Nimitz Says U. S. Can Set Up Floating Air Bases Anywhere

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz yesterday declared the United States possesses such absolute control of the seas that it is able to establish powerful floating air bases off any shore to safeguard the nation's security and world "stability."

Greek Communists Set Up Capital Near Albania, Paper Says

ATHENS (AP)—A Greek war correspondent reported yesterday that Markos Vafiades had established a temporary capital for a separate Greek Communist state in an isolated village in the heart of the Grammos mountains only 10 miles from the Albanian border.

Initial devastating air attack in the future may come across our bordering oceans from points on the continents of Europe and Asia, as well as from across the polar region, Nimitz said.

To meet that threat his study urged the establishment of fully operating mobile floating bases, from which any initial attacks might be fended off and also to provide springboards for counter air attacks.

The naval force now in the Mediterranean, headed by the powerful carrier Midway, is operating on such a system.

Nimitz report notes that atom bombs, guided missiles and rockets are planned not only for carriers but also for submarines.

Nimitz said these mobile bases possess all the advantages of permanent land bases, defensively and offensively, without the disadvantages.

As further protection against any future attack Nimitz called for a far-flung system of radar "pickets" set up on naval air, surface and submarine craft deployed around our shores.

And stressing the old adage that the best defense is the best offense, he said the navy can best fulfill its function of carrying the war to the enemy so that it would not be fought on United States soil by "projection of bombs and missiles."

Prof. Charles C. Wylie of the SUI astronomy department said last night that the statement issued by Fleet Adm. Chester Nimitz was rather "far-removed" from his recommendation of a "sky patrol."

Wylie has suggested a program be worked out on a national basis so that any object in the sky could be promptly identified, whether it was a war machine or a natural phenomenon.

UN Security Council Delays Discussion of India-Pakistan Row

LAKE SUCCESS, (AP)—Fernand Van Langenhove of Belgium, president of the security council for this month, appealed urgently yesterday to Pakistan and India to abstain from any act which would aggravate their dispute over Kashmir, princely state in northern India.

Van Langenhove, backed by the council, then decided that debate on the inter-dominion dispute would begin next Monday or Tuesday or not later than Jan. 15. The delay was granted to Pakistan, so Foreign Minister Sir Mohammed Zafrullah Khan could reach Lake Success from Karachi.

P. P. Pillai of India agreed to tell the delegates that the case was urgent. He read a report he said he had just received saying 4,000 raiders attacked Indian positions on Indian soil.

(A New Delhi dispatch said about 4,000 invading tribesmen made their "first daylight attacks" of the Kashmir state campaign on Indian army positions near Naushehra, but that Indian troops beat them back.)

Pakistan and India were carved out of British India last August and Britain, obviously concerned over the fighting, has dispatched Philip Noel-Baker, minister for colonies, to speak for her in the council debate. Both countries are dominions in the British commonwealth.

FORMER Minnesota Governor Harold E. Stassen said yesterday in New York that he believed the next 90 days would be a crucial period in his intensive campaign for the 1948 GOP presidential nomination.

He said, "We have moved into first place in several polls in the middle west where we are known best." He said he would be "very active" in the next three months in preparation for the preferential primary elections in New Hampshire, Wisconsin and Nebraska.

SENATOR TAYLOR (D-Iowa) said last night that his decision whether to go along with Henry Wallace on a third party ticket hinges on how close, in his opinion, the "regular political machinery" brings the country to war. When Wallace announced his candidacy, Taylor said he was considering whether he would become a vice-presidential candidate.

A FORMER Ziegfeld Follies girl, who asserted "good management in the family circle is no different than good management in government," took out nomination papers yesterday for mayor of Milwaukee. Mrs. Ruth Foster Froemming said in a letter explaining her candidacy, "In unity there is strength and brains have no sex."

'Satan' Loses Out by Sixty-One Votes As Sioux Center Turns Down Movies

SIoux CENTER, IOWA (AP)—Satan, in the view of the Sioux Center Ministerial association, took a beating at the polls here last night, but the margin was close.

In the community's greatest turnout in history, citizens voted 488 to 427 against licensing the operation of a movie in this northwest Iowa town of almost 1,700 persons.

The balloting split the town into two acrimonious sections on the proposition of: "Shall the town council license the operation of a motion picture theater?"

The American Legion post obtained a license from the town council several months ago to show movies in the town hall nightly except Sunday. The license expires April 1.

E. E. Roelofs, editor of the Sioux Center News, which carried 22 paid advertisements in its latest issue by opponents and proponents of the movie franchise, last night described the vote as the heaviest in the city's history.

The vote tosses directly into the laps of the town council the political firecracker of renewing or canceling the movie license. Observers said last night they felt the council probably would bow to the majority vote and reject the issuance of a new license.

Two Unions Seek Boosts

DETROIT (AP)—The CIO United Auto Workers union will "demand and win" wage increases this year for its more than 900,000 members, President Walter Reuther said last night.

Reuther announced the union's objective in broad terms, without stating a particular sum, after a "wage policy" meeting of the UAW's top officers.

Already, however, several locals of the UAW in Michigan have demanded that the international union press for a 25 cents an hour increase.

NEW YORK (AP)—The CIO united electrical workers union announced last night it would seek "substantial wage increases" from the General Electric company, Westinghouse Electric corporation and the electrical division of General Motors.

Referring to price cuts on various items recently announced by General Electric, the union said "we are in favor of lower prices, not only nominal cuts on automatic dishwashers and television receivers, but substantial reductions in the costs of food and rent and fuel and clothing, on all the basic necessities of the average American family."

Other benefits to be sought by the union, it was announced, include a pension plan and a unified health and welfare plan.

Truman To Give 'Slugging' Message

Congress Puts Off All Major Business

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman wrote the finishing touches last night to a "slugging" state of the union message which will give his views on momentous questions at home and abroad to the newly reassembled 80th congress.

On Capitol Hill, meanwhile, Republican congressional leaders raised the cry of "politics" against the President's expected tax recommendations, called for caution in foreign spending and opposed any return to OPA-type cost-of-living controls.

Both houses opened the new session in an election-year atmosphere of eagerness at noon, but put off all major business until after the President outlines his program in person at 12:30 p. m. CST today.

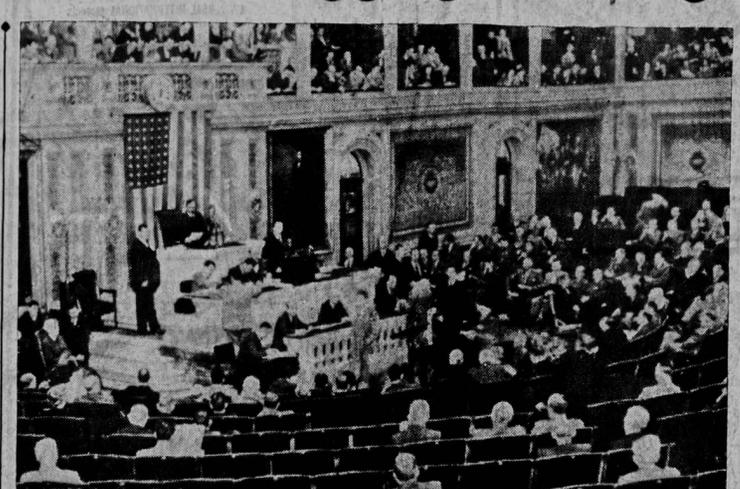

Major networks will broadcast Mr. Truman's address, expected to run about 5,000 words. (WSUI will broadcast the message.)

White House sources said the President, who called a special meeting of his cabinet yesterday, would deliver a "slugging" message.

In today's address, and in his economic and budget messages to follow, Mr. Truman is expected to call for:

Speedy enactment of a multi-billion dollar European recovery program.

A $40 billion—or higher—budget which would be the highest in the nation's peacetime history.

HOUSE IN SESSION AS CONGRESS REASSEMBLES

Aides said the President might recommend higher corporation taxes so that the levy on low-income taxpayers could be eased without reducing the government's total income.

A major battle over taxes and spending was assured when Chairman Taber (R-N.Y.) of the house appropriations committee declared that the reported budget figure was "too damned high" and announced he would see that it was whittled before congress adjourns next June.

Some critics of the President's program of helping European recovery over a four-year period seemed mollified, if not converted, by the administration's action last night in abandoning the $17 billion estimate of the program's cost.

House Republican leaders generally lined up behind a bill by Chairman Knutson (R-Minn.) of the house ways and means committee which would reduce income taxes by $5,600,000,000. Speaker Martin (R-Mass.) said the bill definitely would be passed at this session.

Whether Mr. Truman would recommend universal military training at this time remained a question, as did his views on housing, social security, health insurance and other legislation expected to come before congress at this session.

Pair Arrested Hour After Bank Robbery

NORWALK, Iowa, (AP)—Two Des Moines brothers were apprehended and taken to the county jail in Indianola yesterday about an hour after the Norwalk-Cumming state bank here was robbed of $485.

The men, being held in connection with robbery, were identified by Sheriff Lewis Johnson at Indianola as Bill and Don Grimm. The money was recovered when the youths were picked up in a car rented from a Des Moines rent-a-car establishment. They were apprehended at Bevington, about 12 miles southwest of here.

Writers Give Wolverines Edge Over Irish

Michigan Has 2-1 Margin In AP's Post-Season Poll

NEW YORK (AP)—The nation's sports writers gave the final answer yesterday to the raging controversy on relative strength of the Notre Dame and Michigan football teams, and it was the Wolverines over the Irish by almost two to one—including those who saw both powerhouses perform.

Many of the 375 sports editors and football writers from coast to coast who participated in the special Associated Press poll had seen one or the other team, some had seen neither, and 54 declared they had watched both clubs in one or more games.

In the over-all total, 226 writers in 48 states and the District of Columbia picked Michigan, 119 balloted for Notre Dame, and 12 called it a draw.

Opinion of the 54 writers who saw both in action last fall coincided at almost the same ratio, with 33 giving the nod to Michigan, 17 to Notre Dame, and four voting for a tie.

This post-season poll, conducted by The Associated Press by popular demand after Michigan thumped Southern California in the Rose Bowl 49-0, doesn't supersede the weekly AP poll held during the regular season. The final poll reported Dec. 8 gave Notre Dame 1,410 points for first place, with Michigan 1,289 for second. The Irish had just polished off Southern California, 38-7.

In that poll, 146 writers took part, while the 357 who sent in ballots for the post-season showdown is the largest ever to take part in such an AP voting. In the regular season's final poll, Notre Dame had 107 first place votes and Michigan 25.

Of the 54 scribes who saw both teams play, most of those on the Notre Dame bandwagon saw the great Irish line, plus Johnny Lujack, gave Coach Frank Leahy's club superiority.

Jim Levandusky of the Waukegan (Ill.) News-Sun contended, "Michigan's offensive line would never budge that Irish forward wall."

Among the others who saw both teams play were Paul Zimmerman, Los Angeles Times, who picked Michigan "on greater speed and elusiveness in the backfield," and Dick Anderson, Evansville, Ind., Press, who declared "Michigan probably had the greatest aggregation of football players ever assembled on one college campus."

Admitting it would be a "great battle," Ten Tenny of the Fort Wayne (Ind.) News-Sentinel claimed Lujack would give the Irish the edge "if their first team line was able to stay in there most of the game."

Several echoed the opinion of Jack Senn, Toledo (Ohio) Times, who felt that "Notre Dame was never really tested, much less outplayed as Michigan was by Minnesota."

But from Fort Wayne, Ind., not far from the Irish campus at South Bend, Bob Reed of the Journal-Gazette called Michigan better balanced with better reserves. Michigan could lose Chappius and still go," he declared. "Notre Dame was doubtful without Lujack."

Other supporters of Coach Fritz Crisler's Wolverines dwelt upon Michigan's offense, not sparing the superlatives.

"I believe Michigan is the greatest offensive team I have ever seen," said Jerry Jurgens of the Davenport (Iowa) Daily Times, while C. J. Anderson, San Bernardino (Calif.) Sun, contended Michigan had "too much speed and deception."

Michigan ball handling came in for praise from Dan W. Scism of the Evansville, Ind., Courier, and Russ Kiesele, Moline (Ill.) Dispatch. Both termed it "magic."

"Michigan much faster, more deceptive and thrice as heavy in reserves," offered Roscoe D. Bennett, Grand Rapids, (Mich.) Press; Eddie West, Santa Ana, (Calif.) Register said "Michigan better in all departments," and Bob Larrow, Joliet (Ill.) Herald-News, said Notre Dame was "individually great," but "Michigan best all-around team in nation."

"Michigan's victory over Southern California by such a wide margin" was cited by Robert E. Hooey, Ohio State Journal at Columbus, while H. Guy Moats of the Pontiac, (Mich.) Press said "I'll take Michigan (by two touchdowns) any day over Notre Dame."

Michigan was called best "since the four horsemen" by John W. Rhee, Houghton (Mich.) Mining-Gazette, who added: "They depend upon precision, speed and teamwork, while the Irish depend upon Lujack plus brute strength."

Among those who saw nothing to choose between either club were Lloyd Larson of the Milwaukee Sentinel, Pat Harmon of the Cedar Rapids (Iowa) Gazette, and Howard Martin, Chicago Tribune.

"Only a football game could decide Michigan-Notre Dame superiority I saw both teams and it's still a standoff," said Martin. "Nothing

Intramural Cage Results

In intramural basketball last night Phi Kappa Psi defeated Phi Delta Theta, 33-18, and the Sigma Nu lightweights gained undisputed possession of first place in the Social Fraternity 150-pound league by dumping Beta Theta Pi, 21-15.

The Phi Psi's overcame an 8-7 first quarter lead and led the Phi Deltas 15-12 at the half. They increased the margin to 22-16 at the third quarter mark, and then almost turned the game into a rout with long down-court passes to unguarded men under the basket resulting in three easy field goals. The Phi Deltas were held to one bucket in the last quarter while the Phi Psi's made 11 points.

Sigma Nu jumped to a 10-0 lead in the first quarter, and hung on to post their third straight victory. Last night's scores: South Hawkeye 46, East-West Stadium 12, Phi Epsilon Kappa 43, Phi Alpha Delta 14, West Finkbine 34, East-Central Finkbine 25.

to choose between two teams, suggest naming them co-champions," wrote Larson. "I think both teams far outdistanced other college football units of the season, and see no fair way to distinguish between them," Harmon said.

Allison Danzig of the New York Times, who saw Notre Dame, selected Michigan "because of their outstanding attack, combining both speed and deception," but Laurence Leonard of the Richmond, (Va.) News-Leader chose the Irish. "From all reports Notre Dame not even tested during season, softened Southern California up for Michigan."

"I still don't think Notre Dame even unloaded with its full power," said Harold Harrison of the Indianapolis Star in voting for the Irish.

The Macon (Ga.) News Sports Editor, Hank Drane, chose Michigan on the basis of the Southern California comparison, then added: "Both teams would have a busy day beating Texas."

Ramblers Play St. Joseph's Here Tonight

St. Mary's Ramblers return to the post holiday basketball wars when they meet a powerful St. Joseph's club from Ft. Madison tonight on the Junior high gym floor at 7:30 p. m.

St. Joseph's will bring to Iowa City a team which lost only two members from last years runnerup in the Diocesan tourney. Local fans will see a fast, big, well coached club that is noted for being in "rough" near tournament time.

St. Mary's Ramblers have improved steadily since the start of the cage campaign, and are at full strength except for Dale Seydel. Seydel has been sidelined with a sprained ankle since before the holidays. Although he is off crutches and has had the cast removed, he is not expected to return to action until late next week.

"This is a big week for the Ramblers," Coach Frank Suetzel said last night. "We're not looking past St. Joseph's, but the boys can't help pointing toward Central Catholic this Friday night."

Central Catholic pinned the most humiliating defeat of the past several years on St. Mary's, 49-32, early in December. However, the Ramblers were riddled with sickness and injuries in the contest, and were minus the services of their ace backcourt man, Paul Flannery.

St. Joseph's front wall is long on experience, having worked together as a unit for the past three years. The guards from last year's aggregation departed via the diploma route, but their replacements are both experienced men who saw a lot of action during the 1947-'48 hardwood scramble.

Coach Suetzel will rely on the same team that has been his mainstays for the past several games. "Buzz Mottet and John Suetzel will man the forward slots. Homer Boyd will handle the pivot chores, and Paul Flannery and "Pinky" Long will do the honors in the backcourt.

That 'Lippy' Man Again

BRANCH RICKEY (left) confers with his new manager, Leo Durocher. But it's a new Durocher, suave and quiet, who turned up in Brooklyn last for the first time yesterday since his suspension last year. At least he's quiet now, but wait until his Dodgers take to the field for the coming season. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Rickey, Dodgers Toss Hat In Football Ring

SOME SEVENTEEN different candidates were proposed in the confusion. The doubleheader press conference then turned its attention to Durocher—the new Durocher—subdued in tone but dapper as ever in a neat grey suit.

"What are you going to do about Jackie Robinson?" was the first question to Leo.

"I only saw him play in three games, outside of the world series," Durocher replied. "I do think he is a better second baseman than a first baseman but that doesn't mean that he will play second base. As Eddie Stanky says, 'the place to decide that is on the ball field.'"

As for first base, Durocher added, "that situation will take care of itself. Right now Robinson is my first baseman."

Pitchers listed as "sure to be with the club" by Leo were Ralph Branca, Joe Hatten, Hugh Casey, Rex Barney, Preacher Roe and Harry Taylor, if his arm is all right.

Turning to the crowd of writers who jammed his office he said, "I am appointing you as a committee of the whole to agree on a coach. If you can agree on one man, I give you my word we will hire him."

Swimmers Face Iowa AAU

Hawkeye swimmers, back from Christmas vacations and Florida triumphs, have begun settling down to the business of a seven-meet schedule, which begins within ten days with the Iowa AAU meet at the Iowa City pool.

Coach Dave Armbruster, swarthy from the Ft. Lauderdale trip with nine of his swimmers, yesterday reminded swimmers of the state that they have a week to return entries for the meet, which is to take place Jan. 17, a week from Saturday.

The Iowa squad has been entered as a unit, and will meet most of its competition from Iowa State. The Cyclones have also registered as a unit. In addition, freshmen of both squads will take part as individuals against high school, "Y," and other college entrants.

of the East-West meet which highlighted the Ft. Lauderdale conference, to get some early competition under their gills, while helping the west dump the easterners.

Wally Ris won his sprint event in the outdoor Christmas day contest, and with Erv Straub, Larry Laimore, Duane Draves, and Dick Maine, took part in winning relay combinations.

Several Hawks took advantage of the Iowa State college opened its conference season here last night with a 55-44 basketball victory over Nebraska in the newly formed Big Seven league.

The Iowa State Cyclones led all the way with the exception of a brief period in the first half when the Huskers took a momentary 21-20 lead.

'Pops' Satisfied With Hawkeyes Praises Team For Play At Ohio State

Iowa's Hawkeyes, back in Iowa City after Monday night's win over Ohio State, face the task of stopping a fast-breaking Purdue quintet here Saturday.

Both teams are undefeated in conference play, the Boilermakers upsetting Indiana in their league start Monday night.

Cosch "Pops" Harrison was well pleased with the performance of his charges in Columbus where the Hawks broke a 25-year jinx.

"Everyone played fine ball, alert, aggressive and smart. The boys rebounded sensationally against taller players and in the second half, protecting the lead, went into a delayed game which put the pressure on the Buckeyes," Harrison commented.

He said that the speed and quick reactions of Murray Wier and Charlie Mason befuddled the Buckeye defense. He praised the excellent style in which Bob Schulz and Jack Spencer handled assignments and commented that "Red" Metcalfe played his best game of the season.

Harrison is satisfied with the consistent defense of the Hawks which has limited the last four opponents to 41, 41, 40 and 41 points. But he is drilling the players this week on methods of stopping the two Boilermaker high scorers, Dick Axness and Bill Berberian.

Wier is leading the Iowa scorers with 118 points, an average of 17 per game. Metcalfe has collected 83 points while Schulz has moved to third place in the scoring column with 37.

Teddy Settles with Sox; Enthusiastic over 1948

BOSTON, (AP) — Ted Williams, the American league's top slugger, yesterday gave General Manager Joe Cronin of the Boston Red Sox, double assurances that he is satisfied with his 1948 salary terms.

"Figures discussed regarding 1948 contract OK," Williams wired from Princeton, Minn.

Shortly after Cronin received that telegram, Ted called him on the phone.

"I'm feeling fine," Williams reported. "I've been fishing for pike through the ice. I'm enthusiastic about the coming season and you can tell Joe McCarthy I'm determined to duplicate my 1947 performance."

Cronin, in line with the club's policy, refused to disclose the salary he discussed with the splendid splinter. But the latter is reported to have drawn down around $70,000 last season.

Sour Grapes—Trojans Say It's Irish 3 to 1

LOS ANGELES, (AP) — It may be Michigan, two-to-one, for the sportswriters, but among the wags who know the players best, it's Notre Dame, nearly three to one.

That's the margin by which the Southern California squad—roundly shellacked by both—favors the Irish. The Trojan players are still in the process of voting but Notre Dame is certain to wind up with the edge, it was learned yesterday.

DiMaggio Contract Signed; Calls for $70,000 Salary

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK, (AP)—A beaming, buoyant Joe DiMaggio signed a new Yankee contract yesterday believed to guarantee him approximately $70,000 for the 1948 season and to place him among a handful of the highest paid ball players in the history of the game.

The batting and fielding star of the world champions penned his name to the rich pact shortly before noon yesterday after having reached a quick agreement with General Manager George Weiss last night. He had been reported asking $75,000, the sum paid Ted Williams last year by the Boston Red Sox.

Although neither DiMaggio nor Weiss would name the exact sum to be paid the American league's most valuable player, Weiss conceded that it "approached" Williams' salary. In each of his last three playing seasons—1942, '46 and '47—DiMaggio received $43,750, he disclosed.

If $70,000 is the correct figure on Joe's new contract, he automatically becomes the third highest paid player in baseball today and fifth highest in the annals of the game. He will be topped in the coming season only by Bobby Feller, Cleveland mound ace, who banked in the neighborhood of $87,000 last year, and by Williams with his $75,000.

Hank Greenberg, now a free agent, was reported to have been paid $80,000 by the Pittsburgh Pirates last season, and the mighty Babe Ruth received a similar sum from the Yankees at the peak of his career in '30 and '31. Hal Newhouser, Detroit pitcher, was supposed to have been paid $55,000 last year, and Johnny Mize, New York Giants first baseman, $51,000.

DiMaggio, who hit .315 last season, with 20 homers, and led all regular outfielders with a fielding mark of .997, said he was "very happy" over his new pay check and described Weiss, his benefactor, as the "most pleasant general manager I've ever talked to." It was the 10th contract the 34-year-old star had inked since joining the Yanks from the Pacific Coast league 13 years ago. He was in the service three years.

Joe said his throwing arm, which was operated upon for the removal of bone chips since the world series, "feels swell," and stuck off his coat to exhibit the hemstitching to his audience. He also said that the heel which was operated upon just a year ago and which handicapped him all last season would be completely healed by the start of spring training on March 1.

Irish Play Quintet From West Point

The Irish of St. Patrick's high school will attempt to break back into the winning column tonight when they meet St. Mary's of West Point here.

From all reports, the visitors will give the Shamrocks considerable trouble. They boast a very good record to date, with a win over Central Catholic of Ottumwa included among their skein of victories. The Ottumwans disposed of another Iowa City five, St. Mary's, earlier this season.

Father R. J. Facha will start his regular five, but he has indicated that he will replace them with his sophomore quintet if they do not come through as expected. At Fort Madison Sunday, the sophomores scored seven points in the three minutes they were in the contest as a unit, more than the regulars scored in any quarter during the game.

In the preliminary game St. Patrick's junior high five will meet the West Branch junior high. The preliminary game is scheduled for 7 p. m.

Blames Rules For 'Tooling'

By WHITNEY MARTIN
NEW YORK, (AP)—We've screamed a little ourselves now and then over the fact that basketball games today have developed into routin', tootin' contests, with most of the emphasis on the tootin'. The officials who whistle for their money really are industrious. On first thought you blame the officials, as those are the guys who are puncturing your eardrums and the tendency always is to slug the guy who is irritating you without considering the fact he may be doing it under instructions and can't help himself.

Some coaches have blamed the officials, and we were glad to see Matty Begovich, a top referee, come back with a pretty good rebuttal. In fact, Begovich's argument has no answer, except in cases where overzealous officials call fouls they just imagine they see.

When you pass a law and hire somebody to enforce it, you can't squawk if you kids get pinched for violating it. That's Begovich's argument, in that the coaches themselves make the basketball rules, and the officials are just the cops who see they are enforced.

We believe that two factors have had much to do with making the officials a bunch of blowhards. In the first place, the style of play has changed greatly in the last 25 years, with the emphasis more on the race-horse style, a pell-mell galloping up and down the court.

Secondly, as this race-horse style has increased the probability of body contact, however unintentional, the rules have been tightened to make any sort of body contact unlawful. The result is more fouls, and more whistling.

Although Dr. James Naismith, who invented the game, had in mind a no-contact sport, basketball at one time developed into a pretty rugged encounter, with plenty of body blocking overlooked. A little guy built like a fire plug had as much chance to excel as his taller, skinnier brethren. More, in fact, as the bean poles didn't last too long. A shoulder in the ribs might send them flying up into section E. Nowadays the big boys can stretch up their arms to shoot for the basket secure in the knowledge their ribs won't be used as a sounding board by some aggressive little guy.

Naismith, as reported in Frank Menke's Encyclopedia of Sports, listed these four fundamental principles:

1—The player in possession of the ball must not make progress while it is in his possession.

2—The goal is horizontal and above the heads of the players.

3—Roughness is eliminated so far as possible by making it a no-contact contest.

4—The ball belongs to the player at any time that he can get it without making personal contact.

The original game had few rules. It does seem that it is over ruled now.

Taking TIME OUT With Buck Turnbull

Contrary to the talk going around that Pops Harrison changed his lineup for the Ohio State game at Columbus Monday night, let it be said that we noticed nothing new in the Hawkeye brand of basketball.

You couldn't really say that Murray Wier was changed to a guard and Bob Schulz to a forward. Wier has been used as a guard on defense all year, moving into a forward slot on the offense and sometimes moving up court to help bring the ball down.

And in the type of basketball that is being played in this day and age, the distinction between a forward and a guard is almost nil.

The Hawks looked mighty sharp in their opening Big Nine appearance, especially since they were playing away from home. They caught a cold Buckeye team in the first half of the game at Columbus and at a time when the Iowans could do no wrong.

Their rebounding was excellent, largely due to the play of Center "Red" Metcalfe with able assistance from Schulz and Jack Spencer. When Metcalfe took to the bench for safety reasons with four personal fouls at the beginning of the second half, the Hawkeye amazing "touch" seemed to be gone.

Not only was the Iowa touch somewhere else, but the Buckeye fandom had touched themselves off with Wier as their one and only target.

They stayed in a constant roar every time Murray got his hands on the ball; when he passed to one of his teammates, the collision fell into a hush. This definitely flustered the Hawkeye attack to the point where they were missing free throws with amazing consistency (with a little booing from the crowd mixed in).

The win was definitely a boon to the Iowa team. Luckily, they had a substantial 18 point margin at half time which they nursed along to victory in the violent last half.

In the opening period quite a few of the Buckeye fans felt like going home after their shouts of "Shoot Wier, Shoot Schulz and Shoot Spencer" had no effect on the Iowans—they just kept hitting from all angles of the floor. In fact, at times the crowd would cover their eyes with horror.

And not a little credit for the victory should be given to Charley Mason, a little forward of Wier's stature, who entered the ball game early in the first half and gave the Bucks ten cat fits for the majority of the contest.

Needless to say, Ohio State's coach, Tippy Dye, was sorrowfully disappointed. From the comment of most of the Buckeye fans after the game, Iowa was one team Dye had considered "in the bag."

Teachers and students serving on committees for the party include:

Finance—Otis Walker, principal; Georgia F. Black, Wallace Sprugeon, Joann Villhauer, Bob Lockhart and Peggy Kirby.

Hit at Vagueness Of Party Platforms

The American Political Science association is trying to do something about the vagueness of party platforms, according to Prof. Kirk H. Porter, head of the SUI political science department.

The political planning committee, on which Porter served at the association's December 28 to 30 meeting in Washington, D. C., contacted national headquarters of both major parties in an attempt to get them to take definite stands on national issues, he said.

"Platforms of the parties are exceedingly vague because they are written long before the campaigns reach their peak," Porter said. "For instance, neither the Republicans nor the Democrats is in fact for or against the Taft-Hartley law, although some individual candidates have indicated their stands on the issue."

"It is essential that the voters know what stand the candidates take before they can make a choice," he added.

The political planning committee grew out of an older committee which worked to put through congressional reorganization, Dr. Porter recalled.

Find Iowa Papers Hard To Read With Lengthy Sentences

"Long sentences are making Iowa newspapers hard to read," according to a readability survey of 20 representative Iowa newspapers reported in January's Iowa publisher.

Arthur Wimer, instructor in the school of journalism and John Carey, G., conducted the survey as an activity of the university bureau of newspaper service.

"Statistically, the average Iowan with less than a high school education finds Iowa papers harder to read than magazines like the Reader's Digest," the survey indicates.

This conclusion was reached by rating the papers according to the Rudolph Flesch formula.

The Flesch system considers long sentences and additions or "affixes" to the root of a word obstacles to easy reading.

The more references to people in a sentence, the better the readability, according to Flesch.

On this basis, the average rating of 100 stories in these 20 representative papers was "fairly difficult."

The principal magnetic poles of the earth are about 1,200 miles from the geographic poles.

Eastern Iowa Scientists Will Hear Prof. Roberts

A regular meeting of the Eastern Iowa Association of Scientists will be held in Room 21 of the Physics building tonight at 7:30 p.m.

Professor Arthur Roberts of the physics department will report on the recent council meeting of the Federation of American Scientists in Chicago and a discussion will follow.

Flying Club Hears Greer on Navigation

Instruction in air navigation will be given by George Greer, former navy instructor, at the monthly meeting of the Iowa Flying club at 7 p. m. next Wednesday in room 103 of the engineering building.

John Donnell, president, said that he would propose installing metering devices in the club's two planes to measure accurately the hours of flying time.

The membership will also discuss air safety regulations and the problem of charging rent on the club's aircraft radios, according to Donnell.

Frozen whale meat is increasingly used as human food in many European countries.

East Hall Barracks House New Projects

Two temporary classroom units north of East Hall are being remodeled for the extension division and the school of journalism.

The extension division's unit EHTB will house a recording studio for talking pictures and printing and developing rooms for motion pictures.

The division has been using studios in the engineering building for this work.

University Architect George Horner said it would probably take a few months to complete the unit.

A newspaper production laboratory will occupy barracks EHTA. This will provide a laboratory for a course expected to begin in February, designed to give basic training in newspaper production methods.

Morgan Resumes Duties

Morgan was severely burned about the face and hands in combating a 11:30 p. m. blaze Dec. 2 at the Joe Chadak blacksmith shop, located at 614 3rd avenue, Clark said.

City High Students Go Turnabout

Girls Shoot Rifles, Boys Take Cooking

By FRANCES NESHELM
Turn-about may make a hilarious movie or party theme but it's not the laughs that attract fellows into the foods class and girls to become sharpshooters at City high school.

Both sexes take their turn-about classes seriously. The kitchen may once have been considered strictly a woman's domain, but no more. Boys at the school think they can do as well as the girls in the once feminine art of cooking. And the girls are just as anxious to make the rifle team and become sharpshooters as the boys are.

Sixteen boys invade the kitchen five mornings a week for lessons in cooking. Under the direction of Byrdine Reece, home economics teacher, they learn more than just how to boil water and use a can-opener.

This semester the boys learned to cook vegetables, all kinds of hot breads, muffins and pancakes and also baked cookies. Just before the holiday vacation they mixed up batters of Christmas cakes.

But besides cooking, the boys learn to estimate the cost of the meal, how to buy food and to set the table correctly enough to suit Emily Post herself.

They have served a two-course breakfast and plan to cook and serve other meals later in the year. Since vacation they are progressing to baking cakes and pies and cooking meats. They also learn what every man should know about carving meat.

They seem undaunted by stacks of dirty pans and dishes that must be washed and dried after every cooking session. They even go so far as to clean silverware and wash and iron the linen tablecloths after serving their meals.

The class for boys, novel as it may seem, is not new for City high students. Cooking classes have been offered as an elective course for at least nine years since the new building was erected in 1938.

Cooking attracts athletes as well as those who want to become chefs, or those who take it just for fun. Four or five of the school's basketball and football players are enrolled.

Cooking isn't all work the boys find. They get to eat whatever they cook.

The girls aren't to be outdone, though. Nearly 18 of them come out twice a week for a girls' rifle class that meets on Mondays and Wednesdays after school.

This class is one place where that favorite garment for girls—blue jeans—is not a taboo. Besides jeans the girls don shooting jackets and mitts and spend an hour and a half firing at standard bull targets of a mere two inches in diameter.

Shooting "bulls-eyes" is not a rare feat for them. It's quite ordinary for them to place their shots in the eighth-of-an-inch inner circle on the target.

The girls observe strict quiet rules while shooting.

They shoot only in the prone position, lying on mats with the body at a 45 degree angle to the target. Although boys' rifle teams use four different positions for shooting, the girls use only the one according to rules given by the National Rifle association for junior competition. This is probably because a 10 pound rifle is too heavy for girls to hold steady while standing.

Five can shoot at one time in City high's 50-foot rifle range in the school's basement. Bull targets are attached to long target holders on pulleys and wheeled to the far end of the range before firing commences.

After firing the target holders are wheeled back for a careful scrutiny for possible "bulls-eyes" and mistakes in firing technique.

The school has seven .22-calibre rifles, Springfield and Model 52 Winchester. Students use .22 long rifle cartridges ammunition.

Ten or 12 girls will be chosen as members of the City high girls' rifle team. They will have exchange meets with three other high schools; enter junior competition of the National Rifle association, and may also participate in several postal exchanges.

Postal meets are conducted at each of the participating schools on a set date and the scores are sent to the other schools through the mail.

Meets this year beginning in January will include West Waterloo, Quincy and Moline, Ill., schools. Ten shoot for each team with the five high scores counted on each team.

Both the boys' and the girls' teams are coached by Hazen Moore, University of Iowa senior. He expects both teams to be good this year. Although most of last year's girls' team was lost through graduation, nine of the boys' team will be back for rifle competition.

City high awards medals and school letters to the five high on both teams on the basis of scores made on 10 shots. A school letter of crossed rifles is a prized possession for any City high girl to wear!

Mott spent his childhood in Postville and attended Upper Iowa university at Fayette.

Inspection will be made of homes occupied by married students as well as those in which single students are living.

Judge Orders Hearing, Issues Writ of Attachment After Walsh Divorce Request

Judge Harold D. Evans yesterday ordered a hearing held in the Johnson county district court on a request by Hazel Bernadine Walsh for temporary alimony and support money from William T. Walsh, Des Moines county.

The hearing will be held at 10 a.m. Feb. 3.

Evans also issued a writ of attachment on Walsh's bank account, furniture and household furnishings, pending settlement of a divorce suit started by Mrs. Walsh.

She requested the writ because she said her husband may conceal his assets to avoid payment of alimony and support money for a 1-year-old son which she asked for in the divorce petition. She also asked for custody of the child.

Mrs. Walsh said her husband had about $1,500 deposited in a Burlington bank, earned $50 per week as a garage mechanic and owned a 1937 Ford.

Mrs. Walsh said she resided in Des Moines county and was forced by the defendant to leave their home, and having no other place to go, she established her residence in Johnson county.

Charging cruel and inhuman treatment, she said her husband is "a big, strong man," he has struck her on numerous occasions, has a violent temper, "is almost continuously in a sulky mood," and sometimes refused to speak to her days and weeks at a time.

She claimed that Dec. 28 her husband threw her down, "tore her purse to pieces, took her key to the house, ordered her to leave the home" and struck her.

The couple was married Nov. 27, 1941, in Burlington and separated Dec. 28, 1947.

Messrs. Hamilton and Cahill and William H. Bartley are attorneys for Mrs. Walsh.

LoRene Lenthe, instructor in communications skills, read a portion of a manuscript "And the Men of Many Races Pray" which she is writing. This work is made up of literary selections representing prayers of all races. Two selections from the manuscript which she read were "Green Pastures," representing the Negro race and "D-Day Prayer" by Edna St. Vincent Millay, a poem which was read the eve of the invasion of Europe.

"I think the Negro has come nearer to God than any other people," Miss Lenthe declared. "I like the way they just talk to God."

Miss Lenthe was introduced by Robert Bowman, newly selected program chairman. He succeeds Orville A. Hitchcock.

University Has All-Time High In Enrollment

Enrollment at the University of Iowa reached an all-time high this semester with 10,239 students registered. These figures, released yesterday by Registrar Ted McCarrrel, represent the final count of office.

An earlier count of university students taken Sept. 27 revealed that 10,130 students were then enrolled. The increase in enrollment represents students who have entered the university since that time.

Veterans attending the university number 5,665. 164 of the veterans are women. This number is slightly less than the estimated veteran enrollment once expected to reach 6,500.

Men outnumber women on the Iowa campus about 7 to 3 with 7,365 men in school as compared to 2,874 women.

There are 1,255 beginning freshmen now enrolled in the college of liberal arts.

A breakdown of enrollment in the various colleges reveals the following figures:

College	Enrollment
Commerce	829
Dentistry	150
Engineering	631
Graduate	1,518
Law	426
Liberal Arts	5,963
Medicine	277
Pharmacy	177
Nursing	288

Want Outside Judge To Try Fraud Cases

DES MOINES, (AP) — The six Polk county district court judges yesterday signed an application to the chief justice of the Iowa supreme court asking for the appointment of an outside judge in the recent county fraud conspiracy cases.

Judge C. Edwin Moore, head of the criminal division, said the application would be submitted to Chief Justice John Mulrony at the statehouse.

The chief justice will be asked in the application to assign a judge from another judicial district in Iowa, who can try the cases without the embarrassment of personal acquaintance.

The application pertains to conspiracy indictments returned by the county grand jury Nov. 28 and Dec. 12.

In the Dec. 12 indictment, charges of conspiracy to defraud the county, were made against County Supervisor Ben B. Dewey, former Welfare Director H. H. Thompson, and three former county supervisors, William H. Cotton, Roy Hild and Charles Parmenter. Cotton, Hild and Parmenter have been convicted in previous fraud trials.

On the Nov. 28 indictment, Clarence E. (Boney) Johnson, former Polk county home steward and a former deputy sheriff, was charged with conspiring with Elmer Croft, convicted Des Moines garage man, to defraud the county.

All of the defendants in the conspiracy cases, according to the application, are known personally to most if not all of the judges.

Manslaughter Charge Against Davenport Man Dismissed in California

VALLEJO, CALIF., (AP) — A charge of involuntary manslaughter against airforce Captain Vern V. Link Jr., Davenport, involving the death of Billy Zachery, 15, in a traffic accident, was dismissed yesterday with the consent of District Attorney P. B. Lynch of Solano county.

Captain Link pleaded guilty to a second court of driving while intoxicated. He will be sentenced in superior court at a hearing to be held later. Link, attached to the nearby Fairfield airforce base, is free on $2,000 bond.

Got Any Old Clothes?

Just Send Them to Bangkok

—By 'Bigger' Air Express

A pair of glasses was flown from Iowa City to Greece recently. A package of clothing was sent by air to Bangkok, Siam.

Food for Europe, clothing for Asia and orchids from South America are among the many things being flown to and from Iowa City as nationwide air express and air freight shows increases over previous years.

The Air express division of the Railway Express agency reports nationwide shipments for the first nine months of this year increased 23.8 percent over a similar period of 1946.

Individual shipments totaled 2,649,982 for the period during 1947 as compared with 2,139,882 of last year. Total weight increased 69 percent with an average of 18.6 pounds per package.

According to E. W. Barnes, manager of the Iowa City office, flowers stand as the principal item shipped into Iowa City. Getting milady's corsage here for the next formal "shin-kicker" is no simple matter. Special packing is required to prevent damage. The plane must fly at fairly low altitudes to keep the flowers from freezing in the cold upper atmosphere.

Most of the flowers from overseas come from South America and the native flowers are from California, florists said.

United Air lines has announced that tariff rates on flowers from Hawaii are cut 50 percent. It will be possible to import certain tropical varieties including birds of paradise, ginger and heliconias.

Air cargo operations also show increases. United reports a 43 percent increase over last month. This is the second month in a row that a new high for freight operations was set. M. P. Bickley, manager of cargo sales, announced.

Barnes explained that air cargo rates are cheaper but the air express has priority over freight shipments.

Difficulty in foreign shipments is encountered by the variation of laws in different countries. Interline freight agreements must first be reached. United Air lines recently signed agreements with Peruvian airways and Air France, two of the larger foreign lines.

Some nations require a single invoice filled out in duplicate. Others, such as The Netherlands, require a sanitary form, an import form, origin form, a pathologica report, and an invoice all filled out in duplicate or triplicate. In some instances, inspection by a member of the foreign power's counsel must be made before shipment.

Air shipments are limited because of the safety factor on some products. Dry ice, inflammables, explosives and other things of a dangerous nature cannot be handled. Changes in altitude and temperature make it inadvisable to ship other items.

Air minded persons see possibilities in pilotless aircraft for greater handling of freight shipments. One flyer remarked:

"It would be hard to convince passengers that a plane is safe without a pilot around to take control if something goes wrong—but a package of freight doesn't care."

Power Franchise Rejected by Voters Of 12 Precincts

COUNCIL BLUFFS, (AP)—The proposal to grant a new franchise to the Western Iowa Power company was trailing by more than two to one on the basis of unofficial returns from 12 of 19 precincts in yesterday's special election.

The 12 precincts returned a vote of 857 votes for the franchise and 2,172 opposed.

Some of the largest precincts had not yet reported, however.

The question was whether to grant a new 20-year franchise to the company, but indirectly involved was a question of private or quasi-public ownership of the Western Iowa Power company's net work.

WIPC is being offered for sale by the Omaha Electric committee, a non-profit Nebraska group, which acquired interim ownership of WIPC in connection with the purchase of the Nebraska Power company which also owned WIPC.

The Omaha Electric committee has pledged Council Bluffs an option offering the WIPC properties for $3,500,000. The option expires next May 1 and one of the terms of the agreement provides for the new 20-year franchise.

Barnes explained that air cargo rates are cheaper but the air express has priority over freight shipments.

Exhibit of Paintings Begins With Press Preview Friday

A formal opening of the exhibition of the 30 famous paintings from the Metropolitan Museum of Art will be Sunday at 2 p. m. in the university art building.

The show will be previewed by Iowa newspaper and radio editors at an informal gathering Friday 8 to 10 p. m. Invitations have been issued to pressmen and other special guests.

The $1,257,000 collection of masterpieces has been loaned to the university by the New York museum for three months. The exhibit will end March 31.

Art department faculty members will discuss the paintings with gallery visitors Sunday afternoon.

Friday night preview invitations have been given to President Hancher, deans and directors of the university, the faculty of the fine arts department, Student Art guild, members of planning committees and lecturers who will speak during the three-month showing.

The boards of directors of the Iowa City junior and senior chambers of commerce and local clergy will also be guests.

Prof. Earl E. Harper, director of the school of fine arts, will be master of ceremonies at a short program at the preview.

Lester D. Longman, head of the art department, will speak on the significance of the masterpieces.

During the 12 week showing, there will be gallery tours daily including Sunday at 3:30 p. m. Guide-lecturers will be chosen from the art faculty and graduate assistants.

Thirty-two afternoon and evening lecturers by university speakers are also being planned from Jan. 12 to March 22. Topics related to art, literature, music and drama from the 14th to 19th centuries will be discussed.

Three or four Renaissance music programs will be played by artists of the music department faculty. Concert dates will be announced later.

The paintings arrived here Monday in a steel freight car from Dallas, Tex., where they have been exhibited.

Albert Miller and Henry Stone, Metropolitan officials who are hanging the paintings, said yesterday no damage occurred to the art in transit.

They will finish hanging the paintings today. "The Horse Fair by Rosa Bonheur is the most difficult painting to hang," Stone remarked. "We've had to get two by four planks to reinforce it on the wall," he added. Today eight men will aid them in wiring the painting onto the planks and wall.

Special guards on 24 hour duty will guard the art work. They will be deputized by Robert Ballyntine, manager of student aid and placement bureau at 4:30 p. m. today at the art building.

ROBBERY—

and carried an automatic revolver. After cowing two women employes and forcing two bank customers to stand against a wall, faces turned away, he fled to a car where his 22-year-old brother waited.

Mrs. K. B. Lanning, assistant cashier, and Mrs. Harold Thomas, a stenographer, were in the front of the bank when the bandit told Mrs. Lanning to hand him all the money she had. She said she told him the time lock was on the safe and he replied, "You don't close until 4 o'clock."

Mrs. Lanning said she then handed him approximately $500 in small bills which she had kept out of the safe.

While the bandit was talking to Mrs. Lanning and Mrs. Thomas, a young woman and R. T. Gideon, Norwalk gargeman, entered the bank. The bandit forced them to stand against a wall.

W. R. Thomas, chairman of the bank's board of directors, was visiting in a backroom with Postmaster G. E. Mullane and entered the front section just as the bandit left. He was told to lie on the floor.

Mrs. Lanning later told a reporter "I was scared for a half hour afterward."

Mrs. Lanning said she was seated at a table near the cashier's window when Grimm first came in and that she did not see him. Mrs. Thomas said she saw the gun and was too scared to say anything.

When Mrs. Lanning noticed the man and went to the window, she said he told her, "I want your money."

"Are you kidding?" she asked. "Put the money in a sack," he told her.

"We don't have any sack," she answered.

Mrs. Lanning told him the safe was closed but Grimm answered it wasn't closing time and said, "I mean business." Then Mrs. Lanning emptied two compartments of a cash drawer, giving him only one and five dollar bills.

George Desenberg, president of the bank, estimated between $2,000 and $3,000 in $10 to $100 bills remained in the other two compartments of the drawer.

W. F. Frese Heads Accounting Division

Walter F. Frese, University of Iowa graduate, yesterday was named head of the newly-organized accounting systems division by Comptroller General Lindsay C. Warren.

Frese, who formerly resided in Denison, received his B.A. degree here in 1928. He also studied and taught at the University of Illinois.

According to an Associated Press report, the new government division which Frese will head was formed to improve government administrative accounting systems.

Warren said the division will be under the general accounting office but will have the cooperation and assistance of the secretary of the treasury and the bureau of the budget. He termed it a cooperative undertaking to achieve improved accounting and reporting in the government.

Wrestling Opener Worries Howard

Iowa's opening wrestling competition, Colorado State College of Education, is not going to cause Mike Howard's troupe to go easy in work outs.

Coach John Hancock of the Rocky Mountain school sports four conference champions including one athlete who won a fourth place in the 1946 National Collegiate tournament, and Howard has issued a warning to his charges to be duly respectful of that line-up.

The Colorado aggregation which visits Iowa Jan. 19 owns its champions in the 121, 128, 145 and 175-pound divisions.

The visitation will be a return to old glory grounds for John Hancock who coaches the mountaineers. Hancock won six letters in football and track as a Hawk during the twenties.

It is believed that 4,000 miles above the surface of the earth, the earth's magnetic field is one-eighth as strong as at the surface.

Physics Professors To Attend Colloquium At Ames Saturday

A group of University of Iowa professors will leave Saturday, Jan. 10, to attend the second annual colloquium of physics professors at Iowa State college at Ames.

The one day meeting is designed for the discussion of topics pertinent to Iowa physicists and a report on the national activities of the association.

Iowa professors will leave by auto at 7:30 a. m. The group plans to return early Saturday evening.

Five Iowa Citizens On Fight Card At CR

Three University of Iowa and two Iowa City boxers journey to Cedar Rapids tonight to join a Cedar Rapids team in a meet against Peoria.

The leather tossers from the university are Bob Rossie Jr., Bob Berens and Dean Housel. Lyle Seydel and Charles Sindelar are the two members from the city.

Student Council Plans Skating Facilities, Banquet for Seniors

The Student council last night outlined new projects for the second semester at a meeting in Old Capitol. Plans include improvement of student skating facilities, a possible senior banquet and an investigation of the university guidance program.

Paul Lange, C4, Cedar Falls, and Francis Cavarette, A3, Lawrence, Mass., will look into the possibility of setting up a shelter and lights for skaters at the lagoon north of the university theatre.

Council President Mel Heckt suggested that seniors should have a "get-together" before graduation so they will not feel they are leaving by the "back door."

Guidance facilities during registration can be greatly improved according to several council members. They said many students are bewildered at what courses are required for specific fields.

Students will have a five-day Thanksgiving vacation next fall, Heckt told council members. The extended vacation, which will be on an experimental basis for one year only.

Classes will be dismissed at 12:20 p. m. Wednesday, Nov. 24, and will reconvene at 12:30 p. m. the following Monday.

'Don't Know Why,' Says Navy Officer

DES MOINES, (AP)—Recruits—55 of them—swamped navy recruiting offices yesterday.

It was the biggest single day of enlistments since wartime draft quotas, according to Recruiting Lt. Com. C. A. Bellis.

"We don't know why they're here but we're glad to see them," Bellis admitted. "Normally this post-holiday period is the slack season of the year."

Yesterday's recruits brought the total for January to 76.

A chat with the prospective "boots" disclosed some of the reasons for the off-season rush to the navy.

High prices, coupled with job training opportunities, made up the minds of a majority of the enlistees: 33 of them are under 19 years of age.

Dubuque Defeats Milton

DUBUQUE, (AP)—A 14-point scoring spree near the end of the first half gave Dubuque university a lead it never lost as the Spartans went on to trim Milton college of Wisconsin 68 to 52 here last night.

Wish Ichiji 'Unhappy New Year'

At least one Iowa citizen was reminded of the ugliness of the last war when confronted yesterday with a news release from the allied powers' legal section currently trying Jap war criminal suspects in Yokohama.

Former Marine Carl Redenbaugh scanned the dispatch and muttered unprintable oaths—the same oaths he muttered while a prisoner in an Osaka prison camp where he witnessed brutal maltreatment of his buddies.

The dispatch reported that Ichiji Kinari, ex-commander of that Osaka camp and four former civilian guards went on trial last week in Yokohama before the Eighth army military commission.

"Sure I remember Kinari," said Redenbaugh. "We used to call him Lou Gehrig because he used a baseball bat to hit prisoners in the small of the back."

Kinari and the guards are charged with the "mistreatment and torture" of four G. I.'s "by beating them and exposing them to inclement weather." One of the G. I.'s died as a result.

Redenbaugh remembered that too.

"They were caught stealing food on a work detail. Then the Japs stood them out stark naked in cold February weather. They were as thin as rails."

The other prisoners watched helplessly from the windows of the old warehouse which served as their barracks.

"Everybody stole," Redenbaugh remarked. "What we stole kept us alive."

Prison rations were two cups of rice and watery soup twice daily. But the prisoners worked in the Osaka freight yards and managed to steal sweet condensed milk or whale meat from supply trucks and railway cars.

It wasn't hard to bribe Jap civilian employes in the yards, Redenbaugh commented. They were glad to share part of the food loot because civilian rations were as bad as, or worse, than prisoner rations.

A husky six-footer, Redenbaugh normally weighs about 250. He weighed 118 in Osaka, March, 1943.

Kinari and the guards were also charged with other atrocities. Redenbaugh remembered them beating sick prisoners and forcing G. I.'s to perform excessive manual labor.

The prosecution charges the Japs with beating one American into insanity and then confining him to solitary confinement for nine months. Some men were forced to carry loads of 300 or 400 pounds at a time. Redenbaugh recalled one of his buddies being beaten "two solid hours."

Ask Students To Evaluate Professors

Howard Wilson, professor of economics at Loyola university, Chicago, is asking college students to evaluate their present and former college professors.

Wilson has requested students throughout the United States to write him a letter listing criticisms, both good and bad, of their teachers.

After completing his survey, Wilson plans to make his findings available to educators.

"What is the good college teacher?" should be the topic of the letters, and they should be addressed to Wilson at Loyola university, 820 North Michigan avenue, Chicago 11, Illinois.
