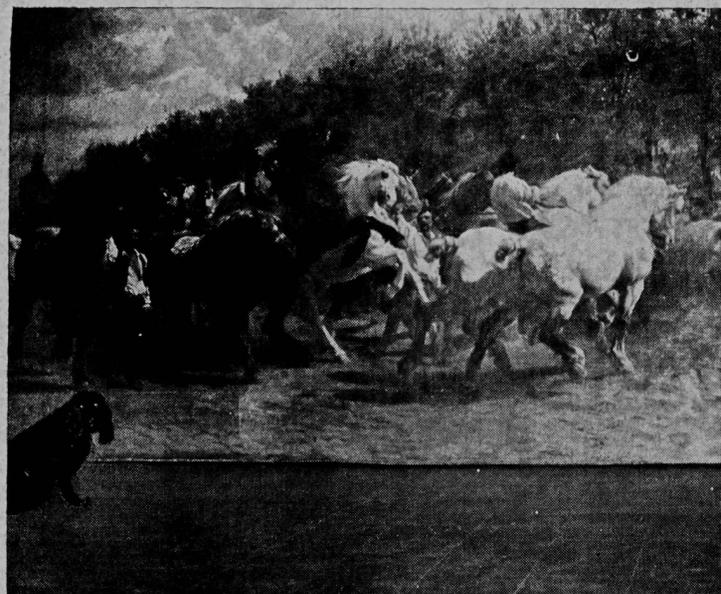

The petition stated that since that time the couple entered into a common law marriage. On May 13, 1947 Mrs. Lantz brought suit for divorce, but she requested that Lantz resume marital relations. The petition said relations were resumed until Jan. 2, 1948.

Lantz also charged that his wife neglected the child and was guilty of adultery since the common law marriage.

A. T. Smith, 1808 F street, requested a divorce from Kathryn M. Smith, custody of a 2-year-old child, household furniture, a 1939 Ford automobile and the title to a house at 1808 F street.

The couple was married Aug. 8, 1935 in Des Moines and separated Jan. 5, 1948.

Eugene Coltrane is attorney for Lantz and Swisher and Swisher represent Smith.

DOGGONE! CAN'T A FELLOW LOOK AT THE PAINTINGS? "Higgins," previewing "The Horse Fair," by Rosa Bonheur, was interrupted yesterday by Daily Iowan Photographer Dick Davis.

Judge Denies Retrial Motion in Will Case

Judge James P. Gaffney yesterday denied a motion for retrial in the contested will case, Mary Ipsen et al. vs. Louis F. Ruess et al. in the Johnson county district court.

The defendants in the suit asked for a retrial after a petit jury returned a verdict for the plaintiffs Oct. 31.

In asking for a retrial, the defendants charged that the jury considered exhibits which were ruled out by the court, didn't decide the case on a preponderance of evidence and didn't return a directed verdict.

After considering the motion for retrial, Gaffney said, "Charges of misconduct by the jury or the counsel for the contestants were completely refuted as shown by the oral examination in court of each and every member of the jury panel."

Gaffney took the motion under advisement Dec. 13, 1947 after a hearing at which the jury members were questioned.

The case involved the will of J. W. Ruess, West Liberty bachelor, who died in 1946 leaving an estate valued at about $50,000.

The plaintiffs in the case were Mary Ipsen, Elizabeth Ruess and Geraldine Sheridan, all of 503 N. VanBuren street; Charles Bryan and Loretta Loughlin, both of 908 Webster street, and Edward Bryan, 325 W. Benton street.

The defendants were Louis Ruess, West Liberty, Mrs. Elizabeth Hoffelder and Raymond Hoffelder, both of 408 N. Dubuque street, and Hazel Romaine Consamus, Melrose avenue. They were the beneficiaries of the will left by Ruess.

More than 100,000 new active cases of human tuberculosis are reported in the United States every year.

Start Daily Check Of Housing Areas

Daily maintenance work in married student housing areas started today at Stadium, Newton and Finkbine parks.

Garbage houses were washed, according to J. Robert Cotter, manager of married student housing. The snow, Cotter added, has postponed daily work on roads.

The housing office announced plans for this work last month. Repair work on a dumping truck delayed the program, Cotter said.

Water outlets were recently installed in the 18 garbage houses in the housing areas.

Jurors are Albert Holzhauser, 5 Triangle place, Avis Hunter, 1164 E. Court street; Victoria Houston, 1133 E. Court street; John J. Rupert, 225 1/2 Iowa avenue; Mary Holoubek, 1119 E. Ames Buys Oil; Eases Fuel Shortage

AMES, (AP)—The fuel oil crisis at Iowa State college's Pammel court, veterans housing unit, has been eased for the time being by purchase of a quantity of oil by the college to supplement supplies being furnished by Ames oil dealers, the college reported yesterday.

Decision to purchase the additional oil came after a meeting of college officials, Ames oil dealers and the chamber of commerce.

Local dealers will continue to supply Pammel court residents as far as their supplies will permit. College supplies will serve to ease the burden on the local dealers.

Oil purchased by the college will be distributed by two local companies. It will be sold without profit to the college. The price to the consumer may be higher due to increased cost, however.

Residents of Pammel court will have to conserve on their fuel oil consumption, college authorities stated.

Recordings

Petrillo Ban May Force Re-Issuance of Old Hits

By JO SMITH
There are some who may benefit from the ban on recordings by James C. Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians.

Those who have been haunting local record shops looking for their old favorites may now begin to find those classics of Glenn Miller, Bunny Berigan, Fats Waller, Duke Ellington, and others.

Local record shops predict that recording companies will re-issue many of the older song hits. One company with a small backlog of unreleased hits has already started rereleasing older tunes in order to save their reserve.

Also on the re-issue list will be the wartime hits which were produced in limited quantity due to shortage of materials.

No noticeable effect from the ban is expected by the local record shops, since recording firms have known about the ban for several months and have been building up reserve stocks of new tunes.

With these released at a normal rate, some estimate it will be 2 years before the supply will be affected.

Hit tunes from current movies will also be available, at least for several months.

The real difficulty, according to one record salesman, is that when a new hit comes, there will be only one arrangement. People will not have their choice of artists on current tunes. There will be one recording, and that's all.

There was a brighter side to that, however. "Maybe the tunes won't get murdered so fast," he said.

There seems to be little concern about a shortage of records. One radio salesman reported that customers were still buying record players and radio-phonograph combinations as usual.

Capture Two Fugitives From Juvenile Home

DES MOINES, (AP)—Two 14-year-old fugitives from the state juvenile home at Toledo were captured near Des Moines today, 12 hours after their flight.

Highway Patrolman Max Schmeling said they were Howard Rogers, Des Moines, and Edward Waterbury, Cedar Rapids.

They were arrested by Schmeling about 10 a. m. as they sought to hitch a ride along highway No. 6. The boys fled from the juvenile home shortly before midnight last night.

THE CAPTION for this cheesecake photo was lost when a hoard of Daily Iowan reporters moved on it for a quick glance. It said something about "Queens". That's obvious. After a quick glance, it's also obvious no caption is needed.

City Gets Permission To Erect Signals

The Iowa State Highway commission recently approved Iowa City's application for permission to erect and operate three traffic signals at intersections along Burlington street (GAR highway).

Permission from the commission was necessary because the signals are being put up on a highway. The intersections approved were Riverside drive, Clinton and Gilbert streets.

Dec. 8 the city council unanimously approved the installation of the three actuated traffic signals at a total cost of $12,896.

The Riverside drive junction will be a five-way signal and the other two four-way.

Prices—1947's Most Spectacular Performers

Hildegard wasn't the most spectacular performer of 1947. Neither was Henry Wallace. The feud of Bing and Bob was peanuts.

The most spectacular performers of 1947—wholesale prices—are represented by the solid line in the chart you see above. That price line is based on the Associated Press weighted index of 35 commodities in common use. The base year of 1926 equals 100.

Wholesale prices rose from the index figure of 165 a year ago to 205 just a few days ago. Wholesale prices naturally are reflected in the retail prices for things you buy.

Thus, the prices of things you bought in 1947 increased nearly 25 percent—in one year alone.

Now take a look at the broken line, representing personal income. That line was compiled from the U.S. department of Commerce's figures with the last two months estimated. It shows in billions the total income of Americans from wages, salaries, rents, dividends and income of unincorporated enterprises.

The money you received to buy things increased a little bit—from 186 to 199 billions. That's an increase of seven percent.

But remember that while your money to buy things was increasing seven percent, the prices you had to pay increased nearly 25 percent because of the ballet performance of prices.

These spectacular performers cost you money—more money than a first-rate performance at the Club Casino.

You probably knew this after plunking down money at the grocery, the cleaner's, the barber shop, the drug store and everywhere else you shelled out.

We thought we'd present what you had already found out as a sort of delayed Christmas present. Pleasant thought, isn't it, in the face of repeated failure by a Republican congress to stop this performance?

If you're sick of this cheap vaudeville act, drag out the statements of the NAM. You know, "prices will readjust quickly when business is free from bureaucratic price control."

Or if that doesn't cure the hangover of your pocketbook, you might write your congressmen demanding an anti-inflation program with teeth in it.

Educating for a Better Nation and World

President Truman's Commission Reports On Higher Education

By SAM GOTTESFELD

(This is the first of a series of four articles discussing a report by President Truman's 28-man commission on higher education. The second article of the series will be published tomorrow—The Editor.)

Recognizing the need to re-examine our system of higher education in terms of its objectives, methods, facilities and the social role it has to play, President Truman appointed a 28-man commission on higher education in July, 1946, to make recommendations for easing the crisis in American education.

Dean Earl J. McGrath of the college of liberal arts is one of the educators and civic leaders on the commission.

The group is preparing a six-volume report, "Higher Education for American Democracy," based on information from educational and governmental institutions.

The first volume of the report was made public Dec. 15. Entitled "Establishing the Goals," it calls for sweeping changes in higher education curricula, administration and organization.

Pointing to the tremendous increase in college enrollment since the end of the war and the hope for twice the present enrollment by 1960, the commission outlines four developments which make the need for higher education "increasingly critical":

1. The increased complexity of our society resulting from technical and scientific discoveries. Youth now requires specialized skills, greater maturity and broader understanding of social problems, the commission reports.
2. The need to mold a "dynamic unity" at home. Americans of varying cultural backgrounds, occupations, faiths and interests must learn to cooperate and avoid intergroup tensions which divide the nation.
3. The shift in American foreign policy from isolation to initiative and responsibility in world affairs. Today our citizens need to understand and sympathize with the peoples of the world and their political, economic, social and cultural institutions.
4. The coming of the atomic age and the choice of using the new source of energy for tremendous good or tremendous evil.

The commission takes a broad view of the ideals and goals of American education. It believes democratic education is bound up with the goal of world peace, that it should try to improve practical democracy at home and serve as an effective instrument of social change.

American colleges, the commission believes, should see more clearly what they are trying to accomplish, for "in a real sense the future of our civilization depends on the direction education takes, not just in the distant future, but in the days immediately ahead."

According to the commission, effective education should deal directly with current problems. It should study history not to find "eternal truths" revealed in earlier ages and applicable to present and future problems, but to use his past critically and selectively to illumine the pressing problems of the present.

Here are three proposals for American education which the commission considers of primary importance for world welfare:

1. Education for a fuller realization of democracy in every phase of living.

Understanding among men

In the commission's opinion, the main political issue of the day is the conflict between democracy and totalitarianism. The commission believes the form which triumphs will be "that form of human association and government which best serves the needs and promotes the welfare of the people." Confident of democracy's superiority, the commission asserts we can convince others only by demonstration, not by words.

In the words of the commission, "To preserve our democracy we must improve it. Surely this fact determines one of today's urgent objectives for higher education. In the past, our colleges have perhaps taken it for granted that education in democratic living could be left to courses in history and political science. It should become instead a primary aim of all classroom teaching and, more important still, of every phase of campus life."

Development of the individual

The central purpose of democracy states the report, is "to liberate and perfect the intrinsic powers of every citizen."

"A free society," the commission continues, "is necessarily composed of free citizens, and men are not made free solely by the absence of external restraints. Freedom is the function of the mind and the spirit."

Social responsibility

We must recognize, the commission declares, that there is no longer room for isolationism in any successful life, personal or national. No group can seek to promote its own ends without regard of the social consequences of its activities.

"Higher education," the commission suggests, "must inspire its graduates with high social aims as well as endow them with specialized information and technical skill. Teaching and learning must be invested with public purpose."

Meaning and processes of democracy

Students must be given a clear understanding of the human values and ethical ideas on which democratic living is based. Otherwise, the commission cautions, we may cling to the letter of democracy and lose its spirit.

However, the commission realizes that it will help little toward the fuller realization of democracy if our colleges produce a generation of impractical visionaries.

It therefore urges a study of democracy in practice—the functioning of political parties, lobbies and caucuses—to help students recognize the defects of democracy in action.

"To recognize and admit defects is not to disparage democracy," the commission believes, "it is merely to see clearly the extent of its unfinished business."

Allegiance to democracy

The commission advises giving students every possible experience in democratic processes within the college community.

"Young people cannot be expected to develop a firm allegiance to the democratic faith they are taught in the classroom if their campus life is carried on in an authoritarian atmosphere," it states.

2. Education directly and explicitly for international understanding and cooperation.

Defense of peace

Peace, says the commission, must be founded on the intellectual and moral union of mankind. It can be achieved by international cooperation and freedom of communication.

The commission recommends expanded study of international affairs, the nature and development of other civilizations, nationalism and internationalism and the causes of past wars.

Preparation for world citizenship

Citing the fact that American thinking still bears the mark of provincialism, the commission says we view foreigners with suspicion or consider them inferior and backward when we find them different from ourselves.

To fit ourselves for the world leadership that has fallen to us, the commission urges us to gain a sympathetic understanding of the values, hopes and needs of men of other nations. For this purpose it advises studying their historical development and contemporary culture, especially those of Russia and the Orient.

Instruments of international cooperation

The commission believes educational institutions are the main factors in broadening world citizenship, though it recognizes the importance of such institutions as UNESCO and the mass communication media.

However the commission points to prejudiced elementary and secondary school textbooks and peaceable college courses as examples of the failure of American schools to educate systematically for world-wide understanding.

It calls for colleges to set up programs for international understanding by pooling the knowledge of men trained in different fields and breaking down departmental divisions in the schools.

3. Education for the application of the creative imagination and trained intelligence to the solution of social problems and to the administration of public affairs.

There is a vital need for improving the mechanism of social relations, according to the commission. It indicates we all are convinced of the need for experimentation and research in the natural sciences. But few of us realize we require social inventions and social technology to improve our UN's and UNESCO's, instruments for peaceful social relations.

"One often hears or reads," says the commission, "puzzling questioning as to why man's intense desire for security and his fear of another war have produced so little actual progress toward peace in the world. But man's fear of smallpox did not eliminate that scourge until medical science and technology had invented and improved the technique of vaccination."

In the same way social science must solve the problems of human relations.

The commission therefore wants social research to become the responsibility of the colleges.

In the early stages the larvae of malaria carrying mosquitoes lie flat on the water and scoot backward when disturbed while the larvae of other mosquitoes dive when disturbed.

PCA Backs Wallace

TO THE DAILY IOWAN:

I have read with great interest your editorial entitled "Wallace's Third Party" in the Jan. 3 issue of The Daily Iowan, and your misinterpretation of the facts, which you have ably reported in your news columns, is astounding!

Your whole editorial is based upon the assumption that there is a significant difference between the Truman administration and the Republicans, and that there are only minor shortcomings in the Truman administration's record.

I will first quote from a recent statement by C. B. Baldwin, executive vice-chairman of the Progressive Citizens of America:

"It is true that the Republicans killed the original OPA but it was Truman who delivered price controls their final coup de grace, November, 1946.

"It was Truman who tossed out controls of building materials, thus wrecking the veterans' housing program. It was Truman who lifted the lid on steel and paved the way for more price rises. It was Truman who kept appealing to big business for 'voluntary' price reduction while prices zoomed, refusing to mention price controls (except to call them 'police state' measures) until the special session of congress was convened."

Anti-inflation proposals—Truman said, "I don't like price controls, and so I appeal for voluntary reductions. In the event this does not work I want congress to grant me the authority to impose price controls wherever and whenever I feel it necessary."

And what was the Republican reaction to this? "We don't like price controls either," they said, "so continue to appeal for voluntary reductions. If this doesn't work, we shall restore price controls."

Truman's labor record—Truman vetoed the Taft-Hartley bill, but he gave the Republicans a generous invitation to enact such a law when he broke the railroad strike. Truman at that time appealed for such stringent anti-labor legislation the even Taft was appalled.

The President made only a very feeble attempt to defeat the vicious Taft-Hartley law and could not rally a majority of his party behind his veto.

Civil liberties—Truman has proclaimed a frightening loyalty order that would satisfy even a Gerald L. K. Smith. It is true that a committee appointed by Truman has issued a very praiseworthy report on civil liberties. But it is ironic that this committee's report is a standing indictment of Truman's action with respect to civil liberties.

Foreign affairs—No attempt can be made here to delineate differences between the Republicans and Democrats. Foreign policy is "bi-partisan"—Van den Berg, Dulles and company and Truman have essentially the same views.

Henry Wallace is the only statesman to stand up and consistently expose our country's bankruptcy in foreign affairs—the fallacies of the Truman doctrine, the failures in Greece, China, Korea, etc.

The Truman Democrats would have us "reform" the Democratic party before and after the '48 elections. Wallace has very trenchantly pointed out that unless progressives control party machinery, we shall only get lip service from our two major parties. (The Democrats will be more effusive than the Republicans since the memory of Franklin D. Roosevelt is still a vital force.) But only lip service, for the Democrats' actions will be indistinguishable from those of the Republican party.

PCA feels that a choice between Truman and Taft, between Truman and Dewey, between Truman and Eisenhower, is no choice. In 39 out of the 54 congressional districts which were lost by the Democrats to the Republicans in the '46 election, the margin of defeat averaged less than 5,000 votes, while the drop in the number of votes from the 1944 election was 27,000.

Henry Wallace will bring these liberal voters to the polls, while if they have only a choice between Truman and a Republican these voters will certainly stay home on the '48 election days.

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT Who Is Kidding Whom?

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

The Republicans have passed a vague sort of anti-inflation bill, and they are now giving voice in its defense. They say it's wonderful. And maybe they're right. Maybe the poor little thing will work.

But it seems interesting that none of the financial papers, which really know about such matters, is taking it seriously. If the bill is as good as the Republican congressmen say it is, why do the Wall Street Journal and the New York Journal of Commerce act as if nothing had happened?

I picked up the New York Journal of Commerce on Monday (the day the President signed the Republican anti-inflation measure) and was hit in the eye by a headline which spoke of a possible "boom-bust pattern" emerging in our economy. What! On the same day on which the Republican bill became law?

Beneath the fold, same paper, same issue as a story about escalator clauses showing up again in business sales contracts, indicating, according to the National Association of Purchasing Agents, that "many sellers foresee higher prices." How can this be? The GOP has just passed a bill to end inflation. Haven't you heard about it, fellows?

The Wall Street Journal carried the same story, but, aside from a routine news paragraph or two, hardly had a word about the great new Republican contribution toward ending the inflation. But in Washington, Chairman Wolcott (Rep.) of the House Banking committee barks that the President now has, in the new bill "all he needs" to start an anti-inflation program. It does seem funny that the big financial papers, which really follow these things with expert eye, are not more impressed.

These papers are not New Dealers, and they quite often favor the high lines of Republican policy. But they are extremely competent technical journals, which write for business men, and they don't kid their readers. The fact that these two papers, and others like them, do not seem to take very seriously the anti-inflationary impact of the Republican bill is almost of itself proof that the bill was passed for the record only, and that the program in it is a superficial one.

In plain words, the technical and professional sections of American conservative opinion are not swallowing the malarky being put forth by the political sections of same.

The chief clause in the new bill is one permitting industries to make voluntary allocations of scarce raw materials among themselves. There is no price control, no rationing, nothing to reduce the cost of meat and milk and eggs.

But such leading Republicans as Halleck, of Indiana, are doing their best to make the puny little thing look good; they are slapping it on both cheeks to give it color, and plaiting ribbons into its hair. (This bill, says Mr. Halleck, "will, if properly administered, do much to adjust unduly high prices.")

It will, will it? Why don't the financial papers and commodity reviews seem to think that something big is happening? Why do they treat the Republican bill in two sticks of type, like a one-alarm fire in a laundry chute?

If this is big news, and not just something patched together for political reasons, then why do not economists and the professionals of prices treat it as big news? Why don't they carry big headlines about how the inflation is being licked? The actors on stage are still hollering away, but the critics seem barely able to suppress their yawns.

'Wonder Man' Portrayed in Loehwing's Centennial Memoirs of Bohumil Shimek

By RENA MARCELLO

Prof. Walter F. Loehwing, head of the botany department, portrays a "wonder man" in his centennial memoirs of Bohumil Shimek, national scientist, written in connection with the celebration of the university's 100th anniversary.

Loehwing's monograph is one in the series of 10 studies written about the outstanding men in the university's history. The memoirs will be bound in two volumes, edited by Prof. H. J. Thornton, of the history department.

To say that Shimek was a "Jack of many trades" might lead one to think he was "master of none." Loehwing's nine-chapter biography proves Shimek an exception to this old adage, for he distinguished himself in the fields of engineering, zoology, geology, botany and education.

He was the son of Czechoslovakian parents who emigrated to America in 1856 to escape the Austro-Teutonic political and religious oppression. Shimek received his schooling in Iowa City, graduating from the university in 1883 with a degree in civil engineering.

His great interest in childhood had always been in nature. Self tutorage and research qualified him to take the position of instructor in botany at the university in 1890.

"He rose rapidly to professor of botany, head of the department, research professor, curator of the herbarium, and director of the Lakeside biological laboratory," wrote Loehwing.

During World War I, Shimek gave much of his time and effort to lecturing and raising funds to support the Czechoslovak struggle for independence.

"As a true American, he carried on his work with sincere devotion to the cause of freedom," wrote Loehwing. "Under his illustrious leadership his countrymen in Iowa alone raised over $100,000 for the cause."

Shimek, the man, is not intelligently revealed in Loehwing's account. Perhaps, it is because Shimek's accomplishments and successes are spotlighted, while the struggle and frustration which he must have encountered are almost non-existent in this monograph.

For example, Loehwing mentions that Shimek, who lost his mother when he was five years old, was left "completely without family" before he finished college, upon the death of his father, sister and brothers.

Loehwing concluded this rather unusual and tragic revelation with "The adversity of youth seems to have tempered his spirit for future accomplishments," and let it go at that.

He presents to his readers a continual flow of highlights—a little more elaborate and detailed than a "Who's Who" account.

The most outstanding feature of Loehwing's biography is his style. One can easily guess Loehwing's profession by his choice of vocabulary and his deep understanding and appreciation of Shimek's work in the field of natural science.

"His botanical style is well illustrated in first chapter, 'The Pioneer.' Loehwing points out that before 'surveying a life it is natural to inquire into the environment and heredity out of which it has developed.'

"In the fortuitous concourse of genes in the turbulent stream of life, all too seldom does fate assemble these forces in a seed of potential genius to be planted in the soil of opportunity," explained Loehwing.

"Even more rarely does nature give genius the hardihood to survive cruel adversity or the longevity to grow into its fullest flower. Well may we pause to honor one upon whom this double blessing has been bestowed," he wrote.

Truman Joins In Tribute to G. W. Carver

TUSKEGEE, ALA., (AP) — The great and the humble joined in tribute yesterday to a frail, slave-born negro, George Washington Carver, who rose to international fame as a scientist, educator and humanitarian.

Government officials, headed by President Truman, praised Dr. Carver in simple memorial ceremonies at Tuskegee institute, where the renowned Negro spent most of a long and brilliant career.

The program here keyed Dr. Carver day ceremonies across the nation on the fifth anniversary of his death.

Carver, who graduated from Iowa State in 1894, rose to prominence through his research work in peanuts and sweet potatoes. He was memorialized with the issuance of a special three-cent stamp.

President Truman sent a telegram to Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee. Postmaster General Jesse Donaldson was present to inaugurate the stamp issue.

President Truman's telegram said in part:

"I always held Dr. Carver, and now hold his memory, in great esteem. Tuskegee institute is to be congratulated on its privilege of carrying on, through the George Washington Carver foundation the spirit and methods of so distinguished a scientist and benefactor to mankind."

The postmaster general, speaking to a mixed audience in the chapel, said "Dr. Carver is in every sense of the word one of the most outstanding Americans of our time."

Community Dads Set Membership Goal at 1,000; Plan Auxiliary

The Community Dads set a goal of 1,000 members in their membership drive and organized a women's auxiliary at their regular meeting following a potluck supper last night.

They also decided to build street barricades for the recreation department, to be used to block off snow slides. A report was heard on difficulties of maintaining ice skating rinks in Iowa City.

Newton Mulford and Max Hammond, co-chairmen of the membership drive committee, will divide the city into blocks to facilitate their hunt for members. Assignments of districts to members will be made Wednesday night. Dues of $2 per year will be charged all members in the future, the club decided, and a tab sheet is to be sent out monthly to each member so he will know what the club is doing.

Wives of the Dads organized a women's auxiliary with the stated purpose of stimulating interest among the women of the community in the youth activities carried on by the club.

Russell Mann was named chairman of a committee to build at least eight of the street barricades. Seventy-five dollars was allocated for building them.

President Clifford Krittka asked all members possible to be at the recreation center 7 p. m. Wednesday to help build barricades.

Frame reported that the Benton street and City park ice skating areas had just been prepared for use when sleet spoiled the surface.

Those rinks will be re-surfaced as soon as a cold spell returns, he said.

Charge Bartender Left Crash Scene

SIoux CITY, (AP) — John W. Elliott, 50, a bartender, was arrested here yesterday and charged with leaving the scene of an accident in which, traffic Captain Leo J. Perleth said, Otto W. Peterson, 62, was injured Saturday night.

Municipal Judge Berry J. Sisk set Elliott's arraignment for 10 a. m. next Monday. Elliott provided appearance bond.

A nurse at St. Joseph's Mercy hospital said the condition of Peterson, who suffered head and leg injuries and was unconscious when taken to the hospital, had shown improvement yesterday.

Charge Iowa Man With Criminal Libel For Sending Letters

INDIANOLA, IA., (AP) — Warren County Sheriff Lewis Johnson said yesterday that trial of Elmo Hering, 45, held in Warren county jail on a criminal libel charge, will open here Jan. 19.

Sheriff Johnson said the charge arose in connection with anonymous letters sent to a number of Warren county residents, and containing matter which the sheriff termed damaging to the character of a 20-year-old Indianola girl.

Hering admitted that he sent the letters. Sheriff Johnson said. The sheriff said Hering, a linotype operator for the Malvern Leader, a weekly newspaper, had been arrested in the newspaper office at Malvern Dec. 30, and was arraigned Saturday before District Judge Stanley E. Prall. Attorney Lee Watts, attorney from Corning, entered a plea of not guilty for Hering.

Hering was held in jail in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Prof. Jones in Hospital

Prof. James W. Jones, university pharmacy department, was admitted to Mercy hospital Monday morning.

Hospital authorities last night declined to reveal the nature of Jones' illness but reported that he was resting comfortably.

CONGRESS—

against committing the U.S. to a four-year program. Taft and others prefer granting aid on a year-by-year basis.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich), who favors large-scale aid to Europe in principle, has called a meeting of the foreign relations committee for Thursday to hear the first witnesses on the aid to Europe proposal.

The house foreign affairs committee, headed by Rep. Eaton (R-NJ), will meet tomorrow to plan its own hearings. Eaton says it probably will take several months to complete action on an aid bill.

On the cost of living question, Mr. Truman is expected to call again for power to impose selective price and wage controls, if necessary, to stop inflation.

Congress denied him these powers at the recent special session, but Senator Flanders (R-VT) now plans to introduce legislation setting up the machinery for meat rationing so as to be ready to use it on short notice, should congress decide to do so.

Another GOP senator, Wherry of Nebraska, said yesterday, however, that rationing wouldn't work without price controls and that the two curbs together "would only serve to stifle meat production."

The first battle of the new session was shaping up over income tax reduction, with Republicans ready to sponsor slashes even more drastic than those vetoed by the President last year.

Rep. Knutson (R-Minn) predicted quick house approval of his bill which would cut taxes by $5,600,000,000 and remove some six million low income and elderly persons from the income tax rolls.

Knutson, chairman of the ways and means committee, told a news conference his bill was certain to be approved by the committee and said it would be submitted to the full house on a "this or nothing" basis.

Many Democrats, the chairman said, will support the measure. Some Democrats are talking about a bill of their own which would cut the tax bill by some $3,500,000,000.

Many senators, however, are against tax cuts until they know how much foreign aid and domestic spending are going to cost.

Mr. Truman, generally expected to recommend a record peacetime budget of around $40 billion, is said by aides to oppose any general tax cuts while national income continues at the present boom level.

These sources say the President would not, however, be against some readjustments which would distribute the present tax load more equitably.

Congress and the President apparently are agreed that rent controls, which expire Feb. 29, should be extended, although they don't agree as to the form of controls. Health insurance in some form and an extension of social security also have strong congressional support, but not necessarily enough to assure approval.

New demands for universal military training are certain to be made but congressional leaders say privately the issue may well prove too ticklish to win final action in an election year.

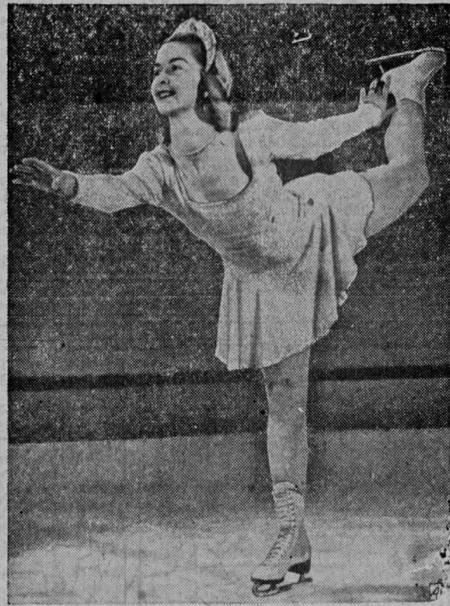

Final examinations may not be made up without authorization which may be obtained upon application to the dean of the college concerned.

Iowa Mountaineers Set Record

—In Climbing Mexican Mts.

The Iowa Mountaineers set a new record by scaling two of Mexico's highest mountains in 48 hours during Christmas vacation, according to John Ebert, mountaineer president.

Ebert, Mickey Thomas, Bruce Adams, Harold Peters, George Tanner, Earl Carter and Stan Kaiser left Iowa City Dec. 19 to make the ascents. Wally Adams joined the group later in Mexico.

Four mountaineers climbed the third highest mountain in North America, Orizaba, which is 18,700 feet and six members ascended Mt. Popocatepetl which is 17,894 feet.

The group arrived in Mexico City Dec. 23. Christmas day the mountaineers started the climb up Orizaba. At 14,000 feet the party made camp for the night.

"No one in the group, except myself," Ebert said, "had ever climbed that high. At that height, the fog was so thick we couldn't see the rest of the mountain."

Bruce and Wally Adams, Thomas, Ebert and three Mexicans from the Club de Exploraciones de Mexico started climbing at 3 a.m. the next day.

"We climbed in fog until 8 a.m.," Ebert explained. "The climbing was very tough. The elevation was so high we didn't care whether we ate, took pictures or even climbed."

"We had to rest for a count of seven after every seven steps," Ebert declared. "Once acclimatized, the body can get along on less oxygen."

"There were high winds on the mountain. According to the Mexicans, the weather was the coldest they have known in the mountains."

"Ropes weren't used for the ascent and 'everybody depended on his own climbing ability. We didn't see the summit until we reached 16,500 feet."

Ebert said the mountaineers didn't do any rock climbing on this mountain since the area was covered with snow and ice. They used ice axes and crampons.

"After climbing 11 hours, we reached the summit. The mist and fog cleared enough for us to have a view of the scenery for only 15 minutes," he said.

A big metal cross was at the peak, 150 feet below the true summit which was a snow slope. The climbers spent only 2 1/2 hours returning to their camp at 14,000 feet. They drove to Mexico City that day for supplies and to store equipment, before continuing to Mt. Popocatepetl.

The group traveled by pack horse from 12,000 to 14,000 feet, before beginning their second ascent. After spending the night in a cave often used by climbers, six mountaineers awakened at 4 a.m. to climb "Popo."

Carter, Peters, Wally Adams, Ebert, Thomas and Bruce scaled "Popo." They reached the crest at 2 p.m.

"We had to cut steps in ice and snow for the last 1,000 feet. Even if we'd slipped, we could have caught ourselves with our ice axes. Orizaba was more dangerous than

Town Men's Meeting Will Be Held Jan. 8

Thursday, Jan. 8, has been set as the date for the Town Men's next mass meeting.

The meeting will be held in room 301 University hall. Program and entertainment will be announced later.

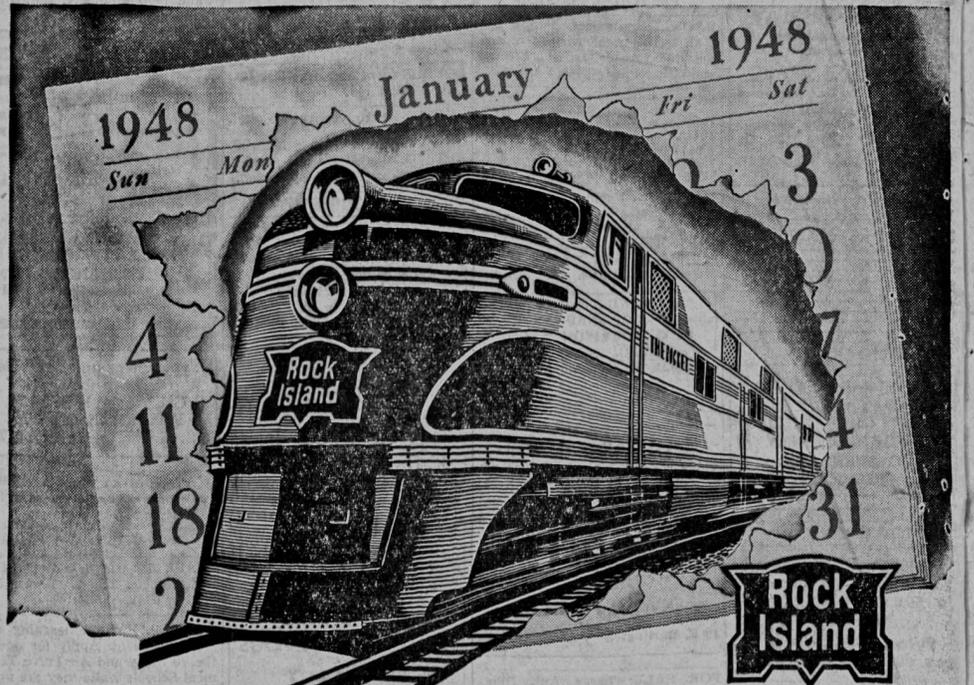

The executive council last night decided that another date date will be held Jan. 17 in the YMCA rooms at the Iowa Union. Dancing will begin following the Indiana-Iowa basketball game.

Iowa Highways Normal, Except for Ice in Spots

AMES, (AP)—The State Highway commission said highways are in spots around Davenport, Muscatine, Washington and Jefferson and southeast of Jefferson last night.

Pavements there are 50 to 75 percent clear and highways elsewhere are normal, the commission said.

"This mountain," Ebert related. The next mountaineer trip will be the 1948 summer outing to the primitive wind river range of Wyoming.

Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad Company

The same great railroad with a new corporate name returns to private control and management in its 96th year. The Rock Island Lines emerge from Trusteeship with a conservative financial structure and ample strength to meet the responsibilities of the future.

The Board of Directors of the new corporation are outstanding businessmen of the territory served by the Rock Island Lines. They may be counted on to support Rock Island management in its program of Planned Progress, which means continuous improvement in Plant, continuous improvement in Equipment, and continuous improvement in Service.

The Board of Directors and the management regard these three groups as partners whose interests must be mutually protected:

1. The public in general and particularly passengers and shippers on Rock Island Lines.
2. Security holders who have invested their money in our 8,000 miles of track, 28,000 freight cars, 700 passenger cars, 800 engines, buildings, shops and equipment.

The Rock Island is determined to serve the best interests of these three groups in the operation of the Road of Planned Progress so that all may benefit from the continued growth of a great railroad.
