National — Dixie Late; Bradley In; Pauley Out 'End Race Question Attack Or See Revolt'—Dixie Demos

WAKULLA SPRINGS, Fla. (AP)—The conference of southern governors gave the Democratic national administration an ultimatum yesterday to cease attacks on "white supremacy" or face full-fledged revolt in the South.

The conference adopted unanimously a resolution by Gov. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, setting 40 days as the limit for a new meeting of governors to review developments.

The conference rejected an alternative proposal by Gov. Fielding Wright of Mississippi, which would have called for a meeting of southern Democrats March 1 to consider a bolt from the Democratic party. The resolution failed for lack of a second.

It also ignored a resolution by Gov. James Folsom of Alabama who advocated support of "Favorite Son" candidates pledged to uphold traditions of "white supremacy" in the Democratic national convention.

The Southern Governors' Conference thus agreed to meet again within 40 days at a time and place designated by its chairman. In the interim, a special committee will give "careful consideration" to problems arising from President Truman's program of civil rights.

The committee will recommend "joint and common action" to make the south's displeasure heard in Washington and in the top councils of the Democratic party.

Governors Wright of Mississippi, McCord of Tennessee, Lester of Texas, Caldwell of Florida, Laney of Arkansas and Folsom of Alabama joined Thurmond in castigating Truman's program.

They took exception to demands for anti-lynching and anti-poll tax legislation, an end to racial segregation, and enactment of a permanent commission to bar racial discrimination in employment.

Slump Lowers Food Prices

CHICAGO, (AP)—Plunging grain prices ran into their first stubborn resistance in four days yesterday, but the sharp slump in values already has chipped a few cents off the retail cost of groceries.

At least four important staples in the American diet—bread, flour, lard and some pork cuts—will cost less tomorrow in some of the nation's chain stores as a direct result of skidding grain prices.

In Pittsburgh, a meat packer predicted that housewives would be able to buy meat cheaper this week than at any time in the last three months.

Wheat prices fluctuated widely on the Chicago board of trade. Wheat, the kingpin in the food price structure, closed 9 cents lower to 4 1/2 cents a bushel higher. The sharp descent in oats was halted but corn generally continued to plunge.

A spokesman for one Chicago food chain explained why the slump in wheat prices was reflected so swiftly in retail price cuts. "The food situation is highly competitive and we have to act fast for this reason," he said.

"The back of inflation has been broken," said a New York economist, "but it will take people a few months to realize it. He saw the sharp commodity price break as the forerunner of general downward trend.

Many business experts have expected to mark the turning point in the inflationary spiral. Most of them do not think it is the start of a business slump, but rather a "healthy correction" of prices that were too high.

International Arrest 6 American Pilots in Bomb Plot

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A reported plot to bomb Caracas in a revolution against the Venezuelan government has been thwarted, and six American fliers have been arrested.

The federal bureau of investigation announced yesterday that four men were nabbed when they arrived at New Orleans by plane from Nicaragua. A fifth was arrested at Miami, and the sixth is in the hands of military authorities in Panama.

FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover said all have been charged with violation of the neutrality act. They are accused of taking two surplus navy PBV planes from Bush field, Georgia, to Puerto Cabezas, Nicaragua.

Hoover added that two of the men, named as pilots of the planes, were to have received $30,000 each for their part in the plan. He identified the two as an army captain, A.W.O.L. from the army's Oliver general hospital at Augusta, Ga., and a former R.A.F. pilot whose home is in Amarillo, Texas.

Hoover's announcement said the planes were to be used "in a bombing action as part of a revolution against the present government of a Latin American country," which he did not name.

President Romulo Betancourt protested to Nicaragua that two planes had been flown from the United States to Nicaragua and loaded with bombs "with the presumed objective of bombarding" Caracas. He spoke of a "foreign plot" to prevent the inauguration Feb. 15 of President-elect Romulo Gallegos.

Maximum penalty upon conviction of neutrality act violation is two years' imprisonment and $10,000 fine.

A CAA official said in Washington last night that licenses of the pilots will be suspended "for operating unlicensed aircraft within the limits of the United States."

Propeller Kills Airline Steward

WITH A HOLE TORN IN ITS SIDE and a mutilated engine, this Eastern Airlines Constellation made a forced landing at an airport in Bunnell, Fla. The propeller crashed through the fuselage of the giant plane in flight, killing the steward. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Air Constellation Saved From Sea Crash

BUNNELL, Fla. (AP)—A damaged Eastern airlines Constellation bearing a dead crewman and 65 other persons flew in from the sea to safety here yesterday after reporting it was about to be "ditched."

The dead man, a flight steward, was killed when an engine disintegrated and a piece, possibly a cylinder or part of a propeller, struck him.

Fire was reported to have followed the engine failure, and several passengers were injured by jumping from the plane after the emergency landing.

The big plane, caused a major alert and the start of a huge rescue effort when it reported at 1:27 p.m. that it was being "ditched."

Its position at that time, according to the coast guard, was about 80 miles at sea off Jacksonville.

Planes, blimps and surface craft were quickly knit into a rescue force that began to converge the area. Coast guard officers called them off when the plane reached safety.

Among those aboard the craft were Winthrop Rockefeller, New York financier, and Henry T. (Dick) Merrill, noted EAL pilot and a round-the-world flier.

A broken propeller, a flat tire and a cut in the metal fuselage was the only evidence here of the dramatic escape from destruction at sea.

The plane was bound from Boston to Miami by way of New York and West Palm Beach.

Wier Muffled While Schulz Hits 10; Hays, Spencer Star

LAFAYETTE — A hard-scraping University of Iowa basketball team defeated Purdue before a capacity crowd here last night, 41-33.

The win, coming with Illinois' loss to Michigan, puts the Hawkeyes in sole possession of second place in the conference standings.

The surprising Hawkeye victory came in probably the Big Nine's most poorly played game this season. Both teams were worse than terrible in their shooting.

Foreign De Valera Forms New Party; Seeks To Retain Policies

DUBLIN, (AP)—Prime Minister Eamon de Valera said last night he was prepared to form a new Eire government.

But, he added, in his first public statement since his party's setback in Wednesday's election, he would not change his policy.

In the balloting the Fianna Fail party lost its majority in Eire's parliament.

De Valera spoke at Carlow in support of five Fianna Fail candidates for the dail (parliament) in next Tuesday's election in the Carlow Kilkenny constituency.

"If, as representatives of the largest party, we are proposed and supported for the formation of a new government, we will do so," de Valera said. "But our policy will be the same as always and our program will be to continue the work on which we have been engaged."

Despite moderate gains by labor and the leftist republican (Clann Na Poblachta) party, there were few signs in Catholic Eire of the strong socialist swing which occurred in Britain and on the continent after the war.

Gandhi Probe Calls Upon Alwar Prince

NEW DELHI (AP)—The investigation of the assassination of Mohandas Gandhi began reaching into high places yesterday.

The government of India suppressed the administration of the small state of Alwar and summoned its prince and prime minister to New Delhi for a preliminary inquiry.

An announcement said this drastic step was necessary to pursue without any obstruction and investigation into the administration's alleged "support of connivance" in activities of the outlawed RSS (National Volunteer corps), and "its possible complicity in the assassination of Mahatma Gandhi and other serious crimes."

The Sikh prince, Maharajah Tej Singh, and the Alwar prime minister N.B. Khare, already were in New Delhi when the order was issued.

GOP To Agree On ERP Cost — Taft

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) predicted yesterday that those Republicans who favor a European Recovery Program in some form or another will reach agreement soon on its cost.

Taft, who heads the party's policy committee, told a reporter he thinks this agreement will pave the way for comparatively speedy senate action when the foreign aid proposal is brought up March 1.

"Of course," the Ohioan said, "some people are going to oppose any aid to Europe at this time. But I think there is a good chance that those who want to have a program can agree on how much should be spent on it."

Taft already has called for a cut of around $2-billion in the $6.8-billion appropriation President Truman has asked Congress to make for the first 15 months of aid, beginning March 1.

The administration has since indicated the relief total might reach $9,333,000,000.

While Taft did not say so, there are indications that he is willing to settle for a smaller cut than $2-billion if he and Senators Vandenberg (R-Mich), Millikin (R-Colo), Bridges (R-NH) and others can have a meeting of minds.

As chairman of foreign relations Vandenberg is chief sponsor of the ERP bill. Millikin heads the finance committee and Bridges the appropriation group.

Taft already has talked the matter over with Vandenberg without reaching any final decision.

The Michigan senator appeared, meanwhile, to have made progress toward satisfying some of the demands of a group of 20 Republican senators seeking revisions in the aid plan.

This group laid a half dozen amendments before him at a closed-door meeting yesterday.

Later Senator Hall (R-Minn) indicated the group is not far from agreement with Vandenberg on the establishment of an independent administrator with full power to make economic decisions and the setting up of a senate-house watchdog committee.

Russ Offer To Buy Lend-Lease Ships

WASHINGTON (AP)—Diplomatic authorities said yesterday that Russia has now offered to buy 87 ships she got from the U.S. by war-time lend-lease.

Russia's holding on to the ships has been a point of controversy for a long time.

Authorities said Moscow offered to buy the 87 in agreeing belatedly to return to the U.S. seven tankers and one cargo ship. The state department has begun negotiations.

No barrier to the deal was foreseen by officials—unless congress objects—aside from agreement on terms. Members of the house merchant marine committee have protested Russia's attitude in the past. They heard testimony a year ago that the U.S. asked for return of the ships on March 18, 1946.

The ships are mostly of the Liberty type and have been carried on maritime commission books as surplus since Russia got them to deliver lend-lease materials.

Talks on the ship deal are still in a preliminary stage. A sale would be a separate transaction from any general settlement of Russia's $11.2-billion over-all lend-lease account.

Lend-lease negotiations, reviewed with the arrival in December of Ambassador Alexander S. Panyushkin, have been making slow progress. Officials said that the United States and the Soviets are "far apart" in their ideas of what would be a fair settlement.

Soviet Protests to Mac
Moscow's latest protest, charging American aircraft with ten specific acts of low flying over Soviet shipping near Japan, has been relayed to General Douglas MacArthur for a report.

Prospects are that a reply to the charge that these flights violated "freedom of commercial navigation" will be delayed for two weeks or more. It is the latest in a barrage of Moscow protests against American military actions abroad. The United States rejected three others.

State Board Moves Hiatt to Cherokee After Examination
DES MOINES, (AP)—The state board of control yesterday ordered Robert Hiatt, 29, transferred to the Cherokee state hospital.

The action was taken after two psychiatrists, following a lengthy examination, held Hiatt to be "insane, paranoic condition."

The examination was conducted at the Anamosa men's reformatory where Hiatt today completes a year's sentence after his conviction for shooting Delmar Van Horn, young Jefferson farmer, last March.

A. J. Shaw, one of Hiatt's defense attorneys, conferred with the board after the latest findings were announced.

Shaw said that in view of the decision to commit Hiatt to the Cherokee institution "no immediate action" would be taken.

Waitress Says She Wants To Wed Kuhn
FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—A 32-year-old blonde waitress said yesterday she hoped to marry Fritz Kuhn, missing former German-American band leader.

Kuhn's wife, who is living in a crowded Munich suburban house with her two grown children, was quoted by a Stars and Stripes correspondent as saying "there is a clear understanding that there will be a divorce."

Military police of the four zones of Germany are looking for Kuhn who escaped from the German internment camp at Dachau last Tuesday where he was being held for possible trial by a German denazification court.

Stars and Stripes, the American soldier newspaper, quoted Fraulein Hedwig Munz, a waitress at Oberwiesenthal American air base near Munich, as saying:

"Fritz is a very affectionate man and we will be married as soon as all this trouble is straightened out."

Reached by telephone by the Associated Press, she said, "Yes that is right. I hope to marry Fritz soon. It is all a question of time, however. It depends upon how the matter is cleared up."

She said she became acquainted with Kuhn "more than a year ago in Munich," before he was jailed last July by German police.

She told Stars and Stripes she did not know anything of his whereabouts.

Women Injured as Car Hits Telephone Pole

TWO WOMEN WERE INJURED when their car went out of control and crashed into a telephone pole yesterday on Highway 20 near Waterloo. Miss Emelda Kunau, Jones county home economist, was driving the car and was accompanied by Miss Marion Mae Bates, teacher in the Anamosa Independent school. The women suffered lacerations of the forehead and possible internal injuries in the accident.

Harrison's 'Conditions' Not To Be Granted

Genial 'Pops' Faces Tough Decision Upon Return Here

"Pops" Harrison, SUI's genial basketball coach, will face one of his toughest decisions when he returns to Iowa City after Iowa's 41-33 victory last night over Purdue.

His so-called "conditions" for remaining as basketball coach will not be granted, The Daily Iowan learned last night. He must then decide whether he will stick it out or head for possibly greener pastures.

The feeling exists—among those who must decide—that "Pops" is doing all right. They say he is one of the highest paid basketball coaches in the Big Nine; he has had the fullest cooperation of the athletic department—even where it meant spending much more money; he has as many assistants as an Iowa basketball coach has ever had—and they were chosen by him; his staff is as large and as well paid as any other in the Big Nine.

All this adds up to the fact that when Harrison and Athletic Director Paul Brechler meet this week to talk over the situation, no "bargaining" will be done.

Brechler returned yesterday from Detroit, Mich. He declined to comment on published reports of Harrison's dissatisfaction except to say:

"Pops" naturally has been under great strain and stress. Anybody who sees him at a game can see that. We'll get together this week and get the situation ironed out. We only had a few minutes to talk Friday night."

Brechler referred to a meeting of the two Friday night before the squad took off by plane for Purdue. The plane was held past its scheduled take-off time while they talked at Brechler's home.

The two talked in a general way about "Pops" statements which have appeared in various newspapers that he is dissatisfied with his present salary, $6,700. He reportedly is asking above $8,000.

Yesterday the Cedar Rapids Gazette quoted Harrison as saying he had told the athletic board of control "before Christmas" that he did not care to stay under present conditions.

"The board asked me what conditions I wanted and I replied, 'I have never heard from them,'" the Gazette quoted Harrison as saying.

Dean Paul J. Blommers, chairman of the athletic board, said last night he did not care to comment on Harrison's statement.

The Gazette yesterday went on to quote Harrison as saying: "I have never had a full-time assistant. During the year it was even worse than that; I had no assistant at all. I did all the coaching and all my own scouting."

"I have had to do the work of both a head coach and an assistant, and I have had to do most of the good-will work for the department. After the 1947 season, I made 105 speeches."

"If I'm going to do the work of three men, I feel I should at least have part of the pay of three men."

However, Harrison was quoted by the Gazette as saying the question of hiring a full-time assistant was not a main issue. "The athletic board has not turned me down on that, because I've never asked for one."

The Gazette said Harrison still has not made up his mind whether to stay.

The whole public discussion was touched off by a story in The Des Moines Register by Bert McGraw saying that "Pops" might leave because of ill health. Afterwards, "Pops" indicated to newspapermen that dissatisfaction with salary is also a prime consideration.

University officials say that it is inappropriate to discuss salary in the middle of a season, especially in the newspapers; that Harrison is paid more than many university professors; that he has been head coach for only six years; that he has a light teaching load of only one class; that he has the conference's best scout in Rollie Williams; that he has not been asked to help coach other sports as basketball coaches at other Big Nine schools have done; that a full-time assistant for a squad of 17 men would not be practicable.

For these reasons, and some others the officials would rather not discuss in public, Harrison must make up his own mind. Brechler has emphasized repeatedly in public statements that "Pops" has done a good job with the team and that he is perfectly welcome to stay as coach. He has had the fullest cooperation of the athletic department and will continue to have it, Brechler emphasizes.

But there is also the question of "Pops" health. And there again "Pops" himself must decide whether he can continue under the stress and strain.

Hawks Meet Illinois Here

The favorite for the Big Nine title of 1948, Illinois, is the next obstacle for the Iowa basketball team after its win over Purdue last night. The Hawks meet the Illini Monday night here in the fieldhouse.

Game time is 8 p.m. with a preliminary between the Iowa Junior Varsity and Muscatine Junior college scheduled for 6 p.m.

Coach Harry Combes in his first year at Illinois will bring a young squad which has come along fast this season. The Illini took seven straight non-conference wins and have a creditable league slate to date.

Any hopes the Iowa team may be fostering towards the conference championship will be riding along with this game. Its undefeated home record plus two road victories have kept them in the race. Tomorrow night will be another "must" win.

Illinois teams have found it very rough to win games here in Iowa City. Iowa has won the last six straight times against the Fighting Illini and the last 12 of 15 starts. In the contest tomorrow, before a capacity crowd of 15,000, the Hawkeyes of Coach Pops Harrison will be seeking their 25th conference victory in the last 28 home league games.

This will be the only meeting between the two teams this season. Illini won the one game played last year at Champaign, 43-36. However, the Illini victory here was back in 1937.

Forward Dike Eddleman, the former Centralia, Ill., high school flash and player of three sports (football, basketball and track) at the Champaign school, is Combes' leading operative. He has averaged 12.5 points in league games.

Given the chief defensive assignments in Illinois games is Captain Jack Burmaster. Undoubtedly, he will be faced with the problem of stopping Iowa's high-scoring Murray Vier.

The Illini five is rounded out with Bill Erickson at forward, Wally Osterkorn at center and Burdette Thurlby at guard. The second string center job is held by Fred Green, who last year played the pivot post with the "Whiz Kids."

Against the hook shots of Osterkorn and Green, Coach Harrison will probably start Roger Finley, who will share the spot with Don Hays.

Other Iowa starters will be Bob Schulz and Jack Spencer at guards and Wier and Floyd Magnusson at forwards.

This is another sell-out game and fans are warned against going to the fieldhouse without tickets. Five broadcasts, a record for an Iowa home basketball game, will be on the air.

The probable starting line-ups:
Iowa: Wier (6-10), F., Eddleman (6-2), Magnusson (6-2), F., Erickson (6-1), Finley (6-5), C., Osterkorn (6-4), Schulz (6-1), G., Burmaster (6-2), Spencer (6-2), G., Thurlby (6-2).
Time and Place—Monday, 8 p.m., Iowa fieldhouse.
Preliminary game—Junior Varsity vs. Muscatine Junior college.
Broadcasts—WSUI, Iowa City; KRNT, KRWL, Des Moines; WQTA, Moline, Ill.; WLL, Champaign, Ill.

Minnesota Dumps Ohio State, 68-55

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Going into the lead in the first period, Minnesota defeated Ohio State 68 to 55 here last night in a Big Nine basketball game.

Dick Schnitker, Ohio forward, walked off with scoring honors with 31, compared to 27 for Jim McIntyre, the Gophers' basket ace.

The Buckeyes came within four points of the Gophers with about two minutes to go when Minnesota rallied, getting 10 more points while Ohio got only one.

The game was tied up five times early, but after six minutes Minnesota got a 13 to 12 lead and was never headed.

At half time the Gophers were ahead 28 to 25.

Iowa JV's Lose To Wisconsin, 47-31

Wisconsin's junior varsity court squad ruined the Iowa "B" team's opening game in their home-and-away series with other Big Nine schools, 47-31, at the fieldhouse yesterday.

John Mahoney of Iowa led all scorers with six lay-ups and three free baskets for 15 points.

Wisconsin held a 21-15 lead at halftime and then accelerated and managed to stay in front by at least ten points, pouring it on late in the second half.

Center Wallace Niemuth and Forward Stu Locklin led the winners with 11 points apiece.

IKE JOHNSON, left, Iowa hurdler, races to an Iowa record breaking time of 8 seconds flat in the 70-yard low hurdle. Vernon Coffey (center) finished third behind Russ Merkel of Iowa. An unidentified Grinnell runner can be seen to the right.

Tracksters Trounce Grinnell 82-26; Hurdles Record Set

By HANK ALLAN

Iowa's Ike Johnson ran the 70-yard low hurdles in :08 yesterday, setting a new fieldhouse and indoor track record as the University of Iowa outclassed Grinnell college's thinclads, 82-26.

Johnson streaked across the finish line inches ahead of teammate Russ Merkel, whose last-minute spurt almost overtook the Coffeyville, Kans., Negro, Vern Coffey of Iowa was a close third.

John Oxley, diminutive Marion, Iowa, athlete, won the grueling 2-mile run in 10:18.3. Oxley took an early lead in the 16-lap race and finished 100 yards ahead of Keith Keller of Iowa City. Both Oxley and Keller were several laps ahead of the nearest Grinnell distance man when they hit the finish line.

The Iowa mile relay team won the one mile relay in 3:40.3 after trailing Grinnell for 3 laps. Otis Finney, the team's number one man, took the lead but was passed at the 400-yard mark by Steve Hitchcock of Grinnell.

Don Lay's bid for first place was short and Grinnell ran first until Eric Wilson Jr. pulled up front with about 3 laps to go. Tommy Sangster, the team's anchorman, then legged it home ahead of Grinnell's Hugh Acton.

In one of the most exciting events of the afternoon, Evan "Curley" Hultman of Iowa bested his rangy teammate, Jack Copeland, in the 880-yard run. Copeland jumped into the lead at the first turn and ran at the head of the pack for nearly 3 laps. With about 300 yards to go, Hultman pulled up on Copeland and passed him as the crowd went wild. The stocky Waterloo runner churned across the finish line an easy winner.

Probably the most amazed individual in the fieldhouse was James Holt of Grinnell who was declared the winner in the high jump with a modest mark of five feet two inches. Holt was out-jumped by the four competing Iowa jumpers but all were ineligible and their heights weren't counted in the meet.

Little John Oxley, who won the 2-mile run hands down, had been ill the latter part of the week and wasn't sure he'd be on the track for the Grinnell meet. Oxley, who scales 118 pounds, is capable of running a 9:39.9 two mile when he's in top form.

The lone casualty of the meet was a Grinnell hurdler competing in the 70-yard high hurdles. This athlete missed his stride, clipped the top of a hurdle and smashed into the next one. He took several more steps and dropped to the ground. Examination revealed he suffered several bad bruises on his legs.

Russ Merkel, who equaled the old 70-yard low hurdle record of :08.1 in the January relay carnival, almost became a double winner in the hurdles. Merkel won the 70-yard high hurdles and came within a fraction of over-hauling Ike Johnson in the record-breaking 70-yard low hurdles.

One mile run: 1—Keith Keller, Iowa; 2—Bill Stolley, Grinnell; 3—Elliot McDonald, Iowa. Time 4:48.4.

60-yard dash: 1—Jack Simpson, Iowa; 2—Jack Copeland, Iowa; 3—John DeWitt, Grinnell. Time :06.3.

70-yard low hurdles: 1—Russ Merkel, Iowa; 2—Vernon Coffey, Iowa; 3—Greg Newell, Grinnell. Time :09.1.

70-yard high hurdles: 1—Ike Johnson, Iowa; 2—Russ Merkel, Iowa; 3—Vernon Coffey, Iowa. Time :08 (field house record).

Shot put: 1—Bobby Nelson, Iowa; 2—Phil Southworth, Grinnell. Distance 31 feet 10 inches.

880-yard run: 1—Evan Hultman, Iowa; 2—Jack Copeland, Iowa; 3—Elliott McDonald, Iowa. Time 2:05.2.

Pole vault: 1—Clair Jennett, Iowa; 2—Frank Webb, Grinnell. Height 11 feet 6 inches.

Mile relay: 1—Iowa (Otis Finney, Don Lay, Eric Wilson Jr., Tom Sangster); 2—Grinnell. Time 3:40.3.

High jump: 1—James Holt, Grinnell; 2—John Powell, Grinnell. Height 5 feet 2 inches.

Broad jump: 1—Vernon Coffey, Iowa; 2—Ike Johnson, Iowa; 3—Phil Southworth, Grinnell. Distance 21 feet 7 inches.

Wolverines Waltz Past Illini, 66-57
CHAMPAIGN, ILL., (AP)—Michigan continued a strong contender for the Big Nine basketball title last night by wallopping Illinois 66-57 with an effective zone defense and a balance of scoring power.

The Wolverines then forged into a 37-29 advantage at intermission behind the sharpshooting of Mack Supruniewicz and Bill Roberts. Michigan maintained a margin of eight points or more throughout the rest of the game, the closest approach for Illinois being 49-41 with nine minutes to go.

Eddleman, sinking most of his 12 baskets from outside Michigan's zone defense, took scoring honors with 23 points.

Don Macintosh buyed Michigan's offense with 17 points while Bob Harrison added 15, Supruniewicz 12, and Roberts 11.

The defeat was Illinois' third in seven games. A capacity crowd of 6,900 saw the contest.

Eight Matches Fall to Iowa

By JOHN HOLWAY

Iowa wrestlers swept to a 26-6 triumph in their opening Big Nine meet against Wisconsin here yesterday, dropping only two of 10 matches, each by a single point.

Joe Scarpello accounted for the day's only fall. He barely worked up a sweat in nailing Ralph Longergan before their 175-pound bout was a minute and 15 seconds off.

Scarpello fell on Longergan almost immediately after the word "wrestle," wrapped a vice-like hold around the unfortunate Badger, and forced his shoulders to the canvas with a bar arm to add five points to Iowa's top-heavy score.

The Wisconsin wins were at the expense of Ken Keith, 155, and Ray Carlson, 165.

Carlson lost a 3-2 decision to unbeaten Clarence Self. The Dairylander broke a 2-2 tie late in the third and last period when he scored a point in escaping from under Carlson.

Carlson had scored first by going behind in the second frame, but Self balanced that, pulling off the same feat, and went ahead in the next period to pick up the telling point.

Keith was beaten by the same 3-2 margin by Chuck McMullen. The taller red-headed Irishman from Madison proved to be the most aggressive grappler on the Wisconsin squad.

Each man scored a take down for 2 points, but the heavier Badger picked up an additional point for time advantage.

Don Rodenborn, at 136, pulled up from behind to edge Lowell Oberle of Wisconsin, 6-5. Badger Coach George Martin protested the last two-pointer scored by Rodenborn which enabled him to beat Oberle.

Martin claimed Rodenborn was off the mat when he scored his last take-down. However, Referee Loy Julius of Cherokee, allowed the two-points. Iowa Coach Mike Howard maintained that both he and Martin had agreed beforehand that going off the mat to avoid a take-down would not be allowed.

"Rummy" Macias, 128, celebrated his return to Iowa lights by dealing Bob Spicuzza his first loss of the season, 6-1. Macias had a shutout in sight until Spicuzza wriggled away from him in the last period to gain a point.

Sebastino "Subby" Colanino made his first appearance on the squad in thrashing to a 12-11 decision over Bill Robinson.

Colanino, from Joe Scarpello's home town, Omaha, blundered on several occasions, and as a result came close to being pinned twice, the final whistle once saving him from that fate.

Robinson had taken his only previous bout by a fall. Both grapplers were exhausted at the match's end, and Colanino almost wasted a 12-7 advantage in the last minute.

Heavyweight Dick Woodard gave no hint that he was working with his right side taped in whipping Bob Freund, recently made a father, 7-3.

Bob Geigel, 191½, and Dick Barker, 145, both missed falls by close margins. Each saw his opponent on two occasions wriggled into his stomach to avoid a pinning.

Vern McCoy, 121, had no trouble in registering the meet's only shutout, 4-0, over John De Witte.

The summaries:
114½—Subby Colanino, Iowa, decided Bill Robinson, 12-11.
121—Vern McCoy, Iowa, decided John DeWitte, 4-0.
128—Romelo Macias, Iowa, decided Bob Spicuzza, 6-1.
136—Don Rodenborn, Iowa, decided Lowell Oberle, 6-5.
145—Dick Barker, Iowa, decided Joe Peterson, 10-3.
155—Charles McMullen, Wisconsin, decided Kenneth Keith, 3-2.
165—Clarence Self, Wisconsin, decided Ray Carlson, 3-2.

175—Joe Scarpello, Iowa, threw Ralph Longergan, time 1:15.
191½—Bob Geigel, Iowa, decided Secunda Salvino, 6-4.
Heavyweight—Dick Woodard, Iowa, decided Bob Freund, 7-3.

Former Missionary To Address 'World Prayer Day' Group

A former missionary to Africa, Mrs. Carroll C. Roberts, Cedar Rapids, will be guest speaker at the annual World Day of Prayer, sponsored by the Council of Church Women Friday.

The group, including women from the Protestant churches of Iowa City and several surrounding rural churches, will meet at the First Christian church. Theme of the observance will be "The Word at Prayer."

Mrs. Roberts was formerly president of the Women's Christian Missionary society in Virginia and in the District of Columbia. She served on the executive board of the Washington, D. C. Council of Church women and was a member of the national committee of 25 which planned the program for the Disciples of Christ, known as a "Crusade for a Christian World." Mrs. Roberts was in mission work in South Africa for five years.

The program will begin at 10:30 a.m. in the church social rooms with the showing of three motion pictures. These will show home and foreign mission work supported with money from World Day of Prayer offerings. The films will be "Christian Literature in the Orient," "Christian Literature" and "Foreign Students."

A sack luncheon will be served at noon. Coffee will be furnished. Following luncheon, Mrs. B. J. Lambert, president of the local Council of Church women, will preside over a business meeting. A devotional service in the church sanctuary at 1 p.m. will be followed by Mrs. Roberts' talk.

Congregational Church To Sponsor Nursery For Student's Children

The "4-C" club of the Congregational church will sponsor a nursery, starting Tuesday, for children of married students.

Located in the basement of the Congregational church, the "4-C" nursery will be open from 1 to 4:30 every Tuesday and Thursday. According to Mrs. Clark J. Sloan, director, a registered nurse will be present at the beginning of each period.

Enrollment will be limited to 20 children between the ages of 15 months and 5 years. The fee is $2.50 a month, or at another rate if paid daily. Interested parents should contact Mrs. Sloan, 5016, before Thursday.

Nine To Staff UWA Orientation Council

The University Women's association has announced the appointment of Leah Mendelson, A1, Omaha, as chairman of the joint freshmen-transfer orientation council for next year.

Anderson, A1, Mallard; Eleanor Maiden, A2, and Mary Sayre, A2, both of Iowa City, and Joy Marjanski, N3, Des Moines.

Extra UWA calendars and Code for Coeds publications are available in the office of student affairs, according to Elaine Lenney, UWA president.

Marriage License Sales Slack for Leap Year

Eligible Johnson county bachelors got off easy during January. Marriage license records in the county courthouse indicate that the gals didn't take advantage of leap year during the first month of 1948.

A comparison of licenses issued during January of the last five years shows that leap years have a lower total than do the same month of the years not having the extra day.

Fifty-seven licenses were issued in January of 1948 while only 34 were sold in the previous leap year—1944, as compared with 44 in 1945, 62 in 1946, and 70 for the same month in 1947.

But beware, fellows, for business is picking up during February, according to Johnson county Clerk of Court, R. Neilson Miller, who has issued 20 licenses during the first week of this month.

Two SUI Students Wed in Candlelight Rites at St. Paul's

Two university students, Phyllis Ann Hennesius and Theodore H. Gate, were married in a candlelight ceremony last night. The double-ring ceremony was performed at St. Paul's Trinity Lutheran church, Cedar Rapids.

Doris Hennesius, Cedar Rapids, attended her sister as maid of honor and Don Schulze, E2, Younkers, N. Y., was best man. Ushers were Robert Hill, E2, Congdon, and Roger Hennesius, Cedar Rapids.

Following the wedding, a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents in Cedar Rapids.

Mrs. Gate, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hennesius, Cedar Rapids, was graduated from the Readiyn, Iowa high school and is as an honor in the school of nursing.

Mr. Gate, son of Mrs. Hazel Gate, Spencer, was graduated from Spencer high school and is a sophomore in the college of engineering.

Following a short wedding trip the couple will be at home at 319 S. Capital street.

Bill Calls for $300,000 Boost Vet Subsistence Bill Asks for $10-15 Monthly Increases

DES MOINES (AP)—GI's attending college and taking farm training in Iowa would get an increase of well over $300,000 a month in subsistence payments under a bill now before President Truman.

The measure provides that a single GI in college would get an increase of from $65 to $75 a month if the bill becomes law. A married veteran with no other dependents would be boosted from $90 to $105 a month. And a married veteran with one or more children would get an increase of from $90 to $120 a month. Farm trainees would get similar advances.

Records of the Veterans Administration office here show that as of Jan. 31 there were 27,230 GI's attending college or other institutions of higher learning in Iowa. On the same date there were 4,178 veterans taking farm training in this state.

There was no breakdown to show the number in the single, married, and married with children groups.

The GI's in college now are receiving at least $1,769,950 a month in subsistence payments. If all of them were single, but some are married, their total payments under the bill would be $2,042,250 a month. That would be a minimum increase of $272,300 a month.

The veterans taking farm training now are receiving at least $271,570 a month. Under the proposed increase, if all were single, but some of them are married, their total would be $313,350 a month. That would be a minimum increase of $41,780 a month.

Combining the GI's in college and those taking farm training, the minimum increase under the bill would be $314,080 a month.

Actually, it would be considerably more than that. Many of the veterans are married, and still others have one or more children, which would entitle them to more than the single veterans.

Veterans taking the many types of on-the-job training in Iowa also have prospects of boosts in government payments. A bill providing increases has passed both houses of congress but in different forms.

That measure now has been sent to the senate for concurrence in House changes, or for a joint conference to adjust the differences. The House measure was more liberal than the senate bill. The proposal would not change the present rate of government pay for the trainees. But it would raise the ceiling on what the trainee might earn from his trainer or employer and still get government aid.

At present the law sets the maximum income of a single veteran taking on-the-job training at $175 a month. The bill would increase this ceiling to $250 a month.

The married veteran's pay ceiling now is $200 a month. Under the bill the ceiling would be increased to $325 if he is married and has no children, and would be boosted to $350 if he is married and has one or more children.

Both measures were sponsored by the Republican party.

To Offer Course In Publicity Techniques

A course on publicity techniques will be sponsored by Theta Sigma Phi, honorary fraternity for women in journalism, Terry Grimes, chairman of the course, announced yesterday.

Designed to acquaint housing and campus organizations with campaign methods and publicity problems, the course will consist of three sessions. They will be held at 4:30 p. m. in room 221A Schaeffer hall on the following dates:

Feb. 17—Prof. Philip W. Burton of the advertising department will discuss "Advertising and Public Relations."

Feb. 24—Prof. Leslie G. Moeller, director of the school of journalism, will speak on "The Editor's Attitude to News that is Publicity."

Mar. 2—Four students will participate in a panel discussion on the "Mechanics of Publicity Campaigns." They are Bud Borton, president of Alpha Delta Sigma, honorary advertising fraternity for men; Porter Burrets, president of collegiate Chamber of Commerce; Lois Black, editor of Dormstory and Elaine Leney, U. W. A. president.

Students may register for the course at the office of student affairs until Saturday, Feb. 14.

Police Warned Against Freedom Train Vendors

A letter received recently by Police Chief E. J. Ruppert warns local authorities of a "horde of hawkers" that has been following the Freedom train, scheduled to stop in Iowa City May 28.

The letter was from John Murphy, executive secretary of the American Heritage foundation in New York which is sponsoring the train.

In it Murphy describes a group of vendors selling books, souvenirs and pamphlets and asks cooperation of local authorities in allowing only an official representative traveling with the train to distribute souvenirs.

Murphy explains that the train carries valuable documents and exhibits. Its main purpose is to educate and raise the level of active citizenship.

Dorothy Albrecht Weds Philip Hotka

In a single ring ceremony at St. Wenceslaus church yesterday afternoon, Dorothy Albrecht became the bride of Philip Hotka. The Rev. Edward W. Neuzil officiated.

Attendees were Donna Meade, Oxford, and Dwayne Snider, Riverside. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. M. Albrecht, Rochester road.

Mrs. Hotka was graduated from Iowa City high school and attended Brown's Commerce college, Iowa City. She was formerly employed at the Rock Island Transit company's local office. Mr. Hotka, son of Mrs. Gladys Hotka, 1135 E. College street, was graduated from St. Mary's high school, Riverside. He is employed by the Detroit Transmission company, Detroit, Mich. The couple will live in Detroit.

Go Northeast, Not West To Find Single Women Census Report Shows

WASHINGTON (AP)—Don't go west, young man, if you're looking for single women.

The census bureau reported yesterday that only 17 out of 100 women in the west are single. In contrast, 25 out of 100 are single in the northeast.

Other findings of a bureau report: Married men in general have a "higher educational and economic level" than other men, but single women had the "highest level of educational attainment for their sex in 1947."

The proportion of single and divorced women at work or looking for jobs was higher than that of married women and widows in 1947.

Nevertheless 20 out of 100 married women living with their husbands worked or were looking for jobs last April, compared with 15 out of 100 in that month of 1940. There is one widower to each three widows in the United States.

Graphic Arts Institute Says Carroll Coleman A Top Book Designer

One of the 50 best book designers in the United States is Carroll Coleman, university instructor in typography according to the results of an annual book-designing contest sponsored by the American Institute of Graphic Arts.

"Ego and the Centaur," a book of poems written by Jean Garigue and styled by Coleman, was selected with the other books on the basis of paper choice, cover design, typography selection, arrangement of the pages, and type of binding.

Coleman has received this recognition five times. Last year, The Publisher's Weekly, leading journal of the book publishing trade, chose him the best book designer of the year. He created designs for "For the Unlost," written by Josephine Jacobson.

Coleman said the 50 best designed books will be displayed in

New York at a book show opening the latter part of March. Following this, two copies each of the 50 books will be displayed in libraries, schools and book stores throughout the country.

A third copy will be shipped to the British National Book league in London. From there they will be distributed for display throughout the British Isles, Paris, France and Stockholm, Sweden.

Tailfeathers Schedule Tumbling Exhibition For Iowa-Illinois Halftime

A tumbling exhibition, sponsored by the Tailfeathers pep club, will be presented tomorrow night between halves of the Iowa-Illinois basketball game, according to Ginger McDonald, chairman of the entertainment committee.

The exhibition will be given by a men's gymnastic class, and will be directed by John Snider Jr., A4, Coffeyville, Kan., assistant instructor.

Club members in charge of the entertainment include: Kenneth Mounce, C3, Clinton; Janet Shacklett, A1, Iowa City, and Donald Davidson, A2, Des Moines.

Announce Chairmen For University Sing

Committee chairmen for the University Sing have been announced by Mary Frances Dahl, A3, chairman.

They are Anne Reede, A3, Waterloo, publicity; Victoria Abodeley, A1, Cedar Rapids, ruler; George McBurney, A1, Council Bluffs, preliminaries; Charles P. Grahl, A1, Des Moines, water pageant; and Jerry Feniger, A4, Des Moines, program.

The sing, a part of the annual Mother's Day weekend activities, is sponsored by the University Women's association. Chorus from men's and women's dormitories and housing units will compete for singing honors. A water pageant will be one of the main features of this year's sing, according to Miss Dahl.

Males Don't Escape 'New Look'

Men's Fashion To Display Color With Conservative Tones

By RUTH DANIELSON
Men, you too, can have that "new look" this year.
Skirt lengths and dark-colored hose for women aren't the only new points in the fashion picture. Style scouts reveal cheerful news for the men as well.
From the newly colored ear cuffs for the head to hand-knit argyles for the feet—there's news. A marked trend toward more conservative coloring and style has gained favor. The postwar flamboyance which characterized such showy items as hand-painted ties, sport shirts with frills and two-toned leisure jackets is definitely not coming back.

College men, in particular, have shown a preference for that friendly fabric, corduroy, which seems to mellow with age. It appears, not only in jackets but also, in light weights, is proving its adaptability by being made into handsome sport shirts.
Dick Hazlett, A3, West Liberty, has an idea for his favorite classroom wardrobe. He decided, "I like a T-shirt and sweater combined with a contrasting pair of slacks for class because it's a comfortable outfit." Dick has also been seen in corduroy ensembles which are all-popular now.
If you're lucky enough to know a co-ed who knits, you too may be sporting the ankle with "the argyle look." Colors range from bright to conservative in the argyle sock, but the less-unfortunate male must be content with the solid pastel known as the old "boughten" kind.

Prices have not changed appreciably but the college man is getting better cloth and better workmanship with an improved quality.
Variety, too, has increased, with more selection possible in color, pattern and fabric. A man today has an even chance of getting the suit he likes in his size, rather than taking a second or third choice of pattern, and he can find a button-down oxford shirt without having to be a hard-basher's brother, as was the sad state of affairs last year.
Shoes have also caused more consideration than usual this year. The loafer (to the horror of older folks who envision a flatfooted generation) is still the No. 1 le-sure shoe on campus. Colored shoes with heavy soles are also seen. For dress-up occasion the wing-tip is coming back into favor.

Heaven help the man who doesn't know the coeds are watching the way he dresses this year. Darlene McGonigle, A2, Waterloo, says: "I think college wardrobes have definitely improved but when I see a loud sweater combined with a striped shirt and tweed pants, I wonder."
The step toward becoming the best-dressed man on campus points to a conservative wardrobe pepped up with contrasting color in accessories. Gaudy ensembles are out.
Accepting this trend gives college men the "new look" style scouts are talking about.

Worldly Atmosphere Pervades at Soiree

Looking like Lake Success, the Women's gym was filled with many foreign students in their native costumes last night for their "International Soiree."
The informal get-together for foreign and American students, featured dancing, foreign displays and entertainment.
Students from all over the world met, talked and danced together. Much of the evening's program was given by the foreign students.
The American side of the program was given by the "Hickocks," with square dancing under the direction of Miss Dudley Ashton of the physical education department.

A Hawaiian wedding song was sung by Ed Chui and Arlene Lawrence. Mrs. Fredrick Yu sang a Chinese folk song and Althea Lockwood danced a Hawaiian hula.
The official flag of Pakistan was presented last night, for the first time at SUI, by Ijaz-ul-Haque and Nasir M. Sial. Haque cut and hand-stitched the flag from official specifications sent from the Pakistan embassy in Washington.
There was a display of articles representing each of the foreign countries. Silverware from Iran, paintings from China, hand-made dolls from Japan, a picture of Gandhi in marble from India and a table scarf from Africa were among the pieces on exhibition.

Answer Two Alarms
Firemen answered two minor alarms yesterday, Assistant Fire Chief Al Dolezal reported.
A bundle of papers smoldering in the furnace of Dobby Boot shop, 128 E. Washington street, caused smoke but little damage at 11:55 a.m., Dolezal said.
Chimney sparks started a 3:20 p.m. roof blaze at Edward Feeser's residence, 510 S. Capitol street. Dolezal estimated slight loss.

Around the Campus

Campus Consultants

WARNING TO NEW FEMMES ON CAMPUS! . . . When you've picked out your husband make sure he doesn't belong to somebody else.

Don't be discouraged by all those 7:30's . . . you can still take time between classes for a mid-morning breakfast at the MAID-MAID-RITE.

It's located conveniently . . . right across from campus, so drop in any time for a quick cup of coffee or a breakfast with all the trimmings. Remember! It's the MAIDRITE.

Mystery surrounds the letters the gals throw away at the Theta house . . . Seems the house boys like to empty waste paper baskets.

It's no fun to be a lonely valentine.

Make sure you look your smoothest in an outfit freshly cleaned and pressed at DAVIS CLEANERS.

Go through your wardrobe now and check before the weekend. DAVIS CLEANERS will do an expert job and get them out in time for that big date.

This may not be Florida, but you can get your sunshine bottled when you drink SWANER'S hemoglobinized Vitamin D milk.

You deserve the best and SWANER'S MELLO D MILK is the best for you.
Have MELLO D MILK delivered to your door or buy it fresh daily at your store.

The lady with rings on her fingers and bells on her toes has nothing on Zeta, Jeannie Dahl. Jeannie's sporting the latest in accessories . . . a satin garter with a bell on it. Reason . . . her boyfriend likes to know when she's around.

Bob Graham, Phi Delt, really "burns up" his dates . . . and we mean that literally. Seems Bob threw his cigarette out the car window. Still smelling something burning, he madly searched for it and finally discovered it in his date's hair. When he talks about all his "flames", it's a "single" we'll know what he means!

Are you an eskimo? . . . Genius? . . . Cannibal? . . . Stick-in-the-mud? IF you're not an eskimo, you'll want one of the small electric heaters at MULFORD'S to keep your room warm these wintery days . . . IF you're not a genius, you'll need one of the new fluorescent lamps, reasonably priced at $6.95 . . . IF you're not a cannibal, but still like warm snacks at mid-night, you'll go for one of MULFORD'S hot plates . . . And, unless you're a "stick-in-the-mud", you'll get a large amount of enjoyment and entertainment from a small Emerson radio from MULFORD'S ELECTRIC SHOP.

Jim Nichols is being seen around the Sigma Nu house again after his operation. We hope his girl will be writing to him again.

Al Dehn, Pi Phi, seemed to be having one of the worst times heard of yet on the first day of classes this semester. Hurting her toe was painful enough, but the bitter blow came when she found her classes so well distributed over campus that it took her many aching minutes to trudge from one to the other.

FOR MEN ONLY! . . . Candy, Valentine's day and your best girl go together! For tips to please, stop by the Dixie Carmel Corn shop and see the large assortment of delicious candies offered. Heart-shaped boxes to be filled with your own choice of chocolates or bright novelties will win her approval and help make or keep you top man in her life.

Then there's the certain professor who said to his new class, "You can write in class . . . you can read in class . . . you can sleep in class . . . you can knit in class . . . you can neck in class . . . BUT FOR PETE'S SAKE, DON'T TALK!"

Want to make a good impression? . . . Then make sure your costume is fresh and sparkling by sending it to NEW PROCESS LAUNDRY AND CLEANERS. Even Friday the thirteenth can be your lucky day, especially if you look smart and feel smart. Don't trust to luck, even if you are looking over a four leaf clover . . . Send your clothes to NEW PROCESS and be sure of quick, meticulous service.

You'll find suggestions galore for Valentine's gifts at HERTEEN & STOCKER'S. Be sure to see the new initialed tie-clasp Pin-Klips by SWANK priced for only $3.00 . . . ideal for Him on the 14th. For Her, notice the lovely compacts by ELGIN and a wide assortment of lockets to make Her heart skip a beat. Go to HERTEEN & STOCKER today and let them help you select the right gift at the price you can easily afford.

Have you heard Jackie Fitch, D.G., and Bob Phinney, Phi Psi, rave about THE ANNEX — right across from the Cranicle depot? The frontier atmosphere and murals on the walls make it ideal for relaxation after games, after a hard evening in the library, or for dates! Be sure to drop in SOON and watch the stage coaches roll by and horses lassoed by smoke rings. "Never a dull moment at THE ANNEX," say Jackie and Bob.

She: "If you try to kiss me, I'll scream!"
He: "Not with all these people around."
She: "Well, let's find a quieter spot."

Do you need new ideas for that Sunday night supper or want to stock your room with edibles for between meal fillers? Go in THE FOOD SHOP and solve all your problems at one stop. They have not only good food served in a pleasant atmosphere, but also endless kinds of cold cuts, cheese, crackers and milk products to fill those 10 a.m., 4 p.m. and 9 p.m. gaps.

FLASH!!! The fellows on campus certainly seem to be getting domestic. Chug Wilson, Iowa City, is taking Foods in the Home Economics department. The biggest problem and sixty-four dollar question now is where will he get a white uniform and how will he look in a hairnet? Al MacLaughlin, Phi Psi, may be found in the future in the children's section of the public library. He is the only fellow in a class of 80 taking Children's Literature.

Don't be alarmed by the screams you hear coming from HUYETT-WEST'S record shop. It's just some record fiends expressing their delight over the newly-released Benny Goodman album of all-time favorites.

You'll jump for joy, too, when you hear the original Goodman band give out with "Runnin' Wild", "Body and Soul", "Stompin' at the Savoy" and a host of other B. G. favorites.
If you've got a touch of "el espanol", you'll love the "Spanish Serenade", "Habanera", the "Dance of Terror" and other Spanish favorites in an album of piano solos by Emilio Osta at HUYETT-WEST'S.

"Just pack your clothes into my blue car out in front, and I'll take them over to the annex," Norma Lou Haegg yelled to Ellie Kennedy . . . So Ellie trudged back and forth out of the Tri Delt house, lugging her bags and belongings. After several trips the blue car was loaded and so Ellie sat down in the front seat, lit a cigarette, and waited . . . glad to relax and rest. She didn't rest long, though, 'cause she soon discovered the car belonged to a Phi Psi. Oh, well, it was blue, anyway.

Housing Shortage Just Your Imagination

Real estate groups throughout the country should get together on what's what with the housing situation. Last week the local real estate board opposed the university's building Parklawn to ease the shortage for married students and staff. Realtors indicated that while the shortage may be acute now, it will level off in a few years and there won't be any problem.

Then just the other day the National Apartment Owners association was testifying in favor of the new "the sky's the limit" rent bill in congress.

It said, "The housing shortage is a figment of the imagination." They went the local group one better. You see, there just isn't a shortage. Anybody can get an apartment. Sure, just try it.

Now which is it, boys? Is there a shortage or isn't there? Is it acute today with prospects for disappearing in a few years? If this housing shortage really is a figment of the imagination—what an imagination we must have! We must have been dreaming when the university housing office told us we just couldn't get an apartment in town. We must have missed all those "Apartment for Rent" ads. We're going to get after our advertising department for not putting them in larger type.

Then it must not be true what the man told us about a kitchen curtained in two renting for $65 a month. Gosh, fellows, thanks for telling us. That other apartment owner must have been kidding when he told us they're all rented.

The local realtors will be attending a meeting tomorrow with the state board of education when the Parklawn construction will be discussed.

The realtors could make a lot of money at that meeting. Lots of married veterans might show up at the meeting asking for all these apartments that are available. And since there's really no shortage—remember Joe, it's just your imagination—why, the realtors ought to be happy.

Just think of all the apartments they could rent—right on the spot. They wouldn't even have to do any urging.

We all owe the realtors a vote of thanks. It sure does us good to know there isn't any shortage. But everybody knows the college veteran is always imagining something—some ridiculous thing like imagining he can't find a decent apartment at a price he can afford. But if he weren't imagining there is a housing shortage he'd probably be imagining that prices are too high.

'Religion in Life Week'

Organized religion sometimes seems to desert the reality of life for the platitudes of a vested interest. It seems sometimes less concerned with men's spiritual needs than its own material interests.

Then along comes a splendid program like the week-long "Religion in Life Week" which starts today. Its very name indicates the intertwining of "religion" and "life." Its purpose is to re-emphasize that spiritual values are not a separate concept, but a way of living a better life.

Dr. Paul Calvin Payne, one of the nation's outstanding Christian educators, opens the program tonight speaking on "The Author of Liberty."

There are discussions planned on the church and the labor movement, successful marriage, the Christian approach to world programs, race relations, and many more. (For complete program, see columns 7 and 8.)

The closing speech will be by Dr. Howard Thurman, a distinguished Negro teacher and preacher. He is the co-pastor with a white minister of a San Francisco All Peoples church. Last year he was the Ingersoll lecturer on Immortality at Harvard university.

During this semester he is a guest professor in the school of the program is evidence that organized religion can be concerned with life itself as well as the vast mystery after death.

The "Religion in Life Week," have consistently tried to bring religion up to date to face every day problems.

British Say ERP Countries Will Link Military Defense

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON LONDON (AP)—Qualified British military informants say broad plans are nearing completion for linking defenses of the Marshall plan nations.

Anglo-American chiefs of staffs, according to these informants and diplomatic sources, will submit proposals to standardize a wide range of military equipment and training to 15 European countries as the basis for a program of military self help. Standardization will be on the basis of American and British patterns and methods.

These sources emphasized that the plans for military standardization are to be regarded neither as part of the Marshall program nor as excluding states outside its focus.

They are primarily intended to establish military cooperation among nations which someday may have to fight as allies, informants said, and which, as a natural sequence, should be prepared to do so.

The informants expressed confidence that the standardization principle will be accepted readily in western Europe since most of the countries already depend almost exclusively on the United States and Britain for military requirements.

Every care will be taken to avoid the impression that the Anglo-American arms and strategic program involves "ganging up militarily" on Red Europe, diplomatic and military informants insisted.

Disclosure of the plan came as the U.S. congress swung into a detailed study of the report of the Paris conference which answered

Secretary Marshall's call for a European Recovery Program.

The Paris report specifically stressed the desirability of stream-lining continental economic recovery by standardized basic items of industrial equipment.

The sources—who ranged from British military planners to ambassadors of western European countries—pointed out that a program of arms standardization is "just one stage removed" from the principle of industrial standardization.

Most of the 16 states sooner or later must face the question of whether their armies are to be equipped with weapons forged in the west or in the east, they declared.

The new standardization plan means that Britain, France and other Marshall-aid countries will be able to order most of their military requirements from the United States in future emergencies, the officials said. It does not mean that the countries of West Europe will give up arms production themselves.

Precise details of what weapons would come under the standardization program could not be learned at once. However, informants said that the British .303 inch rifle would be redesigned to the U.S. 30 caliber; that other small arms will be changed to the U.S. pattern and that cartridges will be grooved instead of rimmed.

Some continental countries already are using the same designs as the Americans in their weapons. The French artillery, for example uses 75, 105 and 155 mm rifles. So does the U.S. Army.

THE INTERNATIONAL BIGAMIST

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT

Recession and Politics

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

If a sharp price drop comes along, we shall be picking candidates in June, and voting on them in November, in a very different frame of mind from the one we show today.

Issues will once again become important; we shall break through our current trance—that curious mood in which we are picking nominees today almost on the basis of personal appearance and refinement of manner, as if we were casting a movie.

It is, as a matter of fact, something like a movie. For the question is whether the Republicans will be able to get their candidate safely through the convention, the campaign, and the election before a recession comes along.

It is nip and tuck. Wholesale food prices are already wobbling, luxury trades are having difficulty, and most retailers are thinking in terms of good business during the first half of the year, then a setback.

If that's the pattern, a recession may arrive after the nominating conventions and before the election, bursting dramatically in the candidate's face just as he steps up to take his bow.

The great question therefore is: If, and when, the recession arrives, what will it do to American public opinion?

It might send us back toward massive planning, on the Roosevelt scale. But without greatly intensified public education, to dramatize the issue, and drive it home, I rather doubt it.

It seems to me much more likely that public opinion will take a mystical turn, that it will look around for a papa, for somebody with a tough expression, to lead it out of the dark and scary place. If the recession should strike before the GOP nominating convention, I think it will strongly affect it, and increase the chances that a general, or someone without a very clear record on domestic issues, will get the prize.

Such a character, mystically chosen, would be inclined, I think, to seek a mystical out; and this might very likely take a military turn.

Universal military training might come to seem much more enticing, as a way of draining some surplus off the labor market. An armaments program would come to be affected with an additional public interest, as a means of keeping employment up. With food sales off, a good deal of farmer opposition to the Marshall Plan, and to other foreign aid programs, some of them much more clearly military, would drop away.

The pressures and pulls toward such an "out" would be enormous, as we sought, glumly and morosely, for some way to keep the pot boiling without adopting such dreadful New Deal ideas as housing and electricity for the people.

The big issue, then, is. How are we going to behave when prices fall. How are we going to react, and what will our reaction mean, to our futures and the world's? It is a kind of half-hidden almost unmentionable issue at

THESE DAYS— Phi Beta Kappa Proletariat

By George E. Sokolsky (King Feature Syndicate)

It is generally assumed in this country that the longer our sons and daughters are kept at school, the more they know. Apparently, the President's commission on higher education wants nearly everybody to go to some kind of a college and wants $1,875,000,000 and more to make it possible.

Nothing is said about building a practical race of competent men and women to whom experience will mean a surer guide than mere repetition of the memorized content of other men's thinking.

Two conflicting tendencies appear in our present-day colleges. The larger colleges grow tougher each year, but they also function increasingly on the factory system with very little, in fact, almost no relationship between professor and student, no sharpening of the mind on the anvil of classroom discussion.

Just as, at another period, the rah-rah boy was something of a nuisance, today the stodgy, almost stuffy junior, full of quotations drilled in authorities, his mind adjusted to electric-eye examination papers, reminds one of those Chinese students of old, preparing to become Mandarins by making themselves dull.

The opposite tendency appears in many smaller colleges that filled themselves to the rafters by the windfall of the G. I. bill of rights.

These colleges have lowered their standards to meet the capabilities of mass learning with the result that many of those who come out of them lack even an educated man facility in his own native language.

The result is that so many of them cannot get the kind of jobs college men and women expect nor can they do the work the nation is accustomed to expect from its college graduates. Professor Seymour E. Harris makes the point in an interesting article in the "Harvard Alumni Bulletin": "The colleges of the country are not now able to take good care of 2,000,000, and certainly not 3,000,000 students. At the present time they offer a deteriorated product. The assembly-line method of turning out A. B.'s and Ph. D.'s cannot bring good results. The colleges and universities now find themselves in an unsound financial condition as a result of rising prices, costs, and taxes and declining yields on investments."

Can this country afford a deteriorated product? Can we afford to waste the facilities of our colleges and universities upon men and women who lack the mental equipment for thought and leadership and who are not likely to provide a greater capacity for work in learned and professional fields after a tenure at college than they would have been able to do had they gone into their chosen fields earlier in life?

Is the college merely a place to mark time? Does the student benefit by attendance even if the years so spent add nothing to his intellectual stature or his competence?

Book Review

By JIM BECKER

(The Steep Places by Sir Norman Angell, Harper Brothers, $3. Available at The Bookshop.)

To list and analyze any portion of the ills of the world in something less than 250 pages—and to suggest some cures on top of it—is surely as difficult as for the camel to pass through the eye of the needle.

Sir Norman Angell gets his head (and perhaps his shoulders) through the gate, and that's about all.

A Briton who was once a miner, cowboy and newspaperman in this country and a member of parliament in his own land, Angell reflects in his writing a curious mixture of the American colloquial and the British pedantic that makes for easy reading and effective style.

While he has important things to say, there is little that has not been said before—from his plea for greater individual sense of responsibility among democratic peoples to criticisms of the left wing of the British labor government.

While his plea may be justified, the criticisms are open to inspection. His handling of that left wing (Laski, Crossman and company) only serves to underline his own admission, "It is not easy to be wise after the event."

Further, to rely upon the Saturday Evening Post as a scholarly authority—as Angell does; to attempt to distinguish between the dubious reportorial merits of John Foster Dulles and Elliot Roosevelt—as Angell does; these open a breach through which Sir Norman looks somewhat smaller in stature than some of the minds with which he is so willing to disagree.

And despite his constant admonitions to the individual to re-examine his own interpretation of fact, it is easy to suspect that some of Angell's impatience with the socialist company comes from his own disagreement with them, rather than from an impartial examination of their views.

"It is a strange thing," says Angell, "that the leftist (a catch-all term he applies with abandon to anyone from Social Democrat to Communist), who can be so eloquent concerning the dangers inherent in the possession of property, has so little to say of the evils inherent in the possession of power."

"And men lust for power more than for property," he insists. But the view of the labor left-wing in Britain is that power and property are often part of the same game. Where one goes the other follows, and the leader is "property." This is the Laski view. It is a thesis Angell finds unworthy of discussion.

And again: Why no revolt in Russia? Angell asks. . . . The Russian people don't want to revolt," Sir Norman answers, which wipes away none of the haze. But with a not-always-found thoroughness, he gives a partially satisfying theory to bolster this statement:

"Give a people an enemy, a doctrine, and a promise of a future paradise, and you have furnished them with an opium."

But this theory smells, however faintly, of poppy seed.

In this case, the important thing is not that Angell disagrees with the "leftist," but that while he is willing to attack, he is unwilling to answer.

The "leftist," the "neoliberal" has this view: When the Russian people are certain of their security; when the possibility of attack on their experiment fades; when they have that confidence, then "the demand for democratic concessions from the dictatorships will follow rapidly," says Laski, spokesman of the group.

We may never know whether this view or Angell's is correct, since only the one (Angell's) is being tested to any degree. While it is an easy matter to disagree with certain of Angell's interpretations of historical cause and effect, it is difficult to remain unmoved by his eloquent pleas for a dispassionate reign of reason.

This is true when he says, ". . . we are confronted, not with any lack of knowledge of the relevant facts, but with a refusal to face them because to do so would compel us to shed phobias we prefer to indulge."

There is little room for quarrel when Angell states, "The control or abolition of atomic weapons (or worse) demands a world authority of some kind."

This is a book that deserves reading—some views are worth considering again and again—and that is not a trial to read. His warnings and many of his suggestions are well taken. They should be taken seriously lest the biblical scene be repeated:

"The devils . . . went into the herd and behold, the whole herd ran violently down a steep place into the sea, and perished in the waters." Gospel by St. Matthew.

What seems to be the outcome of all this is a proletariat of the white collar, a proletariat that has trained itself for a satisfied and secured low income, sufficient to maintain the white collar, but insufficient for a stimulating life of leadership.

It is interesting to note how many of the students today aspire for the low incomes of civil service positions where they perform clerical tasks for which girls out of commercial high schools ought to be adequate. Does one have to spend four years at college for that?

This question requires an overall study. For instance, some of the colleges mark stiffly, maintaining the highest standards; others use a fairly low class average. A grade of B in one college might be an A in another.

The boy who picks an easy marking college might swing through with honors and give the impression of great achievement. That false picture is very expensive to him and to his country.

Electric Fans

Are One Answer To Fuel Shortage

By JOHN WEBER

Electric fans are an answer to the current fuel shortage, according to recent laboratory tests by General Electric engineers.

By circulating the warm air that collects near the ceiling, a regular table model electric fan can raise the temperature at floor level in an ordinary room about 8 degrees.

For best results the engineers found the fan should be placed on the floor to one side of the heat source and tilted toward a point two feet from the ceiling near the center of the adjacent wall.

Proper adjustment of the fan can be checked by watching the course of cigarette smoke through the room.

Trailer homes, however, pose a special problem because of their oblong shapes and because partial partitions break up normal air circulation. Moreover, there is a greater difference between floor and ceiling temperatures.

A recent survey in one of the SUI trailer villages, when the temperature was 10 degrees above zero, showed that a fraction more than half of the trailers had the covers of their ceiling vents open. The vents are openings in the roof, 15 inches square, that are closed by hinged covers.

One of the main reasons given by the trailer residents for opening the vents was to circulate the warm air that piles up against the ceiling. The blowers on the oil stoves are ineffective, they complained.

Professor H. O. Croft, head of mechanical engineering, said that the opened ceiling vents, instead of circulating the warm air, actually provide an escape outlet for it.

A good way to circulate the warm air in trailers, Croft suggested, is to place a fan near the ceiling and direct it toward the floor. Experiments based on Croft's suggestion raised the temperature at floor level in one of the trailers 20 degrees in 10 minutes.

Easy To Draw — But Hard To File

Book In Library

By PAT WOLFE

It's easy for you to get a book from the university's library. But the process which makes that book available is not so simple.

Approximately 20,000 to 25,000 volumes are added to university libraries during the year, according to Norman L. Kilpatrick, head of the library's technical processes division.

Each of these books must go through a series of at least 30 steps before you can obtain it from the library desk.

It all begins when a faculty member sends a request for the purchase of a certain book to the order department.

Before that order can be placed, it must be verified. This is done by the library order department. Correctness of title, author, place and date of publication are checked. (The department must also make certain the book is not already on order or on the shelves.)

Kilpatrick said it usually requires about a week to obtain an ordered book.

"The university orders books from all over the world, but generally from jobbers," he said.

After the book is received, a notation of receipt is made on the order card, and then the process of preparing the book for the stacks is begun.

First the book is given a number. This is called the "accession" number and means the book has been added to the library.

File cards, the cards you find in the card catalogues, are the next step.

The catalogue department must check on whether or not the book has been catalogued by the library of congress. If so, the file cards can be ordered. If not, the library must type its own. Printed cards found in the files are those which were ordered from the library of congress.

According to Kilpatrick, there are usually five cards for each book. These include title, author, subject (two) and shelf list arranged by call numbers.

It is also the work of the catalogue department to verify file cards and assign subject headings and classification numbers.

This done, the book and cards are sent to the head catalogue for revision and approval.

The book is then marked. A white book plate, with the university seal on it, is placed in the upper left hand corner of the inside front cover. The book's title page is perforated "State University of Iowa Library" and the call numbers placed on the outside cover.

These are the last steps for the book before it is finally sent to the departmental library.

Typists put call numbers and headings on the file cards and send them to the filers who place the cards in their proper catalogues.

All you have to do is go to the card files, write call number, title, author and name on a card, present it to the desk and receive your book.

Iowa Citizens Button Up For Cold Wave

Iowa City's streets were slick last night as the midwest buttoned up for another cold wave. The weather bureau forecasts Iowa temperatures to drop as low as 17 degrees below zero by tomorrow. A temperature of eight degrees above zero is expected today.

Police warned motorists to proceed cautiously as the mercury here tobogganed from 29 above at 1:30 p. m. to 2 above at 11:30 last night.

As the frigid weather moved in, the Iowa highway commission reported some highways improved yesterday afternoon and normal in many parts of the state.

Roads were reported slippery in the vicinity of Denison, Sioux City, Forest City, Waterloo, Cedar Rapids and Clinton. Highway 30 between Cedar Rapids and Marshalltown was described extremely hazardous with five accidents reorted within an hour.

Motorists reported that driving was dangerous between Iowa City and Cedar Rapids.

The weather bureau reported that rain was general from the St. Louis area south to the gulf. North of St. Louis it froze as it fell, turning into fine snow further north. Missouri and southern Illinois also reported slippery highways.

The new blasts from Canada struck into the U. S. early yesterday and forecasters expected they would spread over the entire midwest by last night. By tonight the cold wave is expected to spread to the east coast.

Forecasters said the cold might go as far south as Virginia. However, there was a narrow band of warmth along the gulf coast while the far west was cool and rainy.

Coldest spot in the nation yesterday was Pembina, N. D., where the mercury fell to 18 below, while Miami reported a comfortable 78 above.

Books by Six Iowans On 'Notable' Listing

Six of the "fifty notable books of 1947" were written by Iowa authors, and two of the original manuscripts are in the university's rare books collection, Miss Grace Van Wormer, assistant director of libraries, announced yesterday.

The selection of the 50 notable books was made by the division of public libraries and announced at the mid-winter conference of the American Library Association at their January 29-31 convention in Chicago.

The six books and their authors are: "Vain Shadow," by Hartzell Spence; "Golden Multitudes," by Frank Luther Mott; "End of a Berlin Diary," by William Shirer; "Gus the Great," by Thomas W. Duncan; "But Look the Morn," by MacKinley Kantor; and "Command Decision," by William Wister Haines.

All of these books are in the Iowa collection and the general library. The original manuscripts of "Golden Multitudes" and "Command Decision" are in the rare books collection.

Hartzell Spence has promised the university the original manuscript of "Vain Shadow," Miss Wormer said.

Gillette As Toastmaster For Iowa Demo Dinner

DES MOINES (AP)—Guy M. Gillette of Cherokee, former U. S. senator, will be toastmaster at the annual Iowa Democratic Jackson Day dinner here March 6, Jake More, Democratic state chairman, announced tonight.

Principal speaker will be U. S. Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson. He is expected to discuss the effect of the Marshall plan on Iowa farmers and agriculture generally.

Gillette has announced his willingness to accept the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator.

City High Drama Club To Present Mystery

The City high school dramatic club will stage a three-act mystery, "The Black Flamingo," the evenings of Feb. 19 and 20. Lola C. Hughes, dramatics coach, will direct the production.

House Blaze Causes $3000 Damages, Hensleigh Injured

Albert D. Hensleigh, principal of Horace Mann grade school, was in Mercy hospital last night after receiving burns from a fire yesterday morning that caused $3,000 damage to his home at 117 Richards street.

Hospital authorities reported he was in "good" condition after suffering from shock and burns on the hands.

The fire was discovered by Mr.

and Mrs. J. A. Walker, who were living with the Hensleighs, at about 6:10 a. m. when they noticed smoke pouring from a hot air register. About the same time the lights went out, they said.

The Walkers screamed for Hensleigh and he ran to the basement. He said a mattress which was being stored in the basement was on fire. After unsuccessfully trying to smother the flames, he made an attempt to drag the mattress from the basement and received slight burns.

He said he finally was forced to leave the basement because of smoke.

Hensleigh said he doesn't know how the mattress caught fire, "but nothing was burning when I went to the basement about 5:55 to throw some wood on the fire."

While he was trying to put the fire out, Mrs. Hensleigh, wearing slippers and wrapped in a bed quilt, ran next door and then across the street to the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Manville. Manville phoned the fire department.

The floor above the basement was severely damaged, according to Fire Chief J. J. Clark, who estimated the fire damage at about $3,000.

The Hensleighs will stay with friends until their damaged home is repaired. The Walkers need temporary shelter.

Change Shoes

When You Desire More Stature

By JIM DOOLITTLE
To find romance, just change your shoes.

That is the idea behind the most remarkable phenomenon in male bootery since the extinction of the buttonhook. It is expressed in the slogan "Now you can be taller than she is."

Thanks largely to its appeal, the elevator shoe has in half a dozen years advanced from the slightly surreptitious status held by the toupee to something approaching the acceptance of padded shoulders.

The elevator is a regular shoe with a disguised high heel. Inside is a ramp of pressed cork and latex, nearly two inches thick. The back of the shoe has abnormal depth, but this is so camouflaged by stitching and perforation that the buildup is scarcely noticeable.

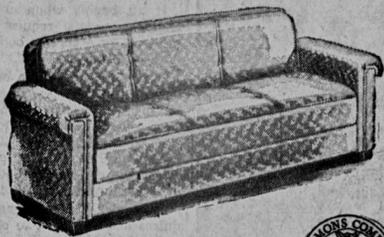

The elevator adds nearly two inches to a man's height; it also throws most of his weight onto the ball of the foot. This thrusts his hips forward. For balance, the shoulders go back. Hence, it is claimed, better posture.

When a customer puts on elevators and stands for the first time, his height dizzies him. He finds it difficult to walk. The persons around him seem to be standing in holes.

A sense of command sweeps over him. No longer will he have to stand on tiptoe to kiss his girl. No longer will his chin knock against her shoulder as they dance.

Not all the 100,000 elevator buyers in the U. S. are short men. Some tall men have even taller wives. Others, including many entertainers, just want more altitude. As Henry Morgan asked, "Who doesn't want to be taller, except maybe a six-foot soldier in a five-foot trench?"
